The fact that the high constable of Middlesex County holds his job for but one year and then has to be reappointed for another twelve nonths is one reason why there are not more than five applicants for the position, it was stated today by constables on the local police force, who therwise would be inclined to take "shot" at the job.

"The position could be used as a olitical football by county counllors," one constable stated to The dvertiser. "I have a car of my own and I guess I could get by on the salary offered, but I wouldn't know whether I was going to hold my job for more than a year. Some piece of petty work might creep up and the first thing I would know I would be fired by a clique of the council. There is no chance of me applying for a job like that." Other constables interviewed in the matter were of the same opinion.

County Clerk John Stuart stated there were five applications for the position of high constable, but declined to state who the applicants were.

Hunters In North Carry Plenty of Snake Bite Cure

Canadian Press Despatch.

Sudbury, Nov. 9.—About 5,000 hunters have been in the woods between the French River and the Transcontinental Line in the last fortnight seeking deer, moose, caribou and partridge, while a number of followers of Izaak Walton brought along their rods and reels.

About 3,600 of these hunters came from Toronto and other cities in South and Western Ontario. There were possibly 200 from United States points, but most of the visitors from across the line came in private car paries that were of the de like patter. Coolidge Declares French Limitations Would Render Inquiry Futile.

Associated Press Despatch. London, Nov. 9 .- Tonight's ne from Washington of the failure of the negotiations for a reparation conference, which was evidently unknown to Premier Baldwin when he made his speech at the Guildhall, will hardly come as a surprise to British official quarters, although they had hoped that France would not push her attitude so far as to endanger the chances of the proposed conference of experts. The question will now arise as to what will follow from the refusal of the United States to enter a reparation discussion. The general view is that the next step may be a formal request by the American and British governments for payment of the war debts owed to them by France as a means of bringing economic pressure, and so inducing France to adopt a more moderate attitude.

Associated Press Despatch. Washington, Nov. 9.-France and he United States came definitely to the parting of the ways today on the proposal to enlist United States cooperation toward a solution of the reparations problem.

Premier Poincare was advised by Secretary Hughes through Ambas-sador Jusserand that restrictions insisted upon by France would serve to "frustrate" the object of the Washington government in offering United States co-operation in an expert reparations inquiry plan.

The state department refused to go beyond this point in disclosing the purport and result of recent conversa-tions with the ambassador, in which Mayor Wenige advises.

His worship insists that this would be good business, and refers to the inquiry is before the Washington govinquiry is before the Washington gov-ernment, and a declination is, there-fore, not in order. In the circumstances, no invitation from the allied powers now is expected.

There is no doubt that such an invitation, if presented under the French restrictions, would be de-clined. President Coolidge feels that the French limitations render the in-quiry plan useless and futile. He be-lieves the French restrictions would reduce the inquiry into a mere audit of German accounts, that the United States could serve no useful purpo by participating in an investigation that could not produce broad and comprehensive plans for economic re-habilitation of Germany and adequate payments by Germany on reparations

London, Nov. 9.—The lord mayor's parade, with its old world splendor of gilded coaches, vari-colored liveries and uniforms, and floats repres the British progress during the last century, wound its tortuous way through the labyrinth of narrow and befogged streets today in the annual show which the city's chief magissnow which the city's chief magis-trate stages on the day he assumes authority over the square mile com-prising the ancient borough. The new lord mayor is Sir Louis Newton, who was elected on September 29.

With the overseas premiers here the pageant was of imperial character. Succeeding floats contrasted the British navy of Nelson's day with modern submarines and airships; Wellington's red coats were followed by the smartest units of the various army services, while tableaux repre-sented the historical industrial de-

Can a Husband Force His Wife to Obey Him?-The Woman Who Is Married to a Human Cash Register. Social Standing Versus Love.

Dear Miss Dix,—I want to ask you three questions. Can a husband mpel his wife not to use rouge and powder, which he hates?

Second—Can a husband prevent his wife from going three times a week to a moving-picture show when he has forbidden her to go at

Third-How can a husband stop his wife from nagging him about giving her fine clothes, which he cannot give her as he only earns $25

Answer:
There is no way you can make your wife obey you, Rudolph, except by moral sussion. If she will not do what you want her to do because she loves you, and wants to please you, you can't make her do it by

Perhaps you are wrong in your point of view, any-way. It seems to me that a man whose wife has got no worse faults than using rouge and going to the movies has drawn a capital prize in the matrimonial lottery. Maybe the reason that your wife uses rouge is because she wants to enhance her good looks, and make herself more attractive in your

Do you know the old story about the man who, when his wife came downstairs with a lovely hand-made complexion, said: "Madam, go upstairs and wash that rouge off your face." The obedient wife did so, and returned. The husband gave one look at her and then said: "Madam, go upstairs and put on twice as much rouge as you had on before." There's a nice moral in that story, Rudolph. Think it over.

As for your wife going to the movies three times a week, that is a virtue, not a vice. Any woman in the world is more entertaining, more amiable, and more agreeable to live with, who goes to the movies, and the theatre, and gets some outside diversion, than is the one who stays put in the house, and who gets dulf, and stupid, and nervous from lack of contact with the outside world.

To keep your wife from nagging you about the things you can't give her, you have only to make up for the things she lacks with love and tenderness. Make her know that you would give her the whole world if you could, and that it grieves and hurts you because you can't, and she will be satisfied. It is because they think that their husbands don't notice their sacrifices, and don't care whether they have things or not, that makes nine women out of ten

It is easy enough to manage a wife, Rudolph, if you go about it diplomatically. But you can't drive 'em, and you can't make one obey you unless she wants to.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix,-My husband is a business man. His whole mind and heart are centered on his work. He never seems to enjoy home, wife, or bables—never wants to go to church, club, theatre, movies, or take any ecreation at all. I am just as good to him as I know how to be, and he s just as good to his family, only he seems to have no interest in us. Is there anything I can do about it, for I would love to have a husband evening yesterday. Taking part in instead of a cash register.

WIFE.

Answer: I suppose a woman who has no more deadly rival than a husband's susiness ought to consider herself fortunate for she, at least, will not be called upon to endure a scandal and have her children taken from her. But that is small comfort to the wife who loves her man, and who wants his companionship, and to have somebody to play about with.

And there is no real help for the situation, because the man who is obsessed by his business to the exclusion of his family comes to be nothing but a gambler absorbed by the gambler's passion. He is sitting in at the biggest game in the world, playing for the highest stakes, matching his wits and his skill, and his luck, against tne biggest men in his line, and nothing else really brings any

He neglects his wife. He neglects his children. And he tries to square his conscience by giving them the money that he has made, and that he does not know how to spend. That is the reason why rich men's children often turn out so badly, and why so many rich men's wives are so forlorn, and restless, and discontented.

There is no way to wean a man with the money-making mania away from his fleshpots. The only thing the wife can do is to fill her own life with interest, and try to be father and mother both to her half-orphaned children.

Dear Miss Dix-I am twenty-four years old, and have a little money saved up and a good steady job. I have asked a girl whom I have been visiting for the last fifteen months, to be my wife. She said: "Yes," but her mother refuses to give her consent. The only reason she gives is that I do not belong to her social set. Furthermore, she has poisoned the girl's mind against marriage, and made her afraid to risk it. I love this girl, and can't give her up. How can I make her see things in a different light?

Just be patient. If the girl's mother has no better reason to oppose the marriage than that you do not know the people she knows, her opposition will not last long, and you can wear it down

Mothers haven't much chance to win out against Cupid. Besides nen are sentimental, and sooner or later they succumb to the romance

If the girl loves you, and her mother can give no real reason except prejudice for opposing the match, she will marry you anyhow, and if she doesn't love you enough to take a chance, you are fortunate not to get her. As for her being afraid of marriage, pooh! All girls are willing to risk that danger. DOROTHY DIX.

Ryerson School Orchestra and Choir Give Early Evening Recital.

As a delightful conclusion to the Windsor teachers' visit to the city, a most enjoyable program was given at the Ryerson school in the early son String Orchestra, under the direction of David H. THE EFFECT OF GOOD MUSIC

A half hour of more spent in listening to good vocal music or instrumental music after a long day's contact with the friction and asperities of this work-a-day world will act as a balance wheel to restore the jaded soul, the per-plexed mind, the tired body.

The man who is worried, excited, or downcast, will find in good music a stimulus or, it may be a sedative, which will go far to correct the strain and stress under which his whole being has been laboring. It will inspire him with nobler thoughts, purer vision, peace and unrest. In these days of agitation and unrest, when the very foundation of established institutions seems sometimes to be cataclysm impends, music, good music and an abundance of it, will prove a powerful corrective, and an agency which will heal the sickness in the human soul and

The worth of music has not been as generally recognized as it should have been.

Music has the same effect on men in civil life as in army life, and during these days of upheaval, of discontent, of mental and moral disintegration, it can be used as a potent and effectual means to offset these malign influences and to recreate a hanny fluences and to recreate a happy and contented spirit in the minds the suggestion that Traynor could play short as well as he plays third base proved up, Pittsburg would be mighty well off for years to come, for it is seldom that a player is found who can alternate between these side-by-side position with equal skill in either.

It is reported that Maranville has been approached with the suggestion that he play second, but has declined, preferring to hang on to shortstop, where he made his reputation. This is natural, but there is reason to believe that he is not covering the ground between second and short as he used to. Time was when he could play part of the second baseman's position, getting grounders behind the second sack, when he was nominally shortstop.

Still Need Third Sacker.

Still Need Third Sacker.

Should Traynor be transferred to short and Maranville to second, there would be a problem to be solved at third. Wright of Kansas City, by some presumed to be the best infielder of the American Association, is expected to be with Pittsburg in 1924. He is a shortstop. If he is moved to third in his first major league year, as likely as not he will come a cropper. It's a big job to ask of the youngster.

Moore, who was with Atlanta, is another infielder of rare promise, but he is not a third baseman, and if the effort is made to break him in at third, Pittsburg will be up against another experiment which may prove its undoing.

its undoing.

If Wright were tried at second he might not go well there. Certainly if he is taken out of his natural positian at short he will find it harder to get along than if permitted to play the position where he knew the lay of the land.

Watch Experiment.

Watch Experiment.

Weakness at third is something which no team can face and win a championship. Although the third baseman does not have as many chances to handle as the shortstop, he has more that are difficult. He is pinned to a narrow strip where the ball goes by on the jump and if he test too many get by him his club sees the pennant go by on the jump. If McKechnie takes any chance with his infield, the experiment will be one of the most interesting of the season. It is evident that Pittsburg is not going to win with the infield as it is now, and that the position of the Pittsburg is just as serious to his j

A thorough combing of the Dominion's athletic talent from coast to coast, training by correspondence during the winter months, and then the final and novel touch, the three weeks of extensive training and trials before sailing, are a few of the things that will upset precedent in the selection of Canada's Olympic teams.

Petrolia also had hard luck, as on Petrolia also had hard luck, as on two occasions they were held a yard out from the Woodstock line, and each time, with three downs to cross over, they failed to progress the necessary yard.

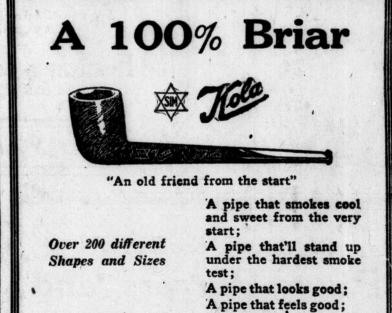

The game opened sensationally, Studdor racing around the end for a touchdown in the first two minutes of play. This was Woodstock's only score. Roadhouse saved a count

SUPPORT FELL OFF

The announcement that London is to be again represented by a base-ball team in the Michigan-Ontario of genuine pleasure to the loyal base-ball fans of this community. After last year's disastrous season, there was a great deal of speculation as to whether or not the London directors would again venture a team in the league. London cannot afford to pass out of organized baseball. Take professional baseball out of London, and you take away one of London, and you take away one of the very best advertising features the city possesses—one which is not always fully appreciated by the citizens

Money-Maker?

There has been a general feeling throughout the city that professional baseball has always been a paying proposition here. Just yesterday, while talking to a businessman, I ventured the remark that London was fortunate in again being represented in professional baseball next year. His reply was to the effect that he did not think the London directors had suffered any loss last directors had suffered any loss last year, or they would not be coming back for more next summer. here I want to state that about ten days ago I took the trouble to investigate the interior economy of the London club, a privilege which, I believe, is open to anyone interested, and I had the pleasure of seeing the financial statements for the last four I want to go on record as stating that in spite of the most economical handling of finances the London club suffered losses of all that was claimed last year. I was amazed indeed at the manner in which every copper of expenditure was supervised, and yet losses piled up.

On the formation of the London
Tecumseh Baseball Association about four years ago the club directors laid down a policy that everything in connection with the organization must be carried out in a strictly businesslike manner—no underhand work, everything above board-players must conduct themselves in a gentlemanly manner at all times and under all circumstances. To sum up, their policy was to give the citizens of this community good, wholesome amusement at all times. nder the regime of President Heard this policy has been rigidly adhered to, perhaps to the detriment of the team at certain times. Good players have been released, not because inferior playing, but because they did not conduct themselves in accordance with this policy, not only on the playing field, but at other times. I believe that the London directors have endeavored at all times to deal fairly with the fans here, a striking instance of which occurred near the conclusion of the occurred near the conclusion of the 1923 playing season, when the Muskegon club, which was fighting hard for the pennant, offered the London directors a substantial cash bonus to have a series of three games transferred from London to Muske-gon. This bonus would have been a clear profit for the London club, but the offer was turned down, and the games played at Tecumseh Park to caddies.

at a big financial loss, simply because the London directors did not wish to break faith with the London fans. Such a policy as this cannot but eventually win the hearts of all true

Since London has been playing baseball in the Michigan-Ontario League it has been the policy of the directors to have a major league directors to have a major league team here each year, and we have seen the following teams, in order: Detroit Tigers, Pittsburg Pirates, Boston Red Sox and the Washington Nationals. This is a privilege rarely extended to the fans of a class "B" league; in fact, there are many class "A" teams which have never been able to entertain a major league team. The visits of these major league teams to London have not always been a paying proposition, as is generally thought, but in presenting major league baseball for the approval of the London fans the directors have merely been carrying out their policy of giving the best possible.

Londoners are being given one more opportunity to say whether or not they desire professional baseball, and that opportunity comes no year. What will be the verdict?

Bank clearings, and a very evident stiffening in most of the major stock issues, point undoubtedly to a better time coming in most lines of industry and business but at the same time the cutting down of production in steel lines, in step with the closing of the building season, must be considered, and although the industry is on a sounder footing than it was six months ago in so far as the future is concerned. there is no indication as yet that there will be anything more startling than a sound tightening up on the part of both

The following excerpts from the Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News, of recent date, can be taken as a fairly complete and comprehensive summary of the steel and building industry at the present time:

"Executives in the metal working industry, while making it clear that activities are limited, and the majority of plants operating at a reduced rate in step with market movements, continue to declare their belief that the condition is a healthy one, and that there will be a reasonable expansion as the season progresses. Stocks, although not excessive, are in the main adequate for normal needs, and consumers are placing new business very deliberately.

"Prices are low in the majority of lines, and deliveries are prompt. Consumers are endeavoring to keep inventories at a minimum, with the end of the season in sight, and many are of the belief that lower price levels will be reached, particularly in finished steel."

New York, Nov. 9.—Foreign exchanges, excepting Canadian, which held steady, toppled at the opening of today's market as a result of the situation in Germany. Demand sterling dropped more than three cents to $4.40, a new low record for the year. New lows for the year were established also by Spanish pesetas, Norwegian and Danish kronen and Holland guilders, while French and Belgian francs declined sharply.

WHEAT INSPECTION

Grain Markets

Canadian Press Despatch.

Winnipeg, Nov. 9 — Values worked within an extremely narrow range, and a firm tone was maintained through today's session of the local wheat market. Late in the session there was good buying, especially in the November future, while speculative trade also was reported. Shippers were the buyers of November, which indicated a better export and domestic demand. The close showed a gain a ½c for November and a loss of ½c to ½c for the other futures. The coarse grain markets were steady, with just an ordinary trade passing. With the demands of crushers less urgent, the flax market was firm and without feature. The cash market displayed a better tone today, and there was a much better demand existing for all grades of wheat under No. 3 northern. The low grade spreads were ½c to 1c better. A limited amount of No. 1 northern was sold at a premium of ½c over the November price. The milling demand improved today, with a good inquiry for domestic and export grain. Very little change was noted in cash coarse grains, and trade volume was small. Cash prices:

WINNIPEG GRAIN FUTURES.

Reported for The Advertiser by Jones, Easton, McCallum Co.

CHICAGO

Associated Press Despatch.
Chicago, Nov. 9.—Government estimates touching the available supply of corn had a depressing effect today in the price of wheat, as well as of corn. Wheat closed weak, %c to 1½c net lower, December $1.65½ to $1.65½ and May $1.10½ to $1.10½. Corn finished ic to 1½c down; oats unchanged to %c to ½c off, and provisions varying from 5c decline to 30c advance.

With five million more corn in sight than at this time last year, a big rush to sell took place as soon as the market opened. Wheat dealings were of relatively small proportions, and the weakness of corn was $2.500 flounced that any immediate upturn of values was out of the question.

Breaks in foreign exchange rates tended to make export business in wheat still more difficult than has been the rule of late, and a fresh sinking spell in the wheat market heer just before the close was ascribed partly to this circumstance.

Corn tumbled rapidly at the opening, but commission-houses switched to the buying side, and subsequently rallies ensued. However, the demand from purchasers failed to hold out, and the final quotations were at about the day's lowest level, notwithstanding that receipts were expected to continue small for a considerable time. Oats eased down with corn and wheat.

The above might almost be used as a stereotyped form for a farmer's proposal, though "perminent-ways locks" would be more up-to-date, wouldn't if? Probably they would lay more stress upon the strawberrica and cream part of the bargain than upon the hard work that goes with them. The wife will find that out for herself in plenty of time, and it will either make her or break her, according to the kind of stuff she is made of. For you have to be adaptable to be farmee's wite. There are all sorts of odd jobs that you may have to undertake in an emergency. From riding the binder to giving medicine to a sick pig. The former of these is rather preferable to the latter, but almost anything is right way, you only look at it the The cider mill is the busy place these days, most of the product being for the legitimate purpose of making apple butter or cider vine gar, though to be sure it does got turns to winegar. We bottle fresh cider, too, for next summer by the simple method of bolling it and putting it in sealers. Do you know how we make apple-butter in the good, old-fashioned way? First, the cider must be made of "wevet aport or some near relative, and it is boiled down to half its bulk in the bigyrup kettle. Then the peeled and quartered apples are put in, a few at a time, and stirred and stirred till they are cooked soft—them more so thick it won't take any more so thick it won't take any more apples. Some people add spices, but we like it plain, just as the Lord made it—as the old lady said when asked if she liked stained-glass window.

SUGAR Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Nov. 9.—The raw sugar market was firm early today, with Cubas established on the basis of 5%c. cost and freight, equal to $7.18 for centrifugal. There were sales of 5,000 bags of Cubas for prompt shipment and $5.500 bags of Perus in port, both at $7.16 delivered.

The raw sugar futures market was $7.16 delivered.

The raw sugar futures market was firmer, in sympathy with the advance in both the raw and refined markets. There was scattered covering and commission-house buying, but there was also considerable liquidation, and after advancing 2 to 3 points, prices eased off, and at midday were about good.
The market for refined was firmer, and prices were 10 to 20 points higher, owing to the higher cost of raws. Fine granulated is now quoted from $8.80 to $8.90, and a continued inquiry is reported.

There was a sale of one lot of December contracts in refined at $8.70, or 35 points above the previous close.

For the past 44 years Burdook Blood Bitters has been bringing hope and joy to thousands suffering from various forms of stomach trouble, helping them to eat three square meals a day-helping them to eat anything they wish without having to suffer for it after.

Mr. Fred Nielson, Moose Jaw. Sask, writes: "All last summer I was troubled with stomach trouble and indigestion, and also gas on the stomach. I could not eat anything except some light food, and even then I would be bothered with pains after each meal. I could not work a whole day without being done out. Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly å... You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good. Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a 16-oz. bottle: then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make 16 ounces—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toionto, Ont.

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts If Back Pains or Bladder Is Irritated.

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost personal to the property of the kidneys in their effects. paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They be-come sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

I had a pressing pain on the top of my head, pain in the nape of my neck, and when I stooped over I could not get up without help, because of pain in my back. OUR LAST NIGHT

An Open Letter to the Citizens of London-

One year ago, Monday, Nov. 11, Armistice Day, at the request of thousands of taxpayers, who included men and women in all walks of life, I made a definite announcement that I would permit my name to go before you in a contest for the Mayoralty office. At that time I stated, if elected, I would make every honest endeavor to carry out my platform, which was printed in detail in both London papers. Also mailed to each and every ratepayer in the city of London.

This platform stated just exactly what my intentions and purposes were—it was plain and could not be interpreted two ways.

You elected me by an overwhelming majority of 3,113, for which I again thank you. I took it for granted that you agreed with me on my platform.

If you will look over the year's performance you will find that notwithstanding considerable opposition, the platform has been carried out with a possible one or two exceptions, which some members of your city council have consistently and persistently voted down.

In addition to my platform, much progressive work has been accomplished during the year (which was not anticipated at the time of election). And all this has been accomplished with a reduction in the tax rate, and there will be a surplus in the treasury for 1923.

If there has been any important work overlooked in the past year, I can assure you it was not intentional.

I believe you will agree with me that the 1923 Mayor has spent considerable of his time in civic affairs in the interest of London and its citizens as a whole.

I have absolutely refused to grant special concessions to any individual, clique, class or denomination. I have shown no prejudice to creed or color. And surely no prejudice to any political organization. My motto has been, "NO POLITICS IN MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT."

If you think that I have worked for your general interest and the general prosperity of the City of London during 1923, I will accept the 1924 nomination as Mayor of London. And you can vote me back in office, and I will make every honest endeavor during 1924 to carry out my work, along the same lines as carried out in 1923. My printed platform will be presented to you in a few days.

If on the other hand you think I have not fulfilled my obligations—have not worked for the best interests of the city and its citizens as a whole, or that a better candidate is in the field-when election day comes Vote me out, and I can assure you we will all be perfectly good friends.

I Thank You,

AWAIT DECISIONS

By GEORGE HAMBLETON. Canadian Press Cable, ndon, Nov. 9.—With the close of the imperial conference will come a ing of its accomplishments However, comment on this necessarily will be restricted until the conrence decisions are formally issued Rather is it to the economic conference with its announcements of increased British preferences that atntion is turned. The free traders sail the proposed greater preferassail the proposed greater preference on wines as hitting the consumer again and as being "another step to full-blooded preference."

The Daily Express, which lately has been arguing that a preference without a duty on wheat or meat is a preference without a soul, declares in its headlines today that the empire premiers have been defeated, and it challenges "Mr. Baldwin's half and half preference."

The Morning Post offers the following comment on the British preference: "The British government have thus made a notable advance in a hopeful policy. We have to regret only—and as regret is useless we need not waste time on it at present—that they had not a little more of the courage of their conviction, and did not bring Canada into the picture by deciding to extend the preferential system to our staple commodities of wheat and meat."

The Westminster Gazette, taking the opposite point of view, declares: "If the people of the dominions desire to buy more British goods they can do so at once by lowering the tariff walls they have erected to keen arranged at the imperial conference, none that can be arranged, will give colonial goods a free retracted to the colonial goods a free retracted to the colonial goods out, and in so buying they will increase employment in this country and enable us to buy more from the dominions in our turn. No preference that has been arranged at the imperial conference, none that can be arranged, will give colonial goods a freer entrance to our markets than they now enjoy. All that has been done is to compel our people to pay more for articles that compete with empire products."

So the battle wages, with constant speculation as to when parliament will be dissolved.

Much is made of the statement by Premier S. M. Bruce that if there is to be no tax on wheat or meat, and if the door is to be shut on other methods, then "we have to recognize that we have closed the door, to a great extent, to any real stride forward in empire development at this moment."

UNIONISTS STRONG

Associated Press Despatch. London, Nov: 9. — Winston Churchill is thinking over the offer of a section of the Liberal party to fight for the seat of the late Bonar Law in Glasgow, but his acceptance of a nomination is regarded as doubtful. If he ran for Central Glasgow he would be up against the Unionist majority of 2,514, which was given for Bonar Law in the last general election, and which, it is safe to assert, is a fairly stable Unionist majority in that constituency. It was given Bonar Law principally on account of his political views and not because of a fascination with his pergenelity.

A second Conservative rejection of Winston Churchill at the polls would seriously jeopardize his political future. His defeat in Dundee last November by E. Scrymgeour, prohibitionist, by a majority of 10,334, was one of the features of the general election of 1922.

Armistice and Thanksgiving Day

A fitting combination to celebrate the birthday of peace. If we sit down and seriously trace out the trend of events since Armistice Day, Nov. 11, 1918, we surely must realize we have much to be thankful for in this great Dominion of Canada. A vast country of riches, in land, timber and mineral, the development of which has only begun. Compare conditions with those existing in most other countries today, and we will surely say we are living in the land of peace, happiness and plenty, for which let us be very grateful.
