SENATE DISCUSSES THE AWARD

Canada Objected to the Composition of the Tribunal, But to No Purpose.

Ottawa, Oct. 22. - In the Senate this morning Sir Mackenzie Bowell asked for information on the Alaska boundary question, referring to the cablegram from Mr. Sifton. Hon. Mr. Scott gave the reasons for the Canadian commissioners not signing the award. One reason was they did not think it a judicial docubut the most serious reason was that Lord Alverstone had deflected the line so as to give the United States two islands. The division of the four islands was never in question, the center of the canal being the but Lord Alverstone had deflect-

He deprecated any lengthened discussion, in view of the fact that they have not yet the official award and map. Hon. Mr. McMullen agreed with Sir Mackenzie Bowell as to discussion England had had trouble with Ireland and South Africa, but the indignation in those countries was nothing compared with that which was sweeping over this country. The matter then dropped. Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Hon, Messrs. Beique, McMullen, David, Boucheville and Scott were appointed a committee confer with the Commons on the railway bill.

The Senate then adjourned. THE CORRESPONDENCE.

could be given. Then follows correspondence between Mr. John Hay and Sir Michael Herbert, which resulted in the terms of the arbitration being agreed to by the British plenipotentiary, and the American Secretary of State. It provided for six impartial jurists, appointed by each, and the acceptance of a majority finding. Secretary Chamberlain asked for the views of Canadian ministers on this subject. The reply from Ottawa was that Canada was satisfied with the questions to be decided, but objected to the composition of the tribunal. To this Mr. Chamberlain cabled a reply that Sir M. Herbert advocated th. e judges of the United States supreme court, the lord chief justice of England and Canada.

The latter, who has recently gained some notoriety by his attacks on the Government's mining policy, caused a sensation by charging in a statement sworn to by himself that Mr. Smith, the Liberal candidate, had offered him a bribe of $500 if he would desist. The speaker further stated that

Mr. Smith had said the Crown Lands Department was rotten. Mr. Smith is addressing a meeting at Goulais Bay, and will not arrive here until late tomorrow night. The Liberals feel that the charges are untrue, and that Mr. Smith will have little difficulty in convincing the electorate that the charges are those of a man who started out to turn the whole of the Michipicoten vote against the Government can-

Sir Frederick Borden, in the course of a speech in response to the toast of his health, touched upon several important matters. Referring to the question of colonial defense he said that Canadians owed a duty to Great Britain, and they now discharged it by being prepared to take care of their own territory. In the future, if the people of Canada saw fit to expend money for military purposes or purposes of defense, he laid it down as a principle that they should have control of the money themselves and should not hand it over to any-body, whether the war office or the first lord of the admiralty. He also announced that the Government would next year establish a training depot in Montreal.

THE HUNGARIAN CRISIS

Neither King Nor People Are Willing to Yield.

Vienna, Oct. 22. - The Hungarian crisis has been reassumed with all its old gravity and hopelessness. The that the crown would not accept the Liberal party's programme has caused a great impression Budapest, which is revealed by the declarations of the moderate journal, the Magyar Hirlay, to the effect that if the King cannot yield neither can the Hungarian nation. Despite the chief general of the staff and Koerber, the crown will not succeed in suppressing the rights of the Hungarian people. The Dominion Parliament will be prorogued tomorrow after the longest session in its history. It may be remarked that no one has stood the strain better than Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He has come out of it stronger than at the beginning.

The Canadians established their claim to the Portland Canal and to the existence of a range of mountains mentioned in the treaty of 1825, although the United States has contended all along that there was no such range. And yet Canadians were

A conference between senators and members of the Commons at Ottawa yesterday nearly miscarried because some of the senators insisted on keeping their hats on, following the rule which obliges British peers to remain covered on like occasions. Anything more ridiculous in a democratic country could not be conceived. Here is a theme for the comic opera librettist.

"One of the biggest blunders that the Conservative party in Ontario has ever made," says the Hamilton Herald, Independent, "is its acceptance of Gamey at his own political facts; but there is no reason why he valuation and its exploitation of him. [Toronto Star.] If Lord Alverstone had been familiar with his Bible he would have recalled the judgment of Solomon in connection Canal. It will be remembered that the false mother was willing that the child should be halved between the two claimants, whereas the true mother would not hear of it.

[Montreal Herald.] The situation thus produced is grave, no doubt. This arbitration began with a treaty which provided for the appointment of "impartial jurists of repute." The spirit of the treaty was broken by the United States when men were appointed who could not be considered "impartial jurists of repute." Then came stories, founded upon what only time is likely to disclose, that the British appointee was to side with the Americans. Things have turned out just as report said they would. It worth and Sir Louis Jette say, and there is nobody in Canada who stands high enough as a jurist to successfully challenge their authority. It is not a satisfactory énding.

[Hamilton Times.] However, we still have the Yukon; Lord Alverstone found no excuse for giving it to Uncle Sam. It was to shut us out of the trade of the region that the boundary contention was set policy should be adopted in regard to the Yukon, a Canadian railway should be built, and such steps should be and, if well done, the betrayal of Canada in the boundary matter will bring but scant material advantages to the

And now, can our neighbors rake up any other boundary case for the pur-"skinning" And do the British people think Canada enjoys that sort of thing as a regular amusement?

[Toronto News.]

To the people of Great Britain the Canadian protest can hardly prove pleasant reading. It shows that under the guise of a judicial finding a politic surrender his been made. It needs very little penetration to read between the lines the old story, with which Canadians are very familiar. The British cople are absolutely determined not to quarrel with the Americans. The Americans know this fact perfectly well, and use it mercilessly. Whenever a difficulty occurs the American Government takes up the ground which suits it, and then in effect "Come to our terms or we shall fight you." Whereupon the British Government replies: "Oh, well, if you put it that way—" Usually it is Canada that pays the bill.

[Hamilton Herald.]

Canada possesses much more that the United States desires, and it will not be long before one of these desires will take the form of a demand. Hints to that effect have already been thrown out. The next assault on Canada will probably come in the form of a demand that Hudson Bay be recognized as an open sea, and that American whalers and fisherman be conceded equal privileges with Canadian fishermen in that body of water and on its shores. In other words Great Britain will be required, in order to show its friendship for the United States, either to induce the Canadian Government to abandon its claim to exclusive control of Hudson Bay, or agree to have the question submitted to arbitration.

[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.] We do not want to assume a prophetic role and say what the exact

It will make the people of the colonies ask what all these professions that have been made from British platforms of the hopes which were centered in the future of Greater Britain mean, in a matter such as the Alaskan oundary Britain vas not prepared to do even justice to subjects of the King beyond the sea. What is the use, it will be said, of talking about privileges for colonials, when they are not even allowed their rights.

The two smaller islands given to the United States utterly destrey the strategic value of the two larger ones given to Canada. From the statement it would appear that the Americans succeeded in influencing Lord Alverstone personally to agree to this concession, though apparently the serious nature strategically of what might appear to him to be an unimportant concession territorially had been rointed out.

That fact being established, Mr. Gross' charge falls to the ground.

He charged, specificially, that an official of the public works department had obtained leave of absence on the pretense of sickness, although the minister knew well enough that he was not sick and had worked the postmasters of Quebec for information to the advantage of a Government newspaper in Montreal. The Premier utterly repudiated the idea that the public works official had got leave of absence in any but the regular way.

The Postmaster-General endeavored to pin Mr. Tarte down to a charge that the action complained of was done under the instructions of the postoffice department. How They Assist In the Curing of Such a Malignant Disease as Cancer.

BRIGDEN.

HIS FIRST BOOK.

Nine people out of ten, if asked the name of Clark Russell's first sea book, would, I fancy, reply, "The Wreck of the Grosvenor," but, as a matter of fact, that amous novel was preceded by "John Holdsworth. Chief Mate." Both these books, one need hardly say, were directly nspired by Mr. Russell's seven or eight years' experience as a "midshipman" in he mercantile marine. Like many other amous books, "The Wreck of the Grosvenor" brought its author little pecuniary gain, and he did not think much of it hen, nor does he now, for he wrote it hen, nor does he now, for he wrote it n rather a don't-care mood, feeling cernain that there was no public for an unvarnished tale of the sea. And the result is that it contains technical errors which the publishers have fiven him no chance to correct.

It would serve no purpose to give the ong tale of Mr. Russell's novels, but I may say that the three that gave him most trouble to write were "The Tale of Fen." "The Convict Ship," and "The Emigrant Ship."

Apropos of "The Convict Ship," there is a curious little story. It was fully planned when Mr. Russell received a letter ned when Mr. Russell received ship, and write a story about a convict ship, and practically outlining the very plot which Mr. Russell had hit upon.

AS A JOURNALIST.

It is not generally known, I think, that Clark Russell was a journalist for several years. His writings attracted the attention of the late Mr. Joseph Cowen, of the Newcastle Chronicle, who promptly isked Mr. Russell to join his staff. Scarcely had he accepted when there ame a similar offer from the Daily Telegraph, and for the next seven or right years, till rheumatism claimed him and chained him, he was a prolific condition of Sir Edwin Arnold, and grate-ardor of the kindness and consideration he received at the hands of Mr. Le Sage and the proprietor of that great journal, clark was his account of the wreck of the Indian Chief, in the Daily Telegraph, which resulted in 1900 being subscribed for the lifeboat crew which went to the rescue, and in the Duke of Edinburgh which resulted in 1900 being subscribed for the lifeboat crew which went to the rescue, and in the Duke of Edinburgh of the society on the breast of the lifeboat crew which went to the rescue, and in the Duke of Edinburgh of the society on the breast of the lifeboat crew which went to the rescue, and in the Duke of Edinburgh of take things more easily in the future, but a new book may be looked for from but a new book may be looked for from but a new book may be looked for from but a new book may be looked for from but a new book may be looked for from but a new book may be looked for from but a new book may be looked for from but a new book may be looked for from but a new book may be looked for from but a new book may be looked for from but a new book may be looked for from but a new book may be looked for from but a new book may be looked for from but a new book may be looked for from his pen in the course of next week. Buffalo Racing Association Will Hold a Meeting at Same Time As 0. J. C.

The Buffalo Racing Association has announced officially in New York that racing would begin at Kenilworth Park next spring on the 30th of May (Decoration Day) and continue for nineteen days. It looks as if the Buffalo people are pre-empting the rights held by the O. J. C. for these many long years.

The Buffalo officials do not hesitate to step in and encroach upon the time (Heider), 9 to 2 and 7 to 2; Ernest of a long-established, well-conducted, and highly prosperous club. The Ontario Jockey Club, with its

Secretary W. P. Fraser, of the Ö. J.

"The Stain of Guilt," with "Rube" Waddell in the title role, although the author should be made to share the plame, came to Chicago last night. It is a mellow drama in the four innings, in each of which Waddell strikes out the side just in time to prevent the villain from accomplishing a job-lot of fiendish purposes. "Rube" has what might be classified as a thinking part, for he isn't called upon to say much. In the four acts of the play he delivers himself of 24 words, which is just three less words than the number of batsmen he is required to dispose of each game when ie is wooing fame as a baseball pitch-

At an early stage of the proceedings wicked men conspire to ruin the goody-goody hero of the play, but just as they are about to plaster him all over with stain "Rube"—who for the purposes of the melodrama is a renowned detective-rushes on the stage and, with the aid of a quick curtain, makes the head villain look cheap. "Rube" seems to take on confidence as the play progresses. In the first act he carries a toy pistol and stutters as he utters just six words and an ex clamation point. In the second he has bad innings, so far as words are oncerned, but he crowds in an extra exclamation point and carries a real

A Big Copper Company Goes Out of

Butte, Mont., Oct. 23.-By the shutdown of the Amalgamated Copper Company, a payroll of over $50,000 a day is cut off in Butte. Representatives of the Amalgamated Copper Company declare that by the decision rendered by Judge Clancy yesterday, the Amalgamated company is praccision, they say in effect, brands the dividends, they say, although $3,000,-000 is tied up and awaiting distribution to the stockholders. The Amalgamated people claim they are barred from conducting their own business, and have ordered the suspension of all operations in Montana.

All the mines and smelters of the company have been ordered closed and 15,000 workmen are thrown out of work. How long the shut-down will continue is a matter of doubt. It may take nine or ten months before the company can get a hearing before the supreme court.

Strange Trades in Paris.

It is astonishing with what zeal every means of earning an honest penny is plied in Paris. No city in | the world has so many queer little trades by which those practicing them scrape together enough sous to make a living. The king of this class is, a living. The king of this class is, of course, the ragpicker. He starts out before the dawn armed with a lantern and a long hooked piece of iron, and explores the rubbish boxes placed outside every door in the capital, before the municipal carts come to carry off their contents. Then there inquest over the remains of Thomas is the man who goes around with the spiked stick picking up the cigar and cigarette stumps which lie around Paris cafes. There are men, too, who search the streets for fallen money, and who generally find enough to keep them from starvation.

One of the most characteristic of these strange tradesmen is the dog barber. The favorite dog of the Parisian is the French poodle, or "mouton," as he is popularly called. It is chiefly for his benefit that the dog barber exists. His headquarters are the banks of the Seine. Here the main body can be found at all times, though in the summer some go about the city carrying on their occupation from house to house. In the hot days one continually hears the long-drawn-out cry, "To-o- & o-deur de chiens!" and meets the familiar figure of the dog barber, with his box of instrumen shoulder. Many of them have their regular customers, whose houses they visit at stated intervals to make the toilet of these privileged poodles-for the Paris mouton is the "spoilt child" among dogs. He is clipped brushed, combed, perfumed and generally has his "top-knot" fastened with a pink or blue ribbon. Some even wear gold or silver bracelets round one paw.

The result has been the development of the dog barber as an artist. He clips and shaves his customers' dogs in most elaborate fashion. Some are left with shaggy manes, with a tuft at the end of their tail, to imitate a tion. Others, again, are clipped in strips, making them look like black zebras, and others have their faces clipped, and nothing but a pair of fierce mustaches left, with fluffy bracelets of hair round each foot. At any time of the day, as long as daylight lasts, the dog barber will be found at work on | the Seine embankment. Seated on a campstool, and generally surrounded by an admiring crowd, he clips and shaves according to the directions given him by the owner. The banks of the Seine have been selected for his operations because the river is handy to bathe the animal after he has been and combed.—The Golden clipped

The Hamilton Spectator says: The problem of how to get rid of the mutilated coins placed on the collection plates is one which has for a long time puzzled the trustees and other officials of local churches. The churches, it is claimed, have to take a lot of defaced and bad money, the amount of unpassable money placed on the collection plates every Sunday way. very often running into the dollars. RETURNED FROM ROCKLIFFE. Frequently the coins are so badly battered and defaced that the church treasurers cannot get rid of them, and either the church or treasurer is consequently a loser. To overcome the difficulty in this respect the treasurers have decided to unite in an appeal to the proper authorities at Ottawa to redeem and take out of circulation all mutilated money found on the cotlection plates. If they are successful the other churches will likely follow suit. The reports presented at the meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Church,

JACKSON HAS NO CLAIM

City Solicitor Meredith Reports Against the Fanshawe Man.

Probable Mistake in Rendering of Adelaide Street Hill Accounts.

The board of works, at a short session, last night, dealt with a couple of claims against the city for damages, the bill of Thomas Henry, London township, for graveling Adelaide street hill, and several other matters of importance.

Regarding the claim of Thos. Jackson, of Fanshawe, who asks for $10,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been received through the Canadian Pacific Railway archway on Talbot street, City Solicitor Meredith informed the committee that whatever claims Mr. Jackson might have against the C. P. R., he has none against the city. The advice of the solicitor appeared to be in accord with the opinions of the committee, and it was decided to file the letter and report to the council that Jackson's claim be filed. The claim of John Wilson, of 89 Sackville street, for damages alleged to have been sustained through a defective walk, was referred to the engineer to report. It was decided to have the engineer visit Thames street and see what can be done to prevent the water from running off the street onto the property of the London Foundry Company. The company had, through their solicitor, Mr. R. K. Cowan, stated that if something was not done in the way of putting in a sewer, action would be brought against the corporation. The complaint of certain residents against the alleged unhealthy condition of the ditches on Laura and Mary streets was referred to the board of health, the committee not considering it a matter for them to deal with. Two accounts for work on Adelaide street hill were presented. One was for $274 37, from Mary Grant, clerk of the township of London, and the other the same, on Adelaide street hill.

was for $263 19, from Thomas Henry, and was for gravel, and for spreading It was thought there was a mistake somewhere, as undoubtedly the bill of Henry was included in the account of the township. However, in order to see where the mistake lay, it was agreed to have Engineer Graydon investigate and report to the committee at its next meeting. The committee were very emphatic in their statements that it was agreed to pay for no more than half the gravel for the hill, it being understood that the brickmen were to do the cutting and the city and township were to pay for the gra-

A draft of a bylaw to define the park mmissioner's duties was submitted by Engineer Graydon and was accepted by the committee.

The pay sheet, amounting to $274 84, was passed. Those present were Chairman Wyatt, Ald. Cooper, Abram, Gerry, Acting Mayor Judd, City Engineer Graydon, and Secretary Bell.
