STEAMBOATS COLLIDE IN A VERY DENSE FOG

Both Badly Damaged By Terrific Crash Near Vancouver

Hindoo in a Panic—White
Passengers Behaved
Splendidly

Vancouver, Oct. 19.—The C. P. R. gulf ferry steamer Charmar, plying between Vancouver and Victoria, crashed into the sandheads of the Fraser at 6 o'clock on Thursday evening in a dense fog. The Charmar crawled into port yesterday morning with her bow stove in for several yards, and the ocean liner was beached at the southern point of English Bay with a hole five feet wide on the port bow and her hold full of water. The Charmar was bound from Victoria to this port on the regular daily run. The Tartar was bound from Vancouver to the Orient. The Charmar came through Phinlay's Pass at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. She ran into a fog and reduced speed. The skipper noticed two steamers drawing too close, and signalled: "I am going to port." The Tartar was then well off the starboard bow of the Charmar. The rule of the road is to pass to the starboard. The Tartar followed the rule, and the Charmar crashed into the port of the liner 30 feet abaft of her bow, cutting through the hull above and below the water line. The Charmar's steel bow and wooden upper works crumpled up like kindling wood. Water poured in, but the collision held, averting immediate danger. An old sail was swung into position on the Charmar's bow and she was headed for the Narrows. The fog was so thick that the attempt to enter the harbor was temporarily abandoned. The Charmar's passengers were safely transferred to the Tartar by the boats of both vessels. The arrangements were perfect. The passengers behaved splendidly, and there were some amusing incidents. An old sailor, a ruddy and bearded, muffled in a conical coat, stood near the rail, and a lady accompanied by her little son four or five years old, the boy eyed the old gentleman curiously, planting himself before him, and piped the inquiry "Please, sir, are you Santa Claus?" In the burst of laughter that followed all anxiety was forgotten. Fifty-five passengers boarded the Charmar, and others were brought in by the Narrows ferry steamer Joan. Aboard the Tartar were 179 Hindoos being deported. When the collision occurred they rushed up from below, and tried to reach the boats, but were met by the officers, the Chinese crew and the passengers and beaten back. When they had been quieted the crew lowered the boats. There was no panic among the white passengers.

The cargo of the Tartar, consisting of flour, cotton, machinery and canned salmon, was considerably damaged in the forehold. The cargo will be taken out and the steamer sent to Esquimalt drydock.

MISS REID LIBRARIAN

The Library Board held a special meeting last night for the purpose of appointing a Librarian and Assistant Librarian, vice Miss Edith Barassian resigned. Those present at the meeting were Chairman Anderson, Fred Stone, A. Sheldrick, Dr. C. R. Charteris, J. W. Humphrey, S. Smith, Mayor W. M. Stone and Secretary J. W. Twomey. Thirty-one applications in all were received. There were 27 lady applicants and four male applicants. The selection occupied almost the space of two hours. It was finally decided that Miss Jennie Reid, formerly Assistant Librarian, should be appointed Librarian, with Miss Lily Garrett as Assistant Librarian.

Congratulations rarely convey a fair idea of the true state of feeling.

This isn't such a bad old world, after all. Just thin kot what might happen that never does.

BLAZE AT BELLEVILLE

Worst in Years—Damage
Estimated at $50,000

Broke Out in Leading Bookstore—Firemen Overcome by Smoke

Belleville, Oct. 19.—The worst fire this city has had for some time occurred last night, when Beauchamp's Bookstore, on Front street, was totally gutted, the stock which was not destroyed by fire or water being damaged beyond repair by smoke. The fire broke out about 8 o'clock in a shed used for storing paints at the back of the store, and when discovered was burning fiercely. It spread with great rapidity, and by the time the firemen arrived the rear part of the store was in flames, and in the other parts the smoke was so dense that no one could live in it. At 10 o'clock the fire was believed to be under control, but the damage was fully $25,000 in Beauchamp's store alone, and the damage by smoke and water in other stores will probably bring it up to $50,000. Other stores involved were: Allan McFee, jewelry; Quick & Robertson, clothing; F. C. Clark, drugs, and F. P. Carney, boots and shoes. Beauchamp's stock was partially insured, but estimates his loss over insurance at fully $10,000. The building is owned by George Wallbridge, and is fully insured. The other places mentioned were fully insured. The firemen did excellent work, one of them, J. Campbell, being overcome by smoke, but was rescued in time. The cause of the fire is unknown, but a boy says he saw a man running away shortly before the fire was discovered.

FREIGHT SHEDS BURNED.

Loss Will Be About $7,000 on Buildings and Contents.

Toronto Junction, Oct. 19.—Shortly after 9 o'clock last night a fire broke out in the freight sheds, and, despite the best efforts of the local fire brigade, the building and contents were entirely consumed.

At 9.15 a still alarm was rung in, but the building, an old frame one, fell an easy prey to the flames, and the efforts of the firemen were directed toward saving the rolling stock in the immediate vicinity. A number of G. T. R. employees were employed to remove the cars, none of which was destroyed.

The loss on the sheds, which were erected about 30 years ago, is placed at from $1,500 to $2,000, and on the contents, which included a piano, stoves, furniture and general merchandise, about $4,000. The blaze is thought to have been caused by a passing engine.

The fire attracted thousands of spectators, and the police had some difficulty in keeping the way cleared for the work of the firemen.

Mill Burned in West Lorne.

St. Thomas, Oct. 19.—Stormont's saw mill, West Lorne, was totally destroyed by fire. Cause unknown, loss $2,000.

George C. Gibbons, K. C., chairman of the waterways commission, is to address the inaugural meeting of the Canadian Club on Monday.

Fire at Chatham.

Chatham, Oct. 19.—The dry kiln on Raleigh street, owned by the Chatham Fruit Growers' Association, caught fire from one of the heaters in the building at noon yesterday and was burned to the ground. The loss resulting will amount to about $600, and there is no insurance.

Fire at Sault Ste. Marie.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Oct. 19.—An early morning fire destroyed the clothing and furnishings stock of Fraser & Co., corner of Queen and Elgin streets. The stock was valued at $6,000, and insured for $5,000 in Ontario, London Mutual and Traders' Insurance Companies. The cause of the fire is unknown.

A PLEA FOR PREFERENCE; MESSAGE FROM KIPLING

Post of Empire Makes Earnest Appeal For Closer Union

Utters Warning Against
Pessimism—War Welds
Empire

Toronto, Oct. 19.—Mr. Rudyard Kipling addressed the Canadian Club last night and was received with great enthusiasm. "Every nation," said Mr. Kipling, "within the Empire, and especially the Big Four, have contributed during the war. History stirred with no more romantic interest than when its pages told of the courage, the daring and the enterprise of Canadian pioneers. But pioneers were still upon the earth. They were still to be found in Canada, and their high and heroic, equally gallant, brave and light-hearted, are to be found to-day in South Africa and Australia. He warned the people living in the older parts of Canada to beware of pessimism. "Having had miracles worked in your favor you must not conclude that the age of miracles is past. You may smile at the enthusiasm of some men from the bush, living at some jumping-off place, who want you to believe that his place will soon be a second Toronto, a second Johannesburg, or a second Melbourne, as the case may be, but you will cease to smile when his farm becomes the centre of a thriving town and you learn that your rival in business has received a great big order for merchandise, as per specifications attached. "I tell you, gentlemen, that while, as Canadians, you may think it wise to cultivate the big nations of the day, that you are making a great mistake in not paying more attention to the tremendous markets that are growing up within the boundaries of the younger nations of the British Empire. I can point out to you great territories peopled by great multitudes whose demand for goods would tax your utmost capacity. "Let us be careful," he continued, "that in times of peace we are not too selfish and provincial. I say in times of peace, because I need to give no exhortation as to what you should do in time of war. In time of war, Canada needs no promoter. (Applause.) Her battalions will be found leading the hosts of the Empire there as they were found rescuing the hosts of the Empire on the veldt of South Africa. (Loud and prolonged applause.) War welded our Empire together. Let no divisions arise in times of peace. Mr. Kipling then made an earnest plea for Canada to support the preferential trade propaganda so ably conducted by Mr. Chamberlain. "Your sister nations within the Empire have the five big problems which confront you. They are education, emigration, transportation, irrigation and administration. (Applause.) Settle these questions in an Imperial spirit and assist the other colonies to settle them in like manner."

A FINE DISPLAY

One of the most attractive window displays sent out by any company for the advertising of their patent medicines, is the latest display sent out by the Zam-Buk people. A very attractive display from this company is on exhibition in the window of W. W. Turner's drug store. In the front of the window is a large arch supported by pillars, and in the neck of the window is a magnificent scene of the old Roman chariot races. The window is partly filled with nicely arranged boxes of Zam-Buk. The composition was originated in Australia and is purely vegetable. It is an excellent remedy for all cuts, bruises, burns, etc., and is an invaluable preparation for athletes. It is an antiseptic and quickly removes soreness from all bruises, etc. It has enjoyed a large sale in the British Isles and Australia, and owing to the skillful advertising of the company and on account of the general merit of the article it is meeting with great favor in this city and surrounding places. The display will remain in Mr. Turner's store window for another week and is well worthy of seeing. Zam-Buk is also for sale at 50 cents per box.

Farmers

Government Grant Was Secured And Work Is Inspected

Engineer Halford, of the Provincial Department of Public Works, was in the city yesterday inspecting the dredging along the Thames River in Dover Township, for which a grant of $500 was secured from the Legislature by Messrs. H. S. Clements, M.P., and Mr. Geo. W. Sulman. "About a mile of the dredging has been completed and is in a satisfactory condition. This work will shut off the high waters along the farms of Jacob and Anthony Reaume, L'hoire Antaya, Samuel Bagnall, Geo. Bagnall, Chas. Bagnall, William and Geo. Gordon, Thomas Bagnall and Mrs. Mount. The work was a great necessity and convenience for the residents along the river. Mr. Clements, ex-Royal of Dover, was also very largely instrumental in assisting Messrs. Clements and Sulman to secure this grant, which was secured through the Provincial Minister of Public Works, Hon. Dr. Reaume. The work was inspected yesterday afternoon by Messrs. H. S. Clements, Engineer Halford, and Councillor Frank Rankin.

CHURCH WEDDINGS

It has been pointed out to The Planet that a slight error was made in the account of the Brickbat Church wedding, when it was stated that it was the first wedding in the church since the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gray. It turns out that there has been one wedding in the church since that time, that of Mr. and Mrs. D. McLachlan, which was celebrated about nine years ago. There have been only four weddings in St. Andrew's church. The first one was that of a Miss Agar, who lived here many years ago and whose father was a prominent man in this city, being engaged in the lumber business.

MUSICAL

A VERY FINE CONCERT.

The first of a series of concerts which will be put on this season by the Ladies' Guild of Christ Church, was held last evening in the Brisco Opera House. There was a very large attendance at this opening event, which was a tribute, not only to the splendid work accomplished by the ladies of this society, but also to the excellent merits of the program presented. Every number was received with evident appreciation and approval. It would be hard to specialize any one number as more worthy than another. They were all of a very high order, and well deserving of unstinted praise.

Perhaps one of the most interesting numbers on the program was the solo, which was beautifully rendered by Miss Evelyn Parker, the soprano soloist and leader of the Park Street Methodist choir. This special interest was partly due to the fact that this was the first time that Miss Parker appeared on a concert platform in the Maple City. Then, too, those who have not had the opportunity to hear her in her church work, have looked forward to her appearance with much anticipation in view of the many qualities which have been bestowed upon her by those who have enjoyed her singing. It is safe to say that she came up fully to the greatest of expectations. She was in excellent voice last evening, and the only regret was that she did not appear oftener on the program.

Miss Parker is indeed a valuable acquisition to Maple City musical circles. She possesses an exceedingly high soprano voice of attractive quality and accomplished training. She sings, too, with great intelligence, and her clear enunciation is a source of added pleasure to her hearers. Those who heard her last evening will look forward with increased pleasure to her next appearance.

Miss Beatrice Smith, one of the latest additions to Chatham's long list of accomplished church soloists, sang in a manner which completely captivated the admiration of the audience. Miss Smith, although a young performer, shows marked advancement in the art of singing. She is one of Mr. Sim I. Slade's most promising pupils. Already the appearance of her name on a concert program is by no means a small drawing card.

Miss Minnie Tyhurst is another of the younger artists of the city who did remarkably well last evening. Miss Tyhurst, also a talented pupil of Mr. Slade, is the soprano soloist of the William Street Baptist Church. She is deservedly popular with concert audiences, and after the liberal applause she received last evening she has reason to feel that her efforts were fully and gratefully appreciated.

Miss Florence Schwemler, contralto, was one of the favorites of the evening in her singing number. She has a fine voice, which shows the excellent training of her capable teacher, Mrs. John Cooper. She has many admirers who look forward to her appearance with pleasure, and the number of these was greatly increased as the result of her efforts last evening.

Miss Mae Peate, contralto soloist of the First Presbyterian Church, who appeared in a vocal number with a violin obligato by Mr. Everard Gordon, provided one of the most enjoyable treats of the evening. Miss Peate is one of Mr. Slade's advanced pupils, and she reflects great credit upon her successful instructor.

One of the gems among the many musical organizations of the city, is the Ladies' Quartette, composed of Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Milton Bogart, and Misses Schwemler and McGeorge. These Ladies appeared in two splendid numbers last evening, and the reception they received was merely a repetition of the many triumphs which have greeted their appearances in the past.

The other musical numbers on the program were vocal solos by Mesdames James Trotter and A. R. Dugman, and a violin selection by Mr. Gordon. It is sufficient to say that these numbers were fully up to the excellent standard of the rest of the program. Mr. Trotter has a rich full baritone voice, which is well-known among lovers of music in Chatham. He did splendidly in a number especially suited to his voice. Mr. Dugman who is probably not as well-known to the general public, created a wave of general approval with a fine tenor solo. He demonstrated his worth as an appearing with credit upon the very best of programs in Chatham. Mr. Gordon, who is always a favorite, added fresh laurels to his already enviable reputation as a violin virtuoso.

The one disappointment of the evening was Miss Verna Sheldon's inability to appear in the reading numbers, to which those who attended the concert were expectantly looking forward. Miss Sheldon, unfortunately, was too ill to take part in the program. Her place was filled by Miss Verlyn Lamont, and it must be said that she chose a very acceptable substitute. Miss Lamont upon very short notice gave an excellent number, which was enthusiastically received.

The accompanists of the evening were Miss Flossie Bagart and Miss Verna Sheldon. These two young ladies are too well-known in Chatham to need further comment other than that their work last evening was a credit to themselves and of very great assistance to the success of the various numbers in which they took part.

The Ladies of the Christ Church Guild, desiring of the general thanks of the community for affording an opportunity to the music-loving people of the city of attending such a high-class entertainment. Their next effort along this line will be assured of liberal and enthusiastic patronage.

SCIATICA CURED

"I was utterly helpless with sciatica. I could not move in bed without aid. Doctors treated me, but I did not improve. I used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and to-day am a well man." This is a true story. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is made by Mrs. Chas. F. Haley, of Yarmouth, N. S. Two years ago she suffered most severely from an attack of sciatica, and for a number of months was an invalid confined to her bed. She further states: "The sciatica pain ble for me to describe. The pain suffered. I endeavored to continue my profession as a music teacher, but was forced to give it up. The doctor said the trouble was sciatica, but his treatment did not help me. I could scarcely take a step without the most excruciating shooting through my back and down the limb. Finally I took to my bed and lay there perfectly helpless, and could not move without aid. The pain was never absent. I consulted another doctor, but with no better results, and I began to think I would always be a sufferer. One day a friend who was in to see me asked me if I did not take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and on her advice I decided to do so. The result was beyond my most hopeful expectations. All the pains and aches disappeared and I have never since been troubled with sciatica. I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the trouble from which I suffered."

When the blood is poor the nerves are starved, then comes the agony of sciatica, neuralgia, or perhaps partial paralysis. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood, which feeds the nerves, drives out pain and restores health. It is because these pills actually make new blood that they cure such common ailments as rheumatism, anaemia, backaches and headaches, heart palpitation, indigestion and the painful irregularities of growing girls and women. For sale by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

He revealed the secret that distinguished members of the royal family will visit Canada in connection with the centenary of the landing of Champlain. "I never saw a circus," pouted Druella. "It ain't done ye no harm so far as I can see," commented her father critically. "I guess you're likely to get your full growth without seein' one."

"Get out here," he cried. "I don't want none o' ye about me, ye deefil critter. I told ye not to go to the circus. Get out here."

Martha sitting on the porch. She was very deaf, and only by dint of much shouting did he learn that his folks had gone off with Peters to the circus. He made a solitary meal and then went out on the front stoop to await the return of the runaways. Jim had insisted upon a supper at a restaurant after the show as a windup to the celebration, and it was late when they drove into the yard.

Woman's World

MISS GLADYS BRYANT SMITH

One of the Many 'Pretty Girls Who Have Christened Warships. There is to be a new society of women—at least such a society is in contemplation—the members of which are to be women and young girls who have stood sponsor for some war vessel that the United States government places in its navy.

MISS GLADYS BRYANT SMITH. Navy. Miss Elsie MacComber, who christened the Des Moines; Miss Anna Hoch, sponsor for the Kansas; Miss Mary Campbell of Birmingham, who christened a cruiser named after her city, and Miss Bell, sponsor for the Vermont, are among those eligible. The youngest member of the proposed society will be little Miss Webster of Brookline, Mass., aged twelve, who christened the submarine sea fighter Octopus.

The peace cure appears to be fast superseding the once popular best cure as a panacea for all the ills of mankind, or, rather, womankind, to be more precise. This new cure is mainly a matter of mental discipline and to take it one need not go into exile or even drop one's worldly affairs. In this novel course of personal treatment there is much excellent common sense in some of the rules.

Taking the peace cure begins with your meals. You must eat slowly and think pleasant thoughts. You will not need a great deal of food, for the food you eat nourishes you. You sit down at the table, eat slowly, relax your muscles, clear your mind, think only of your food and grow peaceful in contemplation.

The woman who takes the peace cure begins with nerve relaxation. She forces her lips to smile. She orders her hands to lie still in her lap.

Thunderstorms. Do not imagine that because a heavy thunderstorm is far away to leeward it is not likely to arise and wet you. Even if the wind is blowing right against the cloud it will come your way all the more surely, for thunderstorms always travel against the wind.

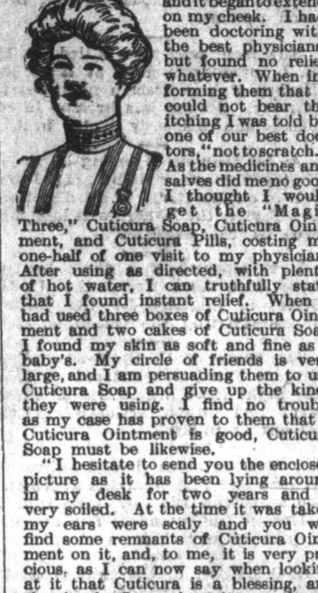

Parsimony Means Health. "Did you ever notice," said a prominent physical culture teacher of New York, "that parsimonious people almost always enjoy good health and long life? Eating has a great deal to do with this. We learn that one wealthy person lunched always on a cup of tea and a doughnut; that the great standard of another was apples."

Men Like Weeping Women. "If there were more tears there would be more marriages," said a

WORDS CAN NOT EXPRESS GRATITUDE TO CUTICURA

"Words are inadequate to express my gratitude for Cuticura Remedies. I had been troubled with eczema for five years on my ear and it began to extend on my cheek. I had been doctoring with the best physicians, but found no relief whatever. When informing them that I could not bear the itching I was told by one of our best doctors 'not to scratch.' As the medicines and ointments did me no good I thought I would get the 'Magic Three,' Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills, costing me one-half of one visit to my physician. After using as directed, with plenty of hot water, I can truthfully state that I found instant relief. When I had used three boxes of Cuticura Ointment and two cakes of Cuticura Soap I found my skin as soft and fine as a baby's. My circle of friends is very large, and I am persuading them to use Cuticura Soap and give up the kinds they were using. I find no trouble at my case has proven to them that if Cuticura Ointment is good, Cuticura Soap must be likewise.

A TRANSPPOSITION. It Manpled the Salutation, but the King Controlled His Face. An American who years ago served as our minister to Spain was fond of telling the following joke upon himself:

Shortly after he had become settled in his new home he was hidden to a state ceremonial, where he was to be presented to the king. His knowledge of languages was limited to English and French, and being desirous of addressing the sovereign in his own tongue he took pains to "coach" for the occasion. Several phrases were rehearsed until he felt that he had mastered them. When the critical moment arrived, he saluted the king with great dignity, spoke a few words in Spanish and paused.

"What did I say?" asked an English gentleman. "I spoke in Spanish," was the rejoinder. "I said, 'I cast myself at your feet,' which, I am told, is the most respectful form of salutation."

Expectant Mothers should take "Bu-Ju" during this trying time. The extra strain, weight and undue pressure on the delicate organs often irritate and inflame the kidneys. This not only increases the danger of childbirth, but places the health of the baby in jeopardy.

Bu-Ju The Gentle Kidney Pill. In New Zealand. In New Zealand the house of representatives has just voted 37 to 26 in favor of making women eligible as members of the upper house. In Australia women are already eligible to all offices from prime minister down, but when New Zealand fourteen years ago gave women full suffrage it expressly barred them from parliament. This restriction, it seems, is now to be removed.

Bu-Ju The Gentle Kidney Pill. A "Bu-Ju" pill at bedtime takes away the sharp pain in the back—relieves the dragging, bearing-down pains through the hips—prevents Constipation—is the best protection against Kidney Trouble during pregnancy. THE DAILY TASK.

Dreading a Duty Doubles the Task of Discharging it.

A small boy whose one task for the day consists in bringing a pail of spring water to the house began to pine away, and his anxious mamma called in the family doctor. The boy submitted listlessly to a thorough examination, the result of which puzzled the man of medicine. "Does he eat well?" he asked. "Fairly so," was the reply. "And sleep?" he queried. "Oh, yes, but he drags through the day without a symptom of interest," was the mother's reply.

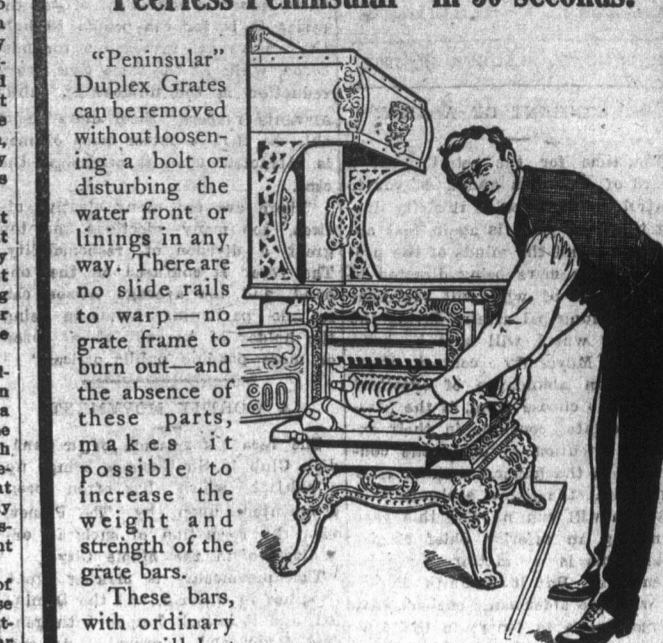

The doctor looked long and hard at the child and then had a bright thought. "What does he do in the way of work?" he asked. "Nothing but bringing a pail of water from the spring every morning." "Cut out that water carrying task for a week," said the doctor, "and let me know the result."

CULINARY CONCEITS. Never stir cake after final beating. Beating motion should always be last used. When interrupted while frying in deep fat, drop a crust of dry bread into the fat to prevent its burning. When the time for cooking vegetables is limited, pour boiling water over them, then drain and cook in the usual way. When frying croquettes, be sure to plunge the basket in hot fat before the croquettes are placed in it. This will prevent their adhering to the wire when lifted out.

A Novel Jelly Idea. When using eggs break away just enough of the smaller end of the shell to enable you to remove the contents. Wash the shells carefully then put them away in some safe place. At jelly making time fill these shells with jelly, covering the broken end with paraffin paper. It is impossible to imagine a more convenient way to carry jelly.—Dellmeator.

GOVERNMENT OF A CITY.

The time for the selection of a Board of Aldermen and a Mayor to control the destinies of this city during the next year, is again fast approaching, and the minds of the people are once more being directed to the question of who will represent them in municipal affairs during the new year which will soon be here.

In the Mayoralty contest, there will be an abundance of excellent material to choose from, if the present candidates continue in their expressed intention to enter the contest. It is the general opinion after a glance at the list of aspirants that Chatham will run no risk this year of having an inferior Chief Magistrate. This is a matter for congratulation. But it is quite different with the aldermanic outlook. All interest seems to centre in the contest for Mayor, and it looks at present as if the aldermanic candidates with possibly a few exceptions will be selected at random at the last moment. This is unfortunate.

The Chicago Tribune has been making an exhaustive research into the government of cities. The correspondent who has been doing the investigating finds that the city of Washington, D. C., is the best governed city that he has visited. The peculiar feature of the investigation and its finding is that the city of Washington has no elective franchise, the government being entirely by a commission appointed by the Federal Government. In commenting on this kind of government the writer says:

"Officials who conduct affairs of the district of Columbia are probably no better or no worse than those who would undertake the same kind of work in other cities. The great object lesson is that in a city like Washington, where there is no elective franchise exercised by anybody, where the government power really is lodged in outsiders, made up of the President and the Congress of the United States, the absence of politics results in the absence of organized graft and in the cleanliness of the city government, which seems impossible to secure under ordinary conditions."

"When one begins to dig into political conditions in Great Britain it is easy to see that the cleanliness of the Scotch and English municipalities is due to concentration of responsibility and nothing else. Few people seem to understand that Great Britain is a country which is governed exclusively by legislative bodies. With a few unimportant exceptions, there are no elected executive officers in the country. The voters' attention is not divided by having to follow the political gyrations of scores of professional office-holders. There are few elections and a surprisingly small number of men to be chosen for public office, while practically all of them act in a legislative capacity and are subject to scrutiny for their public acts at all times."

"In an elective system of government an election by the people becomes so cheap a thing that the better class of citizens despise it, so that the vast majority of offices are filled by men who seek them as a political profession and not on account of the individual honor involved or through any wholesome desire to do something for the benefit of the community."

"The more the subject is studied the more the people of any city will discover that the secret of municipal cleanliness lies, first of all, in an abolition of a great majority of all the elective offices and the consequent reduction in the number of elections, the result being a great economy, great sense of responsibility on the part of the public servants, and a greater facility on the part of the people in choosing better men to preside over public affairs."

ment in cities, whether the commission be appointed or elected, is simply a solution of the question of public responsibility. The fewer the number of municipal offices the easier it is for the people to hold their servants responsible for misdeeds, while at the same time every reduction in the number of public servants renders them more desirable, so that a better class of men is attracted than is otherwise the case.

"There are too many elective offices, too many elections and too great a division of responsibility. The voter is confused on the one hand, and the average citizen can see no particular honor in being the holder of one out of a dozen or more possible public offices."

A WORTHY MOVEMENT.

The recent formation of a Canadian Club in St. Thomas, brings up a subject which has often been commented upon by The Planet, viz., the formation of such an organization in the Maple City.

This movement is making great progress in Ontario, and the Dominion, and it is looked upon with general favor and approval. As one writer puts it, the movement in favor of Canadian Clubs is one of the most favorable features in the life of the Dominion to-day.

If this country is to make such progress in the future as its vast possibilities open up to the optimistic amongst us, it is essential that the people should not be in a state of constant warfare so that the country is divided into two warring camps. There always will and always should be legitimate differences of opinion amongst us, and in the varied differences of earnest men will be found some solution of many of the pressing questions which demand attention. It is because Canadian Clubs make for unity rather than for differences that such high hopes are entertained of their future work and their effect upon the country at large.

For successful democratic government it is necessary to form a healthy state of public opinion and by no other means can this work be done so well as by the meeting of men who are divided on political, religious and social questions, meeting on common ground and discussing questions not as they affect individuals or sections, but country at large.

The movement has gone forward in such a way as to show that the country was ready for it and prepared to welcome a change from the extremes of party divisions. However successful Canadian Clubs may be party divisions will probably continue, but their asperities will be softened and relieved and we shall no longer have the extremes of bitterness between people who are one and whose aims are alike.

However strongly cosmopolitan a man may be in sympathies and feelings he will often be strongly in favor of the individual who takes his stand upon the principle of "my country right or wrong." When, however, the same sentiments are expressed for party the difference is marked, and cannot carry the same feelings.

A man's patriotism for his country always finds an echo in the breasts of even philosophic individuals. The same feeling for party leads the philosopher to condemn such conduct. There is no excuse for subordinating a man's views of right or wrong in favor of party policy and though Canadian Clubs may not have as part of their program the formation of feelings of this character, it is inevitable, if their work progresses as it is believed it will do, that it will lead to the formation of strong public opinion which will admit nothing like wrong doing on the part of a political party, however strong parties may be. It is this formation of a strong and healthy public opinion which not only ensures the success of the movement in favor of Canadian Clubs but goes much deeper and leads to the strongest foundation for the success of democratic government in a manner that the world has not yet seen. The extension of the movement is one in which everyone in Canada will rejoice and its success assures the future of democratic government in its best and highest forms.

DO YOUR EARS RING!

When they buzz and occasionally deaf, beware of catarrhal inflammation. This grows steadily worse, but can be cured by Catarrhones. J. A. Hammill, of Greenmount, P. E. I., proved the merit of Catarrhones and writes: "No one could have worse Catarrh than I had for years. It caused partial deafness, bad taste, upset my stomach, made me sick all over. Catarrhones cleared my nostrils, stopped the cough and gave me a clear feeling in my breathing organs. I am absolutely cured." Doctors say nothing is better than Catarrhones. Try it and you'll say so, too. Two sizes, 25c. and $1.00, at all dealers.

AULD LANG SYNE FROM PLANET FILES OF HALF A CENTURY AGO

From The Planet files from Sept. 3, 1868, to Sept. 10, 1868.

A milkman named Maurice, who lives near Sandwich, when watering his horse, drove the animal so far into the Detroit river that it was carried off by the current; together with the wagon containing Maurice's two little sons, who were drowned.

A son of Andrew Chateau, West Missour, aged 14 years, was instantly killed on Wednesday by the running away of a team which he was driving.

As Mr. Wm. Wilcox, of Raleigh, was attending the working of a threshing machine on Monday, the 24th inst., some part of the machinery caught his clothing, and he was thrown upon the feeding table, but not before every particle of his clothing was torn off, if we may except his shoes and the wristbands of his shirt. The wonder is that he was not killed outright or at least considerably mangled.

The Great Western railway management, determined to keep pace with the best roads on the continent, have just turned out of their workshops at Hamilton a number of new and superb passenger cars, which not only combine all the latest improvements, but for ease and elegance will be difficult to excel. They are constructed on the "narrow gauge" plan and are intended for "through passengers." If required, they will make the entire trip from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Henry Minshall, Esq., Secretary to the Thames Teachers' Association, writes us to announce through the columns of The Planet that the next meeting of the "Thames Teachers' Association" will be held in Ridgeway on the second Saturday of September. Rev. Dr. Wilson, of Morpeth, has consented to give an address.

Ducks are very scarce at Belle River this year.

This, September 3, 1868, issue of The Planet, contains a lengthy article on a dreadful catastrophe which took place at Belle River at that time. Two steam saw mills were burned along with three human beings. The story is very lamentable. The people, Mr. Van Orden, wife and grandson, were in one of the mills and were burned to a crisp. It is thought that the building was set on fire by some one, as a can containing kerosene oil was found near by. Four pistol shots were heard in the vicinity of the mill shortly before the fire broke out. It is thought that the three persons in the mill were murdered and the mill then set on fire. A man was seen around the mill during the night, and it is almost a certainty that the triple murder and double incendiarism was perpetrated by him. Constable Taylor has arrested a man named Moses Robarsh on suspicion of being connected with the lamentable event.

A cricket match between Chatham and Detroit was played at Detroit on Wednesday last. Van Allen and Wells took the bat on behalf of Chatham, which was sent in by their opponents, who won the toss and had to meet the splendid bowling of Reeves and Hampshire. The boys fought on after a stand of one hour for 15, and Van Allen after 40 minutes with one wicket for 32. The game all through was good. Chatham winning with a score of 107 to 56. The Chatham players were J. R. Van Allen, W. Wells, S. Poole, R. Cross, R. Woods, J. Oldershaw, W. Gardiner, Dr. Bray, R. Mercer, W. Westcott and W. Northwood.

He was 70 years of age. He leaves a wife and two grandchildren.

Mrs. Joseph Thibodeau, of Pain Court, died very suddenly last Friday. She was suddenly taken with a fit, from which she never recovered, death ensuing about two hours later.

Over one hundred custom house officers have been discharged this week in New York.

Saturday's market was pretty well attended, and prices generally were well sustained. Barley kept well up, indeed; we think that the figures paid were, taken as a whole, higher than those paid in any other town or city in Ontario. London prices were 85c, Belleville 90c, Toronto 95c, while in Chatham as high as $1.30 was paid.

The council during the year of 1868 was made up of Mayor Evans and Aldermen Dunlop, Holmes, Smith, Hadley, Coats and McKough.

On Friday of last week, the village of Duart, in the Township of Orford, was visited by a very destructive fire, laying waste a portion of the business part of the village. The flames were first discovered when bursting out of the Messrs. Tait's factory. The fire spread and several buildings were destroyed.

An oil tank at Wyoming burst last Friday and its contents, 1,000 barrels of oil, scattered in all directions. Mr. Taylor, the owner, will lose some $500 by the accident.

It is reported that three Fenians have been sent from the United States to England for the purpose of assassinating the Queen.

R. O. Miller, of the firm of R. O. & A. M. Miller, is in Montreal making purchases in fall goods.

A disastrous fire occurred at Thamesville last week by which one thousand bushels of grain were burned; eight large stacks of wheat were consumed. They belonged to Wm. Watts, hotel keeper in the village. It is thought that the stacks were set on fire by some incendiary, as they were far apart and some across the road. The trick was mean and cowardly, and a reward is offered for the offender. The loss will be $1,000.

A machine for cutting hair has just been invented. This, apparently, is the slippers.

Farmers are bringing their grain from Moss and Delaware to Chatham to sell. Small towns like Toronto, Hamilton and London afford little competition and poor prices.

Two soldiers, while blasting at Point Levi, were blown up last week—one killed, other badly hurt.

A Hamilton rat the other day attacked a little child of Wm. Park, biting it on the neck and arm so as to leave the baby weeping in blood. Mr. Rat tried a second attack and was killed.

MARCONI SYSTEM OPEN

Commercial Messages May Now Be Sent by Wireless.

Another Stride in the World's Progress—Regular Service Across the Atlantic Inaugurated Yesterday—Operators Were Kept Busy—Sir Wilfrid Laurier Sends Greeting to People of Great Britain.

Sydney, N. S., Oct. 18.—Yesterday afternoon the system of wireless trans-Atlantic communication passed from its experimental stage in a formal announcement made by the inventor to a practical basis and for the first time in the history of the world messages are being transmitted and received to and from England, commercially. The formal opening of the station here was attended by no especial function, nor was there any actual demonstration made in test of the service. From early morning Mr. Marconi is said to have transmitted in all between five and ten thousand words.

At 3.45 he left the operating room for a moment to announce officially to the representatives of the press present the opening of the station for commercial work. "I am perfectly satisfied," he said, "with the results of today's work. We are now prepared to accept a limited number of trans-Atlantic messages for transmission purposes. Of course," he said, "you must not confuse to-day's event with that of three years ago, when the first message was flashed across the ocean. To-day we are merely throwing open our doors to the public and inaugurating the work for which our company was formed."

"Three years ago our messages were directed to the crowned heads of Europe. There is no need of that now. Indeed the bulk of our messages to-day emanates from the more important newspapers of the world. "One message, however, addressed to the British people from the Premier of Canada was sent, while two have been received from the Canadian commissioner in London. I am not permitted to give the text of these messages, though I may say they are all of a congratulatory nature and all emphasize the great benefit accruing to the Empire by reason of the successful operation of our system."

Mr. Marconi then returned to the operating table, expressing his regret that, because of the great amount of work to go through, he would be unable to further speak of the day's happenings. Early in the afternoon the guests invited to attend the opening, together with the press representatives, began to arrive at the towers. At 2.30 the whole party, conducted by the manager of the station, Mr. Vyvyan, set out on a tour of inspection.

The boiler-house, engine rooms and work shop were visited in turn. Their relation to the operation of the plant being explained on the way. The operation offices were finally reached, and a halt made to await the appearance of the inventor.

No one was allowed to actually enter the operating room, although the party were permitted to view through a window the work going on within. Marconi, assisted by another operator, could be seen seated at a table, alternately receiving and transmitting messages. Simultaneously with the pressing of the key of the transmitting instrument a blinding flash of blue flame was seen to be given off from a container situated at the far end of the room, while a tearing sound not unlike the twanging of a deep bass string answered the flash as it traversed the wires overhead. The messages were recorded by means of a magnetic telephonic apparatus fastened to the head of the operator and connected to the receiving apparatus of the station. After an hour's wait the inventor appeared and publicly gave utterance to the announcement previously given.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier sent the following message to the people of Great Britain via the branch: "Greetings to the people of Great Britain upon attainment between the British and Canadian coasts of Marconi's last and greatest triumph over distance."

In an interview Marconi referred to Sir Hiram Maxim's criticism of wireless telegraph on account of its limitations. Sir Hiram specified its lack of privacy and therefore uselessness in time of war, as the enemy could rig up a tower and tap the messages as they were going through the air. Marconi says he is now in continuous communication between the old and new worlds and he has satisfied himself from experiment that the messages cannot be intercepted by rival companies.

INTERNATIONAL S. S. LESSON FOR TO-MORROW.

The Captain of Jericho—Joshua 6, 8-20. Read Joshua 5, 8.

Golden Text—By faith the walls of Jericho fell down, after they were compassed about seven days.—Heb. 11.30.

The remarkably marvelous overthrow, capture and destruction of any city, ancient or modern, by hurricane, earthquake or armed men. Joshua, with 603,000 soldiers, in the prime of life, having just undergone the Hebrew rite of circumcision neglected for the past 40 years—and having partaken of the passover with its memories of the destroying angel, enthused and inspired with religious patriotism, directed by God, who was ready to miraculously interfere with His own laws of nature, as at the Red Sea and the raging overflow of Jordan, and who sends them in the person of Jehovah as commander in chief.

All God asks of Israel, as He does of us, is to trust and obey Him. What a queer way this religious Joshua took to capture the city of Jericho with its closed gates, and seven times on the 7th day, the Sabbath, to give the walls of the fortified city, "not a word proceeded out of your mouth until I bid you shout, then shall ye shout." These salvationists obeyed; the priests with the Ark of the Covenant, their trumpets sounding, and silent escort, was to human reason a most unlikely way to overthrow a man in foolishness with God, and His foolishness is wiser than man's wisdom. Israel has nothing to boast of when the walls fall flat by the power of God alone. Could He not have made the walls fall on His enemies and crush them? Certainly, but He would use His people as His executioners. Not a soul remained alive to tell the tale save a harlot named Rahab. She and all her kin were saved by a blood red sign on the only part of the wall God left standing, because she alone had faith in God, repented, and hid the messengers and spies from her fellow countrymen at the risk of her life and she saved theirs. God honors her memory by making her ancestress or progenitor of our Lord Jesus Christ.—Matt. 1-5.

HIGHGATE.

The Orford Fair was held in this village on Friday and Saturday of last week. In spite of the chilly, threatening state of the weather the attendance was good. The exhibits in all classes were exceedingly large with the exception of the cattle. The entries in this class were not as numerous as in former years, but the exhibit made was of a very superior order.

The concert held in the Township Hall on the evening of the second day of the fair, under the auspices of the Agricultural Society, drew a very large crowd. Those who were present enjoyed an excellent program furnished by Misses Irving and Crawford, and Mr. Harry Bennett, of Toronto. Mr. Whitney Sherer, of Ridgeway, presided at the piano during the evening. Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Reycraft, of Glencoe, spent Saturday and Sunday with Highgate friends.

TOT FOUGHT FLAMES.

Baby Tried in Vain to Save Sister's Life.

New York, Oct. 19.—Locked in their father's house, No. 277 West 66th street, while their uncle was out shopping, two little girls were unable to escape the flames they had innocently started, and five-year-old Mary McCellan was burned to death while her three-year-old sister Elizabeth tried in her baby way to put out the flames that ate the child's clothing.

The children had been locked in for safety's sake as they had innocently started, and five-year-old Mary McCellan was burned to death while her three-year-old sister Elizabeth tried in her baby way to put out the flames that ate the child's clothing.

The children had been locked in for safety's sake as they had innocently started, and five-year-old Mary McCellan was burned to death while her three-year-old sister Elizabeth tried in her baby way to put out the flames that ate the child's clothing.

In some way Mary's clothes had become ignited, and before the frightened child could smother the blaze it had spread to the carpets and curtains near her in the little parlor.

Dragging her sister to the kitchen Elizabeth screamed, "Come in and help, my sister is burning," and then tried to drag Mary to the door.

Dropping her burden for a moment the courageous girl ran to the door, but the lock held fast and she could do nothing but beat upon the door with her baby fists.

In the hallway there soon gathered several frantic mothers, and many children of the other families in the buildings. After much vain scurrying around for keys, Mrs. Lena Baker finally burst in, but upon the door with her baby fists.

WHO WAS SHE?

The old saying, "Go out of town for news," appears to apply to the following item which appeared in a recent issue of the Glenora Transcript: "A Tilbury young man accosted a young married lady on the streets of Chatham and requested the privilege of seeing her home. For reply she grabbed the young man around the neck and punched his face."

TIMELY ACTION

The Finance and Railway committees of the City Council held a joint meeting recently, at which it was arranged that City Solicitors Lewis & Richards should bring an application before the Railway Commission at their sessions here on Oct. 29, to have the Canadian Pacific Railway plate gates at the Centre and Wellington street crossings.

Notice of this application has been served on the officials of the C. P. R.

PASSED AWAY

Mrs. Kaspar Seneweler, of this city, has received word of the death of her aunt, Emelya von Dolzen, at Toronto. Deceased passed away on Wednesday last at the residence of her niece, Mrs. Alfred Johnson, the cause of death being a paralytic stroke, with which she was afflicted last Sunday.

The late Miss Dolzen's father was one of the early settlers in Kent County, having kept a general store and the registry office here when Chatham was a very small hamlet. She was a sister of the late Uriah Dolzen, of this city, and was quite an advanced age at the time of her death.

A DREAM

I had a dream the other night and I saw in my dream two little chubby fellows very poorly clad in rags, and cold, wet feet, crying on the street. Now if any of these little ones die and go to heaven this winter, maybe those immigration agents will be calling on these little ones for a drop of cold water to cool their parched tongues. I for my part have resolved to repair the shoes of such as these little ones for half price, if I have to go with half a loaf instead of one, and as doctors do, I will charge those that are able to pay more for what they have done. Doctor Walton Peany, Hospital for Sick Shoes, Queen street, near Wellington street.

TWO ACCIDENTS

On Thursday evening an accident which may have proved serious occurred in the livery barn belonging to Silas Johns, on Centre St. The building at one time was a church and the plaster ceiling had never been removed. A large beam for the purpose of holding the ceiling up, connected the plates on each side of the building. The end of this beam became decayed and, on account of the heaviness of the ceiling, it was broken off, thus allowing the ceiling to fall down, alighting on several buggies. As a result, the tops of some of the vehicles were broken and bent, but no serious damage was done.

Mr. Johns met with a painful accident the other evening while out driving in a cart. His horse was feeling in high spirits and kicked over the dashboard, striking Mr. Johns on the left knee. The knee is quite painful and Mr. Johns is obliged to walk around with the aid of a crutch.

A POPULAR MERCHANT

Among the Gents' Furnishing stores of this city, the new one recently opened by Mr. Alf Stone, in the Miles block directly opposite the Market building, is worthy of comment and praise.

Mr. Stone is well known to the citizens of Chatham and also to the people of the surrounding country. He came to this city 30 years ago, and was a clerk in the store of H. K. Ridley, in the old Royal Exchange block. After serving three years with that firm he went to Essex, where he carried on a grocery business for nine years. On returning to this city he was with the Singer Sewing Machine Company for several years, and for the past nine years he has been in the Gents' Furnishing business with his brother. He is well and widely known and has been very successful in his new store since the opening.

He carries a full line of everything in Gents' Furnishings. He handles the Andrew Darling goods, of Toronto, and the made to order clothing of the Rex Tailoring Company, of Toronto. The latter company are acknowledged to have the finest goods on the market.

Mr. Stone started out on the cash and one price system, with the purpose of giving his customers extra value for their money. His store is large and commodious and bargains are to be found in every department. A very bright and successful future is predicted for him.

The "Chatham" Automobile

"Automobiles have come to stay." This is the conclusion of all thinking persons, who believe in progress, and who watch the signs of the times. The use of them will never abate, the horse. They will hold their special place, and the horse will hold his. Heretofore the automobile has largely been an article of luxury. It will soon be looked upon as an article of utility, and almost indispensable to the average business or professional man and agriculturalist as well. In the entire field of the United States, Detroit is the centre of this line of manufacture. Why cannot Chatham occupy a corresponding position in the Canadian field? We have natural location, cheap fuel in our natural gas, and prospective electrical power, promised us from Niagara Falls, and other great water powers of Ontario. We are close to Detroit, which will, for the future, be a centre of designing and construction in this line in the United States, so that all possible advantage in that regard can be obtained with little loss of time.

The Chatham Motor Car Company, Limited, has just closed its first year's efforts, and we recently published an account of its annual meeting. The progress made was very gratifying, and the prospects for the future are very bright. A most serviceable, as well as handsome and popular car, has been produced at little expense for experimenting.

The management realizes already that more capital is necessary to obtain the best results, and to produce a supply equal to the growing demand. They have applied for permission to increase the capital to one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and are offering a portion of this stock to the citizens of Chatham and Kent County. As citizens of Chatham, we have been, and still are, making persistent efforts to induce manufacturing industries to locate here. We are offering loans and other special inducements. The Chatham Motor Car Company, Limited, has never asked or received any bonus or loan or other inducement of any description. They have purchased a very desirable site in the very heart of the city, and have "made good" on their first year's product. We ask every loyal citizen of Chatham if it is not better to encourage and assist in the development of an industry of this kind, which has made such a remarkable beginning, than to spend our time in inducing undeveloped and untried industries to locate here? The very name of the Chatham car is a standing and exceedingly favorable advertisement for our city. The aim of the management is to make the name "Chatham" mean in Canada what the name of several of the leading cars of the United States mean there, as to quality and general character. This will be invaluable to Chatham, and constantly yield results to the city and to her citizens individually. If this company could have two hundred of the leading citizens of Kent County interested in it for moderate amounts, and then patronize it and advance the use of the product, an industry could be built up here that would be the pride of all our citizens. We do not know just what the plans of the management are in this special regard, but we do know that the record they have made thus far is the best evidence as to what will be done in the near future. We, therefore, feel it our duty as a public-spirited advocate of all Chatham's best interests, to call special attention to this industry, and bespeak for it the lively interest of all who believe in Chatham.

THE PLANET JUNIOR
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1907.

We have taken such a long holiday from publishing The Planet Junior that our little friends have forgotten how they used to help us. We have not had many items from the schools, but we hope by next week you will remember, Juniors, that we have to get the school news from the children.

Next week we are going to tell you how to have a Halloween party. Which child can send us in the best suggestion for sports for Halloween?

DRAUGHTS
A Problem by J. T. McDonald, of Manchester.

EASILY TURNED
A small boy was asked to be dinner at the low Princeton. The lady's mother, in fear lest he should come with some least of etiquette, gave him repeated directions as to what he should and should not do. Upon his return from the great occasion, the mother's first question was: "Did you get along at the table all right?"

MADE ALL THE DIFFERENCE.
I was very much surprised to hear of your engagement with young Shampkins. Less than two weeks ago you told me you hated him.

MAKE A NEW ONE.
Alas! you have broken your promise to me, wailed the trusting maiden. Oh, that's all right, answered the man. Don't let that worry you. I'll just make you a new one.

NUTS TO CRACK

1. Word-Squares Connected by Diagonals.
The central letters of the diamonds spell the names of an important profession.

2. A Chess of Tools.
This is a chess where every move is a tool. Only disquiet; others saw the necessity of thrift and of learning some thing. I'm letting nothing escape me, although it is a tax even now; but I am not a bit discouraged. If I learn, I may come at last to realize that to learn is elevating.

3. Aunts.
One aunt takes great interest in her aunts. Another has not been long in so doing. Another is full of meaning. Another is a man flatterer. Another is an inhuman creature, but cannot help it. Another has a terrible temper. Another is a traveling agent. Another looks like a true aunt, but is never found where she ought to be. Another likes the country. Another does not own her home. Another can never resist atmospheric influences.

4. Riddles.
I come from the north, I come from the south, I travel by night and day, and man my will may never cease.

5. Anagrams—Jewels in the Plural.
We found a word in the plural. At once strange! It seems strange! At first we were puzzled, but without change! The word means a red meal served without change! The kind that a shipper he's sailing, and as a shipper he's sailing, and as a shipper he's sailing.

6. Word Chain.
The last three letters of each word are the first letters of the next word.

A CYCLE OF CANDLES
By Rose Mills Powers.
The birthday Betty was one, the dear, Four little candles, and what do you think? A beautiful cake with candles pink; A birthday candle that gaily shone On Betty's birthday when she was one.

LOVE YOUR NEIGHBOR.
"Love your neighbor as yourself," said Jesus, and half the world has followed. So the prayer book teaches. Half my duty I can do With but little labor, For with all my heart and soul I do love my neighbor. Mighty little credit that To my self-denial. Not to love her, though might be something of a trial. Through the air has passed the word, "Love your neighbor as yourself." Even the sunbeams love her.

NOT WORK, BUT WORRY.
It is not the work, but the worry That wrinkles the smooth, fair face. That bleeds gray hairs with the shanty. And dims the form of its grade. That dims the hair and the eye, and the smile, and the cheer, and the light. But give us heavy and troubled words. With a weary, despondent light. It is not the work, but the worry That drives all sleep away. As we toss and turn and wonder About the cares of the day. Do we think of the hand's hard labor Or the eyes of the tired feet? Ah, no! But we plan and ponder. How both ends can be made to meet.

LOSS OF APPETITE AND ENERGY.
Singly they are a worry—combined they become a burden, telling that waste has been immensely greater than the body's power to build blood, make good the deficiency of red cells, feed the improves digestion, makes blood, the kind that nourishes and rebuilds. Quickly the nervous system responds to the new power supplied by the system. Strength and endurance give the system just what it needs to maintain the balance of health. BEING TRIED FOR THE ELEVEN

As "Tommy" Blake snapped open the door and walked briskly into his father's place of business, the hands of the big office clock pointed exactly to the minutes after nine. But the boy only smiled. He was late, of course, but he could catch up with the others in an hour. They always played, while he faithfully romped through his work.

Old Dolan, who had been with his father for twenty years, looked up and looked at Blake. He had a look of a coat flaked an imaginary speck of dust from his clothes, and went over to him. "Well, daddy," he said, with his pleasant blue eyes twinkling at the proof that he knew was coming. "Two minutes ago, Tommy, you were eleven minutes late again, Tommy," he said, gently. "That's a fact," admitted Blake. He laid his hand on the old man's shoulder and smiled. "But I can make it up by working hard, can't I?" There was no resisting Tommy, and Dolan's face relaxed, and he nodded. "That wasn't what I called you over here for, though," he said, wiping his spectacles. "It was this, holding out a book, the pages of which were fanned out, and he said, 'Daddy, look at this. You made a mistake again yesterday. Tommy, I stayed to correct it last night.'"

Blake's eyes brightened. "Daddy, you're my good angel!" he exclaimed. "I will do, better after this. I can, you know, do anything you like." "You can," admitted Dolan. "You can, but you're not good-naturedly, in his frank way, and with another promise, walked over to his own desk. Doan looked after him with affection in his eyes. "He is a good boy," he said to himself. "But he doesn't understand his own good nature. He is a good boy, but he doesn't understand his own good nature. He is a good boy, but he doesn't understand his own good nature."

MADE ALL THE DIFFERENCE.
I was very much surprised to hear of your engagement with young Shampkins. Less than two weeks ago you told me you hated him.

MAKE A NEW ONE.
Alas! you have broken your promise to me, wailed the trusting maiden. Oh, that's all right, answered the man. Don't let that worry you. I'll just make you a new one.

think you understand everything, and won't learn. As soon as you get that idea out of your head you'll do. Blake nodded. He had meant to say that he understood. Now he had no desire to explain who he was. He looked at the coach soberly. "You're right," he said, smiling in spite of a cut lip. "I've been a fool. I'm afraid, in more ways than one. That practice was against my eyes. I was thinking only of football. 'Good for you!' he said. "Good for you!"

Down at the office the next morning Dolan looked up in surprise as the door clicked shut after his employer's son. It still lacked ten minutes of the time to unlock the safe. Blake came over to the old man, and laid out his hand. Dolan took the boy's face. Before he could speak, Blake was smiling at him, and saying: "I'm going to turn over a new leaf, daddy, and be worth something. I've been wasting my opportunities here and imposing on the old man. Now I'm going to get down to work, real, honest, hard work." Dolan clung to the hand he held. "I don't pretend to know how it is, but I don't doubt," he said, in his good way, "that you'll do wonderfully well. You're a good boy, and I'm glad, mighty glad!" —Yonkers Comptroller.

MY EXPERIENCE
Three score and ten and nine, To me the years have gently grown, And seem more precious now than when I sat and mused alone. Though here I sit and muse alone, Three score and ten and nine, The best of living is the last, And life grows sweeter at its close, And something richer than the past. These days disclose. I mourn not now the silvered hair, The trembling hand, the falling power, As here I gaze and calmly wait The coming hour. What dreams of honor or of gain, Of wealth or crowns to grace my brow, Or of my spirit, none remain To stir me now. The teasing life, the hope and fear, The strife, the pain of earlier days O' these, all past, I look with clear Unshaking gaze. And even when I sorrow most, Yet happy are the tears I shed, And the bright memories of the past, The precious dead. Alone, but not alone, I stand, Around, and not, a power divine Is shining, and a heavenly hand Is fountaining mine. Strange glories fill my closing day, And one bright star from out the west Calls me in tender tones away, From work to rest. And robes which amid the din Of outward life I could not wear, Are gently whispering within Their words of cheer. So, welcome is each flying year, And welcome is this silent bliss, For naught the noisy world can hear. Compare with this the things that were, —Rachel Kirpatrick. No longer set us by halting hours, Not put off the work which God has trusted to our hands. When a man has nothing at all to do he brings an education in trying to get it. —Theodore Tilton.

providing, and the coach smiled derisively. "High-school team, I suppose," he remarked. It was on the tip of Blake's tongue to insist on turning over and over in his mind a plan. He had played in high school, of course, as well as on the "varsity" team. "Yes, sir," he said, meekly, in answer to the question. "Then go over there and get into a suit as quickly as you can," ordered the coach. The blood mounted to Blake's cheeks at this remark. He said nothing, but he was not a student, let him. He would get into the "logs" and show him how the game should be played. He put on a padded suit that he found in the locker-room; this was like a warm blanket. He looked at the coach, and Blake's cheeks were pale. He knew the look of a student, let him. He would get into the "logs" and show him how the game should be played. PERSIAN GARDEN

This Excellent Vocal Gem Will be Presented by Sam. I. Slade On November 29th

At the beginning of the year, when Mrs. Manson Campbell was elected president of the Ladies' Assisting Society of the Public General Hospital, she determined that 1907 would be a banner year in the history of the Society.

The month of November promises to be as good as, if not better than, any previous month.

Mrs. A. C. Woodward, who has the month of November, has through the kindness of Mr. Samuel Slade, of Detroit, arranged with him for the production of The Persian Garden Party on Friday evening, Nov. 29, in the Brisco Opera House.

The Persian Garden, the Robaiyat of Omar Khayyam set to music, is one of the vocal gems of the day, arranged as it is for solo, duet, quartet and retentive rendition of the beautiful words and sentiments of the renowned Persian philosopher and poet.

Mr. Slade will bring to Chatham a company of celebrated, selected singers to present The Persian Garden, which will, undoubtedly, be well received.

Mr. Slade only recently returned from New York, where he sang the solo parts of The Persian Garden at John Wanamaker's concert, which were made a special feature during the latter part of September and in October, and on which Mr. Wanamaker spent from $45,000 to $50,000 to secure the best voices in the land.

POPULAR FURNISHERS

On page eight of to-day's issue will be found some pointers in reference to the fall and winter styles for men's clothes, which should interest every well dressed man in the city.

Mr. Aster Hind, Wood Street, Woods Survey, is the possessor of a rare coin, being dated 1818. It was picked up some years ago by Mr. Hind, and is valued by him very highly.

The Chatham Lyceum Course
