

NANCY ELLIS CARNIVAL QUEEN

"No Union" NFCUS Is Told

Forty-five delegates from twelve universities and colleges of Canada's four Atlantic provinces gathered in Charlottetown last Friday, Saturday and Sunday, January 29 to 31, for the Atlantic Regional Conference of the National Federation of Canadian University Students.

UNB was represented by Rod Bergin and Roy Davis. Jim Ross, Atlantic Region President and 3rd year Arts student at UNB, chaired the sessions.

National President of NFCUS, Jacques Gerin, officially opened the conference Friday night, following which, plenary sessions were held at St. Dunstan's University, which played host to the visitors.

The conference laid plans for National Students' Day, which is to be held February 11. Delegates also heard of NFCUS Travel Bureau's efforts to provide economical European tours for Canadian students, and of the NFCUS Life Insurance plan.

Sessions were interrupted Saturday afternoon and Prince Edward Island's Premier, Hon. Walter Shaw, spoke to the assembled students. Premier Shaw told them "education is a life's work," and does not consist merely of obtaining a degree. He expressed the hope that all young people could attend university.

Hon. Mr. Shaw said he was concerned with the exodus of college graduates from the Atlantic region. According to him, "APEC is doing a tremendous job" but Maritimers haven't been looking to our own abilities to solve our problems.

Premier Shaw said "It is your duty and responsibility to know something about political and government affairs of your country . . . Your government requires the support of every thoughtful citizen and every group".

After his speech the Premier answered questions from the delegates. When a UNB delegate asked if he felt a political union of the Atlantic Provinces would be desirable, he replied "NO!" Another student asked if liquor legislation should be relaxed. The Premier replied, with a grin, "It's pretty slack as it is." But he added "One can't sell principles for money," referring to increased tourist revenues which may result from a change.

The City of Charlottetown tendered a banquet for the NFCUS delegates, following which a party was held. Perhaps the most sincerely meant song during the after-dinner sing-song was the familiar "Prince Edward Island is Heaven to Me".

The conference concluded with reports from committee chairmen. The delegates called for increased Government aid for students, and for a continuation of NFCUS' efforts to aid students in Canada.

Her Majesty Miss Winter Carnival 1960

A vivacious freshette from the State of Maine last night became Miss Winter Carnival, 1960. Miss Nancy Ellis, representing the faculty of Science, was crowned in the Lady Beaverbrook Rink in a glittering ceremony before a cheering capacity audience. The coronation of the new monarch came as the culmination of the spectacular opening night show as the fifth annual winter panorama got underway.

Miss Ellis, from Waterville, Maine, is enrolled in first year Nursing and her crowning marks the fourth year in succession that the Miss Science entry has gone on to capture Carnival Queen laurels.

In an exclusive interview with the Brunswickian just minutes after she was named Queen, Miss Ellis said, "this is the happiest moment of my life. It is a wonderful honour and a tremendously thrilling experience".

Queen Nancy was crowned by last year's Miss Winter Carnival, Miss Betty Rooke who is now in training at the Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal and who was flown here especially for the coronation.

Rose Marie:

Opening Exciting; Second Performance Tonight

A packed house thrilled to the premiere performance of "Rose Marie" and proclaimed its approval with a resounding ovation at the final curtain.

The musical drew 1200 people to the FHS auditorium last Wednesday for the exciting opening event of the 1960 Winter Carnival. Songs, drama, and comedy featured the most expensive production of this kind ever presented in UNB history. A second performance starts at 8 pm tonight.

Director Arthur Trythall and Producer Jerry Scarfe in choosing this particular presentation and in casting the parts as they did, made excellent choices. Judy Maier, as Rose Marie, displayed a magnificent voice as did co-stars Ray Zerr, as Sgt. Malone, and Grant MacKenzie, as Rose Marie's lover. The humorous part of the plot was adeptly held by Roger Cattle with capable assistance from Mary Ellen Steeves. Cattle will be remembered for his role in the production "Vicki" during last year's Carnival. Another standout performance was turned in by Rebecca McVickar, who portrayed the seductive half-breed in a very tantalizing maner..

"Rose Marie", written by Oscar Hammerstein II, first appeared on Broadway in 1924. Its writer considered this one of the most highly integrated plots produced in his long career in the Broadway theatre, and preferred to call it a musical play rather than a musical comedy.

Minority Liberals Remain Undefeated

The Maritime Universities Student Parliament, held last weekend at Saint Mary's University in Halifax, adjourned sine die with the minority Liberal government remaining in power under Premier Rick Cashen (Liberal-Bonavista - Twillingate). The House, elected by students at eleven universities, was composed of 27 Liberals, 21 PC's, 6 CCF's and 2 Christian Atheists.

Five federal MP's sat on the benches, including the Honourable Davie Fulton, Federal Minister of Justice. The Honourable W. S. Kennedy Jones, Speaker in the Nova Scotia legislature, performed a similar role for the students as he gave delegates great assistance in parliamentary procedure.

Ed Bell (Liberal-Cochrane) was the lone member from UNB to hold a government post as Minister of Labor and Public Works. He spoke in defence of a Liberal bill advocating economic development of the Atlantic area, which was passed with CCF and some CA support.

Dave Covert (PC Rosedale) and Roger Harley (PC-Parkdale) sat in the Opposition benches, Neither spoke to support the PC bill which unsuccessfully tried to cede Sable Island to the UN, but Harley spoke later against a Christian Atheist resolution.

From a UNB point of view, most interest centered around Terry McCluskey (CA-Paradise East) and John Drew (CA-Paradise West). The Christian Atheists spoke on six occasions and also raised points of privilege in regard to the part played by Federal members in a student's parliament. In view of the latter they left the House to abstain from voting on the Crown Speech.

Their resolution calling for a parliamentary committee to examine the world population problems drew little opposition in debate but was defeated on the vote by 54 to 2.

On Saturday night a banquet given by the City of Halifax was marked by the excellent speech of Dr. Watson Kirkconnell, president of Acadia University. This proved to be a fitting climax to a successful parliament, organized by Paul McGuire and a committee from Saint Mary's University.

Building a Float for the Carnival parade calls for absolutely no horsing around, as these two gentlemen will no doubt tell you. They are busy making some minor adjustments to one of the floats to appear in tomorrow's parade through Fredericton. The procession will leave the Gym parking lot at approximately 10.30. Equestrians all, they are (left to right) George Cassar and John Corey.

Mr. Hotbed

Two columns to the right of this writing there appears weekly an epistle falling under the supposedly shocking heading of The Hotbed. According to an early Brunswickan readership survey, this column was among the most popular features of the paper. It was the voice of the student rebel. It talked about topics which appealed to the students. In fact the average student identified himself with Mr. Hotbed. He saw his voice raised in outcry against the sometimes domineering influences and pressures exerted by administrations and other groups. The author earned for himself the reputation of being the writer with enough "guts" to speak out against these pressures and influences exerted by the "powers that be"— whoever they might have been. Indeed, Mr. Hotbed, armed with his barbed pen and his bristly copy paper, proceeded to take the campus by storm; in fact, Mr. Hotbed might be credited with having brewed a minor squall of his own. And that storm created waves. And right on the crest of those waves rode Mr. Hotbed, wearing his campus-crimefighter badge and waving his rebel flag.

According to Mr. Hotbed, he has done a great deal of good. He claims to have shaken the local WUSC organization out of its "lethargic state"; he claims to have brought the "deplorable student housing situation" to the attention of the proper authorities; in fact, he claims to have supplied this publication with many ideas which "saved the paper issue after issue".

This is Mr. Hotbed's opinion of his literary endeavours. We have never stated whether we concurred or disagreed with Mr. Hotbed in his writings. We simply edited his copy, which incidentally, many times meant omitting libelous statements.

But now, alas, this pseudo-campus crimefighter has overstepped his bounds. He has had the audacity to attack the very editor of the paper. He attempted, for the purpose of creating "a good column", to make a laughing matter out of the editor's recent equestrian endeavours.

We, too, could now proceed to strike back at Mr. Hotbed concerning several of his recent escapades, with equal vehemence and violence. However, for the time being, we will only sound a warning to Mr. Hotbed: He is inviting trouble.

There is one final remark we must make:

We created this monster. Now, it appears that we may have to destroy him.

That we can also do.

THE HOTBED

Ya Ya Ya Ya Ya Ya Ya
 Ya Ya Ya Ya Ya Ya Ya

I got a secret. I got a secret. And you have-ve-ven't.

You heard this chant when you were five years old. By the time you were seven it had gone out of style.

And here we are, going to college and we're still hearing it. And who do you think is yelling it now? Why the university administration of course.

Ya Ya Ya Ya Ya Ya Ya. We got a secret. We got your half term marks locked in our vault — and you can't see them 'till spring. Ya Ya Ya Ya Ya Ya Ya. We got a big secret. And you have-ve-ven't.

And isn't it about time that a big grown-up administration like ours should quit being so childish? What possible advantage is there in keeping half term marks from graduating students until sometime in May? What could be more infuriating to any student than finding out that he'd passed all his spring examinations and still couldn't graduate with the rest of his class, because he'd failed a half-term?

If they will tell a student that he'd failed an exam at Christmas, at least he would have an even chance of taking an extra course and picking up the necessary half credit. But that wouldn't be fair would it? They wouldn't have their little secret. And who are we students to take a secret from poor little administration. All we do is pay our dues. Ya Ya Ya Ya Ya Ya Ya — we pay our dues and the administration does-z-zn't.

What would the harm be in letting these marks out? Please administration, we don't want to ruin your fun, but wouldn't you consider it? If you do that, we won't even ask you to establish bars on campus so we can drink like adults. If you tell us graduating students our marks at Christmas we'll really play ball, and drink behind the gym like nice little children. And if you tell us our marks, we'll stay until spring just the same. You'll still get the second half of our overdue tuition. — Honest.

Besides, just look at the fun you could have if you could go around and tell each one of us individually that we had failed. Just think. A week of side-splitting chuckles at our expense. What more could a fun-loving administration ask for to top off a Christmas?

Hotbed admits that its just some old law that nobody got around to changing. But old laws are meant to be changed. (Just look what they're doing with the N.B. liquor legislation?). After all we can't be archaic all our lives, can we? Or can we?

N.S. TECH STEALS DALHOUSIE TIGER; CHAPTER 2:—DALHOUSIE STEALS TIGER BACK

CUP: Dalhousie Gazette: Dalhousie's brand new mascot, under construction by seven Dal student Engineers, was stolen by Nova Scotia Technical College last week.

The unfinished tiger was to have been completed for presentation to the Student's Council last Tuesday.

Notice of the theft was received by the Gazette via the following letter.

"We regret to inform you that, due to the incompetence of Dal students, and the brilliance (indicating higher learning) and agility (indicating men, not boys) of Tech students, your pussy cat has gone astray.

"It is the belief of many that Dalhousie is the leading Maritime University. Leading in what—spirit? We know there is a trophy for the group doing the most to combat apathy on the Dal campus. Can it be that we are the group most deserving of this trophy?

"Should you decide not to present us with this trophy, we are in a position to offer you an alternative. Contribute ten cents ($.10) per Dal student, a rough estimate being $165.00—slide rule accuracy—to the March of Dimes. Such an endeavour per Dal student will be matched by Tech students. The receipt for said contribution on your part should be sent to Sammy A. Dingle in care of Nova Scotia Technical College.

"When either of the above conditions is met, your pussy cat will come home intact within the day (or night).

Point of stealing was set out in an explanatory note, which said, "we feel that these acts will serve to keep college rivalry alive in the Maritimes, and perhaps create some if other colleges build such mascots".

And then, the Dal Engineers recovered their tiger in a scheme that was a masterpiece in planning and persistence. For several days following the much publicized theft, discreet inquiries by the Dalhousians involved, disclosed the identity of the Tech student who had driven the truck which had carted off the tiger.

The student, blissfully unaware of detection, was seized on Thursday night by a number of Engineers and taken for a "ride".

The Techman finally confessed that the tiger was in a cottage at Seabright, along the St. Margaret's Bay Road. Price for his information was that he was taken home, and this seemed little enough.

Key to the cottage was obtained from the owner upon representation that the Dal/men were Tech students who had heard that Dalhousie knew where the tiger was, and it would have to be moved. It was.

Queen of the Swamps

The Swamp Club, an international student organization, wishes to announce that after much debate, they have finally elected their Queen for the Winter Carnival. Due to previous commitments, the voluptuous beauty was unable to attend the pre-carnival functions. But she will appear in the Winter Carnival parade on Saturday.

She will be escorted in a vehicle by the Swamp Club. By means of the Swamp Club's international connections, the famous synchronized equestrians of Lackawanna will accompany her through the business section of Fredericton.

UNB Grapplers Compete

At 3 pm this afternoon in the Lady Beaverbrook Gymnasium, members of the UNB Wrestling Club will participate in six matches. The card will consist of Four Feature bouts and two preliminary fixtures and will be conducted under intercollegiate rules.

Jim Ross, Maritime Middleweight champion will tangle with John Robbins, provincial Welter champ, in the top bout of the day.

In another feature match in the welterweight class, Pete Nielson, provincial novice titlist will trade holds with J. Morrison.

Darrell Prince, provincial novice middleweight titleholder will grapple with Jackie Oliver, a Red Bomber Football player in what should be a very interesting match.

The fourth feature bout on the card will pit Irv Robbins against Rob McAndrews in a welterweight scrap.

Invitational Ski Tourney To Top Toddy Time

On Sunday afternoon the Winter Carnival will wind up at the Ski Hill. The feature event will be the UNB Winter Carnival Invitational Ski Meet. Skiers from Mount Allison, UNB, Halifax and Fredericton will compete in the jumping, downhill and slalom events in both the mens and womens division.

Spectators will find it necessary to climb in order to view these events. Please use the trail on the right hand side of the tow rope. Under no circumstances should anyone cross the trails as they are quite soft and the resulting holes could cause a serious accident.

Every effort is being made to increase parking facilities. For those who do not have transportation, two buses will leave the gym at 1.30 pm on Sunday afternoon and one bus from the Maggie Jean at the same time. These buses will return from the ski hill at 6.00 pm.

It is requested that toboggans not be used but all are welcome to ski on the main hill during the afternoon.

The days events will be completed as soon as it is dark enough to start the gala fireworks display, and the torchlight parade by the UNB Ski Patrol.

Opportunity Beckons

A series of dinner talks on the opportunities for young men in the Maritimes will be sponsored shortly by the Fredericton Phalanx Y club. The series is of particular interest to UNB students and others who are planning to carve their future career here in the Maritimes. Initial speaker will be Premier H. J. Flemming, who will address the group next Monday evening in the Lord Beaverbrook Hotel. Tickets may be obtained on campus from Bob Stevenson or Hank Stavang, or at the Fredericton Y.

We Goofed Again

In the story regarding Model Parliament in the Friday, Jan. 29 issue of the Brunswickan, the leader of the Progressive Conservative Party was incorrectly identified.

A statement attributed to the PC leader was made by John Bate, present Conservative Party campus leader and not as originally reported by Roger Harley.

The Brunswickan wishes to apologize for any confusion resulting from this error.
