TRANSPORT IS SUNK

No Casualties Aboard Torpedoed British Vessel, Annam

By Courier Lease dWire.—An Atlantic Port, June 16.—Belgium's official mission to the United States, arrived in this country to-day. It is headed by Baron Moncheur, former Minister to the United States, and now chief of the political bureau of the Belgian foreign office at Havre.

Paris, June 16.—A semi-official note says that the German submarine U-52, which was towed into Cadix on June 11, was operating outside that port. On June 12, a Norwegian steamer was torpedoed off Huelva, and a Russian sloop between Larache and Cadiz, which leads to the belief that a group of submarines has been sent to block the ports of Cadiz and Huelva.

Transport Sunk.—Paris, June 16.—It is officially announced that the transport Annam was torpedoed in the Ionian on June 11, while proceeding under escort. Bombs were at once thrown in the track of the submarine, which did not reappear. The Annam was taken in tow by one of the convoying ships were sunk in a few hours. There were no casualties.

The Annam was a vessel of 6,075 tons. She was built in 1899 in Copenhagen and was owned in Marseilles.

Russ Changes.—Petrograd, via London, June 16.—The newspapers report that Admiral Madimoff, commander of the Black Sea fleet, has left his post, and will be replaced by Rear-Admiral Verdevski, General Yudevitch, commander-in-chief in the Caucasus has been replaced by General Prjevskiy.

Two officers and two men of the Austrian espionage bureau have been arrested while visiting Russian lines in the guise of Parliamentaires.

OIL FIELDS DAMAGED.—Copenhagen, via London, June 16.—In contrast to the recent semi-official statement that production of Rumanian oil has been resumed on a normal basis, the Berlin Vossische Zeitung in an article on conditions in Rumania, says while production has been resumed it will be some time before peace conditions are reached in the oil conditions.

Weather Bulletin

Toronto, June 16.—The pressure is quite high over the central portion of the continent and comparatively low in the north-western portion. Fine warm weather prevails in the western provinces and fair conditions are where with the general exception of a few scattered showers in the Maritime Provinces.

Light to moderate winds, fair and a little warmer. Sunday, moderate to fresh south-west winds, fair and warmer.

Heavy Battles Raging Upon British and Italian Fronts, While Attention of the World is Gradually Centered Upon Spain--Veil of Secrecy Drawn Over Kingdom, Revolution May be in Progress

By Courier Leased Wire

British troops are striking along almost the entire line they hold in northern France, not with the terrific force which marked the victories of Arras and Messines, but in a more or less tentative manner, giving weight to the belief that Field Marshall Haig is preparing to launch a mighty blow on a hitherto unprecedented scale. Two features of the fighting stand out with sharp significance. The first is the feebleness with which the Germans are reacting and the second is the surprising promptness with which Berlin admits retirements in various sectors.

The whole situation is entirely similar to that existing prior to the great "strategic retreat" of the Germans from the Somme. There is considerable evidence that Field Marshal von Hindenburg is planning another great withdrawal and that Field Marshal Haig is pressing him at all points in the hope of delivering a shattering blow if such a second "retreat to victory materializes.

Italian Front

The Italians, having successfully maintained their advance in the face of the most formidable Austrian counter-attacks, are apparently preparing for a resumption of their offensive. Vienna reports that the Italian guns have opened with the greatest violence in Carinthia, indicating that General Cadorna has chosen a new sector in which to deliver his next blow. The scene of the bombardment is some thirty miles north of Gorizia, and an offensive in this region would support the reports that the Italian commander has far more ambitious plans than even the conquest of Trieste.

Spanish Situation

The upheaval caused by the great war, which has already dethroned two monarchs now seems to menace the ancient throne of Spain. The utmost exertions of the Spanish censors have failed to completely suppress the reports of grave happenings in the Peninsular kingdom. From what little is known the Spanish army is taking the lead in the revolutionary movement, which is further accelerated by the food scarcity, and industrial unrest. Rumors of revolt have been current for several months, and at the end of May it was announced that the constitutional guarantees would be suspended, while the government prohibited all public manifestations in respect to international questions. This was followed by an outbreak at Barcelona on June 1, the seriousness of which was indicated by the fact that the soldiers sided with the revolt and imprisoned a number of their officers.

The exact part which the issues of the war play in the Spanish crisis is difficult to determine. The masses of the people have been generally credited with being strongly pro-ally in sentiment, while the aristocracy leaned toward the side of Germany. At the same time the demand for internal reform and other domestic questions have apparently had a leading role in the growing unrest.

Greek Situation

No new developments have occurred in the Greek situation but the triumphant return to Athens of Venizelos predicted in England, a step almost certain to be followed by a definite alignment of Greece on the side of the Entente. The violence of German comments on the abdication of King Constantine shows how strongly the disappearance of the Kaiser's royal ally has affected Berlin.

Enemy Troops, Dismayed by Vigor of The British Offensive, Are Driven Into Battle

By Courier Leased Wire.

London, June 16.—Repulse of a German attack on the positions captured by the British south of the Ypres-Comines Canal is announced by the war office. The statement follows:

"The positions we captured on Thursday evening south of the Ypres Comines Canal, were attacked by the enemy after heavy artillery preparation. A few Germans who succeeded in reaching our front trenches were at once killed or driven out, and the attack was completely repulsed at all points."

Foe, Discouraged.

Paris, June 15.—(New York Herald Cable)—The Matin's correspondent at the Flanders front telegraphs as follows: Prince Rupprecht's troops enter a fight dejectedly, and without a punch. Secret orders discovered show that behind each section marches an officer whose duty it is to shoot the laggards. The officer is supported by two machine guns, which collaborate in the slaughter of these demoralized strikers.

The wounds of many of the German dead and the statements of prisoners prove that these guns are kept busy urging forward the waves of German troops into the hell of British fire.

Fourteen enemy divisions participated in the last five days fighting between Wytchaete and Warneton. Nine divisions were decimated and the other five hit hard. Finally four divisions were sent to the rear to rest and were replaced by troops hastened from the Russian front. The correspondent says: Our British friends do things on a big scale and the Germans do also, for they have left twenty thousand dead on or under the ground and forty thousand more are out of business for a long time.

Copenhagen, June 16, via London.—Admiral von Tirpitz and Field Marshal von Hindenburg have replied approvingly to telegrams of greeting from the pan German committee for a German peace at Essen. Von Tirpitz replied: "The submarines will reach their goal if we at home retain our nerve." Von Hindenburg, who misses no opportunity of answering telegrams from meetings arranged by the Junker committee, although it is openly in opposition to Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg, responded on this occasion with assurances that a complete victory and "a peace worthy of Germany's sacrifices and assuring the prosperity and growth of the country is within reach if the struggle is continued manfully."

The Tages Zeitung, emphasizes the significance of these repeated Hindenburgian responses to the manifestations of the anti-Bethmann Committee by enthusiastically thanking the Field Marshal for his willingness to strengthen the will to victory of the nation by his stirring replies.

MOUNT NERO, ONE OF THE CAPTURED PEAKS

The Italians have overcome tremendous difficulties in their offensive against the Austrians and Mount Nero, one of them, is shown in the photograph.

NORWEGIAN SHIPS SUNK

By Courier Leased Wire.

London, June 15.—The sinking of several more Norwegian vessels, with considerable loss of life is reported by the Norwegian Foreign Office as quoted in a Central News despatch from Copenhagen. According to this information, the following craft have been sunk by German submarines. Sigrun, steamer, 2,533 tons gross, crew rescued. Cavmet, sailing vessel, loaded with pitprops, driven ashore and seriously damaged by gun fire all the crew missing with the exception of one man, whose body was found. Vinas, steamer, 1,107 tons; only four men saved.

Sylvia, sailing vessel, 149 tons, crew rescued. Candace, sailing vessel, 395 tons, crew rescued.

HONOR PERSHING

Paris, June 16.—The army committee of the Chamber of Deputies has adopted a resolution recommending the remitting of all outstanding punishments in the army for minor offenses, in honor of General Pershing.

The resolution also requests that an extra ration of a pint of wine be served to the soldiers in celebration of the arrival of the American General.

ENEMY WAS REPULSED BY FRENCH

Several Raids Made by Tenthons Beaten Off Last Night

FIGHTING IN GALICIA

Violent Artillery Fire is Going on Upon Russian Front

DECISION OF SWISS

Will Not Intervene Between Belligerents as Peace Makers

By Courier Leased Wire.

Paris, June 16.—The French repulsed several raids in the region of Hill 304 on the heights of the Meuse last night, according to an official statement to the war office this morning. The artillery fire around Come and Mont Carnillet, was lively.

The statement follows: "We repulsed several enemy attacks against our small post near Hill 304, on the height of the Meuse and east of Badonviller. French troops penetrated German trenches east of Rhielens and took prisoners. "The artillery fighting was moderately heavy in the sector of Craonne and west of Mont Carnillet."

AUSTRIAN STATEMENT

Vienna, via London, June 16.—Increased fighting on the Russian front in East Galicia and Volhynia is reported in the official statement issued by the war office on Friday. The statement follows:

"In East Galicia and Volhynia there is increased Russian fighting and activities continue at several points.

"Italian Theatre: There is nothing important to report from the Isonzo Army. In Carinthia, the enemy artillery fire has increased in the Ploceken Sector with the greatest violence. An attack upon our position at Monte Rombon, was repulsed. Artillery fighting on the Sette Comuni Plateau has increased in violence."

DECLINE INITIATIVE

Berne, via Paris, June 16.—Following the action of the national and state councils the Federal council has decided to disregard various petitions praying it to take the initiative in proposing peace to the Belligerents. The Federal body decided that Switzerland was not in a position at present to offer mediation with any chance of success.

CASUALTIES IN EXPLOSION

London, June 16.—The casualties in the explosion in a munitions factory at Ashton-Under-Lyne on Wednesday were reported officially to-day as 41 killed and 130 injured, the announcement follows: "The following casualties are reported in the Ashton-Under-Lyne explosion, 41 deaths, including 29 men, 3 women, 9 children; 130 injured, some seriously."

"It appears that the explosion resulted from a fire. A majority of the work people escaped, all the women having left before the explosion. The Manager is amongst the dead."

RIOTS IN MONTREAL

Montreal, June 16.—Rioting by those opposed to conscription was resumed in this locality last night when a crowd of five hundred men from Cote St. Paul, a Montreal suburb, entered Verdun, a nearby municipality, and paraded the streets. A wounded soldier was assaulted. One man was arrested for flourishing a revolver and was fined $25 in police court this morning. A number of windows on the main street of the town were smashed.

Miss Vera Reville of Hamilton, spent the week-end in town the guest of Mrs. T. J. Fair. Miss Reville is in evidence at the Golf Club on Saturday, where she was relating the past, present and future all afternoon, the proceeds being added to the Soldiers' Comfort Fund in which she is very much interested.

Three well-known Brantford officers of the 125th Battalion, Captain Edwards, Lieut. Donald Campbell, and Lieut. Campbell, were very much honored recently by being presented to Queen Alexandra at His Majesty's Theatre, London, on the occasion of the visit of the 125th Battalion to the performance of "Hello Canada" on May 11th.

A large audience was in attendance at the performance of "The Ivory Gate," last Friday evening and the Kitchener Club have been able to hand over to Mrs. W. C. Livingston over two hundred dollars for the Returned Soldiers' Club fund. The little girls of the club were very successful in their part, and the little girls played their parts well. Miss Hilda Hurley added much to the enjoyment of the evening with her recitation which was rendered in her usual artistic manner. The duet with Mr. McCloud bringing a hearty round of applause.

A very interesting letter was received this week by Mrs. J. J. Hurley, Lorne Crescent, from her son, James Hurley, of the Medical Corps, who left here recently with the 215th Battalion. Private Hurley states that while they were encamped at Hart Sandling, they very narrowly escaped being the victims of a German air raid, seventeen German planes hovered near the camp, dropping bombs within a radius of two miles. The English planes pursued the unwelcome visitors, however, and put them to flight. The next day the battalion was moved to Willey Camp, where they were drafted into the 125th Battalion stationed there.

The Daughters of the Empire Brant Chapter held their Garden Party at the Golf Club last Saturday afternoon and contrary to expectations the weather proved fair and mild, the rain holding off till evening, so a very large attendance was recorded and the garden party was a great success. From a financial standpoint, nearly four hundred dollars being cleared for the soldiers' comfort fund.

The Club House was most artistically decorated with flags and bunting, and the tables looked most attractive. The home made cooking for Toronto where she will spend a few weeks with friends.

Mitchell, was won by Mrs. H. Reville, with scores of 35 and 33 respectively. The Kaiser and Crown Prince competition created much amusement on the front lawn, in charge Miss Dorothy Merritt, of St. Catharines, and proved a great success financially.

This from The Saturday Evening Post, Winnipeg, will prove of interest to Brantfordians. "A luncheon in honor of the visiting delegates to the National Council of Women was held last Saturday at the Royal Alexandra hotel, when the speakers of the day were Mrs. F. H. Torrington, president of the Council, and Mrs. H. P. Plumpre, president of the Red Cross Society in Toronto, and recording secretary of the National Council. In the unavoidable absence of the president, Mrs. R. B. McEllenhan, Mrs. R. T. Riley took the chair. At the head table were: The Marchioness of Aberdeen and Temair, Mrs. F. H. Torrington, Mrs. H. P. Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA
 It is Mid-Summer Eve that the four-leaved clover—lucky at all times—is said to attain its greatest potency; wherefore, for days beforehand, love-child youths and maidens may, in certain rural localities, be seen seeking the hiding place of this precious forerunner of good luck, so that upon the portentous eve they may the more readily find their way to it. Possants in the Tyrol believe that one may acquire the art of magic if on this night one search for and discover a four-leaved clover, and with variations the same curious superstition prevails elsewhere. That legendary lore spreads easily and dies hard is evident from the fact that wherever the Caucasian race flourishes the finding of the clover leaf is generally regarded as a favorite omen.

You will find that luck is only pluck. To try things over and over; Patience and skill, Courage and will. Are the four leaves of luck's clover

Kaiser Will Wreak Vengeance on Those Who Deposed Greek Monarch

Berne, June 15.—A telegram from Berlin says Emperor William has addressed the following message to one of the Greek diplomatic representatives abroad for transmission to former King Constantine: "I have heard with wrath of the infamous outrage committed by your common enemies upon you and upon your dynasty. I assure you that your deprivation can be only temporary."

Foe Frightfulness

London, June 15.—An admiralty communication was issued this evening concerning an allegation made in a German wireless despatch charging inhumanity on the part of the British in failing to rescue more men of the crew of the German torpedo-boat destroyer S-29, which was sunk by the British squadron in its attack on the German naval base at Ostend June 5. The communication explains that the British officer engaged in the rescue found seaplanes were overhead, which apparently were about to drop bombs. It says also that the British rescuing vessel was under fire from the shore batteries, and that the officer therefore ceased rescuing the Germans when seven of them had been picked up, as nothing further could be done and grave risks already had been incurred for the sake of humanity.

Miss Elizabeth Tore, cashier at a Chicago L station, put her hand in the till at the request of an armed negro. She produced a revolver, however, and he ran.

Leslie Eaton, two years old, of Chicago, was smothered to death when he got the bed clothing over his head while sleeping. His mother found the body when she went to awaken him.

NEWS OF NORFOLK

REV. FATHER HANNICK, OF SIMCOE SAYS FIRST HIGH MASS

Simcoe, June 15.—(From our own Correspondent)—Trinity Sunday, St. Mary's Church, was the scene of an event that will long be remembered by those who had the good fortune to witness it. The occasion was the celebration of a first solemn mass by Rev. Father Emmett Hannick. Father Hannick is well known here, having for several years attended the public and high schools of the town. On finishing his studies here he entered Assumption College, Sandwich, where he pursued his classical and philosophical studies then passed to St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, where for four years he followed a special course in Theology. He was ordained to the Holy Priesthood in the Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul, Detroit, Father Brennan, of Detroit, who for the past nine years has been a classmate of Father Hannick accompanied the latter to Simcoe and served as subdeacon in the Mass. The sermon on the occasion treated of the priesthood, of its foundation by Jesus Christ Himself, of its powers and privileges, and its achievements throughout the nineteen centuries of its existence. It was pointed out that in dignity and importance no occupation in the world can be compared with that of the priest in as much as while all other callings are human and earthly in their aim that of the priest is to labor directly and immediately for the cause of Jesus Christ and the souls for which He died. As the interests of God and eternity transcend those of time so does the priestly calling surpass all human avocations. In the evening a solemn benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament was given by Father Hannick, while Father Murray, of Toronto, preached a sermon in which he referred to the fact that the four years he had passed in Assumption College with the two young priests who now sat in the sanctuary. He remarked that they were the happiest years of his life. Father Hannick will take up his work in the diocese of Detroit.

Economy and thrift are too often confused with stinginess, niggardliness, but they do not bear a close relationship for, while the former are virtues, the others are vices.

It is too often true that one who is managing in a good honest way, to save a bit of his income, is denominated a selfish creature, too stingy to exist.

But let those things be as they may, while the subject of real honest saving is considered.

It seems only reasonable that young people should save a certain amount of their earnings, putting it away for a rainy day, for they do not know what may befall them; and to be without a home or any means to procure one, when age creeps on, is a lamentable condition.

So many young men take upon themselves the care of a family before they have made any attempt to provide a home for themselves; this seems improvident and should not be encouraged.

I like the thrifty girl who puts away some household lines, and gradually a few pretty things which will prove most acceptable in the little home to be.

In these days when banks abound it is easy and wise to put a portion of the income aside.

Word was received in Galt recently that Nursing Sister Madeleine F. Jaffray had been awarded the Croix de Guerre. She was recently wounded in the foot with shrapnel while serving with the French Nursing Corps. She is daughter of Mr. J. P. Jaffray, Canadian Government Agent at Philadelphia, and her home is in Galt. Shortly after war was declared, Miss Jaffray went overseas with a contingent of Canadian nurses, and has been active service ever since. Mr. J. P. Jaffray was formerly a well-known resident of Brantford, and many friends in this city will regret to hear of Miss Jaffray's accident.

THE SITUATION.

Half is not nibbling at the Hindenburg line, but taking good, big bites. Following on the recent advance in the Messines region, it is now announced not only that further progress has been made there, but also as recorded in last evening's Courier, that a notable advance has taken place Northwest of Bullecourt, on a front of seven miles. If Hindenburg ever thought that he could hold fast to a front of his own choosing, he must by now be mightily deceived. M. Bouillon, member of the French Chamber of Deputies, and chairman of the Allied Parliamentary Conference, speaking in London yesterday said that the Allies must face the fact of a material loss in assistance from Russia. He also announced that France was looking to the United States to help make good the depletion of man power in his country.

Germany has at last admitted the loss of the merchant submarine Bremen, which sailed last August with a valuable cargo. The fuss which our neighbors made over the trips of the Deutschland, was one of the regrettable features before Uncle Sam awoke to a realization of what Hunism involved, and she also would, sooner or later, have met a like fate.

Another by product of the war has been the unconditional release of all political prisoners in Ireland. The step has admittedly been taken to further aid in the hoped-for solution of the "Irish question" by the conference about to meet.

A LIBERAL PROTEST.

In the Liberal party as such Hon. George Graham is supposed to have particularly to keep in touch with the Ontario end of matters, while Sir Wilfrid Laurier's speciality is Quebec.

Graham fully realizes that a vast number of the members of the party in this Province feel and realize that Sir Robert Borden's selective conscription bill is a proper move but he proposes on the second reading of the measure to move an amendment as follows:

"That in the opinion of this House it is desirable that steps should be taken forthwith by the Government to provide that accumulated wealth should contribute immediately and effectively to the cost of the war; and that all agricultural, industrial, transportation, and natural resources of Canada should be organized forthwith so as to ensure the greatest possible assistance to the Empire in the war, and to reduce the cost of living to the Canadian people."

As for conscription of wealth probably no one doubts that this will come as a war measure; in fact Sir Thomas White, finance minister, took a marked step in that direction in his taxation of profits. As for organized steps to reduce the cost of living that suggestion is on the same basis as the one moved in the House by Mr. W. A. Cocksbutt, M. P., some two years ago and which then did not receive any marked support from Mr. Graham.

The point is that the gentleman in question, for party reasons, is now seeking in a plausible way to do something to hold up the conscription issue.

The Toronto Star (Liberal) in referring to this phase of his tactics, says in a leading editorial:

"The ostensible purpose of Hon. George P. Graham's resolution is to improve the Military Service Bill—to improve its moral case and better its footing before the country. That being so, and in so far as it serves that purpose, it must be regarded as a useful resolution. The principles of which, we hope, the Premier will accept and adopt in his own measure or in concurrent legislation. But it should be moved on the third reading of the Conscription bill. To move it as an amendment to the second reading is sheer party tactics."

An amendment moved on the second reading of a bill is well understood in Parliamentary practice as a motion against the principle of the bill. Attempts to improve a measure are made in committee and on the third reading.

In another portion of the paper the Star declares that the "Graham resolution is 'destructively timed,' and adds:

"Those who believe in conscription cannot unite with those who do not, without abandoning their own belief. If they want more conscription they cannot get it by assisting the purposes of those who want none at all. If they believe that new forces must be raised, and that only by selective drafts can this be done, and that it is the fairest and best way of doing it, they must assist in getting that principle established in Parliament. They cannot serve their beliefs on this vital matter by conniving at the overthrow of a Prime Minister who already believes in part of what they want, and raising in his place a Prime Minister who is opposed to everything they want in regard to immediate war policy.

There is no easy way out. The representatives of the country in Parliament must go with or against the proposed raising of forces by means of the Military Service Act and the vigorous prosecution of the war. The necessity of the hour is the getting together of 100,000 men to uphold the Canadians now in the thick of the war. No other attempt at getting together compares in importance for a minute, with this."

Mr. J. E. Atkinson, president of the Star Company, is rightly regarded as a leading Liberal, and he for one refuses to be blinded by Graham's manoeuvring.

MR. COCKSHUTT'S SPEECH BEARS GOOD FRUIT.

During the course of an editorial headed "Up to Cocksbutt," The Expositor claims that the member for Brantford should follow up his recent notable speech in the House by "moving a resolution calling upon the Government to appoint a food controller."

Well that step has been taken and Mr. Sanford Evans, ex-Mayor of Winnipeg has been offered the job with wide powers. Moreover since Mr. Cocksbutt's speech, a grain commission has been named to regulate prices and export and a fuel censor to look into the price and distribution of coal.

In addition he has been quietly working among the members and ministers in order to emphasize his views. The results of his course are now manifest in the above appointments.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Kaiser has promised King Constantine the return of his throne. He might as well have invited him to a dinner in a Paris restaurant.

A bull calf has just been sold in the States for $52,200. Judging from the present price of meat most of them must be going for about that figure.

The announcement that the Dominion Government will introduce daylight saving is a common sense move. Eight hours of sleep are just that no matter when they are taken, and an extra hour of daylight has many advantages all round.

Spain is now reported to be passing through the throes of unrest. It is going to me a mightily changed world after this way is over; even that now.

In the opinion of this paper the Historical Society has made a great mistake in choosing the Library for the Pauline Johnson memorial tablet, instead of the Mohawk Church. Her dear ones rest in that graveyard, Brant's tomb is there and her early associations were with the edifice. In the Library such a token will scarcely be noticed; at the church the visitors who go there because of the historical associations, are fervent observers. Moreover, that abiding place would have assuredly been in consonance with her own wishes and a fitting recognition of her place as the most gifted daughter of the Six Nations.

"La Croix," a French Canadian paper comes out squarely for the separation of Quebec from Upper Canada. It says, in part:

"We have been exploited and bled white, as this political machine in the hands of the English majority has been absolutely disastrous. From being the possessors of this beautiful country, we have become the valets of a race which pretends to be superior, but which is nothing more than the modernized product of the rapacious Jew. What advantage, minimum though it be, have we got from confederation? We have worked hard, and it has all gone to enrich the Anglo-Saxons."

"How sweet it would be, in fact, to live in a lower Canada, separated from Upper Canada, yet subject as at present to the British Crown. The time therefore, to plough the soil and to sow this immortal grain has come!"

What La Croix and the rest of the disloyal seditious gang really need is German domination and it would serve them jolly well right if they got it.

Meanwhile those who indulge in such talk ought to be properly treated as traitors.

HARVARDS INVITED.

By Courier Lease Wire. Cambridge, Mass. June 15.—Harvard University has been invited to send a team of men who may be passing through London, on their way to the European battlefield, have been invited by the Thames Rowing Club of Putney, England, to use the club house, shells and other equipment. The invitation was contained in a letter from J. B. Grove, Secretary of the club, to President Lowell of Harvard, made public to-day. The British club men will be glad to welcome "Our Cousin, Wet Bobs" as honorary members, the letter said.

Large Funeral. HELD AT PARIS. Late Mrs. Henry Walker Laid to Rest There Yesterday Afternoon.

OTHER NEWS OF PARIS. Major W. R. Patterson, Overseas, Takes French Bride.

Paris, June 15.—From Our Own Correspondent. The funeral of Jennie Kingwell, beloved wife of Mr. Henry Walker, Amelia Street, took place this afternoon from her late residence. The remains were laid to rest in the Paris cemetery. Rev. J. C. Nicholson conducting the service. The deceased was born in Devonshire, England, 47 years ago, and came to Canada with her parents when quite young. She came to Paris 20 years ago and three years later was married to Mr. Walker. The deceased had been ill for the past two years, and death came as a happy release to her suffering. Besides her sorrowing husband three children are also left to mourn the loss of a loving mother, namely, Misses Gladys and Myrtle, and one son, Hugh at home, besides a sister, Miss Annie Kingwell, and two brothers of Cleveland, Ohio, William and Harry Kingwell, to whom the sympathy of the community is extended in their sad bereavement. Many loving floral tributes were received.

After carefully considering the matter some time ago, the councillors were unanimously in favor of introducing the Hydro system, but finally determined to place the decision on a referendum vote of the residents concerned. The vote will be taken on Wednesday, July the 11th.

SOCIAL DEMOCRATS

Considerable excitement was aroused in the city in various quarters yesterday when, through some source the rumor became current on the streets that a meeting of the Social Democrats was to be held last night. The Toronto branch of this society was recently raided by returned soldiers, who objected to the unpatriotic utterances of the speakers, some of whom were alleged to be aliens. The police department were notified of the meeting and arrangements were made by Chief Slemin to interrupt proceedings should any anti-ally sentiment be manifested. A large number of the returned soldiers of the city were acquainted with the rumor of the meeting, and had it materialized, they were in no mood to tolerate any unpatriotic utterances. It was also claimed that the meeting was merely being held by the Armenians of the city, who wished to commemorate the massacre of twenty of their fellow countrymen who were put to death by the Turks in Constantinople a year ago yesterday.

Economy and Thrift Essential Measures

Thrift and economy are essential in the prosecution of the war. Waste-fulsness should be rigidly excluded from daily operations. On the farm, in the factory, in business establishments and in the home all extravagance should be condemned. The implements that are not really needed this year, the machinery that is not essential for another twelve months, the desks and the fittings that are not absolutely necessary, the repairs and the improvements that can be delayed—there should be no expenditures upon these things until true economy demands their purchase. The war is tremendously costly. Every possible cent is needed for victory. Canada has never carried such financial burdens. She cannot continue to carry them so successfully unless you co-operate. It is your duty to the country and to the divisions on the firing line to put every possible dollar into Government War Savings Certificates, Assured Money Order, Post Office or Bank for details.

MAYOR SPEAKS FOR RUTHENIAN

Opposes Internment of Michael Koinik as an Alien Enemy

The following letter was addressed by His Worship Mayor Bowley, to Col. A. P. Sherwood, Chief Commissioner of Police for Canada: Brantford, June 11, 1917. Re Mike Koinik, sought to be interned as an alien enemy. Dear Sir,—I have investigated this matter very fully and do not think that this man should be interned. What the Chief of Police thinks is that as a labor leader, he is troublesome. It is quite possible that may be true, but I have always regarded Canada as a free country and because we are at war, it does not make it less so. I am no Labor Unionist but I think that Unions in common with other people, have rights, and if so minded to strike to better their condition, should be at liberty to do so. God knows I pity some of these mouldiers, particularly the Pratt & Leitchworth's mouldiers of Brantford, having been in this moulding shop when there was a run off of metal. It was a perfect inferno and the description of the old-fashioned hell, would put before it with its sulphuric acid gas, smoke, heat and general abomination. But with all this you and I have nothing to do. All patriotic people will not at this time, and should not, wish to array the labor unions of this country against this or any government. That is about where we would be landed if it got abroad that because its person or strike was a Ruthenian and spoke the Zec language, he being in real sympathy with our cause and Russian and allied success, because he did not obey a police chief to go to work when ordered, should be interned, taken away from his wife and child and held up as an alien enemy.

As the Mayor and Chief Magistrate of the city of Brantford I believe in the truth of the declarations enclosed herewith and do not think that the character of any man, be he Ruthenian or otherwise, should be besmirched and labelled alien enemy. I have written strongly because I feel strongly. I now take the liberty to assert that this city, which has contributed in proportion to its population, more men and more money than any spot under the sun, should not on war account lend itself through its Chief Magistrate or otherwise to manifest wrong and injustice. I have the honor to be, Yours truly, J. W. BOWLEY, Mayor City of Brantford. In reply to the above the Mayor has received word that his representations will receive due attention.

WHY WOMEN FEEL UNFIT

Nature's best handiwork never was intended to be handicapped by illness as so many women are. Nature's intention never was that women should be less capable as women, than men are as men. Yet how frequently young girls, business women, housewives and mothers complain of feeling unfit. What makes the growing girl so languid, the business girl so often depressed, the housewife and mother so often overwhelmed with worries and cares. What gives rise to the headaches, the backaches and weakness that unfit women for life's joys and duties? The answer is Bloodlessness. Girls grow into unfit women if they lack the help of new blood during their teens. Business girls become bloodless from too much indoor occupation, hasty meals and lack of exercise. Housewives over-tax their blood by overwork, over-anxiety, nursing, neglecting the need of sufficient sleep, regular meals and fresh air relaxation. Hence the blood becomes watery and impure. But women who keep their blood rich and red never need feel ill. Wholesome food, sufficient rest, out-of-door relaxation and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will keep every woman's health right. These pills alone have proved a priceless boon to weak anemic women, because of the new rich red blood which every dose helps to make. Every girl and every woman should occasionally take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to keep her blood rich and pure, and every weak and ailing girl and woman should take them without delay. You can obtain these pills through any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PAULINE JOHNSON MEMORIAL

Is to be Located in Free Library—Selection of Mohawk Church is Defeated by One Vote

A meeting of the Brant Historical Society took place yesterday afternoon to consider the placing of the memorial tablet to the late Miss E. Pauline Johnson.

That the Memorial Tablet to the late Emily Pauline Johnson be placed in His Majesty's Royal Chapel of the Mohawks as the most fitting place for the Memorial.

That all the members of her family, who have passed away, rest at Mohawk Church, including her father, the late Chief G. H. M. Johnson, her mother, and her brother, Beverley, and this spot is indissolubly intertwined with the life of the deceased, her family and forefathers.

That consecrated places of worship, not Public Libraries, are the appropriate repositories of Memorial Tablets to the dead, the role as to publicity being the main consideration in the case of public monuments, not obtaining in the case of tablets.

That the Church itself from its ancient character, unique history and priceless memorials, has long been a shrine for distinguished visitors from all parts of the Empire and neighboring countries when other buildings and other institutions of local public interest, such as are common to all communities, remain unvisited.

That the weekly Sunday services in the church attended by all Indian pupils at the Mohawk Institute make the placing of the tablet there of special educational value and as a source of inspiration for the Indian children.

That His Majesty's Royal Chapel of the Mohawks is recognized as "The Abbey" of the Six Nations where repose the leaders of their race; that this Tablet there finds its most fitting environment and association, and is the just due of the Six Nations, as of right, in their commemorating the fame of their most distinguished daughter.

The resolution was lost by one vote. On motion of Rev. Mr. Gordon, the Free Library was decided upon for the location of the tribute.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

Sir George Foster Introduces the Necessary Bill

Daylight Saving 7(c)ob-re-la.w) Ottawa, June 16.—Canada is to have "daylight saving." Sir George Foster at yesterday's Parliamentary sitting introduced a Government bill to provide for the time in Canada being in advance of the solar mean time during the summer months.

Mr. A. K. McLean asked whether it was proposed to make the bill effective during the present summer. Sir George replied in the affirmative, and intimated that the reversion to solar mean time would come again with the end of September. He promised to explain the bill fully on its second reading.

REVOLUTION MAY BE RAGING THROUGH SPAIN

Curtain Falls Over Country, No Word Received For Three Days

INTEREST IS ROUSED Army and Government at Odds on Military Reforms Issue

London, June 16.—The Evening Standard says: "For three days no cablegrams or telegrams have been received in this country from Spain. The latest letters delivered in London are dated June 9. Intense speculation as to what is happening has been aroused. The Evening Standard was informed at the Spanish Embassy yesterday that Senor Merry del Val had received no news bearing on the situation. There is a disposition in Spanish diplomatic circles to discount the reports of the existence of a revolutionary movement. This view, however, is not shared by the heads of big English business interests in Spain.

"The questions at issue go to the very roots of national life," said a high diplomatic authority yesterday. "The movement is distinctly between the army and Government. Since the Moroccan campaign there has been trouble with infantry officers, who repeatedly put forward the demand for reforms. The dissatisfaction has increased rather than diminished. On top of that has come grave economic unrest in Barcelona, Bilbao, Madrid, Cadix and other important centres. The greatest centre of unrest is undoubtedly Barcelona, where effective power has unquestionably passed from the civil authorities. Now there is the strongest reason for stating that the Madrid garrison is actively supporting the Infantry Committee in demanding drastic and immediate military reform."

Ultimatum from the Army The Times prints a special despatch dated Madrid, June 6, telling of how Gen. Alfau, deputed to suppress the infantry union committee of defence, became too popular with the army. Gen. Marina was sent to Barcelona to replace him and smash the movement, but was confronted with an ultimatum from the army committee of defence, which still finds the situation of the colonial campaigns, and continuing: "We have been sacrificing ourselves for twenty years in order that other departments of national life which claimed preferential place in the minds of Ministers should be constituted. The public, and even those who have obtained the highest posts have contended in parliament and outside, that our sacrifice has been useless, for the springs of national life have not been regenerated, and the administration has not improved the army, which still finds itself utterly disorganized and despised."

The ultimatum proceeded to complain that the army's superior committee, having complained, was arrested and summarily dismissed and demanded their immediate release and reinstatement within 12 hours at all garrisons throughout Spain. The Times despatch concludes: "Gen. Marina's feelings on reading this remarkable pronouncement are said to have been indescribable, but he soon convinced himself on enquiry of the Barcelona regiments that there was nothing but to submit, as the officers were determined to release their comrades by force if necessary. His conclusion was telegraphed to the King, and before the 12 hours expired the arrested officers were released. This astounding defiance of constituted authority by practically the whole army, has deeply impressed public opinion. The press is cautious and sparing in its comments."

There is no news available at midnight of the Spanish situation. It is not known whether a revolution is actually progressing or not.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING. By Courier Leased Wire. Quebec, June 15.—While milking cows in a pasture, yesterday at Cape Magdeleine, near Three Rivers, Wilfrid Vaillancourt, farmer, was killed by lightning. His body was found hours later when his family went in search of him.

Hurrah! How's This Cincinnati authority says corns dry up and lift out with fingers.

Hospital records show that every time you cut a corn you invite lockjaw or blood poison, which is needless, says a Cincinnati authority, who tells you that a quarter ounce of a "cure" called "Frodox" can be obtained at little cost from the drug store but is sufficient to rid one's feet of corns hard or soft as callus. You simply apply a few drops of Frodox on a tender, itching corn and soreness is instantly relieved. Shortly the entire corn can be lifted out, root and all, without pain. This drug is sticky but dries at once and is allowed to just shrivel up any corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. If your wife's high heels she will be glad to know of this.

"Whatever is New is Wrong" Have you ever noticed that thought element in the human mind? We seem to be such creatures of habit that even when something very helpful and convenient is placed before us we refuse to make use of it until somebody else has tried it. Even then sometimes we cling to our old worn-out utilities with a dogged persistence worthy of a better cause. That's why it has taken some time for the Automatic Telephone to become really appreciated. It was such a radical departure from anything ever tried before that people were just a little afraid to test its merits. However, that day has gone by and now Automatic service is everywhere recognized as the most practical because the most economical and efficient service yet invented. Its privacy, speed and efficiency recommend it to the progressive thought. LET US SHOW YOU Canadian Machine Telephone Company, Limited 32 QUEEN STREET, BRANTFORD

STRIKERS CLASHED By Courier Leased Wire. Fort McNicoll, Ont., June 16.—About 150 of the foreigners among the C. P. R. freight handlers here, went on strike on Wednesday. Last night, about ten o'clock, while the men who had remained at work, were on their way home, from the docks, a mob of about 200 men, some of whom were on foot, some on horseback, and some on bicycles, attempted to mob them. The constables thereupon let off a few shots for the purpose of intimidating the strikers, and the latter immediately dispersed. So far as is known, no one was hurt in the fray. The strikers are all being paid off to-day, and everything is quiet.

The police of Astoria, Ill., managed to rescue Rev. T. V. Clark from a mob who demanded his life as a disloyal. His congregation declare the incident was caused by spite. U.S. registration returns from eighteen states are 15 per cent. less than expected. The total will, therefore, probably fall short of $,000,000. Twenty steel 3,500-ton ships will be built for the U. S. Government by the Terry and French Co. of New York. The price is $10,000,000. Charles Schwab was the principal speaker at a Detroit meeting to protest against hysterical retrenchment of business enterprise. Disputing as to who owned the baseball with which their sons were playing, Joseph Davis, of Chicago, shot and instantly killed his colored cousin.

At the Palmer House, Chicago, two women entered the room of Sam. Schiff, a New York drummer, robbed him of $100, locked the door and escaped. Alex Bosklopp has been locked up in the Fergus Falls, Minn., asylum after vainly trying for two years to communicate with his family in Austria.

No Ordinary Car Can Contend With Her

When you sit at the wheel of your Gray-Dort, your foot on the accelerator, you are master of most of the cars you meet. When you want speed, she shows her breeding—Only a car of class can compete with her. On hills she takes no one's dust. High Powered, high-speeded, and costly, are the cars that can hold her. In her own price class, she is supreme. Count the cars you pass on all kinds of roads—smooth, hilly, rough, muddy, sandy. You will see among them cars of many prices up to double the cost of the Gray-Dort.

The Car For You

A car of class carries a pride of ownership all its own. With the Gray-Dort this pride is not a matter of price but of performance. For she performs with cars far higher priced.

Therefore—if you seek motoring satisfaction of the most complete kind—speed, power, comfort, luxury, gasoline and tire economy, reliability, great value—secure a Gray-Dort. If you seek performance far in excess of the price asked, secure a Gray-Dort.

GERMANS CAPTURED ARE OVER 100,000

Immense Total of Prisoners Held by British at Present Time

By Courier Leased Wire
London, June 16.—More than 100,000 prisoners have been taken by the British during the war, James Ian MacPherson, parliamentary secretary to the war office announced to the House of Commons yesterday. Up to the end of last May, 76,067 prisoners were taken on the western front, to which must be added at least 8,000 for the month of June, in Mesopotamia, 10,000 prisoners have been taken since July 1, 1916. In Egypt, the number of prisoners taken since July 1, 1916, is approximately 8,739.

On the western front the British armies have captured 434 guns since July 1, 1916. In Mesopotamia, 132 guns have been taken since the beginning of the war, exclusive of those lost at Kut-el-Amara, and subsequently recaptured. In Egypt, 18 guns have been taken.

The territory regained by the British on the western front since July 1, 1916, amounts to 600 square miles.

LINGERING WEAKNESS FOLLOWING DISEASE

Banished by the Wonderful Tonic Powers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

How often victims of disease such as a gripe, fevers, or contagious troubles are left weak, ailing and despondent after the disease itself has disappeared. They do not pick up strength as they ought; remain listless, tired and discouraged. The reason for this is that the blood has been impoverished by the ravage of the disease through which they have passed. Strength will not return until the blood has been enriched. The blood can be purified and enriched by no other medicine as quickly and as surely as by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—to enrich the blood and strengthen the nerves is the whole mission of these pills. Thousands have found them beneficial in bringing strength and energy after disease had left them weak and run down. Miss Hannah Hamilton, Everett, Ont., says:—"After an attack of la gripe I was so run down and anaemic that I could scarcely walk. I had no color, no appetite, and constant headache. The medicine I was taking was doing me no good and I had almost lost hope of getting better. I was asked to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and it was not long until I could feel that they were helping me, and after taking them for a couple of months I was completely cured. I now never fail to recommend these pills to anyone needing a blood builder."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail postpaid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Cobb Takes Lead in the American

Detroit Slugger Overhauls Tris Speaker and Holds First Place

By Courier Leased Wire
Chicago, June 16.—For the first time since May 25, Ty Cobb is leading the American League, the Detroit star displacing Tris Speaker of Cleveland to whom he surrendered championship batting honors last season. The Georgian's average is .353, according to unofficial figures released to-day, and which include games of Wednesday. Speaker is three points behind him. Cobb has driven out 61 hits in 17 games, including twelve doubles, nine triples and one home-run. Roth of Cleveland is the leading base stealer with 17. Chapman, Cleveland, holds the sacrifice hitting honors with thirty. Weaver of Chicago leads in runs scored with thirty six. Boston is showing the way in team batting with an average of .242.

TAKES REFUGE IN REFERENDUM

This, it is Believed, Will be Laurier's Course

Liberal Conscriptors Urged to First Support Such a Step

Ottawa, June 16.—Sir Robert Borden expressed in the Commons yesterday his intention of proceeding with the Military Service bill on Monday. It is expected that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will open the discussion and state the position of the Liberal party on this issue. The Opposition have prepared many amendments to be moved on the second reading of the bill, but the crucial test will come on the proposal to decide the question by referendum. Sir Wilfrid and those in his party supporting this policy are urging the conscriptionist Liberals to support the referendum proposal, at the same time giving them liberty to vote for conscription on the main motion.

The railway problem is dividing interest in Parliamentary circles with the Military Service bill. It is realized that the situation in which the Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Pacific Companies are placed is one which demands prompt action even though the Government is in no way responsible for that situation. At the same time, it is unofficially stated that it is not probable loans will be made or further aid be granted by the Government to those companies as at present constituted. It is possible that the Government may take full possession and control of the two roads until such time as a final determination can be made with regard to the larger question of the future of the two railways. Before either the majority or the minority report of the Royal Commission, appointed to investigate the whole railway situation in the Dominion could be carried out, considerable time would be required for investigation. Consideration would also have to be given to the effect upon the credit of the country, of the assumption of such heavy obligation as would be involved in nationalization on the scale proposed by Commissioners Drayton and Ackworth. It may be that later on, when conditions as to the war become clearer, the larger question can be dealt with more intelligently and more securely than at the present time.

It is understood that the five or six new Senators will be appointed by the Government within the next few days. The Senate has adjourned until Wednesday next, and it is expected that the new members of the Upper Chamber will have been appointed by that time and will be introduced and take their seats that day.

Mrs. Jarvis Says Dr. Cassell's Tablets Cured Her Delicate Child When Nothing Else Could

Mrs. Jarvis, Box 286, Penetang, P.O., Ontario, writes: "It is a pleasure to tell you what Dr. Cassell's Tablets have done for my baby. When only five months old he fell ill, and though I had medical advice for him he got worse. I tried several special foods, but none of them would stay on his stomach, and he became so thin that he seemed just skin and bone. He only weighed 10 lbs., and we never thought he could live. But chancing to hear of Dr. Cassell's Tablets I got some for baby, and am thankful I did. He is a bonny boy now, quite cured, and weighs 25 lbs. at twelve months old."

A free sample of Dr. Cassell's Tablets will be sent free to you on receipt of 25 cents for mailing and packing. Address: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., 10 McCaul-st., Toronto.

Dr. Cassell's Tablets are the surest home remedy for Dyspepsia, Kidney trouble, Sleeplessness, Anemia, Nervous Affections, Nerve Paralysis, Palpitation, and Weakness in Children. LEONARD BORN WITH AMBITION TO FIGHT

Benny Leonard always wanted to be a fighter. There never was a time, except once, that he wanted to be anything else. He was raised in a fighting neighborhood in New York city, where a fighter was king. The germ of the world's championship was born in little Benny's breast in early childhood when he stood with the rest of the gang, open mouthed with admiration, while pugilistic stars of the day swaggered past.

"Who's dat feller?" little Leonard asked.

"Sh-h-h! Dat's Leach Cross, greatest fighter in the world."

"Who's dat feller?" Benny asked the next day of another admiring throng that trooped along after a grinning, cross-eyed lad.

"Sh-h-h! Dat's Knockem Out Brown, de greatest fighter in the world."

So Benny Leonard decided to become a prize-fighter; they were the greatest "fellars" in the world.

A kind uncle gave the Leonard family of five boys a set of boxing gloves and the whole family started out to become champions. The boys set to and merrily battled away with each other and the whole neighborhood. Each block had its champion. Soon Benny was the acknowledged champion of his own block—Ninth street and Avenue C. The vacant space in back of the Silver-Heel A.C. was converted into a battle ground, and it was here that Benny won his first championship and his first purse. He received 30 cents for whipping Joe Fogarty, the champion of Sixth street.

Benjamin Leiner—his true name—was born April 7, 1896. He is 21 years of age. There are five boys in the Leiner family and three girls. Benny lives at home. The love that binds this family together is remarkable. All the "mother stuff," as it is called, that you hear concerning Leonard is not the least bit faked—but is entirely true.

Benny Leonard began boxing five years ago and has fought over a hundred battles. He is absolutely unmarked and looks most unlike the general impression of a fighter.

He has been outpointed a few times—notably by Johnny Kilbane, Johnny Dundee and Freddie Welsh, and has been knocked out twice. Joe Shugrue and Frankie Fleming stopped him a few years ago in four rounds each. This was the only time he thought of quitting.

Always remarkably fast and clever he suddenly developed a punch two years ago, when he knocked out Joe Mandot. He attributes his wallop to a siege of outdoor life that he underwent to increase his strength.

Benny says that his brother Charlie, who was amateur champion featherweight, taught him the left-hand body punch that beat Welsh.

Leonard praises Welsh's remarkable cleverness. He changed his style of fighting six times during his bout in attempting to fool the wily old champion.

"I hope that I will be as good as Welsh after I have fought as many years as he has," said Benny.

Leonard bought Liberty bonds with the money he received in winning the title, and will enlist in a coast defence branch of the service.

He says that he will fight anyone up to 140 pounds, and that he can make 128 pounds himself if necessary.

He was sick the night he fought Richie Mitchell, and was surprised to win so easily.

Leonard is a rare combination of brains, speed, skill and hitting ability, and will be champion for a long time.

BRITISH SCORE FURTHER GAINS AT BULLECOURT

Further Slice of Hindenburg Line Taken by Haig From Foe

HEAVY CASUALTIES

London, June 16.—Field Marshal Haig has taken another bite into the Hindenburg line, and has captured a section of the famous German position north-west of Bullecourt. The British advance in this region is the first determined one made there since the end of the sanguinary fighting which resulted in the capture of the town of Bullecourt by the British, and is in the direction of Hendecourt-lez-Cagnicourt. The Germans resisted the British stubbornly, but finally yielded, after suffering heavy casualties.

In Flanders the British have extended their gains astride the Ypres-Comines Canal in the direction of Comines, and in the region of Messines, toward Warneton, on the Franco-Belgian border. One hundred and fifty prisoners and a number of machine guns were taken.

Since Jan. 7 the British have succeeded in occupying the German first line trenches from the river Lys to the River Warnave, and have advanced their line on a seven-mile front from 500 to 1,000 yards. British officials admit a withdrawal of the German front-line between Ypres and Armentieres east of Messines as announced by Field Marshal Haig Thursday.

The campaign in Belgium gives signs of developing into one of the most important of the war. The Germans apparently are unable to resist the pressure being constantly applied to them, and are being forced back at a comparatively rapid rate.

Present Strategic Position

The military correspondent of the Westminster Gazette, discussing the recent strategic position, says: "There is a great military road in Belgium from the west through Ypres. There is another great road from the west through Armentieres along the valley of the Lys. These roads converge at Menin, which is an important railroad as well as a road centre. The Wytschaete Ridge lies in the angle between these roads, which its possession commands. These geographical facts make it clear why the Germans fought so long to gain possession of the ridge and were willing to pay for it a price equal to that which they were willing to pay for Verdun, if their entire losses around Ypres be included.

"By entering the ridge impregnable, they believed they had barred and bolted the front door into Belgium finally. But the ridge served another purpose. Together with the bastion of La Bassée it formed a cover stiffening the German right wing. Everything on the enemy's west front depended on the right wing remaining secure. Without Belgium as a military base the German campaign could not go on."

SUNDAY SCHOOL. Lesson XI.—Second Quarter, For June 17, 1917.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John xx, 1-7b. Memory Verses, 15, 16—Golden Text, I Cor. xv, 20. Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

As the next lesson will be the quarterly review, we must endeavor to summarize the last two chapters in this lesson. It may be a little difficult to arrange all the events of the resurrection day and of the forty days before His ascension in their correct order, but that is a grand and comprehensive saying in Acts 1, 3, "He showed Himself alive by many infallible proofs." Then in John xx, 31, the reason of John's gospel, "These are written that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing ye might have life through His name." In His great prayer He said to His Father, "This is Life Eternal that they might know thee, the only True God, and Jesus Christ whom Thou hast sent" (John xvii, 3). It is a love forevermore, has the keys of hades and of death and has all power in heaven and on earth (Rev. 1, 18; Matt. xxviii, 18), and it is for us to show these facts in our lives that others may know Him too. It does seem an amazing thing that even Peter and John had not received any of His sayings that He would rise from the dead on the third day (verse 9), though he had again and again so plainly said (Matt. xvi, 21; xxv, 23; xx, 18, 19). Neither had Mary and Magdalene nor the other women received these truths, with the sole exception of Mary of Bethany.

How wonderful that He should appear first to Mary Magdalene and call her by name! (Mark xvi, 9; John xx, 16). His reason for not allowing her to touch Him is so clearly and simply stated in xx, 17, that we cannot but wonder that it does not satisfy every one. The other women met Him a little later and held Him by the feet and worshipped Him (Mark xviii, 9, 10), so that between those two appearances He must have been to His Father and returned. "Between His death and resurrection He was surely with the Father, according to Luke xxiii, 46, but He was on His way to His Father in His resurrection body when He appeared to Mary and called her by name. Some time that day He had a special interview with Peter, then the walk to Emmaus with the two, and in the evening He appeared in the midst of those who were gathered in the upper room with the disciples for the feast of the Jews. He showed them His hands and His side and twice said, "Peace be unto you" (xx, 19, 21). He also commissioned Peter to go in His name and "preach the forgiveness of sin" (Luke xxiv, 47, 48). It was on that evening that He said, "A Spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see Me have; handle Me and see that I am Myself." And He ate a piece of broiled fish and honeycomb before them (Luke xxiv, 39-43).

There followed a whole week of peace because He was not with the others that evening. But a week later Jesus came again and with the same "Peace be unto you" and asked Thomas to do just what he had said to the others he would need to do before he could believe that Jesus was risen from the dead. He saw and believed and exclaimed, "My Lord and my God." Jesus said, "Blessed are they that have not seen and yet have believed" (xx, 24-29). "We should walk by faith, not by sight, for it is as he believes that we see (John xi, 40; I Cor. x, 13). In chapter xxi we have the record of the seven who went fishing, led into it by Simon Peter, perhaps because they were hungry, had no money and it may be that they had not seen the Lord for some time. Well, their toll was fruitless, for they caught nothing. So it is always without Him—nothing in the morning—some one called from the shore, "Have ye any meat?" and they had to answer, "No." At his bidding they cast the net on the right side of the ship and caught 153 great fishes without breaking the net. Then John recognized the Lord.

When they came ashore, before they brought the fish that they had caught, they found that their need had been anticipated, and they saw a fire of coals with fish laid thereon and bread. And Jesus said, "Come and break your fast." Greater faith in Him might have saved them the night of fruitless toil, for the blessing of the Lord maketh rich, and it addeth nothing thereto (Prov. x, 22, R. V.). It was at that time Jesus three times asked Simon Peter, "Lovest thou Me?" perhaps because of his threefold denial, and gave him the three repeated command, "Feed My sheep and My lambs." He also told Peter by what manner of death he should glorify God, reminding us of Paul's determination that Christ should be magnified in his body either by life or death (xii, 18, 19; Phil. i, 20). As Peter was named what His plan for John was, Jesus replied, "If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee? Follow thou Me" (xii, 24).

The following verse makes it plain that Jesus never meant death when He spoke of Paul coming. Many are so much concerned about others in need of following Jesus fully themselves. Note that whether it was receiving Mary, or the fearful disciples, a doubting Thomas, or the disappointed fishermen, the care for all was the expectation of Jesus Himself.

MINOR LEAGUES MAY SUSPEND

Appeal From President of Three I Circuit for Concerted Action

THIRTEEN LEAGUES

Urged to Close Season Owing to Weather and the War

By Cyndee Leased Wire.

Chicago, June 16.—Suspension of thirteen minor leagues operating below Class A, classification, is urged by President A. R. Tearney, of the Three I league, in an appeal to the leagues executive, asking them to act concertedly.

The war and the unfavorable weather conditions will make this action necessary, president Tearney believes.

The Three I league, one of the oldest and best known of the minors, met in special session here to-day, formally to consider suspending after the fourth of July. All of the clubs have lost heavily because of inclement weather. The financial situation of the Three I league reflects the condition of all the minor organizations according to President Tearney, who made a personal canvass of the situation.

ATHLETICS STILL FLOURISH IN U.S.

America, Though Grappling With War Problem, Has Time For Sport

New York, June 16.—That athletic training and sport are not entirely eliminated by either war or military drilling is being demonstrated frequently these days both at home and abroad. Reports from the front and at the various training camps carry a repeated mention of athletic contests, both team and individual, and the daily physical exercise necessary to harden the men for the more serious work of modern warfare.

The salient feature of the New Army he says is its sporting side. Games of all sorts appeal irresistibly to officers and men alike and he describes as especially pleasing their fraternizing daily in the sports arenas. He emphasizes the fact that while absolute equality is observed in the several areas, no lack of discipline is shown or attempted by the enlisted men while away from the athletic fields.

Auto-intoxication means self-poisoning, caused by continuous or partial constipation, or insufficient action of the bowels. Northcliffe in Washington

Washington, June 16.—Lord Northcliffe, co-ordinating head of all the British war missions in this country, paid an official call yesterday on Secretary of State Lansing. Lord Northcliffe explained that he had been designated by the British war council as the head of all the special invited missions with full power to direct their activities, negotiate with American officials and report to the various ministers at home.

RETREAT ADMITTED.

Berlin, June 16.—Retirement of German forces at two points on the "front in Belgium," is reported in today's official statement. The Germans were pressed back by the British between Hollisbeke and the region of the river Douve, and also torties working in the interest of the southwest of Warneton.

RAISING BRITISH ARMY IN THE U.S.

Swarm of Volunteers Followed Opening of Recruiting Last Week

CAMPAIGN IS PLANNED
Efforts to be Put Forth to Enlist all Britishers

It is estimated that there are half a million British subjects in the United States, and that one-tenth of them are of military age and fitness. This takes no account of course, of British and Canadian-born citizens who have become naturalized Americans, many of whom will, no doubt, be selected in the first draft. The half million are British subjects who are liable to whatever laws Great Britain may make for carrying on the war, and they are liable to conscription if they fall from any part of the British Isles or from British Dominions which have adopted a compulsory measure. It is not proposed that they shall be violently hauled from the United States and sent to the colors. This is not considered necessary at present, and it is believed that it will not become necessary, because these British subjects have now been given an opportunity to come forward voluntarily and enlist—an opportunity that they did not have before last week.

British Recruiters in New York
On that day a British flag was hung out of a window on Broadway. A couple of men in khaki stood at the door and an official notice announced the premises as a British recruiting station, probably the first one ever opened on American soil. In charge of the recruiting is Brig.-Gen. W. A. White, who saw service in France, but was recalled to become Assistant Director of Recruiting at the War Office. At the beginning of the war he was stationed in Canada, and was active in raising the first Canadian contingent, which he accompanied overseas. Gen. White believes that there will be many thousands of British subjects in the United States enrolled at the various recruiting stations which will be established in the leading American cities. A special campaign will be made by leading British and American citizens to enrol eligible British subjects; in case of districts where there is no regular British recruiting station any British subject who desires to enlist may apply to the nearest American recruiting office. There he will be examined, and if passed will be sent at once to some designated central depot in the United States or Canada.

formerly residing in the United States have already made their way into the British army, either by way of Canada or by shipping directly to the Old Country. Their patriotism is something that ought never to be forgotten, for the men who thus enlisted had to surmount obstacles that those who were in Canada at the beginning of the war never encountered. Here the recruit offered himself, and if he passed his medical examination he was at once placed upon the roll, and the Government undertook to look after him from that moment. In the United States, however, there was no medical board to examine him. It was against the law for British subjects to be recruited in the United States, while the American Government remained neutral. The Briton or Canadian who wanted to "do his bit," had to pay his expenses to Canada or whatever part of the Empire he desired to reach, and after applying for enlistment he was obliged to pay his own expenses back to the United States if he desired to return to his former employment.

They Were Not Slackers.
In many cases his former employment was no longer open to him. Instances of British subjects winding up their affairs in the United States resigning lucrative positions or selling out interests in prosperous businesses in order to enlist, and later on finding themselves unable to qualify were by no means rare. Some of these loyal subjects felt they had not been fairly treated, and no doubt they would urge others desirous of enlisting to proceed cautiously. They deeply resented being called slackers and between staunch pro-Americans who did not understand their circumstances, and pro-Germans, they must have had an unhappy time. Now they have the opportunity that they have sought, to offer themselves openly, and if they are rejected to have the fact known among their neighbors. It is likely that some who were rejected earlier in the war may now be accepted owing to the modification of some of the earlier physical standards.

Men Without a Country
On the first day in New York there were 250 men accepted which augurs well for the success of the campaign. Gen. White gives it as his personal opinion that those who, after ample opportunity to report, continue to evade their responsibility may find themselves deprived of their civil rights as British subjects. They may indeed, be men without a country. The United States, with a measure of conscription in force, will not welcome able-bodied slackers from the land where they are making their lives. Already some Continental countries have taken similar action. The French citizen, for example, who failed to report when his class was called out, will be no more a French citizen after the war was declared. He is not likely to value his allegiance. Among those who have been accepted in New York are now in Canada or on their way here are several actors, editors and professional men. It has not yet been suggested that they be mustered in distinctive battalions and going down the old Caping factory hill, when the first car put on speed and the second car could not follow the lights and it turned turtle into the ditch. Mr. Osborne jumped and cleared the car and sustained a broken leg in two places. Mr. Wooley was under the car and unable to free himself, until help came, roused by their cries. Mr. Wooley was badly shaken, but other wise was not injured. Mr. Osborne was taken to the Brantford General Hospital to have his leg cared for there. The car needs a few repairs, such as windshield, etc, but was able to be towed to the garage on Sunday. This was the second car to turn turtle here in a week.

Miss Helen Beemer of Winona, was home for the week-end.

Mr. N. L. McCammon is spending a few days with Mrs. McCammon, who is visiting her father, Mr. Lamont.
Misses Beulah Scott and Violet Evans, spent Sunday with friends and relatives in Hamilton.

At the close of the evening services in the Baptist church last Sunday, twenty-two candidates for church membership were baptized. Several more will be baptized next Sunday evening. About fifty in all have been accepted for baptism.
Mr. Roy Patterson of St. Thomas, spent Sunday in town.

Auto Turns Turtle.
What might have resulted in a fatal auto accident happened last Saturday evening about ten-thirty, when a car turned turtle. Mr. William Woodley and Mr. and Mrs. Osborne and children had come into town early in the evening and Mr. Woodley intended having the lights on his car fixed, as they were out of commission. For some reason, he was unable to have this done, so was without lights on his car to return home. Mrs. Osborne and the children preferred going home in a car that the men were going to follow and both cars started homeward.

They were just leaving the town behind and going down the old Caping factory hill, when the first car put on speed and the second car could not follow the lights and it turned turtle into the ditch. Mr. Osborne jumped and cleared the car and sustained a broken leg in two places. Mr. Wooley was under the car and unable to free himself, until help came, roused by their cries. Mr. Wooley was badly shaken, but other wise was not injured. Mr. Osborne was taken to the Brantford General Hospital to have his leg cared for there. The car needs a few repairs, such as windshield, etc, but was able to be towed to the garage on Sunday. This was the second car to turn turtle here in a week.

Dr. A. L. McCrimmon, of McMaster University, Toronto, is to speak in the Baptist church, on Friday evening, on "The German Menace." He is one of Canada's foremost speakers and it is expected that a large number will be present. Special music by the choir and solos by T. C. Savage. Dr. O. H. Duncombe will be chairman. An offering will be taken and will be divided between Dr. McCrimmon's expenses and the educational work of McMaster University.

The Misses Roberts of Brantford, spent Sunday with Mrs. F. G. Wilcox. Mr. Hubert Walker of Brantford, is spending a week with his brother and sister here.
Mrs. Chas. Twichel of Clinton, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. R. Forbes.

Mr. Duff Perney of Toronto, was calling on old friends last Saturday. Miss E. Whittaker of Hamilton, was visiting old friends in town last week.

Several from here are attending the Norfolk Baptist Association, being held at Tyrell this week.

Maxwell Touring Car

The most popular Maxwell Model—a complete, high quality car. There is an abundance of comfort and seating space for five passengers. The illustration shows the attractive appearance. Fully equipped—including electric starter and electric lights, $890 f.o.b. Windsor.

The world's championship touring car is the Maxwell. Its right to the title is based on a recent performance that far exceeds all prior records for endurance and sustained speed. Formal certificate by the American Automobile Association—a body that has never stood sponsor for a doubtful feat—is proof of this new world's record. The Story:

On Nov. 22 1915 a Maxwell car began its endeavor to surpass the American non-stop record of 12,404.9 miles.

The car was a stock touring model—verified as such by the American Automobile Associations' technical experts.

On Jan. 5, 1916, with motor still running in perfect order, the run was publicly ended with a record of over 22,023.3 miles.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

With the upward tendency in cash wheat prices during the week, flour again was quoted higher by some of the large milling concerns. Demand for millfeeds is lessening now that abundant grass is available for livestock. Sugar prices are in somewhat weaker position owing to the continued good reports of production on the island of Cuba. Demand for sugar throughout Canada is light at present, but with the approach of the fruit-preserving season it is anticipated a heavier demand may put greater firmness into the market.

Advances in prices have not been arrested by a noticeable slackening in trade. However, the increases have not been so apparent in the more staple grocery lines, but rather in some of the commodities that are a necessary part of the stock-in-trade of every wholesaler. Butter dishes, milk powder, maple syrup, chorizo of lime, jams and jellies are among the lines affected. On the other hand, there are declines in the price of butter and cheese. Eggs were in steady market, but with the increasing production it is anticipated that lower prices will prevail in that commodity also. The naming of the price which the purchasing commission of the British Government is prepared to pay has had the effect of causing the cheese market to steady down.

There has been a slowing up in trade quite generally during the past two weeks and various reasons are assigned. One of the theories advanced is that there is uncertainty over the conscription issue. It is pointed out that retailers are of the opinion that with considerable numbers of men taken from civilian life there will be less demand for grocery commodities. Another reason given is that retailers are already carrying fairly heavy stocks and have enough to take care of their trade for some little time.

Laugh When People Step On Your Feet

Try this yourself then pass it along to others. It works!
Says there is no excuse for cutting corns and inviting lockjaw.

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn can harmlessly be lifted right out with the fingers if you will apply directly upon the corn a few drops of freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.

It is claimed that at small cost one can get a quarter of an ounce of freezone at any drug store, which is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callus without pain or soreness or the danger of infection.

This simple drug, while sticky, dries the moment it is applied and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding tissue.
This announcement will interest many women here, for it is said that the present high-heeled footwear is putting corns on practically every woman's feet.

THE MAELSTROM

By Frank Froest

Late Superintendent of the Criminal Investigation Department of New Scotland Yard. (Copyright)

Continued from Fridays Issue. Cincinnati seemed unperturbed. "So you're hunting up Ling. What's he been doing? On my soul, I wish I could help you. I don't like Ling."

"There was a moment's silence. Then Foyle twisted his swivel chair and lifted one of a row of speaking tubes behind him. It was a simple, undramatic action, but somehow the "con" man's pulse beats quickened. The superintendent paused with the tube in his hand.

"You've got a clean sheet, of course?" he asked, and his voice, though quiet, was threatening. "Nothing we can hold you for? Or shall I put a wire through to Rome and Paris and New York?"

Now there had been incidents in Cincinnati Red's career, as the police of every professional crook, whose the law had not claimed the penalty which was its due. It sometimes happens that only the most grave of a series of crimes is selected for the public legal punishment. There were cases that still might be proceeded with against the "con" man if the blue-eyed superintendent chose to induce his international colleagues to face the cold ashes together.

"Don't rush a man," protested Cincinnati Red a little less coolly. "I was saying that I'd help you if I could."

"Then get down to it," snapped Menzies harshly. "You'd better talk if you know. We're in a hurry."

"The sweat box" is an institution unknown in English police circles. Nevertheless the "con" man found certain similarities in the conduct of the swift and relentless examination of the two detectives. They gave him little time for invention even had he been disposed to mislead them. But like most of his type, he puts his own skin first even if it came to betraying an acquaintance into the hands of justice.

"Guess I'll have that drink after all," he said. He swallowed the draught Foyle handed him in a quick gulp. "I'll trust you not to let any of the boys know I have said anything," he declared. "I saw Ling about a week ago, and I've known him had something big on for some months. You gentlemen know that I used to have considerable dealings with him. He'd shoot on sight if he guessed."

"You were one of the layers down in that forged circular note stunt of his," remarked Menzies. "Yes, we know all about that. Five years you got in Paris, wasn't it?"

"Three," corrected Cincinnati. "You'd have thought he went on with more bitterness, that he'd have let me in on the ground floor of any fresh job, seeing how I had the brunt of that. If it hadn't been for an accident we'd have made a pile. But no. He said they were full up."

The two detectives exchanged glances. Cincinnati Red, clever man though he was, had always been viewed with a certain amount of not altogether unjustified distrust by his associates in the underworld. The phrase in the letter warning Gwennie not to trust Cincinnati too much occurred to them.

"A lucky thing for you, too," observed Foyle.

"Well, whatever the job is Gwennie Lyne is in it. Ling said he might have to lay close for a bit, but there might be a chance for me to sit in the game later on. That was to sweeten me, you bet. He wanted me to keep in touch with Gwennie—she lives down at Brixton now."

"What address?" asked Menzies.

There was nothing to be gained by giving Cincinnati Red any sort of a hint as to how far they were able to check his story. He gravely wrote down the address—the correct one—given by the "con" man.

"Well," went on Cincinnati, "it's no good asking me what the job is because, honest injun, I don't know"—"you'll be more clear on that than I am. All I know is that it's a big thing."

"Do you know a Miss Olney—"

Miss Lucy Olney?" Cincinnati shook his head. "Never heard the name before."

Two pairs of eyes were watching him closely. The chief inspector gave a slight cough into his mustache. So far the swindler had been convincingly plausible, and if he were more deeply involved in the mystery than he appeared to be, he had taken a cunning line. "How did you come to take a flat in Palace Avenue?" demanded Foyle.

"Well," said Cincinnati slowly, "I don't know there was any special reason why I should take it there more than anywhere else."

"Answer the question—quick," demanded Menzies; "don't talk round it."

"It was Ling who told me the place was to let."

"Ah. And I suppose you got your references from him?"

"That's so. But don't you run away with any delusions Mr. Menzies. I've paid my rent regularly and honestly." Cincinnati was plainly grieved at the reflection on his honesty.

"We'll take your word. But I thought you weren't very friendly with Ling. Why should he go out of his way to do you a favor?"

Cincinnati shrugged his shoulders. "Oh, it didn't cost him anything, I suppose. He said he might want me to chip in some time, and it was handy for Gwennie and he to know where I was. He used to run up and see me sometimes. That's all there is to it."

"You haven't said how you were to communicate with Ling: Where is he?"

"I don't know where he is. Last I saw of him was when he used to take meals at the Petite Savoy—you know that little restaurant in Soho. He hasn't always been there lately. Sometimes a chap named Dago Sam used to come instead. If I got any urgent message I was to post it to P. S. Charters, Poste Restante, Aldgate."

"H'm." Menzies wrote out the address and looked questioning at Foyle.

"That'll do for the present," said the superintendent. "The point is what are we going to do about you?" He shook his head at the "con" man. "You're an awkward problem, you know."

"You can trust me, Mr. Foyle," said Cincinnati. "I know when to keep my mouth shut. Why, I might be able to help you to get hold of Ling."

"That's decidedly an idea," said Menzies. "Wait a minute." He dashed outside and returned, accompanied by the men who had captured Cincinnati Red. "If you'll get with these gentlemen, Mr.—Whiffen, I'll say politely, 'Mr. Foyle and I will talk things over and see what is to be done.'"

CHAPTER XV. At a Meeting. A half smile of triumph was on Menzies's face as he returned to his seat.

"Ling is a judge of character," he said, with a contemptuous jerk of the head in the direction of the door. "That chap would sell his father and mother and brothers and sisters to save his own skin. Pah!"

"Handle him easy, all the same," exhorted the superintendent. "He's a nasty man to get in a corner. He had a gun on me once in a saloon, and if I hadn't been a quick shot with a beer bottle—well, I wouldn't be talking to you now. Hello! Good evening, Sir Hilary!"

The gaunt figure of the assistant commissioner had entered the room, in his hand a newspaper in his hand. "Good evening! They told me you were here, Menzies. Seen the Evening Comet? They've got a new clue for you. Seems that Grege-Stratton was a defaulting member of the Black Hand. It's true because its special commissioner has found certain calligraphic marks chalked on a pavement which no one is able to decipher. Here's a photograph. Scotland Yard—that's one of you two, I suppose—is extremely reticent and would express no opinion when approached on the subject. Two columns."

"So that tom-fool published it," said Foyle, his eyes twinkling behind his glasses. "He found some boy scout marks about a hundred yards away from the house and came up there full of it. He wasn't quite sure whether it was the Black Hand or the High Binders, but he's certain he's on the track, and he left a photograph for you, Menzies."

"Obliged, I'm sure," said the chief inspector shortly.

"How are things shaping?" asked Thornton.

"Moderate, sir, moderate," answered Menzies. "We've just been talking to a gentleman who may be of some use—but I'm not dead certain yet. He fishes in his pocket and produced some notes. 'We've brushed away a lot of the fog at the beginning of the case,' he went on, 'and we've got something to be confident, but we've got heaps of suspicion to bring against one or two people, and the evidence may come along. It makes it easier, in a way, that some of them are known crooks.'"

Thornton was standing in front of the fireplace, his hands behind his back. He jerked his coat tails to and fro. "I don't follow that altogether. I used to understand that it was easy to run down an amateur than a professional. Surely their experience will help 'em to blind the trail.'"

"That's partly right," agreed Menzies, "but it cuts both ways. I can judge of my difficulties. Now I'm not clear about a lot of things, but I've got ideas on which I've not reported yet because they may turn out all wrong. The joint on which we least clear now is that robbery. It was not the motive of the murder. Revenge is a possibility. Errol, Grege-Stratton's stepson, hated him like poison, and it is clear that the old man dread ed some attempt on his life, though that may have been pure monomania, with no foundation in fact at all."

SIDE TALKS

WHY WE ARE CALM. I've made a discovery. At least it seemed like one to me. The other day I was sitting in the dentist's chair. A weighty decision hung in the balance—whether a tooth should be pulled or kept another year.

"Now I have never in my life had a tooth pulled. And at the idea that that which I often heard other people dread, with that mild sympathy we always feel for other people's troubles, might actually be about to happen to me in the next few minutes, I was simply appalled. It seemed inconceivable. When my mother was a little girl and had been naughty and her father got the switch, she used to say incredulously 'Why you're not going to whip me, not me!' And that was the way I felt about the tooth.

And the Tooth Stayed In. In the meantime the court having tried into the private of the matter, came to a decision. I needn't have it out.

A wave of relief went over me. I felt perfectly happy. To be sure, I should have to have that tooth out next year. And doubtless before my death I should have to have many more teeth out. But it didn't bother me one mite. In fact so far as my feelings were concerned, that person who was to have her tooth out next year was quite another person.

Now I'm not clear about a lot of things, but I've got ideas on which I've not reported yet because they may turn out all wrong. The joint on which we least clear now is that robbery. It was not the motive of the murder. Revenge is a possibility. Errol, Grege-Stratton's stepson, hated him like poison, and it is clear that the old man dread ed some attempt on his life, though that may have been pure monomania, with no foundation in fact at all."

LADIES' DRESS. By Antabel Worthington. Rather quaint and old-fashioned in inspiration but ultra-modern in style, No. 8289 is just the type of dress for wear in the summer if it is made up in some sheer cotton material. The waist is in surprise effect and has an enormous shawl collar which almost hides the entire upper part. It is cut in fanciful outline, partly rounded and partly pointed, and hangs in full ripples. The sleeves are long and very full and they are gathered into full, in round or square outline which fall over the hands. The skirt is as easy to make as it is pretty. It is a one piece gathered skirt with three graduated tucks and it has a slightly raised waist line. A separate belt of ribbon makes an attractive finish at the waist line.

Figured or striped voiles, dimity, organdie, lawn, crepe de Chine, washable silk, foulard or taffeta are suitable materials for this frock.

The lady's dress pattern, No. 8289, is cut in five sizes—34 to 42 inches bust measure. Width at the lower edge of skirt is 2 1/2 yards. As on the figure the 36 inch size requires 10 1/2 yards of 27 inch material, 1 1/2 yards of 30 inch contrasting material, 4 1/2 yards of insertion and 1 1/2 yards of ribbon.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents to the office of this publication.

COOKED MEATS. Wipe the meat with a wet towel, dredge on all sides with salt, pepper and four sprinkles flour in roasting pan, put in rack and place meat on it; place in a very hot oven for a few minutes, to brown the flour in pan, and then add hot water enough to cover bottom of pan; close the oven and in about 10 minutes open and baste the meat with the gravy, and as soon as one side is brown, turn and brown the other side. The heat for roasting must be very great at first, to harden the albumen and thus keep in the juices. After the meat is roasted over it is not necessary to keep up so great a heat, but, of course, for rare meats the heat must be greater than for meats well done. Putting salt on fresh meat draws out the juice, but by using flour a paste is formed and keeps in the juice; never roast meat without a rack, as water makes it soggy and loses its flavor. Lamb should be cooked 1 1/2 hours, veal 2 1/2 hours, pork 3 1/4 hours. Ten minutes before serving meat turn the gravy in a saucepan, skim off any fat, and set some of the man Elia, but for the child Elia, that 'other me,' there in the background, I must take leave to cherish the remembrance of that young master with a little reference to his stupid channelling of five and six as if it had been a child of some other house and not of my parents."

He Lived the Child He Used to Be. As I write there comes to me a far more beautiful expression of this same thought. Do you remember it in Charles Lamb's essay, 'New Year's Eve.' Let me find it for you. "I know ought of myself," he writes, "no man can have less respect for his present identity than I have for the man Elia. But for the child Elia, that 'other me,' there in the background, I must take leave to cherish the remembrance of that young master with a little reference to his stupid channelling of five and six as if it had been a child of some other house and not of my parents."

PORK CAKE. Pork cake that will keep until the youngest daughter is married. Four eggs, 2 cups chopped pork, 2 cups sugar, 1 1/2 cups molasses, 1-2 pound citron, 1 pound currants, 1 pound raisins, 1 teaspoon clove, allspice, cinnamon, nutmeg, 2 heaping teaspoons of baking powder, flour to make stiff enough for spoon to stand up (pastry flour).

There is neither milk nor water in it. You can put a wine glass of brandy if you like. The older this is the better. I usually make it the first of September and cut for Thanksgiving Day.

POLLY IN DUSTVILLE. Polly's little friends, Feggie and Ruth, called from the woods for flow-ers.

"I can't go until I do these dishes," replied Polly and she was in such a hurry to join them that she only half did the work. The cups and saucers were placed on the shelf dripping. The pots and pans would grow rusty from being put away not dried properly, but Polly didn't care, she didn't like to work. After sweeping the dirt from the centre of the floor into the corner, Polly put on her hat and ran down the walk.

The girls were nowhere in sight. A queer little fellow all covered with dust stopped in front of Polly. He lifted his dirty cap.

"I thought you'd never come," he whispered.

Before Polly could speak several hands grabbed her from behind and whisked her through the air. They carried her to a far-away land called dustville, because the town was so dusty and dirty that it looked as if things had never been cleaned.

"Why do you bring me here?" cried Polly, looking around. Dusty Elf told her they were in a terrible plight, for the little girl who kept their kitchen had gone away and taken all their looking-glasses, and that his people sat around in dust and dirt because they couldn't see themselves.

"Oh, dear, I hate brooms and dishes and housework!" said Polly. But when Dusty Elf asked her why she didn't help them to get rid of Dustville, Polly went into the castle. The walls were thick with spider webs weighted down by dust. The floor was several inches deep in dust. On dusty chairs sat dirty Dust Elves yawning.

It was a terrible sight to see such a beautiful town covered with dust. Polly wondered what she could do to help them. She wandered around until she came to the kitchen. The pots and pans were all rusty. An idea came to Polly, and she quickly secured them until they shone like looking-glasses—then she held one before her companion. When Dusty Elf saw his dirty face he ran for water and soap and when he looked again in the bottom of the pan he was nice and clean. He told the others and they followed his example.

Polly found a broom and before long all the dirt and spider webs were gone. The streets filled with clean water and the streets were clean. Then they all danced around Polly and thanked her for helping them.

"You see, if little girls don't keep their pans shiny we dust Elves can't see how dirty we really are," laughed Dusty Elf and Polly promised to keep her pans always shiny so they could use them for looking-glasses and the hands put Polly down at her gate.

Peggie and Ruth called from the corner when they saw Polly, but Polly shook her head. "I can't go to-day, girls, I have to help mamma." Polly called and she hurried into the house. She told her mamma about the adventure with the Dust Elves and mamma laughed.

Every Saturday morning after that Polly scoured the pots and pans until they shone. She went about her work with a song on her lips, for she was happy to think she was in that way helping the little Dust Elves keep Dustville nice and clean.

THE WORLD OF LABOR

Gleaned From the Exchanges and Other Sources
A Budget of News for Those Interested in Labor

Low wages and intolerable working conditions have forced Knoxville, Tenn., teamsters to organize, and they will demand an immediate wage raise.

After an all-week conference with the Baltimore & Ohio railroad officials, the organized boilermakers on the system have raised wages 4 1/2 cents per hour.

The new wage contract secured by the Typographical Union of Toledo, O., provides for a rate of $28 a week for day newspaper work and $31 a week for night work.

After three weeks' strike machinists employed by the Standard Scale Supply Co., of Beaver, Pa., have returned to work. Their demand for a 20 per cent. wage increase has been adjusted.

The Wagon Drivers' Union, No. 284, of Springfield, Ill., has secured a two-year agreement which raises wages of drivers to $18 a week and of helpers to $16 a week. These rates will date from May 1.

Street railway workers in Winnipeg, members of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America, have as the result of the finding of a board of arbitration under the Canadian Industrial Disputes Act, received an advance in wages which will increase the company's pay roll to the tune of $70,000.

In Quebec City, electrical linemen have secured a substantial increase in wages as a result of the recent strike. The closing down of the Ross Rifle Factory, which threw 2,000 workers out of their jobs, the majority of whom have left the city to secure other situations, has sent house rents down by nearly one half. In all other lines of business there is something doing, and a steady demand for men.

Never in its previous history has Three Rivers, Que., had such an industrial boom as is on at the present time. This growing centre has a large number of industrial concerns which employ altogether several thousand hands. All are working to full capacity, and some are not in a position to accept new orders at the present time. In some lines labor is very scarce. The Wabasso Cotton Company is working to capacity, with 1,400 hands on the pay-roll.

Reports from all the big railroad systems in Canada show that the Brotherhood of Railroad Carmen is now splendidly organized. At one time this organization had hardly any footing in this country but during the last three or four years it has made remarkable headway. All the large centres are now in line some of them up to the 100 per cent. mark, with a splendid string of locals reaching all the way from Portland (Maine) to the Pacific coast.

The International machinists are meeting with splendid success in the campaign now on to unionize all the shops on the Grand Trunk System. Everywhere the railroad locals are increasing in membership rapidly. London and several other points formerly looked upon as almost hopeless propositions are now organized up to 100 per cent. mark. Several special organizers are doing effective work and all over the system the workers are showing that they have recognized to the full that it's up to them to get in line.

It ought not to be necessary for organized labor to appeal to the better nature of the returned soldiers, their own good common-sense should appeal to them direct. If at any time they desire a hearing there is not a central labor body or a local union but what would freely grant it to them. What is needed now is union, and not division—that men in this hour of the nation's need shall so act that every other man may feel that the institutions under which he lives are worth perpetuating. But above all—liberty of the press, of speech and free assembly, that bulwark of British democracy, must be maintained.

The strike of the machinists and iron moulders in Galt is being resolutely maintained, and both organizations are putting up a telling fight, the effects of which are clearly making themselves felt. It is impossible to secure capable men to fill the places left vacant, as labor is too much in demand for self-respecting mechanics to play the role of strike-breakers. The locals of both organizations are in first-class shape, and in a position to wage a real fight for their international organizations. If the bosses want a long fight they can have it, and just as long as they feel that way and are ready to pay the cost they will be accommodated to the full. It's not a very healthy proposition to run up against such unions as the I. A. M. and I. M. U. just now, and the boys will stand by their guns until they have finally won out.

The A. F. of L. organizer in New Glasgow, N. S., reports that many improvements have been made the past few months among the organized workers at the mines in this district. Everything possible is being done in the interest of the labels, the men are demanding union labeled goods. Retail clerks who organized recently are doing splendid work and expect many concessions from merchants in the near future. Employment is steady, and there is a possibility of a shortage of labor this summer. Federal Labor Union No. 14781 succeeded in making a union shop of the Acadia Mines in Helliar, and has a membership of 1,026. This same union made a union shop of the Inter-Colonial Coal Mines, and the work was carried out without a strike. This company employs about 350 men, making a total of 1,375 organized miners in Federal Labor Union No. 14781.

The telephone operators on the government owned system in Manitoba have won substantial increases in wages, shorter work hours, and materially improved working conditions. It will be remembered that as a result of a strike some time ago the strikers returned to work with the assurance that their demands would be taken up immediately and favorably dealt with and they agreed to work until the end of May, when the strike was to be resumed if necessary. The telephone board has now agreed that a minimum rate of wages of $40 a month for the telephone girls shall immediately become operative, with an additional raise of $2.50 every six months until a minimum of $60.00 per month is attained. Hours have been reduced to eight per day all over the system, 203 hours to constitute a month when computing overtime pay. The plant men get an advance of 15 1/2 per cent. The union is fully recognized and many hundreds of girls and other workers in the province have been materially advantaged and incidentally learned the benefits to be derived from carrying the union card.

MENTIONS TO MOTORISTS

Oil in Gasoline Tank
An automobile dealer says that any one who wants to have a fine running motor should put a couple of quarts of light or medium lubricating oil in with every ten gallons of gasoline pumped into the tank. This is particularly efficacious, he says, in the case of a new motor. It will be limbered up in considerably less time and will give better service thereafter.

Cruel Monsters
Says a motor traffic magistrate: "Automobiles are ferocious animals." Bet he caught his judicial finger between the chain and the sprocket teeth, and forthwith limbered the darn thing had bitten him—American Motorist.

After Three Years
In spite of the war, Canadian farmers spent $2,000,000 more for automobiles last year than during the preceding year. The war crop of wheat gave Canadian farmers a large profit, and many of them put their gains into new cars.

Tourists Will Not Fret Over Blowout
Blowout chains are among the latest novelties to be offered the motor tourist. They are designed to pass around the obnoxious tire, closing and holding closed the blow-out gap. With each chain comes an inner patch to be placed over the hole or cut, on the inside of the shoe, with the sticky side next to the casing. On clincher tires a bent lip of the main plate of the blowout chain hooks under the rim to the other side, against the lip of an auxiliary hook. A screw-driver is the only tool needed to apply the device.

Chain the Old Car Up and Put On The Tire
Getting in underneath the car with a jack, when use of such an appliance is necessary, is often accompanied by getting the hands and clothing greasy and dirt stained. Furthermore, some jack handles are likely to fly up, letting the car down with a bang and perhaps causing injury to the motorist. A new type is operated by a chain. When the jack is placed under the axle, hauling on the chain elevates the car, and when the jack is no longer needed it can be drawn out from under the automobile, again by the chain. The jack has a strong cap, affording a good support to the axle and a broad base to avoid upsetting.

Oh! Modest Barney! Thou Art a Patriot
During the New York auto show Richard Kennerdell, chairman of the A. A. A. contest board, announced that the night before the Indianapolis 500-mile race he would give a complimentary dinner to Barney Oldfield, in recognition of the fact that Barney is the veteran of all drivers racing to-day. When Indianapolis cancelled the revival of the 500 it was planned to hold it on the eve of the Chicago race, where Oldfield plans to make his first start next Saturday in his "submarine" racer. Barney called the dinner off in Cincinnati, requesting that it be postponed indefinitely. The "old master" told Chairman Kennerdell: "I would not feel right to have even a penny spent for such an affair now that America is at war."

Chicago Sells 220 Used Cars a Day

The total number of cars sold was

HOW TO KEEP WELL

BY JOHN W. S. McCULLOUGH, M.D., D.P.H., CHIEF OFFICER OF THE PROVINCIAL BOARD OF HEALTH.

LESSONS IN EUGENICS.
IN 1815 William and Mary Dack and their young son, Samuel, came from Ireland and settled in western Pennsylvania. William was a peculiar, silly old fellow, who drank a good deal, stole sheep and other valuables, Mary his wife, and also his cousin, was ignorant, quarrelsome, and would become angry at her husband and leave him for days at a time. This pair proved a bad investment for the United States, and particularly for Pennsylvania. Mrs. Annie Finlayson, investigating for the Warren State hospital, got track of 754 names of descendants or persons who married descendants. Taking out all persons dying at less than 20 years of age, all persons marrying into the family, and all who moved away and were entirely lost track of, Mrs. Finlayson had left 153 descendants of William and Mary, concerning whom she was able to secure fairly complete data.

Of the lot no one was a distinctly good citizen or a force for good in the community. Forty, although mostly of a low order of intelligence, are capable of controlling their emotions and have not been a burden on society. In the second group are seventy-two individuals. The members of this group show evidences of degeneracy, such as shiftlessness, illiteracy, lack of average judgment, sexual irregularity, heavy drinking, quick and violent tempers, and inability to control their emotions.

In the third group are forty-one individuals. Some of these have been in insane asylums, some in penitentiaries, some or other, some in poor houses. The insane have had some form of emotional insanity. They are quarrelsome, quick tempered, violent, and given to sulking. The disposition to leave their marital mates is very marked. Twenty-five were insane, twenty are described as lazy and shiftless, thirty-nine are better, intelligent, and thirty-four are described as ugly and quarrelsome. Thirty were alcoholics, twenty-seven were notoriously sexually irregular, eighteen had a habit of leaving their husbands or wives as the case was.

Of the nine children of William and Mary, Jane and Curtis founded the two worst family trees. Jane married her cousin, a bad man. Curtis married a defective woman from defective stock. The traceable cost to the state for caring for worthless descendants of this pair is $28,354. The actual cost to society has been infinitely greater than that. There is no way of knowing the cost to the state or the value to the state of the members of the family who have moved far away. But the state of Pennsylvania laid up trouble for itself when it allowed William and Mary to move in and unrestrainedly to spawn out a worthless brood.

Two of the eugenic lessons Mrs. Finlayson draws from this family tree: The marriage of cousins produces a large proportion of defective offspring. Highly defective strains ought to be investigated and registered.

The foregoing is an example of what we should endeavor to avoid in Ontario. How are we profiting by lessons of this kind? Everyone knows of some feeble-minded, vicious, drunken, or otherwise, or perhaps some unfortunate half-breed girl in a community, either of whom are propagating their kind and laying the foundation for such a record as that of the Dack family. There are many of the class referred to in this Province. They are steadily adding to our population of undesirable people. Our immigration system of the past has been the same direction just as in the Dack case.

A census of our insane asylums, institution for the feeble-minded, and jails show a large element of foreign population which should never have been received in Canada. A strict medical examination of all immigrants would prevent a lot of this and segregation of the undesirable classes we have as yet to prevent marriage and the propagation of such species would tend to keep our people mentally strong and save the country a lot of money. Think about it! Is it not worth while?

No medical examination of immigrants at the port of entry or on ship-board, especially if the latter is carried on by the ship's doctor, is of much value, because the first is too hurried, and for the reason that the second is made by the official of the steamship company, whose object is to land as many immigrants as possible. The only satisfactory medical examination of immigrants is one made by a thoroughly qualified medical assessor, or medical board of the Federal Government, before emigration, and preferably at certain centres in the native country of the proposed immigrant. In this way only will this country be saved the unloading of defective and diseased people, which has been the curse of the United States. Let us profit by their mistakes.

THE AUTO-OWNER
An auto is the one best bet, if you are entirely out of debt, if you have money tucked away, providing, for the rainy day. But if you're mortgaging your home, that you in pomp and state may roam, and if in roaming thus burn your roubles, fast as you can earn, your auto is a Jonah cart, and some day it will break your heart. An auto is a precious boon, the smoothest thing beneath the moon, if you sit down the street you can look the grocer in the eye, and say within your secret soul, "I haven't put him in the hole." An auto is the thing for you, if when the butcher looms in view, you know you are not owing coin for liver, trust and tenderloin. An auto is a blessed thing, all kinds of comfort it will bring, if you're not dodging the gas-loops who sell you clothes and hats and boots, if you can say in ringing tones, "I owe no plunks or bucks or bones, and I've a package of bang green to blow for oil and gasoline." If you can't put up such a talk, don't hie, can look the grocer in the eye, and say within your secret soul, "I haven't put him in the hole."

SPOTS OF INTEREST AROUND BANFF

There are many beautiful scenic views to be seen in the vicinity of Banff and none more attractive than that of the illustrations below. Apart from the most beautiful mountain scenery in the world to be found around this delightful district Banff holds the distinction of being a very important town in the Canadian Pacific Rockies, and has a large number of attractions.

Natural Sulphur Springs lie a mile west from Bow River bridge, at the base of Sulphur Mountain, on the road to Sun Dance Canyon. It is approached through a small building and a short subterranean passage. The chamber within the mountain was formed partly by a subsidence of the rocks while cooling and partly by water erosion. It is somewhat conical in shape, having a base of thirty-six feet and a height of forty-five.

Two and a half miles beyond the cave and basin, at the foot of Sulphur Mountain, is Sun Dance Canyon. It is said that in olden days the plateau above was a favorite camping place of the Indians. It was here that the copper-colored aspirant of tribal honors passed through the final ordeal of courage—the suspension by the skin of the shoulder-blades, and other tests of endurance—before being admitted to the symbolic rites which signified that the Great Spirit had endowed him with powers essential to the full-blooded brave. Besides the numerous drives the National Park is one of the principal attractions of the village is the museum, maintained by the Government, situated at the north end of the Bow bridge. It is a handsome frame and log structure, finished in rustic design on the outside, and the inside with British Columbia fir and cedar. The building contains the museum, the offices of Mr. Howard Douglas, the Park Superintendent, a public reading and writing room and a dark room with necessary appliances for the amateur photographer. Within the museum are many fine specimens of the flora, fauna and mineralogy, etc., of the mountains, besides private collections of Indian relics, specimens of Indian workmanship and curios. Here too are kept the meteorological records.

Adjacent to the museum are the aviary where a collection of imported pheasants is to be seen, and the Royal North-West Mounted Police barracks.

It is a great tourist centre and all the fascinating spots in the district are accessible by good carriage roads or bridle paths within a radius of three miles are the Hoodoos, Cascade Mountain, Stoney Squaw Mountain, the beautiful vermilion lakes, the animal paddocks, the golf links, and many other delightful spots.

BATTLE FROM

AN IRISH REGIMENT
It was not difficult to get a soldier talking. He was once on the bench on his sitting, and seemed to be in prospect of a quiet chat. He was as frank as his Irish he was bubbling over with humour when he told his "My regiment is the Irish," he said.
"Ah," I said, "You're a soldier then?"
"Deed and I am, sir, eight years in the army."
"Gallipoli, perhaps?"
"From start to finish, a queer-like thing. I've been on the same day two years landed on the Peninsula."
"That's a curious thing exactly to the day?"
"Two years exactly landed on the Peninsula four on the morning of April 'fifteen, and I was past four on the morning of April, 'seventeen. What that, sir, I just was a year in line in France, but the day."
"Then you were in France Somme push?"
"We were there all right a bit of a startier after we got on all right. I was sold. We held a bit of the first day of the push and went over the top. We very far last year. I was appointed with our bit, truth, but the General told me done all right. We got soaking all the same—in in deep dug-outs. This different, since the East we've been pushing forward and we've made the German line."
"We weren't in right of this push. We came good bit. It was queer the old No Mans' Land, we were over the place with the shell holes instead of together, were more getting fewer and fewer up to Old Hindenburg's held that bit of the line two and then went back just a day. Then we went meaning to go over the early morning."
"It must have been about four when our barrage us get into the German line we were no sooner over the Germans put on the rage you ever saw, crack ute. It was better work usual, but it didn't stop in their front trench as was after us; we'd only hundred yards to go. that out as far as we were passing, and then we in second line, where we it must have been about dred yards further on."
"About half way over hit me a terrible smash here, and about ripped my back. The next day my arm was useless and was no good going forward to use my bayonet, so I and strolled back to the trench. There was the stretcher-bearers there, my field-dressing on me took off what straps there on me and I got one p

BATTLE STORIES FROM THE FRONT

AN IRISH REGULAR.
It was not difficult to get this Irish soldier talking. He made room at once on the bench on which he was sitting, and seemed to welcome the prospect of a quiet chat. His speech was as frank as his Irish face and he was bubbling over with good humour when he told his story.
"My regiment is the Royal Dublin," he said.
"Ah," I said, "You're a regular soldier then?"
"Deed and I am, sir, I've done eight years in the army."
"Gallipoli, perhaps?"
"From start to finish. An' here's a queer-like thing. I've been two years exactly on the field. I was hit on the same day two years after I landed on the Peninsula."
"That's a curious thing—two years exactly to the day?"
"Two years exactly to the hour. I landed on the Peninsula at half-past four on the morning of the 25th April 'fifteen, and I was hit at half-past four on the morning of the 25th April 'seventeen. What's more than that, sir, I just was a year in the firing line in France, but not exact to the day."
"Then you were in France for the Somme push?"
"We were there all right. It was a bit of a starter after Egypt, but we got on all right. I mean with the cold. We held a bit of line until the first day of the push and then we went over the top. We didn't get very far last year. I was a bit disappointed with our bit, to tell the truth, but the General told us we had done all right. We got a regular soaking all the same—machine guns in deep dug-outs. This time it was different, since the Easter morning we've been pushing forward steadily and we've made the Germans lean back. We weren't in right at the start of this push. We came up from a good bit. It was queer passing over the old No Mans' Land, but once you were over, the place was different; the shell holes instead of being close together, were more scattered like, getting fewer and fewer as you got up to Old Hindenburg's line." We held that bit of the line for a day or two and then went back for a rest; just a day. Then we went up at night meaning to go over the top in the early morning.
"It must have been about half-past four when our barrage lifted to let us get into the German first line, and we were no sooner over the top than the Germans put on the nearest barrage you ever saw, crack to the minute. It was better work than their usual, but it didn't stop us. We were in their front trench as if the Devil was after us; we'd only about two hundred yards to go. We cleaned that out as fast as we could, see, passing, and then we made for the second line, where we were to stop—it must have been about eight hundred yards further on.
"About half way over, something hit me a terrible smack in the arm here, and about ripped the pack off my back. The next thing was that my arm was useless and I knew it was no good going forward, not able to use my bayonet, so I just turned and strolled back to the first German trench. There was the regimental stretcher-bearers there, and one put my field-dressing on my arm. We took off what straps there was left on me and I got one put under my arm to support it. They told me the bone was broke, and 'deed there was a big enough hole in my arm.

"I legged it back to the dressing station, but I had to sit down half-way beside some of the gunners that had come up. One of them wasn't so busy but that he could give me a drink. My water-bottle had been knocked off me. I was lucky, because it looked as if I'd got in the way of a hail of splinters, all my equipment was in tatters, but the arm was the only wound I had. The Germans began to pay attention to the guns and the nine-twas began to drop round about. I says to myself, "This is no place for me, it's too dangerous beside the artillery. You couldn't see my heels for dust after that. I didn't stop running till I got to the clearing station."
"Was the attack a success?" I asked.
"Our boys were in the second line by the time I had made up my mind to turn back, and I haven't heard that they have been turned out yet. I think you can safely say that the attack was a success the regiment wants a bit of shifting once it's took a hold. The Germans don't hold on worth a damn, once you get in amongst them; they don't attack either, unless they're better off for guns, and have more men than those holding the trench they want to take. I can see our boys giving up some of the strong lines we've taken from them—maybe! It might be that our boys would be driven out of a line—but not for long; they'd be back in a pig's whisper."
"I'm glad to hear you say that." one was forced to say, "and you think our men are better than the Germans, then?"
"There's not a shadda' of doubt about it. Why, sir, even the old Turk is a better sport than the German. In hand to hand work he would put up a better fight over one little bit of trench than we'd have over three or four of the Germans. The only thing that's made the German's last so long is their guns and machines. If they get into a hole in the ground and get well covered with concrete and backed up with plenty of guns, they're all right. But they're no use in the open."
"Do you mean to tell me that you've never got up against good fighting Germans—never had a decent scrap since you got to France?"
"There's some of them that can fight all right, but you seldom see them. I've met one or two in bits of raids. If the Germans have ever scored on us, it's because they've had more guns or something of that sort. That's a thing of the past, though; we've all the guns we want now and they tell me that we've more coming. That's the stuff to give them, sir, guns and tanks and let's get at them with the bayonet and a pocketful of bombs."
"One had to laugh at the earnest way in which this was said, the earnest inflection on "the bayonet and a pocketful of bombs."
"There's one thing that might stop us yet, sir," said the Irish soldier, with a twinkle. Of course, I asked, what it was.
"They say we're running short of Irishmen, sir. That'll be a great want."
And I felt inclined to agree. We can do with as many of his kind as we can get.

NEWS FROM ST. GEORGE

(From our own Correspondent)
The 32nd annual convention of the South Dumfries S. S. Association was held in the Baptist Church on Wednesday, 13th inst., afternoon and evening. The Provincial Association Representative, Rev. C. D. Draper, of Milton, gave two capital addresses on "The Preparedness of the Teacher," and "The Sunday School as a Career." The Rev. W. J. Brandon gave a powerful address on "Soul Power in Sunday School Work" while Rev. G. A. Woodside held the audience in rapt attention on "The Home Factor in the Sunday School." The election of officers for the ensuing year was as follows: Pres., Fred Rosebrugh; vice-presidents, E. Shuert and resident ministers; secretary-treasurer, W. J. Little; visiting superintendent and delegate to Provincial Association, J. McNelly. The various departmental Superintendents were all reached. The thanks of the Association are due the ladies of the Baptist Church for the splendid tea served for visiting delegates and to the quartette of the choir, and the organist, Mr. Leo Herbert, for their very able assistance in filling the programme.
Under the direction of Mr. Sidenius, secretary of Y. M. C. A. Collingwood, the Junior Farmers' Association of this community had a very interesting and enjoyable time on Friday evening the 8th inst. A couple of hours were spent in sports at Victoria Park after which the crowd all went to the Presbyterian Church where addresses were given by Mr. Sidenius of Collingwood, Mr. Brandon, physical director of Y. M. C. A., Montreal, the local ministers and Mr. Barnes, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and Efficiency Test for Boys, and violin solos were rendered by Mr. Joe Campbell. Forty-four of the boys present received Farm Service Badges for farm work during this summer. There will be another meeting held in October for distributing certificates to those who received the badges.
The Red Cross ladies of this village packed on Friday afternoon last, and sent to the Red Cross headquarters in Toronto, 113 sets of pyjamas and 46 pair of socks, and to each of our boys in England and France, a parcel containing handkerchief, pair socks, soap, chocolate, can condensed coffee, candies and soup tablets. This being the work for the month of May.

GERMAN INVENTION FOR QUICKLY DEMOLISHING COTTAGE WITHOUT POWDER

Here is one of the war weapons used by Germany for the destruction of peasants' cottages in the territory they are forced to evacuate. It reminds one of the battering ram used by barbarians of the Middle Ages. The soldier in the photograph is French and his gestures illustrate the way the ram is used by the enemy.
