CHAPTER XXXIV.

"Ten or fifteen pounds. I forgot what it was exactly," Lady Nora answers, confusedly, wondering distractedly what she shall do, and what she will have to pay Isabelle Glover to get the ring back again. "She gave me forty-five pounds for it—twenty on the evening she called to see me, and twenty-five by that check," she thinks, frightfully. "She'll make me pay fifty or sixty pounds for it at the very least! What shall I do?"

"Well, I suppose, mother, since you are so badly off," Dallas says, looking at her with gleaming eyes and a pale, hard, haughty face, "I must not dare to ask you to spend ten or fifteen pounds on getting it back again. Will you however, give me the pawnbroker's ticket for the ring?"

"I—I will. That is—I haven't a ticket. It was money sent me by a friend," Lady Nora stammers, bushing and growing angry as a last resource. "I tell you the ring is perfectly safe, and as soon as I can I will get it back for you. I wish to mercy I had never seen the thing! I had no idea, I am sure, that you would pounce on me in this manner for it!"

"It is exceedingly unpleasant when we are reminded of our wrong and foolish deeds, I know well," Dallas says, gravely and bitterly. "That ring has carried ill-luck with it from the very first. I won't trouble you any longer with my company, mother. I dare say I am making a nuisance of myself. Please tell them to put me down at Albert Gate. By the by, I have not asked you—how is Yolande?"

"Oh, she is very well!" Lady Nora replies, briefly, biting her lip uneasily while she looks at him. "You know Mr. Dormer has been very ill, don't you?"

"No, I have heard nothing about them," her son answers, curtly. "But you saw Yolande?" Lady Nora asks, in surprise, but feeling her way cautiously.

"Yes, I saw her," Dallas says, gloomily.

"And you have heard from her, of course?"

"No; I have not heard from her, of course," he replies, with a cold smile. "Good-by, mother. Give my kind regards to my wife—with another cold faint smile—"that's as near as a penniless husband ought to come, isn't it?"

"But, Dallas, my dearest boy," she says, in her sweet maternal fashion, caressing his arm with her dainty hand in its long, shining, black glove, "surely Yolande has written to you? I am sure I heard her speak of doing so a few days after she saw you?"

"No, she has not written to me," he declares, drawing away his arm from the dainty maternal touch. "But I dare say her time is very fully occupied. Perhaps—with an toy tone in his voice—"when the season is over and she is quite at leisure she will write; she knows the address. You are all going abroad, I suppose?"

"He doesn't know a syllable about the failure; and what good would it do to tell him now?" Lady Nora thinks. "He has trouble enough of his own, poor boy!"

"I am going abroad, dearest," Lady Nora says, softly—"going to Switzerland, I think, with some friends." "I can write from there and tell him all about it. That will be much the better way," she decides, instantly. "I believe Yolande is going into the country as soon as her uncle is able to leave town," she adds, aloud. "I shall tell Yolande I met you—may I, dear?" she asks, timidly. "And, Dallas, my dear boy, you must take this trifle from me—you must indeed, to please me; and some day I hope to do much more for you. I mean to try to help you, my poor boy!"

There are even tears in Lady Nora's eyes, she feels so tender and self-sacrificing just at this moment. But her son puts the offered note back on her lap very decidedly, and touches the little black-gloved, dainty hand with his lips.

"Thank you, madame," he says, with a little of his old graceful, pleasant manner—"I will not. Good-by again. Of course you may tell Yolande you met me, if she cares to hear of me."

He raises his hat, and his bright, tawny, close-cropped hair gleams in the sun, and with a smile of adieu he disappears in the crowd.

CHAPTER XXXV.

On Lady Nora's return home, she finds Mr. Carter waiting for her; and the worthy man—for he is a worthy man—is already on the friendliest terms with Miss Dormer, who is knitting away busily, and talking to him while she knits. Delighted, indeed, he is to discover poor Miss Keren's homely presence in the midst of the aristocratic atmosphere that surrounds his titled fiancée, whom honest John Carter, jeweller, gold and silversmith, and pawnbroker—a very wealthy and respectable man of plebeian antecedents—regards with most slavish, reverence and admiration.

He comes a-wroting with a costly bracelet set with cat's-eye and diamonds in one pocket, and a check for two hundred pounds and a marriage settlement ready for signing in the other.

Something like a lover! Lady Nora thinks so, and feels almost satisfied with her future husband. She accepts the check with an airy grace of indifference when honest John mutters something about "a little ready money, Lady Nora, my dear," and admires the bracelet—which gives her five hundred a year pin-money and provides for her handsomely if she survives him—with calm attention.

"I—hope you are satisfied, Lady Nora," he says, nervously. "I did what I thought was just and fair. The children of my first marriage, you know—I didn't want to make them jealous—"

"Oh, dear, no—not on any account!" Lady Nora interrupts, graciously; and then she smiles sweetly, and taps the enraptured John on one of his big red ears, comparing herself mentally to Titania as she does so. "I think you are very good, and generous, my dear fellow. But you were always that—" with a deep sigh and cast-down eyes. To herself she says with confidence, "I can dress as I please and spend money comfortably. He will never refuse to pay any moderate bills beyond my allowance."

Mr. Carter, thinking painful thoughts are hers, interposes hastily.

"Indeed, I wasn't generous," he says, his honest face reddening with emotion. "For I fell head and ears in love with you the minute I laid eyes on you, Lady Nora, my darling! So there wasn't much generosity in my looking over that mistake, though it was a sad one," he adds, in a low tone, "and a thing I'm sure you wouldn't have done for worlds the minute after you had done it! And—don't ever speak of it again, dear; I can't bear to think of it!"

"Nor can I," Lady Nora rejoins meekly, looking up at him very innocently. "I must have been mad, you know—mad with trouble and worry, and the debts of my poor boy to pay, and—oh, I couldn't tell you all!"

"Yes, dear, I'm sure of it," says honest John.

But for that hateful Lord Pentreath and that more hateful Isabelle Glover, she might now comfortably bury the very memory of that past deed, Lady Nora reflects with angry impatience, one of the most foolish and dangerous things she has ever done among many foolish and dangerous ones.

Three years before, when staying at Cheltenham, Lady Nora found herself in debt to such a degree that she dared not even leave the hotel, as she had not the means of paying her bill, and stayed on week after week, buoyed up by the hope that, as the Viscount and Viscountess Glynn were coming to Cheltenham, things would be made smooth for her.

At the eleventh hour their plans were changed in consequence of Lady Marta's health, and they went to Carlsbad instead. In an evil hour, she used to think, but in a lucky hour, she thinks now, she made the acquaintance of a Mr. Carter, staying, like herself, at the hotel, and she was scornfully amused at the vulgar-looking little man's evident reverential admiration for her, until in her desperate plight she thought of turning his admiration to account.

But for that hateful Lord Pentreath and that more hateful Isabelle Glover, she might now comfortably bury the very memory of that past deed, Lady Nora reflects with angry impatience, one of the most foolish and dangerous things she has ever done among many foolish and dangerous ones.

Three years before, when staying at Cheltenham, Lady Nora found herself in debt to such a degree that she dared not even leave the hotel, as she had not the means of paying her bill, and stayed on week after week, buoyed up by the hope that, as the Viscount and Viscountess Glynn were coming to Cheltenham, things would be made smooth for her.

At the eleventh hour their plans were changed in consequence of Lady Marta's health, and they went to Carlsbad instead. In an evil hour, she used to think, but in a lucky hour, she thinks now, she made the acquaintance of a Mr. Carter, staying, like herself, at the hotel, and she was scornfully amused at the vulgar-looking little man's evident reverential admiration for her, until in her desperate plight she thought of turning his admiration to account.

Harpooning a Monster Rhinodon.

It happened in Florida waters a few weeks ago—the catching of a great fish, weighing fifteen tons, and a shark at that.

The lucky fisherman was Claude Nolan, and he was not out for sharks at all; he was hunting porpoises, with three other men in a stout boat.

The sea was unusually calm, with no more than a smooth swell, and the boat, with its one sail just drawing full in the light breeze, was voyaging in the neighbourhood of Long Key, about a mile from land, when the men caught sight of a queer-looking triangular object standing up high out of the water.

At first they could not imagine what it was; but lowering sail, they paddled with oars slowly and cautiously toward the mysterious object. They got quite close to it before they perceived it was a gigantic fish, asleep apparently at the surface of the water, its huge back fin exposed to view.

Stealthily they brought the boat alongside the sleeping monster, and Nolan, standing in the bow with harpoon uplifted, suddenly drove it with all his might into the body of the fish, a foot or two forward of the fin.

The fish, waked thus rudely from its nap, instantly plunged to the bottom of the sea, and kept on going at a speed of at least sixty miles an hour. So fast did the harpoon-line run out that, to prevent it taking fire by friction, one of them was kept busy pouring water over the roller over which the rope whizzed. Another stood by with an axe, ready to cut the line if a hitch occurred.

Pulled Boat Under Water.

The line was 2,400 feet, nearly half a mile long; and when all of it had run out the fish was still travelling. What saved the men's lives was that the water was not of a great depth. But the staunch boat was bows under scores of times, and they were kept frantically at work bailing to make her stay afloat.

After that had gone on for what seemed an age, the fish showed signs of tiring. It swam more slowly; and then for the first time its pursuers gained confidence of victory. Simply a matter of sticking at the job, and they were bound to win. But the struggle lasted for ten hours before the monster acknowledged defeat and came floating helplessly to the surface, utterly exhausted.

The rest was easy enough. A rope was passed with a sailor's hitch round the creature's tail, and it was towed to Long Key. When it came to rest in shallow water, it roused itself to a final and convulsive effort of resistance, and it was not subdued until fifty rifle bullets had been fired into it.

The prize was won. But even then

Nolan and his men still found themselves in a state of amaze. They did not know what they had caught; for they had never seen or heard of such a fish. Scientific experts from the biological station of the Government Fisheries Bureau at Key West, enlightened them on the subject. They said it was a "rhinodon" or whale shark.

The experts were greatly interested, and no wonder; for the whale shark is rarely seen in American waters, and though not uncommon in the Indian Ocean, specimens are seldom taken.

But the adventure was not over. More was to come, and sufficiently thrilling.

Attacked by Tiger Sharks.

The experts chartered a tug, to tow the dead whale shark to Key West, and all went well until, off Key Vacas, the skipper, L. L. Mombay, saw a big tiger shark coming. Tiger sharks are very numerous in Florida waters; they are man-eaters, attain a length of twenty feet, and are brown in color, with darker spots.

Presently two other tiger sharks appeared, and in a few minutes the sea was alive with them. For two hours the crew of the tug fought them with harpoons and sharp iron fastened to long poles, while hungry sharks leaped at the rhinodon, slid over its huge back, and even ran into the tug, as they strove to get at the dead monster. Those who were wounded were attacked by others of their own kind, and the scene of strife was well-nigh appalling.

At length the tiger sharks were driven off, or were so distracted by the fight among themselves as to abandon pursuit of the tug. But the attack, while it lasted, caused no little anxiety, because it was deemed of great importance to reserve the skin and skeleton of the rhinodon—which, in fact, was the object sought in transporting it to Key West.

On its arrival there it was lifted out of the water, machinery being available for the purpose, and was carefully measured. It was forty-five feet long, with a girth of forty-five feet, and a tail span of twelve feet; it weighed 20,000 pounds.

Under supervision of the experts, its hide was removed and salted, to preserve it and the flesh was removed from the bones, in order that the skeleton might be put together later and mounted for exhibition at the Museum of Natural History in New York.

Attains Great Length.

Great though the size of this fish—it is really a mammal—much bigger specimens have been taken in eastern seas. They believe that the whale shark sometimes attains a length of sixty feet. It is not only the most gigantic of all sharks, but is the largest of existing animals, excepting the biggest whales.

The flesh of the rhinodon captured by Nolan was four feet wide. It could easily have swallowed a man.

The creature is a good deal like a whale. It is dark gray in color, with white spots; it has a blunt head, and its small eyes are near the corner of

Snowy-White Clothes

with this purest, new laundry soap

You can have beautifully clean snowy "washes" with less work, now, and in quicker time.

We've made a new laundry soap that does it. Cleans away stubborn dirt with the least possible rubbing.

And what is more important, it saves your pretty clothes, your choice fabrics. Because it contains no harmful "filler" to rot the cloth.

For the same reason, it is easy on sensitive skin. Does away with unnecessary, unsightly roughening and reddening of your hands. That's something to make washing a pleasanter task.

And, since it is just pure soap, the big bar goes much farther. You'll find that a real economy, too, in a short time.

The name is MOTHER HUBBARD Pure Laundry Soap.

its mouth, which is at the front of the head, and not underneath like the mouths of other species of sharks, around its jaws run ribbon-like plates of minute teeth, ten in a row, and 150 rows in each jaw—about 7,000 teeth in all.

The rhinodon is nearly related to the "great bassing shark" of Northern Atlantic waters—so called because of its habit of lying motionless, perhaps sleeping, at the surface of the sea. Like the hammerhead, it is harmless to man. It attains a length of forty feet, of "cod liver oil."

Forty-One Men Entombed in a Scotch Colliery.

German Government will Support the Proposal to Terminate Passive Resistance—Matters are Quieter in Bulgaria—Gordon Bennett Balloon Race Won by Belgium—Norwegian Ships will Help to Move Canadian Wheat.

MINING DISASTER.
GLASGOW, Sept. 25. Seventy men were entombed when a deep pit at the James Mining Company's colliery, near Falkirk, was flooded to-day. It was feared all would perish but one party of men succeeded in making their escape through a disused shaft. Forty-one are unaccounted for and it is almost certain they are dead.

GERMAN PREMIERS UNANIMOUS.
BERLIN, Sept. 25. It was officially announced this afternoon that the Premiers of the German Federated States at their conference with Chancellor Stresemann today unanimously agreed to the abandonment of the passive resistance programme. But at the same time they expressed their determination to safeguard the unity of the country.

GOVT. WILL HAVE A MAJORITY.
BERLIN, Sept. 25. Support for Chancellor Stresemann in his efforts to bring about a speedy termination of the Ruhr and Rhineland conflict is sufficiently crystallized to warrant the prediction that the Government will command more than a comfortable majority in approval of its former declaration of the Reichstag on Thursday by Chancellor Stresemann. The most convincing argument throughout the extended deliberations of the past forty-eight hours proved to be the official admission that passive resistance has been costing Germany eight quadrillion marks weekly towards the end.

FRANCE IS ANXIOUS.
PARIS, Sept. 25. The political situation in Germany is an aftermath of the decision to abandon passive resistance in the Ruhr is being watched by the French Government with some anxiety in view of the possibilities of a national movement such as one tending to separate Bavaria from the Reich. An outbreak of mild Bolshevism in Prussia is giving fresh impetus to the Separatist movement in the Rhineland.

MEETING OF STATE PARLIAMENT FORBIDDEN.
OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 25. A general order, issued by Adjutant General B. H. Markham, forbidding the convening to-morrow of the special session of the State House of Representatives was signed late to-day on the House members gathering here for the session.

ANOTHER STORY FROM BULGARIA.
PARIS, Sept. 25. Bulgarian telegraphic agency's despatch from Sofia says that the situation in southern Bulgaria last evening was tranquil, and that the communist movement there had been suppressed. It still continues in a few communes in the northwestern part of the country but has fallen in the regions of Ferdinandovo and Berkovitsa.

BELGIUM WINS BALLOON RACE.
BRUSSELS, Sept. 25. Belgium appears to have won the International balloon race for the Gordon Bennett Cup again this year, either with Demuyter, the landing of whose balloon, Belgium, at one o'clock Monday, about the centre of Sweden gives him a distance of about five hundred miles, or with Venstra piloting Prince Leopold, whose fate at the moment is unknown.

NORWEGIAN STEAMERS TO HELP REMOVE WHEAT.
PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 25. Operated by Canadian Companies a fleet of Norwegian steamers has crossed the Atlantic and will engage with the Canadian steamers in getting Western Canada's grain to the eastern market.

ket. There are said to be eight vessels in the fleet and they will materially aid in relieving the blockade which may occur because of the refusal of the United States Association boats to engage in the transportation of the grain.

RESTORING ORDER.
SOFIA, Sept. 25. Order has been restored in a majority of the disturbed districts of Bulgaria, says a semi-official statement.

POINCARÉ'S NEXT MOVE.
PARIS, Sept. 25. Premier Poincaré's next move, in view of Germany's economic surrender, will be to ask the Inter-Allied Reparations Commission to deal with the situation it was indicated to-day. As soon as the German Government officially withdraws resistance orders directions will be sent to General Dégoutie to make the Ruhr occupation as invisible as possible. The action of the German Government is not regarded here as completely clearing the situation in the Ruhr, although the German authorities have officially instructed all authorities that passive resistance to occupation authorities be discontinued.

DIES SUDDENLY.
NORTH SYDNEY, Sept. 20. Paralysis overcoming him while taping the roof of his barn J. T. Power, 74, proprietor of Columbia House, North Sydney, tumbled to the ground and died from the shock at one o'clock this morning. The family includes a son, Dr. J. T. Power, three daughters, Mrs. Henry Smith, and Miss Laura Power of Buffalo, N.Y., and Besse at home and his widow.

REPORTED INSURRECTION IN RUSSIA.
LONDON, Sept. 25. A Reuter despatch from Riga to-day says it is rumoured that masses of insurrectionary peasants are surrounding Moscow and Petrograd. There is no confirmation of the these rumors from any quarters.

SEPTEMBER QUOTA EXHAUSTED.
HALIFAX, Sept. 25. The steamer Devonian, bound from Liverpool for Boston, put into Halifax this morning to land 25 emigrant passengers who were prevented landing in the United States because the September quota had been exhausted. They will remain here to take advantage of the October quota.

TAKING IT QUIETLY.
DUESSELDORF, Sept. 25. The decision of the Berlin Government to cease passive resistance in the Ruhr and Rhineland thus far has not produced a single ripple of disturbance among the population of Ruhr.

WORTH MORE AS WASTE PAPER.
NEW YORK, Sept. 25. A million one mark notes were worth four hundred times as much as waste paper than as currency in New York yesterday. A million marks sold at seven tenths of one cent and for a million one mark notes paper manufacturers would give four dollars.

"Marrying Down."
SHOULD A WOMAN CHOOSE A MAN WHOM HER FRIENDS CONSIDER "BENEATH HER"?

Because an earl's daughter recently married the man she loved, whose relatives happened to be less happily placed as far as this world's goods go, the subject of women "marrying down" has come in for its share of attention.

In these days, when character should count for more than connections, the term "marrying down" is something of a misnomer, but it explains the position, so we retain it. Sentiment and sarcasm have both been bandied about on this question, and sarcasm has won easily.

"Women, as a rule, take precious good care they don't marry down," says the cynic. "The feminine sex is always ambitious."

Is this true? Half a century ago girls' parents certainly looked into a prospective son-in-law's bankbook before they gave their consent to a marriage. Young people, too, imagined they must begin where their parents left off. But times have changed. We can hardly advance now what used to be a truism—that a woman takes the position of her husband—as a general rule. She does so, of course, when she "marries up." But there are many modern cases where a girl keeps her career and holds the position to which she has climbed, while possessing a husband whose earning capacity in no way approaches her own.

Women Who Wait Too Long. Although she may have "married down," as far as finances go, she sees to it that the standard is kept up by her own labour. There are, to-day, an amazing number of marriages where the home standard is set by the woman, and the man does his best to live up to it. There are also an amazing number of thoughtless marriages, where young people begin on nothing and trust to luck that their married lives will work out all right.

We have with us still the girl who wants to marry up, and waits for the chance to do so, spurning—in her set ambition to rise, through her husband

—the honest love of good men. Sometimes she achieves her desire, and not always to her own happiness. More often she waits too long, then rushes into marriage with the only man who happens to propose, rather than be left entirely "on the shelf." She "marries down" in desperation.

It is true that woman is a more adaptable creature than man. She is a copyist rather than a creator, and this very fact helps her when she "marries up."

And, after all, generally speaking, love is still the pivot of a woman's life rather than ambition. She will "marry down" when she loves, in spite of everybody, and the sentimentalists among us like her for doing it. The "dinner of herbs where love is" is worth all the seven-course tables of hores in the world.

A South African Patriot.
Cape Argus: Botha, like other great men, suffered from the inability of many of his own countrymen to appreciate his dominant aim. After the South African War he consecrated himself to the cause of South African unity, and how far he was successful may be, in some measure, gauged from the fact that the most English community in South Africa is the first to honor his memory by a lasting memorial. Of course he made mistakes. But nothing in his life proved that he was other than a sincere South African patriot.

TO PLAY IN ALL CANADIAN BALL BENEFIT.
Cleveland, Sept. 24.—Manager Tris Speaker of the Cleveland Indians, and George Uhle, the Indians' pitching ace, are among several players of the American League who will participate in exhibition games at Peterboro, Canada, October 10, 11 and 12. The proceeds of the games will be turned over to a fund for the benefit of returned Canadian soldiers.

Others who are said to have agreed to take part in the games are Sam Rice and Roger Peckinpaugh of the Washington Nationals, manager of the Washington Nationals, and Leslie Nunamaker, manager of the Chattanooga Club of the Southern Association.

Many people prefer the flavor of uncooked grapejuice to that of the cooked product. Wild grapes can be prepared by either method, and are equally delicious.

TRANQUIL TOIL.
When I begin my daily grind I have a calm, contented mind, I wish for no holiday; I do not wish for no laggard step, I thank the gods I have the pep to, earn my ample pay. I make no moan, I raise no whine, if better jobs, more soft than mine, are held by other jays; I do not envy plutocrats, I herd my blue Angora cats through all the golden days. Unfortunate the man who sighs, who wipes wet teardrops from his eyes, when he beholds his task, who thinks that honest toil's a bore, and wishes he might evermore on downy couches bask. Unfortunate the man who scowls or fills his shack with wretched howls when morning whistles blow, who hates the work he has to do, and grumbles till the day is through, and he may homeward go. I herd my cats on moor and wold, and guard them from the rabbits bold that would their lives destroy; I'm doing something sane and wise, a fine reward before me lies, and I am full of joy. And in the quiet eventide I view my well-spent day with pride, I have not lived in vain; the memory of work enchants, I gather up my seven aunts, and joys in my wain. I do not view my job with dread; I like to live on daily bread that has been earned in sweat; vacations now and then are good, when it is always understand that work's the one best bet.

The Marriage Service.
Two women reformers, Miss Maude Royden and Mrs. Creighton, endeavoured to induce the House of Lords to accept amendments to the marriage service in connection with the revision of the Church of England prayer book.

They proposed to substitute, "Wilt thou love him and comfort him?" for "Wilt thou obey him and serve him?" They also proposed to dispense with the giving away of the bride and with the husband's declaration, "With all my worldly goods I thee endow." They also proposed that the bride should give the bridegroom a ring. All the proposals were rejected by 114 votes to 84.

By Ruth Cameron.

THE GREEKS BRINGING GIFTS.

"Why didn't you stay longer?" I asked a friend of mine who had taken me to call on friends of hers. "She urged you to stay and you were having a good time. I hope you didn't go home on my account."

"Oh, no, my dear," she reassured me. "It wasn't on your account at all. I came home because I know my hostess, and I don't like to risk staying too long."

"Why, she urged you and urged you. She really seemed to want us to stay."

"They Stayed and Stayed."

"Yes," said my friend a bit firmly, "she did. She always does. And then afterwards, she says 'They stayed and stayed. I didn't think they'd ever go,' and stuff like that. I've heard her with other people. I've heard her be so cordial, they were sure she wanted them, and then when they went, I've heard her criticize them. Not for me, thank you. I don't suppose you ever met anyone like that."

I assured my friend that she supposed wrong.

"I have met people exactly like that. And I've met people—essentially like that."

"Did You Ever?"

There's the person, for instance, who draws you out to talk about yourself. She is so interested in the line of work you are doing, or the places you have travelled, or the party you have been to. She says: "Did you ever?" when you tell her anything you hope will make an impression, and widens her eyes in a way that makes you feel at least two paces larger. You expand under the warmth of this appreciation and talk in a way you would never think of talking ordinarily. You have a terrible fear afterwards that you may have been a bit of a bore. But she really was interested, you reassure yourself. And at that very moment, she may be telling someone what a frightful talker you are and how she nearly choked herself swallowing yawns.

How You Imposed on Her.

And then, there's the person who offers to do things for you. "I'm going to be in town and I can do an errand for you just as easily as not. I know how hard it is for you to get in. Just call on me any time." Or: "You know I love children. Do leave the children here some afternoon. It will be a real pleasure to me." Incidentally you take her at her word and presently there drifts back to you some tale about how you imposed upon her.

Beware the Greeks bringing gifts. Inside the gift is often a comeback that will make you wish you had never accepted it.

I can't tell you why they do it. I don't think it's deliberate meanness. I think they just follow the line of least resistance in the first place and flatter or urge or offer; and then go on following the line of least resistance and criticize.

Oddities in the News.

Not Fast Enough.
Lightning was the name of an unsuccessful competitor on a sprint race at Sittingbourne (Kent).

Town Mourns a Cat.
Lincoln's electricity department is mourning the death of the power station cat. An adventurous animal, he was in the neighbourhood of a high tension cubicle when it was being cleaned. Before it was closed he walked into the cubicle, perhaps in dutiful search of mice. It was 11.30 at night. Lincoln's electric lights "gave a blink." The "blink" was the tribute of the town to the passing of a loyal servant.

El Crosses Atlantic.
In a small hermetically-sealed glass bottle a live eel has survived a voyage of about 3,500 miles from New York to Copenhagen. Dr. J. Schmidt, of Copenhagen Laboratory, Copenhagen, says the bottle was corked and waxed and enclosed in a tin cylinder such as is used in the United States for sending natural history specimens by post. The eel thus made its voyage in darkness and without any renewal of air.

Profitable Purchases.
The recent story of the discovery by a Walworth woman of six Treasury notes in the lining of a straw hat which she bought for sixpence is outdone by the experience of a man who bought an old Bible from a stall in Farringdon Road, London. After taking it home he found five £10 notes concealed within its pages.

100 Miles Walk to Court.
A young man out of work told the Scarborough magistrates that in order to answer a summons he had walked from Manchester, 109 miles.

A Fisher of Men?
So enamoured was a woman visitor to Delgely with the beauty of a salmon fish displayed in a shop window that she paid half a crown for it and placed the coveted trophy in her hat.

Costume for a House.
A man advertised in a West of England newspaper that he will give a woman's costume, made to measure, or a suit of clothes to anyone who can find him a vacant house.

What a Game!
"A Gamble" was the signature of a police sergeant on the charge sheet at Kingston Police Court, when a boy entered charged with gaming.

A Pity for France.
Detroit News: Naively the Temps declares that the fatal mistake of Great Britain was to promise to pay the United States in gold. Probably nothing Britain ever has done has won more considerable respect in the United States than that self-same promise to repay in gold what she had borrowed, and that without reference to collecting what, in turn, was due her. France, as the Temps might have pointed out, certainly has steered wide of Britain's "blunder," which probably is a pity for France.

CHEVENNE, Wyo., Sept. 24.—(A.P.)—Boy Scouts of Chevenne have what is declared to be the finest scout lodge in the world. It cost $20,000, and was the gift of Harry P. Hyades of this city. It is located in the timbered hills above Big Springs, near here.

League of Nations

TO GET CAST OF CAYUGA INDIANS

LONDON.—Deskah, chief of the Cayuga North American Indians who is now in London, carries with him in a much-used tin cover in his hip pocket a very precious document. It is the original Treaty of Alliance of 1784 between King George III and the Six Nations of the Iroquois, by which the latter were promised independence with British protection.

The chief has besides several trunks full of documents which he is taking to Geneva, when he goes to put before the League of Nations the case of the Six Nations.

Deskah was elected five years ago, and he is still chief. Two years ago his people sent him to England to bring before the Imperial Government grievances against the Dominion of Canada, which he says was seeking to impose Dominion rule on them.

"The Dominion Government has sent its soldiers into our territory, thrown our people into Canadian prisons, and taken possession of our funds," said Deskah to a London reporter. "My people had to sell their possessions in order to send me over here, because the Canadian Indian Office refused to allow them money which is theirs by right."

"But the British Government," he continued, "refused to accept responsibility or to promise protection. Your colonial secretary referred me back to the very people who are oppressing us. This treaty," tapping the case in his pocket, "is being treated like a scrap of paper."

"That is why I must go to the League of Nations. I have no alternative. We are Red Indians. We are willing to remain allies of the British. We sent men to fight on your side in the Great War."

Townfolk Flee Before Flames of Forest Fires

Worst Residential Section of Berkeley, California, Laid Waste—3,400 Homeless.

Berkeley, Sept. 18. (A.P.)—Fire sweeping over the hills east of Berkeley last night laid waste to the Paramount and Euclid avenue districts, destroying at least 600 residences within an area estimated at 80 blocks.

Some of the choicest residential sections of the city, with damage estimated at $10,000,000, and rendering homeless approximately 2,400 persons.

No lives are known to have been lost, although two students were seen to plunge into a vortex of fire when the roof of a house upon which they had climbed collapsed.

Hundreds of frenzied residents fled from the burning area as the fire swept down the slope of the hills, burning its way through the closely settled and exclusive district and eventually died down in a smoldering area which it had devastated.

The advance of the fire, which broke out in the brush in Contra Costa County, was heralded by ugly gray clouds of smoke, which swept over the brow of the hill, driven by a brisk wind, and subsided Berkeley throughout the night.

The fire was one of a series of forest brush and grass fires, fanned by strong north winds and fed by unobstructed, baked to a tinder by the prolonged summer heat, which raged in nearly every county in northern California yesterday.

Several resorts and small towns were severely damaged or destroyed by the flames, which sprang into being in several instances almost without warning and quickly spread beyond the control of national forest guards, State fire wardens and hundreds of volunteer fire fighters.

In Dorado, a small mining town in El Dorado County was virtually destroyed, and the 150 persons residing there were forced to flee. The inhabitants of Colfax, in Placer County, also prepared to flee when their town was threatened.

A fire in Sonoma Valley destroyed the Boyes Springs Hotel and swept toward Petters Springs and El Reno.

In scenic avenue, the palms lining the boulevard were ignited by flying sparks. Fleeing refugees were endangered by these huge torches which toppled into the street.

Love and Moon Have so Much in Common.

SAYS BEBE DANIELS, DISCUSSING PICTURE, "THE GLIMPSES OF THE MOON."

What are "the glimpses of the moon" moments in life? In Edith Wharton's novel, "The Glimpses of the Moon," pictured for Paramount by Allan Dwan, and which is at the Majestic Theatre to-day they are the moments when love first blossoms to find fulfillment, moments that bind lives together safe against temptation.

But there are other "glimpses of the moon" moments, according to Bebe Daniels, who plays the role of Susan Branch, the heroine of the picture.

"Every time you do a charitable act; every time you accomplish something worth while; every time your thoughts are tempered with magnanimity toward your fellows, you experience what I believe to be 'glimpses of the moon' moments," explained Miss Daniels. "They are the moments when you feel the ecstasy of a full life and reach mental, spiritual and physical heights that lift you above the materialism of every day living."

"There is something about the moon when it shines in all its glory that brings a peaceful calm to those who look on from the earth below. It is this same calm that comes to lovers in perfect accord and of which Mrs. Wharton writes that explains the meaning of the title of her novel, 'The Glimpses of the Moon.' We all seek such moments in our lives, and some find more of them than others."

Clean Up the Illicit Vendors of Poison.

Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir.—To those only who have a father or son coming home in a state of intoxication, does the curse of drunkenness really be felt. We can have all the talk that can be done from now till the end of time, but without activity on the part of the police shebeening and bootlegging will go on. Drunkenness is rampant in this city to-day, and why we do not see those responsible for the distribution of illicit concoctions haled before the Court, is a mystery to me.

The police force fully manned; then why the sudden inactivity that seems to have crept in lately. Three stores on New Gower Street, are openly spoken of by the police as sellers of intoxicants, and judging by the large number of men who drive up to them, and hang around these stores, there is something more than ginger ale being peddled out there. Women can be met on New Gower Street, drunk and using obscene language. I have heard that half the fine, which was the policeman's share, has been discontinued. If this is true then it may be the cause of the sudden inactivity.

Are the citizens of the decent class going to stand back with their mouths closed and allow our young men to become drunkards and women without making an effort to protect them? Are we becoming a spineless people, afraid to make a move because we may tread on some one's corns? Let us enforce the Prohibition Law or cancel it. Don't let the community become a mass of sneaking hypocrites. Let the police work overtime until those dens on New Gower Street are cleaned up. Let the police get hot after those shameless women and clear the thoroughfare of them. The time for decisive action has arrived, now let us have it.

Yours truly,

Would any man or woman refuse to give some small help to a child bereft of father or mother? NOT ONE!

On Sunday next the unselfish sisters of Belvedere Orphanage ask the Catholic people of St. John's to help a little in the upkeep of who must have food and clothing--the bare necessities of life. After the pulpit announcement on Sunday, a few close friends of the institution have arranged to extend this appeal to no matter what class or creed, who would like to do something for those helpless little ones. Remembering the precious treasure your own little ones enjoy, don't refuse an extra dollar to the orphans' fund. Fathers and mothers, grown-up brothers and sisters, think kindly of the Belvedere Orphans next Sunday. The prayers of hisping little lips will reward you.

172 FATHERLESS INNOCENTS

"FRIENDS OF THE ORPHANS"

A Plea for the Fatherless

If there be any annual call that should meet the most considerate attention of our citizens generally, but of Roman Catholic readers in particular, it is the pathetic appeal of over one hundred and seventy hisping little motherless girls of Belvedere Orphanage as expressed in the pulpit announcements on last Sunday, emanating from those good ladies who so devotedly and unselfishly administer the affairs of that institution. Unlike several similar institutions who have large numbers of workers ceaselessly active in their interests, the Belvedere Orphanage has stood practically alone all these years and endeavored to maintain their little charges with the least publicity possible.

Several prominent city ladies banded themselves into an organization to help this good work and show the Belvedere Ladies' Association is a most effective ally. In the matter of the annual collection however, there is no such special effort and this must depend entirely on the generosity of our citizens. We use the word citizens advisedly, as heretofore, the Sisters have been given splendid assistance and appreciation from those of other denominations as well as from their Catholic friends.

From the former it is a courtesy that they cannot begin to repay; from the latter it is a duty, well and nobly done heretofore, and we have no doubt at all, but that next Sunday's collection for those innocent little orphans will tend to remove the anxiety of the good Sisters who are responsible for the upkeep of that Home. All the orphans' friends are requested then to remember Sunday next, and to give generously to the good cause.

Better Health for Women

Any woman who will stop and consider the result of a questionnaire recently sent out by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Cobourg, Ont., will in all fairness admit the value of this old-fashioned root and herb medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Fifty thousand replies were received, and 88 out of every 100 women stated they had been benefited or restored to health by its use. This means better health for women in America. It will surely pay any woman who suffers from any ailment or weakness peculiar to her sex to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

Card Party and Dance.

A card party and dance, which was largely patronized, took place last night in the T. A. Hall, under the auspices of the T. A. Ladies' Auxiliary. Prizes in the card games were won by Miss Myron and Mr. J. Costello. The dance which proved most enjoyable did not conclude until 2 a.m. Preparations are now under way for the Annual Father Matthew celebration, October 10th, and the ladies anticipate making the affair a greater success than ever.

Wrecks That Sink Ships.

FLOATING DERELICTS ARE A MENACE TO SEA TRAFFIC.

There is nothing so dangerous to navigation as a floating derelict. The loss of many a good ship is attributed to such wreckage. Only a few weeks ago the Empress of Scotland, a 20,000-ton liner, was disabled through striking a submerged object, thought to be wreckage.

A floating wreck is naturally much more dangerous than one which has lodged on a reef of rock or a sandbank, as the former is carried about by the wind and waves, so can never be buoyed or marked in any way.

When a big coal-steamer was abandoned in mid-ocean, she did not sink, as expected, instead, she drifted across the Atlantic, eight in the main shipping route.

Several vessels had narrow escapes of running into her, and such outcry was raised that the Admiralty finally sent a squadron of seven cruisers to track her down and destroy her.

The schooner W. L. White, was adrift as a derelict for nearly a year. She was abandoned in a waterlogged condition seventy miles from the American coast. Just over ten months later she came ashore on one of the Hebrides.

A famous derelict was the English barque Siddartha, which sailed from Florida on January 16th, 1899. She met with very bad weather, and was abandoned in mid-ocean three weeks later.

She did not sink, but moved about the centre of the North Atlantic. She was sighted fifty times and set fire to on three occasions, but all to no purpose, her timbers being too waterlogged to burn. Eventually a cruiser was sent to find her and tow her into port.

The Rule of Law.

Sydney Bulletin. What the citizen requires, for his own comfort and the peace of the country in which he lives, is a set of more or less static rules which have been drawn up by people very like himself, which he understands and reveres, and which he cheerfully abides by for those reasons.

It is these rules that the bureaucrats who are despots of the modern world are continually striving to overcome and discredit. Many of them mean well, as kings such as Charles I. did. But inevitably the attempt to substitute kings' rules or Ministers' rules for the law, which embodies the equity sense of the nation, must lead to disaster.

No Fleas in Parliament

80 BRITISH LAW SNUBS 'EM.

London, Sept. 24. — Performing fleas on the English stage—in fact all fleas whose lives are consecrated to the drama—must go through their acts without the possibility of protection in the case of maltreatment.

This slight to the fleas is contained in an anti-flea clause of the government's new Performing Animals Bill which has passed the committee stage in the House of Commons.

When the question was debated, it was decided that reptiles and fish should be included, but fleas must fight their battles alone. An amendment was carried to this effect.

The real reason for the discrimination was that the difficulty of using the flea as evidence.

Parcels by Mail.

THREATEN TO SWAMP POSTAL SYSTEM.

MANILA — (A.P.) — Collect parcel post packages to the amount of $515,000 were sent in 1922 from the United States to the Philippines; the business has grown so in the present year that its total for 1924 is estimated at $5,000,000.

This would mean the handling and delivery of something like 2,000,000 separate parcels, and the Philippine postal authorities are wondering how they can meet these demands.

Increased postage appropriations will be necessary and the idea has been advanced in some quarters that the collect service should be discontinued.

Money Loaned for Divorce.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 24.—(Can. Press)

A. M. Custer, of Johnstown, connected with a banking institution, in an address here before the Retail Credit Men's Association, announced that his bank was extending credit to couples seeking divorce and that not a dollar had been lost through such loans.

Custer stated that many divorces had been made possible by the bank advancing misnamed couples the funds with which to pay attorney fees and court costs.

The Lobster Fishery.

The Trade Review in its report on the Salmon Market says, "Like Lobsters, this market seems to have gone to pieces"; and in its report on the Lobster trade it remarks, "Like Lobsters, this market seems to be 'canned.' There are no quotations and everything is quiet."

The similarity of these reports on our tinned products would seem to indicate that something is radically wrong with the methods used in packing, for it is well known that lobster is still the piece de resistance in all the first-class hotels and restaurants as well as in the homes of those who can afford the luxury in their bill of fare. There is further nothing to indicate that the demand for Newfoundland lobster properly packed is any less than before. In fact exporters state that they have no lack of orders, but that a condition of the sale is a guarantee as to quality. Of late it has been found impossible to give it in all cases. At one time the regulations under which licenses were granted to packers were rigidly enforced, but they have been gradually allowed to go into abeyance. Formerly there were but a few packers as compared with the number engaged in the work today. This fact in itself has made it more difficult to see that the regulations are enforced, and it would appear has resulted in many engaging in the work with insufficient knowledge of the business. The complaint has been made that not only is the tinning process unsatisfactory, but the scrupulous care which is necessary in the preparation of a food has not been given sufficient attention.

In the Maritime Provinces the same difficulties have been experienced, and in order to improve matters and to regain their markets, vigorous measures have been adopted. As will be seen by the following article taken from the "Canadian Fisherman," a standard of sanitation and equipment has been introduced which will be fully effective by 1926. By considering the whole pack this year as standard, next year, 75 per cent. of it, in 1925, 85 per cent., and in 1926, 100 per cent. they trust to eliminate those who do not or will not adopt up-to-date methods.

With regard to the falling off in the catch along the Canadian shore, attention is drawn to the effect of dumping overboard of, and used bait both from trawls and from lobster pots, and thereby feeding the lobster which in consequence loses interest in the morsels which are intended to tempt him into the trap.

We are informed that sales abroad would be considerably stimulated if we adopted a quarter instead of a one pound standard tin. Most housewives or chefs require but a small amount of lobster to prepare a salad or some such dish, and as the purchase of a one pound tin means considerable waste, they prefer to do without it altogether. Some packers have used a half pound tin, but even that is said to be too large. Objection has been made to the adoption of the quarter size on the question of cost, but there is every indication that were we producing an article that could be guaranteed absolutely pure and sanitary, and packed in tins to meet the requirements of our customers, we could practically fix the price to suit ourselves.

CONSOLIDATION OF LOBSTER CANNERIES.

(Canadian Fisherman.)

A certain phase of the lobster canning industry in the Maritime Provinces strongly invites discussion just at this period. On previous occasions we have dealt in a theoretical way with the economic waste involved in having a lobster pack worth, approximately, $5,000,000 distributed among six hundred canneries. There was then no immediate demand for consolidation because, fortunately, we have more or less of a monopoly on canned lobster production. More recent events, however, would seem to indicate that consolidation is no longer a matter of idealistic discussion but one which looms on the horizon as a practical problem demanding adjustment.

Elsewhere in this issue we print a statement of the lobster pack in the east. One paragraph is striking. It says: "It should be noted that of the 141 canneries of the above district (northern New Brunswick), 88 packed less than 100 cases each; 51 less than 75 cases; 71 less than 50 cases and 23 less than 25 cases. These small packs are common each season and not due to any unusual conditions this year. Without doubt there are entirely too many canneries operated in this district. The industry generally could be better served and economic waste prevented, by consolidation."

Under the unsanitary and generally careless conditions in which certain canneries have been permitted to operate prior to the progressive movement inaugurated under the direction of Dr. A. P. Knight, it has been quite possible, and it has, perhaps, proved profitable, to maintain these small canneries and operate them as a sideline during the lobster fishing season. The Government, however, has introduced a standard of sanitation and equipment which must be adhered to one hundred per cent. by the opening of the fishing season of 1926. This, the first year, all canneries were graded as per standard will be tolerated; in 1925, 85 per cent; but the year following all canneries must measure up to the wholesale standard in every particular or be denied a license.

Now what does this signify? It means that canneries putting up a hundred odd cases will not find it profitable to operate on the same volume of business and at the same time conform to the requirements of the set standard, which, among other things, calls for a steam cooker. Not that the Government is proving unreasonable in its exactions, because it is not, but that in many cases the individual pack is so small as to return a profit only when the present equipment and methods are used.

What is going to happen to the canneries, included in the above classification when the season of 1926 opens? Are the owners going to automatically close up shop and apply their little capital and their energy to some other industry? That may happen, but to calculate upon such an event is to place a very low estimate upon the intelligence of owners.

The natural solution is consolidation and it would appear was advised that these small canneries, especially in northern New Brunswick, seek an understanding at once. It is impossible, without a thorough survey of the situation, to state definitely how many properly equipped plants can serve this area, but we would hazard a guess that, all things considered, six to eight would do the job quite handsomely. The argument has been advanced that lobster are perishable, which fact frustrates any scheme of centralization. Of course, they are perishable. The main point seems to be to locate the centralized canneries where they are readily accessible by water, so that collecting barges, if that means of transportation be found necessary, may cover the shore and land their cargo alive in wells.

The fisheries department would not go astray in encouraging consolidation and it may, by so doing, hasten more desirable conditions.

Criminal Session Opens October 1st.

MANY CASES TO BE DISPOSED OF IN SUPREME COURT.

With the opening of the Fall or Criminal Session of the Supreme Court on Monday, October 1st, the bench and bar will have a busy period, judging by the numerous cases to be disposed of. Amongst those for trial is a man named Morcer, of Bell Island, who is charged with Arson. Another resident of the same place, named Haynes, now held on remand, will stand trial for Biscuit Stealing, who is an ex-soldier, went to England with a draft in 1914. While there he married an English girl, later the wife with her infant came out to Newfoundland, but remained only a brief period, when they returned home again. The husband then went to sea, and a short time later he visited his wife in England, but she refused to live with him. Haynes then returned home, and in January last married a girl from Bell Island. The case of Charles Tuff, charged with Manslaughter, as a result of the death of the little girl Humphries, who was killed in a motor cycle accident on Corwell Avenue, in July last, will also come before the Supreme Court.

An enquiry into the death of the little infant, preferred against a married woman named Pye of St. George's, is now being conducted at the second city. It is quite possible that the preliminary investigation into the circumstances of this case will be finished in time; and that it will be ready for the supreme court within the next few weeks.

The other case, that of Murder, against Anthony Hawco, a resident of Chapel's Cove, will wind up what is expected to be a very busy criminal session. As yet the preliminary enquiry in this case is not complete, and it may not be ready before the latter part of October.

Proclamation for Bye Election.

Yesterday's Royal Gazette contained a Proclamation ordering that bye elections take place in the Districts of Fogo, Harbor Main and St. George's, the seats of Mr. Geo. Grimes, Hons. M. E. Hawco and J. F. Downey, on Thursday, Oct. 25th. Monday, Oct. 15th, is set for nomination day.

SAMUEL SNEEGROVE.

There passed away at the General Hospital this morning, a well-known figure in the person of Mr. Samuel Sneegrove, after a very short illness. Mr. Sneegrove for a number of years held the position of storekeeper with Mr. James R. Knight, Commission Merchant. When Mr. Knight retired, Mr. Sneegrove went into business on his own account, conducting a very successful Commission Agency up to about a week ago, when he was compelled, owing to illness, to give up. Deceased leaves to mourn four daughters: Mrs. R. J. Green, this city; Misses Edith and Susie, of Montreal and Boston, respectively; and Mrs. Booth, of Halifax. Also one son, James of Henry Blaine's. His wife predeceased him some seven years ago. The Telegram extends its sympathy to the bereaved.

Canada's Exports Growing.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 25.—The United States is Canada's best customer. Exports of goods from the Dominion across the international boundary reached a value of $234,246,216 in the twelve months ended July 1, an increase of nearly $100,000,000 over the previous year, according to a report issued by the department of trade and commerce. Canada's exports from the United States during the twelve month period, it is shown, registered an increase of $24,215,000, or 17 per cent. over the previous year.

A Presentation of Statuary.

TO ST. PATRICK'S CONVENT.

A magnificent piece of statuary is to be seen to-day in the quiet but very pretty chapel of St. Patrick's Convent in the West End of St. John's. The shrine in its beauty does credit to the object which is surrounded by handsome floral offerings. The work is a masterpiece in technique and when one enters the door he knows he is in a place of prayer. The kindly Nuns receive him at the door, and almost as if in a vision he sees the most life-like expression of the "Man of Sorrows." The perfect likenesses of the Thora Govern King are seen in all their beauty and majesty and a more realistic picture is not often presented to the Sight Seer. This beautiful work is a replica of the statue extended by an eminent Spanish artist and we understand was presented to the Society of the Children of Mary of St. Patrick's Convent by Mrs. Mary Gomez, the talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCarthy, of St. John's West. Mrs. Gomez, we hear, will soon leave St. John's for her home in Tabana but this kindly action of hers in donating this adornment to the Chapel will not soon be forgotten by the Catholic people of St. John's West. Incidentally we might say Mrs. Gomez is a vocalist who has delighted many a St. John's audience. We will not say Valle in this instance, we only say An Revok.—Com.

A Short Synopsis of Paid Back.

STAR MOVIE TO-DAY.

Romance where romance belongs—in the tropical quiet of mid-Pacific island—is the keynote of "Paid Back" the Universal all star attraction. But it isn't soft romance—it is dramatic to the "nth degree."

Do you like a big story told simply and without wasting time? Then you'll like "Paid Back," a ten reel story in five reels, with some of the most famous players of the screen in the roles.

This woman thought she would have revenge on the man who had ruined her reputation by "sentencing" him to life with her, to live by her side and listen to her mockings and taunts.

"Paid Back" isn't a "triangle" picture—a story of a quadrangle of human figures. On a lonely island, there are men—the husband who deserted her, the man who sought only to make her life miserable until she gave in to him, and the man who loved her.

When a man finds women "easy" for him, he sometimes loses his sense of wariness. The man women couldn't ignore finds himself in the hands of a woman just a little too smart for his cleverness in the story of "Paid Back."

Poets rave about lonely islands as places for love and moonlight non-sense—but would you pick a far away island for a scene of revenge? The woman in the dramatic Universal picture, "Paid Back" did it.

Magistrate's Court.

A sailor from Denmark arrested for vagrancy received his discharge. Two ordinary drunks were liberated.

A laborer resident of Mullock St. was summoned at the instance of his sister-in-law for assault. A fine of $5 or 14 days was imposed.

Inspector General Hutchings vs. Harry Withal for a breach of the Motor Car Act, was withdrawn.

A clerk of the Higher Levels for using firearms within the city limits was ordered to pay costs.

An assault case between two residents of Pouch Cove was withdrawn.

Const. Lynch vs. A. Desart for a breach of the Prohibition Act was postponed until Friday next.

Three juvenile offenders were summoned into court for throwing stones and breaking glass in George Street Methodist Church. The Warden of the church, who gave evidence against the youths, did not wish to press the charge. They were each convicted and ordered to pay $4.80 damages.

A threatening language case between father and son of Broad Cove was dismissed.

A resident of Logy Bay was summoned into court charged with the larceny of two rugs valued at $50.00, the property of Mr. Richard Volsey. Their was no evidence to show that the accused was responsible for the taking of the missing articles, whereupon he received his honorable discharge.

Mr. Edward Lawlor, Inspector of Foods, summoned a milk vendor of Middle Cove for exposing for sale unwholesome milk. The Government Analyst who tested a sample of the milk taken from a 2 1/2 gallon can by Inspector Lawlor on the morning of the 14th of Sept. found that it had contained solid 11.88, fat 2.54, solid not fat, 9.04 fat deficient 22 per cent. Mr. Davies upon being questioned by defendant stated his milk on previous tests was good, registering 4 per cent. fat. The accused did not know whether he separated his milk on the morning referred to or not, and was at a loss to understand how it had become adulterated. He was given to understand from the court that he must use every precaution in the future, and not get careless. It being his first offence a fine of $1.00 and costs was imposed.

Joseph Burnstein was summoned at the instance of Head Constable Byrne for a breach of the Prohibition Act, selling liquor to a man over his shop counter. The defendant was not ready to proceed with his case, and asked for adjournment until Friday next, which was granted.

Swallows His Teeth and Suffocates.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Sept. 24 (Can. Press)—William B. Hill, a textile worker who died suddenly a few days ago after a quarrel with Emil Beld, was suffocated as a result of swallowing his right eye. At the autopsy an autopsy revealed Beld, who was first charged with manslaughter, will now be tried on a lesser charge because of this evidence.

For Ugly Men.

If you want a wife, go to Birmingham, England, which has 50,000 more women than men. Bath has 10,000 more women than men, Manchester 40,000, while in Sussex the women outnumber the men by no fewer than 1,273 to 1,000, and in Surrey by 1,187 to 1,000.

When stitching on sheer material use some of the paper from the bolts of narrow ribbon, placing it between the material and the foot of the machine to prevent puckering.

High Class Musicale at the Nickel.

VOCALISTS AROUSE ENTHUSIASM OF LARGE AUDIENCE.

Without the least exaggeration it can be truthfully admitted that the greatest musical treat to reach St. John's for many years is the attraction now playing. Miss Armstrong and Miss Loring have already won the admiration of the music-lovers of this city, who have demonstrated their appreciation by their enthusiasm. The Nickel management has reason to feel sure that it is an experiment which promises to justify its judgment in every respect. Miss Loring's selections were "Ah For Lull" and "Duff". Her interpretations were wonderfully expressive and impressive and she was given the whole-hearted reception of her hearers. Miss Armstrong sang "My Ain Folk" and "There's Nae Luck About the House," and these bits of Auld Scotch were delightfully relished by all. Miss Armstrong possesses a winsome stage presence, which greatly enhances the charm of her renditions. She sings Scotch songs, as might be expected from her ancestry, with a freshness of accent that is a joy to hear. The duet, "O Dry Those Tears," was rendered with such feeling that the audience compelled an encore, which was responded to with that popular song, "Long, Long Ago." The accompanist was Prof. W. Moncrief-Mawer, whose skilled touch helped the singers greatly. The above programme will be repeated to-day, and we would advise any who unfortunately might have missed it to attend to-night's performance.

India Introduced Diamonds Into Europe.

India's ancient diamond workings were scattered over quite a wide area, but the distributing centre or mart was the town of Golconda, a name which has always been highly suggestive of opulence. As far back as that ancient epic, the Mahabharata, diamonds have figured largely in the life and history of the Hindus, and it was from India that they were introduced into Europe. With the development of diamond cutting in Antwerp and Amsterdam in the fifteenth century, diamonds began to be more widely used by the Western nations. Such travelers as Jean Baptiste Tavernier brought back from the East stories of the magnificence of the diamonds owned by Oriental potentates.

Are Whales Frightened Away.

Hunters and scientists are agreed on the prime necessity of allowing the whale to live and multiply, and the expedition now preparing for the far South in Captain Scott's old ship, the Discovery, hopes to solve some of the problems that confront both the whaler and the scientist. It was not until 1904 that the whaling industry was started in the Falklands, and last year a fleet of 58 vessels was employed, of which 27 were Norwegian and 17 British. "Blue," "fin," and "humpback" whales are the chief varieties caught, but there has been a surprising reduction in the number of "blue" whales, and a large increase in the "fin" variety, which are the most profitable in their yield of oil. It will be one of the objects of the expedition to discover whether the "humpback" is being frightened away or really exterminated.

A Lifetime in a Few Seconds.

How long do dreams last is a question that has often been asked, but has never been clearly answered. But the following instance seems to bear out the supposition that dreams are really of very short duration.

As a clock began to strike twelve a man fell asleep and dreamed. In his dream he ran away to sea, served on board ship for a long time, was nearly drowned in a shipwreck, and swam to a desert island. No rescue arriving, he began to abandon hope, when at last a ship hove in sight and took him on board. He became a singed sailor in a successful mutiny, took charge of the ship, and sailed it across remote and uncharted seas.

At last, wearying of this life, he sailed to England, sold his ship, and entered business on shore. One day someone recognized him as a mutineer. He was arrested and tried, condemned to death and led off to execution. The noose was placed round his neck and he awoke suddenly to hear the last stroke of the clock striking midnight. Dreams are sometimes helpful, as they bring back to our minds things which we cannot consciously remember, says A. J. J. Batcliff in "A History of Dreams."

A cashier in a bank found an error in his books and was extremely worried about it, as he could not account for it.

One night he dreamed that a man came into the bank, withdrew a little money from his account and left. The cashier also noticed that, in the hurry, he forgot to enter the transaction in his books.

Remembering the dream the next morning, he found out that the error had actually occurred in this way, and was thus able to rectify it.

Eating Us Out. CREATURES THAT TAKE A THIRD OF OUR CROPS.

Rats eat thirty to forty million pounds' worth of food yearly in these islands, and as a result most people look upon the rat as mankind's most deadly rival. The rat is certainly a pernicious brute which eats more than its share of the crops which we try to raise for our own benefit, but it is by no means our only competitor in this respect.

A rat is reckoned to devour or spoil a pound's worth of food in a year, or something about two-thirds of a pennyworth daily. But look at the cormorant!

Cormorants have probably the biggest appetite of any living creature, proportionate to their size. By way of experiment, a cormorant was given fifty herrings in one day, each seven inches long. It swallowed the lot!

Weighing about six pounds, a cormorant eats more than double its weight in fish daily, and a pair of these voracious birds require something like five tons of fish yearly to satisfy their furious appetites.

In other words, each of them eats as much as twenty-five full-grown rats. There used to be a bounty of a shilling a head on cormorants.

Sparrows cost us a pretty figure yearly, and blackbirds take thousands of pounds' worth of fruit and green peas each summer. But these birds both do something to pay for their keep by setting a certain number of insects.

Our worst enemies in the matter of food destruction are, of course, the insects, and of all insects locusts are the most voracious destroyers. In one year recently 15,500 tons of locusts were destroyed in Egypt, or in figures, nearly eight thousand million insects. And a locust eats its own weight each day. The locusts sent to Australia by the cattle tick trust into many millions. This creature, though little bigger than a grain of mustard seed, has so completely destroyed the herds that the people of a great cattle-breeding district were at one time reduced to buying tinned milk.

Accidents on the Racecourse.

SENSATIONS CAUSED BY EXTRA-ORDINARY MISHAPS.

The race for the St. Leger, run at Doncaster this week, reminds one that racehorses are apt to become resentful when beset by admitting throngs.

Even such a well-behaved animal as the flying two-year-old Mumba Mahal became annoyed by the crowds in the paddock at Goodwood last month, and lashing out, broke the arm of a man who had ventured too close to her. At the Warwick meeting last November, too, the well-known jockey "Vic" Smythe had an unfortunate experience when riding Shannon Bells in the Stipston Weiler Handicap.

The Runaway Mount.

Fred Archer was also "savaged" by a horse called Muley Eddis in revenge for being punished in a previous race, while Otto Madden was seized by the arm by an animal when going to the post at Brighton, pulled to the ground, and shaken violently by the throat.

Kempton Cannon had a narrow escape at Northampton in 1897. In a false start his mount galloped a long way before he could pull up, and when he was returning to the starting post, which was round a sharp bend, he heard the starter cry "Go."

Realizing he had been forgotten, and that the rest of the field was tearing towards him, he had just time to swing his horse round and set him galloping when the other competitors flew round the bend. Cannon was actually awarded the race, although he had not travelled the full course.

Accidents on the Racecourse.

In a race at Hurst Park some years ago the leading horse, Beasborough, ridden by "Freddie" Fox, crashed into a mounted policeman on the course, knocking the unfortunate constable unconscious, while in another event, at Northampton, Fred Allsop galloped into a perambulator containing two babies, smashing it to pieces and sending the occupants flying. In some atrocious fashion, however, no one was hurt.

At Totnes the racecourse runs close by the bank of the River Dart, and some years ago a horse named Bally-shannon slipped and, rolling into the river, was drowned.

The famous race for the Derby at Epsom has been the scene of many unusual occurrences. In 1913 a suffragette rushed on to the course just before the field rounded Tottenham Corner, and attempted to catch the bridle of the King's horse, with the result that the flying colt crashed into her with such force that she died a few days later. The horse was thrown, and the jockey, Herbert Jones, was badly hurt.

Accidents on the Racecourse.

In the Ascot Gold Cup of 1913 the favourite, Tracery, would have won easily but for being brought down by a fan who jumped on to the course flourishing a revolver and a flag bearing the inscription "Votes for Women."

The Grand National of 1911 was remarkable for the fact that Lattour III, was interfered with at Beecher's Brook by a riderless horse, and, jumping short, landed right across the fence, remaining balanced there with his forelegs on one side and his hind legs the other.

During the race for the Manchester Cup in 1893 the leading horse cast a shoe, which flew off and struck the favourite, Buccanera, in the eye, causing him to swerve badly; while in the Jubilee Handicap at Kempton Park in 1920 a spectator had his umbrella broken and was himself injured as he leaned over the rails to watch the horses go by.

Speed of 250 Miles.

MAY BE ATTAINED AT THE ST. LOUIS AIR MEET.

ST. LOUIS—(A.P.)—The Barling bomber, superairplane of the United States army, whose initial flight at Wilbur Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, attracted wide attention, will be on exhibition at the International Air races to be held here October 1-3. General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the Army Air Service, has promised that the plane, which is the most powerful in the world, will fly to St. Louis for the air meet and aeronautical exposition. It is planned to have daily exhibition flights.

More than 200 airmen are expected to participate in the races. Italy, France, Canada and Mexico will be represented, and efforts have been made to induce other foreign fliers to enter. The cash prizes and trophies, respectively $13,000 and eight cups, will be awarded the evening of October 3.

The third National Aero Congress will be held in connection with the races, and Secretaries Weeks, Denby and Hoover, Postmaster General New and General Pershing are expected to deliver addresses.

In an effort to retrieve its laurels the navy has nominated only its speed craft and most experienced fliers, and will have two new planes entered which are expected to develop a speed of 250 miles an hour. It is asserted.

General Patrick has advised the committee that among the army entries will be the two Curtiss racers and the Vedvillo Sperry, which were in last year's races at Detroit.

Miss Bertha Dale Horchem of Ran- som, Kansas, who recently set a new altitude record of 16,300 feet for women, was one of the first formally to announce her entry. She will compete in the "On-to-St. Louis Race," an event for civilians who will fly their planes here from various parts of the country.

The principal event of the meet will be the Pulitzer Trophy race, in which fliers will contest for $4,000 in cash prizes and a trophy, which is the emblem of superiority in the air so far as speed is concerned. The trophy now is held by Lieut. Russell Maughan of the U.S. Army. Entries in the Pulitzer event include:

Black-Papa, Flying Fiat racer.
First Lieut. A. Pearson, U.S. Army, Verville-Sperry racer.

First Lieut. J. D. Corkille, U. S. Army, Curtiss racer.

First Lieut. W. Miller, U.S. Army, Curtiss racer.

Lieut. S. W. Gallaway, U.S. Navy, Wright racer.

First Lieut. L. H. Sanderson, U.S. Marine Corps, Wright racer.

Ensign A. J. Williams, U.S. Navy, Curtiss racer.

Lieut. H. J. Brow, U.S. Navy, Curtiss racer.

It is expected that a speed between 210 and 250 miles an hour will be attained in this event.

In addition to the regular three-day programme, exhibitions will be given of various types of aircraft which recently have won distinction, such as the Barling Bomber and the ZR-1, first American built Zeppelin. Both of these have recently made their maiden flights.

What is described as the greatest searchlight in the world will be mounted at the flying field, and will throw its rays 50 miles.

MONEY

Money buy motor cars,
Laces and things,
Diamonds and rubies;
For princes and kings:
Money buys refinement
And foodstuffs and wine.
But money won't buy you
A character fine.

Money can dress you
And feed you, and hire
Servants to bow to
Your slightest desire;
Flatterers and fawners
Will smile as you spend.
But money won't buy you
One genuine friend.

Money is nothing
But purchasing power;
It is good to possess,
For the need of the hour.
But who will be welcomed
At every man's door,
Whatever his fortune,
Must have something more.

Money will take you
As far as it can,
But money has never
Yet fashioned a man;
Give all the world's money
To one who is base,
You will still see the leer
Of the brute on his face.

Toll for the money
And go for the goal,
But still keep a thought
For the good of your soul;
Be friendly, be kindly,
Be gentle, be true,
And make of yourself
What no money can do.

Greece Orders Return of Lands.

SEIZED FROM BULGARIA.

ATHENS—(A.P.)—As an assurance of its desire to cultivate friendly relations with Bulgaria, the Greek Government has notified the provincial authorities that all Bulgarians interned on Aegean islands from Western Thrace during the operations of the war with Turkey must be returned to their original homes.

The restoration of all seized properties of these interned inhabitants, on no more direct proof than the testimony of their neighbours, has also been ordered.

All Bulgarians who have fled from Western Thrace will also be permitted to return to their homes, and their properties, which have been seized by military authorities or by deserters, will be restored on the same conditions as those of the inhabitants now released from internment.

It is estimated that these orders of restitution affect between 150,000 and 200,000 persons.

The Long Arm of the Law

CRIME DRAMAS THAT ARE STRANGER THAN FICTION.

The Lancashire labourer who recently gave himself up for an attempted murder thirty-one years ago was fortunate in evading the arm of the law for so long; but his record has been eclipsed by not a few other criminals.

A few years ago, Sydney, in New South Wales, was horrified to learn that one of its most respected citizens had been arrested on the charge of murdering a man fifty years earlier. For more than a generation Mr. John — had been one of Sydney's most prominent and successful business men. He was a devout church-goer, a lavish dispenser of charity, and in his old age he was surrounded by a family and a host of friends.

Then one day he was recognized in a Sydney street by an old miser as Jim Harker, a man who, fifty years earlier, had murdered his chum at the Ballarat diggings, robbed him of his pile of dust worth several thousand pounds, and vanished so completely that all efforts to trace him failed.

The miser communicated with the police, and, to the consternation of all who knew him, Mr. John — was arrested as a murderer. On the morning after his arrest he was found dead in his cell.

Still more dramatic is the story of M. Jean Blanc, who in his youth stabbed a man in his native village in the Department of Haute Marne. He escaped to Paris, where, under a false name, he spent long years of struggle before at last he found his way to the French Bar through Journalism.

After twenty years of successful practice he was promoted to a judgeship.

A score more years passed when one day, while trying a murder case at Lyons, an aged witness was called for the prosecution. As the witness entered the box he looked fixedly at the Judge. Then, pointing an accusing finger at the man on the bench, he exclaimed: "Jean Blanc! Jean Blanc!"

White-faced and trembling with excitement, he shouted: "This is the man who murdered my brother more than forty years ago."

All eyes turned to the accused man, who, with ashen face and eyes filled with horror, was staring at the accuser. Then, rising unsteadily from his seat, he staggered through the doorway at the back and vanished from view.

A few minutes later a shot was heard. The officials rushed to the judge's room and found him lying dead on the floor. In his left hand was a slip of paper on which were the words, scrawled in pencil: "my sin has found me out at last. I go to appear before a Higher Tribunal."

A Gambler's Downfall.

In a South African prison to-day is a man who is paying the tarry penalty of a crime committed six thousand miles away and forty-five years ago. In 1878 Alexander — was a junior clerk in a Scottish bank—a clever young fellow, who, unfortunately, developed a passion for gambling. Unable to meet his losses, he embezzled three thousand pounds of the bank's money and disappeared.

From the day of his disappearance all trace of him was lost until last year, when he was recognized in Johannesburg by a retired police-official.

During the long years that separated the crime from its punishment, the Scotsman had led a life as strange and adventurous as any in fiction. For some years he had been a seaman. He had been a cow-murderer in Arizona, a lumberman in Canada, and a navvy on Australian railways. He had dug for gold on the ice wastes of the Yukon and on the Vaal.

Then at last he settled down in the Transvaal; and by lucky speculation during a boom in mining shares accumulated a large fortune. At the time of his arrest he was one of the richest and most respected men in South Africa.

Household Notes.

Cup custards will cook very nicely in a shallow pan, surrounded with water, covered and placed over a low gas flame.

If you wish to powder the yolk of an egg for sprinkling, cook the egg longer than usual, so that the yolk will not be tough.

When mixing cakes, if the shortening is to hard for the proper blending, warm the bowl slightly before you start to mix.

A very attractive way to serve plain boiled rice is covered with grated cheese, sprinkled with paprika, and garnished with parsley.

An unusually delightful relish can be made by pickling red, white or purple grapes on their stems. This also is an attractive garnish.

When selecting vegetables for winter storage, use those that are not quite mature, as they will ripen in storage, and will keep longer.

Sweetsheds cooked, cut in small pieces, and mixed with sliced celery, and seasoning, make a good salad.

Rice cooked should be seasoned with finely minced green pepper, a little ground cloves, onion juice, and paprika and served with crisped bacon.

For grape conserve use one pound of broken meats of English walnuts, three pounds of seeded grapes, three pounds of sugar, the juice and half the rind of one orange.

Devised bananas are quite delicious. Slice the skinned fruit, mix with them chopped pickles, salt and red pepper, and fry for a few minutes in hot vegetable fat.

Stuffed beets are rather a novelty. Boil them until tender in salted water, peel and hollow out centres. Then stuff with well seasoned, buttered breadcrumbs, and bake.

Our Montreal Letter.

(From Our Own Correspondent). THE SUM FOR IMPROVEMENTS. Five million dollars has already been voted this year for public works in the city and a large additional sum is to be granted. The money will go to new paving, repairs to streets, sewerage constructions and the like. The amount to be spent this year will be a million over the amount spent last year.

LABOR DAY CELEBRATIONS SUCCESSFUL.

Great success attended the Labor Day celebrations. Fully 50,000 attended the Religious Celebration at St. Joseph's Oratory at the Mountain Top on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 2nd. Several thousands marched in the big Labor Day Parade, Monday, Sept. 3rd. Many of the Protestant and Catholic Churches sermons were given dealing with the Labor question.

THE WATER AND BUSINESS TAXES.

The water, business and personal taxes amounted to $2,400,000, representing over 40,000 persons who paid this in excess of personal demands of dollars of last year. Quite a few of their taxes in excess, one in particular handing $87 in a bunch of figures, which gave the clerk a little trouble to count.

McGILL WINS THE DISTRICT CUP.

The McGill Cricket Team won the District Cup again this season, by retaining the John Ross Robertson Inter-Provincial trophy, for another season. Unless something unusual happens, in a few days the third honor will be theirs also, the Championship of the Senior League or Division A. They have three matches to play this week with only a day intervening between them. This season has been a remarkable one in the large number of matches played, in spite of attendance, and in the quality of cricket furnished, together with the heavy scoring. It must not be forgotten that some of the teams that played against McGill were far too weak, but it is said to their credit that they fought nobly and manly and achieved a certain amount of success in their endeavors, by depriving some of the McGill batsmen of making big scores. Westmount fell down badly in their final match with McGill for the Cup. McGill went to bat first and got up 221 runs. It would have been much larger were it not that Munro, who had been punishing every Westmount bowler for very long drives, got run out, through the carelessness of acting captain Godsell, who had set of time to run, but refused to come away from his wicket, even when Munro had been up near him and shouted to him to go. The trouble was that Godsell was growing tired, never backed up, and remained adamant. Munro made a gallant attempt to try and get back in time, but was too late. As he was leaving the wicket he was so peeved and disgusted that he threw his bat several yards in front of him. His action in so doing was considered by some of the spectators as unsportsmanlike. The spectators knew that Westmount had no chance against the bowlers of McGill to reach such a big score. They were not, however, expecting the comedy and tragedy that the besting of Westmount's innings furnished. The first over was taken by Mitchell, the left-handed bowler; result, three no wickets. Then came Potter. The first ball bowled took a wicket, the second, another wicket for a catch, result, 2 wickets down and two runs. Mitchell tried again, but gave three runs and got no wickets. Potter again and two more wickets went, thus getting 4 wickets in two maiden overs. Mitchell had another try and eight runs were added, making 10 runs for 4 wickets. Potter took another wicket, making it 5 for 15, and then the big and heroic "leap" for a while. Three of the best bowlers and batsmen of the team, Osborne, Wallace, and Reynolds, had fallen early victims to the terrific bowling of Potter. The tragedy was over for just an hour. Taylor and Mustard felled five McGill bowlers, when the latter succumbed to a catch from Potter's bowling. Score 94 for 6 wickets. Then came the climax and the tragedy was over. Potter bowled three more runs. Mitchell taking three, and Potter, the wicket keeper, struck a batsman by a lightning piece of ball. Score 38, leaving McGill winners by 125 runs—the holders of the Cup for the fifth time, and establishing a new record of disposing of 7 batsmen for 5 runs, and 9 men for 3 runs.

THE ENGLISH TEAM BEAT THE CREST.

The Free Forestry Cricket Club of England defeated the pick of the City by 8 runs and 4 wickets to spare. The City made 139 and 95. The English team 127 and 111. Two accidents happened during the match. Hodges got hurt in the mouth and lost a tooth, a spring to stop one of Potter's wickets from behind wickets. Potter of the English team dislocated his middle finger.

NET DEATH WHILE PLAYING.

One little girl was killed and two other children were slightly injured, when a scaffold, erected against the newly built church of St. Hermenegilde, in Geybourg Parish, Longue Pointe, collapsed as a result of the constant rubbing of its ropes with which the children were swinging.

The ropes had been used to hoist material for the completion of the cornice, and was dropped to the ground by some children, according to a report given to the police. The children began to play with it, using it as a swing, when suddenly part of the scaffold dropped, hitting Gergette Longtin, two-and-a-half years, of 170 Duquesne Street. The little child suffered a fractured skull and a fractured leg and died almost instantly.

THINKING AND DOING.

"He was going to be all that a mortal should be To-morrow. No one should be kinder or braver than he To-morrow. A friend who was troubled and weary he knew, Who'd be glad of a lift and who needed it too; On him he would call and see what he could do To-morrow."

The Greek maxim, "Man, know thyself," seems to be practised more in the breach than in observance. Of the wonders of the universe man's knowledge increases almost daily. But of himself—what can be said? The world has for us just what we have for it. It is a great whispering gallery which flings back the echoes of our voices. If we laugh, it laughs back; if we grumble, it grumbles back; if we curse, it curses back. St. T. Coleridge says: "Our fellow-creatures can only judge of what we are

Pimples and Eczema Disappear the Skin Made Soft and Smooth by Using Dr. CHASE'S OINTMENT

At all Dealers. GERALD S. DOYLE, Distributor. from what we do; but, in the eye of our Maker what we do is of no worth except as it flows from what we are. If a business man falls in a project to-day, he hopes for that "to-morrow" to enable him to try and succeed. Yet, there are others that, "to-morrow," is only a delusion and a snare. "Predestination is the thief of time," and when "to-morrow" comes, too many answer "still again to-morrow." The Boston Pilot says:—

Most minutely do business men examine into their financial affairs. No figure on their books is unfamiliar to them. They are able to gauge their future successes by the present state. Comparatively few there are, however, who follow this admirable practice of self-examination which enables them to see themselves as they really are when all untruth and subterfuge and hollow abams are swept away.

A soldier-prison who gave his life in the Great War, said to a group of his men who lay terribly wounded and dying in slow agonies: "If we have hope for this life only, we are the most wretched of men." In a wider sense, these significant and sublime words may be applied to those men who, horribly wounded in their consciences, are content to allow their moral strength to ebb away without making the one supreme effort to save themselves.

Man's knowledge has progressed very far. He has changed the mighty elements of air, earth, sand and water to meet his insistent and increasing demands. He glides through the ether, he is swiftly carried across the continent, he sails over the ocean in whose depths he reaches for hidden treasure to be converted into gems for the embellishment of the race. Constant, vigilant, unceasing effort has been rewarded, even though life itself may have been the toll exacted that the conquest might be attained.

We are accustomed to hear people say, when some great sorrow has touched them: "Had I only known, I would have acted in far different manner!" Alas, we do not know. But we are happily content to take stupendous chances, to trade with the most precious of possessions, the immortal being which is stronger than the physical life, and yet a part of it.

Intelligent Women Demanding It

NEVER before have women given so much thought to the subject of household and laundry soap. Intelligent women everywhere are demanding a pure soap. To these women, the makers of Kirkman's Soap take pleasure in stating the following facts, and guaranteeing every statement.

For nearly a century—since 1837—Kirkman and Son have been leading soap makers. The popularity of Kirkman's Soap is due to these reasons:

FIRST: Only the finest and purest materials are used to make Kirkman's Soap the best for every household purpose.

Second: Eighty-six years' experience in soap-making goes with every bar you use.

Third: Kirkman's Soap is absolutely free from lye to harm your hands—or any other ingredient to injure and roughen them.

Fourth: The perfect blending of Kirkman's Soap is secured by boiling it nine times over a period of 20 days. You can be sure of perfect sterilization and freedom from germs.

Fifth: Kirkman's Soap does not contain any starch, waterglass, talc or other adulterating materials.

All this can result in but one grade of soap: The Very Best. Therefore, in justice to your delicate hands, ask your grocer for Kirkman's Soap. He can offer you nothing purer or better at any price.

Without Question or Argument Kirkman's Soap is sold to you with the distinct understanding that it satisfies YOU in every way. Your grocer will return your money without question or argument, if you are not pleased with results. You alone are the judge.

Motor in Palestine. Making a Sunday-school trip in a motor car in Palestine is a decided contrast to some of the pilgrimages of the Master Teacher in an early decade of the first century. Rev. George H. Scherer of Sul-el-Gharb, Syria, is the representative of the World's Sunday School Association in that country. A friend was found in America who was ready to increase Mr. Scherer's usefulness by the gift of a Ford car which was specially equipped for work in Syria and Palestine.

National Monuments. Daily Chronicle: Numerous owners of historic houses, unable to meet the expenditure involved in their maintenance, are giving them up, and in many instances they are being rented as schools. Not all, however, meet with so kindly a fate, and many of them are falling into ruin. In one instance an ancient castle was acquired as a war memorial. No better purpose than this could be imagined for our historic monuments, and the example is one which might well be copied in other parts of the country.

YANKEES WIN PENNANT.
 NEW YORK—The New York Yankees clinched the 1923 American League championship, their third successive pennant victory, by defeating St. Louis at the Stadium, four to three. The Yankees, who have made a runaway of this season's race, now can lose all of their remaining 19 games and still finish on top even if Cleveland, in second place, wins all of remaining 19 games. Should the Yankees lose and Cleveland win all of their remaining games the final standing would be:

Won	Lost	Pct.
New York	83	61	.424
Cleveland	82	62	.574

By clinching the pennant two and a half weeks before the end of the season, the Yankees have scored one of the most decisive victories in the history of the league. They now hold a margin of seventeen games over the second place Indians. The Yankees have set the pace practically from the start and have not been seriously threatened since mid-season. Challenged first by Connie Mack's Athletics, who spurred sensationally in the spring and later by Cleveland's rally, the Yankees stood off these threats and maintained a championship stride while their rivals fell by the wayside. In the National League the Giants are on the home stretch going strong so that in all probability the world's series will be played in New York.

TO-NIGHT'S GAME.
 No doubt to-night's clash between the Saints and Guards will be a hard fought one as the winner will play off with the Cadets on Friday night to decide who are to be champions of the Tie-cup series. As Charlie Quick will be lining up with the Guards, Ern Churchill has undertaken to referee the game which is scheduled to start promptly at 6 o'clock. It is anticipated that there will be an unusually large attendance.

MASON IS DECLARED EUROPEAN CHAMPION.
 PARIS—Harry Mason, of England, was officially recognized to-day by the International Boxing Union as lightweight champion of Europe, in succession to Seaman Hall, who was disqualified for hitting low in their match at London on May 17 last. Fred Brettonel, of France, was designated by the union as official challenger for the title.

HARRY WILLS AND HOMER SMITH MATCHED.
 NEW YORK—Harry Wills, negro heavyweight title contender, has been matched to fight Homer Smith, of Kalamazoo, Mich., in a ten round contest at the Queensboro Stadium to-morrow night. The bout will be of unusual interest, not only because it will mark Wills' first ring appearance in a year, but also because Smith gained prominence by staying the limit of a ten round match with Louis Angei Firpo last August 3rd, at Omaha, Neb. Wills has declared his willingness to meet Firpo to decide which shall be entitled to the next bout with the champion.

LAST NIGHT'S FOOTBALL.
 The Cadets once more successfully defended their championship laurels last night when they defeated the B.I.S. by one goal to nil; Walter Callahan doing the necessary in the first half. The game was a fast and furious one and refereed. Quick had a busy time holding the reins on both teams. In the second half particularly, there were rough spots, and several players were placed hors-de-combat. The light Irish forwards were at times tossed about like cork in a heavy swell when endeavoring to break through the armor plated defence of the Cadets. Fortunately there were no serious casualties.

OLD COUNTRY SOCCER.
 EDINBURGH, Sept. 12—Hibernians played Glasgow Celtic here yesterday to a scoreless draw, neither team registering a goal.
 LONDON, Sept. 26—In the First Division of the Association Football League game played on Monday, Blackburn defeated Newcastle by 2 goals to 1. Results of games played in the Association Football League yesterday were as follows:
FIRST DIVISION.
 Everton, 2; Aston Villa, 0.
THIRD DIVISION—Southern Section
 Southend U. 0; Portsmouth, 1.
 Bournemouth, 1; Watford, 1.
Northern Section.
 Wrexham, 0; Wigan Borough, 0.
 In the Rugby Union game at Cardiff yesterday, the locals defeated Pill Harriers by 14 to 0.
 Batley defeated Featherstone in a Northern Rugby League fixture by 21 to 2.

PLAN AN EASY TRIP OVER FOR NIGHTLY PAPYRUS.
 LONDON—When Papyrus crosses the Atlantic to race the champion American three year old, he will travel in a specially designed compartment on one of the lower decks of the Aquitania. This luxurious stall will be lined on all sides with huge air cushions, for his owner, Ben Irish, believes that an ordinary bed of straw might not be comfortable enough for his great thoroughbred.

Trip to Cost $10,000.
 The colt's luxurious compartment, together with accommodations for his trainer, attendants, food supply and special water tanks, will occupy space equivalent to the area of a dozen first class passenger cabins. It is calculated that the cost of transporting the equine aristocrat will amount to more than $10,000.

Bargold, Papyrus' stablemate, will make the trip in the same compartment.

WITH THE JUNIORS.
 It will be remembered the result of the Junior League series was that the Cadets, Wesley, and Holy Cross tied in points for first place. A playoff is therefore necessary, and to-morrow night for the second time, Wesley and Cadets will try to settle the matter at St. George's Field. The winner will then be pitted against Holy Cross—possibly on Saturday night.

BATTILING SIKI IS ARRESTED IN NEW YORK.
 NEW YORK—Battling Siki, whose turbulent career in Paris earned him a police record as long as his string of ring knockouts, has run afoul of United States law for the first time since coming to this country in quest of pugilistic honors.

The Senegalese battler was arraigned to-day before a magistrate on a charge of giving boxing exhibitions at a theatre in Washington Heights without a permit and released in $25 bail for a hearing to-morrow. He was arrested last night, together with his manager, three sparring partners and the theatre proprietor.

ITALIAN HEAVYWEIGHT READY FOR DEMPSEY.
 MILAN, Italy—Ernesto Spalla, the Italian heavyweight pugilist, has issued a challenge to Jack Dempsey for a fight for the heavyweight championship of the world. He desires the fight to occur immediately. Spalla is now in training at Strehna. "I am ready to go to America immediately to meet Dempsey at any time and at any place set by the champion," said Spalla to the Associated Press to-day. He is in fine condition and will be able to give the champion the biggest run for his money he has ever had."

RALPH IN TRAINING.
 Jake Ralph has announced his intention of entering the A.A.A. Indoor Championships and is consistently practising under careful tutelage at the C.L.B. Armoury. He will wear the Brigade colors. Ralph, though a youngster, has been showing up splendidly in all the distance events this summer.

Casualties in Ruhr.
TOTAL OF KILLED AND WOUNDED DURING ALLIED OCCUPATION.
 During the seven months of Germany's "passive resistance" in the Ruhr the persons killed or wounded by the Allies and by the Germans respectively are, according to a Belgian statement, as follows:
 Germans killed by the Allies . . . 65
 Germans wounded by the Allies . . . 90
 Allies killed by Germans . . . 30
 Allies wounded by Germans . . . 62
 Germans killed by Germans . . . 95
 Germans wounded by Germans . . . 520

Otherwise Engaged.
 The new American President is an adept in the gentle art of leg-pulling. A little while back a young Englishwoman on a brief visit to New York took occasion to ask him whether he had ever seen a man lynched.
 "Yes, or yes," he assured her brightly. "Only a few weeks back I was dining with some friends at a restaurant in Chicago when the waiter brought us some pudding that we didn't like. So we just hung him up to one of the chandeliers."
 The lady gazed at him in horror. "And do you mean to tell me," she gasped, "that you took part in this horrible crime?"
 "Well, not exactly," explained Mr. Coolidge blandly. "That is to say, I did not take part in the actual hangings. I was too busy down in the kitchen."
 "Busy!" she said. "Doing what?"
 "Shooting the cook!" he replied firmly.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

WORLD BASEBALL SERIES WILL BEGIN, Oct. 10.
 NEW YORK, Sept. 26. Nineteen twenty-three world baseball series will open Wednesday, Oct. 10th, at the Yankee Stadium.

FALSE REPORTS OF FIRE IN OKLAHOMA RADIATED.
 NEW YORK, Sept. 26. There is no foundation for reports that Oklahoma city was on fire. Inquiries by the Associated Press, direct to Oklahoma city, elicited denial of the rumours. (These rumours had been broadcasted from radio centres in Minneapolis and Chicago with instructions to send them on. Ed.)

EDUCATION MUST BE ADAPTED TO THE TIMES.
 TORONTO, Sept. 26. "A liberal education in this country must take into account the change science has produced. The fixed curriculum of a past age will not suit to-day. It must be purged to insert ideas," was the declaration of Sir Albert Falconer, President of Toronto University, in an address to-day, opening the academic year.

EXCHANGE OF GREEKS AND TURKS TO BEGIN AT ONCE.
 GENEVA, Sept. 26. The exchange of six hundred thousand Greeks in Turkey and Turks in Greece, will begin next week, and will take approximately four months. A mixed commission of eleven members will handle the project and spend two years in work of reparations.

FATAL ACCIDENT TO TWO MINERS IN SPRINGHILL, N.S.
 SPRINGHILL, N.S., Sept. 26. Two miners, Charles Bougenaki, 47, and Wosli Meckon, 42, were killed in one of the local coal mines when a "bump" buried them under fifteen feet of coal and stone, and wrecked that section of mine, covering sixty feet. The loss of Meckon was recorded that of Bougenaki can be seen standing, his mine lamp still burning.

CORFU WILL BE EVACUATED TO-DAY.
 ATHENS, Sept. 26. The Italian legation yesterday informed the Greek foreign minister that the evacuation of Corfu would be completed to-day and that Corfu would be restored to Greece Thursday.

GOVERNMENT DEALING EFFECTIVELY WITH BULGARIAN COMMUNISTS.
 PARIS, Sept. 26. Calm has been restored in the districts of Bulgaria where Communists provoked trouble according to news despatch from Sofia. One section only remains in a ferment and that is Pordjanogor but government measures to put down the outbreak there is proceeding normally. Allied council has authorized necessary increase in the Bulgarian standing army to enable them to cope with the outbreak. Many of the surrendered arms taken from revolutionists consist of rifles of Russian manufacture.

THE COUNCIL OF AMBASSADORS FIX THE INDEMNITY TO BE PAID TO ITALY.
 PARIS, Sept. 26. The council of ambassadors to-day reached a decision on the question of payment of fifty million lire indemnity by Greece to Italy. The decision will be kept secret until Greece can be notified. It is understood, however, that council found Greece had been dilatory in seeking the perpetrators of Janina crimes and hence the money will be payable to Italy at once.

Nfld. Flour Mills.

PROJECT DISCUSSED AT BOARD TRADE MEETING.
 At the Board of Trade meeting called to-day to consider the matter of the proposed flour mills the discussion was confined to four or five members and no definite stand was taken as it was desired that the promoter's side of the question should be obtained. The chairman, Mr. Frank Steer opening the meeting read a communication from the Council of the Board of Trade to the Colonial Secretary and the latter's reply following in which he gave an outline of the proposals submitted to the Government by the flour mill promoters. These are that a mill costing $650,000 will be erected at a site not yet selected but with Shoal Harbor, Port Union and St. John's spoken of. No guarantee.

Raw material, that is to say, grain in bulk, and machinery to be admitted duty free.
 Exclusive rights for milling flour to be granted for a period of twenty years.
 The Company guarantee to sell flour at the same price that it is sold in Canada and the States for home consumption, and Bran Middlings or Cattle Feed at half the imported cost.

The Company claim that the Mills will employ 400 men. The capacity of the mill to be 1000 barrels per day. Mr. Campbell of Campbell & McKay opposed the proposition on several grounds but principally on the loss of revenue which he estimated as follows:
 Duty on hay and oats used by truckmen who are now engaged in hauling imported flour . . . 15,000
 Light Dues . . . 26,000
 Labor Longshore . . . 100,000
 Truckmen for Cartage . . . 60,000
 Total . . . 332,000

This amount, he said, was an approximate loss and he wished to know what the mill was going to give in return. In regard to labor he believed that the industry would not employ anything like four hundred men and in substantiation quoted figures from a Montreal mill as follows:—For steam mill running three shifts of 24 hours, millers 16; packers and loaders 21; millwright and electrician 2; engine room 6; elevator 3; watchman 1; office staff 4; coopers 14, or a total of 67.

Another point raised by Mr. Campbell was that as a flour mill turns out several grades of flour and 90 per cent of our imports are of highest grade there will be a considerable output of 3rd grade flour for which there will be no local market, and it would have to be exported to the West Indies. This, he said, pointed to a "spoke" for the proposed West India Service. Regarding the loss of revenue, he said he was informed by the Colonial Secretary that the Tariff would have to be revised to meet the loss.
 Mr. Reg. Harvey representing the Red Cross Line, said that no doubt the Montreal service would be curtailed if not entirely closed on the establishment of a flour mill here. Regarding employment he said that approximately from 90 to 120 men were employed by each ship coming from Montreal in addition to the usual number of coopers and delivery men kept on the premises. The erection of local mills would also have the effect of curtailing the service from Halifax and New York as during the winter months a large quantity of flour came via these ports.
 Captain A. Keen thought the matter should be dealt with on its merits and the Board of Trade should therefore consider its effect on the country as a whole. He did not think that freights would be effected as much as had been stated, for the simple reason that the wheat required to make the flour would have to be brought here. If the proposition meant cheaper flour for the people, it should be supported, and there was no reason for the flour not being cheaper as the promoters would be up against competition. If they failed to make good the inevitable result would only affect themselves.

Mr. W. Monroe congratulating the Council of the Board of Trade for taking the matter up commented on points raised by Captain Keen, namely: that the matter should be dealt with in its broader aspect by the Board which was the "Newfoundland" and not "St. John's" Board of Trade. He thought that the Board should have invited Mr. Palmer to the meeting so that he could put his views before them. If the venture was a private one, and not detrimental to the country at large it should not be opposed.
 Mr. Campbell replying asked if the people were going to stand for the levying of a tax of $300,000 for the sake of getting employment for 67 men or at most 90 as was the figure given in an interview by the promoter. He also said that Mr. Palmer the manager, was approached to have the mill erected at Port Union. He however said "go to it" if the Company would guarantee to employ 400 men.

A motion by Captain Keen to adjourn the meeting until to-morrow at noon so that Mr. Palmer could be invited to give his views, was seconded

 At an early hour this morning there passed to the Great Beyond an estimable lady in the person of Mary, wife of Mr. Joseph J. Miller, the well known city shipmith. The deceased lady had been ailing for over a year, and while her condition was critical for some time past, the end came suddenly. All through her sufferings she never complained, despite the fact that her ailment was a most trying one. To the last she maintained that self poise which characterized her whole life.
 Mrs. Miller was a daughter of the late Robert Butt of Western Bay, and her passing will be noted with regret by her friends both at home and abroad.

Will Malagash Solve Salt Problem?

EVIDENCE WOULD APPEAR TO INDICATE THAT SALT FISH TRADE HAS ECONOMIC MEANS OF ESCAPE FROM RUST TROUBLE.

(Canadian Fisherman.)

What promise to be one of the greatest boons to fishermen and which will enable them to put up a better product and save considerable loss, has been discovered by Dr. F. C. Harrison, of Macdonald College, of St. Anne's.

In the past years the fishing industry of the Atlantic coast has suffered considerably from the fact that codfish, mackerel and herring had become infested in such a way that the surface of the codfish acquired a distinctly pink or red color, and the herring turned rusty with impaired flavor. This, of course, detracts from the wholesome and palatable appearance of the fish and causes an unmarketable product, which obviously is a loss to the trade. In some cases dealers estimate their loss as running from 3 per cent. to 40 per cent.

Herring are particularly affected by this trouble. It occurs only in pickled fish and is characterized by the appearance of a reddish brown discoloration on the exterior surface of the herring. Not only is the appearance of the fish spoiled by this semblance of rustiness, but the flavor of such fish is not so good, and they seem to deteriorate more rapidly than normal pickled fish.

The packers consider the trouble a serious one, and Dr. Harrison who has been in communication with the various dealers, finds they are seriously alarmed. They give various reasons for the difficulty and state that it specially affects the best fat July herring.

Samples of rusty herrings were received from various parts of Nova Scotia, and the other Maritime Provinces. Cultures were made and experiments conducted. Various brands of salt were used and it was found in the case of codfish, that the coloring was caused by the same red organism in solar or sea salt. Fresh herring salted with Liverpool and Malagash Salt remained fresh and bright, and no rustiness developed.

The reason given as to why the organism produces red color on cod, hake, pollock and crusk, and rusty color on herring is that the herring organism is salt loving. The red organism in salt loving, requires free oxygen, refusing to grow beneath the surface of pickle, or in any condition which deprives it of free oxygen and its growth is favored by warm temperatures. Remedial measures have been discussed, and the report of Dr. Harrison suggests that Solar or Tropical Salts should be either sterilized before use, or its sale should be prohibited until it is shown that such salt is free from the red organism.

Salt, therefore, is the source of the trouble. The latest report on this subject supplied to the Advisory Council for Industrial and Scientific Research, made by F. C. Harrison, D.Sc., F.R.C.S., Principal of Macdonald College, recently issued on "Rusty Herring," and an earlier report of "The Red Discoloration of Salt Codfish," states that—"undoubtedly the source of the trouble is found in tropical salt, that is, salt obtained by the evaporation of sea water in tropical or semi-tropical regions." This difficulty can most easily be avoided by the use of mine salt.

The estimated quantity of salt used annually in Eastern Canada in fish curing is forty to sixty thousand tons, valued at about $480,000. This salt is produced in many countries. It may be divided into two classes:

(1) Mined salt, coming either from deposits in crystalline form or from brines. Examples of this kind of salt won from brines are known as Liverpool and Windsor. Mined mineral salts are found in Germany, Austria, several States of the U.S. and Malagash, N.S.

(2) Solar or Solar Salt. Salt obtained by the evaporation of sea water, coming as a rule from countries having a sea board where the climate is dry and the summer of long duration. Spain and the West Indies are the largest producers, although it is manufactured by this means in Salt Lake City, and a number of places in California.

The Solar Salt is much cheaper than the mined salt, or at least it was until the deposit at Malagash was located and work vigorously prosecuted.

Packers who paid particular attention to putting up mackerel carefully and in suitable packages, usually got from $10 to $15 a barrel more than the ordinary packers for their product. One of the greatest obstacles militating against the packing of this high grade article was the fact that solar salt was used and the fish turned a "rusty red" color.

The standard of quality is Liverpool salt, but this is expensive, selling for from $15 to $18 per ton at the point of consumption, making it prohibitive for use, for instance, with a cheap fish like herring. For codfish the crystal of Liverpool salt is too fine to cure it properly. It is fortunate, therefore, that there is in Nova Scotia a deposit at Malagash which can be used by packers, with the knowledge that it contains no red bacteria, and at the same time is coarse enough for all purposes. It is a high grade brilliant salt. It is much purer than the solar salts generally used for curing fish, and at the same time the mining facilities have been so developed at Malagash that it can be sold at a price to compete with the cheaper salts now on the market. Out of some 23 experiments conducted by the faculty of Macdonald College with about twelve different salts, only two showed absolutely no infection, and these were Liverpool and Malagash brands.

In fish curing the chemical constituents of the salt play a very important, even vital part. Many exhaustive inquiries have been made during the past winter with various kinds of salt, looking to the improving of the fish curing defects. It has been found that contrary to the general opinion pure salt will not moisten in the air—the salts that moisten do so because they contain a small percentage of magnesium chloride, and other hygroscopic salts. This means that fish cured with these salts do not keep so readily in hot, humid climates, and this is one of the reasons why Norwegian fish persistently brings a price of some two cents a pound better than Nova Scotia fish. That is, together with the fact that they persistently offer white "naped" fish which commands a better price for their product.

The situation then is that the bacteria which causes the discoloration of codfish, herring and mackerel is found in the Solar Salt so generally used by fishermen, but that is not found in Liverpool or Malagash salts. The big deposit of salt at Malagash, and the cheaper methods of mining, have brought this salt within the reach of the ordinary fish curer.

The United States Bureau of Fisheries recommends salt of the purity of Diamond Flake and Leslie, Detroit—and a comparison of these standards with Malagash salt makes interesting reading.

Men closely in touch with the fish curing business have stated that Norwegian fish has been shipped to the West Indies, and after a time transhipped to Halifax. On arrival in Nova Scotia it was found to be in better condition than the local product ready for the southern market. The statement has also been made by those competent to speak authoritatively that Norwegian fish will keep very much higher in the Tropics than Nova Scotia product, and this is a decided advantage.

When the fishing industry of Nova Scotia really awakens to the importance of a thorough knowledge of the advantage of all these factors and study the application of the knowledge it will be the means of establishing their industry on a stable and more remunerative basis.

We advise our customers to book their requirements as soon as possible.

MARKET REPORTS

indicate that there is no surplus of Anthracite Coal in the U.S. The shortage caused by the strike of Anthracite Miners last year has not been made up, and American hard coal will, in all probability, be hard to get and high priced. Coke is an excellent substitute for hard coal, and we have on hand a stock of same that will soon be disposed of, because a shortage of hard coal invariably creates an increased demand for our product.

We advise our customers to book their requirements as soon as possible.

Leaders Hail Aviation

AS BIG AID TO MAIL SERVICE. STOCKHOLM.—Aviation will soon bring about immense improvements postal and passenger transportation, and will ultimately have revolutionary effects on social life generally, according to four of the world's foremost men—Sir Samuel Hoare, British Minister of Aviation; Postmaster General Harry S. New, of the United States; Director General Ronge, of the ### German Post Office, and Dan Brostrom, ex-cabinet minister and one of Sweden's greatest shipping men—gave their views to the Handels och Sjöfartstidning, a leading Swedish journal, in reply to a questionnaire.

Sir Samuel Hoare, in his reply, emphasized the need of international co-operation. He favors official encouragement and support for private initiative for the establishment of air lines. Aviation, however, is still young, Sir Samuel believes, and only a great expenditure of thought, energy and capital will bring it to its due place in world development.

Perfection of night flying, according to Postmaster New, is one of the primary requisites to aerial progress. This is a fundamental development of the postal aviation service, he said. Mr. New declared he saw unlimited possibilities for airplanes in postal communications.

A similar message came from Director Ronge, of Berlin, who said the air right now be regarded as the most important road for progress in mail transportation.

Mr. Brostrom of Gothenburg said that it is only a question of a short time until aerial traffic across the continents and the oceans will offer the same commercial possibilities as the railroads and the shipping lines of today, and that several vehicles will then have at least as revolutionizing an effect in remodelling social life in general, as the locomotive and steamships during the past fifty years.

A Mormon Temple.

FIVE HUNDRED ATTEND OPENING CEREMONY IN CANADA. Five hundred members and officials of the sect were present at the dedication of a million-dollar Mormon temple at Cardston, in Southern Alberta. This is the first Mormon temple to be erected on Canadian soil. It is built of Kootenay granite with a marble and onyx interior. Mural decorations represent the Creation, the Garden of Eden, The Fall, and kindred subjects. The baptismal font is supported by twelve life-size oxen in white marble. The temple has now been closed to all except Mormons.
