TO EXPECTANT MOTHERS

A Letter from Mrs. Smith Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Trenton, Ont.—"I am writing to you in regard to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I would not be without it before each of my children was born and afterwards, and find it a great help. Before my first baby was born I had shortness of breath and ringing in my ears. I felt as if I would never pull through. One day a friend of my husband told him what the Vegetable Compound had done for his wife and advised him to take a bottle home for me. After the fourth bottle I was a different woman. I have four children now, and I always find the Vegetable Compound a great help as it seems to make confinement easier. I recommend it to my friends."—Mrs. FRED H. SMITH, John St., Trenton, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for expectant mothers, and should be taken during the entire period. It has a general effect to strengthen and tone up the entire system, so that it may work in every respect effectively as nature intended. Thousands of women testify to this fact.

The Countess of Landon.

CHAPTER XXIV.

"But come, don't let us waste this lovely morning indoors," said Irene, quickly. "You can see the pictures another time. I often come in here and spent an hour or two looking at them and thinking of something else, which I believe most people do in picture-galleries. Here is the music-room. That is the great Landon organ. It will play it for you some day. There is every kind of musical instrument here, I think, including the sackbut and psalter. Mind that step. These stairs are rather dark and steep, but madame would not have them altered for worlds—nor I—for they say King Charles has passed up and down them. Did you ever hear the story of the little girl—she was a Landon, of course—and King Charles?"

Madge shook her head.

"Tell me," she said.

"Yes, you must be told everything, because you are a Landon, too," said Irene, as they descended the stairs.

"Some say that it was not a Landon and King Charles at all, but a little American girl and Washington; but I prefer to believe in our version. Well, when the king was leaving Monk Towers, the girl—she was only seventeen—ran forward to open the door for him, and the king put his hand on her head and said in his sad, gracious way:

"I thank you, sweet little maiden, and I wish you a better office."

"Yes, sire," she replied, modestly—"to let you in."

"Wasn't that splendid? But"—she laughed and shook her head—"I'm afraid it was an American girl and

ASPIRIN

Beware of Imitations!

Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians over twenty-three years for

Colds Headache
Toothache Lumbago
Neuritis Rheumatism
Neuralgia Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proven direction. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Drug-gists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assist the public against imitations, the Tablets of Bayer Company will be stamped with their general trade mark, the "Bayer Cross."

Washington, after all. Our little maidens are not so quick."

She opened a door as she spoke, and the sunlight flooded the small hall in which she stood. Madge uttered an exclamation of delight. Before her lay, like so many jewels set in an antique setting, a number of flowerbeds glowing with dahlias and other autumn flowers, inclosed by a high wall.

"The Monk's Garden," said Irene. "They call it mine because I spend so much time in it, but," she added, quickly, "I make it over to you now, dear."

Madge colored.

"No, I will not have it!" she said, almost sadly.

Irene laughed.

"We will call it 'ours,' then," she said, almost shrinkingly.

"But it belongs to—whom?" said Madge.

"Monk Towers is the countess's while she likes to hold it," said Irene. "Then it passes to Seymour, the earl. If he died and left no son, it would come with the title to Royce. He would be the Earl of Landon then, and you, of course, the countess."

Madge said nothing. She a countess! They passed round the garden, finding it hard to leave it; but at last Irene caught Madge's hand and drew her through the door in the wall into the larger gardens outside.

"Come along," she said. "We will go to the stables now."

"Oh, will you?" said a voice, and Royce came upon them from the shrubbery.

Madge blushed slightly, but Irene's face went scarlet and then paler than usual, and Madge, who happened to glance at her, felt alarmed.

"You startled us, Royce," he said, almost reproachfully.

"Oh, I'm very sorry," he said. "But haven't you done something in the way of startling us this morning? Where have you two been? I was just going to have the pond dragged."

Irene laughed softly. She seemed to have recovered her composure instantly.

"I have been showing Madge round," she said. "And we have been enjoying ourselves all alone by ourselves, as the children say; and now we are going to the stables, and then—"

"Might one humbly crave permission to accompany you?" he said. "I'll promise to behave as well as I can. No one could do more."

"Shall we let him come, Madge?" said Irene, lightly, but with averted eyes. "I thought we would go for a drive afterward. We could take the pony-carriage."

"Which only holds two," remarked Royce, ruefully.

"And only two intend going," said Irene.

He looked at her and understood that her object was to accustom Madge to the place, and to keep her out of the way of the countess and Seymour for at least one morning.

"All right," he said, with feigned carelessness; "two's company, and three's none. Besides, I'm too proud to force myself where I'm not wanted."

"Oh, he may come as far as the stables, may he not?" said Irene. "And he need not throw his cigar away, need he, Madge?"

He walked beside him, his hands thrust in the pockets of his shooting-jacket, his handsome face full of happiness and that happy-go-lucky cheerfulness which went so far to win hearts for him. And the sight of the two ladies and "Master" Royce created a sensation in the stable-yard. It seemed as if every man from the coachman to the smallest stable help, wanted to do something for them, and was eager to attract their notice.

The coachman came forward and touched his cap, his ruddy face beaming with a smile of gratitude for Royce's hearty "Morning, John! Horses all right!"

"Yes, Master Royce. Beg pardon, sir, beg pardon. Mr. Royce now, sir."

"Got promoted since my marriage, you see," said Royce, laughingly, to the two girls.

Madge blushed.

"This is my wife, you know, John," he said.

The coachman touched his hat again with deep respect and admiration.

"I wish you every happiness, ma'am—we all do."

"Yes, yes!" the other men murmured, eagerly.

Madge's color deeper still, and they knew she murmured "Thank you," though they could not hear her; and

They would have raised a cheer but that they remarked her timidity, and were afraid of frightening her.

The coachman led the way into the stables, and Madge's first sensation was one of amazement and delight, her next of sadness, for, as she looked at the splendid animals in their polished stalls, saw the costly apparatus for ventilation, the tiled floor, every bit of iron and steel bright and glittering, noticed the scrupulous cleanliness of the whole, she thought of the poor people she had seen in some of the towns, crowded together in hovels, stifling for want of air, living in an atmosphere of disease and dirt, and the contrast struck her painfully.

Royce went up to the beautiful creature the coachman had so considerately offered Seymour, and the animal whinnied a loving welcome as his master put his arm over the arched neck and patted it.

A Laugh and Death

SHOT FOR BEING HAPPY—MAN'S FATE AT WIFE'S SIDE.

A tragic tale comes from Italy—it is recounted in the Roman paper Corriere Italiano—of a hapless man being killed because his utter happiness offended a brute.

Young Ferdinando Galli, who lived in a village near Castiglione Fiorentino, was married three weeks ago to a charming girl of the district. Their short honeymoon had ended and the two had returned, blissfully content, to their native place.

On Tuesday evening he and his wife were gone for a stroll with his sister. It was lovely evening, and the young couple walked arm in arm, so happy that he and she would every now and then break into little peals of laughter, born of nothing very much but their satisfaction with life.

All of a sudden three cyclists came round a corner of the road, just as the three people were shaking with laughter at some little jest. One of the cyclists called Salvietti, a morose sort of man, leapt from his machine at the sight, rushed at the astonished group and cried, "What do you mean by laughing like that?"

A BLOW AND A SHOT.

As he spoke he gave Galli a blow on the head.

"But what's the matter? What have I done?" said the young bridegroom, half-stunned.

Salvietti's only reply was to draw a revolver and fire. Galli stood a second in an attitude of surprise and then fell dead to the ground.

The murderer then got on his cycle and coolly rode off. His two companions rushed to tell the police. Carabiniere accompanied by a number of Frascisti, surrounded the man's house and then making their way upstairs found that he had gone calmly to bed. Later inquiry into his history showed that both his grandfather and father had been guilty of acts of violence.

They passed from the stables into a little paved court, beyond which was the paddock.

"That is a beautiful horse of yours, Irene," said Madge.

"Yes," said Irene, absently; "I am very fond of it. Royce broke it for me." She pulled up short, then went on hurriedly: "And that will be a very nice one of yours. Royce will soon teach you to ride her, dear. There is no one so patient as he is—"

She stopped again, and bit her lip. It was hard, all in one short week, to teach herself not to speak of Royce as if he belonged to her. "That is the young horse John spoke of," she went on, quickly.

South Africa Anxious to See Prince

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, April 29.—In the Union House of Assembly yesterday General Hertzog, Nationalist leader, questioned the accuracy of the announcement of the postponement of the Prince of Wales' visit and hoped it was not equivalent to saying that the Prince would not come at all. (Cheers). Evidently the change of plans meant disappointment to many, but he hoped he was voicing the feelings of all sections when he said, if the Prince visited South Africa, he would be greeted with respect and warmth worthy of his high position and of the South African people. (cheers).

Premier Smuts said Gen. Hertzog's statement was quite correct. The Prince would be perfectly welcome under any circumstances and was assured every shade of opinion. It was only the proprieties of the case which induced the Government to advise him to postpone his trip till after the election. He hoped the invitation would be renewed when the elections were over so that the people might have an early opportunity of seeing the future King. He knew the Prince was anxious to come.

THE ADS.

I always read the ads of lids and liver pads, of snaps in real estate and bargains truly great in lollipops and lyes and tools and rubber tires. There are some fatidic lids who do not read the ads; they scan the a p o r t i n g news, the editor, his views: the news from round the globe, the latest startling probe, the dope from many grades—but do not read the ads. They clamor, when we meet, "Where is the name of Pete did you secure your hat? We've wanted lids like that, but knew not where to find that grand and princely kind!" I bought it at a sale, for very little else; the man was selling out because he had the goat; and so he advertised some prices that surprised, and in his busy store I bought for dollars four a kelly truly great, that used to sell at eight. I always read the ads; they save me many scads. I do not care so much for news about the Dutch, for cablegrams from Cork, or stories from New York, the daily gist of news about Illinois, the murders dark and dire, or tenements on fire; all people have their fads, and mine is reading ads. If one would save the dimes in these stemwinding times, would husband the dooboons, the groats and picy-unes, the dollars of our duds, he has to read the ads."

Soft-Soap and Battleships

The same fallacies that led to war in Europe are being promulgated in the world's new storm-centre, which, unfortunately for Australia, is the Pacific. We are asked to believe that so Asiatic Power looks on what we have and wants it badly enough to take it if we are not disposed to lend it; that our sea-borne trade is not worth an insurance premium in the form of a base at Singapore; that soft-soap is an effective substitute for battleships. There is a great temptation on the part of politicians to exploit this cant; most people prefer to say the estimable thing, and there is nothing more estimable, in the average white community, than to uphold the principles of Christianity, while the advocates of world-brotherhood is always certain of having with him those who shirk giving salads.

Sleeping Sickness in Britain Reaches Alarming Proportions—French Troops Clash with Turkish Bandits in Syria—Life of Labour Party May Depend on Budget Proposals—

ALARM AT SPREAD OF SLEEPING SICKNESS IN UNITED KINGDOM.

LONDON, April 28. The rapid spread of sleeping sickness in Great Britain is causing considerable alarm. In January last there were 75 cases; in February 217; in March 488; and in the first three days of the present month 649 cases were reported. The proportion of deaths has not been large but the effects of the disease, very often serious.

FIGHTING IN SYRIA.

LONDON, April 28. Imaginary fighting between the French troops and irregular Turkish militia is reported to have taken place in Northern Syria by the Jerusalem correspondent of the Daily Express. Three hundred men were killed and wounded during the fighting, the Turks captured a great quantity of arms. There have been several reports recently of unrest in Syria of which country France is the mandatory power. French aviators are reported to have bombed the villages.

BUDGET MAY CAUSE A CABINET CRISIS.

LONDON, April 29. This week will be an important one for the Labor Government's career, for immediately upon the re-assembly of Parliament on Tuesday, it presents its first Budget under circumstances involving uncertainty as to its reception. Some political commentators go so far as to say that the position is so critical one for the administration that the life depends upon how it handles the financial problems on this occasion.

ATTRACTING CANADIAN MANHOOD.

OTTAWA, April 28. Nearly one-third of the overseas strength of the Canadian Expeditionary Force has migrated to the United States in search of its bread and butter. The Hon. G. Grant MacNeill, Dominion Secretary of the Great War Veterans' Association, in discussing the immigration situation in Canada, said members of Flanders' Lodge, sign, the Herald expresses the hope that whoever may succeed to the head of the Newfoundland Government will not yield to the temptation of trying to shelve the Walker report and ignore its findings. To do so after the attention of the English-speaking world has had it drawn to the contents of the report and the low level of Newfoundland's political life, in the Herald's view, would be to deal the reputation of Newfoundland a blow from which it would not readily recover.

AGITATION SPREADING IN JAPAN.

TOKIO, April 28. Although agitation over the United States Immigration legislation is on the wane in Tokio, reaction is spreading to the Provinces. Many protest meetings against exclusion have been held in Nagoya, Osaka, Kobe, Okayama and other cities in Western Honshu, Shikoku and Kyushu.

A DOLLAR LINE STEAMER LOST.

PEKIN, April 28. The steamer Robert Dollar, owned by the Robert Dollar Company of San Francisco, in the Yangtze River service, was wrecked on the Yangtze on April 25 near Chung Chow, according to delayed despatches received to-day by the United States Legation. All passengers, crew and officers were saved and the foreign passengers were taken to Shihou. The steamer is believed to be a total loss. It is expected the cargo will be saved.

FOUR MOTOR FATALITIES IN A COLLISION.

BUFFALO, April 28. Stanley Pritchard Kenmore died to-day in the Emergency Hospital, bringing to four the death toll in the automobile and street car collision at Seneca and Remington Street, shortly after midnight, when the trolley plowed through the automobile carrying it 25 feet.

LEONARD REID MARRIED.

MONTREAL, April 28. The marriage of Miss Kathleen Maude Parsons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Parsons, to Leonard Gillespie Reid, son of the late Sir William Reid, and of Lady Reid, St. John's, took place quietly this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, 4251 Dorchester Street West. Mr. and Mrs. Reid will leave for a motor trip to New York and points South. They will spend a few weeks in Montreal, on their return, prior to leaving to take up residence in Newfoundland.

BESCO EMPLOYS CHINESE LABOR.

OTTAWA, April 28. Answering a question, asked last week by J. S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg Centre, Hon. J. A. Robb to-day explained in the House of Commons the importation of a number of Chinese to work on steamers and barges out of Nova Scotia. The Minister said a special order had been issued, permitting the employment for a limited period of these Chinese, because BESCO had explained its inability to get White labor sufficient to carry on their work. The Orientals are under bond. Penalties, under the Immigration Act had been paid, and their entry and non-immigrants guaranteed. Mr. Woodsworth asked if employment of the Chinese under such conditions was not worse than any form of peonage. There was no further discussion.

Household Notes.

The addition of a little fresh liver improves meat hash.
A little grated onion seasons squash souffle nicely.
A very little grated nutmeg improves boiled cabbage.
Tomato catsup makes excellent seasoning for baked fish.
Scalloped cabbage is delicious served with cheese sauce.
Melted cheese crackers are delicious served with fruit salad.
Garnish fried chicken with sliced mushrooms sautéed in butter.
Save your large-size baking powder cans for steaming puddings.

A Whale of a Show at the Popular Star

Last night's attraction at this theatre was voted by the hundreds of its patrons one of the very best. If not the best seen here for some time, the picture "Merry Go Round," was such as could but please the most ardent movie critic. Never before has a picture been produced that compares with this magnificent picturization of the glittering glory of an Emperor's court. With a background of the mad revelry, the scintillating fantastic whirl of life, love and ambition in the gayest city in the world, Vienna, is told the most exotic, the most poignant of love stories.

Miss Fanchionette and Mr. Kelly added new laurels to their reputation. The former is certainly a dancer of the highest class and her every action denotes the finished artist. Mr. Kelly was delightful in his selection, particularly in his rendition of John MacCormack's "Somewhere in the World," receiving deafening applause. Miss Pleasants, the dainty little harpist, went over the top. She rendered "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" in such a way as to almost hold the audience spellbound, and Miss Pleasants has every reason to feel proud of the applause she received. As stated in this paper Saturday she was at a disadvantage on Friday but last evening she fully demonstrated she is all that has been claimed for her.

The entire show is repeated this evening, whilst for to-morrow is an entire change, with Charlie Chaplin's first production for United Artists, entitled "A Woman of Paris," whilst Miss Fanchionette and Mr. Kelly have new selections.

Will Rebuild the Hospital

INTERNATIONAL GREENFELL ASSOCIATION TO REPLACE BURNT BUILDING.

ST. JOHN'S.—It is learned from the International Grenfell Association that the Hospital at North West River, Labrador, which was destroyed by fire last June will be rebuilt. The destroyed building was worth with its furnishings about $10,000, was insured for $6,000, and was worth at least $12,000 as it stood before its destruction.

This hospital was donated by Mrs. Lockwood, an American lady, in memory of her mother, Mrs. Chamberlain, and was known as the Chamberlain Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Lockwood has generously subscribed another $6,000 for the rebuilding of the institution which, with the insurance collected, will enable the International Board to replace the building with its equipment, and the new hospital will retain its former name.—Trade Review.

Fads and Fashions.

Pale gardenias or orchids are worn in corsages on the shoulders of light evening gowns.
A great many of the new tall coats have cape-backs and are trimmed with summer furs.
Real taffeta gowns are used on a lingerie's frock of yellow voile worn over a slip of red taffeta.
Some of the larger new hats turn up sharply on one side and swoop down on the other.
The scarf suit is quite as popular as any style for young women. Another new version is the suit with box coat showing "three seam back".

MASSEY ON DOMINION RESPONSIBILITY.

WELLINGTON, N.Z., April 28.
 Premier W. F. Massey, speaking at a state lunch here to-day to the officers of the visiting British special service squadron on the Empire cruise said, "Great Britain alone cannot bear the whole burden of naval defence. The Dominions have done their share but more is required if the sea force is to be kept in an efficient state. The last has not been heard of the Singapore naval base scheme and the Dominions must stand to their responsibilities."

OTHER ARRESTS IN ONTARIO GOVERNMENT SCANDALS.

TORONTO, April 28.
 E. V. Donnelly, chief clerk of the Provincial Secretary's Department, was arrested this afternoon on a charge of theft of about $7,000 in monies belonging to the Province. Harold Thomas, a clerk in the Department was also arrested. The arrest followed an audit begun several weeks ago disclosing about $9,000 shortage. Donnelly is out on $10,000 bail. Thomas being unable to raise $5,000 bail was confined to the cells.

REFERS BOUNDARY QUESTION TO COLONIAL OFFICE.

LONDON, April 28.
 The Irish Free State's Government has sent a note to the British Colonial Office asking that it give effect to the boundary article of the Anglo-Irish Treaty without further delay, says a despatch to the Daily Mail from Dublin. All efforts to adjust the boundary line between Ulster and the Irish Free State have proved unavailing. Last week another conference on the subject was held in London between representatives of Northern and Southern Ireland but it came to naught. Under the terms of the Anglo-Irish Treaty the British Government in case of failure by the Northern and Southern Governments in Ireland to reach an agreement is to appoint a Boundary Commission, which will draw a definite line between the respective territories.

GERMANY'S DEFAULTING IS THE QUESTION.

PARIS, April 28.
 At to-day's conference whole question of pressure on Germany, the results to obtain from the occupation of the Ruhr, and the proper form of eventual penalties to be applied to Germany in case of default in execution of the expert's plan was canvassed in its military, political and financial aspects with Marshal Foch, Paul Tirard, President of the International Rhineland Commission and M. Francois Marshall, the French Finance Minister participating as Counsellors. The rapidity with which accord was reached was taken in political circles as indicating that the Belgians had agreed with Premier Poincaré that some plan for the eventual application of penalties must be adopted before the Allies could abandon pledges held in Ruhr.

MACDONALD ARDENTLY SUPPORTS EXPERTS' REPORT.

PORT TALBOT, Wales, April 28.
 Prime Minister MacDonald speaking here to-night to the electors who sent him to Parliament declared he was not going to lose a single chance of putting the Experts' report into operation, "and I want France to be with me, let there be no doubt about it," he said. "I regard the Experts' report," continued Mr. MacDonald, "as an opportunity for a peace settlement and an agreement which if not taken advantage of by European statesmen will be one of the most godsent opportunities ever neglected and lost."

A TERRIBLE MINING DISASTER.

WHEELING, W.V.A., April 28.
 Fourteen bodies have been recovered to-night from Benwood mine of the Wheeling Steel Co-oreparation where 114 miners were entombed to-day by an explosion. Hope has been practically abandoned for the other hundred miners.

Prospero Arrives From West Coast

S.S. Prospero, Capt. Connors, arrived from the Westward at 2.45 yesterday, having completed all ports of call, both on the outward and inward runs, including North Sydney, where a large quantity of freight was taken on board and delivered at the various ports on the return trip. The following passengers arrived:—Mesdames Keeping, Verge, Saint; Misses Kavanagh, Keeping, Poole, Gough; Messrs. Elliot, Poole, Verge, Latta, Hyde, Lambert, Douglas and Rev. Fr. Emright, and 15 in steerage. Passengers who arrived report fish plentiful at Port aux Basques, Chancel, and vicinity.

THE EVENING TELEGRAM.

THE EVENING TELEGRAM, LIMITED, PROPRIETORS.

All communications should be addressed to The Evening Telegram, Ltd., and not to individuals.

St. John's, Newfoundland, April 29, 1924.

Our Forty-Fifth Anniversary.

Forty-five years ago to-day The Evening Telegram made its first appearance before the public of Newfoundland, and thus ushered in a new era in the journalistic history of the Colony in the form of a daily paper.

From the date of its first issue, limited though it was in circulation and diminutive in size and make-up, it at once was recognized that it filled a long felt want in the community, and the public showed their appreciation of the enterprise and spirit of the Proprietor and Editor in a most responsive manner.

At the outset the Telegram pledged itself "to eschew all sectarianism and controversial discussions of a religious nature," and laid down certain guiding principles to which it has consistently adhered throughout its career and which gained for it even in its infancy the proud title of "The People's Paper." Outspoken in its comments, independent in its attitude, showing favour to no particular class or section and solicitous always of the interests of all, it has won for itself the confidence of the public, and has become an institution known throughout the Island for its constancy and sincerity. Its name is a household word, not only in this community but also in the homes of Newfoundlanders who have left these shores to settle elsewhere and to whom it is a tie which binds them to their former associations.

To the founder of the Telegram, the late W. J. Herder, the paper owes its development and its reputation. He devoted his life wholly to its welfare, and as he built he endowed it with his own character and personality. He has passed on but the paper remains a living testimony of a man who played the part of a citizen to the very best of his ability, was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him and to whom at all times his word was his bond.

The history of the Telegram, to which at a later date we hope to make a more extended reference, is in itself a chapter in development in the printing business, and hand in hand with that advance are faithfully recorded in the back files of the journal the giant strides which have been taken in the social, economical and political development of the country during the last half century. In these great movements the Telegram has taken a prominent part.

During the forty-five years of its existence, periods of stress have been encountered frequently. Fire, financial panic and industrial depression have in turn wreaked their vengeance and have threatened to destroy the labour of years, but firm in their faith of the country's recuperative power, the management faced the crises fearlessly and the effect of each victory was to establish more firmly the position of the paper and to extend its influence.

The survival of the Telegram and its marked development are in no small measure due to the loyal and devoted service of those who have been in the past and who are to-day employed in its various departments. Throughout its whole career the Telegram has been singularly fortunate in securing men whose hearts have been in their work and who have always made the interests of the paper their chief concern.

Closely associated with the founder for twenty-five years was Mr. Alex. A. Parsons, its first editor. Upon his unrivalled knowledge of journalism the establishment of the paper in its early days depended, and to his literary skill can be attributed its importance as a public educator. Upon his retirement in 1904 to fill the responsible position of Governor of His Majesty's Penitentiary, he was succeeded by W. F. Lloyd, Esq., now the Right Hon. Sir W. F. Lloyd, K.C.M.G., Chief Clerk and Registrar of the Supreme Court. For the next eight years he guided her destiny. Upon his retirement, he was followed by Mr. H. A. Winter, B.A., the present Speaker of the House of Assembly, and in 1919 he was succeeded by Mr. C. T. James, who in 1923 transferred to the Daily Mail, a paper which had recently started.

To the compositors and pressmen the success of the paper has depended in no small measure. Many of them have the record of a lifetime of service well and truly performed, and some of them have been in its employ practically from its inception. With such co-operation on the part of the employees, and with the continued sympathy and support of the general public, it is hoped that the Telegram has many years before it in which to uphold and maintain the best tradition of our Island Home and to exert its influence on behalf of the prosperity and happiness of the whole community.

Man Drowned on Gander River

BOAT UPSET BY SQUALL.

A sad drowning accident which occurred on the Gander River is recorded in a telegram received to-day by the Deputy Minister of Justice from Magistrate A. Cook, Fogo. The message reads:—Received from Frank Saunders, Gander Bay a telegram as follows:—Stanley Gillingham and Herbert Francis left here on Wednesday, en route to the North West Gander River. On Saturday a squall of wind upset their boat when about eight miles from Gander Lake and Gillingham was drowned. Francis managed to reach the shore. Search parties are endeavouring to recover the body of Gillingham.

Sealing News

The only ship now prosecuting the Sealfishery is the Viking in the Gulf. Last night the owners received a message from Capt. Bartlett stating that they took on board yesterday 200 of the seals out of the 900 which were killed and skinned on the previous day. 600 seals still remain on pans, but owing to weather conditions it is very difficult for the men to move about and pick them up. The Ranger is gradually nearing port. Yesterday the steamer Smead reported the Ranger harboured at Valleyfield awaiting a full in the heavy sea. The message received from the Viking reads as follows:—

Viking—70 miles northwest by W. half W. Deadman's Island. Thick fog, picking up pans, total on board to-day 200, still on pans 500; very hard getting around to pick up pans.

THE CATCH TO-DATE.

Table with 2 columns: Seal (landed), Total. Rows include Eagle, Neptune, Seal, Thetis, Sagona, Terra Nova, Ranger, Viking, and a Total of 128,887.

Stella Maris at Argentia

S.S. Stella Maris, Capt. George Whiteley, arrived at Argentia from the Gulf Sealfishery at 10.20 this morning hauling for 1,400 old and young seals. The crew mostly Trinity Bay men, arrived too late to take the train for their homes, and will remain on board until to-morrow morning. It is understood that the Stella Maris will then come on to St. John's to land her seals.

Suspected Store Raided

A Water Street, West, premises, suspected of selling booze, was raided to-day by Sergt. Stapleton. A small quantity of liquor was seized and sent to the Government Analyst for analysis. The matter will probably come before court during the week.

Will Have Searching Enquiry

An enquiry into the loss of the lives of three men of the Terra Nova's crew, which occurred shortly after the ship left port on the sealing voyage, will take place during this week. Preliminaries in the matter were started to-day, and it is the intention of the authorities to have a most searching investigation made.

Preliminary Hearing Postponed

Owing to the indisposition of Mr. H. A. Winter, Crown Prosecutor, who is taking charge in the proceedings against Dr. Alex. Campbell, the preliminary hearing, which was to begin to-day, was postponed until Monday, May 5th. The hearing of the charge against Mr. J. T. Meaney will begin to-morrow morning.

Oporto Stocks

Table with 3 columns: April 28, April 29, April 30. Rows include Stocks, Consumption, Norwegian, and Entered—Sunset Glow.

Government Boats

Argyle left Argentia 1.30 a.m. for Western route. Clyde arrived St. John's 7.30 a.m. Glencoe arrived Argentia 9.30 p.m. yesterday. Kyle arrived Port aux Basques 6.25 a.m. Prospero arrived in port at 3 p.m. yesterday and sails again for the westward at 3 p.m. Thursday.

A Question to be Decided

Much discussion has occurred over the total catch to date owing to the fact that neither the Stella Maris nor the Sable I. have made the regular ports of arrival, but have unloaded in Argentia. For this reason we have not included in the estimated catch the number of seals secured by either of these vessels. The question is one which will have to be decided by the various clubs which have sweepstakes tickets in circulation.

LOADING AT BAHIA.—Schr. Cape Race, Capt. Martin Burke, arrived at Bahia on Saturday last to load molasses for her.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

April 28th.—Up betimes and abroad, the weather fine again about some what cold. So to the office to attend to my mail, but it did not put me in a pretty tesse to find the most of it bills for my wife, her spring clothes, and is the most extravagant wretch that ever I did see. But, indeed, a waste of time and breath to speak with her of it, being that she will give me the old tale of having naught to wear, even though her cupboards be filled with garments. Comes Blahb, the chirographer, to talk with me of the election, and is the worst gossip ever I met, and gathers his tales, I think, from his female patients. The strangest thing he tells me is that Mr. Morine, the Attorney, joins with Mr. Hickman, to form a party, which is a thick I scarce can credit. He says also that Mr. R. Bennett is with Mr. Warren and comes post haste from England for the election. Moreover, he thinks that polling day will be the 26th of May. Talking with Mr. Goodyear, of Grand Falls, he tells me he will take part in the boxing tournament this evening, and will fight in the heavyweight class. But Lord, it will be a brave man that opposes him seeing how he weighs 193 pounds stripped. So home, and meeting Mr. Monroe, to discourse with him of politics, he giving me his views thereon. To play at bridge all the evening, which is the first time of my doing it this month past. So to bed.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

HOME BANK OFFICIALS REMANDED TO AUTUMN ASSIZES.

TORONTO, April 28. Directors and officials of the Home Bank of Canada, appeared before Mr. Justice Lennox, in the Criminal Assizes to-day and were remanded to the Autumn Assizes. Bail was renewed. The proceedings were brief.

INTERESTING BUT TO WHAT PURPOSE?

NEW YORK, April 28. Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, the Pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, last night won a unanimous decision over Dr. Charles Francis Potter, the Pastor of the West Side Unitarian Church, in the fourth of their series of debates on Religious Modernism and Fundamentalism. The question debated last night was, "Resolved, That Jesus Christ was entirely man instead of an Incarnate Deity." Dr. Straton supported the negative. His victory made him even with his opponent, Dr. Potter having won the first and third, and Dr. Straton second and fourth. One more question remains to be argued in their series.

ANOTHER AIRMAN IN THE PUBLIC EYE.

PARIS, April 28. Lieut. Pelletier D'Oisy, whose air flight in the Far East is being watched with great interest, particularly because of other long distance flights which are in progress reached Bunder Abbas on the Persian Gulf about noon yesterday.

REVOLUTIONISTS REACH THE CAPITAL.

WASHINGTON, April 28. Honduran revolutionists fought their way into Tegucigalpa the capital yesterday just as the state department had been advised that the last of the Central American Republics had accepted the invitation to participate in the five power menation conference at Annapolis for the restoration of order and constitutional government. Officials here expect no danger to foreigners or foreign interests as a result of the revolutionary victory at Tegucigalpa.

CARUSO'S WIDOW REGRETS HER SECOND VENTURE.

NEW YORK, April 28. Mrs. E. A. Ingram formerly Mrs. Enrico Caruso through her attorney has confirmed the reports that she and her husband, Captain Ingram an Englishman have separated. She declared however that she would bring neither divorce nor separation suit against her husband. Her attorney explained the domestic rift was caused by "Little Irritation's" one of which was Captain Ingram's dislike of the United States.

THE SITUATION.

Business Recession Quite Gradual. (Boston News Bureau, April 22.) The recession in general business that has developed to date has been quite gradual in most instances, and of the kind to which adjustment is easily possible. In some cases as, for instance, the fertilizer, cotton and textile trades, it has been more drastic and prolonged than for many a year, but nevertheless it can hardly be termed critical.

Comfortable money conditions and the ever-present support of the Federal Reserve System have probably been responsible for the fact that the reaction has not been accompanied by financial shock. Credits have been well scrutinized and every effort made by merchants and manufacturers to solve problems without dragging in the banks.

The slump in commodity prices has been distinctly unsettling, and more than any other single factor, has accounted for the unwillingness of business men to contract ahead. With cotton declining sensationally, with leather dragging on bottom, and other vital raw materials slowly receding, the expectation has naturally been engendered that finished goods must follow the same course, and particularly has this attitude been embraced in those industries where surplus productive capacity is so well-known as to be beyond dispute.

In times past the signal has often been given of an impending turn for the better in a reduction in wages. Under present conditions, industrial executives are loath to reduce the wage scale, to imperil organization, or to adopt any other means than the awaiting of consumption to catch up to production. When this will occur no one can say, but public utilities and hosts of other businesses that must care for normal growth are prosecuting expansion. Their influence ought to be felt just as prices stabilize.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT.—Two ordinary drunks were liberated. A woman taken in for safe keeping was allowed to go. A few civil cases were disposed off.

GREAT ENTHUSIASM OVER COMING BOUTS.

Athletes Will Battle For Honors On Friday Night.

Sporting fans and the public in general are reminded that the big boxing and wrestling tournament for the championship of 1924, takes place on Friday evening next, in the Prince's Rink, under the auspices of the Amateur Athletic Association. The various bouts promise to be keenly fought and very highly interesting. The contestants have undergone a stiff training for several weeks past, and each man will enter the ring in the pink of condition, to do battle for his Club or Association. The programme of events consists of all the various class weights, each of which will be confined to all athletes of amateur status. The meet will be held under the auspices of the A.A.A., and all bouts will be governed by the rules laid down by that body last year. All last year's men, with two or three exceptions, have signified their intentions of competing, and with the Grand Falls competitors as an added attraction, it is predicted that the coming tournament will eclipse all previous events of its kind. Judging by the number of reserved seat tickets already sold, the success of the tournament is already assured. The following officials have been appointed to conduct the bouts:—

Announcer—C. Belbin.
Weighers—F. V. Cheeman, W. H. Jackman.
Timekeepers—J. M. Tobin, C. Hall, Clerk—J. Murphy.
Supervisors of Competitors—L. T. Stick, Dr. Alex. Bishop.
Medical Officer—Dr. John Grieve.
Referee (Boxing and Wrestling)—S. P. Cullen.
Judge of Boxing—F. W. Marshall, R. Burns.
Judge of Wrestling—J. R. Stick, J. Campbell.
Official Seconds—S. Dewling, A. Henchbury.
Supervisor of Bandages—H. Pedigrew.

THE PASSING HOUR

AN EXAMPLE.

Orville Wright, the aviator, at a dinner in Deane's, was reproached for not taking up the challenge of the Smithsonian Institute that it was Langley, not the Wrights, who was the first to fly. "The trouble with you," said one of the ladies, "is that you are too taciturn. You don't assert yourself enough. You should press-agentize more."

"My dear friend," Orville Wright answered, "the best talker and the worst flyer among the birds is the parrot."

NOT QUITE CONVINCING.

Jones was called away from his office for the greater part of the day. On his return he noticed certain symptoms of idleness on the part of his clerk, "Smithers," he asked, "why hasn't the typewriter been working?" "It has been working," replied the clerk, "I was using it less than 10 minutes ago." "Then," said Jones, pointing a convincing finger, "how comes it that there is a spider on the machine, and that it has woven a web over the keyboard?" "A fly got in the work, sir," replied the clerk, "and rather than waste time in trying to catch it, I introduced the spider."

INTER-CLUB BILLIARDS—B. I. S. PLAYERS LEADING BY 437 POINTS.

At the Masonic Club rooms last night, two games of the Inter-Club Billiard Tournament were played, resulting in two big victories for the B.I.S. players. In both games the players of both teams found difficulty in getting the balls to run and the result was that the exhibitions were not as good as the spectators expected. By these victories the B. I. S. have now a comfortable lead of 437 points on their opponents, but as there are yet six games to be played, the final result is by no means certain, especially as the remaining players comprise some of the city's leading talent.

Last night's scores were:—McKay, (B.I.S.)—350—17, 11, 12, 12, 28, 13, 11, 19, 15, 21, 10, 12—181.
Greaves, (Masonic)—301—24, 12, 11, 47.
Phelan, (B. I. S.)—350—17, 15, 11, 15, 14, 25, 13, 12, 13, 19—145.

PRELIMINARY BOUTS TO-MORROW NIGHT—BIG ENTRY LIST.

The preliminary bouts in connection with the big boxing and wrestling tournament, will be run-off at the Prince's Rink to-morrow night, commencing at 8 o'clock. The various competitors will weigh in sharp at 7 o'clock, and draw for bout in respective class. The preliminaries are as follows:—

BOXING.
Flyweight—J. Bishop, C. James, and Leo English.
Bantamweight—S. LaFosse, C. Brocklehurst, and Michael Rogers.
Lightweight—J. Hannaford (G. F.), J. Phelan and Raines (G. F.).
The following are bouts carded for night of Tournament.

WRESTLING.
Heavyweight—Ken Goodyear (G.F.) vs. F. Coehfeld.
Lightweight—A. Henchbury vs. B. Chanocoy.
Paper Weight (70lbs. Special)—Parsons vs. Brady.

BOXING.
Heavyweight—Ken Goodyear (G.F.) vs. entry from Humber.
Middleweight—J. Parsons vs. entry from Humber.
Welterweight—H. Burridge vs. G. Stamp.

Lightweight—Hannaford (G. F.); J. Phelan and Raines (G. F.).
Bantamweight—S. La Fosse, Rogers and Brocklehurst.
Flyweight—Bishop, James and English.

The entry list as furnished above comprises athletes of no mean ability of both the wrestling and boxing game, and excellent contests can be looked forward to in the various weights. The entry list is bigger than last year. Three, three-minute rounds will be fought in all bouts. This will tend to give more scope for snappy action. Preparations are now going on apace at the Rink, to seat the large crowds, and everything will be in readiness for the preliminaries to-morrow night. Ringside tickets for to-morrow night are on sale at 20 and 10 cents.

A number of choice seats for Friday night still remain at Grey and Goodland's, but those who intend being present at the Championships should make reservations as, with the great interest being evinced in the bouts, a record attendance is expected at the Rink on Friday night.

Niagara's Power From the Tides

By RENE BACHE.
The Federal Power Commission at Washington, D.C., now has under consideration a new project for harnessing the tides of the Bay of Fundy, at the northeast corner of the United States. It is said to be the first really practical plan for a large-scale tide-power development in this country.

We are harnessing our rivers, and with the help of wonderful new machinery, are converting the energy of their flow into electricity for industrial uses, for illumination, and even for operating railroads. The eventual possibilities of such hydro-electric developments are gigantic. Nevertheless, they have an ultimate limit, which engineers already are able to estimate with a fair share of definiteness. The power the tides could furnish, on the other hand, is limited only by the vastness of the seven seas and by the eternal journey of the moon around the earth!

Control and use of that power is the next great epoch-making achievement that mankind may expect. Discovery of a means whereby this can be accomplished will elevate civilization to a new plane. It will mean that all of our factories can be run by the tides; that our cities can be lighted and our houses heated by the unfailing moon!

The moon? Exactly so. For it is the moon's attraction that makes the tides. If we can make the tides work for us, we shall in effect be harnessing the lunar orb to supply the demand for power that now is draining the world's limited fuel resources.

As a matter of fact, the thing was accomplished successfully long ago. Formerly along the New England coast there were tide mills operated in places wherever an inlet could be dammed conveniently, with a pond to hold the water that flowed in on the side of the tide. Power was derived from the flow of the water into the pond and out again, driving a large paddle-wheel. It was a continuous power (used for small sawmills and flour mills), thanks to a most ingenious arrangement by which the current that drove the wheel was made to run in the same direction all the time, whether the tide was coming in or going out.

It is proposed to install a system of gates that will permit the floodtide to pour into the upper pool, and allow the lower pool to empty itself at ebb-tide. By this arrangement a stream equal in volume to the Niagara River will be poured continuously through the power house, driving turbines that are expected to generate enough electricity to supply a large part of Maine and eastern Canada.

The tides in the Bay of Fundy rise and fall through a range of from 35 to 45 feet—one of the greatest tidal ranges in the world. At the power house an "operating head"—never less than 16 feet and running as high as 27 feet—will be maintained. From 400,000 to 500,000 continuous electrical horsepower will be developed.

The upper pool, about 15 miles long by 10 miles wide, will be separated from the lower by a dam between the Maine shore and Deer Island—the power house to be close by this dam—and by two dams connecting Deer Island with the New Brunswick mainland and Campobello Island, respectively. A fourth dam, to impound the lower pool, will bridge the gap between Campobello Island and West Quoddy Head.

The lower pool will be somewhat less in area than the upper one. Locks are to be provided at the dams connecting Deer Island with Campobello Island and the mainland of New Brunswick, permitting ships to pass from one pool to the other.

Tides in the open ocean rise and fall with a maximum range of three feet; but the waters of the sea, rushing in flood with an estuary such as the Bay of Fundy, are literally piled up, so that in that great bay the difference in level between the high and the low tide sometimes is as much as 45 feet.

The idea back of the tremendous super-power is that the flood at each rising tide shall be allowed to pour through opened gates, filling the upper pool. During the rise it will drive the turbines at the power dam. During the ebb the lower pool will be permitted to empty itself into the ocean, while a stream equal in volume to a large river pours out of the upper pool through the power house, driving the turbines.

The turbines will operate huge dynamos. And, since the supply of power will be continuous, there will be no pause by day or night in the production of electricity, which will be distributed by wires over a vast area for industrial and domestic uses. All this useful energy will be captured indirectly from the moon. Oddly enough, few people realize how big the moon is. Its diameter is a little more than one-fourth that of the earth—2163 miles, to be exact—and its attraction is so great that it causes two great waves in the ocean, on opposite sides of the earth, to travel around the globe once in 24 hours. These waves make the tides. The sun's attraction is concerned incidentally, for it causes extra high tides when in a position to help the pull of the moon.

BAIRD'S LINIMENT RELIEVES NEURALGIA.
BAIRD'S LINIMENT FOR COUGHS

The tides represent unlimited power going to waste. But tide-power developments are practicable only where the tide enters an estuary and, with a piling up of the water, rushes up a channel. This phenomenon, conspicuously illustrated in the Bay of Fundy, is called a "tidal bore."

Developments for the utilization of tidal power are in practice limited to localities where natural facilities are favorable for creating tidal basins, where portions of the flow can be impounded and controlled, and where conditions are suitable for the erection of power plants similar in character to hydroelectric stations.

All this, of course, applies to large-scale developments. Small tide mills were in use in England as early as the eleventh century, and also in Brittany. In a simple form, such as installation can be made by placing the power plant between two channels connecting the sea with a reservoir basin, as in the New England power mill. One channel is closed while the basin is filling; the other while the basin is emptying. The flow can be utilized coming and going.

The water-wheel, which dates far back in history, almost undoubtedly was a Chinese invention. Probably the same is true of the tide mill. At present there are many such mills in China, located on small tidal creeks, and used for cleaning and "polishing" rice.

In most instances employment is made of "stop-logs" to form a removable dam between two stone piers. When the creek has filled up to the level of high tide, the logs, inserted in grooves cut in the piers, make a fairly serviceable dam, retaining the water as the tide falls. When the tide has ebbed, an outlet gate is opened, and the impounded water is discharged through a wooden flume upon a wooden wheel 18 or 20 feet in diameter.

What has been accomplished for so many years by primitive methods and with the help of equally primitive apparatus, certainly can be achieved, in the light of modern scientific knowledge, with the wonderful hydroelectric machinery already in use.

The moon is a lazy orb, serving little useful purpose except to give us a certain amount of nocturnal illumination. We have persuaded it to grind grain and saw planks, but it can be compelled to operate mechanical plants on a large scale. It can be compelled to operate mechanical plants on a large scale. It can be made to run the machinery of our factories, illuminate our cities, heat our houses, drive our railway trains, and lift the elevators in our skyscraper buildings and apartment hotels.

There will be no lack of locations, in estuaries and straits, where tidal developments on a large scale can be established. Why, for example, should not the tides of Delaware Bay and of the Chesapeake be harnessed? Experts say there is no reason why they cannot be.

In the meantime, the attention of hydraulic engineers naturally is attracted to places where the tidal rise and fall is extraordinary great. The Bay of Fundy is one of them. Another is at St. Malo, on the Rance River, in France, where the sea, running up a big estuary, gives the waters a 40-foot fall. Another is in England, where the damming of the Severn is expected to yield continuously a power greater than is derived from all the hydroelectric developments of Niagara. In Cook's Inlet, southern Alaska, the tidal range is the greatest known anywhere, attaining a maximum of 50 feet when moon and sun pull together.

Many years ago, an American warship was anchored in a Chinese river, and a cannon, which was being hoisted on deck, fell overboard. The American officers, after trying many expedients to recover the weapon, gave it up. Presently, however, half-a-dozen Chinamen offered to undertake the job.

They fetched a float and tall sheers, stuck the latter deep into the mud of the river bottom, and, at low tide, attached the gun to the float with ropes. The next high tide raised the float, and the gun with it, six feet. The gun was fastened at that height, and, by repeating the operations again and again, it was soon brought to the surface. Then timbers and more timbers were shoved under the float, until, with more of the same business, the gun was lifted to the level of the ship's deck and shoved aboard.

No power? There was unlimited power. All the power of the pull of the moon was available to do the lifting.—Popular Science.

Delight in this method of combating film on teeth

Whiter teeth have come to millions in the past few years. You see them everywhere. The dingy film which used to coat them is now combated daily.

Those whiter teeth mean cleaner, safer teeth. You will want them when you know. Learn how to get them by this simple test.

The cause is film
Film is the cause of cloudy teeth—that viscous film you feel under old methods, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats, which once were more common than now.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

All of these troubles become alarmingly common under old methods of teeth cleaning.

Then dental science found two film combatants. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation.

Protect the Enamel
Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

ent to the fishery supplying business will open. As a result of the change in the tariff, which comes into effect soon, the price of pork will, of course, be easier and no doubt freights on this class of goods will also decline as they have on flour, so that prices will be considerably modified. Owing to the change in the duties it was difficult to get the prospective prices for the week, but pork will be considerably lower than heretofore. The imports for the week were 855 bbls. by the S.S. Rosalind from New York.

Beef—The market in beef, which took on some activity last week, failed to show a continuation of this feature during the present week and the business done was of a negligible character. However, most importers of the article look to see considerable activity in the market soon with the opening of the supplying season, while extra business is sure to accrue from the work now being done on the Humber, at Grand Falls and other parts of the country. Like pork, the beef market will be affected by the lower tariff on such commodities and cheaper meat all round must be the result. There is not much beef held in stock here now and henceforth there should be fair consignments coming this way. Only a few barrels came to hand by the Rosalind during the week.

Molasses—Importers of molasses say that there is none in stock here now but that the cargoes now on the way from Barbados should soon arrive. Despite any alteration in the tariff as regards this article the prices will be higher than usual owing to the fact that, as compared with last year, there will be a very pronounced shortage in the local market during the week were for fancy 85c. per gallon and for choice 85c.

Sugar—The easier aspect in the sugar market noted last week still continues and the general impression is that for the present at least prices are as low as they well can be and not much further decline will ensue.

who handle the oil believe that it will be comparatively easy to market at very good figures. Enquiries are coming along regularly from the United States, England and various European countries and likely in a very short while all the oil left of the 1923 manufacture will be closed off. The future for our refined oil is bright and this summer the maximum of production should be our endeavour, for with the favorable position Newfoundland refined now holds it will not be difficult to sell at prices that will be set by the manufacturer. Both the American and European importers of our refined oil is now fully alive to the super-excellence of the Newfoundland article, the demand for which this year will, it is believed, be far greater than heretofore. The feeling of optimism as to our refined oil, held by those interested, we fully believe to be justified.

Flour—The local flour market did not show much change during the week and the volume of business done was small. There seemed to be a little stiffening in the price during the latter part of the week, dealers tell us, and the price advanced by about 20c. the barrel wholesale. Some of the importers spoken to during the week-end were inclined to criticise the Government for remitting duties on flour and meats without giving due notice to the trade of the contemplated change in the tariff. It looks at the present writing as if flour will be at least 90c. cheaper soon, as freights are also coming down, the Canadian Mercantile Marine and the Canada Steamships having announced a reduction of 50c. per barrel, which with the decrease in duty here is a remission all round of 90c. The imports of flour for the week were 2,110 sacks by the Rosalind from New York.

Pork—The market in pork has not been very lively the past week and very little business was done, though dealers are looking confidently forward to better business in the near future, when the general activity incident to the fishery supplying business will open. As a result of the change in the tariff, which comes into effect soon, the price of pork will, of course, be easier and no doubt freights on this class of goods will also decline as they have on flour, so that prices will be considerably modified. Owing to the change in the duties it was difficult to get the prospective prices for the week, but pork will be considerably lower than heretofore. The imports for the week were 855 bbls. by the S.S. Theory of Isostasy
Contents World is Solid to Its Core.

Chicago, April 28. (A.P.)—Isostasy, the theory for the establishment of which Director John Hayford, head of the College of Engineering at Northwestern University, was awarded the Victorian Medal by the Royal Geographic Society of Great Britain, is explained by the director as a force beneath the surface of the earth tending to equalize pressure at all points.

"It adds much to strengthen the evidence that the world is solid throughout," Hayford said. "In a measure, it also explains earthquakes. On the Japanese coast and the western coast of the United States there are high mountainous adjacent to great ocean depths.

"Isostasy demonstrates that earthquakes under such conditions are not due to action of subterranean gases and lava on the earth's crust, but to the deeper movement of the earth's bulk, due to tremendous pressure."

He declared that where gases and fire exist they occupy pockets in the earth's crust, and that the center of the earth is not a molten mass.

Director Hayford's studies of isostasy have been translated and are now being used and referred to by scientists of every nation. Many geologists have accepted his theory.

"Isostasy advances the supposition that rocks are lighter under the high parts of the American continent than the low parts," he said. "If the theory is true, then there is a hydrostatic pressure in the rocks of the earth everywhere at about 70 miles below sea level. Under the deeps of the Atlantic, rocks are four per cent heavier than under Pike's Peak. Hence, the relation of the elevation above sea level on the one hand and the density of the rocks of that section of the globe down to a depth of about 70 miles on the other hand, is such that a column under any square mile of the earth down to 70 miles below sea level weighs nearly the same as any other such column."

Director Hayford began work on his theory in 1900. Since then he has conducted more than 800 plumb line comparisons. He said that the pull of the earth on a pendulum has been measured in 200 places in the United States, a second proof of isostasy.

--Buick is the Standard of Comparison

For the sixth consecutive year, Buick has been awarded First Place at the American Automobile Shows during 1923, for having done the largest volume of business during the preceding year.

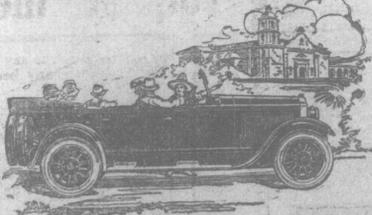

During 1923 Buick produced and sold 218,286 high grade motor cars for which the public paid $302,752,950—the production of the next leading make was 145,167 cars—therefore Buick beat its closest competitor by over Seventy Thousand cars.

Public opinion as indicated in the above figures of sales is absolute proof that—Buick is the best value in the world.

In designing Four-Wheel brakes on all its models, Buick has added greater safety to a car already recognized for its sturdiness, high grade construction, power, beauty, comfort and efficiency—these Brakes were given an exhaustive road test of 150,000 miles, before being perfected by the Buick engineers.

Being the largest distributors of cars in the city, we own and operate an up-to-date Garage, to give Buick owners every up-to-date Service—we also keep on hand a complete stock of spare parts.

Before buying a car call and see the latest Buick models on display at our Show Room. "Phone us and we will gladly send a 1924 Buick to your address for inspection and demonstration—Let us prove to you why Buick is a safer car to drive.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

SETS OUR TEETH ON EDGE.

There are certain sounds that set people's teeth on edge. They vary with the differences of people. I am told that the tearing of cloth gives some people that set their teeth on edge. I don't mind it—rather like it. But the sound of a pipe being scraped with a knife makes every nerve in me crawl with anguish.

The juxtaposition of certain colors have a similar effect on people who are sensitive to color discords. And likewise, though this is less recognized, there are certain situations in life that set our teeth on edge in the same way through their effect on our sense of the decencies.

Puts Her Mother in Her Place.
This is the kind of thing I mean. There is a little 13-year-old girl in our neighborhood whom I had always admired for her pretty face, her wit and her charm of manner. Then one day I sat behind her and her mother on the trolley car. The mother wanted the daughter to look in a certain shop for a suit they were going to buy and the daughter had no use for that shop. Of course she had a right to feel that way and to say so. But the way she said it! The way she put her mother in her place. "I don't intend to go to X's and if you are going to try to drag me into that cheap place you might just as well go straight home. I won't be seen there. And if you had any taste at all, you wouldn't. You certainly haven't the least taste, if I bought the kind of thing you like I'd be laughing stock of all the girls."

All delivered in a sharp tone and with no effort to make it inaudible to the people about her.

An Outrage to the Decencies.
I saw several people glance at the girl with a look of distaste that her pretty face did not counterbalance. I knew just how they felt. Their teeth had been set on edge by her outrage of the decencies.

Granted that all the things she said were true (which they doubtless were not) her saying them in the way she did, and in public place put her in the wrong. Strange a girl with so much wit and intelligence should not have seen it.

If the word breeding means anything it means that one has a sense of the decencies and does not set people's teeth on edge by outraging them.

Why He Didn't Propose.
I know another case where a man who had been much taken with a young business woman and was on the verge of offering his very eligible self to her, happened to overhear her speaking to her father. Her father was one of those pathetic creatures, the unsuccessful father of a competent wife and clever, competent children. He had just lost a position because the firm he was working for had given up its office in that city, and was evidently in deeper disgrace than usual. He made some suggestion to his daughter, and his daughter said: "Oh, shut up, what do you know about business?"

The young man did not offer his eligible self that afternoon—or ever. His whole feeling toward the girl was altered by that accident. She never knew why he had changed and always wondered about it. Perhaps this will enlighten her.

If there were no other reason for a courteous and filial attitude toward one's parents, the fact that the lack of it is the surest hall mark of bad breeding, and antagonizes people who value good breeding, should be a sufficient motive.

The Westbound Limited Thrills Audiences

LARGE HOUSES WITNESS RAILROAD THRILLER AT NICKEL.

Theatre goers were looking for a thrill when "The Westbound Limited" was announced, and last night at the Nickel their expectations were realized to its fullest extent, and this is no press-agentry but "honest goods." Heart interest is there in good measure. There is considerable sentiment attached to the character portrayed by Ralph Lewis, who plays a faithful workman and head of a family with the sincerity that made his former work a success.

Besides this appeal of the simply family life there is a youthful romance and enough intrigue and action to furnish many thrills. The picture starts off racing. The heroine has a narrow escape from being run over, and her rescue starts a friendship between the president of the railroad company and the engineer's family that is the basis for the story. The thrills of the picture are nothing short of remarkable.

Archie Harrod's Jubilee Singers were in excellent form and delivered a high class programme of songs together with readings and plantation numbers. John Woodland's Bass solo, "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," was effectively rendered and received the hearty applause of the audience. Archie Harrod gave as a reading "Signs of Death," in which he again injected his original humor. Miss Walton's rendition of "Tiza" was beautifully delivered, whilst the duet "Moonlight in Maryland" sang by Misses Mayo and Walton was rendered with much expression. This, we believe is the biggest program yet delivered by this talented troupe of Colored Artists, and any who may have missed it yesterday we advise them to take it in to-night.

Laurentic's Sunken Treasure is Rapidly Being Salvaged.

London, April 5. (A.P.)—There are now only 154 bars of gold worth $1,200,000 on the wreck of the Laurentic, which was sunk during the war, and the salvage ship Racer will shortly endeavor to recover this, said Commander G. C. C. Damant in the course of a lecture at the Institution of Mechanical Engineers.

Four boxes of gold weighing 140 lbs. each were recovered in such short time when the work started that it seemed as if operations would be finished in a week. A fierce gale sprang up, however, and the wreck collapsed, making salvage work very difficult. Of the 3,211 bars which went down with the ship, 3,057 have been recovered during operations extending over six summers at a cost of two and one-half per cent.

Don't Say— "Just a Sore Throat"

IN a few days, you know, "just a sore throat" may be something much more serious. For science has proved that the throat is not only the first spot reached by infectious germs, but also forms the ideal soil for them to multiply on.

Throat protection, therefore, means germ destruction and is a duty that you owe your health. It is easily achieved by the regular use of Formamint—the germ-killing throat tablet.

Formamint (which is endorsed by over 5,000 American physicians) is the scientific way of disinfecting the mouth and the throat. Handy to have with you—pleasing in taste—it frees an efficient germicide that mixes with the saliva and so reaches where gargles cannot go.

And a tablet taken occasionally during the day not only brings grateful and immediate relief from "sore throat"—but affords protection against even more distressing ailments that so often follow infection of the throat linings. At all druggists

London, April 22 (A.P.)—An admiralty fleet order states that the laxity in swimming proficiency, which obtained during the war, "will no longer be tolerated." The order adds that "a person in the navy who neglects to learn to swim is potentially selfish because, should he be involved in an accident, he usually causes some courageous person to risk his life in trying to save him."

Brilliant Exhibition of Acrobatic Dancing
DISPLAY BY DWYER SISTERS AT THE CRESCENT.
The consensus of opinion is that last night's act at the Crescent is by far the best yet demonstrated by the clever Dwyer Sisters, in fact, it hasn't been equalled by any other performer, or team. They opened their bill with an especially attractive novelty number "Down by the Old Apple Tree" and following it with a cute waltz song entitled "Baba." The Soft Shoe dance was executed with skill and neatness of motion whilst the Toe Dance was nothing short of marvelous. It's not every dancer that can so perfectly balance themselves on their toes for a whole number, but the Dwyer Sisters did this with perfect ease, and the applause that greeted them was demonstrative of the appreciation of the large audience. The big item, was however, the finale which consisted of a swift Acrobatic Dance in which they twist each other around as if they were made of India Rubber. This number nearly brought down the house. No one should miss this extraordinary treat of singing and dancing which is now playing at the Crescent.

Lovers of fast-moving drama had a real thrill when they saw the newest adaptation of a Play story appeared in the Canadian Magazine, and its countless copies coming in every section of the United States, Canada and New Zealand.

Jersey which measured eighteen feet in diameter, and is said to have weighed five tons. Another was taken at Bonne Bay, on our West Coast, some years ago, which measured nine feet in diameter. These rays are also very voracious, and the destruction they cause is immense. All are fish that come to their net-naked or shelled, molluscs or crustaceans are all swallowed without ado. In our own seas also some fish attain to great size. Halibut weighing two hundred pounds are not uncommon; but, perhaps, the palm must be given to the immense devil-rays of the South Sea Islands. These monsters are frequently fifteen to twenty feet broad, and when basking on the surface look like flat reefs. The Society Islanders hunt the devil-ray with harpoons to this day.

I still distinctly remember the great surprise I got one morning in the early seventies. I was staying at Spencer's Hotel, Trinity, and had just finished dressing when Mr. Thomas Scanlon, Assistant Superintendent of the Anglo-American Telegraph Company, rushed into my room and shouted to me to go down with him to the harbor beach and see "the devil's own kind of a fish" that had been thrown ashore there by the high wind and sea of the previous night. Scanlon was always regarded as a bit of a wag, although one of the best fellows in the world, and I at first hesitated, but, after a moment or two, finding that he was in earnest, went off with him. The body of the creature was, in circumference, a little larger than an ordinary sausage barrel and which are in a class by themselves, there are yet such monsters of the deep as to keep the imagination at full stretch and make the hair of any respectable head stand on end.

To speak also of the sharks, the dreaded white shark, the blood-thirsty pirate of the ocean; the thresher shark, which amuses himself by tearing lumps of living flesh out of the unfortunate whale; and the hammer-headed shark, the eyes of which are set at each end of the strange hammer-like projection from which it takes its name. Another fish that may truly be called a monster of the deep is the conger, which is rapidly coming into favor with English sea anglers. It is not uncommon to find these fish weighing anything up to fifty pounds; and during some of the recent fishing competitions round the English coast fish of over sixty pounds were taken on rod and line. The rays are also heavy fish, which give the angler all the excitement he can require. They are all oviparous and their eggs are enclosed in brown leathery capsules of a quadrangular form, like those of the dogfishes, and furnished, like these, with elongated processes at their angles. Some of them are of gigantic proportions and weigh many hundredweights.

ered o'er we'll reach the Eldorado of our hope—the golden shore!" Thus and thus do they address each other, these precious and amiable spirits, distilling their political sweetness from their personal anxieties and taking every advantage of their proximity to the public treasury.

However, there are honest men in the colony still and quite enough of them to form a good government, in spite of the appalling disclosures made at the recent "Inquiry." Ridiculous the idea of so much honesty, if you will, Messrs. Grafton & Co., but the fact will remain all the same, it is only natural to suppose that men who have been wrecking, pilating and plundering the public treasury all their life-time, find it hard to believe in the existence of such a thing as honesty. But, "it does exist, though," and they will be compelled to admit as much yet, as sure as there's a Righteous Judge above us!

When some people find they cannot become famous, they make up their minds to become notorious and do all kinds of queer things to attract notice. The sentiment of the country demands that such persons be kept out of public positions of trust and responsibility, and the party leaders who appoint them to office should be held responsible for their misdeeds.

Voters all over the dominion are feeling uneasy. The revolt against politics has been clear for some years—since the introduction of corruption and graft in 1908—to those who could see, though this does not include most politicians. There has been going on an unintended education of voters with which the average party worker has not kept up. For some time people in revolt against one party would merely turn to the other. It took a decade or more for them to make certain that this left them no better off. Then for a while they tried various political patent medicines prescribed by the respective leaders of the time, and it took part of another decade to learn that these were usually worthless.

The two lessons have been crystallizing into a vague but deep desire for a new deal all around. The number who share this desire, and still more the number who are willing to do something about it, has been increasing steadily. This year it has taken a big jump, but it is still uncertain—and that is the biggest uncertainty in local politics to-day—because the revolt has so often shown itself in strange and warped forms that its actual size is hard to estimate. But it is big, and growing. Commander Carleton says: "I read a great deal about the demand for a boxer to knock out Dempsey, but I never see one for a great poet to knock the devil out of politics."

To the people of a country whose principal harvest is gathered from the sea, everything connected with that harvest and the way in which it is reaped must, of necessity, be deeply interesting, not only to men who "go down to the sea in ships," but to those of us who stay on shore as well. Especially is this the case at a time when sea monsters seem more in evidence than usual. The appearance last fall of a huge aquatic animal of serpentine form and movement between Flowers Cove and Porteau in the Straits of Bellefleur and again in Cabot Strait, as reported by the captain of a Canadian freight steamer, intensifies our interest in the whole subject.

According to those who profess to know, the irrevocable law of the ocean is that Life lives on Life. We see this in a great measure on Earth; but in the Sea it is as immutable and universal as the laws of 1919 and 1920. Indeed, seeing the incessant and ferocious struggle that is eternally going on it is a marvel that fish should survive at all, let alone increase and multiply. The saving clause is their swiftness and incomprehensible rapidity of flight. But nature has also provided strange means of defence and camouflage. Setting aside the mammalian or gigantic cetaceans of the aquatic world, such as the whales, walruses, seals, seals and so on, all of

RANDOM REMARKS

About Things in-General.

(By PERIPATETE.)

As the public offices of the day are thronged with people, then the people must understand the Principle. They must demand integrity and righteousness in government; they must require of their statements the same code of ethics in their dealings with others as they require among themselves; they must free their minds from partisanship, whether arising from religion, race, party creed; and they must understand why they do these things. If we are to live as good citizens in this age of Principle, we must follow our leaders only in so far as they follow Principle, and our leaders can only be leaders in so far as they recognize this great truth.

There are several other potent questions that ought to be answered as soon as possible. As a matter of fact, they answer themselves, and the answer they give is that a select number of gentlemen who have hitherto passed in the community for men of upright, honesty and truthfulness have unworthily lent themselves, since going into politics to a course and career of crookedness and duplicity that would almost make the shades of departed Liberals and Conservatives alike turn in their graves if it were possible for them to know it.

Fortunately they don't know it. They don't know anything about it. They are occupied with infinitely more important concerns. They are enjoying themselves in a condition of perfect serenity and satisfaction, and probably settling among themselves the various differences which divided them "here below." The situation reminds me of a very good story I read lately respecting an American Justice's first charge to a jury. Said he: "Gentlemen of the Jury—You have all heard the evidence as well as myself. You have also heard what the learned Counsel have said. If you believe what the counsel for the plaintiff has told you, your verdict will be for the plaintiff. If, on the other hand, you believe what the defendant's counsel has said, your verdict will be for the defendant. But if, like myself, you don't believe either of the rascals, I'll be blessed if I know what you'll do!"

Now, those old political prospectors, in their search for gold, have met again in the same field, and all is forgiven. "Too long have we been parted by the iron of fate," they say to each other. "But now we sail again in the same boat, and she is copper fastened this time. Heave the lead, brother, and let it hit our political opponents. Between us we have a sufficient stock of brass to last out the voyage, and before our nob's are silly."

wrong with our educational Why do I ask? Because the results are sorely disappointing. Here an annual expenditure, direct-ly of nearly half a million for school purposes, and a population of only 250,000, and 40,000 who can neither read nor write. By the way, one strange of the new enthusiasm for education to approve the old middle-class "book-learning" unfitted for their manual callings. What our present system of education has brought men to of talkativeness without of understanding. Their con-ducting a spirit of dissatis-faction and turbulence concern-ing whatever exists in human and an ever-increasing in-crease in the business of life.

STAFFORD'S Sarsaparilla Blood Purifier

Skin Diseases, Anemia, Lack of Blood, Paleness, Impure Blood, Lack of Ambition and Vigor, Debility, Weakness, Tired Feeling, Boils, Pimples, etc.

THERE is no Remedy of more universal application than a genuine true-and-ried Blood Purifier and Blood Builder. A medicinal preparation that will truly purify, revitalize and renew the blood, restores hope and pleasure, ambition and happiness, vigor and vitality. It is of inestimable value not only as a strengthener of the system, fortifying it against invasion of disease, but also as a cure for Chronic Diseases which depend upon an impoverished condition of the blood. Diseases of this nature are usually caused by impurities in the blood deposited through the inactivity of the Liver and Kidneys. These secretions if not removed from the circulation, gradually form poisons which deteriorate the condition of the blood and allow other diseases to obtain a more ready entrance to the system. In the effort of nature to throw off these impurities, frequently pimples, boils, carbuncles, etc., appear, and it is wise to respond promptly to the Warning of Nature.

THIS SARSAPARILLA

is a genuine preparation scientifically prepared from the best and purest remedies for the purifying and rebuilding of the blood. It should be taken every spring, as at this season the blood is more apt to become impure and impoverished. Keep your blood in perfect condition and you will be prepared to fight life's battles with greater success.

One Bottle of this Blood Purifier is all that you will need to take to produce results.

I. THE ANCIENT.

You see him wherever you go, in the street, in his office or better still in one or other of the hotels, for then he is in his element. A bright eyed, white whiskered, upright old man, keen of wit and a sparkling laugh, which at one hearing completely disarms the lonely stranger of his reserve, and encourages him to draw his chair nearer to join in the circle of listeners. For the old man has the floor, the subject of his own, and as the only interruption is laughter or applause, the time he takes to spin his yarn is his own, and with much searching out of word or phrase he makes the most of it.

Sometimes the present Winter holds his thoughts, and then he tells how in the year '78, or was it '78 or '78 the snow was so and so, and the frosts he tells you of almost freeze you as you listen.

At other times he talks of sport, how W—did a certain distance in a most amazing short time, of a race on the Lake, and moves his supple limbs to show the efforts of each crew in trying to reach the post. His eyes aglow, his breathing hard and fast for he is not in one or other of the boats.

Nor are these his only subjects, he caps each and every sailor yarn with one of his own, and as for Sealing, he can remember details of so many seasons back, that he almost seems inclined to cease his narrative, for well he knows that time sets heavy on him. Yet only when he talks of friends and faces that have gone ahead, in he really sad, and passes by the subject with sigh, perchance a tear.

I. O. O. F. Celebration

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTH ANNIVERSARY.

The one hundred and fifth anniversary of the Independent Order of Odd-fellows, was celebrated in fitting manner last night at the Club rooms, McBride's Hill. The attendance was large and an enjoyable evening was spent by all. District Deputy Grand Master George T. Phillips presided. A concert programme followed the opening proceedings, in which the following took part:—Messrs. Fred Wylie, Ollie Green, Fred King, Frank Neville. Mr. Max Colton was accompanist. A recitation was also given by Mr. Bert Colton. All the items were well rendered and heartily applauded. Following the concert Rev. R. E. Fairbairn entertained the gathering with an illustrated lantern lecture, entitled, "Scenes in and around England, Bermuda and Newfoundland." At the close a vote of thanks was proposed by Bro. Past Grand George Soper, District Deputy Grand Chief Patriarch, and seconded by the N.G. of Colonial Lodge, Ernest Warren. A vote of thanks, proposed by Past Grand Gordon Phillips and seconded by Bro. Past Grand Garf, was also accorded those who took part in the first part of the programme.

Spencer Club Entertainment

The annual card party and dance of the Spencer Club, in aid of the College, was held in Spencer College Hall last evening. About two hundred and fifty persons were present, which was a record attendance. It was voted a complete success from start to finish, the majority of the dancers remaining for the closing dance, which was about 1:30 this morning. The music for the dance was provided by Mrs. Harvey Jardine, piano; Miss Morris, violin; Mr. Walsh, drums and effects. The card party was in two sections, about half playing auction forty-fives and the remainder playing bridge. The winners of the bridge were Dr. G. N. Murphy and Mrs. Murphy, whilst the auction forty-fives prizes were won by Mr. Andrew Carrell and Mrs. Hart. The prizes were presented by Miss Charrington, Principal of Spencer College, who thanked those present for their support of the College. Supper was served by the ladies of the Spencer Club, after which the dance programme was continued.

Revolutionary Changes

IN LAW OF DIVORCE PASSED BY LORDS—DOGGED OPPOSITION OF BISHOPS.

The Church rallied all its forces in the House of Lords to kill Lord Buckmaster's newest proposals for divorce reform. The opposition, however, failed, and a Bill which makes revolutionary changes, passed its second reading by 88 votes to 51.

The bishops were there in full strength, and the Church of England lastly, headed by Lord Daryngton—formerly Mr. Pike Peace, M.P.—appeared in such numbers that the crimson benches were more crowded than they have been for months.

Lord Buckmaster has spent months in trying to overcome the religious convictions and prejudices that still bar the way to alterations in the divorce law. He fought again yesterday, eloquently and passionately.

The Bill, second reading of which he moved, extended the grounds of divorce to include—
Desertion for three years.
Cruelty.
Habitual drunkenness.
Insanity.
Imprisonment for life.

His speech was so moving that at the end of it one person forgetfully outraged all the strict traditions of the House of Lords by enthusiastically clapping his hands. Then Lord Daryngton, President of the Church Army, rose, and basing himself on the literal interpretation of selected scriptural texts, declared that "the Bill is contrary to the teachings of Christ." That was the keynote of the opposition.

Lord Buckmaster, dealing with insanity, said that the only objection which had been raised against this being a ground of divorce was that which had been advanced by the Duke of Northumberland, whose arguments was that there was no reason why insanity should be distinguished from other diseases, insanity, replied Lord Buckmaster, was the most awful scourge that afflicted mankind.

"It leaves a person who was a husband or a wife something which is but a shadow. Either there must be divorce, or you must allow the man or woman to continue his or her life without the slightest prospect of the social amenities and enjoyments that are supposed to form the foundation of married life."

As for desertion, that, he said, related almost exclusively to the poor, and he instanced a recent case in which two sisters, married on the same day, were both deserted within a fortnight.

It fell to Lord Daryngton to move the rejection. His speech was a sermon by one of the foremost figures among the Church's laymen—utterly sincere, but stern and unyielding.

Scriptural texts and allusions poured from him, and always he came back to the same point. "This Bill allows the breaking of the Divine law and helps to disguise from our people the fact that, according to that law, they would be living in sin."

The Archbishop of Canterbury threw his weight against the Bill. The hard cases, he argued, were not typical cases, and he declared that there was no evidence that the mass of the people wanted the grounds of divorce extended.

Lord FitzAlan, as a Roman Catholic, admitted that the Bill did not affect him or his co-religionists, but he "dreaded its effects on the morality of the country."

The view of Lord Haldane was that so large a change could only be made if there was a settled public opinion behind the Bill. He was personally in favor of the second reading, but the Government must leave the decision to Parliament.

Further opposition to the Bill came from the Bishop of Norwich, who argued that the sole ground for divorce should be misconduct, but the second reading was carried by the

MARY ANGELA CHRISTOPHER.

A few weeks past the religious community of the Archdiocese of St. John's have been bereaved of one of their members. Two venerable members of the Presentation Convent, Mother Bernard O'Connell and Sister Gertrude Walsh, away in immediate succession.

Mary Angela Baker, of the Presentation Convent, was the first to pass. She had gone to the convent in 1885 and was now in her eighty-third year.

Mary Angela Christopher, of the Presentation Convent, was the second to pass. She had gone to the convent in 1885 and was now in her eighty-third year.

quiem Mass in the Convent oratory. The following message from his Grace the Archbishop indicates the esteem in which the deceased religious was held.

"I tender to Belvedere my heartfelt sympathy on Sister M. Angela's death, which I heard with deep personal regret. She will be sadly missed by the Community, but most of all by the orphans for whom she worked so unselfishly during her short religious life."

Sister M. Angela is survived by her mother, sister and brother. To them, as well as to the Sisters of Mercy, sincere sympathy is extended. May her soul rest in peace.

"The Loves of Pharaoh" a Wonder Feature

GEDDES SCORES A TRIUMPH IN HIS SPECIAL RENDITIONS.

Presenting one of the most magnificent picture subjects seen here in many months, "The Loves of Pharaoh," an Ernest Lubitsch production for Paramount, was shown with unqualified success at the Majestic Theatre last night. Mr. Lubitsch, the creator of "Passion" and "Deception," has outdone himself in this remarkable production.

The scenes are laid in Egypt in the days of the Pharaohs and to say that they are massive and that as a spectacle, this picture is unrivalled, is expressing it mildly.

Nor is the story lost in the spectacle. The people of the play, Pharaoh Ameneh, the all-powerful King of Egypt, cold and cruel as the ruler of his people, but tender and a vain supplicant for love at the feet of a free-spirited slave girl, is made a true character by Emil Jennings. Paul Wegener, as the King of the Ethiopians, is clear and definite and contrasting. More expressive pantomime than that of these two has seldom, if ever, been seen on the screen.

The new Austrian actress, Dagny Serre, is a handsome woman, who is able to act. She gives the slave girl all needed vitality. Hendy Liedtke, too, as the young Egyptian, whom the slave loves, gives an animated and accurate performance.

So there is story as well as grandeur to "The Loves of Pharaoh." It is one of the truly exceptional works of the screen.

Added to the above spectacular feature, Mr. Cameron Geddes sang three songs, including "Alone in the Desert," which called for repeated encores. To-night the same bill and screen lovers should not fall to miss the feature which employs over one hundred and twelve thousand people, and is said to be greater than "The Birth of a Nation."

If Only
CHANCES WE MISS EVERY DAY.
(BY JOHN BLUNT.)

A great many people fail to grasp the opportunities of the future because they are always harping back in their minds upon the lost opportunities of the past. They are averrantly thinking, "If only I had done so and so," instead of thinking, "If only I do so and so."

But in these vain regrets there is a double fallacy. To begin with they forget that they could not have foretold how the future was going to turn out. It is already the past, and secondly, they forget that the missed opportunities are an invaluable experience for the unknown opportunities that lie before them.

A man has to carve out his path from thousands of possible tracks and not one man in a million is so fortunate as always to do the right thing. Indeed, the very wisest of men might invariably have been much wiser, just as the richest of men might invariably have been much richer—if only they had been able to peer into the future.

"I Might."
The real faculty of deploring missed chances is that, logically speaking, if we regret any missed chance we ought to regret tens of thousands of them. For every day every one of us is missing the most wonderful chances. If I sell out some shares and they rise next day, I think to myself, "If only I had kept my shares," but why should I regret that one transaction more than all the other transactions in shares which rose, that I might have made? They were one and all of them missed opportunities.

Regret that makes us wiser or better in the future may be a good thing, but mere vague regret that we did not do all those things which the future has shown us would have been to our advantage is worse than useless. It stultifies the imagination; it makes us live in the past instead of in the present; it embitters without enlightening.

The Bad We Miss.
And yet how natural it is to everybody. We all have our day dreams of what might have been. But when we bewail our missed good fortune, ought we not to rejoice over our missed bad fortune? The excellent opportunities which we let slip are no more numerous than the bad pitfalls which we avoid, and if a few of us win a first prize in large sweepstakes very few of us also get killed in railway accidents.

But the tendency of mankind is to forget that negative things play as important a part in our lives as positive things. We envy the man who becomes famous; we do not congratulate ourselves for not becoming famous. But in the spirit of chance which rules so large a portion of our lives either event might have happened without our being appreciably better or worse, cleverer or stupider, than we are.

The Biggest Thrill.
One often thinks idly to oneself that it would have been nice to have been born a genius or a duke or a millionaire or the most beautiful woman in Europe, but one seldom thinks how wonderful it is to have been born at all. And yet it is quite obvious that the mere fact of having been born with a consciousness is infinitely more thrilling than any other possibility connected with humanity.

I expect that when I have finished this article and look it over I will think, "If only I had done it differently, it would have been better"; but though that is, no doubt, perfectly true, let me rather think how strange it is that anybody should be able to write anything at all, even the alphabet.—Daily Mail.

Steamer Seal on Dock
The steamers Melakoff and Sebastopol, which have been on dock for several days past, undergoing general repairs, were removed from the basin yesterday afternoon. The S.S.
