From the New Haven Palladium, The Odd Fellows' lodge room directly over the Palladium editorial department in over the Palladium editorial department is occupied five evenings in the week. In the early evening, when the lodge opens, there reaches us the music of some hymn well sung. It is presumed that the initiation comes after that, for soon is heard a heavy fall, followed by a shriek, and then the heavy and even trainp of a score or more of men. But Friday evenings, when one of the higher bodies meets, there are ceremonies which, to judge from the noise, must be decidedly startling to the novitiate. There are rumblings and rushings, and shrieks and howls—the building shakes, and once in a while pieces of plaster fall from the ceilings of the rooms below.

CETEWAYO.

This bygone celebrity is still luxuriating in the land of his conquerors. He is doubtless making good use of his time in picking up a few crumbs of English civilisation, so that whenever he should return to his native land he will astonish the natives with his accomplishments. But it may be that like Hermann of old, he is sonable charges, and to regulate and apporkesping his weather eye open for all the tion these among the customers of the secrets of England's power, in order the road, on principles of equity and relative more successfully to do battle should he ever again be so highly favored as to have the chance of leading his countrymen against his country's foes, The probabilities are, however, that his African spirit which he is receiving at the hands of Englishmen, and still more through the effeminating influences of highly civilized life by which no race is more powerfully affected than the sons of Ham. Their evident inferiority to the Caucasian race in mental calibre and consequent advancement, and a natural inclination to imitate their superiors. generally induces them to adopt the usages and customs of the latter whenever the two come in contact. It is thus very likely that, under the pressure of surrounding influences and with the example of their illustrious chief, the Zulu nation will submit to be anglicized as their Kaffir brethren have been done before them.

With their superior natural intelligence i they will become a tolerably civilized peoneighbors at the Cape.

AURORAS AND THUNDERSTORMS.

Semi-civilized human beings in the land of perpetual ice and snow are said to regard the Aurora Borealis with awe and veneration as representing the playful moods o deceased ancestors. Very recent astronomical studies have given the scientific men of the temperate zones a chance to estimate these gorgeous phenomena from a practical as well as theoretical point of view. It has been observed that there are periods of unusual auroral display as well as of solar disturbance, and that for several periods these have been co-incidental. It is quite scientific to assume, upon a sufficient number of observations, a relation of cause and affect between the two. Moreover, it has been found, though not as certainty, that where an auro ra has appeared in one latitudinal belt it has been the one point by auroral displays, while at others a more vigorous adjustment is Canada. brought about by thunder storms. It can scarcely have failed to be noticed that in this latitude, though we have had exces-

On the other hand while the Servia has proved herself equal to all BY A promises, the City of Rome, graceful as she is, has disappointed her builders, both in speed and carrying capacity, and has been sold to the Anchor line while the Inman company has brought suit against her constructors and is about to make another effort. In sailing vessels the famous Montauk fulfilled every promise and carried off the spoils of the New York and to-day she furnishes us with an inter burst of speed from Glen Cove to New Lendon she proved that this was no accidental victory, for though taking a low place at the start and drifting in the tide for twenty-eight hours, with no wind, she led the fleet into their first haven easily.

A GOOD REASON.

The only answer that has yet appeared to the reply of the British government to the Costigan resolutions voted by the Canadian parliament on the Irish troubles, was that of Mr. Phipps in The World of yes terday. The party press have treated it gingerly. They are all super-loyalists who do not care to have their "loyalty" questioned at the present moment. But Mr. Phipps showed most clearly that Canada has a direct and pressing interest in the settlement of the Irish disorders. The Costigan resolutions were not offensively drawn up, they were entitled to consideration; but instead of that we were snubbed by the home government and kicked down the back-stairs by the London Times, the time-serving lackey of the government. Our super-loyal party journals have pocketed the snubbing and made little fuss over the booting so energetically administered

RAILROADS NOT PRIVATE PROPERTY.

In the report of the advisory committee n "differential rates on railroads." beween the west and the seaboard, composed of Messrs. Thurman, Washburn and Cooley, they say : "It should never be forgotten that the transportation of property and perons by railroad is not exclusively a private business, but is carried on under franchises granted by the States, which confer upon the owner functions of a semipublic nature, and charge them with certain public duties. The railroad manager, operating under such a franchise must harmonize the interest of his road with the public duty, and he cannot make self interest the exclusive guide, as a merchant may, or a farmer. One of the chief of these public duties is to make only reaequality."

MIXED WITH REGARD TO THE PORTE. The Quebec Chronicle man is nothing if not historical and literary, and so he unof loyalty will lose its original dertakes to correct the failings of the Toronto Globe in this direction. It seems the Globe spoke of the Sublime Porte as a He. Perhaps the editor of the Globe instead of being according to the Chronicle "a little mixed with regard to the Porte" had been mixing his port with something else. And yet this could hardly be, for we see that the Globe is a prohibition organ. As the Chronicle says : "The Globe ought to know better, but it really never was strong in

YOUNG LADY WHO WENT TO TREISLAND.

What She Saw There-How the Young Women She Mot were Dressed-What the Young Men were Doing-Brown Picnicing with His Family.

A young lady who lives in the west end. and who is possessed of good observing faculties, went to the island on Saturday. yacht club in the very first race, before her esting account of what she observed. sailing master had her in trim. In the first "Psyche" is a much more critical observer of faces, figures, men, women, children, dandies, drones, etc., than she is of land scape, or the inanimate beauties of nature. Following are her observations:

The day was very warm, and I went to the island. I thought as the heat was intense I would dress to suit the occasion, so I donned an "over-the-garden-wall" hat (it has a good broad brim), and a calico dress and stepped on board the Geneva, time 10 a.m.; passengers, a mater, fat fair and forty (I think), with her maternal brood all fat like herself and noisy. The poor mother made me think of a hen trying to keep her large flock out of mischief, calling to this one and keeping her eye on the fat looking baskets and the baby at the same time. The children paid no attention to her calls, plainly showing their home training. Then we had a few disciples of Oscar Wilde in the shape of young girls of the "Lydia Languish" type, dressed in white muslin, in blue muslin, and in pink muslin, with hair cut and pulled low down on their foreheads, small lace-covered hats, high-heeled steel-tipped boots three sizes too small for them, as could be easily seen by their awkward rocking gait. Not one of the fashionable girls I meet can step out freely, but to the admirer of the immortal Venus de Medici the sight of these girls' waists is fearful to look upon. Their ideas of the fitness of things is plainly seen in their wearing muslin dresses for coolness forsooth, and their waists (meagre and miserable klooking enough with them) tightly bound up in stiffest corsets. Not a girl I met all that day who was not encased in tightest corsets, and, with delicate tastes, every muslin waist clasped round by a big leather belt, or worse, a broad white one just like a horse's surcingle. Why will girls carry small dogs on one arm and a bundle of made me think of a hen trying to keep her muslin waist clasped round by a big leather belt, or worse, a broad white one just like a horse's surcingle. Why will girls carry small dogs on one arm and a bundle of novels under the other when going to the the island? and why do they wear great feathers in their hats, and kid gloves, and sham jewelry, and miserable spindle looking waists, when they go for a day's fresh air? I blush for the taste of my sex. Why will girls who are plainly not ladies of refinement (for ladies are born, not made,) try to put on an air of contempt on their vacant faces decorated by their "idiot's fringe" while "doing" the island? Behold in these specimens of dwarf-waisted, unhealthy, sallow-faced girls the future wives and mothers of our race. No wonder we have so few marriages amongst men of sense. Well, after being roasted on one side of the island we tried the other, and found it cooler by far, saw, a would-be athlete in jerseys trying to pull himself in a shell, but he should eschew jerseys for the future, as he is too scraggy to shine in that costume. Then we siw the island young men. This type of Toronto youths go over early, wear gorgeous neckties, swing canes around their heads, and wear hats on one side, and have a look of knowing too much about the bar in the hotels. WILD PROPHECIES ON EGYPT.

(To the Editor of The World.) SIR: Dr. Mahafy, of Trinity college, Dublin, has written a book on "the Decadence of the pulpit" which has attracted a great deal of attention in literary circles, both in America and England. Toronto possesess more than the average amount of preaching power, and there is no doubt that both the august Catholic church and progressive Protestantism are ably represented by Archbishop Lynch and by the Archbishop of Bond street. Yet at times some of the theories so cleverly put forward by the latter divine seem to us to partake of over much tenuity, to be diaphanous as the lace covering the heat region of decollete loveliness, and just too slim for anything. For instance the Auglo-Israel craze seems to me as tough as the miracles wrought by the bits of plaster from Kucck, and respectively. It can onite believe the returns. Now let me ask are such acts the acts of statesmen? Will they be held as giving freedom to a free people? by the Archbishop of Bond street. Yet at wrought by the bits of plaster from Kncck, nay, rather more so. I can quite believe in the power of imagination which calls itself faith to cure any disease in which the nervous system is a principal factor. I am a mere secular newspaper-man dealing with the hard facts of daily life, and I do not care to contradict any theologian who, taking the standpoint of the superportural.

ETTER FROM AN OLD REFORMER. (To the Editor of The World.)

SIR: Will you please allow me, one who has grown up with Canada from a wilderness, a small space in your columns to erness, a small space in your columns to make a few remarks and ask the reflecting a few questions—Our elections are now over and the excitement somewhat subsided, consequently the public will be better fitted to weigh matters and some to correct conclusions. When all is excitement the masses are generally led by the impulse of the moment and liable to be deceived and led astray by designing men. Now let us take a view of the policy pursued and the means used to bring about the result of the contest.

The main thing in the policy of the government supporters was to keep the great "N. P." so prominent as to hide all others but it. Now let us examine that great boom they claim has given such a great boom to our country's prosperity. Will some party please point out the changes, making such great changes as Sir John and his satellites pretend they have made. We think the public would like to see it. All they did was to adjust the tariff as circumstances rewas to adjust the tariff as circumstances re-quire dby placing it on one thing and putting it on another, and will continue to require—but they endeavored to force upon the public mind that we never had a national policy until they gave us one and that if olicy until they gave us one, and that i the opposition got into power they would wipe out everything, change tariffs, wipe out our manufacturers, do away with protection and leave our country to run itself without tariffs. That was heralded from one without tariffs. That was heralded from one end of the dominion to the other, and whon a premier makes himself so officious to bolster up his acts, he shows he fears they require it, he fears to let the public adjudge them as exhibited to us by reports from the house, without one comment. Premiers should have more confidence in their acts than to resort to such badgering to force them upon the public. We all know the influence a premier of the contract of th upon the public. We all know the influence a premier can exert over a people with such gifts as he has at his disposal, and is it proper he should go through the country to exert it, to sustain himself or !his government? Will it not prevent a free and independent expression of the people? Is it statesmanlike? His principal boast was the great "N. P.;" other parts of his acts he merely endeavored to smooth over to screen himself from censure.

In referring to the rejection of the streams bill of the Ontario government he said it was all right to do so. He insinuated that those men were not statesmen: they were those men were not statesmen; they were not capable of looking after their country's interest; they could not even discriminate between a river and "a creek that would not got their capital than the country's could not seek that would not fleat a chiral than the country that th between a river and "a creek that would not float, a chip;" they could not see it would be for our country's interest to give his friend McLellan "the little creek together with the control of their public domains, which was to be floated to market by that little creek;" they could not see it was necessary to sustain him and his government, and that his friend should have the monopoly to assist to do it; they were together.

I will now refer to another act of their legislation for the consideration of the re-flective. For years capitalists were driven from amongst us by the existence of an act on the statute books of our country an act on the statute books of our country giving parties the power to demand a discharge from their liabilities by paying ten, twenty or thirty cents on the dollar—the country rebelled against a legalized swindle of that kind and it was wiped out, but Sir John and Co. were applied to for a little class legislation on that subject, just for a few, and having such a great majority at his back he could give anything, and he gains it. They passed a law for a favored few, compelling a receipt in full of their indebtedness if it should turn the poor unsuspecting party on the stiert who had perhaps placed his all in the hands of an unprincipled greed—this is but an item of the acts of those great men who claim to be such great political philanthropists. (Let us now take a review of their acts and policy used to again place themselves in power.

The first thing they did was to make another distribution of the electoral divisions.

They argued tlat it was imperative to carry They argued that it was imperative to carry out responsible government to do so, but was it imperative they should change the term for which they were elected to meet that classification. You howest men, you lovers of your country and freedom, sit in judgment upon that act and give an impartial verdict.

Another thing they still ment to do not seen the second of t policy and forward it to the members of each county, and those members should compile them and establish a united policy, that we could all work in unity. Union is strength, and when the old reformers are again united you will see reform as heretofore, and Sir John, the nucleus of the old term. the old tory compact, be left as the mere tail of the old comet which will forever be hid. You old reformers in the cabinet, come again to the front! Wipe out corruption—wipe out monopolists, and let England see we are not all tricksters and England see we are not all fricksters and humbugs, working for place and power, but to make this part of her dominion, so that she may be truly proud of us. There is another great essential we require, it is an organ representing our views and policy. The Globe has ever represented George Brown, and to-day it lives for itself. It has run the old reformers under, as it has been taken as our organ and mouth-piece. Let us again live. AN OLD REFORMER. Prince Edward, July, 1882. us again live. (To the Editor of The World.) SIR,-Your private correspondent at Vinnipeg is in error in saying the Rev. J E. Starr draws crowded congregations principally of people to see the wife who was kissed, etc. Mr. Starr was pastor of of the Charlette street Methodist church here for two years. He alternated every Sunday with Dr. Harper, then pastor of the George street church, a $60,000 edifice. He always drew crowded congregations, heing a very earnest, original and eloquent preacher, and Peterborough people generally parted with him reluctantly. Let the truth prevail.

THE ONTARIO ASSOCIATION I SESSION IN THIS CITY.

The Opening Day-The Various Subjects that Engaged the Attention of the Convention—An Evening Session.

The Ontario Feachers association opened its twenty-second annual convention in the theatre of the education department at 11 a.m. yesterday, with Archibald Macmurchy, M.A., the president, in the chair. There was a good attendance of public school inspectors and teachers from different parts of the province. Mr. Duncan read a portion of the scriptures and led in prayer, after which Mr. Parlow was appointed minute secretary. A letter from the minister of education regarding the superannuation fund was referred to the legislative committee. Letters were received from the last convention to the minister of edueation, but ne government decided not to present an extensive school bill before the legislature last session.

AN ADDRESS ON SCHOOL HOURS.

F. S. Spence addressed the convention on "school hours and vacations." It was the duty of the public to judge upon the results of the work of teachers but they had not the right to criticise the manner in which they proposed to carry out that work. He wished it were possible to have holidays in the country and to arrange them so as to come on such time when there was no work come on such time when there was no work to do at home so the boys would have a chance to get their proper development. It was not rest to change from study to hard physical labor. He believed hard study would not hurt pupils when they got a sufficient amount of recreation also. Studying at home was good, as they would be learning to study and work without assistance. The regular school hours were now about five hours a day in school with about an hour at home. They should hit upon some plan such as this:—Let two hours study be the maximum for pupils in the first part where they will average about six years and let that be increased about half an hour longer for each grade. That would bring it up to n grade. That would bring it up to at it is as present, six hours work for junior fifth book with pupils of the junior fifth book with pupils of 13 or 14 years of age. A great many of our boys and girls are far better at school than anywhere else, especially the boys. There is no difference practically between the parent and teacher in the guidance of pupils. Generally all the energies of a teacher are applied to the mental development, and the physical development is neglected. Another of the neglected subjects is morality. The charactenergies of a teacher are applied to the mental development, and the physical development is neglected. Another of the neglected subjects is morality. The characters of children are formed at school. One of the most important elements of public schools, was greatly encouraged. The inspection embraced the entire appearance of the school; note taken of discipline and of the success of the pupils, but especial praise was given when a school seemed to be imparting a good intellectual and moral schools of their pupils. [Hear, hear.] It was not right to compel a child as a punishment to write out long exercises when the mind was fatigued. That was a worse punishment than flogging. [Hear, hear.] They wanted a graduated system of gymnastics and play all directed by the teacher and under his supervision. Let the forenoon recess be entirely abolished and its place be supplied with half an hour at gymnastic drill. There should be au afternoon recess of half an hour and during that time let all the teachers mix with and overeir pupils. Close the schools in cities towns for two hours at noon and in would be advantageous to parents and of benefit to pupils that they have five hours a day study, four in school and an hour at home. rural schools not later than 3.30 p.m. It

Considerable discussion followed on the present law for vacations and the option which trustees have of lessening the holidays by two weeks. Mr. Ferguson thought it would be better to have a limited vacation of four weeks at midsummer and let the belance be taken on days of gatherings. TRUSTEES AND VACATIONS.

school. It was painful to see the little people sitting on very uncomfortable seats for so many hours at a time with very little to do. They were aiding to corrupt the air of the schoolroom and were being punished when they should be happy outside. The smaller children in rural schools should not be confined longer than one hour at a time. The time of the entrance examinations observed the school is not desirable. Or if this cannot be done, that this association appoint a standing committee to prepare a series of bible readings, similar to those prepared by the London school board, and in every proper and legitimate way a seek to induce school authorities to make use of them in their schools.

The time of the entrance examinations should be as near the beginning of the holidays as possible, as a couple of weeks were generally lost at each examination.

followed in the discussion, when A. Campbell moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. MacIntosh, "That in the opinion of this association the clause granting an op-tion of opening public schools on the 3rd of August be repealed." This was carried unanimously.

A motion was made to have the law altered regarding the salaries of teachers during the vacation, but it was lost.

THE PRESIDENT ON EDUCATION. The chair was taken at 8 p.m., when the President Archibald MacMurchy, M.A., delivered his address. For some years he had been observing the objections made in reference to the administration of the school laws in English-speaking communities, as well as the changes and modifications effected, to secure a more efficient and harmonious working of the various school systems in these different countries.

The jurpose was two-fold: To ascertain the opinious of the practical educators of peace was empowered to inflict. opinions of the practical educators of a country as to the efficiency of the school laws, and their administration, adequate'y to supply the educational wants of these widely separated, and, in some respects, different nationalities. The next decided step in advance was taken in the reign of Charles I., 1642, when taken in the reign of Charles I., 1642, when an act was passed ordaining that Presbyteries should see that every parish had a school where chikiren were to be bred in writing, reading, and the grounds of religion. And finally, in 1803, another act was passed dealing with salaries (a fixed minimum salary was an integral part of the system), depriving schoolmasters of the right to appeal to the superior courts, ordering that each master should have a house (not more than two rosms), and plachouse (not more than two rosms), and placing the schools and masters under the entire management of the Presbyteries and of those heritors whose yearly rental exceeded

THE SCHOOL BILL.

The convection resumed at 2 p.m., when Inspector Hughes explained that the legislative committee met in October last and presented certain resolutions passed at the legislative convention to the minister of edunational system, in which were taught 281,-

Besides the national schools which are designed for all denominations, there are many schools under the immediate management of different churches:—As the Church education society, the diocesan schools, the institute of Christian Brothers, etc. A favorable pension bill has been passed quite recently, the government setting apart £1,300,000 for this laudable purpose. In 1839 the government appointed an Educational committee of the privy council, and made a grant of £30,000, the distribution of the money to be guided and controlled by this educational committee. It is true, in Ireland, this religious training is not in the same form, nor is it carried to the same same form, nor is it carried to the same extent, as in England or Scotland. Nevertheless there is special attention given to this important part of education. In Birmingham they began by having a purely secular form of education. The conviction was, however, soon forced upon them that morality at least should be taught. They thereupon introduced a

Of course such days could be agreed upon by the inspector and teacher. On these days only half the pupils would be present at any rate.

Inspector Hughes had no grievance to complain of regarding the present vacations, but as to rural schools there was room for improvement. He moved the following resolution, seconded by F. L. Mitchell: "That in the opinion of the association trustee boards should have no option as to the length of the school wacation during the year, but that they should be allowed in conjunction with the school inspectors to decide at what periods that portion of the holidays, regarding the state of the control of the school that they of the low standard of learning in the grammar schools. FOR THE RAPID AND PERMANENTA

CURE OF -CATARRH

Which is not a patent medicine or advertising doctors' humbug, but an honest remedy, discovered by an English Physician of forty years standing, and which absolutely cures this hitherto incurable disease in from one to three treatments, no matter whether standing one year or forty years.

A. H. DIXON & SON,

307 (KING STREET WEST,) TORONTO, CANADAN WHAT IS CATARRH?

Catarih is a muco-purulent discharge caused by the presence and development of the vegetable parasite amoeba in the internal lining membrane of the nose. This parasite is only developed under favourable circumstances, and these are: morbid state of the blood, as the blighted corpuscle of tubercle, the germ poison of syphilis, mercury, texcemea, from retention of the effeted matter of the skin, suppressed perspiration, badly ventilated sleeping apartments, and other poisons that are germinated in the blood. These poisons keep the internal lining membrane of the nose in a constant state of irritation, ever ready for the deposit of the seeds of these germs, which spread up the nostrils and down the fauces or back part of the mouth, causing ulceration of the throat; up the eustachian tubes, causing deafness; burrowing in the vocal cords, causing hoarseness; susurping the proper structure of the bronchial tubes, ending in pulmonary consumption and death.

A great variety of symptoms are present in this affection, which are modified by the specific poison which gives rise to it, to wit:—tubercle, syphilis, mercury, suppressed function of the skin and toxcemea generally, but they consist chiefly of languor, lassitude, debiity, mal-assimilation, derangement of secretions, great depression of the nervous system, with or without fever; aching; a bruised or beat feeling all over; shivering; confused feelings in the head; cerebral disturbance.

The want of proper respiratory function of the skin and the local pressure of the parasite give rise to coryza, tonsilitis, sneezing, a sense of fullness, stuffing of the passages, soreness in swallowing, irritative cough, tightness of chest, dry or moist rales, hemorrhages.

There may be a discharge quite heavy if the parasite causes great nervous irritation,

There may be a discharge quite heavy if the parasite causes great nervous irritation, which promotes secretion. It may be dry if the multiplication and duplication of the parasite is active. The increased pungent odor of ozona is never present until the spores or roots of the germ penetrate to the cardiages of the nose, then the parasitical formation makes rapid inroads into the healthy structure of the nose.

""Catarrh is usually met in three stages, First—A simple parasitical development of the internal lining membrane of the nose, with or without a discharge. Second—Where the roots or spores or sporules of the ameeba have penetrated to the bone or cartilages-ozena. Third—Where the parasite has spread and propagated by millions in the nose, posterior nares, up the custachian tubes, down the fauces, vocal cords and bronchi, causing excessive parasitical ulceration and destruction of tissue, the parasite parasite paraging the normal structure.

The mode of propagation is by contagion, or infection, or both—hence its prevalence in families, districts, etc. The parasite develops itself rapidly, so much so that millions are elaborated in a short space of time. The effect of this formation upon the nervous system is to impair vital force, produce general nervous irritation, a depreciation of the vasomotor nerves. Cold in itself cannot produce Catarrh, it simply produces an irritation, a field for the propagation of the parasite. A large percentage of our population are affected with Catarrh, and its effects, are not only ulceration and destruction of the large with loss of voice, a usurpation of the bronchial macus membrane, a filling up of the air vesicles with the germ parasite, but bronchial or pulmorary consumption and death. The vegetable parasite is the simplest living form known that lives upon organs; structureless, consisting of semi-fluid material; large or small in size, these masses can move in any direction and propagate, indefinitely; these parasites may breed, feed and propagate upon the structure th

We have certificates of cures, many of them in cases of very long standing, that had baffled all the preparations of the day, as well as the medical profession; and we have never yet failed to give every satistaction in a single case. Every attention is given to patients, and we spare no trouble in cases of very long standing.

The remedy and apparatus, which is so simple that a child can readily understand it, is furnished to the patient, and the treatment can be applied without loss of time or interference with occupation.

To those who are suffering from deafness caused by catarrh, we would say that the above treatment has been successful in restoring the hearing in a great number of cases, where the patient was almost entirely deaf.

Our experience for the past eighteen years demonstrates beyond a doubt that the greater majority of cases, no matter whether standing for one year or forty years, are permanently cured-by one treatment—cures effected over a year ago being cures still. A very small percentage of cases require a second treatment, and a third is not necessary in more than two cases out of a hundred.

The most offensive odour, hourseness, loss of voice, headaches, languor, weak eves, etc.

centage of cases require a second treatment, and a third is not necessary in more than two cases out of a hundred.

The most offensive odour, hoarseness, loss of voice, headaches, languor, weak eyes, etc., caused by Catarrh, are removed by one treatment.

Sufferers are particularly requested not to confound our remedy with patent medicines, quack, or advertising doctors' nostrums—it is neither—but an honest cure for Catarrh, as thousands who have been cured can testify.

We have been offered heavy inducements by numerous patent medicine dealers to allow them to sell our remedy to Druggists throughout the United States and Canada, as there is an extensive enquiry for it from all parts of the country. But after giving their propositions our serious consideration we have come to the conclusion that we cannot do this, there being so many different stages of Catarrh, the remedy must be prepared expressly for the patient after receiving a description of the case in order to effect a cure. Old and young, male and female, all require different treatment, and were we to place our remedy in the hands of the druggists we would be forced to prepare it all alike, in which case it would fail continually in effecting a cure, and the consequences would be that our remedy (invaluable when properly prescribed) would soon be classed among the patent medicine humbugs now on the mark to

N.B.—As we wish to avoid the very appearance of quackery, we do not publish a long list of certificates of cures, such being the system employed by quacks and dealers in all linds of nostrums, but prefer that the remedy shall stand upon its merits. At the same time we think that the public are entitled to references as to our reliability and integrity before forwarding their money for the remedy, and we submit the following well known names of Toronto (Canada) business men:—Wm. Norris & Son, Wholesale Piano Dealers; E. H. Tallmadge & Co., Wholesale Druggists; Hunter & Co., Wholesale Picture Dealers; Taylor & Wilson, Cigar Manufacturers; Stuart W. Johnston, Retail Druggist.

In writing to either of the above, a stamped directed envelope should be enclosed to TORONTO, Dec. 27, 1881. Mr. A. H. Dixon, No. 307 King St., West.

DEAR SIR,—As you asked me to write and report my condition after using your remedy for catarrh, I would say that I have had a very satisfactory experience with your treatment. As I informed you when I first called, mine was a very aggravated case of over ten year's duration, the discharge and odour being something frightful, so much so that I was obliged at times to isolate myself from society. I have placed myself from society. I have placed myself from society in the Old Country, and after a treatment of greater or less length they pronounced me incurable. I certainly never received a particle of benefit from any quarter until I tried your treatment, three weeks after commencing which, I was entirely rid of my catarrh, and am now a sound man. Your cure is a perfect boon to sufferers from this chronic complaint, and I do not think that you will ever meet a case that you cannot cure. I shall shortly Mr. A. H. Dixon, No. 307 King St., West. a case that you cannot cure. I shall shortly call on you to make arrangements to send some of your remedy to a near friend in Scotland who is suffering similarly.

Yours very truly,

J. M. Nicholson, Winnipeg, Man.

THOROLD, Nov. 1, 1881. A. H. Dixon, Esq., Toronto: SIR, -I have great pleasure in informing you that after one treatment of your catarrh remedy, I am entirely recovered. I suffered from the disease for over three years, and during the last few months the catarrh was most aggravated. In fact, I scarcely had my handkerchief out of use for a moment.

It is now six months since I was cured, and there is no return, of the complaint. I regard my recovery as a wonderful one.

I remain, yours truly, [Signed] FRANCIS BROWN. Some time Superintendent of the Mai building, Toronto.

TORONTO, Dec. 20, 1881.

Mr. A. H. Dixon: DEAR SIR, -I deem it my duty, in the interest of those who are suffering from catarrh, to state that I suffered from this dreadful disease in a very aggravated form for a period of fifteen years. I was under tor a period of fifteen years. I was under the treatment of (here comes the name of a prominent specialist and physician, which, for obvious reasons, is omitted) for a year, he having guaranteed me a cure, without deriving the slightest benefit. I have also tried other treatments with a similar result, and which had the effect of thoroughly discouraging me. Finally, hearing that you had a cure for this discovery a collection. and which had the effect of thoroughly dis-couraging me. Finally, hearing that you had a cure for this disease, I called on you, and was treated by your method on the 7th of November, 1880, and in ten days there. after I was completely cured by one treatment, and I have had no return of the disease since that time, which is now over a year ago. Judging from the effects of your treatment on myself, I am satisfied that yours is the only treatment for catarrh which will effect a permanent cure. I remain, yours truly,
WILSON McWHINNEY,

/ TORONTO, April, 24, 1882. A. H. Dixon, Esq., 307 King St., West. DEAR SIR,—We take pleasure in stating that our junior partner, who had for years been troubled with catarrh, was successfully cured by three treatments of your remedy. The catarrh was much aggravated with continual dropping into the throat, accompanied by loss of voice, hawking and suiting and bleeking and the ing and spitting and blocking up of the nostrils, all of which we are pleased to say disappeared almost immediately after the remedy was applied. Your remedy is certainly an invaluable one and we hope all who may be suffering from this disagreeable disease will rive it a trial as we are satisfied they will find it a complete success.
