That is About What Will Happen With the High Commission, as Washington Suggests.

THE MODUS VIVENDI AND LUMBER

Are the Snags Which Have Been Struck in the Negotiations for a General Settlement.

Montreal, May 11.—(Special.)—The following highly interesting despatch appears in The Herald, dated Washington, May 11: If one is to judge by the feeling manifested among officials of the State Department and leading officers of the Administration, it is only a technical violation of the truth to say that the negotiations of the Anglo-American Joint High Commission will never be resumed.

Your correspondent reported some time ago the disappointment, not to say irritation, felt by the Washington officials, on account of the failure of the Dominion Government to agree to the establishment of a modus vivendi regarding the Alaskan boundary.

That Modus Vivendi. The despatch reported some time ago the disappointment, not to say irritation, felt by the Washington officials, on account of the failure of the Dominion Government to agree to the establishment of a modus vivendi regarding the Alaskan boundary.

What the President's views are it is by no means so easy to say, but he doubtless is guided to a large extent by the opinions of the State Department, especially at a time when matters of more immediate importance in the Philippines are engaging his attention.

Senator Fairbanks goes to Alaska. The sincere purpose of learning as much as possible about the disputed boundary matter and of devising some remedy for the disagreement between the Canadian and American members of the Joint Commission. He is not altogether hopeless of a successful result at the re-assembling this fall, or he would not have made the trip to Alaska territory.

Washington Government Irritated. The most discouraging feature of the present situation, as viewed here, is that the Washington Government is extremely on account of two or three acts of the Canadian Government.

GOES BACK TO HUNTSVILLE. Former Treasurer of the Town Arrested in Toronto Yesterday on a Charge of Forgery.

Chief Constable McFadden of Huntsville arrived in the city yesterday afternoon. At Police Headquarters he secured the aid of Detectives Davis and Cuddy and went in search of William B. Godolphin, who up to May 4 was a resident of Huntsville.

Confirmation at All Saints. The Hamilton Steamboat Company have completed arrangements for the issuing of tickets from Toronto to Grimsby Park, over their line of boats, Hamilton Street Railway, Hamilton, Grimsby and Beamsville Electric Railway.

A Nugget Worth $100. Ottawa, May 11.—It is not often that one has in one's hand a nugget of gold valued at $100. Yet that was the amount of precious metal, compressed into a mass weighing four pounds six ounces, that was in the possession of Mr. H. Walters, the druggist, this morning, being the result of the first wash-out made this year by the Ottawa Hydraulic Mining Company, at its works in North Bend, B.C., on the Fraser River.

Only those who have had experience can tell the torture course. Pain with your boots on, pain with them off, pain night and day; but relief is sure to those who use Salloway's Corn Cure.

CATARH OF THE STOMACH.

When catarrh has been allowed to run along for any length of time, there is a dropping in the back of the throat. This mucus is swallowed up and spit out during the daytime, but at night, during sleep, it is swallowed into the stomach, thus poisoning the mucous lining of that organ, and producing ulcers there and symptoms very like indigestion or dyspepsia.

Arrangements are also being made for special rates to points west of Revelstoke, should any of the eastern members desire to visit mines and mineral centres while on their tour.

Since the Montana Company came into its own again there has been effected the deal with the Anaconda, which brings the combined property of the Anaconda, Standard Oil, J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., and other financial interests. The mines included in the Amalgamated Copper Co. have a value of $20,000,000. They are as follows: Anaconda, $80,000,000; Boston and Montana, $60,000,000; Butte and Boston, $20,000,000; Colorado Smelting Co., $60,000,000; Utah Consolidated, $15,000,000; Isle Royale, $10,000,000; and the $10,000,000.

The latest information regarding the reported sensational strike of placer gold in the Tete Jaune Cache is less extravagant than the earlier stories. In fact, according to present accounts, the strike from that region published a couple of months ago were grossly exaggerated. A party of gentlemen, who have just come back from the Tete Jaune Cache, and who are commercial value of the deposits. A party of men still left at the scene of the strike, and are working on the vein, and it is believed that the alluvial deposit in the old bed of the river is known nothing definite will likely be known about the richness of the section.

The Gold Hills Company has had some new blood infused into it. We understand that William McKenzie, D. J. Mann and Hugh Sutherland have purchased a large block of the company's stock and propose to actively interest themselves in the conduct of the company's operations, particularly in the development of the properties situated in the Lardo-Duncan District. It has been known for some time to those on the inside that negotiations with the above mentioned gentlemen were in progress, but it is only within the last few days that it has transpired that the deal has been consummated.

The fact of McKenzie, Mann & Co. acquiring such a large interest in the company indicates that they are not only opinion at least of the company's holdings in the various districts in which its properties are situated.

We are informed that development work will be vigorously prosecuted on the Gertrude, Talbot and Clara groups in the Lardo-Duncan District, and of the much talked-of J.O. 87 in the Lake of the Woods District.

way into the old mine's vein, the control was still in the hands of the Lewisohn-Bigelow syndicate of this city. A proposition to consolidate Butte and Boston with Boston and Montana, and thereby unload the former onto the latter, which was being actively paying dividends for both, was entertained. While negotiations were pending the market price of Butte and Boston was advanced from $20 to $75 per share, and the demand was made that the consolidation be consummated on the basis of market price.

The Lewisohn-Bigelow syndicate, knowing the value of the property and the lack of proven value in the Butte and Boston refused to enter on the basis proposed. This refusal precipitated the deal which consolidated the copper stock market of Boston and drew the attention of financiers. Thousands of shares of Montana stock were thrown on the market in the endeavor to break the price. With the deluge of shares came the announcement from the Standard Oil brokers that, on examining the affairs of the Butte and Boston, it had been found that the Lewisohn-Bigelow crowd had robbed Butte of about $6,000,000 for the benefit of Montana while both companies were in their control.

The Lewisohn-Bigelow brokers stemmed the tide for several days by buying all the shares offered at $225 per share and bid every five minutes $225 for any part of the capital stock. Millions of dollars were needed to keep the price at $225, for the Standard Oil crowd had nearly half the shares in the market. The Lewisohn-Bigelow were not considered good collateral at the banks.

Every resource of the mighty Lewisohn-Bigelow combination was called into play to keep in front of the Standard Oil crowd. In fact, until finally, when the Standard Oil people played their last card, they have taken many more millions to absorb. The Lewisohn-Bigelow crowd saw that the only way to save their position was to capitulate on the spot. From that time until the present it is generally believed that the two conflicting interests have worked hand in hand, at any rate they have worked no hostility toward each other. During the past few days the Standard Oil crowd, another cloud was looming on the horizon, and the Standard Oil people of Rossland Camp, F. Augustus Helms, principal owner of the Montana Ore Purchasing Co., had been in the city, and had just after suit against both the Montana and Butte Companies, and the latter counter-suit against Helms, involving the right to mine the valuable ore bodies open in the different mines. To escape the courts and jurisdiction of Montana, Helms fled to friendly to Helms, the Boston and Montana Co. of Montana, transferred to the Standard Oil Co. of New York. To defeat this move Helms applied to the Ontario court for the appointment of a receiver for the Montana Company, two of his employees whose names stood the name of hundreds of shares, making the application. This application for the appointment of a receiver for the management of the property, then selling at $850 per share, or $52,000,000 for the mine, was bitterly but unsuccessfully contested by the Montana Company. The District Court at Butte granted the application in December, 1898, and named as receiver a man who had no experience in the mining business, or indeed in the conduct of any large affairs.

The showing made by the Montana Company in court proved beyond question that its affairs were in a state of complete chaos, and the interests of the shareholders honestly looked after, and the decision to place them in the hands of a receiver was a just one.

Since the Montana Company came into its own again there has been effected the deal with the Anaconda, which brings the combined property of the Anaconda, Standard Oil, J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., and other financial interests. The mines included in the Amalgamated Copper Co. have a value of $20,000,000. They are as follows: Anaconda, $80,000,000; Boston and Montana, $60,000,000; Butte and Boston, $20,000,000; Colorado Smelting Co., $60,000,000; Utah Consolidated, $15,000,000; Isle Royale, $10,000,000; and the $10,000,000.

The great mine of all these great ones is the Anaconda, which Marcus Daly, President of the Amalgamated Copper Co., general manager. The Anaconda produced last year more copper than the entire Lake Superior district, and nearly one-third of the production in the United States. The mine and the Anaconda, its product last year was $65,000,000 pounds, or about one-half that of the Anaconda.

The other mines in the deal are not large producers as copper mines, and under the deal, the Isle Royale and Ardenian, are not as yet producing. Both are consolidations of properties worked in the early days of the lake district, and have immense territories in the great copper belt. These properties were bought within the last 18 months by Mr. N. F. Leopold of Chicago, who, in addition to his interest in the Isle Royale and Standard Oil capital in the Ardenian. Both are undergoing development under the supervision of Mr. Leopold.

In this year (1898) the mines of the Amalgamated Copper Co. will produce 40 per cent. of the world's copper, and under the management of the men who have it in charge such returns are certain to be made upon the investment that mining will be a standing as the most profitable field of investment of large amounts of capital that is open.

The absorption of the Lake Superior, Arizona, Helms's Ore Purchasing Co., and the Rio Tinto and other Spanish mines may come later, much sooner than anticipated. It is believed that the copper areas of Michipicoton Island in Lake Superior have been acquired by Mr. N. F. Leopold and associates, but whether or not they will pass into the Amalgamated Copper Co. is not known.

A holding and pumping plant, having a capacity of discharging a depth of 2000 feet, has just been ordered.
