THE CLEARING
(Edith M. Thomas in N. Y. Times)
I will go back—I have said so oft in the spring of the year
To the places that I knew first—the places I still hold dear.
Where the world was no older than I
A night, and a sleep—and the morn (For the world, in the thought of a dreaming child, with the child is born) back to the half-tamed land—to the Clearing, so close to the wood,
Where the chill west wind of the maple leaves in buckets a-brimming stood.
And the nut-hatch perches to drink, and the flicker is laughing on high,
And the sod is soaked, and the rain-pools glisten with sunny eyes.
And here, where the choppers have been, the smell of the chips is keen;
In the coil of a stump the grass-blades are starting so rank and so green.

With a pioneer violet folk—the blue and the red and the white,
And there, through the char of a burning trunk—so tricky and bright,
A flame, like a small twisting serpent winding its way, I shall see Mid this wild Clearing—a prosperous field in the years yet to be;
And my feet shall know warmth in the soil, but no scorch from that useful fire.
Helper of Man, to conquer rough Nature and shape her to his desire,
I have said it so long, that I would go back in the places of the year!
But something has told me 'tis better to stay and to dream of it here—
The world that was born with the child, with the child let that world remain;
Fond up memories tenderly, but visit it not again.

The Evening Times-Star

ST. JOHN, N. B., APRIL 17, 1924

The St. John Evening Times is printed at 27 and 29 Canterbury street every evening (Sunday excepted) by N.W. Brunswick Publishing Co., Ltd., J. D. McKenna, President.

TWO SENTENCES.

The letter which sent the United States Senate into secret session and caused the Secretary of State to consult the President three times in forty-five minutes, was addressed to Secretary Hughes by the Japanese Ambassador. In it were these two sentences:

"Relying upon the confidence you have been good enough to show me at all times, I have stated or rather repeated all this to you very candidly and in a most friendly spirit. For I realize, as I believe you do, the grave consequences which the enactment of the measure relating to particular provision would inevitably bring upon the otherwise happy and mutually advantageous relations between our two countries."

This reference to "grave consequences" set the pot boiling. When the Senate emerged from secret session not a few of its members proceeded to beat the war post. The exclusion bill to which Ambassador Hanabara referred would bar out his race completely. One of its clauses would abrogate the "gentlemen's agreement" between the United States and Japan by which, as a matter of fact, Japanese emigration has been kept down to about 150 annually.

Now, what is meant in diplomatic communications by "grave consequences"? Senator Lodge referred to the words as "a veiled threat" and said the Ambassador's letter was "a letter improper to be addressed by the representative of one great country to another friendly country." He objected to veiled threats, and wished it understood by the whole world that the United States alone is to say who shall come into the country and who shall stay out.

A little more edge was given the discussion by Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, who asked pointedly why Mr. Lodge kept repeating the words "veiled threats." Mr. Lodge, he said, knew perfectly well that in diplomatic exchanges the two words "grave consequences" are not veiled, but are well known in their implication. Mr. Lodge agreed that such is indeed the case. "The words 'grave consequences,'" he said, "are just as well known as the phrase 'the United States could not regard with indifference' the violation of the Monroe Doctrine. Everybody knows what 'cannot regard with indifference' means. Both phrases are the well recognized language of diplomacy."

The Japanese Ambassador's letter led to a vote of seventy-six to two in favor of exclusion in spite of Secretary Hughes' appeal against any action that would be offensive to Japan, and notwithstanding the general impression that the President and the Secretary of State were in accord. The House of Representatives had already taken similar action. It was pointed out in the Senate that Australia excludes Japanese, for reasons which seem good and all sufficient, as Senator Shortridge put it. "I do not say this to wound the feelings of the Japanese nation," he said, "but I do say it, however, because it is true."

But for the reference to "grave consequences" the vote would have been much less emphatic and the discussion more peaceful. Japan is exceedingly sensitive with respect to the standing of its nationals in other countries, but Japan itself excludes some races. British press comment, however justified, regarding the American Senate action as ill-considered, will not mend matters. We in Canada are gradually stiffening the arrangement under which Japanese are admitted and the subject of exclusion is one of growing trouble, owing largely to British Columbia's attitude.

The coming exchanges between Washington and Tokyo may, as some London comment suggests, prove a menace to peace in the Pacific, but the friction, while it may lead to belligerence, can scarcely lead to war, though, in spite of the occasional exchange of diplomatic bouquets, there is a strong undercurrent of national antipathy running between the United States and Japan and recent incidents will strengthen it.

NONE "TOO GOOD" TO VOTE.

In urging American women to vote and in telling them that no woman has any right to avoid that duty because she feels "above it," President Coolidge said much that applies to men voters likewise. Those who are apathetic or "above" voting by refraining from one of the first duties of citizenship do much to invite and to perpetuate unworthy government, civic, provincial, or national.

Such an attitude cannot too vigorously be condemned. Popular government is facing one of the difficult phases of the perpetual trial, to which it always has been and always will be subjected. It needs the support of every element of patriotism, intelligence and capacity that can be summoned. I suppose that even among the Daughters of the American Revolution there are some women who sincerely feel that it is becoming of their sex to take an active part in politics. It is a little difficult to comprehend how such an attitude could be maintained by any woman eligible to such a society as this, and sufficiently interested in the society to participate in its work.

All of which applies, with equal or greater force to men. Take St. John today, with nearly half its electorate disqualified, and some thirty per cent. of the eligible electors failing to go to the polls. It is not a good exhibition of citizenship. We must devise ways to reduce the number of those who forfeit their franchise, and it can be done only by close analysis of the causes and courageous action when the facts have been brought out. As for those who are eligible yet fail to vote, they need a constant education as to the duties of citizenship, and it should come from public men from the pulpit, the press, and every agency interested in good government and enlightened progress.

TAG DAYS.

The frequently repeated sentiment that there ought to be a tag day for the average citizen seems to have been reflected at a Fredericton City Council meeting this week. In spite of his reluctance to put a straw in the way of any good cause—a general feeling—Mayor Phillips asked for the Council's opinion on the subject of multiplying tag days. Within a few days he had given permission for two such appeals, and he had a third request. One alderman said he was opposed to tag days. Within a few days he had given permission for two such appeals, and he had a third request. One alderman said he was opposed to tag days in a city the size of Fredericton. Another said tag days were so frequent as to become a bugbear. Another said they had become so numerous as to constitute a considerable nuisance. The Common Council drew attention to the fact that Fredericton has no by-law at present under which they could be prevented. In practice, however, they are held only when the Mayor grants his approval. A motion to forbid any further appeals of the kind was withdrawn on the understanding that His Worship would not give his approval "except in special cases of a deserving nature."

That leaves the Mayor in an uncomfortable position. Every organization regards its cause as a deserving one, and in most cases it is right. There are too many tag days, it is true, and the number should be reduced, but when it comes to deciding between cases which in the view of many are equally deserving the civic authorities are up a tall tree. The Council however has to limit and select the number of cases or institutions which receive civic grants, and unless it is to abolish the tag day practice altogether it will have to continue to give permission for tags in some cases and refuse it in others, gradually narrowing a circle that has become too wide. Even a cold analysis of the question seems to do injustice to the army of earnest workers who give much of their time to keeping alive works of charity and betterment which, without their devotion, would languish to the reproach of all. Women who give much time to unselfish community service deserve more support than they get for many of the causes they champion—yet the Fredericton Council is right—there are too many tag days.

The Times is publishing today an extended report of a highly important speech on Immigration delivered at Windsor by President Beatty of the C. P. R. He makes public a carefully formulated policy to promote immigration on broad lines. He says that while we received 137,000 newcomers in 1923 it is estimated that we lost 235,000 Canadians during the same period. He says Canada can safely absorb yearly a minimum of 300,000 and a maximum of 500,000 new people, and he gives in concrete form a plan to speed up the pace of immigration to that level, a level which we reached once before the war. This is the most interesting and constructive of President Beatty's many contributions on a subject of immense national importance and it will command public attention throughout the Dominion. It contains many clear-cut and compelling arguments for national expansion.

The case of the Province of Ontario against the Hon. Peter Smith must be left to the criminal tribunals to which it has been referred as a result of the disclosures before the Public Accounts Committee at yesterday's session. Mr. Smith is entitled to the protection the law throws about an accused person, who must be held innocent until the charge against him has been duly tried.—Toronto Globe.

He will receive all that protection and consideration. Meantime Ontario expects a few more arrests. It thinks the public treasury and public morality are entitled to all the protection the law can furnish.

Press Comment

THE MIND SPEAKERS.

(Newcastle Courier.) The less of it they have, the more people seem obsessed with the inclination to speak their mind.

STREET CAR MANNERS.

(Portland Oregonian.) The cross-section of a loaded street car would reveal a mélange of typical American inhabitants. Let us assume that the hour is late afternoon, that the car is crowded, and that the male passengers are for the most part men who have worked that day and who are weary. There enters the car, as it turns toward the suburbs, a charming maiden. Perhaps some gallant rises, doffs his hat, and professes his seat. And perhaps not. For these men are tired from the exertions of the day.

A grandmother enters the crowded car, or some worried matron with an infant. The one is age personified. The other is womanhood in need. Observe the wonderful difference in attitude of the male passengers. A dozen seats are offered. This is chivalry without qualification, without hope of reward, other than a suitable sense of having done the decent thing.

BOLSHEVIST JARGON.

(Toronto Globe.) The Moscow press has published the program issued by the Third Communist International for the "British proletariat." The British friends of communism are asked to realize that the Labor Government does not really represent the interests of the British Labor party, as it is unable and unwilling to wage class warfare against the bourgeoisie. The Labor Government is mistakenly striving for class harmony, when it ought to be smashing the entire machinery of the bourgeoisie.

The majority of the British workers harbor democratic illusions. It is the duty of Communists to mobilize the workers to exert pressure in Government, to awaken the latent powers of the proletariat and to force it into a serious battle with the capitalist class. The Communists of Great Britain must help the workers to realize the impotence and treacherous character of their leaders. They must produce simple, clear watchwords and work out a simple plan of action. They must demand complete freedom from the British yoke for the workmen and peasants of India, and an alliance with the Soviet Union.

Any mischief that might be caused by this trend of opinion is neutralized by the author's dense ignorance of the British character. They are obsessed by a theory, and the jargon without the most elementary knowledge of the world they live in. If any considerable body of British Labor men were foolish enough to follow the advice, the result would be not progress in any Labor policy, but a powerful reaction against progress of any kind. Liberals, Conservatives and moderate Labor men would forget their differences and unite in fighting the Moscow movement.

The Moscow message suggests a likeness to the Czarina's counsel to the Czar. "Be Peter the Great, be Ivan the Terrible, be the Emperor Paul, smash them all. Dismiss the Duma. Be the master, and all will bow down before you." Contempt for democracy shown by the new as by the old despots. The Czarina was insane with superstitious veneration for the "holy man" Rasputin. The Bolshevists make a religion of an economic theory. It is fortunate for the British nation that it qualifies theory with common sense, and cheerfully bears the reproach of defective logic when logic leads to a precipice.

LOST HIS LIQUOR, $175 TOO.

Very unfortunate for himself a certain Moncton Hebrew had seven gallons of rum too many when Chief Inspector J. B. Hawthorne and a staff of inspectors swooped down on his place of business in Moncton on Tuesday afternoon. They not only relieved him of the liquor but hurried him before a magistrate and relieved him of $175 in cash as well. Inspector Hawthorne passed through the city yesterday en route from Moncton to Fredericton after a trip to the North Shore and to Sackville. Everything was quiet, he reported, the Moncton incident being the only excitement of his trip.

Ben Turpin is making "Yukon Jake" a burlesque on pictures dealing with the wide open spaces of Alaska. Charlie Chaplin is at work on a similar production.

The case of the Province of Ontario against the Hon. Peter Smith must be left to the criminal tribunals to which it has been referred as a result of the disclosures before the Public Accounts Committee at yesterday's session. Mr. Smith is entitled to the protection the law throws about an accused person, who must be held innocent until the charge against him has been duly tried.—Toronto Globe.

He will receive all that protection and consideration. Meantime Ontario expects a few more arrests. It thinks the public treasury and public morality are entitled to all the protection the law can furnish.

THE RIDER. (Christian Science Monitor.) On his charger bold Like the knights of old In bright array, With flashing eye He waved goodby And rode away. There were none to know, Who watched him go. His secret quest, 'Twas only I That dared guess why. Who loved him best.

For what cared I, Small son of mine, That of wood your steed? Or the sword so grand In your chabby hand Was a simple need? The dream in your eyes From the sun-gold skies, Shall light the way. Let them think it play, We know some day You would make it true.

The years are gone, Small son of mine, And you follow the gleam In the golden beam Of that distant day? Ah, the child you were I still hold close Here at my side. On your charger bold Like the knights of old I watch you ride.

For the old world needs Those gold dream deeds, And vision fine. So hold them tight Those gleams of light. Oh, son of mine, And the lance you bear Is your mother's prayer. That the light divine Shall light the way To a better day, Oh, son of mine?

Kept Bruin Supplied. Has a Chinaman any humor? Unquestionably. The story was told us recently of one who was visiting Yellowstone Park in winter. He happened to glance back over his shoulder and saw a huge bear sniffing at his tracks.

Born in Kings county, spending most of his life in Midland, where he was a successful farmer. Mr. Johnson was a man of sterling character and was looked up to as one in whom might be placed much confidence. Some time ago he professed religion and led a life of influence and usefulness in the community wherein he lived, being a deacon of the United Baptist church at Midland. He had a broad vision of spiritual things and always took his place in every religious movement. He leaves his wife,

W. R. Carson.
St. Stephen, April 16—In the death of William R. Carson, which occurred at noon today, St. Stephen loses another of its most valued and highly respected citizens. Mr. Carson was 60 years of age and for many years has been superintendent of the St. Croix Soap Manufacturing Company, of this town, having come here when a very young man from Cambridge, Mass., where he was born. He always took a great interest in sports of all kinds and up to the time of his illness he was a willing worker in the interest of all clean sports.

In town affairs he was an ardent worker, always having the interest of the town at heart and giving freely of his time to town affairs. Last fall he was advised by his physician that he would have to give up his activities and take a good rest, which he did, but this failed to improve his health.

On Thursday last he was operated on but gradually grew worse. He was a member of the Independent Order of Oddfellows and was also an active member of the St. Stephen-Milltown Rotary Club. He had a large circle of friends who will learn of his death with much regret. His wife, who was Miss Elva Robinson, of this town, survives, as well as a son, W. Blair Carson, at home. A sister, Mrs. Jennie Balcom, of Somerville, Mass., also survives. The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon at 2.30.

ACTIVITIES OF CITY CHURCHES

It has been rumored that Rev. J. H. A. Holmes, rector of St. Jude's church, had accepted the charge of another church outside of St. John, and Rev. C. J. Markham, curate of Trinity church, was to be the new rector of St. Jude's. Both Mr. Holmes and Mr. Markham said last night that there was no truth in the rumor.

"Jesus the Emancipator" was the subject of the address given by Rev. J. M. Rice, Methodist, at the united service in the Fairville Baptist church last night. Rev. C. T. Clark, Baptist, presided, and Rev. W. M. Townsend, Presbyterian, led in prayer. Others assisting in the service were Hazel Kelly and Miss Vivian McColligan. Mrs. J. M. Rice was accompanied, and Miss Irma Schofield organist.

In the Carleton Methodist church last night Rev. Dr. Guy Fitch Phelps, Chicago, spoke on the parable of the Mustard seed. He dealt with the sins, he said, hindered the growth of the Kingdom, mentioning false teachers and false doctrine and under the last he referred to Darwin's theory of evolution. He made a strong appeal to the people to return to the pure undiluted teachings of the Scriptures. Richard Dawson led the singing and was the soloist also. There was a large congregation.

St. John's (Stone) church was largely attended last evening when Stalder's sacred cantata was sung by a massed choir and greatly pleased the listeners. The male choruses were remarked upon as particularly harmonious. Rev. A. L. Fleming, rector, opened the service with the Apostles' Creed. The choir with the visiting assistants were entertained in the parish hall at the close.

St. Luke's choir gave a splendid presentation of the cantata on Tuesday evening in their church, with professor Douglas Baker, of Robesey, as director. Rev. R. P. McKim, rector, read the prayers. There was a large attendance.

The service last evening in the Portland Methodist church was well attended. The devotional exercises were led by Mrs. D. G. Lingley and a solo was sung by Mr. Whitehead. The address was given by Rev. H. A. Goodwin. Tomorrow night will be the last service in this series of meetings.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

ONCE-UPON-A-TIME LAND.

A gray rat in pumpkin-colored satin took their cards.

Away to Once-Upon-a-Time Land went Nancy and Nick with Mister Muggs in his magic automobile. They rode over seven hills of seven colors, and on the top of the last hill, all covered with blue forget-me-nots and violets, stood the blue castle of Cinderella and her prince.

The little car stopped at the front door of the palace and a gray mouse in pumpkin-colored velvet let them in.

A gray rat in pumpkin-colored satin took their cards on a card tray and said he would tell the queen that they were there, also the prince, who was now called King Charming instead of Prince Charming.

They all sat down in a lovely blue and pumpkin-colored room and waited, and by and by Cinderella came running down the marble stairs and burst into the room.

"Oh, I forgot," she laughed, "they are always telling me that I should be dignified now that I am a queen. But it's so hard! There!" And she spread out her train and straightened her crown.

"But I'm so glad to see you, my dear!" she beamed. "Hello, Nancy! Hello, Nick! Hello, Mister Muggs! You see I know your names from your cards. And now do sit down and tell me about all the news and everything. How is my dear goldmother, the Fairy Queen?"

"She's fine and dandy," said Mister Muggs. "She sent me to find out if you are happy, and, if not, why, and all about it. These Twins just came along for a ride."

"Cinderella—I mean Queen Cinderella—laughed and gave Nancy a hug. Then she sighed. "I am happy all except one thing," she said. "My two older sisters live with me, and although they mean to be kind, they are always teasing me what I should do—now that I am queen I suppose they think I should put a long face and sit with my hands in my lap and all that. And when I give a party it's just awful. They just sit agawag, awag and make remarks about everybody, and nobody dances with them and they get cross and then they scold me."

"Is that all you have to be unhappy about?" suggested Mister Muggs. "I don't think it is a laughing matter, declared Cinderella. "And even my husband is getting tired of me, sitting around croaking all the time."

"Why, it is only a laughing matter," said Mister Muggs. "because it is a laughing matter, because it is a laughing matter, because it is a laughing matter."

Do You Need Help? This Advice is Well Worth Reading!

Kirkton, Ont.—"I have found Doctor Pierce's Anuric Tablets to be an excellent medicine. I have been troubled with inflammation in the neck of my bladder for about eight years. I doctored but failed to get cured, so I decided to try Doctor Pierce's Anuric (anti-uric-acid) Tablets and they have relieved me greatly."

"I also can recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for expectant mothers. I have a fine, big baby boy. My nurse asked me what I ate to make him so strong. He looked like a child four or five months old when only three. I certainly would advise every prospective mother to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."—Mrs. John Simpson, R. I.

FABLES ON HEALTH Let the Milk Flow

Two of Mr. Mann's youngsters turned up their noses at the very mention of milk. "Well, you know, mother, there are lots of things I won't eat and I never drink milk," Mr. Mann would say. "Maybe that's one of the troubles with the children," commented the wise Mrs. Mann. "They probably heard you say something about milk and never have forgotten it. All it would take to get them drinking it would be a little encouraging, with some talks on milk generally."

There is generally a reason behind why children do not like milk, and mothers and fathers should leave no stone unturned to find out what it is and forever kill the prejudice. It is, of course, very important that the milk be uncontaminated, for many epidemics, bringing sickness and death, have been traced to poor milk. But if your city has a careful inspection system there should be little ground for worry or fear.

Give the children plenty of fresh, rich milk. Milk with cream in it. In the long run it is one of the cheapest of health bringers. If you have to cut expenses elsewhere, don't deny the children their milk.

Rids System of Suffering

War Veteran Wins Back to Health By Re-building His System With Drecto—Grand Herbal Remedy Adds Daily to His List of Grateful Friends.

Mr. Arthur Lortie, former overseas man, is now fit and able to work, thanks to Drecto, the famous herbal remedy. He is a plumber and trade and is working at it on the new City Hall.

"I was overseas for two years," says Mr. Lortie, who lives at 23 Fortification Lane, Montreal. "I was with the 87th Battalion Canadian Grenadier Guards, and suffered from the gas attack at Cambrai. I have never been the same man since, that is, until I discovered Drecto."

"My stomach was in bad shape and wouldn't digest my food properly. I had no appetite and became greatly weakened for lack of proper nourishment. I was nervous, too, and couldn't sleep. So greatly run-down did I become that it was impossible for me to work at my trade."

"I tried all kinds of medicines without result. Then I read about Drecto and decided to give it a trial. It has helped me wonderfully. My stomach is in excellent shape and I have an appetite. What is more, I enjoy my food and that is giving me nourishment is proved by the fact that I am getting stronger every day. I feel like a new man now and have started back to work, being at present employed on the new City Hall."

Many people who imagine themselves chronic invalids without hope, get the surprise of their lives when they start taking Drecto. They find that there is nothing wrong with them, except a run-down digestive system, a condition which Drecto speedily corrects. This grand tonic and regulator contains only the pure extracts of herbs, roots, bark and leaves, which cleanse the system and build up the organs. Drecto contains no mercury, opium or habit-forming drugs.

Drecto is being specially introduced in St. John by Ross Drug Co., 100 King Street; Moore's Drug Store, 105 Prince Edward Street; F. W. Munro, 357 Main Street, and in West St. John by Watson R. Dunlop. It is also sold in Fairville by T. H. Wilson, and by a good druggist everywhere.

The Montreal Star of April 11, 30 years ago, recorded that W. C. Van Horne and James Ross had been to Ottawa and were planning to proceed to St. John for the purpose of maturing their plans for the extension of their electrical and street railway plant, which they had newly acquired. The new owners planned to double track the road and to extend it to the adjoining suburbs, expending $400,000. They bought the charters of three companies, the accounts stated, for the sum of $92,000. Mr. Van Horne, who afterwards became Sir William Van Horne, spoke of the enterprise of St. John citizens and stated that he looked upon the claims of St. John as a winter port as a matter to be considered with favor.

TELL OF GROWTH OF BAPTIST MISSIONS

Several Speakers Deliver Addresses at Jubilee Observance

Three addresses telling of the growth of Baptist missions in India and of Baptist Women's missionary activities in the Maritime Provinces were given at the meeting in Germain street Baptist church last night...

Mrs. J. D. Wilson spoke of women's cause for gratitude to Christ as their Emancipator and told of the growth of the Baptist Women's Missionary Union in the Maritime Provinces.

Rev. W. S. Tedford, missionary, described the arrival in India Dec. 1874, of Mr. and Mrs. John McLaurin, pioneer Baptist missionaries.

Mr. Tedford said that while the British rule had brought great advancement to the people of India it was doing, unting the people of the East and the people of the West. It was Christ and not the British Government that was ruling in India today and the Gospel was breaking down caste, building character and giving sublime hope.

WAS SPECTATOR OF CANNIBAL FEAST

Englishman Murmurs Tale of Rescuer as Death Feast Claims Him.

London, April 16—A horde of naked New Guinea savages, their glistering bodies swaying in the rhythmic convulsions of the cannibal dance, and a subsequent feast on the flesh of three natives roasted over a roaring bonfire, provided nightmare scenes of the last hours of George Stevens Penrose, a Cornish prospector, a scout who led the Colonial troops into German New Guinea.

had never trodden before. He was accompanied by native servants and a white partner, Thomas Jackson. The attack was launched while Jackson was away on an individual expedition.

Guttural shouts and a rain of spears were the only warning of the attack—so stealthy was the descent of the savages from out of the darkness of a cloudy night. There was no chance of defence. Three native boys were killed outright; eight others were badly wounded.

The cannibal feast was prepared at once. The living were left, helpless spectators of the orgy, knowing that a similar fate would be theirs in due course.

Twelve hours later Jackson, heading a rescue party, drove the savages back to the bush. He was too late to save the life of his partner, who, in his last few moments, murmured the brief story of the terrible events of the previous day.

Penrose, after his seafaring life, lived in Queensland for a time, and in 1910 went to New Guinea, first to the British and afterwards to the Dutch portion of the island, where his life was one long record of exciting and romantic incidents. He penetrated many unexplored regions prospecting for gold, accompanied only by a native boy.

It was on one of these lonely journeys in 1914 that he discovered a race of pigmy folk, only three feet in height, who saw for the first time the face of a white man.

Dr. Eliot Says Early Marriage Needs Bank Book as Stabilizer

Boston, April 17.—Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, adds another chapter to his recent publicly expressed views on early marriages. He writes: "I have lately received an anonymous letter signed 'Anxious Mother,' stating a case which has arisen in her own family under the advice I lately gave at an assemblage of graduates and undergraduates of Harvard University, 'not to put off marriage too early, not to put off marriage too late.'" in her father's home she is accustomed, and to give the girl concerned a chance to tell her suitor what she thinks about marriage on a small income. I did not advise two young people who love each other to marry on a small income when neither has any money saved. On the contrary, in my judgment each should have demonstrated to the other and to their parents that each has the self-denial and thrift to make savings."

ADVERTISING THE GOSPEL

(Vancouver Sun.) Advertising applies equally as much to the church as to the business man, according to Capt. Gypsy Pat Smith, British evangelist, now concluding a ten-day campaign in this city. Gypsy Pat declared that his hobby is advertising and that it is one that has been most useful to him in his mission in life.

Advertising as a hobby with the noted evangelist consists of bringing before the public the subject in which he is most interested in, the gospel of Jesus Christ. Gypsy Smith has made newspaper advertising a successful aid to his work, believing that in using newspaper space he is helping to spread the message of the gospel.

"I believe that the church should advertise as well as the business men," said Capt. Smith. "It is not sufficient to take so much space and put as much into the space as you can, but a church with business men in it should show some genius or originality in advertising."

"And every church should advertise. If we have anything worth while let's tell the people about it. I am amazed in many parts of the country to find business men in the churches who hinder the minister from announcing as fully as possible, the invitation to worship, through the newspaper."

"Men who spend fortunes themselves on advertising their own products for coughs and colds, for homes and horses, for autos and photos, for suits and shoes, yet are as mean as possible in the advertising of their church."

VOLSTEADING SHAKESPEARE

(Los Angeles Times.) Club women in a thriving suburb are about to give a regular performance of Shakespeare's "Winter Tale," but out of consideration for the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act they have cut out the characters of Sir Toby Belch and Sir Andrew Aguecheek. Apparently it is their belief that it would never do to offer this pair of drunken rascals for the contemplation of a virtuous and sober people. It is true that most of the comedy centres about Sir Toby and in the past certain Shakespearean performers have made it the star part, but that was in the days before prohibition and the tendency of the hour is to cut out all recollection or reference to bibulous times. If the inspiration of these club women extends it may be essential to banish the so-called immortal William from the home. Look what a roster he made of Sir John Falstaff. Surely nobody in these times would care to be associated with that fat and frolicsome scoundrel. It will take an awful lot of editing to bring Shakespeare down to the Volstead Act and it is feared that the residue would not be very palatable to ancient students. Possibly it would be safer to cut out William altogether. He certainly did not write for a prim and immaculate citizenship.

NEEDS PUBLICITY, SAYS ROTHERMERE

Montreal, April 16.—"There is nothing the matter with Canada. What Canada really needs is a lot of publicity," said Lord Rothermere, proprietor, in summarizing here tonight his experiences during his brief stay in the Dominion. He added: "I am seriously considering on my return to England to place three or four 'star' newspapers on the job of telling England something about Canada."

SENTIMENT GONE MAD.

(New Haven Journal-Courier.) This is an era of cheap sentimentality among Americans. Grim duty is less congenial than sloppy effusive substitutes. The funeral of Frank Chaponi, gunman of Chicago, is an illustration. Dying by violence while professionally engaged, the flowers his home would not contain were stacked up in the yard. There were two hundred limousines in the procession and the crowd for blocks was such as would honor a man who had fallen in discharge of duty. It was all very cheap and unwholesome and undermining of firm ideals of good citizenship and honest method.

Great University's "Million-Step" Test Proves Liquid Granite Outwears All Other Floor Varnishes

HERE are facts every apartment owner, householder and building manager should know about floor varnish.

One of the large universities has recently completed a "million-step" test to determine which of all the varnishes manufactured is the most durable, wear-resisting and practical for floors subjected to continuous hard usage.

Tested by Actual Service The representatives of 18 different floor varnish manufacturers were called in. Separate strips of flooring in one of the institution's main hallways were finished with stock samples of varnish made by their respective companies. The panels were secretly numbered and for weeks subjected to the most practical test that could be devised . . . the punishment of tramping feet.

Thousands of young men and women walked across the varnished test panels day after day and week after week. Finally the factory representatives who had supervised the varnishing were called back to decide which of the 18 stripes (10 of which are illustrated above) was in the best condition. Panel No. 1 received all of the votes. Only three of the experts even indicated a second choice.

Declared Best by Varnish Experts Panel No. 1 was finished with Liquid Granite . . . the most durable and wear-resisting of all floor varnishes. By vote of the accredited representatives of 18 prominent varnish manufacturers, Berry Brothers' celebrated Liquid Granite was acclaimed winner of the contest.

Here is the big lesson taught by this elaborate scientific experiment: To withstand the punishment of tramping feet and remain unmarred and beautiful, floor varnish must be more than waterproof . . . it must WEAR.

Floors Beautiful and Usable Liquid Granite is absolutely waterproof. It will withstand any test that any other varnish is capable of meeting . . . and in addition outwear them all in actual service!

Cut your floor-varnish costs fully a third . . . reduce the depreciation of house, apartment or building . . . know the satisfaction of having floors that are both beautiful and usable . . . insist upon Liquid Granite Floor Varnish. It has no equal.

C. P. R. President Suggests Canadian Immigration Policy

DELIVERS STRIKING ADDRESS

Gives Border Cities Chamber of Commerce Illuminating Exposition.

SURVEY OF CANADA

Select in Several Countries; Many Co-operate—Bond Issue $10,000,000.

Windsor, Ont., April 17.—The Border Cities Chamber of Commerce 500 strong, turned out last night to greet E. W. Beatty, president of the C. P. R., who addressed them on national topics. Mr. Beatty arrived in the afternoon after a fast run from Toronto and was met at the station by prominent citizens headed by A. A. Bartlett, K. J. Scully, general manager of the C. P. R., eastern lines, Montreal; H. C. Grant, General Superintendent J. W. Fulton and M. Brown of Toronto.

Mr. Beatty was introduced to the gathering by Mr. Bartlett, who paid tribute to the guest of the evening and to the organization he represented.

In touching on immigration matters Mr. Beatty laid down a definite programme which he suggested should be entered upon by the Government in encouraging the immigration of desirable new citizens and capital to Canada. This included the suggested floating of a $10,000,000 bond issue to be used in assisting colonists by means of loans to establish themselves upon the land.

What the country is suffering from," he said, in part, "is too great railway mileage, and too great overhead for the amount of traffic available. It is the same with a great many of our manufacturers. Their problem is to find a market sufficiently large to reduce their overhead to reasonable proportions. At this time of the year when the voice most frequently heard is that land is not the price of Moses, and of his rival, the income tax collector, we are painfully reminded of the cost of Government. There is a demand for national economy, and if the demand is sufficiently vociferous some retrenchment will undoubtedly be made. While there is a certain hope may be entertained of relief, throughout national thrift, much more may be expected from a policy which will spread the burden of shoulders over a large number of shoulders.

Canada is at present in a particularly favorable position to do this, as there are a great many people willing to undertake their share. They are not citizens yet, but they are knocking at the door and the only reason why the Ottawa Government has not been more active in thus broadening the field of taxation is that sufficient pressure has not been brought to bear upon it, from all sections of the country to ease the burden in that particular way. Our records show that of the immigrants who have entered Canada, in Canadian Pacific ships since the new year, 85 per cent. were destined for the west and of these 90 per cent. were destined for farms.

After a great deal of consideration and consultation, I have prepared a concrete statement of the steps I think should be taken to establish policies and to result in a proper increase in this country's producing power. In the last three years the immigration to Canada has been, in 1921, 67,490; in 1922, 70,400; and in 1923, 137,200. During this period it is estimated that 235,000 Canadians left the country, and during the same period the normal increase in the population is estimated to be from 15 to 17 per 1,000. Fortunately we think that the tide has turned and many of those who left the country are now turning to its shores. There is no doubt in my mind that we can, without danger, absorb a minimum of 300,000 and a maximum of 500,000 new people.

and exhibitions to the people of Great Britain, U. S. and selected countries of northern and central Europe to come to Canada as colonists and assist in the development of our unoccupied lands—and this invitation should also include an invitation for the investment of the necessary capital to develop our latent natural resources. It is further understood that the government will take all steps necessary to aid to take up improved or unimproved lands for the purpose of engaging in farming, and will render all necessary assistance to enable such people to carry on their farming operations successfully.

It is further suggested that the physical and medical examination of colonists desiring to come to Canada, as far as possible, be carried out at the port of embarkation.

Canada is at present in a particularly favorable position to do this, as there are a great many people willing to undertake their share. They are not citizens yet, but they are knocking at the door and the only reason why the Ottawa Government has not been more active in thus broadening the field of taxation is that sufficient pressure has not been brought to bear upon it, from all sections of the country to ease the burden in that particular way.

TELLS OF RIVER BOAT SUBSIDIES

Fredericton, April 16.—The following answers were given recently in the Legislature:

1. Q.—What amount of subsidy is to be paid to the steamer Hampton for amalgamated service on Belleisle route and on the daily route between St. John and Wickham for season of 1924? A.—$1,400.

2. Q.—If any subsidy is to be paid the steamer Hampton for the season of 1924, what are the names of the stopping stations on both routes? A.—In answer to a request made by the Department of Public Works in 1919, the owners of steamer Oconee, plying between St. John and Wickham and the Belleisle route, submitted a list showing their stopping stations on the route as follows: Land's End, Brandy Point, Sand Point, Westfield, Woodman's Point, Day's Landing, Purdy's Point, Belyea's Point, Watter's wharf, Rose's Landing, Craig's Point, Carter's Point, Public Landing wharf, Victoria wharf, Bedford wharf, Beasley's Point, Brown's wharf, Glenwood wharf, William's wharf, Cedars wharf, Oak Point wharf, Duhamel wharf, Stern's wharf, Gorham's Bluff, Palmer's wharf, Evandale, G. M. Jones' Landing, Allan's Landing, Gerow's wharf, Hampstead and Wickham. The Department has no record of stopping stations for steamer Hampton plying on the Belleisle route.

3. Q.—Can the owners of the steamer Hampton arrange to cut out any public wharf on the river they desire and still receive the subsidy? A.—There is not, as yet, any signed agreement between the Government and the company for the amalgamated service on the Belleisle route and St. John-Wickham route specifying stopping stations this year, but this will be attended to in the near future.

4. Q.—As there is no railroad on the eastern side of the river, why should a Government subsidized steamer cut White's Bluff wharf on the eastern side and make all the other wharf stops on the western side, when it is most important to serve the public on White's Bluff wharf? A.—The department has no information as to why a subsidized steamer should leave out White's Bluff wharf, but this matter will be looked into.

DELIVERS STRIKING ADDRESS

Gives Border Cities Chamber of Commerce Illuminating Exposition.

SURVEY OF CANADA

Select in Several Countries; Many Co-operate—Bond Issue $10,000,000.

Windsor, Ont., April 17.—The Border Cities Chamber of Commerce 500 strong, turned out last night to greet E. W. Beatty, president of the C. P. R., who addressed them on national topics. Mr. Beatty arrived in the afternoon after a fast run from Toronto and was met at the station by prominent citizens headed by A. A. Bartlett, K. J. Scully, general manager of the C. P. R., eastern lines, Montreal; H. C. Grant, General Superintendent J. W. Fulton and M. Brown of Toronto.

Mr. Beatty was introduced to the gathering by Mr. Bartlett, who paid tribute to the guest of the evening and to the organization he represented.

In touching on immigration matters Mr. Beatty laid down a definite programme which he suggested should be entered upon by the Government in encouraging the immigration of desirable new citizens and capital to Canada. This included the suggested floating of a $10,000,000 bond issue to be used in assisting colonists by means of loans to establish themselves upon the land.

What the country is suffering from," he said, in part, "is too great railway mileage, and too great overhead for the amount of traffic available. It is the same with a great many of our manufacturers. Their problem is to find a market sufficiently large to reduce their overhead to reasonable proportions.

After a great deal of consideration and consultation, I have prepared a concrete statement of the steps I think should be taken to establish policies and to result in a proper increase in this country's producing power. In the last three years the immigration to Canada has been, in 1921, 67,490; in 1922, 70,400; and in 1923, 137,200. During this period it is estimated that 235,000 Canadians left the country, and during the same period the normal increase in the population is estimated to be from 15 to 17 per 1,000. Fortunately we think that the tide has turned and many of those who left the country are now turning to its shores.

There is no doubt in my mind that we can, without danger, absorb a minimum of 300,000 and a maximum of 500,000 new people. The following is suggested as the policy which should be immediately adopted by the government and actively and aggressively administered.

London Traffic

(By R. A. Scott-James.) One day, in the year 1904, certain persons stood at Hyde Park Corner, in London, counting the vehicles which passed between 8 a.m. and 9 p.m. The number was 20,000. Nineteen years later enumerators stood at the same spot between the same hours, and counted 26,039 vehicles. It was remarked that the number had almost doubled. To the citizen of New York that may seem a small rate of increase. I suppose the traffic in Broadway may have doubled in five years, quadrupled in ten—I have not the statistics, but I have a vivid recollection of the contrast between 1923 and 1912.

The police will bear out my contention, Chief Constable Basson, an official of thirty years' experience, was recently questioned about modern traffic conditions, and replied: "In the days when horse-drawn vehicles predominated, once a block occurred it took a long time to sort it out, and I have seen traffic stationary from Piccadilly Circus to Old Bond Street." I can remember another occasion when I was in my teens, sitting almost in the centre of Hyde Park, which is to London much what the Central Park is to New York. North and south of this considerable open space run two of the great main roads which join the centre of London to the suburbs. As I sat there I heard from the one side and from the other a continuous deep rumble into which the noise of a procession of horse-vehicles melted, like the sound of a distant intensive bombardment on the western front in the war. But a day or two ago when I was in the same spot, there was no such continuity of sound, for there was no continuous stream of traffic. I heard only the muttering and the growling, now of this great motor-bus, as it rushed along, now of that heavy lorry—they were separated, and their noises were distinct. But Londoners, like other people, quickly forget the old conditions, which were tolerated without a murmur in more easy going days, though the conditions of today are fiercely denounced. Now the air is full of talk of the scandal of "increasing congestion," and men point to figures such as I have just quoted, forgetting that, though there may be nearly twice as many vehicles in the road, they move far more than twice as fast, and circulate with greater freedom. It is the habit of our age to be disturbed about abuses which no one would have thought of preventing or objecting to a generation ago. And so questions are being asked in parliament about the state of the London streets; journalists are writing denunciatory articles in the press; judges make satirical remarks in the courts; and Sir Alfred Yarrow has sprung into prominence by offering to present London with a bridge across Oxford Circus, to carry one stream of traffic across another. All are saying: "If the congestion is so bad today, what will it be in the summer, when hundreds of thousands of visitors from overseas crowd into London for the Exhibition?" And yet London for the Exhibition? And yet a web of electric subways, all but two non-existent twenty years ago, which between them, carry nearly as many passengers as all the other omnibuses and trams put together. Civilization, in time, may find for itself a better way. But the truth is that civilization has always, up to now, created towns and traffic, and the problems that go with them. That was why the poet Horace declared that he hated and shunned the profane crowd, and retired to his rustic villa to compose his odes. But one suspects that he, too, was often content to absent himself from felicity awhile. Men, up to now, have always built towns as if they like conga. When cities were small, and the traffic otherwise insufficient to become a nuisance, they made the streets narrow and tortuous, and so there was doubtless a traffic problem in the Middle Ages. I have marveled at old French towns, like St. Omer, where fairly broad highways have perversely narrowed as they converged upon the central "place," or square; "movements" of medieval bourgeois vehicles and feudal trains must have caused many a "block" and much angry confusion. And even in these days, in the backward Turkish city of Adrianople—so narrow are the streets, so bad the going, so awkward the turnings—that I have seen bullock wagons and horse vehicles and mounted gendarmes mixed up inextricably. The world, it seems, loves, and has always loved, a crowd; it has always loved a crowd; it has always loved the nature of cities to create conditions which cry out for reform.

PREDICTS CLOSE RACE IN NATIONAL

President Heydler Says 3 Teams Have Chance to Beat Giants.

By HENRY L. FARRELL.
New York, April 17—(United Press)—After he had visited the Florida training camps of the eight National League clubs training there, John A. Heydler, president of the league, expressed a qualified opinion that three teams had a good chance to beat out the New York Giants in the pennant race.

The Cincinnati Reds, the Pittsburgh Pirates and the St. Louis Cardinals were classed as the most dangerous competitors of the three-time champions, and the Chicago Cubs and the Boston Braves were ranked as formidable.

Heydler said that the strength in his league was more evenly divided than he had seen it in years and that he looked for a blanket race from start to finish.

Six clubs in the league have inherited enough strength from last season, or added enough power since the close of the season to make it apparent almost that there will be no centralization of strength in two or three clubs that would make it a one-sided race.

It was quite obvious at the close of the 1923 season, when the Giants rallied and smashed through to their third straight pennant on their last invasion of the west, that the 1924 pennant would go to the club that succeeded best in strengthening itself during the off-season.

The Giants, it was the unanimous opinion, were not strong enough to win their fourth straight championship with what was left when they retired beaten from the field in the world's series.

It was just as reasonable to assume, however, that the Cincinnati Reds needed a little bit more to do a lot better than they did in 1923 if they were to upset the Giants.

The Reds, since then, have been improved greatly. The Giants have made several gestures at reorganization, and the Boston Braves have been most vitally transformed.

The Pittsburgh Pirates have assumed an experiment with new shortstops, but the Chicago Cubs have stood fast. The Brooklyn Robins have picked up a new shortstop, but they needed more than an infield to make the team.

The Phils act like they know they are out of it and "what's the use." The Reds picked up two of the best minor league pitchers in the game when they bought Jake May from the Vernon Pacific Coast League team and Tom Sheehan from the St. Paul American Association team.

Needing pitching strength above everything, the Giants bought 20 minor league prospects, among which Dean, from the Louisville club; Baldwin, from Newark; Bradshaw, from Toledo, and Maun, from Wichita, seem the most promising. The Giants also acquired Billy Southworth, an outfielder, and Joe Oeschger, a veteran pitcher, from the Braves.

The Pittsburgh Pirates paid $75,000 for Glenn Wright, a minor league shortstop, and failed to get over a deal for Rabbit Maranville, who may be moved over to second base.

The St. Louis Cardinals will try Bell, a shortstop developed in the club's farm holdings and will depend mostly upon the interest that Rogers Hornsby puts in his work after making up with Branch Rickey.

The Braves have a new manager and a star shortstop in Dave Bancroft, and they have, as new members also, Casey Stengel, Bill Cunningham, Jack Kellner and Cotton Tierney.

The Braves have also the best young pitching staff in the league. Jimmy Jones is the lone newcomer to the Brooklyn Robins. The club has a most excellent pitching staff, but it needs more than one infielder to get a pennant or get near the nearest to a pennant.

The Phils have a great pitcher in Jimmy Ring. A good catcher in Walter Henline and a great outfielder in Cy Williams, but that lets them out. Art Fletcher is a hustling manager without any reason for inspiration and with no cause to be ambitious. But Fletcher will make the best of what little he has, which will amount to very little.

In bright prospects for a stringing pennant race, the National League at last seems to have acquired something to counteract, even if it must be slight, the Ruth influence in the American League. If the Yankees should make another runaway pennant race in the other league and if the Babe should find that he can't hit dirty balls as well as he can club the new, shiny "apples," the National League, with a three or four-way pennant race, might be able to get back again on an even footing in the distribution of newspaper space.

Frank Fitch, developing as he has in the past two seasons, may be a big National League card, but go as far as he can never draw them in through the gate the way the Babe has done, and the same holds for Rogers Hornsby, the leading elephant of the National League herd.

The Giants may breeze through to another pennant, they may go to pieces and drop clear out of the first division, but whatever happens it will be done by the middle of July and it's a pennant race that will have them all fighting to the finish.

EXPECT BIG TRAFFIC ON RAILWAYS TODAY

Many Plan to Spend Holidays Outside of St. John

A considerable amount of Easter traffic is expected on both the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific lines. It was reported yesterday that bookings at present were about up to the heavier. Boston, Montreal and New York were the favorite destinations in the C. P. R. bookings, while on the C. N. R. Moncton, Truro and Halifax appeared to be the most popular centres. Travel was expected to be heaviest on Thursday for long distance passengers. For the suburban traffic, preparations were being made to have stops at all stations. Many residents with summer homes are expected to make of the Easter holidays an opportunity of visiting them, but for suburban traffic the weather is considered the determining factor. The C. N. R. will have extra coaches on its regular trains to care for the expected rush and the C. P. R. will have the suburban trains 7.15 a. m. from the city and the train arriving at 9.30 at night, make all the suburban stops. Students returning for the Easter holidays will be one of the big factors in the traffic to St. John and this traffic may be rather less than usual, this year as Easter comes so near to the time for the closing of colleges.

WILL THE YANKEES LIVE UP TO FORM?

Much Will Depend on Their Showing—Other Teams Stronger.

(By Henry L. Farrell.)
New York, April 17.—(United Press)—Just for the reason that the New York Yankees are expected by the majority of the baseball critics to be set for another stroll to the championship, the American League pennant race has the possibility of a tremendous sensation that would develop if the Yankees should not live up to form.

team has been tremendously strengthened, and one has been improved.
Lee Fohl, with the Boston Red Sox; Frank Chance, with Chicago White Sox; Buck Harris, with the Washington Senators, and George Slater, with the St. Louis Browns, are the new pilots. Because they have new managers, who may introduce new policies and whose leadership may exert some kind of a new inspiration, these clubs cannot be figured on past performances.

SPORT NEWS GLEANED FROM WORLD'S CENTRES

PICKS YANKEES TO WIN PENNANT

Says They Have Sufficient Strength to Capture Another Pennant.

By HENRY L. FARRELL.

New York, April 17.—(United Press)—As soon as the New York Yankees fall apart, a critic might wisely pick up the American league last winter some other strong club can step easily a chance of winning the pennant.

There is nothing to indicate at the current writing that the world's champions are even crumbling, let alone falling apart. There is a slight chance that one or, at the worst, two of the star pitchers might go wrong, but there would be sufficient strength left to carry through a team that is very capable on the offense.

For the reason that the Yankees are just as good, if not a little better, than they were last year and that their most powerful opposition has not been correspondingly improved there is no cause to believe that Miller Huggins will not be the first manager to attain the fame and the record of winning four pennants in consecutive years.

Realizing that the strength of the challenging teams is more than usually balanced and that there are the possibilities for some great surprises that cannot be figured or anticipated, the following is offered as a prediction of how the teams will stand when the race is ended:

New York Yankees
Cleveland Indians
Philadelphia Athletics
Detroit Tigers
Washington Senators
Boston Red Sox
St. Louis Browns
Chicago White Sox

The Yankees are picked to win the pennant again, because they have a powerful hitting and a good fielding team and the best pitching staff in the league. They should have more confidence than they had last year before they had won a world's series and they are too experienced and too balanced to be in danger of getting enlarged skulls and taking it too easy.

It was not until last fall that the club really found itself and it is sure to be improved by the feeling that it was good enough to beat in the world's series what had been held up as one of the finest teams in baseball.

"Heartlock" Again Gets Champ Strangler Lewis

Chicago, April 17.—There's one hold that can floor "Strangler" Ed Lewis, champion wrestler.

And that's the "heartlock." Miss Bessie McNear, Kansas City, Mo., beats the second to apply it successfully.

The first was Dr. Ade Scott Morton, California woman physician, but he slipped from her hold after a few years of married life, and the divorce papers separated them.

There was considerable rough and tumble with romance before the second victory of Cupid vs. Lewis had been achieved. He cannot possibly play the "strangler" was champion.

but it may be too late when he gets him. Washington finished fourth last season, but Donie Bush lost his job, because he would not follow Clarke Griffith's orders.

The White Sox would have had a better chance to get along if Franjo had been handled the team from the start. Certainly Johnny Evers is a competent baseball man, but the club looks for him to be an outsider and a fact against him.

CASEY'S HOMER BREAKS UP TIE

Puts Braves in Lead—Detroit First in American League.

New York, April 17.—All victors of the major league opening day were defeated yesterday except Detroit, which jumped to the American League leadership by winning over Cleveland 5 to 1.

Jack Bentley held the Dodgers hitless until the seventh, after which he allowed four hits. The veteran Jack Quinn gave Yankee batsmen only six safeties, and turned Babe Ruth back hitless in the Red Sox 9 to 6 victory which witnessed flashy fielding by young Dudley Lee, Red Sox shortstop.

While his teammates walloped four St. Louis pitchers for 17 hits, Grover Alexander coasted in with a 13 to 4 Cub victory. Ronnett tyried a five-hit contest for Connie Mack's young Athletics, who drove the veteran Mogro from the mound in the first frame and beat Washington 6 to 1.

George Sisler's batting and fielding feat featured the St. Louis-Chicago battle in the American League, but a single by Eddie Collins brought Hooper home with a 9-2 White Sox victory in the tenth inning.

Earl Whitehill, Detroit recruit southpaw, knocked Joe Sewell unconscious with a thrown ball, and hit three other batsmen while defeating Cleveland. Sewell finished the game.

Some time ago there were rumors that a little Russian princess, Mary Travskii, had been matched with the champion, but the "heartlock" didn't seem to work.

THINKERS Four Great Veterans Help Washington Rookies

The death of the Ballykeshon stallion, Happy Warrior, from a fractured vertebrae received in an accident recently, will prove a severe blow to the breeding industry in Ireland, in the opinion of leading breeders there.

Happy Warrior, which was by Sundridge and Sweet Lassie, by Orme, was remarkably successful with his two-year-olds, of which in 1922 eleven won twenty-three races of the value of £4,800, and in 1923 nine of them accounted for seventeen races, worth £4,000.

His stock has been running only since 1920, and in the four seasons it has won in England, Ireland, Belgium, South Africa, India and Germany fifty races of the value of £14,000.

Happy Warrior, which was bred by J. B. Joel, was own brother to Sunfire. As a two-year-old he ran only four times, being second in his first race. He then won successively the Glasgow Nursery at Doncaster, the Hopful Stakes at Newmarket and the Chestnut Nursery at Derby.

Being the property of the late Kennedy Jones, Happy Warrior was retired from racing in 1914 and commenced his career at the Ballykeshon stud the following year. His owner died a few seasons ago and the stud is now managed by the proprietors of the stud. In point of the number of his two-year-old winners, Happy Warrior was second in Ireland, and several months ago his list for the present season was filled at a fee of 99 sovereigns.

Having received word from the Hurlingham Club of England that the string of forty more mounts to be bred by the representatives of Great Britain in the International Challenge Cup matches at Meadow Brook will be ready for shipment about the first of August and that the foreign importers will take up the work of conditioning the imported mounts, the United States Polo Association is forming plans for providing adequate facilities for practice and stabling for the British players.

COLLEGE BASEBALL CANDIDATES MUST PASS WRITTEN TESTS

Bluffton, Ohio, April 17.—A new system of coaching has been inaugurated by A. C. Burch of Bluffton College, and for the varsity nine must pass a written test on baseball theory before they will be considered. The examination, to be held this week, will include the essentials of the game and a solution of unexpected situations.

TROJANS DEFEAT MONTEON PAWNEES

Visitors Have a One Point Margin for the Title—Locals Protest

The Trojan intermediate basketball team defeated the Monteton Pawnees by a score of 36 to 22 in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last night. Although victorious, the locals are unable to claim the provincial intermediate championship, as they failed by one point to equal the total number of points scored by their opponents in the home and home series of games which was to have decided to which team the title was to go.

The locals have formally protested the match on the grounds that Berry, one of the Pawnee players, has already participated in a championship series, and that Hayman, another player, did not feature on the Pawnee lineup until after the close of the league in which they won the championship, which entitled them to play the Trojan intermediate for the provincial honors.

The line-up of the two teams and the scoring by individuals follows:

Trojans (36) Pawnees (22)
Forwards
Lee (23) VanBuskirk (4)
Christopher (4) G. Trites (6)

NEWS NOTES GATHERED FROM THE WORLD OF STAGE AND SCREEN

SNAP JUDGMENT MADE HUNDRED PER CENT. DIRECTOR OF JAS. CRUZE

Ran Away From His Country Home When 15 Years Old.

(By JACK JUNGMEYER.)
Hollywood, April 17.—It took James Cruze less than five minutes to make the most important decision of his life—Cruze of Famous Players-Lasky who is accounted Hollywood's 100 per cent. director.

It was when he was 15. Barefoot and bareheaded, he stood hoing in a Utah field. As he stood hoing and debating, a freight train halted near the farm to repair a hotbox. Here was the dare of opportunity to run away, which, he says, he had never seriously contemplated. Home or the horizon, now or never. Jimmy flung down his hoe, straddled the rods and rode out into the world. This episode neatly illustrates his capacity to think and act fast, the trait which, coupled with an acute sense of fun and a repertorial flair for dramatic recital of the commonplace, has made him one of the most valuable men in his profession.

Time is the essence of picture costs. James Cruze usually does the job in about half the time required by his confederates. And does it without sacrificing quality. That freight train flight from Utah projected him into a sharp scramble for existence. He landed in San Francisco half starved. He, the raw country lad, competed for bare-living jobs with those skilled in snatching such livelihood—in hotels, restaurants, factories, along the waterfront, on coastwise ships.

Cruze converted these experiences into valuable equipment for his later movie career through the filter of his humorous nature. In reciting his hardships he alludes to them as a good joke upon himself.

Cruze has a definite style in his pictures because he looks out upon life with its heroes and travesties from a fixed standpoint. For confirmation recall the peculiar savor of "The Old Homestead," "One Glorious Day," "The Covered Wagon," "Ruggles of Red Gap," "To the Ladies," "Hollywood" and "The Fighting Coward."

Cruze traversed repertoire and rattle on his way to pictures, becoming leading man in melodramas at the time Mary Pickford and John Bunny were the big names in movies, and receiving the then fabulous salary of $200 per week.

An injury laid him up for a year, while the industry passed him by. He began again in Hollywood as an extra at $5 a day. That indicates the quality of his courage.

MICROBE MANUFACTURERS.

A new microbe has been discovered whereby 10,000 tons of waste hops can be made to yield annually half a million gallons of alcohol suitable for motor spirit. It is a British discovery, and another proof of the value of chemical research.

Until two chemists made this discovery, brewers paid large sums every year for the carting away of their "waste" hops. Now not only can motor spirit be extracted from this so-called waste, but a further result is the manufacture of acetic acid, essential in many industries.

This useful microbe develops so much heat by its evolution that it kills all antagonistic germs and greatly stimulates the powers of fermentation. Apart from motor spirit, 15,000 cubic feet of gas, suitable for internal combustion engines, is also rendered available by the process, and the whole discovery has aroused keen interest in the chemical and commercial world.

THEY LIGHTED THEIR TROTH

As lovers always do, without regard for what fate might have in store. He, a soldier, soon afterward was reported killed. She became a nun. "The White Sister." Then the grave gave up its dead! He pleaded for the fulfillment of her vow: "I will wait for you forever." At Imperial Monday.

MANY THRILLED BY LOCAL PICTURE

Probably no moving picture yet shown in St. John is interesting our public from the purely local angle as much as "Blue Water," which opened a two-day engagement at the Imperial yesterday, when it was seen by thousands. If one were asked to tell in a few words just what kind of picture the Shipman production is, it could be truthfully said it is a human-interest story of a sailor and his sweetheart, their tribulations of the heart, the faithful companionship of an Acadian shipmate, the whole fiction having a somewhat tragic background due to the excessive use of liquor, which the author is pleased to term an hereditary taint in the hero.

Doubleless yesterday's watchers of "Blue Water" got some special thrill out of the realization that most of the picture was photographed—or "shot," as they say in movie language—down our own Bay of Fundy coast in the snugging fisherman of Chance Harbor, also in King Square of this city, and in Charlotte street. Indeed some who saw the professional screening of the picture yesterday were present in St. Andrew's yink, when most of the interior shipboard pictures and home-ward "shots" were made. The vivid storm scenes with the hero at the wheel, were made in this improvised studio and are wonderfully realistic. The acting of the players, familiar to a large number of townfolk, who met them personally and enjoyed social intercourse with them during their stay of several months hereabouts, was, of course, of the real professional quality and no moving picture of the average kind brought to St. John can claim any superiority in this avenue of art. Indeed, the vernacular and dialect titling of "Blue Water," in editing and pictorial titles are of a high order of merit, and throughout the five reels the picture proceeds with intelligent continuity, holding one's interest as the intensely human narrative is unfolded. If the Maritime author, Frederick W. Wallace, were privileged to see his story in its animated form he would be greatly pleased, that's certain.

"Blue Water" belongs to New Brunswick Films, Ltd., a local corporation of investors organized by Ernest Shipman, who has made community pictures in various sections of Canada. Several of his western films have been shown on the Imperial circuit. Now that the St. John picture is released in this territory by the New York corporation attending to its distribution, it will doubtless be greatly in demand, for it truly is a well-made Bay of Fundy story.

This afternoon and tonight the Imperial will screen "Blue Water" for the last time. Between shows tonight

Edna Wants Her Freedom!

Edna May, former actress, has instituted divorce proceedings in Los Angeles against her husband, Art Acord, movie cowboy. Instead of punching cows, Art's been punching her, she charges. another concert will be given, at which the Moore Brothers Quartette will sing. Tomorrow there is a special week-end bill, headed by Wesley Barry in "The Country Kid."

FIRST NATIONAL PLANS.
"The Lost World," a story which lends itself to a decided novel production, in that it features prehistoric animals, to be filmed by a process which has long been a subject of litigation and discussion, may be the next First National feature production. Matt Moore and Bessie Love are mentioned as the principal players.

"Where the Worst Begins" probably will be Colleen Moore's next picture-play, while Corinne Griffith is slated to make "If Ever I Marry Again."

"ROBIN HODD" AT SOUTH POLE.
Douglas Fairbanks now holds the record for "business farthest south." This became known when Doug. received a letter from E. H. Benson, his representative in Australia, who notified him that "Robin Hood" had broken all house records at His Majesty's Theatre in Hobart, Tasmania, which bears the distinction of being the city closest to the South Pole.

Screen Lures Her

Lady Diana Somerset, popular in British court circles, is thinking seriously of entering the movies, her friends declare. They are certain she'll be a big hit, if she does.

ALL IN ONE FILM.
There are two shootings, two marriages, two big balls, an attempted lynching, an attempted suicide and three knock-down-and-drag-out fights—two of them between women—in Maurice Tourneur's "The White Moth," featuring Conway Tearle, Barbara La Marr, Ben Lyon, Edna Murphy, Kathleen Kirkham, Josie Sedgwick and Kathleen Clifford.

BEFORE THE CAMERA NOW.
John Arnold, Metro cameraman, is at last working on the other side of the camera. He is playing the role of a news photographer in Viola Dana's current picture, "The Beauty Prize."

STUDIO NOTES.
Betty Compson has finished "The Enemy Sex," under the direction of James Cruze. Percy Marmont, Huntly Gordon and Sheldon Lewis appear in support of Betty.

Lady Diana Somerset and her mother, the Duchess of Rutland, paid their first visit to a motion picture studio Monday, when they visited the Fox studios at 10th avenue and 56th street.

Exhibition Dancers Again Find Favor With London Public

Specialists Are Given Large Salaries For Work in Ball-rooms.

Exhibition dancers, after being out of the limelight for a year or so, are back in favor again. Clubs and cabarets are featuring them and private dances see them as brief distractions breaking the monotony of the dance programme, says "The London Daily Mail."

Show dancers lost favor for two or three reasons. People got tired of them. Straight ballroom dancing is monotonous to watch, especially for spectators who themselves can dance almost as well as the professionals.

The return of the exhibition dancers is due chiefly to the influx of thousands of non-busy visitors, to whom exhibition dancing is fresh and amusing. But the couples who are being seen now have been wise enough to develop the "character" side of their dancing. The demand for straight ballroom dancing has definitely gone.

What makes the successful exhibition dancer? Personality, a flair for showmanship, good looks, dancing ability, in about equal proportions.

Star dancing couples do not merely dance. They express their personalities in a score of ways—by little tricks of gesture, subtle by-play. Many couples who are good "draws" and make a thousand pounds or so a year are dancers of quite ordinary achievement.

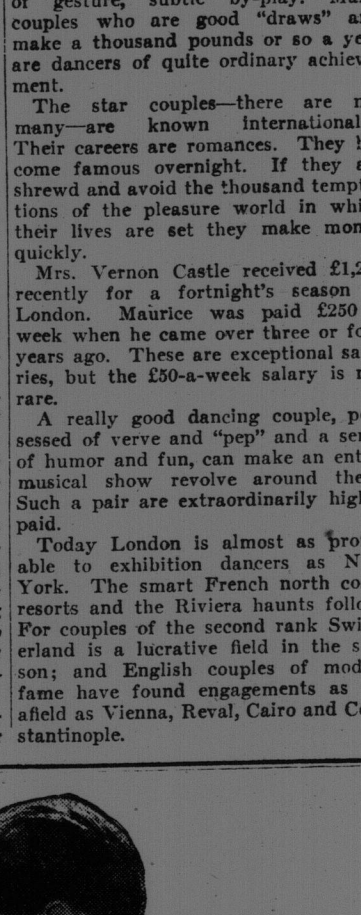

The star couples—there are not many—are known internationally. Their careers are romances. They become famous overnight. If they are shrewd and avoid the thousand temptations of the pleasure world in which their lives are set they make money quickly.

Mrs. Vernon Castle received £1,200 recently for a fortnight's season in London. Maurice was paid £200 a week when he came over three or four years ago. These are exceptional salaries, but the £30-a-week salary is not rare.

A really good dancing couple, possessed of verve and "pep" and a sense of humor and fun, can make an entire musical show revolve around them. Such a pair are extraordinarily highly paid.

Today London is almost as profitable to exhibition dancers as New York. The smart French north coast resorts and the Riviera haunts follow. For couples of the second rank Switzerland is a lucrative field in the season; and English couples of modest fame have found engagements as far afield as Vienna, Reval, Cairo and Constantinople.

It's Bessie

But you couldn't guess in a year who this girl is. So why keep you in suspense. It's Bessie Love, movie actress. She got the shingle boy so she could better play the role of napper in her newest picture.

MORE GEMS FROM EXAM. PAPERS
Examinations may be ordeals for both student and instructor, but, according to the Wellesley College faculty, they have their compensations.

To prove their point, they offer the following scholastic gems, gleaned from the last mid-year quizzes:
"Although Shakespeare wrote a great many sonnets, a few of them are beautiful."
"In King David's time they strung people up by the lamp-post."

"Shakespeare's sonnet form makes three distinct quartets."
"Milton believed that every one was born under a sign."
"Wordsworth's poetry is too full of thought to be natural."
"Descriptions of sunsets are natural but rural."

"The present educational system inhibits the attainment of the full florescence of our potentialities."
"The prohibition bill was passed in twenty-six of the sixty-states of the Union."
Question: When did Milton retire from public life?
Answer: In 1660 when he was thrown into prison.

"Decameron was a noted French dramatist."
"Mary and Joseph were refused lodgings at the inn because it was Christmas Eve."
"A stock exchange is where cattle is bought and sold."
A member of the geology department, however, says that none of these can compare with the only piece of writing she found at one examination: "How can I answer these questions when HE has just asked me to be HIS and I have answered 'Yes'?"

Miss Dorothy Denis, instructor in French, considers that a comparison between the examples just quoted and specimens she has read on college entrance examinations proves conclusively the advantages of higher education, and she cites these which she has found in her experience as reader:
"A deacon is the lowest form of Christian."
"Sinister is another term for old maid."
"Dido marks are used to repeat what you have said before."
"Pompey was an ancient city destroyed by an eruption of salvia from the Vatican."
"Achilles' mother dipped him in the River Styx until he was intolerable."
"Keat's wrote Grey's Elegy."

Nairobi, Kenya, April 16.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters)—The Prince of Wales has been invited to visit Kenya Colony this summer, as the proposed visit of His Royal Highness to South Africa has been postponed on account of the South African general election.

Sir Robert Corydon, Governor of Kenya, has sent the Prince the invitation in response to strong expressions of popular feeling in favor of the Prince being invited.

No Edge.
The stout woman struggled to enter a narrow carriage doorway, but struggled in vain.

"Urry on there" yelled the guard, approaching her with fire in his eyes.

"Urry on, Git in edgeways, mum! Git in edgeways!"

The would-be traveler showed a red, perspiring face over her plump shoulder, and regarded the official with an angry glare. "And wot," she snapped bitterly, "wot if I ain't got no edge?"

IMPERIAL—Monday

LILLIAN GISH IN HER GREATEST ROLE! The ethereal little star who tugged at your heart strings in such big productions as "The Birth of a Nation," "Orphans of the Storm" and "Way Down East" at last has a role that tests her full powers. When you see her in "The White Sister," opening on Easter Monday for a three days' run, you will be thrilled, captivated and exalted as never before.

John Barrymore has acclaimed Miss Gish as the one actress who carries the supreme tradition of Bernhardt and Duse to the screen. And in "The White Sister" she has a picture that is incomparably the finest of the year. Nothing equals the beauty, pathos, suspense and spectacular magnificence of F. Marion Crawford's story of love and sacrifice.

"The White Sister" was made during a period of seven months spent amid the beautiful backgrounds of Italy and northern Africa in photographing the scenes, which include a magnificent view of the volcano of Vesuvius in actual eruption, a stirring struggle in the desert with the Arabs and a town submerged in an avalanche of water as a great reservoir bursts.

The picture has been released by Metro and has broken records at $2.20 admission prices in New York. It realizes the most wonderful possibilities of the screen. The Imperial is showing it the first three days of the Easter season at a top price of fifty cents.

FERRY LAWS ARE TO BE REVISED

Smoking and Other Matters—No Liability in Gorman Claim.

At a meeting of the city commissioners this morning a delegation from West St. John appeared to support their petition for a sidewalk on the southeast side of City Line, in front of their properties. They suggested that sufficient land be secured from the county to build a sidewalk, as they understood the City Line ended at the western boundary of the lots.

Commissioner Wigmore said he felt the city should provide the sidewalk, as the entire taxes from the properties were paid to the city.

The road engineer said there was a reverse situation in Russell street, where the city owned the entire street, and if they built a sidewalk on the east side of this street it would be to serve residents of the county.

Commissioner Thornton said this was a new angle to the matter, and he thought that in the West Side case the county should provide the sidewalk if the city was going to be asked to provide a sidewalk in Russell street.

The Gorman case. Commissioner Thornton reported that he had been advised by the city solicitor for damages for time lost, and also loss of position, and account of being named as a witness in the Clara Whiteside murder case, the city had no liability. He moved that Messrs. MacLachlan, Sinclair & MacLachlan, solicitors for Mr. Gorman, be notified to that effect.

Commissioner Thornton recommended that the application of J. M. Dimock & Co. to install a 600-gallon tank on their premises, 8 Clarendon street, be granted. Carried.

Commissioner Frink moved that the application of F. Charbonnet, 120 Charlotte street, to install an electric sign on his premises be referred to the Commissioner of Public Works, city engineer and city electrician, with power to act. Carried.

Commissioner Bullock presented a draft proposed amendments to the ferry by-law prohibiting the sale of commutation tickets by one person to another under penalty of $10 for each offence; the allowing of smoking in the gentlemen's cabin, and prohibiting spitting on the floors of the ferry steamer or toll-houses, under a penalty of $4 for each offence; allowing a man to accompany a lady in the ladies' cabin, but prohibiting them from the ladies' waiting room, under a penalty of $4 for each offence; and he was given authority to have the ferry by-laws revised and consolidated.

MORE FINED IN COAL CASES

The C. P. R. Investigation Department is making efforts to put a stop to people purchasing coal and other goods from boys, who have been making a habit of stealing from C. P. R. box cars in their yard off Mill street. This morning they had Florence Albert, Joseph Isard and Nancy Nevins before Magistrate Henderson on charges of buying coal from juveniles. The first two pleaded guilty, but Mrs. Nevins said someone else in her home must have purchased the coal. She said she was away every day working. Three juveniles testified that they had sold coal to her. The defendants were all fined $1 and warned.

IS FINED $48

Joseph W. Ramsay of Rockland, Mass., was fined $48 in the Police Court this morning. He was arrested last night on a charge of assaulting William Clifford and Michael Tipper and also with being drunk. He pleaded guilty to drunkenness but said he could not remember having assaulted anyone. Both witnesses expressed a wish to have the case dropped, but Magistrate Henderson said it was no longer within their power to interfere with proceedings. They were both sworn and told of the defendant attempting to get into the Venetian Gardens last evening while under the influence of liquor, and said that when they attempted to prevent him he had struck them. During the testimony of the second witness the prisoner's memory was apparently refreshed for he told about paying for the tickets and a conversation which had taken place. Magistrate Henderson then fined him $8 or two months in jail for drunkenness and $20 for each of the assaults or two months in jail for each offence in event of his not paying the fines.

The Civic Power Commission reported that up to today they had installed 8,764 meters, and it was expected the number would be 4,000 by the end of the month.

FLAG RAISING POSTPONED

The church parade and flag-raising of the Naval Cadets, which was announced for Easter Sunday forenoon at the old No. 2 Engine House flag-staff, King Square, has been postponed until the following Sunday. Because of the special religious observances of the day, it has been deemed wise to defer the ceremony and thus give liberty of all cadets to attend their various churches. On the 27th the church services to be attended by the naval lads will be in Trinity Episcopal and the Cathedral, Waterloo street.

SEVEN EMPLOYEES GOING TO TRURO

Western Union Plant Department Will be Moved Next Week.

It is expected that by Wednesday of next week, the plant department of the Western Union Telegraph Co. will have closed its offices in St. John and started functioning in Truro. Of the nine members of the staff who have been working here, at least seven will make their homes for the future in Truro. They are: A. D. Wetmore, plant superintendent; Frederick Green, chief clerk; Arthur LeB. Robertson, cashier; William A. Fraser, general foreman; Ned F. Nutter, inspector; Miss M. L. Jenkins and Miss H. C. Compton, stenographers. It has not yet been ascertained whether or not Charles H. Alward and Robert I. Logan, employed at clerks in the local office, will accompany the staff to Truro.

The plant department has been shifted, it was said, on account of Truro's central position with relation to the lines radiating from that place to Halifax, Sydney, Moncton, St. John and the North Shore. The many friends of those who are to go, will regret their move to another field.

MEET WISHES OF CONTRACTORS HERE

Admiral Beatty Hotel Directors Advance Date for Tenders to May 1.

At the request of several of the local contractors who are figuring on the proposed erection work, the directors of the new Admiral Beatty Hotel here announced this morning that the closing date for the reception of tenders had been advanced from April 24 to May 1.

The contractors' request was based on the ground that quotations for material would have to be obtained from manufacturers in Upper Canada and the United States and this fact would delay the work of figuring on the contract. The board of directors expressed their willingness to meet the local building firms in this connection, and the postponement of the closing date.

SPEAKS OF MOVIES

Vitagraph Executive Man in St. John—Ex-British Navy Officer.

George A. Baldwin, one of the inner executives of the Vitagraph Co. of America, pioneer moving picture producer, has been in the city for a few days on business. He will leave for Boston tonight. Mr. Baldwin speaks very enthusiastically of the future of the cinematographic art and feels that with the outright buying of current best-sellers, the employment of the world's best writers and the picture-making of standard and classic fiction, the screen form of entertainment will not lose ground but will enhance in value and interest.

His corporation has just completed the purchase of several well known stories including Basil King's late novel "The Garden of Charity," a sweet-scented story of rural life in the Annapolis Valley. Mr. Baldwin is one of a group of English investors who instituted the Vitagraph Co. twenty-seven years ago long before the Americans got into the stride of picture-making. He is an ex-officer of the British navy and clings to the old traditions of his native country and all that it stands for. He loves to come to St. John, he says.

FOR THE PROGRESSIVES

Mayor Fisher said this morning that it had not been decided as yet what form of entertainment would be provided for the ladies who are accompanying the Progressive members of Parliament on their trip to St. John. It is understood that the matter of preparing concrete information about the port and having a copy handed each visiting M. P. is under consideration. It is expected that something of this nature will be prepared, along the same lines as the brief submitted to the Imperial Shipping Committee when they were here.

As Hiram Sees It

Then there farmer members up to the Legislature that no good," said Mr. Hiram Hornbeak to The Times reporter. "I went up there with a copy of an Act to Amend an Act Respecting 'Scrub Rams' Runnin' at Large, an' they told me I was buttin' in where I hed no business."

"You surprise me," said the reporter. "It 'bin tryin'!" said Hiram, "fer years to that there bill afore the House. Sile Jones has a scrub ram that's a terror to 'The Settlement, an' it's time somethin' was done about it."

"Perhaps the animal will soon die of old age," suggested the reporter. "An' perhaps the Legislature is not interested in one lone ram of the scrub variety."

"What's it there fer?" demanded Hiram. "What's Dave Mersereau bein' put fer as Minister of Agriculture? If somethin' aint done about that old ram I'll start a noo party an' see if we can't git things done. I will so—By Hen!"
