"PASTOR IN PAROCHIA."

Rev. H. W. Little, S. A. C., is rector of Sussex, and apparently intends to hold that position against all comers, be he wanted there or not. Whether he remains there for the glory of the thing or for the good that he can do as a member of the board of home missions, is a question for his friends that produces the size of the component having beer made on the day prescribed by law.

It on Washington and prepared a lecture of a series of lectures upon the Battlefields of the Potomac. In a lecture delivered in pastor and people have been somewhat strained. The rector, it is said, has not strained. The rector, it is said, has not touched the forty dollars granted to him, but has contrived to live without it, though has done so is best known to himself and his adherents. It is a matter of record that his horse and cowhave had no superfluous flesh on them, though it is aid the cow has of late been placed in the vertical part of the lawyer defied the clerk to do his worst, at the same time reaching over the counter to deal a blow at the official's head. Following a vigorous return feint from the clerk the St. John man sprang to his friend's that stage when either is desirable.—from what I have seen and heard—I would advise the adoption of the later as there does not seen to be any other requisite necessary unless it be accompanied by the destraination to avoid such company into which the first was concerned he did not count in superfluous flesh on them, though it is and the cow has of late been placed in the vertical part of the lawyer defied the clerk to do his worst, at the same time reaching over the counter to deal a blow at the official's head. At the critical moment when all seemed lost, up rode brave General Kearney, the one-armed her of the war. Waving his glittering sword above his head in his single hand, as lively as ever, at the Easter meeting last Monday night. There was a large attendance, 34 being qualified parishioners of Trinity church, and the rémainder visitors who expected to see some "fun,"

It may be mentioned incidentally that due to suppose the past year the rector has expressed his opinion of his opponents pretty freely in and out of the pulpit, and that somebody in and out of the pulpit, and that somebody in his behalf has posted doggerel rhyme in ties in the Dominion. Designing and forcibly parted the combatants, greatly to the reliet of all concerned.

The operetta "Trial by Jury" is to be presented at Fredericton city hall on Tuesday evening, April 10th. The rehearsels have been thorough and numerous and the production promises to be something better than has yet been attempted by Fredericton at least a temporary conference.

probably one of the most cultured communities in the Dominion. Deafening aplating missives—some of them alleged to be obscene—have been sent anonymously through the mails to individuals opposed to the rector. Mr. Little's adherents have also solicited subscriptions for his support from people of other denominations, and went through the military camp last summer with a begging paper in his behalf. These supporters were not idle as Easter approached. They strained every nerve to rally voters, and it is even alleged that they paid out money with a liberal hand for that purpose.

Naturally enough, a strong fight was expected at the meeting. Bishop Kingdon had been urgently requested to send a committee to examine into matters, but had refused to do so. Why he so refused is not clear, for the affairs of Trinity church claimed that he was entitled to two votes, on an chairman and the other as a member of the congregation. The accounts were passed, and then the first resolution was moved and seconded.

This resolution was to the effect that the laws now existing should be amended to enable the bushop to take cognizance of troubles in parishes to a greater extent than at present, and that the corporation should petition the synod to so amend the law. After a stormy discussion the resolution was carried by a vote of twenty to fourteen.

HALIFAX, March 29.—There was a some at a leading Hollis street hotel the other what actually took place as on account of the dramatis persons. The principals were, on one side, a director of the Halitax gas light company, worth more than $100,-100, and the hotel clerk, and on the other a city lawyer and a friend from St. John. In the North End, no epposition has yet been found for Lorne. Ald. Christie is out for Lansdowne, while Ald. McGoldrick stands for Stanley in response to a requisition. Stanley is a big ward, geographically, but the city is a great deal bigger, as the genial John is likely to learn when the votes are counted.

Ald. Kelly is, of course, to the front in Dufferin, but his eminently successful plan of campaign in that borough in the past will hardly avail him in this contest. easily read and understood. It explains itself, and tells the story as clearly as words tempered zeal of one or two people was the cause of a great deal of excu which there was not the slightest ground.

It is possible that Rev. A. F. THOMSO and his friends were honest in their helief that the rights and privileges of the protestant ratepayers of Bathurst were in danger from clerical interference by a catholic bishop and the priests, but admitting the sincerity of the movers in the complaint their course was singularly void of discretion. That their inconsiderate acceptance of the tattle and gossip, and their methods

It is not an unusual thing for the Queen can tell it. It proves, too, that the ill- of England to be a party to a suit in the British possessions, but it sounds odd to hear that she is plaintiff in a suit in a New York court. The action is that of "Her Majesty Victoria against the Standard Asphalt Company," in regard to asphalt which, it is claimed, has been taken from crown lands in Trinidad, and the amount nvolved is between three and four thousand dollars.

Mayor Peters is reported as saying that he is in the field as "The people's candidate for mayor." This is a good thing to say, Bicycles of Many Kinds. The St. John Cycle company, with quarters and offices in the old palace rink, have secured the agency of the worldtamed Columbian bicycle. An American wheel, it has easily taken the first place among Americans, and its introduction here will be hailed with satisfaction and delight by bicycle riders. Samples of the wheel are now on exhibition, where for company they have Whitworths, Singers, Raleighs and other English wheels, as well as the Crescent of Chicago. There are girls' and ladies' cycles, too. The St. John Cycle company is favorably known to the public in this business especially and, as their line is very complete, intend-ing purchasers should call upon them.

Brunswick regarding the common public schools should have been violated and disregarded by the trustees of school in the districts in the County of Gloucester; nor do I think that the evidence shows that there is or has been any endeavour to bring such schools into harmony with and make them subservient to the Roman Catholic church, and thus deprive such schools of their non-sectarian character, and to take away from Protestant pupils attending such schools the rights and privileges guaranteed by such Protestant pupils.

This general statement leaves it open to me to state my opinion in so far as i have already stated it in regard to certain facts in connection with this Bathurst School question, so called.

It will be readily seen by any one who is desirous of getting at the tacts that nearly every allegation in the complaint is in reference to matters of school management, or mismangement, which have until they were set forth in this complaint of the 18th of May, A. D. 1893, never been brought to the notice of the School inspector for Gloucester County or to the notice of the Board of Education.

It was, of course, within my inquiry to investigate all complaints charging any intraction of the School Laws and regulations of the board of Education regarding Bathurst Town and Village, as also any and every matter of complaint touching the management of any school or schools in the County of Gloucester which might be laid before me.

By the use of Mawker's Nerve and Stomach Tonic.

Mrs. Parker, an English lady, living in St. Clerans, near Southport, England, recently interviewed, said she had not been as well for twenty years as then, having just taken a course of Hawker's nerve and stomach tonic and Hawker's liver pills. Mrs. Parker had been a great sufferer from flatulence and indigestion, complicated with broachial asthma, and what the doctors termed heart trouble. Every remedy that her family physician could sugerest was tried but without success, and ther condition became so sections it was thought the only chance for her restoration to health was a change of chimate. She could not the down at night, but had to be bolstered up in a slitting posture and then could only breathe with difficulty. But after taking six bottles of Hawker's nerve and stomach tonic in conjunction with Hawker's inver pills she was completely restored to health. Her symptoms will be recognized at once by thousands of sufferers, in whose case they are present in perhaps a milder form, and to them also Hawker's nerve and stomach tonic comes as a deliverer from the tortures of sick. ness and 'disease. In Mrs. Parker's case as in thousands of others, the wonderful results obtained are due solicly to the remarkable nerve restoring, invigorating and blood building properties of this great tonic, combined with the regulating qualities of the pills on the stomach, liver and hopels.

If you are run down, weak and oppressed, give these great remedies a trial. They will build you up and meste you strong.

Sunday was a day for ulsters, a cold, piercing day, beastly woa'her, if you say so. It's only for a day or so, but dark days for the fair sex. Think of the vexation of spirit, of going to the dressmakers, and the milliners day after day, under hot sun—a sun which showed off a woman's last winter's dress in all its out of datedness, the expectations of going out Easter the church parade. Then imagine a dark, cloudy day, the air chilly, and a sprinkling of rain like very small ice-balls, a day for gossamers and umbrellas in fact, and which was unpleasant even to the unem-ployed listening to speeches on the com-

Edith Bingley, aged eight, was in the audience, and when asked at the close of the entertainment how she enjoyed her parents' acting, she electrined her hearers by saying, in a tone of disappointment:—"Acting! They were not acting—that's the way they do all the time at home!

Expetian Mummies.

Competent authorities estimate that not less than 400,000,000 human mummies were made in Egypt from the time of the beginning of the art of embalming until its discontinuance in the seventh century. Herodotus and Diodorus both agree in the statement that there were three grades in the embalming process, the first costing not less than a sum equal to $1,255, the second about one-fifth that amount, and the thirst cheaper than common earth burial.

PROGRESS, SATURD

Montgomery said he had been a member of the House for twenty years, but had never witnessed so much disorder. The galleries were threatened to be cleared; this, however, was overruled.

On the 1st of May the House was prorogued. His Excellency's speech was short, and presaged nothing as to the determination which he manitested in a short time alterwards, to give the coup-de-grace to the first Liberal Government that had ever been organized in New Brunswick, and from whom the first real measures of reform emanated, as has already been shown; but who unfortunately for themselves, could not torsee the great difficulty which the passage of a single measure was likely to provoke, and convulse the Province from centre to circumference.

and so be proceeded unto the end. Mr. Montgomery said he had been a member of the House for twenty years, but had never become law, even it it passed this branch of the Legislature.

Mr. M Pherson also made a speech in opposition to the Bill. He spoke of the homoardment which had been kept up in this House against the Institution, as having the effect equal to that of "the weeving in the wheat." He deprecated the (florts made by Mr. Connell and others to pull down this Institution; he boped there would be good sense enough in the country to reject such a monstrous proposal. Mr. M. spoke in eulogistic terms of Professors Jack and Robb. He hoped the Golvernment would do all they could for the College and for the promotion of Education. Mr. M. warnly replied to the remarks which had tailen from the Sp-aker, and advocated the propriety of rejecting the Bill immediately.

Several other Members spoke for and against the Bill.

[Note.—On the 15th, Mr. Fisher introduced a Bill to establish a comprehensive system of Education, the three first rections of which were proposed as an amendment to Mr. Connell's Bill. On a division Mr. Fisher's Bill was lost 10 to 20]

Hon. Mr. Smith was particularly severe upon the College.

On a division at a subsequent day, the Bill was sustained 24 to 16; but was afterwards thrown out by the Legislative Council.

[Note.—On the 23rd, in the course of the discussion two of the champions for and against the College, got so heated at one time it was thought than ton only this Institution would be destroyed, but life with it. The following from the Reporter's notes of the proceedings [November 25, 1856] will convey some idea as to the height at which the tide rose. The names of the two hon. gentlemen are fictiously represented.]

"Well, Leigh," interrupted his wife, here yes full of tears, "of course he had done wrong, terribly wrong; but he was so young, and was so repentant! surely the man forgave him—gave him another chance to pay back the money and make a new name for himself?"

"Unfortunately, Irene, "the man" was not the employer, but simply an employee in a higher position, and with a sure knowledge that the head of the firm would deal with the lad to the full limit of the law, his pet treasy being to "make an example" of such cases. As for "the man," there was two courses open to him; either to refund the money himself or to stand by and see things take their natural course—see that boy's life ruined past all hope. But, pity him! aye, that he did, from the depths; of also have; had been and surey, he might also have stood where that pool had was standing; for I tell you. The death of H. A. McGlenen, for more than twenty years business manager of the Boston theatre, after four days illness, from pneumonia, occurred on the 24th inst. He was born in Baltimore, Md., Nov. 28th, 1826. He came to Boston in 1845 with six cents in his pocket, and worked at the printer's trade on many papers. He served through the Mexican war from 1846 to its close in 1848. Early in the '50s he became interested in theatrical affairs, managing various enterprises. In;1871 he became business manager of the Boston theatre, where he remained until his death On the 26th inst. he was to have celebrated his twenty-third consecutive benefit at the Boston.

But her pleasures were not chiefly physical; an excellent effect could be found in the Arabian Night's enchantment, or in Scott's romantic poems. And no boy of roving fancy was ever more charmed by "Robinson Crusoe" than was she. Beside this a book of African travels, called Silvester Tramp, made on her mind such an indellible impression that it is at least conjectured the effect of it, together with the tact that her tather and one of her cousins having made voyages to that continent, had no little influence in deciding that fatal step of marrying to go out to Cape Coast. Looking from the vantage-ground of womanhood, these scenes seemed only fair. Trevor-park was an elysium to her imagination. Thus she writes to hr. brother in musical strain of days that were then no

Dr. W. B. McGowan, L. D. S.. Tells How He Banished Dyspepsia - Paine's Celery Compound Wrought a Complete Cure for Him—He says It Is The Only Medicine That Can Cope With The Terrible Trouble—He Vigorously Advocates the Use Of The Great Healer.

DR W. B. McGOWAN, L. D. S.

Dr. W. B. McGowan, L. D, S., dentist, 65 Mansfield Street, Montreal, is one of the most experienced and best known practitioners in Montreal. For over twenty years he has successfully practised his profession in the metropolis of Canada, and few men have ever attained a greater reputation. Dr. McGowan is an honest and great—all that tends to the welfare of suffering humanity.

Professional men, like others, have their weeks and months of suffering; they are subject to the same troubles that overtake the ordinary run of men and women. When oppressed with dyspepsia and all its attendant woes. Dr. McGowan wisely used Paine's Celery Compound, with the result that he was perfectly cured. Animated with a desire to benefit others, he writes as follows:—

Perhaps it is more interesting than strictly useful to know that the diameter of trees not only varies from summer to winter, but from day to day. They are larger from noon until dawn next morning than from dawn to noon; they are smaller in winter than in summer. Low temperatures, as well as high, promote evaporation. The trees evaporate from their branches in winter, and so the colder the weather the more they shrink.

WHEN IRVING WAS POOR he Noted, Actor Tells of a Time When H

The placewas a cozy room in a cozy house in a quiet street off the Strand, London; the time was Saturday; the hour, midnight, says a writer in the New York Tribune. A company of professional men, composed of some of the lawyers, doctors, newspaper men and actors whose names are tamous on both sides of the Atlantic, was scattered in groups about the rooms smoking and chatting after the Saturday night supper, which had become a standard institution with them. In a sheltered corner over by the fireplace, sat a small knot of men, every one of whom had reached the top, or at least the tront rank, of his profession I he talk dritting in a smooth, desultory, half-sleepy way from phase to phase, had gradually assumed a retrospective hue. From one to another the story had passed, each telling the tale of an empty pocket, or a hopeless tramp of thirty miles or so in this shoes along a snow-bound road in search of employment. Henry Irving, thoughtully smoking, with an air of deep attention, had not spoken and did not speak until the others, having exhausted their stock, turned to him. He had experienced harder luck than any of them, and they knew it. He looked up at them for a moment, and then, after a pause, said:

"The recollection uppermost in my was a cozy room in quiet street off the Stran them, and they knew it. He looked up at them for a moment, and then, after a pause, said:

'The recollection uppermost in my mind just now, while you boys have been talking about tramping and winter roads and all that, is of a certain Christmas dinner at which I was present. I wonder whether any of you remember a poor fellow, long since dead, Joe Robins, who played small parts in London and outside it, and who made the one big mistake of his life when he entered the profession. Joe had been in the men's underwear business and was doing well, when an amateur performance for a charitable object was organized and he was cast for the part of the clown in a burlesque of 'Guy Fawkes.' Joe belonged to one of the Bohemian clubs, and on the night of the show his friends among the actors and journalists attended in a body to give him a 'send off.' He played that part capitally and the mischief might have ended there, but some one compared him to Grimaldi. His fate was sealed. He sold his stock, went on the stage and a few months later I came upon him playing general utility on a small salary in a small theatre in Manchester. One relic of his happy days still remained to him. He had retained shirts, collars and underwear sufficient to last him for a generation. But if Joe lacked ability as an actor, he had a heart of gold. He would lend or give his last shilling to a friend and piece by piece his stock of underwear had diminished until only a few shirts and underclothes remained to him.

'The Christmas of that year—the year in which we played together—was perhaps the bitterest I ever knew. Joe had a part in the pantomime. When the men with whom he dressed took off their street clothes he saw with a pang at his kind heart how poorly some of them were clad. One poor fellow, without an overcoat, shivered and shook with every breath of the wind that whistled through the cracked door, and as he undressed there was disclosed a suit of the lighest summer gauze underwear, which he was wearing in the depth of that dreadful winter.

Poor as Joe was, he was determined to keep up his annual custom of giving his comrades a Christmas dinner. Perhaps all that remained of his stock of underclothing went to the pawnbroker, but that is neither here nor there. Joe raised the money somehow, and on the Christmas day was ready to meet his guests. Among the crowd that filed into his room was his friend with the gauze underclothing. Joe beckoned him into an adjoining bedroom, and, pointing to a chair silently walked out. On that chair hung a suit of underwear. It was of a comfortable scarlet color; it was of sik and wool; it was thick and warm and it clung around the actor as color; it was of silk and wool; it was thick and warm and it clung around the actor as it it had been built for him. As the shirt fell over his head there was suffused through his frame a gentle, delicious glow that thrilled every fibre of his body. His heart swelled almost to bursting. He seemed to be walking on the air. He saw all things through a mist of tears. The faces around him, the voices in his ears, the familiar objects in his sight, the very snow falling gently outside the windows seemed as the shadows of a dream, with but one reality—the suit of underlothing."

"His feelings seem to have entered your heart," said one of the listeners.

"They might well do so," replied Mr. Irving," for I was that poor actor.

Playing a Fiddle by Electricity. Violin playing by electricity has been complished by Frank D. Brown, whose Violin playing by electricity has been accomplished by Frank D. Brown, whose "electric violin" is the larest novelty in the musical line in the United States. Its inventor says: "I attach it to a piano or organ keyboard, ard the keys of the instrument are electrically connected with the keyboard, so that when any of the keys are touched they actuate the violin notes that correspond with notes of similar pitch and tone of the piano or organ. I can sound either the notes of the piano or violin as I choose, or both at the same time." The inventor then illustrates the method of doing so: "A violinist playing that instrument can ordinarily strike but two string of the violin simultaneously, while with this device one can strike as many strings of the violin as he can with both hands strike keys and notes of the piano or organ. It will enable the sounding of new chords that it was before impossible to strike with the bow, and these chords will, of course, contain more notes than it has ever before heen in the power of the violinist to strike." The inventor contends that new effects and expressions can by his device be obtained from the violin, which will more than ever charm and entrance its hearers. The same gentleman is engaged also in another inventor to "hitch on" an entire orchestra to a pianoforte keyboard in the same manner.

The oldest piece of wrought iron in existence is believed to be a roughly fashioned sickle blade found by Belzoni in Karnac, Thebes. It was imbedded in the mortar under the base of a sphinx, and on that account is known as the "sickle of the sphinx." It is now in the British Museum, and is believed to be nearly 4,000 years
