WINCHESTERS FOR CHICAGO TEAMSTERS

Employers Have Purchased 1400 Rifles for Strike Breakers to Defend Themselves--Weapons Are Being Carried in Open Sight to Make it Lawful--Strikers in an Ugly Mood and Trouble is Feared.

Chicago, May 1.—Conditions in the city during the strike were worse today than at any preceding time. The strikers were in a more violent and angry mood than at any time since the beginning of the strike. The chief cause for the increased hostility on the part of the strikers and their friends is the fact that the Employers' Teaming Association today brought out a full list of names of men who are said to be strike breakers and who are being carried in open sight to make it lawful for the employers to employ them.

he declared that the police would not be permitted to authorize the carrying of arms by anyone whether in the employment of the strikers or the employers. Chief of Police O'Neill, however, declared that if the employers armed their men, the police could not legally interfere, as long as the weapons were not concealed.

NOT ALLOWED TO GO TO BEDSIDE OF HIS DYING DAUGHTER

French-Canadian Turned Back at American Boat and Train TELLS A SAD STORY

Found Crying on Mill Street by Police Sergeant Baxter, Who Takes Him to C. P. Offices, and an Arrangement is Made for His Transportation Home.

The police hear a variety of sad stories, but the tale told Sgt. Geo. Baxter Friday by a man who had been endeavoring to get to the United States to be at the bedside of his dying daughter and whom the United States officials would not let cross the border, has a pathetic strain that affects even those most used to such recitals.

The stranger said his name was Jere Dacote, and that he came from near Truro (N. S.). He was of French-Canadian birth and had lived nearly 23 years in Braintree (Mass.), but a few years ago removed to Truro. Members of the family still remain in Braintree and among them a married daughter.

Some days ago he received a message stating that the daughter was dying and he was expected to go to her without delay.

Mr. Dacote started for the states, intending to leave this city by boat Wednesday last for Boston, but was obliged to stop on Mill street Friday morning when Sgt. Baxter came along. The man had no money and said a Pond street family had given him shelter during Wednesday and Thursday.

Mr. Dacote's statement is a strong thing. "I have sold myself to work in the mines," he said, "and I have actually made new rich blood for him. These pills go right down to the root of the trouble in the blood and cure that. The new blood they make carries oxygen and health and strength to every part of the body. That is the new Tonic Treatment, and it is the highest medicine now known to man."

He then tried the train, bought a ticket but was also turned back, though departing, and in ignorance as to whether his daughter was dead or alive, he was sobbing on Mill street Friday morning when Sgt. Baxter came along. The man had no money and said a Pond street family had given him shelter during Wednesday and Thursday.

Word has reached James VanHorne, of 115 Hilyard street, that his brother John has been drowned in Boston harbor. Friday morning Mr. VanHorne left for Boston and the body will probably be brought here for interment. Deceased was mate of a schooner, and it is thought he fell from the mast. He was forty-two years old, and unmarried.

With the beginning of May Rev. Christopher Burnett will enter on his fourth year as pastor of the Leinster street Baptist church. In the three years of his increase of membership has been fifty-three. There are at the commencement of the fourth year no floating liabilities, the only debt being $200. There will be special services tomorrow. On Thursday a platform meeting will be held in the auditorium of the church.

Takes a Different View of Question.

London, April 28—(Special cable)—Discussing Earl Grey's Toronto speech the Glasgow Herald says:

"It is the way of young nations as of young people to court rebuke. It is not a matter of surprise, therefore, that Earl Grey, at the beginning of his administration, has been compelled to utter words of admonition and instruction. Lord Grey appeared to fear lest the Canadians should allow the 'vulgarity' of a swelled head to blunt the edge of their efficiency."
The Herald will not be greatly surprised if Canadians have treated these metaphors with something less than respect. "They may, for instance," it says, "object that no nation has grown great by self-distrust.
This is a case, too, in which the force of example must be allowed to count for much. The Americans never lost an opportunity. They have resourcefully invented the mode of proclaiming to the world that they are the greatest people on earth, and the world has quietly accepted the boast."

It is not admitted that the States are the home of the greatest liars on any continent; but the nation which sets out by giving itself a glowing character imposes the severest penalty of living up to its ideals, so that, the all important question is not regarding the degree, but the kind of swelled head the Canadians feel inclined to affect.

severely, if in the event of successful resolutions they feel constrained to do a little shouting. They readily take as immigrants the sturdiest and healthiest of our race. Why not take a few of the worst, which we could gladly spare, even at the risk of hearing glowing tales about the Canadian magnanimity?"

"We have been told that the British, as well as the French Canadians are loyal eminent patriots remember the British navy which keeps their shores inviolate?

The Liverpool Daily Post-Mercury says:

"When Mr. Chamberlain was in South Africa his constant complaint was that the colonies did not contribute their share of the cost of imperial defence and he made special reference to the backwardness of Canada, just as Lord Grey is doing now; but neither Canada nor any other colony can be expected to enter into so one-sided a partnership as would be involved in contributing to the cost of a policy in the formation of which they have no part."

well.

The treasurer's and other reports presented at the meeting showed the club to be in a most satisfactory and encouraging condition.

FIRST COMPLETE REVIEW OF GREATEST BATTLE OF MODERN TIMES--MUKDEN

LONDON, April 23.—The first comprehensive account of the battle of Mukden has just reached Europe. It is a clear, cold record furnished by the Japanese themselves of the greatest combat in the world's history.

The account is prefaced by an outline of the Japanese chain of reasoning on which their campaign was based. Their strategy of the campaign tended to confirm this.

How Oyama Planned the Battle.

That is precisely what the Japanese wished the Russian to infer, for their plan was exactly the opposite. Their plan did, indeed, include a march upon Fushun, but this was to be an attack from the south, not from the north.

Valiant Work by Kuroki's Men.

Meanwhile much had happened elsewhere. The army in the east sector, Kuroki's, began operations. This immediate objective was to break through the formidable plexus of works which guarded the approaches to the road leading northward toward the Russian position.

Fierce Artillery Duel.

Until February 27 the army in the central sector (Nodzu's) obeyed its orders. The scheme of strategy, showed no sign of activity. Then suddenly on the morning of February 27 this army, together with the army in the east sector, opened a powerful cannonade along the front.

Eastern Flank Dies Its Part.

The operations began in the eastern sector, according to design, suggests of this was the main turning movement. When to be the main turning movement.

the latter. Ever since the Heikautai combat the Russians had been entrenching points in this district, probably with the view to renewing the offensive.

The Loss Heavy.

The Russians left some 30,000 dead. They had over 100,000 wounded and 10,000 prisoners, with enormous quantities of foodstuffs and war material.

761,500 Men Engaged.

The forces engaged in this battle were three armies of Russians numbering 376 battalions of infantry, 171 batteries of artillery, 178 squadrons of cavalry, numbering 300,800 men, and 34,000 guns.

Port Arthur Veterans Flank the Enemy.

Not until February 27 did the west sector army appear in the extreme south-western corner, far, but directly behind the position whence Oku's men were sweeping forward.

Where Japanese Credit is Due—Kodama.

Military historians will wish to know to whom the credit for the fine, strategic programme of the battle should be assigned. The disposition of English writers would be to look for a Roberts or a Kitchener, and the inclination of European and American experts is to regard Tokio as the brain center.

Kuropatkin Feels the Colls Tighten.

Already, however, the crisis of the battle had come. Kuropatkin had not yet left behind the wariness of his mind in the laid bare of his military career.

The ship laborers of St. John have decided to increase their rate of wages to forty cents an hour. The steamship men protest against the increase, but none would say Thursday night whether or not they would pay the new rate. The forty cents rate is to go into effect next Monday and will be operative during the summer season, or until November when the winter season will begin.

The Longshoremen's Association decided on the increased rate at a meeting in Berryman's hall Thursday night, attended by fully 300 members of the association, and a good deal of enthusiasm characterized the proceedings.

As before told in The Telegraph, the men's winter contracts with the steamship companies at thirty-five cents for stevedores and thirty cents for sailing vessels, end with April and therefore the question of summer rate has been agitating the men for some weeks, and it was practically decided before Thursday's meeting that there would be a raising of the rate. There was some expression of opinion in favor of a thirty-five cent rate, but this was overruled.

Protest by Steamship Men. The steamship men gained knowledge of the suggested increase to forty cents, and they prepared a written protest, which was sent to the secretary to be submitted to the meeting. In this a steamship man told a reporter, they protested against the increase to forty cents an hour, and claimed in support of their protest that the freight was so low that they could not stand an increase, and that the business did not warrant it. They were willing to pay thirty-five cents. This document was signed by Wm. Thomson & Co., W. Malcolm Mackay, John E. Moore & Co., J. H. Scamell & Co., George McKeen, Schofield & Co., the Alex. Gibson Co., Alex. Watson and J. M. Driscoll.

This protest was before the meeting Thursday, but did not effect the decision of the men. When the rate was increased came up the motion to fix the rate at forty cents an hour flat on steamers and sailing vessels for a nine-hour day. It was carried practically unanimously. No committee was appointed to make contracts with the steamship companies. The meeting also elected officers. There was opposition for some of the positions, but the details are not given. The result of the election is: James Moore, president; Patrick Martin, 1st vice; Joseph O'Neil, 2nd vice; Phillip Dooty,

JOSEPH STACKHOUSE DIES IN HOSPITAL

Removed There Friday from Jail Where He Awaited Outcome of Dr. Baxter's Assault Case.

Joseph Stackhouse, of Loch Lomond, is dead. He died Friday in the city jail on remand on charges of assaulting Dr. G. O. Baxter. He was found to be so ill Friday that the hospital was deemed the fitting place for him. There he was taken in the ambulance by Detective Killen in the afternoon and there he passed away at 10.30 o'clock last night.

At the hospital, not much could be learned last night beyond the fact that he had died at the hour named, but he was very sick at the time of his removal from the jail. Dr. James Christie, who was called to attend him in the jail, gave a certificate recommending him for admission to the hospital and the order for transfer was given by Magistrate Ritchie. Mr. Stackhouse was between 35 and 40 years of age. The assault of which he was accused was alleged to have taken place on Sunday, April 16th, in his barn, when Dr. Baxter had gone to see him on business.

STEAMER LAUNCHED

The Hampton, Which Will Take the Place of the Clifton.

The launch of the new stern wheel steamer which will take the place of the Clifton, was effected Friday at Hampton. The ceremony of christening the boat was gracefully performed by Mrs. A. T. Makee, wife of the future captain of the vessel, who named her the Hampton as a bottle of champagne was broken across the bows. A large crowd of interested spectators watched the proceedings and as the tug Tangent towed the shapely craft from the wharf every vehicle in the district joined in celebrating the event.

The Hampton is 115 feet long, thirty-two feet wide and eight feet deep. She will soon be brought to the city to be fitted with her engine by Messrs. Fleming.

PRACTICAL STEP IN BAPTIST UNION

Rev. Messrs McIntyre and Prosser Re-adjust Home Mission Fields

NO DENOMINATIONAL LINES Obfely Affects Carleton and York Counties—Two United Baptist Churches in New Brunswick Already.

A practical step towards the union of the Baptist and Free Baptist denominations was taken Thursday night when Rev. W. E. McIntyre and Rev. A. J. Prosser, respectively the secretaries of the Baptist and Free Baptist home mission committees, met and re-adjusted the work in a number of home mission fields in York and Carleton counties, breaking down completely the denominational barriers in that part of the home mission work.

Some eight or ten fields in those counties were re-adjusted and the work will be carried on now without regard to the old dividing lines—Free Baptist clergyman, perhaps, preaching to a Baptist congregation in one place and the conditions reversed in the next. One excellent feature of this, Mr. Prosser said yesterday, is that it will do away with the great deal of expenditure of energy and means which the divided bodies have found necessary in carrying on the work and will leave more for both for home mission work.

At the meeting Thursday it was also arranged that the Free Baptists of Dover, Westmorland county, will come under the charge of the new Baptist church in Lewville.

There are already in New Brunswick two united Baptist churches—the first in Victoria county, and the other in Moncton. In the first named the joint congregation was Rev. E. S. Parker, Free Baptist, as minister, and a church building has been erected. In the second, Moncton Free Baptist church called Rev. Mr. Malatche, Baptist, of Stokelyville, and since his acceptance a number of Moncton Free Baptist church have affiliated with the F. B. congregation.

UNITED FAR FROM HOME

Happy Meeting of Several Former St. John Boys in San Francisco.

Herbert Price, surveyor, formerly of North End, who removed with his wife and child to Oakland (Cal.) last fall, has written an interesting letter to a relative in this city in which he relates a meeting of several ex-North End boys in that far-off land. On answering the door-bell recently he was surprised to find W. Paul McCormick extending his hand in greeting. Mr. McCormick had been in the golden west but a short time, and Mr. Price was not long in finding out the latest home news available. The couple then proceeded a short distance "to town"—which was a familiar by-word for former North Enders—only a mile or so separating Oakland from San Francisco.

In the big city they met Harry Day, son of Isaac Day, and another St. John boy. It was a regular home-gathering, seemingly, and the Union Jack boys enjoyed their meeting immensely. Mr. Price is surveying in Oakland, where his step-father, Charles Nichol, is a prominent contracting builder, and Mr. McCormick had already put in a few weeks surveying lumber in San Francisco. Both young men like their new homes very much.

Y. M. C. A. FAREWELL TO BUILDING

Service Sunday for the Last Time There

SOME RECOLLECTIONS G. A. Henderson Reads Interesting Paper Giving an Account of the Organization of the Association and the Men Who Have Been Active in It.

The last religious service to be held in the old Y. M. C. A. building was Sunday afternoon. The president, Frank White, was in the chair, and after George A. Henderson had read the paper on the work of the Y. M. C. A. in their old building a number of those present indulged in reminiscences. Among those who spoke were J. E. Irvine, H. White, S. L. Gordon, W. S. Fisher, E. E. Macmillan, J. H. McAvity, B. J. Dowling, E. T. C. Knowles, Dr. G. R. J. Crawford and S. M. Wetmore.

For thirty-two years," said Mr. Henderson in his paper, "the doors of this building have been open daily to the young men of the city, offering them a place for rest, refreshment, and moral and spiritual uplift, and a place for the work of ennobling the work to be carried on in a more effective and aggressive way, in another locality, in more up-to-date accessories."

"I have been asked to present a few facts in reference to Y. M. C. A. work as it has been carried on in this city. In accordance with the request I have to say that what I shall read has already appeared in print either from the pen of Mr. E. T. C. Knowles or our late secretary, Mr. G. W. Williams.

"The first Y. M. C. A. was organized in 1854, and though the object as stated in its constitution was the promotion of the welfare of young men morally, intellectually, and spiritually, it believed its future was due to its devotion to the intellectual rather than to the moral and spiritual interests of those for whom it labored. It brought the magazine of the day within the reach of many who would otherwise have been without them, and by its public debates gave the public an insight into the progress of the most important public men of our country. Few details are available concerning the earlier organization. We know, however, from the vote of membership that many of its members have held honorable places in the community. It was not until the 28th of November, 1867 that the Y. M. C. A. of St. John was permanently organized at a public meeting held in the lecture room of the St. David's Presbyterian church.

At this time the building was in a state of decay and the formation of the association was announced and received the hearty endorsement of the clergy and citizens present.
