Industrial Commission Receives Suggestions

present M.R.'s would be shut out if this rule were adopted and actual producers of wealth made the only men eligible for election.

A Definite Policy
Rev. F. E. Mercer pointed out to the commission that the workmen were now reading and studying widely, and were well informed on economic and industrial questions. They had a definite policy, and the employing interests had no such policy, but were divided among themselves.

Some type of guild socialism was favored by Mr. Mercer as a means of running the industries rather than nationalization. The present competitive system was very wasteful. Watered stock should be entirely squandered, and the control of the industries put in the hands of the men really doing the work. The state would still have taxing powers for the good of the public. In the profit-sharing schemes so far tried out the largest share of the profits went to the owners. No system that preserved capitalistic control would prove satisfactory. Profits must be honestly revealed in the weekly reports or in any scheme of investigation adopted.

Meat Packing Industry.
A joint committee to look into the conditions of the meat packing industry was thought by Mr. Mercer to be desirable and urgent. This committee should represent both the employers and employees. In Edmonton about 600 workers were engaged in the industry at the present time, about 60 per cent. of whom were aliens. The minimum wage was 32½ cents an hour. As to housing conditions among the employees of the plants, there was great need of investigation and improvement.

Mr. Mercer expressed approval of a change in the system of electing representatives to parliament. He thought that some system of geographical boundaries as at present, but there should be provision for group representation, possibly involving two houses, one of producers and one of consumers.

Claim Unfair Treatment
Conditions at the packing plants had become very uncomfortable for the returned soldiers, testified H. Hawkins. Numbers of the veterans had taken work there and reported unfair treatment. They were offered 32½ cents an hour, while aliens and orientals were being paid 35 cents. In many cases the soldiers had been discharged and the aliens kept on.

Mr. Hawkins thought that industrial councils, through which employers and employees might get together at frequent intervals for a discussion of labor questions, would contribute to a settlement of the industrial unrest. Unemployment was one of the main causes of that unrest, but even the men at work were more or less uneasy, because there was general uneasiness throughout the country. The high cost of living was largely responsible for the prevailing dissatisfaction.

There was a danger that the present unrest might come to a head in a physical way that would have serious results for Canada, said Mr. Hawkins, though he did not look for such a development in the immediate future. Questioned as to the One Big Union, the witness said it would be a grave menace to the country if it should gain control of the situation, but he did not think it would do so.

In Dairy Industry
George M. Hall, of the Edmonton City Dairy company, argued that the prevailing unrest was due mainly to two factors, the lack of unity between classes, for which the employers and employees were equally to blame, and the unusual state of mind obtaining in the country at large. There was not as much unemployment as there had been. In his own company, Mr. Hall said, 212 employees were now on the roll for practically the same amount of work as done a year ago by 175 persons.

The prices of eggs and butter, the witness explained, were regulated by the prices in the United States. Farmers were receiving ten cents more per pound for butter fat than a year ago.

Some of the unrest in the country was due to the educational system, thought Mr. Hall. An equal chance was not given to all under the present system.

Profit Sharing
As to profit-sharing, the witness told of the plan now being followed by his company, by which $8,000 was recently divided among the employees. So far as he knew, there was general satisfaction with present conditions in this particular case.

Commission No Remedy
E. J. Thompson, representing machinists of the G.T.P. local, said that as producers the men were not getting what they produced, and to this he prescribed reason for a great deal of unrest. He said he did not place much faith in the commission on industrial relations for he had seen and appeared before similar boards before, and the result had been all so far as he was concerned. "We are at the mercy of a class and I for one do not consider that this commission will remedy matters much. The results you obtain will be taken up by the same old class and will be dealt with by them." Mr. Thompson told the committee.

He spoke of his impossibility of procuring a six roomed house under a rental of less than from $30 to $40 per month and thought that something should be done in the way of a remedy. His children, he also considered, should have the best education provided by the state, but that on account of the high cost of the necessities of life and the

EIGHT HOUR DAY FOR SUNNY ITALY

Have Been Working As Long As 7 1/2 Hours Per Week

The 48-hour movement inaugurated last year in Milan, Italy, by the organized workers has resulted in an agreement with employers in machine establishments, ship yards and allied trades which reduces hours from 60 to 55 to 48 a week. In foundries where continuous work is carried on hours are reduced from 72 to 48 a week by adopting the three-shift system.

Time rates are to be adjusted so that earnings for 48 hours shall be equal to the present earnings for 55, 60 or 72 hours. Piece work rates are to be increased 16 per cent where hours are reduced from 60 to 48 and 10 per cent increase where hours are reduced from 55. Works committees are to be formed whose functions are defined in rules agreed to between the employers and employees. Both parties will be represented on a committee which will investigate the cost of living in relation to the question of a minimum wage. It is estimated that 500,000 workers are affected by this agreement.

Demands for a 48-hour week have been presented by workers in the textile, chemical and paper-making trades. At a meeting of employers and employees in the printing trades it was agreed that the 48-hour week would be established without a wage reduction.

BOOKBINDERS UNITE

The International Brotherhood of Bookbinders secured 304 new members during the past month. The total membership on that date was 17,411.

Mr. Smith, continuing he said: "Organized labor tells me that one man is as good as another, but I know different." Questioned as to his proposed remedy, Mr. Smith said: "Co-operation with labor sharing equally in the profits and the loss and being given the right to audit the company's books at the end of the year." Mr. Smith was asked how he thought it possible for a man to share in a company's loss on a wage of $1,400 a year.

WOMEN ARE FORCED TO WORK BY LOW WAGES PAID MEN

Mrs. William Z. Ripley, prominent suffrage advocate, in a speech in Boston, stated that the reason why employers are so insistent that women 'be given the right to work' is that it is becoming impossible, especially in the textile centers, for the woman to stay at home on the wages the man earns. Most of the women in industry have to work, both for themselves and for their dependents. They are working because they must. In some of the mill towns more than 40 per cent of the family income is brought in by girls under 16.
