ADDITIONS TO THE DEATH ROLL.

TITUSVILLE, Pa., June 6.—The following are added to the list of the dead: Henry Riche, of Buffalo; Miss Golda Cohen, Mrs. Neal McKenzie, John McFadden, Mary. McFadden, Wm. Eckerts' child, Mrs. C. P. Casperson, Geo. Pease, Mrs. Lena Osmer and twoi children, Mrs. Fred Reid and Amelia Reid (aged 12), Fred Reid and Amelia Reid (aged 12), This makes a total of 53 bodies recovered.

THE FIRE BURNS ITSELF OUT.

OIL CITY, Pa., June 6.—Ac 6 o'clock this morning the fire had burned itself out. The creek and river are rising, but there is little left which the flood can damage. The fire has left nothing upon which it could prey. The flood destroyed one mile of property along the creek on the west side. Across the creek from the main portion of the city not a house is standing between the creek and hill. On the east side from the mouth of Oil Creek for a distance of three-fourths of a mile every building except one along the creek has been destroyed. HUNDRED LIVES LOST IN OIL CITY

ALONE.

At 7 a.m. 63 bodies had been found. It is safe to say the loss of life in this city alone will reach 200. The financial loss will be over $1,000,000.

will be over $1,000,000.

THE CAUSE.

TITUSVILLE, Pa., June 6—2:30 p.m.—
George Stephens, a prominent merchant here, says the fire was caused by a spark from a passing train on the Western, New York and Pennsylvania Railway, which ignited the oil in a tank alongside the line. The oil set fire to every building with which it came into contact. which it came into contact DELUGED BY A BURSTING DAM.

TRUE HERGES.

THUSVILLE, Pa., June 6.—Had it not been for the heroic work of Tony Daub and Wm. Bennett the death list would have been increased by over50 more. The two men set out in skiffs, and by most heroulean efforts succeeded in placing the occupants of various dwellings in secure places. The body of Fred Luers, a lame watchman, was found this afternoon. This makes 56 bodies found. There are fifteen bodies lying in McNett's rooms which are burned beyond recognition.

lying in McNett's rooms which are burned beyond recognition.

THE OIL CITY DEAD.

OIL CITY, Pa., June 6.—At a late hour to-night 67 bodies had been taken from the ruins. It is estimated that the loss of life will reach at least 150—many put the figures at 200. The number of bodies recovered gives no fair estimate of the number lost, and it will be impossible ever to learn how many are missing.

-[BROWNING.

London, Tuesday, June 7.

THE GREAT CONTEST IN BRITAIN. The British Parliament will reassemble on Thursday next. Then Mr. Balfour, the Government leader, will ask the whole time of the House for Ministerial measures, and it is likely to be granted, as everybody now seems anxious to wind up the session as speedily as possible. Of the imposing array of bills mentioned in the Queen's Bench at the opening of the session scarcely any have made real progress. The Clergy Discipline Bill has been passed, and the Small Holdings Bill has safely reached the House of Lords, and will get through all right. The fate of the Irish Education Bill remains in suspense, but the Irish Local Government Bill and Supply Bill and other necessary business in sbout a fortnight, and Parliament will be dissolved on or about June 25, the date alleged by Mr. Gladstone when the West? recently writing to his constituents. ment will therefore be but slimly attended in the closing two weeks, as threefourths of the members will go out into the constituencies to fight at once. Among others is Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, who will open the campaign in Birmingham this of the question of local self-government in week. The leader of the Dissident Liberals the Green Isle was a moderate declaration, is a favorite in his constituency, and he and within the rights of Parliament to is a favorite in his constituency, and he will secure his election, but it is believed that the greater portion of his Parliamentary following as a fag-end to Lord past by British Governments, and will con-Ealisbury's party will be defeated. The tinue to suffer so long as this question re-English people, at the last election, supported the Liberal Dissidents, not as a part of the Tory party, but as a distinct organization, separate from Gladstone on the Irish issue alone. Now that they have found their M. P's. elected this distinct understanding voting for and upholding all kinds of anti-democratic projects, the majority of the Dissidents will show their resentment of such a line of conduct. As for the Grand Old Man, it is not believed that he will take the field until Parliament is dissolved. He will proceed direct to Edinburgh, which lies alongside his constituency of Midlothian, and forthwith commence an oratorical campaign of about ten days which cannot John Thompson promptly put a veto on the fail to have immense influence upon the project. country. If all the omens be not falsified, he will be Prime Minister of England in about six weeks from now. He will be the first English statesman who has been Premier four times. That he will attain that unique distinction is evidently the belief of Queen Victoria, one of the shrewdest political observers of the country. According to a cablegram she had arranged to remain at Balmoral, her private estate in the north of Scotland, until June 28, but in view of the probable change of the Ministry she has decided to return to Windsor on June 22. This will save Gladstone a long railway journey to the north when the Queen summons him, and her Majesty is entitled to some praise for her SUMMER outfits this year are beautiful. The Ottawa Free Press has one. As now printed, our ever-readable contemporary is a credit to its management. Its typographical appearance is vastly improved. Formerly it was a four-page blanket sheet; now it is printed like the ADVERTISER in a neat eight-page form. The Free Press is a credit to the capital.

GO AHEAD WITH THE CONCERTS. The majority of the Board of Aldermen took the proper stand when it decided in favor of granting $500 to supply band concerts for the citizens during the summer months. It is also right that the money should be divided between the two military fetching it was not worth having, and he one. The Seventh Battalion Band is a good erganization, but the Cavalry Band, the rig membership of which is made up of good | the casket? musicians, is just as much a city institution and equally deserving of eucouragement. Besides, a music-loving people like those of London appreciate variety, and for that matter will the numerous visitors who, during the summer months, will attend the concerts. The ADVERTISER has to hesitation in indersing the grant, be-'ieving that the people obtain far more than the money's worth of enjoyment, while the concerts tend to advertise the city to out-

The New York Standard of last week contained the following remarkable declar-

"And the spiendid educational campaign that has been so auspiciously begun in this country is more than likely very scon to spread to Canada. It is possible to send the book free through the mails for delivery there under a Congressman's frank, if the envelope carrying it is left open in accordance with Canadian custom house requirements. Copies of the book will in a few days be sent to every newspaper in Canada, and some of the Liberal members of the Dominion Parliament have expressed the desire of following the example of our Democratic Congressmen and of distributing a large number of copies through their constituencies. Thus will the educational campaign go along hand in hand in both countries, and the Congressional Record edition of "Protection or Free Trade" be distributed over the whole continent north of the Mexican line. And what agitates the Canadian people reacts upon our own and quickens discussion here. Those who do not see that all this insures an extremely radical presidential campaign in the United States cannot read the signs of the times. Who will help him build that platform? All who will can help by contributing to the distribution fund. Now is the golden time. Ten cents will send out ten books and $1 will at this day do more than a brass band six months hence. Everyone should contribute, no matter how small a sum, and soon the agitation will sweep over the country like fire over a parched prairie."

Readers of the Advertuser who wish to assist in the distribution of "Protection or "And the splendid educational campaign

Readers of the ADVERTISER who wish to assist in the distribution of "Protection or Free Trade" cannot do better than accept this most generous offer. Never before has there been an opportunity like this for circulating a work of a master nd upon the great tax question. Hamilton, a local manufacturer who has been converted to the principles of free trade by reading Henry George's clear, convincing, non-partisan book on the subject, has undertaken the agency for that district, and will send the books either in parcels of 50 for 50 cents, 100 for $1, 1,000 or $10, or he will accept lists of names of individuals and send the books to their respective addresses for I cent a copy. There hould be enough of spirit among the independent believers in free trade in every book placed in thousands of homes within the next few weeks. It should be read and other measures have been dropped. By sitting late and working hard the House of Commons will be able to dispose of the commons will be able to dispose of the commons and class legislation of every kind. The circulation of such a work, at a cost so infinitesmal, should be the easiest thing in the world.

Who will make a move for London and

It is to be regretted that the debate on the Irish Home Rule motion was not concluded in the House of Commons last night. Mr. Devlin's pronouncement in favor of a speedy and honorable settlement make. Canada has suffered a good deal from the short-sighted policy pursued in the mains unsettled, and tends to keep alive the resentment of a race of keen-feeling people both at home and abroad. If self-government is good for Outario, for example, why not for Ireland?

Why are people so unreasonable? Here is the Earl of Lonsdale attending a bruta fight, and patronizing the bruisers, while occupying the position of patron of 38 church livings, giving him the absolute and perpetual right of appointing the clergymen who are to be the spiritual guides and instructors in 30 different parishes. Some Englishmen are writing to the British papers protesting against the inconsistency of the whole thing. Consistency has nothing to do with it. Has not the 'noble earl" inherited his rights, and who shall dare to deny him his inherited patronage in the Established Church and all that it implies? So long as there is a State Church people must bear with these little inconsistencies.

STANLEY AND HIS "BAUBLE." Why are public bodies so ready to force honors on prominent men? Is it a mild species of advertising themselves? One would almost think so, judging from an incident, that has taken place at Swansea, England. The county council met the other day and received a recommendation from its general purposes committee that the freedom of the borough voted Mr. H. M. Stanley in 1889, and still unpresented Swansea to receive it, be forwarded with on people who did not care twopence whether they had them or not. A HARD WORKING PREMIER.
[Ottawa Citezen.]

Sir Oliver Mowat, Premier of Ontario, is above all things a hard worker. It is doubtful if one out of a hundred realize what he is called upon to do or what he actually accomplishes during a year. His correspondence is very large, averaging about five hundred letters monthly. He answers every one of these promptly.

WHO WERE THE DRUNKS? WHO WERE THE DRUNKS?
[Toronto News, Conservative.]
Several of the faithful Commoners were at the Kirkpatrick dinner when the division bells rang in the members to vote on the Charlton Sunday Observance Bill. As the diners rushed into the chamber they saw Sir John Thompson voting yea, and, thinking therefore it was a Government measure that was up, voted yes, too. How gloriously drunk they must have been.

HE DIDN'T GET THE CHANCE.

[Hamilton Spectator.]
The London Advertiser is of opinion that a Hamilton man was looking for the that a Hamilton man was looking for the Lieutenant-Governor's job and was beaten by the "Toronto swells." The Advertiser is hereby informed that no Hamilton man wanted the job. The Lieutenant-Governor must reside in Toronto, and no self-respecting Hamiltonian could be persuaded to do that under any conditions whatever.

WHY HE HANGS ON TO IT.

[Victoria, B. C., Times.]
The London Free Press, which may be supposed to receive more or less direct inspiration from Hon. Mr. Carling, hints that the honorable gentleman will not succeed Six Alexander Campbell as Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario. We are more inclined to think that "Honest John" will held on to his stolen seat chiefly because he and his party friends know it would be almost impossible to steal it again in the event of a new elec-tion, even with Judge Elliot's assistance.

The Council Grants $500 for the Purpose.

The Committee's Action on the Fre Library Sustained.

Requirements of the Coming Camp-Re muneration for London Trust Mem-bers Discussed—Captain Foster and His Sub-Tenant-Board of Health Estimates.

The band concert question occupied the attention of the City Fathers last evening soon after they had taken their seats around the circular tables in the council chamber. The first petition was signed by a large number of citizens asking a grant of $300 for the Cavalry Band for the purpose of giving concerts in the parks. [Special to the ADVERTISER.] ST. THOMAS, June 6.—On Saturday evening Aima College gave a reception to the members of the conference, which proved a very enjoyable affair.

On Sunday the religious services On Sunday the religious services connected with the conference began with a love feast in the George Street Church. It was largely attended and very profitable. Dr. Sanderson presided. At 11 o'clock, the hour for the public service, the church was filled to listen to the Rev. Dr. A. Sutherland, who preached a very able sermon, appropriate for an ordination sermon. His text was: "Take heed to thyself and the doctrine; continue in them." He dwelt upon the need of care as to personal experience and need of care as to personal experience and character, and also the importance of doctrinal soundness. He expressed strong views as to the effects of the influence of higher views as to the effects of the influence of figure criticism. Their destructive criticisms were too readily received. He touched upon the doctrine of atonement and its importance. The spirit in which the work of a minister is performed has much to do with the success of a minister.

He also went with all his might against the conclusions of higher criticism, and Messianic prophecy as taught by critics of this type.

After all, there is a great deal of good in old Gerry.

"Better sell the farm than do that. And sold it must be!" He sighs and looks at us.

It is the smallest chance on earth, but I don't like to abandon it. I must first run up to Dublin to see Frisk and Farmer, and then ever to Worcestershire to see a cousin of your poor mother's. I shall be a month away altogether, and so I have written to your Aunt Martha to come and take care of you whilst I am away.
"Aunt Martha!" exclaim I in a dying ton.

"Aunt Uniacke !" says Geraldine, using

"Aunt Untacke?" says deraidine, using our dreadful aunt's surname.
"That aunt?" ories Kitty indignantly.
"Well, where was I to get another at a moment's notice?" demands Dad, very reasonably too, of course, though plainly he is qualling. Indeed, his voice has taken the low note that shows he is ashamed of himself.

A low, simultaneous groan escapes us all. Words fall ust," says Dad. "There is no one else, and I couldn't well go away and leave you without protection of any sort."
"But Aunt Martha of all people," says Kitte.

Notes more than that; she's a demon, "cry I she takes the keys again, Dad," said Garaldine, with dangerous calm, "I shall undoubtedly murder her?"

Geraldine being a person born without a apark of humour in her composition, this torribe threat is probably meant.

"She means thirty thousand pounds," says boor Dad again, who, nevertheless, I can see is in sympathy with us and is therefore a miserable pleader. Would I be doing you justice if I denied you the chance of gaining it? And once she sees you—so improved after all these years—she will certainly put you into her will." "She's coming, then?"

"Yes. To my astonishment; and rather to my relief too. I never thought she'd darken these doors after that last time!"

Here he looks round at us, the irresistible sparkle of a good thing remembered in his eyes. This glance to us is like tinder to dry wood; we all burst simultaneously into the gayest laughter.

"Oh! By jingo, girls! D'ye remember it? Do you?" says Dad, slapping his leg and roaring,
"Don't I!" says Kitty, her plump little sides shaking, "It is quite ten years ago, yet I can see it now."

"Ha-ha-ha!" shouts Dad, his jolly affectious laughter ringing through the room as lightly and gaily as though ruin is a million miles away. "And the cat! D'ye recollect how she sat down on the cat, and the yell that the poor old divil of a tabby grave, and—ha-ha-ha-the bounce of the old woman—another tabby, by Jovs!—and—ha-ha!—On my life, girls!"—wiping his eyes—"what a day that was! "No. It was dear. It endangered that thirty thousand pounds. If we hadn't laughed—but we did. I'll never forget how you laughed—pinching Kitry's ear. "I believe it was you who ruined us. Anyway, she picked up bag and baggage, and shock our dust off her feet within an hour."

"So unfair," say!. "All because she chose to squasa our geod-looking cat."

"She put it otherwise," said Geraldine. "She said it was because her nieces were hopelessly spoiled and that we were all hardened villains."

"Well; we very nearly lost the thirty thousand then," says Dad; "let us do our utmost to recover it now. Do be good to her giris. Do, now. It's only for a month; and really you have the best right to it. You are the children of her only sister; she had no brothers. Now, for heaven's sake," says Dad, giving us an appealing glance all round, "do promise me that you will behave decently to ner."

"We'll try," says Geraldine faintly.

"That's food girls now," says Dad, patting Gerry'sshoulders, and beaming on Kitty and me. "By the bye," says he, "your cousin, Fanny L'Estrange, is in Clonbree; her husband, Tom L'Estrange, is the captain of the detachment sent down. She was one of those detached houses just hanging on to the town. When can you go? To day, ch?

"You will come too, Dad?"

"No, I can't," says Dad hurriedly. "To tell you the truth, girls, I'd rather not. What's the good of my calline?"

"Do vou mean to say you won't even call at the Barracks?"

"No," says Dad, sadly, "I can't entertain. It is as good to make up our minds to that at once. And what would they care about an old feliow like me, who could do nothing but jabber to them of the past days, when the O'Connors were as good as the best? No, my dear, I shan't call; but your cousin—she will understand; and if she is at all like her mother she must be a nice creature. And at all events I wouldn't have her neglected."

"But how are we to go? The mare—"

"No, I want her mys

"That will cost seven shillings," said
Geraldine.

"And the driver?" say I.

"Two shillings more."

"It can't be helped," says Dad. "If I could only have kept old Blueskin, this expense might have been spared; but you wouldn't be rude to your own first cousin."

"No, no, of course not; only——"

"I hope the driver will be Mickey the Saint," says Kitty.

"I hear Fanny has her brother staying with her-young Paddy Burke," says Dad.
"A nice fellow enough, I'm told; but don't fall in love with him, girls, whatever you do. Three hundred a year is all he has in the world. His brother inherits the property."

"What a name !—Paddy!" says Kitty with deep disdain.

"I'd better send a line to Walsh about the car at once," says Geraldine.

A TERRIBLE WARNING!

There is Death in the Habit

How True Life and Health is Obtained.

A medical gentleman said recently: "There is a growing demand for narcoties to produce sleep, that people so often drive from them, and afterward so fondly desire.

from them, and afterward so fondly desire.
Opium, morphia, chloral, bromide of sodium and other dangerous drugs, are too freely used to induce sleep; and if the habit is continued in our young country, the results will soon be terrible."

This desire for narcotics comes from a class who should know better. The poor and laboring classes have no wish or desire for these poisons. Daily work and regular occupation are sufficient for them to produce natural and healthy sleep at the proper time.

The men and women who habitually use narcotics are those who have plunged deep

The men and women who habitually use narcotics are those who have plunged deep into the gaities and pleasures of lite. Thousands have become sleepless, nervous, morose, anxious and despondent by giving way to excesses, intemperance and prodigality in living. Nerves are weak and unstrung; headaches, kidney and liver troubles make life a burden, and sleep is cut of the question.

Fortunately for such sufferers there exists an agent for giving strength and rest to the an agent for giving strength and rest to the nervous system, and which is at the same time a sleep-producer. This heaven-given remedy is Paine's Celery Compound—a medicine made from nature's purest and safest herbs, and without a trace or shadow of any poisonous substance.

Paine's Celery Compound has already been used with grand results by a class of people who would scorn to use any of the ordinary patents of our day. It has been the means of restoring lost health, of invigorating and strengthening weak bodies, and giving to those who were considered incurable a new life.

Reader, if you are one of the weak, rundown, sleepless and broken-up mortals, we counsel you to act with wisdom, if you desire a new life. Give that great remedy a trial at once; there is nothing else that can help you known to the medical faculty.

IS THE TARIFF A TAX?

A year ago the United States duty on A year ago the United States duty on binder twine was reduced from 2½ eents to 7-10 of a cent per pound. The effect of the reduction is most effectively shown by the following table, which gives the price of binder twine before and after the passage of the act reducing the duties:

	1890.	189	1.

In the face of such a showing, remarks a Philadelphia paper, it requires a cast-iron indifference to the teachings of fact for Initideipnia paper, it requires a cast-iron indifference to the teachings of fact for protectionist orators and organs to insist that the tariff is not a tax. Americans reduced the binder twine duty to close the mouth of the dissatisfied farmer, because by shaking binder twine reduction before his eyes to distract his attention from the more grevious burdens imposed on him by the tax on iron, lumber, clothing, salt, tinplates, and hundreds of his necessities. But the American farmer can see out of both eyes, and is not so pledged and chained to party that he cannot, with his taste of cheap untaxed sugar, with his binder twine lesson and his experience of the uselessness of the wool tax as a means of revising the price of wool, see that the whole thing is an effort to sugar the protectionist pill. Unfortunately the Canadian farmer has lessons in adversity to learn before he realizes the true effect and bearing on his calling.

Sudden Death in Scuth London.

The many friends of Miss Kate Turner, of Becher street, South London, were grieved to hear of her fudden death, which took place at her residence yesterday at noon. On Sunday night deceased was not feeling well, but got up yesterday morning about 11 o'clock apparently in her usual good health. An hour later she was dead. She was aged 17 years, and had been for some time a member of Askin Street Methodiat Church. Heart disease was the cause of her untimely death.

Queen's Park on Saturday afternoon. About 100 of the children were conveyed in street cars to and from the park, and during the ride their sweet young voices might be heard blending beautifully in choruses. Prizes were awarded for recitations, etc., and the children had a very pleasant afternoon. Caretaker Burdick added to their enjoyment by putting up swings for them. Plumbers' Troubles Again.

Plumbers' Troubles Again.

A number of journeymen plumbers called at the ADVERTISER office last evening with the intelligence that all probability of the talked-of strike had vanished. They claim that some months ago when they went on strike the bosses promised to give all journeymen 25 cents an hour, and that they have not done so. This was the reason why the men proposed striking again. They now say that the following bosses have agreed to their demands: Heard & Co., Smith Bros., Wm. Skelly, Alex. Milne and James Haslett—all but one in the city. Sudden Death of Mrs. Wm. Onn.

Sudden Death of Mrs. Wm. Onn.

A very suiden death occurred at the residence of Wm. Onn, Bathurst street, last evening. Mrs. Onn went into the store in connection with the house and was waiting on a customer when with an agonizing cry she threw up her arms and dropped dead. Heart disease was the cause. Mrs. Onn was 63 years old and came from St. Callum, Cornwall, England. For the last ten years she has resided in London. She leaves a husband and two grown-up sous. Deceased was a member of King Street Methodist Church and was preparing to attend the Sunday school anniversary.

A Treat in Store for Chatham.

At a well-attended and enthusiastic meeting of the members of the Young Liberal Minstrels Monday night in the Oddfellows' block it was decided to give a performance in Chatham on the evening of June 22, the day of the races there. A very cheap rate will be granted by the railway companies, and a large number of Londoners will doubtless accompany the minstrels to that town. They were given a royal welcome in Chatham last year. As this season's show eclipses all others, and will be given on the same elaborate scale as in the city recently, there is every reason to believe the reception will be of the same character.

The now somewhat famous case of Ross

The now somewhat famous case of Ross vs. Sterling—an action for money for services rendered—will have a third trial in the Division Court of this city. The suit was first tried before Judge Mackenzie, and the jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff. Then the judge granted a new trial on he ground that he interpreted the verdict to be not according to the preponderance of evidence. The new trial was before Judge Davis, and again the verdict of the jury was for the plaintiff. A new trial was once more applied for, and the case will come to trial for the third time soon. The question which the plaintiff is beginning to ask is "How many times have I to get a verdict before it holds good?" For the plaintiff, J. Macpherson, for defendant, Geo. McNab.

The friends of the family have placed the papers of the deceased statesman in the hands of these gentlemen, and these, with many rominiscences hitherto unpublished, will be incorporated in the forthcoming volume, which will be magnificently finished and handsomely illustrated. PIERCED BY A BULLET.

Joseph Palucci, a Member of "D" Company, Shot at the Cove Butta—

Death Results in a Short Time.

The regular weekly practice of "D" Company, I. S. C., at the Cove butts Monday afternoon was one which will not soon be forgotten. Capt. Dennison was in charge of the men. Joseph Palucci was one of the markers at the 600-yard range, and had stepped out shortly before 3 o'clock to mark the target, when a bullet struck him, passing through his right thigh and hitting the target. The man fell, and the blood poured from his wound at an alarming rate. His comrades hastened to his assistance. When they arrived Palucci said to Capt. Dennison, "Put another through there, captain," at the same time pointing to his forehead. With all possible haste he was conveyed to the City Hospital, but despite all that medical aid could do he died about 5:30 from loss of blood. On application at the barracks all information as to who fired the fatal shot was withheld. A court of inquiry is to be held to-day. It is said that a man supposed to have been shooting at the 400-yard range fired at the 600-yard range by mistake and struck Palucci.

It was supposed that deceased had relatives living in Chatham, but up to a take and struck Palucci.

It was supposed that deceased had relatives living in Chatham, but up to a late hour last night no answer had been received to a telegraphic dispatch sent to that town. It is known that he came originally from Ohio. He served five years in the United States army, and had been a member of "D" Company for a little more than a year. He was a good marksman and was a member of the baseball club at the barracks, playing first base. Deceased was a tall, well-built man about 30 years of age, and was quite a favorite at the school. His remains will be interred to-morrow afternoon by the company.

Back some time about the year 1879 the firm of Connely Bros. were doing an insurance business in Windeor. Having dealings with Mr. Christman, who still lives in Windsor, a letter was dropped into the postoffice for him on March 29 of that year. On the envelope was the usual request, "iff not called for in five days return, etc." The five days expired on April 3, 1879, but the letter was only returned to Connely Bros., now Connely & Kendall, from the dead letter office at Ottawa yesterday morning.

It was accompanied by a short note from the head of the department, apologizing for the slight delay in returning it.
