

ALMA ST. MAN OFFERS $20,000 FOR TUBERCULOSIS HOSPITAL

Mr. James A. Blair Is Prepared to Help Along the Scheme in a Most Practical Manner—All He Wants Is the Interest.

The great need of a tuberculosis hospital, which has been strongly impressed upon the citizens of London, has led one philanthropic gentleman, Mr. James A. Blair, of Alma street, to offer $20,000 to build such a hospital, the city merely to pay the interest on that sum of money until his death. After that the money will be given to the institution.

The need of such a hospital is very apparent, and a strenuous effort will be made to have it constructed as soon as possible.

The opposition of Hon. Adam Beck to the issuing of debentures without a vote of the people of this hospital is not very easily understood, when it is remembered that he did not offer any opposition to the issuing of debentures by the council for the isolation hospital.

It is certain that the county can afford to pay its share of the cost and maintenance of the hospital. It is also equally certain that there will be no opposition to the establishment of such an institution.

Council To Deal With Short Weights

Short weights on the market will probably have the consideration of the council this evening. Last June Ald. Gilleen had a motion passed, asking the council to petition the Legislature to pass an act preventing the sale of garden produce under weight. The matter was to have been brought to the attention of the Ontario Municipalities' Association, but such was not done. Ald. Gilleen says he will bring the matter up again tonight.

Lengthy Session of the City Council

The council meeting tonight proved to be a long-drawn out affair, as there is considerable business to come up for transaction. Several bylaws will be up for discussion.

The question of Sunday cars will again be before the council.

Delegates will probably be present representing both sides of the question.

The Komoka bylaw will come up also, to be given two readings. Both sections of the bylaw will be considered.

ered, but in all probability only one section will be submitted to the people.

The north end and east end fire halls bylaw will also be discussed.

Then there will be the Niagara power bylaw, and it will come in for much discussion. Both Hon. Adam Beck and Mr. E. Richards, of the Niagara power commission, will be at the council, and they will explain the different features of the matter.

There will be considerable routine business to be disposed of.

Mitchell Taken to His Home in Guelph

The young man named Mitchell whose case has been causing some trouble between the doctors and the hospital authorities, owing to the fact that he is suffering from tuberculosis, was taken to his home in Guelph this morning by his two brothers, who live in that locality.

They are said to be comfortably situated.

A start should be made towards curing for such cases," said Dr. Niven, chairman of the board of health, this morning in discussing the Mitchell case. "A couple of tents would do the work for a time, at least. The Daughters of the Empire and the National Council of Women will donate and furnish a couple of tents provided a couple of acres of land is given them on which to erect the tents. That is the way it was done in Hamilton and other places, and in a short time the consumptive hospital was an assured fact."

London Men Vote to Contribute Toward Labor Inspector's Expenses

Will Send a Man to England to Look After Canadian Immigration.

Typographical Union on Saturday night, and it was unanimously voted to make the grant. It will be dealt with by other unions shortly, and then it will come up at the next meeting of the Trades and Labor Council.

To Look After Labor.

"The Canadian Manufacturers' Association and other organizations employing labor have men in England looking for labor, especially skilled labor, and they misrepresent conditions in Canada," said a labor man this morning.

"We want to send a man over there to give labor's side of the question. We want to tell the workingman just how things are here, and give them exact knowledge of conditions."

"We are going to put a stop to misrepresentation, if it can possibly be done. I think this is a move in the right direction, and I think perhaps in the near future, agents may be sent to other countries to prevent even unskilled labor coming over. Settlers and good immigrants are all right, but conditions must be stated as they are. We intend to take strong grounds in the House of Commons through our representative on the question of Asiatic immigration also."

An inspector—a Winnipeg man—was appointed, but the matter of his support would have to be met by local unions and councils.

Mr. P. M. Draper, of Ottawa, secretary of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, has been in touch with a large number of councils, and the proposal has met with splendid success.

Each member of each union is asked to contribute 10 cents towards paying the inspector's expenses to England.

LEAPING TO DEATH SAYS KILLED 28

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 4.—In view of 300 persons, Jim Davis, a negro, who had shot two negro women, leaped from the railing of the Tennessee River bridge yesterday to the water, 100 feet below, and was drowned. Pursued by two deputy sheriffs, Davis climbed on the railing and fired five times in the air, scattering the crowd which was trying to prevent suicide. The shouting, "One, two, three," he jumped head foremost. Before leaping, Davis yelled that he had killed 28 persons.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—The writs for the by-elections for the Dominion House of Commons to Canada and in 1854 will be made to have them over by the time parliament meets. It is quite probable that they may be pulled off on Thursday, the 28th inst., the day of the meeting of the House.

REV. MATTHEW BARR DEAD AT SEAFORTH

One of Best Known Old-Time Preachers in Western Ontario.

Seaforth, Nov. 4.—Rev. Matthew Barr, one of the pioneer clergymen of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, died at his residence near Seaforth on Sunday, having reached the good old age of 82 years. Mr. Barr had been in failing health for over a year, and for some months had been confined to his residence. He was a native of Kibaran, Renfrew, Scotland, and after having graduated in the ministry, came to Canada, and in 1854 was inducted as pastor of the Harpurth (then Seaforth), Presbyterian Church, his field extending from Walkerton on the north to the vicinity of London on the south. He retired many years ago to his home near Seaforth.

BEING TRIED TODAY

J. M. McEvoy is defending Cameron, while Bavin is undefended.

Mrs. Gifford's ancestors came from England many years ago.

MACKAY DEMANDS POWER FIGURES

Liberal Leader Makes Another Strong Announcement on Power Question.

Hamilton, Nov. 3.—"We are willing still that the Government shall be provided with sufficient money to make proper investigations, but we are not willing that any provincial money should be used for the building of transmission lines or any permanent work which goes to benefit a particular locality. We say that the responsibility is entirely on the Government. It is a difficult question, but we have given them $25,000 or $30,000 for investigation purposes, and they must be held accountable for the correctness or incorrectness of the figures they furnish. For example, if the statement made in the Toronto Globe and Courier describing it as reliable, then we say that further investigation ought to be made, and at the very least accurate figures given to the municipalities. Probably one-third of the Province may be served with electrical power, while the other two-thirds cannot be reached. We have suggested Continued on Page Nine.

Applications for Collegiate Positions

No. 1 committee of the board of education will meet this evening to discuss the vacancies in the Collegiate. There are a great many applications for the positions, especially that of mathematical master, no less than 12 applications being sent in, according to the statement of Chairman Graham.

The applications are from all over Ontario. They are not so numerous for the department of moderns, as there are not so many men in this branch of the teaching profession.

It is said, however, that several good men have applied, and it is thought that a good man can be chosen.

In the department of English it is thought that Mr. Neil Gray, who has been assistant for some time, may get the appointment. Several of the trustees have deviated themselves in favor of promotion—several have been converted to this view, it is said. It is thought that he would fill the position with great credit if given the opportunity.

Judge Mulock Orders a New Election

At Osgoode Hall Saturday before Mulock, C. J., Kelly vs. Electrical Construction Co.—Judgment (L) in an action tried at London to set aside election of directors of defendant company and for other relief.

obtaining authority to use the name of the company as party plaintiff, and within a reasonable time amending their statement of claim by making the company a party plaintiff, instead of defendant, and making the formal amendments to the statement of claim consequent on such change, the election of the defendants, Workman, Gorman, Heaman and Thomas should be set aside and a new election held.

A poll was opened and on conclusion of voting the chairman, declared Messrs. Campbell, Workman, Gorman, Heaman and Thomas elected, and they have since acted as members of the board.

The plaintiffs contend that they and C. W. Sifton, not Workman, Heaman and Thomas, were elected, and ask to have the election set aside, and that defendant Campbell, who was chairman of the meeting, be ordered to declare the plaintiffs and C. W. Sifton to have been elected directors, or for a declaration that the plaintiffs and C. W. Sifton were duly elected in place of the other individual defendants.

The four directors should continue in office until the election of their successors. If parties not able to agree upon date of holding election, his lordship will name the date. If plaintiffs fail within a reasonable time to obtain authority to sue in the company's name, to make the necessary amendments, the defendants may on 24 hours' notice, bring the fact of such failure before the judge on affidavit or other evidence, and in the meantime no formal judgment to be entered. It is not a case calling for any order as to costs. T. G. Meredith, K. C., and T. W. Winnett, London, for plaintiffs; G. C. Gibbons, K. C., and G. S. Gibbons, London, for defendants.

On the first charge Slaght pleaded not guilty, but he admits the second offense.

He will be tried in a day or two.

London and Niagara Power Problem

The submission of a Niagara power bylaw is coming in for considerable discussion of late, but there are several phases of the question yet to be discussed. There is no unanimity of opinion on the matter, but a wide divergence. The main complaint is that there is not enough knowledge of the problem. People do not know much about it, and there is a strong suspicion that the council has not any too much light on it.

For instance, there is the matter of the asylum lighting. At present the Gas Company has the contract for lighting the asylum. That contract, it is said, has some twelve or fifteen years to run. Of course, the Government may cut this contract off, or force the Gas Company out. Whether this will be done or not is the question.

Form of Contract.

Some time ago the council asked the commission for a form of contract to be entered into between the municipality and the power commission. It will be some time before this contract reaches the council. The commission is not liable for any discrepancies or mistakes in the figures, and it is felt by many members of the council that the form of contract should be shown the aldermen before the bylaw is submitted to the people.

Cost of Distribution.

"The cost of distributing the power through a private company has not been considered yet," said a prominent citizen this morning, "and it should be before this question goes much farther. The figures for such distribution should at least be submitted. If cheap power can be had, I want it, and I want it distributed as cheaply as possible. We need all the information we can get on the question. Some private company should be able to do it without involving the city in so much expense. This thing should not be done blindly."

The special committee having the matter in hand, will, on the suggestion of Ald. Siewely, visit the McClary Company this afternoon to inspect the producer gas plant in operation there.

Death of Rev. Father F. Barry Well-Beloved Priest Passed Away

Had Been Ill for Some Time But His Death Was Most Unexpected.

Father Frederick Barry, one of the most beloved and popular priests of this diocese, passed away on Saturday afternoon after a lingering illness.

The news of his death will come as a sad shock to many of his friends, as he was present at the services on Sunday and Monday, and said mass on those occasions.

On Tuesday he was suddenly taken very ill, and continued to grow weaker until his death occurred late on Saturday afternoon.

Was Born Here.

The late Father Barry was widely known and esteemed in this city. He was born here 28 years ago, and lived here continuously until he went to Assumption College, Sandwich, from which he graduated. After finishing his education by a course of three years and a half at Montreal College he was ordained here, and was appointed assistant to Father Kennedy, of Sarnia.

Health Failed.

Father Barry was an earnest worker, and by his kindly disposition made himself universally beloved among his parishioners.

About a year ago his health became so poor that he was reluctantly compelled to give up his work, and he came home to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Barry, 563 King street.

After staying with them for a short time he took a trip to the Rocky Mountains in the hope that his health would be restored.

A short time ago he returned home, and ever since has been assisting in station succeeded in breaking away from two officers who were holding him and before he could be recovered gave the officer who had arrested him a tremendous kick in the abdomen which laid him out for some minutes.

This morning the magistrate, Mr. C. R. Cartley, some wholesome advice, and fined him $10 and $35 costs.

William Fitzgerald and Joseph Clarke got drunk and were having a big time in some box cars in the C. P. R. yard at the East End of Saturday night. Neither had any money left to pay a fine of $10 so they were sent down for 20 days.

Many Fighters and Drunks in Court

In the juvenile court this morning Magistrate Love impressed firmly upon the minds of eight West London youths the fact that he will not tolerate rowdiness of any kind.

Five of the eight youths were found guilty and fined $3 each and were warned that if they ever came before him again they need look for the full penalty of the law and the heaviest fine that he could impose upon them.

The youths were charged with acting in a disorderly manner in the west end, and it is stated that for some time they have been growing more and more bold in their acts.

Indulged in a Fight.

George Cartley, of Westminster, seems to be a most ungrateful man. He got into a fight in a local cigar store and after being thrown out started to do up a hotel on King street. He was in a fair way of getting done up, for he started out to think the matter over. This morning he was given a little lecture on the evils of such conduct, paid $5 and was bound over in the sum of $100 to keep the peace.

Ridout Street Sewer Is a Swallower

The Slough of Despond did not have much on the Ridout street sewer. On Saturday last the big ditch was filled in, but the heavy rains of Friday and Saturday had worked it up until it was one juicy, sticky mass. In addition it sunk quite a bit. The result was some very amusing as well as some very dangerous experiences.

Another man was also drunk, but instead of wanting to celebrate, his drink made him want to fight. He went home and was going to turn his father and mother out of the house in a few minutes less than no time. A policeman was called and the would-be ejector was taken to Carling street to think the matter over. This morning he was given a little lecture on the evils of such conduct, paid $5 and was bound over in the sum of $100 to keep the peace.

Alex. Mannes and John Howe were also drunk and the former paid $2, while the latter was fined $3.

TREKKING TO THE SIBERIAN WILDS

Thousands of Settlers From Old Russia Pouring Into the Fertile Districts.

Toronto, Nov. 3.—Details of a great trek from old Russia to the fertile steppes of Southern and Western Siberia were furnished The Province recently by Mr. C. J. Kelgy, an Englishman, who, with his family and a Russian friend, Mr. K. Ouslanoff, are guests at the St. Francis Hotel. Mr. Kelgy has resided in the Asiatic possessions of the Czar for nearly twelve years, and came here in order to place his children in school, as there are no facilities for educating them in his home among the steppes of Southern Siberia. He expects to return there at a later date.

"I have resided in many provinces of Siberia," he said, "and recent years I have been engaged in the export butter trade in the western region, at a point north of the Altai Mountains, and five hundred miles south of the railway, the butter being shipped to London. It reaches the railway by steamer down the Irish River in summer, and in winter is hauled to Omsk in sleds. The city where I dwell is situated in the steppe or prairie district. Grain there sells at about half the price realized by the Western Canadian farmer, but is destined to be a factor in the English markets as soon as improved transportation facilities are provided.

Don't Settle on Farms.

"Settlers from old Russia are pouring into the fertile districts of Siberia at a phenomenal rate, the number easily reaching several hundred thousands annually. I think the movement of population in that direction is even greater than the influx to your own Northwest. This spring the facilities of the Siberian Railway will be taxed to the utmost in handling the crowds of incoming settlers. Unfortunately the Russian Government does not aid or direct the work, and hence many people go to regions where conditions obtain the reverse of those in the homes they have left.

"Many districts in the southwestern and western districts are already settled. Fruit growing is a success, as irrigation methods are in vogue. The Russians make mistakes in colonizing. They live in village communities, and drive out every morning to their fields, camping if the stay is prolonged. But a holiday or a feast brings them back to the village. They have not adapted the Anglo-Saxon idea of settling and living in houses on their own farms. A lot of time is wasted by trekking to and from the farms. Many of the settlers in the southern regions are Germans, the descendants of the German mercenaries who engaged in the service of the Empress Catherine the Great, over 160 years ago.

Minefields of All Kinds.

"Siberia abounds in minerals of all kinds as well as coal, and offers more opportunities today to foreign capital than any other portion of the world. There are numerous new copper mines, some of which are controlled by English capital. In the central district 25 dredges are extracting a great deal of gold, and this is only one of many rich localities. The Russian mining laws in Siberia are liberal, and foreigners are allowed to take out licenses and operate or buy claims. This privilege applies all over Siberia, except in the regions adjacent to the Pacific Ocean, which will be the scene of the next mining boom. The administration is very liberal, and in marked contrast to conditions in old Russia. I would advise mining men to visit Siberia if they desire to embrace golden opportunities."

CHINESE PRINCESS DEAD

Sister of the Empress Passes Away in a Mysterious Manner.

Peking, Nov. 3.—Japan today began intrusting the transportation of the Japanese mails to the care of the posts which is on outcome of China's coercive action in refusing Japan the use of the imperial railways for her mail couriers. China's action was induced by Japan's postal aggressions, her independent postoffice service in China having been trebled in two years, and also to France's attempted re-establishment of couriers from Yunnan, where the Indo-China post has been operated since 1901. It is uncertain if France will withdraw her Indo-China post couriers, who have been operating since a fortnight ago.

As the princess was a favorite of the ladies here many of the latter desired to console with the court, but the officials were unable the passing away of the princess.

A FAST TROTTER HORSE.

Deveras, 2:11½, owned by Mr. Antonio Wendling, of the Clifton House, Brockville, is one of the fastest mares in Eastern Ontario. After every race she is rubbed down with Nerville, which prominent horsemen consider the best liniment made. Every horse and stock owner should use Nerville." 50c per bottle everywhere.

JEWELS FOR KING STOLEN IN TRAIN

Parcel of Diamonds Valued at $1,000, Destined for Siam's King Taken.

London, Nov. 3.—R. F. Mosley, a partner in the Alexander Clark Manufacturing Company, a wholesale jewelry firm, of Fenchurch and Oxford streets, has been robbed, while traveling from Rome to Naples, of a parcel of diamonds valued at $1,000, destined for the King of Siam.

The thieves also took $350 worth of English and foreign notes, but overlooked other parcels of jewelry valued at $50,000, which Mr. Mosley had with him.

Mr. Mosley, who returned to London on Monday morning, gave the following account of the robbery last night: "Our firm has done a large business with the King of Siam, both here and in his own country," he said.

"On Friday, Oct. 4, I took a return ticket from London to Rome, in order to take a special selection of the finest jewelry for the King of Siam's inspection. I left Charing Cross by the 2:20, traveling by the wagon-lit from Paris to Rome. On my arrival I found he had left an hour before for Naples. I started from Rome to Naples at 12:05 on Sunday night, traveling again in a wagon-lit.

"I asked for a bottle of soda water soon after starting, and as I had no small change, pulled out a bundle of notes—$25 English and $100 Italian and French. The attendant gave change for one of the notes, and I put the others back in the inside pocket of my coat, where I had also $1,000 worth of loose diamonds.

"Before going to sleep I hung up my coat, waistcoat, and trousers on a hook. The thieves, who had evidently seen me put away the notes, stole the coat and waistcoat during the night, but, fortunately, did not touch the trousers. In the hip pocket of which were $50,000 worth of loose jewels, mostly diamonds and emeralds. In my suitcase I had from $6,000 to $40,000 worth of mounted gems.

"Immediately on reaching Naples I reported the robbery to the police, who have already arrested one of the attendants on the train on suspicion. They informed me that, owing to the peculiar variety of the stolen diamonds, they have great hopes of recovering them.

"I also lost my gold cigarette case and my return ticket from Naples to Rome.

"Since arriving in London I have been told that all my movements have been watched by a gang of international thieves since I went to Berlin with parcels of jewels for the King of Siam."

MUSIC FOR HORSES

Regimental Steeds Like Sweet Sounds Especially After Their Oats.

Berlin, Nov. 3.—Regimental horses have been the subjects of musical tests and nearly all enjoyed the experience, only a very small percentage of the animals remaining indifferent to sweet sounds. The equally few showed active dislike. The great majority were soothed, inspired, or excited by music.

Most of the horses, like the war chargers one may suppose them to be, enjoyed the bugle above any other instrument and neighed gallantly when it was sounded, but thoroughbreds and colts generally were found to prefer the shrill treble of the fife, which roused them to great and sometimes to unmanageable enthusiasm. This was the more significant because the fife was an unfamiliar instrument to them, not being generally used as the bugle in the French army.

Finally all the musical horses particularly appreciated sweet sounds after a meal of oats and before breakfast they showed restiveness when played to.

General James H. Baker of Mankato, Minn., who was commissioned as a statesman under President Grant, has been visiting Washington for the first time in many years and has been entertained by a number of old veterans whose pension certificates he signed nearly 40 years ago.

The value of the farm lands along the Union Pacific increased by more than $2,500,000,000 in the five years 1900 to 1905. The United States census figures an aggregate value for 17 states in 1905 as $3,241,782,364, while in 1900 it was only $5,692,330,372. This is an advance of nearly 45 per cent.

Here is a simple home-made mixture as given by an eminent authority on Kidney diseases, who makes the statement that it will relieve almost any case of Kidney trouble if taken before the stage of Bright's disease. He states that such symptoms as lame back, pain in the side, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night; painful and disordered urination, are readily overcome. Here is a recipe; try it.

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

A well-known local druggist is authority that these ingredients are all harmless and easily mixed at home by shaking well in a bottle. This mixture effect upon the entire Kidney and Urinary structure, and often overcomes the worst forms of Rheumatism in just a little while. This mixture is said to remove all blood disorders and cure the Rheumatism by forcing the Kidneys to filter and strain from the blood and system all uric acid and foul, decomposed waste matter, which cause these afflictions. Try it if you aren't well. Save the prescription.

BRITISH

To relieve the monotony of life in the Uckfield and Ardingly packs of cards have been presented to the inmates.

Mrs. Creigh, a charwoman, while cleaning of the iron work surrounding the well of the lift at Colonial house in Liverpool, leaned over the iron work as the lift descended and was decapitated.

Miss Marianne Hensley had a family party of four at her home in celebration of her 102nd birthday. She is able to read and write and keep her own accounts.

Mr. William Marchant, of London, who recently acquired a business at Hayward's Heath, was found dead in a well 48 feet deep. He arrived in town only the night previous to his death.

Lord Fairfax, America's only peer, whose ancestors have lived in the United States since the time of Sir Oliver Cromwell, is about to become a well-to-do citizen with a possible seat in the Lords.

"Everyone knows that we have not enough police in London. It is quite impossible for the present force to cope with the needs of the city," said Mr. Paul Taylor at the Marylebone police station.

Prof. H. B. Proctor stated at a meeting of the Royal Society at Great X-mas, that a Northampton firm had written to the Amir of Afghanistan, and that it was a strict condition of the order that a certain number of the shoes were to squeak and the others were to be silent.

The enormous development of the herring industry at Great X-mas, was attested by the opening of another fish market expressly for the Scotch fishermen, buyers and curers where the selling will be conducted on the Scotch sample system. There is now a Scottish colony in the town estimated at 10,000.

Mr. Alexander Smith told the South Staffordshire and Warwickshire mining engineers that the available coal in the district would last for 1,000 years. No doubt when the period approached when the coal exhaustion seemed probable the wind or the tide would be harnessed and the rays of the sun generated or heat and power would be provided in some other way.

When William Bruce, a Glasgow accountant, was being examined in bankruptcy at Glasgow, he stated that during the past ten years he had lost $50,000. When he produced a handful of silver and coppers exclaiming: "And there is all my money gentlemen—16s 6d after forty years' work."

MANY FOR THE STAGE

Three Hundred Persons Seek Admission to the Paris Conservatoire.

Paris, Nov. 3.—Examinations for admission to the Paris Conservatoire are now proceeding. The jury of admission have decided this year upon the merits of more than three hundred candidates each of whom is convinced that he or she possesses talent equaling that of Mme. Bernhardt or M. Coquelin.

A young woman who failed to pass the examination last year had a scene specially written for her by a minor poet, wherein imprecations were heaped upon each member of the obnoxious jury.

That the pranks played by French students are not so much unlike those of Americans is shown by an incident at the Conservatoire. The unusual feature, however, is the fact that the parents looked on smilingly at the young couple. A crowd of candidates for the regulation courses assembled in the court outside the examination-room when twenty youths started a newspaper bonfire around which they led a war dance. Deaf to all remonstrances, the youngsters continued their pranks and kept on adding to the bonfire until it was necessary to summon a squad of police.

CHARMING HOSTESS

New York, Nov. 3.—The Empress of China is a very beautiful woman—intellectually she is the celestial Cleopatra," said Hubert Vos, the artist, today.

He had just returned from the Orient, after painting a portrait of the Empress, and his time was divided between receiving visitors and attempting to unpack.

"Yes, she is beautiful, beautiful," he paused and touched his broad brow significantly. "Intellectually, and her nails are at least seven inches long."

"She has all right guards to protect her nails. You see it would be a calamity if a Chinese woman were to break her distinguished nails."

"She is very young, too, in spirit. She is a great little woman, and a perfectly charming hostess."

LONDON, MONDAY, NOV. 4.

THE REAPPEARANCE OF SIR HIBBERT.

The selection of Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper as the Conservative nominee for the Commons in Pictou, N. S., means that in his anxiety to re-enter Parliament he fears to trust his fortunes to any constituency in British Columbia. Some years ago he announced his intention of making his permanent home in the latter province, but considers it safer to again attempt the journey by the Nova Scotia route. Time was when the Tupper were a power in the province down by the sea, but as was shown by the last general election, when the Liberals made almost a clean sweep, and drove the senior Tupper into private life, that time has passed. Evidently Sir Hibbert believes the family name still has prestige in his old province; else he surely would not go 400 miles to secure a constituency. However, the coming of Sir Hibbert need create no alarm among the Liberals of Pictou. As the Halifax Chronicle observes, they have fought him when he was a much stronger man than he is today, and they are ready to stand by their own brilliant representative. Mr. E. M. McDonald, of whom the constituency has good reason to be proud. Pictou, in common with the rest of the Dominion, is reaping the benefits of Liberal rule, and its people are not likely to make a change, even to help one of the Tupper family secure what he sees no chance of obtaining in the province in which he now resides. His reappearance, therefore, may be expected to serve simply as a spur to the electors in their determination to remain true to the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Behind the nomination of Sir Hibbert Tupper by the Pictou Conservatives is revealed a little plot that is truly Tupperesque, and in a way recalls the famous "nest of traitors" episode. Mr. A. C. Bell, ex-M. P., has sought the nomination, and in all fairness was entitled to it. He has fought the party battle in the constituency on more than one occasion, and once was successful. Moreover, he is a man of exceptional ability. The party, therefore, owed it to Mr. Bell that he should have the refusal of the candidature. But no; it was wanted for a Tupper, a Tupper must have it, and a Tupper got it, though it meant discarding a man who had borne the brunt of fighting in dark days and the taking up of one who deserted his leader and his constituency seven years ago. Sir Hibbert has been so long in British Columbia that he is now completely out of touch with his party in the eastern province, and there is reason to believe that his reception, outside of a certain clique, will be anything but cordial. Meanwhile Mr. Bell is not meekly submitting to the treatment he has been subjected to by the party bosses, whom he bitterly upbraids, asking in sarcastic tones, "Why did you not go to Hong Kong while you were about it?"

THE UNITED STATES NAVY'S NEED.

The chief difficulty experienced by the United States in the work of building up a great navy, to which that country has set itself is not in getting the ships, but in procuring the men. Unlike Great Britain, whose people boast of having the ships, the men, and "the money, too," United States naval experts complain that the one great weakness of its navy is the scarcity of officers and men. In ships the United States ranks higher than Germany, France and Japan, but when it comes to moving those ships an altogether different story is told. So acute has the scarcity of officers become, owing mainly to the increase in the number of ships, that it has been decided to double the number of appointments to the Naval Academy, but this, of course, will not provide crews. Not only has it been found difficult to get suitable men, but to keep those who enlist. Life on shipboard in time of peace is extremely monotonous; men soon tire of the hard drudgery, and the result is frequent desertions. In addition to this is a large proportion of time-expired men refuse to re-enlist. This state of affairs is believed to have something to do with the intended voyage of battleships to the Pacific. There is no doubt something alluring in the thought of a pleasure trip to the Orient, and if, as is hoped, a journey to new seas and lands encourages men who are tired of perpetual cruises off the Atlantic Coast, and want a change, some good will have been accomplished. Already the projected trip, it is said, has stimulated enlistment and stopped desertions. This would be more satisfactory, could the sudden eagerness for sea service be regarded as permanent. What the navy department is particularly anxious about is that thoroughly trained men re-enlist on the completion of their terms of service, and it remains to be seen whether this voyage and the prospect of others will make naval service more popular with both trained and untrained men. Unless crews can be gathered and trained in time of peace, Uncle Sam will be in danger of finding himself, in time of need, with a navy weak in its most vital part. Meanwhile Congress is being urged to encourage enlistment and re-enlistment by increasing the pay.

GREAT BRITAIN FACES A CRISIS.

The United Kingdom is threatened with a strike which would be more serious in its effects than any industrial war in that country in recent years. The Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, having 100,000 members, has decided almost unanimously to quit work, if the railway corporations will not make concessions. The president of the national board of trade, Mr. Lloyd-George, has been trying to mediate between the opposing parties, and will confer with the representatives of the men on Wednesday. There will be no strike before the result of the conference is known. Unlike the railway companies of Canada, the British companies refuse to recognize a union of employees, or treat with them in their collective capacity.

The Amalgamated Society is only one of six organizations of railway operatives in Great Britain. It is expected the others unions will make common cause with the Amalgamated in the event of trouble, but the latter is sufficiently powerful, without their aid, to disorganize every railway system in Great Britain. The consequences of such a strike would be widespread and disastrous. Practically no industry or business would be outside the area of disturbance. The vast shipping trade of the country would be almost paralyzed through the inability to move goods promptly between ocean ports and inland points.

There is no effective machinery in the United Kingdom for averting this catastrophe. In Canada under the same circumstances, the Lemieux act would suspend hostilities until there had been an impartial investigation, and the public fully informed of the facts. In all probability the difficulty would be adjusted, but if there were no compromise, the report of the board of arbitrators would have a moral effect which would in nine cases out of ten prevent a strike or a lockout. In the United Kingdom the public will apparently have to look on helplessly and suffer. Isn't this carrying freedom too far?

From all accounts the Czar has at last got a nice hand-picked Duma, which will approach him with bated breath and whispering humbleness.

On the subject of Niagara power Leader MacKay advises inquiry before plunging. Probably even the light committee of this city needs a little more light on the matter.

The cost of living shows no signs of breaking down. The statement is just made that the new process of making artificial diamonds by radium is as expensive as the natural gems.

King Edward is gathering the Kings and Queen of four nations under the roof of Windsor Castle. No doubt he will take advantage of the house party to indulge in a little diplomacy and peace-making.

The Real Estate Owners' Association having declared again in favor of the meter system, a contemporary suggests that the association may be another name for meter manufacturers. "A nigger in the fence" might also suggest that manufacturers of filtration plants are behind a certain agitation. Is this a fair way of discussing a serious municipal question?

THE WEST UNMOVED.

Leader Borden's tour of the west ended last night. As excusing its stolid behavior in the presence of so much wit and eloquence, it may be explained that the west is so big that it doesn't really know when anybody is tickling its feet.

Perhaps you'd moan a bit yourself If now and then a whale. Escaping from a swordfish. Should lash you with his tail. -Philadelphia Ledger.
The fickle ocean wooed the moon. They to a parson hied; The sound you hear is only this: The moaning of the tide. -Lippincott's.

Oh, to this question of much weight, An answer do you crave? It may be that the mermaids wish To have a Marcel wave. -G. W. Husted, Jun., Winthrop, Mass.

MARTIN CHUZZLEWIT.

As the President says, "Chuzzlewit" makes good reading for Americans today. If there be still, for some, a little acid in the taste of "Eden" and its inhabitants, there can be none in Mrs. Camp—who, in her way, and before Bernard's day, was the Divine Sarah—nor in Tom Pinch, who, if a little too good for everyday use, wears well, and holds the affection. And the person who can read of Tom's ride to London on the Salisbury coach, and not feel himself on wheels and see and enjoy the country on the way, is of a dull and unresponsive mold. Of its kind the description is as good as may be found in the whole range of the author's work.

WILLIAM HENRY DRUMMOND.

[Charlotte Becker, in Book News Monthly.] A kindly chronicler of simple folk, in unfrequented ways he found what good. The wise ones glean from human brotherhood. His was the vernal mind, that could evoke A song from each rude phrase the rafters meant spoke; His was the gentle heart that understood The little, timid, wild things of the wood; His was the voice that tears and laughter woke.

And those quaint woodland people of the north, Whose wit and pathos his unfailing art Garnered to charm and cheer a wider mart, We still may hear, though he has journeyed to the forth— Since to their tales he gave, secure from time, A lyric soul of glad, live-pulsed rhyme.

FOR DRESS REFORM.

[Richmond Times-Dispatch.] Now these be the days when the "Vox Populi" notes Street costumes of oddest variety; Incongruous jumbles of shoes, shirts and coats, Not meant for each other's society.

A Panama due at the summer-clothes chest, An ulster as warm as sweet charity— This pair on a party without any vest Strikes me as peculiarly.

A triple-soled boot on an open-work sock, A muffler—that Yuletide comeliness— Enwrapping a negligee chest; it's a shock, So marked is its absolute oddity.

And ditto fur pieces a-twart peck-a-boos, A surcoat thrown over a dimity— Devices like these must compel me to muse On heterogenic sublimity.

A spirit of unity's due to one's boots, One's hat, shirtwaist, coat and perfume; Aye, since we already have got union suits, Let's now have some union costume.

AT A POLICE STATION. [Translated for Tales.] "Pardon me, but could I see the thief that was arrested last night?" a man asked the sergeant.

"Really, sir, you cannot. What communication would you like to make to him?" "Oh, nothing; it is only that as it was my house he robbed, I wanted to ask him how he managed to enter without waking my wife. When I come home late at night I never succeed in doing so."

NO SYSTEMS.

[Somerville Journal.] Parishioner.—Yes, Mr. Churchly, I am troubled greatly with insomnia. Rector.—I shouldn't have thought so, looking at you while I was preaching last Sunday.

PIECING THEM OUT.

[Judge.] Teacher.—Name six animals that live in the tropics. Jimmy.—Two alligators, two big snakes, a condor and another condor.

NOT INTERESTED.

[Baltimore American.] "Do you believe in atavism?" "No, I don't; I'm a hardshell Baptist."

APPRECIATION OF AYLESWORTH.

[Ottawa Journal.] It is intimated by a contemporary that if a few weeks' rest does not cure Mr. Aylesworth of the ear ailment from which he is suffering, he may retire from the Government and public life. It would be a pity. Public life does not offer Mr. Aylesworth emolument as sure and material as his position, and he is a man of politics, he has this one point to his credit: that with little to gain and much to lose he consented to enter the service of the people. His bitterest political foe should be able to wish him better health.

JACOB'S LADDER.

[Hamilton Times.] Is London to be Jacob's ladder.—London Advertiser.
Oh, yes! But that naughty boy Billy Macdon went up and jerked the foot of it away, letting Jacob down rudely.

WELL EQUIPPED.

[Exchange.] Mrs. Naggs.—Mrs. Chatterton certainly has a good nose for scandal. Naggs.—Yes, and a good mouth for putting it in circulation.

THE COMING OF WINTER.

[Somerville Journal.] The pungent smell of burning leaves is in the air, The cool goss rattling down into the hills, You see the work of busy Jack Frost everywhere, And thus it is that winter-time begins. The air is sharp, the open car has disappeared, The daily smoker has to wait or walk, Your wife's heart with a brand new winter dress is cheered, And so the neighbors lose a chance to talk. The winter with its snow and ice is close at hand, But though departing birds are on the wing, Be optimistic now, dear friend, to beat the band, And think that six months hence it will be spring.

HIS POLICY.

[Chicago Record-Herald.] "Why," asked the politician's wife, "don't you insist that the papers shall publish the truth about you?" "My dear," he replied, "I am a thorough believer in the soundness of the policy of letting well enough alone."

PREMIER "C. B." WANTS RADICALS

Demands New Members for the House of Lords.

PITT HELD UP AS AN EXAMPLE

Fears Entertained That Liberals So Promoted Would Become Government Foes.

London, Nov. 3.—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman is being urged by a number of influential followers to continue his crusade against the House of Lords to a reform of the gilded chamber by creating a large number of radical peers, but the premier knows full well from long experience that whenever a Liberal gets into the upper chamber he almost invariably becomes a Tory or a Liberal-Unionist.

It is well known that a number of wealthy Liberals who are always ready to pour their shekels into the party coffers for electioneering purposes are anxious mainly for the sake of their wives and daughters to become members of the House of Lords.

The premier is being urged to follow the example of Pitt and put some brains into the upper chamber, and to confer the peerage with a view of creating a house of hereditary ability, but it gave this reward only to secure the services of the party's respectable, sometimes ignoble persons, and now and then to get rid of importunity.

If the premier does this, the question arises, What sort of intellectual qualities are the majority and the peers likely to hand down to their descendants? The doctrine of heredity appeals to dullness and feebleness quite as much as to force and ability, and it is as representing the heredity of political genius that the House of Lords can defend its existence. The gilded chamber has maintained its position by the force of its conservatism, and it represents an immense variety of social forces penetrating the community and occupying nearly every field of national life. Many of those who consider that the House of Lords has shown its inability to understand and to adapt itself to political conditions do not challenge heredity, the principle in itself.

It is less as a hereditary chamber than as a partisan chamber, but as an element of conservative leadership, and as an executive government that objections are taken to it by a fairly large section of the Liberal party. They say they regard it as a jarring and irreconcilable element in the constitution, and that it is a created party, the possession of one of the branches of the legislature.

They contend that measures are framed in less perfect form than would otherwise be given them in order to conciliate peers that are further marred when they reach the House of Lords, and that this marred perfection is accepted by the House of Commons in order to avoid indefinite delays.

This, they are trying to persuade Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, would all be altered by his creating the example of a Liberal peerage, and that when the Liberals are in power the Government have commanded and have reluctantly used an unwavering majority among the peers, rarely have they reformed except as an escape from revolution.

Mr. Asquith, one of the strong men in the Liberal ministry, has just said that all reasonable disputants would now admit that the peerage is a necessary part of the state, and the nature and limit of its functions are pure questions of political expediency. The predominant view of the Government is that the House of Commons is to be the will of the people, the notion that the House of Lords was or could be a co-ordinate chamber with equal authority, becomes not only a paradox, but an anachronism.

He says the veto of the House of Lords must go where the veto of the crown has already gone, and the change which has been made in enlarging the franchise and in widening the redistribution of the electoral power has shown the absurdity of the peerage, and that the Government is a non-representative chamber.

Mr. Asquith, speaking on this particular point, in behalf of the Premier, absolutely denies that the Government is in any sense revolutionary, but maintains that it is a constitutional scandal, that a leader in the House of Commons of an insignificant and discredited party which had been repudiated and rejected with an emphasis without parallel, should be able, through the agency of the second chamber, to obstruct and determine policy when and how and in what form the wishes of the majority of the people should or should not be carried into effect.

LOOKS LIKE MURDER.

Housekeeper of a New England Farmer Dies Mysteriously.

Woburn, Mass., Nov. 4.—Medical Examiner Harrison G. Blake, of this city, went to Burlington yesterday to investigate the death of Mrs. Sarah Higgins, aged 60 years, whose body was found at the home of George Stubbs, a farmer, for whom she acted as housekeeper. Stubbs told the medical examiner that Mrs. Higgins had been missing for several days, and that Saturday night he went into the cellar to get some potatoes, when he stumbled over her body.

Not liking the idea of remaining in the house with the body during the night, Stubbs says he opened the bulkhead leading from the cellar, and drew the body out into the backyard, where he covered it with some pieces of burlap. There the body remained through Saturday night's storm. Early Sunday Stubbs went to the home of a constable at Burlington Center, and notified him of the case.

Brushes were found on the face and side of the head, but Dr. Blake, the medical examiner, declined to make any statement as to the probable cause until the autopsy, which will be held today.

Consul F. W. Goding, of Newcastle, Australia, writes that American exporters have a rich field in which to extend their operations, as but 16 per cent of the import trade of the Commonwealth is in their hands, while the fact that three-fourths of 1 per cent of the carrying trade from the United States is done by American ships demands the most serious consideration.

TAMED AT LAST

American Trusts May Ask Congress for Federal Control.

Washington, Nov. 2.—President Roosevelt is being urged to call an extra session of Congress to deal with the financial situation. The request comes from an represents the judgment of conservative leaders in the financial world, who have represented the present situation as one that compels action of a character which will affirmatively eradicate all ground for suspicion of American industrial methods. The President has been assured from most reliable sources that there will be no opposition on the part of the great industries of the country to the enactment of laws necessary to carry out his ideas of federal control to the extent to which he has expounded them in his recent utterances.

These assurances are given to avert what is represented as the most dangerous situation which has confronted the country during a long historical period—that is the seemingly growing lack of confidence backed on known irregularities in business methods in some quarters and no sure and speedy means of separating the good from the unsound. To this end it is suggested that the President embody his suggestions on corporate control into succinct recommendations for enactment into law.

TOWNSHIP COUNCILS

WESTMINSTER.

Lambeth, Nov. 1.—Members were all present at last meeting of the Westminster Township Council. Messrs. Gibling and Wright addressed the council re putting two lights on Chelsea Green Bridge. Left with J. Murray with power.

Messrs. Smith and Henderson applied by letter for $20 damages for time lost and damage done to engine by falling through the bridge.

Left with J. Crinklaw with power. The revee read a letter from the manager of the Southwestern Traction Company re animals running at large. It was voted that the revee J. Murray and R. Brown be a committee with power to act as regards Moore's case and Southwestern Traction Company.

The claim of R. McEwen for sheep killed and worried by dogs was ordered to be paid.

Bylaw No. 650 was finally passed, on motion of A. R. W. Burrows, seconded by J. Crinklaw.

It was voted that the clerk put a notice in the London papers that hereafter any animals running at large on the highways without a caretaker will be impounded.

GEO. RIDDELL, Clerk.

For the last three months the tropical island of Jamaica, surrounded by a warm sea, where the evaporation is great, has suffered from a drought as severe as any which visit the inland deserts, far away from any large body of water.

When English capitalists were trying to establish Angola goat raising in South Africa they paid as much as $2500 apiece for goats to induce the Turkish owners of fine flocks to risk the severe penalties of the Sultan's laws forbidding the exportation of Angoras.

INCLOSED IN GLASS

Then Broke a Siege of Fasting by Drinking Cup of Bovril.

A recent issue of the Aberdeen Evening Gazette contains a reference to the feat of endurance the fasting man, M. Victor Beaute, was at, time attempting, and apparently with some good prospect of success. The notice reads: "Although he (M. Beaute) has now been inclosed in his glass prison at Humber's waxwork, George street, for 34 days, M. Victor Beaute is still alive and hearty, although he has subsisted the whole of this time on either soda water or plain water to the extent of about one pint daily, and a couple of cigarettes per day. Throughout the ordeal M. Beaute has been always cheerful, and ever ready to discuss any subject, besides transacting his own correspondence and keeping himself well in touch with the various topics of the world. Naturally he has had some curious experiences since he has been inclosed up in Aberdeen Audiences, which have averaged some 2,800 daily, have different moods according to their varied temperaments. A fairly large proportion of the visitors to the museum have not hesitated to say that the whole thing is a "hoax," and some of their arguments for this opinion, to say the least, amusing. As a matter of fact the mere wasting of a strong healthy man to the extent of over ten stones in four weeks ought to convince the most skeptical among the audience that there is something in it. If this were not required a glance at the photographs would tell the same tale.

The most dangerous part of the whole performance takes place on Monday night at the Northern Hall, when M. Beaute will break his fast in the presence of any who care to attend. He has received over two cwt. of various styles of patent foods, and is merchants for the sake of advertisement. His first meal, however, will take the form of a cup of Bovril and a biscuit. Mr. James Mearns, the local swimming champion, having acceded to M. Beaute's request to be present to administer the stimulant.

KING ATTACKS TIPPING

Edward Starts Crusade to Do Away With Nuisance.

London, Nov. 3.—The King by no means approves of tipping, says a writer in the "World." He and the Queen do their level best to suppress the practice. In fact, he has induced several of his subjects to take steps in this direction.

For instance, Lord Carysfort, who owns some of the best shooting grounds in Ireland, has had a box put in his hall at Glengarry Castle, in which the guests are requested to drop their tips. The keys are kept by the owner of the mansion. This plan is pursued in several other big houses, notably at the Croxteth home of Lord and Lady Sefton and the Wynyard residence of Lord and Lady Londonderry.

Indeed, at these last-mentioned houses, notice appears in each bedroom that no tips are to be given to servants. This, of course, is a heroic remedy, and means higher wages to the entire household.

Celery is one of the principal crops produced in the neighborhood of Canon City, Col. this season. This is due to the fact that the late frosts seriously injured the fruit crop and the growers planted celery. Celery has been raised successfully by a few growers and it has been found to be one of the best-paying crops. One grower realized $1,575 from one and a half acres last year, another $600 on less than an acre. The cost an acre of planting and care is about $250. The demand for the crop has always been greater than the supply.

CHAPTER XXVI. Iphigenia.

It was not only Lady Stormont who had wondered uneasily at Isobel's sudden variations of mood. Conyers had observed them too, and his deep inward discomfort was forced to attribute them in some way to Ashe's presence, though he had to admit that the latter strolled along to all appearance little affected by them. The truth was that Isobel's endurance was reaching the breaking point. Since she had flung her last taunt at Ashe, that meeting under the chapel portico might have been a bad dream for all the reference he made to it—in words at least. But his presence was a veiled menace, his smile, the little ordinary courtesies he tendered, made her tremble. The sword which was hanging over her head must fall and soon; but still he chose to speak who could not reopen the subject—pride and the position she had taken to treat his allegations as wild, incredible flimsies, both rendered it impossible now she was torn between the rocky horror of what must come and a reckless longing for anything even the worst, to happen—at least it would be over.

Basil had lingered a little, talking to a man, as rough-looking as his very primitive abode, but who had a few words of English—as who has not in that tourist-ridden land? They were discussing the weather, and the possibility of further climbing that season; and then, as the man showed a good deal of knowledge of the subject, a scheme which Basil had been revolving of crossing the mountains into Italy and rejoining the Stormont party there—provided always they were safely reached. The peasant promptly pronounced the idea to be madness, which roused Conyers to argue on behalf of his project, till at last, looking round, he found himself apparently left alone. A glance down the rocky track showed him only two figures, winding slowly down. Isobel must have gone further on then—and with Ashe.

DESIGNED BY MARTHA DEAN.

4266—A PRETTY AND SERVICE-ABLE FROCK.

A smart little dress for either school or home wear is here sketched. Navy blue serge was used for modelling, tartan silk being chosen for the collar, cuffs and belt. The long-waisted blouse is constructed on the popular Gibson lines, the wide box-pleats, stitched to yoke depth, adding apparent length to the figure and width to the shoulder. The reverse, which gives a pleasing effect of jauntiness, may be omitted if desired. The skirt is a straight, side-pleated model, attached to the blouse under the belt. The dress is appropriate for modelling in any of the seasonable materials, 3 1/2 yards of 27-inch goods being needed for the 8-year size.

4266—Eight sizes, 5 to 12 years.

The price of this pattern is 10c.

eyes by nature and by training usually served as an admirable mask, but no effort now could keep the triumph out of the look he fixed upon Isobel.

Conyers resolutely averted his eyes. It seemed the one thing left he could do for Isobel. As for Ashe, if he looked at him he might kill him.

Isobel had maintained a cold silence. Her face was as white as the dead blank of the wall behind her, against which her hair showed like the glory encircling the head of the saint throned above the altar. Her eyes did not flinch before Ashe's look, but the position was horrible. Was ever woman in a sorer strait between the man she loved and the man she loathed? What could Basil be thinking of her—if only she could see his face, but he was staring hard at the square of cold gray light framed in the open doorway. She must speak, already the silence seemed to have lasted beyond all thought, the triumph in Ashe's eyes was uncoiled.

"It does not depend on me, Mr. Ashe. You must do what you think best," she said in a cold, contained, almost indifferent tone.

Ashe looked at her.

"You mean that?"

"I do."

"And that is your last word. I have been very patient, but I may not give you another chance to change your mind."

"It might be sheer rashness on her part, or some lingering hope that even yet the worst might not come; but if the girl's attitude enraged Ashe, he had at least the satisfaction that each word spoken was gall and wormwood—the very bitterness of death to the young man standing still and impassive between them."

"I have nothing more to say," said Isobel.

"Then I shall have to go to Sir David, after all," said Ashe with the outward coolness he had preserved all through; "but I think he will expect, as fathers have a way of doing, that his daughter will play Iphigenia to his Agamemnon."

"There's been enough of this," broke in Conyers with a look of roughness—a man on the rack does not use courtly phrases. "Have you anything more you wish to say to this—to Mr. Ashe?"

Isobel. "Not!" "Very well, then, it is time we were getting back to shelter," and without another look at Ashe he drew her in front of him, and followed her out of the chapel.

They had threaded their way through the village again, and were descending the rocky track before Isobel was conscious of her surroundings again. She had dared the lightning; indeed, now, when would the thunderbolt fall? Whether she had a right to it or not, she had surely established some claim to the staunch old motto of her house, "I dare," she may have thought as with leaden feet she trod the stony path, with the frozen mountains around, the boding sky above and Conyers' footfalls behind ringing out through the silence.

Each one seemed planted on her fainting heart. Won she be able to set herself right in his eyes? Ever he able to explain how she had become involved in this hopeless coil? He did not seem inclined to afford her any opportunity. For a time they walked steadily on in silence; now and then a snowflake floated down from the iron sky, and the footstep behind her would quicken a little, as if urging her to hasten—hasten.

Suddenly, as the path turned the shoulder of the hill, a blast swooped down upon them like an eagle from the icy heights, and went shrieking up the valley, letting loose the storm. The sky seemed to descend upon the mountains, from the gorges mists swirled up to meet the clouds, the whole air was one choking flurry of stinging snow. So sharp and fierce was the assault that Isobel, blinded, breathless, bewildered, swayed before the blast and staggered back. Next moment she felt the strong support of Conyers' arm, heard his voice in her ear through the uproar.

"We'll have to make a fight for it; there's no shelter here."

And step by step they battled on against the furious wind through the suffocating smother of snow. It was still early in the afternoon, but so heavy were the leaden clouds, so prodigious the downfall of snow, that what light struggled through was wan and dim, like fading twilight. Had they had darkness to contend with, too, their plight would have been hopeless. As it was, it was desperate enough, for the path in many places was built up with huge round blocks along the edge of the ravine, and a lase step amid the muffling snow would hurl them to the depths of the gorge, where far away down when the writhing mists parted, they could catch a glimpse of the jagged black spikes of the pines.

"Are we in danger?" Isobel asked once in a low voice.

"Well, a slip here would be rather awkward," said Conyers as cheerfully as he could.

With one arm he was supporting Isobel, with the other hand feeling for the path with his stick, which he devoutly wished had been an alpenstock.

"If only you can hold on, we shall soon be past the worst of it," he added. But cold and fatigue were doing their work, and to Isobel at that moment that swift downward slide through the soft yielding snow seemed the easier part—no more questions, no more struggle, Basil with her, not doubting nor wondering any more.

"You're getting tired. I wish you'd let me carry you a bit," Basil's voice seemed to come from a long distance off, and she roused herself to shake off the deepening stupor.

To Be Continued.

URGE KING TO APOSTASY

Dresden, Nov. 1.—The Dresden Journal publishes an open letter to King Frederick Augustus of Saxony, signed by a great number of persons who were formerly in favor of the princess, now Mme. Toseh. The following is an extract from the letter:

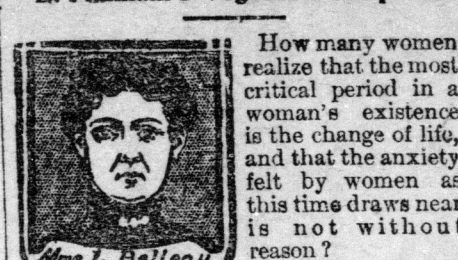

"If the Pope will not break the marriage which counts have annulled, make a sacrifice for your country and people, who are indissolubly bound to you. Enter the Evangelical Church of your country. All obstacles will then disappear, and you will be able to give a Queen to your people. The Prince Augustus, of Saxony, became a Catholic to obtain a crown. Do you now make a sacrifice? Abandon Rome and give your people a mother."

A great sensation prevails throughout Saxony.

A CRITICAL PERIOD

INTELLIGENT WOMEN PREPARE

Dangers and Pain of This Critical Period Avoided by the Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women realize that the most critical period in a woman's existence is the change of life, and that the anxiety felt by women at this time draws near is not without reason?

If the system is in a damaged condition, or she is predisposed to apoplexy of any organ, it is at this time likely to become active and, with a host of nervous irritations, make life a burden.

At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to begin their destructive work. Such warning symptoms as a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, dizziness, headache, drowsiness, palpitation, sounds in the ears, faintness, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and incontinence are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period of change. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the world's greatest remedy for women at this trying period.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound invigorates and strengthens the female organism, and builds up the weakened nervous system as no other medicine can.

Madame Louis Belleau of 17 Ramsay St., Quebec, Que., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Your Vegetable Compound assisted me to pass the change of life with very little sickness and pain, and I am pleased to give it my endorsement, for I feel that it is the medicine which every woman should take. I am the mother of three children, and when I reached the age of fifty, naturally I took more to avoid, and I feel sure that I had not taken your Vegetable Compound I should not have passed the climax safely. I took it and now find that I am in splendid health and strength and feel younger and better than I did ten years ago. Much thanks to your medicine, and may all suffering women learn of its value."

For special advice regarding this important period, women are invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. She is a daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge. Her advice is free and always helpful to ailing women.

GREAT GATHERING OF ROYALTIES

Kings and Princes By Dozen at Windsor During Kaiser's Visit.

London, Nov. 3.—On the occasion of the visit of the German Emperor to England next week there will be a remarkable gathering of the royalties of Europe at Windsor. Four sovereigns and their consorts and three crown princes will be present.

England will be represented by King Edward, Queen Alexandra and the Prince of Wales; Germany, by Emperor William and Empress Augusta Victoria; Norway by King Haakon, Queen Maud and Prince Olaf; Spain by King Alfonso, Queen Victoria Eugenie and the Prince of Asturias. Not since the funeral of Queen Victoria has there been a similar gathering of royalties in England. The Queen of Portugal also will be visiting in this country this month.

The two royal children who are visiting London are the idols of the hour. Prince Oskar, a handsome and conspicuous scion, is a merry youngster, and evidently is enjoying his popularity. The Prince of the Asturias is not old enough to take notice of the sensations he causes when he appears in public.

Another event of the month that will bring together many royalties is the wedding of Don Carlos of Spain and Princess Louise of Orleans, which takes place at Wood Norton, the English home of the Duke of Orleans, the head of the Bourbon-Orleans family. The King and Queen of Spain, the Queen of Portugal and the Duke and Duchess of Aosta will all be present at the ceremony and receptions, for which elaborate arrangements are being made.

WEDDED 100 YEARS AGO

Two Old People Always Lived in Native Village.

Vienna, Nov. 3.—There has just been celebrated in the little village of Isenbogl the anniversary of a wedding which occurred just 100 years ago. All Hungary is interested and the Emperor has asked the authorities to forward him official particulars so he can personally congratulate the couple.

The long-wedded couple are named Szathmari. The husband is 120 years old and his wife 118. They have hundreds of descendants in and around the village.

A score of years ago there was a celebration in honor of the man's 100th birthday, and application was made to the Hungarian Government for a pension. It was granted after the records of the village had been examined and the man's age verified. Four years later the woman also was granted a pension.

The old people live in a modest cottage and are well looked after by relatives. They are nearly blind and deaf, and sleep nearly all the time. The man, however, still enjoys his pipe and a glass of wine, and neither is bedridden.

It is a strange fact that in all their years they have never left the village and know nothing of the great world outside of Isenbogl. They were both born there and have lived continuously a quiet and peaceful life.

The celebration of their 100th wedding day was participated in by the entire village, which is proud of having established without any doubt, a Trifles Make Perfection But Perfection Is No Trifle.

It is only by the most careful attention to every trifling detail in the milling of "FIVE ROSES" FLOUR that we have been able to bring this brand up to its present state of perfection, and are able to maintain it.

Every single bushel of grain which enters our mills, every single bag and barrel of flour which leaves them is tested and re-tested at every stage of the milling, in order to insure the absolute purity and uniformity for which "FIVE ROSES" FLOUR is noted the world over.

This attention to trifles is costly, but it enables us to maintain a reputation for perfection, which is no trifle, and users of "FIVE ROSES" can rely upon getting the "flour of perfect quality" for all household uses.

There are fourteen inter-colonial electric lines centering at Indianapolis, Ind. These operate 400 cars daily, and during the year they transported 5,000,000 persons into and out of the city. These lines connect with St. Louis, Cincinnati, Dayton, Toledo, Detroit, Cleveland and Erie, and at an early date Pittsburgh will be included in the list.

LACK OF WATER HAMPERS MINERS

Two Big Concerns Control Most of Available Supply in Dawson District

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 3.—"The Yukon council has asked Commissioner Henderson to make representations to the minister of the interior in the direction of securing relief in regard to the water supply in behalf of individual claim owners in Dawson district," said Dr. J. O. Lachapelle, Vancouver, on his way to Montreal from the north. "We are face to face with a mining situation anything but favorable to the country as a whole, the serious problem created by the possession by a large company of two principal sources of water supply."

"Water, and nothing but water, is the prime requisite in working placer ground. Under existing circumstances the individual claim owners are virtually in the hands of, shall I say at the mercy of, the Guggenheims. While appreciating the splendid enterprise of the New Yorkers, the large expenditures they are making, and sincerely hoping to see them make handsome returns on their investment, I believe that the question of other vested rights should not be lost sight of."

"Controlling as they do the two most available sources of water supply, grave danger threatens the individual claim owners. Wherein lies the remedy? Relief from the present intolerable situation will be heartily welcomed by the entire population in the district. The problem is a complex one, requiring careful consideration by the authorities. Times are very quiet in the north. All the mines have suspended operations for the winter, except a few properties on Sulphur, Quartz and Black Hill creeks. The former glory of Dawson has departed. It has no semblance of its former self of the good old days."

"Unlike in the earlier days, owing to lack of employment miners and laborers now go outside for the winter. All in all, the immediate outlook is not too encouraging. During the past season between 1,500 and 2,000 men were employed by the large mining companies principally in improving the dredging operations there is a great reduction in the force of laborers employed, and they work only four or five months in the year."

There is now in use on the Union Pacific railway a motor weed-burner which, with its crew of three men, does the work of 300. The machine is propelled usually at the rate of three miles an hour, and it destroys from 20 to 25 miles of weeds a day.

The origin of the Great Banks of Newfoundland is said to have been in the boulders carried down by icebergs. The bank is 600 miles long and 120 broad.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S TRADE EXPANDS

Demand for Dominion's Pork and Hams Is Growing in Cape Town.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—The trade returns of Newfoundland have been received covering the fiscal year, ending June 30, 1907. They show total imports of $10,426,040, on which duties to the amount of $2,554,056 were collected. Exports amounted to $12,101,766. This is an increase of $1,756 in imports and an increase of $34,070 in duty and of $14,805 in exports.

Newfoundland's imports from Canada amounted to $3,669,098, an increase of $147,159 over the previous year. Imports from the United States, declined $151,333 during the same period. Exports to Canada for the year were $1,611,450, a decrease of $165,689, as compared with 1906.

In a report to the trade and commerce department, Mr. Chesley, trade commissioner at Cape Town, South Africa, states that there is an active demand in Cape Colony for Canadian hams and bacon, which "have an excellent reputation in the South African market." The reports proceed: "Systematic effort on the part of Canadian exporters should result in an increase in the export of pork products to South Africa. The imports into Cape Colony for six months, ending June, 1907, were 1,610,519 pounds, value $57,608, an increase of 296,488 pounds, value $13,336, compared with the corresponding period of 1906. During the year 1906, Canada exported $7,804 worth of bacon to Cape Colony."

IN THE MATTER OF TEACHERS' SALARIES

Correspondent Analyses Salary Increases, and Says Justice Has Not Been Done

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I am glad to see from the letters in your columns that some of the more intelligent members of the general public are taking an interest in the question of teachers' salaries, and advocating a stronger sense of justice in dealing with the women teachers. But the great majority of this same general public are still in the wonderful ignorance of the true state of affairs. I was walking with one of our bright young teachers a short time ago, when she was met by a friend who immediately began to congratulate her on the generosity of the board. "Thank you," she said. "Do you know how much their recent action has added to my salary of next year?" "No," said her friend, "but I know that for once they have done the decent thing." "Well," was the reply, "I shall have exactly ten dollars more to spend in 1908 than I would have if they had refused to grant any increase." This information was such an eye-opener that I determined to look into the matter further, and I find that there are about forty woman teacher in the public schools, with the single exception of the supervisor of art was granted a larger increase than $50. In all 107 women teachers receive $2,997.50, or an average of $27.73. The staff includes seven men, or one-seventh of the number of women, yet to these seventeen was given $3,475, or an average of more than $200. Every man's share is at least $100, and some as high as $350. Is there any justice in this great discrepancy, or is it permitted to an ordinary ratepayer to inquire on what principle the board of education proportions those incomes? Does the question of the greatest good to the greatest number enter into it at all, or does the board consider the interest of the great mass of the pupils, six-sevenths of the number of women, yet to these seventeen was given $3,475, or an average of more than $200. Every man's share is at least $100, and some as high as $350. Then there is the matter of length of service. It was publicly reported recently that the inspector stated that long service was not necessarily efficient service. If it is not, whose fault is it? The inspector presents an annual report on the efficiency of the staff, and he ranks those under his supervision as on the whole second to none in Ontario. Certainly the results of the work in the schools where the teachers in training are placed are of the highest quality. It is a favorable comparison with others everywhere. If an inefficient or unfaithful teacher can point to long service, either the inspector or the board is at fault, and the whole staff should not suffer either in reputation or in pocket. But it is curious that in the effort to fill the positions in the schools where the teachers in training are placed are of the highest quality. It is a favorable comparison with others everywhere. Locals Fail to Score on Dundas The Valley Team Win By 21--0

London Loses in Game Played in a Sea of Mud at Tecumseh Park

Anybody who knows anything about local football will tell you that when a visiting team comes in a special train there is nothing doing for the locals. At all events it has proved that way this season.

Hamilton traveled here on special rushions and trimmed the locals twenty ways. Saturday Dundas hove in in the same manner. Score, 21 to 0 in favor of the visitors.

The grounds were in frightful shape, and before the boys had been at it for five minutes they resembled a lot of coal miners. In spite of the water stood six inches deep, and whenever a pair of players tumbled into one of these holes there was a deep splash.

Dundas gave the prettiest exhibition of football, notwithstanding the bad grounds and slippery ball, that has been seen here this season. Fumbles were frequent on both sides, but the valley aggregation hung on to the pigskin better than did their opponents, and were surer at all times.

Team work played no little part in the defeat administered to London's warriors. The Dundas boys work like a piece of clock-work, and each man seemed to know just what he was to do before the signals were given.

The local team showed bad effects of the hammering they had got in the Toronto game, and were not themselves at all. Besides there were two changes in the line-up which could not have helped London's cause any to say the least.

Dundas, on the other hand, appeared to be as fresh as a lot of pansies just out to catch the shower.

There wasn't a whole lot of star performances on either side of the argument, although Ed and Spry did some clever tackling. Nelson, for Dundas, was strong as was also Gillespie and Binkley.

Always on Defensive. The game itself was a veritable walk-away for the visiting crowd and London was on the defensive nearly all the time.

Dundas had evidently had previous experience in handling slippery balls, for it was not often that one of the valley crowd made a fumble. Long runs were rather numerous when the ground was taken into consideration, but there was little of a sensational nature throughout the contest, and everybody appeared glad when it was all over.

Dundas secured the ball on an offside play at the kick-off, and eventually worked it down to London's twenty-yard mark. London made a wild pass which went over their own goal line and Cameron fell on it for a touch-down. Play had been going pretty fine minutes. Gillespie converted.

Quarter time score—London, 0; Dundas, 6.

Dundas scored two rouges in the second quarter by dint of some lucky kicking and some bad fumbling on London's part. At half time the score stood, 8--0.

In the second half Nelson ran twenty yards. Dundas kicked for twenty-five more, and got the ball on a fumble. Craig then went around the end for a touch-down. Gillespie converted. Score 14--0.

The Scoring. After some exchange kicks the last time away Nelson booted the pigskin over from London's thirty-yard line and Hague was brought down for a rouge.

Dundas soon worked the ball back to London territory after the kick-out.

SPORTING GOSSIP

BY SOUTHPAW

In manner or another the writer intentionally stepped upon the horns of the "Champion" Horton hockey team, and great has been the howl set up because of the incident. We had intended to drop the matter as of no consequence, but now that it has been put up to us, as it were, we could never dream of lying down until all of our ammunition has been exhausted. An official of the Hortons has taken the pains to inform the writer that if he mentioned the Hortons in other but a respectful voice again the offending party would "get something."

Having always been of a curious nature, we have decided to learn what is coming.

If they have a grievance why don't they come out like true sportsmen and let people know what all the kick is about.

These columns are still open for an argument of any kind, but doubtless the Hortons would sooner come at things in their own way—with hockey sticks.

Local sportsmen remind one of the man who told his son not to go near the water until he learned how to swim.

The people demand a winning football team or else they won't patronize it, but they won't let their sons play on a losing team for fear of being ridiculed.

London will never have a winning team until enough players turn out to make up two teams.

It looks now as though the Hamilton Cubs and Dundas would be tied for first honors in the intermediate series of the Interprovincial Rugby and Ryecroft was sent over for another touch-down. Gillespie failed to convert.

Final score—21 to 0. The teams lined up as follows:—London—Fullback, Hague; quarter, Spry, Rae, Craig; scrimmage, Brown, Bole, Jackson; backs, Rowlands, McEwen, Baker; wings, J. McColl, Bice, Sage, Watson. Dundas—Fullback, Brady; quarter, Cameron, Norton; scrimmage, Smith, Ferguson, Gillespie; backs, Binkley, Nelson, Craig, Martin; wings, Lee, Wilson, Raycroft, Mason. Referee—Watson.

WILL DEMAND SAME CONDITIONS

If Gans Meets Nelson Again Will Require 75 Per Cent. Win or Lose.

At the opening of Joe Gans' Goldfield Hotel in Baltimore recently the lightweight titleholder took the opportunity to state again that he was not to be considered as a ring factor in the future. He qualified his statement, however, by saying that the only opponent who could tempt him to re-enter the roped arena would be Battling Nelson. Speaking of his plans he said:

"If, however, I should ever again meet Nelson, I want exactly the conditions myself that were made for Nelson at Goldfield—that is, 75 per cent all around.

"Various reports are being circulated as to the amount of the purses offered for such a fight, but the fact remains that the 'Frisco promoters only offer us a percentage basis and no guaranteed purse. Their offer is 60 per cent of the gross receipts, 20 per cent of which is to go to the winner and 40 per cent to the loser." This, in all probability, means that there will be no Gans-Baldwin fight which has been predicted.

WESTON AHEAD OF RECORD

Reaches Andover on Walk From Portland to Chicago.

Andover, Conn., Nov. 4.—After spending Sunday and part of two nights here getting needed rest and sleep, Edward Payson Weston, who is walking from Portland, Me., to Chicago, left Andover at 12:05 a.m. with Hartford as his immediate objective point, a city he expects to reach about 5 o'clock this morning.

He is in fine condition except for a slight cold, the result of being out in the rain Saturday. Weston is about four hours ahead of his record of 40 years ago.

Union. It goes without saying that the local sports would sooner see the Valley boys get the title than Hamilton.

Kindly deposit flowers at the side-door.

Dundas ought to beat Hamilton every day in the week without half trying. They are certainly the best-organized team that has been seen here for a long time.

Will it be much worse or much better next Saturday? It couldn't be much worse.

Fumbles were excusable Saturday. Reminded one of trying to catch the greased pig.

That bout was more of a swimming match than anything else.

Everybody wished they were on the water wagon when the deluge came. There was nothing dry about Dundas' visit at all events.

Two more games, then hockey. London football is a trifle better than the hockey at all events. Still one can't tell. The Hortons are going to "show" us.

Every time "big bear" Sage went down everything else was blotted out with water.

There were two hundred and fifty people present, chiefly outsiders.

We have only one thing now to be thankful for—it will soon be over with.

JACK JOHNSON DEFEATS FLYNN

San Francisco, Nov. 2.—James Flynn, a Colorado fireman, was knocked out today at Colma in the 11th round of a 45-round fight by John Johnson, colored heavyweight, with a straight right to the jaw. It took four minutes to restore Flynn.

Throughout the contest Johnson toyed with his antagonist and only once did he suffer a telling blow. Efforts will be made at once to match Johnson and Tommy Burns for the world's heavyweight championship.

The attendance was the largest at the Colma arena since the Burns-Squires fight several months ago.

There was considerable betting at the ringside, the odds varying from 10 to 5, and 10 to 6, with Johnson the favorite. Johnson's weight was announced as 194 pounds and Flynn's as 176 pounds.

"Denver" Martin and "Spice" Kennedy, of Kansas City, began a ten-round preliminary fight, but in the sixth round Martin was given the decision. The negro completely outclassed his white antagonist.

Soccer Fans Dreaming Of Better Days Coming

What will a dozen years bring forth in sport? The soccer men say they know. They have visions of great things which are about to come to pass. Visions of great amphitheatres which will hold their tens of thousands. Visions of strongly entrenched professional soccer leagues, as great in soccer, perhaps, as the present major leagues of baseball. Visions of baseball, summer sport, and association football, spring and fall entertainment, going hand in hand.

It is a part of the dream of the soccer men that some day they will be affiliated with the baseball leagues for the common good. The two sports do not clash. In fact, soccer rather fills a long-felt want and clashes with no other sport.

It is argued by some that soccer football would supplant rugby football. It would not. Soccer rather goes to a college football game, and how many people would you find who are directly interested in one of the contestants, or the college or school under the colors of which one team is playing? The men who go to see the spectacle, as to a baseball game, there is not 1 per cent in the total attendance.

When baseball is done, the baseball fan figuratively goes to his winter sleep. Like the ground-hog, until he is roused by the roar of the base hit. He interests himself not at all in football, which is a game for a class, just as golf is a game for the blue bloods and croquet for maiden ladies.

Dan Patch Is Not All In Champion Pacer Went Mile in 2:01

It Is Doubtful if He Will Ev. Beat His Mark of 1:55.

Dan Patch, the champion of champion pacers, proved the past week that the critics were at sea when they wrote a few weeks ago that he was "all in."

At City Park track, New Orleans, Dan paced a mile in 2:01, one of the fastest ever stepped south of Memphis. The mile closed Dan's campaign for the season, and although he did not lower his remarkable record of 1:55, he made number of notable attempts and probably came nearer breaking the record than any other pacer will for some time to come. It is now an almost assured fact that

Dan will never secure a lower record than his 1:55, and it is not to be expected of him, and it will no doubt be a long time before any other side-wheeler will come within seconds of it.

Dan Patch has proven himself the most wonderful pacer ever campaigned, and if he is permanently retired at the end of the season, it will not be necessary to refresh the minds of the racing public as to his racing deeds, for he has made a name for himself that has caused Dan Patch to become a household word.

That a good trotter is a valuable possession is shown by the recent refusal of $36,000 for the great trotting colt, General Watts, that lowered the record this fall to 2:08 1/2 for 3-year-olds. General Watts may never race again as it is said to be the intention of his owner, Gen. Watts, to retire him to the stud.

Bill Evans, the umpire, with the imprint of a pop bottle on his right parietal, has been married. Bill figured that a man who could survive pop bottles has no need for fear of the rolling pin.

The minor leagues, which claim to be the backbone of baseball, have decided that a backbone without a body to support would be any more of a success than a body without a backbone.

The Arkansas turfman R. R. Rice has sent the veteran W. B. Gates to San Francisco, to be raced again this year. Some way or other that name of Gates keeps on bobbing up in the turf line.

The forward pass makes the game not football at all these days. The list of casualties hasn't furnished half the headlines that the regular game would.

That medal was a watch charm, made of solid gold, with a raised surface on one side to represent half of a baseball and on the surface was a C—the Chicago monogram. In the center of the C is a big diamond, and around the sides are baseball bats, the implements with which victory was won. The Cubs think the medal is the nearest design they have seen, and their idea is to have the same kind made this year, only a little larger, to be attached to the bottom of the other charm by a gold link.

CANADIAN SOO HOCKEY

Team Practically Secured for This Season.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 2.—From present appearances, the personnel of the Canadian Soo hockey team is nearing completion, and indications are that the runners-up of last year will put one of the strongest teams on the ice this winter that has yet appeared in the International League. The officials state that contracts with Lehnman, Schaefer, Marks, DeGray and Lalonde have already been signed, and that three other men are prepared to come into the field, their contracts being expected daily.

While the officials of the club are not prepared to announce their names, pretty strong street rumor has it that these men will be chosen from Leader, from Brandon; Walsh, the speedy rover from Kingston; Lorne Campbell, who, it is said, will captain the team, and Gaul, who is slated for right wing.

NEW MANAGER TO BE SIGNED SOON

Joe Kelley's Successor To Be Selected By the Toronto Club.

Toronto, Nov. 4.—There is little doubt that Joe Kelley will accept the offer of the Boston Nationals of $7,000 a year for three years. Toronto can't afford the price, and the draft will likely go into effect pretty soon.

Joe will have a hard task in Boston, as big league teams are difficult to strengthen. Those clubs that have the good players refuse to let go, and it is only by constant experimenting that a tail-end team can be improved.

The owners of the Toronto club are alive to the situation, and will endeavor to secure a suitable successor to Joe Kelley, though he'll be hard to find. He'll be a big leaguer, and likely a playing manager. He will be signed at an early date.

LITTLE JAP DARES HEAVYWEIGHT

The Toronto Star has received the following challenge:

Sporting Editor Star: As I am about to start Jiu-Jitsu classes in this city in the near future, and wish to demonstrate the superiority of the Japanese system of offence and defence, I hereby challenge A. Day, who I saw win in the heavy-weight boxing class at the Mutual Street Rink Thursday night. My weight is 120 pounds, and my height 5 feet 4 inches, which will give Day an advantage of about one foot in height and 100 pounds in weight.

I will further allow him the privilege of hitting, kicking, or attacking any part of my body, providing the referee allows me to use all holds and tricks used in Jiu-Jitsu. If these conditions are allowable I will undertake to have him helpless within the time allowed for one round, or three minutes.

As an exhibition I will undertake to throw any two of the boxers who took part last night, together, at the same time, a fall to be counted a fall when a man is thrown to the floor, on his face, hands, or side.

"It is a rule to which good lawyers usually adhere," says a Philadelphia attorney, "never to tell more than one knows. There was an instance in England, not many years ago, wherein a lawyer carried the rule to the extreme.

"One of the agents in a Midland Reversion Court objected to a person whose name was on the register on the ground that he was dead. The revision attorney declined to accept the assurance, however, and demanded conclusive testimony on the point.

"The agent on the other side arose and gave corroborative evidence as to the decease of the man in question.

"But, sir, how do you know the man's dead?" demanded the barrister.

"Well," was the reply, "I don't know. 'As I suspected,' returned the barrister. 'You don't know whether he's dead or not.'"

"Whereupon the witness coolly continued: 'I was saying, sir, that I don't know whether he is dead or not, but I do know this: he buried himself about a month ago on suspicion.'—Harper's Weekly.

Garrison A. C. Trying to Bring Coley and Simpson Together

Want Them in a Five-Mile Race—Winner to Meet Tom Longboat.

Toronto, Nov. 4.—Now that the Irish-Canadians have decided to withhold Tom Coley from the Montreal 15-mile team, an attempt is being made to bring the doughty Englishman and Fred Simpson, the Peterboro Indian, who ran second to Coley in the Herald race at Hamilton, together at five miles at the C. A. A. U. meet at the Armories next Saturday night, the winner to meet Tom Longboat later on at 10 miles. Coley is willing, and all that is necessary for Simpson to do is to get a crack at Longboat is to beat Coley here, Coley is dead anxious to get a crack at his redskin team-mate, and hails with joy any chance to lead up to such a race.

Simpson comes from the Chippewa tribe on a reserve near Peterboro. He is 26 years old, stands 5 feet 11 inches, and weighs 145 pounds. His first appearance as a distance runner was at Peterboro last fall, when he finished third in the Examiner road race. On Dominion Day last he won a 10-mile race at Lindsay, covering the distance in about an hour over very muddy roads during a rainstorm. He has been training for the Herald race since last July, and many Peterboro people believed that he would win. He covered the last part of the journey faster than Coley, as he was four minutes behind him at the 15-mile post and only 3 minutes and 20 seconds at the finish. Simpson claims that he will beat Longboat the first time the two meet.

Simpson might have covered the last five miles faster than "Hercules" Coley, but if he had been close enough to be dangerous Coley would have shown him some real galloping. There was a whole lot of money burned up on Simpson Down around Peterboro they thought he was a real good and they made every preparation for a killing. He has been under cover all summer, and he was thought so well of that two weeks ago two well-known 10-mile runners were brought to Peterboro to try him out. They ran 10 miles apiece. Simpson beat the first man, and the second barely beat the Indian out. The time as better than Sammy Mello's record.

Latest Gossip of the Ring

Abe Attell, the feather-weight champion, who disposed of Freddie Weeks, the little champion of Cripple Creek, Col., so easily in four rounds at Los Angeles, Cal., last week, has consented to fight the winner of the twenty-round bout between Owen Moran, the English boxer, and Frankie Neil, the California feather-weight, which is to be fought before the California A. C., of San Francisco, on Nov. 26. Since making this declaration Attell is being sought after by all the fight club managers in California, who are offering him all kinds of inducements to meet the winner at their clubs the second week in December.

Jimmy Corbett, of the Colma (Cal.) A. C., and Tom McCarey, of the Pacific A. C., of Los Angeles, have the best chance of getting the fight.

Hogan to Referee This Battle. Malachy Hogan, of Chicago, who has become the big referee of the West since George Siler's retirement from the game, has been selected to referee the fifteen-round battle between Packy McFarland and "Kid" Harman, the Chicago lightweights, which comes off at Davenport, Ia., on the night of November 21.

Harry Lewis to Fight Gardner. Harry Lewis and Jimmy Gardner, who have been offered many a good incentive to box, have finally been matched. Jack McGuigan, manager of the Nations out C. Philadelphia, has signed the men to meet in a six-round bout before his club of Saturday evening, Nov. 30.

Fitzgerald and Gardner Matched. Another bout which Gardner will engage in will be on the ten rounds with Willie Fitzgerald, the fighting harp, at Terre Haute, Ind., on Thanksgiving-Day afternoon. They will battle at catch weights. This will be their third meeting, Gardner having knocked out Fitzgerald in five rounds at Butte, Mont., July 22, 1904, while a year later they battled for six rounds in Philadelphia with honors even.

HIS TITLE OF JUDGE. Judge George Grey, of Delaware, at the recent dinner of the Farmers' Club at Senator Cameron's farm, near Lancaster Pa., talked of the former American fondness for titles.

"It is a fondness that has now almost disappeared," said Judge Grey. "We have become a more cultivated people, and we have learned to value titles at their real worth."

"But in the past it was different. Take my own title, the title of judge, for instance. I was traveling in the country in my youth, and one day at a hotel table there sat beside me a man whom every body addressed as 'Judge.'"

"When the judge got up and went away I said to my neighbor on the other side: 'Is that gentleman a United States judge or a local judge?'"

"He's a local judge, sir," was the reply. "He was judge of a horse race last week."—Washington Star.

Must Pay Fare Before Entering This Car

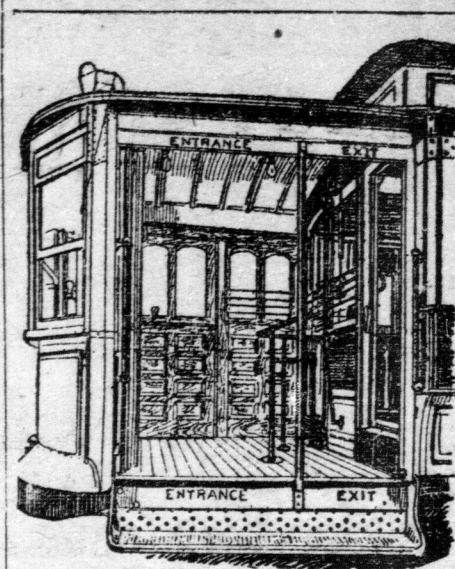

New York Sun: Here is a picture of the rear platform of one of the new cars, known as the Montreal type, which are to be put into service on the Fourth and Madison avenue surface lines early in December. The company has ordered 155 of these cars, and the builders have promised to deliver them before the end of next month.

The principal features of the car are that separate entrances are provided for the passengers boarding and leaving the car, and that the fare is paid to the conductor on entering the car, thus doing away with the inconvenience caused when a car is crowded by the conductor pushing his way through the car to collect fares.

If the experiment with the Montreal car should prove a success the company intends to equip all the surface lines with this type. But it was clear yesterday by President Theodore P. Shonts of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company that no attempt will be made to run the cars on congested thoroughfares, such as the lower part of Broadway, for instance, until proper regulations for vehicular traffic have been made by the city.

The new car is about 48 feet long over all, or nearly 11 feet longer than the present standard closed car; the car body is 32 feet long, or four feet longer than the present standard equipment. The platforms are 7½ feet long and vestibuled. Passengers may leave the car at either end, but entrance is restricted to the rear platform.

Platform of the Montreal Car.

to the rear platform, which is so arranged that passengers who are boarding the car do not come into collision with those who are alighting; each stream has a free course, a swinging door for entrance and a sliding door for exit.

The conductor stands between the doors and behind a railing which extends to the edge of the running board and separates the passengers who are getting on from those who are getting off. No one is allowed to enter the car through the exit door.

Passengers who are boarding the car give the conductor their fare and pass on into the car. The platform will hold more than twenty people, and as soon as all the passengers have stepped upon it the conductor gives the signal to the motorman and the car proceeds. All those who are standing on the platform when the car starts will enter the car while it is traversing the next block, in order that it may be free from obstructions and ready to receive passengers at every stop no one will be allowed to stand on the rear platform.

Each of the new cars cost $7,200, which is an increase of more than 50 per cent over the cost of the present standard closed car. Besides this there has been an additional expenditure of $300,000, including the cost of the curves to accommodate the longer cars and the increased size of the new car barn which is being erected at One Hundred and Forty-Sixth street and Lenox avenue.

The new cars will seat thirty-six people, and it is proposed, if the city will co-operate in the effort to make them a success, to limit their carrying capacity to sixty-five people.

SUNK IN BOSTON HARBOR

Steamer City of Birmingham Goes Down in Fifteen Minutes.

Boston, Nov. 4.—The steamer City of Birmingham, of the Ocean Steamship Company, struck a ledge in the harbor early today while bound out for Savannah and sank in ten fathoms of water about two miles below her dock. The crew escaped.

The steamer, having made a special trip north, with a cargo of cotton, started about 1:30 a.m. for the south. At a slight bend, where the channel enters what is known as the Middle Ground, the Birmingham hit an obstruction. She backed off into deep water, but before the full character of her damage was known, her engine room was flooded and fifteen minutes after striking she sank. Her crew had no difficulty in getting off in the steamer's boats, and rowing the two miles back to the dock. The tide was four hours' ebb, and when the steamer backed off into deep water the current swung her stern round so that she was headed almost back to the dock. She lies with her upper deck above water, about half a mile from the lower end of the Castle Island. The steamer probably can be saved.

VICTIMS OF GAS

Mother, Son and Pet Dog Perish in a New York Flat.

New York, Nov. 4.—Abram Cohen, 25 years old, and his mother, Mrs. Basia Cohen, 60 years old, moved into Columbia street on Oct. 10 last, after Oct. 24 neither of them was seen by other tenants in the building.

Several tenants who had seen a pet dog and a cat in the Cohen rooms missed them and they had detected the odor of gas in a hallway, near the Cohen rooms. They called in the police last night and the flat was opened. Abram Cohen was dead on the floor. His mother was dead in her bed. In a kitchen, a gas was flowing from a jet in the kitchen.

ASSETS LOOK BETTER

The York Loan Mortgages Earn High Interest Rates.

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 2.—Mr. Hetherington, accountant of the National Trust Company, the liquidator, furnished this list of the assets of the York County Loan's Savings Company: Real estate, $900,000; mortgages, $113,832.18; loans on shares, $102,000; stocks and bonds, $50,000; material, $2,500; besides a small amount of cash. The land held by the City Realty Company is included in the real estate, and the stock in the Toronto Life Insurance Company, the Southern Light and Power Company, and the Light Plane Company, is included in the "Stocks and Bonds."

Mr. Hetherington says that the mortgages have turned out very satisfactorily. The interest charges, he says, is very remunerative, six or seven per cent being the usual rate. Stocks and bonds are also better than anticipated, and $5,000 have been received on the Toronto Life after the original estimate placed the stock at $422,500.

The Liszt Piano Company, says Mr. Scott, had realized about 80 per cent of its face value of $65,000, over $50,000 being realized.

DOUGS AT FORT WILLIAM

Fanatics Seeking Paradise Will Postpone Hunt 'Till Spring.

Fort William, Nov. 3.—The Doukhobor pilgrims were the center of interest in the city today. The band here now numbers 78, and they are all quartered in one house on one of the principal streets. This morning eighteen children who are in the party paraded the principal streets, chanting their songs of praise. The older members held a meeting on the main street at noon, and one of their numbers addressed a large crowd of citizens in English for over two hours. His views were largely of the Socialistic variety, although he made several startling statements, which were somewhat original, among them being: "Newspapers do not tell the truth; jails should be abolished; there should not be a hobby; animals should not be killed; food, used as beasts of burden; all forms of government should be done away with, and most preachers are fast-foods."

BREAKS BADLY AT OPENING

Wall Street Still Tense But the Situation Is Gradually Improving

New York, Nov. 4.—The general financial situation was still tense this morning, but the down-town banks and trust companies felt confident that conditions were well under control. The raising of the Bank of England discount rate to six per cent at a special meeting of the board of governors today was not unexpected by those familiar with conditions in Europe, although it was hoped in some quarters that this action of the governors would not be taken until the regular meeting on Thursday. The fact that $2,000,000 in gold was purchased in the open market in London during the morning for export to America probably hastened the action of the bank. This brings the total gold engagement up above $30,000,000, of which about $7,000,000 will arrive on Wednesday, and $10,000,000 on Friday.

New York, Nov. 4.—Wall street opening prices of stock broke badly, Canadian Pacific falling an extreme 3½, Union Pacific 3¼ on a range of simultaneous quotations 1½ points apart, and the Hill country, Southern Pacific, Reading, Anaconda and American Smelting 2 to 2½. Most of the prominent railroad and industrial stocks were down between 1 and 2 points. The market steadied almost immediately at some recovery, and became quieter.

New York, Nov. 4.—The stock market opened very weak. Amal. Copper, 47½; Am. Smelting, 65½; American Loco., 38½; Anaconda, 32; Atchafson, 73½; B. and O., 79; Brooklyn Transit, 29; Canadian Pacific, 146½; Erie, 17½; Gt. Nor. (preferred), 109; Louisville, 93; Mo. Pacific, 51; N. Y. C., 94; Nor. Pacific, 105; Pennsylvania, 103½; ex-dividend; Reading, 73½; Rock Island, 124½; St. Paul, 99½; Sugar, 100; Southern Pacific, 64½; Union Pacific, 106½ and 107; U.S. Steel, 22½; U.S. Steel, preferred, 82½.

New York, Nov. 4.—The Trust Company of America and the Lincoln Trust Company opened their business as usual at 10 o'clock this morning. This followed conferences Saturday and yesterday at the home of J. P. Morgan concerning the general financial condition and the desirability of relieving the heavy strain caused by runs on these two trust companies during the past ten days. When the Trust Company of America opened this morning 35 persons were in line, a considerable drop from the number on hand during the earlier days of the run.

The opening of both institutions brought a distinct feeling of relief, as it was taken as indicating that the conferences held last night had exerted beneficial effects. During the conferences the boards of directors of the two trust companies were in session while a number of financiers were assembled at Mr. Morgan's house, both bodies being in touch with each other. A committee of experts appointed on Saturday had gone over the affairs of the Trust Company of America, and had pronounced it solvent. This, with the re-opening at the usual hour this morning, produced a general feeling of relief. At the stock exchange the opening showed early declines, followed by a rally, and then a running off of prices.

LOCAL MARKET.

London, Nov. 4.—With the exception of live hogs, there was not much other business transacted, and the supply of hay and oats was small. Twelve loads of hay were marketed, for which there was a fair demand. The price for the same was $18.50 per ton, only one load selling at the latter figure.

One load of raw wool sold at $8 per ton. A consignment of loads of oats sold at $1.60 to $1.65 per cwt.

Mr. J. H. Hargrave purchased a deckload of live hogs at 10c per cwt for select; it is stated that $5.75 per cwt is being offered at the small shipping points for delivery this week, which will mean a reduction in prices here. The market is in bad shape, as the buyers and packers report, and unless things brighten up there will no doubt be a further decline in prices.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Toronto, Oct. 4.—Ontario wheat is quoted at $1.00 to $1.05 at outside points. Prices are little more than nominal owing to the small trade. Winnipeg is off again, and local firms are offering No. 1 northern at $1.10. Barley holds steady. No. 1 being quoted at $1.00 to $1.05. Samples of Ontario barley of remarkably fine quality are being shown by local traders, and afford a striking contrast when compared with the hybrid stuff that goes by the name of Manitoba barley. Ontario-grown barley grading 3 lbs to the bushel is not unusual, and in addition the color is generally above fault. The general quietness of trade is reflected on the call of the board of trade. Baling prices are:

THANKSGIVING AT THE POT
Dinner Under Auspices of Ladies' of Christ Church.

A Thanksgiving dinner, under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild of Christ Church, Port Stanley, was held at Hotel Loney, and was a decided success. There was a large number of people present from the village and surrounding country. Mr. Loney kindly gave the use of his house gratis, and spared no effort to make the occasion thoroughly enjoyable.

Miss Kate Ellison had charge of the musical programme, which was worth another admission fee. Miss May Goodhue's violin solos were rendered with a skill that has not been excelled by anyone at the various entertainments held in the village for years. Her first number was "Life Let Us Cherish" (An Air) by Farmer, and being encased she played "Kinawak" by Wieniawski. This piece was executed with particularly good style and expression. The Scotch airs and imitation of Highland bag pipes called forth a vigorous encore.

John Strathedie, of Toronto, is a natural comedian and entertainer, and his vocal and instrumental selections were a treat.

Miss Eva Farr's skillful manipulation of the piano requires no comment. Master Milton Berry's clear notes and sweet voice surprised the audience.

William R. Woodliff, in his African dialect and make-up, was very amusing. Miss Shepherd sang "The Ship I Love," in excellent voice, which was much appreciated by the audience.

The choir was ably filled by Henry Boon of St. Thomas. The proceeds amounted to $65.

Seventy-Fifth Anniversary Services In the First Presbyterian Church

Rev. W. G. Jordan Preached the Sermon—Other Church Services.

At the First Presbyterian Church last night Rev. W. G. Jordan, D. D. of Queen's University, Kingston, preached the sermon which marked the seventy-fifth anniversary of the church in this city.

The speaker laid emphasis on the fact that at few periods in the world's history had there been such a continuous series of accidents and disasters resulting in loss of human life as at the present time. People were becoming so used to hearing of these things that many were beginning to look upon them as commonplace.

Others again thought that so many calamities were a direct visitation of God's judgment and that he was displeased with the people. Many preachers had encouraged this idea and had been able to make considerable impression upon certain people, but Professor Jordan was of the opinion that many of these preachers would do better to pass judgment upon themselves and apply the warning to be derived from these unusual occurrences to themselves.

The speaker then proceeded to give an instance of what he regarded as a visitation of the Lord's judgment, citing the occasion when the country was ravaged by cholera. Hundreds of deaths resulted and the people were taught the lesson that cleanliness must become a factor in their lives if they wished to secure health. They had learned their lesson at a great cost of innocent life.

Special collections were taken up during the day, and the sum of $1,100 obtained, which will be devoted to reducing the debt on the church.

Rev. Mr. Jordan also preached in the morning, both his addresses being scholarly efforts, full of interest to all.

A special musical service under the direction of Mr. George C. Phelps, was rendered in a most excellent manner and delighted everyone.

At the Empress Avenue Methodist Church Rev. J. B. Wallin preached a powerful sermon on "The Signs of the Times," in which he pointed out in an impressive manner the changes that had come over the nation in a few years.

Twenty-five years ago," said the speaker, "great statesmen, great orators and great scientists were numerous and were more looked up to and admired by the people than they are now. People on the whole had higher ideals then, and were less absorbed in the pursuit of wealth. In modern times the millionaire is the man looked up to, and a fact to be regretted is that we have no really brilliant orators at the present day.

An encouraging tendency from the church standpoint is the increasing number of missionaries which are being sent out and these are making

At Wellington Street Methodist Church large audiences were present at both morning and evening services to hear Miss Kate Morton, the well-known evangelist.

At the Memorial Church Rev. Mr. Andrew preached in the morning to a large congregation.

At St. James' Church, South London, Very Rev. Dean Davis preached at both services. In the morning the speaker drew a beautiful picture of the autumn, comparing it with the life of man, which must sooner or later close also.

"The Conditions of Acceptable Prayer" was the subject of Rev. F. E. Mallott's sermon at the Colborne Street Methodist Church, in the evening. The speaker said that according to Paul there were three conditions to be realized for acceptable prayer, faith, a right life and a right heart. With these three any person could pray and expect their prayers to be heard.

In Askin Street Methodist Church last night, Rev. Mr. Birks, the pastor, dealt with the agitation for Sunday cars in London.

The reverend gentleman took as his text Ezekiel, xx, 20: "You shall hallow my Sabbath, and it shall be a sign to me and you."

Rev. Mr. Birks said that he would have no objection to a plebiscite being taken on the question, if it would settle the matter, but it was well known to all that the plebiscite even if it did carry, would have no effect, because it would be against the law, which states that there shall be no Sunday cars in cities which were not operating them when the act was passed.

The proper way, he thought, for the advocates of Sunday cars to proceed would be to go to the Legislature, and ask to have the law changed before attempting to take a vote on the subject.

It would be useless for the council to submit a bylaw or take a plebiscite, for the law as it now stands is clearly against Sunday cars.

In conclusion, Rev. Mr. Birks made a strong plea for the preservation of the Sabbath.

The agitation of the Rational Sunday League, which it had been stated at the council meeting, was begun by a few men interested in real estate in the suburbs, had as its object the smashing of the Lord's Day Act, and the inaugurating of a wide-open Sunday in London, and every city in Canada.

The firemen lost a valuable horse Saturday evening through an alarm for a fire which turned out to be only a minor affair.

The brigade was summoned to Vandevor's grocery on the corner of Talbot and Bathurst streets, and No. 2 Company turned out on the alarm.

Its duty was to go to the central station and keep watch there while the No. 1 Company, from the central station and also No. 3 Company, South London, attended to the fire.

On Dundas street, between Rectory and Ontario streets, the East London company was galloping along at a very rapid pace, when one of the animals, a beautiful, fleet-footed, powerful bay, slipped in the wet pavement, and fell.

In the fall the horse broke its leg, and it was found necessary to destroy the animal.

It was valued at $200. One of the engine horses from the central station is now doing duty in East London in its place.

The firemen found the blaze in the grocery store a small affair, the damage being about $50. It was overcome with the aid of the chemicals.

LOST GIRL RETURNS
Young Russian, Who Disappeared for a Week, Says She Was Kidnapped.

London, Nov. 3.—London is still wondering about Barbara Lapoukhine, the 18-year-old Russian girl, who disappeared after attending a performance at the Adelphi Theater and for nearly a week was the object of a tremendous hue and cry. The girl returned as mysteriously as she went away. She rang the bell at the door of the house in which she and her sister boarded with their governess, and within a few minutes she was in the arms of her father, formerly an officer of the St. Petersburg police, who had arrived from Russia that same morning.

For a time explanation of the girl's disappearance was refused by her family, but eventually the statement was made by the girl herself that she was kidnapped by two women, who kept her several days locked up in a house which she could not locate, and then took her in a cab to St. Paul's Cathedral, where they left her.

The London newspaper public is not fully convinced that Miss Lapoukhine's story accords exactly with the facts.

It is estimated the expense of the search for Miss Lapoukhine amounted nearly to $7,000. No fewer than a hundred detectives were engaged upon the case, every London cabman was notified to be on the lookout for the girl; photographs were sent out by the hundreds, and the chief of Scotland Yard, Sir Melville McNaughton, and Superintendent Frost gave much of their valuable time to the search. The Lapoukhines have gone back to St. Petersburg.
