FULL PARDON GIVEN ESCAPED CONVICT IN RETURN FOR SERVICE

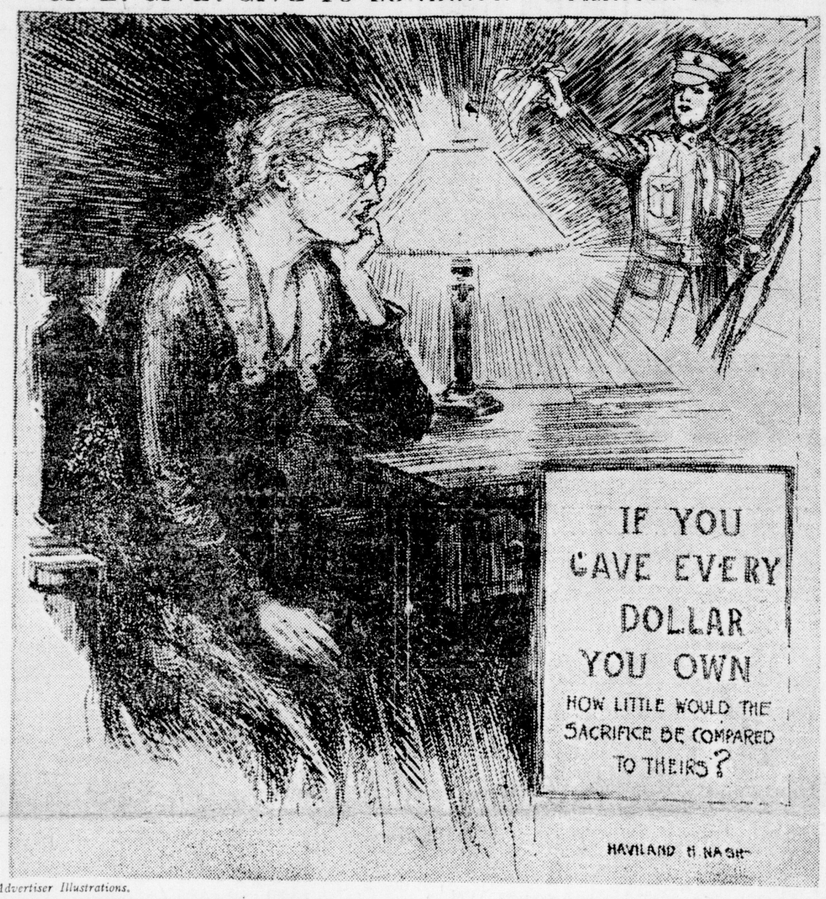

Wounded Man Coming to City From Michigan.

Lansing, Mich., April 20.—Edw. Putnam, alias Wm. Brennan, who escaped from Jackson Prison while serving a sentence for larceny and enlisted in 1915 in the Canadian army, was granted an absolute pardon today.

Putnam served at Vimy Ridge, and was so badly wounded that he is virtually helpless. On being discharged, he came back to Michigan and was recognized and returned to prison. He was to be taken today to London, Ont., where he will be cared for at the expense of the Canadian Government.

Military authorities at district headquarters here have had correspondence with the United States authorities regarding Putnam.

GERMAN CONSUL AT 'FRISCO JUST TOOL, PLEA OF COUNSEL

Says Von Schack Did Not Know Truth.

San Francisco, April 20.—In the opening argument for the defence in the trial of over thirty Hindus, German consular officers and others charged with conspiracy to overthrow British rule in India, Attorney Theodore J. Roche told the jury late yesterday that the nerve centre of a vast conspiracy for that purpose was in the German embassy at Washington, but it did not taint the German consulate here.

Roche characterized Capt. Fritz von Papen, military attache of the German embassy, as the "conceiving mind" of the conspiracy, which he said was "world wide and world important."

He said von Papen deliberately involved Baron E. H. von Schack, formerly German vice-consul here, as the financial agent of the conspirators without telling von Schack the truth about the revolutionary statement.

"It would be futile to argue that German gold did not go into the purchase of the steamer Maverick and the schooner Annie Larsen or that von Schack did not handle this gold," Roche said, "but von Schack did not know that these vessels were to be used to transport arms and ammunition from these shores to India. That secret was kept from him."

BRITISH CASUALTIES FOR THIS WEEK TOTAL 12,368

London, April 20.—British casualties reported during the week ending today totalled 12,368, divided as follows:

Killed or Died of Wounds—Officers, 575; men, 1,639.
Wounded or Missing—Officers, 2,173; men, 7,981.

The casualties reported for this week are approximately half as large again as those reported in the preceding week. Although heavy fighting has not been in progress a month, however, the lists have not begun to approach in size those of last year in the months of active operations, when the British were on the offensive. There is no means of determining how far the casualties now being reported represent losses in the fighting since the German offensive was started. In the several weeks preceding last week, however, when 8,129 names were listed, the totals had been running no higher than between 3,000 and 4,000.

SIR DONALD DENIES HOLDING INTEREST IN LONDON ELECTRIC

Declares Sir Adam Beck Has Misrepresented Power Ownership, Mackenzie & Mann Having No Interest in Niagara Falls or Other Concerns.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

My attention has been called to the press report of proceedings before the power controller, April 18th, in which Sir Adam Beck refers to "The London Electric Company, a Mackenzie-Mann concern," to "Toronto Electric Light Company, and other Mackenzie-Mann companies," and again "to the power given the Mackenzie-Mann Company to go on using extra water at Niagara."

The use of the name Mackenzie & Mann in this connection, is absolutely without justification. Mackenzie, Mann & Co., have no interest, and have never had an interest in the London Electric Company, in the Toronto Electric Light Company, in any of the companies developing power at Niagara Falls, or in any of their subsidiaries. Personally, I have neither capital holdings nor official position, in any of the Niagara companies or their subsidiaries. One would expect from a man occupying Sir Adam's responsible position something more than reliance upon street gossip; in fact, one would expect a careful adherence to facts, certainly in matters such as this, where the facts are readily obtainable. I have not followed hydro power matters in Ontario closely enough to know the merits of the controversy; but if the rest of the information which Sir Adam has so freely given to the public is no more accurate, then heaven help the public! Yours very truly, Toronto, April 19, 1918. DONALD MANN.

CANADIAN SHIPS TO BE ARMED IN FUTURE

Ottawa, April 20.—By virtue of an order-in-council dated April 12, the minister of the naval service is empowered to give directions that any British ship registered in Canada shall be equipped with such apparatus for protecting it against operations of the enemy as may be specified, and the crew of the ship shall be properly instructed in the use of such apparatus. It is also provided that every vessel built in Canada, which is completed after April 1, 1918, shall be fitted with such defensive armament as the minister shall direct.

HUN AND RUSS RESUME DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS

Amsterdam, April 20.—German newspapers say that the German Government is about to resume permanent diplomatic relations with Russia. Gen. Count von Mirbach, former minister to Greece, who recently was named ambassador to Russia, departed from Berlin on Thursday for Moscow.

MEDERIC WANTS NEW PROVINCE OF MONTREAL

Montreal, April 20.—Mayor Mederic Martin has prepared a speech for delivery at the inaugural meeting of the city council of Montreal, suggesting the creation of a new "province" formed by the Island of Montreal and adjoining districts, with a separate local government, if the provincial authorities do not grant this city a share of the revenue collected by the province in Montreal.

FOE'S EFFORT AGAINST LINES OF FRENCH IN NIGHT FAILURE

Allies Take Prisoners in Action —Artillery Active.

Paris, April 20.—German troops last night launched a raiding operation against the French lines in the region of Hangard-En-Santerre, southeast of Amiens. The effort was a failure, the war office announced today. The French took prisoners in this local action.

The artillery has been active along the southern battle line between Lassigny and Noyon.

An Officer Taken.

The statement follows:

"The Germans attempted a raid last night in the region of Hangard-en-Santerre. Prisoners, including an officer, remained in our hands.

"On both sides the artillery fighting continued to be very active between Lassigny and Noyon.

All Repulsed.

"During the night French detachments carried out a number of raids at various points along the front, especially northwest and east of Rheims in the Champagne, in the sector of Juvincourt, and near the heights of the Meuse. The French took a number of prisoners. The Germans made several of these attempts, west of Butte-Du-Mesnil and in the Woevre. All were repulsed.

"Everywhere else the night was calm."

BURIAN APPOINTMENT DICTATED BY BERLIN, SAYS HAGUE REPORT

Charles Wanted Schoenburg, But Was Overruled.

HYPOCRISY IS EXPECTED

New Foreign Minister Likely to Start With Pacific Tone.

The Hague, April 20.—It is learned from an authoritative source that Baron Burian's appointment as foreign minister of Austria-Hungary was dictated by the ruling powers in Berlin, and that Prince Hohenlohe, who left suddenly for Vienna, probably carried instructions from Wilhelmstrasse, although it was vigorously denied that his journey was connected with Czernin's resignation.

The Austrian emperor desired to appoint Schoenburg, former Austro-Hungarian minister to the papal see, and court circles were in favor of Baron Mensdorf, former ambassador to London. It appears that Tisza refused the appointment. Burian's nomination came as a complete surprise, even in well-informed Austrian political circles.

It is considered likely that Burian's opening speech will be of a pacifist nature in order to hoodwink the Austrians.

LITTLE BLIND GIRL SAVES 16 OTHERS FROM AWFUL DEATH

Awakens and Leads Them Out of Burning Home.

New York, April 20.—Rosa Cohen, 9 years old and blind, saved the lives of 16 other blind children at the blind babies' Sunshine Home in the Bath Beach section of Brooklyn early today.

Awakened by smoke from a fire which started in the kitchen of the home, the girl groped her way through the girls' and boys' rooms on the second floor, aroused each sleeping child and quietly marshaled them into the corridor, later leading them to the courtyard in the rear of the house.

Officials of the home were not awakened until the children were passing out of the blazing building. Two floors of the home were burned out.

STOLE TWO MARBLES AND IS SHOT DEAD BY NINE-YEAR-OLD CHILD

Charge of Murder Against New Jersey Boy Who Killed Little Playmate.

Jersey City, N. J., April 20.—A charge of murder against a 9-year-old child, Frank Muchelowsky, was made in the criminal court here today. Questioned as to why he killed Edward Choroski, 4 years old, with a rifle while they were at play yesterday, the young defendant replied: "I shot him because he stole two marbles from me."

It is alleged that after an argument over a game of marbles the Muchelowsky boy ran to his home, returned with a rifle, and ordered the smaller child to hold up his hands and then shot him down.

OBJECTIVES GAINED BY BRITISH IN FLANDERS; SOME GUNS CAPTURED

Advance Defences at Givenchy and Festubert and Re-Establish Positions Besides Repulsing German Counter-Attacks.

London, April 20.—Nine machine guns, a trench mortar and prisoners were taken by the British in a local operation yesterday south of the Scarpe River, the war office announces. A German counter-attack was repulsed.

On the Flanders battlefront the British ejected the Germans from advanced positions gained by them in Thursday's attack in the region of Givenchy and Festubert.

The British gained all their objectives in their counter-attack in Flanders, advancing their defences at Givenchy and Festubert and re-establishing their positions.

In sharp fighting southeast of Robecq, the British drove back German attacking parties.

TROUBLE BREWING.

With the British Army in France, April 20—(By the Associated Press).—No further big enemy attacks developed during the night. Trouble still is brewing in the northern zone and south of the River Somme. There are indications in the latter region that another mighty thrust for the British supply base of Amiens is boiling. The Germans are nursing their hurts in the region of La Bassee Canal.

In a sharp local engagement at Riez-du-Vinage this morning, from the direction of Pacaut Wood, the enemy overran the British outposts, but were being driven back to the wood.

The Arras region there was more active yesterday than last night. The British advanced their line slightly on a 1,500-yard front east of Beaurains and repulsed a German counter-attack. Later, however, the British withdrew to their original line.

BECOMING MORE CAREFUL.

Southward in the ridge zone about Kemmel, it seems probable that the enemy has paused to organize a more careful scheme of assault than he has employed in the last few days of costly fighting.

For some time the Germans have been pushing one attack after another against Kemmel in order to catch the British before they could get up reinforcements, and the infantry has been sent forward without the usual methodical preparation for a drive.

The German higher command, seeing the futility of this method, has paused to organize greater preliminary operations. Now another bid for Kemmel and the surrounding region may come at any time.

IN THE LAST CONVULSIONS.

(By Maurice Barres, Military Critic L'Echo, Paris.)

PARIS, April 19.—The Allied command consider, with full confidence, the operations as a whole thus:

The second phase of the grand offensive is ending with the strategic downfall of the Germans. The divers actions which continue today are the last convulsions of the battle of Armentieres, or rather its reaction. They cannot be of capital importance.

The main thing for our enemies is not to occupy this or that spot. It is not to obtain such results that they have spent three hundred thousand men. All their nation, all the world, knows that they desire to bring about the decision of the war. This is beyond their reach today.

BECK DOES NOT KNOW, HE SAYS, DRAYTON MOVE

Power Minister Declares He Is Ignorant of Controller's Intentions Here.

NO REPORT ON PLANTS

Sir Henry Did Not Say What Would Be Done With Steam Plants, Says Sir Adam.

While some Londoners who went to Toronto to interview Sir Henry Drayton, in regard the power situation, are positive that they know what Sir Henry Drayton will do, Sir Adam Beck is far from being so.

"I don't know what he will do," is Sir Adam's summing up of the result of the deputation's interview with the Dominion power controller.

Sir Adam arrived back in London on Friday night. He was with Sir Henry Drayton practically all of Thursday and Friday. Friday he was present when Sir Henry met a deputation from Hamilton, and was with him later when the controller met a deputation of Toronto businessmen. Certainly, Sir Adam had ample opportunity to learn what Sir Henry intended to do if the latter was revealing his intentions at all.

"I don't know what Sir Henry will do or what his objective is," said Sir Adam when asked by The Advertiser as to what conclusions he had formed as a result of the conference between Sir Henry and the London delegation and for which Sir Adam was one of the principal speakers.

"Will Sir Henry order the London Electric to operate? Chairman Pocock and Manager Buchanan of the utilities commission say they are certain he will; others say he will not. What do you say?" Sir Adam was asked.

"He did not say what he was going to do with the steam plants, and I cannot say what he will do. He did not tell me," said Sir Adam.

It was pointed out to Sir Adam that he was quoted as having said in Toronto yesterday that "all regulations meant munitions." He was asked if it meant that any steps to secure more power would only be taken where munitions were concerned.

Sir Adam's reply was that he had said

ABOUT 30,000 NEW MEN EXPECTED TO BE ADDED TO ARMY

Result of Canceling Exemptions Among Youths.

Ottawa, April 20.—Approximately 66,000 men will be affected by the cancellation of exemptions under the order-in-council approved by both houses of parliament last night. It is proposed in the first place, to call three years of unmarried men and widowers without children—men of 20, men of 21 and men of 22 years of age. As a basis for computation, it is anticipated that the age declared by the man in his claim for exemption will be accepted. Therefore, if this course is adopted, the first call will comprise men who were 20, men who were 21 and men who were 22 years of age between the issue of the first proclamation of October 13, 1917, and the last date for filing exemption claims under that proclamation—November 19, 1917.

Exemptions granted in each of these three years, it is estimated, number about 22,000 or a total of 66,000 in the first call. Of these 66,000, however, a large proportion will be physically unfit. The total of men available for combatant service will probably be 30,000 or 10,000 in each year. This means practically doubling the number of men now with the forces as a result of the military service act.

If necessary, it is intimated that two more years of unmarried men and widowers will be called, namely, men of 19 and men of 23. From the 19 year, a much greater number would be available than from any other year, as the proportion of unmarried men in that year is larger and no men of that age have yet been called.

Details of the method to be adopted in calling out the different years have not yet been officially announced. It is indicated, however, that every means will be taken to see that each man is properly informed.

BRITISH MEMBER WOULD CONSCRIPT ALL THE YOUNG UNMARRIED WOMEN NOW

London, April 20.—Sir William James Bell has given notice that he will submit to the House of Commons a resolution to extend the military service act to all unmarried women between the ages of 19 and 30 for work of national importance. Sir William is Unionist member for Hammersmith.

GROUND THICK WITH GERMANS ON FESTUBERT-GIVENCHY LINE

British Machine Gunners Worked Weapons Until the Enemy Was Within 50 Yards, Where Missing Was Impossible.

With the British Army in France, April 19.—By the Associated Press.—Along the northern battlefront, at noon today the Germans were still resting on their arms after the bitter defeat which they suffered yesterday in their great drive. Up to that hour they had not recovered sufficiently to make any further threats in this line, and they were rushing the reorganization of their badly shattered forces.

Each successive report gives further confirmation of the terrific losses sustained by the assaulting infantry during yesterday's sanguinary struggle. Between Givenchy and Festubert the ground this morning was strewn with German dead, and at many other points on the long front of action excessive casualties were inflicted by the British artillery and machine gun fire, which mowed down the unhappy storm troops in countless numbers. The British machine-gunners worked their weapons in many cases until the enemy was but fifty yards away. There was no chance of missing these point-blank targets. Time and again the enemy line wavered and fell back unable to withstand the deluge of bullets, and where they succeeded in getting to close quarters they left a heavy trail of dead and dying behind.

Many Deserters.

In the neighborhood of Robecq many Germans threw away their rifles and swam the canal to the British side to surrender when they could no longer bear up under the stream of machine-gun bullets which was sweeping through them. The British trench mortars also did great execution, throwing their high explosives into dense enemy ranks at close range. The German artillery bombardment about Givenchy and from La Bassee northward along the canal yesterday morning perhaps set a new high-water mark for intensity. Veterans of many battles declare they had never seen anything like it. This sort of fighting continued until after 6:30 o'clock last night when the enemy finally desisted.

Deeds of Valor.

After having gained a footing in a bit of a forward trench at one time a body of Germans pushed through until they got to battalion headquarters, and there the servants, orderlies and clerks armed themselves and fought side by side with the infantry until the Germans were beaten back.

One body of Welshmen who got surrounded in a melee held out and inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy until assistance arrived, and they were able to fight their way out again.

The British wounded from Givenchy were in the highest spirits today, despite their wounds, because of the casualties that had been inflicted on the Germans.

Northward of the canal and southwest of Robecq the fighting began about daylight.

Winnipeg, April 20.—Fire yesterday completely destroyed the premises of the Globe Bedding Company on King street, causing a loss estimated at $23,000.

GERMAN PRISONERS IN RUSSIA DEMAND EQUALITY OF RANKS

Also Organize To Prevent Being Sent Home.

London, April 19.—A Russian wireless communication received here states that German prisoners of war are demanding equality between officers and men, and are organizing to prevent their being sent home. Armed bands stationed at Omsk are holding up transports from the east. The Soviet Congress recently decided that prisoners in all districts would be held at Moscow with the object of enforcing similar measures.

COTTON OPERATIVES IN N. B. LEFT HOMELESS

Fredericton, N. B., April 20.—Fire originating in a house occupied by Garfield Petterson, Marysville, at 9:30 o'clock this morning, wiped out ten dwellings in the section known as Sandy Ville. The homes destroyed were occupied by operatives of the Canadian Cotton Mills. Fifteen families are left homeless, most of them losing everything they possessed. The business section of the town was threatened at one time, but prompt methods saved serious destruction. The loss is estimated at $20,000.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

PLEASE DO HONOR THE DEAD.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to observe that it has been my duty since my return from France to attend several military funerals in this city. Yesterday I attended Pte. Baldwin's funeral, and marched from Sackville street to London West bridge, and all the distance there were only six gentlemen who had respect enough to lift their hats as the remains of one of Canada's real citizens passed on a gun carriage. Now it only takes a minute for a corpse to pass, and it would look better if some male residents paid respects to the remains of a real hero (who has fought and died for them) by removing their smokes and lifting their hats. If they cannot don the khaki and do their bit, they can at least pay respect to those who have made the supreme sacrifice for them and theirs. In a recent issue of your paper there appeared a letter criticizing music played. Instead of criticism the public should pay respects to the dead.

PTE. L. ORAM,

The flavor of Salada is unique, and so is its remarkable quality, for it yields many more cups to the pound than does ordinary tea.

BELIEVE INCREASE WILL DEPEND ON CITY MOVE

Street Railway Situation Has Direct Municipal End Now.

The situation between the street railway company and their employees in regard to the latter's demand for a wage increase, remains unchanged. No conferences have been held since the first of the week. The men declare that the next move is up to the company.

City officials do not take a rosy view of the situation. The question was informally discussed by those who turned up for the board of control meeting on Friday. They stated that they found the general impression about the city was that the company would not grant the men an increase unless their increased fare proposals were granted. The reason for the refusal would be its financial condition. The men would strike. The city would be tied up. The blame would then be shouldered on the city council for not granting the increased fares.

BILIOUS SPELLS BECOME A HABIT

And It Requires Active Treatment to Break Up the Sluggish, Torpid Condition of the Liver.

Drumbo, April 19. — So often you meet people who are feeling miserable and out of sorts, unable to relish their food and suffering from headaches and indigestion. "It is only one of my bilious spells," they will tell you. "I have had them for years."

In other words, they have allowed this condition to become so established that it is like a habit to them to have periodical spells of biliousness.

It is easy to break up such an unfortunate habit by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. By acting directly on the liver they insure the activity of this organ in removing bile from the blood, the action of the bowels is corrected, and the digestive organs resume their natural functions.

Mr. D. C. Maynard, retired farmer, Drumbo, Ont., writes: "I was subject to sick headache and poor appetite. These bilious spells would come on me about every two weeks, and often I would have to go to bed and could not eat. This trouble was overcome by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which aroused the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels and made me feel like a new man.

"As I had also suffered from catarrh for years and was quite deaf, I began using Dr. Chase's Catarrh Powder. This treatment has done wonders for me, clearing the stuffed-up air passages, restoring hearing and overcoming foul breath. It is a pleasure to recommend medicines which have done so much for me."

LETTER CARRIERS REJECT BONUS OF $100 PER ANNUM

Local Postmen Will Press Demands for Higher Wages.

London letter-carriers have rejected Premier Borden's offer of a war bonus instead of a wage increase, and will press their demands for higher wages to meet the high cost of living.

The local association held a meeting Friday night. It was called by Deputy Postmaster Duncan. He had received word of the premier's offer from Hume Cronyn, M. P., who asked that the opinion of the local association be secured at once and forwarded to him.

The carriers left no doubt as to where they stood. They have been getting about $900 a year salary. Last year the Government granted them a war bonus of $100, so that the premier's latest offer is not a new one, only a suggestion that the bonus be granted for another year. The men, in their request for an increase, however, have asked that the minimum for the older men be raised to $1,400, and it is this request that they have decided to push. The men's decision was communicated to Mr. Cronyn today.

The men point out that even with the bonus their wages fall short of what the department of labor estimates it costs to keep a family. The figures which are published in the Labor Gazette are an average from 65 centres in Canada, and show that the carriers, with the bonus, fall somewhat below them.

PATRIOTIC SERMON AT CATHEDRAL FOR ST. GEORGE'S DAY

English Societies Will Attend This Special Service.

St. George's Day tomorrow is to be commemorated in this city by a special service instead of the regular service to be held in St. Paul's Cathedal at 7 o'clock. The rector, Rev. Canon Tucker, M.A., D.C.L., will preach a patriotic sermond.

St. George's Society met on Thursday evening for the purpose of making plans for the special service, and it was decided to extend through the press an invitation to all English people in the city to attend. All members of St. George's Society, Sons of England and Maids of England are invited to attend, and a special invitation is extended to the returned soldiers and military men in general.

Under the presidency of E. D. Smith, St. George's Society is assuming something of its old-time glory, and much interest has been awakened in fittingly celebrating the day. On the occasion of the meeting of the society this week, several patriotic speeches were made by Past President John Nutkins, Past President R. R. Emery and others.

Mr. Emery raised the familiar question, "Are we downhearted as a result of the situation in France," and his sentiments were re-achoed by everyone present when he said: "We must, like true Englishmen, do our duty at this time by taking an optimistic view. Every step back taken by our troops has been taken with a view to obtaining a vantage ground to strike a mighty blow. Success will come in time, we feel assured."

A committee was appointed to visit the sick and returned soldiers in the hospitals. An interesting feature in connection with the meeting was the introducing of a number of hero members.

IN HOSPITAL AGAIN

London Member of R. C. N. R. Badly Burned About Hands.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ames of 24 Palace street has received word that her husband, Seaman Colborne E. Ames of the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve is in the Royal Naval Hospital at Plymouth. Apparently he has been in an explosion, for one arm is badly burned almost to the shoulder, while the other hand is also badly burned. This is the second time the London sailor has been in the hospital, having been blown up with his ship some time ago.

Seaman Ames enlisted in the 142nd Battalion, but later transferred to the naval service. He has been on active service for more than a year.

HOME ON LEAVE

Former London Officer Gets Respite After Long Service In France.

Major William Black, brother of Mrs. Neil McGill, 803 Queen's avenue, and a former Londoner, has arrived in Canada on leave, according to a Toronto dispatch.

Major Black, who now resides at 17 Lyndhurst avenue, Toronto, went overseas early in 1915 with the C. A. S. C., and has served two and one-half years in France and Flanders. He was with the Headquarters Company, 1st Division Train, on special detached duty, and later was senior supply officer of the 1st Canadian Division.

For the last three months he has been second in command of the C. A. S. C. at Shorncliffe. Before going overseas, he was with the mail-order department of T. Eaton & Company.

LITTLE FROST DAMAGE

Fall Wheat Crop Has Not Suffered as Badly as at First Believed.

That the frost of the past two nights has not injured the fall wheat in this district to any great extent is the general opinion of farmers.

The situation is not promising, however, as much of the wheat did not get a good start last fall. There will not be so much of it plowed up as at first thought, however.

The majority of farmers seed the fall wheat field with some hay crop as clover or timothy and for this reason if there is promise of any crop whatever they will not plow the field and lose their seed. One farmer expressed the opinion that it would pay to harvest the crop if only ten bushels of wheat per acre are secured.

With favorable weather from this time on, however, it is thought that the crop will be fair.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have dyspepsia. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the stomach sweetened and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

Veteran Jeweler of London Celebrates His 82nd Birthday

Survivor of American Civil War Still Hale and Vigorous.

George W. Pitt, one of London's veteran businessmen and a veteran of the American Civil War, received congratulations Friday on the occasion of the celebration of his 82nd birthday. Stalwart, erect, vigorous, it is almost past belief that he has passed so many milestones, and passed through the harrowing experiences which marked his four years' of war service.

"My hand is as steady as ever," he said today, "as steady as when I entered the army. I occasionally take my gun and go out shooting, and I can bring down the squirrels yet with any of them."

Wounded seven times and a prisoner of war for eleven months, the former lieutenant in the American army has among his treasures a number of marks of recognition of his services. There is one badge, however, which he values above all the rest, a handsome gold-filled medal mounted on the red, white and blue, awarded to him a couple of years ago in commemoration of the dedication of the New York State monument to the men who fell at Gettysburg, erected at Andersonville. Only a few were qualified to receive this medal, which has the word, "Survivor," in relief on the bar. It was bestowed upon Mr Pitt as an officer who remained with his men from '61 to '65 without leaving. The inscription says:

"Death before dishonor.

"Presented to George William Pitt by the State of New York in recognition of heroism, sacrifice and patriotism."

"Would you like to be over in France with the men who are fighting?" Mr. Pitt was asked.

"I would for patriotic reasons," he said, "and for other reasons I wouldn't. The appalling thing is that so many of our finest and best young men are being destroyed, not by war, but by explosions. Methods of warfare have changed much since the days of the American Civil War. Then it was field fighting, where the decision was determined by superior skill. In this war, it is largely explosions. My heart goes out to the men, and the returned fellows frequently come in to talk to me."

Mr. Pitt has been in the jewelry business for 43 years, entering a partnership with Davis & Son when he first arrived here 43 years ago.

PATRIOTIC FUNDS DRIVE BULLETINS

Miss E. S. Emery, Ridout street, South London, has telegraphed from California, where she has been spending the winter, a subscription of $600 to the patriotic campaign.

Abdul Hamid, who has recently opened a Richmond street cafe, called at the board of trade rooms this week to announce that he will give the entire proceeds of his business of Wednesday, April 24th, to the campaign fund, and that most of his employees are giving their wages for that day.

The patriotic drive industrial committee at a meeting on Thursday afternoon decided to adopt the plan of reaching employees of large factories, etc., which was followed with much success last year. The committee is today sending out a circular letter, asking the larger employers to co-operate with them in obtaining subscriptions from their employees through appointing canvass committees right in the firms. In this way much work is saved the industrial committee and also the time of employees. The employers generally approve, and adopted this plan last year.

The Rotary Club has extended an invitation to all the men captains and their teams to attend the weekly luncheon on Monday and hear Mrs. Elizabeth Parkes Hutchinson tell of her experiences in France as an entertainer connected with Y. M. C. A. work over there for British, Australian and Canadian soldiers.

RECORD CROWDS ARE BEING ASSURED FOR CONCERT AID G.W.V.A.

More Than 1,500 Tickets Already Sold for Juvenile Production.

Tickets for the concert to be given in the Grand Theatre on May 2 and 3, under the auspices of the London Great War Veterans' Association, are selling with such rapidity that already more than 1,500 have been disposed of. The capacity of the theatre for the two evening performances is 2,336, and the veterans are already urging their friends to secure their tickets early.

The program will be the grand annual juvenile production under the direction of Mrs. Alice Henderson. Some 75 local children will participate and an exceptionally good program is assured.

As a stimulus to the sale of the tickets the veterans have offered a silver medal to the child who sells the most tickets. This medal will be presented on the second night.

Soldiers from the Byron Sanatorium will be present in a body at the concert and will occupy the boxes. Arrangements are also under consideration by the I. O. D. E. for bringing all patients at the Central Military Convalescent Hospital to the concert in a body.

PLEASANT ANTICIPATIONS OF SOLOIST'S RETURN

London Music Lovers Anxious to Hear Madame Hazzard Peocock.

The return of Madame Eleanor Hazzard Peocock, dramatic soprano of Detroit, to London to appear as soloist at the St. Andrew's service of praise on Monday evening is an event most pleasurably anticipated by the scores of people who have been delighted by her singing on the occasion of previous visits, and also by the many who, knowing her by reputation, are to hear her for the first time.

Not only is Madame Peocock possessed of a voice of rare beauty, perfectly under control, but few singers before the public are endowed with the dramatic power, the ability to grip and sway an audience which distinguishes her among artists. Mr. Wheeler is playing some especially interesting organ numbers, and the choir will be heard in choice works of a high order. In addition, the church quartet, Miss Anna Cochrill, Miss Mary Shoebottom, C. J. Pink and E. J. Webster will take a prominent part in the program.

INGOT TIN SCARCE

Shortage May Force Suspension of Industries, Says Hardware and Metal.

Ingot tin is becoming more scarce, and unless further supplies are available during the next couple of weeks, production in some lines will necessarily cease, according to "Hardware and Metal." In addition, cable advices indicate another advance of £5 on the London market.

Spelter and lead have declined ½c and ¼c respectively. Linseed oil has registered a decline of 4c per gallon, while turpentine has gone 3c per gallon lower in some sources. Uncertainty in the matter of shipments and transportation is tending to maintain the prices firm in these commodities.

Cotton goods are higher, including cotton rope and sash cord, both of which advanced 3c per pound, with other goods in proportion.

An advance of from 20 to 25 per cent has been made in many lines of cutlery. Business generally is reported good.

TO OBSERVE YPRES ANNIVERSARY HERE BY G.W.V.A. PARADE

Veterans Will Arrange for Church Service Next Week.

At the regular meeting of the Great War Veterans Association next Tuesday evening, plans will be completed to commemorate the battle of Ypres anniversary by a church parade to be held some afternoon next week.

The Ypres tag day in aid of the G. W. V. A. home was cancelled at a meeting of the executive committee held Friday evening. In view of the big drive for patriotic funds next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday it was decided to do away with the sale of tags today in order to assist the patriotic drive.

Delegates will be chosen at Tuesday's meeting to attend the provincial convention in Hamilton which will be held on May 23, 24 and 25. The London branch of the G. W. V. A. is entitled to five delegates and it is expected the full quota will attend.

GRAND TRUNK APPEAL FOR EMPLOYEES' AID BRINGS COMMENDATION

Food Conservation Bulletin of Big System Strikes Popular Chord.

The special food conservation bulletin, issued to Grand Trunk Railway employees of the system, has attracted universal commendation. Dominion Food Controller H. D. Thomson specially commends the bulletin in a letter to the Grand Trunk, in which he expressed appreciation of the splendid co-operation.

Controller Thompson said in part: We are also confident that we can depend upon you to do your utmost, through your bulletins and in every other way in your power, to help in what you aptly call this 'Battle for increased production.'"

The full text of the bulletin follows:

The Great Battle.

The greatest battle of history is being fought in France. After wearisome months of trench warfare, Armageddon has come; it was unavoidable if the right of civilization was to prevail over the might of kultur. Far from the battlefield we also approach a great effort—that of increased food production.

Food conservation is playing an important role in the successful conduct of our war activities; it is economic trench warfare. But a big drive is as necessary in economics as in military strategy.

The farmer is the heavy artillery of this battle for increased production. The other branches of combatant troops are represented by those who are doing their part to assist in increasing our food supplies, the vacant lot cultivators, the city allotment gardeners, and the like.

But the auxiliary services, the Army Service Corps men, and so forth, are represented by those in the transportation services of the country. Their work, as in the case of their prototypes with our splendid armies, may lack the spectacular attaching to that of the actual fighting man, but it is just as necessary to the final defeat of the Hun. Each must do his part, be it to fight, to produce or to carry. WILL YOU DO YOURS?

LARGE PACK MAY BRING PRICES OF CANNED GOODS DOWN

The following on the market situation as regards foodstuffs appears in the Canadian Grocer:

What the future may be in respect to canned vegetables is hard to determine as yet. Indications are that in as far as human agency can determine the pack will be a large one. This will undoubtedly result in lower prices being made for the coming season, and it is felt that only in this way will consumption keep pace with the increase in the output.

The action of the United States Government in seizing 1,200 tons of raisins for its own use will result in orders for Canada for July and August shipments being consigned on a pro rata basis. A shipment of dates has reached the city, and new prices are at considerably higher levels. A 1,400-ton shipment of currants now due in New York has sent the market down there 2 cents per pound.

What the milling future of corn and oats is to be contains no little element of uncertainty. It is stated in some quarters that shipments of corn, which have been coming through in very good quantities from the United States, are again to be embargoed. It has been intimated also that supplies of the better grades of oats are none too heavy, though shipments to date have been fairly satisfactory.

An advance of 3 cents per pound in prices of peppers at primary points has been recorded during the week, and they are reported very scarce. The local market has not been affected yet, though celery seed and whole cloves show an upward trend. Supplies in practically all lines of spices are limited, and prospects of securing further supplies are not encouraging.

Nova Scotia apples have declined $1 per barrel. Offerings of oranges are practically confined to Valencias and seedlings, Floridas and California navels being virtually off the market. Tomatoes have registered a decline and are on a much easier basis. Potatoes have also eased off again this week, and onions followed suit.

The sugar situation shows practically no change. The demand still exceeds supply, but with increased shipping available in the service between Cuba and Atlantic ports, hopes are held out that in another month or six weeks a supply more nearly normal demand will be available. Business shows some improvement, and the result of April will, it is thought, prove satisfactory.

Y. W. C. A. UNITES

Will Join In Ministerial Aliance Midday Prayer Services.

The National Council of Women has sent out an urgent call to its affiliated societies asking that a day should be set apart for intercession and prayer for the Empire. In response to this call, Mrs. Rowell, vice-president of the National Young Women's Christian Association, has asked the local organizations to observe Monday, April 22, as a day of prayer; but as the Ministerial Alliance of London is conducting a united service each noon hour of the coming week, the Y. W. C. A. will unite with it, and has requested that as many of its members as possible attend these services.

SAYS CANADA SHOULD ADVERTISE TO TELL JAPANESE OF DOMINION'S WONDERFUL NATURAL RESOURCES

Niponese Commissioner of Livestock, Visiting in London to Secure Data on Agriculture, Expresses Surprise at Canadian Supremacy and Would Have Countrymen Know of Land of Maple Leaf.

"What you want is to make your country and what you have here known in Japan," said Dr. Issa Tanimura, commissioner of livestock for the Japanese Government today to a little group of interested London people with whom he was chatting in regard to his mission in Canada to obtain information which will result in the improvement of the standard of livestock in Japan.

"For example," he continued: "First of all we want to get sheep. I want Col. McEwen here (indicating his host for the past few days) to send us over some of his fine sheep. That is one of the things I have found out, that you have fine sheep in Canada.

"We have been getting things from you over in Japan, but we have been getting them through England and the United States. We thought over in Japan that Col. McEwen was going down to the United States to buy sheep, and here I find the United States has been coming up here to buy sheep from him. Then your flour. We haven't anything like it in Japan. We don't know it comes from Canada. It comes to us, perhaps, through the United States—and the United States doesn't tell us it is from Canada." At this point Dr. Tanimura laughed one of his rare, contagious laughs.

Should Advertise in Japan.

Becoming serious again, he continued: "Your Government should advertise your resources of Canada in Japan, and you should send over your reliable agricultural papers. Though, perhaps, they do not write or speak English, a large number of the people of Japan, especially the younger people, read English, and would be much interested in the agricultural papers. It would be a way of introducing what you have here to us.

"We are an agricultural people. Practically everyone farms, even the merchants. While we are very much behind you in regard to the livestock China is ahead of us in this respect), I do not think there is any country that is more advanced so far as intensive farming is concerned. On my own farm, I raise on an average of four tons to the acre of hay as a result of intensive farming methods."

Many Big Farms There.

Asked concerning the size of the farms in Japan and the cereal crops, Dr. Tanimura replied: "The average farm is five or ten acres, but one hundred acres is not considered a large farm. There are many thousand and two thousand acre farms, all intensively cultivated.

"Rice, barley and wheat are the chief crops, the farmers using the barley for food. It is a strange idea they have over in this country that the people live upon rice altogether in Japan. They raise rice to export it, and if they ate it, they couldn't sell it and make money on it."

Dr. Tanimura is especially interested in the subject of sheep. "We require millions of dollars' worth of wool a year for clothing for our soldiers," he said, continuing, "Before this war, we used to get a large amount from Australia to supplement our own supply. But we can no longer get that, because for the British Government an embargo has been placed on the exporting of wool from Australia."

Refuses To Discuss War.

This statement gave the opportunity impatiently awaited by The Advertiser's reporter to get in a question about the possibilities of Japan getting into the war. Thereupon, the courteous Japanese gentleman gave the inquisitive Canadian reporter and the other Canadians present an insight into the manner in which Japanese people mind their own business and how each cobbler over there heeds the injunction to "stick to his last."

"I am not over here representing the war department, except in so far as getting wool for soldiers' clothing is concerned," he said with considerable severity.

"If I gave my opinion, it would be the opinion of one citizen, not of Japan. My business over here is to represent Japan in the interests of live stock. So far as the people of Japan as a whole are concerned, they do not know there is a war on. Even with a big war for us like the Russian-Japanese war, they didn't know it. The farmers in wartime keep to their farming, the teachers to their teaching. Our soldiers, our regular standing army, look after the fighting, and that is all there is to it. We aren't an excitable people. To take teachers from their work or people from other occupations to go to fighting is an unheard of thing in Japan."

"But how do you get your soldiers?"

"The Government looks after that. Every man who reaches the age of 21 must give three years of military service. The farmers furnish a great many of the recruits because their manner of life makes them strong physically. Everyone wants to be a soldier over in Japan. It is a high honor. After a man has been a soldier, he comes back with a medal on, and he is above the rest of the people. He talks down to them. Such a value do our men place upon being a soldier, that in the Russian-Japanese war I have known men to commit suicide because they were rejected as physically unfit for service."

Prefer Aberdeen Cattle.

Getting back to the subject of live stock, his particular interest, Dr. Tanimura referred to the preference of the Japanese for "black cattle," the Aberdeen Angus.

"All our breeds of live stock are imported," he said; "in fact, everything in Japan is imported—excepting the men."

Dr. Tanimura, who is a graduate of Yale University, and an honorary fellow in agriculture of Cornell University, has been much impressed with the Ontario Agricultural College and the methods employed there.

"I am going to keep in touch with Mr. Creelman," he said, "and see that more of our students come over to the Ontario Agricultural College. They get the practical as well as scientific side there, and that is what counts. We have had men come back to our country with all the scientific side and we called them scientific fools. I had one working for me who had his degree of doctor of agriculture. I paid him $15 a month, and he wasn't worth it. I told him at the end of a year if he wanted to stay I would pay him $10 a month. Now, he is teaching English for a living."

AMERICAN DESCRIBES REMARKABLE HEROISM OF BELGIAN SOLDIERS

NEW YORK, April 19.—Gallantry displayed by a Belgian patrol of ten men in holding off for an hour, until reinforcements arrived, an attacking force of 300 Germans near Reigersvliet, was described in a message from the Flanders front received here today by Senator Henry LaFontaine, head of the American fund for gifts for Belgian soldiers.

"With remarkable courage, Major Brenez with only nine men and one machine gun held out against the attacks of 300 of the enemy with twelve machine guns," says the message. "It was only at the end of an hour and by the purest luck that another Belgian patrol, which had heard the fire from another point, came to the rescue in the Belgian sector. The garrison took the offensive, taking back the lost trenches and many prisoners and guns.

"King Albert telegraphed his congratulations to these troops, who had once more given proof of their bravery and the high morale of the Belgian army."

FOE'S SHIPS SHELL COAST OF FLANDERS

Amsterdam, April 19.—German torpedo craft bombarded the coast between Dunkirk and Nieuport, behind the allied lines in Flanders yesterday morning, says an official statement from Berlin today. The text reads:

"Our torpedo-boats on Thursday morning fired 600 shells on enemy camps and storage places between Dunkirk and Nieuport."

AN IDEAL SUMMER OUTING.

The Provincial Government of Ontario earned the gratitude of all lovers of out-of-doors when it set apart, in 1893, nearly two million acres of heavily-timbered land, starred with beautiful lakes and winding streams, as a preserve for the wild things and a recreation ground for the people. They called it Algonquin Park. Away up in the "Highlands of Ontario," 200 miles north of Toronto, 170 miles west of Ottawa, and two thousand feet above the level of the sea, this lovely region remains today unspoiled, a perfect refuge for the creatures of the forest, and an ideal camping ground for the sportsman and businessman. The Grand Trunk operates hotel and log cabin camps, which offer first-class accommodation in this wild and rugged playground. Illustrated descriptive literature may be had for the asking. Write C. E. ADMITS ROBBING ROYAL BANK TELLER OF $4,000

MONTREAL, April 19.—Edward J. Lerue, who, along with Albert Laurien, is under arrest on a charge of having assaulted Joseph A. Bertrand, teller of the Cote-Des-Neiges branch of the Royal Bank of Canada on April 5 and robbed the bank of over $4,000, admitted the charge in a deposition made before Judge Lost a few days ago, and in open court today made additional admissions, except as to the name of his companion in crime. He admitted today that he had laid out the teller with the butt end of a revolver, while another man "covered" the ledger-keeper, Gaspard Mirron, with a revolver, and that the two had split the amount stolen, about $3,800 or $3,900, of which his share was about $2,060. He refused to divulge anything which would implicate anyone else.

Rosaire Babineau, manager of the bank in question, testified that $4,109.75 had been taken by the robbers.

Both prisoners will come up again next Thursday.

"ADVANCE OR FALL WHERE YOU STAND, FACING THE ENEMY," CURRIE'S ORDERS

Inspiring Message to Troops, Whose Performances Are Recalled as "Glorious"--"Where Canadians Are Engaged There Can Be No Giving Way."

OTTAWA, April 19.—In anticipation of a tremendous assault against the Canadian lines, Lieut.-Gen. Sir Arthur W. Currie, K.C.B., K.C.M.G., commanding Canadian Corps, issued a special order on March 27 and exhorted all ranks to advance or fall when they stood facing the enemy. He felt that Canadians would repeat victories of the past.

A copy of the order has been received by an Ottawa woman from a relative overseas. It reads as follows:

"In an endeavor to reach an immediate decision, the enemy has gathered all his forces and struck a mighty blow at the British army. Overwhelmed by sheer weight of numbers, the British divisions in the line between the Scarpe and the Oise have fallen back fighting hard; steady and undismayed.

Trial Coming Soon.

"Measures have been taken successfully to meet the German onslaught. The French have gathered a powerful army commanded by a most able and trusted leader, and this army is now moving swiftly to our help. Fresh British divisions are being thrown in. The Canadians are soon to be engaged. Our motor machine gun brigade has already played a most gallant part and once again covered itself with glory.

"Looking back with pride on the unbroken record of your glorious achievements, asking you to realize that today the fate of the British Empire hangs in the balance, I place my trust in the Canadian Corps, knowing that where Canadians are engaged, there can be no giving way. Under the orders of your devoted officers in the coming battle, you will advance or fall where you stand, facing the enemy.

An Inspiring Appeal.

"To those who fall I say: 'You will not die but step into immortality. Your mothers will not lament your fate, but will be proud to have borne such sons. Your names will be revered forever by your grateful country, and God will take you unto himself.'

"Canadians, in this fateful hour, I command you and I trust you to fight as you have ever fought, with all your strength, with all your determination, with all your tranquil courage. On many a hard-fought field of battle, you have overcome this enemy and with God's help you shall achieve victory once more.

"(Signed) A. W. CURRIE,
"Lieutenant-General Commanding Canadian Corps."

HEARS OF SON'S DEATH WHILE PRESIDING AT EVANGELICAL SESSION

Rev. G. F. Brown of Elmira Receives Sad News From Front.

WATERLOO, April 19.—While taking part in the evangelical conference here, Rev. G. F. Brown of Elmira, president of the session, was informed that his son had been killed in action. The cablegram said he had been killed on April 4. He went overseas at the outbreak of war.

The sympathy of those present was expressed for Rev. Mr. Brown, after which the following were made licensed preachers on probation: Walter Krotz, W. A. Miller, C. J. Nieborgal, G. U. Steveroody and Michael Rubanski.

Revs. Snyder, Mathews and McKeracher addressed the conference on behalf of the Lord's Day Alliance, the Ministerial Association of Kitchener, and the alliance of Waterloo, respectively.

Last evening Bishop Seager delivered a lecture on "The Challenge to the Modern Pastor and His Church." He claimed there were many churches which have not won a person for Christ in the past twelve months.

FLIGHT LIEUT. DOUGHTY IS KILLED IN ACTION

CHATHAM, April 19.—Official word was received here late today that Flight-Lieut. Edward Doughty was killed in action April 14. He left Chatham in the Original Firsts as a private and was advanced as an N. C. O. in the infantry while on the field. At the Battle of the Somme he was awarded the military medal for bravery in action and soon afterward returned to England for training as an officer. He joined the Royal Flying Corps and went to France for service on his 22nd birthday, April, 1918. He comes of a fighting family as his father is a veteran of the Egyptian campaign.

CANNOT IMPOSE CHARGES ON BRANTFORD MARKET

BRANTFORD, April 19.—That fees charged on the Brantford market cannot be raised in order to provide a revenue for improvements is the result of an inquiry by the building and grounds committee here, in an endeavor to better conditions prevailing both for the farmers and the public. When the property was originally deeded by the Indians to the corporation the stipulation was made that the market should be a free one for all time. This provision prevents any action being now taken and there is an agitation on foot to remove the market to a civic-owned site.

STRATFORD TAX RATE STRUCK AT 38 1-2 MILLS

STRATFORD, April 19. — The council tonight passed a bylaw fixing the general tax rate for 1918 at 38½ mills, including a patriotic tax rate of 4½ mills. Separate school supporters will only pay 35 mills. The total estimated net expenditure covered by the rate is $302,-237.96. All business and income taxes must be paid before August 1, or 1 per cent interest will be charged for each month in arrears, and 1 per cent interest per month will be charged on all other taxes unpaid on December 31, with a limit of 5 per cent in each case. The tax collector must return his collection roll by March 15, 1919, twelve months earlier than before.

The city engineer was authorized to advertise for applications for a successor to J. P. Malloy, street superintendent, who has resigned. The salary offered is $1,100 per annum.

PROPOSAL TO INCREASE WATER RATES REJECTED

BRANTFORD, April 19.—A proposal to increase the water rates by 25 per cent was rejected by the water commissioners here yesterday. Last year for the first time in the history of the civic operation of the waterworks only a small surplus over all charges was turned over to the city, and with increased cost of fuel, labor and material, doubt was expressed as to whether the waterworks would this year be able to pay its way.

The court, however, warned her that she might have difficulty in collecting, although if Banks does not pay, proceedings can be taken against him for non-support. EXPERT WILL MAKE REPORT SHORTLY ON KENT GAS SITUATION

No New Regulations in the Meantime, Says President of Board.

CHATHAM, April 19.—No new regulations regarding the disposal of natural gas in this district will be made, pending the report of an expert from the Ontario railway and municipal board, according to a letter just received by Mayor Clements from Chairman McIntyre. He states that the expert is at present examining conditions in Kent. As a result of this letter the deputation which was to go to Toronto to protest against the recent order has postponed its visit indefinitely. Chairman McIntyre says that up to July 1 there will be no change regarding the use of gas as it existed prior to the action of the Legislature during the winter.

Ward 2 shows an increase in population of 140, and in assessment of $152,280, according to a report of Assessors Knight and Stephens. There was an increase of more than $100,000 in the value of buildings in the ward during the year.

NEW CANADIAN

Laurier had paid tribute to the late John McMartin, member for Glengarry.

Hon. Mr. Meighen had introduced a bill to amend the Indian act. This bill, Mr. Meighen explained, was to make less difficult the enfranchisement of Indians. That was to say, the withdrawal of Indians from the condition of wards to the condition of citizens. Then Sir Robert rose to move his resolution.

The circumstances, Sir Robert said, were of peculiar gravity. Since March 21 a battle had been proceeding on the western front which might continue for months and might ultimately decide the fate of the world in the war. Up to the present time the attack had been made principally on the British army, which it was apparently the enemy's intention to destroy before any considerable force from the United States could be brought into the battle line. In this way the enemy hoped to bring the war to an end under such conditions as would enable Germany to impose her will, not only on the Allied nations, but upon the world.

Sir Robert reviewed the calls which had been made by Germany on her man power for military service.

The practical disappearance of Russia in the war had had a most important influence on the power which Germany was able to exercise on the western front. Here Sir Robert read a statement made in the British House of Commons, showing that as a result of Russia's defection Germany, in the spring and summer of 1918, would be able to bring to the western front an additional force of no less than 1,600,000 men. She would be able to do more than that. She would be able to hold her eastern front with inferior troops and to send her new levies there that they might be trained for work later on the western front.

What Allies Have Done.

Sir Robert then reviewed what the Allies had done. One-sixth of the entire population of France was in the fighting line. For Canada that would mean at least one and a half million men.

What had the British Empire done? asked Sir Robert, and in answering his question quoted figures which had been compiled by Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Government. These figures gave the total strength of the British forces as 7,500,000 men. Of this number 4,530,000 had been contributed by England, 620,000 by Scotland, 280,000 by Wales, 170,000 by Ireland, 900,000 by the Dominion of Canada and the other colonies, and the remaining million by India and the African dependencies of Great Britain.

Sir Robert expressed the opinion that the figure of 900,000 did not do full justice to what the colonies had done. He thought it should be nearer a million. But anyway the figures spoke for themselves. Australia and New Zealand had put more men into the fighting line in comparison with their populations than Canada had done.

Tribunals Not Efficient.

Coming to the order-in-council covering the amendments to the military service act, Sir Robert said he realized that this act had been based upon the principle of exemption by tribunals. Thousands of these had been established, but owing to the inexperience of the members of the tribunals the quality of their work was varied and sometimes marked by injustice. In some parts of Canada there were so many exemptions that it became the duty of the Government to appeal from 80 to 90 per cent of them. On the whole the results had not been so satisfactory as expected. The order-in-council, he said, had departed to some extent from the principle of exemption, as had been done in Great Britain, but not along the same lines, because the majority of exemptions in Great Britain applied to various occupational classes.

Reviewing the proposed order-in-council, Sir Robert said that under its terms Class 1 would now consist of unmarried men and widowers between 19 and 34 years of age, and Class 2, of married men of the same age. He continued:

The Immediate Call.

"The minister of militia proposes to call out first the men from 20 to 22 years of age in class 1, both inclusive. Later he may be obliged to call out, if the need shall demand it, men in the same class of 19 and 23 years of age. It is estimated that from the men available in this way in each year called out there will probably be ten thousand physically fit for service at the front.

"It may be said that we are abolishing, so far as the classes called out are concerned, the exemptions which were provided in the military service act. That is perfectly true, but I do not krow other means by which the need can be met, and I can assure the members of this House that the need is most urgent and most imperative. It may be said that this will interfere with production.

Production Not All.

"I hope it will not seriously interfere with production, and I realize that production is necessary. But production alone will not suffice. A task remains to the Allied nations—to overcome the enemy on the field of battle.

"The need is urgent. The need is so urgent as this: That without this order-in-council I do not believe we can provide the reinforcements after July 1, and if the enemy attacks—and the attack may come within the next two weeks—we may be left with no reinforcements after June 1."

The plea was made, Sir Robert said, that the order-in-council would create inequality and hardship. But he did not see how it was humanly possible to provide reinforcements in the immediate future unless the Government took the action it proposed. The Government had been assured that all men who could be raised under the regulations would be transported, and if they could not be sent in the immediate future they would be dispatched as soon as ships were provided.

Laurier Sincerely Opposes.

Sir Wilfrid opened his speech by saying that Sir Robert Borden had closed with a declaration of sincerity and earnestness in supporting the resolution before the House. It was with the same sense of profound conviction and sincerity, said Sir Wilfrid, that he now rose to oppose the resolution. He would try to be moderate in the expression of his views on the question, although the temptation might be strong to deal severely with certain phases of the matter.

The resolution before the House, said the leader of the Opposition, was for the purpose of making a change in the military service act. The Allied forces over in France were engaged in a terrific struggle for liberty, and the aim and hope of Canadians as well as the other Allied nations was to crush out Prussianism. "But," he continued, "while this struggle is going on we are not allowing to enter our Government the Prussian autocracy. Last year the Government passed the military service act, and this year it attempts to amend this act by order-in-council. This is a wide departure from the British system of government, and our Government has no right to do it."

Government Highhanded.

The leader of the Opposition went on to criticize the Government's order-in-council passed in connection with the recent riots in Quebec. This order-in-council might have been passed if Parliament had not been sitting, although even then its passage would not have been constitutional, but to pass such an important order when Parliament was in session without consulting the House was preposterous. Why had the House done it? asked Sir Wilfrid. Was the Government afraid that its majority was not large enough to force through such drastic legislation, or was it just sheer wantonness?

Now, went on Sir Wilfrid, the Government came with another embyro order-in-council and asked the House to pass it. The law could not be altered, except by the introduction of a bill which Parliament must give a first, second and third reading. Why did the Government not introduce such a bill, if it wished to amend the military service act, and thus observe the forms of parliamentary laws? The resolution, introduced by the prime minister, should not pass. If desirous to amend the military service act the House should be called upon to do so by a bill. The fact that there was Prussianism in Europe did not justify its introduction into the Canadian Parliament.

Aggravation of Old M.S.A.

The prime minister stated that more men must be secured for service at the front. The resolution proposed to deprive young men who had been granted exemption of that right. They could not even contest the matter. This was only an aggravation of the military service act introduced last year. At that time, Sir Wilfrid said, he had considered the act a mistake. On this point he had found it necessary to differ with many of his colleagues. The prime minister's statement in the House today was a confession that the act had not fulfilled his expectations.

"If we had adhered to the voluntary system," said Sir Wilfrid, "we could have had more soldiers than we have at resent."

Sir Wilfrid gave figures to show the decline in recruiting between January, 1916, and May, 1917. What was the cause, he asked. Sir Sam Hughes had said openly and squarely that he had been ordered by the prime minister and the minister of finance to ease up on recruiting.

"I have yet to know," Sir Wilfrid added, "that the statement has been denied."

Borden Makes Denial.

Sir Robert Borden—The honorable gentleman's memory is not very good. I did deny it.

"In a qualified way, I admit," Sir Wilfrid rejoined.

"Not in any qualified way," the prime minister retorted.

"Then," Sir Wilfrid added, "I will leave it between the prime minister and Sir Sam Hughes."

Sir Wilfrid continued that the announced intention of the military service act was that there would be no departure from universal military service. But on December 3 last an order-in-council was passed empowering the minister of militia to release men needed for agriculture. Thus the minister of militia wanted to get soldiers, but the minister of agriculture was to have farmers. The present, Sir Wilfrid said, was the beginning of the seeding season. If men were taken away from the farms they could not be trained for the front in less than four months, but their loss to production would be felt immediately. "If," Sir Wilfrid declared, "you want to help England in the present emergency, leave the seed men to produce the food, of which she stands in need."

The Cry Against Quebec.

Referring to Quebec, Sir Wilfrid said the elections had largely been fought on the cry "You must not allow Quebec to rule Canada." "Quebec," Sir Wilfrid went on, "does not want to rule Canada. Quebec does not want to rule, nor to be ruled by anybody. Quebec wants to take its position in this fight as a member of the Canadian Confederation. We have been in confederation for fifty years and we shall remain in it."

It had been whispered from ear to ear "we must make Quebec fight." This cry, had gone round all parts of Canada. But, Sir Wilfrid said, the men of Quebec who had gone to the front had shown they could fight. "And," Sir Wilfrid added, "they will fight when they are appealed to on proper lines. If there had been a different manner of approaching them you would have had better results."

After a reference to the Nationalist campaign of 1911, Sir Wilfrid went on, "we cannot be separated. We must be united. How shall we do it? Is it by compulsion, or by conciliation of the people, one man to the other. If you want to have soldiers in Quebec the thing is easy enough. Appeal to them. Appeal to their imaginations. Appeal to their racial feelings. Give them good officers and they will follow these officers into the very jaws of German hell."

Quebec Will Accept.

Sir Wilfrid concluded that when the verdict was pronounced Quebec would loyally accept it. Every citizen had the right to express his views on any measure and to combat it if he thought it to be unjust.

"It is also his duty," Sir Wilfrid said, "loyally to abide by it, whatever the consequences to himself may be and however much he may disapprove of it. It is with these feelings that I appeal to the House—it is not yet too late—not to go further with this measure, but to pause and consider it carefully by all the methods provided by the British system of government which we enjoy and then to make decision accordingly."

Hon. N. W. Rowell, president of the privy council in an eloquent address said the responsibility rested with the Government of Canada to see that the troops at the front were adequately reinforced.

AGRICULTURE COMMITTEE OF COMMONS LISTENS TO CRITICISM OF L.D.A.

Sunday Labor Might Be Necessary to Save Grain Crops.

OTTAWA, April 19.—The Commons committee on agriculture at its first session this morning, under the presidency of R. T. Henders, member for MacDonald, Man., had a long discussion in reference to the labor problem. It was decided to appoint a special committee to make a report to the next meeting.

The committee consists of the following members: Messrs. Morphy, Davis, Argue, McIntosh, Col. Laing and Col. MacKie.

There were strong expressions of opinion by members of the general committee in favor of employing interned aliens and the closing up of non-essential industries.

There was some discussion of the objection by the Lord's Day Alliance to Sunday labor. While the work of the Lord's Day Alliance and its objects were highly praised, several members expressed the opinion that there were conditions, most particularly at the present time, when Sunday labor might be absolutely essential in order to save crops of grain, so greatly required. Under existing circumstances they thought that the Lord's Day Alliance should not insist on too strict an enforcement of the Lord's Day act.

HOPES FOR OPERATION OF LONDON ELECTRIC PLANT ARE ENTERTAINED BY SOME PEOPLE

Chairman of Utilities Commiss ion Declares Power Controller Announced Intentions Aft er Conference at Toronto — Other Views Held by Tho se Who Interviewed Sir Henry —Lively Tilt Between Sir Adam Beck and Drayton.

Various interpretations of the attitude of Sir Henry Drayton, Dominion power controller, on the local power situation, are given by those who made up the civic deputation which Thursday interviewed him at Toronto.

Mayor C. R. Somerville and Chairman Philip Pocock of the utilities commission believe that action will be taken to secure the operation of the London Electric plant. Utilities Commissioner F. G. Mitchell, on the other hand, believes that all hope of action on the part of Sir Henry has been lost.

Will Supply Munitions.

Mr. Pocock says: "There is no doubt in the world but that Sir Henry Drayton, federal power controller, will order the London Electric Company to operate its steam plant here."

Mr. Pocock says he received this assurance from Sir Henry personally after the conference in Toronto.

Mr. Pocock believes the order of Sir Henry will be to the effect that the London Electric shall start operation and supply the munition plants of the city with power. Mr. Pocock says that Sir Henry asked that details be sent him of what was needed in London for munitions, also information as to the load the London Electric plant could develop. He asked that this information be wired to him at Toronto today. Mr. Pocock said that the information was wired this morning.

"I feel certain that there will be action within a week," said the chairman.

Mr. Pocock also looks for further relief for the hydro system by the pooling arrangement. He says that he is sure that when the Electrical Development Company is made to develop power to its fullest extent there will be considerable more power available. He said he was certain that the conference will bring direct relief to London.

Manager Has Same View.

General Manager E. V. Buchanan of the utilities commission also believes that Sir Henry Drayton will order the London Electric to operate its plant and develop 1,500-horse-power to care for the munitions plants and the other war essential industries in London.

Mr. Buchanan concludes this from the statements made by Sir Henry Drayton and also from the order-in-council which was issued yesterday.

Mr. Buchanan says that Sir Henry has evidently awakened to the fact that he has got to do something. The manager says that from the order-in-council he believes that the munition plants will take the coal-produced power, and that the cost will be divided among the different munition plants, whether they are using hydro power or any other kind.

The releasing of 1,500-horsepower from the hydro load would place London in an excellent situation, says the head of the utilities' operations.

No Power at Falls.

Sir Henry, according to Mr. Buchanan, said that there was no power available at the Falls, Sir Henry did not tell the deputation where the power of the Electrical Development Company is going. He did not say whether or not it was going to Buffalo to light store signs and cabarets there. Mr. Buchanan says he understands that restrictions on this class of lighting in Buffalo have been relinquished.

The first thing this morning Mr. Buchanan compiled a list of the munition plans and others producing war essentials, with the amount of power they are using, and wired the information to Sir Henry Drayton at Toronto. With this in his possession, Mr. Buchanan believes, the power controller will order General Manager McDougall of the London Electric, whose office is in Toronto, to immediately start the London plant and supply this power.

Mr. Buchanan believes that the action taken in London is directly responsible for Sir Henry's action.

Utilities Commissioner F. G. Mitchell, who has been working on the power situation, and who has already attained success in initial negotiations with the London Electric in so far that he secured the stopping of the local plant's dismantling, is still optimistic.

No Hope From Drayton.

"We have no hope of any action by Drayton now," said Mr. Mitchell today. "Our only hope lies with the council. I will work out my proposition for the city operation of the London Electric plant, and submit it to the council. If this expedient fails I will go ahead to try and organize a private company to take over and operate the London Electric plant. I am, however, hopeful of the council's co-operation."

Commissioner Mitchell's scheme for the civic operation of the London Electric plant is contingent on the city turning over part at least of the present hydro load in order to permit the economical operation of the system.

Must Turn Over Load.

"The council will have to agree to give us the street lighting if we are to operate the plant successfully," says Mr. Mitchell. "It will mean really nothing in the way of cost, to the city, but will insure sufficient load for the full operation of the steam plant. We will ask that the council pay for its street lights at the same rate now being given to the hydro department. This will relieve the present hydro shortage, and will permit utilization of the full capacity of the steam plant. With the street lighting added to the 1,800 customers of the London Electric we would be able to take the full load of the steam engines, and in this way save much money as well as provide light for those now without it."

Beck Against Steam Plant.

In connection with the London Electric phase of the local situation considerable importance is being attached to comment by Sir Adam Beck at the conference. Sir Henry Drayton asked why the city had not purchased the plant when offered it at scrap valuation. Sir Adam's reply was that the plant would never be considered.

Mayor Is Hopeful.

Mayor Somerville is hopeful that something may come of the deputation's interview with Sir Henry.

"I have strong hopes," declared the mayor, "although Sir Henry did not hold out any assurance that he would give relief to London at once."

The mayor's impression was that the power pooling order might work out to the advantage of London, although this view was not shared by other members of the delegation, who said that Sir Henry specifically stated that the pooling would be applicable only to munitions plants, flour mills and the like.

Unfair to Industries.

Mayor Somerville declares that it is manifestly unfair that the industry which is having a hard time to keep going at present should be forced to use its steam plant for the generation of power at $80 or $90 per horsepower, while munition plants which enjoy big profits could get the cheap hydro energy.

When this phase of the question was presented to Sir Henry, says Mayor Somerville, he admitted that it had given him a different viewpoint on the case.

At the conference in Toronto yesterday, Sir Adam Beck and Sir Henry Drayton had a tilt.

Sir Adam charged that at a time when municipalities taking power from the commission were being compelled to reduce their normal requirements 25 per cent, and when even householders were being deprived of power for several hours each day, Sir Henry Drayton had done nothing to compel the Toronto Electric Light Company and other Mackenzie & Mann concerns to similarly conserve power.

London in Bad Way.

The London representatives pointed out that when the London Electric Company closed down it had only given its customers 30 days' notice. Figures were given to show that the local hydro had done everything in its power to take care of these extra customers. Mr. Pocock stated that in London at present householders were shut off for five hours a day and power users for an hour, so acute was the shortage. The local hydro had only 6,800 horsepower, as compared with 9,200 horsepower a few months ago.

Little encouragement was given the London representatives by the power controller. Under the Dominion order-in-council, he said, he had power to deal only with power for munition plants and public utilities. The London Electric had been supplying domestic consumers almost entirely. It was supplying no munition plants and consequently he had no power to interfere. He had gone into the matter, however, and had been informed that the company was willing to resume operating if guaranteed against loss in operation or it was also willing to sell the plant at scrap value.

"Pooling of Power."

This order-in-council for the pooling of power gives Sir Henry power to compel companies to give priority in the supply of electrical energy to be used by any munitions plant requiring such energy; to oblige companies to operate any steam plants that they may possess or which may be under their control; to meet the requirements of munitions manufacturers whether such manufacturers are or are not, in the ordinary course, customers of the company owning such steam plant or on its lines; and to apportion the extra cost of generating electrical energy to firms engaged in the production of munitions, or on Government contracts, and who obtain such power from the hydro-eletcric commission or any company selling power developed in Ontario by the water of the Niagara River.

Sir Henry is also given power to direct that all vendors of electrical power in the Niagara district shall supply munition plants engaged on Government contracts in preference to all other consumers, as he may direct.

This order was explained to members of the London delegation by Sir Henry as applying only to munitions and other Government contracts. It would not, he said, be in any way applicable to the local situation, for no powers were given him to compel the lighting of a man's house, for instance.

Munitions Come First.

Referring to the new order, Sir Henry said:

"I felt compelled to ask the Government to change the basis of matters entirely and put all the power produced at Niagara in a common lot, and to see, in connection with that power so produced, that munition plants and plants having contracts with the Government relating to the proper conduct of the war had first preference, so that, for instance, though a munition plant might be located on the lines of the Ontario Power Company, the Toronto Power Company, under certain conditions, would have to make some allowance toward that supply. After that public utilities would be served, and after that the question would be entirely left in the hands of the people who control the producing companies. Further than that I also asked that for the purpose of carrying out the order that power should be reserved which would enable an order to be made to anybody, any company that has a steam plant, to produce power for people not on its lines and not ordinarily customers of the system. That is being done."

His recommendation, he said, on the matter of charges was that the right thing to do was to take this added steam cost and treat it as an extra cost. Then an average would be struck as to the fair cost of power and the difference would be divided among the munition contracts or contracts with the Government.

Sir Adam's Objection.

Sir Adam Beck flatly disagreed with Sir Henry Drayton's contention that an electric light company was not a public utility. It would be so dealt with by the United States authorities. The London Electric and the Toronto Electric had not been dealt with in that way at all.

"The municipalities have been curtailed by 25 per cent in their use of power," continued Sir Adam, "but the Toronto Electric Light Company has not been curtailed at all. If they had been curtailed as the municipalities have there would be 5,000 or 6,000 horsepower available for munition plants to meet the shortage." He referred to the action of the Electrical Development Company in withdrawing from the hydro the power from two generators, notwithstanding the appeal of the hydro to the power controller, which was backed up by the statement that it would react upon the munition plants. Then, too, there was the use of power on the other side. He had been told there had been curtailment in Buffalo, but from his own observations he knew this was not the case.

Alleges Unfair Treatment.

"In London it is a disgrace the way the city is being treated," he declared. "I do not think there is a single house in the United States that has been deprived of the necessities of the home by the curtailment of light." He said that he had discussed the matter with the power controller at Washington and had been told that they would never have allowed a company to close down and leave people stranded as had the London Electric. If the hydro had not stepped in the stations and tracks in London would have been without light, and public safety would have been endangered.

"Discrimination," says Beck.

"I charge that there has been discrimination in the Niagara district," declared Sir Adam. "The municipalities have been unable to continue their business and retain their customers. There has been no curtailment enforced upon these companies. Why have they not been compelled to use their steam plants, to cut their customers off at certain hours of the day, as the municipal systems have?" And had the power controller ordered back the 20,000-horsepower which was cut off, as probably could have been done, there would have been no shortage. There is discrimination between this side and the United States, as not a single American city has had domestic consumers cut off, as has been done in London."

Attacks Private Companies.

And then Sir Adam took a fling at the private companies. He agreed that the Toronto Niagara Power Company controlled the London Electric through its shares, but the moment the city tried to take action to remove the latter company's poles, the Toronto Niagara, because of the Senate's indorsation, would at once become the real owner. Sir Adam referred again to the authority given the Mackenzie company to go on using extra power at Niagara. That was supposedly done to relieve the power shortage, yet all it accomplished was to reduce the cost to the Toronto Power Company by allowing it to close down its steam plant. He declared that it was only fair that this steam plant should continue, and that it was nearly time that company was curtailed in its use of power as has been the hydro. The hydro commission was shouldering an extra cost to supply temporary power for munitions. In the United States the Federal Government assisted, but there had been no such offer of help from Ottawa. When Sir Henry suggested that the matter be taken up with the Government, Sir Adam decreed the hydro did not want any Government help, but it did want a little co-operation.

INSOMNIA CURED WITHOUT DRUGS

Internal Bathing Relieves the Cause.

If you do not sleep there is always some cause. Don't start dosing with drugs. Nerves can't consume them. Relieve the cause and a good, sound sleep will be the result.

The system cannot be right if the Colon or large intestine is not kept clean and free from all waste matter. Bathe internally if you want perfect health.

Mr. F. C. Voigt, Rapid City, Man., writes: "For several years I suffered from Indigestion, Nervous Debility, Insomnia and Constipation. Had no appetite, and doctors did not expect I would live throughout the winter. Your book interested me. I got a 'J. B. L. Cascade' and in a few days obtained remarkable results. I now sleep and enjoy my meals better than for years before. I regard the 'J. B. L. Cascade' as a God-send to me."

The "J. B. L. Cascade" is a perfected appliance for Internal Bathing, invented by Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York, and has been the means of restoring thousands to perfect health. It is shown and explained by Standard Drug Company, London, who will be pleased to give you an interesting book called "The What, The Why, The Way of Internal Bathing" on request. Ask for it.

TO FARM 12 ACRES

Street Railway Employees Will Work Broughdale Land.

Street railway employees will cultivate twelve acres of land at Broughdale this year if present plans are successful. The majority of the men are taking up the proposition. The list is being closed today, after which a meeting will be held and some definite action taken for the preparation of the ground for planting, securing seed, etc. It will not be known until after the meeting whether the men will unite with the Vacant Lot Gardening Association or not. In any event, every effort will be put forth to secure the maximum production from the twelve acres, which have been donated by the company for the use of the men.

LONDON MINISTER MAY BE MODERATOR OF DOUBLE SYNOD

The name of Rev. J. G. Stuart of this city is prominently mentioned in connection with the moderatorship for another year of the Synod of Hamilton and London, of which the annual meeting is called for the week of April 28, to be held in the First Presbyterian Church, this city. Mr. Stuart has been nominated by the London Presbytery, and was named also in connection with the office a year ago.

The appointment of the moderator will take place at the opening session on Monday night, April 29, when a prominent feature will be the sermon of the present moderator, Rev. W. K. Shearer of Drumbo.

The members of the program committee are pleased in their success in securing the eminent American divine, Dr. Shailer Matthews of Chicago University to deliver a series of two lectures on Tuesday, April 30.

The synod includes territory extending west of Wellington County to Lake Huron, and from Lake Erie to the Georgian Bay, taking in Bruce County. In the south, it stretches from Niagara to Windsor.

GRAND OLD MAN MAKES STATEMENT

Mr. Geo. Somers Finds Dodd's Kidney Pills Best.

In His Eighty-second Year He Tells Why, After Trying Other Medicines, He Pins His Faith to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Barrie, Ont., April 19—(Special).—Mr. George Somers, Barrie's grand old man, now in his eighty-second year, has made a statement in regard to Dodd's Kidney Pills, Canada's grand old kidney remedy. "I have tried several kinds of kidney pills," Mr. Somers states. "I have arrived at the conclusion that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best so far; at least, they have given me the best satisfaction. I have taken them for nearly twenty-five years off and on as I have needed them."

Mr. Somers, who for forty years before retiring was a carriage woodworker, strained his back while gardening, and for over twenty years has been troubled, more or less, with his kidneys.

That he has pinned his faith to Dodd's Kidney Pills after trying the other kinds is considered a splendid tribute to the grand old Canadian kidney remedy. At his advanced age he is splendid evidence of the good work Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing.

Make Your Vegetable Garden A Family Aft.

The best way to insure the success of your vegetable garden is to get every member of the family interested in it.

Don't put the whole burden upon father and mother. Any child over the age of ten years can, and usually will be glad to help, if his interest is encouraged; and even younger children may be shown how to help.

The way one family cultivated a very successful vegetable garden last year was as follows:

The husband and wife planned the garden. The man spaded up the soil and manured it as he went along.

Then he and his wife and their two eldest children raked it all over thoroughly and put in other fertilizer. In this way they got the ground into good condition.

The man planted the potatoes, the corn, the tomatoes and the cabbages.

The woman attended to the beans, peas, green onions, spinach, radish and lettuce.

The children looked after the late onions, parsnips, beets and carrots. And they all helped one another with the hoeing.

What was the result?

There grew up in that family a friendly rivalry and an interest in the garden such as no person would have believed possible had the experiment not been tried.

The family had plenty of salad vegetables during the summer. They preserved sufficient tomatoes, beans and pickles to last all through the Winter and they took off enough potatoes, beets, carrots, parsnips and onions to carry them through until March of this year.

What this family did your family should be able to do. The way they went about cultivating their garden is described in a booklet entitled "A Vegetable Garden for Every Home." This book has been prepared by the Ontario Department of Agriculture for distribution to any householder who will send for a copy. It is full of helpful, practical suggestions, including plans for various sized gardens. You can get a copy free by filling out and mailing the coupon below.

THE BIG HEALTH DRIVE HAS BEEN STARTED

TO BUILD UP THE BLOOD OF THE PEOPLE

Spring Is the Time When People, Worn and Weary After a Hard Winter, Need a Tonic to Restore the Blood and Renew Energy and Ambition.

It is one of the most persistent traditions of the human race to take a tonic for the blood in the spring, and like most of the accumulated wisdom of mankind it has a sound, scientific basis. Winter is always a trying season for people who have small reserve of physical strength. Not many of us get as much exercise and out-of-door air in winter as in summer. Much of our time is spent in rooms none too well ventilated, our diet lacks the fresh green foods of summer, and it is no wonder that the blood grows thin and sluggish with ill effects on the entire system.

Many people who need a tonic neglect it, because they are not sick enough to cause them any worse feeling than one of fatigue and discomfort. They do not realize that the decline in health is so gradual that they, themselves, do not realize how far from normal they are until the pale face, weak nerves, languidness and irritability attract the attention of friends. Even then a tonic is the right remedy, and there is absolutely no other tonic to compare with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This medicine builds up and enriches the blood and sends renewed health and strength to every part of the body. The appetite is improved, the digestion is toned up, there is new color in the cheeks and lips, vigorous health replaces weariness and lassitude and you find a new joy in living.

INDIGESTION CURED.

Mrs. Harry Odd, Nipissing, Ont., says: "For a long time I was a great sufferer from indigestion. I could not eat a meal without undergoing much suffering, and as time went on I naturally became much rundown, and found the greatest difficulty in doing my housework. In fact, only those who have suffered from stomach trouble can realize how deplorable my condition was. I was treated by a doctor, but as he was not helping me I began taking other medicines, and had used several kinds without benefit before I heard that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended for this trouble. The result was that I was constantly growing weaker and weaker when my mother advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After using a few boxes I found they were helping me, and I continued taking them until I had used eight boxes, by which time the trouble had entirely disappeared and I was again enjoying the best of health."

A NERVOUS WRECK.

Miss Faith Scott, Brantford, Ont., says: "It would be difficult to find a person more benefited by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills than I have been. At the time I used them I was a nervous wreck, suffering from sleeplessness, dizziness and a severe form of headache. I was recommended to try your pills and did so with such good results that today I am enjoying the best of health and feel like a different girl. A dose of the pills occasionally keeps me in the best of health."

RHEUMATISM CURED.

Mr. Fred Elsie, Dashwood, Ont., says: "When I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was little better than a wreck; for years I had suffered periodically from rheumatism and lumbago. I was constantly doctoring, and while this gave me some relief, it did not cure me. As a matter of fact before I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I had spent more than a hundred dollars in other treatment and was still a sufferer. Then I was recommended to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and the use of only six boxes made a cure, and I have not had a twinge of the trouble since. While taking the pills my weight and general health increased in a most gratifying manner, and you may be sure I will always be a warm friend of this medicine."

ST. VITUS DANCE CURED.

Mrs. William Hill, Stratford, Ont., says: "I suffered from a nervous breakdown after the birth of my first child, and the trouble developed into St. Vitus dance, which put me into such a condition that I was scarcely able to do my housework; my hands twitched and trembled so that I could scarcely hold anything, and I walked so unsteadily that I was afraid to go out. Before beginning the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I tried several remedies, but they did not help me. It was on the advice of a friend that I took the pills, and in a short time they made a complete cure and I have ever since enjoyed the very best of health."

BAD BLOOD PURIFIED.

Miss Annie Durocher, Maidstone, Ont., says: "I am more grateful than I can say for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. My blood was in a very bad condition, I was weak, appetite poor, the least exertion would leave me breathless and my face was covered with pimples. I tried many medicines without getting any help, and then through a friend heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to give them a fair trial. The result is that this medicine purified and enriched my blood, cleared away all the pimples and left me enjoying the best of health. If I feel that I need a medicine again, you may be sure that it is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I shall take."

DIZZINESS AND FATIGUE.

Miss Beatrice M. Thomson, Guelph, Ont., says: "I have derived great benefit from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For nearly a year I was troubled with anaemia, and many of its attendant evils. My face had a pale, tired, worn-out appearance, and I suffered from dizziness and fatigue with the slightest exertion. I tried different medicines, but instead of helping me I was actually growing worse. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and by the time I had used three boxes felt much better. I continued using the pills until I had taken six boxes, when I found my health fully restored. I most warmly recommend these pills to anyone who may be in poor health."

Do not be persuaded to take a substitute. See that the full trade mark name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," is printed on the wrapper around the box. If you cannot get these Pills through your dealer, they will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

Proof that Some Women do Avoid Operations

Mrs. Etta Dorion, of Ogdensburg, Wis., says:

"I suffered from female troubles which caused piercing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief and six bottles have entirely cured me. All women who have female trouble of any kind should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

How Mrs. Boyd Avoided an Operation.

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well.

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARIE BOYD, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

AMERICAN DESCRIBES REMARKABLE HEROISM OF BELGIAN SOLDIERS

NEW YORK, April 19.—Gallantry displayed by a Belgian patrol of ten men in holding off for an hour, until reinforcements arrived, an attacking force of 300 Germans near Reigersvliet, was described in a message from the Flanders front received here today by Senator Henry LaFontaine, head of the American fund for gifts for Belgian soldiers.

"With remarkable courage, Major Brenez with only nine men and one machine gun held out against the attacks of 300 of the enemy with twelve machine guns," says the message. "It was only at the end of an hour and by the purest luck that another Belgian patrol, which had heard the fire from another point, came to the rescue in the Belgian sector. The garrison took the offensive, taking back the lost trenches and many prisoners and guns.

"King Albert telegraphed his congratulations to these troops, who had once more given proof of their bravery and the high morale of the Belgian army."

"NOT GUILTY" VERDICT FAVORS COL. READMAN

QUEBEC, April 19.—A verdict of "not guilty" was brought in this afternoon by the jury in the trial of Colonel Readman, former commandant of the 167th Battalion who was charged with forgery. Colonel Readman will appear again on Monday morning to await the decision of the crown as to whether they will proceed with the other charges against him. It is unlikely that the other charges will be pushed.

FIRST MONTH OF GERMAN DRIVE HAS FAILED IN ITS OBJECTIVE; ALLIED LOSSES ARE NOT VITAL

British Have Borne Brunt of Blow Without Losing Organization, and Their Losses in Men and Guns Have Been Replaced—Third German Blow or Allied Offensive Would Seem Due.

By Frank H. Simonds

Author of "The World War," "They Shall Not Pass," etc.

(Copyright, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

NEW YORK, April 19.—The skillful withdrawal of the British from the forward positions east of Ypres removes the larger fraction of the chances of an isolation of the British and Belgian armies in Belgium from the main mass of Allied armies in France and a consequent disaster. Until the British have retaken the Messines—"White Sheet" Ridge—or retired out of Ypres altogether, the danger will remain, but not in any acute form.

In estimating the meaning of the retirement, three considerations must be examined. First, the reason for it; second, the value of the ground evacuated, and third the conditions of the new front on which the British have elected to stand, at least temporarily.

Necessity for Change.

The reasons for the retirement are simply told. When the Germans on Monday took the Messines-Wytschaete Ridge, which they had been assailing for several days, they looked north and down hill upon the single railway line and main highway, which feed the Ypres salient, and they were only three miles away from these. If they could advance three miles before the British troops east of Ypres could get back and beyond the danger point, they would envelop and capture many thousands of British troops and a vast booty of guns and material.

As it stood at the critical moment, the British on the ridges east of Ypres in a broad circle from the flooded area to Passchendaele were nearly eight miles away from the point in the Ypres-Poperinghe road toward which the Germans were advancing and from which they were only three miles distant. It was, therefore, essential to retire at once and to do two things namely, to get all the troops east of Ypres back nearer the danger point and secondly to get as many as possible beyond it, to avoid a threatened Sedan.

Greatly Improves Position.

To accomplish these two things, Haig first drew back his troops from the broad circle of hills to a comparatively straight front just east of the ruins of Ypres, the front occupied by the British when they began their great offensive last year. This retirement shortened his line by nearly fifteen miles and this shortening released almost half the men who had been holding the longer front and permitted them to retire west of Ypres and beyond the danger point. Further, it gave Haig some fresh troops which were apparently used in the counter-offensive, which on Wednesday took but could not hold the Messines Ridge.

To avoid possible envelopment and capture incident to the advance of the Germans over the Messines Ridge toward the Ypres-Poperinghe road, the British thus abandoned all their gains in last year's offensive. What were the value of these gains? In the main they were only for an offensive. When Haig set out last year to drive a wedge between the Germans on the Belgian coast and those in the Lys Valley and west of Lille, he had first to capture the circle of hills east and north of Ypres, of which Passchendaele is the most famous. He had then to advance down the northern and eastern slopes of these hills upon Roulers.

Where Haig Was Blocked.

The first step was taken, the second was blocked and at the end of the campaign of 1917 the British occupied all the high ground, but they were still far from Roulers. They were in the position of the Germans before Verdun in 1916, after the crown prince had taken Vaux and Douaumont and been checked just west of these forts.

The Germans were presently driven off the Douaumont Plateau by French counter-offensives, and lost what they gained, but their main line was not thus endangered and the defensive positions from which they had attacked Verdun remained intact.

The same thing has happened east and north of Ypres. The British have abandoned ground gained in the first phase of an offensive which did not attain its larger objects. The only difference is that their abandonment has been due to an attack south of Ypres, and not, as in the case of Verdun, by a direct and disastrous enemy offensive.

The ground abandoned by the British, then, was valuable for an offensive, not a defensive operation. Now that they are on the defensive, and the decision of the war is to be had in another field, the British lose nothing of vital importance by giving up the famous Passchendaele-Langemarck-Poelcapelle positions, just as the Germans are not now hurt in their present operations by the fact that they lost Fort-de-Vaux and Douaumont, before Verdun.

Have Made Good Move.

East and north of Ypres the British are now holding the strong positions in which they defended Ypres from April, 1915, to the start of last year's offensive, while at certain points they still hold ground lost in April, 1915, but successfully defended in November, 1914. So far, then, the statement of Gen. Maurice that the British, by shortening their front, have strengthened it is true, and in addition they have been able to get some 50,000 men and a mass of heavy artillery and material out of the bad corner in which they were placed by the German success at Messines.

On the other hand, unless the British can retake and hold the Messines-Wytschaete Ridge, a further retirement out of Ypres seems inevitable, since the German guns and the German observers on this ridge command not only the roads open to the defenders of Ypres for munitions, but also the rear of their lines of defence east and north of Ypres. For a certain number of days the British may hold on, but in the end the fate of Ypres seems locked up in that of the Messines Ridge.

Could Well Yield Further.

But, even if the British retire out of Ypres, no serious consequences need follow. They can straighten their line and shorten it. They have had for three years prepared positions against just such an eventuality, and these positions run from the high ground west of Kemmel somewhere in front or just behind Poperinghe, and thence to the flooded district of the Yser, where contact is made with the Belgians. When such a retreat is made, if it should be made, then the whole German effort to thrust a wedge between the Allies in France and in Belgium will be definitely parried, the Allied line will run straight from the high ground north of Arras to the sea at Nieuport, one more dangerous salient will be ironed out; that is the extent of the immediate military consequences.

What all observers have been afraid of was that the British would hold the whole dangerously extended Ypres salient too long, just as Bazaine stayed in Metz too long in 1870, with the result that the Germans reached the road to Verdun, and Bazaine was enveloped, thrown back into Metz and presently captured with his great army. This is what the Germans have been aiming at, and the Ypres-Poperinghe highway has the same value as the Metz-Verdun road possessed nearly half a century ago. But the main danger of such a disaster has passed, not improbably all danger is practically over.

First Month's Failure.

In the end, it all comes down to this: The Germans are striving to break through the British line and envelop some portions of the British forces, isolating them from the rest. This is their strategy in the north, as their effort to separate the British from the French was the basis of their strategy in the south. The British on the north have temporarily blocked the wedge, before Hazebrouck, and while holding the wedge stationary, have shortened and drawn in their lines to the north to conform to the situation created by the early successes of the German successes at Armentieres.

Thus at the end of the first month of the German offensive the effort to isolate the British from the French and the British and Belgian armies in Belgium from the British army in France has failed. The advance both to Amiens and to the channel has been temporarily checked. So far the British have lost men, guns and positions, but they have not lost their organization; they have replaced their lost guns and men, and the positions surrendered are in no sense vital. The German attack has succeeded beyond any Allied calculation, but it has failed to realize any of the important objectives, which were included in the strategy of Ludendorf and Hindenburg, and the best of German manhood, the flower of the Prussian military system, has been sacrificed in indecisive and local victories—great beyond all debate, but victories resembling Malpaquet, and not Sedan.

And we have now reached the point at which we must expect a third German blow, or an Allied counter-offensive to forestall this blow and deprive the Germans of the initiative.

TO CALL THE YOUNG UNMARRIED MEN AND CHILDLESS WIDOWERS

No Proclamation Needed for First Class.

EACH WILL BE NOTIFIED

If Men of 19 Are Called Later Proclamation Will Be Needed.

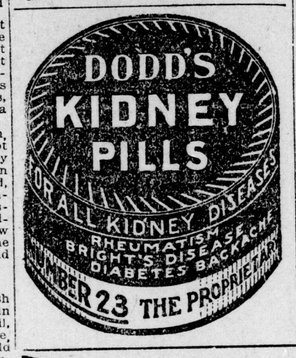

OTTAWA, April 19.—The passing of the military man-power resolution by both Houses of Parliament today will be followed by the calling to the colors of unmarried men and widowers from 20 to 22 years of age, both inclusive, and who have been granted exemption. All exemptions in the cases indicated will be cancelled, although the minister of militia may grant leave of absence without pay to any man "by reason of the death, disablement of other members of the same family who are on active service in any theatre of the war."

As the men to be called up were included in class 1 and were required to report for service or claim exemption by the proclamation issued last October, it is stated that no further proclamation will be necessary in their case.

The course followed will probably be the same as was adopted when category B men were called up a short time ago—each man will be notified by the district registrar when and where he is to report for duty.

Should men of 19 be subsequently called out, however, a further proclamation will be necessary, as they were not covered by the October proclamation.

It is expected, however, that the procedure to be adopted will be officially announced tomorrow.

No More Furloughs for Overseas Men Till Crisis is Over

OTTAWA, April 19.—Major-General Mewburn has received a cablegram from overseas minister of militia announcing that no more furloughs or leaves of absence can be granted to officers or men of the C. E. F. serving overseas.

This in view of the very serious situation at the front and the absolute need of men remaining at their posts until the crisis is over.

No extensions of leave of absence or further furlough will, therefore, be granted except for medical reasons to officers and men of the overseas forces now in Canada.

Kidney Trouble Conquered, Health Restored

Capt. W. G. Reid (retired), says Gin Pills Succeeded where all other remedies Failed!

At Advanced Age, Veteran offers for Service in France.

Hamilton, Ont.—Count yourself fortunate if you ever have the opportunity to talk with Mr. W. G. Reid, a veteran of the Fenian Raid, and probably the only man who has served nearly half a century as a commercial traveller in Canada.

Hale and hearty, and with the smooth, clear complexion of a man fifty years younger, Mr. Reid walks with a firm step, and glows with enthusiasm as he tells you of the fighting in the Fenian Raid, of his travels in Canada during the last 50 years, and of his desire to serve in France right now if the authorities can be made to realize that men of "three score years and ten" may be fit for active work abroad.

And you may be sure of this. If Mr. Reid succeeds in being sent to France, he will take along with him a liberal supply of Gin Pills, to which he credits his remarkable health.

As a matter of fact, it was because of his stout reliance on Gin Pills that the writer sought Mr. Reid in his office in Hamilton, where he is still a guiding spirit in half a dozen enterprises.

In answer to the question how he came to try Gin Pills, the veteran said: "I can hardly tell you how long it is since I was first concerned about my Kidneys. Travelling in Canada forty years ago was very different from the way you came down to Hamilton to-day, with your corridor trains, Pullman and chair cars and fine meals served on the trains.

"When I started on the road, it often meant behind an old livery stable nag, riding through all weathers and putting up with whatever accommodation could be found. I would often find myself doubled up with pains across the back. I was seldom free for a day from the aches, and at night my rest was disturbed as is often the case with those suffering from Kidney trouble.

"I worried about my health, and it was made clear to me that if I did not get my kidneys in better shape Diabetes or Bright's Disease would inevitably follow.

"I saw the best doctors of the day, and took their advice and medicines without any real benefit. Following their instructions, I have tried a change of climate—half a dozen changes—but if I got any benefit at all it was because of the rest, and I am not the resting kind.

"For years I took my life in my hands going ahead travelling, both here in Canada and in trips to the Old Country, always tortured by my back and kidneys, with my legs swelling and my knuckles growing bad.

"Then one day—it must be fully fifteen years ago—I was sitting in a small hotel in Thessalon, Ont.—out on the Soo branch—and somebody noticed my distress and asked me what was the matter. I explained, and this gentleman, Mr. A. C. Garden, ever since then a firm friend of mine, asked me to try Gin Pills. I said it was no use, that I had spent hundreds of dollars already for professional advice and for change of climate and so on, and it wasn't likely that Gin Pills or any other preparation could avert the tragedy I was headed for.

"However, Mr. Garden was so insistent that he had known others as sick as I was who had been very materially helped, that when he pulled a box of Gin Pills out of his pocket and offered me some, I took a couple then and there.

"Now I am not going to tell you I was cured on the spot; I was not. But inside of six hours I had evidence that I had struck something different. I got so much relief that I eagerly bought a box of Gin Pills and took them according to instructions, noting happy changes for the better all the time.

"By the time I had taken eight boxes I could honestly say I was cured. Was I delighted? Why, say, I could work with my old time vim once more, and sleep right through the night without trouble. Furthermore, my dread of Diabetes and Bright's Disease was gone forever.

"I knew I had found in Gin Pills the conqueror of Kidney Disease, and whenever since then, as a man of my years must expect, there has been any symptoms of the Kidneys not acting properly, out comes my box of Gin Pills and the trouble never has a chance to develop.

"You can imagine I felt pretty grateful for the relief afforded me, and determined to recommend Gin Pills at every opportunity. And you will believe I have had some opportunities. During the last ten years, though in my seventies, I have been active on the road from Halifax to Vancouver, and I very much doubt that what with my road work, my service in the Fenian Raid of '66, and my long association with lodge work, whether you could find a dozen men in Canada with more personal acquaintances than I have.

"Train men especially seem to be subject to Kidney trouble, and many a conductor has taken my advice regarding Gin Pills, and thanked me for it. When I remember what I endured through Kidney trouble and Rheumatism, and the freedom from these which I now enjoy, I feel it not only a duty but a pleasure to recommend Gin Pills to my thousands of personal friends throughout Canada."

As we walked down the road together, the writer had to step briskly to keep up with this "young" man, so that it did not seem so strange to hear a veteran of the Fenian Raid talk of the services he hoped yet to be allowed to render in France. Captain Reid (he is a retired senior Captain of the 13th Royal) has offered his services to the Government to assist in taking the soldier vote in the trenches of France and Flanders. Captain Reid's only son is on the firing line. One nephew has made the supreme sacrifice.

In giving this interview Mr. Reid hopes to carry on the message he has spread regarding the treatment of Rheumatism and Kidney Disease. And just as his new health dated from the day he was given a sample, so may yours. Gin Pills depend for their enormous sale on the actual results they obtain. That is why the manufacturers are willing at all times to send a sample box, without charge, to anyone writing for same.

Furthermore, the full treatment may be purchased with equal confidence. The price is 50 cents a box or 6 boxes for $2.50, sold by all dealers on the understanding that if you do not derive satisfaction your money will be returned.

Even though you, personally, may have little faith in Gin Pills, remember that others who have been cured were equally doubtful of obtaining results until they actually tried Gin Pills.

If you, or any of your friends, have any of the following indications of kidney or bladder trouble, try Gin Pills: Backache, Swollen Joints, Stiffness of the Knees, Rheumatism, Pains across the Kidneys or through the Groins, Dizziness on Stooping, Constant Headaches, Urinary Disorders, Stone, Gravel or Inflammation of the Bladder, Lumbago or Sciatica.

DESIRES MORE UNITY BETWEEN FRENCH AND ENGLISH CATHOLICS

Toronto Archbishop Says French-Canadian Newspaper Statements Are False.

MONTREAL, April 19.—A plea for unity between the Catholics in Ontario, both French and English-speaking, is made by Monsignor Neil McNeil, archbishop of Toronto, in a letter published in La Presse today. His grace says that the ill-will among Catholics near the border line of Quebec and Ontario, where differences of languages sometimes lead to divided interests, is not shared by the mass of English-speaking Catholics throughout Ontario. He says he has heard at public gatherings of Catholics in central Ontario many references to French-Canadians, and they have always been applauded by the assembled people.

The archbishop says he has examined into the statements of French-Canadian newspapers and pamphlets that the bishops of Ontario are hostile to Quebec, and that the prelates are largely responsible for regulation 17, and announces that he finds them without foundation.

The Quality Goes Clear Through

GRAY-DORT

Well Done—

WE wanted the Gray-Dort car well done beyond comparison. In striving to have it well done, we found the accepted formulæ of motor car building wholly inadequate.

We found, for example, that we wanted a better, simpler, sturdier motor than was being used in cars of the Gray-Dort class. So we called in Etienne Planche, perfecter of the Peugot motor, and had him build the splendid power-plant that goes in every Gray-Dort.

We were not satisfied with the comfort of other light cars. So we designed a special body of unusual roominess, with extra good cushions, and 50 inch full cantilever springs in the rear.

We found that many owners of cars at all prices had trouble with the starting and lighting system. For the Gray-Dort we secured the Westinghouse.

Throughout the entire car it is the same. Fine materials, painstaking workmanship, correct design have made this a fine car, yet a less costly car than many that lack its quality.

The new Gray-Dort embodies all the good features that won instant success for former models. The 4-cylinder motor is a triumph of smooth, economical speed and power. The chassis is sturdy and quiet. The springs are long. The upholstery is deep. The equipment is absolutely complete from electric starting and lighting to the tools. New lines of beauty have been given this model. The five-passenger touring car is $1,125; the three-passenger fleur-de-lys roadster is $995; the Gray-Dort special, beautifully finished and with extra details of equipment is $125 above the list. All prices are f.o.b. Chatham.

INCLUDE THE WAR VETERANS.

THE COMMITTEES in charge of the big drive to be made next week for the combined war funds would be well advised to increase the objective in order to include a generous amount for the construction or purchase of a home for the returned soldiers.

For some time the Great War Veterans have been seeking funds to secure a building which will be regarded as the permanent home of the organization and of the men who have served in the war. Their efforts to secure a grant from the city were not rewarded owing to the city being out of funds, and the campaign to secure an amount from citizens by personal canvass has not been successful.

Few people will deny that for the service they have rendered, the returned men have received little. They have done splendid work, especially during the coal shortage of last winter, providing coal for families, and in many cases receiving no financial return. They have taken care of the wives and widows and children of their comrades without the sometimes intolerant attitude of official charity. To supply funds by means of which a permanent home for the association could be secured would place a force behind the men in their good works and fill them with gratitude to citizens. Their cause is as worthy as any on the list to be provided for.

THE FREEDOM OF THE PRESS.

UNION GOVERNMENT has recently framed an order-in-council dealing with the liberty of the press. As is generally known, the Government has not been without power to censor any kind of publication since war began. The war measures act has been the instrument by means of which the secretary of state operated a censorship bureau, in charge of Major Ernest J. Chambers. The newspapers have been fortunate in having as the director of this important work a man of the capacity of Major Chambers. He has set up no arrogant dicta in order to show his authority; his regulations have been issued from time to time, very clearly, very fully and very fairly. He has put into official form the precautionary plans which many newspapers would have adopted for themselves. The regulations have been concerned, for the most part, with the movements of troops, and with other matters looking to the safety of the Canadian forces, and to their general welfare. Major Chambers has exercised a wise restraint in dealing with papers that have erred in the carrying out of his orders, otherwise penalties would have been imposed at some time or another upon almost every newspaper in Canada. Mistakes have been inadvertently made, but so far as has been learned the censorship has operated almost perfectly. The newspapers now know from second nature what matters are not to be printed.

The sort of censorship described above is a necessary war-time work. It is vital to the interest of the country that such information as concerns the welfare and safety of the forces at home, in transport and overseas, should be a matter of primary consideration and efficient organization, in order that haphazard handling should not leave the question of military information subject to local dictation. The newspapers have gladly acceded to the wishes of the censor, and in many instances have co-operated with him in such a manner as to receive his generous thanks for information supplied. Further than this, there are few Canadian newspapers which will object to regulations preventing the publication of seditious articles, or insidious appeals, calculated to affect the war spirit of the people. No newspaper which is loyal to the cause of the country will do anything but applaud such prohibitions. In fact, the Canadian press has been the first medium to point out the existence of such publications, and to urge the exclusion of foreign publications which for many months carried pro-German propaganda into many parts of the country. No fair regulation looking to the strengthening of the country's arm will be objected to.

But the new order-in-council, far from making certain specific rulings as to the manner in which newspapers shall conduct themselves, develops into a broad and general edict which may be enforced as a protection for the Government rather than for the country. In the name of seeking to prevent publications that "would divert attention from the object of winning the war," the Government will be able to strike at an unfriendly publisher on almost any pretext. It may seize his newspaper and destroy his "presses, plant, machinery or material." Why the violence? It sounds like the latest order from Bolsheviki headquarters.

The chief censor, through the war measures act, has had power to deal with published statements calculated to injure the cause of the country or her allies. The new order smacks of an attempt to give Herr Bourassa of Quebec, who has enjoyed immunity for several years, a good scare and also to notify critics of the Government that they had better be mighty careful what they say.

The Toronto Telegram sees a menace to the liberty of the press in the latest dictum. It believes that Union Government has taken to itself power to prevent such criticism as the criticism that relieved Canada's soldiers from the curse of the Ross rifle, the retirement of Sir Sam Hughes, the breaking up of the old shell committee. The Telegram declares that the suppression of press criticism "protects incompetence at Ottawa." And the protection of incompetence is no effective means of helping to win the war. The Telegram believes that "the orders-in-council are capable of being utilized for the protection of the Union Government from criticism rather than for the protection of liberty from destruction."

The Advertiser believes that if this order-in-council were applied to the full extent of its autocratic possibilities all honest criticism might be barred from public journals. The details of an unfair pensions award, the airing of a condition in the Government service such as the department of militia, the exposure of a munitions scandal or in fact any pernicious activity even remotely connected with the war, might be completely suppressed and a newspaper punished for their publication.

What is the proper method? Simply to place the whole matter in the hands of some person or persons known to be altogether removed from the influence of politics. If the publishers can be assured that the enforcement of the law will continue to rest with Major Chambers and that the source of any complaint against a newspaper shall be made known, the threat of destroying the freedom of the press will be minimized if not removed. Those who seek to criticise fairly and honestly will not be frightened merely by the flourishing of a Bogey Man from behind the fence by any peevish ministers.

Save a teaspoonful of sugar every day! If every one else will do the same thing a total of 19,925 tons will be saved in a year. Give all the money to some good cause and the war will benefit to the extent of $3,985,000. These facts are from a diagram issued by the Ontario Safety League.

PASSING THE BUCK.

[American Khakiland.]

The Colonel tells the Major
When he wants something done,
And the Major tells the Captain,
And gets him on the run.

The Cap'n thinks it over,
And to be sure an' suit,
Passes the buck an' baggage
To some shave-tail Second "Lieut."

The said Lieutenant ponders,
And strokes his downy jaw,
Then calls his trusty Sergeant,
And to him lays down the law.

The Sergeant calls a Corporal,
To see what he can see,
So the Corporal gets a Private,
And the poor damned Private's me.

So you see I run the business
Of this here regiment,
I work, 'n strain until
My blooming back is bent.

But I don't care, it's all a scheme
To fool old Kaiser Bill,
So I'll gladly bust this back o' mine,
And work 'n sweat until—

We're in Berlin, and the war is won,
And we're 'et our belly's fill,
Of meat, 'n' butter, 'n' lollypops,
And the treat'll be on Bill.

Then I'll come home, an' see my gal,
An' mebbe she won't care,
If I was a first-class Private
Away off over there.

Anon claims that he read this one in an almanac dated 1848. A man called on a farmer and asked if the farmer had any rats. The farmer said the place was overrun with them. Thereupon the man offered to kill all the rats on the place for $2. The farmer accepted the offer. The man then requested a chopping block. This was brought. The man then requested a sharp hatchet. And this was brought. "Now," said the man to the farmer, "bring on your rats!"

"Any Old Place the Gang Goes, I'll Be There"

A charging song with fighting words set to a war-like tune. Perhaps you can guess that "the gang" is bound for Berlin—and you'll certainly want to join in the charging chorus. On the back, "Faugh-A-Ballah." A2514—85c.

A typically clever Samuel Ash interpretation of one of the most popular songs of the day. On the back, "I don't care to live in any marble halls with you." A2511—85c.

JIMMY COON STORIES

By Dr. Warren G. Partridge.

Copyright 1917 by George Matthew Adams.

HOW JIMMY COON ESCAPED FROM THE GATORS.

It was very daring, and also very foolish for Jimmy Coon to try to rob the eggs out of that Alligator's nest, beside that little Bayou, or Pond, in the Great Forest in Georgia.

But Jimmy, you know, thought it was the nest of some big and strange bird. But when Mother Gator rushed from the water to swallow Jimmy alive, he realized his awful mistake. And when Ole Mr. Bull Gator, with his awful bass voice, bellowed at Jimmy like a huge lion, and pounced out of the water to grab Jimmy in his wide open jaws, poor little Jimmy was frantic with terror. And just as the big sharp teeth of Ole Mr. Bull Gator were about to close around Jimmy's fat and furry little body, Jimmy darted like lightning into a small hole in that little sapling.

How Jimmy did tremble, as those four huge Gators tore around that tree, and while Ole Mr. Bull Gator bellowed "Let me once get hold of that furry rascal and I'll skin him alive!"

And then Ole Mr. Bull Gator opened those immense jaws, showing his big, sharp teeth, and he began to crunch that little sapling where Jimmy was hiding, just as you would bite a wooden toothpick.

And soon that little sapling toppled over and fell to the ground. And those four big Gators, in their awful rage, tore that little sapling into the finest kindling wood you ever saw. But where was Jimmy Coon? You could see no blood or fur as the Gators tore open that little hollow sapling, and you couldn't hear the mangled Jimmy Coon crying for help.

Well, wonder of wonders, where was Jimmy Coon? You see, that Jimmy Coon found that the hole inside that little sapling extended to near the top; so he just climbed up inside that little hollow sapling, and got out on a branch and hid among the thick leaves.

And when that little sapling began to fall, Jimmy Coon gave a big jump and landed on a branch of a big sycamore tree; and Jimmy scampered home, running like mad among the tops of the trees.

He was lucky to have this elevated road to his home. For those Gators were tearing around under those trees, vowing that they would chew him into mincemeat. But Jimmy stopped just a moment in that big sycamore tree to look and see what the Gators were doing to that little hollow sapling. And as Jimmy saw their awful rage, and heard their racket, he said, inside his furry jacket: "Why, those chaps look like Giant Turtles or Giant Lizards. I like to eat lizards, but I don't believe I could eat Ole Mr. Bull Gator, with his awful, hoarse, bass voice."

When that little sapling began to fall Jimmy Coon gave a big jump.

R. G. DAVIS TELLS OF BOYS' WORK IN LONDON

The regular monthly meeting of the Chesley avenue Mother's Club was held Thursday evening in the Kindergarten room with a large attendance. R. G. Davis of the Y. M. C. A. gave an interesting talk on "Boys' Work." Mr. Davis explained the great need of supervised playgrounds. "It means a great deal more to be a boy now than it did a few years ago. They have greater responsibilities and more is expected of them and while they are in their young days it is only fair that they should have everything that the community can possibly give them. London is leading in "boys' work" in Western Ontario, said the speaker. A musical program was given by a quartet composed of the Misses Somerville, Bradley, Skinner and Udy. Scotch selections by Mr. Garrow were much enjoyed as was the solo by Mrs. Phillipo, accompanied by Mrs. Milligan. Refreshments were served by the club at the close of the meeting.

ADVERTISER PATTERNS

A Practical Model.

2386—Little guimpe dresses, such as this, are just the thing for school or play, and indeed, also for best wear. They are easy to develop and easy to launder. The guimpe may be of crepe, lawn or batiste; the dress of gingham, percale, linen or voile. Silk or woolen goods are also appropriate. A wide belt at Empire waistline holds the fulness of the dress, which is closed on the shoulders.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 8 requires 7-8 yard of 36-inch material for the guimpe and 2⅛ yards for the dress.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

BACKYARD GARDEN HINTS

PRUNING THE CHERRY TREE.

The cherry is a very popular fruit in Ontario, both sweet and sour cherries being extensively grown. If properly cared for, the tree will bear regularly and give a large crop also. Pruning with it, as well as with the other fruit trees, is now considered very important, although a few years ago it was thought that very little pruning was all that the cherry tree would stand. The sour cherry tree is naturally well formed and therefore does not need much shaping. However, all the intercrossing and unnecessary limbs should be cut off, and the wood well thinned out, for the trees are usually dense and air and sunlight should be let in. Pruning will also stimulate new growth, and this is necessary, as the old spurs soon get past the fruit-bearing stage. With sweet cherries, it is a good method to keep the centre of the tree quite open. This will enable plenty of air and sunlight to get into the tree and therefore keep under the brown rot, a disease to which the cherry tree is subject. The cherry tree should be headed low in the beginning. From 18 to 24 inches below the first branch is a good height. From three to five main branches should be allowed to grow and all others cut off. The young trees does not need much cutting back, but should be well thinned out. The gardener should seek to produce a low, spreading, open-headed tree.

It is difficult to give any definite rules in regard to pruning, as each grower ought to study the habits of his special variety of cherry. Pruning is done in the winter or summer, according to what is its object. If new growth of wood is required, the pruning should be done in the winter, preferably just before growth in the spring. If bud formation is desired the pruning should be done in the summer about picking time. Where trees have become very unproductive, persisting in bearing almost all of their fruit at the tips of bare branches, severe pruning will have a wonderful effect. The main limbs may be cut back to from one to two feet from the trunk. This will force out a vigorous new growth and fruit will be borne all along the branches.

Pruning by letting in air and sunlight will help control the brown rot of the cherry and ripen the fruit more evenly. By keeping the trees low and open it will make pruning, spraying and picking easier. It will also strengthen the growth of the trees by eliminating all unnecessary branches. It will force out new growth of wood to take the place of the short-lived fruit spurs. Indeed, if citizens would pay careful attention to the pruning of their fruit trees, a greater supply of good fruit would be the inevitable result.

STARTLING EXHIBITION OF "LITTLE PEOPLE OF THE CORNFIELD"

Mrs. Coburn of Walkerville Gives Short Talks and Shows Her Collection at Royal Bank Building.

Out in the cornfields live myriads of fascinating little people, but nobody ever sees them, not because they are not easy to see, but because in this prosaic, work-a-day world people's eyes are blinded to the wonderful beauties of nature. However, there is at least one lady who knows and loves these little people of the cornfield and she, by giving them a twist here and a little pull there, has so moulded them that big audiences in Toronto, Detroit and other cities view her collection with delight and with wonder. Mrs. Coburn of Walkerville, for such is the lady, is intensely patriotic and goes about with her collection, taking absolutely no remuneration. The entire proceeds of her exhibitions go to patriotic work. Yesterday afternoon London for the first time saw her little models and heard her speak about them. At every hour from two to five she gives a half-hour talk, in Room 115, the Royal Bank building, after which the audience may file past and examine the collection at close range. This afternoon at 2 o'clock, Mrs. Coburn will make her talk appeal to children especially, speaking in the form of a fairy tale. Mrs. Coburn has been brought to London under the auspices of the Lieut.-Col. Campbell Becher Chapter, I. O. D. E.

Beauty in Commonest Things.

"My object is to show people that there is beauty in even the commonest things. People do not use their eyes," declared Mrs. Coburn. "I find the most curious little creatures in the cornfields, and I want you to see them, too, so I am showing you my little collection, every figure of which I found growing just as I have it here." And what she had there was "Mercury" with all his airiness and daintiness beautifully tinted, not by her brush, but by the sunshine out in the cornfield, "Old Father Time," with his scythe, hour glass and flowing beard, a damsel kneeling with bowed head at prayer, a wild Indian with war feathers and bow and arrow, "Paddy" if you please, with his long coat tails and typical Irish hat, a stern faced Hindu with turban and oriental robe, "Peter Pan" in characteristic attire, an airy-fairy ballet dancer with a thousand skirts, a true fairy with gauze wings which will delight the children and many, many others as wonderful as these. All the various phases of human nature are represented, in as many different costumes, the colorings, of which are almost unbelievable, when it is known that no paint brush has been used. The funny little faces, sometimes with beards carved by nature, and in one instance moulded out of black smut, are truly a wonder. Everything is made use of, from the mould, which makes a gayer coat for my lady, to the tiny corn kernel which serves as her purse.

And what is the most extraordinary thing about the whole collection is that it grew. It is not art it is nature. The Lady of the Cornfields, for such Mrs Coburn surely is, knows art so well that she is able through her art to show nature to those who are unable to see nature of themselves.

DAILY BIBLE QUESTION CLUB

Suggestive Questions on the Uniform Lesson for Sunday, April 21, 1918.

ONE GOLDEN TEXT SUGGESTION

By Rev. T. S. Linscott, D. D.

Jesus Transfigured.—Mark, ix., 2-29.

QUESTIONS FOR TODAY.

19. Verse 23.—What limit, if any, would you place upon the possibilities of faith?

20. Verses 24-27.—When God in these days casts the devil out of a man, does it imply, or not, and why, that he can "enter no more into him?"

21. Verses 28, 29.—What would be the effect upon the spiritual power of the church if the members were given to fasting and prayer?

Golden Text—This is my beloved Son; hear ye Him. Mark ix., 7.

LET US "PRACTICE THE PRESENCE OF GOD."

We cannot get away from the fact that the marvellous promises which we have and the privileges which are ours can only be realized by a conscious and continued effort. The average man sees very little of the beauty of the world as he travels from place to place; we need to cultivate our physical eyes to see what we actually look at. If we would enjoy the best music we have to cultivate an ear for music. If we would be musicians or artists, or craftsmen of any kind, it is essential that we practice and practice; that we continually attempt to do what we desire to learn. In precisely the same way we become expert with our spiritual senses. To see God and hear Him, we must practice His presence and by-and-by He will become real to us.

GREATER PRODUCTION FROM FARMER'S AND LABORER'S VIEWPOINT

W. Toole Speaker at Lord Roberts Mothers' Club.

"Greater Production from the Farmer's and Laborer's Viewpoint," was the subject of an address delivered on Thursday evening by W. Toole before the Lord Roberts Mother's Club.

"The people of France are two or three days from famine all the time, and North America must step into the breach and feed them. The farmer realizes the great need and if we stop to consider, we know that he is in a better position to outline his work than any other. But there is such a small rural population compared with the city population of Canada. Notwithstanding this, Canada is the best food producing country in the world, in proportion to its population there is no country where the labor of a man counts so much in production as in Canada, and the increase in acreage since the war began is exceedingly great.

Farmers Not Getting Rich.

"If production has been heavy, why have young men and women left the country for the city? Because the city means shorter hours, higher wages and more attractive social life. The farm laborer's wage is small, yet on the whole the farmer pays according to his returns. He is not getting rich quickly, even with the present high prices. The conditions of farming are far different from those of any other business. A whole year's crop may be swept away by a hail storm, hot winds or insect pests. It is on the large farm where machinery can be used that the profits are greatest. Therefore the country should put her men out on large farms. The objective this year for farm work, is 7,500 men, the best of these men who have had some farm experience. Under the best conditions this year, it is estimated that there will be no more than 1 man on every 100 acres in Canada.

"A low price is not a solution of the food problem, for low prices will but drive the laborer from the farm to the city, and hence the food will become scarcer than ever. The only solution of the food problem is to get more food.'

The Pig and Milk Question.

Several questions were asked the speaker. Can I keep a pig without plenty of skim milk? To this he replied, "I consider the backyard pig campaign as one of the nonsensical notions which has got abroad in the country. It takes an experienced man to raise a pig to get a profit and he needs skim milk too. I venture to say that if there was a pig put in every backyard in the city, by the end of the summer there would be a number of dead pigs, for the simple reason that the people couldn't afford to feed them. There is something, however, which progressive cities have been doing in the United States, and that is to have a municipie pig farm, where all the eatable city garbage is taken and fed to city-owned pigs. This way of keeping pigs has been found very profitable, if the pigs are inoculated against hog cholera." What about the high price of milk? was another question which brought forth this answer: "I don't think that milk should be less than ten cents a quart at any time. The dairyman is a slave for 365 days of the year and gets very little profit. The trouble today is that the delivery man gets too much of the profit. The Government should pool the delivery system and that might help matters, but I should like any advantage from such a system to go to the dairyman not the consumer.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

Welcome Clara's Mother.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am inclosing some recipes for the page. Here is one "The Girl in the Apron" might use for biscuits:

One good teaspoonful lard or shortening, 3½ cups flour, ½ teaspoonful soda, 2 teaspoonfuls baking powder pinch of salt, buttermilk or water to make stiff enough to roll without sticking to the board. Bake 20 minutes.

We also use these recipes quite often:

Graham Gems—1 cup yellow sugar, ½ cup butter or lard, 1 cup buttermilk, 1 teaspoonful soda, 1 cup Graham flour, 1 cup white flour, pinch of salt. I add about ½ cup more Graham flour and bake in one cake.

Oatmeal Cookies—3½ cups oatmeal, 3½ cups flour, 1 egg, 2 cups sugar, 1½ cups lard and butter mixed, ¾ cup sour or buttermilk, 1 teaspoonful soda, 1 pound dates. Dates may be omitted.

Can any reader supply words of the song, "After the Ball"?

CLARA'S MOTHER.

Ans.—Your practical recipes will be appreciated by more readers than our "be-aproned" friend, and we are pleased indeed to have you call. I have a copy of "After the Ball," and shall try to find room for it before long.

Our Prisoner's Fund.

Miss D. Gunn, treasurer of the Prisoners of War Fund for the Red Cross Society acknowledges receipt of $5 from Cynthia Grey's readers, being payment of the April pledge for support of prisoners.

Be More Explicit.

Dear Miss Grey,—1. How old do you think a girl should be before they start to work?

2. Does it spoil one's hair to do it up in curlers each night?

BIG FAT MARY.

Ans.—It depends both on the girl and the job. For some positions, too, so much more training is necessary than for others. Please be more explicit and I shall try to answer more to the point.

2. I think not, as long as hot irons are not used.

Send Them Back.

Dear Friend,—I would like you to give me a little advice. There is a boy who writes to me once in a while. I do not wish to make his acquaintance. How would I show him I did not wish for his friendship or acquaintance??

TRUSTY.

Ans.—Ignore him all you possibly can without being rude. If he persists in writing, you send his letters back unopened.

Read the Ads.

"N. E., Preston."—Sorry, but I am unable to give local business addresses in this column. Should advise you to write London restaurant-keepers or caterers in regard to the matter, you will find addresses by studying the advertising columns.

RED CROSS AND C. W. C. A. COLUMN

Write the Date On Your Pocketbook

April 23, 24 and 25! They are coming fast; the days upon which the people of London will be asked if they can keep up the pace the women of the Red Cross and C. W. C. A. have set them. For the war working women have been sewing up cotton into sheets and pillow-slips, and flannelette into pyjamas, and flannel into shirts, and cheesecloth into bandages and knitting up yarn at such a rate that unless there is to be a famine in wool and sewing material in Hyman Hall and other Red Cross centres there must be an immediate inpouring of money.

Last month we shipped overseas more socks and shirts and hospital supplies of every kind than we did in the first whole year of the war. We have been marching forward at a terrific pace, but the army dare not get beyond its supplies. The fighting army, we are told, travels on its stomach, and the sewing and knitting army behind them travels on its purse. There are some women's societies in Western Ontario, who have been held back from marching in the very front rank of Red Cross workers, just because the people of their community did not see that the purse was kept full. And so the sewers had to put away their needles and get up concerts and bazaars, and teas and luncheons and lectures, and what not to beguile the money out of the public.

To the honor of London be it said the Red Cross and C. W. C. A. have been permitted to put all their energies where they should be put, into the sewing machine. And the machine is still whirring, confident that the money will come tumbling in at the end of this month. And may it be a magnificent outpouring.

Is Your Ward Kept Bright?

Elgin County's ward at Byron looked bright and cheery, flooded with sunshine and pure air, when the Red Cross visitors passed through it the other day. And it is going to have a very useful addition to its furniture soon. The Women's Institute at Rodney have donated a wheel chair to it, a most appropriate gift, and one that will give many a lift to weak and weary limbs.

The poor boys looked very happy that day, for it was warm and sunshiny, and the big airy balconies were delightful places to sit. Some of the wards were bright with spring flowers, gracious gifts from the women who had furnished the place. They provide a gentle hint to all who own a room in this beautiful building. Wouldn't it be a pretty idea to remind the boys who lie there all day that the women who provided their beds and couches are still thinking of them and trying to make their days bright? And nothing will do that more effectively than an occasional bunch of blossoms.

"This is the best place we've ever struck yet," said one enthusiastic patient, and we want to make them all feel that way.

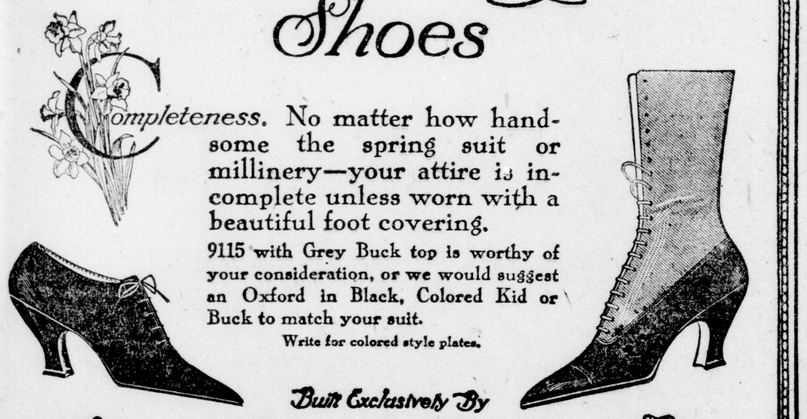

Of course, you are not going to do much, just what has to be done this year, but there could be no harm in taking time to hunt through all your boxes for old linen. The hospitals overseas cannot possibly get enough of it. Please gather up every inch you can spare and send it in to Hyman Hall, and then come yourself, for the place needs workers.

Forest City and Parisian Laundries.

It is impossible to say too much about the work these two institutions are doing for the Red Cross. Such mountains of work go out every week from Hyman Hall and come back beautifully laundered, and all entirely free of charge. If every business firm in the city gave in proportion we should have sufficient funds in on our first campaign day to keep us going till the end of the war.

MARIAN KEITH,
Press Secretary.

TORONTO LEAFS TO TRAIN AT HOME THIS SEASON

ONLY 15 PLAYERS OF 1907 ARE NOW PLAYING

Out of 330 Men Who Were Listed on Major League Line-Ups in 1907, Only 15 Were Active in 1917—Four Likely Out This Year.

Twelve years is a long time in the life of a major league ball player, if an estimate may be based on some statistics furnished by a baseball dopist, who has compiled a record that shows how few players in the majors in 1906 can still be counted actively in the game. Commenting on his own record, the statistician says:

It seems scarcely possible that out of 330 men drawing salaries in the American and National Leagues in 1906 only 15 played ball in 1917, and four of these probably will not be seen in 1918. And that is the space of only 12 years.

Of the American League pitchers of 1906, who included Waddell, Mullin, Joss, Chesbro and others, only three—Bender, Plank and Coombs—were able to pitch regularly last year, and Plank retired in the middle of the season. One other—Donovan—managed a big league club.

Reulbach and Ames.

Of the National League pitchers of 1906 Reulbach and Ames were the only ones who saw service in 1917, and Reulbach pitched very little at Boston, and has been given his unconditional release. Mathewson was still active in baseball as manager of the Reds.

Not a catcher of the 1906 troop was in the harness eleven years later except Gibson, who did a little relief work for the Giants.

Of the infielders four remain of the 1906 crowd, providing Lajoie is counted, for Larry, after a year's sojourn in the minors, is likely to wear a big league uniform next season.

The others are Evers, who was out of the game a great part of the season; Turner, who played in a utility role with Cleveland, and Chase. The latter was the only regular of the outfit.

Cobb and Hinchman.

In the outfield we find two still in the game. Cobb is still the greatest of all ball players. The other is Hinchman, who had an unsatisfactory season last year.

Others still in the game, but not actively, are Fielder Jones, manager of the Browns, and Bob Wallace, who will be back in the big tent next year, but only as a coach.

This is a striking picture of the length of time a big leaguer may hope to remain in fast company.

Most of them are gone, and all, with the exception of Cobb, are fading. Twelve years means a great deal to a ball player.

GENERAL WEYGAND IS CHIEF AIDE TO FOCH

PARIS, April 19. — Announcement was made today that France henceforth will be represented on the Interallied supreme war council at Versailles by General Belin. He will take the place of General Weygand, who will devote all his time to his duties as principal assistant to General Foch.

DEFENDS TITLE.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 20.—Successfully defending her title as national champion breast stroke swimmer at 200 yards Miss Mabel Arklie of Philadelphia, in an acquatic meet at the Pittsburg Athletic Association here last night, set a new American record of 3.27 for the distance. Miss Ruth Smith of Columbus, Ohio was only a few inches behind the Philadelphia swimmer.

SENS TRIM ATHLETICS

Cold Causes Postponing of Other Games in American League.

BOSTON, April 19.—Boston took morning and afternoon holiday games today from New York. Bush pitched his first game for Boston this morning, holding New York to four hits and won 2 to 1. Errors figured in all these runs. Strunk starred in centre field.

Ruth was hit hard in the second game, but poor support given Thormahlen enabled Boston to win 9 to 5. A feature was the one-hand catch by Gilhooley of Ruth's long drive up against the right field bleacher fence, after which Catcher Scott scored all the way from second base. Pratt made three errors in the fifth inning, when Boston made five runs, but he had a big day at the bat, getting two doubles and two singles. Scores:

TORONTO TO TRAIN AT HOME THIS YEAR, HOWLEY ANNOUNCES

Leafs Will Prepare for Season at Hanlon's Point Grounds.

TORONTO, April 19.—Candidates for the Toronto Ball Club will do their preliminary training at the Island grounds, this year. The players will be ordered to report next Wednesday at Hanlan's Point. "I like this town," said Manager Dan Howley, "and I like the park at the Island. I think it is one of the best baseball parks in the country. Everything is there for our convenience. Our squad may not be extra large at the start, but at least we will have seven or eight, and the others will be all in line within a few days afterwards."

Expects Eighteen Men.

Manager Howley expects eventually to have eighteen men in uniform and after a few days of preliminary work will have two games every day, one in the morning and another in the afternoon. It was intended to train elsewhere, but with all things considered, Howley finally decided on the Island Stadium. The weather between the 24th inst and May 8 ought to be favorable for conditioning ball players most of whom are now working out at their own homes.

Howley is willing to give local talent a good chance. Tommy Bird, of the City Amateur League, and who had a short schooling with the Leafs in mid season last year, will be given a trial. Bird is an infielder and touted as being very promising. Wilfred Rutledge, the star twirler of the St. Mary's, champions of Ontario, is the other local player who will be given a trial, and Manager Howley states that he will afford them every chance to make good, and is counting on both of them.

After Onslow.

The club has as yet been unable to get in touch with Eddie Onslow, the first baseman, bought by the Leafs from the Providence club, but who signed a contract with the Cleveland Americans after being notified that the purchase had been made. After what the National Commission has already done this season, Howley is not sure that the Toronto club's rights in the Onslow matter will be fully protected, but believes that Onslow will be satisfied to come to Toronto when it is shown that the Leafs had full title to his services. At any rate, it has been decided to make a fight for possession of the player.

The Toronto club has made a liberal offer to Charlie Fullerton, the right-hander, who was with the Montreal Royals in the season of 1916. He could not come to terms with Sammy Lichtenhein last season, and remained out of the game except for occasional semi-professional performances. Howley is especially desirous of getting Fullerton, whom he regards as a high-class pitcher.

STRATFORD GIRLS DEFEAT LONDONERS

Last night two basketball teams from the normal school, Stratford, journeyed to London for the return games with the London Normals. The games were played in the Normal School gymnasium and a large crowd was present, many "rooters" having accompanied the Stratford teams from their home town. The first game was between the girls, and Stratford won by the close score of 3 to 2. The teams were very evenly matched, and the play was just as close as the score would indicate. The line-ups were as follows:

Stratford—E. Hutton, G. White, M. McIntyre, L. Woodall, E. Stickle and L. Barber.

London—M. Campbell, M. McKenzie, L. Garrett, H. Rogers and G. Harper.

The second game between the boys was also very close, and although the London boys came out on top by a score of 18 to 12, the half-time score was 9 to 2 in favor of the visitors. In the second half London woke up and scored four baskets in quick succession and held the lead throughout.

Jack Lightfoot played a star game, and victory was largely due to his playing, as he scored five of the nine baskets for London. Both games were very clean throughout. The boys lined up as follows:

Stratford — Slattern, Hoffman, Rudolph, Noye, Hetherington, Schotz.

London—Lightfoot, Nicholson, Bryant, Fox, Forsythe.

Referee—A. S. Thompson.

After the games the teams enjoyed a delightful repast at Peters' restaurant.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The New York Giants made it three straight from Brooklyn here today, winning the last game of the series by a score of 7 to 2. The Giants piled up a four-run lead on Grimes in the first inning on four hits and three bases on balls.

Six runs behind, Brooklyn waged an uphill fight in the eighth inning and drove Demaree into retirement. Schmants' all-round playing featured.

LUDERUS WALLOPS BALL OVER FENCE AT PHILA

PHILADELPHIA, April 19.—Meusel, a Philadelphia recruit, hit Hughes' first pitched ball to him today for a drive into the left field bleachers in the tenth inning and beat Boston 4 to 3. Ordinarily the drive would have counted a home run, but Whitted scored the winning run from first base, which he had gained on Rawlings' fumble. In the seventh inning Pitcher Hughes drove a homer in the bleachers, but in the same inning Capt. Luderus, for the locals, lined the ball over the right field wall, scoring two runners ahead of him and tieing the score.

SISLER BLAMES HIS BRUISED THUMB FOR DEFEAT BY TY COBB

Injured Member Only Thing to Prevent Winning the Batting Crown.

George Sisler feels that he should have beaten out Tyrus Cobb for the batting championship last season, but failed to only because he injured his thumb.

The rise and fall of Sisler's swat average last season is indicated by the month to month record of his stick work.

Month—	Gms.	AB.	Hits.	Ave.
April	15	60	22	.367
May	23	91	25	.275
June	27	106	85	.330
July	32	132	54	.409
August	28	107	41	.383
September	10	43	13	.302
	135	539	190	.353

The great slump in May is suggestive. On May 8 Sisler's batting average was .405. Then he injured his thumb and his average fell away to a shadow. His bad showing in May was entirely due to this injury, for he began the month at a whirlwind pace, fattening his previous good average in April to a point above the .400 mark. April, July and August were the three months when Sisler was free from injury and free to do his best work. And how good that work was may be learned from the fact that his average during those three months was .391. Had he been able to maintain that gait throughout the season he would have beaten out Ty Cobb.

PUBLIC SENTIMENT CONTROLS WILLIARD-FRED FULTON FIGHT

State Commission Will Meet Tuesday to Discuss the Proposed Bout.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 19.—Promoters of hte proposed championship boxing contest between Jessica Willard, heavyweight titleholder, and Fred Fulton, marked time today. After an informal conference, Col. J. C. Miller and a party of Twin City enthusiasts started out to inspect several prospective sites for the battle.

Col. March of the state public safety commission announced this afternoon the commission would meet next Tuesday to discuss the proposed fight. Col. March intimated that the commission would vote on the question of allowing the contest to take place in Minnesota.

"Public sentiment can control the situation," said Col. March.

It was reported that Col. Miller's fight negotiations probably would be held open until the safety commission announced its stand. A number of protests against the contest have reached the commission.

MORE OBSTACLES.

St. Paul, Minn., April 20.—The probability that the championship fight between Jess Willard and Fred Fulton would be held in the Twin Cities on July 4 dwindled to a possibility today. More obstacles were met by the promoter, Col. J. C. Miller.

Although Miller announced that he would mark time until Tuesday, when the Minnesota safety commission would formally consider the advisability of permitting the contest, it became known that Miller is again considering offers from other cities.

Numerous protests, filed at the capitol, coupled with the announcement that the safety commission would be guided by public opinion, was one cause for uncertainty. A statement credited to Col. Miller to the effect that he would insist upon the $10,000 "inducement bonus" from the Twin Cities, as soon as he closed the fight arrangements, also clouded the situation.

It is understood that Miller told Twin City associates he wanted his guarantee money to immediately start work on the arena. Some of the men interested in the fight are reported to have taken the position that such a move would force Twin City enthusiasts to bear a heavy financial loss if the fight was called off at the eleventh hour.

How Blue-jay Ends Corns

A is a thin, soft pad which stops the pain by relieving the pressure.

B is the B&B wax, which gently undermines the corn. Usually it takes only 48 hours to end the corn completely.

C is rubber adhesive, which sticks without wetting. It wraps around the toe and makes the plaster snug and comfortable.

Blue-jay is applied in a jiffy. After that, one doesn't feel the corn. The action is gentle, and applied to the corn alone. So the corn disappears without soreness.

Your Corn Can't Resist Blue-jay

Blue-jay is the gentle way—but certain. Relief is instant, then the corn comes out in 48 hours.

The little spot of B&B medicated wax covers only the corn itself. It is the dainty, clean way.

Harsh liquids are mussy and dangerous. Paring might bring infection.

Millions of people have used Blue-jay for years. At the slightest appearance of a corn they put on a Blue-jay Plaster.

One plaster is usually sufficient; once in a while an old, stubborn corn requires a second.

Try the Blue-jay way tonight. It means freedom forever from aching corns.

JIM THORPE will strike out daily on three curve balls.

CONNIE MACK, formerly "The Sphinx," and alias "The Tall Tactician," will demonstrate how he approaches the cradle and makes his getaway.

JOE WOOD expects to be called on at least once to show how he rid baseball of the smoke nuisance.

COL. JAKE RUPPERT, assisted by D. W. Griffith, will show "The Battle of the Jinx." in eight bandages.

The mysterious uniform in the Athletics' wardrobe is said to have been made for Connie Mack's PIT SHOW debut.

Chalk talks by AL. DEMAREE on "How to Draw a Big Salary."

Adding Emphasis To The Street Railway Company's Claims

The recent request of the employees of the London Street Railway Company for increased wages demonstrates our argument that the costs that are already strangling us are still on the upward trend.

Our men must have fair wages, or we will lose the services of our trained and efficient employees.

If we are to give satisfactory service we must have sufficient revenue to finance it.

Every day relief is withheld from the Street Railway our difficulties become more acute.

Suffered 50 Years With Rheumatism

Now Cured, Goes Fishing at Age of 83, and Feels Fine!

North Dakota Man Tells Others How He Did It. Wants No Money and Will Gladly Help Others to Realize Same Benefits.

"I am eighty-three years old, and I doctored for rheumatism and its associated troubles ever since I came out of the army over fifty years ago. Like many others, I spent money freely for so-called 'cures,' and have read about 'Uric Acid' until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain; my hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now I am again in active business and can walk with ease or write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at the change. My heart naturally goes out to those who suffer and don't know where to get the treatment that enabled me to cure myself at home, after doctors and so many other remedies had failed. Therefore, while I ask no money from those who write me, yet I will gladly assist any sufferers toward getting the same treatment that set me absolutely free from my suffering and gave me back my remarkable health, strength and power of endurance."

NOTE.—Those who know Mr. Ashelman marvel at his recovery and renewed vital energy. He, like thousands of others, had given up hope, but persistent effort enabled him to find a treatment that drove the poisoned toxins out of his blood and system. Scientific men now claim this, and not "Uric Acid," to be the real cause of rheumatism. Any person having the slightest symptoms of rheumatism, neuritis, gout, lumbago, neuralgia and like disorders, should write Mr. Ashelman and benefit by his friendly offer.

BLOOD WILL TELL

"Spring Fever," loss of appetite, dull listless feeling, headaches that are chronic, sore, lame muscles generally because of impure blood.

There is no one thing so essential to health as good, pure blood. It has been said that fully 80 per cent of all disease is due to impure or bad blood. When you stop and think the blood reaches every part of your body, carrying in its healthful and life-giving properties when pure, it is easily understood that bad, impure blood, instead of giving health and happiness, carries disease to all parts of our system. Impure blood means numberless ills, some common and easily overcome; others deep-seated and obstinate, sapping our vitality, making us listless, heavy-footed, languid and without ambition.

How many times lately have you gotten up in the morning with that dark brown taste in your mouth, dull headache, sore and lame across the shoulders and back, each foot feeling as though it weighed a ton? Your greatest desire is to slip back to bed for "just fifteen minutes more," and you do, only to feel worse when you do get up. Why suffer longer? Why go on as you are now without "pep" "jazz" or ambition, dragging out a dull, weary existence, hopelessly outclassed in mind and body by your full-blooded and active friends? Are not the joys and happiness in life for you, as well as anyone else?

Go to your druggist today and get a bottle of Parmint, double strength; take it home and add to it hot water and sugar, as directed in each package. Take a tablespoonful four times a day. Parmint, double strength, is in concentrated form; one ounce is sufficient to make full eight ounces of medicine when mixed with sugar and water. Parmint is an English formula, old-fashioned, but wonderfully effective in its action on the blood. You will feel better almost with the first dose, and by the time half a bottle is gone your appetite will surprise you, and you will feel the old-time "pep" and ambition coming back; in a few weeks you will be your real self again, eyes shining, face bright, step elastic, rich, red blood coursing through your veins with every heartbeat.

Caution: Parmint is a blood medicine and tonic. It is not a specific for blood poisoning, and is not recommended as such. If you have a deep-seated systemic blood disease, Parmint is not recommended to you.

HUN EFFORTS TO DECEIVE FRENCH NOT SUCCESSFUL

Germans Tried To Block Plan of Sending Reinforcements.

LOSSES ARE ENORMOUS

Fierce Hand-to-Hand Fighting in Vicinity of Hangard.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, April 19.—(By The Associated Press.)—All efforts by the Germans to keep the French engaged around Hangard-en-Santerre and prevent them from sending reinforcements farther north where the enemy is launching an attack against the British lines, have failed. The French in the course of numerous engagements in this district have greatly improved their positions and have not in any way been deceived by the attempted diversions of the enemy.

The battles in the neighborhood of Hangard have been of a most fierce description, involving hand-to-hand fighting in the streets and inside houses. The village itself has changed hands several times, but now is firmly held by the French, who, throughout the most determined onslaughts of the Germans have displayed the most heroic bravery. The Germans have lost enormous numbers of men, their dead lying about everywhere. A considerable number of their men also have been forced to surrender. Since April 12 there have been repeated small attacks by German shock troops. All were repulsed.

GOT WET FEET, TOOK AWFUL COLD

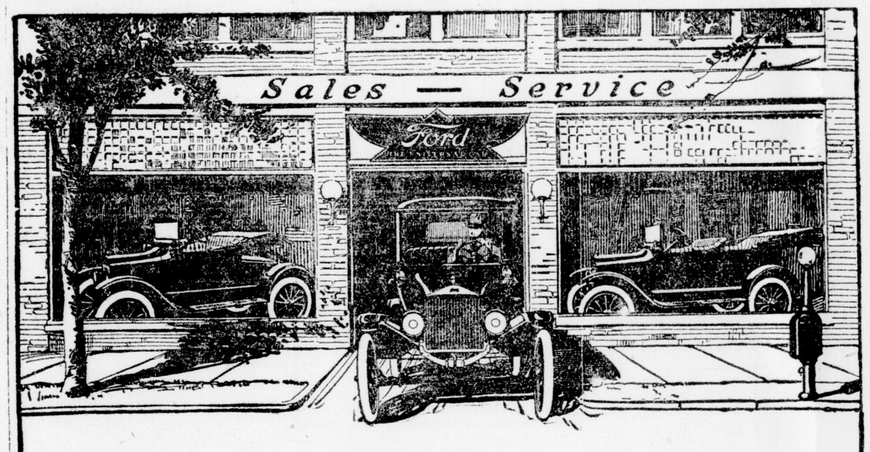

COULD NOT SLEEP FOR COUGH.

A bad cold accompanied by a distressing cough that keeps you awake at night is most aggravating, and unless it is attended to at once may develop into something very serious.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the remedy you should take. It heals the mucous surface, relieves oppression and tightness of the chest, removes the accumulation of phlegm, quiets the most obstinate and distressing coughs, and secures rest and sleep at night, not only to the sufferer, but to others whose rest would be otherwise broken.

Mrs. Ezekiel Acker, Lake Pleasant, N. S., writes: "I got wet feet and took an awful cold; could not sleep at night, and would do nothing but cough. My husband got me a bottle of medicine, but it was not worth bringing home. I was going to call the doctor in when a friend asked me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I told her I had little faith in it, but she urged me to get a bottle. I did, and I must say that of all the medicine I ever took, it is the best, and relieved me the quickest of anything I ever saw."

"Dr. Wood's" is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c and 50c; manufactured only by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

PUBLIC LIBRARY TO COLLECT BOOKS FOR GREAT WAR VETERANS

Appeal Made to Citizens for Books for Soldiers.

In order that the Great War Veterans' Association of this city may enter into their new quarters, when these are secured, with a suitable library, the staff of the Public Library has undertaken to gather a suitable collection of books, and makes an appeal to London citizens during the next two weeks to mobilize some of their idle books for the returned men's use. The library staff has offered to prepare all the books that may be donated, to provide suitable labels, make necessary repairs and turn the books over to the War Veterans' Association ready for use. Col. W. G. Coles, president of the War Veterans, has given hearty indorsation to the plan, pointing out that a library is one of the immedaite needs of the association, particularly if it goes into permanent quarters.

Want Modern Books.

At this time of the year, when spring cleaning is in order, the recent books that have piled up may easily be turned over to this good purpose. The appeal is, therefore, made to mobilize these idle books. It is not the worthless castoffs that are wanted but good clean copies of new and up-to-date books. This will be the foundation for the Veterans' Association library, and it ought to include some of the very best. Citizens are asked to give books that they themselves prize, the ones they have bought within the last year, the good standard authors, the latest war books, the newest books in technical lines books on engineering and allied topics. All these will be received at the public library at any time during the next two weeks. Put your name on a slip of paper inside the front cover and hand in your donations at the library. The staff there will do the rest.

Magazines Wanted.

Recent magazines for the soldiers' hospitals may also be left at the library at any time. Since the beginning of the war, the public library has been turning over all withdrawn books for camp use, over 2,000 having been used up in this way. Enough books were also sent to the Byron Sanatorium to start a circulating library for the soldiers and other patients there.

WELFARE NURSE IS BADLY NEEDED IN LONDON AT PRESENT

Tag Day Will Be Held in June To Provide Salary.

The imperative need of a Child Welfare nurse in this city to take general supervision of the work inaugurated by the successful Child Welfare exhibit in February, and the subsequent weekly clinic for sick children was so effectively pointed out yesterday at the first meeting of the Child Welfare Association as a whole since organization, that plans were discussed for raising the comparatively small amount required for the salary of the nurse.

On motion of Mrs. H. W. Hill, seconded by Mrs. Gemmill, it was unanimously decided to ask permission of the city council to hold a Child Welfare tag day in June. Speaking for the mothers' clubs, Mrs. Gemmill said that the support of these is assured, both in educational work along Child Welfare lines, and also in assisting with a tag day.

Sir George Gibbons, president, stated amid applause that he would start the ball rolling by subscribing $100 to the fund.

Follow Up Work.

Dr. Tillmann, who has had charge of the weekly clinic held at Victoria Hospital, assisted by other doctors, Mrs. H. W. Hill, first vice-president, and Mrs. Glennie Wilson, regent of the Graduate Nurses Chapter, I. O. D. E., all expressed the decided opinion that to make the work of the clinic really effective, a nurse is required to follow up cases in the homes, give the mothers assistance and advice, showing them how to carry out the doctor's orders in the way of preparation of food, etc. The question was raised if this work might not be done by the public welfare nurse for whom provision has been made, assisted by the Victorian Order and school nurses, graduate nurses in their leisure, etc.

It was stated by the Victorian Order nurses have their hands more than full; that the time of the practicing nurses is too uncertain and that the school nurses have all they can do to look after the children of school age. In view of the patriotic nature of the work, saving the lives of little children from deaths by preventable causes, and thus helping to repair the wastage of war, and coupled with this the interest which has been awakened in the city through child welfare week, the opinion was expressed that the money necessary will be forthcoming for the work that requires to be done.

Would Save Half.

Sir George Gibbons, president, asked the doctors present what they thought could be accomplished to justify the child welfare work in London, to which Capt. Dr. H. W. Hill replied: "In 1916 about one thousand two hundred babies were born in London. Of these 18 per cent died in their first year. We should be able to save the lives of half of these, or on an average, save the life of one baby every three days. Nine hundred dollars isn't so very much for 120 babies. It would cost more than that to buy them. We must remember that it is lives, saving lives, we are talking about.

Mrs. Hill told of visits paid to Hamilton and Toronto to see how the Child Welfare work is carried on in these cities. Hamilton, she stated, has a staff of five, one superintending nurse, Miss McDonald, who attended the Child Welfare exhibit in this city; three assisting nurses, and a secretary. Daily well baby clinics are held, as well as a weekly sick baby clinic.

Toronto, she added, has some sixty nurses supported by the city.

The question was introduced of sending a resolution to the Dominion Government on behalf of the London Child Welfare Association asking for the establishment of a Dominion child welfare bureau. It was decided to leave this over until another meeting to give time for full consideration of the subject.

INVESTIGATION OF WATER COST WILL BE MADE

City Rates May Be Boosted as Result of Probe Into Question.

IS IT ON A PAYING BASIS?

Commissioner Wants Inquiry as Result of Recent Criticisms.

There may be a boost in the water rates of the city.

This will depend on the result of an investigation into the cost of water which Commissioner Vining launched at the meeting of the utilities commission yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Vining said that in view of the critisism of the mayor and others he thought there should be an inquiry into the cost of supplying water to the consumer, and he presented a resolution to this effect. The general manager, E. V. Buchanan, will report at the next meeting.

Mr. Vining said that on several occasions citizens have told him the water department should be on a paying basis. He could not answer them, as there were no available figures.

Chairman Pocock said that any one who had looked at the finacial statement could see the water department was on a paying basis.

Twisting Figures.

Mr. Vining said that there were statements made in regard to twisting figures, and he wanted to get at the facts. "If we are charging too little for our water then we ought to know it." Mr. Vining asked that the figures, when presented, be in such a state that they could be checked. Mr. Vining also said he thought the charge for water would be such that the department could afford to pay the city taxes on its property. It did not matter how, whether in taxes or a surplus.

With this in view he asked that Mr. Buchanan get figures on the assessment of the different properties of the department and also of the hydro. They were prevented by the hydro act from paying money over to the city, but he could see no reason why they should not pay taxes.

Mr. Pocock said that in connection with the water he thought the city should pay the charges for fire fighting. It was ridiculous for the city to send them a bill of $167, while the city was getting the water for fires at no charge.

"If such is the case it should not be," said Mr. Vining.

Will Add to Cost.

The new act, which allows municipalities to tax commissions, will add to the cost of the water department this year in any event, as it was pointed out that there will be considerable taxes to be paid to the township of Westminster.

General Manager Buchanan reported against the suggestion that the Springbank dam should be temporarily repaired. He said that half the summer would be gone before it would be done. The cost would not enter largely, as they could cut the timber down, but there would be a good deal for labor, which was scarce.

J. Dawson of Niagara Falls will be the new parks superintendent at $1,400 a year. He will report here May 1.

The parks committee recommended that a car of sand be got at Port Stanley for Springbank. Mr. McFarland said that the health officer would object on the grounds that it was a heavy disease carrier.

Mr. Buchanan said Port Stanley ought to be closed for the same reason. Mr. Vining also ridiculed the suggestion.

Claim for Injuries.

Anderson's meat market presented a claim of $50 for injuries to a steer which fell into a ditch the commission was digging. The steer was so injured that it could not be used for first-class meat. The animal was valued at $125.

The Anderson Company got $75 for the sale of the meat. They asked the commission to pay the balance and threatened a suit. The solicitor was consulted and he said the commission was liable.

Mr. Vining disputed this. He said the commission was doing a lawful act in a lawful manner, and he did not think the city was liable. He said he personally would fight the suit.

RECRUITING FOR NEW TANK COMPANY OPENS AT ARMORIES TODAY

Drills Will Commence Next Tuesday With C. O. T. C.

The first drill for recruits signing up with the detachment from Military District No. 1 of the Canadian Tank Battalion, Machine Gun Corps, will be held at the armories next Tuesday night. This was decided at a meeting of those interested in the formation of a company for this district last night. Major T. J. Murphy, O.C., C.O.T.C., has consented to co-operate in the work of the officers' training corps with that of the tank unit, and with this view, officers and N.C.O.'s now training the C.O.T.C. will instruct recruits for the new unit.

A recruiting office for the new corps will be opened today at 303 Dundas street, with Lieut. E. H. Anderson of the C.O.T.C. in charge. After the first drill on Tuesday night at 7 o'clock, local officers will decide on the number of drills to hold during the week.

Applicants for admission into the corps will not be taken unless they have been medically categorized in A. Ten per cent of applicants must have had mechincal experience, and all must be between the ages of 19 and 35.

Overseas Shortly.

Major Murphy announced that the new unit will go overseas as soon as it is recruited and equipped. Several communications have been received from young men desirous of joining the new corps, which is taken as a sure indication of its being recruited to full strength shortly after the unit's formation.

The popularity of the tank battalion was evidenced yesterday, when a young man traveled to this city from Montreal expecting to sign up with the new unit. He was taken into the C.O.T.C. by Major Murphy, and will be given squad drill and then absorbed into a section of the tank company.

The tank battalion offers advantages no other branch of the service gives. A tank is said to be the safest place on the battlefront, with the exception of a Red Cross hospital. A tank is immune to machine gun, rifle fire and shrapnel, while high-explosive shells are rendered ineffective owing to the fact that a tank in action is surrounded by enemy troops, which insures its safety from German artillery fire. The machines are also protected from bayonet charges.

Major Murphy expects the Government to authorize the establishment of a whole tank company. Permission has been obtained for the formation of a tank section, but when London shows it can secure recruits for a larger unit, the major confidently expects authorization to recruit a company.

AN IDEAL SUMMER OUTING.

The Provincial Government of Ontario earned the gratitude of all lovers of out-of-doors when it set apart, in 1893, nearly two million acres of heavily-timbered land, starred with beautiful lakes and winding streams, as a preserve for the wild things and a recreation ground for the people. They called it Algonquin Park. Away up in the "Highlands of Ontario," 200 miles north of Toronto, 170 miles west of Ottawa, and two thousand feet above the level of the sea, this lovely region remains today unspoiled, a perfect refuge for the creatures of the forest, and an ideal camping ground for the sportsman and businessman. The Grand Trunk operates hotel and log cabin camps, which offer first-class accommodation in this wild and rugged playground. Illustrated descriptive literature may be had for the asking. Write C. E. TROUBLED WITH CONSTIPATION FROM 16 TO 20.

Constipation is one of the commonest ills of mankind, and one too often allowed to go unlooked after until some serious complication sets in.

If the bowels are properly looked after there will be no constipation, jaundice, sick or bilious headaches, heartburn, coated tongue, sour stomach, floating specks before the eyes, etc.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will keep your bowels so regulated that in no time the constipation will disappear entirely.

Miss Emma E. Melanson, Halifax, N.S., writes: "I am now 20 years of age, and since I was 16 I have been greatly troubled with constipation, so much so that at times I would be in bed three or four days a month. I tried all the old-fashioned remedies, castor oil, cascara, etc., with only temporary relief until my sister-in-law gave me some of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. From the first they seemed beneficial, and I gave them a fair trial. This was two years ago, and with an occasional dose I have kept entirely free from constipation for the period mentioned."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why a Weekly "Spring Housecleaning" Is Advisable

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG,
A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University.)

DR. HIRSHBERG

When Victor Hugo said that "houses are like the human beings that inhabit them," he expressed a medical axiom. If a house is free of microbes and germs, its inhabitants are more than likely in good health.

On the other hand, if the housewife has dusty furniture, soiled pillows and sheets, bejammed and dirty-faced youngsters, you may be shown easily that aches, pains, colds, coughs, sniffles and sore throats flourish like green bay trees or moldly bread in that home.

It is odd, indeed, how some wives and caretakers wait almost seriously for the annual "spring housecleaning," yet fail to discover that medicine bills and doctors' fees could have been dispensed with and much worry and lost sleep omitted from their tribulations, if the house had been given thoroughly "the once over" each Friday or oftener.

Homer said that to be unknown has one advantage over popularity, namely, it is as difficult for a mediocrity or nonentity to be calumniated as for a popular person not to be. Similarly, a carelessly kept house is not made any worse by proof that many human ailments are traceable to it, yet it is no reflection upon a clean house if someone falls ill within its confines. He or she will have a better chance to recover there than in an untidy domicile.

Dirt and Dust Dangers.

Dirt and dust indoors are practically certain to contain waste matter. When individuals slightly ill are present, as they are in many homes, disease germs settle in dust or float about the rooms, ready to plant themselves at the first opportunity as the seeds of tonsilitis, tuberculosis, bronchitis, diphtheria or other bacterial malady.

A dusty or dirty house is an abomination unto the gods of health and happiness. Gloom and darkness, drawn blinds and dingy walls are equally a menace to health.

Sunlight, cleanliness, bright furniture, clean floors and walls, all make, perforce, for resistance to disease germs, even if a few gain entrance. Living-rooms, kitchens and bedrooms to be invigorating to the living flesh, must be cleaned at least every day.

No matter how cold or damp it may be, the windows and doors should be widely opened when you sweep. I know one woman, a college graduate, whose home is very untidy, and whose children are often. She cleans her few rooms but seldom, and even then is too indifferent and lazy to open the windows.

Wise Care in Cleaning.

Dust usually goes with disease germs, and is a hissing and mocking to other efforts at personal sanitation. Swept rooms are commonly soon covered with fine dust, which spreads through the air from the sweeper. This must be wiped away carefully. Damp cloths are the only proper means to employ. Dry ones merely stir up the dust, which settles a few moments later upon some other spot.

Carpets, rugs, cushions and covers are often abodes for mischievous germs and microbes, which settle in the interstices and work themselves into the threads and fibres, like the sand which Sallie sifted in the sentimental, but silly song.

Carpets and rugs cannot be hygienically cleaned upon the floor, for the disease breeders in them can only be routed out when they are beaten outdoors.

Like mohair or upholstered furniture and wooden beds, carpets are a thing of the past. Small, easily-cleaned rugs laid over sanitary, polished floors are cheaper, more healthful and require less effort to keep clean.

Answers to Health Questions

DOUBTFUL.—Q.—My chin is very red, but does not burn or itch. What do you think is the cause of this?

A.—This may be due to overactivity of the grease glands of the skin, from drinking hot drinks or taking fluids with meals; eating hot foods with too much seasoning, salt or pepper and condiments of various kinds. I would advise a diet eliminating these things.

W. D.—Q.—What is good for corns?

A.—After the feet have been soaked well in soap and hot water each night, put on a few drops of the following:

Sodium bicarbonate	15 grains
Salicylic acid	1 dram
Extract cannabis indica	5 grains
Collodion	1 ounce

T. D. P.—Q.—What can be done for pimples?

A.—Apply a little of the following to the pimples about three times a week:

Sulphur loti	2½ drams
Balsam peru	½ dram
Camphor	½ dram
Green soap	1 dram
Lanolin	½ ounce
Vaseline	½ ounce

ADELE GARRISON'S NEW

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

How Dicky Rather Mysteriously Broke the News to Madge.

As the full meaning of Cousin Agatha's words dawned upon me, I sprang to my feet with a wild idea of rushing to my mother-in-law's room and finding out for myself if what she intimated was true—if Dicky really had planned to go away from home.

Then sanity returned to me, and I sat down again in my chair.

"His mother will miss him sorely," Cousin Agatha had said. That was really no proof that Dicky meant to leave home. She easily might have misunderstood the conversation to which I was sure, she had been an unsuspected eavesdropper.

I took a firm grip upon myself as I realized that there was nothing I could do either to confirm or to disprove Cousin Agatha's malicious inference. I must wait until Dicky or his mother told me whatever there was to know. That Dicky was coldly angry at me and suspicious of me, I had read in his face when he left the dinner table so abruptly. He was in no mood to listen to any remarks of mine upon any subject.

The lights of the rooms inside were too bright for my mood. Better far the fragrant shielding darkness of the veranda. I took my chair close to the screened side looking toward the lake and sat down, drawing around my shoulders a wrap which Katie's thoughtfulness had put near me earlier in the evening. Across the lake and through the trees on the other side gleamed occasional lights, those in homes on the other side of the village.

How long I sat there I do not know. Deep and bitter were the waters of memory that rolled over my soul, as I looked out into the fragnant night, and recalled other evenings like this in every physical feature, but blessed with my husband's loving companionship.

"I'll Hunt Them Up."

Dicky's loved step on the veranda brought me to my feet swiftly, my hands clenched against my heart. It seemed to me that not only he but everyone in the house could hear its pealing.

"Where the devil are you, Madge?" The very irritation in his voice was a relief to me. There had been a subtle change in his mood. Gone was the sinister coldness which had so terrified me. His impatience was characteristic of his old, more natural self.

"Right here," I answered cheerfully. "Something's turned up concerning this aviation serial I'm illustrating that makes it necessary for me to go to one of the ground schools for some of the scenes. Author has put in some extra chapters. It's a beastly nuisance, but it can't be helped."

"How long will you be gone?"

He hesitated again, oddly.

"Haven't the slightest idea," he returned at last. "Several weeks, at least."

"What is it, Dicky? Anything I can do for you?"

"Why, yes, there is," he returned hesitatingly. "Where are my socks and handkerchiefs and collars? I can't find but two or three of each, and I had dozens."

This was no new complaint of Dicky's. He's extremely hard upon his clothing, and he will not tolerate a mended sock unless it be an infinitesimal hole indeed. He tears socks, collars and handkerchiefs in two and throws them on the floor when he thinks they're too worn for his fastidious taste, forgets to buy more, forgets that he has thrown the old ones away, and demands the missing articles of me.

I think most wives will understand that in my relief from the fear of Dicky's cold anger concerning my work, I fairly hugged to my breast his irritation concerning his clothing. There have been times when my voice would have reflected his tone. But not at this moment.

"I'll hunt them up right away." I said. "Katie washed this morning, and she said you had 'joost stacks' of clothes."

"She must have a three weeks' accumulation, then," he growled. "I haven't had anything brought back from the wash in weeks, and my socks naturally are running low."

"Haven't the Slightest Idea."

I knew this statement to be absolutely false, for I myself put Dicky's clothing back in his chiffonnier after the pieces had been laundered and mended. But it was an exaggeration I'd heard many times, one which I usually resent hotly.

"I'm sorry, Dicky," I said, as meekly as any doormat wife might. "But I think I'll be able to get them together for you right away."

"All right," he returned in a slightly mollified tone. "Wish you would, for I've got to pack a suitcase tonight."

He stopped in a hesitating sort of manner, and I felt my mouth go suddenly dry. But I knew, subtly, that he expected me to help him out with an inquiry, so I forced my stiff lips to say carelessly:

"Are you going away?"

"Why, yes," he returned. "Some-

THE SPANISH NOTE IN FASHION

Annette Bradshaw

Scarf Sash of White Satin Embroidered in Gold.

Bolero Jacket and Sash.

Spanish Lace Draped Over Turban of Lisere Straw.

Especially Prominent in Newest Accessories

By ANNETTE BRADSHAW

THE newest accessories are convincing proof that the native costumes of Spain were the source of Fashion's inspiration in designing many of this season's modes. The Spanish note is a charming surprise, coming as a change when fashions seemed to have settled in certain grooves. Bolero jackets, graceful sashes, mantilla veils and toreador hats all are suggestive of sunny Spain.

The Spanish girdles are broad, scarf-like sashes of silk or transparent materials. They are elaborately embroidered in gay colorings and are knotted at one side in true Castillian fashion.

The lingerie frock forms an effective background for the Spanish sash which has become the most important of accessories. Very charming is the sash of white satin embroidered in gold, illustrated in this drawing. It is drawn twice about the waist and is tied in stock fashion at one side with long ends.

The separate coatee of black velvet appears in an infinite variety of forms, the newest of which is the bolero jacket. Very youthful and attractive is this model trimmed with black silk embroidery. It is worn with a simple frock of white crepe Georgette. A Spanish sash of black velvet accompanies the bolero, the ends of which are fringed and embroidered to correspond with the jacket.

A hat of white straw, in a coarse basket weave, ornamented with a compact cluster of flowers in brilliant tones of scarlet, yellow and blue, completes the Spanish note of the costume.

Femininity revels in Spanish laces and the newest of turbans shows an overdrapery of black lace skilfully arranged to produce the effect of a mantilla draped over a high comb. The hat is of black lisere straw. The corners of the lace are trimmed with small balls of black chenille.

WINIFRED BLACK

Answers "A Letter About Jealousy."

Copyright, 1918, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

Dear Winifred Black,—Your recent article, "Other Women Are So Jealous," interested me to such an extent that I thought I would write you a few of my own thoughts and experiences wherein I know that a woman, or rather girls—as I am only 20 myself, and have had more experience with girls of my own age than women—are jealous, and to be real frank, as catty as can be to each other. I am speaking of the majority, and not of the minority.

I do not like girls, and there is nothing wrong with me, and I am not hopelessly out of fashion, nor am I from a harem. I am just a mere working girl who started out with more pipe dreams than the average, and at present find myself without any whatsoever, as I now live in reality, not in poetry.

You say men are just as jealous of each other. Men may be that way in love and business, but very rarely are they so if another fellow happens to be better-looking and better dressed.

When I first started out to look for a position I was not quite 16—of course, I was far from knowing anything about business or the world then. I could sit and look at a pretty girl for hours, wishing in my heart for her happiness.

But when, after securing a position, the head stenographer seemed to delight in making it as bitter for me as she possibly could—taking every little mistake to the manager, telling him it was only waste of time to try to break me in—I heard all of this, and developed such a hatred of that girl—or woman, as she was old enough to be my grandmother—that I became frightened of myself.

"I Know From Experience."

The manager, who was a kind-hearted person, called me into his office one night at closing time, and told me he was afraid I was a little too young to handle the work, which was quite heavy. Of course, I knew who caused this—but felt too hurt to argue with him, afraid of bursting into tears and making a scene. I grabbed my hat and went out—walking in front of cars and automobiles, not caring what happened—as this was my first disappointment, and being young thought it could not have been worse.

This was when I first lost faith in women, and that was four years ago. I have had no girl chum since then, but am more happy by myself than with girls of this type. Of course, it is terribly lonesome, but that's to be expected.

Why on earth does a woman want to see a little, simple-minded girl, trying to make her living, get fired? I was never bold, being more shy than anything else—trying to do my best.

I know from experience that fellows aren't like this. When a new office boy starts on his career, the older men all seem to dote on him. They might quizz him, but never would they intentionally show his little mistakes to the boss to get him ousted. Those little tricks seem to belong to the feminine sex.

Why is it, when a young girl goes into a large concern to see someone in reference to a position, all the girls titter and make the poor little new-comer feel wretched? Why do girls, when another girls dresses better than they do, start in to question her character, and whisper to each other that there is something pretty mysterious about her—they thinking it best to steer clear of her? Why, when a girl gets a new outfit and is looking quite sweet, and kind of knows it, should the others start to ridicule her and say, 'Did you see that freak that just blew in?" Always loud enough for her to hear? Why do girls, when a fellow shows his preference for another girl, start in to say everything to reflect on her character?

Did you ever go into a ladies' room in one of the big office buildings downtown, around noontime or so? You will 'most always find a bunch of girls clustered together picking on some poor co-worker. What do you call all this? I call it JEALOUSY! It is always a good-looking girl they are talking about—you never see them take an insignificant person to pick on.

When did you ever see fellows act like that? Men are much more true and kind-hearted. No matter how funny or how stupid a girl may be, you hardly ever get a fellow to laugh in her face, like the average girl delights in.

Trusting this letter will not bore you, as it is only a lonesome girl's little heartaches, I remain, very truly yours,

E. E.

Winnifred Black's Reply.

Why, you poor little lonesome thing! No wonder you have the heartache! Who wouldn't, carrying a disappointment around in your heart like that for years!

Now, what if that head stenographer really thought that you weren't worth breaking in? Wasn't it her duty to tell the manager so? That's part of what he paid her salary for. Didn't you know that? Probably she did misjudge you, and was too hasty and too exacting—but it was part of your business to make her see that. Don't you realize that this is true? She didn't have any grudge against you; she was probably tired and overworked herself, and didn't want to bother—and, anyhow, the idea of letting one woman stand between you and sunshine all this while!

You've lived without that situation, haven't you, ever since then? So it wasn't such a life-and-death matter after all, was it?

Of course, there are lots of jealous, little-minded, mean-spirited girls in every large office. You'll have to make up your mind to that, but every girl in the office isn't jealous and mean-spirited, and you shouldn't torture yourself by believing what isn't true of them.

Yes, that's true about the office boy—but, whisper, the men might not be quite so fond of him if he were a few years older, and was in any kind of competition with them.

Give him a little time, little sister, and he'll have the same jealousy to contend with among men that you've had among women.

Little minds and selfish hearts don't belong to women exclusively, and I've seen just as much mean jealousy among the men in an office as I have among the women.

Don't let your heart ache any more, Little Lonesome. Hold up your head, do your work well, stop thinking about yourself, and the first thing you know you'll have so many nice girl friends that you won't know what to do with them all.

Good Night Stories

HOW MAMMA GRAY MOUSE HELPED BUNNY RABBIT.

One day when Mamma and Daddy Gray Mouse were sunning themselves down near the brook, they heard a terrible scrambling under the bushes. Before they could run and hide, Bunny Rabbit hopped out in front of them. And when he spied the water and no way of getting across, Bunny Rabbit began to cry.

"What's the trouble?" asked Mamma Gray Mouse.

"I went into the garden to get a carrot and they set the dogs on me," sobbed Bunny Rabbit.

"What right had you in someone else's garden?" squeaked Daddy Gray Mouse. "Rabbits that try to take things that don't belong to them generally get into trouble. You can thank your lucky stars you didn't fall into a trap."

"It might just as well be a trap, I'm caught anyway," cried Bunny Rabbit. "They'll track me here. I can't get across the brook."

"Jump it!" squeaked Mamma Gray Mouse. "And throw them off the trail."

"I'm out of breath from running. I couldn't jump an inch—I'd be sure to drown," cried Bunny Rabbit.

Mamma Gray Mouse sat down and scratched her right ear with her claw, trying to think.

"Couldn't you hide?" asked Daddy Gray Mouse.

Bunny shook his head.

"They'd find me if I did."

Mamma Gray Mouse jumped up, plunged into the water, swam to the other side and quickly ran up a tall bush.

"Climb that bush opposite me, Daddy, and hook your tail into this vine I've tied to mine," cried Mamma Gray Mouse, holding her tail across the water.

Daddy Gray Mouse quickly climbed the bush and hooked his tail over the vine tied to Mamma Gray Mouse's tail, and there they hung just like a tiny suspension bridge over the brook.

Bunny Rabbit balancing himself with a stick soon walked across and darted under a bush just as the dogs burst through the brambles under Daddy Gray Mouse.

They sniffed the ground and in the air, and finally quarreling with the leader for bringing them on the wrong trail, they disappeared the way they had come.

Daddy Gray Mouse dropped from the bush and swam to the other shore, and the three sat down and had a good laugh at the dogs.

"It's funny—now that the danger's past," squeaked Mamma Gray Mouse. "But it wouldn't have been one bit funny if Bunny Rabbit had lost his life in the chase. Dear! Dear! How careful one should be not to crave things that don't belong to them."

"Don't you worry!" exclaimed Bunny Rabbit. "This has been a lesson to me, one I shall never forget." And thanking Mamma and Daddy Gray Mouse for helping him out, Bunny Rabbit hopped away home.

"I bet he never goes near that carrot bed again," squeaked Mamma Gray Mouse. Bunny Rabbit never did.

"DOING MY BIT"

Practical Suggestions on Individual Ways to Help Win the War.

BY ALBERT BARRETT SAYRES.

Thinning Your Plants.

The amateur is sometimes puzzled as to the best way to go about thinning the often thick clusters of shoots that have sprung up where he has planted his seeds. But this is one of the most important of duties the gardener must perform if he wishes his crops to attain the best results.

This work should be done as soon as the plants are large enough to pull, and before they begin to feel the ill effects of crowding.

The aim of thinning is to so pull the plants that there remains between each two plants the same space—a space large enough to make it possible for them to attain their best growth, yet not so large as to waste ground. The best way to go about this is to pull the plants from the centre of bunches, at the same time bearing in mind the fact that the best plants should be allowed to remain.

If you find it necessary to transplant some of the best shoots whose roots are so interwoven they cannot be separated in the soil, carefully take up all the plants that are close together, separate their roots and after dipping them in the puddling mixture—described in a previous article—replant them.

Caring For Food.

In these days when many housewives are making bread of wheat-saving kinds, it sometimes happens that they wish to cut a loaf and serve it when it's still hot, but hesitate, fearing to spoil the loaf. You can overcome such a possibility by dipping the knife into boiling water, and then can cut even a thin slice without crumbling or tearing the rest of the loaf.

If you wish to keep cookies soft you can do so by storing them in a stone crock lined with a cloth. Put them in while still hot, and they will remain soft for some time.

Serving Parsnip Fish.

No, this isn't a new fish, but it's a somewhat new and most delicious way of serving salt fish, and furthermore, uses to fine advantage any parsnips left over from a previous meal.

Free the salt fish—almost any kind will serve—from its skin, and tear the flesh into flakes. Beat the parsnips to a pulp and moisten with cream or milk. Now add flour and butter or margarine to thicken, and season with pepper and mustard. Add the flaked fish and stir the mixture over the fire until it is hot. Don't boil.

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, APRIL 21-22.

Sunday should be spent in meditation and spiritual activities, as neither social, domestic nor financial affairs are favored by the sidereal forces. The former will prosper under good transits to both Neptune and Saturn, and the convertible planet Mercury, in good aspect, encourages letter writing, intellectual and literary application, all of which should demonstrate illumination and philosophy.

Those whose birthday it is should be quiet, circumspect and contemplative. A child born on this day may be studious, clever, industrious, but perhaps prodigal.

Monday is a day calling for an enforced optimism and for most cautious manipulation of all affairs, as the negative aspects of the planets are dominant. Extreme care must be taken with speech and temper lest they precipitate litigation and disaster. Also much caution must be exerted against falsehood, treachery, betrayal both in domestic and business affairs. In the latter there may be some sudden visitation, which should not be met with impulsiveness, anger or other indiscretion.

Those whose birthday it is should manage their affairs calmly and quietly, guarding their employment. A child born on this day should be carefully trained in calmness, conservation and stability. It may succeed best in employment and so win success.

Prof. Mulveney Answers Telephone Call

Hello! Is that Prof. Mulveney, Parkdale 4830?

Yes, lady.

Is Prof. Mulveney there?

Yes, Prof. Mulveney is speaking.

Have you a worm remedy for children?

Yes.

Could you tell me, if I brought my little girl down, if she had worms?

No, lady, I cannot tell by looking at children if they have worms.

You can't?

No, madam.

Couldn't you tell me if I told you all the symptoms?

No, madam. My remedy called Mother's Friend expels Worms, is an excellent Tonic and Builder, good for the Nerves and is an excellent medicine for Regulating the Bowels; it brings away all filth and small intestinal Worms, is perfectly harmless and can be given to the smallest infant without fear of doing harm. A lady who is living on Shaw street got a bottle of this medicine for her baby two years old. She said she had no peace with this child night or day for four months; the doctor was calling regularly and did not help the child in the least, the little one took a bad spell and was choking, the mother opened its mouth and pulled out a stomach worm that was strangling the child. She rushed over to me and brought the child, also the worm, which measured eight inches long, with her. She purchased a bottle of Mother's Friend, and the second dose brought 17 more away. She was horrified at the sight, and brought the worms to me, which I have here in a bottle in my office, and many others from many happy mothers. So if you think it is a good investment to try Mother's Friend, it is $1.00 per bottle and 6c for postage in the city, and 20c extra for postage outside Toronto. Now, you understand, it is not necessary to waste car fare bringing your children here, as I do not practice medicine, and have only the one remedy for sick children, which expels Worms if they are there. It is an excellent medicine for children and has cured many little ones of St. Vitus' Dance and Convulsions, also Fits. Call or send to 211 Ossington avenue (formerly Dundas street), Toronto. Phone Park. 4830. Mother's Friend in powder form; each package makes twice as much medicine for $1.00; no danger of breaking and no cost for sending. Just send $1.00, purchased at 211 Ossington avenue.

THIS LETTER

From a Truly Grateful Mother

St. Catharines.

Prof. Mulveney, Dear Sir:

When I was in Toronto a few months ago I got a bottle of your remedy called Mother's Friend Worm Medicine, and it has been a treasure, and I am now out of it, and want to get more. The first time I gave it to her there came from her like a nest; it was just full of worms, four or five inches long, and also small worms most like maggots; and some pin-worms, and ever since, when I give her medicine she passed several worms and a great many pin-worms. This morning there were three, like fish-worms. She was also restless, throwing herself and kicking, getting scared and talking. I got up and gave her the Mothers' Friend Worm Medicine, and this morning her stool was full of pin-worms and those three large worms, like fish-worms. I have one more dose yet to give, and I must have more. I enclose an order for $1.25, as I don't know what it will cost to send it here, so if it is any more than 25c to send it, let me know. Thanking you very much for your valuable medicine. My little girl is four years old. Hoping to receive this medicine by return mail, I remain, yours respectfully.

This letter can be seen at Prof. Mulveney's office.

Fenelon Falls, June, 1916.

Prof. Mulveney:

Dear Sir—Please send me one dollar's worth of your Mothers' Friend Worm Medicine. I have given my children some before, and would not be without it now for a good deal, as I have a little girl that took fits before I gave your medicine. Now she is as healthy as any child could be. Am obliged for your good help.

Yours truly.

All the Way From Ireland

A Monster Tapeworm About Twenty Feet Long

Mr. John Campbell, of 23 Napier street, called on Prof. Mulveney and purchased a remedy to destroy Tapeworm. His wife's sister, Miss Hill, of Glenkirk, Ireland, had been suffering for some time with a Tapeworm, and had been treated without success. He sent her the remedy, which expelled the monster, head and all. Mr. Campbell received the worm by parcel post from Ireland on Nov. 23, 1912, and took it to Prof. Mulveney the same day, and it was found to be all there, a four-hooked demon. Mr. Campbell states that in July, 1903, his little girl, three years old, was relieved of a monster Tapeworm, head and all, without sickness or trouble, and the little one is healthy and well at the present time. This is how he came to recommend his sister-in-law in Ireland to try the same remedy. And now they are rejoicing over a friend across the sea whose life has been saved, who is returned to health and happiness by Prof. Mulveney's world-famous cure, which may be purchased at 211 Ossington avenue.

GIVE OR FIGHT!

YOU are living in peaceful London---what a comparison to the man in the trenches who has given up the ties of home so dear to him. Now he is "somewhere over there" enduring untold hardships---mud, cold, vermin, the horrible deafening roar of the enemy's guns, and wounds.

¶ He thinks of home with its comforts, and is grateful for what we are doing for his dependents. Surely we cannot, in honor, fail in the set purpose of raising this money.

$355,000---- APRIL 23, 24, 25

The Money Raised Will Be Divided Among the Following:

Patriotic Fund, Canadian Red Cross, British Red Cross, Italian Red Cross, Secours Nationale, Y. M. C. A. Overseas, I. O. D. E., Belgian and Serbian Relief, Salvation Army Overseas, Jewish War Relief.

PAUSE now, and picture this horrible "over there." It will do you good to think seriously about it for a few minutes. Picture what it would be like to be wounded and lack attention because of a shortage of Red Cross supplies.

¶ Now vision the home he has left---is it being kept up as when he brought home the weekly pay check? Or, is there want in the home? After thinking of these things, do you not feel it is your duty to give---and give "big"? Just let your conscience tell you how much.

Vaudeville Attractions at the Patricia Theatre Next Week.

The Shamrock Four, a quartet of vaudeville artists, present a classy singing and novelty act at the Patricia Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next. Their songs are characteristically Irish and are replete with the humor and quaintness of the people of the Emerald Isle.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday the vaudeville attraction will be Donita and Dexter, two clever girls, presenting an entertaining character and singing act. Their impersonations have been praised by reviewers in all the large cities where they have appeared. Both these acts are acknowledged to be headline features in vaudeville.

Harold Lockwood, in "Broadway Bill," at the Patricia Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday Next.

"Broadway Bill," starring Harold Lockwood, is the feature attraction at the Patricia Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The story deals with Bill Clayton, known to New York as "Broadway Bill," a sobriquet he earned because he could "lick most anybody" and outdrink any of his friends.

HAROLD LOCKWOOD in "BROADWAY BILL"

At the Patricia Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The story of a man's regeneration. The scenes are laid in New York City and later in a lumber camp in the mountains.

Marguerite Clark, one of filmdom's greatest stars. Miss Clark will appear at the Majestic shortly in her latest production, "Rich Man, Poor Man."

Broadway friends. Muriel Latham takes him to task for his frivolous habits, and Bill decides to start life anew and prove to her that he is worthy of her love. He visits John Underwood and obtains permission to go to Underwood's lumber camp to work out his regeneration.

Bill has his first bout with his old enemy, John Barleycorn, while on his way to camp, but wins a victory after a struggle. Guided by Wabishke, an Indian trapper, he reaches Underwood's camp and presents himself to Buck Hardigan, the foreman, who puts Bill to work as a lumberjack.

Hardigan becomes suspicious of Bill, believing he is sent by Underwood to investigate the camp for irregularities. Hardigan has found birdseye maple, an expensive timber, in the camp, and has turned it over to his own profit without notifying Underwood. Working on the basis that dead men tell no tales, Hardigan tries to put Bill out of the way by causing a tree to fall on him. Bill sustains a broken leg.

Meanwhile, Godfrey St. Cleve, Bill's rival, has redoubled his attentions to Muriel, who has not heard from Bill since his departure from New York. Bill reads in a torn newspaper an erroneous report that Muriel is engaged to marry St. Cleve, so when he meets her in camp he misunderstands her position. The two avoid each other, and the gulf between them widens.

Muriel's brother Jack goes on a hunt and is lost in a blizzard. Bill sets out after him, finds him, and brings him back safely to camp. Bill, utterly body-weary, falls into unconsciousness, and when he awakes he finds Muriel at his side. With the exchange of explanations all misunderstanding is cleared away and the two are reunited.

Virginia Pearson, in Her Latest Success, "All For a Husband," Showing at the Patricia Theatre Next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

One of the real screen novelties of the year is "All for a Husband," the new William Fox feature, showing at the Patricia Theatre next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, starring the accomplished Virginia Pearson. If you have come to believe that there is nothing new under the sun which shines on the photoplay world, go to the first theatre that shows "All for a Husband," and rejoice in finding a picture that is distinctly "different."

Miss Pearson, always a versatile actress, has a dual role calling for the most exacting character portrayal. She is first seen as Henrietta Downs, a young college girl camping in the mountains with Celeste Hardin. Celeste's brother has the reputation of being a confirmed woman-hater.

His sister is certain, however, that in Henrietta Downs she has a daughter of Eve who would win any man's heart. To make the conquest more sure, the two devise the scheme of having Henrietta visit the Hardin home in the guise of a beautiful and desperate lunatic. The idea comes from reading of the escape of Myra Haynes, a crazy woman.

Hardin himself is in the throes of a political campaign. He is running for mayor on a reform platform. All might still have gone well had not Myra invaded Hardin's residence. Hardin's opponents think that at last they have some scandal to attach to their foe's name. More complications ensue when Henrietta arrives and also plays the part of a lunatic. The story moves rapidly through quick dramatic action —and then follows the climax, a sensational screen surprise.

MAJESTIC

Enid Bennett In "Naughty, Naughty," Her Latest Photoplay at The Majestic Today.

Enid Bennett, the little Australian beauty will be seen at The Majestic Theatre today in her newest photoplay.

"Naughty, Naughty," is the attractive title and the picture according to report, is just as jolly as the name would imply. It is directed by Jerome Storm, under the personal supervision of Mr. Ince. A Kansas town called Lilyville is the locale and many of the scenes were "shot" in the vicinity of Hollywood, Cal.

Real atmosphere characters of the kind one would expect to find in such a village, with narrow viewpoint and in some cases exponents of prudery of the most pronounced type, all serving to make an amusing story, are to be found in the new picture. Miss Bennett will have a role that is appropriate to her talents and the picture abounds in wholesome comedy and has a background of real common sense.

William S. Hart in "Wolves of the Rail" at The Majestic Monday and Tuesday.

"Wolves of the Rail," the latest Artcraft offering in which William S. Hart is featured, provides a new character for the famous star, that of a railroad detective running down a gang of bandits during the early days of the west. The story is by Denison Clift and provides Hart with sensational scenes and thrilling situations. He performs heroic feats, the climax of which is his daring ride alongside a runaway engine which he boards while his horse is going at a mad gallop and prevents a collision.

Vola Vale, the beautiful and accomplished girl who has played the leading feminine roles in Hart's recent pictures, enacts a charming romance with him in this photoplay.

Most of the scenes were photographed in the mountains of California where a complete railroad station, switch tower and division superintendent's office were erected.

Throughout the story there is a wealth of spirited action. A real railroad station was erected in the mountains for this picture, and many of the most exciting episodes occur in this locale. Hart has his usual splendid supporting organization.

At The Majestic Theatre Monday and Tuesday.

Norma Talmadge in "By Right of Purchase," a Gripping Society Drama, Showing at the Majestic Wednesday and Thursday.

"By Right of Purchase," Norma Talmadge's current Select Star Series release, which presents her in an emotional society drama of today, will be shown here at the Majestic Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday. To support Miss Talmadge, under the able direct of Charles Miller, who was with her in the production of "Ghosts of Yesterday," an unusually high-grade cast was assembled.

Eugene O'Brien, who was with Miss Talmadge in "Poppy," "The Moth" and "Ghosts of Yesterday," left the cast of "The Country Cousin," the popular Broadway production, to devote his full time to this picturization. Ida Darling, last seen on the screen with this star in "Ghosts of Yesterday," has had a long career on the stage and screen, and is a noted character actress. Wm. Courtleigh, Jun., is a son of the popular actor; Charles Wellsley will be remembered principally for his excellent performances in "Redemption"; Florence B. Billings is a talented screen actress of considerable experience.

With such a sterling cast, and with a sumptuous production, Norma Talmadge adds new laurels to her crown of artistic achievement in "By Right of Purchase."

Wm. S. Hart in "The Cold Deck."

At the Unique Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday.

Maeterlinck's "Bluebird" at the Majestic May 6, 7 and 8.

"The Bluebird," Maeterlinck's masterpiece recently adapted for screen presentation, will be shown at the Majestic Theatre on May 6, 7 and 8. The story is conceded to be the masterpiece of Belgium's greatest poet. It is a spectacle of inconceivable beauty

"The Whispering Chorus" a Photoplay of Tremendous Vitality at the Majestic on May 2 and 3.

"The Whispering Chorus" is a wonderful photoplay adapted from the story of the same name.

"The Whispering Chorus" is made of many voices—the voice of the Tempter, the voice of Mother Love, of Self-Sacrifice, of Fear.

John Tremble heard the Voice of the Tempter, then the Voice of Fear. Down he went in his fearful descent, halted for a moment by the promptings of sorrow and of love then on and on until one voice dominated all the rest —the voice of Self-Sacrifice.

That the woman he loved might be happy he denied the Voice of Safety and in one moment redeemed himself to the extent of his power, giving freely his life—a sacrifice supreme.

Margarita Fischer—Pollard-Mutual star Featured in "Molly Go Cat 'Em," showing at the Unique Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

Marguerite Clark, in "Rich Man, Poor Man," at the Majestic Theatre May 9 and 10.

Dainty Marguerite Clark, whose "Bab" pictures are well remembered, has a new vehicle, "Rich Man, Poor Man," which will be shown at the Majestic Theatre very shortly. This is a splendid screen subject filled with tense dramatic situations by the aid, of which an absorbing dramatic story is developed. It is one of the best photoplays, in which Miss Clark, the "sweetest girl in motion pictures," has been seen in this city, and it seems certain that her many admirers here will turn out in force at the opening display.

Mack Sennett, Comedy, "Watch Your Neighbor," Showing at the Majestic Next Friday and Saturday.

At the Majestic Theatre Friday and Saturday, next week, the comedy is "Watch Your Neighbor," the latest Paramount-Mack Sennett starring Charles Murray with Mary Thurman and Wayland Trask. Charles Murray, who heads the list, is one of the best known comedians of the screen and is a veteran not only of film work, but of the vaudeville and musical comedy stage.

His first Paramount-Mack Sennett was "A Bedroom Blunder," in which he also appeared with Miss Thurman and Wayland Trask. "Watch Your Neighbor" is a scream from the first foot of film and "just what the tired businessman wants" from start to finish.

UNIQUE

William S. Hart, in "The Cold Deck," at the Unique Theatre Next Wednesday and Thursday.

William S. Hart, who is today the most noteworthy male figures on the screen, and the idol of all true Americans, soon will make his appearance at the Unique Theatre Wednesday in "The Cold Deck," his latest masterpiece.

This play will offer "the Buffalo Bill of the silent drama" in an entirely new characterization, a deviation from all past portrayals. He will be seen as a typical Bret Harte gambler in a story of California in the early fifties. Instead of the usual Hart habiliments, he dresses the part in high beaver hat, old-fashioned stock and frilled shirt-bosom, flowered waistcoat and broadcloth coat, and the polished boots of the period. But, to those who can only picture Hart in his past delineations, it can be safely said that he presents as striking an appearance in this costume as he has in other western outfits.

"The Cold Deck" is the story of "Level Leigh," a gambler of the old school.

At the Majestic Theatre next Monday and Tuesday. "Big Bill" Hart is shown as a bad man in this photoplay whose reformation is brought about by the prayer of his dying mother.

FRESH RAINS RENEW HOPE.

HYDE PARK, April 17.—Since the splendid rain of Wednesday the farmers in this district have taken fresh hope for the fall wheat, which has not been so poor in years. In fact, a large proportion has been plowed up. There were so many severe frosts after the snow melted that the roots were completely destroyed in places.

Thy Will Be Done!

We see not, know not; all our way
Is night—with thee alone is day;
From out the torrent's troubled drift,
Above the storm our prayers we lift,
Thy will be done!

The flesh may fail, the heart may faint,
But who are we to make complaint,
Or dare to plead, in times like these,
The weakness of our love of ease?
Thy will be done!

We take, with solemn thankfulness,
Our burden up, nor ask it less,
And count it joy that even we
May suffer, serve or wait for Thee,
Thy will be done!

Though dim as yet in tint and line,
We trace Thy picture's wise design,
And thank Thee that our age supplies
Its dark relief of sacrifice.
Thy will be done!

And if in our unworthiness,
Thy sacrificial wine we press;
If from Thy ordeal's heated bars
Our feet are seamed with crimson scars,
Thy will be done!

If, for the age to come, this hour
Of trial hath vicarious power,
And, blessed by Thee, our present pain
Be Liberty's eternal gain,
Thy will be done!

Strike, Thou the Master, we Thy keys;
The anthem of the destinies!
The minor of Thy loftier strain,
Our hearts shall breath the old refrain.
Thy will be done!

—WHITTIER.

41,000 CANADIAN LIVES HAVE BEEN LAID DOWN IN THE CAUSE OF FREEDOM

OTTAWA, April 19.—In the course of his address on the order-in-council to amend the military service act, Premier Borden gave figures, compiled up to March 31, 1918, regarding Canada's war effort.

He said that up to that date Canada had dispatched overseas 264,760 men of all ranks; of these 348,000 were non-commissioned officers and man and 16,-000 officers. A table of military districts showed that the men had been recruited as follows:

Military District No. 1 (London), 25,533; No. 2 (Toronto), 76,597; No. 3 (Kingston), 39,393; No. 4 (Montreal), 32,463; No. 5 (Quebec), 8,-389; No. 6 and 7 (Maritime Provinces), 37,205; No. 10 and 12 (Manitoba and Saskatchewan), 75,503; No. 11 (British Columbia), 36,475; No. 13 (Alberta), 33,193.

Canadian casualties so far, said the prime minister, were as follows: Killed in action, 25,912; died of wounds, 8,671; died of disease, 1,956; wounded, 106,185; prisoners of war 2,736; presumed dead 3,938; other casualties, 790.

41,000 Canadian Lives.

A compilation of those killed in action, died of wounds and disease, presumed dead and missing, said Sir Robert, would show that a total of about 41,000 young Canadians had given up their lives in the war up to March 31 last.

Sir Robert said that while he was not at liberty to tell the House just where the Canadians are located, he could say that the forces representing the Dominion are in greater strength and more confident in spirit than ever before. They were holding a position which had not yet been seriously attacked, and he would venture the assertion that so long as their flanks hold they will not fall back.

As to probable casualties, the people of Canada must be prepared for a heavy list when the inevitable attack comes. In the second battle of Ypres six thousand men, or forty per cent of the Canadian forces fell. During 1917 Canadian losses totalled 84,347, including 13,-461 at Vimy Ridge, 10,124 during the fighting that occurred in May; 10,-080 during the fighting in August, when the Canadians captured Hill 70, and 24,530 in November when they took Passchendaele Ridge.

GERMANS EXPECTED TO DIVIDE ALLIES' FORCE IN 2 WEEKS

Failed In Spite of All Their Advantages.

London, April 20.—Before the present German offensive began, German officers in neutral countries were prepared to bet that the Germans would succeed in dividing the forces of the Allies within a fortnight, Lord Robert Cecil, minister of blockade, declared in a speech last night at Hitchin, he had been informed.

"A month has passed and the Germans have not succeeded," Lord Robert concluded, "but we would be wickedly foolish if we believed the battle had ended. We have an indefinite period of terrible and strenuous struggles before us. We must not underrate our enemy, who has had the great advantage of 50 years of preparation for war, favorable geographical position and united command.

Have Withstood Strain.

"But British citizens who have withstood the Germans for four years on equal terms have proved that their valor is equal to German training, while recently our forces in France were placed with the French armies under the command of that great soldier, Gen. Foch."

Lord Robert did not think that the enemy's formidable advantages would decide the battle in his favor, but the Allies must not come under the sway of a too-easy optimism.

Germany Unchanged.

The minister of blockade referred to the revelations of Prince Lichnowsky, former German ambassador to London, and other proofs showing that Germany was absolutely unchanged since she strove to lull the world to sleep by talk of peace while planning this attack. Since the battle has begun there has been no talk of peace and nothing has been heard but talk of German annexations, indemnities, increase in the power of the German military caste and the slavery of the rest of the world. He concluded:

"We are fighting indubitably for the freedom of the world. Anyone who says the Germans desire to live in peace with their neighbors and are ready to make a just and righteous peace is indulging in voluntary self-deception."

The president first crawled through a small hole in the side of the tank and thoroughly inspected its working parts. Then the tank was closed and the president was taken for a short ride through the White House grounds.

France Has Lost 1,300,000 Men in Fight For Liberty

NEW YORK April 19.—France, in four years of conflict to preserve her own liberty and that of the world, according to M. Andre Tardieu, French high commissioner to the United States, has lost 1,300,000 men killed and almost as many wounded or prisoners. The high toll exacted by the war was made public by the noted French envoy today in an address at a meeting of the "Fatherless Children of France" Association.

AGRICULTURE COMMITTEE OF COMMONS LISTENS TO CRITICISM OF L.D.A.

Sunday Labor Might Be Necessary to Save Grain Crops.

OTTAWA, April 19.—The Commons committee on agriculture at its first session this morning, under the presidency of R. T. Henders, member for MacDonald, Man., had a long discussion in reference to the labor problem. It was decided to appoint a special committee to make a report to the next meeting.

The committee consists of the following members: Messrs. Morphy, Davis, Argue, McIntosh, Col. Laing and Col. MacKie.

There were strong expressions of opinion by members of the general committee in favor of employing interned aliens and the closing up of non-essential industries.

There was some discussion of the objection by the Lord's Day Alliance to Sunday labor. While the work of the Lord's Day Alliance and its objects were highly praised, several members expressed the opinion that there were conditions, most particularly at the present time, when Sunday labor might be absolutely essential in order to save crops of grain, so greatly required. Under existing circumstances they thought that the Lord's Day Alliance should not insist on too strict an enforcement of the Lord's Day act.

GRAIN.

Chicago, April 20.—Opening: Corn—May, $1 27⅛; July, $1 45½@1 45⅝. Oats—May, 83½@83¾c; July, 74@74½c.

Chicago, April 20.—Fresh upturns in the price of corn resulted today from low temperatures and from prospects of snow. Besides, receipts here showed something of a decrease. On the advance in values, however, commission houses became sellers and brought about a reduction. Opening figures, which ranged from ⅛c to 2c higher, with May at $1 27⅛ and July at $1 45½@1 45¾, were followed by moderate setbacks, chiefly in the active option, July.

Oats gained strength on account of the unsettled weather conditions. Trade, though, was only local. After opening unchanged to ¾c higher, with May at 83½@83¾c, the market continued to harden.

Winnipeg, April 20.—Oats opened ¼c to ½c higher for May at 91⅛@91¾c; July unchanged to ½c up, at 87⅞@88⅜c.

Flax opened unchanged to ¼c lower for May, at $3 80@3 81½, and July unchanged at $3 80½.

Inspections for Friday totaled 440 cars for all grains. The contract grades of wheat were 173 cars.

WALL STREET.

New York, April 20.—Pools controlled today's stock market to a considerable extent. Their operations embraced a variety of specialties, notably motors and subsidiaries, as well as equipments, sugars and tobaccos at extreme gains of 1½ to 3 points. Standard shares were sluggish at the outset, but came forward later. United States Steel rallied briskly from its slight reaction, making its best quotation of the week at a gain of 1¾ points. Rails also hardened after early irregularity. The close was strong.

New York, April 20—Wall Street, 10:10 a.m.—Nominal changes, mostly upward, ruled at the opening of today's stock market. Equipments and shippings featured the narrow movement.

10:30 a.m.—War issues and allied equipments featured the early trading in today's stock market, some at substantial advances. Sloss-Sheffield gained 2¾ points on resumption of dividends, and motor accessories, such as United States Rubber, Goodrich and Kelly-Springfield Tire, advanced 2 to 2¾ points. Baldwin Locomotive, American Car and Railway Steel Springs were a point over yesterday's final prices. The more representative industrials made only fractional gains, while rails were dull and irregular. Liberty bonds held steady.

SAWING WOOD

Every successful person knows that one dollar at a time will build up a fortune; one stick at a time makes a cord.

You've often heard about the man who "said nothing and sawed wood." He didn't expect to saw a whole cord at once—only a stick at a time—nor make a fortune at once, but he began by opening a Savings Account of $1.00, and systematically continued adding thereto until he piled up a fortune.

Look at the pile these men now have who commenced by "sawing wood." You can do the same by opening a Savings Account with us with

This Skin Peeler All the Rage in Society

There is a growing tendency among women of culture and fashion to pay more attention to hygienic means of preserving their charms. The advent of mercolized wax doubtless has been largely responsible for this. This remarkable substance produces complexions so natural in appearance, so magnetically beautiful, artificial complexions are no longer desired. Instead of "doctoring" an offensive skin, the skin is peeled off. The wax peels the skin so gradually, in such fine particles, no discomfort is experienced, wholly in evidence within a week or two, is lily white, satiny soft and smooth. It's not a patched-over complexion, but a brand new one. That's why mercolized wax has become such a rage among society folk. The wax is put on nights like cold cream, and washed off mornings. All druggists have it; one ounce will do.—Advt.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Common Garden Sage and Sulphur makes streaked, faded or grey hair dark and youthful at once.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or grey. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the grey hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy, and you look years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

BEDRIDDEN WITH RHEUMATISM

Felt That He Would Never Walk Again—"Fruit-a-tives" Brought Relief.

MR. LORENZO LEDUC.

3 Ottawa St., Hull, P. Q.

"Fruit-a-tives" is certainly a wonder. For a year I suffered with Rheumatism, being forced to stay in bed for five months. I tried all kinds of medicine, but without getting better, and thought I would never be able to walk again.

"One day while lying in bed, I read about 'Fruit-a-tives,' the great fruit medicine; and it seemed just what I needed, so I decided to try it.

"The first box helped me, and I took the tablets regularly until every trace of the rheumatism left me.

"I have every confidence in 'Fruit-a-tives,' and strongly recommend them to every sufferer from Rheumatism."
