Fear a Revolt. The Government believes that the Carlists and the members of the re-ligious orders, which are nur erous in forthern Spain, are openly inciting their followers to violence. The governors of the Basque Provinces, and the adjoining province today issued orders to the mayors of all the municipalities in these provinces to warn the Catholics aga ist assembling or entering the city of San Sebastian with arms, and that the most energetic measures would be taken to repress any attempt at a manifestation.

A GIANT'S FUNERAL.

When the body of William H. Burnett, the 575-pound tavern keeper of Locust Valley, L. I., was lowered into its nineby-five-by-seven-foot grave in the little country churchyard, that sleepy hamlet saw the last of the man who had given it more or less prominence.

It was the biggest funeral that records seem to know anything about, for Burnett's immense weight made it necessary for the ordinary burial ceremony to be performed on unusual lines. The coffin a metallic one weighing 400 pounds, had no handles, and was lifted by means of seven-foot hickory boards placed under-

NEW OATH BILL

London, Aug. 4. - The accession declaration bill. striking out the phrases offensive to the Roman Catholic Church in the declaration made by the King after accession and substituting merely the words, "I am a faithful Protestant," which was passed by the House of Lords upon the third reading yesterday evening, obtained the royal assent today. The oath as amended will be in the following terms: "I do solemnly, sincerely, in the presence of God, profess, testify, and declare, that I am a faithful Protestant, and that I will, according to the true intent of the enactment, secure the Protestant succession to the throne of my realm, uphold and maintain said enactments to the best of my power.'

The unanimity with which Parliament has approved of the new form of declaration is in striking contrast with the controversial feeling aroused throughout the country. In Scotland the opposition to the bill was particularly keen, and members of Parlia-ment were deluged with petitions from religious and other bodies protesting against the change. The Nonconformists claimed that there should be no reference to the "Church of England as by law established," and showed strong opposition to the original substituting clause, which read, "and declare that I am a faithful member of the Protestant Church as by law established in England." This amendment was accepted by the premier. The first reading of the bill passed the House of Commons on June 28, by a vote of 383 to 42, and the second reading was agreed to on Wednesday last, without a division. The reasons for the bill were clearly expressed by Mr. Asquith, who declared that their only object was to relieve the new sovereign from the obligation of making a public declaration which gave legitimate offence to millions of loyal subjects in all parts of his dominions.

Berlin, Aug. 1. - Berlin was asounded, indeed shocked, to learn that when the crown prince went to Hanover last week to unveil a statue of the venerated Queen Louise he had an extremely cool reception. Even the decorations of the town were scant and depressing, and the whole atmosphere was so very frigid that the coming emperor would make no formal response to the burgomaster's ceremonial of welcome, and at the banquet he merely drank a convenional toast.

Crown Prince William is greatly oved throughout Germany, and this snub of the crown-for such it wasby the people of one section is explained by some of the Hanoverian newspapers to mean no disrespect to the man, whom they love and admire, but to be a method of expressing resentment because it is still compelled to remain a province instead of being kingdom as formerly.

Espouse Duke's Cause. The Duke of Cumberland, whose claims to the throne of Hanover have been steadily rejected and who not so very long ago was subjected to renewed humiliation by Emperor William, has won the hearts of the people of what he considers his rightful dominion, and they are also devoted to the duke's family; so that when the future ruler of Germany visited their capital last week they took occasion to make him realize that while they are loyal to the empire, they have a deep-seated grievance. Playing emperor while his father was laid up with a lame wrist may have been great fun for the crown prince, but not so with the emperor, who only saw the serious side of the situation when he realized that the mighty sovereign of the German Empire had been incapacitated for ruling because he could not sign documents of state-by the bit or sting of an inignificant insect.

Simplicity Wins Friends. Prince William's brief glimpses of he actual life of a reigning sovereign did not spoil his delightfully democratic manners. The other afternoon he was returning to Berlin in his automobile and saw a plasterer trudging along the road with his tools strapped to his back. He stopped and invited the man to ride with him. For some thirty miles the plasterer rode seated beside one of the aids. When the crown prince dropped the man near his home he pressed a gold piece nto his hand. Stories of this kind are heard on all sides. He may be actuated by policy, or it may be the natural act of a sympathetic heart.

Colored Muslins on Sale Saturday At, About and Less Than Half Price

10c, 12¹₂c, 25c to 45c Muslins

For 6_4^1 c, 12_2^1 c, and 20c a Yard

August is the month of preparation for fall stocks. It is necessary to do some room making in most all departments at times. There are two ways of making room. Some merchants wait until the season is over, pack away what is left and keep it for the next season. But this is an age in merchandising when the newest only is demanded by the buying public, and in order to have as nearly as possible only the newest goods to offer, while the season is on we must see to it that the goods are sold. That is our way of making room for the new, and the reason for such sweeping reductions on our entire line of Colored Dress Muslins. Some all black also in the stock. We have sorted all in three lots. They include French Muslins and Voiles, Irish Dimities, English Muslins, etc.

All 10c and 121/2c Colored and some All Black Muslins, now, a yard
All 20c and 25c Colored Muslins and Irish Dimities, at yard
All 35c, 40c and 45c Colored French Muslins, Voiles, etc., at yard Sale begins Saturday morning. West Aisle, Main Floor.

LONDON. FRIDAY, AUG. 5. SIR WILFRID AND THE NAVY.

The naval policy of the Dominion Government was clearly explain-Sir Wilfrid Laurier in his at Humboldt, Sask., the other His audience was largely made up of settlers from the United States, who as yet are naturally less interested in this phase of Canadian developmene than are the people of the older offered the Premier an opportunity to teach a lesson in Canadianism to the new citizens.

That is not the aim of the Liberal Government and party, which stands firmly for the autonomy of Canada and the unity of the empire. Sir Wilfrid declared that both the ultra-imperialists and the Bourassaites of the Conservative party are wrong. Canada's independence, he added, will be found in the maintenance of our allegiance and our local autonomy in imperial unity.

The naval policy of the Government is simply another forward step in the evolution of Canada as a free, vigorous and independent nation within the em pire, the natural development of the idea for which Liberal democracy has consistently stood, not in Canada alone but in the other self-governing over seas dominions, It is a policy which will give full scope to the national aspirations of the Canadian people. and will tend to weld the empire together in a strong and permanent bond of unity. Above all it is the policy best suited for Canada.

HEAD OFF THE SLUMS!

Mr. H. Vivian, M. P., chairman of the Co-partnership Tenants Movement. of Great Britain, has accepted an invitation to visit Canada this year and to address meetings in the chief cities and towns of the Dominion on housing and town planning. An English newsthe member for Birkenhead to undertake this work are anxious that the reproduction of the slums so prevalent in older countries should be avoided in the rapidly growing towns of the Dominion

Mr. Vivian comes from a country of slums as an anti-slum missionary to a country where slums are almost unknown, but there is nothing incongruous in his errand and it may be fruitful for good. The slum evil in the old land has become so menacing that heroic reform has become a matter of national salvation. In Liverpool the municipal authorities are destroying every slum in the city, and rebuilding the whole slum area. Other large municipalities are pursuing a similar policy on a smaller scale. In Canada the evil is only in its infancy, but it will grow with the country unless public opinion is aroused to the necessity of preventive measures. The conditions in two or three of the larger cities are already a scandal. More stringent building regulations are imperative in all centres of population, and there should be some compulsory standards of town-planning for the communities which are springing up in the newer provinces, each a law unto itself. Our towns and cities have been growing in a haphazard and happy-golucky way, with an utter disregard for the science and system which in older countries are being enforced through the teaching of bitter experience. It is gratifying to know that far-sighted and philanthropic

It is more than likely that there has been tacit agreement among the party leaders to avert a crisis until the King is fairly seated upon the throne. The conference will have served this purpose, by taking the constitutional issue out of the hands of parliament in the to favor the management by reporting meantime, even though it proves abortive in the end. boys a good education. Now he says: "It is hard to have to be alone and suffer, but I don't think it will last long. I am not long for this world now. I feel as if I would like to go away alone and die."

It looks as though Crippen intended to invoke the legal maxim known as the "corpus delicti," literally "the body of the crime." Both in England and the United States there are precedents for the acquittal of persons charged with murder when the bodies of the victims could not be found or identified. The circumstantial evidence must be very strong to secure conviction in such cases. The attempt to destroy all trace of the sex of the body discovered in Crippen's cellar suggests that the murderer had some knowledge of anatomy, and of the criminal law.

BUSINESS BOOMING

Sarnia, Aug. 5.—Since the settlement of the G. T. R. strike business is beginning to boom here. The merchants who had been suffering for want of goods held up by the strike, have now got in a fairly large supply. Freight! trains are moving lively, and the passenger trains are once more running on time.

THE CUCKOO. The cuckoo is a queer bird. Instead of building a nest of its own, it lays

One day, when Mrs. Wren came home from worm-gathering, she found the little cuckoo just pushing one of her little babies out. She flew into the nest with a great flutter, and the birdie was saved.

But poor Mrs. Wren! She slept little that night. She was trying to think what she should do the next day. If she left the nest, the babies would be killed. If she stayed there, they would have nothing to eat.

Papa Wren had gone to a neighboring orchard to take part in a concert, and would be gone until the next day, so she had no one to help her. What was she to do?

In the morning the little birds all began to cry loudly for worms, until she was almost tempted to push the nest, tied one end to the legs of each baby wren, and the other to the little cuckoo out; but she was too kind and motherly for that. Then suddenly

"The passage that leads from 2f Wurtsmurton ends in the palace," I answered, speaking half to myself. "We might try to get in there again, though the chances now..." and then I stopped short, realizing what I had said.

"What passage leads to the castle?" the princess asked quickly. Her eyes were fixed in a quiet scrutiny of my face, and I fear I flushed guiltily, for I saw I had committed myself, when I had not intended telling her how Karl and I had attempted to search of Heinrich's rooms.

"There is a secret passage, I understand, from 21 Wurtsmurton to the palace," I replied lamely. Of course there was no good reason why I should not tell was no good reason why I should not tell her the truth, and yet I hesitated, out of fear of alarming her. Nothing was to be gained by dilating on our failure or letting her know we had possibly still more aroused the anger and enmity of both Heinrich and Zergald.

"I really thing, Mr. Converse, frankness suits you far better."

"But, your Highness—" I protested.

"I know—in fact, I felt when Karl refused to tell me anything that you had met with danger. Now I know it, and I think it would be kinder if you would tell me."

The princess spoke the least bit as if she felt I was not treating her fairly. "What I failed to tell you," I answered, resolved at once to tell you," I answered, resolved at once to tell her nearly all, "is of little importance. I did not for a moment conceal any facts."

"I would like to know what really transpired."

"Well, I met the countess, talked with her in 21 Waytsmurton and she agreed.

"Well, I met the countess, talked wth her in 21 Wurtsmurton, and she agreed to take me by this underground passage to the castle, where she said the documents were hid."

"But why did she do this?"

"Because she was anxious to do nothing to keep you from being crowned. She claimed not to have known the contents of the envelope when she stole it."

"I see!" said the princess "She was "I see!" said the princess. "She was laying a trap for you."

I didn't ask why she thought that, but went on with my story.

"We went down the passage far enough to convince me it led where the countess said it did. Then she left me, ostensibly to find if a guard was in our way, but I suspected a trick, and before she re-turned caught her voice and Heinrich's far down the passage I think they must have spoken overloud, not realizing I was within earshot of them." "And then," the princess asked as I paused, considering for an instant how near I had come to actual facts. "Then." I said with a laugh. away, not caring to meet Heinrich and possibly a half dozen of his followers."

The princess turned and studied the distant landscape for some minutes.

Some way I had a feeling she did not accept my explanation, but before I could well tell what might be her thoughts, she turned, and I saw that her face was flushed and her lips trembled.

With a quick movement she leaned over, it was not far, for I was riding close at her side, and laid her hand for the interactions are size of the side. an instant on my wrist,

I found Sir Charles at home, and soon learned that the countess had not lied to me on one point, at least. Zergald, it seemed, was endeavoring to get a loan from certain English capitalists. then, lifted on the wave of his admission, confirmation had come in her look Was it any wonder I had allowed my-self to show that which I had sworn never would admit except in my own And still with all my questioning, with all my censuring of myself, there was a gladness in my breast hard to still.

She cared! She cared! Why she cared—you see there was still the little gnawing thought she only cared because I was on her business—did not matter. It was enough to know I had found favor in her eyes, and her words, "Do be care-ful!" were a song of joy ringing in my ears.

She had asked it—and why? Because she cared; because I was something more to her than Karl, Kurlmurt or more to her than Karl, Kurlmurt or those who were numbered as her helpers. It was a thought that filled my heart to overflowing.

I stood there at the window of my room, looking out across the lake. The sunlight danced in my eyes, the picture took on a hundred new colors, and I seemed to be lifted above myself, and seemed to be lifted above myself, and all because she, one woman in a world, let gladness leap from her eyes in answer to the gladness in mine.

Then, as always after great elation, came the reaction, and I began to see this thing in its true light.

Before my coming her task was hard enough. What had I now made that enough.

Oh, the remorse that was mine with that thought! I upbraided myself for a thoughtless servant who ill serves the one he would spare all pain.

If I had kept my own counsel, if I had let no look go forth, it I had hardened my heart, if—but why if! if! if! The folly of my reasoning was clearly shown by the thought that it was necessary

our heart beats, or say when hot blood and mad passion shall arise? Oh, the folly when the tinder-shell is lighted! Folly in our acts, perhaps, but greater folly in attempting to keep hid the flame, that will, like murder, out.

Yet I issued to myself an edict. Did I rebel against it? Did I say I had a right to tell my love to her, princess or no? Did I swear one moment that I would, and that we would go together and find our happiness while Scarvania would, and that we would go together and find our happiness while Scarvania crowned whom it could? Did I laugh and feel she would be crowned, but in my heart and on my throne? Aye. I did, and much else. Yet in the end I looked into my mirror and told myself I was dealing with facts, not fiction.

Had I been weaving the thing in the fancies of my own brain I could have turned some tricks, done something, and thus found a way out. But now I had stern reality to deal with, and I calmed my rebellious self as best I could, accepting Fate.

And Fate is right. I might have said

I'd carry Hilma off, yet what did happen would have been no different. Fate would have ended the game as it did. When events are cast and moving, move on they will. There is no other way. The long arm reaches out and sweeps you in, carrying you on to what will be. Let a man do his best, plan in the right way, and he comes into the arm's grasp more and he comes into the arm's grasp more gently, that is all.

And while I was thus settling matters with myself, and tuning my mind to the acceptance of Fate's decree, Karl and Kurlmurt came stamping in upon me. (To be Continued.)

AUSTRALIAN PREMIER PREACHES SERMON

Places Himself and Party in Line For Moral Reform.

Melbourne, Aug. 4.-South Australia's new labor premier, John Verran, has placed himself and his party in line with the forces that make for social and moral reform. Having denounced gambling, Mr. Verran preached a sermon at Port Pirie to a Christian Endeavor conference from the text, "I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable, unto God, which is your reasonable service." "Do you realize," he said, "that if St. Paul were on earth today he would be a social agitator?" At the end of the reading of the twelfth chapter of Romans he said, "If we all read and went by this book, life today would be better and brighter. All our life's work, whether industrial, social or political in character, is religious.'

The sermon itself was merely plain, manly talk on the subject of immorality, and the need for a high standard of personal, as well as public, righteousness. Here is a passage reflective of the premier's unconventional method and phraseology:

"Don't use dirty language when you see girls coming along the street, and don't spit on the pavement in front of decent women. Cultivate good manners, and do nothing to destroy the dignity of the motherhod of the state in which you live. To the young men who are doing nothing I say join something-a church, a trade union, or

To all offers Wheeler turns a deaf ear. South Bend has a chance to cop the pennant in the Central League, and Wheeler won't sell McCarty, the real star of his team.

McCarty comes from Bradley, Ill., and Wheeler discovered him playing on the Notre Dame College team this spring. Wheeler talked the youngster into signing a contract, and now South Bend fans say McCarty is a better man at short than Ownie Bush, the Detroit star. Bush learned the game with South Bend in the Central.

McCarty is said to be remarkably fast in getting balls away, being able to throw fast and accurately without stopping to straighten up or brace away. In the Central League he has fielded .948, and is batting .267.

If theology is a science, and all accept that definition, then the truth is something of many sides that is revealed by search, and any attempt to tell professors that this shall not be taught and that certain inevitable conclusions must in the light of today be withheld, is regarded as an attitude far from Protestant.

That Dr. Carman may have opposition when he is nominated for the general superintendency is not not improbable. Rev. Dr. Sparling, of Winnipeg, has been mentioned as a possibility, and also Rev. Dr. Cleaver, of Toronto. But the serious opponents of the veteran ex-bishop and superintendent are considered to be Rev. Dr. S. Chown, head of the temperance and moral reform department, and Rev. London, Aug. 4.—Declaring it the rowning glory of her life, Sara Bernhardt, the brilliant dramatic star whose artistic career of more than forty years has made her one of the women of history, is today a reat-grandmother. laughter of Madame Bernhardt's son Maurice, gave birth to a girl. Leo Gross, the father, is the son of a former Philadelphian.

Although credited with being one of the greatest press agents in the world, Madame Bernhardt cannot be credited with her name appearing in the press of two continents this time.

The great grandmother is 66 years old, but stays young, both in spirit and appearance. One could not associate her with any such thing as age. She has previously though only of art; but art will now have associated with it in her mind a child, of which she is rightly proud.

Madame Bernhardt's successful career had its incipiency when, in 1869, she appeared at the Porte-Sainte-Martin, Paris, as Zanette in Francois Coppee's "Le Passant." From that moment she was hailed as a star. Three years later she entered the Theatre Francais a victor, already recognized by the critics as a luminary of the first magnitude. Since that event she has been idolized by the public, to whom she appealed by her genius as well as her independent spirit. This fall Madame Bernhardt will welcomed, not only as a great-grandmother, but as still the leading actress of the world. In addition to her brilliant dramatic career, she has won considerable fame as a painter and sculptor, and for many years she has been represented annually in the salon. She has also written several books and plays, besides an interesting autobiography. Doubtless she considers it a fortune that she has already done these things, as her great-grandchild will share honors with her art.

J. Y. EGAN, Specialist, Toronto A WORD OF CAUTION

Procrastination is the most common Procrastination is the most common error of ruptured people. In most cases they do not realize the risk they are running. You may have been ruptured for some time, and not noticed any change for bottom or worse. But remember no for better or worse. But, remember, no rupture stands still. Even if not getting larger, the bowel is growing fast to the larger, the bowel is growing fast to the inside, and any day your ordinary truss is liable to slip while lifting or coughing and let more of the bowel escape. In such a case strangulated hernia is likely to result in death. Many people come to me constipated, nervous, irritable, suffering from indigestion and constant colds. They seldom charge this to their rupture, but that is where their ill-health originates. A rupture strains the whole physical organism, and is a constant nerve irritant, a breeding place for the germs of typhoid, and frequently causes rheumatism, paralysis and sterility. Your rupture cured will make you feel like a new being; your nerves will recover their normal tone and your rundown condition normal tone and your rundown condition replaced by vigorous, joyous health. Act at once and remove the daily danger of death which, like a threatening thunderdeath which, like a threatening thunder-cloud, hangs over the head of every ruptured person. BUILD BIG HOTEL TO SHELTER WORKINGMEN

Sage Foundation Plans to Spend Thousands on Long Island Structure.

New York, Aug. 5.-Hotel keeping as a branch of charity is to be tried by the Sage foundation. The hotel is to be built at Forest Hills, Long Island, in conjunction with the modern homes which the foundation is building for workingmen and people of noderate means. According to plans, the hotel is to be one of the largest on Long Island. It will be eight stories high, fireproof, and will cost several hundred thous and dollars. Its guests will be workingmen, who will be accommodated at the lowest possible rate.

15,000 TAILORS STRIKE.

New York, Aug. 5.-Another general clothing strike is under way in New York. Fifteen thousand coat tailors, of whom 6,000 are women, quit work in 300 factories yesterday, demanding a 53-hour working week, and an increase in wages.

About 15,000 more are expected to quit work today.

very beginning, as it is a wholly mistaken one. The first and essential claim to the title of creole is that one should be of the purest European blood; the second, so far as the West Indians are concerned, is that one should be a native of the islands. If Queen Victoria had happened to be in Trinidad when her eldest son was born, King Edward would be a creole. The word simply applies to two things-parentage and birth. You may be an English creole, a French creole, a Spanish creole, but you cannot be a creole if you are born in England or France or Spain, even though your ancestors had been born and bred in the West Indies for generations. The one thing which is impossible in a true creole is exactly what the ignorant thing the word implies-that is, the least suggestion of negro blood. Please remember, then, that the true creoles are as white as you are, and that those of the upper classes have nearly all been educated in France or England; and that if you meet one in a London drawing-room and expect reils and nose rings and a jangle of barbaric jewels, you will be grievously disappointed. They are just ordinary ladies and gentlemen, a little paler than you, because living in the tropics they have not been so much under the open sky-ctizens also of the British Empire and loyal subjects of King George, although sometimes they can only speak French or Spanish.-London Saturday Review.

supply on London Market Is Very Small-Market Clerk Maker Has Returned.

Lay went up another dollar on the local market this morning, owing to the shortage in the supply, as the farmers of Middlesex are now engaged in harvesting their oats.

A week ago hay was a drug, at $10 and $10 50 a ton. Today the buyers are scrambling for any quality, and as high as $14 a ton is being paid. Owners of horses are being hit hard, and automobile dealers are looking for a rush—this horse is becoming so expensive. business is becoming so expensive.

As yet few apples have been offered on the local market. All that have been brought in have been sold by the quart and in berry boxes, and the shortage in the crop is beginning to assume serious

Many orchards are practically stripped, while the few on the remainder are small and of the poorest variety. One farmer from Crumlin claims he suffered a serious loss in the windstorm, when his entire crop was swept from the trees. He has five apples in the entire orchard, by actual count, he alleges.

Market Clerk Charles Maker, who has been away on his holidays for the past couple of weeks, has returned to the city and is again on the iob. Although it was reported that Mr. Maker was doing some cruising on Lake Erie in quest of the lost Bessemer, it has been discovered that he rusticated quietly in the neighborhood Poor Variety.

One case was mentioned where a conductor had been a traveller making $1,500 a year. He was an old railroad man, and when the trouble occurred he was at once sent for and given a good run.

The striker, however, argued that it was the company's duty to let this man go, and take all the old men back at once. "It looks too much to me like a one-sided arrangement with the company,' he said. "If we are only to be taken back as vacancies occur, I think some of us will be out for a pretty long time It is an easy thing to fill vacancies and if there are any men who the com pany think have taken an active part against them during the strike they can easily show favoritism." Another striker said he would not be at all surprised to see the strike renewed again in the course of a few days unless the old men are given their positions or some positions. "If there is another strike," he said, "it will be a bigger one than the last and all the firemen and engineers will go out, too."

PENSION FUND

Officials say that these men won't get any pension, as there is a most distinct rule that any employee who goes out on strike loses it. Very Hard, Inded.

"It is going to be mighty hard on some of the old fellows, and I feel very sorry for them, as many of them can't afford it," said an official, when discussing the situation.

"The young men promised to stand by us and see that we got our rights and industrial stocks bought and sold mrs. F. E. Harley, Miss J. Hoare, London; Mrs. A. L. Simmie, Mrs. F. A. Two Suspects. The two men who were suspected by the Woodstock police tallied aimost exactly with the descriptions sent out by the local authorities on the day of the jail delivery. The Woodstock police did not molest the pair, but detailed a man to keep in touch with them until the arrival of High Constable Hughes and Deputy Sheriff Waterworth, of this city. The men were found asleep in the grass near the C. P. R. tracks. One of them was lying on his back with his arms over his face, and as the officers approached they congratulated themselves on the easy capture, as they were sure they had the missing pair.

TRICKS OF HANDCUFF KING. BY VICTOR ALEXANDER. Now, in the first place it must be remembered that handcuffs used by the police are constructed with ocks which are fastened or released by means of a key, or some article which answers the same purpose which pulls back the spring.

Without the aid of such an appliance

it is, I can say without fear of contradiction, absolutely impossible for any human being to free himself from ordinary handcuffs employed by

The most embarrassing contingency found myself obliged to solve was how to conceal these keys so as to be able to get at them in whatever position I happened to be handcuffed. The favorite place of concealment was the cabinet in which I always retired to effect my release. This was con-structed of iron piping, and many of the pieces which appeared to be essential portions of the framework were in reality only intended to hold my keys. Other keys I disposed about my person in sundry small pockets, and I had them so arranged that I was able to place my hands upon some of

First I explain that when I undergo this test in the hands of the police authorities I hold a vastly different position to a prisoner in the hands of the law The very nature of my visit enables me to make conditions favorable to myself, of course. I state what I require, and it is while listening to my instructions that the police as well as the public audience are deceived. When take me down to a cell which is fitted with a spring lock, all I have to do in the course of my conditional examination of the locks, etc., is to fill up the bolt hole with a wedge of hard wood. Charged by Senator With Favoring Wrong Contracts With

Muskogee, Okla., August 4 .-- What happened in the private office of United States Senator Thomas P. Gore, f Oklahoma, at Washington at noon last May 6 formed the basis of sensational charges involving the names of Vice-President Sherman, Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas; Congressman D. S. During the thirty or forty minutes of a conference held in that office Senator Gore testified that he was approached by Jacob L. PECULIAR INCIDENT

Local Officials Will Make No Explanation in Regard to the Matter.

The developments which took place t the Grand Trunk station yesterday afternoon in regard to Conductor Hughson, Baggageman Willesley and Brakeman Turleston, the American strikebreakers, who were dismissed, and handed their discharge checks, on Wednesday evening when they brought Express No. 5 in from the Falls, are causing general comment among railroad men and particularly among the trikers.

The three men, it is alleged, were very much under the influence of liquor, and were just about starting a fight in the baggage car, when they vere dismissed

They hung about the city all day vesterday until the arrival of Express No. 6, which goes through for the east at 11:40. This train came in in charge of a regular crew. When they arrived they were taken
