Col. Dean Completes Record Trip to Maritimes and Back by Motor.

Four thousand miles in six weeks by day driving and not a puncture or any mechanical trouble, is the record recently by Col. E. C. Dean, supply and transport officer of military district No. 1, who has returned, from a motor trip to the Maritimes. Col. Dean was accompanied by Mrs. Dean and his son, who goes to college at Halifax.

With the exception of parts of three days the party enjoyed brilliant sunshine. The first 1,500 miles out of London, via Buffalo and Albany to Boston, was done on paved roads.

Col. Dean said today that it was remarkable the way mechanical transport had taken hold of the east. Between here and the boundaries of New Brunswick only three horses were passed. In the Maritimes, however, many horses were still used and in some places oxen were seen. The only poor roads encountered in the whole journey were between Montreal and Ottawa, and between Ottawa and Toronto. Detours and wornout roads reduced speed to ten miles an hour in many places in Throughout the journey the roads Ontario.

were found to be well marked with the exception of Nova Scotia, where bad turns were neither marked or protected. Col. Dean says that although good

As the Guardian puts it, "We Hon. J. A. Calder, a member of the Conservative cannot help our history; we cannot undo the government, gave this explanation in the house of commons on May 19, 1921:

"I presume that the very large emigration from this country has been very largely due to the rapid expansion of the trade and commerce and industry of the United States in every direction, which has made opportunities for our young men to enter business, and I dare say that condition will continue. I quite well remember when I visited my old home town in Western Ontario that the old boys whom I used to know had practically all gone to United States.'

W. G. McQuarrie, M.P., of New Westminster one of Mr. Meighen's supporters, spoke as follows in 1921 (Hansard, page 1365):

"I was in Hamilton during the Easter holidays and I heard there that a lot of the Hamilton factories were closing down and that a great many men would be out of employment. . . . Now we have bread lines in nearly all the cities. I know that in Vancouver a great many men are out of employment, men who want work and cannot get

Hon. Arthur Meighen was premier then, backed by a good majority, one that was big enough to put through any remedial legislation that he might care to suggest. He knew from the open statements of his own supporters that there was unemployment, that there were people going to United States from Canada.

If he had the cure for it then why did he not apply it? If a high tariff was the remedy, why did he lack the courage to go ahead and put it on? He was in power in a time when unemployment was far more severe than it is today, because now in many communities it has ceased to be a problem at all. He had nothing to offer, no cure to suggest, yet today, when conditions have been so much changed for the better, when factories are working that were closed in 1921, when there is more money in circulation, and when business failures have been reduced to a point that is about normal, he comes forward as the Joshua who is to lead the people to the promised land. Britain's dealings, in the opinion of the Manchester paper, have erred in several ways in China. The conditions in mills owned by British capital in China are not satisfactory. Britain retain her old extra-territorial rights given by old treaties, while Russia gave hers up; Austria and Germany lost theirs in the war. The fact that Britain did retain hers put all the more responsibility on her "to see that China was given help, guidance, and above all a sense that she was no longer in slighting tutelage." Summing up, the Guardian says:

"Fate and history, we may admit, have involved us in a web of difficulties, but can anybody looking at the events of the last few years pretend that we have tried very hard to unravel them? What was demanded of us was that we should adapt ourselves to a new relationship with China. We halfrecognized this duty in words, but in action we were very dilatory. We had to face at the same time a persistent propaganda which held us up to odium as a plundering people who had exploited China's weakness in the past and sought to keep her in a subject position. We did little to discredit, a good deal to encourage, this impression. We have got to remove it by acts."

The Guardian, in taking such a course, is exemplifying good journalism. It is not the sort that seeks to make it appear that "we are such opinions as those voiced by the Guardian that help a nation to see international issues McCallum and McKellar. from both sides, and once that is done there can be no cause to worry about the outcome.

A London Enterprise

Recognizing that London's growth has been seriously handicapped through lack of adequate hotel facilities, citizens by municipal vote have determined that the handicap must be removed.

In fact, the condition is so acute that citizens have decided that right now is the most opportune time to undertake this enterprise.

It is a business proposition. One that offers a practical investment to all citizens who desire that London's growth should be given a sound stimulus.

The Chronic Arguer, the Egotist and the Whiner Are . Members of the Bore Family.

Who are the five greatest bores in the world?

Each of us has our own individual list of those who slay us with the jawbone of an ass. I head mine with the chronic arguer.

To him, for the arguer is nearly always of the male persuasion, any subject is as good for a controversy as a nickel is for in them, and he never rests until he drags forth every possible fault that they may possess. In religion and politics he is always on the other side, and no matter what you say you always start something.

In society the arguer is a bore of the ten-inch auger variety. He is a mustard plaster on the bosom of friendship, and as a husband he is first aid to divorce.

Next to the arguer in the line of bores I place the egotists.

Both male and female He created them, and endowed them with an unshakable belief that the balance of their fellow creatures are just hungering and thirsting to hear every detail of their private lives and every single solitary thing about their wives, and husbands, and children, and cooks, and houses, and to the dear Old Briar-patch. So he had made himself comfortable over in the Green Forest and planned to spend the day there near the toll dead tree which Ol' Mistah Buzzard uses as his favorite perch. Peter, having been out all night, was sleepy, and he was soon dozing. He was hidden under some tall ferns. He felt quite safe there. Otherwise he wouldn't have been so careless as to doze. From time to time he would awaken just enough to open his eyes and peep out through the ferns.

From where he sat he could look right up to the very top of the tall dead tree, which was known as Ol' Mistah Buzzard's tree. It had only two or three stubs of old branches. When Peter awoke after his first nap and peeped out, no one was on that the second time he awoke and peeped out, there on his favorite perch out, there on his favorite perch sat Ol' Mistah Buzzard's habits so well that he was sure Ol' Mistah Buzzard how glad ne was to see him. But Peter was rapping. Peter was tempted to run right over to the foot of that tree and tell Ol' Mistah Buzzard how glad ne was to see him. But Peter was still yery, very sleepy. The sixth game will be played here. The sixth game will be played in London, Tuesday. To "Chief" Froman fell the honor breaking up the duel that had been bitterly contested in every one of the previous innings. Heroes were made at every turn, and the chill wind that wrapped the field and stands in the first touch of fall passed unnoticed first touch of fall passed unnoticed as the Chadwickian gladiators feinted and fought with all the pent-up enthusiasm resultant from the headong dash through two series of the Mint schedule and the season-long rivalry between the two Canadian clubs, which will make the series the greatest in the history of the league.

It was Froman, who previously had been held in complete subjection by Yonkers Bill Coogan, who came through with the blow that meant through with the blow that meant victory. Both Coogan and Wernke had staged a worthy duel for eight innings. Wernke should have held the cs scoreless, and Coogan was just as deserving. Vermilyea's lone erro started trouble for Coogan in the seventh, but it was forgivable, for the fleet infielder had made a great stop of a hard-hit ball and threw high to Cross in a desperate attempt to get the runner. Several of last year's juniors look like certain starters this season. Southern, on the half line, and Doc Strain, the speedster of the juniors, last season, look good. LOCALS SNAPPY

The London seniors took another step

The London seniors took another step toward the senior provincial finals by defeating Niagara Falls' nine at Tecumseh park Saturday, by a score of to 3. The general impression was this would be but a short step, but the locals had to wear their seven-league boots to step over the Niagara Falls representatives, who not only overcame a faltering start, but steadled down and played nearly as smart baseball as the locals.

A big crowd saw the combat, and when the locals grabbed a three-run lead in the first inning, settled down to see some long and lusty swatting with perhaps a burlesque finish. Up until the sixth inning the visitors were hitting with abandon if not timeliness, but as their defensive work grew more polished, their offensive fell off and Down was able to hold them to one lone hit in the last four innings.

Bova started off poorly with the muscle-bound delivery and offerings that looked like a football coming up to the plate. He kept making the ballook smaller and increasing the speed and allowed the Londoners but four scattered hits in the last four innings.

The teams both played nice defensive scattered hits in the last four innings.

Good Defensive.

The teams both played nice defensive ball, but two errors being credited, and neither of these figured in any of the tallying. The London infield perhaps made the more spectacular plays, one after another of the inner works providing thrills. Armstrong at the danger sack, accepted eight chances without a slip and at least three of them were hard ones in which he had to play the ball perfectly and then cut the runner down with a perfect throw.

On the day's play the locals seemed to have a little edge at every point on the field, and the fans have every confidence that they'll be in the finals by Wednesday.

Olaf Rechnitzer Wins City Net Title Defeating Ross

Younger Brother Paul Wins Junior-Miss Miller and Mrs. Bates Doubles.

ENDS TOURNEY

Olaf Rechnitzer is the new city tennis champion of London through his defeat of Dr. J. V. Ross, former city and district singles champion. He took the title and match in four sets, suffering only one slump in form, and that in the third, which he lost 6—1. He came back in the next to defeat Ross as badly.

The match was not spectacular. Rechnitzer took much of the sting out of Ross' service with well-placed returns, that lengthened out into long steady rallies. His greater accuracy and steadiness won the day for Rechnitzer. The scoring went: 6—3, 6—3, 1—6, 6—1. Paul Rechnitzer took the junior singles championship, making the second of the one family to win a tennis championship this year. E. V. Rechnitzar, another brother, winner of the national junior championship two years ago, and last year winner of the city championship, was put out in the semi-fianls by the 1925 champion.

Jack Millman, who has played much fine tennis during the tournament, and was one of the juniors who made unexpected assaults on the more experienced players in the early rounds, was the other finalist, and he went down to a score of 6—3, 6—4.

Miss Miller and Mrs. Bates won the women's doubles in straight sets, 6—3, 6—4. Miss Miller was returned as singles champion this year. Miss Nina McFarlane, last year's singles champion and finalists this year, with Miss Mc-Kenzie, made an interesting match for the winners.

Orioles and Skeeters Close Season by Dividing Double-Header.

Associated Press Despatch
Buffalo, Sept. 20.—The International league season closed here today, Buffalo winning two games from Toronto. The first was a record score for the Bisons, 20 to 4, due to the fact that Manager Howley tried out a couple of pitchers, whose performance was anything but creditable to them. The pacons of seven innings, was a real ball contest, the score being 2 to 1, Reduy and seven in the buffalo but Heath's two-base error placed the Herd in front, and the Leafs were unable to overcome the siight difference in runs. ADA MACKENZIE Defeats Mrs. Fraser (Alexa Stirling) 5 Up in 20th Final.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, Sept. 19.-Miss Ada Mackenzie, of the Mississauga club, Toronto, today won the twentieth Canadian ladies' open golf championship, when she defeated Mrs. W. G. Fraser, of the Royal Ottawa club, 5 up and four to play, in the 35-hole final for the title and the Duchess of Connaught gold cup.

It was rather fitting that the championship should be brought back to Canadian player to hold it, Miss Mackenzie having defeated Miss Kate Robertson at Beaconsfield in 1919. It was the third appearance of both players in the finals, each having a win and a defeat in their previous efforts.

Square in Morning.

This morning they were all square, Miss Mackenzie's perfect iron playing and putting helping her out of holes, each winning four holes and halving the other ten, bút this afternoon, Mrs. Fraser had all the bad luck, and she could not match Miss Mackenzie's deadly approaching and accurate putting, let alone excel her. day won the twentieth Canadian ladies' ly approaching and accurate yauge alone excel her.

Mrs. Fraser had a couple of chances to win holes, but failed to accept the openings, and she soon found out her opponent was ready for the slightest error.

Mrs. Fraser had a slight edge off the tees, but when it came to playing up to the green and on it, there was hardly any comparison.

It was just the reverse of last week, when Miss Mackenzie lost the final of the close championship to Miss Helen Paget. In that tournament, the winner came from the strenuous half of the bracket, and in this week's champion-Paget. In that tournament, the winner came from the strenuous half of the bracket, and in this week's championship, Miss Mackenzie had hard battles, while Mrs. Fraser won all her matches with comparative ease.

Of the 14 holes played this afternoon, Mrs. Fraser did not win one, nine being halved. The loser had a great chance to win the first, but muffed things that Miss Mackenzie won it six and seven, and she increased her lead by taking the second, and from then on just awaited opportunities to win it, and these were given on the sixth and tenth, while she practically cinched the game with a long putt for a birdle two on the short eleventh, being content with halves from then on until the match ran out at the fourteenth or thirty-second.

In the high school section Tillsonburg was the only team to score more than one victory.

E. Stroud, the Pan-Dried representative in the junior 220-yard dash, romped home ahead of the field in the first heat, and again in the final, while D. Hicks of Tillsonburg ascended to a height of 7 feet 6 inches to annex top honors in the junior pole vault.

Windsor stood out in the junior public school division, winning three firsts. B. Gorst took the running high jump with K. Terrell of Chatham second. In the 100-yard dash Windsor was again victorious M. Vernon this time leading the field. Then in the 220-yard dash Gorst was first once more, T. Carrigan of De la Salle finishing second.

In the junior public school division honors were about evenly divided between Chatham, De La Salle, Lorne Avenue and Windsor, with De La Salle adding to its laurels by cleaning up in the relay race.

Londoner Participates In Hunt For Timber Wolf Through Woods of Elgin

Big Animal Defies Shotguns, But May Soon Capitulate to Rifles.

Farmers Will Also Give Reward to Slayer of Marauding Animal.

Special to The Advertiser. St. Thomas, Sept. 21.-The hunt for the Elgin county timber wolf that has been molesting farmers' stock in this district for the past week, was renewed with increase vigor today. A large party of hunters are searching the farms and woods along the Scotch road between Port Stanley and St. Thomas.

Elgin county's elusive timber wolf is the genuine article. It has killed a horse, a couple of calves and many pigs and sheep in the rural districts of Elgin. According to Edwin Akiens of the London tax collector's department, who took part in the wolf hunt over the week-end, the depredations over the week-end, the depredations of the marauding animal have grown to such proportions that farmers all over the county are alarmed.

"There's no doubt about it, the animal is a timber wolf," declared Mr. Akiens today. "The wolf has been seen and shot at, but the farmers used shotguns. It will take rifle shots to kill this wolf. He is a big stark wolf and his mate is probgray jack-wolf and his mate is probgray Jack-woll and his mate is plobs ably close by."

Alarmed by the slaughter of last week, farmers hunted the wolf all day Saturday and yesterday. Tracks were found and they were as wide as a man's hand.

There is much conjecture regarding the strange appearance of the big timber wolf so far from his native at 10:30 and two hours later the haunts. Mr. Akiens followed tracks of the animal along the gulley close to the Scotch road, but no further trace of the wolf was seen. There is a government bounty of $12 awaiting the slayer of the marauding wolf, as well as the assurance of reward from farmers of the district

ATONEMENT DAY TO END FESTIVAL

Jews Observe Most Solemn Period in Their Religious Calendar.

The most solemn period in the Jewish religious calendar is now being observed in the synagogues of London. Commencing last Friday with the marking of the Jewish New Year, the period ends next Sunday with the Day of Atonement, by which time every Jew is supposed to have obtained forgiveness from his fellowmen for any wrong he may have done.

The period of penitence began yesterday with the year 5586, and continues until next Sunday. During this period the Jews make propitation for their sins and try to right them as far as it is within their Human forgiveness is an power. Minimum Municipal Tax Backed As Fairest Plan

Collector Houghton Points Out Apparent Defect of System.

CONFUSION RESULTS

A minimum municipal income tax of $5 is supported by E. S. F. Houghton, city tax collector, as an improved means of effectively handling small tax bills. In this way statute labor taxes could be abolished, but every citizen would be required to pay at least $5 income tax, except where excused on grounds of charity. Under present conditions a man may make only a small fraction of the statutory $1,000 exempted under the income tax law. He may make only $600 or $700 a year. But the law requires him tory $1,000 exempted under the $700 a year. But the law requires him to pay a statute labor tax of $5.

However, if he goes just beyond the $1,000 limit, he gets away with a tax of less than $5, by making an income tax return and paying 31/2 per cent or

COAL COMPANIES BEGIN ECONOMIES Operators Are Doing Every-

Down Expenses.

Associated Press Despatch Hazleton, Pa., Sept. 21.-Anthracite coal companies have started to economize as a result of the suspension that began Sept. 1, throwing idle about 158,000 miners. Everything is being done by the operators to cut down overhead expense while the collieries are idle, and men kept on the payrolls previous to the sus-pension have been laid off. The maintenance forces, who look after the protection of property and the operation of the mine pumps, have been reduced to a minimum, causing numerous complaints by grievance committees of the United mine work. ers. Many of the companies have sent home foremen who were generally retained, declaring they have nothing for them to do now. On the suspensions of the past it was customary to use bosses as maintenance men, but under the agreement reached with the subscale committee of the United mine workers before the mines were closed three weeks ago, no such displace ments are permissible.

The collieries are deserted, and here and there the entrances to the mines have been nailed shut, giving the appearance of almost total abandonment. Special officers of the coal companies say that the idle miners are remaining away from the works. The only time they appear is when they need some lumber or other material for the repair of their homes. This

OIL PLANT BOGEY AGAIN LIFTS HEAD

Armstrong Uses Old Plea As West Lambton Tories Name Lesueur.

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Correspondent.

Sarnia, Sept. 20.-West Lambton Conservatives on Saturday unanimously gave the party nomination to R. V. Lesueur, M.P., who won the 1921 election for the Conservatives for the first time in 25 years. No other name went before the convention, which was attended by about 300 and lacked nothing in its displays of enthusiasm. If there was any fear on account of the probable Liberal-Progressive fusion, it was not discussed, though the candidate and his lieutenants warned the delegates they would have to work tooth

Mr. Lesueur gave an able address in which he foretold a Conservative accession to power, and generally scored the Liberal administration for what he termed ineptitude during its term of office. He claimed that while term of office. He claimed that white the United States and other countries had effectively removed the post-war difficulties, Canada had done nothing in this regard in the last four years He was accorded very hearty applause.

Wilfred S. Haney, M.L.A. for West
Lambton, spoke briefly about the war, and suggested that the connection of Canada with the empire was in danger if the Liberal administration

J. E. Armstrong, Conservative can didate in East Lambton, might have done the neighboring riding cause some harm if the meeting had been other than Conservative. One could sense the awkwardness when he started to raise the old 1921 bogey about Imperial Oil, Limited, moving across the St. Clair river. Everyone in Sarnia knows that concern is building stills and generally enlarging its plant here.

Donald Sutherland, M.P. of South Oxford, went into an exhaustive attack of the King administration with the last speech of the afternoon.

"Soft the lights shone o'er fair women and brave men." In those days 'twas surely candles-for no light but this could give such an exquisite picture as the poet here draws. But the candles themselves could hardly have been as pretty as those which I saw today in the French Gift Shop on the fourth floor.

Queen Elizabeth and Sir Walter Raleigh were in wax brought to life. George and Martha Washington bestowed on me a friendly smile, while Hanz and Gretzel looked on in placid good humor. Beautiful hand-dipped and hand-painted candles I saw in many delicate shades, small and large, for the single holder, or for the quaint wee candelabra of glass. Orange rivalled blue for supremacy, but all alike were of the best.

And there they still stand with their tapers ready to be lighted by the hand of some shopper who, I know, will admire them as much as I did.
