on thick from east ard out of sight of land, we had a fine French indisputate, a prize which was taken up the Gulf of Greinas. Well, six, tow it was nobody ever knew, but next morning, when it chaced, so it stick of her was to be seen—she'd clear vanished out of the very midst of us, two or three frigates, and twenty brings or more, scattered on every hand. There we crused round and round, inching for a sigh of her; but nothing was ever tound; it shout a menth, afterwards, a heard has wheel was go by some fabermen or other, with the ship's name on it."

"Strange, indeed," sespended the first it utendars, and where was this now, Mr. Jones ?"

"Must have been a good hit up from here, sir, it hink," said the master; "though not far out of the same course for Naples. Howevever, I must go below; and turn; in for a spell; so g. od-night tye, Mr. Sleighton."

"As soon as the lieutenant was alone, he took out his packet-book and carefully not. down a series of memorands by the light of the binnacle, for the more was already set; he then slowly forles," exclaimed he to himself, as he hastily threw off his uniform in the little state-round, not one capable of putting a few inductions together. But we shall see."

When next morning dawned on the Thelis, she was sowly forging shead under still less a ill than at the previous day break; a low, gray bank of haze lay on, the horizon to west and northward, against which her hull, and spars, nearly bare, would have been searcely discernible fram the opposite direction, where the sun was abopt to strike his first rays through a lighter vapour in the cast. The breeze came freshing along from southwest again, in the co.d. existianshing, morning alt; till the frigate; whose sew extended sails were so slanted to it, as to neatraliae most of its influence, rase survetting on the lively greenish surges like a creature impatient of restraint. The men of the watch looked out on all side as wistfully, as if to the full as tired of the whole matter as she was: while the officers on deck w their samest wish that the enemy should have "plenty of law" given him, that he might lead them a good light chase, "after this here hanged long spell of treasure-fishing and shoal-hunting." A dozen hands were laid ready on the shrouds of each mast, waiting for the order to lay aloft and locas sail, which of itself would probably discover the frigate to the vessels in sight; her snarp bows meanwhile slowly parting the waves shead, and helping somewhat to improve her position for hearing down, when they were nearly abreast the beam. At length the satisfiant stepped down from the gon, locked once more to windward, and made a sign to the man at the wheel. "Away sloft, my lads!" said he quickly to the ready sailors, who had already begun to ascend the rigging; the tall folds of cauvas fell off the yards, which were housted by those on deck with the men still upon them. The frigate was next in nute in stays, housted by those on deck with the men still upon them. The frigate was next in nate in stays, going about on the other tack, almost as the sun tipped the radiant horizon with his darling creet; going about on the other tack, almost as the sun tipped the radiant horizon with his dazling crest; she rose, dipping to the vast increase of force, and then, like a greyhound released from the lash, shi to out of the hase under a vioud of white sail, on which the light struck yellow, as upon a brazen giant suddenly rises out of the deep. The flash and the rose of agun at the time broke from one of her open ports, sending a heavy shot spining far across towards the prette craft, now about four, or five miles off; he had already taken the slarm, however, and his two huge, three cornered sails jibbed sharp y round, their long stant yards bending like whips as he bore up almost stand before the wind. The breeze freshened as usual in the morning at the late season, with a sweep that cavied every bright-blue surge into vivid hollows and snowy crests, and the Tunisias galley was at times seen to dive into them sufficie a cloud of spray, then to rise, ducking and rolling like a tab, swift as she was; while the frigate, scarcedy leaning to it, drove steadily through the ways after her, with asits broad ag into the same table. the waves after her, with sails broad against the sunrise. The brig, safely pursuing her course, took in her studding and top-gallant sails from the diving force of the wind which brought the Thetis swary minute a new advantage over her these. The latter hauled closer up to it again, as if to try a better method for escape, and edge nears' to her own coast a upon which the frigure also was seen to brace on the same tack, and on a wind her lawn people keen well she found her favourite sailing-point. They could ere fong divinguish the moint gleam of the very brine dripping from the Turnisian's bottom, as the rose, with the Moorish skull-saps of her crew; but by that time, to the deck of the merchat brig, both vessels had dwindled to specks on the blue horison.

The Theis had gone home to England, and been deek of the merenat brig, noth venues and a winter led to specks on the blue horison.

The Thetis had gone home to England, and been nearly a year paid off, when Captain Grove happened one day to eater the Naval Glub-room at Flymouth, when he found an old attalentional tribude stated at his newspaper. The untal countenies were eschanged, followed by swrites tepics of other versation; after which the other captain studently asked, "By the by, Grove, I think you had a going blade named Sleighton for your first limit less time I carryon in the old Meditarrantes 19th a think the Taylor of the Way perhaps the not the name. What sort of chap was he?" continued his friends.

"Use, "maid Captain Grove; "what of that to chap was he?" continued his friends.

"Oh, shy, an exceedingly good officer," replied Gaptain Grove; and, by, a little disputitious some times, and one of your scientific man."

"First name Frederick ?" inquired the other. "I see," said Gaptain Grove.

"Haven't you heard of the fellow's good-inck, then, Grove. "" was the next question. "Why, he's made a commander."

If these estates sell at 20 years purchase, which ent of the question, it is calculated that they is out of the question, it is calculated that will produce sufficient to pay off the ten mil ance to San Francisco. The West India Islands are contributing their quota, and trade is so indiferent, especially in Jamsica, that the papers rather rejoice over the emigration, as making more room for those who remain "to improve their prospects." Some of the steamers plying between Panama and San Francisco are clearing between Panama and San Francisco are clearing tenormous sums of money—one instance is noticed where each voyage nearly paid the first cost of the vessel. To judge from the crowds of passengers conveyed each trip, and the high price of the passage, the statement is not incredible.

INCENDIARISM.—The saw mill of Mr. Wurtele, of Riviere David, has been destroyed by fire, and thinks that it has been done in revenge for his having, as a School Commissioner, done his duty in carrying out the Education Law. Mr. Wurtele may that the inhabitants will absolutely not pay the Schools, threatening all who are favorable to them. He says that they have threatened to burn his Seigniorial house and other buildings in willage, and he should not be surprised at the performance of the threat.

A most disastrous shipwreck, attended by great loss of life, occurred during the Equinoxial gales, on the night of Saturday last, the 30th of March. The Royal Adelaide, a large Steamer, the property of the Dublin Steam Packet Company, which plies between Cork and London, was totally lost on the Tongue Sands, off Margate, and every one on board perished. The Tongue Sands, I may observe, lie off Margate, and are several miles in length, running E. by S., and N. N. W. A very heavy sea runs upon them during gales, and the navigation is at such times difficult. The Royal Adelaide was between 400 and 500 tons burthen, and had two enginess of 140 heres power each. She was huit shout 14 years ago, in Liverpool, and was commanded by Captain John Betty, of Cork, who had been in the service of the Dublin Steam Packet Company sipwards of 20 years. The number of passengers in the versel, on leaving Cork, amounted to 165, wite 2-1 first-cabin passenger, and 167 deck, or acconderabin. At Plymouth, when she touched the day previously, she took in 7 cabin and 7 deck, peasengers. The crew exclusive of the Captain, amounted to 23 in number, so that the total loss of life was 205. Nothing was saved from the wreck, which is said to have in a great measure disappeared since. She was insured in Dublin for 28,000, one-half of her estimated value.

The House of Commons re-assembled on Monday, and the Lords on Thursday; but hitherto the proceedings in either House have been devoid of interest. I cught, perhaps, to except the debate on Lord Duncan's motion for the repeal of the Window Tax, the discussion on which was interesting enough, though the arguments were entirely on the side of the supporters of the proposition, which was opposed by Ministers and rejected by the narrow majority of 80 to 77. On Wednesday night, Ministers were left in a minority of 77 on the County Courts Bill, and on Monday they were likewise defeated on a naval question. These make three defeats in one week, for 1 count the division on Lord Duncan's motion as a defeat.

The public have now had time to form a judgment on the correspondence between Admiral Sir Charles Napier, on the one side, and the Lords of the Admiralty and the Premier on the other. The most general opinion is, that the gallant Admiral has been unjustly treated by Sir F. Baring. The provocation given by Sir C. Napier consists in his having published in the Times various letters addressed to the Premier on the subject of the extravagant and mischievous system of management in our Dock-yards. This has been stigmatised by Sir F. Baring. The provocation given by Sir C. This has been stigmatised by Sir F. Baring. The constraints are punishment, Sir Charles Napier has been refused the command of the Channel Squadron, his late second in command of the Channel Squadron, his late second in command the Chann

Saturday, have been so completely anticipated by the Statement of the Chancellor of the Exchequer that they possess little or no interest. In the year there is a falling off in the Customs of £700,000 as compared with last year. This is accounted for by the reduction of the Sugar, and the speed of the Coan, Duties. This decrease is, however, more than made up by the increase on the other items of ordinary sevenue, and Sir C. Wood has had the unusual boner for a Whig Chancellor of the Exchequer of eigning his name to a balance-cheek which shows a surplus of nearly two millions and a half.

During the past and previous weeks Lord John Russell has been spending a few days at Manchester, which overgrown hive of manufacturing industry, strange to say, he had not valied since the age of 17. His Lordship sojourned during his stay at the hospitable Sent of Sir Benjamin Heywood, and took the opportunity of inspecting some of the largest of the Cottom Establishments. The choice of the locality, for his Easter visit, was very judiciously made by the Premier. Had

The Quarterly and Edinburgh Reviews, both recently published, give us some idea of what we may expect from the Press during the present literary season. In the Historical section, we are to have a "Life of George Washington," by his namesake, Washington Irving, Sir Emerson Tennant is to give us a work on "Christianity in Ceylon;" two volumes of the "History of Rome under the Emperors," by the Rev. C. Merivale, will be issued in a couple of weeks; besides a "Critical History of the Language and Literature of Greece," by Colonel Mute, M. P., we are likewise promised a laborious "History of Man," by Dr. R. G. Latham, and the "Memoirs of the War of Independence in Hungary," by General Klapka, the gallant defender of Comorn. In the Biographical section we are to have the "Lives of the Archbishops of Canterbury," the "Lives of the Prime-Ministers of England," and the "Lives of the Prime-Ministers of England," and the "Lives of the Prime-Ministers of England," and the "Lives of the Dinian Isles. The late Sir Harris Nicholas's "Posthumous Letters and Journals of Sir Hudson Lowe," are at length on the eve of publication, and are to tell us the truth, and the whole truth, about Napoleon's captivity at St. Helena. Leigh Hunt promises us his "Autobiography" soon, which will be eagerly read. We are, furthermote, roomsed a "Voyage to the Archi Seas," by one of Sir John Russ's companions, and Parkin's work on Abysania, both of which cannot fail, or prove interesting. And leathy, we are to have a narrative of ham-breadth accidents in flood and field, in the shape of "Four Years Residence of Hunter is the Wilderness of South Africa," by Mr. Cumming Gerdon, a denhing Highland Laird, who has killed liona and hippopotamuses beyond number in the memory of man.

The Moderates have brought forward M. F. Foy, one of the rejected on the 10th of March, as their candidate for Paris. The Social-ists have not get named their man; Emile de Girardin, of Le Press, wishes to stand on their side, but his candidature has been very badly re-ceived, and he has not the remotest chance of side, but his candidature has been very badly re-ceived, and he has not the remotest chance of heing returned. If the Reda bring forward a Moderate Republican, such as Goudehaux, or Da-pont de l'Eure, they may be certain of saccess, as either would command 150,000 rotes. The King of Prussia seems yet bent on his acheme of German Unity, which Austris opposes strenuously with a more practical plan of her own. The Minor States are endeavoring to form a League, so as to oppose the one or the other of the great Powers, or to assume a neutral position if necessary.

MOFFATS Life Pills and Phonix Bitters. These Medicines have now look before the public for a period of FIFTREN TRAES, and during that time have amintained a high character in almost every part of the giobs for their extraordinary and immediate power of restoring perfect health to princus outfloring under nearly every kind of disease to which the human frame is liable. IN MANY THOUSANDS of certificated instances, they have even rescued sufferers from the very verge of an untimely grave, after all the deceptive nortrams of the day had uttarily falled; and to many thousands they have permanently secured that uniform enjoyment of health, without which life itself is but, a pactial blessing. So great, indeed, has their efficacy invariably and infallibly proved, that it has appeared scarcely less than mirraculous to those who were sequalitied with the beautifully philosophical principles upon which they are compounded, and upon which they consequently act. It was to their manifest and sensible action in purifying the springs and channels of life, and enduing them with renewed tons and viger, that they were indebted for their same.

Unlike the heat of pernitrons quackaries which boast of vegetable ingredients, the LIFE MEDIGINES are purely and solely vegetable; and contain neither Meroury, nor antimony, nor Argenic, nor any other mineral, in any form whatever.
Ther are entirely composed of extracts from sare and powerful plants, the virtues of which, though long known to several -indian tribes, and recently to some eminest phermacoutical chemists, are altogether unknown to the ignorant pretenders to medical science; and were never before administered in so happily afficucious a combination.

The first operation is to loceon from the coats of the stomach and bowels the various impurities and crudities constantly setting round them; and to remove the hardesed iscose which collect in the convolutions of the small intestines. Other medicines only partially cleanse these, and leave such collected masses behind to produce habitual Costiveness, with all its train of evils, or sudden Diarrheas with its imminent dangers. This fact is well known to all regular unatomists who examine the human bowels after death; and hence the prejudice of these well-informed men against the quack medicines of the sign. The second effect of the VEGETABLE LIFE MEDICINES is to cleanse the kidneys and the bladder; and, by this means, the liver and lungs, the healthful action of which entirely depends upon the regularity of the urinary organs. The blood, which takes its red color from the agency of the liver and lungs, before it passes into the heart, being thas purified by thom,
and nourished by food coming from a clean stomach,

CREDIT RATES OF PREMIUM.

VIHE greet and decided success which has attended this Institution has induced the Directors to REDUCE the RATES originally required in British North America to the ordinary European Rates. The result of such Reduction is to enable parties to avail themselves of the important benefits of Lite Assurance at much lower Rates of Premium than those of any other Assurance Company transacting business in Canada. The Directors have also resolved to extend to British North America the advantages afforded by the HALF CREDIT RATES of PREMIUM which have been so highly approved and are so generally adopted by Policy Holders in the United Kingdom. The most liberal conditions are likewise offered to the Assured in the limits to which they may proceed by sea or land, to other parts of North America without affecting their Interest in their respective Policies.

Guaranty Fund and Accumulated Premiums

NHE CONNECTICUT MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY is established upon the purely matual system, with a Tariff of Premiums as low as is justifiable with the permanence and security of an Institution of this manence and security of an Institution of this character. Every person taking out a Policy is a member, and entitled to vote at the Annual Meetings. The Dividends are declared ansiasily on the 31st January. All persons insuring previous to that day, participate in the profits of that year, which are passed to his credit upon the bools of the Company; to be paid during the bife of the insured, in the order of rotation, from the excess of a capital of profits having been obtained, the Directors will be authorized to pay the first year's Dividends at the close of the present fiscal year; afterwards, each year's Dividends, in regular order, will be redeemed, as the funds of the Institution exceed the above two bundred thousand dollars. It is supposed that each person will samp one or two bostless, it lar order, will be redeemed, as the funds of the Institution exceed the above two bundred thousand dollars. It is supposed that each person will be required to pay three annual Premiums before his Dividends will be redeemed.
