LONG EXPECTED OFFENSIVE FROM SALONKI IS NOW REALLY BEGUN

Position of Central Powers is Very Much Weakened For One Reason by Advance of Bulgarian Forces to Kavala

By Courier Leased Wire. London, Sept. 12.—(New York Times)—The news from southeast Europe was generally accepted in London last night as indicating that the long expected offensive from Salonki really had begun. Bulgarian Front Extended. British students of the war, who without pretending to be in the secret sources of information open to them, rubbed their hands as Joffre is reported to have done when Falkenhayn, for the sake of the German Crown Prince, began the attack on Verdun. The Bulgarian advance to Kavala was regarded as an extension of the front which weakened the Central powers in a military point of view, without sensibly improving their political situation, and the prospect, similarly, of the German-Bulgarian advance on Dobrudja was welcomed as another error on the part of the German general staff, which was looking to the immediate rather than to the decisive future. Wasting Efforts. By the operations in Dobrudja, the

SPAN MUST DECIDE AT ONCE FOR ONE SIDE OR OTHER IN WAR

By Courier Leased Wire. Petrograd, Sept. 12, via London. 4.22 p.m.—New successes for the Russians in the Carpathians are announced by the War Office to-day. Several heights in the Bialy-Cheremosh region near the Bukovina border were taken and held and Japul mountain to the south, also was captured, together with nearly 1,000 prisoners. GREEK PREMIER HAS RESIGNED

By Courier Leased Wire. Athens, Sept. 11.—Via London, Sept. 12.—Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria has now assumed the over-command of the German armies on the Somme front. He is entrusted with the general direction of operations against the Anglo-French offensive. All troops assigned to this task are placed under his control, making possible the distribution of reserves and the employment of all the means to the best advantage under the unified plan. The appointment of Prince Rupprecht was effective before the latest visit of an Associated Press correspondent to Bapume last week, but the news could not be cabled until the announcement in the official army headquarters report of to-day, which reveals a general re-arrangement of commands brought about by the appointment of Field Marshal Hindenburg as chief of staff. The new order divides the western front into three sectors and assigns to these three princely commanders, who, regardless of reasons of policy which dictated their appointments to command of armies at the beginning of the war, have won their spurs by the successful conduct of operations. They are regarded here not as figure-heads but as generals of experience and distinction. Duke Albrecht, prospective heir to the kingdom of the northern sector, is in command of the northern sector, before the war, had risen to the rank of general and corps commander. He inflicted the first great defeat on the French in the dash northward through Belgium. Crown Prince Rupprecht in command of the central sector, was the victor in the battle of Lorraine, which crushed and repulsed the French invasion of Germany in 1914. The German crown prince has the over-command in the Verdun sector.

FRENCH ADVANCE AGAINST BULGARS

By Courier Leased Wire. Paris, Sept. 12, via London. 3.08 p.m.—French troops on the Macedonian front, taking the offensive against the Bulgarians, have captured all the positions of their opponents on a front of two miles to a depth of about 800 yards, it was announced officially to-day. London, Sept. 12, 2.15 p.m.—French troops, co-operating with the British in the new offensive on the Struma front, in Greek Macedonia, have captured a village from the Bulgarians, it was announced officially to-day. The British forces, which crossed the river have seized Bulgarian trenches on the east bank. HEAVY LOSSES FOR BULGARS. By Courier Leased Wire. London, Sept. 12.—The new offensive of the Entente allies on the Macedonian front has resulted in the defeat of the Bulgarians, says an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Athens. The Bulgarians sustained enormous losses in a battle of thirty-six hours, the despatch says, and are beating a retreat pursued by the allies.

BULGARIANS HAVE EVACUATED KAVALA

By Courier Leased Wire. Paris, Sept. 12.—The Petit Parisien says it learns from a semi-official source that the Bulgarians have evacuated all the forts at the Greek seaport of Kavala, which they occupied last month. VERDICT OF DOM. COMMISSION Arbitration Between City and L. E. & N.—City's Demands Upheld. The verdict of the tribunal of the Canadian Railway Commission, re the dispute between the City of Brantford and the Lake Erie and Northern Railway, has been received by Mayor Bowby, together with a letter asking if the judgement were satisfactory to the corporation. The points involved were in connection with the new building being erected by the railway on the east bank of the river. The structure did not conform in height to that required by the city, and the railway also refused to acquire another seven feet of available ground for the purpose of widening Water Street at the point adjacent to their building, which step was considered necessary owing to the large increase in traffic. The Mayor brought the matter to the attention of the railway commissioners and that body acceded to the Mayor's demands.

EXPLANATIONS OF THE QUEBEC BRIDGE DISASTER AT VARIANCE

No One Appeared to Know How Span Fell—Loss of Life is Placed at 11—Navigation of St. Lawrence is Still Open

By Courier Leased Wire. Quebec, Sept. 12.—Explanations of the collapse of the central span of the Quebec cantilever bridge, while it was being hoisted into its position from the river yesterday were being sought to-day by the St. Lawrence Bridge Commission. Accounts of survivors of the disaster and spectators are at hopeless variance. Some eye-witnesses holding that the span itself buckled first, and others that the hoisting supports did not work uniformly at one corner causing the span to sheer round which put too much strain on the other supports and perhaps on the beams of the span. The St. Lawrence Bridge Company this morning had not issued any official explanation of exactly what occurred, but was seeking information in the shape of photographs taken while the piece was going down. Two Stories. There were eye-witnesses who said the span broke up into fragments, though opposed to these stories are those of spectators who contend the mass plunged into the river intact. Reconstruction. Disappointed as the engineers are, who drew up the plans for getting the span into position at the untimely end of their effort, they hold that the connecting of the two arms of the bridge will not be much delayed. The actual method of completing the bridge will depend upon the cause of the accident when it is discovered. The cost of constructing a new span should not be more than the lost link costing $1,000,000, while this could be done in three months. No attempt at completing the bridge can be attempted this year, and its opening due next year must be indefinitely postponed. The bridge span when it tumbled into the St. Lawrence, did not block the ship channel, and after an inspection of the spot yesterday by Quebec harbor officials, it was decided navigation could be resumed to-day by ocean-going vessels. The river is 200 feet deep at the bridge site. Loss of Life. The loss of life remained this morning at last night's estimate of eleven, this being the number of men unaccounted for. The explanation is made that yesterday after getting out of the water a number of bridge workers went home without reporting to the company's officials, thus giving rise to the belief that the loss of life would be high. This morning, Colonel Jolicoeur had not been able to make arrangements for an inquest, as no bodies have yet been found. Grappling for them was going on, but it was feared that they had either been entangled in the debris or washed down stream by the swift current. Government ships coming into harbor with half mast yesterday, gave the impression that they brought bodies. As to the official enquiry into the cause of the accident, the government officials and those of the St. Lawrence Bridge Company are conferring to set its date. How he was carried to the river with the falling span, struck the flooring of the structure kind of slant to the south. Statistics of Wheat Crop in Three Prairie Provinces

Grade of Crop Will Be Rather Unsatisfactory—Valued at 90 Cents per Bushel—Crop will Reach Value of $153,000,000. Winnipeg, Sept. 12.—After a month of inspection, the Free Press commercial editor places the estimate of the wheat crop of the three prairie provinces at from 170,000,000 to 200,000,000 bushels. This is, roughly 100,000,000 for Saskatchewan, 36,000,000 for Manitoba and 34,000,000 for Alberta, thus making the yield twelve bushels to the acre for Manitoba and fifteen bushels to the acre for Saskatchewan. In Alberta there is no doubt that the bulk of the 1,500,000 acres in wheat is south of the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway and twenty-five bushels to the acre is a fairly conservative estimate for that territory; it will probably run much higher, and may reach a thirty bushel average, adds The Free Press. No definite estimate of the yield could be made in the north owing to the very spotted conditions, but it is safe to assume that there will be sufficient crop of the north to bring the yield of the province up to 35,000,000 or possibly 40,000,000 bushels. Continuing, the Free Press says: "The grade of the crop will be unsatisfactory. The percentage of No. 1 northern, in any of the provinces will be small with the exception of Northern Alberta. There will be a considerable quantity of No. 2, but a great deal of the wheat which should be right of color, go No. 2, will hardly make that grade on account of lack of weight. Taking the yield at the smaller figure—170,000,000 bushels—and putting the price of the lower grades against the light, it will be worth not less than ninety cents a bushel, or $153,000,000."

DANGER OF GENERAL STRIKE IS REMOTE

There and Elsewhere. Says Official of American Federation of Labor. By Courier Leased Wire. New York, Sept. 12.—The danger of a great general strike to help enforce the demands of the striking traction employees seemed remote to-day in view of the statement that the only unions likely to be involved in such a movement were those directly concerned with the operations of the street cars. Hugh Frayne, state organizer for the American Federation of Labor, who made this assertion, said that if a sympathetic strike were called it probably would not involve more than 60,000 workers. In this class he named engineers, firemen, longshoremen and teamsters. In other respects the strike situation to-day showed no mitigating features. The strike now involves three counties and the residents of Yonkers, Mt. Vernon and New Rochelle are entirely without street car service. Every trolley car in Manhattan and the Bronx remained stationary last night and service was resumed this morning on only a fraction of normal schedules. The Interborough Rapid Transit Company maintains that subway and elevated trains are running regularly, but the strikers declare that they have made inroads in the ranks of the company's motormen. As the result of the limited service on the surface lines, elevated and subway trains are crowded and the suburban service of the New York Central and the New York and New Haven and Hartford railway systems is congested. Two men were killed and twelve injured this morning in a collision between two automobile buses and the first trolley car that left the West Farms car barn in the Bronx. The car, which the police said, was operated by a strike-breaking motorman, jumped the track at a curve. The victims of the collision were passengers in the two buses.

Austrian Attack on Trentino

By Courier Leased Wire. Rome, Sept. 12.—via London, 5.20 p.m.—The Austrians made an attack on the Trentino front last night in an endeavour to recapture positions taken by the Italians on Sunday. The war office announced to-day that the attack was repulsed and that further progress had been made by the Italians. Following is the announcement: "In the zone between Vallarza and the head of the Posina valley yesterday, the enemy, after a heavy bombardment, attempted to retake the positions which we captured on Sunday, the attack was immediately driven off. Our troops progressed in Vallarza and in the Upper Posina valley."

BRITISH OFFICIAL

By Courier Leased Wire. London, Sept. 12.—1.45 p.m.—The following official statement was given out here to-day: "Yesterday evening our heavy artillery caused two large magazines to explode in the enemy's ammunition depot at Grand Court. There was some hostile artillery activity during the night against our lines between Delmeville wood and Moutquet farm. Otherwise there were no developments."

Not a Male School Teacher Available in Port Rowan.

Simcoe, Sept. 12.—(From our own correspondent.)—The engagement is announced of Miss Helen Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Moore, of Bookton, to Dr. Bruce E. Eald, of London, son of Dr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Eald, of Simcoe, the wedding to take place during the present month.

Rev. Taylor, who has preached at St. Paul's for a few Sabbaths past, leaves with Mrs. Taylor and their youngest child, to resume mission work in India. Their three other children will remain with Mrs. (Dr.) Jamieson, and go to school here.

Postmaster I. D. Lawson reached home Saturday night after an extended visit with relatives in various cities across the lake. There is not a male school teacher in Port Rowan.

(From Our Own Correspondent) Simcoe, Sept. 11.—Corporal Lee Boughner, of Platoon 7, B Company, 133rd Bat., while out in his father's farm near Dover, sowing fall wheat with a three horse team, shot the middle animal in the face with a 22 calibre rifle. The animal bled profusely from the nose, but Dr. Burt, who answered the hurry-up call, thinks that unless a splintered bone gives trouble it will recover. Lee protested that the rifle was not cocked when it discharged.

Dr. Wm. Burt, Provincial game and fisheries inspector, left for Port Burwell this evening to investigate reports of illegal practices down there. Norman Weaver of Charlotteville, was removed to the asylum at Hamilton still in a dazed condition. Norfolk's Own, while home on monthly furlough, had a baseball team in the annual tournament at Delhi to-day. There were four teams. The 133rd won from Tillsonburg, and Hagersville defeated Delhi. In the match between the winners for first place, Hagersville drew first money, score 10-8. Tillsonburg turned Delhi under by a one-sided score, 11-3, for third money. The purse was $120.

WANT TO DICTATE TERMS. By Courier Leased Wire. Berlin, Sept. 12.—(By wireless).—No peace will be made by Germany which will not place her in a better position than she occupied before the war, declared King Ludwig of Bavaria, in a speech inaugurating the new palace of justice at Nuremberg, as quoted by the Overseas News Agency.

"We do not know how long the war will go on," said King Ludwig. In his address, but we know to a certainty that we shall make no peace which lowers us, but only such a peace as will give us a better position than we had before. "Long before the war broke out, I said repeatedly, that we could not be grateful enough towards our Emperor, who so long maintained peace. In spite of our Emperor's pacifism we are engaged in the greatest of wars, and we shall be able to withstand it, thanks to the tenacity and resistance of our brave troops."

Mr. Jeakins, who has been in charge of St. Jude's church since last October, was given a send-off yesterday evening, that for unanimity of heart and warmth of feeling, could not have been exceeded; the attendance was large; every seat in the church hall being filled. Mr. J. H. Spence, ex-Mayor, occupied the chair in his remarks. Mr. Spence referred to a similar gathering held in the same place, last October, when they welcomed Mr. Jeakins to Brantford, and notably to St. Jude's, and on the same occasion gave to Captain C. E. Jeakins their heartiest and best wishes in going forth as chaplain to the 58th Bat. Mr. Jeakins had ministers of the congregation call forth the heartiest applause. The chairman then called the warden to the platform, whereupon Mr. Cull read the following address: Rev. T. Bentley Jeakins. We, the parishioners of St. Jude's church have assembled here this evening to bid you farewell and to wish you good-speed in your new field of labor. Although your stay with us, from force of circumstances has necessarily been brief, yet we have learned to love and respect you, and have listened to words of wisdom from your lips which cannot help but make us a better congregation. We have been deeply impressed with the earnestness and sincerity with which you have expounded the Scriptures, with the untiring devotion you have given to the needs of the parish and the exemplary life which you have lived while a citizen among us. In saying farewell we would ask you to accept this slight token of our esteem, and we venture to hope that as you use it in your future ministrations, there will arise in your mind pleasant recollections of the time spent in St. Jude's parish. We further hope that you may long be spared to serve the Divine Master in your new parish, and that during that period of labor you and yours may be blessed with a full measure of health and prosperity. In his reply, Mr. Jeakins assured the people of his appreciation of their esteem and said he could never forget his association with St. Jude's. He was grateful for the handsome communion set, and its use would ever remind him of the friendships it had been his fortune to form. The reception tendered to Mrs. Jeakins, when she was called upon and asked in an address read by Miss Battersby to accept "as a token of affection, a pair of silver candlesticks, could not be mistaken for it was manifest that she had won the hearts of all. The presentation was made by Miss Ruth Noble, a child of six summers. Mr. C. House then addressed the audience and spoke most warmly of the cheerfulness and tactfulness with which Miss Dorothy Jeakins had identified herself with the Sunday School and church societies on their behalf. Miss Irene Dawson then presented Miss Jenkins with a leather satchel.

Following a pleasant interval, during which the ladies of the Guild, under the presidency of Mrs. R. W. Metcalfe, served refreshments, Mr. W. G. Raymond was called upon to address the meeting. As usual Mr. Raymond was apt in his remarks, and forcible in his utterance. He expressed the pleasure he had derived from personal intercourse with Mr. Jeakins, and the interest he had always experienced in his public discourses. Incidentally, Mr. Geo. Broomefield was congratulated on the privilege he had enjoyed as a soldier of the King, and welcomed to St. Jude's by his many friends. In an address characterized by sincerity, lucidity, and brevity, Mr. Broomefield said that whilst he had reluctantly returned as being physically unfit, he was glad that he had been able, in some measure, to manifest his love and loyalty to the Empire.

Just A Span!

Suppose an out-of-town customer who sees a chance to make a quick sale, calls you on the telephone to arrange shipment of the goods. And suppose your line is busy, and through the delay, he loses the sale!

The result will be dissatisfaction and possibly loss of further patronage; and the returns from this one order might have covered twice over your year's outlay for adequate telephone equipment!

With a Private Branch Exchange service in your business it is just a span from your private office, Mr. Manager, to your most remote customer. Without such equipment, the resultant delays may make it too far for you to connect with his "hurry-up" order!

For quick communication between departments in your store or factory and for keeping all branches of your business in immediate touch with near-by or far-away customers, the Private Branch Exchange System is the thing! It need not cost more than your business justifies. Ask our Contract Department for information.

THE SITUATION

The general public have long been wondering why an offensive blow was not launched from Saloniki, where several hundred thousand troops of the Allies have long been massed.

The Russians and Roumanians have halted the advance of the foe on the Danube front, while troops of the latter still continue to invade South and North Transylvania.

With picked Bavarian troops the Huns are making a ferocious effort to regain the village of Ginchy, recently taken by the British in the Somme fighting, but all their efforts at time of writing had been repulsed.

It is announced that the Greek Premier has sent in his resignation, and events there are still in a chaotic condition with a joining of forces with the Allies as a probable outcome.

The statement is made that Germany commencing with January 1st proposes to start a monster submarine blockade of England. Zeppelins, it is stated will guide to some extent the operations of the under-water craft.

A NECESSARY ADVANCE

As will be seen by official notice elsewhere in this issue, the two Brantford papers have found it necessary to announce an advance in their subscription rates.

For twenty-five years the price charged has remained stationary, while during the period both publications have been enlarged and improved in every way.

In the mechanical end, and especially so during the last three or four years, the cost of production has increased enormously. White paper, ink, the metal used by the linotype machines, wages (with an eight hour day) and everything else in the building up and distribution of a daily sheet, have increased enormously and the tendency is still upwards.

In other places, such as Stratford and Guelph for example, publishers have frequently reduced the size of their papers, while in practically all surrounding centres subscription rates have been raised long ago, not in the smallest degree, but for the reason that the cost of producing an up-to-date sheet has advanced by leaps and bounds.

Brantford papers have held out much longer than others before making an advance, but it finally came to a question of cutting the size and eliminating some special features, or else making a small additional charge.

After mature and careful consideration, the latter has been thought to be the better plan, and it is believed that the general public will fully realize the absolute need and warranty of the step. Even at the "living" price which will shortly be levied they will be getting abundant and almost unparalleled value for their money as compared with other places of like size.

A LIBERAL EDITOR'S TRIBUTE. Mr. Hal Donley, editor of the Simcoe Reformer is a Liberal through and through and he has carried the party banner in an election contest for that side.

After paying an initial visit to Camp Borden he had many favorable things to say of it and as the result of a second visit he reiterates that it is "a mighty good camp in which to train a soldier."

That the camp right now is probably the best within the British Empire is the testimony of all who have stayed at Shorncliffe and other tented centres, and the efforts of the Toronto Globe and other Grit sheets to depict it as "a horror" are based on falsehoods which would bring the blush of shame to the cheeks of either an Ananias or a Munchausen.

Mr. Donley is to be heartily congratulated on his fearlessness and manliness in rebuking such absolute travesties of the truth.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Can't beat September and October weather in this section of Canada.

Good thing Sir Sam Hughes is out of the country or some of the Grit sheets would be blaming him for that bridge disaster.

If you have any spare money your first duty is to invest in the new war loan.

The Huns seem to think that while they are blocking the British Isles with submarines John Bull will be victualing their under water craft.

The Quebec bridge, a part of Laurier's ill starred continental railway, has met with a second deplorable disaster. The structure will be completed, but its career is only too typical of the white elephant loaded on the people of Canada by Sir Wilfrid.

EXPLANATION OF THE QUEBEC BRIDGE DISASTER

sation of going down in a fast descending elevator. "The auction, as far as I can remember, took me down under the surface, and I held my breath, expecting every minute to feel my body crushed between the iron and steel beams of the structure. But I guess my time was not yet, and I found myself swimming desperately in waters that were settling in by a motor launch."

Harry Lefebvre, who was on the centre span with French, was knocked clear off the structure into the water, striking before the mass caused a suction in the river. He was hit, however, by a falling piece of steel, which bruised a leg, but did not hinder from swimming to safety on one of the patrol tugs, where he was attended to.

"Cyrille Bernier de Levis was with me and he got very nervous. He repeatedly told me, in a shaking voice: 'Fred, let's jump.' Twice he made for the side of the span to jump down, but I managed to hold him back by his coat and overalls.

"All this was going on in seconds and then the screams of the men of the centre span with the noise of the structure that was breaking and falling told us that at least the centre span was doomed and Bernier, with a shout, jumped off the cantilever. I saw him, arms and legs outstretched, diving for the river below and then he was lost in a turmoil of foam, wreckage and debris."

The span wavered for some time before breaking away according to Marcel Barthe, son of Ulric Barthe, secretary of the company, which attempted to build the first bridge. He was standing about 500 feet from the bridge assisting a moving picture machine operator who was preparing to take pictures of the work and noticed a deflection of the span on the east side of the bridge and called the attention of the operator. The latter had sufficient time to get his machine focussed and according to Barthe, it took ten minutes from the time he noticed the deflection until the crash came. Mr. Barthe also saw a man who was standing on the end of the cantilever, who evidently thought the bridge was going to fall, jump into the water.

William Bell, Montreal, one of the engineers operating a jack on the northeast shore said the jack on the northeast corner got up higher than the others, causing the span to sheer off and break away.

Bulgars Have Heavy Losses

French and British Drive on and Inflicted Severe Defeats.

By Courier Leased Wire. Paris, Sept. 12.—"On the Struma front, British troops engaged in violent fighting, during which the village of Nevolven was taken by assaults.

"In the region of Lake Doiran, the artillery duel continues sharply. "Our batteries effectively bombarded Bulgarian organization in the sector of Makukovo, west of the Vardar. A vigorous offensive of allied troops north of Majadag gave excellent results. All Bulgarian trenches were captured on a front of about 800 yards and a depth of about 800 yards. We took some prisoners.

"West of Lake Ostrovo, Serbian artillery displayed great activity in the region of Banica. Southwest of the lake, partial engagements enabled us to obtain some advantage. A Bulgarian attack, which was repulsed by our fire, caused heavy losses to the enemy."

The total number of casualties in the offensive of Friday and Saturday is understood to be in the neighborhood of 800, of whom the killed will number less than 200.

The Canadians are located in the firing line along with the very pick of the British line battalions. According to advices here they have been given a most important position, thus testifying again to the splendid reputation they have won as troops to be relied upon for courage, endurance and military efficiency.

CANADIANS IN FIGHTING

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—No details have yet been received at the Militia Department concerning the heavy fighting in which the Canadians were engaged on the Somme front on Friday last.

The arrival of heavy casualty lists yesterday was the first intimation received at headquarters here that the Canadian troops had been again in the thick of the battle.

The total number of casualties in the offensive of Friday and Saturday is understood to be in the neighborhood of 800, of whom the killed will number less than 200.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICES of BRANTFORD NEWSPAPERS TO BE ADVANCED Commencing October 1st. next, the subscription rates of the Brantford Daily Courier and the Brantford Daily Expositor will be advanced as follows: Single Copies - 2 cents, Delivered in Brantford - 35c per month ($4.00 per annum), By Mail to Outside Points $3.00 per annum. These increases have been necessitated by the tremendous advance in the cost of white paper, labor, metal, and in all other commodities incidental to the production of a newspaper. For over 25 years the subscription prices of the two Brantford papers have remained unchanged, while during that period the price of most other things have doubled and quadrupled. During recent years The Courier and Expositor have actually been sold to the agents and boys, and to the subscriber, when delivery charges are added, for less than the cost of the white paper alone, to say nothing of the hundred and one other charges of which each copy should bear a share. Recently the situation has become so serious that the above advances, commencing October 1st, have become imperative. Even Advanced Rate is Low by Comparison. Even these advanced rates are much lower than those charged by the papers in London, Belleville, Guelph and many other Canadian cities and many publications which for years have charged the prices the Brantford papers now propose, have announced advances considerably beyond these figures during the last few months. Subscribers may renew their subscriptions for a period not longer than one year at the present rates, if payment is made before October 1st, but no renewals will be accepted at the old rate after October 1st. (Signed) The Brantford Courier, The Brantford Expositor.

JUBILEE SERVICES

Of St. Paul's Church on the Reserve.
Lord Bishop of the Diocese was Present for the Occasion.

An interesting event took place on Sunday last on the reserve in the services held in commemoration of the consecration of St. Paul's Anglican Church, which took place fifty years ago. The Lord Bishop of the diocese was present at both morning and evening services, and the attendance at both was the largest. In the afternoon the Reverend Anglican congregations united in the service, which was conducted by the Rev. C. W. McComb, assisted by the Rev. C. Turnell, of the Mohawk Institute. An address was delivered by the Bishop, expressive of the good work of the Indians of the N. E. Company in the erection of the church, and a presentation was made to the Rev. L. Strong and Mrs. Strong, who have completed half a jubilee, or 25 years of residence in the parish, and who received an address and a Bible.

At the conclusion of the church was taken, with the Bishop, the clergy and other officials of the church. Many improvements are to be noted to the church recently. Since its consecration, fifty years ago, the church has been in charge of six pastors, those previous to the present incumbent being Rev. Messrs. Roberts, Chance, Barr, Martin and Caswell.

W.F. COCKSHUTT M.P.

Returns to the City from Quebec.

Interview With Him Regarding Great Bridge Disaster.

Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., returned to the city this morning from Quebec where he went at the invitation of the Department of Railways, to witness the erection of the final span of the Quebec bridge. A special boat was provided for the senators and members from Montreal, and was on the spot shortly after 5 a.m. Monday morning.

When seen by a Courier man, he said that the party had witnessed the floating to position, on six big scows of the centre span, weighing 5,200 tons. They had also seen the span attached to the hangers, and the hydraulic jacks set to work which had succeeded in raising the mass several feet clear of the scows, which had been taken away by tugs. All this part of the program went like clockwork and the party started on the return to Quebec, fully convinced that the engineers had succeeded. Twenty minutes after their departure the collapse occurred with loss of life as stated, and a money loss of about three quarters of a million dollars, which will fall, in all probability on the contractors. Thousands were present at the ceremony, including in addition to Mr. Cockshutt, Mr. Frank Bishop of this city, who was the guest of Col. Leonard, an old Brantford boy. Mr. Cockshutt added, "I think the bridge will undoubtedly be finally erected in the near future, as the country cannot afford to allow the $25,000,000 already invested in the structure to be lost. Engineers were present from all parts of the world, as it would have constituted the most enormous single span in the world."

FAREWELL SUPPER TO J. H. CROCKER

Former Secretary of Brantford Y.M.C.A. is Leaving Once More for China. FIVE YEARS THERE.

Told Last Night of the Wonderful Work Being Done by the Association.

An event but not goodbye was said last night by the prominent business men of the city to Mr. J. H. Crocker, formerly general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of here, and for several years now connected with the work of that organization in the innermost parts of China. Mr. Crocker was last evening the guest of a number of the most prominent business men of the city in Crocker's tea room, where after the supper he addressed the gathering primarily upon the subject of the work of the Y.M.C.A. in China.

A stay of less than six months in Canada has time he has labored ceaselessly and unsparringly to spread the good message which he bears from China and the Chinese nation, which is only to-day arising in the world of athletics and of Christianity. Since his arrival in Canada last year, he has been engaged in the work of seeking workers to accompany him back to China.

Mr. Crocker was introduced last evening to these present by Mr. P. Ryerson, president of the local Y. M. C. A., and after expressing the mingled emotions which filled his breast upon this the eve of his departure to the land where his labors have wrought so much during the past five years, went on to tell a little of the great work being performed by the Y.M.C.A. in China. At Nan-jan at the head, trained at the present time some 2,000 teachers who would go forth to join in the work of a new building prior to Mr. Crocker's departure from that country, and the institution had prospered throughout the stress and tumult of the Chinese civil war and it had weathered the storms of revolution and rebellion.

Mr. Crocker spoke in the very highest terms of the enthusiasm displayed by the Y.M.C.A. by all classes in China, where the very name of the association was a pass-word which opened all doors to the stranger in the land. "The Chinese are more than meeting us half-way," declared the speaker. "We give them the association buildings, and they give us willingly and abundantly the work of the land upon which to build, but, far more valuable, their goodwill, their co-operation. Shown once the way, they put their shoulders to the wheel and with admirable perseverance and prove themselves by their splendid executive powers fitted even more than we for the work of organization and administration."

Mr. Crocker told of the immense progress in matters athletic, social, intellectual and religious made by China during the past few years.

The man who to-day occupies the presidential chair was strongly in sympathy with Christianity, while throughout the country were distributed men of splendid Christian vitality.

"As I depart once more from Canada," said Mr. Crocker, "I realize how fully in sympathy with the men and that they will remember me in the days to come. Hard days they will assuredly be, yet blessed days; I believe that five years of my life spent in China have been productive of more good than the 17 years of more good than the 17 years of my life spent in this country. I thank God for the existence of such an organization which thus makes possible the spreading of His holy gospel."

Mr. T. E. Ryerson expressed in a few words the great loss which Canada was experiencing in the departure of Mr. Crocker for China once more, but it was possible that the need of him in that country was even greater.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM PRIVATE VICTOR CUTMORE

Camp Borden Much Ahead of Present Surroundings--Welcomed on a Visit to London by a Zepp Raid

Another interesting (By Pte. V. Cutmore) 93 Grosvenor Terrace, Camberwell

You see where I am by address, but worse luck, its only for three or four days, and my first night here I was welcomed by a Zepp raid. Some welcome, eh! Have been up to see the damage done, and believe me its a terror. Houses in ruins, just as you have seen them in pictures,--and windows. Oh gee, there'll need to be an army of glaziers at work, nevertheless they tell us there were only eight deaths, eight seriously hurt, and 20 others. Last night nothing happened. Now again to-night they expect them again. It appears they come every other night on these dark nights when the moon is low. Many have happened, I guess, that we in Canada never heard of. The victims, of course, are mostly women and children. This time it happened at an almshouse, where each side of an almshouse, where very old people were, many of them bed-ridden. Seems too bad that they can't find ways and means to prevent them getting inland. But still, as I say "I should worry." Eh! We've still got light hearts. If we have suddenly started to soldier, Eh! Oh, yes, there's a difference between Canada and England, alright. Here's an idea of our daily routine: Reveille at 5 a.m., roll call at 5.30, drill 6 to 7, then breakfast, parade at 8.30 till 12.15, afternoon parade at 1.45 to 5, first post (everybody in their huts) at 9 o'clock. "Come on, jump to it!" It seems as if quite a few things are different in the way of drilling, and after we return from this leave, we were told we should not speak much of one another, as a "bitch" because so often, and so many, something else, and so on, till every man has had a turn at all things. As "Capp" says, it looks as if we shall all be scouts, signallers, bombers and everything that's going. But I must say I like it very much better, being so much stricter. Only when a fellow has to work hard, he needs good food, and I always had the idea we were better fed here than in Canada. But honestly, the food we had at Camp Borden has not what we get here heat a mile--in fact two miles, and at the same time, I'll admit they haven't had time to get the thing working properly, so we're living in hopes of our rations improving. Of course, now at nearly every meal we have to buy something, but still as I tell the folks, "I should worry."

am not complaining, and shouldn't have told you only I like you to know that Canada treats her men very well, and if it wasn't for the dirt at Camp Borden, it would have this beat in every way. I find my visit to London very different to other times, for the boys are lost, and I feel I must show them around, so I don't get much time for visiting, but have written Tom, telling him I'd like to see him. The first night we landed in London I tried my best to find lodgings for a dozen or so, but all they got was a 4d. doss. However, I met them early yesterday morning and took them to the Maple Leaf Club, in Berkeley Square, where they got comfortable beds, etc., at, I think, most reasonable prices possible. Really, the price of everything is fierce. I'd just as soon have a dollar over there as a dollar and a half here, and that's the truth, and they soak us from Canada worse than the others. "Just say that's the price if you want it." Had a walk in several parks and round Buckingham Palace and went to the wax works in the afternoon. Had a good time alright. One thing uncle Charlie tells me Fred had to do, is to walk 45 miles with full pack. I don't think many of our men will do that. I know very well I shan't. That's all in a one day route march.

All the folks here are well, very well, and not complaining, although I don't understand hardly how they live. It's quite a sight at night when all the searchlights are working, because the streets are darker than ever, and the very pretty watching the skies, otherwise there is nothing to see, so the shows are busy.

ROUTINE SESSION OF T. P. COUNCIL

Regular Business of the Body Occupied Time of Yesterday's Meeting.

The Township Council met Monday morning at 10.30 in the Court House. Various accounts were passed and the following communications submitted. Reeve Morgan Harris received from City Engineer T. Harry Jones, a reply to his enquiry condemning the cost of the oiling carts used by the city. The city tanks cost $180 exclusive of the framework and wheels, but in view of the advanced cost of steel would probably amount to $220. The tanks were manufactured by the Waterous Engine Works of Canada, acting superintendent of the Six Nations, states that a contract has been awarded for the erection of dead walls for culverts on the line between Brantford and Tuscarora townships, the contract price being $275. He requests that a resolution on behalf of the township agreeing to pay its share of the expense be forwarded to him. The Brantford Municipal Railway Commission, through their solicitors, Wilkes and Henderson, have lodged an appeal against their assessment, confirmed by Judge Hardy. They claim that the property is not assessed under sub-section 7, section 5, of the Assessment Act.

J. H. Midgley, resident engineer of the Lake Erie and Northern Ry., acknowledged receipt of letter addressed to General Manager M. N. Todd, re. Dutton and Britain bridges. He states that instructions have been given to have same immediately attended to.

Leslie W. Wood complained of stagnant water in the ditch in front of his house. City Overseer Unger has repaired the part owned by the city, and if the township council does not follow suit, he threatens to take action.

Salford B. Hold, residing three miles south of Burford, submits an application, stating that he has a tract of land suitable for grading purposes, and very easy of access. He asks that the council inspect this, as it would be valuable for repairing the road between Brantford and Burford, which is in a dilapidated condition. The following resolutions were passed: Moved by A. J. McLaren and R. Greenwood, that the clerk be instructed to write the B. and H. Ry. to enlarge their drain at Mrs. Vanderlip's, near Langford, so as to handle the water at flood stage. If it is not commenced within two weeks, that a complaint be laid with the board of Dominion Railway Commissioners. Carried.

Moved by A. J. McCann, seconded by R. Greenwood, that the following communications be dealt with as follows: T. Harry Jones, city engineer, re. oiling carts; L. E. and N. Ry., re. Britain and Dutton bridges; Wilkes and Henderson, re. assessment of municipal railway, be filed. Communication of Chas. McGillen, re. dead wall, be placed on file, and the request be acceded to. That the letter of R. Hall's, re. ditch on Mt. Pleasant road, be filed, and the overseer be instructed to investigate the matter. That communication of Leslie Wood, re. ditch on Mt. Pleasant road, be filed, and the overseer be instructed to investigate the matter. Moved by J. R. Summerhays, seconded by R. W. Henry, taxes of 1914 and 1915, as per attached list, be remitted as they are uncollectable. The council, then adjourned to meet again Monday, Oct. 2.

BULGARS REGAIN LANDS?

Berlin, Sept. 11.—The Budapest newspaper Azest says that the Bulgarians who are invading eastern Roumania, have now taken possession of virtually all the Dobruja territory which Bulgaria was compelled to surrender to Roumania at the time of the second Balkan war. All Bulgaria is celebrating the victories gained over the Russians and Roumanians.

SPAIN IS FLOODED WITH HUN AGENTS

By Courier Lensed Wire.

New York, Sept. 12.—A London cable to The World says: Lord Northcliffe recording in The Times his impressions of Spain during the war, derived from a recent visit to that country, says there are 80,000 German agents in Spain, all of whom constantly busy flooding the country with propaganda matter.

"The chief methods of the propaganda," he says, "seem to be daily streams of wireless despatches from Berlin and Austria discrediting the allies; continuous activity on the part of the church and Carlists, the influence of the German colony, with steady work on the part of university professors and schoolmasters on behalf of the Central powers, the chief channel being the press."

W. J. La. Rome, via Paris, Sept. 12.—11.49 a.m.—Morara and Pinotti, officers of the Italian Socialists Association have been arrested during demonstrations in Italy and other countries for September 24. In the house where the men were arrested, the police seized 50,000 copies of an anti-militarist manifesto which was intended for distribution along the soldiers at the front.

Morara and Pinotti are said to have been working in conjunction with the International Young Men's Socialist Association, which has headquarters at Zurich. Isaac Schweide, who claims to be an Argentinian, and who was expelled from Italy last year, is the head of the Zurich bureau.

WELCOME TO REV. W. J. THOMPSON

New Pastor of Congregational Church Feted by Social Reception.

A hearty welcome was extended last evening to Rev. Thompson, the new incumbent of the Congregational Church, in the form of a reception held in the schoolroom. The chair was occupied by Mr. Hoak, who officiated in his usual capable manner. Mr. Hoag in his opening address assured Mr. Thompson of the hearty co-operation of all members and prophesied new strength and progress in the affairs of the church.

Mr. Thompson made a feeling reply, thanking the congregation for their kindness and expressing the hope that the church would continue to prosper and that amiable relations would always exist between his fellow workers and himself. A delightful programme, ably prepared by Mrs. Sanderson then followed, comprising, chorus, "O Canada," vocal duet, Messrs. Kerr and Green; violin solo, Miss Mildred Sanderson; vocal solo, Miss Ethel Dixon; recitation, Miss Phyllis Hill; vocal solo, Mr. Kerr, following which refreshments were served and a happy evening brought to a close.

Music and Drama

"IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE."

One of the funniest speeches in the delightful farce "It Pays to Advertise," which is to be presented at the Grand Opera House, Wednesday evening, Sept. 20, 1916, is made by Rodney Martin, the rich man's son. Rodney having been coerced into entering upon a business career, decides to launch an advertising campaign, which is not approved by his sire.

In an effort to convince him Rodney says: "Oh, you don't believe in advertising? I guess you do."

"What makes you go to the theatre? Don't tell me, I'll tell you. 'It's something you've been told about a play.'"

"And what you've been told, the other fellow's been told and the fellow that told him read it somewhere. '95 per cent. of the public are sheep, and all we've got to do is to start them right, and they'll fall over each other trying to follow the leader.'"

"Do you know that the day after Bry-an endorsed Grape Juice, the sales went up to nine thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine gallons a day?"

"Say, what kind of eggs do you eat?" "It pays to advertise" is one of those plays that it would be a misfortune to miss seeing for it supplies the laugh treatment in altogether satisfactory quantities, besides imparting a brisk and business-like tonic to the man seeking success in the commercial world, who laughs uproariously at the plot of this farce, but departs a firm believer in the power of the press and the psychology of print.

See this attraction at the Grand Opera House, Wednesday evening, Sept. 20th.

EFFICIENCY OF WORK MAKES APPEAL

New York Banker Marvels at Relief of the Belgians.

"My visit to Belgium gave me my first opportunity to see for myself the actual working of the relief system. It is a marvel of efficiency and devotion," says A. J. Hemphill, the New York Banker.

"After seeing that work for myself, I venture to say that it is the duty of every humane individual to help these helpless civilians in Belgium—especially the children—who for nearly two years have endured sorrows and privations that would try the soul of any nation in the world, yet still remain heroically true to those traditions of liberty and freedom which they have inherited through centuries."

The same spirit which Mr. Hemphill found in the work in Belgium is surrounding the efforts of the Belgian Relief Committee in Canada. Its offices at 59 St. Peter Street, Montreal, are the daily scene of indefatigable work on the part of some of Canada's most prominent men, who are giving time worth hundreds of dollars to them and charging not a cent.

This committee asks all Canadians to enter into the great work to save Belgium. Two dollars and fifty cents will feed one of these children Mr. Hemphill refers to until Christmas. Will you let them starve?

CREW SAVED.

London, Sept. 12.—10.20 a.m.—A despatch to Lloyds from Genoa says that 47 members of the crew of the Norwegian Steamer Elizabeth IV, have been landed at Savona by the Greek Steamer Petritsis.

The Elizabeth IV, measured 4,183 tons and was last reported at Colombo on August 11. She was on her way to Marseilles from Shanghai.

LEAFS LOST AT LAST

Montreal, Sept. 12.—Another opportunity to cut down the Bisons' lead was overlooked by the Leafs yesterday afternoon when poor pitching by "King" Brady gave the Royals the third of the set-to by 3 to 1. The Leafs' outfit, the locals almost double but the Royals scored, all their tallies without the assistance of a single wallop. Brady got himself into trouble in the third and sixth by erratic heating and "Lena" Blackburne finally took up the job himself in the seventh and twirled good ball. He fanned four Royal batters and allowed but two safeties. Hits by Graham and Viox, an out and Krichell's long fly gave the Leafs their lone tally in the second. The Royals evened the count with the assistance of three passes, a sacrifice and an out in the third. They won out in the sixth when two more free tickets were bunched with Brady's error, an out and a sacrifice fly for two tallies.

GREECE NOT TRYING TO MAKE TERMS

If She Enters the War, Will Do So Unreservedly—Bulgaria Wants to Quit.

By Courier Leased Wire.
London, Sept. 2.—The political situation in the Near East is of no less interest to the European capitals at the moment than the military outlook, as it is believed important changes are pending. The reasons which prompted Premier Zaimis of Greece to present his resignation are not set forth in the despatches from Athens, except that he complained internal incidents were preventing him from dealing with the external situation. It is believed in London that his offer to resign his post was due to the fact that he accepted it on the understanding that he was to maintain neutrality and that in view of the Bulgarian occupation of Greek territory he finds this no longer possible.

Will Join Unreservedly
Should Greece decide to join the Entente she will do so, it is understood here without any guarantee for the future. There was a time when the Entente was ready to offer Greece territorial advantage in return for her military assistance. That time has passed and if Greece now comes in, according to report, she was to waive the question of conditions except that the Allies will agree to place munitions and equipment at her disposal.

English political writers say that the purpose of visits of King Ferdinand of Bulgaria to Emperor William is believed to be to lay down conditions under which Bulgaria will continue to fight.

AMIRKHAHANIAN WANTS TO DO BIT

Local Armenian Missionary Wants to Join Army Medical Corps.

Armen Armirkhanian, formerly editor of "Free Armenia," a magazine published in this city, in the interests of Armenians, is here for a few days renewing acquaintances. Lately he has engaged in a lecture tour in the United States, travelling from Rhode Island to Missouri. While in the latter state he visited the home of the late Jesse James, notorious western bandit and Civil War hero.

Armen is anxious to do his bit and is at Toronto to-day endeavoring to sign up with the Army Medical Corps. He has, under consideration, two offers of positions, one as editor of a large Chicago paper, similar to "Free Armenia," and another to spend the winter lecturing through California, both of which he is willing to sacrifice to the cause of liberty.

WAR LOAN DOMINION OF CANADA

YIELDING PRACTICALLY 5 1/8%

As with the previous Loan, we predict a great success for this issue. During this period of stress our Government needs our help and counts upon our patriotism. But a chance is given investors of placing their money in securities of the highest grade, upon terms the liberality of which will, perhaps, not be fully realized until the return of normal times.

If this Loan were issued to yield 4½, instead of about 5 1/8, the price would be 105.41, instead of 97.50. A 4% yield (the basis on which Dominion Government bonds sold so recently as 1914) would mean a price of 111 for the present issue.

We will forward your application, procure your allotment and render other services free of charge to you.

SISTERS THREE

The girl was tall and slender too— with a maiden just upon the outer verge of childhood, gazing forth upon the path which she must tread with a certain eagerness, interwoven with shrinking, in her dark velvet-soft eyes.

The face was singularly delicate, with small, distinctive, high-bred features, somewhat overshadowed by the wide brow with its wealth of shadowy hair, so light in texture that the least air ruffled it—hair that sprang from the face with a crisp, elastic wave that framed it as in a nimbus, and clustered in tendrils around the small ears and round the face delicately fair in colouring, with face delicately fair in colouring, with the texture of fine old ivory, almost colourless at most times, but flushing with a wild-rose tint in moments of excitement or exertion—a face which haunted the memory and which visited in waking dreams those who studied it with doubtful appreciation.

Such was Allardyce Vere as she appeared before Miss Willoughby on this brilliant spring morning, clad in a plain linen dress of a dull indigo-blue, which heightened the peculiar delicacy of her complexion and seemed to awaken in the dark, dreamy eyes some reflection of the deep indigo-blue of the sea. It was only in a strong light or in peculiar circumstances that the slumbering blue fires in the eyes of Allardyce ever came into evidence.

Now she raised her head and looked full at Miss Willoughby.

"Are those the flowers I am to arrange for to-night?"

"Yes; they have arrived just now from Clumbermore." Allardyce knew by now that Miss Willoughby had a country house of that name, with great ranges of glass and wide stretches of garden, whence came the beautiful things for her to deck the fine rooms of her London mansion.

"There are more below for the dining table, but these I had brought up for you to see to. And while you arrange them tell me your news. Do you know, Allardyce, I am not at all disposed to lose you now I have got you or to let you go?"

When Miss Willoughby smiled much of the sternness and sorrowfulness of her aspect vanished, and in these rare moments a sensitive observer became aware of possibilities in her nature which at other times were much obscured.

Allardyce looked up from her examination of the big boxes of flowers with one of her shadowy smiles of grateful appreciation. She had known Miss Willoughby for six months, and was under many small debts of gratitude to her; but only at rare intervals did she come into touch with that hidden self which as a rule the elder woman kept hidden these girls. They are ladies, good to look at, and not lacking in talents. The youngest is musical and artistic. She is only about eighteen, I believe."

Miss Willoughby preferred youth and immaturity, for she was a born ruler and wanted no will raised in opposition to her own. She wrote for Allardyce to come and see her. The girl came, and had been coming off and on ever since. A certain intimacy had thus arisen between them, compounded of sympathetic tastes and kindred appreciations; but Miss Willoughby had never spoken to Allardyce of her past life, nor had she questioned the girl about her own. That she was rich and well born was self-evident; that she was a woman with a hidden sorrow in her life Allardyce knew before the first month had passed. But of the nature of this sorrow no hint had ever been dropped; and the only fact concerning her past life which the girl had learned during this time was that she had lost her only brother, her only near relative, in the South African War.

"I thought perhaps it was just your kindness—to give me a chance of being heard; perhaps to get other engagements; an excuse to pay me something—for I know that my music lacks so many things. I am so young, and I never trained for the profession. Of course I had good lessons—once; but mostly, I think I taught myself."

"Exactly; and it is just that for which I value your music—for the self which it brings out. You take us into the woodlands and make us hear the birds carol and see the dance of the daffodils in the spring-tide breezes; and we listen to the murmur and splash of summer along a halcyon shore, or shiver at the wild, whistling wind and the roar and shout of the breakers upon an iron-bound coast. Any of us can command technical skill and training by opening our purses, but the soul that speaks through the wall of strings and bow—that is the gift of genius."

"Genius! Ah, Miss Willoughby, if only I could believe it! But indeed, my only voices—I can make music of so few!"

All the time that Allardyce was speaking her fingers were at work among the flowers. She touched them with a tenderness which was curious to watch. Even and anon she lifted a mass of fragrant blossom and laid it against her cheek in a gentle caress. Each arrangement she made was a harmony in color and form, and seemed to be made with an unerring instinct quite independent of thought or scheme.

Six months ago Miss Willoughby's legal adviser, who was also in the measure a personal friend, had told her of three sisters—ladies—left in poor circumstances through the death of a spendthrift father, whose affairs his firm were settling as best they could, realizing that there would be little, saved from the wreck.

"You are often saying you want a girl's help in your house; try one of

THE ONLY MEDICINE THAT HELPED HER

"Fruit-a-lives Again Proves Its Extraordinary Powers"

ROCKHAW, Que., March 2nd, 1915.

"I have received the most wonderful benefit from taking 'Fruit-a-lives'. I suffered for years from Rheumatism and change of life, and I took every remedy obtainable without results. I tried 'Fruit-a-lives' and it was the only medicine that really did me good. Now I am entirely well—the Rheumatism has disappeared, and the terrible pains in my body are all gone. is dead, and he has left us all his property. There is the house where mother was born—a house overlooking the sea—a house I have dreamed about all my life, so that when I go there I think I shall know it."

The girl's eyes grew dreamy, as though they reflected some inner vision, and the delicate corners of her persuasive mouth took that shadowy outline of a smile which always arrested the notice of the onlooker. It gave to the girl the aspect of one who was holding communings with inner things which to her made the true realities of life.

"And I shall hear the voice of the sea again—day and night, night and day. When it calls I can answer. Oh, I shall be happy, happy, happy! The home our mother used to tell me of, the song of the sea she sang to me! I shall live with that song always now!"

Miss Willoughby a little severely, "that your uncle should have sent for you or come to you when your father died. He was then your natural protector."

"But he was ill himself—helpless, paralysed. He was not able to bear the thought of change. I think I understand that. He is dead, I shall give us all he had—and his house beside the sea."

"And you will be co-heiresses of some great fortune perhaps?"

"Child, I only want to know what you want to tell."

"I do not think that our uncle was rich, as you would use that word. The house is his, and a live one. It is round it—not your, not more. But think what it means to us! Freedom to stretch our wings and fly away—back to blue skies and a wide sea!—woods and bricketts and mortar, the hoof of motor-horns, the crowds and jostling of the streets! It is more a dream to me still than the truth. To exchange London for Rockhaven! Ah, think of it—think of it!"

The girl stretched her arms upwards as though to embrace the shaft of sunlight which darted quivering across the room to her feet. The next instant she started and came quickly towards Miss Willoughby.

"You are ill," she exclaimed. Let me call some one to you!"

But, though her face was curiously drawn and ashen, Miss Willoughby held Allardyce fast and would not let her call or ring.

"It is nothing, child—a little spasm which sometimes catches me for a moment. There—I am better already! What was it you were saying? Did you tell me the name of your house was Rockhaven?"

"That is the name of the place, not the house. Now please lie down on the sofa and rest whilst I finish the flowers. You look just like your own ghost. You must please rest and be quiet."

Lying on the sofa, her eyes fixed sometimes upon the fitting figure of the girl, sometimes upon the sunny sky without, Cordelia Willoughby murmured from time to time one single word, shivering from head to foot as she did so. That one word was—

"Rockhaven! Rockhaven!"

And, when later on Allardyce had gone and the mistress of the sumptuous mansion found herself alone, she sat up with a gesture almost tragic in its despair, and other words forced themselves from her pale lips.

"Oh, that wise old Book, that terrible Book! Where is it that these words stand you out? My sin, my sin! Can I never, never forget?"

Suddenly she raised herself and crossed to the small inner room where the flower-boxes still lay upon the floor, with drooped petals, bits of moss, and that pathetic confusion which Allardyce would fain have cleared away had she been allowed to do so.

She went slowly to a portrait upon an easel over which an embroidered square of silk hung. She pulled this aside, and her eyes met those of a man in military dress from a hand-some manly face which bore a strong resemblance to her own. The eyes fixed and held her own. Miss Willoughby flung up her arms in a tragic gesture.

"Harold! I cannot do it—I cannot—I cannot! Oh, why cannot I learn how to forget?"
