Hamilton lost the oldest of all her citizens last week--one who had lived in three centuries and who, up to a few months ago, could talk entertainingly of things which happened long before many men, now old, were born. Mrs. Charlotte Goodold, were born. Mrs. Charlotte Goodman, "Granny" Goodman, as she was called by everyone, died at about 8 o'clock last evening in the House of Refuge, where she had had a comfortable and happy home for the past two years or so.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

Graham Bell Talks of the New Element Radium.

ITS IMMENSE UTILITY STATED.

Radium, the new element just discovered by a lady, is, Prof. Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone; thinks, the discovery of the greatest scientific interest at the present time, and the one that is likely to have the most far-reaching consequences.
Prof. Bell is passing through Toronto, on his way from Minucapolis to his summer home at Boddeck, N.

s, and is a guest at the Queen's Hotel. Last evening he talked in a most fascinating way about some of the recent advances of science. Radium, which he thinks the most wonderful thing now in the public eye, was discovered a short time are by a Radish lady Madam Courte. ago by a Polish lady, Madam Courie, who is carrying on her chemical re-grarches at Paris, This substance has searches at Faris, this superation all the properties of a chemical element, including a distinct spectrum, and whether it be an element or a combination, it is one of the most worders. I substances yet discovered. It gives off rays similar to Roentgen rays, except that they are entgen rays, except that they are much more powerful. These rays are also capable of reflection and refraction, which Roentgen rays are not, so that they may be focussed upon a point and all the advantages derived from Roentgen rays multiplied indefinitely. Sir William Crooks has just succeeded in photographing a room which was absolutely dark by these rays, which are themsolves invisible. The possibilities of the uses of the new substance will thus be seen Radium looks like common sait, and in the dark is slightly phosphorescent, it is not volatile or dangerous to handle, so that it is conceivable that lanterns may yet be made by the aid of which the operator can look right through a human body. At present Roentgen rays are only produced by the expenditure of a large amount of electrical energy, but radium possesses the quality of giving off these rays all the time, without excitation by an outside force,

First Business Done Under the New Premier.

CHAMBERLAIN WAS PRESENT.

London, July 21.—The Premier, A. J. Balfour, presided to-day in the Foreign Office at the first Cabinet meeting of the new Administration. The colonial Scoretary, Joseph Chamberlain, was sufficiently recovered from the effects of the cab accident to be able to attend, though he discarded his hansom in favor of a more luxurious carriage. He was pale, and wore lower than the colonial statement of the cabinet o ious carriage. He was pale, and wore a soft felt hat. Otherwise he showed a soft felt hat. Otherwise, he showed no signs of his injuries.

The meeting of the Cabinet gave fresh impotus to the reconstruction reports. One of these is the suggestion that the Duke of Marlborough will succeed Lord Curzon of Kedleston as Viceroy of India. But there is not the least possibility of any such appointment. It appears very doubtful if Lord Curzon will come home before the expiration of his term of office. As a matter of fact there is no fore the expiration of his term of of-fice. As a matter of fact there is no appointment which could be offered him, except the Foreign Office, which would be a promotion from the Vice-royalty of India, and there is no in-dication that Lord Lansdowne has any intention of retiring. Under no circumstances, however, would the Duke of Marlborough be given such an important post as India, though he might possibly succeed Earl Cado-gan as Lord Licutenant of Ireland. All suggestions in regard to appoint-ments are still of a highly tentative character.

Probably no woman in Hamilton has been more frequently "written up" in the newspapers than the dear old "granny," When she was 90 she hold the story of her life to a reporter, who reproduced it. Then when she reached the century mark another write-up was printed. At the age of 102 she told an interesting story of old times, and it was printed with a sektch of her own, life. On January 2nd, 1901, when she entered the third century in which she had lived the Times published her portrait, taken at the "Uncle" Adam Misener, and it is here reproduced.

"Granny" Goodman was born in England in either 1791 or 1792, probably the latter year. She came to this country when a young woman, and had resided here for 91 years. She could remember the little village as it was in the year of the war of 1812, as she had come here just before that time, she could tell about the one brick bnilding in the place, the one grocer store, and remembered that the got was neither church nor sklewallation traces of golden grain and great forest trees growing where the city now stands.

CITY OF VENICE DOOMED.

Pillars and Piles Rotten and Subsoil Deteriorated.

WILL REBUILD THE CAMPANILE.

Venice, July 21.-Prof. Wagner, the city architect, is of the opinion that practically the whole of Venice is doomed to destruction. He says that the subsoil has deteriorated and the piles and pillars are rotten and unable to stand the pressure on them. Shrinkages and sinking have been observed in the subsoil for many years, although an official commission lately declared that there was no danger from these causes. Prof. Wagner advocates the restoration of the loggia of Sansovine, but not the tower. He says that if the tower. He says that if the tower is rebuilt it should be in modern style.

The Municipal Council, however, has decided to rebuild the Campanile of St. Marks, and the Sansovine Loggia. It has opened the subscription for this purpose with a vote of 500,000 lire. It is estimated that yesterdays collapse caused damage to the amount of four million lire (about $800,000).

In all Venice there was no object of more historic interest than the Campanile of St. Marks. It stood 98 metres (322 feet) in height. It was founded in 888, and restored in 1829. In 1417 a marble top was pat on the old tower, and in 1517 it was crowned with the figure of an angel nearly sixteen feet in height.

The logetta or vestibule on the east side of the campanile was erected by Sansoving, the famous architect, in 1540. It was once a rendezvous for the nobility, and was afterward used as a waiting-room for guards during the sessions of the councils. There were bronze statices of Palce, Apollo, Mercury, and Pallas, and some reliefs on the coping that were also of Sansovino's creation. There were bronze doors that had been east in 1750. In the interior was practically the whole of Venice is loomed to destruction. He says that vessel from the main mast was blown to pieces. This was followed immediately by volumes of smoke and flame as high as the masthead, and a Terribic oreport, which was heard for a distance of seven miles. The corcussion was tremendous, and men, spars, deck-boats, cabin fittings, doors, furniture and effects were blown into the air several hundred feet, and numerous shells exploded on the beam of the Atago, some fishing boats being badly damaged by them. The Kai-Chih sank at once, even before some of the debris came down. The Japanese cruiser anchored near by was enveloped in smoke and debris, so much so that her ccamander ordered his crew to seek shelter. When the smoke cleared away, there was nothing to be seen but a mass of floating wreckage.

There were only two survivors, a carpenter and a sailor. The sailor says the explosion was probably caused by seamen going into the magazine with a light to get saluting ammunition.

The tower was always open, but no one was permitted to enter alone. A lone traveller, however, was permitted to engage a bystander to enter the tower with him. The ascent was made up a wiading inclined plane that had thirty-eight bends in it. At the top was stationed a fire watchman, who always carried a tiescope, The view from the tower top embraced the whole city, the lagoon, the Alps, and part of the Adriatic.

From the tower, in the great days of the Venetian Republic, the first glimpse of home-coming war yessels was send and city was send and climpse of home-coming war yessels was seen and signalied. In 1516 there was seen and signaled. In 1518 there huse, half-way up the tower, a wooden cage in which prisoners were kept until they starved to death. In the olden days there were four bells sounded for different purposes: La marangola was sounded at dawn to call the laboring classes; la sestatmezzana openel the official tureaus; la trotterar called the councils to duty, and the bell del malefizlo tolled out the requiem for those who were to be put to death. too much accidentally.

Miss King was the young woman who allowed Dr. George D. Barney, of Brooklyn, to inoculate her with tuberculosis germs to demonstrate his consumption cure theory.

Miss King came to Shippenport on Friday afternoon, a mental and physical wreck. She was nervous and excited most of the time. The only thing that would calm her was a cigarette. She smoked cigarettes incessantly, but always in her own room. The pówder which she took and which killed her was one of a box of a dozen which she brought with her. The powder was the first she had taken. She apparently was not altogether innocent of its nature and not without some fear of it. This is shown by a remark she made to Mrs. Shuman just before she took the medicine.

Lancashire Now Fighting for its Existence.

THE MILLS ARE BEING CLOSED

London, July 21.—The newspapers display great anxiety regarding the situation in the cotton trade, They describe Lancashire as preparing to fight for its existence as the world's great cotton centre. Mills are being closed and orders from India have lmost ce:sel.

The Daily Mill says that at the bliding of told groups of American speculators the mill-owners had to choose between conducting their business at a heavy loss or stopping. The writer declares that certain groups headed by Theodore Price, of New York, have gradually acquired control of what is left of the old crop of cotton. The new crop not being available until September, the Lancashire millionaires will have to pay about $100,000,000 extra for raw material between now and October unless something is done. The present situation means ruin for them. America is fighting for the British markets, and India is building her own factories.

Johannesburg, Transvasi, July 21.
—At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce to-day called to receive the British trade commissioners, a member read a cable despatch which he had received, offering freight from New York to Natal at 10s. per ton. Other members of the chamber said they had received similar offers. This rate is not remunerative, but is the outcome of competition. It is 21s. 3d. below the lowest freight rate from England. The merchants do not see how the Americans are able to offer such low rates. Nevertheless, they are overhauling their stock to see what they can order in the United States. A majority of the members of the executive committee of the Chamber of Mines are advocating a duty of 5s. to 7s. 6d. per case of dynamite in order to protect the local factory. ATHENS, JULY 23, 1902.

METHODIST FINANCIAL STATEMENT Last week the financial statement of the Methodist church was printed at the Reporter office. In the report two or three typographical mistakes occurred, resulting in contributors being credited with less than they gave. For instance Mr. Jas. Patterson is credit ed with only giving $8.00 towards the minister's salary when he also gave $2.00 to missionary and $2.50 to general fund. Mr. and Mrs. S. C. A. Lamb are credited with $1.75 to min. ister's salary when it should have been $7.75. Mrs. E. T. Tennant and J. M. Kelly are each credited with 25c too much. The reports being circulated, the mistakes were noticed, with the result that insinuations were made against the finance committee and the pastor re amounts not accounted for. In order to exonerate these gentlemen the Reporter wishes to state that those in charge of the job printing department of this great family journal are to blame. The compositor made the mistake in the rush to get state ment out at appointed time and for the same reason it escaped the proof reader's notice. The Department of Agriculture at Ottawa has arranged with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and the Grand Trunk Railway System to provide a number of refrigerator cars for the carriage of cheese on through bills Montreal for export. For the limited number of cars available the Dominion Department of Agriculture is prepared to pay the icing charges to permit this service to be started. Shippers using these cars will be charged only the usual carload rates. Applications for these refrigerator cars should be made through the usual channels of the local railway agent or the district freight agent, as the case may be. The Department of Agriculture does not undertake to furnish cars but only to pay icing charges up to one hundred cars per week during the two hot months from the middle of July to the middle of September. The G.T.R. and C.P.R. will have some specially improved ventilator cars ready this month for the carriage of cheese. These are being fitted with special ventilating contrivances designed by Prof. Robertson. There will not be any extra charge for them.

A prominent Man-chester commission merchant has written the Department of Agriculture to recommend him firms who could sell him a few thousand dozen chickens to arrive in December, January, Febru ary and March. The chickens must be of the same stamp as those received from the Smithville, Ont., experimental station last season. A number of Montreal firms have issued circulars stating that in order to assist farmers not in a position to properly kill and pack their chickens they are ready to accept live chickens for export to Great Britain at the highest market price, provided they are well fattened. It is anticipated that the apple crop western Ontario will this year be one of the largest in its history. Barrel manufacturers are already making the necessary preparations for it, and the railroads will subsequently be severely taxed to handle it. It is estimated that the crop in Huron county will be in the vicinity of 2,000,000 barrels.

To have witnessed the coronation celebrations of William IV. and Queen Victoria, and to be a hale old perso keen memory and active body at the time fixed for the crowning of Edward VII. is the privilege of a very few. The Ontario education department has adopted regulations under which it will give aid to the school libraries throughout the province. Under the regulations any rural school board which provides for the scholars a library selected from the catalogue which is to be prepared by the minister of education shall be entitled to a share of whatever money the Legislature may appropriate for the purpose. The grant is to be equivalent to half the amount expended by the board, but will not exceed $10 in any year, In case the Legislature does not vote enough money to justify the full grant, a pro rata payment will be made. The principal of the school will be librarian, and the trustees are required to make proper arrangements for the care of the books.

brush for fifteen days at $2 a day. I had tramped on for about thirty miles when a farmer who had had an old watch stolen from his vest hanging on a tree in a field had me arrested as the thief. I was rushed to the nearest village, asked a few questions by a juslage, asked a tew questions by a jar-tice of the peace and sent to the county jail for ninety days. In jail I was searched and the $30 found on me. This was grounds for 'suspicion,' and I was immediately haled before another justice, who tacked sixty days on to the original sentence and held my cash to await a claimant. I took a week to think things over and then got word to a village lawyer, and when we had asulted together the fun began.

"Our first move was to begin a suit for damages against the farmer who had charged me with theft, and we had him badly scared within twenty-four hours. Then we went for the consta ble for arresting me without a warran We followed this with charges against the justice, who had refused me con sel, and move No. 4 was against the sheriff for not supplying his prisoners with provisions demanded by law. One with provisions demanded by law. One of the turnkeys of the jall had slammed me around because I had refused to saw wood, and we gave him a suit for assault and battery. A writ of corpus took me out of fail, and the exeitement in that county circuses for twenty years. If the lawyer hadn't been taken with typhoid fever and died, we might have eventually upset the whole state government, and I would have been sure of a place in a dime museum for life. But his death called a halt. After the funeral I was waited upon by a committee, and the result was that I took a night train out of town and never stopped for 200 miles. I took with me $250 in cash and the best wishes of a thriving community, and I suppose those suits have been dropped from the docket ere this. As I said, I am no kicker, but it's well to let people know that even a tramp has rights in law." "And did you use your money

I hadn't put in over three days when the story got around that I was a multimillionaire taking a quiet lay off, and individuals and committees began to call. The subscriptions I was asked to put down for churches, mill dams, railput down for churches, and so on footed up tens of thousands. I could have stood these off, but the band came to serenade me every night, social par ties were given in my honor, and widow with a good deal of push to her recognized me as her long looked for affinity at first sight. She was a firm believer in the theory that matches are made in heaven, and she figured it out to a dot that the angels had killed off her husband and brought me around that I might take his place. I never was any good at arguing against a widow, and so I solved the matter by disappearance on my part, and I heard afterward that they dragged the river and hunted through the swamps fo rubber boots and was foremo

IMPROVE QUALITY OF CHEESE.

At the last meeting of the Eastern Ontario Dairyman's Association, the matter of proving the quality of cheese produced in Ontario formed an important topic in the deliberation of that ociation. It was decided that some radical steps should be taken in the matter of advancing the trade, improving the quality of the goods, and in fact doing what was deemed necessary to uphold the high reputation of the Canadian goods. Numerous complaints had hear received from ous complaints had been received from the British dealer in reference to the inferior quality of the Canadian cheese, which threatened considerable injury to the trade, and the association had that in view when it was decided to create what is known as model districts in Ontario. The Western Association is conducting one in the vicinity of Lambton, and the Eastern Association has charge of the one in the Brockville section. The last named is under the immediate supervision of Chief Inspect-or Publow. A certain set of factories were selected for experimental purposes, which are visited by the instructor at

Flower frocks are among the latest summer noveities, and for dances and dinners at smart watering places this garden creation will take may choose for such gown whatever flower one happens to fancy, though it goes without saying that the lovellest of these are ornamented with pretty garden blooms.

Sweet peas lend themselves admirably to this fad, and the fact that they grow in such a variety of tints makes them all the more suited to flower creations. The pale lavenders, deep blues, yellows and whites are all charming, when such tints are becoming to the wearer, yet nothing is so altogether fresh and dainty as the pale pink shade of this old-fashloned garden blossom.

The gown represented in the cut is as quaint and pretty as its design, and herein has the originator shown her appreciation of the

When unpretentious sweet peas are used there should be neither elaborate material nor intricate patterns for a background. In this instance

Filmy Pink Mousseline de Sole, showing a small polka dot, makes a perfect gown fabric on which the delicate p-tals seem to have been blown hither and thither by a carelone with ess w.nd. A plain skirt of the dotted mousseline is dropped over a foundation of pink chiffon and taffeta, and from hem almost to waist is a series from hem almost to waist is a series of overlapping flounces of the dotted fabric. These are plainly hemmed at the nottom and sewn with pale pink sweet peas, sometimes the entire flower being used again only one larger netal and again only one larger petal falling carelessly among the soft failing carelessly among the soft folds.

The skirt trains becomingly, and the whole effect is girlish, graceful and lovely. To avoid a bunchy appearance about the hps, the skirt is left quite plain from waist to perhaps twelve inches below, a few stray petals being the only ornamentation on this part of the gown. Equally quaint is the slightly decolette corsage, which is gathered high across the bust, the folds being drawn in softly at the waist, where they are concealed beneath a crushed sash of pink liberty sating. A row of the sweet peas outlines the square decolletage and more of the same flowers are gracefully scattered over the bloespart.

Novelty in Siecce Design. Novelty in Steeve Design.

The sleeves of this frock are very curious. Coming up high over the shoulders, the dotted mousseline is arranged in close folds edge and trimmed with flower petals. #### HEALTH EXERCISE FOR THE GIRLS. ARRAMAN WARRANTE

Small women are so utterly out of fashion in America just now that no one takes their limitations into conone takes their limitations into consideration when designing fashions or frocks. With their mental and political aspirations women have shot up physically and it is calculated that within the past twenty years they have added two-thirds of an inch to their stature.

are accomplishing these results by increasing physical exercise and out-door sports. They take as much pride in their height, flexibility of lumb and gymnastic training as their brothers, and in many respects are easy rivals of the stronger sex. See to it, maid and matron, that you possess a pair of dumbbells, which are considered equal, if not superior, to any other article of gymnastic practice.

Society at some resorts is amusing itself with bean bag parties. And this is how they manage one:
At one end of a hall or veranda, or on the lawn, is an inclined board with a square hole in it. Standing at the other end, the players pitch ten bean bags toward the hole, A score is kept, and if ten bags fall in the hole it counts a hundred, or ten for each bag.

Another bag, double the usual size, is provided, and if this is also thrown into the squara opening it adds twenty, the highest possible score. Should any of the bags remain on the board they count five points each, but for every bag that is thrown upon or falls to the floor or ground five points are subtracted.

To add to the decorative aspect of the game, the bag should be made of gally colored ticking. The big bag is made of material of a different pattrn, and contains a pint of beans, the other bags half the quantity. The board is of plain wood, polished, about 2 feet wide and 3 feet long and 9 or 10 inches high.

In view of the prevailing styles it is well that this is the case. It is now absolutely necessary to be tall in order to carry off one's clothes creditably, and, appreciating this fact, the rising generation is pretty generally overtopping its mammas in the matter of inches.

KNEW SOMETHING ABOUT WOMEN.

The time having come when wisdom were selected for jury service, it so happened that twelve of them were locked up for many hours in the jury room, and finally, says the Brooklyn room, and finally, says the Brooklyn Eagle, they sent out word that they would have to be provided with a substantial lufcheon before they could continue their deliberations.

"Unfortunately," said the Judge, "there is no fund upon which we can draw to furnish this under the present circumstances."

"If Your Honor will permit," suggested the attorney for the prosecution, "we will be pleased to provide the luncheon at our own expense in order to expedite matters somewhat."

The Judge looked doubtful.

"If Your Honor will give the same privilege to us," announced the attorney for the defense, "we will interpose no objection."

"That seems to be fair," said the Judge, after a thoughtful pause, "Gentlemen, in order that the women may not suffer and that the ends of justice shall not be subverted, you may each send in a luncheon."

Immediately two councils of war were held.

"Only once during my experience has a man descended to his knees in proposing to me. This one had on white duck trousers, and he knelt down on the dusty path in which we were walking. His mother would have spanked him had she been there. When he got up there was a great black spot on each knee.

"The length of time it takes a man to propose, after he has first met the girl, depends upon the nature of the man, the climate, the weather, the surroundings, the moon, the state of his mind, and a little bit on the way the girl treats him. Sometimes they propose all of a sudden, without any treatment at all beforehand. If the moon is full and the man is not, the average man should be expected to propose within fifteen days after he has met the girl. If he sees her three times a day, for three hours at a time, he can usually become well acquainted with her nature and all her little characteristics in that time, provided the girl is simple, as is apt to be so important whether the girl understands the man's nature or not But, anyway, she can learn it in no time at all, because all men are alike. They mostly all are brainy, and can smoke and love with equal case. There are men who say disreely, as if they were really desperate, 'Will you, any of men are not much good, because you can't flirt with them and keep them dangilag. They make you say either 'yes' or 'no' right away. You can't fool them.

There are many ways in which a girl can tell that a man is going to propose before he does. First, there is the tone in his voice, Then his eyes always follow you about the room in the most admiring, adoring way. He looks at you with a vague, far-away gaze, as if he really saw a vision, so let him alone. At this stage he wouldn't even dare to call you 'darling.' "The only way to propose is the old way—the way Adam must have proposed to Eve, before there was any money, or reason, or anything in the world but—love. Go to her and say. You've got to marry me, because I love you and I can't live without you. And that style of proposal is always in fashion."

"No; he went away and left her no choice but me."

INTERNATIONAL LESSON NO. IV.

JULY 27, 1902.

Worshipping the Golden Calf, - Ex. 32: 1-35. Commentary.-After giving the ten commandments to the children of Israel the Lord talked with Moses and gave him a large number and special enactments based them, for the government of the people. Chap. xx, 22 to 23, 33. Then Moses wrote "all the words of the Lord," and called the people together to ratify the covenant.

1. Moses delayed-He was in the nount forty days. Gathered themselves—"They came in a tumultuous and seditious manner, insisting on having an object of religious worship made for them, as they intended under its direction to return to Egypt. See Acts vii. 30-40." Unto Aaron—The brother of Moses and the principal one in charge during the principal one in charge during Moses' absence. Make us gods—They required, like children, to have something to strike their senses, and as the Schechinah, "the glory of God," of which they had hitherto enjoyed the sight, was now veiled, they wished for some visible, material objects as the symbol of the divine presence which should go before them as the pillar of fire had done.

2. Break off-Implying that the

2. Break off—Implying that the act involved an effort and sacrifice on their part. The prevailing view has been that Aaron, anxious to dissuade the people from their purpose, proposed this great sacrifice, hoping they would withdraw their demand.

3. Brought them—The Egyptian rings, as seen on the monuments, were round, massy plates of metal, and as it was rings of this sort that the feraelites wore, their size and number must, in the general collection, wave produced a large store of the precious metal.

21. That thou has beought—This was a severe rebuke. Moses charged the sin directly upon haron, because he had permitted it.

25. Naked—This means that they were broken loose from all restraint, unruly, licentious. See R. V.

Neither of these passages have any reference to eternal banishment from God, but both Moses and Paul had reached the place of such utter self-abasement before the Lord that they were willing to suffer the loss of every earthly blessing, and to die, if need be, for the welfare of the people.

of the people.

33. Whosover hath sinned—God will blot none out of his book but those that by their wilful disobedience have forfeited the honor of being enrolled in it.

34. Mine angel—This must have been some inferior gullance as Moses afterwards obtained a promise of God's special presence with them. Chap. xxxiii. 12-16. Will. visit their sin—I will not destroy them as a nation, but they shall suffer the consequences of their sin.

35. Plagued the people—This does rot mean that a postlience was sent, but that sufferings and punishments of various kinds frequently befell those who had made and worshipped the calf.

PRACTICAL SURVEY. A sudden fall—In the worship of the golden calf we have a striking illustration of the deep d pravity of the human heart. Only a very little while previous these propile had been most miracurously delivered from the cruck yoke of londage which had oppressed them over four hundred years. With a high hand and outstretched arm Jehovah had wrested them from Pharaoh's grasp, and before their astonished cyes made the waters of the Red Sea part in twain to open up the way before them. One would imagine that the remembrance of favors so signal, so wonderful as those, would fill them with such lasting gratitude, they would forever spurn the very thought of turning their back on their great Deliverer.

The occasion of the film sees had been called up on the meant the The occasion of this f. H.—Mises had been called up on the mount to receive from God a code of laws for the government. the government of the people. He was away on lawful business. He was engaged in work which was for their temporal and spiritual welfare. They should have patiently waited for his return. But because he divid to come days they tell to waited for his return. Little did they imagine while worshipping the moiten image that in a short time it would be ground to powder before their eyes, strewed upon the water, and they be compelled to drink of it; but such was the case. Such is the history of sensual induigences.

Some further lessons. Learn the need of unbending integrity under all circumstances. The jewelry these people wore became a snare to them. The children of Israel are sometimes referred to as examples of what we may wear. It is true they did wear jewelry. It is also true that these very ornaments gave Aaron' the material with which to make the golden calf and led the way to gross idolatry. Better for them if they had never had the jewelry. See the mighty power of importunate prayer. The disinterestedness of Moses. God offered to "make of him a great nation." Had he been seeking, his own selfish interests he would no doubt at once have accepted this offer, but when it was to be done at the exponse of blotting out the people under him, shamefully as they had used him, he spurned the offer. Noble spiriting the weakness of Aaron's defense.

and they are placing some very liberal orders for the fall. The encouraging reports on the crops are helping business in many lines. Business at Quebec during the past week has been fairly active, both in wholesale and retail circles.

In Hamilton there has been a very fair movement in wholesale trade circles this week, as reported to Bradstreet's. Orders for current requirements of trade are fair all things considered, and it is believed that there will still be quite a sorting demand for summer goods before the close of the scason, which has been late in opening this year. Fall orders are numerous and well distributed, showing the confidence of retailers in the outlook for business. Country remittances are fair for this season. In London there has been a fair inquiry for summer goods to sort In London there has been a fair inquiry for summer goods to sort stocks, and with a continuance of the present hot weather, it is expected that the sorting demand may yet improve before the close of the season. At Pacific Coast points there is a little more activity reported in the wholesals trade.

In Winnipeg there has been continued activity in wholesale trade circles. Labor is not very plentiful and it is feared that there will be a scarcity of hands to take off the crops next month. With the continuance of line growing weather, it is expected the grain cutting will begin early next month. Payments are fair for the season.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Keep Little Ones Well During the Hot Weather Months.

Hot Weather Months.

If you want to keep your little ones hearty, rosy and fall of life during he hot weather give them Baby's Own Tablets the moment they show signs of being out of order in any way.

This medicine cures all forms of stomach and bowel troubles, which carry off so many little ones during the summer months, and is the best thing in the world for sleeplessness, nervousness, irritation when teeting, etc. It is just the medicine for ling, etc. It is just the medicine for hot weather troubles; first, because it always does good; and, second, because it can never do any harm—guaranteed free from opiates. Mrs. W. E. "Bassam, Kingston, Out. guaranteed free from opaces. Mr. W. E. Bassam, Kingston, Ont., says: "I began using Baby's Own Tablets whest my little girl was about three when he had old. At that time she had ion bids; she was vomiting i diarrhoen constantly, and that time she had and had diarrhoea constantly, and although she had an apparently ravenous appetite her food did her no good and she was very thin. Nothing helped her until we began giving helped her until we began giving her Baby's Own Tablets, but after giving her these the vomiting and diarrhoea ceased and she began to improve almost at once. Have to improve almost at once. I have since used the Tablets for other trou-bles and have found them all that can be desired—they are the best medicine I have ever used for a child."

These Tablets are readly taken by all children, and can be given to the smallest, weakest infant by crushing them to a powder. S11 at drug stores or you can get them post paid at 25 cents a box by writing direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Oat., of Shenectady.

How well I knew how she would come down the steps, in a timid, hesitating way, hant-dazzled by the lights she had just left, poising each little dainty foot a moment above the next step, fit into the carriage like a soft white bird, and drop her pretty head back with a sigh, "Oh, I'm so tired, mamma?" her white throat curved gently above the swandown of her cloak, the golden fringe of curis falling limply almost to her eyebrows. I must wait—i must see her again! What! On the arm of another man! The blood rushed into my head as these incoherent thoughts rose rapidly in my mind; all the passions of my life, of my youth, damed up as they had suddenly been by my accident and its fatal consequences, seemed to surge up, break through the barriers of resignation quences, seemed to surge up, break through the barriers of resignation and resolve, and make a madman of me. I was not master of myself, I could not count upon what I should do it I saw her; seeing my way no more than if I had been blind or intoxicated, I turned away, and finding myself presently in silent Bond street, I got into a hansom and went back to my hotel. I fancied that night that sooner or later I should end by suicide; but in the morning I had to pack, to buy things for my journey, and to set out on my travels. The worst wrench was over; before I had left England a week, I was almost a shift of the worse I believe the set of the worse I had left in philosopher.

For five years I lived a wanderer's life, and found it fairly to my liking. I hunted the boar in Germany, the wolf in France, went salmon fishing in Norway; shot two tigers in India; got as far as California in search of in Norway; shot two tigers in India; got as far as California in search of adventures, of which I had plenty; passed a fortnight with Red Indians, whom on the whole I prefer in pictures; and began to acquire a diswhom on the whole I prefer in plctures; and began to acquire a distaste for civilization, mitigated by enjoyment of meetings once a year with Edgar and Fabian Scott.

I retained the lease of a shooting-box and a few miles of deer forest by the Deeside, between Ballater and picturesque little Loch Mulck. Larkhill, as the house was called, became, therefore our yearly rendezvous. On as the house was called, became, therefore our yearly rendezvous. On our second meeting, the party was increased by a new member, Mr. William Fussell, a gentleman who was "something in the city." I never could quite make out what that was "something in the city." I never could quite make out what that something was, but it must have been some exceedingly pleasant and licrative profession, since Mr. Fussell, while constantly describing himself as one of the unlucky ones, was always in spirits high, not to was allways in spirits high, not to say rollicking, and was gifted with powers of enjoyment which could say rollicking, and was gifted with powers of enjoyment which could only be the result of long and assiduous practice. I had met him at a German hotel, where I had been struck by the magnificent insolence of his assertion that he had acquired a thorough command of the of his assertion that he had acquired a thorough command of the German language in three weeks, and by the astonishing measure of success which attended his daring plunges into that tongue. Good-bye, arry, and God bless you wherever thanglet me, to a great degree isolated me. But perfect independence has its pleasures, and I was not an unhappy man. Until the end of the fourth year I had not even a servant, and I avoided all women; at the last outsider's look at the enes of my old life, it seemed to e that a dungeon-door had swung on youth, and hope and happiness, to oneself some fellow-creature, and engaged as my personal attendant a cosmopolitan individual, whose qualifications for the post consisted in the fact that he had been a lawyer's clerk in England, a cowboy in Mexico, had had charge of a lunatic at Naples, and was a deserter from the Austrian army, Plain to begin with, deeply marked with smallpox, and disfigured by a sabre-cut across the nose, he was even uglier

I had become a little weary of wandering, and although I by no means intended to give up the nomadic life which I had led for five, years, I thought that a couple of months' rest would be at very pleasant change; I could be on the move before the cold weather set in. But September passed, and October and November came; and it grew very bleak; and still I stayed on, finding a new pleasure in the changed aspect of the gaunt hills, in seeing the snow patches grow larger and larger on Lochnagar, in outstaying the last of the late visitors, and in finding a spot where solitude needed no seeking.

The railway runs from Aberdeen to Bailater. One morning arriving at the little station for my papers, I found a train just starting, and was seized by an impulse to pay a short visit to the granite city. A feeling left by my wandering life made it always difficult for me to see a train or boat start without me. So I sent a boy to Larkhall with a message to Ferguson, who, with a lad under him, constituted my entire household, took my ticket and started. It was past five when I reached Aberdeen; after a sharp walk to the brig o' Balgownie and back, I hired a private room at an hotel, and dined by myself. Making inquiries about the theatre, I learnt that the entertainment that week was very poor, and further, that it had been so badly patronized that it was doubtful whether the unfortunate players would get their meagre salaries. I was glancing at the yellow bill which advertised "Rob Roy" as a Saturday night attraction, when I read the names of Miss Balley and Miss Bablole Balley.

I got up at once and walked quickly down to the little theatre.
