YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD CONVENTION AT WINDSOR

All Union Churches of Windsor Presbytery Represented—Officers Elected

On Wednesday, Oct. 28th, a most significant and promising group of Young People held a convention in Windsor. They were representative young men and women of the Windsor Presbytery of the United Church of Canada, which includes all the United churches from Mt. Uniacke to Kentville and from the South Mountain range to the tide water of the Bay of Fundy and the Minas Basin. There are various Young People's organizations and conventions with their summer schools; but these are composed of Tuxis and C. G. I. T. groups. There is an older class of Young People that has not been mobilized for the life and work of the church. This class is composed of the young people who have passed out of the former groups, and like the graduate from high school without a job, they have nowhere to go. They may be classified as between the ages of 18 and 24 years of age.

It was at the call of the Young People's Department of the church that this large, intelligent, alert and enthusiastic group of young people met in St. John's church on Wednesday morning at ten o'clock.

In the absence of Rev. G. R. Kyle, the pastor of the church, Rev. F. E. Barrett, chairman of the Presbytery, led the opening devotional exercises, and extended to the delegates a cordial welcome to the town of Windsor. Rev. A. A. McLeod, Presbytery secretary of Windsor, and convenor of the Convention, took the chair and directed the organization. David McCuish, of Canard, was appointed as Convention chairman, and Miss Maxine Williams, of Wolfville, secretary. Then the work of the convention was taken up in real earnest.

The Rev. A. A. McLeod gave a splendid review of the "New Day" that has opened to the young people of the United church, and in a general discussion the situation became clearly defined. Then followed an address by Rev. F. Z. Milligan, the Maritime secretary, on "The Essentials of Young People's Work". He in his analytic style introduced the general principles and responsibilities of the inner circle of interested and active young people for working and enlisting all young people in their communities.

In the afternoon sessions, reports were received from the various churches concerning Young People's work, and the discussion opened in the morning session was continued by Mr. Milligan and every phase of the work, with all its possibilities of enlisting and organizing the young life of the community.

The speeches all revealed careful preparation and a keen interest on the part of the speakers. The judges in Grade XI, Dr. MacKinnon, Mrs. Osborn, and Miss Harry, awarded the debate to the Liberals by a majority of 2 points. In Grades IX and X the judges, Dr. Hemmeon, Miss Haley, Rev. Mr. Dixon, Col. Parsons, Miss Newcombe and Dr. Roach decided in favor of the Liberals by a large majority.

DAINTY TEA GIVEN BY HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS

A very dainty tea was served to about one hundred of the town ladies and others on Saturday afternoon by the members of the High School Girls' Club, under the direction of Miss Warren. The corridor was very tastefully decorated for the Halloween season in orange and black. Many of the ladies availed themselves of the opportunity of obtaining a glimpse into the future by means of the oracle, tea leaves or palmistry. Whether they were satisfied with "what is to be" is not known, but certainly they did enjoy the delicious refreshments and the hospitality of the girls. The proceeds, which amounted to over $30.00, will be added to the girls' bank account for their social and athletic activities during the year. In the evening the members of the Boys' Club were the guests of the Girls' Club, and Halloween frolicking and revelry reigned supreme.

DR. KEMPTON'S LECTURES MUCH ENJOYED

The illustrated lecture given in College Hall last Friday evening under the auspices of the Social and Benevolent Society of the Baptist church was a decidedly attractive and interesting one. Rev. Austen T. Kempton, D.D., of Cambridge, Mass., who was the lecturer, is well known in this vicinity. He is a son of the late Rev. S. B. Kempton, D.D., who was for many years the pastor of the Canard Baptist church, and was universally honored and revered. His son was graduated from Acadia University in the class of 1891, and has been a successful and popular minister for many years.

NEW APPOINTMENTS TO ACADIA STAFF

Recent appointments to the Acadia staff include E. Howald, M.A., instructor in Romance Languages. Mr. Howald, a native of Switzerland, is an M.A. from the University of Geneva, with extended and successful teaching experience in Romance Languages both in Europe and the United States. Mr. Howald also served in the United States army during the war, where he attained the rank of Major.

COLDEST OCTOBER IN 35 YEARS

OTTAWA, Nov. 3.—The month just passed has been the coldest October recorded in the last 35 years at the Dominion Experimental Farm and it may be that it has been the coldest over a still greater number of years, as this is as far as the records at the farm run. The mean temperature for the month was 38.9 degrees Fahrenheit, as compared with the average of 46.6.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS DEBATE POLITICAL ISSUES

After a great deal of unorganized discussion in regard to the political issues of the day, the Liberals and Conservatives of the High School decided to meet each other in public debate. For days the party handbooks and other available information were kept circulating from one home to the other and the enthusiastic contestants spared no effort to obtain material. The resolution was: "Resolved that the Liberal policy of Mr. King is more advantageous to Canada than the Conservative policy of Mr. Meighen."

In Grade XI the following upheld the affirmative.—Robert Herbin (leader), Allan Pick, Annie Fitch, William Gue, Gordon Munro, and Flora Patriquin; while Jean Shaw (leader), Frances Sanford, Alfred Cox, Evelyn Barteaux, Madalyn Elliott and Frank Woodworth upheld the negative of the resolution.

In Grade X the Liberal speakers were: Marjorie Warren (leader), Jack Harris, Gordon Mahaney, Edythe Forsythe, Ethel Ingraham and Victor Gould; while the Conservative speakers were: Bryce Hatfield (leader), Minnie Bishop, Maie deWitt, Victor Murphy, Evangelin Cox, Donald Reid. In Grade IX Gertrude Duncanson (leader), Ardith Fair, Boyd Barteaux, Ruth Glendinning and Dorothy Lockhart took the affirmative of the resolution; and Vernon Brown (leader), Horace Brown, Alice Gue, Elizabeth Harvey and Elizabeth Magee took the negative.

The speeches all revealed careful preparation and a keen interest on the part of the speakers. The judges in Grade XI, Dr. MacKinnon, Mrs. Osborn, and Miss Harry, awarded the debate to the Liberals by a majority of 2 points. In Grades IX and X the judges, Dr. Hemmeon, Miss Haley, Rev. Mr. Dixon, Col. Parsons, Miss Newcombe and Dr. Roach decided in favor of the Liberals by a large majority.

BOY INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Charlie, the little five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Farris, was the victim of a painful automobile accident last Saturday. He was in a car which his father was driving, and in some way managed to get the door open and was under the wheels before it was noticed. The car ran over his leg which was badly crushed. The injured boy was taken to Westwood Hospital for treatment and on Wednesday Nurse Harry took him to the Children's Hospital, Halifax, Mr. C. H. Wright furnishing the transportation by motor. The injured limb will be X-rayed today, and the little fellow will probably be at the hospital for some time to come.

When It Is Finished

When it is finished, Father, and we set
The war-stained hucker and the bright blade by,
Bid us remember then what bloody sweat,
What thorns, what agony,
Purchased our wreaths of harvest and ripe ears;
Whose empty hands, whose empty hearts, whose tears
In this Gethsemane
Ransomed the days to be.

We leave them to Thee, Saviour. We've no price,
No utmost treasure of the seas or lands,
No words, no needs to pay their sacrifice.
Only while England stands,
Their pearl, their pride, their altar,—not their grave,—
Bid us remember in what hours they gave
All that mankind may give
That we might live.

—Marjorie L. C. Pickthall.

DR. RHODENIZER READS PAPER BEFORE WOMEN'S FACULTY CLUB

The first meeting of the Faculty Women's Club was held at the home of Mrs. F. W. Patterson on Monday evening. Modern Drama has been selected for study and discussion this winter.

Dr. Rhodenizer, Professor of English at Acadia, read a paper on Dramatic Technique, pointing out that the modern drama has few acts and scenes, and is composed of a plot, a setting and the characters. Basis of the plot is a struggle, or difficulty.

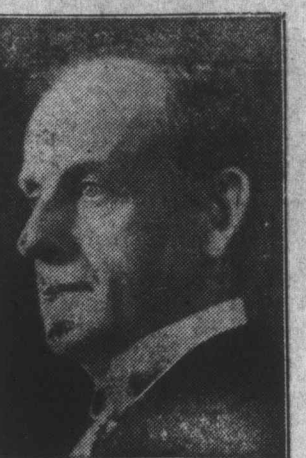

A plot may be divided into parts—inciting force, preliminary exposition, rising action, turning point. The highest emotional point is the climax of interest and comes near the end of the play—denouement, or outcome. The dramatist must consider the producer, the actors, and the audience. Modern tendencies incline to fewer acts—one scene to act, and the development of the one-act play. Some modern plays have a number of scenes, such as John Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln".

The type of play is a matter of technique, said Dr. Rhodenizer. Barrie creates fantastic comedy. Why do we demand inevitability in tragedy, and only probability in comedy? Because of a satisfactory ending. Melodrama is sensational but not probable. The difference between comedy and farce is the question of probability. Farce demands an initial absurdity, with sistant absurdity as play goes on.

FORMER WOLFVILLE MAN DIES SUDDENLY

News of the sudden death of a former well known Wolfville resident, Mr. Lewis E. Harris, son of the late Henry Harris, has been received. No particulars are available except that he dropped dead in Kamloops, B. C., and was buried in Vancouver. Mr. Harris was 67 years of age and is survived by one sister living in Vancouver, Carrie (Mrs. Milde). The old home of the family here was the property now occupied by Mr. Alden Harris at Lower Wolfville. The deceased went to British Columbia many years ago and has not visited his old home since early in the eighties. An old-time member of Wolfville Division, S. of T., he retained his membership and interest throughout his long absence, and had time members and other friends regret to learn of his demise. Mr. Harris had been for many years a reader of THE ACADIAN and in his communications to this paper often referred to his love for the old home town and his interest in its prosperity.

ARMISTICE DAY

Citizens will be glad to learn that as usual there will be an appropriate celebration of Armistice Day in Wolfville on Wednesday next. A competent committee has the program in hand and will do all that is possible to ensure that Wolfville does her part creditably in observing an anniversary which we cannot afford to overlook. At 10:30 o'clock next Wednesday morning citizens are invited to gather at the post-office grounds to take part in the ceremony.

A FAIR DEAL FOR ALL

THAT THE way of the transgressor is hard has been found true in the case of H. P. Story, who has been sentenced to three years imprisonment in the penitentiary at Dorchester because of defalcations in the accounts of the office of the provincial secretary. Giving evidence in his own behalf the accused stated that he was forty-four years of age with a family and had entered the provincial secretary's office fifteen years ago as a general clerk at a salary of a thousand dollars. Since he entered the office his duties had increased nearly seventy-five per cent. and the amount of money handled had increased year by year. The conduct of the office has apparently been exceedingly loose, and the accused said that the shortage would never have occurred if the right procedure had been taken when the audit had been going on. He was in a position to make good the amount which had been taken and had open to him a position for which he was well fitted if given another chance. It was very properly held by the court that there was no ground for leniency and that the law must take its course. Meanwhile, however, those who in reality are responsible for the offence are not required to take their share of accountability and are rewarded by being exalted to high position and made the objects of special honor.

We have no disposition to condone law-breaking on the part of any person, but believe in a fair deal for all. Here is a case where a man is made responsible for the handling of from $600,000 to $700,000 per year with no complete supervision and for a compensation which must be regarded as far from adequate. The temptation was one that he was not able to withstand. This, as the crown prosecutor pointed out, is no defence. The laws must be duly regarded, but not to the detriment of any class. Only a short time ago a case was reported where a very serious defalcation in public accounts was reported, but the offender was allowed to escape punishment by restoring the missing funds. We cannot afford to have it said that in this country we have one law for the poor and impotent and another for the rich and influential.

THANKSGIVING DAY

IT IS not only good manners it is also good discipline to return thanks for a favor received. He is, indeed, a poor creature who will not give at least a Thank You in recognition of a kindness of which he is the recipient. The habit of giving thanks is a good one and worthy of cultivation.

Monday of next week has been set apart as Canada's national Thanksgiving Day. It is not the purpose to crowd into one day our obligation to give thanks, but to dedicate a time especially for the purpose of thanks giving in order that as a people we may unite in a duty that is every day in the year ours.

We have very much to be thankful for. Who can estimate the value of a week's sunshine, of a day's rain, of an hour's health? These are gifts that we accept day by day as a matter of course and for which we often neglect to return our thanksgiving. Only when we are obliged to forego these blessings are we able in any sense to appreciate their worth.

In this good land which is ours we have much cause for gratitude to the Giver of every good and perfect gift for those things which in the passing seasons have been ours. He has filled our land with plenty and blessed the labors of our hands. His fatherly providence has not dealt with us after our sins, but has rewarded us according to the richness of his love.

At least we can be decently respectable enough to thank Him, who, alone, can bless the farmers' efforts with increase, that food enough and to spare has been accorded us.

As true honest-hearted citizens of our grand Dominion, "from the one sea to the other, from the flood unto the world's end", let us unite in raising the shout of praise:

"O give thanks unto the Lord, for he is good,
For His mercy endureth forever."

UNSATISFACTORY RESULT OF ELECTION

THE RESULT of the late federal elections is far from satisfactory to any patriotic Canadian. For the past four years we have been practically marking time because of the inability of the government in power to carry out any definite program. It was hoped that on October 29th the decision of the electors might be sufficiently pronounced to place in power an administration which might be able to grapple with every problem. The counting of the ballots, however, has demonstrated no great improvement in the conditions of government. In fact it may be said that the issue has become even more complicated.

The request of the King government that it be given a majority that would enable it to carry on has been met with a rebuff at the hands of the people, and their majority of one has been changed to a very decided minority. This cannot be taken as other than an intimation on the part of the electors that they will not have the King government to rule over them. On the other hand Hon. Mr. Meighen, the leader of the largest group, whose following in parliament has been increased from fifty members to a hundred and seventeen, is still considerably short of the required majority to assure the carrying on of a stable administration.

Just what the outcome will be is impossible to accurately predict, since the continued presence of a third group whose policy makes it logically impractical for them to support either of the old parties, has the effect of upsetting the parliamentary equilibrium necessary to promote the country's interests.

ALL EMPIRE TRADE PUSH

IT IS all to the good that almost every shade of political thought in Great Britain is heartily supporting the All-Empire Trade Push which is in process of building up over there. Even some of the radical elements of the Labor party are urging that concrete methods be developed immediately for the opening up and expanding of Empire resources. The Financial News has this to say by way of a preface to a series of articles on opportunities in the Dominions: "Imperial development can no longer be left to the enthusiastic few but must be pushed into the forefront of the program of measures that are necessary for the restoration of British trade. Our industrial organization is an artificial structure built up on a basis of special advantages: First, the start that the brains of our predecessors gave us, and secondly, the low cost of production. Both these advantages we have lost. Fresh advantages can be found in the development of Imperial trade with markets that are sheltered in our favor by ties of race, speech, sentiment, common habits and mutual advantage. Our future prosperity depends upon the courage and foresight with which we develop them. The mere arithmetical importance of Empire trade to our exporters is too little apprehended. The Empire takes 43 per cent. of the produce and manufactures of the United Kingdom, while between fifty and sixty per cent. of the total foreign trade of the principal dominions is done with us."

The highest hopes of those behind the movement may not be realized. At the same time if sentiment and self-interest can be united and developed in practical form in this connection, the British family should be able to strengthen its economic structure very considerably. But it should always be remembered that the housewife and the trader will respond more readily to the urge of self-interest than that of sentiment.

J. BRUCE WALKER

Newly appointed Director of European immigration for Canada in London. Mr. Walker, a former editor of the Brantford Expositor, started his immigration work in the regime of Sir Clifford Sifton as commissioner of immigration in Scotland and afterwards spent nearly fifteen years in Winnipeg in the same work during the great expansion of the west.

CANADA'S STAND

Canada's position since the war has been a difficult one. The part she played in the conflict was both glorious and costly. Peace found her encumbered with debt, bereft of some of her best foreign markets and without any recompense in sight. Canada, in fact, was the only unit in the British Empire which did not draw a single prize from the Treaty of Versailles. German Southwest Africa was added to the South African Union; Australia was given mandates over various islands; Great Britain was able to write many substantial items on the credit side of the ledger when the peacemakers concluded their labors. But Canada, for geographical reasons, received nothing.

In the seven years that have elapsed, the Dominion has been emerging slowly from the economic depression which followed the war. The slowness of the recovery is to some extent a matter of choice. Canada has never indulged in short cuts to growth and prosperity. Her immigration policy has always been a cautious one, dictated largely by a desire to keep the original stock undiluted. In the past this was not difficult, as the bulk of the immigration moving to Canada came from the British Isles. Belief in Canada's frigidity, created partly by Kipling's unfortunate My Lady of the Snows verse, was too firmly established to attract the Latin, Slav and Near-East flood. The United States got practically all of it. Now that we have swung over to a sound principle of restriction and selection, however, Canada could take advantage of the situation growing out of our immigration law. But so far the Dominion has shown no tendency to throw open the gates. Canadians seem to feel that the wiser course is to grow slowly rather than to profit by a boom in population; and anyone who considers the problems that our old free and easy policy has created for us must applaud her decision.—Saturday Evening Post.

A SONG OF THANKSGIVING:—Oh that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men! O come, let us sing unto the Lord; let us come before his presence with thanksgiving. For he is our God, and we are the people of his pasture.—Psalm 107:25; 95:1, 2, 7.

And he shall judge among many people, and rebuke strong nations afar off; and they shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruninghooks: nation shall not lift a sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.

A delicious repast was served.

A good deal of excitement prevailed in Hantsport on Oct. 29th, particularly when it became known that A. deWitt Foster, the Conservative candidate, was elected with over a thousand majority over his opponent. A large audience had assembled in the Empire Theatre awaiting the arrival of Mr. Foster, and when he put in an appearance at a late hour, having already given addresses at five different places, a tumultuous ovation was given him. The large gathering stood and all joined heartily in singing "O Canada" and "He's a Jolly Good Fellow". Although Mr. Foster's address was short it conveyed a great deal. He expressed his appreciation for such a royal welcome and also for their support in the campaign, and declared his determination to do all in his power for the constituency, the country, and the province. He was given three rousing cheers and a tiger.

BLOIS-BINNS

The marriage of Miss Florence J. Binns, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noble Binns, of Nelson, B. C., to Robie Kerr Blois, B.Sc., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Blois, of Hantsport, was solemnized at noon, Friday, Sept. 18th, at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Samuel Lundie, B.A., of Victoria, uncle of the bride. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The bride entered the room on the arm of her father, looking very charming in a French blue lace gown embroidered in poudre blue, wearing a large black velvet picture hat and carrying a bridal bouquet of Ophelia roses. Her only attendant was Mrs. Oliver Lodge, of Vancouver, who was gowned in rose brocade chiffon, also wearing a black picture hat and carrying a bouquet of pink carnations and maiden hair fern. The bride's mother was charmingly gowned in black satin and net relieved with ivory lace. The groom was supported by Mr. Douglas Wetmore, of Truro, N. S. Mr. and Mrs. Blois motored to Spokane on their honeymoon, and on their return will reside at Tadanac, B. C., where Mr. Blois is chief electrical engineer for the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company.

DIARY OF MARGARET D. MICHENER

April 10th, 1851. This has been a beautiful day; the sun shines brightly. Yesterday morning was very rainy, but it cleared away fine. Maria came in after school and stopped until meeting time. Mrs. T. Faulkner also called. Had prayer meeting, then inquiry, then preaching by Mr. Hurd, a young stranger from the Academy. He preached a beautiful sermon. He chained the attention of the congregation so not the least noise or motion was heard. He spoke of the suffering of our Saviour, and hard indeed must be that heart that would not feel any emotion. Jane Elder came down and stopped all night with me. I felt happy whilst I heard her engage in prayer; she said she felt it to be a cross, but she will feel a satisfaction in taking up her cross. I believe she is a sincere Christian and is only waiting for the moving of the waters that she may step in. We talked nearly all night, then arose early this morning and took a walk down to the beach, where we lingered a while and watched the sun rise; the tide being up, the scene was delightful. We felt much refreshed and did not envy our more dilatory neighbors. Mrs. Kendal Holmes had a son last night.

OLD AND NEW MINISTERS OF FINANCE

Hon. J. A. Robb, left, with Hon. W. S. Fielding, right, on the occasion of the presentation to Mr. Fielding of a bond of the 1923 issue (the last issued during his administration) and an address by the members of the Finance and Insurance departments of the government. Mr. Fielding has spent more than nineteen years in the office of Minister of Finance. This long term is said to be almost unprecedented in modern history.

11th. Went to meeting last night. Mr. Hurd preached again; he told of the many enticements to lead us from Christ, and of the many professors who went back and walked no more with him; he spoke of the love of Christ and how we should love him. I went up to father's and stayed all night. When I awoke this morning, the snow was flying merrily; it snowed till near school time.

12th. I took care of Mary's children last night so she could go to meeting. Mr. John Frost died last night. He took his last ride yesterday with Mr. Harris. He kept about till the last; they did not even have to watch with him one night. I thought, when I heard he had passed away, what a happy exchange; O, what a glorious thing to die a Christian; having our sins forgiven and the blessed hope of a glorious immortality beyond the grave.

13th. Very cold today. Went to conference yesterday afternoon; had a good congregation and there seemed to be new life infused into many. Mr. Churchill was there and spoke. I was very glad to hear him and sincerely hope our church may be again united in the bonds of love. I have felt a happiness in praying to God, and I could resist the spirit to sing no longer. With the dawning of this morning my heart and voice were attuned to praise God. As we were coming home from meeting last night, we saw Peter Shaw's shop in flames; the blaze poured from all parts and it was soon consumed. This is the second shop that has burned this winter.

CULLED POTATOES FOR FATTENING STEERS

Prince Edward Island increased its area of certified seed potatoes in 1924 to 9000 acres. The seed trade demands a certain type and weight of tuber and when the potatoes are graded there are considerable quantities of cull potatoes left with the grower. Some of these can be marketed as table stock, but most of them are available at small cost for feeding to live stock.

An experiment was started in the autumn of 1924 in feeding cull potatoes to fattening steers to determine if they could be used to replace roots in the ration and still produce beef profitably. Six lots of steers were purchased at $5.50 per cwt. They were run on grass, most of them dehorned and given a preliminary uniform feeding period up to December 19, when the test started. The cost of cattle, plus feed to that date, was $6.35 per cwt.

Three lots of steers, each were fed 25 pounds of cull potatoes per steer per day. The testing period lasted for 89 days until March 17, 1925. The estimated value of the potatoes was twice as much per pound as the turnips and the amount fed was just one half, so the estimated cost per steer was the same throughout the experiment for the roots and potatoes.

In order to feed a balanced ration and counteract the laxative effect of the potatoes, cotton seed meal was fed in the grain mixture, while oil cake meal was added to the grain fed with turnips. The cattle all ate heartily and remained healthy throughout the experiment. The amount of oats and meal fed was 6 pounds per steer per day at the beginning. This was gradually increased to 12 pounds per day at the close of the test.

At the commencement of the test the nutritive ratio for the ration containing turnips was 1:7.3 and for the ration containing potatoes it was 1:7.4, except lot 6, which was fed oat straw instead of hay. The nutritive ratio of the ration for this pen was 1:8.6.

The steers fed turnips made an average gain of 151 pounds in the 89 days. Those fed cull potatoes made an average gain of 155 pounds in the same period.

The average cost per pound gain was 17 cents for those fed turnips and 20 cents per pound gain for those fed cull potatoes. The oil cake meal cost $58.00 per ton while the cotton seed meal cost $70.00 per ton; this gave a profit per steer fed turnips of $10.39 and a profit per steer fed cull potatoes of $8.94. A balance in favor of the turnips of 45 cents per steer.

When cull potatoes are available they may be used to advantage to replace turnips or other succulent forage crops provided the ration is balanced and the laxative tendency of the potatoes is counteracted by some other food in the ration.

THE BOY SCOUTS MAKE ANOTHER HIT

It is not possible to find a body of youths in the Province whose slogan of "Service" is more efficiently carried out in daily practice than that excellent organization The Boy Scouts. Moved by its previous experience of the reliability and promptness of the Boy Scouts in connection with the procuring of election returns from the booths in the cities and larger towns of the Province, the Maritime Telegraph & Telephone Company approached the leaders of the local companies in Halifax and Dartmouth, Sydney, New Glasgow, Antigonish, Canso, Truro, Glace Bay, Lunenburg, Parrsboro, Bridgewater, Wolfville and Yarmouth with a view to obtaining the services of the Boy Scouts in connection with the Federal Election returns in the places mentioned, and it was without a dissentient voice that the leaders of the companies concerned embraced the opportunity of rendering service, not only to their respective communities, but to the Province and to the Dominion at large.

The Telephone Company reports that the work done by the Boy Scouts was invaluable, and that it was largely due to the devotion to duty and intelligence of the Boy Scouts that returns were so promptly made available to the public.

BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL NOTES

The Philathea Class met at the home of Mrs. J. G. Elderkin, Westwood avenue, Oct. 12, for their first monthly meeting of the season. The officers for the year were elected as follows:

President—Constance Barbeaux.
Vice-President—Elizabeth Corey.
Secretary—Helen Ingraham.
Treasurer—Flora Patriquin.
Convener of the Membership Committee—Alice Rand.

Convener of the Missionary Committee—Bernice Cohoon.
Convener of the Social Committee—Elizabeth Eaton.

Convener of the Entertainment Committee—Zelma Trethewey.
At the close of the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed and delightful refreshments were served.

October 18th, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Gillison spoke to the Sunday School. Upon Rev. Mr. Gillison's suggestion the Sunday School have decided to support a boy in India. That same Sunday, Mrs. Gillison spoke to the Philathea Class, and they have decided to support a boy instead of a girl, as the girl they were supporting is to be married in December.

November 1st, the Philathea Class had charge of the opening exercises of the Sunday School. The chief item of interest was the history, by Constance Barbeaux, of the girl whom the class has been supporting for the past three years. A solo rendered by Lina Crowell was very much appreciated.

November 3rd, the monthly meeting of the Philathea Class was held at the home of Laurette Benjamin. Bernice Cohoon and Constance Barbeaux were appointed to lead the conference at Windsor on the sixteenth and seventeenth of November, as representatives of the Baptist Sunday School. After the business was transacted a social hour was spent.

LAW AND THE NEWSPAPER

To the Editor of THE ACADIAN
Sir,—Parliament recognized the danger (when a writ was issued for an election) arising from a horde of outside voters crowding in the district and swinging the results their way. To prevent that, it was enacted that no one would be qualified to vote who was not continuously a "resident for two months immediately preceding" the issue of the writ. Contrary to this express provision, the registrar for this district advised the polling officers to permit last year's students to vote, who had not been continuously residents for two months previous to the 3rd of September. This is an instance where there is a greater authority than a parliamentary enactment and that is the law of partisanship. Young men sent to Acadia College are sent to be inspired by sentiments of good citizenship and not to be made "smart Alex's" of in the election game.

It is altogether doubtful if newspaper propaganda had the least influence in determining the results of the last election.

Large results were anticipated in Quebec by those two influential papers—the Montreal Gazette and the Montreal Star—with the result of four Conservatives elected out of sixty-five! Verily two mountains labored and brought forth a mouse! Frederickton has two dailies both opposed to Mr. Hanson and none for him, and he won by 5,000 majority! In St. John, there are three dailies. Two of them are non-partisan, the third a "whisper" campaigner instituted to defeat him. He was privately pictured as "awful" a man as if he had just broken out of a Chicago prison under a ten year sentence. He had not one metropolitan paper to say a good word for him. Even that Conservative sheet, the Halifax Herald, never mentioned his name, yet beat them all out and had over 1,000 majority. Are the electors learning wisdom and becoming skeptical as to the value of the hysterical utterances of the metropolitan papers?

OBSERVER.

MRS. SARAH COHOON

The community of White Rock was saddened by the passing away on Monday morning, Oct. 19th, after an illness of three weeks, of Sarah Cohoon, widow of the late John Fred Cohoon.

Mrs. Cohoon was formerly Sarah Cook and was born at Bridgewater on November 6th, 1836, being nearly eighty-nine years of age. She resided in Bridgewater until her marriage; after which a number of years were spent at East Port Medway, coming from there to White Rock forty-three years ago. She joined the Presbyterian church early in life, and by her kindly disposition endeared herself to all.

She leaves a sister, Mrs. Wentzell, of Northfield, Lunenburg, one daughter, Mrs. John Waters, of Watertown, Mass., and three sons, William C., at White Rock; Dr. Elisha, Supt. of Medfield Hospital, Mass.; and Kenneth, of Waltham, Mass.

The funeral which was largely attended, was held on Wednesday, the 21st, the service being conducted by Rev. A. A. McLeod, of Kentville, and Mr. J. A. Peyer, of Wolfville. Interment at the Oaks Cemetery, Kentville.

BORN

BOWER—At Avonport, on Friday, October 23rd, to Mr. and Mrs. Arch Bower, a daughter, Ruth Edith.

DEATH OF OLD RESIDENT

The death of Mr. Thomas Foster, which occurred on Sunday last, removed one of the oldest residents of this town. Up until a few years ago he was one of the most familiar figures but of late has been confined to his home. Mr. Foster was a son of the late Capt. Thomas Foster, of this place, and was, we believe, the last surviving member of the family. A sister, Mrs. Henry Coldwell, passed away only a few weeks ago, aged 85 years. Mr. Foster was in his 92nd year and had been for practically his whole life a resident of Wolfville. He was a carpenter and took a great interest in building and sailing boats, while his health permitted. The funeral, which was held on Monday afternoon, was well attended. Mr. MacIosh, who for some years past has conducted services among the people of the outlying sections, conducted the service and gave an address which was attentively listened to. Interment was in Willow Bank Cemetery.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Union church met at the home of Mrs. Charles Magee, president, Mrs. Aubrey Newcombe, in the chair. Very interesting reports were given of the annual meeting held in Prince Edward Island by Mrs. Audrey Newcombe and Mrs. Alfred Ellis. At the close of the business hour supper was enjoyed.

Dr. Thomas W. Hodgson, pastor of the Union church, preached an able discourse on Sunday morning, which was listened to by a large congregation. Special music was rendered by the choir. Rev. A. A. McLeod, of the Union church, Kentville, occupied the pulpit the previous Sabbath, and the congregation was a very appreciative one.

Mrs. George Bowser has returned from Halifax, where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Griffin and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bowser.

Mr. Jack Whitehead, who has been ill, has recovered.

Mrs. John Wallace, who has been ill, has recovered.

Mrs. Wallace was the guest of Miss Bessie Harris for the week end.

Mrs. Vickery is visiting her son in Yarmouth.

Mrs. George Bowser, who has returned from Halifax, where she was the soloist in St. Matthew's church, leaves in a few weeks for Bedford, where with her son she will reside. Mrs. Bowser will be greatly missed in church, social and community work, where she was a favorite, always willing to give of her best. Her place as choir leader will be hard to fill.

Mr. and Mrs. James Harris have returned from Yarmouth.

Mrs. Alfred Ellis is spending a few days in Annapolis county.

Miss Edna Sandford, accompanied by her brother, left this week for the States, where she will spend several months.

Miss Jane McCurdy is visiting in town.

Mr. Gerald Huston has arrived in Florida, where he will spend the winter. Mr. Huston was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Joseph Hebblethwaite, Boston, en route.

The Debt Destroying League of the United Baptist church was delightfully entertained by Mrs. William Melvin last week. The attendance was large and at the close a social hour was enjoyed.

Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Brown, is undergoing medical treatment at the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax.

Miss Ada Reynolds, who has been visiting her brother, Captain H. Munro Reynolds and Mrs. Reynolds, Halifax, returned last week.

Bruce McDorman, principal of the High School, was delightful. Canning High School held a very delightful Halloween party in the Armory on Friday evening, the guests numbering about forty. The auditorium was artistically decorated in gold and black, and Halloween favors were intermingled. The guests were received by Mrs. A. M. Covert, Mrs. Starr Eaton, Mrs. Victor Eaton, Mrs. Clifford Bowlby, and the teachers. Principal T. B. McDorman, Miss Emma Bigelow, Miss Emma Goldsmith, and Mr. P. Kempton. Dancing, games and music were greatly enjoyed. Music by Mrs. Clifford Bowlby, Miss Emma Bigelow, piano and ukulele, Freeman Blenkhorne, bango, was much appreciated. The evening was one of the best.

Miss Gladys Kennedy, of the staff of the New Acadian School, Halifax, has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Kennedy.

Mrs. Elizabeth Strong, Halifax, is the guest of Mrs. L. B. Borden.

Mrs. Alfred Ellis, who is spending the winter in Halifax, where Miss Margaret Ellis is attending Dalhousie University, was the guest of her sister, Miss Bessie Hennigar last week. Mrs. Ellis is greatly missed in the church, social and community life of our town.

A few of the people of Canning were granted an opportunity (informally) of viewing some pictures fresh from the brushes of Harry and Henrietta Britton. These canvases are Cornish in subject, as one might expect, they having lived in Cornwall, England, for the past five years. As Nova Scotians we were indeed gratified to hear them affirm that on account of the "most beautiful scenery" of our province, they are settling in Canning. Mr. and Mrs. Britton are of Toronto, where their works are well known. Mr. Britton, A.R.C.A., is represented in the National Gallery collection of paintings at Ottawa. The afternoon spent with Mr. and Mrs. Britton was one of rare pleasure.

Mrs. David M. Dickie

Nina Dickie, beloved wife of David M. Dickie, passed away at her home, Canning, on Saturday, Oct. 31, after an illness of a few weeks, aged 33 years. In the passing of the late Mrs. Dickie, the community loses one who took an active part in all that stood for the highest and best in church, social and community life. Those left are a husband, one son, Charles, a daughter, Aileen; a mother, Mrs. Starret, residing in Arizona, who was with her daughter during her illness; and four sisters.

The funeral which was very largely attended was held from Union church on Sunday, at 3 p. m. Dr. Thomas W. Hodgson officiated, and was assisted by Rev. L. P. Archibald of Union church, Upper Canning. The service was a beautiful one, the hymns sung being "Nearer My God to Thee", "Rock of Ages", and "Jesus Lover of My Soul". The pall bearers were Dr. S. W. Spicer, Messrs. L. W. Slack, A. D. Clarke, H. K. Bain. The floral offering testified to the loving esteem of many and included wreaths from the Women's Institute, the Arts and Crafts Club, the Modern Priscilla Art Club, Athlon Lodge, No. 39, I. O. O. F. The remains were laid to rest at Hillaton.

YOUR DIGNITY

If you would be dignified be natural, be kind, be sincere. Never forget the respect due to all human beings, including yourself.

Let your manner imply that mutual respect is recognized as the only possible ground for business dealings, as for more personal relationships. If someone else forgets this, the reason is greater for your remembering it.

Never allow your manner to suggest that you expect deference, on the one hand, or patronage on the other.

Force and fineness of character constitute the only dignity. Nothing hurts dignity so much as thinking about it.

There is almost no limit to the uses to which bright shades of wool can be put in this day and generation; which seems to have a flare for making things of yarn or trimming them with it, and Canadian wools adopt themselves well to a pretty fashion especially popular in the Dominion.

Fashion has many pretty whimsicalities and practicalities, which call for the employment of yarn, and among the later is the lumberjack's jacket, should you be a young person addicted to out-of-door autumnal sports and of sufficiently romantic turn of mind to want to borrow your costume from the most picturesque of our native costumes.

The lumberjack coat is made of two colors of yarn in block design and so simple to make that anyone who has ever knit a sock can make one if she follows the instructions carefully. It is knitted in a plain stocking stitch. This is one of the most comfortable of all the tribe of sweaters coats, buttoning close up under the chin right down the centre front and has two commodious breast pockets.

In these days of matching accessories, there should be a cap or toque with it, knitted in the same colors, with a turned back band or cuff and on top a big, soft woolly pom-pom. For skating or snowshoeing, a sash would be very nice, but not essential. Gloves or mitts and

LUMBERJACK'S COAT IS WINTER FASHION

There is almost no limit to the uses to which bright shades of wool can be put in this day and generation; which seems to have a flare for making things of yarn or trimming them with it, and Canadian wools adopt themselves well to a pretty fashion especially popular in the Dominion.

Fashion has many pretty whimsicalities and practicalities, which call for the employment of yarn, and among the later is the lumberjack's jacket, should you be a young person addicted to out-of-door autumnal sports and of sufficiently romantic turn of mind to want to borrow your costume from the most picturesque of our native costumes.

It is knitted in a plain stocking stitch. This is one of the most comfortable of all the tribe of sweaters coats, buttoning close up under the chin right down the centre front and has two commodious breast pockets.

In these days of matching accessories, there should be a cap or toque with it, knitted in the same colors, with a turned back band or cuff and on top a big, soft woolly pom-pom. For skating or snowshoeing, a sash would be very nice, but not essential. Gloves or mitts and stockings should be knitted of the same colors, but if you prefer, your cap and gloves or mitts might be knitted of brushed wool. This ensemble should be worn with a cloth skirt, or solid color with a kick pleat in the front and at the sides.

Scarves give it a chic and cosy appearance that it is no wonder they are so popular and one of the joys of the wardrobe. The indications are that they will be worn more than ever, this autumn and some of the prettiest are knitted of a yarn so soft and fine that they remind one of a cobweb. These are worn under a coat or thrown over the shoulders with an evening dress. Some are lovely in rainbow tints and others are one color in the centre, sombre tinted towards the fringed ends.

Bags are closely allied to scarves, for they often match. One particularly interesting kind is made on a canvas foundation and worked in wool in a Florentine design. The wool is usually shaded and two sets of colors are used—say brown shaded from dark to light and terra cotta, shaded from dark to light. These bags are about twelve inches by thirteen inches with top handles worked with the wool. Some shops sell the canvas with a sample of the pattern worked.

Canadian women have apparently a special gift for this branch of the handicrafts, and produce some very beautiful work. In fact there are few Canadians who admit being unable to use knitting needles.

Radium Hot Springs In The Rockies

Radium Hot Springs near the Sinclair Canyon on the Banff-Windermere Highway, operated by the government in connection with which a bungalow camp has been erected by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Inset and lower left—Radium swimming Pool operated by Mr. Heap Holland on the government road from Lake Windermere to Cranbrook. It has a maximum temperature of 120 degrees and Mr. Holland intends to make it an all-year resort.

Sixty-four years ago, when Sir George Simpson was making the first overland tour around the world, he came across some hot springs on the western slopes of the Rocky Mountains which the local Kootenay Indians frequented on account of their curative properties.

As the white settlers came in after the Wild Horse Creek Gold Rush, these came to be called The Fairmont Hot Springs, and became a well known landmark on the Government road from Lake Windermere to Cranbrook. In 1912 an English rancher, Mr. Heap Holland, purchased them and erected bathing facilities, and two years ago made extensive improvements in connection with his development of a bungalow camp. The waters on analysis proved to contain a higher percentage of radium in solution than any other Springs on the American Continent, higher even than those at Arkansas, in addition to valuable curative deposits of magnesium and lime. The Canadian Pacific Railway had obtained right of way through his property in consideration of calling their station Radium, and these Radium Hot Springs now attract many visitors, the camp having a capacity for seventy persons.

A special bath is now being constructed for the Indians, under the superintendence of Louis Arbel, the Kootenay Chief, while the white folk have a spacious swimming pool surrounded by scrupulously clean dressing rooms. There is a tennis court and horses with guides are available for riding the neighboring trails, while large numbers of automobilists visit the Springs during the summer months. Mr. Heap Holland has the intention of making this an all-year resort, as the waters have a temperature of 120° and never freeze.

The only fly in the ointment is that the Government operates rival hot Springs on the Banff-Windermere Road, which are also called Radium Hot Springs, this being the post office address. These Springs are also highly curative, and have also a neighboring bungalow camp which was erected by the Canadian Pacific Railway, and is operated very successfully by the Misses Armstrong. The Government Hot Springs were for many years known as the Sinclair Hot Springs, being named after James Sinclair, an old time pioneer, who is the first known white man to have crossed the Sinclair Pass in 1842. The virtues of these Springs were known not only to the Indians but to the animals, and it is credibly reported that in the old days bears used to bathe their paws in the waters to secure relief from rheumatism. While there is a natural confusion through the duplication of names, both resorts are rapidly increasing in popularity, chiefly owing to the increase in automobile traffic through the Rockies.

Good Reasons For Using The Long Distance Telephone

Why is it that so many Business Men are soliciting out-of-town Orders by Long Distance Telephone?

For the simple reason that the less it costs to get an Order, the more profit there is in it.

And they know that the cost of a Long Distance Telephone Call is the veriest trifle compared with the cost of a railway journey to the same spot—to say nothing of the valuable time saved.

By ROBERT STEAD

"That's so," she said, looking at him curiously, as though she were examining some kind of specimen. Then, after a pause, "That's so. Perhaps I see it quite straight, thinkin' so much o' Minnie. You don't know her, of course. Well, she's my daughter—only daughter, twenty-one in June, I set a heap by her. When I was a young'un, all day an' all night 'round half the night with squawlin' babies, I use to say, 'Wait till Minnie grows up.' Minnie was the youngest, Hamilton, an' she was my only girl, an' I sort o' set an extra store on her, as you might say. I suppose mother had a sort o' sympathy for their girls, but they don't have for their boys; they know what's ahead o' 'em. Well, I use to keep up those times with promisin' myself that when Minnie grew up, her an' me'd sort o' hit it off together. But would she stay on the farm? Not for the soul o' sake o' her. She's a lawyer's office in Plainville—though they have to write about so much o' Plainville beats me—an' I'm still beginnin' the pots an' pans."

Something suspiciously like moisture gathered in the old woman's eyes and she reached for the corner of her handkerchief. "Land's sake, you're long here!" she suddenly exclaimed. "The boys'll be wantin' your help with the beans, though if you're just from the city I reckon they won't be missin' much, but you may as well jump in at once, an' get your feet wet. Away they say, an' they waded them out of the house."

"It's not that she wanted to hurry off to work," Cal summed it up to himself. "She had shown a little more of her heart than she intended—to a stranger. And not a bad heart at that, I'm mistaken."

I wonder about this Minnie."

Jackson Stake met him in the yard, can you handle horses?" he demanded. "I've driven a team," Cal answered, calling a week end when he had taken the reins of two downhearted nags placed at his disposal. But a fine air of confidence was bubbling within him. It was the climate, the air, the sunshine, the big spaces, the big roads, the big meal, or something. Perhaps Jimmie. At any rate he was beginning to understand why the only thing a stranger feels apologetic about is having to apologize for anything. "Sure, I can drive a team," he asserted. "You should, at forty dollars a month," the farmer remarked drily. "But I expect what you have in mind is an arario team. Two horse. A team here four horses—sometimes six. Can you drive four horses?"

"I never have," Cal confessed. "Well, it don't come without learnin'. It takes a bit of education to run a team—you'll find that, an' you may as well start at the bottom. Suppose you, along with Gander this afternoon, keep your eyes an' ears open. I'll show you tomorrow how drunk I was when I hired you."

Something about the twinkle in the old man's eyes set Cal wondering, just which had been playing with the other, perhaps Jackson Stake really wanted the other man and had dropped into his play on purpose. Well—Gander's four horses were lined up in a company on Parade, and Gander was busy snapping the reins to the boys and affectionately cuffing the muzzles curled up at him as he went by. "Will you show me how to do that?" he asked. "Let me get the system of it in my head. I'll savvy if you give me a chance."

Gander turned a not unfriendly look on him. "Not you're shottin'," he said. "It's easy; see—"

Oh, I dunno. His name's Fraser Fyfe, so we cut it down to Double F. School teacher here, Annie Frolic—you'll be goin' to her, Reed, once you get settled—says it means very loud, but I don't see no connection. Ham's a bit soft on Double F's daughter Elsie; that's what Grit was kiddin' him about at noon, you remember, when he was washin'. Nice girl, though. Her an' Minnie use to be back an' forth a lot, Ham's name in Hamilton, of course, but he jus' gets Ham, excep' from Mother. 'Hamburger Stake,' we call him sometimes, for fun. An' Grit, I guess that's his real name; dunno; sometimes I call 'im Dinty Moore. Looks a bit like 'im, I'll say."

Cal felt a delicacy about asking an explanation of Gander's own appellation, and Gander offered none, evidently quite overlooking the need of it. It was not entirely associated with his lean, flexible neck. When he was a boy of fourteen or fifteen years, his voice, in going through those contortions peculiar to the voices of boys of about that age, had shown a tendency to break out in a goose-like honk. To Gander's great embarrassment these honks would come at the most inopportune moments and wholly without notice, so that the most casual statement, begun in a tame and respectable note, ended in something suggestive of a wild goose piping to its mate. Some stuck it had stuck so long and so well that he had almost forgotten he had a christened name, William, perfectly good and only slightly used.

They had passed out of the lane into an unfenced field. Directly before them, with its tongue deep in the damp soil, Cal supposed to be the seeder. It resembled a long trough with a cart wheel at either end, a quantity of short lengths of garden hose suspended underneath, and a series of steel discs resting on the ground. Gander dexterously swung his two "off" horses across the tongue, then he was at their heads, hitching the neck-yoke; then he was at their heels, hitching the traces, while Cal dog-trotted about after him, arriving at each scene of operations just after Gander had finished.

Gander carried the reins around behind the implement and started his team with a word, and Cal and Reed followed, watching the operations with great interest. The discs began to turn, scooping little, narrow trenches in the soil; into these trenches, through the rubber hose, kernels of oats began to fall, and to be immediately buried by a series of short chains dragging behind. It was very interesting. Presently Reed discovered, at the top of the hose, a little machine, grinding the kernels down from the trough, almost as though it were counting them. It was tremendously interesting.

"The field was a mile long, and it was accomplished without a word, save Gander's voice occasionally raised in admonition of his horses. The heat of the sun was tempered with a cool breeze which caught up particles of dust from the machine, so that it seemed to be trailing a miniature, low-hanging cloud. At the end of the field the horses turned, almost of their own accord, and Gander stopped them with a tension on the reins.

"Nothin' to it," he remarked; "nothin' to it. Old Jim here knows the job as well as I do. All you got to do is watch that you're almost touchin' your rear wheel, without overlappin' it. If you overlap it's a waste o' seed an' time; if you don't touch it means a strip not sowed. Nobody'll know about it now, but the whole neighborhood 'll know in a month from now, when the crop comes up, an' they'll say to me, 'Gander, you must o' been borie-eyed when you sowed your oats.' An' I'll have to say, 'Not me. It was that D.D. of ours, his education havin' been neglected in his youth.' Try it," and he thrust the reins into Cal's hand. "Watch your main wheel there; it should run right in the track we made comin' down, an' "

All the new hats are small and close-fitting. They must fit the head snugly, as the three models shown here. The upper hat is of dark green velvet. There are rows and rows of bias stitching for trimming, and a tiny bow of the velvet at the back.

The middle hat is of rose velour. The brim rolls up at the front, and at the back there is a stiff bow of the velour which slips through a slit in the crown of the hat.

The lower hat is a small black felt affair, with two black quills dipping from back to front.

keep an eye now an' again that the grain is workin' through all the tubes; sometimes they get plugged up. Go to it!"

And so the day went on. By four in the afternoon Reed tired of following the seeder up and down as, like a mighty shuttle, it wove a web a mile wide from fringe to fringe, and went back to the farmyard, where he interested himself in a long and critical inspection of the old fanning mill. About the same time Gander pronounced his commendation upon Cal. "You're doin' O. K.," he said. "Take a round by yourself an' lend me some tobacco."

Cal handed over his pouch, and pressed on in high spirits. It was plain that his adaptability had made an impression upon Gander. "Funny world," he mused to himself, as he thought of Gander. "Not a bad scout, though, and that D.D. talk of his is just fun. Still, it's plain he thinks himself the best man of the two." And, damn it, he is—that's the joke of it. Well, he won't be, before long. I'll pick this up in no time. Oh boy, feel that air! I know I'm going to have lungs like a bellows before fall."

Tired, hungry, happy, Cal turned with his team to the farm-yard at the close of the day. Mrs. Stake could not pile his plate too high at supper, and when the chores were done, he and Reed were ready for bed.

"No story tonight, Reed," he said. "Too big a day, and too much to think about. Say your verse and let us roll in." And Reed, climbing on his knee for a good-night caress, said, "Get, but it's great to be a farmer. When I grow up I'm going to be a farmer, with a lot of big horses, and a granary, and a fanning mill, and everything."

Presently, up from the cushions of the old Ford came the measured breathing of two tired farmers sleeping the sleep of labor and contentment, while the last red rays of sunset faded out of the west and the still hush of night settled over the fields and prairies.

humped over the flock of Jim, the big bay, with whom he already had struck up something of a friendship, Jackson Stake entered the stable. He observed the currying process for a moment or two with apparent satisfaction.

"Good enough," he remarked, when Cal straightened up. "You know, Beach, a horse—any horse worth while—is as vain as a woman. You can make a hit with old Jim jus' combin' his mane an' fetlocks an' sayin', 'Jim, old boy, you're lookin' your best th' smornin'. Where's the lad?'"

"Not up yet. All in last night, so I let him sleep."

"Sure. That's good for him. The missus was askin'. Seems to have taken kind of a shine to him. You know, we lost a boy, as you might say, an' a woman never gets over that kind o' thing."

"I'm sorry," Cal said simply, while Jackson Stake masked his features by worrying a plug of chewing tobacco. Something in his face suggested that the old man himself had not quite got over "that kind o' thing."

"Yep. She sent me out to say that maybe the boy—what is it you call him? Reed, is it? Family name, I sup-

PORT WILLIAMS AND VICINITY

Miss Mary Vaughan left last week for Cape Breton, where she has been appointed on the staff of the New Waterford hospital as dietitian.

Mrs. E. M. Beckwith, of Canning, has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. Rufus Starr, Starr's Point.

Mr. A. F. Doll, of Belcher Street, has sold his place to Mr. Fred Schofield and intends returning to England to live.

Miss Blackburn, of Milford, was the guest last week of her friend, Mrs. W. H. Graves.

Rev. O. N. Chipman left on Friday for Toronto, where he will attend the annual meeting of the Baptist Foreign and Home Mission Board of Canada.

Mrs. Mary Harris, who has been spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Neal Couston, arrived home this week from Yarmouth, where she underwent a cataract operation of removing a cataract from the eye.

Misses Virginia MacLean and Hatfield, of Wolfville, were guests for the week end with their classmate at Acadia University, Miss Mary Chase.

Mrs. Fred Jackson, of Town Plot, spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Margeson, at Berwick.

Mr. Elbert Congdon, of Church Street, is spending the week in Halifax.

Rev. Gordon Brown, rector of St. John's (Episcopal), Church Street, preached his farewell sermon on Sunday last and left with his family for his new parish, Port Dufferin, Halifax county, on Wednesday.

Mr. Malcolm Turner, the champion apple picker of Kings, returned to his home at Lake Ramsay and will shortly leave for Truro to enter the Agricultural College for the winter.

Dr. Margaret Chase, who has been doing hospital work in Philadelphia has now accepted a position in Bellevue hospital, New York.

The Halloween social, under the auspices of the Women's Institute, was held in Citizens' Hall on Friday evening.

Two elections took place here within the week. On Thursday at the Dominion election Mr. Robinson, Liberal, led the polls with a majority of 102.

gazed around the doors. Whichever side was responsible for furnishing the liquor acted contemptibly, especially if the motive was to get men in a condition unable to poll a vote.

Hallowe'en was celebrated on Friday afternoon by the Primary Department of the school in quite a unique manner.

The children were "At Home" to parents and friends from 1:30 to 3 p.m. The room, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion, was lighted only by Jack-o'-lanterns.

The following program was carried out, very effectively: Flag salute—Whole school. Motion song, "Our Flag"—School.

At the close of the teacher treated the children to chocolate fudge, which they heartily enjoyed. Much credit was reflected on Miss Wilson's work in the careful training and whole presenting of the afternoon's program.

The day of the Dominion election passed off here in interesting but quiet excitement, and as in the local election of June 25th our majority was for Conservatives, a large majority.

Congratulations to Edythe Forsythe, our youngest Grade IX pupil at the High School in Wolfville last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Shaffner, of Alberta, arrived on Friday and are guests at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. T. Andrew Pearson, for a time.

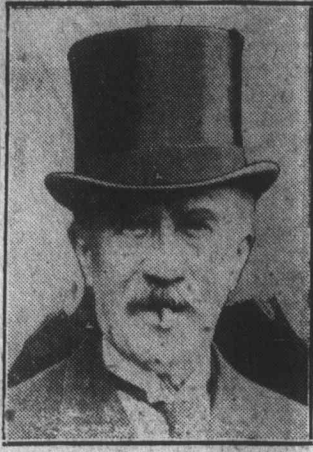

Mr. Thomas Winter, Church Street, is attending the Winter Fair at Amherst.

the two former being hostesses. It was a typical Hallowe'en party, given for the pupils of the S. S.; also those in the day school were invited who did not attend any other S. S., and five or six "grown-up" guests.

The two long tables were indeed lovely in their decorations and fancy cookies, delicious fruit salad in dark red apples, hollowed out, real Hallowe'en napkins prettily folded put into each cup.

The junior choir supplied the music for the church service here on Sunday afternoon, and Dr. Hemmon's address to them was interesting and helpful to old and young.

Congratulations to our newest residents, Mr. and Mrs. Scott, upon the arrival of their first child, a daughter, on Sunday, Sept. 1st.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Johnson and two little boys accompanied by Mr. Philip Bishop, left early Sunday morning for River Hebert, Cumberland county.

Mr. Dexter Forsythe is thus far having a busy season at his apple evaporator here. So many apples were blown off the trees at the time of the heavy gales of wind, the farmers have been hauling them to him, thus keeping the evaporator well supplied and giving work to a good number.

CHARLES G. D. ROBERTS

Charles G. D. Roberts is coming to Wolfville. He will come to us in his own character of poet, one of the older poets of the Dominion.

To comment on this well known poet or his work is superfluous, perhaps impertinent. He has celebrated the beauty of the Land of Evangeline, of the Gasperaux Valley, of the Tantramar Marshes, as no other poet has done, unless it be Bliss Carman, and he has thus called the attention of many to our Province by the sea.

Surely sufficient has been said that we may expect the people of Wolfville and vicinity, young and old, will flock to University Hall on the evening our poet will be there.

Sir James Lougheed, Conservative leader in the Senate since 1906, died at his home at Ottawa on Monday.
