"HALCYONE," by Elinor Glyn,

Author of The Reason Why, The Visits of Elizabeth, Reflections of Ambrosine, Regond the Rocks, His Hour, etc. Paper, 50c. Cloth, 75c.

Much of the action of Mrs. Glyn's new novel takes place in a beautiful park in England. The story opens when the heroine, a lively child of twelve, is living with her two great aunts in the old castle. One day Halcyone sees smoke coming out of the little house that had been the land steward's, creeps through the park paling and finds an old Oxford scholar there. They make friends, and during the following summer he teaches her Greek and mythology, and talks with her in such a way that he really gives her an education. She has found in the castle the broken bust of a goddess, who seems to her to represent love, and this goddess plays an important part all through her life. When she is about fifteen she meets John Derringham, handsome, splendid, but supremely selfish. Meanwhile Halcyone is developing into a finished product of Greek life and thought. To Halcyone Derringham represents Jason, Perseus and all the other Greek heroes, and quite unknowingly she falls in love with him. The day is Derringham's kingdom, the night is hers. He plans to run off with her and marry her secretly. On the way to the trust he breaks his ankle, and soon after she is carried off to Europe by her old friend, the professor. Derringham is nursed back to life by a rich widow, who becomes engaged to him, but who subsequently throws him over when she finds that he is going to be lame. Derringham hastens to Greece, catches Halcyone in the temple of her goddess, and after another beautiful scene all ends well. Paper, 50c. Cloth, 75c. Postpaid on receipt of remittance with order.

The Snake Scotched Justice Done.

CHAPTER IX.

"No, not now. I'm suffering most from hunger," she replied, with a smile.

He looked round eagerly but helplessly.

"There's nothing but bread and cheese," he said.

"Yes; give me some please," she said.

He sprang to the cupboard and brought some to her.

"I'd make you a cup of tea, but there wouldn't be time—What a confounded time the carriage is—"

"Oh, tea and cheese! They wouldn't go well together, would they?" she remarked, with a little grimace as she took the plate.

He saw that she found it awkward to hold it, and took it from her.

"I'll hold it," he said. "I wish there was something better."

"Oh, don't apologise," she said. "I've known the time when bread and cheese would have seemed a feast of luxury."

Her novel humility stirred him to the depths.

"Why did you tell me that—that you were once poor?" he asked, impulsively.

She raised her eyes—they were very near his as he bent forward with the plate in his hand—and smiled pensively.

"I—don't quite know. Perhaps I did not like you—anyone—to think that I was proud, proud of my birth and wealth. Perhaps it was because—"

"Oh, I don't know! How nice this is! Though it's rather difficult eating in this position—"

She made as if to raise herself higher on the hard horsehair cushion, and Ralph set down the plate quickly, and putting his arm round her helped her into the desired attitude.

"Thanks," she said, softly. "You are very strong—I want to tell you that I am sorry I was rude to you yesterday." Her eyes were raised to his for a moment, then were downcast again.

The transition was so sudden, the glance of the violet eyes so heart-thrilling, that Ralph caught his breath.

"You—rude—" he stammered.

"Yes," she said, almost meekly, as she nibbled daintily at the bread and cheese, and looked at him with half-lowered lids. "I don't know what possessed me. I suppose it was temper. All women are bad-tempered, you know."

"No, no," he remonstrated with an almost indignant denial. "Not all! You—"

"I am; very," she said, demurely. "I always was. Pride and ill temper go together, you know—How thirsty bread and cheese make one!"

He sprang to the cupboard.

"There's some beer—" he said, doubtfully.

"Water, please," she returned, smoothly. "Oh, thank you! But it was ungrateful as well as ill-tempered after all your kindness."

Ralph's face went the colour of brick-dust.

"I—be your pardon," he stammered.

mered. "I didn't think for the moment—I only thought—blood-poisoning, you know—it's very dangerous—But great liberty—"

"Yes," she said, with a gleam in her eyes whose rays seemed to warm Ralph's heart. "It reminds me of the courtier who nearly led the King of Spain burn to death because it was not etiquette to tell him that his coat had caught alight at the fire before which his majesty was standing."

Ralph laughed, but it was a shaky laugh.

"And you ran some risk," she said, in a low voice.

"Oh, no," he said, promptly; "not a bit. And if I had—"

He checked himself and glanced through the window; but Veronica rested her head more comfortably as if she did not share his impatience.

"And what did Mr. Talbot Denby say to make you so angry?" she asked, as smoothly as before.

Ralph coloured. "Oh, I don't know. He was rather trying—Then you saw us?" he broke off, penitently. "I'm sorry!"

"You should endeavour to control your temper," said Veronica, with sweet severity.

"That's so," responded Ralph, with a meekness which would have astonished and gratified Talbot Denby.

"And did you take the trout to Mrs. Mason?" asked Veronica, after a pause.

Ralph nodded, his brow clearing at the change to a subject free from embarrassment.

"Yes, and she was very much obliged."

"Very pretty girl, her daughter," remarked Veronica, soft as butter.

"Yes, oh, yes!" agreed Ralph, with the slightest enthusiasm.

"You don't think so?" she said, with wide-open eyes of surprise.

"Yes, oh, yes—at least, I haven't thought—oh, yes, I suppose she's pretty! To tell you the truth, I haven't noticed her particularly."

A smile—was it of satisfaction?—curved the beautiful lips and shone softly in the lovely eyes, but she said, as if disappointed with him:

"I don't think you have very good taste."

"Perhaps not," he admitted. "I don't admire that kind of face, I suppose."

"Really! And yet it is a very favourite one: fair, good complexion, with almost golden hair—"

"Yes, I know," he admitted, absently.

"What type do you admire?" she asked, with an affectation of casualness and indifference which a woman would have detected in a moment, but which was lost on Ralph, who, of course, promptly fell into the snare.

"I like a girl with soft, dark hair, and grey eyes, violet eyes, and rather a pale face—what do you call it?—old ivory, and long lashes—"

He was gazing before him as if lost in the effort to word his mental picture, and did not see the colour that grew and grew in the "pale face of old ivory," or the smile that played about the beautiful lips.

"Oh, that's a very common type," she said, contemptuously, but with a subtle sweetness in her voice.

Ralph started from his reverie and got up awkwardly.

"I hear the carriage," he said. "They can't drive up to the door, I'm afraid—" ness and no longer self-possessed, looking at her with a half-fearful embarrassment which, of course, restored her to her usual calm.

He held out his arm, and, putting her hand on it, she hopped to the door, where her maid, Goodwin, met her, exclaiming in agonised accents:

"Oh, Miss Veronica!"

"Oh, it's all right," said Veronica. "Don't make a fuss—"

"Take care! You'll strike your foot—you can't hop into the carriage!" cried Ralph, warningly.

"I can't fly in!" she retorted, pettishly. "Help me, please!"

There was only one way of helping her; and, lifting her in his strong arms once more, he lifted her in. Veronica sank back slowly, looking at him through her long lashes.

"Thank you very much," she said, in a low voice.

Ralph drew back, feeling dazed and bewildered by the novel emotion and sensation which were throbbing within him.

"Drive slowly!" he said, hoarsely, but in a tone of command that would have been suitable to the earl himself. Instinctively the coachman's hand went up to his hat, and he only checked himself in time.

Ralph gazed after the carriage for a moment or two, then drawing his hand across his brow as if to wipe away the mist that hung about his brain, he went into the hut.

A small, dark object lay on the floor beside the couch. It was Veronica's handkerchief. He picked it up and opening it, gazing at it vacantly, then he raised it to his lips.

The touch of the cold, wet cambric brought him back to his senses.

"Oh, I'm mad!" he exclaimed, with a harsh laugh, and he flung the handkerchief away from him.

But it seemed to reproach him mutely from where it lay, and presently, after he had paced up and down glancing at it each time, he picked it up and thrust it impatiently in his breast pocket.

CHAPTER XI.

With the assistance of Goodwin, who was much more hurried and upset than her mistress, Veronica hobbled to her room. The doctor had already been sent for, and he hurried, and by the time she had exchanged her habit for one of the loose and costly robes which fit peaches ladies to call a dressing gown, he arrived.

Lord Lynborough came up with him and, though he attempted to conceal it, exhibited a concern and anxiety which surprised and touched Veronica.

"Why were you without a groom?" he asked, severely. "Are you in much pain? Isn't the foot very much swollen? Are you sure it's only a sprain?"

"I sent Brown back," said Veronica, almost humbly. "There are times when it annoys me to have him pounding after me; I enjoy my ride so much more when I am alone."

"I daresay. We most of us enjoy being alone and unhampered by attendants, but—"

He shrugged his shoulders as he looked down at her with his cynical smile.

"It is only a sprain; there is nothing broken, I am rejoiced to find," said the old-fashioned doctor in his courtly way. "It was very wise of you to have the boot removed."

"It was not I who thought of it, but Ralph Farrington, the gamekeeper," she said, reluctantly, as if she could not withhold from him his due. "It

Gorging Is Suicide

In these words a prominent graduate of Harvard Medical School, E. R. Moras, M.D., calls attention to the habit of "overeating," which is resulting in the shortening of so many useful lives.

Every day you read of deaths of persons in middle life caused by acute indigestion, peritonitis, appendicitis or Bright's disease. All of which result from overcrowding the digestive organs.

The liver gets sluggish, the bowels become constipated, and the whole system is poisoned by the fermenting waste matter.

You can overcome this poisoned condition by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Then turn over a new leaf and eat less, particularly of meats, pastry and highly-seasoned foods. One kidney-liver pill occasionally at bedtime will keep the liver and bowels active and insure the healthful working of the organs of digestion. One pill a dose, 25c a box. was he who caught the mare, and car—took me to the hut and sent for the carriage and—"

Lord Lynborough frowned.

"It seems to me that this young man is very much in evidence. But I suppose you rewarded him? If not, I will send for him—"

"Oh, no, no!" sprang from her lips hastily; "please don't do anything of the sort—I mean—the colour came to her face—I mean that he would not like it."

"Ah, yes; I remember he refused the sovereign I offered him the other day," remarked the earl. "A singular young man. Such pride is rather uncommon in men of his class. But I am glad he was so thoughtful, and I will send for him and thank him."

"I don't think you need do so," said Veronica, with a fine attempt at casualness. "I thanked him."

"Ah, well!" assented the earl. "But I trust this will be a lesson to you not to go out unattended for the future."

"Oh, yes, the lesson is there all right enough," said Veronica, looking down at her foot on which the doctor was skilfully putting a cold compress.

"I hope I shan't be lame long, Doctor Thorne!"

Humble Pie Usury.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

Ruth Cameron

To be usurious and to exact more than one's just debt in a money matter is legal crime.

Everyone knows that. But how many people, I wonder, realize that to exact more than one's just return in other kinds of debts is a moral crime?

I am thinking especially of the people who demand more than their due payment in coin of humble pie for offences which they have suffered.

Do you grasp my meaning?

Well then let's be concrete. Say you are fortunate enough to have a friend and your friend is unfortunate enough to have offended you. She has hastily said or done something which in her calmer moments, she admits to herself was not just right.

Now as soon as she comes to this conclusion she tacitly asks your pardon by being especially nice to you. She brings you some interesting bit of information which she thinks you will enjoy. She offers to do some little service for you. She makes a point of admiring some possession of yours. And all in vain. Under the sunshine of all her blandishments you coldly refuse to melt. You have a grievance and you will not give it up until you have your pound of humble pie.

Being human, she finds it much harder to say, "I was wrong, I am sorry," than to act it. But finally she screws her courage to the sticking point and speaks out her apology.

Gold Luten Professional Dancing Girls of North Africa.

The distinctive thing about the Ouled Nail, the professional dancing girl of North Africa, is her jewelry. She has so much of it, indeed, that there is no gold to be had in Algeria. Ask for napoleons instead of paper money at your bank and you will meet with a prompt "impossible, m'sieur."

"But why is it impossible?" you naturally inquire.

"Because we have no gold on hand, m'sieur," is the polite response.

"Where is it then?" you ask, scenting a robbery or a defalcation.

"On the Ouled Nails, m'sieur," the cashier courteously replies.

And he speaks the truth. Every centime that a dancing girl can beg, borrow or earn goes toward the purchase of massive silver jewelry, anklets, bracelets and the like, and this in turn is exchanged for gold pieces—whether French napoleons, British sovereigns or Turkish liras she is not particular—which linked together in tressled armor, clanking, clashing and shining, envelops her lithe young body from neck to hips. When her portable wealth has attained such dimensions it is usually the sign for the Ouled Nail to retire from business, going to her nomad husband with her dowry about her neck—Metropolitan Magazine.

A Naughty Little Princess.

Marie Joseph, the little six-year old daughter of the King of Belgium, has the reputation of being a terrible handful. Hardly a day passes without her falling into some new scrape, much to the delight of everybody—except her parents.

A short time ago her mother went to a picture exhibition, and left the little girl in the carriage, in charge of a nurse. A respectful crowd soon gathered round and gazed in admiration at the pretty little Princess, who responded by putting out her tongue. The crowd now began to laugh, which encouraged her to repeat the joke. The arrival of her mother put a stop to the crowd's hilarity, but not before an amateur photographer had snapped the scene.

It was probably her dislike for lessons that prompted her to put gum inside the hat of her brother's tutor, who wears a wig to disguise "the thinness of the thach." When he took off his hat to someone in the street he felt something of a draught, for the wig came too.

The royal family recently entertained a few distinguished visitors who were naturally anxious to see the little princesses and her brothers. Prince Leopold brought his violin and played charmingly. Prince Charles showed his exercise books and everybody congratulated him on his progress. He had made in French and German. It was now Princess Marie Joseph's turn. Not to be outdone by her brothers, she marched into the centre of the room, and gravely turned head over heels.

Confessed That He Killed Little Girl.

Bangor, Maine, August 6.—A confession that he murdered Naomi Mitchell, a fourteen-year-old girl at North Carmel on the night of July 24, was made to Sheriff T. Herbert White in the presence of witnesses this afternoon by G. Sherman Gray, who earlier in the day was bound over to the Grand Jury on the charge of murder.

Gray told his story with no apparent emotion. He said he had enticed the girl into the woods and attempted to assault her. When she resisted, he tied her hands behind her back and cut her throat with his jack knife. Gray said that he wanted to kill himself afterwards, but did not know how to do it. He said he did not realize what he had done until later, and intended to go back to Carmel, and give himself up as soon as the matter had quietened down a little. Gray declared he wanted to be confined in an insane asylum, and desired to tell the whole truth and get as light a sentence as possible.

Bad Motor Smash up.

From Magistrate Scott who returned from Exploits on Thursday, we learn that Manuel's new motor boat, equipped with a 40 h.p. Gideon kerosene motor sustained severe damage to one cylinder blowing it to pieces.

The boat had left Exploits for White Bay with salt as a good bit of fish was reported there but salt scarce.

About half way across the bay the engine room hands had come on deck for a breath of air when suddenly an explosion occurred below, the engine stopped immediately. One cylinder was badly damaged and for some time no move could be got out of the other.

There was no wind and the boat was drifting ashore. Finally one cylinder was got going, and she limped back to Exploits at about three knots arriving there long after dark.

The loss occasioned will be great as the boat will have to lie up until a new cylinder can be imported from Denmark.—Fwilligate Sun.

Identifying Himself.

An old darkey was summoned before the judge for stealing a chicken. He was on hand early, and, before the case was called, the judge, observing his presence, asked his name.

"My name is Johnsing, yo' honah," said the darkey.

"Are you the defendant in this case?" inquired the judge.

"No, sah," replied the darkey. "I see got a awyer to do my defendin'; I see the gentleman what stole de chicken."

HOW BLOOD IS MADE.

The liquids and the digested foods in the alimentary canal pass through the wall of the canal into the blood. This process is called absorption and takes place chiefly from the small intestine. After absorption the blood carries the food through the body, and each cell takes from the blood the food it needs. A pure glyceric extract made from bloodroot, mandrake, stone, queen's root and golden seal root, and sold by druggists for the past forty years under the name of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, gives uniformly excellent results as a tonic to help in the assimilation of the food and in the absorption by the blood of the food it requires. Eradicates the poisons from the blood with this alterative extract which does not shrink the white blood corpuscles, because containing no alcohol or other injurious ingredients. Thus the body and blood are built up and made strong to resist disease. This is a tonic taken from Nature's garden that builds up those weakened by disease. Sold by druggists everywhere. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

MR. CHAS. FAEBER, JR., of 382 Woodlawn Ave., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "I was troubled with my stomach for almost three years. Tried several doctors and most everything anybody recommended to me, but kept getting worse. The stomach, vomiting, constipation, could not never well even though, at times, I had no pain. My symptoms were as follows: Always tired, my whole body in a throbbing, itching, pain, and soreness in the stomach, vomiting, constipation, could not tell what to eat or what would agree with me, and was melancholy. But after taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with the Pleasant Pellets it has made me a well man which is something to live for."

Fads and Fashions.

Stripes are to have another successful season.

Maggie effects promise well in Shetland veils.

Flame color is seen in some of the new evening gowns.

Oriental embroideries are seen on the fashionable vests.

Taupe is more and more popular as the season advances.

The sun-pleated skirt is one of the revivals of fashion.

Ribbon with a picot edge appears on some of the new hats.

Corduroy competes with felt in children's millinery for fall.

Half and whole belts are being used to a great extent on suits.

Steel beads are now combined with white pearls for trimmings.

Boudoir slippers of brocade are made to match brocade tea gowns.

Plain gored skirts are much liked for practical and inexpensive suits.

Fashionable skirts have accordion or side pleating set upon a deep yoke.

Many of the new suit coats have a little fullness shirred into the belt.

Late summer hats in fine tulle have bands and draperies of miline lace.

One occasionally sees colored linen sashes worn over white wool skirts.

Carved crystals set with diamonds have been lately introduced in jewelry.

Soft faille silks will be used again this fall for combinations and garnitures.

Satin crepes are as great favorites as satin charmeuse for day and evening gowns.

Very large and very small shapes are the two extremes likely to inspire winter millinery.

There is a tendency toward the adoption of silks or satins with small jacquard figures.

Fur crowns are seen on some of the new half-season hats. Such hats are usually large.

We may expect to see winter mantles of white-plush, white ribbed velvet and ermine.

Some women are wearing outdoor shoes of black satin. They have solid heels and fairly thick soles.

Creamy net, finely pleated, is often used for collars and turn-back sleeves.

An Inveterate Funster.

"You have no business in that boat," said Theodore Hook one day to a stout man seated in a little craft on the Thames. "What do you mean?" said the man angrily. "Exactly what I say," retorted Hook. "You have no business in that boat." Then perhaps it may interest you to know," said the stout man still more angrily, "that this is my own pleasure boat." "Exactly," said the inveterate punster, "a pleasure boat. That is just what I said. You have no business in that boat." And before the man in the boat had recovered from his astonishment Hook had strolled away.

A Burns Relic.

The discovery of a hitherto unknown poem of Burns is an event of great interest in more than literary circles, for the poet was the most remarkable singer of the people, the closest to the popular heart that ever appeared in any country or among any race. The occasion of the poem was this: A nobleman, filled with curiosity to see this extraordinary peasant, invited him to his house, and at dinner time sent him to the servants' quarters to dine. Burns had no objections to this company at dinner, but when the Lord sent for him to come up to his drawing-room to amuse himself and his titled guests, the bard felt justly offended. He sat down, wrote a poem, took it upstairs to His Lordship, turned on his heel and walked out without a word. Mrs. John Moffatt, of St. Andrew's, has given the poem to the public, it having been copied from the original by her grandfather, Mr. Edward Sanderson, a hundred years ago. Such is the history given here are the verses:

"My lord, I would not fill your chair,
Tho' ye proudest noble's heir,
I came this night to join your feast
As equal of the best at least;
'Tis true that cash with me is scant,
And titles, trifles that I want.
The king has never made me kneel
To stamp my manhood with his seal.
But what of that? The King on High
Who took less pains with you than I,
Has filled my bosom and my mind
With something better in its kind
Than your broad acres, something
Which I cannot well translate to speech.
But by its impulse I can know
'Tis deeds, not birth, that make men low.
Your rank, my lord, is but a loan!
But mine, thank Heaven is all my own.
A peasant, 'tis my pride to be;
Look round and round your hall, and see
Who boasts a higher pedigree?
I was not fit, it seems, to dine
With those fox-hunting heroes fine;
But only come to handly jests
Among your lordship's hopeful guests.
There must be here some sad mistake—
I would not play for such a stake,
Be a buffoon for drink and meat,
And a poor earl's taxpaid seat;
No, die, my heart, ere such a shame
Descend on Robert Burns' name.
The lines certainly have a Burnsian vigor and biting directness, but it was the poet's usual habit when in a bitter humour to write in his own "braid Scotch," not in English as the above.

It was probably her dislike for lessons that prompted her to put gum inside the hat of her brother's tutor, who wears a wig to disguise "the thinness of the thach." When he took off his hat to someone in the street he felt something of a draught, for the wig came too.

The royal family recently entertained a few distinguished visitors who were naturally anxious to see the little princesses and her brothers. Prince Leopold brought his violin and played charmingly. Prince Charles showed his exercise books and everybody congratulated him on his progress. He had made in French and German. It was now Princess Marie Joseph's turn. Not to be outdone by her brothers, she marched into the centre of the room, and gravely turned head over heels.

Confessed That He Killed Little Girl.

Bangor, Maine, August 6.—A confession that he murdered Naomi Mitchell, a fourteen-year-old girl at North Carmel on the night of July 24, was made to Sheriff T. Herbert White in the presence of witnesses this afternoon by G. Sherman Gray, who earlier in the day was bound over to the Grand Jury on the charge of murder.

Gray told his story with no apparent emotion. He said he had enticed the girl into the woods and attempted to assault her. When she resisted, he tied her hands behind her back and cut her throat with his jack knife. Gray said that he wanted to kill himself afterwards, but did not know how to do it. He said he did not realize what he had done until later, and intended to go back to Carmel, and give himself up as soon as the matter had quietened down a little. Gray declared he wanted to be confined in an insane asylum, and desired to tell the whole truth and get as light a sentence as possible.

Bad Motor Smash up.

From Magistrate Scott who returned from Exploits on Thursday, we learn that Manuel's new motor boat, equipped with a 40 h.p. Gideon kerosene motor sustained severe damage to one cylinder blowing it to pieces.

The boat had left Exploits for White Bay with salt as a good bit of fish was reported there but salt scarce.

About half way across the bay the engine room hands had come on deck for a breath of air when suddenly an explosion occurred below, the engine stopped immediately. One cylinder was badly damaged and for some time no move could be got out of the other.

There was no wind and the boat was drifting ashore. Finally one cylinder was got going, and she limped back to Exploits at about three knots arriving there long after dark.

The loss occasioned will be great as the boat will have to lie up until a new cylinder can be imported from Denmark.—Fwilligate Sun.

Identifying Himself.

An old darkey was summoned before the judge for stealing a chicken. He was on hand early, and, before the case was called, the judge, observing his presence, asked his name.

"My name is Johnsing, yo' honah," said the darkey.

"Are you the defendant in this case?" inquired the judge.

"No, sah," replied the darkey. "I see got a awyer to do my defendin'; I see the gentleman what stole de chicken."

Sardinian Here.

AN EXCELLENT BOAT.

The R. M. S. Sardinian, Capt. J. W. Haterley, arrived in port at daylight yesterday morning. She left Liverpool on Saturday August 3rd, making an excellent passage but was detained when nearing this port by dense fog. She brought 46 packages of mail matter, 500 tons cargo and as passengers for here in saloon:—Mrs. Bennison, J. S. Bone, F. C. Bowring, C. R. Bowring, Miss M. H. Brown, E. Donald, C. P. Duprey, F. Emerson, Rev. W. H. and Mrs. Facey, W. P. Goodridge, Miss Gosling, E. Green, Rev. M. P. Hennessey, D. Hubert, Miss G. H. Job, Rev. B. and Mrs. Lenz, I. Lupini, A. Monroe, Miss F. Nightingale, A. H. Ridley, Miss M. Shea, R. Whittington and 3 in stowage. In transit for Philadelphia there are 15 in saloon and 115 in stowage.

On Saturday a concert was held in the saloon, consisting chiefly of vocal selections, which was greatly enjoyed by the passengers and added in no small amount of pleasure to the passage. A collection was taken up for the Orphans' Home in Scotland and the sum of £16 was realized.

This is the first visit of the ship to St. John's. She was engaged to replace the Pomeranian, which was considered unfit for the service. Although thirty-eight years old the Sardinian has many facilities for the comfort and convenience of passengers. She has splendid accommodation with commodious staterooms and will certainly be a good boat for the Newfoundland trade. Through the courtesy of Capt. Haterley our reporter was shown through the ship, and to say the least she is not inferior to any Allan steamer that has yet visited this port.

The ship's officers are well known in St. John's. Capt. Haterley is late of the Ontario and is no stranger here. Two years ago he was in the Pomeranian which picked up the S. S. Bangore Head in a perilous condition off the Virgin Rocks. While towing her to St. John's Harbour the hawser parted in the vicinity of Cape Spear and the derelict was afterwards captured as a prize by the S. S. Bonaventure.

Some prominent people came by the ship. Mr. W. Exshaw, who is making the round trip, is a well known wealthy Englishman.

Master F. C. Bowring and Master E. R. Bowring are the sons of Mr. F. Bowring, of Liverpool.

Miss G. H. Job also came to St. John's on a visit from the Old Country. Rev. B. Lenz, accompanied by his wife and two children, was a passenger and is going to Labrador to do missionary work.

Mr. Joseph Lupini, representing a large painting establishment in Newcastle-on-Tyne, is here on business. Mr. F. Emerson, son of Judge Emerson, who had been finishing a college course at Oxford, returned home.

The Sardinian sails for Halifax and Philadelphia to-morrow morning.

Two Cooks Drowned.

From the officers of the R. M. S. Sardinian, we learn of a double drowning fatality, under peculiar circumstances. The victims were cooks on the "Pomeranian," and the accident occurred while that ship was lying at the pier in Philadelphia. It appears that one of the men was going aboard one night and being unable to see in the dark, mistook where he was walking and fell between the steamer and the pier. His cries attracted a companion, another cook, who procured a lamp and went beneath the pier. He, too, was never seen alive afterwards. Both were doomed. The bodies were recovered the next morning.

Sagona Nearly Went Ashore.

The last trip of the Sagona to the Labrador occupied twenty two days, which is the longest on record, considering that the steamer only went as far as Cape Harrison, she had a narrow escape from going ashore. Throughout the entire passage the ship was enveloped in fog. On her way north the ship got out of her course and nearly went upon a cliff; the land was reported ahead by the 'look out' and it was only for the alertness of the captain in altering the course that an accident was avoided.

Reports here indicate that a great earthquake was felt throughout Turkey yesterday, accompanied by a heavier loss of life than at first stated. The newspapers to-day estimate that 1,000 were killed and 5,000 or 6,000 injured. Details are coming in slowly, owing to the interruption of the wires. The seismic disturbances are believed to have been widespread. Thousands are homeless, and outbreaks of fire occurred in many towns and villages, and great destruction has been caused by the upheaval.

Special Evening Telegram.
LONDON, Aug. 11.
British shipowners are indignant at the United States Senate's action respecting the Panama Canal. They admit that a big trade is waiting to be done as soon as the Canal opens, but are inclined to think that the preferential treatment to be accorded to American ships will lead traders to adhere to the old route. Representatives of prominent firms have expressed the opinion that much might happen before the Canal is open, and that protest from foreign powers might induce a change in the American policy. Editorial comments display strong feeling. The Spectator says that the Senate's decision is a violation of the clear sense of the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty, and an example of the sort of policy that the United States should studiously avoid. If the Monroe doctrine is permanently to commend itself to the peace-loving nations, it must be honoured and respected if it is to remain an instrument for peace. The Daily News says that the question of the exemption of coastwise vessels might admit an argument as to foreign vessels being allowed to engage in American coastwise trade, but that other proposed preferences would knock the bottom out of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, and certainly presents a case for arbitration. The Express says that nothing heretofore has been done or attempted under the pretences of diplomacy that has been quite so frank in its repudiation of a solemn covenant between Great Powers.

Fogota Back.

Obituary.
H. H. FRASER.
It is with feelings of profound regret that we chronicle to-day the rather sudden and unexpected demise of Mr. Hugh Hoyle Fraser, who passed to the Great Unknown yesterday afternoon at the home of his sister on Circular Road. Deceased was a son of the late J. O. Fraser, a former Postmaster General. He had a position in the Audit office of the Reid Company from its inception until three years ago when the death occurred of his uncle, the late J. McL. Fraser, whom he succeeded as manufacturer's agent. Mr. Fraser was of an exemplary character and well known and liked in the community, particularly for the witty and humorous jokes and stories which he related. Deceased was an ardent lover of trout and shooting. Besides a sister and a brother, Dr. N. S. Fraser, a large circle of relations and friends are left to mourn, to all of whom the Telegram joins in the sympathy generally expressed.

The S. S. Fogota, Capt. Baxter Barbour, arrived from the Fogot Mail Service yesterday forenoon. After leaving here the ship experienced favourable weather until she reached Catalina when dense fog was met with. Going further north strong head winds were encountered but the ship made good headway. The terminus, Change Islands, was reached on Thursday afternoon last and the Fogota left again the same night, coming south, although fog prevailed, a good run was made. She brought one half freight including a quantity of fish taken at Bonavista, and about 30 passengers. The Fogota brings very encouraging fishery news. Since last report Capt. Barbour says there is a decided improvement in the fishery north. This is particularly the case at Ower Wadhams and north of that place. Traps did exceptionally well at Twillingate, Fogot, Bonavista and the Wadhams last week. Most of the fisher folks are now waiting for squid baitings. At a few places a sign of these useful fish have struck in.

Farewell Service

Of Rev. J. Thackeray.

Yesterday farewell services were held at the Congregational Church, which bring to an end the 15 years pastorate of the Rev. J. Thackeray. At the morning service the Rev. gentleman dwelt on leadership in his sermon, taking as his text, "And he led them out as far as Bethany."

After the service, the members of the Deacons Board presented the retiring pastor with an address printed on white satin, and a handsome silver-mounted walking stick, nicely engraved. The presentation was made by Mr. James Warricker, and the address read by the Secretary of the Board, Mr. David Walker. Mr. Thackeray made a suitable reply.

ADDRESS OF DIACONATE.

To Rev. Joseph Thackeray, on the occasion of his leaving for Canada, after a pastorate of 15 years.

Reverend and Dear Sir,—The members of the Board of Deacons at present operating in Queen's Road Church, desire to tender their united and heartfelt expressions of regard and esteem on this the occasion of your leaving Newfoundland to labour in another portion of the Master's vineyard.

Most of us have been associated with you in the work of the Diaconate for several years, and all of us have been closely identified with general church work during your entire pastorate, and are, therefore, fully conscious of the many "ups and downs" in church life that have occurred during your ministry.

We are also deeply conscious of our many shortcomings, not only as members of the Diaconate, but as ordinary members of this Communion, but desire to assure you—our brother in the Master's work—of our sincere appreciation of the untiring zeal and devotion displayed by you in all matters pertaining to the spiritual and temporal uplifting of your charge in this Colony.

As members of the Diaconate, we shall miss your genial presence, guiding hand, and kindly counsel and advice at our future meetings, and whilst we deeply regret your departure from our shores, we wish to assure you of our united prayers for the temporal and spiritual welfare of yourself and family, as well as that of the Church to which you have been called, and finally, may "God be with us till we meet again."

Signed on behalf of the United Diaconate.

Yours in the work,
DAVID MARSHALL,
Secretary.

St. John's, Newfoundland,
August 11th, 1912.

EVENING SERVICE.

The evening service was largely attended, many members of other churches being present. In making the announcements of the week, Mr. Thackeray expressed his appreciation of the many kindnesses shown to him during his pastorate and the harmony which had prevailed between himself and all classes of the community. For his farewell sermon, he took for his text:—"And now, Brethren, I commend you to God and to the Word of His Grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them that are satisfied."

After the sermon, Miss MacKenzie sang the sacred solo from Gounod: "Heart that is weary."

After the regular service Mr. W. J. Barnes, Chairman of the Board of Management, presented Mr. Thackeray with an address and a purse of gold, in the name of the church and congregation, as a mark of their appreciation of his services during his pastorate. Mr. Thackeray replied and the congregation joined in singing, "God be with you till we meet again." The Benediction brought to a close the pastorate of the rev. gentleman.

ADDRESS.

To the Rev. Joseph Thackeray,
St. John's,
Reverend and Dear Sir,—

As members of the church and congregation, we cannot allow the association of so many years to come to a termination without an expression of appreciation of your work in the Church over which you have so long presided. Not only in this church, but throughout the city, and the island as well, your influence for good has been felt. In the work of Temperance and Moral Reform, the earnestness displayed by you is not alone matter of honourable record, but has been abundant in its uplifting of our people and to the individual.

Your sympathy, so generous and practical in its demonstration, has wrought happiness in many a home, where, so long as life shall remain, your name will be held in love and admiration.

In the new sphere of toil to which you go, you will carry the prayers and praise of many who during your ministry in this country, have realized that in you they have had a very true friend, and one whose heart has ever responded to the cry of the sad, the suffering and the sorrowing. That the wider life, on which you now enter, may bring to you that abounding happiness which ever increasing usefulness and the joy of achievement offer to those who devote their lives to the amelioration of humanity and human affairs, is the hope and prayer of those with whom you have been so long ministered during the past fifteen years.

As a slight token of appreciation of the valuable service to the Church rendered by you during your stay amongst us, we ask you to accept the accompanying gift, with the sincere wishes of the Church and Congregation for your future welfare.

BAND OF HOPE.

On Saturday afternoon the following address was presented to the Rev. Mr. Thackeray, from the Band of Hope. Accompanying it was a gold leather writing case, gold mounted, and beautifully engraved.

We are requested on behalf of the officers and members of our Band to express to you on the eve of your departure for another sphere of activity, our deep sense of regret at the loss our Society will sustain by the removal of one who was not only the organizer, but who has all through been our President and adviser.

We would ask you to please accept the accompanying gift from the Band of Hope, and to assure you that we shall endeavour to carry on the work which you commenced, and which we feel has been, and will be lasting benefit to the young people of this city.

Yours very sincerely,

LILIAN COWAN,
Visiting Secretary.

Backs "Bayman."

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I was glad to read the note of "Bayman" in your morning contemporary to-day, and would like to add a line in support of his request, that the Reid Nfd. Co. issue excursion rates from Tuesday to Thursday of this week. Harbor Grace is a very large contributor to the Company in the way of freight and passenger traffic, and every inducement ought to be given to attract visitors to the town on its one great "Derby" Day.

Trusting that the R. N. Co. may be able to see its way clear to grant this privilege to the public without serious loss to themselves.

I remain your truly,

Wedding Results in Assault Case.

A wedding took place at Bay Bulls on Friday night last and while the festivities were being kept up an assault case occurred. The victim is Patrick Scott who was beaten so badly that he had one of his legs broken while his arms and back were badly bruised and showed signs of ill-treatment. Scott came here by motor boat Saturday afternoon and was brought to the General Hospital in the ambulance where he is being attended to. His alleged aggressors—two men—have been summoned and will be tried to-day at Bay Bulls by the local justice of the peace. Mr. W. J. Higgins left town by carriage last night to defend the accused.

Booth Co. in Newfoundland.

Canadian even more than Newfoundland fishing interests are watching closely the fishing experiments being carried on by the Booth Fisheries Co. in Newfoundland waters just now. It is understood the big concern has set aside $25,000 for these experiments. The company is using three fishing vessels, the Elva L. Spurling, a gasoline power craft; the Edward Black and the Ida Campbell. The Spurling has cruised the Banks from Ramea to Port au Port, seeking cod and halibut; the Edward Black direct from Portland recently, was sent to Bonne Bay and further north on a similar quest, and the Campbell is at Bay of Islands gill net fishing.

A. W. Piccott, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, recently returned from a visit to the Booth fishing fleet. He is eager, it is said, to see the operations of the Booth concern extended to Nova Scotia waters. The Spurling landed him at Port aux Basques and forwarded her catch of halibut in cold storage cars to Boston, Mass. It is probable another month of experimenting will be required, according to Minister Piccott, before the company reaches a decision about continuing fishing in these waters on a large scale. Capt. O'Neill, master of the Spurling, is said to have fished halibut in 15 fathoms of water at Port au Port with a headline from the ship's deck, and brought up specimens weighing 250 pounds. One of the sailors from a dory by the ship's side also caught halibut equally as large.—N. Y. Fishing Gazette, Aug. 3.

A Boundary Question.

Now that Ungava has fallen to Quebec, the long unsettled question of the boundary between Canada and Newfoundland has to be faced. Boundary questions are generally historical—have to be determined by the interpretation of past conventions. In so far as that is the case, the obvious means of settlement is an impartial court of adjudication. We do not know that in this case there is much historical material to work upon. If that is lacking, the settlement will have to be one of mutual agreement, and we should advise generosity on the part of Canada and Quebec. We should not, indeed, have objected if there had been no such boundary to settle. If Ungava had been given to Newfoundland as a marriage jointure to get that Province into the Dominion, the Province of Quebec would not have been a whit the poorer. Indeed we would have been, for a good while at least, better off. All the coast and inland conditions of the Labrador Peninsula are far more of a piece with Newfoundland than with Quebec and under the arrangement suggested it would have been Newfoundland, not Quebec, that would have had to penetrate it with railways. Doubtless, politicians will think it very silly to call that an advance. What can be better for a government than the building of a railway? Whether it is built by the government itself or by a company, the possibilities of patronage and of consequent political support are very great. What government would not want a railway to build? True, but we are not thinking of governments but of the taxpayers. Except as a place to spend money in, Ungava will be of small use to anybody for a good while. The love of possession is, however, great. Newfoundland which has a population about half of that of Montreal, and an area small, compared with that of most of the provinces, might look upon union with Canada as accepting a very subordinate place. The accession of this big territory would have been something of temptation. However, that opportunity is past.—Montreal Witness.

Tit For Tat.

Lord Charles Beresford whose letters to the newspapers on the subject of our Naval supremacy have again caused a good deal of discussion, has been described as being the typical British sailor, both in manner and appearance. He once delivered an important political speech at York, and at the close of the meeting a well-known politician, notorious for having changed political sides repeatedly, came to congratulate him. "That was an admirable speech, Beresford," he said effusively. "Capital! I didn't think you could do it." "You flatter me," said Lord Charles coldly. "Not a bit," was the reply. "And the extraordinary thing is that you don't look a bit like a politician, you know."

Another Case of Infanticide.

Another case of infanticide has been brought to light in which an infant child was found buried in a graveyard without anyone's knowledge of its being there. Yesterday the police arrested a young woman as a suspect. The prisoner has not been asked to plead to the charge and is remanded pending evidence.

REGATTA COMMITTEE MEETS.

A meeting of the Regatta Committee will be held in Wood's West End Restaurant to-night when some important business will be disposed of.

FOR ERNA.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Sir.—Can you furnish me with the names of all those appointed by the Regatta Committee to collect money for this year's Regatta. Perhaps the Committee intend publishing a list of subscribers, and it would be only reasonable of the public to expect same.
Yours truly,
SUBSCRIBER.
St. John's, Nfld., Aug. 10th, 1912.
[We would suggest to "Subscriber" to make a personal application to the Treasurer, who would be glad, we are sure, to furnish him with the information he is seeking.—Ed.]

Here and There.

League Football, Brigade Division, Championship, St. George's Field, 6.30 this evening, M. G. B. vs. C. C. C.

TO LET.—The Duckworth Street flat of COLUMBUS HALL, suitable for offices or warehouses. Immediate possession if desired. Apply to FURLONG & CONROY, July 27, 1912.

TO-NIGHT'S MATCH.—This evening's football match between the Cadets and Guards promises to be of exceptional interest. Should the present conditions of the weather exist the attendance will be the largest for the season.

TOBASCO HERE.—The S. S. Tobasco, Capt. Yeomans reached port yesterday forenoon from Liverpool, after a passage of eight days. The ship was twelve miles off the Narrows on Saturday when she ran into a bank of fog which detained her. She brought 600 tons of cargo but no passengers.

CAPTAIN RE-INSTITATED.—Capt. Emrie who was master of the Allan Liner Laurentian when she met disaster off Mistaken Point a few years ago, and who lost his certificate as a result, has just secured a commander's ticket again and his many friends in St. John's will be pleased. He succeeds Capt. Hatherley in the Ontario which is now plying on the River Plate.

S. A. Congress.

A lecture in connection with the Annual Congress of the Salvation Army took place in the Methodist College Hall at three o'clock yesterday afternoon. There was a capacity audience and Colonel Mapp, who was introduced by the Chairman, Hon. S. D. Blandford, gave an interesting address on "The World Wide Work of the Salvation Army." He reviewed the work forty-seven years back from the time of General Booth down to the present. He stated that the work was laid on four platforms: (1) Religious; (2) Social; (3) Temperance; (4) Missionary. Since its inception he said the Army had gone into 59 countries, preached in 33 languages, had 17,000 officers, 8,000 corps, 22,000 bandmen, and 60,000 local officers.

At the close a hearty vote of thanks proposed by Rev. Mr. Thackeray and seconded by Mr. A. A. Parsons was accorded by acclamation.

SATURDAY'S MEETING.
The S. A. Citadel, on New Gower Street, was packed on Saturday night to welcome Colonel and Mrs. Many, who will conduct the Congress. Brigadier Morehan who had charge of the meeting introduced Col. Mapp and his wife. Adj. Hiscock, on behalf of the Army Officers here extended a welcome to the visitors. Col. Mapp replied suitably, referring to his former visit here and hoped that the Conference he was to carry on here would be successful.

FIVE ARRESTS.—The police had it fairly quiet Saturday night and only five arrests were made.

On Second Thought.

BY JAY E. HOUSE.
Meanwhile, the decision of a Kansas judge to the effect that a farmer is not necessarily an authority as to the mental condition of others, seems to be sound, if somewhat daring.

A man can get ready to go to New York in half an hour. But he needs two days in which to make his preparation for a fishing trip.

Generally speaking, the breakfast table is the duller place. Fred Collier wants to know the inevitable relation between the tipsy male quartette and the lugubrious song. We can trace it for him with pleasure. The man carrying a "souise" never laughs. He either cries or sings, and each manifestation proceeds from the same emotion.

The newspapers pay a good deal of attention to a murder case if there is a young and pretty woman concerned in it.

Governor Hadley believes every family should keep a cow. Sim Heekle is even further advanced along the line of progressive ideas. Sim believes that every family should also keep a bee.

A woman should start on her vacation trip before the peaches ripen, and she should stay away until the canning season is over.

The hammock has been generally superceded by the porch swing, and thus matrimony loses another of its most efficient assistants.

"I have been granted a parole good for three months," said Buck Kilby when he came to work yesterday. "My wife has gone to Indiana to spend the summer."

An Anthem to Order.

Lord Kitchener on one occasion invented a national anthem. It was upon the occasion of a visit to India of the Ameer of Afghanistan, and the bands were to greet him with the national anthem of Afghanistan. But no one knew what it was, and Lord Kitchener was appealed to.

Wall Street.

BY H. L. RANN.

Wall street is a thriving business institution located in the heart of New York. Its principal products are human and ready-to-wear panics.

Wall street is very happily located both geographically and financially. It is bounded on the north by free access to Canada, on the east by the deep blue sea, on the south by the New Jersey trust laws and the United States mint, and on the west by a bumper crop of native-born gulls.

There is a popular superstition to the effect that the only kinds of live stock kept in Wall street are bulls and bears. This is a mistake. It boasts the most flourishing colony of goats to be found outside of the Emerald isle, and when Wall street gets through with them there is very little left for the barber to do.

People do not fear Wall street as much as they used to. The time was that a few men on Wall street could pull off a tailor-made panic any time it became necessary to organize the White House on a sane and non-interfering basis, but since the haughty western farmer began loaning large cartons of currency to Wall street it has been in a more pliable and reflective mood.

Wall street is maintained for the purpose of allowing people with restless cheek-books to bet what the price of Amalgamated Copper will be two weeks from next Saturday. Very few people remain in Wall street for any length of time, as nine-tenths of them are blown out in the first inning bearing a look of pain and remorse.

There is no place in the world where a man can get rid of so much money on the installment plan as in Wall street, unless he buys a full set of William Shakespeare's on a compound interest contract.

Every once in a while Wall Street will get short of ready money and have to ask the treasury department to ante for it. This time-honored custom has enabled many a Wall street operator to secure a new hold on life and a fresh change of linen.

Grows Hair Abundantly

This is an age of new discoveries.
To grow hair after it has fallen out to-day is a reality.

Dressing, will positively create a new growth of hair.

If you want to have a beautiful head of hair, free from Dandruff, use SAL-VIA once a day and watch the results.

SALVIA is guaranteed to stop falling hair and restore the hair to its natural color. The greatest Hair Vigor known.

Wedding Bells.

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Mary's Church, July 30th, when
Mr. A. D. Cook, led to the altar Miss Margaret M. Escott. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. Uphill. The bride was becomingly attired in cream silk voile with hat to match, and was attended by her sister Miss Sara Escott, and Miss V. Cook, sister of the groom, while the groom was supported by Mr. W. Churchill and Mr. A. Whitten. The bridesmaids wore dresses of Paris voile trimmed with derectoire satin. After the ceremony the party drove to the bride's future home, Portugal Cove Road, where a sumptuous repast was served to the many guests and a very pleasant time was spent. The bride was the recipient of many valuable and useful presents.

Fr. O'Callaghan Abroad

Rev. Father O'Callaghan accompanied by Rev. Mother Perpetua are at present in Washington and the guests of Mr. W. J. S. Ryall, brother of Mr.
S. Ryall, of St. John's. The visitors had the pleasure of conversing with President Taft to whom they were introduced by Mr. Ryall. President Taft treated the travellers kindly and gave them permission to view the White House, Congressional Library and various other places of interest.

Burgeo and LaPoile, 19,100; Fortune
Bay, 31,000; Burin, 50,000; Placentia and St. Mary's, 20,500; Ferryland, 11, 000; Straits, 15,000. Total, 248,900.

BASEBALL.

The Baseball team of the Imperial Tobacco Co. journeyed to Bell Island on Saturday, and in a well played game defeated the team representing the Nova Scotia Mines by 3 runs to 5. The playing of both teams was excellent and the game was closely contested all the way. The Bell Isle aggregation took their defeat good naturally and promise to turn the tables when they visit St. John's, a week from next Wednesday. After the game the players repaired to the Nova Scotia Mine House where an excellent repast was served by the Ladies' Aid Society. Needless to say this was thoroughly enjoyed, and Mrs.
Fraser, McKenzie, Lindsay, Blackwood, Bourroughs and Job are to be congratulated on their success in making the occasion the memorable
one. The score and line up is as follows:—

McMurdo's Store News.

MONDAY, Aug. 12, 1912.

If you feel run down or unable to do your ordinary work with the ordinary ease and zest, if your appetite begins to fail, or your nerves weak and jarred, you will find McMurdo's Quinine and Iron a good tonic, something that will help to tone and build you up and restore your interest in life.
We have just put in a good stock of this tried and tested medicine and recommend it as about the best simple tonic for ordinary cases of that tired feeling. Price 40c. a bottle.

The August season for sowing Cabbage for winter plants is now fully come, and we would remind our friends of our extensive line of American and English Cabbage Seeds for that purpose. These seeds are from the best houses on both sides of the Atlantic and may be expected to give the best results.

Business of Board Of Trade.

The Council of the Board of Trade held their weekly meeting on Friday last. One of the subjects brought up for discussion was the question of absentee landlords in the City of St.
John's. The Council are endeavouring to get a Commission appointed to deal with this matter, and legislation will be asked for based on their report.

The Council are also using their best endeavours to find means of utilizing the dog fish that are so numerous on the coast. They have procured some of these fish and are getting them prepared for export to countries where similar fish are eaten, and hope they will secure a market for them.

They are also collecting information with a view to getting a plant started for reducing this fish and other fish offal into oil and fertilizer.

Other matters of public interest will shortly be dealt with.
