MAGIC

BAKING POWDER

MADE IN CANADA CONTAINS NO ALUM CONFORMS TO THE HIGH STANDARD OF GILLETT'S GOODS.

Yelding To Good Impulses.

By RUTH CAMERON.

The other day, in a street car, a woman across the aisle from us leaned forward and informed the woman in front of her that part of her hair was unbuttoned.

Naturally, the lady was extremely embarrassed at this discovery, but not too much embarrassed to thank her informant with the most evident gratitude and the most cordial good manners.

"Well, now," said my seat companion, as the lady with the unbuttoned waist successfully hid it by slipping on her coat. "I've been watching that waist for the last five minutes and wondering if I'd better tell her about it, but I didn't quite dare to because you never can tell just how people will take anything like that."

Do you know, I think there are a great many people in the world like this woman. They come right to the brink of kind acts, and then hang back because of some scruple or other. They are afraid of being misunderstood; they are afraid of being "conspicuous"; they are afraid of goodness knows what; and so they hang back and the opportunity passes.

What woman struggling with a heavy suit case has not sometimes looked wistfully at the broad shouldered men swinging past her, and wished that one of them would offer to carry the burden that to him would be no burden at all?

We were speaking of this matter, and this is what an unquestionably kind-hearted man had to say. "Yes, I often think I'd like to help some woman when I see her struggling along, but I'm always afraid she'll think I'm trying to pick up an acquaintance."

As if any woman worth the name would not accept such assistance properly if it were offered in the proper manner!

I have seldom denied a kind impulse without regretting it. Once upon a time I yielded very much to invite a new neighbour into my home on Christmas eve. She was alone, and I felt she must be lonely. But just because I did not know her very well, and because she had a little more money than the rest of us, I was afraid.

Later in our friendship I told her about it, and when I asked her if she really was lonely that night, the tears stood in her eyes. "Oh, my dear," she said, "I'm glad you don't know how lonely."

That experience has made me more willing to brave the danger in kind impulses. And after all, what is the danger? A rebuff? But that will hurt him who gives it far more than you.

We often know that there will be unpleasant consequences if we yield to our bad impulses, and, yet, how easily we yield! How is this for a resolution—to be as afraid of our wrong impulses as we have been of the kind ones, and to yield to the kind impulses as easily as we have to the wrong.

Last Night's Lectures.

Rev. Fr. O'Callaghan lectured to the members of the Holy Name Society last night on the "Life of St. Patrick," in the Aula Maxima of St. Bonaventure's College. The learned lecturer being introduced by Mr. J. Phelan, handled his subject in a masterful manner, and in reviewing the life of Ireland's Patron Saint held the closest attention of his listeners for nearly two hours. At the close a vote of thanks proposed by Mr. J. Dese and seconded by Mr. J. Rolla, was tendered Fr. O'Callaghan.

W. G. GOSLING, ESQ.

"Sir Humphrey Gilbert" was the theme of the discourse of Mr. W. G. Gosling who delivered the final of the series of lectures in aid of the Daughters of the Empire, in the British Hall last evening. There was a fair audience present amongst whom were His Excellency the Governor and Mrs. Davidson, attended by Major Davenport, A.D.C. In interesting and comprehensive style the lecturer told of Gilbert's life from its initial stages, referring to his relations with Raleigh, the services rendered by him in behalf of the Queen and the honors conferred on him. The lecture was very instructive. Sir W. H. Horwood proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Gosling on behalf of the audience.

Following the discourse Mrs. (Governor) Davidson was presented by the Daughters of Empire with a handsome bouquet—red and white carnations.

Cascarets Cleanse Liver and Bowels.

The Millions of Cascarets users never have Headache, Constipation, Biliousness or Sick Stomach.

It is more necessary that you keep your Bowels, Liver and Stomach clean, pure and fresh than it is to keep the sewers and drainage of a large city free from obstruction.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil. This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

No odds how badly and upset you feel, a Cascarets tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver, clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

Tremblay

Was Beaten by Paradis Last Night. Eugene Tremblay, the holder of the lightweight wrestling championship of the world and Police Gazette belt for a number of years, met defeat at the hands of John Paradis, the New England wrestler, last night in Sohier Park. By the result of this match the championship was wrested away by Paradis.

That Tremblay was not in his usual form could not be doubted, for while Paradis was practically a new man, Eugene was fagged, having wrestled one hour and a half at Bedford, Mass., the night before last, and then being forced to travel upon a train during the next day. At the last moment the toe-hold, which is Tremblay's best, was barred, and with these conditions against him he lost. However, in all praise of John Paradis he put up a good fight, though whether he will be able to continue his feat when the little Frenchman is in his usual form is another matter.

Paradis played a waiting game which lasted 55 minutes, and then pinned the shoulders of his opponent to the mat.

Whether Tremblay was convinced that another fight like the first would be foolish in his poor condition and gave up easily is not known, but it hardly looks like the late champion to give up a fall after ten minutes of wrestling—which he did—Montreal Star, March 1.

Notes of Long Ago.

L. C. MORRIS.

CHAPTER XXIII.—THE IRISH HEROINES.

Before we close our notes, we cannot do better than devote a chapter or two to the fair sex. So far, we have treated chiefly of men; but as man is seldom in his right place until he meets his better half, so our stories may not be complete without a tribute to the influence and worth of womanhood.

Of all things that affect a community, none are greater than the influence of woman; and when these influences tend in the right direction, and stand for home and family, they are worthy of the best things that can be written about them. He who honors Womanhood protects her; and in the protection of Womanhood lies the safety of the home; and upon the home rests the safety and stability of the State.

Sometimes ago I met a helpless woman who appealed to me for protection. This I readily gave, and in doing so two men laughed at me; and in a sentence they dishonored and belittled the woman. When they had had their say I simply said to them: "She is a Woman, and as such is therefore worthy of protection." They only saw a poverty-stricken, homeless creature, and one whom society calls an outcast; but it was such conduct as they were meting out to her that made her an outcast; but she was a Woman all the same, and was not lost to the influence of a kindly act.

The woman of whom our story tells were among the number who left their homes in Ireland and came to Newfoundland a century ago. They brought with them all that was good and best; and in addition to these characteristics they also brought considerable wealth. And this is what makes our story different from the others; as those of whom we have spoken, while they brought character and industry; they did not have the world's wealth. So that in this tale, we have wealth and character combined, and the advantages of these were greatly in their favor; for while it is quite true that a country's best asset is its peasantry, it is equally true that capital and wealth are also essential. One of Newfoundland's drawbacks hitherto has been a lack of capital; and to intensify the hindrance, much of the wealth that was made in olden days was taken out of the country. But there were always some who had most implicit faith in the development of Newfoundland; and who put into it their toil and capital; and who thereby proved true colonizers and true empire builders.

It was from one of the largest and most independent countries of Ireland that the family of whom we are about to write, came to Newfoundland; and though their New has now passed out like many others of their day, and we of the present generation are unaware of their enterprise, the benefits of what they did, though unseen, are still being reaped; and the efforts of their early home training and religious education like told for good to the end of the chapter. Judging from the broad Christian spirit of the lady who told me this story, and who is a daughter of the younger of the ladies in question, their good influences are being felt to the fourth generation. And so it has ever been. Good is not lost; it cannot be, for all people desire to be good; and though so many of us fail in the attempt, good is what we long for, and good is what will eventually triumph.

Some people seem to be born with much in their favor, while others appear to have much against them. Our heroines were of the former class, and in all their career they proved worthy of the talents entrusted to them; for while it is certain that many have gone astray because of poverty, it is equally certain that others have made the same mistake because of prosperity. It is not every man or woman who can stand prosperity, for success has been the moral downfall of more than one.

At the age of twenty, the principal lady of our story, had finished her education and received her dowry; and occupied the proud position of being belle of the county. Thus, with beauty, education, and wealth in her favor, it was only natural that more than one sought her hand. But, of course only one could win it. She was fortunate enough in selecting the right one; one who in every sense proved worthy of her affections; and who really sought her for herself, and not for her wealth. The younger lady of the story, whom we shall call Nora, was the niece of our heroine; and it was her fidelity and force of character which stood by them all when dire adversities threatened them and fortune proved fickle. Nora, like her aunt, was blessed with beauty, but not so much with wealth. She in turn was sought in marriage, and the gentleman who proffered his hand was none other than the Mayor of Dublin's son. This offer was accepted, but Nora being young, it was on the conditions that some five years elapse before the wedding.

Coal Famine.

We learn that most of our dealers in coal have now very low stocks on hand, and that others who were well supplied are also getting short, so that a great scarcity is expected in the near future. Sydney remains tied up owing to the ice embargo there will certainly be a coal famine in the city. Tonnage cannot be had to freight from Louisbourg, and this being so, the poorer classes of people will suffer great hardship. If work instead of talk had been the motto of the Picnic Party, our own coal areas would be yielding what they contain to-day, and hardship and suffering would not be in prospect for our unfortunate people. However, the return of the true People's Government soon to take place will tend to better things.

Lloydsen Damaged.

RETURNS FOR REPAIRS. Yesterday afternoon it was reported around town that the sealing steamer Lloydsen, one of the Gulf sealing fleet, was disabled. During the evening, Mr. Tasker Cook, had a message from Capt. A. Barbour to the effect that the ship struck the Baldwin Rocks coming out of Channel, and damaging the stern post and keel, coming on to St. John's for repairs. The Lloydsen is expected to reach this port tomorrow night, and it is likely will be able to sail from here on the sealing boat the latter part of the week. The rest of the Gulf fleet are ice-bound at Channel. They were scheduled to get away from there yesterday but owing to the ice embargo were detained up till this morning. HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY

Yesterday's Proceedings—Opposition Alert—Tactics of Government Closely Watched and Keenly Criticized.

The House met at 3 p.m. yesterday. The annual statement of the Council of Higher Education was tabled and statements of expenditure asked for by the Opposition for the Marconi and winter mails service.

A large number of questions appeared on the order paper the answers to most of which are being got ready.

The Col. Secretary replied to Mr. Clift that a public building would be erected at Chatham likely this summer.

Mr. Clapp asked the Right Hon. the Prime Minister to lay upon the table of the House a copy of all correspondence in relation to the providing of a new steamer for the Labrador service; also in relation to the improvement of the existing coast steam service in Notre Dame Bay, on the North East Coast and in Bay St. George. The following was the Prime Minister's reply, with copies of letters:—

The following reply was given by the Colonial Secretary:—

The only correspondence in relation to the providing of the new steamer for the Labrador service is a letter bearing date November 13th, 1911, written by the Colonial Secretary to the Reid Newfoundland Company, and the Company's reply thereto, dated November 19th, 1911. It will be remembered that after the S. S. Fife was lost in 1911, the steaming service in the Labrador was purchased by the Contractor, and put on the Labrador service in the place of the S. S. Gloucester built for that service. She was lost in the year 1909. She was replaced by the S. S. Invermore which performed the service until 1911. In that year the S. S. Solway was put on. The Government then notified the Contractor that they would not accept the Solway, and accordingly the new steamer was provided.

There is no correspondence in relation to the Notre Dame, North East Coast, and Bay St. George service.

On motion the House went into Committee of the Whole to consider Resolutions for providing assistance to sufferers from Marine Disasters.

The Premier Sir E. P. Morris, in introducing them explained to the Committee the provisions of the Resolutions which are in brief that if any fisherman or seaman domiciled in the Colony shall be drowned on the high seas or within the territorial waters of the Colony his family or relatives will be entitled to the sum of $100 out of the Funds of the Colony, proof of death to be adduced within six months after such drowning, and the applicant satisfying the authorities that the deceased left one or more relatives who depended upon him for support and needed assistance; any amount so granted shall not be liable to attachment.

In the course of his speech the Premier gave some details of the deaths by drowning of Newfoundlanders during 1912; more lives were lost out of vessels on the Grand Banks by drowning from Canadian, American and Newfoundland vessels than from all other causes of death put together in any one year. He felt certain the Legislature would receive the Resolutions in a sympathetic way.

Mr. Kent believed that there could be no two opinions as regards the attitude of the Committee and Legislature on these Resolutions when they come to consider the untoward circumstances of the last year or two for those had drawn public attention to the extreme risks that attend the calling of the great majority of our people.

Perhaps in no country in the world is such a large proportion of the population dependent for a living on the sea as in Newfoundland. All over the country from north, south, east and west the people day after day, in all kinds of weather, under all circumstances had to face the dangers of the deep to provide for themselves and families. From time to time this great fact is accounted when some great disaster, such as those to which the Premier had just referred, accidents like the loss of the Erna and Regulus and the Greenland disaster occurred. Such terrible events being before us in the most acute and harrowing form the dangers which surround our people in carrying on their daily avocations. What a terrible toll we pay to the sea might be gleaned if in the course of years were to calculate the number of lives lost in the Colony through the sea and lost under circumstances which attract little if any attention. It was the small punt fisherman who often meets an accident; his boat upsets, or he is caught in the sea or in some other way, whereby he often not alone is lost himself but one or two other lives are sacrificed with him. In every case he or they have someone dependent upon them. The probabilities are that the victim is a father of a family, the sole dependence and sole source to which a family of young children would look for education and sustenance. He (Mr. Kent) thought that it was only proper that they as legislators, as representatives of the people in the Assembly, should make some provision for those constantly recurring disasters which cause such loss, suffering and misery to a great part of our people. We all recall, said (Mr. Kent) the accidents that had happened each member here has seen the effects of such accidents in particular families; they had seen widows bereft of kind husbands and children bereft of bread winners; they had seen also the heart break, grief and utter despair into which families had been cast just at a time when they were looking forward to comfort, strength and support from the main help of a family. What harrowing sights are witnessed month after month in different parts of the Colony, and some help, some assistance, some consolation will be a great aid to those grief stricken ones when fathers, brothers and sons pay the dreadful price which their fathers are being too often, also, demands. It was true that they were unable to provide a fund sufficiently large to tide over all difficulties which arose under circumstances of the kind, but he thought that in making the provision proposed in the present Resolutions, $100, averaged a fair representation of what had been done in the past. Personally, he had no fault to find with the amount provided. There were some circumstances in connection with the Resolutions, however, which he (Mr. Kent) thought it would be well to give consideration though he did not refer to the principle of the Resolutions but details as to their carrying out—It was very easy to frame Resolutions of a general character, but difficulties arise in the administration of laws such as this and no law perhaps give more cause of future trouble than laws drawn generally and badly framed. Questions of construction and other questions of this kind should be regulated in advance. These Resolutions might require some consideration in this respect. Take the first words of these Resolutions: "Instance:—If any fisherman or seaman."—What did these words cover? Did they include fishermen or persons of that kind? There were special provisions in the Merchant Shipping Act referring to those employed at sea. Seamen as they defined the meaning. There were other clauses of a similar kind that might also require some consideration. He (Mr. Kent) knew that it was the intention of the Government and House to cover those who do duty on the sea in ships or whose lives were in any way lost by drowning or otherwise on the ocean, whether freemen, engineers, seamen or fishermen whatever occupation they may fill. But if they were drowned on board ship on the high seas, very often circumstances attended loss of life on board passenger boats; there might be persons on board such boats, when circumstances would be such that these Resolutions should be extended to them. Some differentiation should be there which would include these and make the words "fishermen" and "seamen" as comprehensive as possible to cover cases of this kind. Of course he (Mr. Kent) thought the another direction in which effort should be made would be in the direction of prevention. All requests for such unfortunates accidents when they occurred, but were they doing all in their power to prevent them occurring? Had they proper inspections and surveys? Had they those employed in ships competent or authorized to procure their inspection before sailing? Were there laws on the Statute Book which would enforce this? He thought that precaution was very often better than a remedy and that our laws in respect to inspection and survey of steamers other than passenger steamers were very limited. Again the matter of investigation after accidents had occurred requiring to be in some extent covered. Take the enquiries that take place into the loss of life by shipwreck or otherwise on sea. Were they sufficient? All who were in any way interested in these enquiries should have the opportunity of a hearing before these enquiries. As a general rule they take place quietly. It was a practice everywhere, but he thought that they were not sufficiently public and reports upon such enquiries should be placed upon the table of the House every year without the necessity for any special request for them. He presumed that it was not the intention to put the Resolutions through at this sitting as he would wish to have the opportunity of examining the machinery by which they would be carried out.

The Minister of Marine and Fisheries praised the Resolutions also. All connected with the navigation of ships were seamen—the stokers, the men, engineers, the cook in his galley and the Marconi man in his deck as well as the purser. They were termed so in the British Shipping Act. All would be beneficiaries of this Act. He (Mr. Piccott) had visited coastal boats and any boats of life belts not in proper condition were put ashore by his orders.

Mr. Clift could not but commend the last speaker for his zeal and energy in the discharge of his duties, and was interested, too, in hearing him tell the Committee as to his inspection of certain vessels before they went to sea for the purpose of seeing whether they were in a seaworthy condition, whether the boats were well and sufficient found, whether they all had life belts and apparatus for life saving in part, but he (Mr. Clift) would like to know from the Hon. Minister if this was a part of his duty as the Minister of Marine and Fisheries or if he merely did it as an individual interested in the fisheries and those employed in the undertaking. He (Mr. Clift) would like to know also whether he visited all vessels that sailed from this port and gave them a certificate of equipment and fitness before they left or whether he only visited the chosen few? And generally who authority he had for visiting vessels, and ordering life belts or other apparatus that he thought unfit for the purpose intended, ashore. He (Mr. Clift) was not aware of anything in the Act under which the Department over which he presides exists that authorizes him to perform such a function. He would also like to be informed, because it seemed to him (Mr. Clift) to be an important matter, and one which ought to involve the country

A Message For Those Who Suffer.

Mr. E. J. Talbot Tells Them to Find a Cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

She Had Rheumatism, Lumbago and Neuralgia and Found the Remedy She Was Looking for in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Hamilton, March 10. (Special).—"I know there are a lot of people who suffer and do not know what will cure them. Dodd's Kidney Pills will." These are the words of Mrs. E. J. Talbot who resides at 293 Wellington street north, this city. And Mrs. Talbot speaks out of her own experience.

"Last July I was very sick," Mrs. Talbot continues. "My heart bothered me, and my limbs were heavy, and I had a dragging sensation across the loins. Rheumatism, lumbago and neuralgia added to my sufferings, and the doctor I called in did not help me much."

"I finally decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, I have used seven boxes and I am so much stronger and better that I feel I must recommend them to others."

Mrs. Talbot's complication of troubles all came from sick kidneys. That's why Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her. For Dodd's Kidney Pills are to cure all. They simply cure kidney disease of any kind. They never fail to do that.

In its consequences, if a Minister occupying the position such a position as he (Mr. Piccott) did, give certificates of fitness to a vessel going out, but she was well found in every particular in life saving apparatus, then of course it might be thrown back upon that Department in the event of the vessel being lost or if an accident occurred to her and it was found that she was incorrect in his certificate. Mr. Clift thought that Mr. Piccott would kindly inform him on this matter.

The Minister of Marine and Fisheries (Mr. Piccott), answered that Captain English was employed to do this work, and grant passenger boats certificates, and is empowered to do so by the British Board of Trade and where he (Mr. Piccott) had seen life belts and boats of an inferior kind on ships, he had ordered them to be taken ashore and never gave certificates to vessels.

Mr. Clift thought his friend might have misunderstood him. He (Mr. Piccott) at first spoke generally, but now he confined his observations to vessels under subsidy from Government, and as that was a different matter he, Mr. Clift, understood that to refer to our sailing vessels and other vessels generally engaged in the fishery. He did not deny that he had a right to see that vessels under subsidy should be up to requirements.

Mr. Devereux here spoke in support of the Resolutions and wound up with a panegyric of the Government, which he prophesied, though in a halfhearted way, would again be returned to power. The committee then rose and the House was moved into Committee in the Resolutions to confirm an agreement entered into with the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co. It was explained by the Minister of Justice, but this is a continuation of two contracts already entered into with the company. There will be an additional station at Holton and the company will pay half its cost. Additional stations will also be erected at Cape Barrigan and Fords if the Government required them. The company will erect a station at Fogo to connect with Bell Island and $200 will be paid by the Government towards this. The tariff will be altered and will be 5 cents for the first 10 words and 2 cents additional. The agreement will continue till 1920.

Mr. Kent had heard the explanation of the Minister of Justice to the bill, and hoped the idea was not entertained of rushing it through hurriedly. It was a service of great importance and should be carefully examined by every member of the House. He would ask the Minister of Justice to hold the bill. They should have embodied all the rules under the agreement. Mischief occurs then upon have to interpret this agreement by the light of other agreements, and such trouble ensues. It was the same with the Railway Contract. He would ask that the House, in the month of 1902, with the Company, be laid on the table.

The Minister of Finance (Mr. Caslin), now moved the House into Committee on Supply and explained several changes in the estimates, which of course would be expected from such an extravagant Government resolve themselves into an additional burden on the poor fishermen and taxpayers generally.

Mr. Kent asked for the accounts in the Auditor General's Report, which should have been tabled, to enable the members to examine them. It was always customary to have the public accounts on the table before going into Supply. They were always a preliminary to Supply and before the House should be asked to grant supply the public accounts and reports upon previous expenditures, should be tabled.

The members of the Assembly at the late Government House at 11.30 today, to present the Address in Reply.

POLICE COURT.—Two drunkards were discharged and a third was fined $1 or three days. Only one case was disposed of in the Central District Court.

BRITISH SOCIETY.—The first of a series of teas in connection with the British Society's Bazaar, will be held in the British Hall Thursday afternoon.

Before ironing a table cloth, the edges should be pulled straight, making the corners even. It should then be ironed with a heavy iron. Always iron it half dry on the wrong side and entirely dry on the right side.

Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram.

MONTREAL, March 10.
The stock market went all to a smash this morning. Prices took a toboggan at the outset. Weakness is the direct result of further evidence of tight money, and the situation abroad is reflected in the failure of the Prussian loan. C.P.R. opened at 22 1/2, and in sympathy with last London cables fell to 22 1/4. London closed at 22 3/4. Brazilian Traction, another international barometer, broke almost as sharply, with a weak opening at 94 1/2. Montreal Power was about the first high priced stock to feel continued selling pressure.

LONDON, March 10.
The suffragettes started another arson campaign this morning, burning Sanderton station on the Great Western Railway, to the ground. Sanderton is thirty-one miles from London, in Buckinghamshire. Two placards were found in the vicinity on which were painted the words, "Burning to get votes for women." Fire brigades from neighboring towns responded to the alarm, but could save nothing. Croxley Green, three miles north, on the L. & N. W. Railway, was also burned this morning, but the cause of the fire has not been ascertained. Both stations were new ones.

GLASGOW, March 10.
A dynamite explosion killed many inhabitants of Irvine in Ayrshire, and injured 100 others, to-day, virtually wrecking the town itself. The explosion occurred at Nobel's Explosive Works at Ardor, a little over twenty miles from Glasgow. Many houses, churches, schools, and public institutions were damaged. Ceilings fell everywhere, partitions collapsed, and scarcely a window was left intact. People, walking the streets, were thrown to the ground. The harbor works and many works adjacent are masses of wreckage. There were three distinct explosions, which were followed by an immense column of smoke, which could be seen miles away. Six bodies had been recovered up to 5 p.m. whilst several were conveyed to hospital.

LONDON, March 10.
King George opened the third session of the present Parliament to-day, after two days' prorogation. The usual procession from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Hall was in drizzling rain. A little over twenty were tens of thousands of sight seers who hedged the route in dense masses. The King's Speech was devoted chiefly to the steps which had been taken to bring the Balkan war to an end, and an expression of the desire of the Powers to hasten the conclusion of Peace. Pleasing reference was made to the action of those British Dominions which had contributed war vessels to the Navy, also to the visit of Premier Borden and other Overseas Ministers to confer with Imperial Ministers, which acts were calculated to promote the solidarity of the Empire. The discussion now proceeding in the Canadian Parliament on matters of defence testified to the universal desire within the Empire for the maintenance of the common safety. The only signs of suffragettes during the Royal procession were when two women rushed from St. James' Park, opposite Marlborough House, while the Royal coach was passing, and vigorously waved papers. They were promptly surrounded by the police and hustled from the spot. Another party of five women, who wanted to present a petition to the King as he passed along White Hall, were arrested. Considerable excitement ensued, and the women had to be protected by the police from an angry and hostile crowd.

Hr. Grace Notes.

We regret to hear of the serious illness of Mr. Leander Parsons, turnkey at the prison, here. Mr. Parsons is suffering from stomach trouble, and will go to St. John's to hospital as soon as room can be made for him.

Little Miss Kitty Gorman, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gorman, was very sick for a couple of days last week. Under the skillful treatment of Doctors Parsons and Cron, the critical point has been passed, and the little one is now on a fair way to recovery.

A house, owned by a man named Mills, was destroyed by fire at Carbonar, early on Saturday morning. Mr. Mills, who, we understand, lived alone, was considerably burned, and had a narrow escape from being burned to death.

Mr. Thomas Ryan, of Carbonar Road, while in the woods some time ago, had one of his feet frost-bitten, and is now unable to get about. Mr. Ryan's many friends will be sorry to hear this, and will wish him a speedy recovery.

The death occurred at Carbonar on Saturday evening last, of Mr. George Augustus Garland, father of our townsmen Charles D. and Selby Garland. Mr. Garland, who had passed his 70th year, passed away after an illness of only a couple of days. He was a coooper by trade, and was well known and much esteemed in Carbonar, as well as at Harbor Grace. Mr. Garland leaves five sons and three daughters, besides a widow to mourn their loss. We tender our sincere sympathy to the bereaved family.

OBITUARY.

MR. E. B. WOODS.

News reached the city yesterday from Brooklyn, New York, announcing the passing of Mr. Edwin B. Woods of that place. Mr. Woods was comparatively young when he left St. John's. At New York he studied law with one of the leading firms of the city, Martin and Smith of Wall Street. In due course he became a Counselor-at-Law, holding the position of Commissioner of the Supreme Court of Newfoundland in that city. During the administration of President Taft he was appointed Inspector of Immigration, which office he held at the time of his death. Mr. Woods always took a deep interest in Newfoundland affairs, and was a leading spirit in the Newfoundland Association in New York, he was a son of the late John Woods Esq., and his brothers and sisters are Rev. Dr. Woods and Rev. Alfred Woods of Boston, Hon. H. J. B. Woods, P.M.G., of Newfoundland; Messrs. Sidney and Chealey Woods of the city, Mrs. Emily Bully who resides with her son, Rev. Charles Bully in Wisconsin and Mrs. Joseph Pippy of Freshwater Rd. He was married to Agnes, second daughter of the late Major Renouf, who was a member of the local Legislature, and afterwards Judge of the Central District Court. To his relatives we extend our sympathy in their sorrow, and in that sympathy a host of Mr. Woods' friends in this island unite. His welcomed visits will be missed by many here, for Edwin Woods was ever envied for an atmosphere of geniality and optimism. He was about 62 years of age, and until within a few days of his passing had been an active and vigorous man. The deceased was a school mate and life long friend of the Proprietor of this paper. We tender to his family and relatives our sincere sympathy.

McMurdo's Store News.

Here is a real novelty—Lesley's Eau de Cologne Jelly. This ingenious paste combines the fragrance and virtues of Eau de Cologne with the cooling and soothing properties of menthol. They are combined in an emollient medium which is not sticky nor greasy, and when rubbed lightly on the forehead will set free the cooling and soothing effects of the Cologne and the menthol and relieve headache and neuralgia, bronchitis, colds, and hoarseness in children or adults. Price, 25c. a bottle.

McMurdo's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has great demulcent powers which render the syrup an excellent and useful remedy for cough, irritation, and hoarseness in children or adults. Price, 25c. a bottle.

Pathetic Tragedy.

There is a sad and pathetic incident in connection with the tragedy reported in yesterday's Telegram, which occurred at St. Brendan's, B.B., on Sunday. In which the body of Mr. John Croke was destroyed by fire and his sister burned to death. Miss Croke was an invalid, having been afflicted from birth and could not get out of the house when the fire originated.
