CHAPTER XL.

"I can not believe it," she breathed. The major part of his passionate appeal had gone by her, unheeded. "You—you say that you will take me to her?"

The desire to see this woman, if she existed—to put the doubt which tortured her to the test—had got full possession of her.

"I will take you to her," he said. "Listen. Be calm. Summon all your strength of mind and soul. You have been deceived, Florence, and by the man who pretended to love you. Obey me, and I will show you the way to punish him—to avenge yourself. This woman—Vane Tempest's wife—is living not far from here. Come with me, and I will take you to her. You are not afraid?"

"Afraid?" she turned upon him with unspeakable scorn; "afraid of you? No!"

"Good! I want your love, not your fear. Listen," he whispered in her ear, slowly, carefully—"I have a carriage waiting in the lane outside the gate."

She started. He smiled.

"Yes, I knew you would come. I have everything prepared. Even our berths in the P. & O. are booked." She shuddered. "I know that you could not withstand me. Come with me now—"

She seemed to consider for a moment; then, with averted face, she said, almost inaudibly:

"Yes, I will come. Swear to me—She paused in a kind of despair.

"You are right not to ask me," he said. "You know that I should hold no oath sacred where you were concerned. But though it is useless to swear, I give you my simple word that I will still hold myself as your slave. You, yourself, of your own free will, shall turn to me and fulfill my right to protect you to make you my wife. Yes, Florence my wife. That shall be our compact. I will prove your marriage with Vane void and of no effect, and you, yourself, shall reward me. Come!"

She drew her arm away.

"I will go," she said, her face white and strained. "But I will see this woman—I must—but I will go to the house first."

honor. But the misery of it! To have learned that he really loved her to have rested in his arms, and deemed her happiness—and his—secure, only to find that after all he belonged to another woman, and that he was indeed lost to her forever! For she knew Lady Florence well enough to feel sure that she would not surrender Vane, the man she had loved so passionately and for so long.

Nora rode home slowly, revolving it all in her mind, recalling Vane's words, his looks, his joy and despair, and asking herself whether in all the world there existed any one so miserable, so unhappy as the mistress of Vale Hall.

She went straight to her room and began to take off her habit, and while she was doing so there was a knock at the door, and Milly's voice demanding admittance.

Nora opened the door, and Milly took her arm from the maid's and transferred it to Nora's.

"Where have you been all day, dear?" she inquired. "Riding? Why, you must be tired out, amon as you are: you look tired! Come, sit by the fire. I've told them to bring some tea. You've had your lunch?"

Nora sat down and stared at the flames, wearily, and shook her head.

"No lunch? Oh, Nora! Why?" she stopped and peered up intently at Nora's face with her lovingly sharp eyes—"something has happened. Oh, it's no use shaking your head! I know there has. But I don't want you to tell me."

Nora smiled and sighed.

"It is of very little use telling any one, Milly," she said, in that tone of resignation which all of us adopt when the game is played out and the stakes lost. "But," she added, after a pause, "I don't know why I shouldn't tell you. I have had a strange meeting this morning. Milly," "Wait," whispered Milly, as the said came in with the tea.

"Now," she said, after she had poured out a cup and placed it in Nora's hand; "now you shall tell me. You have met—Oh, Nora, you have met him!"

"Yes," she said; "I have met the inevitable 'him' who makes or mars every woman's life, Milly. They often seem to be able to get on without 'she' in their life's story, but we women can never manage to run our short span without the 'he.' And now, Milly, dear, I'm afraid I can't tell you all." Not even to Milly could she confess the "Ernest Mortimer" business. "But I think you have guessed that the great sorrow of my life, that which has robbed me of the capacity of enjoying all the good things which have fallen to me, was caused by—love."

Milly pressed her face against Nora's knee.

The Best Cough Syrup is Easily Made at Home

Costs Little and Acts Quickly. Money Refunded if it Fails.

This recipe makes 16 ounces of cough syrup, and saves you about $2.00 as compared with ordinary cough remedies. It cures obstinate coughs—even whooping cough—in a hurry, and is splendid for sore lungs, asthma, croup, hoarseness and other throat troubles.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir for two minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents) worth in a 16-ounce bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Tastes good.

This takes right hold of a cough and gives almost instant relief. It stimulates the appetite, and is a splendid live-soul excellent feature.

Pinex, as perhaps you know, is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in gualcol and the other natural healing pine elements.

No other preparation will do the work of Pinex in this recipe, although strained honey can be used instead of the sugar syrup, if desired.

Thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada now use this Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe. This plan has often been imitated, but the old successful formula has never been equaled. Its low cost and quick results have made it immensely popular.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Mr. ROBERT BORLEY, 123, Ebley Road, Clapham Junction, S.W., writes: "I have enclosed photo of my daughter. When born, this child was very small and was wasting away; she was constantly crying, and we did not expect her to live long. Having heard of your food, we decided to give it a trial, and have a great improvement in one week, so we continued to use it, and now you could not wish to see a finer child anywhere; she is very strong, and at present busy cutting her teeth, but we have no trouble with her and she does not even cry; in fact, we have not had one bad night since using VIROL, and I would not be without it for the world—every body remarks what a fine child she is, and my wife tells them that it is only by feeding her on VIROL that she is so well. I should like you to see her, which she stands firm on her legs as any child double her age, which is twelve months on the 4th of November, and I am sure there is not a child that has finer limbs for her age, and I can assure you that I would sooner be without any tobacco than she should her VIROL."

WOMAN IN TERRIBLE STATE

Finds Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cape Wolfe, Canada.—"Last March I was a complete wreck. I had given up all hope of getting better or living any length of time, as I was such a sufferer from female troubles. But I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am in good health and have a pair of twin boys two months old and growing finely. I surprised doctors and neighbors for they all know what a wreck I was.

"Now I am healthy, happy and hearty, and owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies. You may publish this letter if you like. I think if more women used your remedies they would have better health."—Mrs. J. T. COOK, Lot No. 7, Cape Wolfe, P.E.I., Canada.

Because your case is a difficult one, and doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has remedied many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and it may be exactly what you need.

The Pinkham record is a proud and peerless one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of women—ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you need such a medicine?

Mr. John W. Currie of Britannia Cove, T.B., was married yesterday to Miss Julia Power, daughter of Captain John Power, of this town. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. B. The happy couple left by the afternoon train en route to their home, taking with them the best wishes of their host of friends, for a prosperous and happy voyage over the sea of matrimony together.

Mr. A. Collis has lately returned from his business trip to northern ports repairing pianos, organs, etc., and he was kept very busy at the different places visited. He had been absent since August. He also gave some valuable assistance to the church choir in the places visited. He speaks very highly of the kindness he received from the people he met.

The Methodist choir are preparing some special music for the Christmas services.

Some persons will no doubt be sorry to hear that our Harbor Grace correspondent met with a rather serious accident yesterday, whereby his right foot became crushed in a machine he was operating, and the great toe broken simply by allowing the foot to slip under the treadle at the right time to receive the blow. He suffered and is still suffering much pain. Dr. Parsons bandaged up the injured foot, and assured the sufferer that he would in three weeks to reflect on his good and bad deeds before he would be again able to undertake work. But accidents are not all bad, as they sometimes give people an opportunity of knowing who their friends are, and how very many friends they have. We were surprised at the number of calls and enquiries for our welfare. Thanks, friends, very much.

Less than a year ago, it was our painful duty to report the death of an old lady of this town under sad conditions of poverty and filth, and now we have a double case of a similar nature to report. James Brien and his sister Anastasia, lived alone in a small house near the railway station. Both were mentally afflicted, and were looked after as far as possible by their friends, and more than once we have referred to them in your columns. Their surroundings had become so bad through poverty and dirt lately that friends who would do something for them could not venture there. The Relieving Officer was notified, but the sad ending of the affair would almost seem to suggest that the officer had done very little for them. The circumstances of the finding of the bodies are as follows: Mr. Ford, of the railway station, not seeing the old man around on Tuesday at noon, reported to Constable Dooley, who immediately went to the house and on entering in at a window, saw the feet of the sister protruding from under the bed. Going to the rear of the house the officer entered by the back door and was horrified to see the almost nude body of Mr. Brien, lying on the floor of the back-house, while the stench was almost unbearable. Dr. Strapp, who was passing, was then called in and he pronounced death to have taken place some hours before. The sister was not dead when discovered, and Father Walker was quickly summoned, but she passed away a few minutes after. The bodies were coffined by Undertaker Parsons, and the double funeral of a brother and sister, who could not be separated even in death, took place this afternoon. Can it be true that such an affair could have taken place in a community like Harbor Grace? Yes, only too true, and the proper authority was aware of the condition of want and misery in this afflicted home. True, Mr. Brien had the pension, having received it for last quarter. But we hope to live to see the day when a Relieving Officer will be paid a sufficient salary to keep him all his time visiting the homes of the poor and afflicted in his jurisdiction, and seeing their condition, helping them to comfort and encouraging them to help themselves. The caribou, partridge, rabbits and other animals are all protected by law, and wardens paid good salaries to see the law enforced, and that in a country where two old, lonely people, both afflicted, are allowed to die of want, for such it was. Again we say God help the poor, and soften the hearts of the authorities towards them. —COR.

Hard Work.

Sometimes I get sore and ranty over the work I have to do, and I find a round the atmosphere is blue. "Why," I ask the cat, "if thunder should a fellow toil and slave?—All his skirmishing for plunder merely brings him to the grave. You are wise, old cat, in dreaming, dreaming of your feline joys, while the human chumps are screaming for some prize not worth the noise; you are wise, you durned old tabby, dreaming as the minutes scot, while men wear their tempers shabby chasing after Dead Sea fruit." Then I walk three blocks or seven, just to soothe my nerves a few, and encounter ten or eleven men who have no work to do. Men as good as I or better, who are nathless down and out, shackled by misfortune's fetter, all their hopes gone up the spout. Men whose poverty is shrieking, men of evil luck the sport, men who spend the long days seeking work, just work of any sort. Then I go back to my shanty in a chastened frame of mind, having seen worse hell than Dante, and resume the pleasant grind.

They Defend Mr. Targett.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir: In the issue of the Herald, 25th October, there appeared a statement of Mr. Targett's ability and character. Now, sir, we the undersigned wish to inform the public that statement is not true. We would say that Mr. Targett is a man in every shape on sea or land, and if his chances had been as good as many, he would have been a size bigger than the person that wrote that paragraph.

Mr. Targett was left an orphan when very young and with no parents to care for him. He had very much of a given site started at the cod fishery, and after being engaged at that for a while he thought he could do better. Then he started at the Lobster Business, and to-day he can catch and pack his own Lobsters and is successful. His ambitions was so intense for advancement he started a tin shop and he has been so successful in that business that he is a credit to himself and the place he belongs and the way that he has improved in that work will well that he has some ability and we took upon Mr. Targett to-day as a self-taught tinsmith.

Moravian Missionary Honoured.

Bishop Martin, the distinguished Moravian Missionary, has had the Order of the Red Eagle, Fourth Class, conferred on him recently in recognition of his services as meteorologist in Labrador.

Bishop Martin will be present at the General Moravian Synod next year, and will officially represent the mission field over which he has presided for the past twenty-three years.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.
Hope is excited that the Navajo Indians, who are now defying the Government authorities, may be induced to yield peacefully, and surrender the eight renegades whose arrest is sought. The War department to-day ordered General Scott, Commander of the second cavalry brigade, at Fort Bliss, Texas, to proceed in haste to Navajo agency to confer with the Indian Chiefs. General Scott is singularly influential with the Navajos, whose language he speaks, and has always been regarded by them as their best friend.

The latest addition to the delicacies at our Soda Counter is Grape Juice. This is Armour's Top Notch Brand, made from the choicest Concord grapes. It is unfermented and non-alcoholic, and has the genuine flavor of the fresh blue grape in full measure. The addition of Soda Water gives this tasty juice a sparkling quality and brings out its flavor as nothing else will. Grape Juice and Soda is served ice cold and is very appealing and refreshing. A glass five cents each.

A box of Pine Tree Lozenges is quite in order to have in the pocket just now when the damp chilly autumn days seem to be coming in earnest. You can depend upon Pine Tree Lozenges to prevent coughs and colds, or to relieve them if they have already started. But as prevention is better than cure, buy a box to-day. Price 25c. a box.

CHURCH LIFE.

The writer said he was nothing in church or state. Well, sir, we say that Mr. Targett is a very prominent man in church work. He superintended the Methodist Sunday School for 12 years and is a member of the quarterly official board for a number of years and has been appointed by the Board to attend conventions and has been leader in church work spiritual and temporal. That's the size of the man that we have to represent us in the House of Assembly for the next four years. He was chosen at the district council convention at Catalina in 1911 and we think he will do it as well as the person that tried to discredit him before the Election, shame on the person that did it. It was very low and mean to do so and we want to inform the public, is not acquainted with Mr. Targett of the falseness of that statement.

RESPECTED.

Mr. Targett is respected by the people of Harb's Harbor and other places as well where he is known and respected so much that the Men's Bible class have chosen him to be their President and we want to inform that writer and the public as well, that the people of Harb's Harbor showed just as much respect for their character in voting for Targett as they would in voting for Squires, and we believe that a tinsmith is just as good to represent us in the House of Assembly as a Lawyer. Pending, we have transmitted on your valuable paper we will the Union and its president and members every success.

Hard Up Against It!

Sir Edward Morris is hard up against it. The political outlook is bad enough. The financial outlook is worse. He blundered badly in agreeing to pay the Railway Contractors in gold instead of debentures, and he is now faced to face with the result of his folly and the country is left to reap the harvest of the sowing of Morris's wild oats. He did it in face of the grave warning of a statesman who knew what he was talking about. In the debate on the Branch Railway Resolutions, in 1910 Sir Robert Bond said:

"Up to date all railway construction in this country by contract has been paid for in Debenture Bonds of 2½ per cent, at par, and the contractor had to run all the risks and expenses incident to the flotation of their bonds. The present Government have changed this order of things, and the Reid Nfld. Co. are to be paid in hard cash, and the people of this Colony are made to shoulder all the risks and expenses of a flotation, in the interest of the Reid. Why is this? Whatever the intentions of the Government may have been, the fact remains, that this contract is peculiarly and emphatically in the interest of the Reid Nfld. Co. from whatever standpoint you view it."

Sir Edward Morris floated debentures of $3,000,000 on their face and led folks to believe that the amount of cash he realized from them would complete the branch railways. The facts were against him, and in 1912 he had to eat his own words, and face the flotation of another block of debentures of $2,000,000 nominal value. He realized much less per cent in the flotation of the second loan, the market being more adverse. He has now to face the flotation of a third loan to complete the 1910 contract, which will need all the more money as he has told the country that the terminus of the Fortune Bay branch is to be at Grand Bank, after traversing the Burin peninsula. The money market has been suffering all the time. Colonial Governments find the investing public shy even in taking up four per cent, and even four and a half per cent, issued below par, and underwriters as we showed from a quotation from Trustee's monthly article in the November issue of the Empire Review, the underwriters of Colonial loans have called a halt and decline to underwrite more, until they have got rid of what they have already underwritten. It is clear then Sir Edward Morris is hard up against it. He cannot float a third loan for some time to come. He has lost the confidence of a majority of the electorate and he has two defeated Ministers on his hands and he is at his wit's end how to proceed.

Chickens and Blue Orpingtons, Campines, Houdans and White Crested Blacks. The birds are fine looking and well worth seeing, and the Committee feel gratified at the fact that the record exhibits brought a record attendance. This is most encouraging, and should stimulate others to go into the business of poultry raising. Speaking of the breeds of birds displayed, Prof. Landry intimated that they compared favorably with products of less pretentious towns. Somewhere about 700 persons visited the place during the evening, and to-day, through the courtesy of the Committee, the children of the different Orphanages will be shown through. The show is open to-day and to-morrow from 10 a.m. till 10.30 p.m. The exhibition on the whole was a magnificent success from every standpoint and proved an eye-opener as to what can be done in the way of poultry raising. The splendid stock of birds exhibited exceeded the expectations of the most sanguine visitors who were particularly struck with the clean appearance of the poultry.

RT. HON. SIR WILFRED LAURIER born 1841. Canadian statesman and present leader of the Liberal Party in Opposition. He turned early to politics and entered the Dominion House of Commons in 1874. His splendid gift of oratory gave him an immediate position in federal politics, and he had the gift and distinction of speaking equally well in both French and English. He became Prime Minister in 1896 and held the position for twelve years.
RUBINSTEIN died 1894, aged 64. Jewish piano-virtuoso and musical composer, whose emotional style of playing, combined with his remarkable technical equipment, never failed to exercise an almost electrifying effect upon his audience.
Who can all sense of other's ill escape is but a brute, at best, in human shape. —Tate.

THE IDEAL Bed Spring!

Is known everywhere as the most luxurious article to sleep on ever produced. It has stood the test for more than 20 years and is more popular to-day than ever. The Ideal No. 10 is constructed of 120 double Coil Spiral Springs, made of the best quality of wire. The Springs are knotted at both ends and interlocked lengthwise, forming an unbroken surface for the mattress and occupant.

Each Spring is firmly attached to a flexible steel frame in the centre, which provides lateral support and eliminates all tendency to lateral motion, and at the same time compels perpendicular action of the Spring. There are eight angle iron bars crossing underneath the Spring, which are attached on each side to hangers that rest on the side rails of an iron bedstead. The outside row of Spiral Springs are directly over the side rail of the bedstead, forming a spring edge to the extreme outside edge of the bed. With this method of construction 9 inch Springs can be used, thereby increasing the flexibility and comfort of the bed and adding greatly to its durability and making it the Greatest Spring made.

A large shipment just in to select from. Prices from $6.50 up. Allow us to demonstrate their wonderful qualities.

EXTRA! Mid-Week Programme.

THE FINGER OF SUSPICION—A cruel sentence truly but a beautiful love story in this instance, as enacted by Alice Joyce and the famous Kalem players, in which circumstantial evidence plays a most important part. DETAILORILY CORRECT!

THE TELEPHONE GIRL AND THE LADY—A Biograph production, showing in a "novelistic" manner how a hard-working, conscientious and honest girl befriended a "Lady of High Degree."

SAMMY "ORPHEUS"—The "Pied Piper of Hamelin" had nothing on "Sammy." If you think that he had, see the film. It's a scream!

TRAPPED BY WIRELESS—Illustrating pictorially how a young boy of an inventive turn of mind proved his, so-called, "play-toy" to eventually be of great commercial value.

Peculiar Songs, Arthur Priestman Cameron. Incidental Music, Prof. McCarthy.
High Class Ballads, Al. D. Fleming.

Tommy Burns the Well-Known Jockey Crushed to Death.

Fell or Jumped Beneath a New York Elevated Train.
New York, Nov. 14.—T. H. (Tommy) Burns, internationally famous as a jockey, either jumped or fell beneath an elevated train in Brooklyn to-day, and was ground to pieces. No one witnessed the tragedy.

The last person to see him alive was the station ticket seller, who remarked him pacing up and down the platform just before the train pulled in. His furled coat and hat was found on a bench.

Diamonds and a silver cigarette case, a considerable sum of cash, a bank book showing deposits in a Berlin bank, and a contract to ride there next season were found on the body. Burns spent last season abroad but had been living at Sheephead Bay of late. Presumably he was on his way home when he was killed.

Tommy Burns was one of the world's leading jockeys and was reputedly wealthy.

He rode for such owners as W. C. Whitney, William G. Daley, and several years ago carried the colors of the German Emperor whose entries secured under the name of Count Lehn-dorf. He was married and had two children.

Mrs. Rosalie Burns, the widow, said this afternoon that she was convinced that her husband had not committed suicide. He had gone to New York yesterday, she said, to make arrange meetings for a contract during the coming season, and had telephoned her about one o'clock this morning saying that he would be home late.

Queer Japanese Frog

The Japanese frog is a creature measuring between 15 and 25 inches. The skin of its back is pale blue, and by night looks dark green or olive brown. The frog remains motionless during the day, with eyes sheltered from the light and with belly clinging to its support by adhesive cushions and by its belly, which is provided with a sticky covering, and it is hardly distinguishable from the objects that surround it. At nightfall it begins its hunt for the numerous crickets on which it feeds, making leaps covering seven feet of ground.

President Huerta plans to submit his message on Congress to his Cabinet. The message is short, and will tersely review the most acts of the Huertista, dealing frankly with the situation of Congress, and of the States. It is expected that Congress will accept the message with few, if any, amendments, thereby giving virtual ratification of his election, and an immediate disapproval of the late election, and it is foreseen that the election will be null. It is regarded as probable that Huerta's message to Congress may include some provisions for the period ensuing until permanent president is elected.

Hundreds of Lives Lost.

Special Evening Telegram.
BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Nov. 19. With the loss of hundreds of lives and the greatest destruction of property what General Gonzalez, the rebel commander, describes as the "bloodiest battle of the Revolution," Victoria, the capital of the Mexican State of Tamaulipas, was captured by the Constitutionalists to-day. This gives the insurrectionary movement the control of the entire State, the seaport of Tampico excepted, and there a strong force of rebels is already operating. It was said that the bodies of the dead littered the streets, and lay thick in the courtyards and halls of the Government palace where a portion of the Federal garrisons made its last stand, after being driven from the Catholic sanctuary, where they took refuge yesterday. All the defenders were slain. This morning 3,000 men evacuated the city, after 49 hours of continued fighting. They retreated to Tula, several miles away, where they were overtaken by the Constitutionalists and again decisively beaten this afternoon. They fled, demoralized, for the hills. The victorious rebels are reported to number 5,000. Their losses consist of 4 officers and from 30 to 50 men. The total loss of life will run into hundreds. Property loss in the two days' battle is enormous. Many handsome buildings were razed by shells, or levelled by torches. Victoria has a population of 15,000, and is situated in a rich farming district, inhabited by many Americans. No mention of the non-combatants is made in General Gonzalez report. Before the Federal abandoned the city a hundred guns were piled in front of the arsenal and burned, but many were salvaged, while 200 horses, saddles, cannons and much ammunition was captured. A number of prisoners was taken.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 19. President Huerta planned to-day to submit his message on to-morrow's Congress to his cabinet. The meeting was called for this afternoon. The message is short, and it is said will tersely review the most important acts of the Huerta administration, dealing frankly with the dissolution of Congress, and calling attention to the strained relations with the States. It is expected that Congress will accept the message without protest, thereby giving Huerta a virtual ratification of his acts. It is said that the message will open the way to an immediate discussion by Congress of the late presidential election, and it is foregone conclusion that the election will be declared null. It is regarded as possible that Congress may name some one, other than Huerta as provisional president for the period ensuing until the permanent president is elected.

LONDON, Nov. 19. The battleship Iron Duke effected a timely rescue of 30 passengers and crew of the steamer Scotsdyke, while burning in the English Channel, to-day. The steamer was bound from the Mediterranean to Sunderland, and caught fire off the Isle of Wight about midnight. The blaze started in the deck cargo of grass, and spread so quickly that the crew could not stay its progress. The seas were so heavy that the remaining lifeboats could not be launched. The panic-stricken passengers were forced to retire to the stern. Fortunately the Iron Duke, which was carrying out trials during the night, sighted the Scotsdyke, and her boats put off to the rescue. She played her searchlights on the stern of the doomed ship while the rescue crew took all hands safely off.

LONDON, Nov. 19. The Admiralty to-day observed customary reticence concerning the movements of war vessels, merely stating that the cruisers Suffolk, Lancaster and Berwick with the light cruiser Hermione, were at Barbados on Nov. 12th. An official declaration of the intimation that the whole fourth cruiser squadron would join at Vera Cruz, but declined to deny that some of the ships were proceeding there.

ACTON, Ala., Nov. 19. The bodies of 16 men killed in an explosion yesterday in Mine No. 2, of the Alabama Fuel and Iron Co., near here, have been recovered. Six miners, who were entombed, have been rescued alive up to an early hour to-day. From 10 to 20 miners are still missing, and supposed to be shut up in the mine.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 19. Passengers from the Bahamas numbered 71 men, 32 women and children, most of them from Cuba, all bound to ports in Spain.

Offer to Sell Land To the Government.

London, Nov. 5.—Following Mr. Lloyd George's land campaign speeches, in which he accused the land-owners of depopulating immense tracts of land in Scotland suitable for population and cultivation to provide deer forests, many land owners are offering to sell large areas to the government at low prices.

The Duke of Sutherland, for instance, offers 410,000 acres, of which half is a deer forest and half is arable land. The price he asks varies from $5.80 to $8.25 an acre. Another owner offers 100,000 acres at $101 an acre, while still another offers the entire island of Lewis, comprising 417,000 acres. The price is not given. The Duke of Sutherland points out what is known to everybody, including Mr. Lloyd George, that the deer forests are mountainous and impossible of cultivation. If the government proposes to buy such land there will be probably an outcry against wasting public money.

A Delightful Show.

The usual large crowds attended the Nickel Theatre last evening, and all expressed themselves as highly pleased with the performance. The principal film was entitled "The Finger of Suspicion" and was viewed with eager interest by every one. It is a sensational story with Alice Joyce as the principal actress. "The Telephone Girl" and "The Lady," and "Trapped by Wireless" are also high class dramas. "Sammy Orplows" is a great comedy. This evening the pictures will be repeated, and Messrs. Fleming and Cameron will be heard in new songs.

City of Sydney Arrives

The S. S. City of Sydney, Capt. McDonald, reached port at eight o'clock last evening from Montreal via Charlottetown and Sydney. From the latter port the ship came in thirty-six hours, although meeting rough weather. She brought a full cargo, including a deck load of cattle and the following passengers in saloon:—James A. Tucker, John F. Roberts, Miss Mand. Roberts, G. L. Roberts, John Connors, Edward Powers, W. Atken, Ralph Tilley, Joseph Tilley, R. Goodyear and five in steerage.

Rossley Theatre.

Another good house at Rossley's last night. Everyone delighted with Miss Louise Arkandy's singing. The Patterson trio are giving their farewell show and it promises to be the very finest yet. There are some very excellent pictures just arrived. Mrs. Rossley is hard at work on the pantomime. There will be some very delightful novelties introduced in those productions. Every costume new, and in keeping with the fairy story, which will delight old and young.

Workingmen Return.

Several engineers and iron workers who left here some time ago for Montreal, returned last night by the S. S. City of Sydney. The men say that their class of work is dull at present in Montreal and prospects are poor for a winter's employment, hence the reason for coming home.

Marine Notes.

The S. S. Beothic is now loading fish for Mediterranean ports. The barq. Earishall is ready to sail for Pernambuco, fish laden by Job Bros. and sails the first opportunity. The S. S. Morwenna is due here to-morrow night from Montreal and Gulf ports. The S. S. Almeriana sails from London on December 9th for Liverpool and this port.

Huerta's Message to Congress.

Special to The Evening Telegram. MEXICO CITY, To-day.

Huerta, in his message to Congress this afternoon, quotes Napoleon, in his justification of his arbitrary dissolution of the old Congress and he serves notice that he will ask the new Congress to grant him a political bill of health. Not even a reference to the international relations is made in the message which document was read and briefly discussed at a meeting of the Cabinet, the Ministers agreeing with their Chief that he had done well in not attempting to cover too much ground. The message closes with the expression of the hope that soon all Mexicans may be united and that all may join in the task of National reconstruction. Speculation as to what President Wilson intends to do in face of the Mexican difficulty, is increased by the knowledge that the American Charge d'Affairs, O'Shaughnessy had received new instructions from Washington to wait at his post for further instructions, and that important matters were under consideration. The announcement that a British squadron was coming to Mexican waters created keen interest, but the effect upon the Mexican mind was assuring rather than otherwise, because American people continue to look upon Britain as a friend in official quarters. The despatch of the squadron was styled, an act of courtesy.

Wild Scenes at Larkin's Meeting.

Special to The Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day.

The first appearance as an orator in London of James Larkin, head of the Transport Workers' Union, led to wild scenes and disorder at the Albert-Hall last night, where several thousand had gathered to hear him. Students from the colleges, connected with London University, made an organized attempt to upset the meeting and fierce rioting both outside and inside the hall occurred. A large force of police was requisitioned and free fights occurred. Many persons were injured before the meeting was able to proceed, for the students successfully stormed the entrance and gained admission to the floor of the hall. There further fighting took place and sticks and umbrellas were freely used. Fire works were set off amid scenes of pandemonium and for a time there was danger of a panic. The orator continued playing, however, and the audience began singing Socialist songs, to which the students responded by singing "God Save the King" and "Rule Britannia." When order was partially restored, Larkin went on with his speech which was mainly devoted to the denunciation of the Government in connection with the Dublin strike.

Mysterious Poisonings.

Special Evening Telegram. NANTES, France, To-day.

The recent poisoning of fifty guests at a wedding party at Chollet, was due to a bacillus heretofore unknown to science which Dr. Rappan, Director of the Pasteur Institute at Nantes announced he had succeeded in isolating as a result of the fatal poisoning of eight persons and later of other deaths from a mysterious cause, occurred in various parts of the town among people who had not attended the wedding. The new bacillus has been named the Bacillus Hypertoxicus. Dr. Rappan is continuing his investigation into the nature of the bacillus.

Pirrie Resigns.

Special to Evening Telegram. BELFAST, To-day.

Lord Pirrie will resign the Chairmanship of Harland and Wolff's Shipbuilding and Engineering establishment at the end of the year in favor of his wife's brother, Right Hon. Alexander McArchie, at present consultant and adviser to the firm. It is understood Lord Pirrie will enter the political field, possibly in an important Government position.

Hospital Filled.

There are at present about one hundred and thirty patients in the General Hospital, with thirty-five applicants for admission, many of whom are seriously ill. Quite a number of persons have arrived in the city late with practically nothing the matter with them, and are continually trying to usurp the places of deserving patients. One man from Jona, Placentia Bay, came for treatment, bearing a certificate from a medical man, and upon examination it was discovered that he was suffering only from a slight attack of rheumatism, and needed some good liniment which could very safely be applied at home. In this respect we would like to suggest that the circulars sent to practitioners for their guidance in such cases be printed in much larger type, as they are now evidently misunderstood. This may tend to save a lot of unnecessary expense.

We have seen the North Shore, always found him prompt, pleasant and obliging, willing to disoblige himself to oblige the public and help the bank he had charge of.

Your good wishes go with Mr. Morrow as he proceeds to his new appointment. Hoping that he may be appreciated there as he was here.

Penalizing Honesty.

By RUTH CAMERON.

The rates of the way, in which honest people are forced to pay dishonest people's bills is almost enough to discourage a Diogenes.

Be dishonest and someone will pay your bills for you; be honest and you will pay your own bills and those of someone else in addition.

Take insurance, for example. The rates of fire insurances in certain branches are nearly doubled by the "rotten risk." When any article goes out of style, or for any other reason becomes unsalable, insurance companies are often obliged to refuse to insure the factories where such articles are made. Why? Because these factories are much more likely to burn down than a piece of property which is bringing in a good income. A recent magazine has a story of a man who succeeded in insuring one of these useless factories. The insurance papers were taken out at twelve o'clock; at three the factory burned down. The insurance company paid up the claim but before doing so it telegraphed "Why this delay?" Honest business men, when they can pay high rates for insurance, are paying the bills of men like this.

A shop which carries charge customers, always loses a certain number of accounts per year. In the last analysis, of course, this loss is charged up to the honest customer who pays his bills. To be sure, the charge is imperceptible to him because it is in the form of a small percentage added to the price of each article, but it is no less real than if it were a distinct item at the foot of his bill.

Again, take doctor's bills. Tell any doctor that you think the fee charged by doctors, and particularly by specialists, is large, and he will be sure to remind you that a doctor has a great many bad bills. I believe a quarter of his accounts is not considered an abnormal loss. Consequently, that means that when you and I who pay our doctor's bills, pay a doctor for visiting us, we are really paying fifty cents of that two dollars for someone who cannot or will not pay his bills—more likely the latter.

An osteopath with whom I have recently become acquainted has found an excellent way of correcting this injustice. He gives treatments for three dollars apiece, if you pay him in the dim, distant future; but there are twelve for twenty-five dollars if you pay at once, "a sort of discount for cash," he frankly calls it. I cannot see why other doctors cannot do the same thing. That would be one small way of correcting the injustice under which the man who pays his bills suffers, and every little helps.

THE GREATEST INDUSTRY OF ALL.

(By L. G. Chiozza Money, M.P.)

The student of society wisely bases himself upon what can be done with individuals, and every social question really resolves itself in analysis into what institutions can accomplish for individuals. In this connection it is the widest hope that is held out to us by scientific inquiry, the verdict of science confirming the view that, given two individuals of equal powers, it is possible for the one to be saved and for the other to be lost through the varying influences brought to bear upon those powers by external causes. It is with the mental and moral as with the physical. Just as the muscles respond to the stimulus of use, becoming more useful and more powerful with exercise, or falling into atrophy with disuse, so the mental powers respond to varying excitations, habits developed, and good or bad character formed.

The Jekyll and Hyde Allegory, never was a more profound truth cast in the form of an allegory than when Robert Louis Stevenson wrote "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." Here we have the picture of the man of diverse powers and capabilities succumbing to evil through repeatedly exposing himself to the wrong kind of stimulus, the stimulus moulding habit, and the habit conquering the man. Every parent and every student of social institutions should read the book, and reflect upon the fact that its terrible picture is but an allegorical representation of scientific truth. Every child in our schools at this hour is both a Jekyll and a Hyde; and the influences which it is being subjected to, which it is now the age for leaving school, and even more the influences to which it will be subjected after the age at which children now leave school, will decide which possibilities will be developed, in it. The average child starts life a clean page, physically and mentally, and what comes to be written upon it rests with its parents and with our social institutions.

Supplementing the Parents' Work. Nothing can compensate a child for the loss of good fathering and mothering, but we know very well that a considerable proportion of existing fathers and mothers are cases in circumstances which make the performance of their duties difficult and which indeed put a premium upon their evasion. Our proudest industry sends mothers to the mill and children to the minder. A considerable proportion of mothers, let us remember, are deserted and left to bring up children as best they may. In no small number of homes homework is done for a penny, or two-pence, or three-pence an hour, and a child is schooled from its first conscious moments in sordid care, and necessarily deprived of any chance of a decent home life and of nearly everything that ought to be the matter-of-course right of a child. In hundreds of thousands of homes the mother has to supplement the father's scanty wages by going out washing or charring for the kind of woman who sometimes writes to me to inquire how she can evade paying the threepenny insurance. In other hundreds of thousands of homes the wage which ought to be sufficient to start children well in life is disgracefully wasted by men who were once children, and who might have been Jekylls, but have become Hydes. It is by reminding ourselves of these things that we grasp the tremendous opportunity which the school affords as a social institution to supplement what good parents can do, and to counteract and even eradicate what bad parents may do. And if we see the opportunity ariht, we realize that these children with whom we are dealing to-day are the parents of to-morrow, and that in them lies the hope and continuance of the race. Realizing that, we have no doubt remaining as to what is the main social institution, and in what direction, above all, the energies of statesmen should be directed.

In Any Case "Education" Goes On. In any case children are educated. Every child, let us remember, cannot all to be educated in the literal sense of the word. Education begins the moment a child opens its eyes and begins to receive impressions. From the first minute all sorts of stimuli are brought to bear upon it. The educative influences begin before school, and continue during school age and beyond it. If we allow children, as we do allow eight out of ten of the children of the poor, to pass out of systematic training before they are fourteen years of age, do not let us suppose that their education ceases because they have done with school. What happens is that they are caught up into working life, and that their character is moulded by the mingled influences of home, factory, shop and street. The powers of the youth and of the child are "led out" and developed, but how? The greatest industry of all, the development of boys and girls into men and women, is for the most part left to blind chance, and that although we know what greatly diverse results may be produced from equal beginnings.

I am moved to say these things here because I have noted with the deepest regret that we now hear no more from our politicians of educational advance. The children continue to pour out of our schools at thirteen years of age, untrained and undeveloped, to pass into the workaday world at the very period of life when they most need schooling and constant contact with gracious and high-minded men and women trained to be the leaders of the young. We can afford to do better than this, and merely to put the matter on a material basis, we must afford to do it, or in the time to come we shall find the position irretrievable.

10 Cent "Cascarets" Straighten You Up

No Sick Headache, Bilious Stomach, Constipated Bowels by morning.

Get a 10-cent box now.

Turn the rascals out—the headache, biliousness, indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out to-night and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse your stomach; remove the sour, fermenting food; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret to-night straightens you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love Cascarets because they never gripe or sicken.

Comedian-Composer.

Besides being a composer—he writes the music of most of his songs—Mr. Ernest Shand is something of a poet. He astonished a gathering the other day by breaking into verse when asked to propose a toast. He said:

Most men you know will often go
And have a trendy glass;
It isn't that they need the vat,
It's just the time to pass.

With jest or laugh our drink we quaff,
And say, "Well, here's a go";
But while we drink, do any think
Of wives at home? Oh, no!

So this my boast, to raise a toast,
"The best one in our lives;
"Young, short or tall, God bless them all."
Gentlemen! Our wives!"

A "Meditation," composed by Mr. Shand, is a favourite musical number with organists, and has been played in Westminster Abbey.

Kind? I Don't Think.

It was in Egypt, and an old lady in the tourist party was much interested in the camel-boy and his camel.

"Is he a good animal?" asked the lady.

"Yes, ma'am," responded the boy.

"Aye, lady; I've driven that camel over five years, and never once struck him a single blow."

"Dear me! Such humane treatment of dumb animals is worthy of consideration. Here is a piece of silver for you."

"Thank you, lady, very much. No, I never strike Rameses. I twist his blooming tail."

A Billion Dollars Lost Each Year.

Dry Feet Could Save The Most of it.

The International Congress on Tuberculosis that met in Washington last winter discussed the financial side of consumption as well as its medical aspect. Prof. Fisher, Professor of Political Economy at Yale, made the statement that tuberculosis cost the United States a billion dollars a year. He based his figures on the cost of doctors' fees, medicines, nurses, etc., and added the loss of earnings during the patient's period of sickness. He went into the question in great detail, and nobody disputed his figures.

A billion dollars every twelve months! That's a stupendous national loss, and all the doctors agree that this disease could soon be stamped out as effectively as yellow fever and cholera have been. There are four very simple things that will prevent consumption: Pure air, wholesome food, cleanliness and avoidance of cold. AND THE SUREST WAY TO AVOID COLDS, ESPECIALLY IN WINTER, IS TO KEEP THE FEET DRY.

There were 100,000 deaths from tuberculosis in the United States last year. Probably one-half of those unfortunate people would have been alive and well today if they had taken to small a precaution as putting on a pair of rubbers every time they went out into the rain or snow.

A $100 bond is better than a $100 bill, because it works for you night and day and brings home the highest wages.

$6 wages yearly on $100—of six per cent.—is synonymous with safety in this present period of high yield from even the best class of securities.

In fact, a higher rate of wages than this may be safely obtained if you be guided in your selection by some good investment banker.

We welcome an opportunity of showing you where your funds may earn the highest wages. But don't wait until you have time to write a letter. Just write your name and address on the back of this advertisement and mail it in an envelope to our St. John's office. That will bring you our best help and advice.

Healthy and Unhealthy Lighting

Gas, it may be said, vitiates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vitalize, nor does it purify. Hear what three eminent men have said:—
"Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation of air. It is for this amongst other reasons, that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jamieson B. Hurry.

He would merely add that no member who had experience of their meeting room under the old conditions could deny the improvement that had taken place since gas had been substituted for the electric light and the new system of heating and ventilation had been installed.—Dr. Reginald Dudgeon, before the Society of Medical Officers of Health.

I have in my mind's eye, at the moment, a hall which, in the old days, was lighted by gas, and in which a large audience could, with comfort, sit through an hour's lecture, or with pleasure through a three hours' dinner, but which with the smother of civilization, had its illumination changed from gas to electricity; the latter been employed with all the latest refinements to effect the lighting under the best conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a state little short of asphyxiation.—Vivian B. Lewis, Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.—nov12

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, Nov. 20, 1913.
HOUSEHOLD OF THE QUEEN.
MOTHER.

The newly announced appointment of the Duchess of Portland to be Mistress of the Robes to Queen Alexandra reminds people of the curious fact that the Household of the Queen-Mother is much more numerous than that of Queen Mary. Queen Alexandra has a Vice-Chamberlain as well as a Lord Chamberlain, but the King's Consort only has the one official, and where as Queen Mary has but one equeiry, Queen Alexandra has no fewer than four, as well as one or two extra equeiries. Queen Alexandra's Household also includes a Comptroller, several domestic chaplains, and an astonishing number of medical men—physicians, a surgeon, a laryngologist, and a bacteriologist. Such officers do not figure in the entourage of Queen Mary, who is, of course, provided for in both religious and medical respects by the King's Household. Under the Civil List Act, passed shortly after the accession of King George, Queen Alexandra was granted an annuity of £70,000, while the salaries and expenses of the Household of the King and Queen amount to over £300,000.

ENGLAND AND GERMAN RELATIONS.

Attention is being gradually called to the drawing together of this country and Germany which has been going on during the last twelve months. The work has been done so quietly by the diplomats that it has escaped public attention almost entirely. Yet at this moment we are said to be actually on the eve of an Anglo-German entente, and in a few weeks a public announcement may be made of the complete settlement of all outstanding questions between the two countries at every point of contact. The agreement will in its nature resemble the Anglo-French agreement of 1904, and is expected to be signed by the Bagdad railway bill Asia Minor and the Turkish Empire generally, Central Africa, the Portuguese Colonies in Africa (on the basis of the secret Anglo-German treaty of 1895), Wallula Bay, the missing link in the Cape to Cairo Railway, and Zanzibar. To the close student of affairs there have been many signs of this re-approchement. The latest instance is Armenia. Russia put forward a scheme for welding the six Armenian vilayets into a single province under a governor-general. That would have meant a quasi-independent Armenia and eventually its loss to the Ottoman Empire. The German counter-scheme preserves Turkish sovereignty intact and retains the existing Turkish machinery, but ensures reforms by setting up an inspector-general and foreign advisers in every department, more or less on the model of the Macedonian reform scheme. Despite Great Britain has thrown all her weight on the side of the German solution, and has secured its acceptance by the Powers. There is little doubt that the Porte will also accept it. The importance of this instance is that it shows that Anglo-German co-operation is not confined to affairs of immediate urgency, but looks forward into the distant future.

COMING ROYAL FESTIVITIES.

It is clear that balls and more or less informal dances are likely to figure more prominently in future Court programmes. The first of these is likely to take place at Sandringham during the Christmas holidays, when their Majesties will issue invitations to the country families living in the neighborhood of the Royal estate. There are to be two State balls at Buckingham Palace next June, while it is understood that at least one informal dance will take place there shortly after the season opens in February. Both the King and Queen are fond of dancing, as are almost all the younger members of the Royal Family. Princess Mary will be absent from a State Ball, or indeed, at any Court function, until she is sixteen. Her Royal Highness is a skilful dancer, and this is a pastime to which she is generally devoted, as are, indeed, all the older members of the family of the King and Queen.

THE LEGITIMISTS' QUEEN.

When the accession of Prince Ludwig to the throne of Bavaria takes place it will probably be made an occasion of ceremony by the members of the various little self-styled Legitimist Leagues in Great Britain, for his Consort-Princess, Maria Theresa, is in their eyes the legitimate Queen of England. She is in direct descent from Charles I., who married Maria Henrietta, Duchess of Orleans, a Catholic. By the Act of Succession the descendants of both James II. and Charles I. were excluded from the throne of England. The line of descent from James II. came to an end with Henry Benedict, Cardinal York, and the Legitimists, therefore, turn to the Catholic descendants of Charles I., and claim that Princess Maria Theresa of Bavaria is the legitimate Queen of England. The Act of Succession, of course, provided that the English Crown should pass to the next Protestant line—namely, the descendants of Sophia, Electress of Hanover, grand-daughter of James II.

THE TANGO CRAZE.

The Tango in all its varieties, whether Argentine, Brazilian, Peruvian or otherwise, is now firmly established on the English stage and is overhauling the ballroom and dance halls of the world—the excitements of the stage and "the little-known" embodiments thereof have been applied in ball parlors. It is a very simple affair. Indeed, at Miss Harbridge's demonstration of "Le Vrai Tango" at the Hotel Cecil this week the simlicity was a trifle disappointing. The dance resolves itself into an affair in four steps and six figures. The principal steps are "el paseo," "pas d'arrêt," "pas de deux" or "pas de trois," in which you draw back your feet twice before you actually decide to advance. The oddest figure is the "Scissors." There are also "La Ruado" and the "Medio Luna," which are rather more difficult, and of course, there are, and will continue to be individual developments, as in the case of the Boston. There are really no new steps. The music is in four-eight time, with occasional syncopation and frequent triplets (three against two) in the melody. The Tango was danced this week as in Paris, and it is a languid, graceful measure in quite slow time. Miss Harding, who, in addition to conducting a fashionable Tango club, has centers of her activity in Paris, Le Touquet, Edinburgh, Glasgow, La Hague, Dublin, and elsewhere, specialises in the "Tango of Society." She gave a demonstration of the ease with which the tango can be acquired. She offered to teach anyone with the dancing or musical instinct the principal movements in five minutes, and an enterprising young man offered himself. A little awkward at first, at the end of the allotted time the pupil's movements earned the applause of the onlookers. The Maxixe, a more animated and attractive dance, was also given, and the "pas de poisson," a simple and engaging step, also to a quick measure. But the tango is the dance of the moment, and it is satisfactory to learn that the correct tango is not such a terrible dance after all.

Opening of the Catholic School at Grand Falls.

On Monday morning, the 17th, at 9 o'clock, Rev. Fr. Finn, P.P., opened the new Catholic school at Grand Falls, by celebrating a Mass in honour of the Holy Ghost. All the school children and a number of people assisted, the southern schoolroom, where the ceremony was held, being full. Music was rendered by several of the pupils, and all those old enough receiving Holy Communion, many of them for the first time. It was indeed a pretty sight to see the little white robed girls and round, serious faces of the little boys, and one could hardly help feeling a little detached, or removed as it were from the full fruition of a ceremony which, much as it meant to the present adult population held an entirely greater significance to the innocents grouped before those altar rails. The school itself, of which was the formal opening, represents the labours of our worthy pastor, aided by the cooperation of the Catholic population, but his career, which commenced on that day, is a far greater thing, and calls for perpetual and wholesome effort on the part of both teachers and pupil. A result of a far greater importance than that already achieved remains to be attained, and the attainment rests with the infant generation.

During the celebration of Mass the celebrant delivered a short address to the children. He emphasized the fact that the occasion was essentially a children's day; the work that he set out to be done, and the school is now the children's. It remains to them to make it a school to be proud of, one second to none in the island.

The opportunity for obtaining a first class education is here, and this is what the Catholic Church always strives to give its members. He exhorted the boys to be manly, diligent and upright, and the girls to be good, gentle and industrious, and concluded his remarks by congratulating them on their devout and well ordered conduct, and wished them every blessing and virtue.

After the conclusion of this ceremony, the entire troupe of children retired to the old school house where a liberal spread had been prepared. It is needless to say that justice was soon rendered to the varied and plentiful breakfast which the ladies of the parish very kindly organized. A holiday was proclaimed, which met with universal approval.

The new School Building was begun in July and except for a portion on the second storey is now finished.

The dimensions are 72 feet by 31 feet outside with an annex at the back 20 feet square. It is built on concrete foundations, set on the bed rock, and has two storeys. The style is Georgian, and presents a very fine appearance. On the first floor there are two schoolrooms each 30 feet square, one on either side of the hall ten feet wide extending from a front entrance and leading to a staircase situated in the annex. N. B.—The schoolrooms are bright and airy. They are both exactly alike, are lighted by two rows of four windows each, and the walls are composed of a wainscoting of hard pine five feet high, and the rest of beaver board painted a pale green. The ceiling is hard pine and the floors are made of maple. The desks which seat one pupil each are of the most modern pattern, and seem very comfortable. The whole design shows that the greatest care was taken to provide bright, spacious, and well ventilated apartments, and everything is of the latest and most approved style.

The staircase itself is very well designed. Mounting the first portion in the centre of the hall one meets a broad landing from which on both the right and the left are more steps leading to another landing at the top, which gives entrance to the second floor. This is entirely taken up with a hall whose internal measurements are 71 feet by 30 feet. It is not yet completed, but it is intended to finish it at an early date.

Under the staircase are situated the toilets and spaces for coats, etc.

The whole building reflects the greatest credit on Rev. Fr. Finn. All know of his untiring energy and indomitable perseverance. He is essentially progressive, and very much alive. His tact and capacity for work have earned for him the respect, regard and hearty cooperation of the entire parish; and his courtesy and broad kindness have given him a very high place in the affection and the good opinion of all classes and creeds.

The school he has given to Grand Falls is (for its size) we know, second to none in the island, outside of St. John's; in fact it has been said it is far better than a large number of Nova Scotian Schools that are ranked as first class. It stands to-day a visible monument of our good priest's interest in us; it shows that he is with us in building up a town of which we can all be justly proud, which in a sense is as much our creation as it is the creation of wealthy capitalists. May he be long with us to see and enjoy the fruits of his present labour, and may the loyalty and devotion of his parishioners ever increase till that day when it shall please the Almighty to take unto his presence our "Sogarth Aroon."

Churchill, however, stuck to his man like a leech and eventually succeeded in placing him in a cab and had him driven to the police station. Some difficulty was experienced in landing the prisoner at the lock up, but with the assistance of some of the officers the burly sailor was jailed. Constable Churchill sustained some injuries to his hand, including a sprained thumb, during the encounter.

MARGARET MULLINS.
We note with regret the early demise of Miss Margaret Mullins, daughter of Mr. John R. Mullins, bricklayer, of this city, which sad event occurred at the residence of her parents, on 227 Hamilton Ave., yesterday. The deceased was in her sixtieth year, and had been ailing for some time past, but the tender nursing of indulgent parents, who did their best and all medical aid proved of no avail. She was a very bright child, and was held in great esteem by her teachers and schoolmates. To the sorrowing parents and other members of the family, the Telegram offers sincerest sympathy in their bereavement.

THOMAS A. EDISON.
By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good-Old Sitwash."

Thomas A. Edison is one of America's greatest men. He was not elected to this position nor did he obtain it by guessing which way the prominent railway stock might jump. Other American giants may fail to receive a majority and sink into common tax payers; they may absorb one railway too many and retire to obliquy a few jumps ahead of the grand jury. But Edison goes placidly on increasing his size each year; and he will continue to do so as long as electricity enjoys the popularity which it does at the present time.

Edison started life selling peanuts on the Grand Trunk railway at the age of twelve in 1859, from which, with the aid of mathematics in its present highly perfected state, we may easily deduce the fact that he is now sixty-six years of age. He published a newspaper at the age of fifteen and learned telegraphy a year later, but lost many jobs because of his fondness for reading while some operator at the other end of the line was frantically pounding away in an effort to attract his attention. In fact, at this period Edison was so unsuccessful that he had to take up inventing. The field was remarkably broad at that time, very few things worth while having been invented, and Edison was soon busy day and night. He invented the telegraph repeater and the stock ticker, and sold them for a small fortune.

This was the most perilous point in Edison's career. But he passed safely through it. He did not buy an automobile, go to Europe or establish his family in society. He did not buy a carload of assorted mining stock or go to New York and try to put a permanent crimp in Wall Street. Instead he took his $40,000 and went to New Jersey, which at that time was infested with nothing worse than mosquitos. There he built a laboratory and began to work up an intimate acquaintance with electricity, which was then almost a stranger in our midst. Edison has remained in New Jersey ever since. He has made three hundred inventions including the phonograph, the telephone transmitter, the acrophone, the megaphone, the incandescent lamp, the moving picture and the long distance storage battery. He has become very rich indeed, but this is not often mentioned. He is more interesting than his bank account.

Edison was never elected to any office. Nobody knows what clubs he belongs to. He does not play golf, and few people have seen him in evening clothes. He is a genius, and the proof of it is that he works for twenty hours a day for long stretches.

In 1876, says his biographer, Edison's health failed. This is important information, and thousands of Americans would give much to acquire the same brand of rickety health. A busted constitution which will keep its owner happy and busy twenty hours a day for forty years is a boon greatly to be desired.

Cured Eczema Like Magic

Suffered for Years—Tried All Kinds of Treatment—Surprised at Results From Dr. Chase's Ointment.

You can soon tell when people are enthusiastic about medical treatment by the language they use. After experimenting with all sorts of ointments in a vain effort to obtain relief and cure, the writer of this letter was astonished at the quick and satisfactory results obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

"It worked like magic," she writes. Indeed, it is surprising the healing that is often effected in a single night by this great ointment. The stinging and itching are relieved at once, and cure is only a matter of time and patient treatment.

Mrs. Clements, 13 Strange street, Toronto, Ont., writes: "I have suffered from eczema for years, and after using all kinds of ointments, at last tried Dr. Chase's Ointment. It worked like magic and proved a God-send to me. I would advise anyone suffering from eczema to try one box and be convinced." 50 cents a box, all dealers, or Edimanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Let us demonstrate one for you at your home.

Eggs, ham, bacon, etc., can be fried as well on the Westinghouse Toaster-Stove as on the big kitchen stove, and without the heat, dirt, fumes, etc. It can be used on a side table for keeping things warm while you are at dinner, and the finest toast in the world can be quickly made upon it.

Strongly built, it will last a lifetime; handsomely finished in polished nickel, it makes an attractive addition to any table service.

In fact there are a hundred and one reasons why it is destined to become universally used.
