Evening Telegram

W. J. HERDER, Proprietor
C. T. JAMES, Editor

SATURDAY, January 11th, 1919.

Easily First.

Every town, village and settlement in Newfoundland has cause to be proud of its war record, but none, more so, we think than the "paper city," Grand Falls. From the beginning to the end of hostilities in Europe the sentiment of our fellow citizens in Grand Falls was enthusiastically and patriotically high, and the contributions in men and money from the town on the shores of Grand Lake never ceased. There was no need to set an example in the giving of either. Spontaneously and liberally Grand Falls responded, and by the ardour of the high spirit which animated the hearts of the townspeople, was spread the influence which infected the North, and which was productive of so much and so many of those things which helped "Win the War."

The standard set by Grand Falls may have been reached but never overtopped by any town of equal size in the dominion. Foremost in every work, with the ideals of Victory for Britain in view, the good people of the town were the first to approve of the necessity which made the passage of the Military Service Act a prime essential, the all important step of this legislation being the maintenance of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment at full strength, at a time when every man was needed to stem the great onrush of the German legions, in their determined thrust toward the English Channel ports of France.

But all that is past history, and we have now to deal with present day affairs and conditions arising out of the war, and be it noted that Grand Falls once more takes the lead in advocating the performance of certain duties by the Government, whereby those who fought for our rights and liberties will be enabled to, if they wish, engage in new industries and labours. To this end the Patriotic Association of the town has passed a series of resolutions, including recommendations to the Government, having regard to the welfare of returning soldiers and sailors who have been in service since August 1914. The main purpose of the Resolution has to do with the creation of a Permanent War Fund, toward the maintenance of which there shall be paid into the Treasury certain sums as outlined in recommendations, 2, 3 and 4, (as published yesterday). The suggestion appears quite feasible, and nothing could be more calculated to render carefree for the term of their natural life, all those men who have returned and will return, broken and disabled, than the knowledge that a grateful country has made provision for them, and their dependents.

A correspondent of the Telegram writing from the West Coast, some weeks ago, first suggested the idea of allocating to every returned soldier who desired it, a portion of timber land, and we are pleased to notice that this has been incorporated into the Grand Falls Resolution, with an additional recommendation that "provision be made for free loans, for agricultural purposes, to discharged soldiers, repayable in twenty instalments, and that all agricultural stock and implements imported by all who go in for farming, on these terms, be placed on the free list."

There is much to be said in favor of the proposed legislation, which is asked in the resolutions from Grand Falls. They practically give the Government a leg-up, and without further comment on their feasibility, at present, we shall, to use the oft quoted phrase of a certain strong, silent premier, "Wait and see."

Ecclesiastical Installation.

Rev. John Hewitt, Petty Harbor, and the Rev. A. G. Bayly, of Bonavista, have been appointed to the two Cathedral Canopies rendered vacant by the death of Rev. Canon Colley, and the retirement of Rev. Canon Netten. The installation of the new Canons will take place at to-morrow morning's service they to be the preachers of the day, the former in the morning and the latter in the evening.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES GAGGET IN COWS.

The Evangelists.

Gower Street Church was filled last evening, and those who went were not disappointed. Mrs. Demarest was at her very best, and had certainly chosen an appropriate topic for the closing service of the first week of the campaign.

"No man can serve two masters." These were God's words, and God's words are indisputable. There were two masters, one at the end of each of two roads, the narrow and the broad. One road we must take for there is no third, no neutral one. To refuse the narrow road was to take the broad one, for there was to be no compromise with sin; God had said: "Ye cannot serve God and mammon."

In her wonderful eloquence, Mrs. Demarest held the huge congregation completely at her disposal. One could have heard a pin drop as she related those narratives of her personal experience which are so impressive. Nothing short of a verbatim report could do justice to her effort last evening. We can only say that 'twas good to be there.

Evangelist Demarest will open the second week of her campaign here with an address to men only in the Methodist College Hall to-morrow afternoon at 8 o'clock, and we predict a great gathering. Then there will be a mass meeting in Gower Street Church at 8.15, to be addressed by Mrs. Demarest. So as to be in a position to accommodate the large congregation expected, the regular 6.30 service at Gower Street Church has been dispensed with. This will keep strictly within the limits prescribed by the Health Authorities.

Casualty List.

Wedding Bells.

On Sunday, January 5th, after a hearty luncheon and an enjoyable afternoon spent at the home of the bride's parents, Miss Clara Frances Tapper was married to Mr. Richard Thorne, at 5 p.m., by the Rev. J. J. Ashley, at the Presbytery, Torbay. The bride looked lovely in a pale blue Jap silk ornamented with chiffon, with bridal veil and wreath of orange blossoms. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Bessie A. Tapper, and Miss Clara Martin, cousin of the groom, who were attended in the gorgesette crepe with hats to match, while the groom was supported by his cousin, Mr. Gus Ryan. After the ceremony the happy couple drove to their future home where a reception was held and a very enjoyable evening spent. The bride was the recipient of many useful presents, including a substantial cheque from her father. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Thorne many years of wedded bliss.—Com.

Foch, Warrior and Christian.

Lord Coleridge claimed at a meeting in London that Marshal Foch had risen above the standard of almost all former conquering captains.

He had the Germans in the hollow of his hand, and he could anticipate such a victory, such a surrender, as would put Sedan and Waterloo in the shadow. But he resisted the temptation, because it would mean the sacrifice of more innocent lives. This stamped him not only as a great warrior, but as a great Christian man.

The meanest thing in the whole war was the German abandonment of their own Kaiser.

"Tipperusalem."

"It was Thackeray, we think, who invented the name 'Tipperusalem,'" says the Irish Times. "No doubt, he was tickled by the incongruous association of an Irish provincial town with one of the most famous cities of the Orient. To-day, however, the incongruity has vanished. Tipperary has gained more than one sort of renown in the same war which has delivered Jerusalem. Irishmen have borne a great and gallant part in the last Crusade."

"Cow Path" Fracas.

A rather unusual row took place on the Cow Path (sometimes known as New Gower St.) last evening, the usual big crowd gathering, and the usual policeman putting in an appearance a minute after the row had ended. The beginning of the trouble was in a shop at the bottom of Casey St. (a "regular" spot, well beloved by the pugilistically inclined), when a man used some insulting words to a lady. A big soldier, being of the stuff of which heroes are made, could not stand this, and sent in such a forceful blow that the insulter was driven through the door into the street. The disciple of Mars followed quickly, he, in turn, being closely followed by a friend of the first man. Rushing through the door, this avenger of his friend's dignity bawled, "Where is he?—let me at 'im," and the afore-said friend, wiping the crimson from his eyes, joined with him and for a space the onlookers thought it was good-bye for the soldier. But not so, for, with a bellow of rage and anticipation, he sprang at his opponent, grabbed each by his hair, and knocked their heads together with such force that they had a clear view of more stars and other heavenly bodies than would have delighted the heart of old Gulliver, he threw them down, got in a few reminders, and was soon afterwards celebrating his victory with many admirers of his prowess.

A Miserable Anxious Existence.

By RUTH CAMERON.

A woman who used to live in our town, but who has lived elsewhere the last three years, was back on a visit recently, and we were having a talk over old times and old friends and acquaintances.

"What has happened to Mrs. E.?" was one of her first questions.

"She has grown so much older in the last few years."

What had happened? We looked at each other and considered it for a moment. Mrs. E. is a widow with a small but adequate income, very good health, and no family cares to age her.

She is just clinging on and it ages her.

Finally the woman who knows Mrs. E. best, spoke up thoughtfully, "I think it's just one thing: trying to keep in with that West Side Set (in our town the West Side Set are a group of people with rather more money and more social pretensions than the rest of us). You know she hasn't much money herself and she's not brilliant enough to keep in by that, and she just has to cling to main force. I know she takes a lot of snubs and rudeness, and I know she feels it badly when she's left out of things. I imagine she worries a good deal when she feels herself slipping. Really, when you stop to think of it, it must be a miserable, anxious, unsatisfactory kind of existence, and I don't doubt that is what ages her."

And we all agreed that it was enough to age anyone.

Why will people do that sort of thing?

Think Of The Happiness She Could Have!

Mrs. E., as I said before, has a small but adequate income. She could have all the pleasure and happiness that a pleasant home, books, music, the theatre, nice clothes and a little travel would bring. She could also have the great joy of service.

And, of course, if she chose, she could have plenty of friends of more moderate means and, to the best of my honest judgment, of just as great charm and interest as most of the people of the West Side Set.

And instead of taking all these good things that life stands ready to offer, she prefers to spend her money and herself in a continual struggle to keep in with people who are rude to her.

Social Life Is A Game, But Is The Game Worthwhile?

It is really incomprehensible to me how people can do this sort of thing, how they can struggle and push for the sake of social advantage. I explain it to myself by saying that to them the whole thing is a sort of game, an invitation to a more or less exclusive affair is a point won; a failure to receive an expected invitation is a set back, and what their appetite for more, just as one is the more eager for the "radial" when one has been set down at bridge.

But if any game "is not worth the candle," as the old saying goes, surely this is one such. Surely life can furnish something better than such "a miserable, anxious existence."

Bolshevism at Home and Abroad.

L'Evenement:—Bolshevism is the great evil against which we must fight to-day. It has been preached to the people of Russia as the remedy for all their misfortunes and we know into what an abyss it has cast that unfortunate country. Its advocates are still at work, it is said, in many countries of Europe and are profiting by the chaos created momentarily by the end of the war to circulate their pernicious doctrines and to enrol the great army of working people under their banners. Let us hope that Russia's experience will produce the best results, and that good sense will win a final victory over this dangerous foolishness.

Here in Canada were the Utopias which are so attractive in the Old World seem to take less hold on the people, the evil is not so much to be feared as is the case in Europe. It is a good thing however for us to keep our eyes open and to check every effort which may be made to enmesh our people in this net. The Canadian Government recently seized some publications and punished as they deserved those ringleaders, who attempted to spread this famous doctrine of Bolshevism. It is to be hoped that they will give evidence in the future of the same firmness for it would indeed be a crime to give free rein to ideas that are so subversive to good order and which can give us so much trouble.

And instead of taking all these good

TROUBLE.
Trouble is an excruciating sent us by a wisdom wiser than the mind of man possesses. Doubts and dangers and distresses come not purposely to best us, but to strengthen us and test us.

He who never gets in tussles soon has soft and flabby muscles. He, who, fearing hurts and bruises, guards his strength, grows weak and loses.

All the power he thought to nourish. Strong men by their trials flourish.

Never was a stately figure, but by trouble was made bigger. Cares a man has borne and still bears. Prove how much he can and will bear. He is strongest of your neighbors who performs the heaviest labors.

Not from easy ways and tender brilliant minds receive their splendor. But from problems deep, perplexing, and from solving questions vexing, (Nightly pondering wisdom's pages) Comes the luster of the sages.

Trouble is an excruciating sent to make us stronger, wiser— sent to make us bigger, better; it is not a chain or fetter Or a snare to trap and best us, It is just life's way to test us.

SOME OTHER THINGS.

WILL MASON

Oh, partners, let us not forever discuss the war and what it cost; it is not wise or sane or clever—we're all convinced war was a frost. We'll have to turn our faces forward, and I think of things that should be done, and not be always gazing backward, or making faces at the Hun. When we are resting in the gloaming we may thrash out the facts once more, and give the Teut another combing, and tell old tales of bones and gore. But in the daytime we're expected to put up nineteen kinds of grass; in war days things were much neglected, and now reforms should come to pass. The story of the past is written, it cannot be erased by men; words can't restore the countries smitten, or make the dead towns live again. All fellows should be up and doing while daylight hours with us abide; the evening is the time for chewing such muslin as great wars provide. There's now a great demand for labor, in warehouse, workshop, mill and grange; but when the men of sword and saber come back there may be quite a change. Then he who did persistent talking, all day, around the village pump, will lose his number and go walking, and keep on till he hits the dump.

Milady's Boudoir.

THE PERFECT HAND.
A perfect hand should be long and delicate, yet firm, with tapering fingers, the tips of which should turn back slightly. There is scarcely any form of beauty which excels that of beautiful hands. Whiteness is essential, but the finger tips should have a rosy tinge, also the nails.

The beauty of a well-formed hand will depend for loveliness of complexion on the circulation. Imperfect circulation will give the blue tinge or the red look which some hands have. While good health is necessary for perfect circulation, the hands may be put through a daily exercise, which will materially improve the color.

The nails often mar or make the beauty of the hands. In addition to keeping them scrupulously clean, every morning, after washing the hands, the cuticle which grows up from the bottom and around the edge of the nails should be pressed back with the towel after the hands are dried. The nail should never be scrapped if you would keep surface smooth and polished. Scraping produces wrinkles, which not only mar the beauty of the nails, but prevent the polishing of them. Nails should be shaped to conform to the ends of the fingers.

Before trimming the nails they should be treated to a coating of white vaseline, which should remain on overnight. In the morning they should be soaked in a very warm water to make them soft and flexible. I know of not better bleach for the hands than lemon juice and water which should be applied after thoroughly washing and massaging them with soap suds made with mild soap.

Zinc may be cleaned with lemon. Black beans are excellent for soup. Bluing water should be very clear. The one fat not to use in frying is butter. Eggs may be poached and served on rice. Vaseline stains should be sponged with ether. Cinnamon and cloves are both antiseptics.

Would Prefer Gas.

(By J. R. Grove.)

I've had a taste of gas. I know something of the feelings of the fellow with shell shock. I'd rather be gassed.

I was going up to Pere-en-Tardenois that the mustard gas burned me. I was with a lieutenant and another newspaper man.

We were standing near a stone quarry and the Germans were shelling the back areas. There came a "Ploof" in the bushes near us, just like that. Someone said, "Gas?"

The lieutenant said, "No." The lieutenant didn't wait to say anything. He ran. He lost his gun. He lost his glasses. But he kept on running.

I started to beat it, too, getting out my gas mask as I ran. You're supposed to put it on in six seconds. Mine stuck. I fumbled it. I stumbled and lost my hold on it. Finally I dropped in a ditch, to get below the gas, and managed to get the mask on.

Then I walked back and got a treatment. But my face and my nose were blistered and my eyes smarted for two weeks.

As for shell shock. It was months ago, but when I get to thinking of it, I have a funny feeling and I begin to shake still.

Two of us had followed a lieutenant out of a shell hole on the side of a hill to watch the advance of the infantry on Pere-en-Tardenois. The whole was about ten feet across and four feet deep. The Germans spotted it for what it was, an observation post, and between 4 o'clock and darkness they dropped 20 shells around us.

The nearest shelter was across the side of the hill 200 yards away. One shell exploded within ten feet of us.

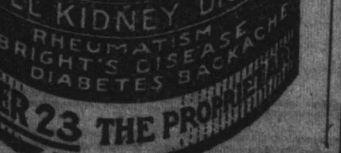

I'd counted myself lucky going in because I had my own tin hat and one from a Boche, but when we dove into that hole I bumped heads with the other newspaper man and lost both of them. I hadn't anything on my head.

Every time a shell went over I ducked my head into the side of the hill, till the cords of my neck were sore from the strain.

We got back under cover of darkness, but when I went up the next day, I began to shake. I laughed and tried to kid myself, but I couldn't stop shaking. And it was some time before I had stopped rattling my equipment and my teeth like a tin Lizzie.

It was a swell observation post we had and we saw the advance on three towns from which the Boches were ousted that day, but I'd rather be back in the bushes where the gas shells were falling than there.

Dates stuffed with marshmallows are delicious. Meat should never be placed directly on ice. Meat should be salted after, not before, cooking.

New York Strike Acute.

BRITISH STEAMER SUNK BY MINE.

Conservatives Dominate New Cabinet---Armistice May be Prolonged.

PARLIAMENT PROPOSAL REJECTED.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10. The strike committee of the marine unions unanimously today rejected the proposal of the government to accept a 48-hour resumption of work pending a conference between government and union representatives, with a view to attempting a settlement of the harbor strike.

WILSONS AID BOUGHT.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. President Wilson was called on today by Gov. Officials to aid in the event of the strike of New York port.

PEACEFUL DUBLIN.

DUBLIN, Jan. 10. Disturbances have taken place at Mount Joy prison where a number of Sinn Feiners have been sentenced as ordinary prisoners, claiming treatment as political prisoners. The prisoners are reported to have broken the windows and damaged the cells.

TROOPS EFFECT JUNCTION.

PARIS, Jan. 10. The latest news received from the front indicates that the Government forces have widened the barrier inside the city, and succeeded in effecting a junction between the forces coming from the provinces those in the city.

MORE TEMPORIZING.

BASEL, Jan. 10. The North German Gazette of the city says that upon the request of the Allied and German plenipotentiaries will meet January 14 or 15 at Treves, to discuss a cessation of the Armistice.

BOTH SIDES DETERMINED.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Jan. 10. The hope of an early settlement of the strike which has paralyzed the city of New York for two days, was dashed to-night. Leaders of the 18,000 men on tug, lighter and barge work declared emphatically that they were prepared for a finish fight. The employers, members of the New York Omphic Association, were fully emphatic in their assertion that they never would yield to the demand for an eight hour day.

WHO REALLY RULES.

LONDON, Jan. 10. The new Cabinet of Premier Lloyd George was announced to-night. It presents few surprises. The question of the British newspapers are asking whether Mr. Lloyd George will be able to control his Conservative advisers will dominate him. The majority of the members of the Cabinet in high places are Conservatives, notably Andrew Bonar Law, Arthur J. Balfour and Lord Curzon. Only four years ago the party regarded Mr. Lloyd George as a Conservative to-day regard the Premier. The Premier is pledged to his campaign of Liberal reforms, particularly the giving of land and work to workmen and discharged soldiers. His principal advisers are regarded as representatives of the owners interests, who, following the lead of the Ministers, would place barriers in the way of such reforms. The Ministers about portfolio, George Nicoll and Sir Eric Geddes, have important duties for which there are Cabinet places. Mr. Barnes will represent labour at the Paris Peace Conference, while Sir Eric has undertaken the management of demobilization. One innovation is the selection for the first time of an Indian as a member of the Government, Sir S. H. Sinha, having the place of Under Secretary for India. Another is the appointment of Cecil B. Harmsworth, brother of Lord Northcliffe, to succeed Lord Robert Cecil as Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs.

MANY KILLED.

BERLIN, Jan. 9. The Government forces are in complete control of that section of the inner city between the Brandenburg Gate and Friederichstrasse. It has issued an order prohibiting all processions. It is estimated that more than two hundred people have been killed in the fighting in Berlin, since Monday. The Charite, and other outlying hospitals, cared for three hundred wounded yesterday. Twelve dead were carried into the Chancellor's Palace in Wilhelmstrasse during Wednesday.

AFTER THE WAR PERILS.

LONDON, Jan. 10. The British steamer Northumbria, of 4,215 tons, struck a mine off Middleborough, Thursday, and it is believed that most of the crew was lost. A boat, with two survivors and eight dead, has been washed ashore at Howton Abbot. Four boats which left the ship with survivors, are missing, and it is believed that the boats were swamped while attempting to make shore.

URGES MORE FIRMNESS.

LONDON, Jan. 10. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.) In connection with the problems of demobilization, and the fact that the second armistice period concludes on January 17, when the Associated Powers must carefully consider the renewal of the terms of the armistice—it is noteworthy that hitherto Germany has failed in many respects to carry out the terms imposed. Shortages in deliveries, include 4,700 locomotives, 130,000 trucks, 5,000 motor lorries, nearly 900 heavy guns, including all types, 1,000 trench mortars, 7,000 machine guns and 6,000 airplanes. In connection with this, the Daily Chronicle urges the Associated Powers to take a firm line, and when renewing the armistice to stipulate for the right of occupation of any strategic position they may desire, in order to preserve order, and secure their own safety, they should lay down definite measures of demobilization, thus bringing the German armistice into line with other armistices. This paper urges that while omissions are unexcused, we must maintain larger forces in the field than we otherwise need. Simultaneously, we should secure the abandonment of the German military designs against Prussian Poland, and the eviction from Germany of all Russian Bolshevik agents.

ONE OF THE SECRETS.

LONDON, Jan. 11. (By British Wireless Service.)—Mines and minefields are rendered obsolete by the developments of the "Paravane," the invention of Lieut. Burnley, and consistently urged upon the British Navy by Admiral Sir Hedworth Meux. This instrument was officially recognized by the Navy early in 1916, and was so successful that special factories were built for its construction. It is now learned that the British Grand Fleet, on several occasions, pushed into the Bight of Heligoland which, if mines meant anything would have been a death trap for ships. German experts never solved the mystery. From the time of the adoption of the Paravane to the close of the war only two warships were reported having been sunk by mines. The most recent use of the "Paravane" was on the occasion of British warships entering the Baltic through a close mine straggled area. The steel mooring ropes of the mines are said to have been cut by the "Paravanes" as easily as a string is cut by scissors.

AWARDED GOLD MEDAL.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. Vilhjalmr Stefansson, the Norwegian Arctic explorer, was awarded the Hubbard gold medal to-night by the National Geographical Society, for his achievements during the last five and a half years, in which he reduced the unknown Polar region of the Western Hemisphere by approximately 100,000 square miles.

STRIKE FATALITIES.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 11. Seventy-two persons were killed, 81 were gravely wounded, and more than 500 received minor injuries in the fight which occurred yesterday and last night, as a result of the general strike, according to figures compiled at three o'clock this morning. Firing was incessant in all parts of the city, from seven o'clock until midnight, but then began to die away. General Delpaine, who assumed military dictatorship last night, called the strike committee of the regional labor federation before him at an early hour to-day, and ordered it to bring to him before noon, a schedule of demands on which the federation will agree to settle the strike. Conditions in the interior are obscure, as the only telegraph lines are under control of the Government and censorship is being enforced.

LIEBKNECHT KILLED.

LONDON, Jan. 11. Dr. Karl Liebknecht, the Spartacist leader in Germany, was killed during street fighting on Thursday evening, according to a Copenhagen despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co.

PEERAGE FOR INDIAN.

LONDON, Jan. 11. The new Lloyd George Ministry, including all the Under Secretaries, will be composed of thirty Unionists, twenty-five Liberals and five Laborites, namely, George Nicoll Barnes, George H. Roberts, Stephen Walsh, George Wardle, Secretary to the Ministry of Labor, and Joseph Parker, one of the whips. Sir S. H. Sinha, Under Secretary for India, will probably be elevated to the Peerage, so that he may be able to sit in the House of Lords.

WILL NOT RECOGNIZE BOLSHEVIKS.

PARIS, Jan. 11. It is understood on the best of authority that negotiations have been underway for some time between the Allies, looking to the possible representation of all the different parties of Russia at the Peace Congress. It is understood that admission of these delegates would be on the condition that a truce between them be declared, and accepted, during the period covered by Peace negotiations. This position, which is supposed to emanate from the British Government, is not accepted in its present form by France, which refuses to recognize the Bolsheviks in any form.

THE WAY OF THE TRANSGRESSOR.

(From the Equitable Public Bulletin) It is a sad thing that Germany is in need of food. But a nation that has caused the death of 11,100,000 men and the maiming, crippling and wrecking of other millions of men, and of bringing grief, hunger, pain and death to a vast multitude of inoffensive women children and aged people and that has destroyed churches, homes, and other property which has taken the toll of millions of lives to accumulate must expect retribution. If Germany is now to suffer some of the agony she has caused others, if she is to hunger and even wait in her own blood through the Red Terror—so be it. Her victims must be fed first.

The God of the Front.

"I think I have been both sadder and more happy since the war began than in all the years of my life," writes Lieut. Coningsby Dawson, of the Canadian Army, in the N. Y. Times. "I used to write about the world not as it is, but as I would have made it had I been God. Now I'm trying to see things as they are with the inevitable God shining through them. Here at the front God is everywhere apparent—but not the cathedral God I had imagined—not the majestic God with sublime uplifted eyes which knows nothing of finite terror.

"The God of the Front has brave eyes which have suffered; his mouth is a human mouth, which has known the pain of parting and loss; his hands are roughened and burnt and bloody; there is the stoop of agony in his shoulders and the hint of a valiant jest in his splendid bearing of defiance. He is one of us. He is us entirely. He is no longer remote and eternal. For us he has again become flesh—he is our comrade; he is the man upon our left and our right hand who goes into battle with us; he is our dead.

"We cannot escape him; the pettiness of our sins is forgotten in the resemblance of our neighbors to his majesty. Nowadays I cannot think of the poet's Christ, wandering through Galilean lilies in a woman's robe. It's his manly death, his white timeless body on the cross that I remember. Without Calvary all his words would have been unconvincing, and he himself a dreamer's fancy. It was only on the cross that Christ became flesh."

Freak Vessels.

Since that memorable day long ago when our rude forefathers first ventured afloat in their dug-out canoes many very curious ships have been built. Perhaps the most extraordinary of all these freaks was the steamer Connector, which was launched in 1863.

The Connector was built in three sections, each of which was, so to speak, a ship of itself. The bow, or forward section, which was fitted up in the usual way, was joined to the midship section by means of a huge bolt in such a manner that, as the ship pitched, it could rise or fall quite independently of the other two sections. Thus, as the ship met the waves a kind of "wriggle" ran along the hull. First the bow section rose, then the midship section followed suit, and finally the stern section wriggled upwards.

The craft passed safely through some very severe trials, and even ventured out in heavy weather. The idea was to build up ships in sections like trains, so that any particular section could be "dropped" at the various ports of call.

"CIGAR BOATS."

A few years ago two remarkable ships were to be seen moored off the Royal Pier at Southampton, and these vessels were always referred to locally as the "cigar boats." They were invented by Messrs. Winans, of Baltimore, U.S.A., and had four funnels and a flagstaff or polemast; but there was no super-structure of any kind—just a big metal cigar. These ships behaved very well in rough weather; but for obvious reasons, shipbuilders were not inclined to give up the normal type of craft in favor of these strange-looking and uncomfortable freaks.

The Russians built some very extraordinary ships in the 'eighties, but the most remarkable of all these freaks was the Royal "yacht" Livadia, built in Glasgow for the Tsar Alexander II. In 1880, the ship's hull was built of iron, "shaped like a turbot," and upon this rested the upper part of the craft, which was like a normal steamer. The fish-belly bottom had an area of more than one-third of an acre. The ship was, therefore, almost as broad as she was long, and displaced 7,700 tons of water. She was fitted up as a palace, but failed to complete her journey to Russia.

HENRY BLAIR

How Liebknecht Selected a Name.

The war has brought many unfamiliar words into world wide prominence. The latest is the name of which Karl Liebknecht has christened his followers, the Spartacus group, or the Spartacides. This name which indicates a class similar to the Russian Bolsheviks is taken from the archives of Rome. The ancient Spartacus relates how he had been a peaceful shepherd in the valleys of Thrace when the Romans came to Greece and captured him, making him one of the slave gladiators of the dissolute metropolis. As it is known in history, he called his eighty other gladiators of the School of Capua to his side and started one of the most fearsome revolutions in Rome, which lasted from 71 B.C. to 73 B.C. At that time Rome was in a state of moral disintegration, which allowed of luxurious living and wild dissipations on the one hand and cruel suffering from famine and autocratic oppression on the other. The corn laws providing for the gratuitous feeding of the starving proletariat in Rome had to be continually changed to meet the demands of the people. The armies of the State were absent on foreign service. All these things made the moment ripe for the uprising of Spartacus. Before very long he had gathered a vast army, recruited them from the ranks of suffering Thracians Gauls and Germans. The armies of Rome met with defeat at their hands, and for a time it looked as though the tables of Rome were being turned in a manner vastly distasteful to the ruling classes. But as is true in most rapidly rising militant movements, there were dissensions in the ranks of the victorious slaves and the army divided in two, some going to the side of one Crixus a rival leader, the rest standing firm by Spartacus. All the members of the ranks, were, however, agreed on one point, that to the victorious army belonged the spoils of their conquest. As a result, much against the wishes of Spartacus, the soldiers, drunk with power, pillaged, raped, and plundered the country in manner vastly superior to their lifetime oppressors. In the end, of course, the superior forces of the organized Roman armies defeated them and made a horrible example of them by crucifying 5,000 rebel soldiers on the Appian Way. Spartacus died like a true soldier, with his sword in his hand.

And the Worst is Yet to Come—

A Great Success.

The entertainment known as "Odds and Ends of 1918," given last night in the C. C. C. Hall, by the Ladies of the Khaki Club, was an undoubted success. It was the first concert of the nature to be given here, and was based upon the mode of American concerts, more so than any other previous concerts we have had.

The entertainment was under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor, who was attended by Hon. R. Watson. Upon arrival the Governor walked through a guard of Red Cross Nurses, at the head of whom were Mrs. Syme and Miss Margaret Furlong by whom he was escorted to the table at the head of the room. On each side of the Governor sat the French and American Consuls. All around the room were arranged other tables each seating four persons, and many of the most prominent citizens were present. The representatives of the United States and France, as well as His Excellency the Governor were hailed upon arrival by the singing of the National Anthems of their respective countries.

The programme opened with a song by Capt. Campbell, the prologue to which was recited by Miss Keegan. The prologue told in verse why the entertainment was held and apologized should "fortune's smiles be fickle," which apologies were not needed, as the applause given each performance testified otherwise. After the song there was a duet by Miss Ruth Orr and Mrs. Warren; a dance from the Pipes of Pab by Miss Louise Orr; song and dance: "Along came another little girl," by Mr. Ray Bennett and Mrs. Warren. Misses Joan Rendell, M. Doyle and L. Orr; song by Miss Ruth Orr; song by Captain Campbell; vaudeville by Messrs. F. and R. Bennett; song, "Garden of my dreams," by Mrs. Warren, Mrs. Colville, Miss Oltz and Miss R. Orr; dance by Misses L. Orr and Joan Rendell; and lastly the Red Cross March. Those taking part in the Red Cross March had been specially trained by Lt.-Col. Rendell and the same was splendidly done by the performers consisting of 12 of the Khaki Guild and 12 of the Khaki Club.

The hall was artistically decorated and colored lights were used with great effect. The music rendered by the C. C. C. Band, under Capt. A. Bulley, was of the usual high standard. The concert accompanist throughout was Mrs. (Rev.) Dickie. After the concert refreshments were served by the Ladies of the Khaki Club.

The whole affair was a most pleasing performance and was "voted" a thorough success, and all praise is due the ladies who so successfully and patriotically conducted this novel feature of entertainment. General dancing occurred thrice during the regular performance. Mr. Reg. Harvey acted as manager during the evening.

N. I. W. A.

President T. M. White presided at last evening's meeting of the N. I. W. A. Mr. P. Bennett was re-appointed business manager, and a special committee was ordered to fix the officers' salaries. The matter of food substitutes being taken up, Messrs. E. Whitty, F. Goff, S. Merrills and W. J. Willar strongly expressing their views that substitutes were no longer necessary.

Mr. Geo. F. A. Grimes explained the position of the F. C. B. in the matter, and the further action of the Association will be decided on when an outline of the situation is received on Monday from the High Commissioner, Hon. Sir E. R. Bowring, now in England.

The Battle That Was Never Fought.

(From the New York Tribune.) It was the battle that was never fought that won the Great War. We have all of us tried to form some just appreciation of what the Allied navies did to save us in the past years. Not until Admiral Rodman's down-right gallant talk has there been any vivid, coherent account to help us. We think every one who has read his narrative will feel a new orientation toward the war, will realize far more justly than ever before just how fundamental and vast and magnificent was that battle of the North Sea, fought hour after hour, day following day, through storm and sunshine, without halt or rest—and yet was never fought. Sixty-five miles of ships were in the column of the Grand Fleet, entering and leaving port. Our own Sixth Battle Squadron, with its place of honor as one of the two fast wings, was once at the head of the line when the German High Seas Fleet was nearly intercepted. That was a frequent chance, a constant possibility. Admiral Rodman makes clear how compelling and controlling was this threat that never came true, yet upon which was, of necessity, based the whole battle tactics of the Allied fleets, indeed the whole grand strategy of the Allies by land and sea. There is more than a glorious spectacle in the Hudson these days. There is more than eloquence and a glorious history in Admiral Rodman's report. The whole relation of sea power to history, to the safety of our democracy in a world however constituted, speaks in these grim fortresses of the deep that held the freedom of the seas against a devil's brood of monsters.

Now We Can Talk.

"That notorious bully, Von Bissing," says the Daily News, "figured in a capital story told in Belgian circles concerning the newly-returned Burgomaster-Max. 'Booted, spurred, helmeted, and with sword clattering at his side, von Bissing strode into M. Max's office one morning, and having intimated brusquely that he had something to say, was invited to take a chair. As he did so, he drew his revolver, and ostentatiously placed it within reach of his hand on the table. 'Without moving a muscle of his face, M. Max felt in his waistcoat pocket, took out his fountain pen, and set it beside the revolver. 'And now,' he remarked, with an affable smile, 'we can talk.'"

How They Outlawed Napoleon.

"The Congress of Vienna did not trouble itself about trial or procedure in the case of Buonaparte," says a writer in the Spectator. "On March 13, 1815, it issued a Declaration—which is certain to be used as a precedent on this occasion. It says in one passage:— 'Buonaparte... has deprived himself of the protection of the law, and has manifested to the universe that there can be neither peace nor truce with him. The Powers consequently declare that Napoleon Buonaparte has placed himself without the pale of civil and social relations, and that as an enemy and disturber of the tranquillity of the world he has rendered himself liable to public vengeance—a la vindicte publique.'"

As Lord Rosebery puts it ("Napoleon—the Last Phase," c. vi):

"The Congress of Vienna had outlawed Napoleon." The British signatories were "Wellington, Clancarty, Cathcart, Stewart."

FIRE ALARM—The fire alarm was sounded yesterday evening from Box 27, Patrick Street, and both the Central and Western Companies responded. However, the chimney only being alaze it was quickly extinguished and the firemen were not needed, and a few minutes after the alarm the all-out signal came.

Control of Influenza.

A meeting of the New York section of the Mining and Metallurgical Society was held on Dec. 16, at which the subject of influenza was discussed, with particular reference to its nature and control in mining camps, in many of which the ravages of the disease have materially affected production. The chairman of the section, Sidney H. Ball, in his opening remarks, drew attention to the unusual experience of the two large South African diamond mines. At the De Beers mine, where there are normally about 12,000 employees, about 4,000 have died from the after-effects of the disease. At the Premier mine drastic preventive measures were undertaken before the disease had made any headway, with the result that there was practically no loss of life. Dr. Charles F. Collins, of New York, called attention to the history of the disease. From the early part of the sixteenth century up to 1870 the records show that about ninety influenza epidemics have been described. Some were sporadic though others swept rapidly over the entire world; some were of short duration, and others lasted for several months. Many fatalities have accompanied the outbreaks, but in all cases, so far as records show, deaths have not been directly due to influenza, but to other diseases that immediately follow and attack those who are already much weakened and thoroughly poisoned by the influenza.

May-O-Linds.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir:—By to-day's mail I received a letter from Miss Knox, Secretary of the Newfoundland War Contingent Association, forwarding a card which was enclosed in each parcel sent to the sailors of the Newfoundland Naval Reserve. It reads as follows:— "The Newfoundland War Contingent Assoc. (Newfoundland) and the May-O-Lind Fund desire us to forward these gifts with their sincere wishes for a happy Christmas." Miss Knox adds:— "We have already received a message of thanks from the Senior Naval Officer of Kellbegs, asking that the sincere thanks of the Naval Seamen may be conveyed to the givers for their Christmas parcels. He adds that the men are in all ways worthy." My purpose in referring to this matter is to show that every effort has been, and is still being, made to assure that the Home tobacco reaches our Sailors as well as our Soldiers. The difficulties in the past have been very great as the lads have been distributed all over the world and shipment in bulk has been impossible. It is pleasing to note that the difficulty is now disappearing and that this Christmas season, the Home tobacco and cigarettes has reached our gallant sailors.

Yours truly

J. ALEX. ROBINSON.

Littledale Xmas Tree.

The Christmas Tree at Littledale on last Wednesday was a decided success. The afternoon was brought to an agreeable climax with a concert given by the pupils of St. Bride's College assisted by some city talent. The programme consisted of charming vocal and instrumental solos and duets, spirited and humorous recitations, graceful dances, and a lovely idyl composed by one of the principal performers of the College. The various items were run off with commendable promptness and were keenly appreciated and liberally applauded by His Grace, the Archbishop, the city clergy and a full house. The Rev. Mother and sisters feel deeply grateful for the support given by the public, and wish to thank all those who worked to make the Xmas Tree and concert a success.

Lord Roberts' Prophecy About Foch.

L'Evinement of Quebec, quoted by the Times Toronto correspondent, states that when Lord Roberts was in Canada ten years ago at the dedication of the Plains of Abraham as a park and playground he made this prediction:— "They refuse to believe me, and we sleep under the false security, for I do not hesitate to affirm that we shall have a frightful war in Europe, and that England and France will have the hardest experience of their existence. They will, in fact, see defeat very near, but the war will finally be won by the genius of a French General named Ferdinand Foch Professor in the Military School in Paris."

Perfectly good apple-sauce cake can be made from dried apples. Gloves of skin or leather are better mended with cotton than silk. A good potato, if cut across, will easily fit together again. A drop of vanilla improves the flavor of a cup of coffee. Bread that stands too long as dough will surely be sour. Prunes are much improved by the addition of lemon peel. Pumpkin chips can be made just as orange peel is candied. Dried strawberries can be made into jam in the winter time. Flannel-lined cotton underwear is a good substitute for woolen. In kneading bread use a little flour as possible on the board.

"Halte La!"

There are men of the hour, and men of the day. And some whose life's work shall not perish for aye; But the cliques' pawns and puppet, oft drawn the most day. Then what is the use of a soldier? Ye talked of the wonderful deeds that he's done; Of the way that he battered and mangled the Hun. But now that the battle is over and won; Show us who gives a damn for the soldier.

We went out to fight against plunder and crime, And the papers kept telling us all of the time. That our names in our country's annals should shine— We were privileged—great—to be soldiers.

All things were to change when the war would be o'er, The soldier, he was to be "in it" no more. But now 'tis the same as 'twas always before. Then where is the chance for a soldier?

The mothers who bore us were told That their offspring, in Freedom's advance were allowed To fight—Oh, good Lord—for a hypocrite crowd. That is joining just now at the soldier's.

But is he, the soldier who roughed it and bled, Going to stand to see "slackers" put in o'er his head, While our limping and lamed are out begging for bread? Who were crippled while acting the soldier?

The soldier, he's learned to fight and to die! He has fought for the Truth, he won't stand for a Lie! Do you get me? You do! What this same might imply, When 'tis uttered in wrath by a soldier!

Nfld. Scotch Cured Herring.

While it is reported that there have been further sales of Newfoundland Scotch cured herring of the fall pack to New York, advice this week do not mention prices, and it is assumed, therefore, that if these sales have actually been consummated, they were at the prices offered by New York representatives now on the ground. Since sales have been reported at $23 per barrel, it is possible that other of the New York buyers have made purchases at this figure. Merchants here state, however, that they have not changed their ideas as to price one iota, since their representatives went to Newfoundland. It is understood that most of the bulk herring sold to American vessels at Green Bay is now on the way to Gloucester and that Scotch packing has again been resumed, but there is no confirmation of this. Recent reports state that fishing has been poor at most points and that the pack will likely be small but private despatches give an entirely different situation. It is reported that the steamer Prospero has arrived at St. John's with a quantity of herring from Green Bay and from other sources it is reported that the fish have struck in and sales out of the nets have been made as low as $7 and $8 a barrel. At other points it is understood sales of green herring have been made at $4 and $6 within the past few days. Packers continue to offer at $28, according to these advices, but New York buyers are not interested at this price. Most of the representatives have returned to St. John's and are waiting there for orders from their principals. Many who have studied the situation closely are of the opinion that the market will drop to $20 and below before the middle of January. In such an event it may be expected that New York importers will make further purchases, probably of larger quantities. It is understood that Newfoundland shippers have ventured into the market and some have made purchases at the prevailing market prices. The packing season closes on January 15, but there is time to pack a considerable quantity before then, so that the trade in New York entertains no fear that there will be no Newfoundland Scotch cured herring available if it is required at all. Some hold that unless the packers reduce their prices they will not buy at all, but turn to other grades of herring. The condition in Newfoundland appears to have been somewhat distorted by those who would be the gainer if the prices were kept high. It seems that the reports of the limited quantity of fish were not well founded in fact, for while there were days when the run was small the general average of the catch has been maintained.—N.Y. Fishing Gazette, Dec. 24, 1918.

Salt & Pickled Herring.

Pending the settlement of conditions in the pickled fish trade, there is a nominal market on split and round herring. The demand has been negative for perhaps five weeks, and prior to that time there was only a fair business reported. Although stocks are not heavy, the trade does not seem to have taken any interest in split herring this season. The market, while firm during the early fall, began to decline almost immediately after several lots were sold here at a sacrifice. Since then there has been no special improvement. Both large and medium splits are now quoted at from $11 to $12.50, according to quality, and there is nothing on which to base any prediction of an improved condition or a higher price, even though Newfoundland splits are held in some instances, at figures which would bring the fish into New York at higher prices than are now being asked. The fact is that the herring business of New York is undergoing a change incident to the readjustment back to a peace basis. Whereas split herring formerly had a good and steady demand in this market, it has had only an intermittent call during the past few months. A year ago, however, there was a strong demand prior to the holidays. Round herring has not been in demand here for months and, now that new supplies are available, the trade seems to take no more interest. The quotations remain unchanged, but, as stated above, are nominal. Other grades of salt and pickled herring are in the same position. Marinated herring in 10-pound tins is still quoted at the range of $1.50 and $1.50, according to the quality and the seller.—N.Y. Fishing Gazette.

Had a Good Reason.

(From London Opinion.) A battalion was being instructed on "How to take a convoy through open country." One company was told off to represent horses cows and wagons. After a short halt the advance order was given and the convoy moved on—all except one man who did not budge. "Here, you!" called the major; "why don't you advance?" "I can't, sir." "You can't. What do you mean?" "I'm a wagon and I've got a wheel off."

Bartlett to Fly Over North Pole.

The Aero Club of America announces that an aerial expedition to photograph the North Pole and points of interest in its vicinity would set out next June under the direction of Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, master mariner, explorer and fisherman. Several aeroplanes will be taken, one of them a big one in which a flight will be made straight across the top of the world from northernmost America to northernmost Asia, a distance of 12,000 miles. Funds for the trip, which it is estimated will cost $50,000, will be provided by the Aero Club of America.

Britain's Sea Mysteries.

The newest type of fighting ship in the British Navy is the battle cruiser Abercrombie, named after the famous British general. This monstrous cruiser is proof against torpedoes, has no smokestack (the smoke being emitted from the stern), has a speed of 40 knots, and carries 18 inch guns in the forward turret. With such vessels of war does Great Britain maintain the "freedom of the seas."

Tired Eyes

Sensations exist for our guidance. They are Nature's warnings. Over-worked eyes demand rest. Eyes that tire easily call for help. Properly adjusted glasses afford the only assistance possible. We make a specialty of relieving tired eyes and guarantee satisfaction.

PROTECT YOURSELF

when visiting theatres, churches or other congested places. See that you carry a bottle of FARFARMIC THROAT LOZENGES.

These Lozenges are a powerful antiseptic and germicide. By allowing one to slowly dissolve in the mouth they will protect you against influenza and other contagious diseases. Used in this manner they form a pleasant and efficient substitute for gargling.

BRISCOE,

"The Car with the Half-Million Dollar Motor."

WITH FULL EQUIPMENT AND ALL CONVENIENCES.

Two-unit electric starting and lighting, long stroke 3 1/4" 5 1/4" motor; magneto; four full elliptic springs with sofa-type seat springs; Briscoe line body, with special Briscoe lustered finish; 105 inch wheelbase; complete equipment including open man top, hair top holders, tilted eye saver windshield, speedometer, electric horn, electric dash lamp, electric headlights with dimmer, oil gauge, gasoline gauge, ammeter, demountable rims and one extra rim, tires 30 x 3 1/2 all around.

EX S. S. "ADOLPH" JANUARY 10TH.

One Briscoe Touring Car and one four-passenger Sport Roadster. See them at THE GARAGE. Your own eyes will tell you that it is unlike any other car in its size, power and weight class. In appearance and finish we believe you will see in it a welcome departure from the sameness of design and dress which has heretofore marked the ordinary popular-priced car. Mechanically the car is tried and proven. You can shift the gears of the Briscoe with your finger tips so easy are they to mesh. The clutch takes hold without "grabbing" and engages so effectively that you can move the car forward or backward an eighth of an inch at a time if you desire. It is not necessary that you throw your full weight on the brake pedal, just a slight pressure and the brake takes hold.

The weight is evenly distributed so that the car is perfectly balanced and stays on the road no matter what the speed. The Bailey Gearless Differential eliminates side sway, skidding and slipping. Naturally it requires no effort to steer the car.

Full line of Spare Parts by "Adolph". Prompt service assured.

Catalogue and specifications on request.
