MARKET REPORTS
 indicate that there is no surplus of Anthracite Coal in the U.S. The shortage caused by the strike of Anthracite Miners last year has not been made up, and American hard coal will, in all probability, be hard to get and high priced. Coke is an excellent substitute for hard coal, and we have on hand a stock of same that will soon be disposed of, because a shortage of hard coal invariably creates an increased demand for our product.
 We advise our customers to book their requirements as soon as possible.

Notice to Motor Drivers.

In the interest of "Safety First" the following has been suggested as an additional Driving Rule to be adopted by members of the Newfoundland Motor Association, and others. Members are requested to give this suggested rule a trial and be prepared to advise as to its adoption, or otherwise, at the next General Meeting of the Association:—

After dark, cars RETURNING to the city shall have the right of way over cars proceeding FROM the city, in other words, cars PROCEEDING FROM the city and meeting cars RETURNING to the city shall stop (within a distance of from seventy five to one hundred yards of the approaching car) and dim lights till the car returning to the city (which need not dim) has passed.

The attention of members is called to the following By-Law of the Association:—"Any motorist, member of the Association desiring to overtake or pass a car must blow his horn two blasts, and the driver of the car ahead shall signal that he has heard the horn by answering two blasts. If the car ahead cannot keep ahead of the overtaking car, the driver should allow the overtaking car to pass and the overtaking car must immediately get far enough ahead to prevent the occupant of the car passed from getting the dust."

An Indispensible Favorite OR Wealth and Beauty at Stake!

CHAPTER XVII.

Darkness within and without, darkness all about her, darkness in her heart! Yolande Glynne, a desolate, forlorn bride, not three weeks married, and already neglected by her husband, begins to realize her position, to pity herself, and to weep bitter tears about herself in girlish, heart-broken grief and anger. But, when the long, long days wears on, and the sunshine fades, and the blue skies are darkly clouded in one of April's changeable moods, and the afternoon wanes quickly, lowering skies and souging wind and chill blasts of rain betokening a wet and stormy evening, the poor little married girl's mood changes pitifully.

"The whole living day without one sight of his face!" This is what she is saying to herself now, as she sits in the gloaming in her chill, gloomy bedroom.

Few of the rooms at Pentreath are cosy or warm, for they are nearly all large, while several are positively grand from their stately proportions and time-faded, splendid furniture. Yolande's bedroom is simply appalling to her nervous imagination. There is a fire in the huge fireplace, certainly, with a massive black marble mantel-piece frowning over it; but the decorous, dull-red fire, which is guarded by such an array of shining steel and bronze implements, and radiating sparks; and a massive, flashing, burnished fender that Yolande is afraid to take the liberty of poking it, does not impart the least glow of warmth or brightness to the area of faded purple Brussels carpet beyond it, much less to the seat in her far-off window where little Mrs. Glynne, wrapped in a shawl, is gazing out fruitlessly and wearily, a miserable little Mariana.

"Athwart the gloaming fate" of the sodden park lands, with Mariana's moan on her pale lips. "He is not coming—no coming! Not one sign of him—for I have never taken my eyes off that bend of the carriage road beyond the trees. No sign of him yet, and it is nearly six bated breath. "And Sir Gregory Parker is expected about nine to-night. They are saying, ma'am, that his lordship, the earl"—Pitts loves titles—"will hardly live through another twenty-four hours."

"Has Captain Glynne come back yet, do you know, Pitts?" Yolande asks, with an assumption of carelessness, her eyes fixed on a page of her novel as she sips her tea.

"No, ma'am, they haven't come back yet," Pitts answers, with a touch of resentment in her voice. "And then Pitts goes away gladly to the gossip downstairs, her mistress telling her she will ring for her when she wants her."

"Already they are discussing young Mrs. Glynne downstairs as 'a very quiet young lady,' and handsome Captain Glynne as 'too bad' in his neglect of his poor little bride's society."

"They haven't come back yet!" Yolande repeats, tossing aside the unread book, the pages of which are wet with fast-falling tears. "They are together, and I am left alone! Oh, what shall I do? What shall I do? How shall I live this dreadful life!" She sobs piteously, and then checks herself, lest "they" see the signs of weeping disfiguring her face, and despise her.

No! "They" shall not despise her—cruel, false Dallas, her faithless, unloving husband, who knows, alas, that his sad little wife loves him passionately, and cruel, false, fair Joyce, who wants to rob her of even the poor semblance of her husband's affection! So she resolutely wipes away her tears, and gazes and watches and waits until the blood is chilled in her veins and her heart is desperately sick with "deferred hope."

But, when the day is dying and the heavy rain clouds are deepening the twilight all about the darkling, woodland, Yolande turns away, with a long, heavy sigh of despair from her post at the window, and, lighting the candles on her toilet table, wearily begins to dress for dinner. She will not ring for Pitts; she looks so ill and spiritless that Pitts may think she is unhappy, and it will keep her from thinking of her troubles if she has to dress herself. So she puts on a black lace dress—one of those soft, floating, diaphanous, ever-becoming dresses which look well even in the shabby stage—over an amber-satin petticoat with knots of rich amber satin among the black lace draperies; and then she puts on her diamonds.

At serving time flavor feed coffee with orange juice, using the juice of two oranges to each quart of coffee. Top each glass with whipped cream. Canned foods are more wholesome if they are turned from the can about a half hour before they are to be used and exposed to the air to re-oxygenize.

Very Tall Stories.

SOME REALLY "STAGGERING" YARNS SUBMITTED BY OUR READERS.

Recently readers were invited to send along the tallest stories they had ever heard. Here is a selection of the yarns received:

The tenant of a post-war house called at the agent's office to make a complaint. "A lot of bees have got into the house," he said—"they mistook it for their hives." "Turn them out, then," said the agent kindly.

"Can't!" came the rejoinder. "Two of the beasty things are wedged in the doorway, and I can't get 'em!"

The famous golfer hit the ball, and made one of his rare mistakes. The ball did not fly true—instead it went through the window of a house, knocked over an oil lamp, and set the place on fire.

The golfer pulled himself together. He "teed up" again, drove another ball in the direction of the town. Alarm, smashed the glass and summoned the fire brigade.

Two old farmers met one and one asks:—"How is your new man a-gettin' on?" "Well," said the other, "he brose two spade handles yesterday!" "Workin' so hard?" "No learnin' on 'em!"

Algernon (to his best girl): "You need not fear tramps or hooligans when you are with me, darling. I'm a champion runner. If any of them attacked us, I'd run off and bring help in no time."

Keep the flies from your food by using Wire Dish Covers, selling at lowest prices. See our window. BOWRING BROS., LTD. Hardware Department.—July 24

HOW GOSSIP GROWS.

YESTERDAY I MET a woman whom I would 'admire' to know better.

YESTERDAY I met a woman whom I would 'admire' to know better. I was with her for only a few minutes and I heard her speak just one sentence, and yet I am sure that she would be the most comfortable sort of a friend.

It happened this way. I was down town shopping with a friend of mine when she suddenly said, 'Oh, there is Mrs. P. Come just a minute. I must speak with her.'

She took up the urgent topic with Mrs. P. almost at once. 'I wanted to tell you,' she said, 'that a remark I made about you in all friendliness this afternoon was misinterpreted, deliberately, I believe, by the woman to whom I made it. I have a feeling that she may repeat the remark to you in the same perverted sense in which she took it and I am so glad of the chance to tell you about it before she does.'

Wasn't This Splendid? 'You needn't have worried about that,' said Mrs. P. with a cordial smile.

'Yes, she is,' said the friend of years standing. 'but I wish you could have seen her when she was a bride. She was the loveliest picture you could ask to see.' 'How it Came Back. That remark of sincere admiration from an old friend came back to Mary thus: 'What do you think Jane said about you? She said that you were pretty when you were first married but that you have faded sadly of late years.'

And Mary, foolish Mary, vain of her beauty and with the fear of that fading upon her, believed what she had been told her chilly manner toward poor, bewildered Jane at their next meeting laid the first bar of a barrier between them.

A Game With a Lesson. I know a mother who suffered a particularly painful experience of this sort in which a remark of hers was distorted in such a way as to leave her defenceless, so like was the distortion in form to what she had actually said but so diametrically opposed to it in meaning.

She has determined that her children shall learn in their youth to discount rumor, and so she often plays with them a little game in which someone whispers a statement to his neighbor who in turn, whispers it to the person next him, etc., until at last the statement come back to its author for confirmation—and very seldom does it come back word for word, accurately, as it started. The game is called 'Gossip.' I think it is a good game for grown-ups to play occasionally, don't you?

The tragic and wild sigh unbelievable tale of the 'poisoned pen,' which appeared in the papers of one of our big cities lately, is proof of the credence people will give to slander and of the terrible consequences that follow. Happy for such people if they had learned in their youth to recognize and to scorn meddlesome gossip and to give their friends at least the benefit of the doubt.

fresh simply because it is cooler. Secondly the air is really fresher because it has been thoroughly washed.

As can be seen by looking at any ray of sunlight thrown across a darkened room, there are floating about in the air millions of little specks of dust and other impurities. In the neighbourhood of large towns the air also contains certain proportions of gases which we can't see. Both the dust and the gas are washed away and absorbed by the rain as it passes through the air.

In the country, where the freshness is most apparent, the trees and herbage have reacted to the shower, and are giving out their fragrance—yet another reason for the 'freshness.' Finally, the rain may in many cases have been caused through electrical changes in the air, and these changes will have stimulated the production of ozone, the bracing qualities of which we know so well.

WHY ARE SOME RUBBER-SOLED SHOES CALLED 'PLIMSOLLS'?

The late Mr. Samuel Plimsoll was a philanthropic Member of Parliament who devoted most of his political life to furthering the interests of the British sailor.

The work by which most ordinary people know him is his establishing of the 'Plimsoll Line,' to prevent the

WHY IS THE AIR SO FRESH AFTER RAIN?

In the first place, the air feels overloading—and therefore endangering—of ships. Naturally, he became a public figure, and at the height of his agitation an enterprising bootmaker seized the opportunity to name a type of shoe after him—the obvious point being that it let in no water!

WHY DO WE SPEAK OF A PERSON OF A CERTAIN TEMPERAMENT AND MODE OF LIFE AS A 'BOHEMIAN'?

Just about the time that the first 'Gipsies' appeared in France, there had been great religious troubles in Bohemia, and many Bohemians, expelled for their opinions, were wandering into Western Europe.

The French mixed the two up together and, just as we called caravanners 'gipsies,' because we thought they came from Egypt, so the French spoke of them as 'The Bohemians.'

WEDDING BELLS.

Jim Flipp, head clerk in Duzong's store, and drummer in the village band, has hooked up with the fair Lenore, who works in Grice's peanut stand.

At a happy wedding trip to silver towns along the shore, then they returned, and Mr. Flipp went back to clerking in the store. And Mrs. Flipp, the fair young bride, is selling peanuts as of old; she deals them roasted, raw and fried, and gathers in the minted gold. They're living in a single room hard by the Covenanters' Kirk; a rusty place, that's full of gloom, but it is handy to their work.

Lincoln Car Wins Police Speed Tests.

Detroit, Mich.—Racing past the two-mile flag at a speed better than 80 miles an hour, a Lincoln seven-passenger touring model covered the distance from a standing start in 1 minute, 49 3/5 seconds on Oakwood boulevard, where the police department contests to determine the qualifications of cars for bandit chasing were being held.

This time was eight seconds faster than the acceleration record of the Cadillac which took second place at a speed of 75 miles an hour.

In the half-mile acceleration contest from a standing start, Lincoln also snatched the victory, crossing the line in 38.2 seconds at a speed of 75 miles, the Packard and Cadillac being for second place with records of 39.1.

A crowd of several hundred persons, including men prominent in the automotive industry, witnessed the events, reports the Detroit News.

Household Notes. Well washed, chilled and sugared currants are a delicious creamed in sour cream gravy and served on toast points. No very acid fruit should be served with rich cocoa-flavored sauce as dessert. A dish of grated cheese is a delicious accompaniment for cream of potato soup. Freezing is sterilized if one has a stout canvas bag and a wooden mallet to crush the ice. Peanut butter and orange marmalade make a delicious spread for cracker sandwiches. Add one-third cupful of coarsely chopped nut-meats to one cupful of mayonnaise dressing. If oranges are rather sour, serve them sliced and arranged around a pit of powdered sugar. Add a teaspoonful of marshmallow cream and a slight dusting of cinnamon to each cupful of cocoa. Use a little grated onion and lemon rind and some chopped parsley in the stuffing for baked tomatoes. Waldorf salad is nice jellied in individual oiled molds and garnished with boiled or mayonnaise dressing. For a cooling and tempting light supper serve a fruit salad with nut serving. and cheese sandwiches and egarbs. Garnish jellied cabbage salad with finely chopped pimentos and serve on water cress with mayonnaise. Oatmeal is doubly nutritious when half milk is substituted for the amount of water called for in cooking it. Sprinkle cold cauliflower with a little grated cheese and serve on crisp lettuce leaves with Chili sauce mayonnaise. When making pies prepare a little extra pie crust and use for tartlet shells which can be filled with fruit or jam as needed.

DISASTROUS CHARBANC CRASH.

LOURDES, France, Aug. 14. Twenty-three persons were killed and seven probably fatally injured yesterday when a motor coach, filled with excursionists, plunged down a 250 foot embankment in the Pyrenean mountains near Saint Sauveur. The accident occurred near the foot of Napoleon Bridge, which crossed the rushing torrent. The driver, in trying to avoid striking a woman, who was emerging from the bushes, swerved the machine sharply in the road that skirts the precipice and the machine turned completely over crashing to the bottom of the ravine.

A VOTE OF CONFIDENCE IN NEW MINISTRY.

BERLIN, Aug. 14. A vote of confidence came after Dr. Stresemann informed the Chamber that Germany required complete restoration rights in occupied territory, as essential to abandonment of passive resistance, setting free all Germans imprisoned in districts occupied by the French and Belgians, and permission for the return of those who have been sent out of occupied territory also, were made conditions for the cessation of passive resistance. Dr. Stresemann declared the change in the Government was not a sign of weakness on the part of Germany, on the contrary the change had brought into being the strongest Cabinet as regards opposition to any idea of permitting violation of Germany, that the country had since the Republic was formed. The Chancellor said passive resistance was deeply rooted in the firm conviction of its justice, that he declared had been unequivocally recognized by the British, and he assumed this statement of the British conception would find echo in France and Belgium.

FRENCH PRESS AND PEOPLE TAKE SITUATION QUIETLY.

PARIS, Aug. 14. The French reply to Lord Curzon's note on reparations will be probably sent before the end of the week. Although it is no longer assumed in official quarters here that the Entente may survive the present difficulties, the situation is taken with perfect calm in Government circles as well as by the press and public. The French have, in fact, long considered the Entente virtually defunct, so far as it concerns co-operation with Gt. Britain and France on the application of the terms of the Treaty of Versailles. Lord Curzon's note is taken merely as recognition of that fact by the British Government with the aim of throwing the responsibility for the rupture on France.

GERMAN DIFFICULTIES INCREASE

BERLIN, Aug. 14. With later reports indicating an increase in mob disturbances throughout Germany, Chancellor Stresemann and Government were faced with another anxious day this morning. During the night rumours came that 200 persons had been killed in Hanover and 15 in Zietz, Saxony. Rioting was also said to be in progress in Nessen, Congratulations to Rev. Dr. Browne.

Honors and distinctions seem to be the outstanding feature in the career of our distinguished fellow-countryman, Rev. P. W. Browne, D.D., Ph.D. The Trinity College Record (Washington, D.C.) announces the appointment of Dr. Browne as head of the Department of Modern History at this famed institution. His activities in the historic field are well known both at home and abroad, and, in addition to the editorship of the learned Catholic Historical Review, he occupies the chair of Modern History at the Catholic University and is head of the Department of Church History at Catholic Sisters' College, which has just closed its summer session with the largest enrolment in its history. Both Trinity and Sisters' Colleges are constituent colleges of the University and the academic programme of both is the same as that of the parent institution.

Dr. Browne's work in the field of history has been most extensive, and his ceaseless energy has been rewarded by distinctions many and varied.

We understand that Dr. Browne's "History of Newfoundland" will likely appear within the next year. This work has been compiled with a view to meet the needs of the Newfoundland schools and will no doubt meet their requirements admirably. He is perhaps the greatest living authority in this special field, and the fact that he has been for many years a successful teacher will warrant the usefulness of his new work. In addition to his earlier equipment in the academic field, he has pursued post-graduate studies at the Catholic University at Harvard and at the University of Munich, where he spent most of last season in research work.

The Crowe Agreement.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir—May I congratulate you upon your editorial references in last night's issue to the Crowe Agreement which is now before the House in the form of a Bill.

The sentiments expressed by you must coincide with the opinion of every Newfoundland who believes in the future of his country, and is sufficiently farsighted to realize that not only must we provide for ourselves but also for the generations to follow.

Those of us who have given any thought to the matter must have viewed with alarm the proposal through our national resources by the practically indiscriminate cutting for export of pit props and pulpwood during the past few years. In the cause of relief, many great timber limits have been denuded of valuable wood which can never be replaced.

Since our Government has been too nearsighted to see that greater benefit would have come through keeping the people at the fishery.

The passage of the Crowe agreement through the House would be a little short of criminal. If Mr. Crowe wished to erect a pulp and paper plant to manufacture all the wood desired to cut, the Government would be only right in doing its utmost to help him, but to permit him to cut and export unmanufactured pulpwood for any period would, as you so graphically put it, be selling our heritage for a mess of pottage.

To permit him to cut and export without manufacturing for twenty-five years would, as I have already said, be nothing short of criminal, for it would be tantamount to granting a concession which the people of this generation have no right to give.

Mr. Crowe is a speculator. He realizes that once the Canadiana place an embargo upon the export of unmanufactured pulpwood to the United States, and this embargo will be law very shortly, the American paper manufacturers will be crying out for raw material and the price will rise materially as the demand increases.

It is impossible to blame Mr. Crowe for trying to get rich quick at the expense of the people of this country, but there is no reason at all why we should be soft enough to fall in with his plans.

The Government which passes this Bill will lay itself open to the curses of future generations, to which it will do an irreparable wrong, and the Prime Minister should realize this and immediately withdraw so obnoxious an agreement. If he will not do this, then the Opposition, the guardians of the people's liberty, must oppose it tooth and nail.

Yours faithfully,
YOUNG PATRIOT.

Standardization of Lobster Canneries.

PLANTS BEING CLASSIFIED THIS YEAR AND IN THREE YEARS' TIME THEY MUST MEET STANDARD 100 PER CENT. OR GET NO LICENSE.

(Canadian Fisherman)
The educational campaign, conducted in the years 1921 and 1922 by the Dominion Department of Fisheries, among those engaged in the lobster industry, has resulted, according to lobster packers, in a very material improvement in the pack.

That encouraging report was given to the Canadian Fisherman by Prof. A. P. Knight, B.A., M.D., for thirty years professor of animal biology in Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., and at present, as he has been for the past three years, chairman of the Biological Board of Canada.

Dr. Knight in his recent visit here stressed the following essentials of standardization: 1—the factory; 2—equipment; 3—sanitation; 4—sterilization; 5—operations performed by employees.

Two years ago, he explained, it was found that there was little or no standardization in the maritime provinces. Every packer was a law unto himself.

Since that time, the Department of Fisheries has considered the matter, particularly because complaints about bad canned meats had been received from Great Britain and the United States. In consequence, the department, this spring, adopted a system of grading the canneries, that standardization decisions is the grading sheet.

This sheet sets out the specifications which the department has adopted for the various units which are employed in the catching, handling, cooking and canning of lobsters; the marks allowed and deducted for and against good and bad points in units, against each unit.

1920 LOSS BY BLACKENING WAS HEAVY.

Loss in 1920 on account of blackened lobster meat was very heavy. A large quantity of spoiled lobster was shipped back from England. Not only was there loss of meat, but also loss of prestige.

It was therefore decided to make the canneries as uniform as possible, hence, the adopting by the department of fisheries of a grading scheme was also endorsed by the Canners' section of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

In the Maritime Provinces, it was found by survey that division into three classes was in order: 1, Those above 75 per cent; 2, those between 60 and 75 per cent; and 3, those below 60 per cent.

For 1923, the grading is intended simply to point out to the canneries the deficiencies that exist in material equipment, so that those defects may be obviated next fall and winter.

The survey of the methods employed by the various canneries in the maritimes showed that it was a common practice in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island to leave oil tables, over night, in a boiled state, the surplus lobsters which were left after the canning of the day's catch. That practice was not in vogue in southern Nova Scotia, where crates with open spaces were employed to hold the surplus catch in captivity in the live state in salt water until they could be canned. That is, southern Nova Scotia always canned lobsters when they were alive and fresh.

From boiled to can, southern Nova Scotia allowed twenty minutes for the process.

Professor Knight emphasized the importance of obviating unnecessary handling in the case of lobster. He called attention to the urgency of immediate canning lobster, the shells of which had been broken.

FOUR ESSENTIALS.
The most important points to be observed, the predominant essentials in the canning industry, are, according to Dr. Knight: 1, washing the meat in running water; 2, the source of the water supply; 3, the steam boiler; 4, drainage.

There are 600 lobster factories in the Maritimes, Professor Knight stated, employing from 5,000 to 6,000 people in the several branches of fishing and packing. The marketed product brings an annual return of $5,000,000.

Government Seeks Naval Fuel Supply in Northern Waters.

Washington, AUG. 14. (A.P.)—The last "mystery land" under the American flag, a vast stretch of mountain and plain in northwest Alaska, now is under exploration by the federal government.

The tract comprises some 35,000 square miles, and was set aside last February by President Harding as a naval oil reserve. Some traces of oil have been found on its borders, but for the most part its qualities and resources are a matter of speculation.

The exploration recently begun is under the direction of six scientists of the Interior Department, whose primary task will be to investigate oil mining possibilities, but who in addition will make the first maps of the region ever drawn on scientific lines.

Four or five summers are to be consumed before the exploration is complete, but during the present season it is hoped to complete a preliminary reconnaissance and determine the locality of the most promising oil fields. For this purpose the geologists and topographers and their camp hands have divided into three parties, in the hope that by this means most of the tract can be covered before winter begins.

The few facts known about the district are that it consists mainly of a flat and barren land near the seacoast, a narrow strip of which has been visited by white men, and that in the south it includes a high barren range of mountains. It is bounded on the north and west by the Arctic Ocean, on the south by the Endicott Range, and on the east by the Colville River.

Whalers and a few other hardy adventurers have visited the coast and several small posts have been organized. Several oil companies have sent prospectors to look after the many oil seeps to be seen near the coast, but no legal claims of permits for exploitation of the resources have been granted. In places the surface oil is said to have been collected in small ponds and puddles and semi-solid tar residues have been reported.

Whether the federal government will undertake the development of the territory will be determined later. The working season would be short, however, and the difficulties of drilling, storing and transportation so immense, that unless oil is discovered in great quantity leases will be granted to private firms.

Since the area is situated entirely within the Arctic Circle, not only would transportation distances be great, but the cold would prevent a working season of more than a few months each year. The department's men were unable to work until July because of ice conditions, and they will hardly be able to continue later than the middle of September.

Motoring Some.

(Halfax Chronicle).
The rapid and remarkable increase in motor cars in Canada, in a very few years, is shown by the registration figures recently published. In 1907, or only sixteen years ago, there were only 254 cars registered in the Province of Quebec. There were none, it appears, at that time in New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island or Manitoba, and only 2,130 in all Canada, of which Ontario claimed 1,530. The remaining Provinces boasted of the following registrations:—Nova Scotia, 62; Alberta, 55; British Columbia, 175; Saskatchewan, 74. In 1922 the Canadian total was 514,007, which must be considerably increased this year. The registration of motor cars in the various Provinces and their populations is shown in the following table:

Province	Cars	Reg. Popul'n
Nova Scotia	16,159	523,337
New Brunswick	13,611	337,376
P. E. Island	2,167	88,615
Quebec	61,995	2,361,199
Ontario	241,986	2,933,662
Manitoba	42,200	610,113
Saskatchewan	61,367	757,510
Alberta	40,462	588,464
British Columbia	33,880	524,582
Total	514,007	8,775,853

Canada, it thus appears, has one motor car for every seven and a half people in the country. In Nova Scotia the proportion is one for every 32, which is "motoring some." It may be questioned whether or not Canadians are not indulging too freely in the motor car habit, but at all events, the automobile is growing in popular favor faster in Canada probably than in any country in the world, with the exception of the United States, which leads the list in the ownership of automobiles.

Case of Mrs. Russell.

APPEAL TO BE CARRIED TO HOUSE OF LORDS.
The "News of the World" understands that Mrs. Christabel Russell has decided to appeal to the House of Lords against the decision of the Court of Appeal confirming the divorce nisi granted to her husband, the Hon. John Hugo Russell, Lord Amphil's son and heir. The appeal will be lodged forthwith, and the hearing may be expected during the next session of the House. The point of law raised by Mr. Patrick Hastings, for Mrs. Russell, before the Court of Appeal, is likely to play a prominent part in the proceedings. This, it will be remembered, was to the effect that the rule that a husband cannot give evidence against the legitimacy of a child applies also in divorce cases. The Court of Appeal upheld the practice of the Divorce Court, but it is open to the House of Lords to reverse this decision.

After the postponement of Wednesday, Thursday crowds gathered to the old lake side, but the wind was so high it was impossible to go ahead with the races programme. "Unreasonable" Women

"When women make up their minds that garments do not suit, nothing in the world will make them shake that opinion," declared Mr. Friend, the Registrar at Bloomsbury County Court, when called upon to decide whether an elaborate evening gown had been properly made. After examining the make, the Registrar observed that he had come to the conclusion that the woman had been unreasonable. "You cannot turn the material into molten lead and pour it over a woman in order to make a perfect fit for her figure," he added.

"Dressmakers are only human, and they use their skill to the best of their ability."—The woman was ordered to pay for the costume.

A weak solution of gum arabic better than starch for silk and cotton-water for cretonne and fabric robes, veils, cotton georgettes, fine collars and fichus.

When an overall is stained with grease rub the marks with lard on the washboard, and scrub with brush dipped in warm suds and dilute ammonia. It stained with white paint use turpentine.

When your machine needs good strikes' and won't work or becomes blunt, stretch through several times of the sandpaper, then burn in the flame of a match for a couple of minutes.

A paste of alcohol and whiting diluted with a fannell is the best for erasing dirt or rust which has been washed in soap suds. It easily dries, paraffin may be used.

To remove fur from the inside of a kettle, fill it with soda water, pour two raw-pieled potatoes, and an Empty, all with clean water, and again; lastly rinse with cold water. Even ordinary glass-ware which sparkles if washed in warm water with a good pinch of soda has been added instead of soap.

To skin tomatoes, put them in a wire basket, plunge them into boiling water, then into cold water, and they will peel quite easily.

You can purchase and use Kirkman's Soap with the assurance and the guarantee that you have the best soap in the world, as harmless to the hands as the most expensive toilet soap.

A Dish of Turnips. Pare four turnips. Put them on with boiling salted water, boil from twenty minutes to half an hour until tender.

Stewed Carrots. Scrape six carrots with cold water and a little salt. When the carrots are through the boil, take them and rub them in a coarse towel.

Boiled Rice. Wash well a teaspoonful of whole rice and sprinkle it into fast-boiling salted water. Boil rapidly for ten minutes, then drain the rice, pour cold water through it.

Potato Salad. Take six boiled cold potatoes, and after cutting them into neat thin slices, place them in a crystal or salad bowl.

Cauliflower and Tomato Sauce. Fry a fatasher of bacon with a small chopped onion, add an ounce of flour, and cook for a minute or two.

The Book World.
(John O'London's Weekly.)

Queen Marie of Romania, who in English in the sense that her father was the Duke of Edinburgh, has written what she entitles an "Ode to Roumania." It is appearing in a book which Madame Jonesco, the widow of the well known Roumanian statesman, has been compiling in order to help Roumanian war orphans. She first asked the Queen, whose literary tastes are well known, to write something, and she promptly responded with this Ode in metrical prose.

A "SHOCKER" OF QUALITY.

Mr. John Buchan has recently finished a new romance on the lines of his "Greenmantle" and "The Thirty-nine Steps." He thought he had written enough of this kind of story, but his readers constantly write to him saying No. The plot of the new one came to him very easily and he thought he ought not to put it away, especially as all the characters were already available, and therefore he sat down and wrote, like the man in the Scriptures, quickly.

LONG AND SHORT.

Surely Mr. Stanley Weyman must be one of our very few novelists who do not write short stories. He was asked the other week if he would do one for a famous Christmas number, but wrote back that he could not, for one reason, because he was busy on a long novel. He never seems to have cared much for the short story, although one feels that with his power of compressing drama he could have been a master of it.

AN IRISH AUTHOR.

We have not heard anything for a long time of Mr. Padraic Colum, the Irish poet and novelist. Partly this is because he now makes his home in America, like Mr. Richard Le Gallienne, Mr. Cosmo Hamilton, and several other writers who once belonged to us. Another reason is that he has been away for months in Hawaii collecting material for a ther elaborate book on the folk-lore of that island. He was invited to undertake the task by the Government of Hawaii.

A GREAT "BEST SELLER."

We have no woman writer, except perhaps Miss Ethel M. Dell, who is as popular in America as Mrs. Gene Stratton-Porter is in England. Even so, Mr. Murray can hardly hope to sell 100,000 copies of her new book, "The White Flag," before it is published. News comes to Albemarle Street that such a single advance order has been received by the American publishers of this story, which will be ready in August. Naturally it comes from one of the great wholesale book houses of America, but even so, it is a remarkable testimony to Mrs. Stratton-Porter's hold upon American readers.

STORIES BY MR. LOCKE.

One hears two items of gossip about the writings of that popular novelist, Mr. W. J. Locke, who has himself been in London. His "Beloved Vagabond," with which he really won fame, is at the moment being filmed. Pictures have been taken in Montmartre where part of the scene is laid, and they are going to be taken in the hitherto unidentified street near Covent Garden, where other parts of the story transpire. Mr. Locke's new novel is to be called "The Lengthened Shadow" in America. The English title will be "Mordus & Company."

Outdoor Sports in Argentine.

PUT END TO SUNDAY FLIRTING.

BUENOS AIRES.—(A.P.)—"Beauty parading" and idle street flirtations, heritage of the Spanish colonial days, are becoming extinct pastimes in Argentine. The devotion given by Argentine youth to outdoor sports in the last decade, first by the young men and now in growing measure by the young women, is held accountable for the change.

Twenty-five years ago, the young men of Buenos Aires, attired in black with high peaked collars and French patent leather shoes, devoted their holiday and Sunday afternoons to strolling along the avenues or loitering on street corners with an eye out, mainly, for pretty girls. The girls, decked out with the knowledge that they were to be admired, devoted the same afternoons to "coche" riding, forming a "beauty parade" as the vehicles drew them along the avenues past the groups of young men with whom they might exchange smiles and flirtatious glances. This was about all the outdoor exercise Argentine young folk took in those days, say the older generation.

To-day in Buenos Aires there is hardly a vacant lot on a Saturday, Sunday or holiday afternoon that is not the scene of a football game. Tennis matches are in progress on hundreds of courts, golf balls soar over the fairways of eight different courses, swift racing sculls cleave the waters of the River La Plata, propelled by sunburned arms, on running tracks young men in spiked shoes seek to make records in the hundred meter dash, the hurdles and like events, swimming, basket ball and boxing have numerous devotees, while young men of wealth indulge in polo and crack yacht races on the River Plate. The formal Sunday-afternoon black of a generation ago has been succeeded by light tweeds, homespun, flannels and sport clothes. The young men have less time to flirt.

While the young women have not entirely abandoned the old Spanish custom of "beauty parading," for a semblance of it can still be seen along the Calle Florida at the noon hour on week days, they, too, as if discouraged by the dearth of admirers on holidays, have taken to outdoor sports in increasing numbers. Infected first by golf, tennis and swimming, they have begun to indulge in track meets, stimulated doubtless by the example of their American, British and French sisters in the Northern Hemisphere. Several of these "tormentous athletic feminines" have resulted in the formation of two feminine athletic clubs and now it is proposed to found the Argentine Feminine Athletic Federation.

The British immigrants are credited with giving the initial impulse to athletic pursuits in Argentina by introducing their outdoor games and pastimes, together with "Sabado Inesiste," as the Saturday half-holiday is called. Favored by a temperate climate, it has gathered such momentum within the past few years that many observers think Argentina will soon take its place among the "outdoor nations" like the United States and Great Britain.

Encouragement of outdoor sports is one of the special policies of President Alvear, who shows his interest by kicking off at a big football game, and attending many sport events, while he sets an example himself as a devoted golfer.

Gems of Thought.

There seems to be but three ways for a nation to acquire wealth; the first is by war, as the Romans did, in plundering their conquered neighbors—this is robbery; the second by commerce, which is generally cheating; the third by agriculture, the only honest way, wherein man receives a real increase of the seed thrown into the ground, in a kind of continual miracle, wrought by the hand of God in his favor, as a reward for his innocent life and his virtuous industry.—Franklin.

If we are going to have a race in armaments for bombing raids, there is no use discussing house-building schemes. We ought to be discussing the construction of rabbit holes and dug-outs.—Robert Nichol, M.P.

All free governments, whatever their name, are in reality governments by public opinion; and it is on the quality of this public opinion that their prosperity depends.—J. R. Lowell.

The propitious smiles of heaven can never be expected on a nation that disregards the eternal rules of order and right, which heaven itself has ordained.—George Washington.

No part of education is more important to young women than the society of the other sex of her own age.—Burnap.

Tips for Home-Makers.

To remove the odour of tobacco smoke from a room, put three or four drops of oil of lavender into a jar with a lump of ammonia, add a little boiling water, and leave the jar uncovered in the room.

Wipe tin utensils thoroughly dry after washing them, or they will soon rust. Milk cans should be boiled now and then in a strong solution of soda.

Grease can be removed from a stone hearth, stair, or steps by pouring on a strong solution of soda and boiling water, cover with a paste of fuller's earth and hot water, and wash off in the morning. Green weather-stains should be secured with a stiff brush dipped in warm, soapy water to which a little paraffin has been added.

Keep a pair of scissors in the kitchen instead of a knife for cutting parsley, bread for puddings, meat for stews, celery and other ingredients for soup, and the work will be much more quickly accomplished.

Hon. M. Perron's Work.

That form of appeal which Hon. J. L. Perron, Minister of Roads, made to motorists when addressing the Montreal Rotary Club is not one to be thrown lightly aside. From the impression made on the audience it is apparent that Mr. Perron has sown good seed, and this should become widespread.

Mr. Perron throws his cards on the table, face upwards. He told the motorists that he recognized fully that they had rights on the roads, and he wanted them to enjoy such rights. There has been expended on roads a total of 48 millions, an investment made by the people of the province. What Mr. Perron wanted to know was whether the people who had paid the 48 millions, and who were paying for repairs of roads, and would have to continue to pay, were willing to save their own investment.

A membership in an automobile club should be considered a badge of honor, none but gentlemen being allowed, and the clubs should make it the test of a gentleman to accept as members those who believe in obeying the law, and do so, and elect and refuse those who persistently violate the law, and will not listen to reason. Within a few years the reckless motorists would become known, and would be under suspicion, and watched. Membership in an automobile club, however, would imply that the holder observed the laws, was thereby a good citizen, and a gentleman.

In some places of entertainment there runs this sign: "Gentlemen will not spit on the floor; others must not."
Homely as this is, it may well be taken to apply to the motorists. Gentlemen will not destroy the roads by speeding; others must not.—The Review.

Tired, Nervous Mothers.

are the direct cause of much unhappiness in our homes; their condition irritates and wears upon the husband, and often ruins a child's disposition. This condition of the mother is often due to some weakness which makes her entirely unfit to perform her household duties and bear the strain upon her nerves that governing children involves. Every woman who finds herself in this condition should remember that statistics prove that 98 out of every 100 women who suffer from female ills are helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and lose no time in giving it a fair trial.

Will Design Motor Cars to Meet Road Conditions

Stockholm, Aug. 8.—Sweden, considering the motorising of its highway traffic, declares that the general establishment of regular automobile passenger and truck service cannot wait for the construction of new roads and the rebuilding of old ones, but that the motor vehicles must be adapted to the roads.

The roads are to be divided into four classes, according to the weights which they are able to sustain. Trailers, rather than additional motor trucks, are to be used wherever the traffic is large. A curious type of vehicle is recommended for winter use in northern Sweden. This car is to have sleigh runners instead of front wheels, and will be equipped with special drive wheels and gear.

For the financing of this new service, yearly subsidies have been proposed, as well as a government loan fund.

PROHIBITION A FAILURE.
Prohibition has proved an unmitigated failure. It has opened up avenues of crime and crime has become a more serious menace, measured up to the standard which its advocates and supporters expected. On the contrary, it has turned the wheel of contentment and satisfaction backwards and forwards, fraud, deceit, and dishonesty, to refer supreme among them, both old and young. It has caused many into drinking concubine and poison, who would have abstained from such a thing until the use of narcotics and the use of the hospital. It has caused the hospitals to become a great amount of work, both extra and regular, and has caused hypocrisy and duplicity to be the guiding star in the eyes of men, who simply rebelling against the had spirit of depriving them of their free will in the use of the liquor. In a word it has caused a blight throughout the city. Here in this city we witness the same drunkenness on our public streets as was the case many years ago. And yet we have prohibition. In every saloon, and a large number of cafes, and where are sold. In many places, small and large, a wine license is granted. Then we have the Commission License stores where the strong liquors are sold, but only a bottle of each kind at a time. The new law went into effect. Montreal has become a city of tourists from the United States and parts of Canada, where prohibition, that does prohibit, is enforced. Last year the Quebec Government derived a surplus of over millions of dollars from its liquor and the next surplus, judging from the large number of convictions for breach of the law, the figures reach over the five million. Let us take the Province of Ontario with its great boast of having prohibition. Statistics for 1922 show Ontario heads the list of provinces in the number of convictions for breach of liquor acts, and offences against the narcotic act. Truly great are the blessings of Prohibition! Canadian Freeman, a weekly newspaper, Ontario, commenting on the report of the License Commission for Ontario says editorially: "The first ten months of 1923

the business done by the Government dispensaries amounted to $3,354,000, which is not bad for a "dry" province. The net profit was $177,000 which is not bad for a "dry" province. To this sum should be added $385,000 the amount raised in fines, which is not bad for a "dry" province. Another feature of the report that makes amusing reading is the fact that in December there were 77,600 invalids in the province, as compared with 42,000 for January. Strange that no many extra thousands get ill at Christmas time!
We would like to have expert medical opinion as to why Ontario is getting more and more unhealthy as the cellar gets drier. The contrary should be the case. Yet in 1921 this province had $30,000 who needed liquor for medicinal purposes, whereas last year the number jumped to 623,000! But the germ of the whole document is contained in the following passage: "No line-ups or queues have occurred on the streets since the new premises were occupied, and the business is of drugs in their possession and a seizure was made on the steamer for $3,500. This was paid and the steamer released, but the officers got the full limit of the law.

On the request of Justice Place, acting for the Department of Justice at Ottawa, Judge Perrillat asked bail in the sum of $25,000 from Benedict Bucci, who was arraigned on five charges under the narcotic drug act. Bucci was represented by the prosecution as being one of the biggest men locally in the traffic of narcotics. The "big" where the supplies come from has not yet been discovered, and probably never will be. Secretary of State C. E. Hughes of Washington, in an article, "America fights the Narcotic Evil," says:—"The secrecy of the indulgence in narcotic drugs, the extent to which addicts enjoy immunity from detection, the destruction of character which follow drug addiction, the failure of curative and the facility of relapse within the hospital service of the country; in the evil the most inhuman and dangerous of all the abuses that afflict us, I count it a privilege to have the opportunity to co-operate in the organized effort to stop the illicit traffic in narcotic drugs. The worst feature of the narcotic evil is that the most numerous victims are the young men of the country seeking stimulus and relief from the nervous exhaustion produced by the questions and excitements of abnormal living. I was interested to note the recent statement of the Chief City Magistrate of New York City that of the thousands of addicts whom he had examined in recent years at least 95 per cent. were young men under thirty years of age. To an increasing extent the abuse of these drugs is threatening the vitality of the country; in the case of many thousands it is the last downward plunge or push which makes recovery impossible."

THE HONEST PORTER.
Around the C.P.R. Windsor Station you'll notice seven or eight "Red Caps." They are porters who attend to passengers' grips and suit cases going in and coming out from the different trains day and night. A few evenings ago a passenger reaching the station had forgotten to provide himself with a bottle of "Maudie Vie." Calling a "Red Cap," he told him to go to a Quebec License Commission store and get him a bottle of a certain brand. The Porter made off in haste having a ten dollar bill which the traveller gave him to pay for the liquor. As he came to the store he found he was one minute too late, as the place had closed at that hour. Returning to the station he found the train gone and the traveller could not be found. Then going to the Station Agent he told him of his message and passed the ten dollar bill over to him. The Station Agent took a note of the fact, and in case the traveller sends for his money, it will be forwarded to him, though he would much have preferred to enjoy the "Maudie Vie" on his trip.
WHAT A RECKLESS DRIVER DID.
Reckless drivers under the influence of liquor, can do lots of damage, even when the Arm of the Law gets after them. Here's a case, that the Judge might have given him a year in jail without the option of a fine, for his antics while in charge of a car.
Judge Perreault sentenced Joseph Steele to pay a fine of $150 and costs for a month in jail and cancelled license.
His case was, according to the constable who arrested him, one of the most reckless driving he had ever seen. Constable Coache was on duty on St. Lawrence Boulevard, a short distance from Sherbrooke Street, when he saw Steele drive into another automobile which was parked near the curb. Coache walked toward the driver to question him and swore that he was under the influence of liquor. As he was stepping on the running board Steele stepped on the accelerator and started his car so violently that Coache was thrown and rolled several feet.
As he jumped up again he saw that Steele had struck the curb on the other side of the street and could not go farther. He chased after him but as he was about to reach the automobile Steele started his machine backward with such speed that he knocked down the constable a second time and nearly collided with another automobile. This time Coache managed to jump on the running board and killed the engine himself, stopping the automobile a short distance farther on.
A FAMOUS CRICKET MATCH.
In a recent cricket match between the McGill and Lachine eleven for the John Ross Robertson Cup, McGill made the highest score in the history of the Club, and probably the highest ever made in Montreal. The total was 364. The Captain of McGill, Sanderson, played careful innings for 81. Their total reached only 129. On going in a second time, they were all disposed off for 88 runs. Potter, a West Indian, and a law student at McGill, taking 5 wickets. Potter is the "Demon Bowler" of the League, especially as regards speed. Last year he broke a bone in Wallace's wrist with the force of the ball. This year he broke Probyn's, the McGill wicket-keeper's finger, and put him out of business, probably for the season. During the two days' match with Lachine he struck several of the Lachine players and made them wince. In fact some of them showed considerable nervousness in standing at the wicket. Mitchell, the left-hand bowler got four wickets. McGill won by an innings and 112 runs. A week before Lachine had practically beaten McGill at Lachine. Lachine had declared their innings for six wickets, with a score of 182 runs, while McGill for 5 wickets had only 73. The match was declared a draw. It will be interesting when the return game of the League will take place at McGill Campus the latter part of this month between these two teams, as both are a tie for first place.

QUITE A COMMON PRACTICE.
It is becoming a common practice for abandoned babies to be found in Churches or on the steps of charitable institutions or private houses. A few days ago, a baby of one month and five days old was found on the doorstep of a house on the third floor at midnight with a note attached which read: "His name is Aroene. He was baptized. Take pity on this child in the name of God." The baby is in the hands of the police matron at headquarters, and unless the parents are found, will be handed over to the Grey Nuns for care.
POSITIONS ACCORDING TO MERIT
The Montreal Daily Star, speaking of awarding positions according to merit at the City Hall, says editorially: "It is to the credit of the Executive Committee at the City Hall that it very rigidly controlled the system in vogue in all well-run cities of seeing that appointments are made to positions on the merit system. In the good old days of aldermanic rule and manipulation the custom was most rigorously observed of parcelling out 'jobs' and positions 'according to pull.'"
The main idea kept in mind to-day by the Executive Committee that there shall no longer be toasters on the payroll. There are among the city fathers those who are not sympathetic to this sane way of management, and from time to time complaints are heard. The truth is that patronage has had a direful history in Montreal's administration, and the efforts now being made to overcome it cannot but receive public approval. Just how very necessary it is that the patronage evil should be fearlessly faced and overcome is proven by the declaration of a learned jurist that there have been epochs in Montreal's history when fully twenty-five per cent of the annual revenues were frittered away by the stuffing of the salary lists with unnecessary and incompetent employees. The fact can probably be kept in mind, moreover, that it is due to the patronage evil that the debt-to-day consumes over a third of the revenue in interest charges. This fact has resulted in taxation being very materially augmented.
