CHAPTER XIII.

"As his servants prepared to obey again that she might rearrange her toilet. Old Elsy raised her arm and invoked a terrible curse upon the innocent Lady Rose, and was then borne away.

"They took her to the village jail, but the villagers joined with the servants in demanding of her the full expiation of her long-continued wrong-doing. They determined to drown her. They carried her, shrieking and cursing, toward the Pool, a small pond upon the family estates, and on their way came in sight again of the mansion. The Lady Rose was standing by a window, full of pity for the old creature, and Elsy caught sight of her; in a moment she seemed to be transformed into a demon, and cursed Rose, declaring that she should be the bride of death. The poor young girl fled from the window, and the villagers, now further exasperated, carried Elsy to the Pool where she soon yielded up her life. They buried her in a lonely grave, and at the mansion she was soon forgotten.

"The Lady Rose was the gayest of the gay during the days that followed. Her laugh was the sweetest, her step the lightest. Only now and then she thought or spoke pitying of Old Elsy, or felt a momentary fear at the dying curse of the old woman.

"The bridal day came at last. The thing-women had robbed the fair young bride in her white brocade, her long veil, and her jewels, and it is said that no bride was sweeter or fairer than the Lady Rose. Dismissing her women at length, she knelt by her prie-dieu, and breathed the last prayer that should fall from her maiden lips—and, alas, the last prayer she should ever breathe. For they soon heard frantic shrieks issuing from the room, and her parents, her brothers, and her lover, burst in to find her writhing in agony upon the floor.

"They lifted her up and soothed her, and she soon grew better. Then she told them that she had felt a skinny hand encircle her throat and many fingers entwine themselves under her chin. They laughed at her for her folly, as they thought it, and caressed her into calmness, and then withdrew

"Do not speak of it, Lyle," and Lady Egremont endeavored to make her tone calm. "I regret that I am not braver, Lord Ashcroft, but I hope you will yield to my wishes."

"Certainly, Lady Egremont," responded our hero, courteously. "I had but a passing fancy to visit the room which is said to be haunted, but, if its gratification were to pain you, I should take no pleasure in it."

"Lady Egremont has excited herself by her late story," said her husband, apologizing. "Besides, my lord, the subject of the specter has always been a sore one with us."

At this juncture the door opened, and a woman stood upon the threshold, asking for Lady Egremont.

She did not look exactly like a servant, and she could not be equal with the family, for she had not appeared at table, nor been seen before by the visitors.

Lord Ashcroft was in a position to have a full view of her.

She was a tall, full-formed woman, with something of command in her air, and was dressed in a rich dark material that fell about her in soft folds, and her feet were incased in light slippers, so that when she walked her movements were quite noiseless.

Her face was somewhat remarkable.

Her features were large and strongly marked, her nose Roman, and her hair of an unpleasant black. Her eyes were green, deeply green, with a mixture of yellow, looking like cats' eyes. They had a sleepy look, too, and were full of cunning.

But despite her unpleasant appearance, she looked like a gentlewoman.

Lord Ashcroft had but a moment to regard her, for Lady Egremont arose and went to her, closing the door behind her.

"That is Toplit, of whom you have heard, my lord," said the Lady Alexina, smiling. "She is a power at Egremont. Don't you think she has a look quite superior to her station? She is Lady Egremont's waiting-maid."

"She looks intelligent," said his lordship.

"She is intelligent and really clever. She was in her youth a governess, but Lady Egremont became interested in her an engaged her as a confidential waiting-woman, something above a maid, and she has since had a good home at Egremont. She always keeps her place, but she has had an excellent education, and sings and plays well upon the piano and harp. I think I'm a little afraid of her. She watches one so closely," added the heiress.

"Nonsense, Xina," interrupted her guardian. "You are making quite a heroine of Toplit. She is a good, faithful creature, attached to her ladyship, and a little eccentric—that's all."

Turning to Lord Ashcroft, he said: "Your lordship seems to be very fond of the sea. Would you not like to sail this morning in our yacht? The weather is very pleasant for the season."

"Yes, the morning is fine," answered Lord Ashcroft, going to the window. "The wind is not heavy, and the sea is smooth. If we could make up a party it would be pleasant to take a little excursion up the coast to Cave Island, of which you told me last evening."

Lord Egremont, however, declined going, alleging his fears of the sea, and Lady Egremont, coming in, declared that she dared not venture far from the fire on account of her rheumatic tendencies.

The Lady Loreen and Lyle Indor were desirous of going, but it required a great deal of persuasion to induce the heiress to consent to accompany them. She yielded at last, but whether on account of the solicitations of Lord Ashcroft or the pleadings of Indor, did not appear.

She took the arm of her betrothed, and the Lady Loreen accepted the escort of Lyle Indor, and they set out for the beach.

They had scarcely vanished from the sight of Lady Egremont, when she drew her chair close to her husband's and prepared for a confidential conversation.

"What did Toplit want with you, Evelyn?" asked the earl, somewhat anxiously.

"She was dissatisfied because I was obliged to give her such a lecture, and to partially repeat it to-day. She did not mean any harm by her late remark, Ewart, and she says she doesn't see how it could have happened."

What's happening in your mouth?

Nothing goes on in your mouth that your Prophylactic Tooth Brush doesn't know about. The inquisitive, saw-tooth-pointed bristle tufts dig into every nook and cranny. Even the hard-to-get-at backs of back teeth are scrubbed clean by the large end tuft.

● The Prophylactic is curious about the germ that makes teeth decay. It hunts him up and chases him out. That is what prevents decay and gives your teeth that look of beauty that comes with white, strong, and healthy teeth.

Building Houses in Twelve Hours

LONDON, Nov. 18. (C.P.)—The Blackpool experimental scheme of steel frame houses which can be built in 12 days has proved so successful that many authorities are adopting the system. Three hundred steel houses have been started at York, 60 at St. Helen's, and others at Preston, Dudley and Horwich. The houses are £20 or £30 cheaper than brick houses.

Youthful Officials

LONDON, Nov. 18 (C.P.)—England's youngest marquis and youngest may cross met when Lord Townshend, aged eight years, opened a bazaar at Richmond. He was received by Betty Howitt, aged 11 years, daughter of Richmond's mayor, who chose her as mayoress on his election. It was the first public ceremony either had taken part in.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they can't live without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the bottle. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you 16 ounces of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for $2.50.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy cures a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosen dry, hoarse, or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membrane, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "The Famous Pinex" with directions. Ad don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute relief or money refunded.

Chaplin's Bride is Cinderella of Film Stars

ALL FORMER SWEETHEARTS OF COMEDIAN WISH HIM SUCCESS.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Charles Spencer Chaplin, the English screen comedian, and his Spanish bride, Lita Grey, married yesterday in a quaint seaport town of old Mexico, and are due back on American soil to-day, and all Hollywood awaits their return.

Speeding north in a special car attached to a train which left Guaymas, Sonora, last night, the wedding party is en route home, convinced there is no place a couple can go to be married in secret if the world is interested.

All of Charlie's former sweethearts joined to-day in wishing him happiness. Down the list, from Mildred Harris, who was Mrs. Chaplin for a few years, on to May Collins, Lila Lee, Claire Windsor and Pola Negri, each expressed the hope that the play-boy has found happiness at last.

"The old rascal," was Douglas Fairbanks' comment. "Why did he have to run off and get married? We wanted to have him here with us, but then you can never tell about Charlie."

The story of the winner in the Chaplin matrimonial derby is not unlike the tale of Cinderella. Almost unknown to the screen, Lita Grey, has had a part in only one picture, an early one of Chaplin's in which she played a minor character.

Then came the chance for the role of his leading lady, for which she was picked in place of Edna Purviance, when Miss Purviance attended an unfortunate dinner party almost a year ago.

The little Spanish Miss made an impression with her acting and followed with a conquest, unintended perhaps, of the heart of the funster.

The difference in the ages of Chaplin and his bride will not hinder their happiness, the folks of screenland are certain. The comedias is old enough to be the father of the bride, but at heart Chaplin has always been a boy. He has a "frisky complexion," his friends agree.

Dominions Will Get Preference

COL. AMERY MAKES DEFINITE PROMISE TO EMPIRE PRODUCERS.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Lt.-Col. Amery, Secretary of State for the Colonies, addressing the Empire Producers' Association at noon to-day, made the important pronouncement that the Premier's promise that he would not impose new taxation on food would be kept, but the Government felt compelled to carry out the preference promises of the last Imperial Conference. He definitely stated that he would arrange ten years' stabilization of the sugar duties, and whenever or wherever they placed a tariff on anything for the safeguarding of home industry or manufacture or for revenue purposes, the Dominions will be placed upon a satisfactory preferential basis.

It is stated that the preferential treatment would not be confined to this. The Government has committed itself to preferential treatment in finance, emigration settlement and every phase of inter-imperial relations. It is said the preference would include tobacco, wine, fruits and all similar products—in short, everything of the sort within the limitations of the promise to tax on food.

It is argued that producers educate the people of England to the fact that every tax of any sort whatsoever, is a tax on food and that the latter is not confined merely to the tariff. The Minister pointed to the example of the United States, and contended that if Britain and the Dominions cooperated as one family they would show such a marvellous record of material prosperity that the United States would be overwhelmed by the record of the British Empire within the next few years.

He told his audience that the Baldwin Government was prepared to assist development within the Empire to an unlimited extent financially, and foreshadowed an effort to drive out the foreign combines in favor of Dominion products.—Montreal Star.

WHAT A DETECTIVE SEES.

It is possible to recognize a criminal on sight.

Mr. George S. Dougherty, formerly Deputy Commissioner and Chief of Detectives, New York Police Department, says in his new book, "The Criminal as a Human Being" that "to the officer accustomed to criminals there are certain earmarks in their general make-up."

The man who has served a term in prison is recognized by his measured, mechanical tread. He feels that an injustice has been done him, is conscious that he has served a term and it shows in his contemptuous, cunning, evasive expression.

Mr. Dougherty describes his own success in obtaining confessions from all types of criminals

His eyes tell more than any other feature. They squint and shift in the guilty, dodge straight searching glances. The ears redden. The mouth is also a great indicator. Examination attending an examination, especially in the guilty, causes nervousness in the stomach and complex dryness in the mouth. Painful thirstiness weakens the voice. The hands and feet of the guilty are restless. The average person about to confess craves water—a cigarette—relief.

Incidentally he alludes to the "murderer's eye." It is well known to detectives, he says, that a man who has slain a fellow-man always shows an indescribable expression of guilt in the eye.

Anglo-German Trade Treaty Restores Pre-War Conditions

U.S. Representatives Ask Federal Gov't for Protection of Industries—Egyptian Students Object to Acceptance of British Demands—Leviathan Buffeted by Atlantic Storm.

ANGLO-GERMAN COMMERCIAL TREATY SIGNED.
LONDON, Dec. 2. The Anglo-German commercial treaty was signed at four o'clock this afternoon by the representatives of both governments.

EGYPTIAN STUDENTS DEMONSTRATE.
CAIRO, Dec. 2. On hearing of the Egyptian Government's acceptance of the remaining terms in the British ultimatum, eight hundred students of the Tewfik training college rushed into the quadrangle today shouting for revolution.

TROOPS FOR SUDAN.
VALLETTA, Malta, Dec. 2. An aircraft carrier with the First Gordon Highlanders on board left here this morning for the Sudan.

NOVA SCOTIA DELEGATION ASK PROTECTION OF COAL INDUSTRY.
OTTAWA, Dec. 2. Readjustment of the duties on United States coal so as to afford adequate protection to the coal industry of the Maritime Provinces, and careful investigation of the tariff on coal and semi-finished steel products, was urged by strong delegation which waited upon the Federal cabinet this morning, headed by Premier Armstrong, of Nova Scotia, and numbering among its members half a dozen Nova Scotian representatives in the Federal Parliament. The delegation was received by Premier MacKenzie King and nearly all the members of the Government.

NOT TAKEN SERIOUSLY.
DUBLIN, Dec. 2. A report through London suggesting the Irish Free State cabinet would resign and hand over the Government to Eamon De Valera and his supporters, in the event of certain developments in connection with the Irish Boundary Commission is ridiculed in well informed Free State circles.

SEVEN LIVES LOST IN FIRE.
NEW YORK, Dec. 2. Seven persons, four men and three women, lost their lives, and ten were injured in a fire which yesterday swept through a west sixty-third street rooming house within half a block of Broadway.

BANDITS ROB MOOSEJAW POST OFFICE.
MOOSEJAW, Sask., Dec. 2. Three masked men entered the Moosejaw Post Office last night, held seven members of the staff under the menace of revolvers, forced James G. Jones, clerk of the registered mail wicket, to toss them seven money packets containing between $80,000 and $90,000, and escaped before the police, hastily summoned to the scene, could take action.

A VALUABLE JOKE.
DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 2. Mining property at Algoma, Ont.,

with which the Crown was faced of bargaining with you to get after your accomplices. You squealed and you sold your comrades."

HINDOO BECOMES CHRISTIAN.
BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 2. Newspapers here publish the announcement that Sir Rabindranath Tagore, British Indian poet, has lost the services of his Secretary-Interpreter, Yiba Ybao, because the latter who accompanied the poet on his visit to South America, became converted to the Christian faith. Wearing an Indian costume, Yiba Ybao was baptized yesterday in the Catholic Church.

THE LOOT.
MOOSEJAW, Sask., Dec. 2. It was officially estimated this afternoon that the bandits who held up the Moosejaw Post Office last night secured money packages worth between $25,000 and $30,000. Earlier reports put the amount of the booty at about $80,000 and $90,000.

LLOYD GEORGE SESSIONAL CHAIRMAN.
LONDON, Dec. 2. Former Premier Lloyd George was today elected as sessional chairman of the Liberal members of Parliament after a long and lively meeting of the Liberal Parliamentarians. The election was not unanimous and does not affect ex-Premier Asquith's leadership of the Liberal Party, it is claimed.

LEVIATHAN HAD STORMY TRIP.
NEW YORK, Dec. 2. Fifteen persons were injured in a storm which buffeted the steamer Leviathan throughout most of her passage across the Atlantic. It was learned today when the big liner arrived from Southampton, twenty-four hours overdue. The Leviathan, largest vessel in the U.S.A. Merchant Marine, suffered severely under the storm's lashings, reaching port with many portholes smashed and with serious damage to her lower decks. Captain Herbert Hartley reported that he kept the bridge throughout the entire trip with the exception of one night. It was the worst passage of his career, he said.

A POOR UNFORTUNATE.
NEW YORK, Dec. 2. Throwing her three-weeks' old twin babies to a courtyard from her home on the third floor of an upper Madison Avenue apartment today, Mrs. Beatie Katz, 28 years old, then jumped after them. Both babies died while being taken to a hospital and the mother suffered from a fractured skull, from which the hospital physicians did not think she would recover. Despondency caused by nervous breakdown following ill-health was responsible for the woman's act, according to the police.

LIBERALS AND OTHERS COMBINED EQUAL IN NUMBERS.
OTTAWA, Dec. 2. When session opens in January the Government will have increased its numerical strength in the House of Commons by one, as a result of six bye-elections which have been held since the prorogating of the House in July. The election of J. P. Poullot to the Liberal ranks in the bye-election in Temiscouate yesterday, fills the last vacancy in the House. Five of the bye-elections have returned Government candidates and one Conservative. The parties now stand in the House as follows, inclusive of the Speaker: Liberals, 117; others, 117.

TEXT OF ANGLO-GERMAN TREATY.
LONDON, Dec. 2. The text of the new Anglo-German Commercial Treaty, in which both nations forget differences of war and return to the pre-combatant basis of mutual preferential treatment, has been completed and will be signed as soon as the minor disagreement over the twenty-six per cent. reparations duty has been cleared. Under the terms drawn up, Germany not only grants most favored nation treatment to Great Britain but gives guarantees against discriminatory treatment and limitation of imports. The British Government bids itself to introduce in Parliament a Bill, removing all war restrictions still imposed against the Germans in England. This means no discrimination will be made between Germans and other foreigners and Germans will be allowed several minor trade concessions.

EGYPTIAN STUDENTS ARRESTED.
ALEXANDRIA, Dec. 2. Fourteen students were arrested here yesterday in connection with the distribution of an alleged seditious circular.

BANDITS KILL EIGHT PERSONS.
BERLIN, Dec. 2. A band of 25 robbers who last night attacked the home of a cement factory director at Siegen, Westphalia, seeking the payroll, shot and killed eight occupants of the house and seriously wounded the Director. Before fleeing the robbers set fire to the building.

JUDGMENT IN FAVOR OF MIDLAND BANK.
LONDON, Dec. 2. Justice Darling today returned judgment in favor of the Midland Bank in the suit brought against the Bank by Charles E. Robinson, former bookmaker. Mr. Robinson sued to recover £120,000 which he alleged the Bank owed him on account of a settlement with "Mr. A.", an unnamed Indian Prince.

COMMUNISTS SEIZE AEROPLANES.
REVAL, Estonia, Dec. 2. During yesterday's attempted coup which was suppressed with heavy loss of life after hours of fighting, the Communists occupied the military air-drome from which two airplanes were forced to fly toward Russia. One, however, descended at Narva.

Sir R. Horne
WHY HE IS NOT IN THE CABINET. The absence of the name of Sir Robert Horne from the list of Mr. Baldwin's first Cabinet appointments caused considerable surprise in Conservative circles. Throughout Wednesday the belief prevailed that Sir Robert had been offered the position of Chancellor of the Exchequer. This belief proved to have been founded on a complete misapprehension, since the only offer that was made to Sir Robert Horne, either at his first interview with the Prime Minister on Wednesday or the two subsequent interviews which took place yesterday, was that he should go to the Ministry of Labor.

This post Sir Robert did not feel able to accept. He has extensive commitments in the City and, while he was willing to obtain and could have obtained release from these to take charge of the nation's finances at the Treasury, the same was not the case as regards the Ministry of Labor, which is a purely political appointment.

Am I My Brother's Keeper?

A story was told on Monday in the Magistrate's Court report of the punishment meted out to two unfortunate boys who are living amid sordid surroundings out on the Battery Road.

In this country are thousands of acres of land which are waiting to be cultivated, or are suitable for sheep, cattle or poultry raising. What life has a greater appeal to the ordinary boy than that of a pioneer?

Who is to blame? Is it the Magistrate or the Probationary Officer who are at a loss to decide what else can be done in such cases? Or shall we cry shame on the officer who lays on the lash, from which their tender age and their innocent little bodies shrink, even though in administering the punishment he tempers justice with mercy?

It is not the form of punishment that we object to. As a deterrent, it is probably more effective, and certainly is far less injurious to the young culprit than incarceration in a prison filled with hardened offenders.

What is it that hinders us? For years appeals have been made by the Judges, by the Press, by the Grand Jurors, by philanthropists, and by representatives from the floor of the House, but in spite of it all not a single move has been made to deal with the case of the juvenile delinquent.

When a practical plan has been suggested, the objection invariably taken to it has been on the ground of expense. This is pure camouflage and has been put forward to conceal that Hydra-headed monster known as the denominational system, which has to be taken into consideration in practically every movement that is undertaken.

We are perfectly aware that some people will ridicule this statement and that others will resent it, but let us look facts straight in the face and see whether that bugaboo is not somewhere in the background. It is safe to take as our premise that in most cases delinquency can be traced to idleness. Poverty makes it impossible for these children to be kept at school, and in consequence they roam the streets day after day in search of something to divert them or upon which to expend their energy. They usually find it, but unfortunately forbidden fruits are the sweeter to them, as they are to the other members of the human family, and they get into trouble. Obviously our first duty is to institute compulsory education, which would mean free schools. Now what are we up against immediately? Is it the cost or the bugaboo?

A Reformatory has been suggested as a means of dealing with offenders, and while it is too closely related to the prison to meet with general acceptance, it would nevertheless help to solve the difficulty with which the law officers are faced. What for years has been the stumbling block? Its purpose would be educational, and of course the introduction of any other system than the existing one, is however small a degree, is altogether out of the question!

Well then, since we cannot as yet overcome our objections to free schools for these children, it only remains to find the best means of correction when they go wrong. The reformatory is ruled out. Is there no other alternative than the Pen or the birch?

In this country are thousands of acres of land which are waiting to be cultivated, or are suitable for sheep, cattle or poultry raising. What life has a greater appeal to the ordinary boy than that of a pioneer? These lands would not only provide him with employment that could be turned to practical account in which he would share, but in the surrounding country he would find health giving recreation such as he never even dreamed of. The plan could be developed to fit in exactly with our cherished notions, and the cost of maintaining three such homesteads would be by no means heavy. Under wise supervision the settlers would be happy, free to wander through their domain, and would be provided with a real purpose in life, which is after all what they require more than anything else.

The L. C. A. Sale Opens To-Day

The L.C.A. Sale in the Methodist College Hall will be opened by Lady Allardice this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Elaborate preparations have been made by the willing ladies in charge of the various stalls and many novel features will be in evidence.

Schooner Freedom Abandoned at Sea

CREW REACH BARBADOS.

The Schr. Freedom, which left Brigus for Sydney on Oct. 17th and of which nothing further has been heard, is reported abandoned at sea in a cable message received this morning from Barbados. It reads as follows:—

"Noseworthy, F.M.I., Kenny, Rossiter, reached here to-day in the boat of the 'Freedom' abandoned 600 miles N.E. Barbados. Hozen and Short in another boat reported landed east coast."

The Freedom was built at Liverpool N.S. in 1906, and was a three-masted vessel of 197 tons register. She was under charter to A. S. Rendell & Co., and was in charge of Captain Noseworthy. The news of the safety of the crew will bring relief to their families who have, for such a long time, been concerned as to their fate.

Mate of Annie L. Warren

LOSES HIS LIFE.

LUNenburg, Nov. 26.—Twenty-one days from Turk's Island, the tern schr. Annie L. Warren, Capt. Vail, arrived here to-day with her flag at half mast, on account of the loss of her mate, John Yarn, of Comb's Bay, Nfld.

The Annie Warren had a very rough passage and it was during a heavy gale on the morning of Nov. 20 that the unfortunate man was washed overboard. Yarn was 25 years old, unmarried; the son of Thomas Yarn, Comb's Cove, Nfld., and besides his father, one brother survives.

The Annie Warren loaded lumber at Bridgewater for Barbados in September and has a cargo of salt from Turk's Island for Robin Jones and Whitman, Ltd. She is now under charter to load fish at Newfoundland for Brazil.—Halifax Chronicle.

Craft Takes 36 Days to Reach Sydney

The following clipping, from the Halifax Chronicle, tells of the arrival in Sydney of the schr. "Novelty" which left here at about the same time as the Freedom.

NORTH SYDNEY, Nov. 26.—Thirty-six days out from St. John's, Nfld., and bound for this port, the three-masted schr. Novelty, Capt. Windsor, arrived in port today. The Novelty experienced very severe weather and was blown out to sea, almost as far south as Demerara. The three-masted schooner Freedom, Captain Noseworthy, which left St. John's at about the same time as the former, and bound here, has not been heard from—but it is believed she will eventually make port.

Masonic Dance To-Night

The Masonic Entertainment Committee, which proved so popular last winter are being continued this season. The first dance of the series takes place to-night and patrons are assured an excellent evening's entertainment. The Masonic Orchestra will again furnish the music and the Ladies' Auxiliary will look after the entertainment. This season's programme contains many new novelties which will highly please. The ballroom has recently been painted and special attention has been given to the decorations.

Personal.

Mr. C. W. Tilley, the genial Operator who for eleven years was stationed at G-and Lake, we are sorry to say is very ill, suffering from an attack of Pleuro-Pneumonia. Mr. Tilley was seriously ill in 1918 while at Grand Lake, and through the handling of mails contracted the dreaded "flu"; then double Pneumonia set in, and his condition was such at that time that Dr. Fisher had poor hopes of his recovery. We sincerely hope that he will speedily recover from his present illness as he has a large family consisting of wife and seven children.

C.W.A. Report for November

REPORT FOR NOVEMBER.

Visits to Homes . . . . . 708 Special Visits . . . . . 503 Attendance Centre . . . . . 213 No. Attended Dental Clinic . . . . . 87

The outstanding figure this month is the dental clinic attendances. We have been able to broaden the work in this direction, as it is felt that this is one of the most important branches. The motto, which is quoted under the cutting every Saturday evening in the Evening Telegram—"An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure," is one we are really trying to carry out in our dental treatment.

We closed Waterford Hall Emergency Hospital, on November 21. It is quite a pleasure to revisit homes where we last saw very sick babies, and see them again so much better, and now able to cope with their different surroundings. We cannot thank enough the splendid response of the citizens to emergency measures. Next year we must work to prevent a recurrence of the epidemic.

Successful Sale of Work

The Sale of Work in aid of St. Joseph's Convent, was brought to a successful conclusion last night at St. Joseph's Hall. The stalls opened business in the afternoon, when the stocks of goods were replenished and a steady sale was kept up, with the result that at an early hour after tea practically everything had been disposed of. The wheel of fortune and tea tables also did a good business. The results of the sale will be as good as hoped for.

Wedding Bells

PINE-SIMMS.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Patrick's Church on Sunday last at 5.30 p.m. when Miss Beattie M. Pine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Pine, of LeMarchant Road, was united in the bonds of holy matrimony to Mr. Christopher Simms, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Dr. Kitchin, pastor of the church. The bride, who was attired in a beautiful gown of cream silk, was given away by her father, and was attended by her sister, Mary, as bridesmaid. The duties of best man were ably performed by Mr. Arthur Taylor. After the ceremony the wedding party drove countrywards, and on return to the home of the bride's parents a sumptuous repast was partaken of, the usual toasts being duly honoured. The festivities were kept up until an early hour on Monday morning. Owing to the absence from town of the bride's brother, Adolph, who returned from the West Coast on Monday, another celebration took place last evening at 175 LeMarchant Road, when dancing and games were indulged in. The presents received were both costly and numerous, including a number of cheques, testifying to the popularity of the happy young couple.

Lodge St. Andrew Installation

The installation of the R. W. M. elect and officers of Lodge St. Andrew, No. 1139 A.F. and A.M. Following the installation, the retiring Master, W. Bro. W. A. Reid, was presented with a Past Master's Jewel, in recognition of his services. The brethren later assembled in the banquet room, where a pleasant hour was spent, the usual toasts being honoured.

McMurdo's Store News

CRISTOLAX. We have now received a supply of Cristolax, the wonder Malt Extract with Paraffin. This preparation successfully displaces the old fashioned drastic purgatives and aperients and has none of the bad effects so common to these. It is particularly valuable for infants, children, invalids and the aged. It is in the form of granular crystals and may be taken dry from a spoon or spread on bread and butter, and as it mixes freely with milk or water it is more frequently administered in this manner. Price: 80c.

Train Connections

To-morrow's express will connect with the Clyde at Lewisporte, for points on the Green Bay route. Passengers by Friday morning's train will connect at Argyle with the Argyle for points on the West route, and with the Glencoe for ports of call to Port aux Basques.

Cathedral Women's Sale of Work

The Cathedral Women's Association held their annual sale of work at the Synod Hall yesterday afternoon, and it was largely attended. The sale was declared open by Lady Allardice at 3.30 who, in a short address, expressed her interest in the work. The stalls were decorated with fancy papers, evergreen and autumn leaves, and contained a splendid assortment of plain and fancy work, home cooking, candy, etc., all of which was quickly bought up. During the afternoon teas were served by the ladies, followed by high teas at 6 o'clock. The tables were largely patronized and a gratifying amount was realized. A special attraction for the children was the Gypsy Tent, which was surrounded by trees, and in which were a fish pond and grab bags. The proceeds of the sale will be up to expectations.

TODAY'S MESSAGES

ANTHONIAN PREMIER BLAMES 3rd INTERNATIONAL

LONDON, Dec. 2. A Reuters despatch from Belgrade regarding the 3rd Communist International states that a "red" assassin has been reported as cruising off the Escherman coast. This assassin, it was added, withdrew as soon as it became known that the Communists at Revel had been defeated. There was no report of disturbances in the provinces except that two railway bridges on the Revel line were destroyed. It was held there are reasons to believe that the Communists intended to increase their forces from the provinces, and that they had gained control of all the important points in the Balkans. The important point in the Balkans, the despatch added, is the Escherman coast. Yesterday is declared to have said that the Revel rising was stirred up by the 3rd International.

ZAGLOU SOLICITS AID OF FORMER CHIEF WHIP

LONDON, Dec. 2. The Egyptian Zagioul Pasha, former Premier of Egypt, has sent a message dated Nov. 29 to Benjamin C. Spoor, former Parliamentary Secretary to the Treasury and chief Whip of the Labor Party, setting forth his views on the Egyptian situation. This message was read at a meeting of the National Council for the Prevention of War to-night, held for the purpose of urging that the Anglo-Egyptian differences be submitted to the League of Nations or the International Court of Justice.

ANTHONIAN DEALS PROMPTLY WITH COMMUNISTS

RIGA, Dec. 2. Twenty Communist leaders in the Riga revolution were shot to-day after a court martial, according to a special despatch from that city. The Communists are reported to have killed three officers in their beds in addition to murdering five others. They had seized one Communist and bombed the home of Karl Rinbund, former Minister of Home Affairs, who made a narrow escape from death.

NO MORE JAPS WANTED

TOKIO, Dec. 2. The Brazilian Consul has notified the Japanese Government that he has been instructed to suspend the grant of visas for intending emigrants to Brazil, and to make a report on the matter immediately. Mr. Akamatsu, chief of the immigration section of the Foreign Office, said this notice heralds an exclusion policy against the Japanese situation presents itself in a decidedly serious aspect to the Japanese nation.

EGYPT'S UNCONDITIONAL ACCEPTANCE

CAIRO, Dec. 2. "The Council of Ministers bowing to necessity and impelled by a great desire for pacification and good understanding accepts the conditions integrally and without reserve." This was the reply which Ziwar Pasha, the Egyptian Premier, made to the note of Viscount Allenby, in which the British High Commissioner enumerated in writing the British conditions for the evacuation of the Alexandria Customs. The customs had been seized as a guarantee for compliance with several of the British demands which the Zagioul Government left behind for settlement when it went out of existence. The only signs of disturbances in Cairo have come from the students who notwithstanding the advice of the former Premier have been engaged in political agitation in which the cry of revolution has been set up frequently.

FEARAGE SUGGESTED FOR LIBERAL CHIEFTAIN

LONDON, Dec. 3. A number of influential persons recognizing the general regret over former Premier Asquith's temporary elimination from public life through his defeat in the last election have decided that he be lifted above all political bickerings by the gift of a "Fearage in the King's New Year Honours List. There is no doubt that this liberal is a popular move, for the liberal leader is acclaimed among all classes as a great statesman in British history, and there is a general feeling that the gift of a "Fearage would be only a fair reward for his services in the country extending over nearly half a century.

90 EARTHQUAKE VICTIMS

BATAVIA, Java, Dec. 3. The native town of Nanat, Jolorado in the Dutch residency, has been destroyed in the recurrent earthquake shocks, and it is feared the death toll will reach ninety.

LEAGUE TO MEET IN MAGNIFICENT CASTLE

ROME, Dec. 3. Elaborate preparations are in the making for a meeting here beginning next Monday of the League of Nations Council, to which Prince Loria has been named as part of his magnificent palace, perhaps the largest in Rome after the Vatican, for sessions. The palace was designed in the middle ages to accommodate 6,000 troops together with provisions for six months. It is an indication of its luxuriousness that the former German emperor after being entertained here he said he would like to return the compliment but that he was un-

Rhodes Scholar Selected

We are informed that at a meeting of the Rhodes Scholarship Selection Committee, held at Government House this morning, Mr. Gerald LeMessurier was chosen as Newfoundland's representative at Oxford. Gerald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. LeMessurier of this city, and the honour of having two sons chosen as Rhodes scholars will be theirs. Ralph, who was the winner of the scholarship two years ago is at present at Oxford and Gerald formerly a student at Bishop Field College and later at Queen's, is studying for the Ministry at Durham. We heartily congratulate the winner and his parents as well as their Alma Mater which has thus secured the Rhodes Scholarship for one of its students for three successive years.

GENERAL STRIKE THREATENED IN EGYPT

LONDON, Dec. 3. A general strike including railroad men is threatened in Egypt, says a despatch to the Daily Express from Cairo. The despatch adds that a strike on the railroad would be serious because it would affect the transportation of cotton to the ports.

POLICE ON THE TRAIL OF POST OFFICE BANDITS

MOOSEJAW, Sask., Dec. 3. The amount stolen from the Moosejaw Post Office by armed bandits Monday night is definitely placed at $36,000. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police co-operating with the city and provincial police are reported to have received information which may result in early developments.

STRIKERS DEFF INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATION

SCRANTON Pa., Dec. 3. A general grievance committee representing 12,000 striking Pennsylvania coal employees have voted to continue the strike begun a week ago, despite the threat of the International Organization of United Mine Workers to revoke the charter of their local unions if the men did not return to work to-day.

CONTENT CHARGE ARISING OUT OF THE BACKMAN CASE

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 3. Because of the alleged failure to obey Judge Morton's order to return to the crew of the British schooner Marjorie E. Backman $1,000 worth of personal property seized by the prize crew of the cutter Tampa when the schooner was taken as a run runner on Oct. 24th, Attorney Matthew McGrath has filed a motion in the Federal Court here asking that Assistant Attorney Lawrence Curtis be adjudged in contempt and imprisoned.

PARIS PREFECT PUTS A BANN ON SLOW MOVING VEHICLES

PARIS, Dec. 3. Traffic conditions in Paris showing no signs of betterment, the prefect has issued a decree banning slow moving vehicles from the area around the boulevards between the hours of 3 and 7 p.m.

ZAGLOU IS NOT GOING ABROAD

CAIRO, Dec. 3. Former Premier Zagioul Pasha has no thought of going abroad he told a deputation of students from the school of the professors to-day. He also exhorted students to end their strife which they began in protest against the British demands upon the Egyptian Government in connection with the assassination of Sirdar Sir Lee Stack.

Nfld. Bred Dog

CHAMPION OF CANADA

Dog lovers will be pleased to know that a Newfoundland dog locally bred, has won the Championship of Canada, in a recent show held at St. John, N.B. The animal is the property of Mr. T. Esterbrook of the well known tea firm, and was secured by the local agent, Mr. J. Meehan from Mr. E. Bowring. The dog, whose name is Rover, has won the admiration of fanciers wherever shown, and was the subject of special praise from the judge of the St. John show, Mr. Willoughby Mitchell. To Mr. Eric Bowring, who has revived interest in breeding thoroughbred, Newfoundland pups, much credit is due. His own dog "Watch" won the blue ribbon at the local poultry show. Both Watch and his mate were imported from England by the owner as a true to type Newfoundland dog could not be secured anywhere in this country.

New Ship for Gulf Service Probable

Capt. L. Stevenson of S.S. Kyle is at present in the city. While here the well known mariner will discuss matters with the Railway Commission in connection with the building of a new steamer to ply between Port aux Basques and North Sydney. As far as can be learned, the plans have already been made for a new boat and they will be submitted for the consideration of the Railway Commission in a few days. In the meantime Capt. Charles Cross is relieving Capt. Stevenson in the Gulf service.

Magistrates Court

Three drunks were released. A taxi-driver charged with driving his car at a speed dangerous to the public, was convicted and fined $25.00 or in default, thirty days imprisonment.

Magisterial Enquiries

An enquiry into the fire at the house of Mr. Harding, Mundy Pond Road, will be continued in the Magistrate's Court this afternoon. An enquiry will also be held into the drowning of a man named King.

British Shop Act May be Changed

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(Canadian Press)—For some years past the retail shops throughout the country have been compelled to close for the day at an hour settled upon by the local authorities, but a Bill will be introduced at the next session of Parliament providing that the regulations as to closing shall not apply to small shops, run solely by a man or his wife or some member of the family. It is argued that the Shop Act with regard to the hour of closing, was intended to protect shop assistants from being compelled to work unreasonably long hours, and was not intended to prevent a man who was working for himself from working any hours he pleased.

Wesley Y.M.L.C. Debate

The members of the Wesley Young Men's Literary Class assembled in large numbers last night when the following subject was debated: Resolved "That Education Increases Happiness." The affirmative was led by Messrs. H. R. Sparkes and Alick Rooney, and the negative by Messrs. Gordon Davis and John L. McKay. The main points raised by the affirmative were that Education has given us greater happiness, inasmuch as it has developed our minds and made us intelligent people. It has lifted us out of ignorance and has given us the pleasure of reading about other countries, other races, the works of science, the charm of poetry and the worship of the Saviour of mankind. Education makes us fit to fight life's battles and is very instrumental in bringing us success and increased happiness. The main points raised by the negative were that a man can be educated and still not be happy. Our civilization to-day is the result of our education, and judging by the many cases in the Divorce Court and so much unrest in the world Education has failed to increase happiness. Through education a man might hold an important and responsible position, yet the care and responsibility involved in that position would not increase his happiness. The debate was well handled by the set speakers, and proved to be very interesting. Many members spoke from the floor and the subject was dealt with in a very able manner. On a vote being taken the affirmative won by a majority of 3 votes.—B.S.

Susu Returns to Port

The steamer Susu, after leaving here last midnight, met with engine trouble off Torbay Head and the Captain decided to bring his ship to port, which was made at 4.30 a.m. The Susu is now moored at Cashin & Co's wharf, where mechanics are engaged making the necessary repairs. The ship is expected to get away by 9 p.m.

Close Season to Save Lobster Fishery From Extinction

An amendment to the regulations respecting the lobster fishery, published in the Newfoundland Gazette yesterday orders a close season for three years from Jan. 1st, 1925, during which period no person shall kill, take, catch, sell or can any lobsters within the Colony. The new order was approved by His Excellency the Governor-in-Council on recommendation of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries in order to save the lobster fishery from extinction. A chiton scarf in ombre shading may be worn under one's collar or tur.

British Shop Act May be Changed

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(Canadian Press)—For some years past the retail shops throughout the country have been compelled to close for the day at an hour settled upon by the local authorities, but a Bill will be introduced at the next session of Parliament providing that the regulations as to closing shall not apply to small shops, run solely by a man or his wife or some member of the family. It is argued that the Shop Act with regard to the hour of closing, was intended to protect shop assistants from being compelled to work unreasonably long hours, and was not intended to prevent a man who was working for himself from working any hours he pleased.

Wesley Y.M.L.C. Debate

The members of the Wesley Young Men's Literary Class assembled in large numbers last night when the following subject was debated: Resolved "That Education Increases Happiness." The affirmative was led by Messrs. H. R. Sparkes and Alick Rooney, and the negative by Messrs. Gordon Davis and John L. McKay. The main points raised by the affirmative were that Education has given us greater happiness, inasmuch as it has developed our minds and made us intelligent people. It has lifted us out of ignorance and has given us the pleasure of reading about other countries, other races, the works of science, the charm of poetry and the worship of the Saviour of mankind. Education makes us fit to fight life's battles and is very instrumental in bringing us success and increased happiness. The main points raised by the negative were that a man can be educated and still not be happy. Our civilization to-day is the result of our education, and judging by the many cases in the Divorce Court and so much unrest in the world Education has failed to increase happiness. Through education a man might hold an important and responsible position, yet the care and responsibility involved in that position would not increase his happiness. The debate was well handled by the set speakers, and proved to be very interesting. Many members spoke from the floor and the subject was dealt with in a very able manner. On a vote being taken the affirmative won by a majority of 3 votes.—B.S.

Susu Returns to Port

The steamer Susu, after leaving here last midnight, met with engine trouble off Torbay Head and the Captain decided to bring his ship to port, which was made at 4.30 a.m. The Susu is now moored at Cashin & Co's wharf, where mechanics are engaged making the necessary repairs. The ship is expected to get away by 9 p.m.

Close Season to Save Lobster Fishery From Extinction

An amendment to the regulations respecting the lobster fishery, published in the Newfoundland Gazette yesterday orders a close season for three years from Jan. 1st, 1925, during which period no person shall kill, take, catch, sell or can any lobsters within the Colony. The new order was approved by His Excellency the Governor-in-Council on recommendation of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries in order to save the lobster fishery from extinction. A chiton scarf in ombre shading may be worn under one's collar or tur.

Boy and Gun Combination Brings Trouble

Spirited Horse Dead, Driver Injured and Boys Are Blamed For Reckless Shooting On Highway.

PICTOU, Nov. 27.—An unfortunate accident, which, it is asserted, might easily have been avoided, occurred to James Hartling, of Three Brooks, Pictou County, on Tuesday evening. Mr. Hartling had been in Pictou on business and was returning home, when, as he neared Acadia Farm, owned by A. McG. Fraser, he met three boys who were carrying guns, and who were preparing to fire at a mark on the side of the road. Mr. Hartling told the boys not to fire the guns until he was past them, as he was driving a very spirited horse. The boys paid no attention, however, it is alleged, and as one of the boys discharged a gun the horse bolted, throwing the driver. The youths then disappeared from the scene, and when a man named Robertson met Mr. Hartling the latter was in an exhausted condition and suffering from a dislocated shoulder. It was found that a bullet had lodged in the leg of the horse, resulting in the breaking of the limb, and it was necessary to destroy the animal. Mr. Hartling was in Pictou on Thursday, having his shoulder attended at the Cottage Hospital. He had recognized the careless boys as belonging to Pictou, and while in town on Thursday succeeded in ascertaining their names. Legal action is likely to follow.

MacDonald's Foreign Policy

Seeking Sea Adventure

After sixteen months of seafaring and hard manual work on the windjammer Mount Stewart, the young Earl of Suffolk returned recently to Charlton House, the beautiful Jacobean mansion with an 800 acre wooded park, which has been the home of his family for centuries, says a London

It is possible to settle the reparations problem on a reasonable basis. In the handling of the difficult question of security he showed far less resource, and his Government certainly did not win laurels in that session of the League Assembly which produced the Geneva Protocol. In his attempts to deal with the Soviet Government he failed so conspicuously and so lamentably that the wonder still remains why and to what purpose he sacrificed so recklessly his considerable gifts in such an unworthy cause.

In its earlier stages his foreign policy inspired hope; in its later stages it aroused bewilderment, and finally brought the country to the conviction that it would be unsafe to leave the administration of the country in his hands.

Our Montreal Letter

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Judging from the figures of the majorities given for Prohibition in Ontario, since 1919, the much boasted triumph for the cause of "dry" Ontario, is beginning to show a land-slide. In 1919 the majority was 407,289. Three years ago it was about 100,000, and this year the majority was 40,000. It is said that it was the "Bootleggers" won the day at the last election, and it cost them a million dollars ($1,000,000) for the victory. Oh! Justice, Honesty and Truth, what crimes are committed in your names. Yes, where men speak loud and long in favor of Prohibition, and then go and drink their flasks of whiskey, are very honest in their endeavors, noble in their sentiments, and uplifting in their actions. Hypocrisy with a vengeance. They thank God that they are not like the rest of the men. Ontario will still get its liquor from Quebec, and the "Bootleggers" will still do a thriving business and Moonshine will also hold sway. What is Prohibition? An excellent joke, like so-called "Honesty." An attempt to be made to have the farcial issue expounded to get the Province of Quebec to join the crazy movement. Never, for the facts and figures prove that the present system is working better than the much-faunted Prohibition would. "Leave well enough alone," or "Of two evils, take the lesser." Quebec has been taught its lesson, and will steer clear of fraud and hypocrisy. When men want a bottle of liquor, they go and buy openly and honestly, and drink it in their homes. And this is not Hypocrisy. While we want sober people we also want honest, truthful and upright citizens.

A NEW ADDITION TO THE PALACE.

A few days ago I visited the Archbishop's Palace and was shown through the new annex attached to the Palace. It's a two storey building, with concrete walls and pillars, and fire-proof in every detail. The window casings are made of steel. Outside of the furniture there is no wood in the building. Rev. John L. O'Rourke, Chancellor of the Archdiocese explained the object of the building. In the basement are kept books of all descriptions, English, French, Latin and Greek, embracing theological and literary works. A special part has been reserved for books on the Index. Seeing it was a kind of a dark spot, I called it the Morgue. "No," said the Chancellor, "that's what we call 'Lenter' (Hell).

In the upper portion all the documents of the Archdiocese are kept. There are 192 Parishes in the Diocese, 99 of which are in Montreal. Large steel cases are used, and each Parish has a separate apartment, where all documents pertaining to that particular Parish are kept. The marriage dispensations cover 110 years, and all were neatly folded and tied up in different bundles. The Archivist is Rev. Father Thurot, a native of St. Alban's, Vermont, and one who speaks English fluently. There are 800 priests in the Archdiocese, and out of that number there are only 35 English speaking. There are two Chancellors, Rev. Fr. J. L. O'Rourke, and Very Rev. Canon Albert Valois, who is at present travelling with His Grace Archbishop Gauthier to Europe. He will be absent about three months. In the meantime the English Chancellor, Fr. John O'Rourke, directs the work of the whole Archdiocese, as he is well versed in French, and was asked specially by Archbishop Gauthier to attend to Canon Valois' work as well as his own.

ABUSING RULERS A DANGEROUS THING.

Under the heading of "Sowing Dangerous Seed," the Canadian Freeman says editorially:

There has been too much abuse of rulers in this country in past years. This ill-considered habit could not but have a bad effect. And this is just what has happened.

Constant abuse of governments for the sake of some personal or party advantage; unmeasured denunciation of political opponents merely because they are in office, is not merely dishonest; it is unpatriotic as well. And if anyone has been thoughtless enough in the past to imagine that the rulers of a country can be subjected to abuse and vilification and ridicule year in and year out, without impairing the public respect for legislation and government in general, surely enough has been said and done in Canada in recent times to convince even so thoughtless a person that such are the natural and inevitable effects.

Public opinion can be affected by unstinted abuse and by the continual exaggerations which are the stock-in-trade of unscrupulous politicians; but Public Opinion, thus appealed to, inevitably goes the demagogue one better, and ends by holding all public men and all systems of government in contempt. That is the great evil to be expected from too long and too general a campaign of political denunciation.

It is fair, and it is well, that a government should be attacked for wrongdoing; but there are limits which ought not to be passed; and these limits coincide exactly with the facts and the extent of that wrongdoing. The punishment should always fit the offence; but the practice of manufacturing or grossly exaggerating an offence for the express purpose of administering punishment, is bad morality, and in the last analysis it is poor political tactics. And it is essentially unpatriotic, because it creates a condition of suspicion and hatred, or at least of contempt, in the public mind in regard to all governments and to government itself.

THE OPENING OF A MATERNITY HOSPITAL.

In the "Review," a semi-monthly journal devoted to Civic, Provincial, Federal, Port and Shipping Affairs, and edited by James R. Walsh, a Newfoundland by birth, a resident of the West End, St. John's, and for years attached to the Gazette of this city, an editorial, under the heading of "Good Doctrine," says: "Mr. Pietto, rector of the University of Montreal, in blessing the new wing of the maternity hospital of the Sisters of Misericorde on St. Hubert St., took occasion to praise maternity, saying it was the means of national development, the hope of the future, and the proof of morality, besides pointing the way to the prosperity of society. This is good doctrine for all Canada, and meets with a receptive hearing in this province. Quebec is the province of big families, and maternity is held sacred because of the religion of the people. As long as this belief in family life prevails to the full, Quebec will prosper and have commanding influence in political life. The majority of the people of this province are native-born, and that is the best type of citizens for any land. The residents of Quebec call themselves Canadians and wish to be known as such. That is to their credit, and if the people of other provinces were as intensely fond of their country, then national life in Canada would be many times stronger than it is now. Maternity is good for a country, and where it is honored there is small need of immigration, and many political problems disappear."

Deepest Colliery in Yorkshire

Quite a romantic story is associated with the great colliery at Thorne, Moorend, in Yorkshire, England, to which the finishing touches are now being put to make it a going concern. There is a remarkable chain of circumstances about this pit which makes it of peculiar interest. Work was commenced as long ago as 1909—five years before the war broke out. In the ordinary course of events the pit should have been in its full stride, so to speak when the war-cloud burst. A series of extraordinary difficulties, however, supervened, quite apart from the war, which, of course, held up the work for a few years. Now, at last success is about to crown the big undertaking.

The story of Thorne Colliery is one of remarkable pluck, persistence, and determination in overcoming well-nigh insuperable problems of stopping the inrush of water that for years defied engineering skill and ingenuity, and which seemed destined to affect the town that had built all its hopes and laid all its plans on the success of the pit-sinkers.

After a titanic struggle the sinkers have succeeded; the mighty rush of waters have been effectually dammed; rich seams of coal have already been passed through; and, in a very short time the main objective will be reached. This is the famous Barnsley bed of coal, which will be tapped at a depth of between 820 and 940 yards making the coal mine the deepest pit in Yorkshire. The shafts penetrate into the bowels of the earth for over half a mile.

Dam Of Prosperity.
After waiting patiently for fifteen years, and seeing its hopes blasted again and again, the townspeople are agog with excitement at the bright era of prosperity which the success of the venture opens up to them.

Few people realize what the planting of a great modern colliery in their midst really means. Thorne is a little town of some 5,000 inhabitants, 10 miles east of Doncaster (famous for its racecourse and St. Leger meeting). The advent of the colliery means that the town will quickly double its population. A great thriving colliery village will spring up on the borders of the pit, with houses, shops, institutes, miners' welfare schemes, and many other amenities of life, and the town will benefit in numerous ways.

Already the rural district council is talking of seeking urban powers. Other industries will follow in the wake of the colliery, and the little town which has slumbered for well-nigh centuries, will awake to the life of hustle and bustle of modern times associated with coal and commercialism.

The success of the pit means the employment eventually of 4,000 colliery workers and their families.

The pit is situated on the peak of a hill for which the district is famous, which stretches far away in the direction of the Port of Gool, the coal is largely worked by a Dutch colony, who make the thoroughbreds echo with their wooden sabots, and impart a quaint and old-time atmosphere to a district which for miles is as level and flat as Dutch itself.

TROUBLES THAT CLEAR THE SLATE.

There's one thing about a great grief or a great trouble—it sweeps all the little griefs and anxieties right out of our hearts. Or if we do remember, makes us realize how petty they were. The great grief makes us wonder how we ever let our sky be clouded by the little ones when we might have been so happy with nothing but those trivial things to disturb us.

We look back at yesterday and say, "Why wasn't I happier before this real trouble came to me?" Here's a suggestion. Why not summon the spectre of such a real trouble to drive away the petty troubles?

Those Tiny Clouds In Your Sky. When you find yourself worrying about a lot of small things; whether the new frock is really going to look well, whether you couldn't have done better in selecting the new wall paper, or the tapestry to cover the davenport, whether the grocer's bill is going to be a little larger than usual, whether Jimmy caught the chicken pox from the little girl next door, whether Sally's father will let her go to that party her heart is so set on—when you find yourself feeling blue and fretted and harassed and sick of life over these minor matters, why not just take yourself in hand and summon to mind that awful time when father had the pneumonia and you felt sure that if God let him live you would never be troubled about any little things again.

That Terrible Day. Or the day that Jimmy got hold of the iodine and splashed it all over his face and you thought for a few awful minutes that he was going to be blind. Or the time that business looked so bad that father thought he was going to lose his position any day and used to come home and sit with his head on his hands and try to think up some way to improve things. You were sure then that if conditions did improve and things got to going on an even keel again, you would never be worried over small things again.

Can't You Wipe Them Off? Suppose any of those troubles should come again. How then would you wipe the lesser troubles off the slate? But can't you wipe them off now with the very thought of the bigger tragedies?

Not altogether, perhaps, but I do think you can help yourself to a better perspective that way.

Mr. Lloyd George on the Liberal Mistake

Mr. Lloyd George, discussing in the Daily Chronicle the action of the Liberals in allowing the Labour Party to take office, says:—

"It was a misfortune for the Liberal Party that it should have been given a casting vote at the last election. From that evil the ill-luck of the ballot has saved us during this coming Parliament. It is by no means a small mercy for which to be thankful.

"Did we make the right use of our power in January last? I believe history will vindicate Mr. Asquith's general decision in that respect. It was endorsed by four-fifths of the party at the time, and I certainly fully approved of it. How could he have conjectured that the leader of a great party would have behaved like a jealous, vain, suspicious, ill-tempered actress of the second rank? No Prime Minister ever threw away such an opportunity. He will see no other in his lifetime. He also muddled the only chance his party is likely to get for this generation. From the moment he made it clear that he meant to treat the Liberal party with hostile intent, the fate of that party at the poll was sealed. The party would not risk turning him out so soon after putting him in, so they appeared to be dragged in chains behind his chariot, with the whip in the extremist's hand.

"It is easy now after the event to see what the Liberals ought to have done."

Millions have read the book—millions will see the picture. "If Winter Comes."—dec2,31

Canada at Westminster

Louisville Courier-Journal: With each recurring Parliamentary election in "the tight little isle," Canadian newspapers print their periodically satisfying jest relating how many Canada-born men, who had migrated to Great Britain, had been elected to Parliament or been given high positions in the newly formed British Ministry. The natural inference from this jest is that if the overseas Dominioners can send their surplus product of statesmen back home to help the Motherland out in administering affairs at London, the daughters may be reasonably expected to assist themselves without unsolicited advice from Downing Street. The old fetish that "the colonial" is inferior to the "islander" is one that intelligent British opinion is getting rid of.

Growth of Co-operative Movement

Industrial Co-operative Societies in Great Britain, at the close of 1923, had a membership of 4,558,000. According to a report recently issued by the Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies and transmitted to the Bankers Trust Company of New York by its English Information Service, the sales of these societies in 1923 amounted to £253,312,000 and resulted in a net surplus before deduction of interest of share capital, of £17,546,000. The total share, loan and reserve capital was £134,082,000. As compared with 1922 membership increased by 59,000, or 1.3 p.c., while capital was increased by £7,176,000, or nearly 5.7 p.c.

Some of these societies are engaged only in distribution and some only in production. Others are engaged in both forms of industry. In 1923 there were 1,143 Industrial Co-operative Societies of various types in production. The total number of persons employed in production by these societies was 74,329. The amount paid in wages during the year was £9,230,000 and the value of production was £61,319,000. Of the 1,143 societies engaged in industrial production, 75 employing 9,692 persons in production with wages amounting to £1,211,000, allotted the sum of £46,331 to those employees as a bonus on wages, this being equivalent to about 9 1/4d in the pound.

At the end of 1923, 1,377 retail and 2 wholesale societies were engaged in distribution. These societies had an aggregate membership of 4,513,000, a total share, loan and reserve capital of £130,475,000; sales amounting to £247,590,000; and a surplus, before deducting interest on share capital, of £17,299,000. Of these societies, 78 employing 12,902 persons and paying wages amounting to £1,649,000 in their distributive departments, allotted out of the surplus a total of £45,512 to their employees as a bonus upon wages, this being equivalent to nearly 6 1/2d in the pound. In 1923 retail societies distributed an average dividend of approximately 1s 4 3/4d in the pound to their members.

Religious Hospitality

"Dr. David, the Bishop of Liverpool, has taken a decision which is fitly announced at the consecration of a great modern cathedral," says the Daily Chronicle. "It is intended, he says, to ask ministers from all the Nonconformist Churches to occupy our pulpit at services which we arrange, and to throw open the new cathedral to 'all men of good will, all seekers after truth.'"

"It is a move not, perhaps, in the direction of the reunion of the Christian Churches—which some believe to be no more desirable than practicable—but towards the assertion of the community of aim and ideal of the Christians of this country. A cathedral occupies a singular position in the life of a diocese.

"It is a common rallying point. It affords opportunities for declaring the common faith of Christianity such as no parish church and no single Nonconformist church can afford. What the Bishop offers is hospitality; not more, but a hospitality to be shared by those who are recognized as co-operating in the same essential work."

Brazil Fighting Invasion by Japs

ARRIVAL OF JAP IMMIGRANTS AROUSE GOVT. TO SENSE OF DANGER.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 27.—With the recent arrival of the Japanese steamer Seattle Maru with 87 immigrants for Brazil abroad, the Brazilian press, already alarmed by plans reported from Tokio for mass Japanese colonization in this country, doubled its efforts to warn the country's lawmakers of the peril to Brazil of leaving the door open to Asiatic immigration.

Only one paper in Rio—an afternoon daily—has come out in defense of the Japanese immigrant. The others demand speedy action by Congress to prevent the country from being flooded with immigrants from the Orient.

Aided by the Academies of Medicine of the two principal cities of Brazil—Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo—the newspapers are attempting to force adoption of a bill restricting annual immigration from Japan to five per cent. of the nationals of that country now residing in this country.

Representatives in the Chamber of Deputies from the southern states, particularly San Paulo, Rio de Grande do Sul and Parana, where Japanese colonization has already made a pretty strong stand, are the strongest opponents the Japanese immigrant has in Brazil.

If Baby were SCALDED—What would YOU do?

You would rush— for the household tin of "Mecca" and immediately apply a thick poultice of this wonderful ointment to the scalded area. The almost instantaneous effect of "Mecca" is to not only relieve the excruciating pain, but to arrest inflammation and destruction of the tissues. For this reason the prompt application of "Mecca" has indeed saved many lives. Read what Mrs. Tresidder of Toronto says about her experience—

Dear Sirs—Some little time ago my daughter was severely scalded about the legs with boiling water. Immediately following the accident she was plastered the wounds with "Mecca," keeping this up every day, and the result was that the child suffered but very little the first few days, and from then until the wounds healed she did not suffer at all. In a few months there was not the sign of a scar to be seen.

Yours truly,
Mrs. H. D. Tresidder.

The remarkable healing powers of "Mecca" are almost magical. It is an antiseptic dressing that relieves pain and removes soreness more quickly than any other known preparation. It is absorbed by the tissues, which carry its medicinal properties into the seat of the soreness.

Railway Matters

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—Your editorial on Tuesday of last week in connection with the accident on the Railway near the bridge at Manuels, is no doubt timely. Within fourteen months three such accidents have happened, and to my mind the inquiry into the very last incident will reveal nothing more than already known to the public. The cause for such terrible happenings must be found, and a remedy instituted at once for the safety and well being of the community. However, just at the present time I am convinced the railway lies in the hands of the Railway Commission, who, it is presumed, are Newfoundlanders. Being so, they are familiar with the railway since its inception, and dare not lose sight of the fact. The old fifty pound rail of twenty-seven years ago may have been equal to the demands at that time, but with the rolling stock and equipment of today, which are double the tonnage, they can no longer be regarded as safe. It is believed a plan to fix up the roadbed and attach an angle bar to strengthen the rail joints is under consideration. In the event of such a plan being definitely decided on it will bring its own train of good. But, in less than five years we will return to where we have begun and look for the only safe and sane policy of re-railing the railroad with eighty or eighty-five pound rails. The mere mention of such outside this country will be the greatest tourist boost you can hope for, I am, sir,

Financial Course to Open at McGill

GROUP STUDY FOR FINANCIAL EXPERTS IN MONETARY SCIENCE.
A group study course for financial writers and members of financial institutions, believed to be the first of its kind in Canada and possibly elsewhere is the latest development in extension courses put on by McGill University. The course will be inaugurated next term in the Department of Economics under the supervision of Dr. Stephen Leacock who will be assisted by Professor J. D. Day and Dr. J. C. Hemmerson. It will be known as a group study course in Economics and Monetary Science and will be carried on, not by lectures but in group meetings, which the Professors of the Department will be responsible for conducting. The course will consist of the consideration of some subjects of importance of general interest such as free trade and taxation and also of a series of studies on financial reconstruction, the first to be conducted by Dr. Hemmerson and the second by Dr. Day. It has been designed particularly for men engaged in financial writing and whose duties involve the making of reports. Entrance will be limited to these and to members of financial institutions specially recommended by these institutions. A meeting at which the financial editors of Montreal newspapers and journals were either present or represented was recently held at the university and as a result the outline of the course was arranged and decided upon.

Fashions and Fads.

Bills of mirrors are apt to be used in bead embroidery. Mottled leather coats are trimmed with white fox. Brown, green and wine shades appear great favorites. Among millinery trimming notes of interest, gold leads. Long, fitted sleeves have cuffs flaring over the hands. Short gloves are worn with sleeveless afternoon frocks. For Palm Beach season, two-piece suits will be popular. Beltless tunic frocks are made of striped and plaided flannels.

The Clubs will use the main floor on Brigade nights after the lads are dismissed. Last week the whole building was hired to the Newfoundland Fidelity Association for their twelfth Annual Show. Between four and five thousand persons visited the building during that period.

Battalion orders this week announce that Lieut. E. Jerrett is Orderly Officer. The Lt.-Col. introduced Rev. W. E. Godfrey of St. Thomas's Parish to the Regimental as a new Brigade Chaplain. The Rev. gentleman was one of the finest members of the C.L.B. in England, and told the lads he was delighted in rejoining the "Old Brigade" once again. He said that when in India joining the forces years ago the fact of his having been previously an N.C.O. of the C.L.B. was a pass at once into the Indian army. All ranks last night gave him a hearty welcome at Headquarters.

The Officer Commanding has been pleased to appoint Battalion Serjt. Major John Andrews as Second Lieut. on this date. Mr. Ernest Chafe has also been appointed Second Lieut. from December 2nd. Lieut. M. Job Taylor is transferred to the Reserve. Co. Serjt. Major E. Best is promoted. Battalion Serjt. Major from this date. Co. Serjt. Major H. Hookey is promoted Serjt. Major Instructor in charge of Recruits. Serjt. N. Adams is promoted Co. Serjt. Major. Serjt. B. Rees is promoted Co. Serjt. Major. Rev. W. E. Godfrey (St. Thomas's) is appointed by his Lordship the Bishop Regt. Chaplain, to be Chaplain of F. Co.

Second Lieut. John Andrews is posted for duty to F. Co. 2nd Lieut. Ern Chafe is posted for duty to F. Co. All Corporals are notified that an examination for the rank of Sergeant will be held in January. It is hoped many will apply for the examination for promotion.

Bugler G. Stone is transferred to the Reserve. Buglers Smith and A. Pitcher are transferred to A. Co. from this date. The following lads are transferred to the Bugle Band from F. Co.—Ptes. C. Auckinleck, W. Frost, S. Curnew.

We heartily congratulate the above members on their appointments and promotions. Merit has thus received its reward. May all ranks note and follow the good example of these members who are thus giving the lads a good lead by their good example and clean records. Carry on lads! Maintain the high traditions of the Old Guard!

Just Folks.
By EDGAR GUEST.

IT'S ALL IN THIS.

It's all in this: a kindly deed,
A helping hand to one in need,
A cheering word, a smile displayed,
And thus another friend is made;
Another friend your worth to tell,
To think of you and wish you well.

It's all in this: a way serene,
Too big to do an action mean;
Too wise to speak the bitter thing,
Of narrowness which leaves a sting;
Respect for each man's creed or trade,
By this good friends are always made.

It's all in this: to put aside
The pettiness of pomp and pride,
To know that death must level all,
And that this span of time is small;
To deal with men, and at the end
To have them mourn you as a friend.

It's all in this: each life must be
Engraved at last in memory,
And you shall learn as you grow old
Life's joy lies not in fame or gold;
But, whether low or high the grade,
It's in the loyal friends you've made.

"If Winter Comes" will tug at your heart strings.—dec2,31

Wedding Bells
DAVE—BAIRD.

At Topsail, on the 26th inst., a very pretty wedding was solemnized when Miss Margaret M. Baird, became the bride of Walter J. Dawe. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. Pittman, in the presence of a large gathering of friends. The Church was beautifully decorated for the occasion by the friends of the young couple. The bride looked charming in a tailored costume of french grey with hat to match, she was attended by her sister, Mrs. Jessie Baird, who was prettily gowned in beaver with hat to match. As the bride entered the church, leaning on the arm of her father, "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden," was sung, Miss Valda Bursell presiding at the organ. The bridegroom waiting at the Chancel steps was attended by his best man, Mr. Alfred Squires. After the ceremony the happy couple motored to the home of the bride's parents where a delightful luncheon was partaken, and the health of the newly married couple proposed by Rev. A. Pittman, responded to by the groom. The popularity of the young couple was fully testified by the number of present received including a cheque from the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Dawe will have the best wishes of their large circle of friends and acquaintances for their future happiness in which the Telegram joins.

Great Tribute Paid to Late Dr. Henderson
FRIENDS EULOGIZE HIS SERVICES TO METHODIST CHURCH IN CANADA.

Many deep and heartfelt tributes were paid to the late Rev. James Henderson, pastor emeritus of St. James Methodist Church, by his old fellow ministers during the burial service at St. James Church yesterday. His humanity and breadth of outlook, his learning, and above all the great oratorical qualities that made him one of the outstanding figures in Canadian religious life were all stressed by successive speakers as they eulogized the late minister.

Among the congregation were ministers of religion from all parts and all creeds and denominations gathered to pay their last respects. The service itself was conducted by several clergy, all of whom had been connected with Mr. Henderson in the past.

The opening hymn, "Jesus shall reign where'er the sun," was announced by Rev. W. H. Young, who said that Dr. Henderson had looked upon this as one of his favorite hymns a symbol of the finer loyalties of life. After a prayer offered up by Rev. S. P. Rose, the 90th Psalm was read by Rev. James Smith, and the lesson read by Rev. Allworth Eardley.

The choir then sang the anthem, "Crossing the Bar," which was followed by the singing of "Lead, Kindly Light."

Friends' Tribute.

Memories of the early career of the late Dr. Henderson were brought back by one of his oldest friends, Rev. Salem Bland, who told how his father had found the Henderson family carrying out a living for themselves in the wilderness, and had called James Henderson to the ministry.

He had seen the outstanding qualities of his friend, his spaciousness and freedom of outlook, his love of the wide horizon. He was a man that had never esteemed the fences of theology. He had taught the humanism of God, and he was a man who loved preaching; he had a great and abiding passion for it. "I question whether there was ever a man in Canada who could melt his thoughts into words like Dr. Henderson. More than any other preacher he harnessed the thought of God and religion."

Dr. A. H. Gordon spoke of the deceased as "a prince of orators." He was a preacher by the grace of God and had known and acknowledged his gifts; and a man who loved great books which expressed great thoughts. For the young he had always shown a great sympathy, this being the secret of his power over them.

Laboring under the stress of a deep-felt emotion, Rev. S. P. Rose recalled how the deceased had left one of the greatest churches in Toronto when he was at the height of his powers and an associate secretary of the Missionary Society had travelled up and down the country for several years, it being during this time that first signs of physical weakness appeared.

Dr. Rose spoke of the last hours that he had spent with the late Dr. Henderson on Thursday last when he saw the end was near and faced death bravely. "He was a great soldier," concluded Dr. Rose, "and he came to his end greatly."

Service at House.

After the concluding hymn the funeral cortege proceeded to Mt. Royal Cemetery. Prior to the service at St. James Church one was held at the residence of the deceased at 651 Grosvenor avenue, Westmount, conducted by Dr. Rose, assisted by Rev. Dr. E. I. Hart and Rev. Salem Bland.—Montreal Daily Star, Nov. 26.

ILLUSTRIOUS NAMES.

My cousin's breast is full of woe, he thinks this life is hard; his father named him Edgar Poe, in honor of the bard, and every passing hour or so his gentle soul is jarred. He couldn't write an ode sublime if that would bring him kate; he couldn't frame a decent rhyme to save himself from jail, and people josh him all the time, with jocklets weird and stale. They meet him by the village kirk and talk about his verse "The Raven" is your noblest work," says one, "it's not so worse, although grim thoughts within it lurk, suggesting shroud and hearse." Jones says, "The Goldbug" was your best, it's really pretty fair; and so they spring the ancient jest till Edgar paws the air, and rends the buttons from his vest in anger and despair. My quiet cousin has no truck with criminals or crime; although he has a hero's pluck, his gaiters is unshined, but some day he will run amuck, I'll bet a pewter dime, some day a wet elm club he'll hire, and down the street he'll go, and divers joshers will expire to music sad and slow; and he'll denounce the spring wire who named him Edgar Poe. It is a fearful handicap to any normal skate to bear the name of some dead chap who was unduly great; and any parent is a sap who thus will challenge fate.

Not only is "Unseeing Eyes" which is coming to the Nickel Theatre tomorrow, one of the most thrilling photoplays ever made, but it is also one of the most pictorially beautiful films of all time. In bringing Arthur Stringer's story to the screen, the Cosmopolitan Corporation actually filmed the greater part of it in the heart of the picturesque Canadian Rockies where the author located his pulsating romance of love and adventure.

In filming the spectacular aerial scenes, the company had three gigantic Curtiss planes. Charles Sherman "Casey" Jones, chief test pilot of the Curtiss Company, was the supervising pilot of the expedition. Captain William G. Sharp, who served as a flyer with the British army in Mesopotamia during the war, was the licensed Canadian pilot.

Modernists Gain Point

When House of Clergy Debate Obnoxious "Obey."

London, Nov. 27.—A beginning in the modernization of the ancient Church of England marriage ritual was begun here Wednesday when the House of Clergy voted to strike the word "obey" from one section of the service, but permitted it to remain in another portion.

Excitement among modernists, feminists and the younger generation at this concession to their views was considerably modified by the knowledge that the action of the House of Clergy must be reviewed and passed upon by the House of Bishops, the House of Laity, the Church Assembly and, finally, the House of Commons. Even with this long roll to be called, the step is a tremendous one toward the goal of those who would "bring the marriage service up to date."

By a vote of 86 to 78 the House of Clergy decided for the elimination of the word "obey" in the responses of the bride. A bride married by the Church of England service must now promise to "love, cherish and obey," the groom until death emancipates her from the pledge.

The House of Clergy has voted that there should be an identical response for the bride and groom wherein each would promise to "love, cherish and to serve." No effort was made to alter that portion of the marriage service where the bride promises to "obey him and serve him."

The votes were required to obtain the House of Clergy's approval of the proposed alteration. On the first count the motion was defeated, 86 to 84. Modernists demanded another vote and the measure carried.

At the Star Movie To-Day

From the pages of one of America's most famous novels will stop what is hailed as a classic of the screen, when "Fools Highway," Universal's first great starring vehicle of Mary Philbin since "Merry-Go-Round," opens its engagement at the Star Theatre commencing to-day.

Romantic old spots that have become American tradition, are the background for this intensely human tale. Steve Brodie, Chuck Conners, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, and all the old celebrities of the most romantic street in American history, appear in the story, in their native habitat. It is a human story of human beings, and so accurately done under the direction of Irving Cummings, it seems a veritable glimpse into actual life.

Mary Philbin plays the role of the wistful little clothes-mender humanly with rare charm. She loved Mike Kildare, bully and gangster. He finds, through his love for her, a way to regeneration. Pat O'Malley, famous as the reporter in "Go and Get It," is Kildare in the very life. Charles Murray plays the lovable but self-willed old father; Kate Price the friendly old Irishwoman of the story. Max Davidson, as the old tailor, Levy, and William Collier, Jr., as his dreamy artistic nephew, are a remarkable pair. Edwin J. Brady, in the character role of Jackie Doodle, the stool-pigeon, has a good role. A dominating figure in Lincoln Plumer, and other noted players add to the list.

Electric Light Speeds up Grass Growth

ON GOLF COURSE. To perfect the turf on the greens in one fourth of the usual time, electric lights were used to grow grass at the new million dollar Bradley Beach Golf Club, Bradley Beach, N.J., U.S.A. Twenty-four reflectors, each containing a one thousand watt lamp, were installed over the practice green by the Westinghouse Lamp Company. The green was seeded by Peter Henderson & Company with "creeping bent," the best but most difficult golf grass to grow in the United States because of its slow growth and the comparatively short growing season. Two months after the seed was sown, the green was ready for use, thus saving six or seven months of the ordinary growing time required, and securing a more perfect turf than could otherwise be obtained.

The reflectors on the golf green were suspended from cables at a height of about four feet from the ground, and about seven feet apart, furnishing an even light over the whole area so that the grass would grow evenly. The grass seed under the lights came up in five days, while on the rest of the course it took two days longer. At the end of six weeks the grass under the lights had reached a growth of four inches, while that outside the lights was only one inch high. It was also found that the grass under the lights was much thicker, and there were not nearly so many weeds on the green, probably because the grass was sturdier and heavier.

In forcing the growth of the grass by artificial light, the illumination was kept on for five hours every night, allowing the rest of the night for rest, as plants must rest just as human beings do. All plants, including grass, assimilate and digest from the air and earth only under the stimulation of light, so that by giving them several hours more "daylight" they are enabled to obtain more nourishment and therefore grow much faster.

These facts were proved conclusively in a recent series of experiments by the Westinghouse Lamp Company in which it was found that by the use of artificial light, greenhouse growers can bring their holiday flowers to bloom the very day on which they want them for market. By depending on nature alone, growers have in many cases lost their entire earnings because a few cloudy days resulted in blossoms after and not before the holiday.

The same system was applied to the golf grass at the Bradley Beach Golf Club. As every golfer knows, the turf on putting greens represents a large investment in seed, time and labor. The best grasses, are hard to grow and a period of one year is generally required before a newly established green is ready for play. Meanwhile the green produces no playing revenue and requires a great deal of care in order to produce a satisfactory turf.

It is estimated that about four hundred new golf clubs open yearly in the United States, and the saving that can be made by applying this use of electric light is tremendous.

Zinovieff Letter Writer and Murderer

In spite of denials there is no reason to doubt the authenticity of the now celebrated Gregory Zinovieff note which played such a prominent part in the recent British election and was largely responsible for the downfall of the MacDonald Government. When one remembers that this same Zinovieff is far back as last spring in addressing the Red Army gave way to his feelings to the extent of expressing hatred for British and everything British it would be surprising indeed if he were not the author of the note. Everything in his career points to his being the sworn enemy of the British Empire and he would no doubt die happy if he could see it overthrown and his own cut throats in charge.

The president of the executive committee of the Soviet Third Internationale, to give Zinovieff his full title, is described by those who know him as an obese, ragged-haired fellow with bloodshot eyes and a sort of concentrated hastiness about him. He is the chief of the seven people who today constitute the ruling power in Russia. The Big Seven, as they are called, the others being Trotsky, chief of the Red Army, Bukharin, editor of the "Pravda"; Tomski, the labor boss; Kamanev, chief of the Moscow Soviet; Stalin, secretary of the party; and Rykof, the woman premier.

This bureau is the brain and directing force of Bolshevism, both in and out of Russia, and unquestionably Zinovieff is the arch fiend of the outfit. Born in 1883, Zinovieff, or you may spell it Zinoviev if you like, is the son of a Jewish trader of Novorod. He first visited England in 1907 as a delegate to the conference of the Russian Social Democratic party, and in this manner became acquainted with the "cream of the British Socialists," with whom by the way he has been flirting ever since. Among his English friends of latter years are numbered George Lansbury and Robert Williams, both of whom were specially honored by the Russian chief. Zinovieff has another special friend in Tom Mann. So it will be seen that he is able to keep pretty well informed as to communist conditions in Great Britain.

In 1909 Zinovieff was a member of the editorial department of the "Social Democrat," and a little later on he lived with Lenin at Cracow. When the war broke out he went to Switzerland where Lenin joined him. In 1915 Zinovieff together with Lenin began his campaign against the Allies, and in speeches and articles attributed to the cause of the war to British Imperialism. By means of smuggled correspondence he got in touch with the British pacifists, among them Ramsay MacDonald and Morel, who, by the way, died the other day.

In March, 1917, Zinovieff returned to Russia through German territory with the help of the German General Staff secret service department. In Russia, he became active in the campaign to demoralize the Russian army. How well he and his friends succeeded, all men know. The mounds and grave-stones of the Allied lines give silent testimony as to the success of their movement.

When the Bolshevik leaders left for Moscow Zinovieff remained behind in Petrograd, there to become the head of the Petrograd Commune. As the head of the Commune he signed the death warrant of thousands of innocent people, and was personally present at the execution of many hundreds. He was also the originator of the "Cheka," the Commune's prize murder squad.

In the course of a speech delivered at the first meeting of a Bolshevik conference at Petrograd in 1918, Zinovieff is reported to have said, according to the London "Observer": "We must win over to our side ninety millions of the hundred millions of the inhabitants of Russia under the Soviets. As for the rest, we have nothing to say for them—they must be annihilated."

At another meeting a week later Zinovieff moved the following resolution: "This meeting welcomes the fact that wholesale terror is being adopted, and declares that the proletariat will shoot not only hundreds but thousands." And the bloody minded scoundrel has kept his word. From 1918 to the present Zinovieff has devoted a great deal of his time and much of his energy to plots against the British Empire. He organized a "school" for propagandists at Moscow and sent his pupils to the East to undermine British influence. It was during this period that he renewed his English associations by entertaining British born visitors, among them those that are mentioned above.

Zinovieff and his whole precious outfit are the sworn enemies of all law, order and morality. They are out to overturn civilization. He believes in murder and civil war. And there he has not succeeded either in the British Isles or on this continent is our singular good fortune.

Such is the man who plotted to paralyze the British army and navy and endeavored to have the men turn their guns on their officers as was done in Russian at an earlier date.—Saturday Night.

Toronto Scare is Joker's Work

Ku Klux Klan Blazing Emblems Merely Result of Pranks.

Toronto, Nov. 24.—The Ku Klux Klan scare which flared up in Toronto last night seems about to be disposed of through the exposure of practical jokers. Of the two fiery crosses which were set off in different parts of the city almost simultaneously, one at least has been found to be a schoolboy trick. The other has not been explained.

Nine students at Trinity College are said to have been responsible for the flaming cross seen in the college grounds last night. The boys are said to have been staging a show for the diversion of girls in a neighboring college, and they wore the traditional white shroud and hood for the occasion.

About the same time, however, another fiery cross blazed out of the darkness some distance away. Oil-soaked planks, nine feet by seven, formed this cross, which had been embedded in oil-soaked rags and set on fire at the end of Merton Street Bridge. When the fire department had extinguished the flames, some woodwork on the bridge had already started to burn.

There is no vestige of clue to the identity of the perpetrators of this second joke, which, because of the danger of the fire spreading, was more serious than the first. The first will be dealt with by college authorities. The police are investigating the second.

Fully Realized It

Remember that it was never wise to jump at conclusions. Mr. Winston Churchill told a good story the other day in order to illustrate his point.

It concerned a lecturer who was holding forth on the subject of "Fear." "Only those who have been aroused from sleep on board ship by the terrible cry 'Man overboard!'" said the lecturer, "can fully realize its terrible meaning."

"That's not right," interjected a little man in the audience. "I heard it once when I was not aboard a ship, and I realized it more than anybody."

"You couldn't," objected the lecturer. "You might think you could, but you couldn't."

"Oh yes, I could," persisted the little man; "I was the man who was overboard."

Barrels as Cloaks

At a recent auction sale in London there was sold for seven guineas, an "absolutely unique Elizabethan drunkard's cloak, in which drunkards were placed and paraded through the streets."

The drunkard's cloak was essentially a North-Country punishment for drunkards, and was inflicted by magistrates during the Commonwealth.

The article is thus described in "The History of Intemperance": "The barrel had one head out and a hole through the other, through which the offender was made to put his head; while his hands were drawn through two small holes, one on each side. With this he was compelled to march along the public streets."

Our Little Dispute With Holland

OVER THE OWNERSHIP OF AN ISLAND.

The ownership of an island, claimed both by Holland and the United States, is reported to be causing much thought, and a small amount of excitement, both in the Far Eastern States, where the island lies, and in the capitals of the two countries who claim it. It isn't much of an island, as appears, but still an island is an island, and Uncle Sam has clung to it tenaciously as have the Dutchmen who accuse him of being an interlop-

er. The disputed bit of land lies twelve miles off the mouth of Davao Gulf, southern Mindanao, and forty miles within the defined boundaries of the Philippine Islands, as declared in the Treaty of Paris of 1898, closing the Spanish American War. It produces nothing but coconuts, which, dried, are made into copra, from which comes coconut oil. America claims the island as a prize of war from Spain, but Holland replies that Spain never owned it. In the meantime, reports Walter Robb, special correspondent of the Chicago Daily News foreign Service, in a recent dispatch from Manila.

A visit of Governor Wood to Batavia, Java, Dutch East Indies, and a return visit of Governor Foch to Manila, both officials having full authority from their respective Governments, equally failed of laying the basis for a settlement, so now Governor Wood has, on an inspection trip aboard the yacht Apo, from which he has just returned to Manila, paid a visit to the island itself to ascertain the physical characteristics of the people and determine whether they are more like the folk of Celebes and the Moluccas, which belong to the Dutch, or more like the folk of American-governed Mindanao.

Thus far the negotiations proceeded when Governor Foch was in Manila early this year. The decision and recommendation of Governor Wood would be influenced, it was agreed, by the report of an ethnologist, Dr. H. Otley Beyer, Harvard man, head of the department of anthropology, University of the Philippines, accompanied Governor Wood to Las Palmas, where a population of 640 persons was tallied up, 100 of whom are Mandayans and Malaysians from the Celebes, and the remainder, 240, natives of the island speaking the Talaut dialect, which the immigrants too have adopted. But a greater point is the strategic position of Las Palmas in relation to Davao Gulf. There is believed to be considerable hazard in changing the boundary and placing Las Palmas outside the Philippines, thus creating the possibility of its becoming a foreign fortified point—not, of course, under the Dutch, but when, as the same progresses in Far East, the Dutch may no longer be the power with which to reckon.

It is an interesting sidelight on events, past and present, observes the writer, that, at the very time when President Wilson was laying down his fourteen points and talking of world courts, leagues of nations and rights of small ones— Lansing in the State Department was peremptorily refusing the request of the Dutch to settle the Las Palmas question by arbitration at The Hague. He acted no differently from his Republican predecessors, according to records now brought to light by the Coolidge administration, comparatively frankly indifferent to public discussion of the matter.

It was away back in 1906 that Governor Wood, then in the Army and department governor of Mindanao and Sulu, Moroland visited Las Palmas and found the Dutch flag flying at the landing. He promptly pulled this flag down, hoisted the American flag and told the petty native chief of the island to leave it up. News soon reached The Hague via Batavia, and a query came in due time from Washington as to why General Wood was lowering Dutch flags flying over Dutch islands; American naval vessel, visiting Las Palmas, thinking the Dutch flag over American Territory anomalous, pulled it down and raised the proper colors. It was about the time, the writer recalls, when—

Several Dutch commercial ships laden with European cargoes were seized in Manila Bay, and the news of the two events reached Holland simultaneously. Naturally they argued vigorously protest and then it was that the Dutch insisted the United States arbitrate at The Hague—the Dutch to choose one member of a board of three, America one and two to choose a third—and the proposal was firmly refused by the State Department at Washington.

When, however, Captain Malone of the Philippine constabulary made an inspection trip in 1919 from Zamboanga to Las Palmas, lowered the Dutch colors and raised the American, after Washington served notice upon the Philippine Government not to concern itself with Las Palmas matters, that they would be handled at Washington. So things rest to-day. Governor Wood had delegated authority from the State Department when he visited Java to talk over Las Palmas affairs, and, similarly Foch officially represented his sovereign when he came to Manila. The report which Governor Wood makes will likely be accepted in Washington as the final attitude of the United States. Yap with its cable station (another use to which, with radio possibilities besides, Las Palmas is adapted), is not the only spoke on the map of the eastern seas made internationally important by its very existence.

Kinks of Criminals

By F. N. R. HILL

Nowadays the expert thief is an athlete and a gymnast as well as a criminal. The activities of the burglar who, because of his remarkable ability to scale perpendicular walls and raid second- and third-story rooms with no other aid than his fingers and his toes—not even a rope ladder—is a case in point. His exploits have earned for him the nickname of "The Cat," but incidentally he is not the first burglar to bear that title.

MINDARD'S LINIMENT RELIEVES PAIN.

That distinction—it can hardly be called an honour—belongs to a man who several years ago commenced operations in a south-western district of London. Robbery after robbery was reported to the police in which entrance had been obtained through an upstairs window, scratches on the outside walls showing how it had been reached. Clearly the thief, like

Then there is the "Handkerchief" thief. This description does not mean that he steals handkerchiefs but rather that one always figures in any robbery that he commits—it is generally red and wrapped round a brick which he has thrown through a jeweller's window. This little fobbe has asked him in prison on more than one occasion, even after he has made clean "getaway," but he still persists in it.
