HICCOUGHS CAUSED DEATH OF SILAS WHITMAN

The Funeral Took Place on Sunday Afternoon---Watson Rumsey Died on Sunday of Appendicitis

Silas Whitman, aged 70 years, died here last Friday after an illness of some two weeks, but the immediate cause of his death was hiccoughs. Mr. Whitman had been a resident of Bridgetown for some years, coming here from Albany. He has a wife, two daughters, both in the United States, and three sons, Parker and Charles at home, and William in the United States. Mrs. Whitman died some years ago. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon, interment being in the Valley West cemetery. Rev. H. Balsom officiated. The funeral arrangements were in charge of W. E. Reed.

On Sunday at one o'clock the death of Watson Rumsey, the only son of Wallace Rumsey, of Paradise, occurred. The deceased was 38 years of age, and was only sick about a week with appendicitis. Mr. Rumsey leaves a sorrowing wife, mother, father and three sisters, two of whom with two brothers, are in the United States. Of a genial and social nature he will be greatly missed by his aged parents and acquaintances. The burial took place on Monday afternoon at Paradise, Rev. H. H. Saunders with Undertaker W. E. Reed officiating at the obsequies.

The progress of the Manufacturers' 112c. issued during recent years, still continues in greater measure for 1906. The business for half year ending June 30th is the longest ever written in the history of the company during the same period. This fact shows the confidence which the investing public has in the soundness of the company and the integrity and ability of its management.

PROPHECIES THAT CAME TRUE

SOME STRIKING HISTORICAL AND OTHER EXAMPLES

It will generally be found, with regard to prophecies and their real or imaginary fulfillment, that in times of great popular excitement and panic there is a universal tendency towards the utterance of "predictions" for the future, usually of a disastrous or threatening nature. Under the influence of great natural convulsions, of earthquake, famine, and pestilence, such sights and sounds as those which define news and heard in the time of the Great Plague are almost certain to be present. Excessive grief or fear, bodily weakness and mental stress—all have their share in bringing about the strange state of mind in which, together with a tremendous amount of the maddest raving, there have been uttered, from time to time, prophecies which have been most inexplicably verified by after-happenings.

It is not our intention to intrude in these notes upon the realm of super-natural prophecy, but only to deal briefly with such predictions as have been unaccountably made fact, often after the lapse of centuries, to discuss their claim to credibility, and, if possible, explain their origin.

A CERTAIN PERCENTAGE.

As Bacon observes, in his essay, "Of Prophecies," "men mark where they hit, and never mark when they miss; as they do, generally, also of dreams." Certainly when one considers the number of predictions which have been made since the beginning of time it would be something to wonder at if none of them had succeeded in coming true. Such is doubtless the view taken by a present-day dealer in annual prophecies, who publishes several editions of his forecasts, so as to have a certain chance of extracting a fulfillment from the lucking-out of the future. Also, a good many of the world's fulfilled prophecies are on a par with those of the same sort of "goodman," "what now death will be long," "There will be cold winds during March," and so forth.

Again, a fair number of historic prophecies are not really very authentic, and bear signs of having been made after the event, while many more have been discovered by a system of interpretation, in the most vague and obscure of mystic jingles such as "wise folk" used to deal in.

OCULAR PUNS.

But, after all due explanations and

How Ghost Stories Arise

How ghost stories arise

Nature has traps laid on all sides; but it is our own fault if we fall into them. By falling into them mankind has created for itself a world of things that have no existence except in the imagination.

If we keep this fact clearly before our minds, says Professor Garrett P. Servis, we shall have little difficulty in explaining many mysterious occurrences. There is nothing of which a human being ought to be so suspicious and jealously regarded as of the operation of his own senses and of the play of his own imagination. It is because among the hundreds of millions of cells composing his brain certain habitual lines of communication have been established, and certain "acts of thought" have been laid out by the usage of years, that all deception is so insidious.

Whole classes of spectres and apparitions can be accounted for by this principle alone. Our thinking, unless we keep it under constant critical control, flows exactly like water, always following the worn channels and taking the road of easiest descent.

AN ASTONISHING PHENOMENON.

Standing early one morning on the summit of Mount Etna, nearly 11,000 feet above sea level, with an unobstructed view over the island of Sicily and the Mediterranean Sea, I was surprised by observing in the direction of the city of Catania, which lay on the coast, miles away, a number of kites floating at an immense elevation in the air.

Their great size as well as the altitude which they had attained astonished me. I do not mean that this appeared large to the eye; on the contrary, they were not much more than white specks against the sky, but their great distance indicated that their actual size must be extraordinary.

I could hardly believe the evidence of my senses, for I had never heard that the Sicilians were given to kite-flying, and to this was attached the improbability of anxiously amusing himself in that manner so early in the morning. Yet there they were, as plain as day, and I turned to my guide for an explanation, pointing out the kites to him.

But he could see no kites; and upon my persisting, he at length broke out laughing.

"Look," he said, "the seal the seal!"

THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED.

Instantly, as he spoke, the vision snapped into its true place; the thought in my brain that had been misleading me leaped like an electric spark from the customary line of connection, and following the unexpected route now offered to it, through the cells, revealed to my perception the white sails of a fleet of ships making their way across the sky-blue Mediterranean toward the port of Catania!

The sea and the sky were so like in color, and the lofty point of observation brought the horizon to an apparent elevation so great, that I had unconsciously confused one with the other, taking the sails for kites. And the illusion was so perfect that if it had not been cleared up I might afterwards have been guilty of the faculty of testifying that I had seen a company of huge kites soaring over Sicily on a level with the top of Mount Etna.

Many a ghost story rests upon evi-

DEATH OF THE SUCCESSOR

How Diamonds Were Found

"The first diamond in South Africa was found by the children of a trekking Boer named Daniel Jacobs," said Gardner F. Williams, recently general manager of the De Beers diamond mines. "He was a poor farmer who made his home in a squallid hovel on the banks of the Orange river near the little settlement of Hopetown.

"Here his children grew up about him with little more care than the goats and sheep that browsed on the kopjes. When the herds were turned out of the kraal the children ran after them and roamed over the pasture land all day long like the flocks, but the instinct of childhood will find playthings on the face of the most barren karoo and the Jacobs children were close to the edge of a granite river near the little settlement of Hopetown, which was strewn with uncommonly beautiful pebbles, mixed with coarser gravel.

"An intrepid German explorer named Carl Mauch in 1871 discovered an extraordinary lot of ruins at Zimbabwe, and gold fields closely adjacent to them. These have been called the ruined cities of Mashonaland. Unfortunately for his credit as an archaeologist, Mauch insisted that an old building on a hill was a copy of King Solomon's temple on Mt. Mo-lab, and that the lower ruins represented the palace inhabited by the Queen of Sheba during her stay of several years at Jerusalem. This does not impair, however, the probable account of his main contention, that he had revealed to the world the ancient workings of the people who furnished the gold to Arabia and Judah in the days of Solomon.

"Without going into the varied researches, it may be observed that Ophir was not the source of the gold, but a port on the south coast of Arabia through which the flow of gold came by sea. Havilah was the land whence came the gold of Ophir, a great tract in southeastern Africa, largely identified with modern Rhodesia. The ancient gold workings of the region were first opened by south Arabian Hinnarites, who were followed (but not before the time of Solomon) by the Phoenicians, and these very much later by Moslem Arabs.
 Harshish was the outlet for the precious metals and stones of Havilah, and stood probably on the present site of Sofala. The Queen of Sheba came by land, and not over the sea, to the court of Solomon. Her wagons were Yemen, Arabia, where our modish coffee comes from.

"The African diamond fields have contributed over $400,000,000 worth to the world's stock of gems," continued Mr. Williams, "yet the demand has kept pace with the production, and fancy and fashion have not been diverted. The value of the plumber carried away from Delhi, the Magical capital, by Nadir Shah, a Persian invader, in 1739, has been estimated at $300,000,000, and a great share of this was precious stones. There may never again be such a collection in the hands of any monarch or nation.
 The store amassed by the Great Mogul, but the crown jewels and private treasures of the leading courts of Europe today are of immense value and are growing greater."—William E. Curtis in Chicago Record-Herald.

How Navajo Brags Marry

The Navajo is somewhat polygam-ous in tendency, but as he has to pay roundly for each wife, only the most wealthy of the tribe can afford the luxury of young wives.

When a young wife has grown old and ugly, the husband often discards her, taking unto himself a younger and prettier one. Thus he takes his wives tandem, instead of abreast, as the Mormons did.

The Navajo secures his wife by purchase, and the Navajo mendoover lacks offers of marriage. She is not at liberty to choose for herself, but is a sort of standing invitation, which her mother holds out for informal proposals.

The Navajo mother-in-law is the greatest enemy on earth, for she belongs to her mother until married, when the bridegroom also becomes her property of his mother-in-law, with whom he is required to live. As he is also required never to look her in the face, existence becomes a complicated problem.

The Navajo wedding ceremony is thus described by A. M. Stephen:

"On the night set for the wedding both families and their friends meet at the hut of the bride's family. Here there is much feasting and singing, and the bride's family makes return presents to the bridegroom's people, but not, of course, to the same amount.

"The women of the bride's family prepare corn-meal porridge, which is poured into the wedding basket. The bride's uncle then sprinkles a circle of sage and cross of the sacred blue pollen of the larkspur on the porridge, near the outer edge and in the centre.

"The bride has hitherto been lying beside her mother, concealed under a blanket on the woman's side of the house (that is, the side of the house facing the west). After calling to her to come to him, her uncle seats her on the west side of the hut, and the bridegroom sits down before her, with
 his face toward hers and the basket
 of porridge set between them.

"A pound of water is then given to the bride, who pours some of it on the bridegroom's hands while he washes them, and he then performs a able to form on the inside of the kettle. Wash the shells with a hard brush before using. Replace with fresh ones every few weeks if the water is hard.

 This method is much better than using a marble.

Opaculent Summer Gowns.

This Japanese silk of a wavy texture makes a graceful summer gown. Along this line there are a lot of Jap and Chinese weaves with a thread or two of linen or prepared cotton in them, which imparts a durability, and, while claiming the silken texture, they tub satisfactorily, permitting one always to wear a pretty white gown.

Another silky fabric is known as pineapple voile. Words fail to invent phrases to describe how well these textures reproduce old tapestry effects. If the most critical of the wardrobe women of the French court were to step back into the present stage of events they would not discover the counterfeit.

Then there was a very French pattern on a lively ivory background. Long black ribbons of transparent texture seemed to be festooned and tied in bowknots here and there, catching bunches of yellow conceals which shed red from orange to palest sunny yellow. It was a sunshiny scheme from beginning to end.

Most Claims Often Cary the Most Conviction

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power below what he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a surprise. Instead of being disappointed, the committee was amazed. After calling to her to come to him, her uncle seats her on the west side of the hut, and the
 bridegroom sits down before her, with
 his face toward hers and the basket
 of porridge set between them.

A Fine Salad.

An attractive winter salad is made of conquest orange and white grapes, the grapes being cut in half, with the seeds removed, and the little oranges cut in slices, served on crisp lettuce leaves with French dressing.

Good Luck.

 she's like to be in any minute now."

How the Work is Done.
 Shadow work is all done on the wrong side, without necessarily using embroidery rings or frames—another thing which commends it to those individuals who like to do everything in the laziest possible way. Only the correct line of stitches shows on the right side, except the frequent crossing and recrossing of stitches on the wrong side resolves itself upon pressing into a sort of heavy padding, which forces the material out on a level with the outlining.

But use a rather closely woven line to do the work upon, so that these stitches may not be visible in detail, but only as a padding.

Choose a design which is simple in its lines—flowers with long, curving petals rather than round ones. And don't attempt to do the numerous round dots scattered over every sort of design this spring in shadow work.
 Not one woman in a thousand succeeds in making them look round, yet the very simplicity of that tiny stitch outlining the dot demands that the circle be perfect. Embroider the dots solid and then outline them, using the old fashioned back stitch to more perfectly simulate the other work.

Do the stems on the wrong side, or back stitching them on the right is probably an easier way.

Japanese Effect.
 Occasionally this work is applied to silk, but is usually then padded, which gives it a little the look of some unusual forms of Japanese embroidery.
 The padding is done with the finest raw cotton—that used by jewelers is best, if you can get it—a bit of it laid in place and held until the first few stitches have it secured.

Of course, this padding can only be used upon a waist which you have no intention of laundering upon crepe de chine or upon the new chiffony forms of satin and taffeta and china silk. But put it in water once—only once—and your pretty padding will resolve itself into cooked, creased puddings, losing all semblance to its original beauty.

In the little gimples children wear with summer dresses shadow work is most satisfactory. For the work of beautifying the small girl's clothes—so important a point to her mother if she has her own seamstress—becomes simplified without so very much work being required as is usually the case to take the place of money.—Philadelphia North American.

New Hats.
 The hats of today are delightful!
 You can turn them any side you please, put the back to the front, the side to the back—they are equally pleasing and really in some cases becoming provided they top a young face.

But woe to the elderly lady who fancies one of these ultra-modern bonnets.
 She becomes a caricature the moment she tries to put one on.

She must content herself with the classical shapes, the marquis, the mushroom. The small, impudent Fontaineur is not for her.

Tulle and velvet in any light shade form the indispensable cachepoulx that tilts the little hat now placed on three hairs and almost on the nose.
 And paradise feathers of wonderful length and colorings are waving riot-ously in the wind.

A Dinner Menu.
 As an introduction to dinner a soup with meat as a basis or with a bisque of vegetables and milk is an admirable aid to digestion and acts as a spur when one is too weary immediately to assimilate more solid food. A roast or a broil of beef, mutton or chicken, following soup, accompanied by two vegetables, sufficiently fills the bill for an ordinary dinner. After this may come a salad or a sweet, according to choice.
 In the daily menu these are not necessary at the same time, although when the dinner is a function to which guests have been asked neither of these courses can be omitted.

NO CHANGE IN SAN FRANCISCO.

"Something more than natural causes is generally needed to effect any great reform in an individual, a city, or a nation. Look at San Francisco. The recent terrible devastation of earthquake and fire, while probably not a punishment for its wickedness, afforded such a lesson in the consequences of that wickedness and in the results of even temporary virtue as no other community ever received. Yet the praiseworthy crowd of its wayfarers is as large as ever. San Francisco has long had an evil reputation for intemperance and its accompanying immoralities. But one of the first things the authorities did after the late disaster was to close up every saloon within their jurisdiction. Not an alcoholic drink was sold for weeks within the borders of the stricken city. The result was marvellous. Never was known in San Francisco such order as prevailed during the prohibitory period. Prostitution was safe and women un molested. Riots were unknown and disturbances of any kind scarce.

No plain a lesson should have been some fruit, one would think. But it did not—neither in the way of prohibition nor restriction. Last week licenses were issued for 2,000 saloons on the "wide open" system. Night-time day their doors will swing and the iniquitous dance hall amusements will flourish without let or hindrance. And the evil those wrought before the earthquake will be as nothing to the havoc they will cause now. When half the city is still without permanent dwellings, when men have no comfortable abodes of their own for evening resort, and when young girls must look much of the sheltering care that goes with a home, Miss L. Myrtle Miller spent a few days in Digby the past week.

Miss May Peters of Moncton, arrived Wednesday on a visit to her friend Miss Ethel M. Purdy.

Miss Catherine Rice, of Moncton, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Rogers, of the Methodist parsonage.

We are pleased to note that Mrs. Fred J. Brimner has been very ill for some months past, is able to be out again.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Raymond and little daughter, of Brooklyn, N. Y., are visiting Mrs. R's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yarrigle.

S. J. Colford, Jr., and sister, Miss Edith, of Newport, R. I., who had been spending the past week at the Bear River hotel, left for home Monday. They were very much pleased with their outing and intend coming again.

The Valley Telephone Co.'s new line from Bear River to Clements-ville is nearing completion.

Thorbert Rice has placed seven iron buoys in position in the Annapolis Bay during the past week.

E. A. Harris sold his property on the Annapolis side of the river to John Morris, Jr., last week. The price paid was $600.

Captain Woodworth of the steamer Bear River had the misfortune to get his toes jammed very badly on Tuesday by having a heavy chain tackle fall on them.

There are a few towns where some tradesman or manufacturer has not made a fortune through advertising; while there are other tradesmen who still plod along, barely obtaining a living, totally ignorant of the value of advertising—simply because they say, they have never advertised and don't believe in it.

While Mr. Welcome Thomas was coming down Graham Hill last Wednesday afternoon with a loaded team the yoke ring pulled out letting the pole drop to the ground. The horses started on the run, but Mr. Thomas held to them and guided them as best he could until the reins broke when the pole ran behind one of the posts on the iron bridge, bringing them to a standstill. It was almost a miracle that neither Mr. Thomas or the horses were hurt, but they all got quite a scare. Had there been a team in the road at the time—but then a miss is as good as a mile.

Old Home Week

The summer excursions entitled old home week, which are being held so frequently in the different parts of the United States should be adopted in Nova Scotia. We have thousands of Nova Scotian born people in the United States who still cherish a warm affection for their homeland. Many visit this country, at irregular intervals while others never return.

An old home week in Nova Scotia with arrangements for favorable transportation and suitable attractions offered at the various points of interest between Halifax and Yarmouth would induce many who now seem to be anchored in the United States to drop their work and spend pleasant vacation in the home land. Many, no doubt would come to stay and thus help to build up our country instead of a foreign commercial rival.

What is Nova Scotia going to do about it? If no other body will take hold of this question then let it come before the Maritime Board of Trade and Provincial Tourist Association and may another season not pass away before a general effort is made on our part to attract to our land many of the two hundred thousand of our sons and daughters and their offspring who now make their home in the Republic.

BELLEISLE.

A shooting accident occurred on Monday at Hebron. A young man by the name of Surette was working in a field for Frank L. Trask, when another fellow named Crowell came along and wanted to sell him a revolver. Surette expressed his unwillingness to purchase the article, but Crowell seemed determined to dispose of it. On being asked if the revolver was any good he raised it and fired. The bullet hit Surette on a rib and glanced finally lodging in his side. He was immediately driven to Yarmouth for medical aid, the wound attended to, and a warrant issued for the arrest of his assailant. Now Mr. Crowell is behind the bars for six months performing hard labor.

CANADIAN FAILURES.

Canadian failures for the second quarter of 1906, according to Dun's Review, show exactly the same number of manufacturing losses as in the same three months of last year, but a large increase in the amount of liabilities owing chiefly to a few large defaults in the clothing business.

There is also an increase of about $100,000 in miscellaneous and leather, and small adverse exhibits in soap, home, chemicals and liquors. The only manufacturing classes showing small or liabilities than in 1905 were machinery, wood, printing, milling, and cutleryware. Trading failures in the Dominion made a much better showing, scarcely any differences occurring in liabilities, while as to number of failures, there was a decrease of 26, or over 10 per cent. In but one case was the difference as much as $100,000 yet losses showed more or less increase in general stores, groceries and meats, hotels and restaurants, druggists and tobacco, clothing and drugs. Liabilities were smaller than last year in nearly every class, hardware, jewelry, books, hats and miscellaneous. In the third division of brokerage, real estate, insurance, etc., there were six failures for $109,290, against five last year, and only $13,950 was involved. The largest increase in the trading class was due to a single clothing failure in Montreal for $245,000, and in the manufacturing division one large bankruptcy of a shirt factory was reported at the same place. In the aggregate the second quarter of 1906, as well as 1905, makes a considerably better showing than 1904, both as to the number of failures and the amount of liabilities.

NO VISIT FROM KING EDWARD.

The King's message announcing his inability to accept the invitation of the Canadian parliament to visit this country will be received with deep regret everywhere. As the royal delay in answering and the reports which have come indicating that his majesty was seriously contemplating acceptance had aroused far more hope than was generally entertained, when the invitation was sent that he might be induced to visit this greatest section of his empire, the message will also occasion considerable disappointment.

The tone of the letter sent by the colonial secretary, and the reasons given have no room, for doubt that the refusal is really due to inability and that the King's regret is equal to ours. It is obvious that he could not honor Canada exclusively without causing much heart-burning in other colonies which already are inclined to be jealous of the favor shown this country by the imperial authorities, and it is equally obvious that the world is not ready for a visit to all his dominions would be impossible for the busy head of a man of his years and none too sturdy health.

St. Canada will acquiesce gradually to the inevitable and will send to His Majesty, along with its regrets, its sincere sympathy; for the loss to him is even greater than to us.

The Irish Independent, a highly reputable newspaper publisher in Dublin, referring to American canned food on Friday made the statement that a member of the Boston Rural District Council, County Cork, has made a gruesome contribution to the question.

Mr. O'Donovan, the member referred to, is reported to have stated at a meeting of the council that the American trusts were "making cannibals" of their customers in Ireland.

He declared that a farmer in a locality had recently discovered in a barrel of American salted beef portions of the thigh of a man. This, he added, could be proved on oath. The farmer was so ashamed and disgusted that he kept the matter secret for a time, and buried the "thigh" in his garden.

Some allowance must be made for business jealousies and rivalries in the circulation of these reports; some allowance must also be made for that quality in human nature which makes each man anxious to tell a bigger fish story or make story than his neighbor. The trouble is that many of these rumors are readily believed, and the wicker tale the more likely does it appear to find supporters, and in the rural districts as well as among the poorer classes in the cities the trade in meats have fallen off to an alarming extent.

Cause of Constipation

THE "bile" is Nature's cathartic. So long as the liver supplies a good flow of bile the food passes along the alimentary canal and the waste matter is promptly removed from the body.

Failure of the liver brings constipation, indigestion, clogging of the kidneys and poisoning of the whole system.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills positively cure constipation by means of their direct and specific action on the liver, and this is the only way that a lasting cure for constipation can possibly be effected.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

To whom it may concern:
This is to certify that I have used one sample bottle of EMPIRE LINIMENT and find that it cures neuralgia in a few minutes; also bad colds and in all that it recommends itself for, and no one will go astray by purchasing this liniment, as it bears out its true merits.

As Bad as Chicago

London, July 14.—The annual report of the inspector of factories and workshops, today shows that its contents here are quite as revolting as anything alleged of the Chicago meat packing revolutions. Dirty factories and disgusting methods seem to be the rule instead of the exception.

Jam factories, bakeries and sausage makers are all condemned as being equally filthy, and the description of one fits most of the others. The report on the typical jam factory is as follows:

"The boiling room lay between the yard and the stable and the horses were being washed in the boiler room. The sanitary accommodation was hardly separated from the rooms where the fresh fruit and uncovered jam were kept, and the floors were dirty and undrained."

Another factory inspector found jam pots being washed in "liquid like dark soup, which smelled abominably."

The manager informed the inspector that the water was changed "about once a week."

When fished out of these evil-smelling tanks the pots were allowed to stand until dry when they were considered to be ready to receive fresh instalments of preserves.

Inspectors of bakeries found that it was a frequent custom to bathe the children in them after the close of work on Saturdays.

"The sausage factories," says the report, "are small, dilapidated, badly lit, and often infested by rats."

AMERICAN CANNED MEATS IN WINNIPEG.

Winnipeg, July 16.—For years past the sale of American canned meats has been exceptionally heavy in Winnipeg, especially at this time of the year, when so many camping and picnic parties are going out, but owing to the recent packing house disclosures the sale of this commodity has almost completely dropped off.

At first one of the largest retailers in this city stated his sales of canned meats had dropped off fully 30 per cent, but yesterday he said it is now a most unusual thing for a customer to ask for any American canned meat. The men in the large lumber camps have refused to touch the Chicago leaving the lake embankment will require about five feet of re-filling in the deepest part of the heavy cutting; the balance to be covered to the satisfaction of the water committee and clear from frost.

From the outer end of the box at the lake the trenching is to be continued out into the lake for a distance of about forty feet, or until a depth of four feet of water is obtained in the trench three feet wide. If the material at the lake is not of such quality as will resist soaking of water through the cut around the pipe, good clay will be required to make a puddle core, four feet wide across the ditch and above the level of high water mark and dove-tailed into the embankment on both sides to prevent leakage and save the trenches from being washed out. (The engineer was given the option of a core of cement one foot thick.)

The contractor will also be required to remove 750 feet of terra-cotta pipe now used between the two reservoirs, and replace the same with 750 feet of six inch cast iron pipe, the laying and caulking to be done the same as the pipe at the lake, the trenching between the two reservoirs to be made as near uniform grade as practicable to allow a free run of water and on entering the large reservoir to go one foot below the inlet of the present terra-cotta pipe; this pipe will require to have two and a half feet of covering on any part of the line. If it cannot be trenching, it will require to be mounted to protect it from the frost.

RESERVOIR REPAIRS.

The south west corner of the small reservoir is to have the wall removed and careful excavation made and the present leak examined and repaired either by puddle core or by laying up stone in cement mortar on the pipe entering the small reservoir to be laid as much below the present outlet as deemed practicable by the water committee and the contractor; the Town Council to provide free right of way to the contractor over and into all lands required to carry on the work of trenching and tracking along the line the contractor is to clear all trees and under brush one rod wide and all roots of trees to be removed from the trenches so they cannot touch the water pipe after it has been laid in the trench.

Conn. Chute—What have we got to talk about first?

The Mayor said it is up to you fellows, Conn. Calder asked if a "true grade" between the two reservoirs was necessary. Mr. Mulhall said it was not necessary.

Conn. Calder claimed that if the pipe was laid on a true grade it would be better for the system.

The Mayor said the only difference would be that a little diverging would be required, instead of running a pipe up and down grade.

It was decided that the pipes would be found by the town and all other material by the contractor.

Mr. Miller restored the clause referring to the grade between the two reservoirs to read as follows:

"The pipe between the reservoirs must be laid upon a grade or grades that water will not stand in the pipe at any place but flow down grade all the way."

In the section relating to back-filling it was decided to change the wording of the clause, "the trenches will be leaving the lake embankment eight to ten inches below the outlet, etc." to read, "The trenches after leaving the lake embankment will require to be filled to the original level."

The Mayor drew the attention of the water committee to the fact that the level of the reservoir is now from eight to ten inches below the outlet, and that in a short time the town would be out of water. He said there were numbers of taps running to waste, and they should be stopped.

Conn. Calder said he thought it was only right to say Mr. Mulhall's expense to this town.

Mr. Mulhall spoke of a paragraph in the last Outlook which said that he had been awarded the contract for the Bridgetown water extension.

He said he was sorry it appeared, and when he saw Mr. Cox figuratively with a cudgel in his hand, Mr. Cox had explained that a man from Bridgetown told him.

The Council—That's always the excuse of an editor.

Mr. Mulhall was requested to put in his bill for expenses, but he demurred owing to the presence of the reporter, as to the fact that he did not want everyone to know.

He was requested to hand a memo to the clerk next day.

The Household

TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR THE SUMMER BOARDER

1. Don't expect too much.
2. Don't encourage sudden friendships. Sudden friends make gradual enemies.
3. Don't attempt to take with you everything you would have at home. There is no sense in spending half your time taking care of things you don't need.
4. Be a "moral donkey"; don't see, don't hear, and don't talk of the personal affairs of others.
5. Don't have elaborate clothes made especially for the summer outing—fine feathers don't necessarily make fine birds.
6. Don't refer to the refinement or luxury of your own home. To do so is to condemn yourself at once.
7. Don't feel that because nobody knows you it doesn't matter what you do. That's the very reason you should be careful.
8. Don't allow every one who knows you to expect you to write to them. Take long walks and let your lungs expand—don't cram them by leaning over your writing table when you should be in the fresh air.
9. If you can play or sing to entertain the other guests do so ungrudgingly. "Give twice who gives quickly."
10. Be punctual at meals, kindly and considerate toward those who serve you. Don't make your vacation their hardest time. Don't believe that lavish tips will make up for selfishness or rudeness.

In every way try to make your visit a pleasant memory, both for those with whom you stay and for yourself.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

The mica sides of oil stoves, which get so smoky with use, may easily be cleaned with a piece of flannel dipped in vinegar.

The grass stains which are so apt to be found on children's clothing often defy ordinary treatment. A simple method that sometimes answers is to dip the spot in turpentine until thoroughly soaked, then wash out the turpentine in clear water.

A few drops of vinegar rubbed in the hands after washing clothes will keep them smooth and take away the energy from the fingers. Warm a radiator in water for a good while.

In one modern kitchen a number of shelves, on the order of those of an old fashioned table, hang flat against the wall when not in use. They are covered with white oilcloth, tacked on brass-headed tacks, and when needed are held up by a swinging bracket. They come in exceptionally handy when extra cooking and serving have to be done.

SELECTED RECIPES.

Spiced Cherries.—Boil a pint and a half of cider vinegar with an ounce of stick cinnamon and an ounce of cloves, each tied in a bag. Then add four and a half pounds of sugar and boil ten minutes more, skimming well. Put in seven pounds of stoned cherries and cook gently for half an hour lift out the fruit with a skimmer and boil the syrup down until it is thick. Put the cherries into jars and keep hot, add the syrup, then close and seal. These are very nice with cold meats.

Jellied Cherries.—These are very unusual and delicious. Get some fine large sweet cherries, either ox-heart or California cherries, or the ordinary ones when dead ripe and sweet. Remove the stems, wash them thoroughly in layers in a porcelain kettle with sugar in the proportion of three pounds of sugar to one pound of fruit. Let this stand all night if the weather is cool, or else six hours, and then slowly bring to a boil and skim well. Cook ten minutes and take out the fruit; boil the juice down from ten to fifteen minutes and strain through a hot cloth over the fruit. Put into jelly glasses, and when cold cover with paraffin; keep in a dark place. Do not double this rule, or you will crush the fruit.

Cherry Cheese.—Put some sound, ripe cherries into a jar, cover it over, place in a pot of cold water, and boil for two or three hours until the fruit is quite tender, rub the cherries through a hair sieve, and add them to the juice, with some of the blanched kernels. Weigh the pulp, and put it into a preserving pan with half the quantity of granulated sugar; then become a stiff paste, sticking to the spoon, and leaving the pan quite dry. Press into molds, or jars, cover with branded paper, and store in a cool, dry place.

Bottled Cherries.—Choose sound, ripe fruit gathered on a dry day, and place it in wide mouthed glass bottles. Cover the cherries with cold syrup (made by boiling one pint of water and half pound pure cane sugar together), cork the bottles down tightly and place them in a pan with sufficient cold water to reach up to the necks. Let the water boil gently for fifteen minutes, then take out the bottles, wipe them, cover the tops with boiling wax, and store in a cool, dry place.

Dried Cherries.—Take eight pounds of cherries, stone them carefully with a quill, bodkin, or silver skewer. Place them in a preserving pan with four pounds of sifted sugar, bring to the boil, and simmer gently for ten minutes. Place in a jar, and leave until the next day; then simmer again for three following days, after which drain the cherries thoroughly for them on a wire tray, so that they do not touch each other, and dry them gradually in a very cool oven, turning them about from time to time. When ready, store them in air tight tins with white paper between each layer.

Made Sound and Strong Through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

"Two doctors told me that I was incurable, but thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I am a well woman today." This strong statement was made by Mrs. E. L. Rose, of St. Catharines, to a reporter, who hearing of her remarkable cure, called to see Hamilton, continued Mrs. Rose, "I was attacked with kidney trouble. The doctor called me into a state of false security, while the disease continued to make inroads. Finding that I was not getting better I consulted a specialist, who told me that the trouble had developed into Bright's disease and that I was incurable. I had declined to a mere shadow, and suffered from pain in the back, and often a difficulty in breathing. In some time next came to add to my troubles and I passed dreary, sleepless nights, and felt that I had not long to live. In this desponding condition my husband urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and to please him I began to take them. After using several boxes I felt the pills were helping me and I continued taking them until I had used some twenty boxes, when I was again restored to perfect health, and every symptom of my trouble had disappeared. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills certainly brought me back from the shadow of the grave and I have since enjoyed the best of health."

Every drop of blood in the body is filtered by the kidneys. If the blood is weak or watery the kidneys have no strength for their work and leave the blood unfiltered and foul. Then the kidneys get clogged with painful, poisonous impurities, which bring aching backs and deadly Bright's disease. The only hope is to strike without delay at the root of the trouble in the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They make new blood. They flush the kidneys clean and heal their inflammation and give them strength for their work. Common kidney pills only touch the symptoms—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure the cause. That is why they cure for good, and at the same time improve the health in every other way. But you must get the genuine pills with the full name, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, on the wrapper around each box. Sold by all western druggists or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

The Art Department will be on a more generous scale than hitherto. Gold and silver medals have been substituted for the small cash prizes hitherto given, a change that is be-

HYMENEAL

MARSHALL-BISHOP.

In the presence of several immediate friends, Miss Effie Bishop, daughter of I. B. Bishop, Williamston, N. S., was united in marriage to W. W. G. Marshall, formerly of Parrish, N. S., Wednesday morning, June 27th, at the home of the bride's brother, E. L. Bishop, 479 Washington street. Owing to the death of the bride's mother last September, the ceremony was most sad. Rev. I. B. Stewart, of the Episcopal church, was the officiating clergyman. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall left on the 11:30 train for a bridal tour through the Western States. Although a resident of this town only a few months the bride has made many friends. She wishes her happiness and prosperity for the future. (Whitman Times).

BISHOP-STONE.

One of the prettiest of home weddings occurred last Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Stone, 21 West St. Elmo avenue, Lywick, Colchester Springs, when their daughter, Miss Fanny Stone, became the bride of Nolan M. Bishop. The floral decorations were particularly profuse and beautiful. In the parlor pink and white roses, carnations and potted plants were bunched to form a background for the bridal party. Mrs. James W. Stewart played the wedding march from Lieberich, while the bride party entered. The services were unusually beautiful and impressive, as the Rev. A. W. Moore, pastor of the Second Congregational church, officiated, using the ring service. The bride wore an exquisite gown of white French organza garnished with Valenciennes and baby pink lace and carried a beautiful bouquet of bride's roses tied with satin ribbon. After the ceremony an elaborate buffet luncheon was served in the dining room, while congratulations were showered on the newly-wedded pair. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Stone, Mr. Arthur Stone, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Larabee and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Burns, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bybee, Mrs. Jas. W. Stuart, Mr. H. K. Wing, Mr. A. W. Moore, Master Elliott Bishop and the Misses Murphy, Vinnie Scott, Vera Barton, Emma Balm, Margaret and Grace Alley, Dora Foster, Maude Nethers and Bessie Sperry. The bride was formerly a teacher in the public schools of this city. The groom has for many years been connected with the Hibbard Dry Goods company. The high esteem in which the young couple are held was shown by the many beautiful presents showered upon them, including those given by the proprietor and employees of the store; the Second Congregational church, of which both the bride and groom are members; the Christiana Endeavor society; the teachers of the Lowell school, besides the many handsome individual presents. Mr. and Mrs. Bishop will be at home to their friends after August 1st, at 801 South Tejon street.

ROOP-BROWN.

A very pretty, but quiet wedding occurred at the home of Mrs. J. S. Miller, Mt. Hanley, Tuesday, July 17, at 1:30 p. m., when her sister Miss Emma Brown was united in marriage to Deacon Chas. W. Roop, Springfield, N. S. Only the immediate relatives and friends of the bride and groom, of this place, were present. The wedding march was rendered by the pastor's wife, Mrs. B. Elliott, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. Elliott. The bride was very becomingly gowned in cream satin, with ribbon, lace and all-over chiffon trimmings, and carried a beautiful bouquet of white roses and maiden hair fern. The many useful presents gave evidence of the high esteem in which the bride and groom are held by their friends. After the wedding refreshments, and amid beautiful showers of confetti and good wishes, Mr. and Mrs. Roop left en route for their future home in Springfield, after which a short tour to Halifax will be made. The bride's going away gown was of black tulle de sole, tailor made, with white brocade silk waist and hat to match, trimmed with plume and
