PRAYER.

BY AIMEE CAREY.

Prayer is the language of the soul, The expression of the heart's desire. The yearning with our being's power As up to God our thoughts aspire.

Prayer is a ladder which rests here And reaches to the mercy seat; On it our plea for help climbs up And showers blessings at our feet.

Prayer is a shield which Christians use In war'are with their souls' sworn foes; With it before them, safe they stand, Protected from all deadly blows.

Prayer is a weapon of defence The Christian uses on life's way; Before it all hell's host shrink back In terror from its mighty sway.

CHAPTER VI.

SIMON TURCHI WREAKS HIS VENGEANCE ON GERONIMO.

At first no sound reached his ear, but soon he heard Geronimo calling for help, and his master mocking and menacing him: at least he judged this by the tones of their voices, for he was too far off to distinguish the words. Urged by feeling rather than curiosity, he descended the staircase, and listened at the door of the room in which so horrible a crime was about to be committed.

He heard Geronimo say, in an earnest pleading tone:

"Dear Simon, your mind is deranged. You, my friend, kill me! It is impossible. Put down that dagger; at least let me not die without confession. If it be the ten thousand crowns exasperating you, I make you a present of them; tear unin my presence the acknowledge ment of the debt, and I will neved speak to you of it again."

"Mary, Mary Van de Werve!" howled Simon Turchi, with biting sarcasm.

"I will renounce her hand and leave for Italy, and never again will I see a country so fatal to me, to her, to all I love.'

"It is too late too late. You must die!"

"No, no, Simon; in pity to yourself do not imbue your hands in my innocent blood. God sees us; your conscience will torture you; never again will there be peace for you on earth, and your poor soul will be miserable for all eternity No, Simon, do not kill me."

Then came a frightful cry, as though he were crushed, and Julio heard a sound which seemed like that of a dagger against metal.

Thi blow, however-if it were a blow was not mortal, for Geronimo raised his voice with the strength of despair, and cried out:

"Help! help! Simon, let me live! Merey! mercy."

Then a mournful groan escaped his lips, while, as his voice died away, he prayed:

"My God, my God, forgive him. I am dying."

On hearing the conclusion of this hor rible tragedy, Julio retired to the foot of the staircase. He had hardly reached it, when the door of the room opened, and his master appeared.

Disfigured as Simon Turchi's countenance had been by the thirst for revenge, crime made it still more frightful. The signor could hardly have been recognized. His hair stood upright; his eyes rollod in their sockets; a hard, hoarse sound escaped his lips; blood dripped from his hands.

He ran by his servant without speaking to him, ascended the staircase, and having reached his room he threw himself panting upon a chair.

Julio, who had followed him, placed himself before him, and asked:

"Well, signor, is the deed accomplish-"It is; let me take Breath," said Turchi, breathing heavily." After waiting a commente, Julio esumed;

"Did he offer any resistence, that you are so fatigued, signor?"

"Resistance? No; but when I attempted the first time to pierce him to the, heart, the blade of my dagger struck against metal, and grated harshly. have suspected my intentions?

Turchi's dagger had evidently struck the amulet which the young man always wore around his neck.

"Possibly," replied Julio, Geronimo may wear some guard on his breast; it is the place against which a poignard is always aimed, and no one is secure in the darkness of night from the assault of an enemy or an assassin; but what is there in this circumstance to move you so deeply?

'So much blood spouted from the wound. The sight of the blood, together with Geronimo's piteous ories, struck me with anguish and horror. I tottered so that I feared I would fall before completing the work; but happily I gained the strength to finish what I had commenced. I pierced his threat with my poignard, and hushed his voice forever.' 'And he is really dead?'

'Not a drop of blood is left in his

Simon Turch, had recovered from his excessive emotion. He arose and said: 'I must wash the blood from my hands, and efface the least spot that might betray me. Then I must go on 'change and transact some business with people who will remember to have seen me there at that time. Later, I will call on Mr. Van de Werve. I must be seen in different places and speak with many people. Go down, Julio, and drag the corpse to the cellar. Then clear away every sign of blood. I have accomplished my task, Julio;

I have not the time, Julio. I must go immediately to the city.'

'It is of no consequence to me. I will not remain alone in this cut-throat

'And what if I ordered you to do so?' exclaimed Turchi, trembling with anger. 'You would do so in vain, signor. You will work with me until all is done.'

'Pietro Mostajo, do you dare to defy me, and that too at the very moment when the blood is boiling in my veins? Do as I command, or before night the authorities of Lucca shall know who you by fatigue. He, however, exerted all

Lucca have lost their power over me. As long as I had no proofs of crime would you dare now to reveal my real name, now that by one word I can deliver you into the hands of the executioner? Hereafter, signor, you will speak to me neither so harshly nor so haughtily. In this affair there is neither master nor servant. We are two men, guilty of the same crime. Draw your dagger if you choose. Vain threat. Can you do without me?

Simon Turchi grit his teeth in impotent rage; but soon recovering himself; he took his servant's hand, and said beseechingly:

'You are right, Julih; we are rather two friends than master and servant. Let me then, as friend and companion, implore a favor at your hands. You must see that it is important for me to go without delay to the factory to change my dress. For the safety of both of us I ought to leave immediately for the city, in order to prevent suspicion. Geroni mo is not heavy; you can, without difficulty, drag him down stairs.'

The servant shook his head, but was evidently hesitating.

'Come, Julio; I beg, I entreat you to do what the safety of both of us requires. You still hesitate, Julio? I will reward you generously. This very evening I will give you two crowns if you tell me you have done faithfully and carefully what I have requested.'

'Will you be here, signor, when I return from the cellar?"

'I don't know, Julio; as soon as I have you this evening at the factory, and besides the two crowns, I will give you a whole bottle of Malmsey.'

'Agreed,' said Julio, 'I will do my best to ylease you.'

He descended the staircase, and when he reached the room where the horrible murder had been committed, he stood for a moment with his arms folded. He tuned pale and shook his head compassionately.

The poor Geronimo was extended in the chair, with his eyes closed. His head had fallen on the arm of the chair; his two hands were joined, as if in prayer for his cruel murderer. His garments were saturated with blood, and his feet rested in a pool of blood. There was a large wound in his neck and another in his breast; his face was not in the least stained, and although it was covered by the pallor of death, his countenance wore a sweet- tranquil expression, as though he had gently fallen asleep.

'Poor Signor Geronimo.' said Julio, sighing heavily. Beauty, generosity, wealth, all fallen under the blade of a wretch! What is man's life? He, however, will in heaven, with God, be indemnified for his horrible death. And we? But the present is not the time for reflections and lamentations; my pity will not restore this corpse to life. I must now close my eyes to the future, and There was an articulate sound, no spekfulfill my horrible task.'

He knelt behind the chair, and passed his arm under it, and turned a screw. The springs opened and loosed their hold upon the inanimate body.

Julio held it by the arms and dragged it through the hall until he reached a staircase conducting to a cellar. There he left the corpse, entered an adjoining room, and returned with a lamp. Holding the light in his hand, he descended until he reached a subterranean passage. Very deep under the ground, and at the end of this passage, was a kind of vault even raillery flitted across his face. ed cellar closed by a heavy door. Julio opened the door, and by the light of a lamp examined a grave which had been mured: dug in one corner of the cellar, and on the sides of which lay the earth which had been excavated.

After a rapid survey, he placed the lamp outside the door against the wall of the passage, and returned for the dead body.

When he had carried his burden has far as the subterranean passage, he panted for breath and seemed overcome ength in order to finish 'Ah,' said Julio, with a scornful laugh, possible his painful task, and dragged Pietro Mostajo and the authorities of the corpse into the cellar. There he let it fall upon the side of the grave already prepared for its reception. After resting against you, I had cause to fear you; but a few moments, he was about to cast it into the grave and cover it with earth, but he desisted, saying:

Bah, the poor young man will not run away. Perhaps Signor Turchi has not left yet. At any rate, I will first wash away the blood stains and then I will return to bury the body.

He took the lamp and left the cellar, without closing the door.

On reaching the room he found that his master had gone. The solitude disquieted him, particularly as it was now nearly dark, and he could hardly hope to finish before night cleaning the bloodstained floors and staircase.

He appeared, however, to submit to necessity, and prepare for his work by getting water and brushes.

The evening was far advanced, and still Julio was occupied in scouring. How it happened he could not understand, but new spots of blood were continually appearing, even in places that he had wasted several times. This was particularly the case in the room where the murder had been committed. Do what he would, he could not efface the marks of blood. The sweat poured down his cheeks and he vented his rage in angry words against his master.

It may have been fatigue, or perhaps the deepening shades of night rendered his nervous system sensitive to the alightest impression; for at the least sound of the wind through the leaves of the trees, at the least grating of the weathercock as it turned on its pivot, he these emotions, and continued his labor on the fatal spot where the chair had stood.

Finally he arose, took the lamp, examined attentively the whole floor, and said, with a kind of satisfaction:

'At last I have finished! He who could discover a spot there could see through as stone. My arms are almost broken; I can scarcely straighten myself. Now for my last task! a grave is soon filled; in a half hour I shall be far from this accursed place.'

Saying these words, he teft the room, and taking the lamp descended again the staircase leaning to the cellar.

When he had reached the middle of the subterranean passage, he suddenly stopped, turned pale from terror, and looked tremblingly around him. He thought he had heard something, an unusual, mysterious sound, faint but dis-

Having listened for some time, he concluded that his imagination had deceived him. Summoning up all his resolution, he walked on towards the cellar: and through the open door he saw the corpse of Geronimo lying as he had left

Julio, in an agony of terror, dropped the lamp. The oil extinguished the flame, and thus left in total darkness he fled from the cellar as rapidly as he could by groping along the wall. His heart beat violently, and his limbs tottered under him.

He recovered himself a little only atter attaining a different apartment and lighting a lamp. Here he remained a long time seated and buried in thought; various expressions of fear, anger, and 'I cannot bury him alive! Therefore I am forced to deal the death-blow! No, no, I will not; I have even braved the vengeance of my perfidious master in order not to imbue my hands in his blood, and I will not now be guilty of it. But what can I do? I have no other alternative. I must either bury him alive or kill him. And I cannot stay here all

He took up the lamp and slowly and silently he cautioutly descended the stairs leading to the cellar; after some hesitation he entered; Geronimo's body still lay in the position he left it.

Julio had taken this time a much larger lamp, and it lighted the whole cellar: he heard no sound from the breast of the unfortunate victim, although he saw plainly that life was not extinct, for there was a slight heaving of the breast. After listening a moment, Julio muttered, with a kind of joy:

'No additional cruelty is necessary. He is in his death agony, and he will soon die. I will shut the door and finish my work to morrow. But my master will ask if all is done? He need know nothing of this circumstance, But I long to get away; and may the vengeance of God fall upon this spot to night, and blot out all memento of it!"

Shortly after he left the garden, and with rapid strides threaded the obscure streets to rejoin his master, and also to cast off his blood-stained garments.

GRIEF AT GEROME'S ABSENCE—TURCHI'S MY-POCRISY.

Mary Van de Werve was in her own apartment, kneeling before a silver crucifix; she seemed bowed down by a weight of woe. Her head rested upon her clasped hands. She had been weeping bitterly; for there were traces of tears upon the "prie-Dieu".

Possibly there are some extra jurors through out the world who differ from the Eng. reached by a remedy in the hands of a lish, for instance Vice-President Hendricks, Dana of the New York Sun, and sesses. "Inasmuch" as Earl Russell many others in United States and Canada, knew that the 8,000,000 population submen of integrity, who heartily endorse Parnell's course. The Irish nation is not confined alone to the little green isle. Ireland's vast resources in minerals, coal. It has grown and spread, it colors the life and influences the policy of one of the greatest republics which has ever existed, and it may be as well to remem ber that there are more Irish in this free, cause "the dismemberment of the Emblessed Canada of ours than any other pire." It might be well to consider nationality in it.

For my part I cannot see why you should go out of the way to strike at Parnell and the Irish, on the strength of probably garbled reports, unreliable as those which were manufactured across

As to Home Rule, memory tells us guished son of Ireland, made a splendid speech in favor of Irish Home Rule, was followed by Sir John A. Macdonald in the same strain, a resolution in his favor was passed in the Canadian Parliament and forwarded to the Imperial capital. You must not run away with the idea that Parnell is the first Home Ruler. Dr. Isaac Butt, on whose death the leadership came to Parnell, was an ardent Home Ruler, a man to whose sterling character and ability more than one English paper testified, although they abused himduring life. This talk of dismemberment of the empire is simply claptrap. It is a cry raised with equal facility by old fogy bull-headed landlords and nobles in England, the ultra loyal partisans in Canada, when a bold reforming measure is introduced, or a sweeping condemnation of a government is uttered. The Free Press has "dismembered" the confederation a number of times. You surely do not believe this cry. Perhaps the following may throw some light tenderer gets the pauper. Sam Slick on the case. The London Graphic (an organ not particularly triendly to the describing it as the white slave system. Irish), after giving some opinions which and latterly attempts have been made, are perhaps too lengthy for publication, though very interesting, says: "Thus it comes to pass that, in spite of the outward symbols of freedom, Irish policy is shaped rather by the presumed wishes and prejudices of the inhabitants of Great Britain, than by those of the Irish themselves. But as everyone knows, this policyhas been carried out in a vacillating half-hearted fashion. Sugar one day, then stick. Conciliation followed by coercion. The result has been a failure, as is just now shown by the powerlessness of the Government in the face of the boycotting epidemic. A Bismarck might for a change try the Crown colony system, but our politicians, of either party, are too weak kneed for such an heroic remedy. Another plan is the accordance to Ireland of such a measure of legislative independence as is already the heritage of Canada and Australia. This is the arrangement recommended by Mr. Parneil, and he very frankly tells us that the new Irish Government will protect native manufactures against British competition. This treat sunds so mon strous as to be almost ludicrous, but. after all, it is only the way in which our colonial cousins treat us, and yet we manage to do a thriving trade with them.

And it may safely be asserted that, even if Ireland were as independent of Great Britain as are France or Germany, community of language and the force of long-continued habit would keep business in its existing channels. Such being the case, it may be worth while to try the experiment of letting the Irish manage their own domestic affairs." Several of the leading British statesmen speak approvingly of Irish Home Rule.

It will be in order now to show that the people of Ireland are entirely neglect-Siz :- I heartily concur with "R." in ing honest toil while agitating for better fixed purpose to secure the dismemberone as a little peculiar that we discuss would oppose any serious obstacle thereto, and yet the Irish, a distinct nation, granted, gave Ireland such an impetus in commerce and wealth. Verily, there are

"R" wrote good, common sense when he commented on Earl Russell's sentence: "The physical resources of Ireland are point aside. It means that English class class restrictions, English overwhelming ism, and a host of other evils, which have and are causing her vast resources to remain untouched, would and could be home Parliament such as Canada possisted (barely existed) on the products of the soil and fisheries mainly, and that etc., lay untouched, it is to be presumed that he knew whereof he spoke.

The incident of the Galway packet is point in case, as it will probably not whether "the generous impulses of the Irish race" are always deceived by de signing schemers. It strikes an observer that these "designing schemers" never rise to any particular prominence, unless possessed of true patriotism and self-sac the border and published in English pap- rifice. Her patriots have not been lapped ers during our late little unpleasantness, in the cradle of luxury. Would it not be well by lawful concessions to make Irethat the Hon. Edward Blake, a distin- land a strength to the Union, thereby doing away with the necessity of a large standing army to hold her down-living on her resources? I have spoken of English class jealousy, etc., purposely, as it would be as rediculous for me to suppose that all Englishmen are opposed to Irish progress as it would be to suppose that all Irishmen are demagogues and show the cloven hoof.

W. J. WOODSIDE. Portage la Prairie, Oct. 30, 1885.

The system of selling the poor by auction still prevails in Digby, N. S. It is worked in this fashion :- A person is un able to support himself. The county authorities immediately advertise that he is for sale. That is to say, the county announces its readiness to receive offers for his support, the county to pay the amount per month specified by the succesful tenderer, and the tenderer to take the pauper, feed him, and make whatever he can out of him. The lowest but without success, to abolish it. In view of the abuses said to have crept in under it, a commission has been appointed to enquire into it. The report of this body will be looked for with interest, as will also the action which may possibly follow it.

A strange feature of the Episcopal Church Congress, held last week at New Aaven, was the discussion which took place on "The Ethics of the Tariff Question." What on earth induced the reverend gentlemen assembled there to take up this subject, when there were so many others to which they could better devete their time, is not quite clear. It seems, however, that they had a lesson. The temper and the language in which the question was dealt with showed that even a church congress can lay aside the religious spirit. An American exchange contains the following reference to the debate :-- "There is an element of dynamite in all tariff talk that is pretty certain to result in an explosion of some kind, and the attempt of the New Haven congress to deal with the subject proved to be no exception to the rule. Eminent divines and eloquent laymen joined eagerly in a wordy war over the "ethics" of the question, in the course of which there was some pretty hard hitting and a breezy time generally. In fact the discussion made it quite clear that there is enough every day human nature even in a church congress to render the introduction of the triff buestion a dangerous matter." Matters are becomming exceedingly lively when the presiding officer peremptorily adjourned the sesCompanionable People.

In every society we find that the peo ple who are called companionable are those who have a knack of making light of their tribulations and vexations, and a habit of putting them out of sight; who do not entertain their acquaintances with the recital of a bad baking, a leaky pipe, the children's measels, the shortcomings of the servants; who know how to keep their melancholy, if they have any, out of the conversation; whose nerves do not furnish them with material for a morning call, who are not always on the outlook for a draught, or a change of weather, or a slight; who do not lament their poverty aloud, and make us feel responsible for it, and uncomfortable amidst our plenty,

The companionable people never seek to make us dissatisfied with ourselves or our belongings; they talk about the things we like to hear, and are silent on the subjects on which we disagree; they do not differ from us for the sake of differing, and do not announce their opinions as if there were no appeal therefrom. They do not talk you blind, as the saying is, neither do they offend by their taciturnity; they do not have to be drawn out, like defective teeth, but develop their talent as generously and charmingly as the plant develops its blossoms; neither do they pump or catechise us about our affairs, but show a genuine interest in whatever we may choose to impart of a personal nature; and although they never force their con fidence upon us, they have none of that frosty reserve which never allows us glimpse of their hearts.

There are some people who are out of sorts at every hands turn for no legitimate reason-because the sun has gone under a cloud, because they slept badly or ate heartily; but the companionable person makes the best of every situation. She is not fidgety or fussy, and prejudices are not, as with some, her chief characteristic. When she arrives she brings another atmosphere with her, and common things seen with her eyes, become wonderful. She is a person of ideas and bestows them with produgality; she is not so often a wit as the occasion of wit in others, which is a far more popular being than the mere wit can hope to be; and, although she may only have traveled 'a good deal of Cape 'Cod' yet she has seen and understood more than many who have ransacked Christendom.

Advices from Calcutta report that the steamer Irriwaddy and two steam launches have left Rangoon for the Burmese frontier. It is reported that a vessel with Europeans on board have been fierd upon by Minhla fort. The troops for the proposed expedition to Burinah have arrived at Calcutta from Madras.

Mr. Stead intimated his intention to call the Archbishop of Canterbury, Mr. Howard Vincent, Colonel Sir Edmond Henderson, Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police, and Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Home Secretary in the late Cabinet, as witnesses. He concluded by observing that when the jury heard the testimony of the foregoing no English gentleman would return a verdict against him.

Resident magistrates from various parts of Ireland conferred last week with Sir William Hart Dyke, the chief Secretary of Ireland and Lord Ashbourne, the Lord Chancellor, for the purpose of giving them information in regard to the state of Ireland for the guidance of the Cabinet. There can be no doubt that the local magnates recommended coer-

General De Courcy, commander of the French forces in Annam, telegraphs from Hannoi to the war office that he has defeated the Black Flags in an engagement. General de Courcy adds that the enemy numbered six thousand men, and consisted of Black Flags, Annamites and deserters from the Chinese army. Three of the chiefs were killed during the en gagementsand many prisoners were taken by the French forces. General Jaumont conducted the operations against the enemy, which resulted in the capture of the strongly fortified town of Thannoi, one of the last and most formidable cen tres of resistance held by Black Flags. The French lost thirteen men killed and wounded. Great enthusiasm exists among the Parisians over the official announcement of the French success in Amam. Crowds of excited people throng

Reports from all parts of the country indicate that if the landlords persist in their design of a general eviction cam. paign during the coming winter months we may anticipate something closely verging on civil war. Though little is said in public there is evidently a very determined feeling among the people not to allow thems elves not to be driven from their homes, without resistance and should the landlords be unwise enough to attempt to collect rents which the people are not able to-pay, this winter will not pass without serious bloodshed. One thing is certain, the Irish peasant of to-day is no longer the tame, submissive serf of twenty years ago. The landleague has moulded him into a man, who will fight desperately to preserve his cabin and little field.

THE CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY.

Work will soon be begun on the Cathlic University in Washington. Upwards of $600,000 are now in hand; and this sum will be increased by the 1st of January to $1,000,000. The building plans under consideration will necessitate the expenditure of $250,000. The first branch of the university will be exclusively devoted to the higher philosophical and theological studies for the clergy. According to the New York Times, it will be a university of higher grade than has yet been attempted in this country.

Yes, now that the Irish idea has trispite of them, the viperous brood of anti-Irish Errington, both at home and abroad are crouching like so many whipped curs before the withering scorn of the sons and daughters of Ireland. NOTES AND COMMENTS.

It is stated that the Pope has signified his intention of placing the faculty of theology of Laval University of Quebec on the same footing as that of Rome.

Riel has received another respite and his sentence of death will most likely be carried out on the 16th, but we still adhere to our opinion that he is insane.

The whole Mexican Catholic press has welcomed with enthusiasm the idea of calling a Catholic congress in December next. It will be the first held in that Republic, and we have reason to hope anoth and renewed vitality will accrue to religion in that country, for so many years torn by dissentions and Masonio strife.

In another column will be found an excellent letter which was addressed to the "Manitoba Free Press" by Mr. Woodside, of Portage la Prairie, in an swer to the unfair remarks of that journal on the Irish people and the leader of the national movement in Ireland. It should be perused by our readers as it deals most effectively with the recent utterances of that anti-Irish paper.

The English and Scotch tenant farmers are now greatly excited over their deplorable condition. They feel the relentless hand of the landlord heavy upon them and declare that something must be done if the ruin, which now stares them in the face, is to be averted. Why not inaugurate a system of boycotting; it has brought the tyrannical landgrabber of Ireland to his senses. Or better still, emigrate to the Canadian Northwest; they would be welcome here though it is a well-known fact that the successful transplanting of an Englishman is very difficult.

The "Daily Witness" of Montreal is receiving a severe castigation at the hands of the "True Witness." Its villainous attemipts to slander the Sisters of Charity has been shown up in such a manner by our esteemed contemporary that none but those who do not want to see can fail to perceive the motives that prompted the "Witness" to make those conversion to the influence of his writings infamous charges against the management of the St. Roch's Hospital. It is perhaps wrong ty despair while life lasts. but we are afraid that our excellent contemporary the "True Witness" will never succeed in bringing over the "Witness," we will not say to bear a charitable feeling for Catholics that would be incom repeated up to date. A very character has abundantly shown during his official cause I didn't see the pocket-book!

Patriarch McDougall is at the helm. It would be to hope against hope to ex-Witness" is making the road extremely hard for that foul and slanderous sheet.

THE "ALGOMA."

The news of the wreck of the C. P. R. steamer "Algoma," which broke suddenly upon us Tuesday last, is certainly the saddest that the press of this city has been called upon to chronicle, a detailed account of which will be found elsewhere in this paper. Up to the time of going to press the facts are substantially the same as first reported-that but two of the passengers were saved.

It appears from the testimony of Capt. Moore that a blinding snowstorm arose during the passage across the Lake and that the steamer was driven upon the treacherous : eefs of Isle Royal at four o'clock on Sunday morning and dashed to pieces on the rocky reefs. The unfortunate passengers, who were in bed at the time of the dreadful occurrence, were untimely taken and ushered into eternity without time being allowed to attempt their escape, and perhaps not even a moment to make peace with their creator. This is sad, and the scene at this juncture is said to beggar description, the despairing shricks of men, women and children being heard above the roar of the raging sea. What a plaintive scene! It is not our intention here to sit in judgment and pass sen tence on the commanding officer of the ilı fated steamer, who must be an efficient officer, in view of the position he held, at least until a full and authentic statement of the frightful catastrophe comes from the proper source. But we declare that the conduct of the chief officer, under the circumstances, appears strange. There is a law, well understood by mariners, compelling them to "heave to," in case of fog, storm, &c., at least this is the case on the Atlantic, and had the captain acted according to this usage, and not attempted to pilot his boat to port through an impenetrable storm, this distressing calamity, in all probability, would have been avoided. We are not aware whether this very necessary proviso is embodied in the nautical laws governing the navigation of inland seas, but it certainly goes with out showing that it applies with equal force in both cases. It also appears that marine insurance risks are closed at this time of the year, which makes it extremely doubtful whether the steamer was not running in an unpropitious and dangerous season. It is to be hoped, however that Capt. Moore will clear himself of all blame for it would be serious for him if it were shown that through his negligence these forty-seven people met a sudden and unprovided death. - We hope not.

CARDINAL NEWMAN.

The entire October number of the English Catholic monthly "Merry England" was devoted to Cardinal Newman as a Catholic. It consisted mainly of a selection of his own letters—the truest work will not fail to be interesting to our numerous readers, among whom we are aware there are some who, humanly speaking, owe to this great and saintly priest the grace of their conversion to the true faith. He was born on the 21st February, 1801. From 1824 to 1843 he was an active minister of the Established Church of England. On the 9th October, 1845, he was received in the Catholic Church. Here is his letter of "goodoye," written to a number of friends the night before:-

"I am this night expecting Father Dominic, the Passionist . . . He has had little to do with conversions. I saw him here for a few minutes on St. John Baptist's Day last year. He is a simple, holy man, and withal gifted with remark able powers. He does not know of my intention; but I mean to ask of him admission into the one Fold of Christ."

In October, 1846, he was ordained priest, and in 1879 he was created a Cardinal Descon of the Holy Roman Church by Pope Leo XIII. During the last half century there has perhaps not been a man who has merely personally exercised so wide and loving an influence among English speaking Catholics as Cardinal Newman. Of the many who have returned to the one fold a large proportion, humanly speaking, owe their and his life. The effect of his conversion upon the Established Church was incalculable. Anxious Anglicans and unscrupulous journalistic caterers of any creed have frequently started the report that he was meditating a return to the Church of England and the same charge is kept him for the welfare of the Northwest he crying for?"-Prisoner (sobbingly): 'Repatible with its instincts—but to the istic letter, written in 1862, deals with a sojourn in the country. He has traver cause of truth; at least whilst the report to this effect thus: "I have not sed the country unattended by any had one moment's wavering of trust in political link-boys who might be accused the Catholic Church ever since I was of accompanying the Minister for the pect that such a drastic change could received into her fold. I hold, and ever purpose of removing any enage-such as take place, nevertheless the the True have heid, that her Sovereign Pont dissatisfied settlers or disaffected halfis the centre of unity and the Vicar of breeds-that might impede his march Christ; and I have ever had, and have He went single-handed and alone and still, an unclouded faith in her creed in learned by personal and critical obserall its articles; a supreme satisfaction in vation what are the wants and grievances her worship, discipline and teaching; of the country and that we have just and an eager longing and a hope against complaints to make the best friends of hope that the many dear friends whom I the Government will admit-it is imhave left in Protestantism may be par possible that a government, which is takers of my happiness.

This being my state of mind, to add, as I hereby go on to do, that I have no intention of leaving the Catholic Church and becoming a Protestant again, would be superfluous, except that Protestants are always on the look out for some loophole or evasion in a Catholic's statement of fact. Therefore, in order to give them full satisfaction, if I' can, I do hereby profess "ex animo," with an absolute internal assent and consent, that Protestantism is the dreariest of possible religions, that the thought of the Anglican services makes me shiver, and the thought of the thirty-nine articles makes me shudder. Return to the Church of England! No! 'The net is broken and we are delivered.' I should be a consummate fool (to use a mild term) if in my old age I left 'the land flowing with milk and honey' for the city of confusion and the house of bondage."

A silly and ignorant

a late issue of The like many another of Week. of his kind betore, has something to say of Cardinal Newman's "hatred" of the doctrine of 'Papal Infallibility," which was formally defined by the Vatican Council in 1870. A letter written to a newspaper in 1872 is upon this subject: 'I'I could say much and quote much from what I have written, in comment upon this nasty view of me. But, not to take up too much of your room, I will, in order to pluck it up, 'by the very roots' (to use your correspondent's own expression) quote one out of various passages, in which, long before the Vatican Council was dreamed of, at least by me, I enunciated absolutely the doctrine of the Pope's infallibility. It is in my Discourses on University Education,' delivered in Dublin in 1852. It was as follows: Deeply do I feel, ever will I protest, for can appeal to the ample testimony of history to bear me out, that, in questions of right and wrong, there is nothing really strong in the whole world, nothing decisive and operative, but the voice of him to whom have been committed the keys of the Kingdom and the oversight of Christ's flock. That voice is now, as it ever has been, a real authority, invallible when it teaches, prosperous when it commands, ever taking the lead wisely and distinctly in its own province, adding certainty to what is probable and persuasion to what is certain. Before it speaks the most saintly may mistake; after it has spoken, the most gifted must obey. He refers to other passages in his works dating from 1845. The blamelessness—the saintliness of his life who will deny? The beauty biography. Some gleanings from this and charm of his writings what educated man has not felt? and who, gentle or simple, does not know-if not the author-the words of his hymn-known the whole world over by Catholics and Protestants alike-"Lead Kindly Light" the prayer used by so many amid mental struggles for light, which at length broke revealing the Holy City_the one Holy, Catholic, Apostolic and Roman Church-and bringing "Peace through the Truth."

THE BANQUET.

The reception tendered to Sir P. A. Caron and the Hon. Thomas White on Tuesday last by the Liberal Conservative Association was a most fitting tribute to hese honorable gentlemen, whose official records, it can certainly be said, are proof against aspersions; it would have been unbecoming on the part of the citizens of Winnipeg had they failed to recognize in a public manner the presence amongst us of these distinguished gentlemen. It certainly cannot be said to have been a party demonstration, inas much as the faces of many leading political opponents of the guests ,were conspicuous among the gathering. It was the fulfilment of a desire on the part of the people of this country to honor two gentlemen who, more than any others, have done so much to stimulate the material progress of the Northwest, and this their enemies as well as their friends will concede. Mr. White, in his position as Minister of the Interior, may be said human, should govern this vast and newly acquired territory without committing blunders—but that these wants will be speedily supplied we have every confidence; and that the Government is fully desirous that nothing over which it has control shall militate against the development of the Northwest will be admitted by all-excepting those who place party before country. In honoring Sir'P. A. Caron, Minister of Militia, mere political friendship cannot surely be assigned as the prime motive. To this gentleman more than any other person, is due the thanks and gratitude-not merely of the people of the Northwest-but of the whole Dominion for the speedy and effective manner in which he as head of the Militia Department brought the recent and unfortunate outbreak, which threatened the very life of the country, to a close; and it is gratifying to Canadians to see that the supreme intelligence and skill which Mr. Caron displayed during the lamentable emeute has been duly precognized by the Queen in conferring upon him the knighthood; and, therefore, in a special manner, is Mr. Caron deserving of the enthusiastic reception which he met with at the hands of the people of Winnipeg-

SMALL POX RETURNS.

It now appears that the Montreal Herald," which makes a specialty of smallpox statistics, makes up its-returns in a very equivocal and ambiguous manner, which is very suggestive of a desire on the part of that paper to give a false mpression as to the true character of the matter. We have it from that excellent paper the "True Witness," that while the "Herald" gives the names, addresses and ages of the dead for a week past, it omits to call attention to the remarkable fact that the list which it published the other day, and which shows a total of 255 deaths, contains the names of only "Nine Persons Who Were Over Twenty-one Years," and only six above ten years. The majority of the dead are, as we pointed out last week, children of tender years. The fact may be saddening, but it is a noteworthy one and seems to indicate that adults have a certain amount of immunity from the disease At the same time it is a peculiar circum stance that of the seven persons who died of the disease and were burned in Protestant cemetery, five were adults of twenty-one years and upwards. It is right in the publication of statistics of this character that they should be given in a plain and fair manner, and not in a GREAT SLAUGHTERING way to suggest falsehood by suppressing or glossing over what is really a singular truth in connection with the matter.

NAILED.

That excellent paper the "Irish Canalian" is dealing most effectively with the ry of those abyssal bigots who charge the Government with currying favor with Catholics and of bestowing undue pat ronage upon them. Our esteemed contemporary gives an array of figures which proves beyond peradventure that the Catholics of Onterio are suffering a great injustice at the hands of the Government in the matter of gubernatorial emoiument_in a representative sense. How that tengiversator, the "Orange Sentinel," is going to get out of the corner in which the "Irish Canadian" has now got it is difficult torimagine, unless by means of a prodigious acrobatic feat: for the "Yellow Boy" has proved itself before, when brought to bay by the fearless and telling arguments of the 'Canadian," a contortionist of distinction. But our old friend Bro. Boyle has scored a "bull's eye" this time.

Let there be in every man's life a time for silence and for holding his tongue, of keeping it back, like David, even from good words, even though it be pain and grief to him.

That my client was driven to commit the offence from sheer necessity is plainly seen in the fact that he only took the .1 fling amount of cash which was in the drawer whilst leaving untouched the to hold the destiny of this country in his pocket-book, with notes to the value of hands and that it is his intention to do £200, which was lying close by.'-Judge: all that can be reasonably expected of Prisoner at the bar-But-what are you

BENEATH THE WAVES.

Steamer Algoma Wrecked on Lake Superior.

Port Arthur, November 9_ The Str. Athabaska, which arrived this merning, reports the Algoma wrecked on Isle Royale. She went ashore one mile north of Rock Harbor lighthouse in a blinding snowstorm about 4.30 Saturday morning while on her up trip. The boat is a total wreck, all that remains of her is from the boilers aft.

The Athabasca picked up the following persons, who are all the survivors so far as known-Capt. Moore, first mate Hastings, second mate Simpson, wheelman Henry Lewis, watchman John Mc-Nach, fireman P. McGalger; deck hands R Stepens, James Bolton and Daniel Loughlin; waiters—John McLane, George McCall and John McKenzie; passengers, W. J. Hall and W. B. McArthur, of Mea-

Capt. Moore is badly hurt. The tng Siskiwit has gone to the wreck to pick The attacking party subsequently reup any bodies that may wash ashore and secure the wreckage. Thirty-seven per. the Bulgarian frontier fired on the Bulsons are supposed to be lost.

The Algoma left Owen Sound on the up trip on Thursday, and was due at Port Arthur on Saturday. The eastern end of Isle Royale, on which she struck, is is dangerous on account of the shelving ammunition are being forwarded in large rocks extending far beyond the shore quantities daily. line. No list of the passengers could be obtained, as the ship's papers were destroyed or lost, and no other record of them was available. Some of the passengers were bound for Winnipeg. among them being the wife and two children of Mr. Dudgeon, salesman in Mr. Fleury's dry goods store. Of the others lost it is impossible to speak with any certainty.

LATER_At four o'clock on Saturday morning the wind shifted to the northeast and a violent snowstorm raged. The sea was running mountains high, and the boat was tossed about like a cork. At five minutes past 4 o'clock an order was given to take in all sail and put the the ship about and head out on the lake again. On account of the snow and darkness, while the ship was coming about she struck a point known as Greenstone Point on Isle Royale, about fifty miles from Port Arthur, and one mile from passage Island Lighthouse, which has been abandoned since the first of the month. After striking the first time the boat torged ahead, being driven up the wind. A second shock occurred shortly after the first and and the vessel struck the reef violently at the foreside of the boiler, and she immediately commenced to break up. Most of the passengers and a number of the crew were in bed at the time the boat struck, but were rudely awakened by the shock, and the scene that followed beggars description. The water poured in through the broken vessel and over the bulwarks, putting out the fires in the furnaces and extinguishing the electric lights. The screams of women and children were heard above the fury of the storm. The crew hurried hither and thither, doing what they could in the darkness to render assistance, but their efforts were of little avail, for in less than twenty minutes after the vessel struck the entire forward part of the boat was carried away together with the cargo and human freight. Several clung to the rigging and the life line the Captain had stretched along the boat, but were soon swept away by the sea and swallowed up by the angry waves. The stern of the boat was steadily pushed upon the rock, and those who were not too much exhausted with fatigue and benumbed by the cold crept to the after steerage and sought its welcome shelter. In less than an hour after striking all was over, and but fiften out of over fifty were saved.

Owen Sound, Nov. 11.—The following revised list of the lost and saved in the Algoma disaster is as acurate as can be made at present:-

RAW/EGGS FOR THE SICK.

We may speak of an article highly nutritious, easily digested and retained and but little used, viz., raw eggs. The only objections to their use is the indi vidual objections of the patients, and this only before the first is taken, for they seldom object afterward. The egg may be broken into a glass, care being taken that the yolk is not broken, and s little salt and pepper added if desired. The patient has scarcely the trouble of swallowing it, for it goes down of itself. We have seen patients retain easily and even relish a raw egg, who could retain nothing else, more than six hundred have been taken in one case within three or four months. It goes without saying that the egg should be carefully selected and, indeed, for fear that one which has seen its best days should disgust the patient, it were better to prepare the egg out of his sight. The girl may be lovable and well disposed, but her judgment in the matter of temptations may not be good. If her conscience is blunted by one bit of waywardness her judgment will be worth less than nothing. The absence of the restraining influence of the parent's judgment in matters that seem trifles to young people is the opportunity of those whose business it is to entice young girls towards the level of iniquitous living.

CATHOLIC NEWS.

It is intended to start a Catholic church for the benefit of the Chinese in Brooklyn.

The late Miss Mary G. Perkins, of Boston, a non-Catholic, bequeathed $5,000 to the Convent of Notre Dame, Boston. It is reported that Lord William Neville, who some months ago was received into the Catholic Church in Melburne, and who has returned to England, contemplates entering the priesthood. It is announced that ten Causes of Beatification will be decided for the coming Sacerdotal Jubilee of Leo XIII. in 1887; among them are the Venerable John Baptist La Salle, Clement Hoffbaur and the Spanish Augustinian nun. Ines di Benigamin. At that time the canonization will take place of three already Beatified members of the Society of Jesus Fathers Peter Claver, John Berchmans and the Lay Brother Alfonso Rodriguez.

The Sovereign Pontiff has resolved to grant an extraordinary jubilee for the year 1886, to be gained by the whole Catholic world. His Holiness has placed the project under the patronage of the Blessed Virgin by making his intention known on the Feast of the Holy Rosary.

The Rev. William Sutherden, Curate of St. John's, Torquay, and the Rev. W. B. Drewe, M.A., (Oxon), who for twentythree years held the Vicarage of Longstock, Stockbridge, Hants, have been received into the Church—the former by the Cardinal Archbishop at Archbishop's House, Westminster; the latter by the Very Rev. Canon Mount, at St. Joseph's, Retail Department, 430 Main St. Southampton.

Sitting Bull and his band of Sioux warriors arrived at Dakota Thursday afternoon on their return from the east, where they have filled an engagement of four weeks with Buffaio Bili's "Wild West" show. The old chief has been living pretty high. He never weighed so much before and never smiled with so much complacent sestheticism.

Dr. Liman, of Berlin, has recently made some observations on the effects two men who were struck down while structures was found to be most satis- trees. The hair was singed, and the skin in many places discolored. On one of the bodies was seen one of those pe. culiar figures which have often been described as impressions of branches, twigs, etc., and which has given rise to the fiction that the body of a person struck by lightning will sometimes bear a photographic picture of the fr near him. In this case the figure resembled a palm leaf, but it was traced to the contact of the folds of the shirt, such parts as were under pressure remaining white, the rest being discolored brown. In the case of both men some of the internal organs were ruptured.

The phenomenon of twilight is due partly to the refraction and partly to reflection, but chiefly to the latter. After sunset the sun still continues to shine on the clouds and upper strate of the air, just as it may be shining on the summits of lofty mountains long after it has disappeared from the view of the dwellers on the plains. The air and clouds thus illumined reflect back part of the light to the strface beneath them and so produce what we call twilight. Immediately after sunset the clouds are so highly illuminated as to be able to reflest an amount of light but little inferior to the direct light of the sun. As the sun sinks lower, less and less of the visible atmosphere receives its light, and so less and less is reflected, until at length reflection ceases and night ensues.

THE CATHOLIC CHURCH AND CIVILIZATION.

The Early Mission of the Church-Con batting Slavery. Infanticide and Bar

When the Church, in obedience to the divine command. "go, teach all nations," entered upon her mission, she found whole races of God's creatures deprived of liberty; infanticide legalized and practised; woman degraded and dethroned from her place in the family; crime defied; philosophy and reason made the instruments of sin; pleasure worshipped and man the slave of his own passions. To remedy these evils she la bored to inspire man with a lively sense of his own dignity, to lift woman from her degraded position, to make the family tie holy and constant by raising marriage to the dignity of a sacrament, and to create a public conscience rise in the maxims of a sudlime morality. She alone family and taught and curbed and governed society. Her doctrine has improved the condition of the masses, protected the weak, and succored the unfortunate.

The freedom of the slave was one of her earliest endeavors and when she could not wholly emancipate him she improved his condition. Homer had said: "Jupiter has deprived slaves of there was nothing sound or complete." Aristotle added, "there are some who are as inferior with respect to others as the body is with regard to the soul, they are naturally slaves." The church combatted these errors and proclaimed the dignity of nature and in the participation of the divine gifts, "For you are all," said the apostle, "children of God there is neither bond nor free." Before the church raised her voice for Pope. universal freedom, slaves were ranked with the brute creation and the laws were expressed in language which cannot be read without indignation. Having lifted up the slave by her doctrine, she then stretched out her arm to protect and help him. The sacred precincts of the church became their consecrated asylum and refuge. St. Ambrose broke up and sold the holy vessels of the altar and applied the money to obtain the slave's freedom. Religious orders of men were instituted who devoted their lives, and resolved to suffer slavery and in China prepared by Bishop Raimondi, even death itself for the redemption of of Hong Kong. Taking first China prop their captive brethren. John of Matha, Felix of Valois, Peter Nolasca and their componions show us an example of heroism unsurpassed in the history of the world.

We cannot here tell the story of the abject and shameful condition of women amongst the ancients. The literature of pagan antiquity does not hide her degredation. The sacred name of temple was applied to asylums of unbridled licentiousness and the worship of the God of purity and holiness had become an orgy of debauch. Again the church be very difficult to convert on account the sublime dignity of a sacrament and The aggregate is thus above 500,000 na made indissoluble, woman is lifted to her rightful position in the family and consecrated to the holiest of duties, the moulding of the human heart. Everywhere asylums are raised up to shelter heroic virtue and the church blesses the vows of the virgins who devote their lives to God and as if to accentuate her position, the Immaculate Mother of the Incarnate Word takes her place in the churches teaching nearest of all creatures to the throne of the Creator.

Among the barbarous laws and ferocious customs of antiquity there is none so cruel as the infanticide, advocated, legalized and practiced by the ancient philosophers. Who can read without a blush the advice of the Aristotle; "In order to avoid nourishing weak or lame children, the law should direct them to be exposed and done away with," or that of Plato; "If children are born deformed they shall be destroyed." The church snatches these helpless creatures from the Tarpeian Rock, cleanses them in the water of baptism, holds them up to the destroyer and declares that "unless you become like one of these little ones you cannot enter the kingdom of God."

The Catholic Church may fearlessly claim the gratitude of the human race, for she has given civilization to the nations that have embraced her. She has never placed a fetter upon true progress. She is not only a great teaching body but also a great regenerativ association and the fearless foe of tyranny in every land. When the tide of barbarism inundated the West she stemmed it; when Islamism in the days of its greatest power threatened the world, she successfully resisted its assaults, and when those terrible scourges of the earth. Catholic Converts in China.

The reports of the recent massacres of the native Christians in China and Conquin are probably greatly exaggerated, but it is certain that the recent troubled times these converts must have suffered terribly, for it was against them, as a rule, that the fury and excitement of the population were turned. How large the interests of the Holy See are in China will appear from the following estimate of the number of Catholic converts er, he estimates that there are in Hong Kong 7,000; Fokhien, 40,000; Shantung, 15,000; Yunnan, 17,000; Sze-chuan, 96, 000; Ngan-hwuyand Kiangsi, 100,600; Chihli, 84,000; Honan, 6,000; Kiangsi, 20,000; Chegiang, 4,000; Hupeh, 20,000; Hunan, 3,000; Shensi, 20,000; Kwangtung, 24,000, and Kwangsi, 1,000. Good Citizen, not Good Man!

Daniel Pigeon, F. G. S., Assoc. Inst. C. E., in his "Old World Questions and New World Answers" (Harper & Bros.), says: "The object of education in America is not so much the production of learned men, or even good men, as of the good citizen." Mr. Pigeon remarks, with surprise, the secular character of common schools, founded by "enthusias tic theologians," Mr. Pigeon does not explain how bad men can be good citizens, or how men, without Christian morality, can live well in a country whose laws bear the impress of Christian civilization.

For the past six weeks that quaint botanical curiosity "the Holy Ghost plant," has been in bloom in the Horticultural building in the Park at Philadelphia and has been visited by thousands. It comes from Panama and blooms once a year. Its flowers are white and when fully opened the delicate stamen and corolla bear a stalling resemblance to a white dove poised above an altar with outstretched wings.

The report upon the fishes collected ipon the famous 'Challenger'' expedition shows that all those dredged from great depths (two to three fathoms) possess bones and ligaments of great softness, and muscles loosely connected. LIVE STOCK.

There are two kinds of pork: one is meat and the other is lard, and in choosing the breed of hogs or pigs and the method of feeding for his purpose the farmer must make a proper choice. Pork is in demand for food, and for food man wants lean meat with only a right proportion of fat intimately interspersed with no more muscle than will serve to carry around the load of fat. For bacon and hams the pigs are fed upon grass or clover in large part, and upon flesh-making materials. They must also have age and size; for lard the pigs are crowded with corn and slaughtered at the end of one season's feeding. It is easily seen that the two cases differ entirely, and the requirements of breeds of animals and kind of feeding are equally different. This point seems to have been completely overlooked in the discussion of this subject.

A subscriber at Swanton, Neb., asks how to feed ground oil-cake to brood sows and pigs.

We suppose our correspondent means linseed oil-cake, ground. Oil cake meal must be fed with great caution to sows heavy with pig. In excess, it is likely to produce premature delivery. For a sow during the whole time of pregnancy, it may be mixed (say one pint) with her their labor and manure to a few acres other food every day, and it will benefit and get them in good condition as a beher digestion, and she will have an easi- ginning to better things. er delivery. But when she is near farrowing it will not do to begin feeding, unless in such small quantities as a tablespoonful. After the sow has farrowed it is perfectly safe and one of the best foods to regulate her flow of milk. But feed very little of any strong food immediately after farrowing, because of the danger of developing milk fever. Cool bran mashes are best for a few days after farrowing.

The best way to give this oil-cake meal is to soak it in boiling water, and then mix in with other food. The brood sow with pigs, needs sloppy food to increase her yield of milk for the pigs. Cornmeal is too heating. Ground oats and middlings are better, and one quart of oil-cake meal may be added with profit. As soon as the pigs get large enough to eat by themselves, middlings and oil-cake meal (one of oil-meal to four ofmiddlings), scalded in boiling water, will be excellent to start them. They may be allowed, also, a few oats to try their teeth on. The middlings and oil meal will furnish food to start the bones and muscles, and give a rangy frame. Young pigs want to grow, not lay on fat. The milk of the brood sow, fed properly, will grow rangy and not fat pigs, but the brood soon gets beyond her power to supply.

THE DAIRY.

Pea meal is now considered to be th richest food for the production of milk and butter, especially the latter. No doubt it is a most excellent food, containing a very large quantity of nutriment. But cows cannot live upon peameal alone. Butter is the most nutritious of all human foods, containing nothingbut availablenutriment but we cannot live upon it, and a large quantity of it | 1 would lead to serious disorders of the digestive organs and an early death. We must eat a large proportion of bread with it to make it healthful. It is precisely so with pea meal. It is the butter of the cows' ration, while hay is the bread, and a very small portion of it can be used with safety. Cotton seed meal has been misused in the same way that G pea meal is now being abused, in the forcing of cows. A very safe and good proportion of pea meal is as follows: 100 Pounds of peas, 200 pounds of bran, and O 300 pounds of corn, all ground finely together, and 12 pounds a day of this is as much as any cow should be asked to di-

A skim-cheese is accounted for food simply because it has too much cheesy matter for the butter it contains—rich in curd and poor in fat—a liberal share of butter being rightfully considered essential to good cheese. There is a wide difference between a cheese having twice as much fat as curd and one which contains twice as much curd as fat. A fool can dissinguish between them. Deliver Morris.... me from cheese rich in curd and poor in fat. I have seen too much of it and I most earnestly advise cheese makers who desire to make wholesome cheese, and to do unto others as they, would have at the coats. have others do to them, never to buy cows giving milk too poor to make butgiving milk of an opposite quality.

THE FARM.

The easiest way to rot straw for use of manure is to compost it with lime and earth, and make it up into aflat heap so as to keep it moist. This will be less trouble than covering it in furrows with lime. Another way would be to spread the straw over the ground, scatter lime over it when it is wet, and plough it all in and leave until spring, when ashes and guano could be used with potatoes or any other crop. If, however, it is more convenient to put the straw in large among it. It is also in demand for lard, furrows and lime it and plough it in beds, and the lard manufacturer wants a pig this method is quite free from objection.

The most interesting fact just now for farmers to consider is how they can reduce the cost of their products. Without discussing this question fully it may be now sufficient to suggest that the two most important aids to this result are good tillage and manure, and one of these alone without the other will be of little effect. Thorough tillage is a matter of mere skillful labor, while manure is the result of a long previous management in keeping stock and growing crops for feeding them. Usually the farmer who has the manure has the skill and gives the labor to fit his land thoroughly, and so he is not just now complaining very much. It is not possible therefore for other farmers to make this change suddenly, but they must grow up to it. They should not be disheartened on this account, for the farmer above all other men must work and wait. Let them do the best they can now in tilling their soil as perfectly as possible, and confine

There were exported from New York during the week ending August 1, 7608 packages of butter and 59,057 of cheese. against 18,412 packages of butter and 83,373 of cheese during the correspond. ing week last season.

MILITARY BOUNTY GRANT.

To all whom it may concern:

Attention is called to the following Act, passed during the last session of Parliament, providing for the Military Bounty Grant to each member of the enrolled Militia Force actively engaged and bearing arms in the suppressiou of the recent Indian and Half-Breed outbreak in the Northwest.

By order,
JOHN R. HALL,

Department of the Interior, Ottawa, 1st Sept., 1885.

CHAP. 73.

An Act to authorize grants of land to members of the Militia Force lately on active service in the Northwest. (Assented to 20th July, 1885.)

Whereas it is right to recognize the ervices of the members of the enrolled militia actively engaged in suppressing the late half-breed and Indian outbreak in the Northwest, by giving to each, in addition to the pay and allowances to which he is entitled under the Militia Act, a grant of land; and it is expedient that the grant should be made in such form as will be conducive to the actual settlement of the public lands of Canada: Therefore Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and House of Commons of Canada, enacts as follows:

1. The Governor-General in Council is hereby authorized to grant to each member of the enrolled militia force actively engaged and bearing arms in the sup-pression of the Indian and half breed outbreak, and serving west of Port Arthur, since the twenty-fifth day of March now past, including officers, noncommissioned officers, and men, a free homestead of two adjoining quarter sections (comprising an area of 320 acres in all) of any even-numbered section of unoccupied and unclaimed Dominion lands in Manitoba or the Northwest Territories open for homestead and preemption entry, subject to the condition that the grantee, or his duly authorized substitute, shall have selected and entered the said two quarter sections in the Dominion Land Office for the land district in which they may be situated, on or before the first day of August, eighteen hundred and eighty-six.

Provided that the said grantee, or his substitute, as the case may be, shall perfect the entry made as aforesaid, by commencing actually to reside upon and cultivate the land within six months from and after the first day of August, eighteen hundred and eighty six, and shall thereafter continue to reside upon and cultivate the said land for the period and in accordance with the terms and conditions prescribed by the homestead provisions of "The Dominion Lands Act. 1883:" Provided also, that no substitute to be selected by a grantee shall be a person who is not eligible under the pro-visions of the said Act to obtain entry for a homestead: And provided further, that in case a substitute be selected by a grantee, as hereinbefore provided, the land shall be entered in the name of the substitute, and on compliance with the conditions in that behalf prescribed by the homestead provisions of the said Act, the patent for the two quarter sections shall be issued in the name of the said substitute.

2. Any person entitled under the fore going provisions to select and enter, either by himself or by his substitute, three hundred and twenty acres of land as a homestead, in the manner and subect to the terms and conditions herein before prescribed, may, in lieu thereof, if he so chooses, receive scrip for eighty dollars, which shall be accepted in payment of any Dominion lands open for sale, or in payment of pre-emptions, or of rents of Dominion lands leased for grazing or hay cutting purposes; but any person choosing to take scrip as herein provided must notify the Minister of the Interior of his choice on or before the first day of August, eighteen hundred and eighty six.

3. All grants of land or scrip, as the case may be, issued in accordance with the foregoing provisions, shall be made by the Minister of the Interior, upon a warrant in favor of the person entitled thereto issued by the Minister of Militia and Defence, which shall be recorded in the Department of the Interior, under clause twenty-one of "The Dominion Lands Act, 1883;" and all scrip issued under the second section of the Act shall be subject in all respects to the provisions of said clause twenty-one, and also of clause twenty-two of the said Act.

4. The entries to be made and the patents to be issued under this Act shall not be subject to dues and charges exacted in the case of ordinary homestead

Police Rumans in Ireland.

A very extraordinary occurrence took place recently in the parish of Belcara, County Mayo. A sergeant, with a strong posse' of his constables, entered a country house in this locality, where the pa rochial clergy were solemnly officiating at their stations, where Mass was actually being celebrated, and arrested several of the parishioners engaged in the devotional service, at the instance of a local landlady. The Rev. Fother Heally, curate to the respected, parish priest, Rev. Canon Gibbons, P.P., V.G., was officiating at the time, and was attacked with illness, and now lies suffering from a dangerous fever. The Rev. gentleman has been constantly attended by Drs. Jordan and Maguire, who pronounce him in a very critical condition. The greatest indignation is expressed throughout the country at this act. An inquiry will shortly be made in order to test the legality of this atrocious affair, and have the whole circumstance investigated before the House of Commons.

The Human Foice.

Nothing betrays so much as the voice, save perhaps the eyes, but they cau be lowered, and so far the expression hidden. In moments of emotion no skill can hide the fact of disturbed feeling though a strong will and habit of self-con-trol can steady the voice when else it wauld be failing and tremulous. Crr tain voices grate on the nerves and set our teeth on edge, and others are just as calming as they are irritating, quieting, or like t composing draught. A good voice, calm in tone and musical in quality, is one of the essentials for a physician-the bed-side voice, which is nothing if it is not sympathetic by constitution. Whatever its original quality may be, the orator's voice bears the unmistakable stamp of art and becomes artifiality; as such it may be admirabletelling in a crowd, impressive in an adhome, partly because it is always conscious and never self-forgetting. An oratar's voice, with its careful intonation and accurate accent. would be as much out of place beside a sick-bed as a brocaded silk for the kitchen-girl. The Mr. Lenton, of the Plymton cheese voice is much more indicative of the or confused utterance; no idiot has a clear or melodious voice, the harsh scream of mania is proverbial, and no person of prompt and descisive thought was ever known to hesitate and stutter. A thick, loose, fluffy voice does not belong to the crisp character of mind which does the most active work, and lets his words drip instead of bringing them out in the sharp, incisive way that ought to be natural to him, there is a flaw omewhere.

DIME NOVELS.

Nothing more insidious could be intro-sense of sight. But when perspiration duced into your homes. Keep the mind's is so gentle that it cannot be detected health as carefully protected as you do in the shape of water drops, when no the body's, and the State Reform School moisture can be felt, when it is known will not open its doors to close them for to us only by a certain softness of the years upon one of your darlings. A mother's boy in Montreal, only fourteen years, was recently detected in a $300 to a very considerable extent without forgery. He and two companions were special injury. But to use popular lanabout starting for New York, and had guage, which cannot be mistaken, when about thirty dime novels in their possession. A boy in Thaddeus Stevens' public school at Philadelphia, when reprimanded by his teacher recently, drew ments, sudden and painful sickness is a a revolver and threatened to shoot her. This led to a search of the pupils, when seven revolvers were captured from draft of air while we are at rest, after boys about ten years old. About 120 dime novels were discovered to be the property of the youthful scapegraces.

STRANGE BUT TRUE.

This is one of the curious things float ing about: Take a piece of paper, and upon it put in figures your age in years, dropping months, weeks, and days. Multiply it by two: then add to the result obtained the figures, 3,768; add two, was dispatched Wednesday morning, the the result obtained the number of your pears on earth, and see if you do not obtain figures that you will not be likely to forget.

> To one who said, "I do not believe there is an honest man in the world," another replied, "It is impossible for any as no watches so effectually deceive the one man to know all the world, but quite wearer, as those that are sometimes of possible that one may know himself."

The Body and its Health.

Checked Perspiration.—Checked perspiration is the fruitful cause of sickness, disease and death to multitudes every year. If a teakettle of water is boiling on the fire steam is seen assuing from the spout, carrying the extra heat with it, but if the lid be fastened down and the spout plugged a destructive explosion follows in a very short time.

Heat is constantly generated in the human body, by the chemical disorganization, the combustion of the food we eat. There are 7,000,000 tubes or pores on the surface of the body, which in health are constantly open, conveying from the system by what is called insensible perspiration; this internal heat, which, having answered its purpose, is passed off like the jets of steam which are thrown from the escape-pipe, in puffs, of an ordinary steam engine; but this insensible perspiration carries with it, in a dissolv ed form, very much of the waste matter of the system to the extent of a pound or two or more every twenty-four hours. It must be apparent, then, that if the pores of the skin are closed; if the multitude of valves which are placed over the whole surface of the human body are shut down two things take place. First the internal heat is prevented from passing off, it accumulates every moment, the person expresses himself as burning up, and large draughts of water are swallowed to quench the internal fire. This we call 'fever.' When the warm steam is constantly escaping from the body in health it keeps the skin moist, and there is a soft, pleasant feeling and warmth about it. But when the pores are closed the skin feels barsh and hot and dry.

But another result follows the closing of the pores of the skin, and the more immediately dangerous; a main outlet for the waste of the body is closed, it remaining with the blood, mingles with it, and in a few hours becomes impure and begins to generate disease in every fibre of the system-the whole machinery of the man becomes at once disordered. and he expresses himsel as 'feeling miserable.' The terrible effects of checked perspiration of a dog, which sweats only by his tongue, is evinced by his becom. ing 'mad.'The water runs from the dog's mouth in summer, if exercising freely. If it ceases to run. that is 'hydrophobia.' It has been ascerted by a French physician that if a person suffering under hydrophobia can be only made to perspire freely, he is cured at once. It is familiar to the commonest observer that in all ordinary forms of disease the patient begins to get better the moment he begins to perspire' simply because the internal heat is passing off and there is an outlet for the waste of the system. Thus it is that one of the most important means of curing all sickness is bodily cleanliness, which is simply removing from the mouths of these little pores that gum and dust and oil which clogs them up. Thus it is, that personal clean liness is one of the main elements of health; thus it is that filth and disease habitate together, the world over.

There are two kinds of perspiration, sensible and insensible. When we see drops of water on the surface of the body as the result of exercise, or subsidence of fever, that is sensible perspira Mothers look out for the dime novels tion-perspiration recognized by the skin, that is insensible perspiration. and is so gentle that it may be checked a man is sweating freely, and it is suddenly checked, and the sweat is not brought out again in a very few movery certain result.

What then checks perspiration? A exercise, or getting the clothing wet and remaining at rest while it is so. Getting out of a warm bed and going to an open door or window has been the death of multitudes.

In recent elections at Brussels, the wives of members of one party entered freely into the contest. One of the these ladies, after expending in buying what she did not need a considerable sum of money in a store, said to the mistress: 'Your husband will, of course, vote for M.__?'_The proprietress, with eyes cast down, replied, 'Alas, Mme. la Baronne, I am a widow.'

Falsehood is never so successful as when she baits her hook with truth. and thus no opinions so fatally mislead us, as those that are nat wholly wrong, JUST RECEIVED!
