GUIDE TO UNIVERSITY GROUNDS.

On entering the Sherbrooke Street gates and walking up the avenue leading to the buildings, we have on our left the Keeper's Lodge, the College Campus and the Tennis Courts of the Donalda Department. On the right, we have the courts of the McGill University Lawn Tennis Club.

Taking the turn to the left we come to the Redpath Museum, beyond which is the Presbyterian College, below this on the left of the Campus is the Redpath Library in course of erection, while opposite, on McTavish Street, is the Congregational College of British North America.

At the head of the Avenue is the Main Building containing the Lecture Rooms of Arts and the Donalda Department. At the western end is the William Molson Hall, while west of this is seen the observatory. At the eastern end is the Principal's residence.

Opposite the Main entrance is the monument erected over the remains of the Honorable James McGill, founder of the University, who died in 1813.

To the right of the Avenue, behind the courts of the Tennis Club, is the Experimental Physics building, the gift of W. C. Macdonald, Esq. Further on, the same side of the avenue is the Macdonald Technical Building, also the gift of Mr. W. C. Macdonald. Connected with it, but best seen from the east end of the Main Building, are the workshops for the students in Applied Science, the bequest of the late Thomas Workman.

Still further on the left hand, is the building of the Medical Faculty, while close to the University Street gate is the Wesleyan Theological College.

At the north western corner of Sherbrooke and University Streets is the large stone house, recently purchased from Estate Late Thomas Workman, for the Donalda department.

The Botanical Garden is situated at the top of the Cote-des-Neiges hill, and is entered by the Iron gates immediately opposite the road from the Mountain Park.

A BRIEF HISTORICAL SKETCH OF MCGILL
UNIVERSITY Y. M. C. A.

Previous to 1884 there had been several attempts to organize the Christian men in the University but without success. During the session of 1883-84, at the request of Mr. D. A. Budge, Secretary of the City Y. M. C. A. a McGill Student attended the Annual Convention of the Y. M. C. A. of Ontario and Quebec, held at Peterboro, Ont. On the return of Mr. James K. Unsworth, the McGill delegate, from the Convention, an Association was organized in McGill with fifteen members, and Mr. Unsworth elected the first president.

Through the kindness of the City Association the McGill men met every Sunday afternoon in one of the small Rooms in the Y. M. C. A. building on the corner of Victoria Square. The men were much blessed by their meetings together, and on the session coming to an end, it was resolved that they should pray earnestly during the summer that the usefulness of the Association might be extended the following session.

The next session the Association more than doubled its members and besides the usual Sunday afternoon meeting, the prayer meeting on Tuesday evening, in No. 1 class room, Arts building, was started. The membership at this time was confined chiefly to Arts men, but in the Spring of 1885, Mr Kendal then in 2nd year Medecine, was elected President for the ensuing year.

The Session 1885-'86, was opened by a very successful reception tendered by the Association to the incoming freshmen. It was held in the parlors of the City Association building and was the first of these annual receptions which have now become a part of our College life. This Session was marked by great increase of membership. The number having risen to about one hundred from every department of the University. Mr. James K. Unsworth was elected President for the following session. In the fall of 1886, a most successful reception was held in the Peter Redpath Museum, to which, as now, all the Governors, Professors and their families, as well as all students in the University were invited. Two very successful Bible Training Classes we carried on throughout this session. The attendance and interest of the meetings, as well as the membership of the Association steadily increased.

In 1887 the building fund was started, and the students at that time subscribed over $1000. During the past two sessions a thorough and energetic canvass was made of the whole University, the result of which brings the total amount subscribed to about $3,500. The subscriptions of this last canvass are payable before January 1st, 1893.

Many men now filling important positions out in the world, are grateful for the Christian Fellowship, and strength-giving influence which the McGill Y. M. C. A. exerted on their lives and characters while they were undergraduates.

Such is the history of our association. We now look eagerly forward to the time when occupying a building of our own on the College Grounds, we shall be fully equipped to carry on our work of caring for and developing the spiritual life, in the undergraduates of our beloved Alma Mater.

SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF MCGILL UNIVERSITY.

R. MacDOUGALL, B. A.

McGill University was founded by the Hon. James McGill a Montreal merchant, who died in 1813. A few years before his death Mr McGill determined to devote his Estate of Burnside, on the slopes of Mount Royal, and a sum of £10,000 to the establishment of a University, one of the Colleges composing it to be called "McGill College." The charge of carrying on the work was committed to the Royal Institution for the advancement of Learning. In 1829 the College was formally opened in "Burnside House," under the Principalship of Dr. Mountain, with three professors. For many years the Arts Faculty had much to contend against, but the Medical School which was organized the same year, coalesced with the "Montreal Medical Institute," and success was soon assured it.

For ten years the work of instruction was carried on in the rooms of the old Mansion, Burnside House, where the Fraser Institute now stands; but the space soon became too confined, and in 1839 the erection of suitable buildings was commenced on the present site. These consisted of the central building and East Wing without connecting corridor, which were formally opened in 1843. For thirty years the University laboured under difficulties which at times seemed insurmountable. The erection of buildings caused a serious drain on the funds of the University the charter of 1821 was cumbrous and defective, Government support was most meagre, and that private munificence which of late has been the source of her prosperity was then undeveloped. In 1835 Dr. Mountain resigned the Principalship and was succeeded by Dr. Bethune, who after eleven years of office, gave place to E. A. Meredith, afterwards Canadian Minister of the Interior. Principal Meredith was succeeded in 1853 by E. C. Day, LL.D., who was replaced two years later when he became chancellor, by Dr. Dawson, whose firm hand and wise counsel have guided the University in a path of prosperity and renown for thirty-seven years.

In 1850 a crisis was reached in the history of the University when its life reached the lowest ebb. The urgent demand for vigorous action was bravely met. In 1852 an amended charter was secured, all but absolutely essential expenses were cut down, portions of the estate were sold, and a loan of £300 was negotiated. The revenue from the land disposed of, together with a government grant of £1300 relieved the pressure temporarily, but a few years later it was found necessary to make an appeal to the citizens of Montreal, which was liberally met by the subscription of an endowment fund of £15,000. The amended charter, the appointment of Dr. Dawson as Principal in 1855, and the creation of a permanent endowment fund was the dawn of better days for McGill.

In 1861 Wm. Molson, Esq., announced his intention of erecting a new wing to the College, and the next year the Molson Hall and the corridors connecting it, and the East Wing with the Main Building were completed. Since then the advance both in extension of buildings and equipment has been uninterrupted and rapid. At the commencement of Sir Wm. Dawson's connection with the University the number of students on the roll was seventeen; last year they numbered in all departments, nearly one thousand. The library was founded in the same year by the purchase of a small collection of historical works, which were stored on a few plain shelves in Brunswick Hall; it contains now with the legal and medical libraries, some forty-three thousand volumes. When Sir William Dawson inquired respecting the University Museum, the Janitor drew forth a single fossil from an obscure drawer; from this under the care of the Principal, has grown the magnificent collection which the University now possesses. Thirty years ago the University possessed no chemical laboratory and its philosophical apparatus consisted of a few antiquated instruments donated by Dr. Skakel, the equipment now is one of the best on the continent.

In 1863 the Observatory was erected at the side of the Molson Hall. In 1855 Burnside Hall was destroyed and the Museum was without a permanent home until 1881 when Peter Redpath, Esq., erected the magnificent building in which the collections are at present contained.

The main part of the building of the Faculty of Medicine, was erected in 1866. This, however, became too small for the number of students, and a period of stagnation was threatened; but the Leancoil Endowment Fund, the gift of Sir Donald Smith and the Campbell Memorial Fund, made possible the extension of the buildings. The building as it now stands, was opened in 1885 and is one of the most complete structures of its kind on this continent or elsewhere.

In 1878 the department of Applied Science was created a Faculty, it having been before this merely a department of the Faculty of Arts. In 1890 Mr. Thomas Workman died leaving a bequest of $110,000 for the construction of workshops which were completed a year ago. This was followed by Mr. W. C. McDonald's gift including a Technical Building, containing Lecture Rooms, Laboratories, Museum, Library, etc., also a Physics Building both of which will be opened at the beginning of the coming session.

In other directions the developement of the University has been equally rapid. In 1864 Morrin College, Quebec, became part of the University by affiliation, and since then St. Francis College at Richmond, Stanstead Wesleyan College, and the Presbyterian, Methodist, Episcopalian and Congregational Colleges of Montreal, have also been added. In 1884 provision for the higher education of women was permanently made by Sir Donald Smith, in the Donalds Special Course for women which has equal work and privileges with the male classes. A home for the department has been made in the Workman property, lately purchased and presented to the University by the founder of the course.

Within thirty years the University has grown from a small institution, struggling for existence, poorly equipped and weakly supported, into one of the foremost Universities of the continent. To the original Faculties of Arts and Medicine have been added, those of Law, Science and Comparative Medicine, and to the original College have been affiliated seven others in Arts and Theology. It possesses twelve endowed chairs, and about twenty endowed scholarships and exhibitions, besides others of a temporary character, and also ten endowed gold medals.

The great part of this growth has been under the Principalship of Sir William Dawson, and all hope that he may long be spared to guide and direct the University, for which he has already done so much, into even greater prosperity.

UNIVERSITY SOCIETIES.

1. RELIGIOUS.

THE UNIVERSITY YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS.

This Association being the only religious organization for men in the University, deserves the co-operation and support of every student. Its work will be explained by the following extracts from the Constitution :

ART. 2. OBJECT.—The object of this Association shall be to promote growth in grace and Christian fellowship amongst its members, and aggressive Christian work, by and for students ; to train them for Christian service ; and to lead them to devote their lives to Jesus Christ not only in distinctively religious callings, but also in secular pursuits.

ART. 3. MEMBERSHIP.—Section 1. The Active Membership of this Association shall consist of men, either students or members of the faculties of this institution, who are members in good standing of an Evangelical Church. Only active members shall have the right to vote and hold office

SECTION 2.—Any man of good moral character, either student or member of a faculty, may become an Associate Member.

SECTION 3.—The membership fee shall be 50c. per session, payable before the close of the first term, and a member shall continue to be such until he sends in a written resignation, allows his fees to go by default, or be otherwise disqualified.

The Association holds two meetings weekly, one of which takes the form of a Gospel Meeting and the other a Prayer Meeting or Bible Class.

The Social Committee of the Association, at the beginning of the Session, holds a Reception for new students of the University, where those of the different faculties meet and become acquainted with both old and new men. Besides this, Receptions are given at private houses of friends of the Association to smaller groups where they can enjoy a social evening.

The Missionary Committee is one of the most active in the Association. It has the oversight of one of the regular Y.M.C.A. meetings every month. There is also in connection with it a Mission Band composed of 37 students who have volunteered their lives for Foreign Mission Work, this band meets fortnightly to discuss and pray over missionary topics.

The Building Committee has in hand the work of collecting funds sufficient to put our Association in a building of its own, towards this end nearly $4000 has been subscribed, and a site on the grounds has been promised by our Governors. Let every man be prepared to do what he can to establish the Association in a home of its own.

Our membership numbered, during the past session, 219 students, in all.

From the increasing reputation of our Alma Mater, and the consequent increase in the number of students, we anticipate a very active year for our Association, and would urge all students, new and old, to connect themselves actively with us in Christian work, and receive the good that comes from seeking those things that are above.

USEFUL HINTS FOR NEW STUDENTS.

New students are urged to connect themselves with the McGill Y.M.C.A., and share in the advantages which come from its Christian fellowship, by attending the meetings.

Let every man remember that the highest part of his nature is the spiritual.

Information about rooms and board may be had from the university registrar at the office, (see map).

Medical Freshmen are recommended to the tender mercies of "Mr." Cook, whose genial countenance will usually be found awaiting them at the door of the Medical Building. From him aprons, sleeves, college colors, and general information can be obtained.

If you are a stranger in the city get some senior student to help you choose a room, as his experience will be useful.

Do not buy books until you are sure you will need them, and are ready to use them.

COLLEGE COLORS.—Crimson and White.

COLLEGE YELL.—M. C. G. I. L. L., What's the matter with old McGill, she's all right, oh yes, you bet!!!! (grunted.)

Advertisements of second hand books for sale will be found on the bulletin boards.

First year men in Medicine should find out where dissecting material is to be given out and be on hand, as they will thus get to work earlier.

The University Athletic meeting comes off about the middle of October. Intending competitors should start training as soon as possible.

Watch the various bulletins, as notices of importance are constantly being put there.

There are large libraries in both the Arts and Medical buildings from which students may get out books. From those wishing to borrow books, a deposit of five dollars is required, which is refunded when the books are returned.

The Fraser Institute Free Public Library and Reading Room, is on the corner of University and Dorchester Streets. Books may be taken out by depositing three dollars.

Students in Arts and Science are required to wear gowns at all lectures, and also whenever they wish to speak to Deans or Professors about any college matters.

New students are urged to connect themselves with the college societies. By doing this, they will not only derive the benefits which the different societies aim to confer, but will get to know students of other years, and other faculties.

Do not treat the men collecting subscriptions for College societies or other objects as public enemies, but rather lighten their work by subscribing as often and as promptly as you possibly can.

It is the duty of every student to support in every way he can all the athletic interests of the University. As rugby football is our rallying sport every one who plays the game should work unanimously to win back the coveted championship.

If you are in doubt about any matter, do not be afraid to ask a Professor or Senior Student ; they will always be glad to give you any advice or assistance, and it may save you much trouble and annoyance later on to be set right at the beginning of the session.

Before making purchases refer to our advertisements as you will there find where to get anything you need.

For information regarding classes, etc., refer to the University Calendar. The complete Calendar containing information respecting all the Faculties, may be obtained from the Secretary's office, East Wing, Main Building.

Take every opportunity of improving yourself socially ; your studies will not suffer for an occasional evening spent in social intercourse.

The importance of taking good healthy exercise can not be too strongly impressed upon all. Make enquiries and find out what sports are engaged in; then choose what suits you. We would put in a strong plea for the gymnasium, three to five hours spent in it every week will repay any good student. Remember "Mens sana in corpore sano."

THE CITY OF MONTREAL.

The City of Montreal, the commercial metropolis of Canada, is built on an island of the same name, situated at the junction of the rivers Ottawa and St. Lawrence.

The waters of the Ottawa river strike the head of the Island in such a manner as to divide and surround the Island, so that what is known as the St. Lawrence River opposite the City is really divided into two streams; that on the city side being Ottawa water while that on the south side is St. Lawrence. Of course the waters mingle somewhat in the lower part of their course, but, on crossing Lake St. Louis near the head of the Island, one can see distinctly the line of division between the two streams, the water of the St. Lawrence being green while that of the Ottawa is brown.

The Island is about 30 miles long by 10 miles broad.

Montreal was founded on the 8th May, 1642, by Maisonneuve, who gave it the name of Ville-Marie de Montreal, the old Indian village of Hochelaga, described by Jacques Cartier, was situated near the present site of the English Cathedral. On the 8th September, 1760, Montreal was surrendered by the French to the British. During the American War of Independence, Montreal was taken by the Americans under Montgomery, 12th November, 1775, but was retaken by the British on the 15th June, 1776.

Montreal was the seat of government, till in 1849, during the governship of Lord Elgin, Parliament removed to Ottawa then called Bytown. This removal was the result of, among other things, political riots, incited by the signing of "The Dominion Losses Bill," during which the Parliament Buildings were burned and the Governor-General mobbed. British troops were stationed in Montreal till 1870. From 1685 to 1801, Montreal was surrounded by a wall, extending along the site of Fortification Lane from Victoria Square to Dalhousie Square where the Canadian Pacific depot now is, from Victoria Square the walls extended down to the river, about the line of McGill Street. The city then was of triangular shape, the small angle pointing towards the east. At present the City is of triangular shape but the small angle points towards the west.

Behind the City, rising over 700 feet above the level of the St. Lawrence, is Mount Royal, so called by Jacques Cartier in 1535 in honour of the king of France, Francis I. It is under control of the City, being laid out as a beautiful park, covering 430 acres of land.

Opposite the City is the beautiful St. Helen's Island, so called by Champlain in 1611 after his wife. It is laid out as a beautiful park and is under the control of the City. The Government own a piece of land at the lower end of the Island where there is a fort.

The Protestant, Catholic and Hebrew Cemeteries are situated behind the mountain.

The City proper is about $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles long by 2 broad and has with its suburbs, a population of about 260,000, over one-half of whom are French. As for situation, both from the side of the beautiful, and from that of the practical, as regards water supply and distribution of sewage. Montreal can vie with any city in the world.

The Victoria Tubular Bridge spans the St. Lawrence at Montreal, and below Lachine the river is spanned by the beautiful Cantilever Bridge belonging to the Canadian Pacific Railway.
