GERMANS RESENT MUSSOLINI SPEECH

ITALY'S STAND IS INTERPRETED AS WAR THREAT

Premier's Challenge Creates Ill-Feeling In Berlin

GOVT IS SILENT

Move to Recall Italian Envoy Seen as Expression of Distrust

BERLIN, Feb. 8.—There is much perturbation and no little ill-feeling in Germany over the speech delivered Saturday afternoon in the Chamber of Deputies in Rome by Premier Mussolini with regard to an Italian campaign alleged to have been propagated by Germans in the Upper Adige.

Although the German government has made no reply, pending receipt of the text of the speech, the utterances of Mussolini are considered the strongest used by any statesman since the war in a country with which his country is at peace.

Mussolini's address is regarded as having been occasioned by a recent speech of Dr. Held, the militant Bavarian premier, who requested all good Germans to help their fellow countrymen in Southern Tyrol, which was awarded to Italy by the treaty of St. Germain.

Particular attention is being paid to Mussolini's threat after characterizing the alleged German anti-Italian campaign as "nefarious, ridiculous and lying" and suggesting it is necessary to pay with two eyes for the loss of one and with a whole set of teeth for the loss of a single tooth.

A DIRECT THREAT

Also his remark that "Facist Italy can, if necessary, carry further beyond its tri-color, but never lower it" is regarded in some quarters as a direct threat that the Italians may move further into Austrian territory, if such a step should be considered necessary.

Mussolini at the time was referring to the Italian position at the Brenner Pass, which is on the Austro-Italian frontier and is the shortest route from Central Germany into Italy.

The perturbation here has been added to by the receipt of comment from the Italian newspapers, some of which assert that Mussolini's words were almost equivalent to a declaration of war against Germany.

The move to recall the Italian ambassador is interpreted locally as an expression of Italy's distrust of Germany's entry into the League of Nations.

NOT BUGLE CALL OF WAR

ROME, Feb. 8.—Premier Mussolini's speech in the Chamber, Saturday, warning Germany against an anti-Italian campaign, must not be interpreted as a bugle call to a new war, declares Il Messaggero, but as the language of a race which will tolerate no offences.

The new Italy desires peace in Europe, as was shown at Locarno, where she willingly guaranteed the Rhine frontier, the paper continues, but the situation of Locarno does not place her under the necessity of entering provocations without protest or tolerating offences without reaction.

On the other hand, Il Tevere, examining Mussolini's speech, declares "A Word to the Wise is Sufficient," says the pan-Germanist would do well to keep in mind that Mussolini's speech was followed by the singing in the chamber of the Fascist song, the refrain of which is "To Arms."

The Giornale d'Italia says the premier's utterances represent exactly the thought of all Italians, no opposition existing on the ground. The territory as far as Brennero is doubly sacred because it was conquered through sacrifices of blood and because it is the strategic bulwark of the northern frontier.

SEE ADJOURNMENT AFTER THIS WEEK

Speculation on Procedure in Parliament at Ottawa as Week Opens

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.—Today the House of Commons will start what may be the last week before adjournment until March 15. Motion for the address, debate on which was suspended today, will be moved on Saturday for adjournment was under discussion, will be continued when the House assembles. Donald Sutherland, Conservative member for South Oxford, has the floor, and it is understood that he will move an amendment. This, it is said, if this amendment is moved, it will probably be productive of some discussion. Representatives of constituencies in which dairying is carried on to any extent will want to place their views on record, and this may take two or three days. In the event of this amendment being defeated, it is possible that the Conservatives will bring forward another amendment in the form of a straight motion of non-confidence in the government. It is not considered likely that such an amendment would be debated at great length. The ground has been covered already, and it is hardly likely that members will want to go over it again.

HABIT FORMING SERMON TOPIC

Rev. J. S. Bonnell Denounces Present Day Drinking by Young

Boast of Lack of Restraint But Are Warned of Growing Grip
"Habit" was the subject of a striking sermon preached last night in St. Andrew's Kirk to a very large congregation by Rev. J. S. Bonnell. It was his fourth monthly sermon to young men. The speaker struck a clear warning note against some of the dangerous tendencies among the young people of today, mentioning especially the habit of drinking on the part of young men and even young women. It was considered a smart and clever thing to carry a flask. These young people boast of their freedom and lack of restraint but one day they would awake to the realization that they had become slaves of a degrading and degrading habit. They would be as helpless as one slave who to his minister confessed that if he were to be shot for drinking liquor even though he knew that he lay on the other side of that bullet he would still take the drink.

SAINT JOHN, N. B., FEBRUARY 8, 1926.

SAINT JOHN PRIVATEERS.

Mr. C. H. J. Sluder, editor of the Toronto Telegram, who visited Saint John last autumn and contributed a series of instructive articles on Maritime problems to his newspaper, has written for Williams Monthly a striking account of "Saint John Privateers in 1812." He begins with a sketch of the Local Act and its founders and says it is natural that such a community should have taken up wholeheartedly the defence of the Union Jack when it was menaced by the Stars and Stripes. "The part Saint John played in the war of 1812," Mr. Sluder writes, "has been well forgotten in eleven peaceful decades following the conclusion of that last armed conflict between Britain and America. Least remembered, yet perhaps most picturesque of all the episodes of that war, are the adventures of the provincial privateers of New Brunswick, volunteer Sea Scouts and comers who clustered around their country without cost and maintained themselves entirely at their own expense and the expense of the enemy."

The New Brunswick privateersmen were a hardy and daring lot. They harried the New England coast in winter, in weather so bitter that American privateers foresaw the northern trade routes, and sought the solace of the southern seas. Saint John sailors fought American privateers in the Caribbean at odds of five to one. Saint John transport hands, with inviolable orders to help, battled and beat American privateers at the doors of Halifax.

Mr. Sluder gives what he describes as a possibly incomplete list of New Brunswick armed vessels, active as privateers or commissioned as letters of marque during the war of 1812: Sloop General Smyth, Joseph Tidout commander, apparently commissioned 1812; Brig Sir John Sherbrooke, Thos. Robson commander, commissioned Nov. 23, 1812; Sloop Der. John Harris and James Ross successive commanders, commissioned May 18, 1812; Sloop Harp, James Reid and James Godwin successive commanders, commissioned Nov. 29, 1812.

Ship Herald, Charles Simonds commander, commissioned Sept. 11, 1813; Ship Comet, John Edgington commander, apparently commissioned 1812; Schooner Retriever, a Halifax privateer which came to Saint John in 1814. The Smythe, a single-masted vessel no larger than a cruising yacht of today, captured $35,000 worth of enemy property in the first six months of the war. The Dart, which was a small sloop, on one occasion chased an American fleet of twenty vessels, and took prizes even of Boston Light right after the great fighting on the Shannon and the Chesapeake. One of her prizes had a four cargo worth $92,800—both the prevailing price of flour and wheat. The fifty-eight dollars a barrel. The Herald, armed with only two six-pounders, "ten muskets, fourteen boarding pikes and five cutlasses," captured several American prizes, and drove one enemy privateer ashore. The Snap Dragon was a privateer taken from the enemy after it had captured ten British vessels. The Sherbrooke was an armed West Indian man-of-war. This vessel encountered an American privateer near Cuba and a long and desperate battle followed. The Americans came to close quarters and tried to board. They were beaten off three times, and twice their ship was set on fire, but when they seemed beaten the Sherbrooke's captain was shot through the head and, without orders, she became unmanageable and was taken by the enemy.

Those were stirring days indeed hereabouts. Mr. Sluder writes: "Saint John harbor was full of provincial privateers and prize-ships and King's cruisers and captive Yankee plebeians in the War of 1812. Sometimes, when the King's cruisers were away, the American navy would play in the pantry of the province—being the Bay of Fundy—and decour New Brunswick ships. Then there would be a meeting in the Coffee House, and Saint John merchants would find cats of their own and bait traps to destroy the pests. Later the city jail would be full of unwanted prisoners—American privateersmen. Notices of the "Assize of Bread" in the City Gazette, declaring "the sixteen Wheaten Loaf to weigh 1 lb. 1 oz., ditto Rye 1 lb. 11 oz., and other Leaves in Proportion." W. Campbell, Mayor, would be justified by advertisements of one-guinea rewards for the recapture of escaping prisoners of war, and calls for recruits for the naval service."

CIVIC AFFAIRS.

The usual complaint is heard that there is too much apathy with respect to civic affairs, and if the complaint is well founded this condition may be due in some measure to the lack of a definite forward policy in civic affairs. During the next two years Saint John should make very considerable progress in several directions, notably in connection with port development, and if we secure, as we should, the necessary increase in harbor equipment and a favorable adjustment of freight rates, conditions should be more favorable for securing new industries. Our city taxation is heavy, and seems likely to increase, and, like the province, with burdensome overhead charges, we must increase our sources of revenue. The coming city campaign should serve to develop a new spirit of leadership and a programme of objectives. The citizens will respond to sane and progressive leadership, and any candidate for the mayoralty or commission should have definite and valuable ideas as to avenues of advancement for the city, will lack neither a hearing nor a following.

The city at this time needs civic leaders who can see beyond the mere routine of their offices, important as the work of all the departments is. There is need, also, for close and harmonious co-operation between City Hall and the Board of Trade in order that our larger interests may be promoted.

What will the campaign bring forth for Saint John?

Odds and Ends

Wanted to Play Hamlet

(Manitoba Free Press.)
When William H. Crane was young, he had the ambition to play Hamlet. He had a fine voice and a good physique, and he had a good understanding of the play. He had a good understanding of the play, and he had a good understanding of the play. He had a good understanding of the play, and he had a good understanding of the play.

Van Horne's Joy Ride.
According to modern revision of the Decalogue, "joy-riding" is supposed to be one of the minor sins, but it appears that even so august a personage as an ex-traffic president is not immune to the urge to "step on the gas." This, at least, is one inference that can be drawn from one of the brief, human interest stories included by Sir George Bury in the concluding installment, in the February issue, the memoirs which, as published in McLean's Magazine, have aroused such widespread interest.

It still remembers an incident that occurred when I was with Sir William Van Horne on one of his trips after his retirement," writes Sir George. "He loved to fast run and I intended to give him one. The best high-wheeled car we had was picked out, and we were to drive out half way, but we had arranged to have everything clear and never lessened speed, running by the Winnipeg station half a mile.

Sir William was delighted and insisted on shaking hands with the trainmen and engineers, and passed cigars all around."

Waltring The Psalms.
Dr. Rootman has waxed wrathful over the prevalent habit of "waltzing through the psalms." Singing is certainly not the word for the frenzied screeching in which choir and congregation too often indulges. It would surely shock David, that cunning musician, to hear his handiwork so abused. But the trouble is no new one; it was known to the Merry Wives. They do no more adhere and keep place together," said Mistress Ford, "than the hundredth psalm to the tune of Green Sleeves." The rubric makes a nice distinction between "quizzes" and "places where they sing," but says nothing of places where they accompany. Much has been done of late to enlighten and modernize church services, but waltzing through the psalms hardly one of the more sensible contributions to the Brighter Sunday movement. The principle might in some instances be applied with better success to other portions of the service. If they slowed down the psalms and speeded up the sermon it might be no bad thing.

How Customs Grow.
(Vancouver Sun.)
Piled high with bowls of rich Chinese foods, 412 coffins pulled out of the freight yards at Chicago last week, bound for a final resting place in the native soil of China. It was explained to interested reporters that the bodies were being placed together these dead Chinese no longer had relatives in this country to pile food on their graves and thus provide food for their souls. In China reverent hands will continue to keep the graves loaded with food and the spirits well fed.

A thousand years ago, when this custom originated, lepers thronged left for them in the graveyards, they stayed in the graveyards. If this was neglected, they came down into the towns.

CUSTOMER: I'd like very much to try on that blue serge suit in the window. May I?
Tailor: I'm afraid not, sir. You'll have to use the dressing room.—Til-Bits.

WHY OF COURSE.
YOUNG WIFE (with hair found on husband's coat): George, what does this mean?
George: Don't worry about that, dear. It's far too long to be a woman's.—Til-Bits.

Dinner Stories

WHILE building a house, a Connecticut man had occasion to employ a carpenter. One of the applicants was a plain Connecticut Yankee, without any frills. "You thoroughly understand carpentry?" asked the employer. "Yes, sir." "You can make doors, windows and blinds?" "Oh, yes, sir." "How would you make a Venetian blind?" The man scratched his head and thought deeply for a few seconds. "I should think, sir," he said finally, "about the best way would be to punch him in the eye."

A NEGRO servant, on being ordered to announce visitors to a dinner party, was directed to call out in a loud, distinct voice their names. The first to arrive was the Fitzgeralds, numbering eight persons. The negro announced Major Fitzgerald, Miss Fitzgerald, Master Fitzgerald, and so on.

This so annoyed the master that he went to the negro and said, "Don't announce each person like that; say something shorter." The next to arrive were Mr. and Mrs. Penny and their daughter. The negro solemnly opened the door and called out, "Three Cents!"

Poems That Live

LAST LINES.

No coward soul is mine,
No trembler in the world's storm-troubled sphere,
No fabled visions shine,
And faith shines equal, arming me from fear.

O God within my breast,
Almighty, ever-present Deity!
Life—that in me has rest,
As I—unfading Life—have power in Thee!

Vain are the thousand creeds
That move men's hearts; unutterably vain;
Worthless as wilder's weeds,
Or idlest froth amid the boundless main;

To waken doubt in one
Holding so fast by Thine infinity;
So surely anchored on
The steadfast rock of immortality.

With wide-embracing love
Thy Spirit animates eternal years,
Permeates and broods above,
Changes, sustains, dissolves, creates, and rears.

Though earth and man were gone,
And suns and universes cease to be,
And Thou wert left alone,
Every existence would exist in Thee.

There is not room for Death,
Nor room that Thine might render void;
Thou—Thou art—Thou art
And Thou art may never be destroyed.

The Best of Advice

BY CLARK KINNABIRD

THE BEST OF HUMAN FRUIT
GOETHE made the remark that nothing is more significant of a man's character than what they find laughable.

This is true because, as Hazlitt observes, man is the only animal that is what things are and what they ought to be.

The sources of laughter and tears come very close together. At the difference between things as they are and as they ought to be, it is the sight of life incongruities, is moved by laughter, the FEELING half to tears.

"To explain the nature of laughter and tears it is to account for the condition of human life," Hazlitt wrote, "and no philosophy has as yet succeeded in accounting for the condition of human life."

It is sufficient to know that laughter is the best of human fruit, purely human, and sane, and comforting.

REZA KHAN PHELIV.
RAISED to the ancient throne of Darius a few months ago by unanimous consent, Reza Khan Pehliv, shah of Persia, is now busily straightening out his country's financial and domestic and international affairs. In this latter he has the assistance of American experts.

This ruler of the once mighty Persia, a few years ago was an obscure, uneducated soldier, today he sits on a marble throne in a palace. At the coronation ceremonies he rode in a gold coach.

Reza Khan began his sensational career as a private in a Russian Cossack regiment stationed in Persia. He became very popular with the soldiers and his superiors. That was the reason he succeeded in keeping together a handful of men after the Russian Government collapsed and his regiment was disbanded.

In February, 1921, backed by loyal soldiers, Reza Khan overthrew the shah and made himself minister of war. In 1923 he discarded the civilian cabinet and by means of a second coup d'etat assumed the premiership.

Reza Khan is a man of great energy and determination. He has a strong sense of duty and a high sense of responsibility. He is a man of great courage and a high sense of honor.

KEEP TO THE FARMS.

(Saskatoon Star.)
Since most of the immigration is to the land, it follows that there has been a drift from farm to city. Nothing can check this except an improvement in the economic status of farming as an industry. This should be the first concern of all Canadian public men. Neglect of farming for the sake of encouraging manufacturers will be a fatal error.

DIFFERENT ROADS, SAME END.
(Toronto Mail and Empire.)
English-speaking Canadians are not as quick and as ardent in their feelings on some of the matters touched by politics as are their French-Canadian fellow citizens. The latter are entitled to their own way of proceeding towards the same goal as English-speaking Canadians approach. National objects as dear to the one race as to the other can be attained, sometimes by diverse rather than uniform methods.

MOMENTS OF WEAKNESS.
(Vancouver Province.)
An Ontario pastor recently denounced the new five-cent coin as "one of the devil's agencies." "People in moments of weakness," he declares, "are often led to place them on collection plates in churches because of the resemblance they bear to quarters. Fourteen of them were dropped in the collection plate at one service."

TEMPESTUOUS FLORIDA
(Ottawa Citizen.)
One of the most surprising items of news which has appeared lately is that of Florida being in the grip of terrific storms. Anyone whose knowledge of Florida is based chiefly on what the advertisements say will read the news with incredulity. Florida, we thought, was a sort of Arctid where storms were as remote as snowflakes.

TO STUDY COST OF FUNERALS.
(New York Times.)
After the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has spent $25,000 investigating the cost of funerals it has discovered only what everybody knows already—funerals are expensive things and that often more money is spent on them than the relatives or friends of the deceased can afford.

It is highly desirable, however, to know just how much profit is made when what can be called the paraphernalia of death, and information on that point, besides being startling, may have some effect in the way of rendering people more sensible in the manifestation of sorrow and respect in that particular way. Nobody likes to haggle in making arrangements for a funeral, and that fact, undoubtedly, is ruthlessly exploited in many, many cases. And extravagance in funerals, curiously enough, is more marked among the poor than among the rich.

A PLEASANT HINT.
A business man was worried at the insolence of his clerks manifested when he was not being watched. He did not want to reprimand him directly, so he said to him one day: "Mr. Black, if Mr. Wallace calls today, please tell him that I am out." "Very well, sir," the clerk said. "And Mr. Black," the business man continued, "don't be working, or he'll know it isn't true."

Dorothy Dix

Before Picking a Husband, Be Sure the Prospect is a Self- Starter—Watch His Disposition, Take Note of His Attitude Toward Women, and Don't Fail to Get His Views on Dividing Family Income.

A YOUNG woman asks: "What characteristics should a young man have to prove that he will make a good husband?"

DOROTHY DIX.

There are no definite number of points by which you can judge a prize husband as you can a blue-ribbon dog or a pedigreed milk cow, daughter. You can't even measure a man up against the standardized virtues and say that he will make a good husband because he is a good son or because he is sober and moral and thrifty.

SOME of the most aggravating husbands in the world are the good work, or who always remain tied to mother's apron strings and who are so much sons that they forget to be husbands. Also there are men who live up to the strict letter of the moral law, who are pillars in the church and pointed out as examples for youth to follow, who are so cold and hard and stingy to their wives and who are so surly and grouchy in their homes that they are worse husbands than any warm-hearted, affectionate, generous drunkard or rounder.

All signs fail in dry weather and in picking out husbands. The only way you can really find out what sort of a husband a man will make is to marry him, and then your knowledge comes too late to do you any good.

BUT if I were a young girl picking out a husband I would pay particular attention to the following earmarks:

First, I would observe whether the young man was a self-starter or not.

I WOULD note the amount of energy he developed. I would keep tab on the number of jobs he had and ascertain whether he was one of those who had the grit to stick to a thing after it ceased to be play and became work, or whether he was one of those always on the lookout for some occupation that called for no labor in return for a fat pay envelope.

A man does not need to be making a big salary to make him a desirable husband, but he must be on his way. He must have got a start and be able to show that he is a go-getter, who can at least support a family. There is small chance for happiness in a debt-ridden home, and no woman stays long in love with a man who is lazy and shiftless.

NEXT, I should pay particular attention to his disposition, because that is a thing that I would have to live with day in and day out, and it is the thing that makes or mars the happiness of a man's wife.

If he was conceited and vain and required to be flattered and jollied all the time, I should reflect that I would get very weary of spreading the salt for the next thirty or forty years. If he was grouchy and I had to handle him with gloves and walk on eggs to keep from offending him, I should conclude that the game wasn't worth the candle, besides which I had no particular talent for acrobatic stunts.

If he was suspicious and jealous and grew green-eyed every time I was decently civil to a man friend and kept me apologizing for offenses I had never committed, I should decline to commit myself to a perpetual matrimonial diet of humble pie.

IF HE was violent tempered and went into rages in which he said insulting things to me, I would refuse to jeopardize my happiness by undertaking to live with one who would keep me in trembling fear of offending him. But if the man was good-natured and cheerful and optimistic; if he met life with a smile instead of a scowl; if he had plenty of good, hard, practical sense and was willing to give and take, then I would hurry with him to the altar.

Next, I would observe the man's attitude toward women. I should not be misled by any glib-tongued youth telling me that I was an angel and different from my sex. I should recognize that for the blab it is. What I should observe would be whether he always spoke of women with contempt and pool-pooched their opinions and generally assumed a back-to-the-barn attitude toward them.

IF HE did, I should know that as soon as I belonged to him I would become nothing more than a slave, and that when my youth and beauty faded he would consider himself perfectly justified in seeking a companion bestow such a favor on me when he married me that I could never repay him, no matter how hard I worked, and he would never think it worth his while to hand me a compliment or show me any little attention or even say "Thank you" for any sacrifice I made for him.

BUT if the man was gentle and tender to all women; if he went out of his way to do a kindness to a poor old frowzy scrubwoman; if he gave his seat to a tired shop girl on the cars; if he was as polite to old women as to young women, and as courteous to his chairmen as to his hostess at a ball, then I should know that his chivalry would extend to his own wife and that she would be a lucky woman.

FINALLY, I should observe how he spends his money, for I should not want to be the wife of a waster or a tightwad. Both spell misery to me, and before I married any man I should get his views definitely as to whether a wife is to share fifty-fifty in her husband's income or have nickels doled out to her.

If the man believed that the husband should have a monopoly on the purse strings, I would say "Nay, nay," for I should not knowingly qualify for the role of a domestic mendicant, but if the man believed that a wife is entitled to her own individual money, I should conclude that he was making me a fair offer of partnership and I would make haste to sign the contract.

THESE are certain signs and portents of a good husband. There are others, but these are the most important. DOROTHY DIX.

HELPFUL HOUSEHOLD HINTS

It is the regular, everyday care that tells in growing house plants. The light they receive, the sun, the position in the room, whether near a radiator or in a draft, whenever a door opens. All these are factors in your success or your failure. Ferns naturally love moisture, and must be kept well watered. They will not thrive if allowed to get home dry. A good way to test a fern and to know when it needs water is to make a habit of taking the water pitched every morning when you clear off the breakfast table and putting your fingers into the soil. If wet, don't give it any water; if just moist give it about a glass full; if real dry, give it plenty. Let the first glassful soak in and then give it some more. If it has been baked hard you will probably have to grow a new top to it.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

THE STARCH BOX BOAT When poor Mister Havalook of Hidy Go Land got all his laundry back Calamity Jane shouted out: "Now it's my turn. I'm shivering my new eyes out nearly. I'm so chilly without any clothes." "Very well," said the little fairy-man. "I shall be yours, whatever you find." But as it happened, it was Calamity herself who got the next pull on her fishing line, and a lovely lace mat came out of the laundry pool. "That's an antimacassar!" sang out Raggedy Ann. "You pin them on parlor chairs. But it would make a lovely wedding veil. What has it got on it?" And the dolls crowded around to see what was embroidered on Calamity's new treasure. "It's a horse," said Nancy. "A horse with a man on his back. And there are birds in the corners. You'll look very grand in it, Calamity." "I'll have to find a husband first," sighed Calamity, "before I can have a wedding." Suddenly Miss Tootsie Bobb gave a shriek. "I've just lost my intended husband," she cried. "The Tin Soldier just fell into the soapuds. Now all his new paint will come off again and he'll lose his nice purple plump hat with the yellow cockade. Oh, dear! Please save him, somebody!" "We'll fish for him," said poor Mister Havalook, throwing in his line. "Everybody commence at once." They all sat down again and dropped the bent pins (which they used for fishhooks) into the water, and in about half a minute up came the Tin Soldier. Poor Mister Havalook had caught him. "Hurrah!" cried the dolls. "The Tin Soldier is saved." "No, he ain't," said poor Mister Havalook, "because he's got the Tin Soldier over the edge of the pool. I'll dump him back in again if he doesn't promise me something." At this everybody looked astonished. For poor meek Mister Havalook, who was always in trouble, to speak up with so much spunk, was an unheard of thing. They waited to see what would happen next. "I'll promise anything," cried the Tin Soldier, "if you'll just take your hook out of my back. It's killing me." "Then promise that you won't let a revolution happen in Hidy Go Land," said poor Mister Havalook. "A word from you will settle everything." "I promise," said the Tin Soldier. "I'll lead the army the other direction if they start to revolt. Oh, do take this pin out of my neck Oh! Ouch!" "Certainly," said poor Mister Havalook. "I feel much safer now. And back and there isn't going to be a revolution, let's all go home." And so saying, he set the Tin Soldier on his feet and loosened the fishhook from his neck. The Tin Soldier fell stiffly into Miss Bobb's waiting arms and the whole affair ended happily. "I say let's go back in a boat," said Sailor Sam. "Yes, let's," said Nancy, who was tired of fishing. "But where's the boat," said Nick. At that minute a large starch box came floating down the drain and

With The Women of Today WITH the exception of Queen Wilhelmina herself, no woman's personality in Holland has stood so prominently in the last 40 years as Dr. Aletta Jacobs. Since 1879 she began her practice as physician for women and children, and in 1882 opened a clinic for poor women to advise them in matters of birth control. Hers was the first clinic for this purpose in the world. In 1888 she petitioned the government to be enlisted as a voter, but was refused, so she started agitation to obtain suffrage for women. Twenty-eight years later, in 1911, Dr. Jacobs gave up her medical practice and toured the world with Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt to study women's position in different countries and to organize suffrage societies in South America, British India, Java, Sumatra, China, Japan and the Philippines. Since 1912 she devoted all of her time to the woman movement in her own country. She sent out a call for the international congress of women at the Hague in 1915, and accompanied Miss Jane Addams to different belligerent governments to present the resolutions of that congress and to ask the advice of these governments about the advisability of a meditation of peace from a neutral government. She visited President Wilson in the United States for the same purpose. She came again to this country as a delegate to the fourth biennial international congress held in 1924. Dr. Jacobs is now 72 years old. She has traveled thousands of miles, addressed innumerable conventions and has lived to see woman gain a good deal of the sex equality for which she has worked. She wonders now if the modern young women appreciate their changed position in the world.

MONTCALM HAS GOOD VOYAGE

Arrives at Saint John With 602 Passengers, Freight and Mail.

Escapes Atlantic Storm and Makes Good Time—Coal Man Arrives

Having practically entirely escaped the terrific storms which raged over the Atlantic ocean during the past week, the large Canadian Pacific steamship Montcalm reached port yesterday afternoon at 12:45 o'clock and docked at No. 2 and 3 berths, Sand Point. She came from Liverpool via Belfast and Greenock and brought a total of 602 passengers, 130 cabin and 472 third-class, in addition to 2,000 tons of general cargo and over 2,500 bags and packages of mail and parcel post.

Among the cabin passengers were a large number of returning Canadians, some who had been in the Old Country visiting relatives and friends and others who had been to the British Isles on business. The third-class comprised a fine looking lot of immigrants who have come to Canada seeking a livelihood and are mostly destined for points in the west.

The passengers were sent forward to their destinations in three special trains, the first leaving West Saint John at 4 o'clock, the second at 5:30 and the third at 6 o'clock. There were several unaccompanied children who were taken care of by officials and placed on board the special trains and sent forward to their destinations in Canada and the United States.

Smoke

The flames did not enter our premises during the disastrous fire that visited our section of Union street recently, but nevertheless certain portions of our stock were damaged more or less by Water and Smoke. With the majority of the stock the damage was slight, but enough that it could not be sold under our standard of first class merchandise. Consequently this merchandise is being offered to the public at ridiculous prices in order to make a final clearance.

Water

It was a pretty close call, in fact the closest we have ever had during all the many years we have been doing business on Union street. We consider ourselves lucky that the fire did not get into our building and we want to state emphatically that none of our stock was actually damaged by fire. Our losses were from smoke and water only.

New York Dry Agents Arrest Proprietor of Factory

Fifty Thousand Gallons of Alcohol Taken in Another Part of City

New York, Feb. 8.—Two thousand and four hundred pounds of chocolate bonbons loaded to the muzzle with whiskey were seized in two raids by prohibition agents in rooms in Broadway and West Broadway...

FACTORY OWNER ARRESTED. A. J. White was arrested as the owner of the candy factory. William Sanders, a negro, was arrested with him.

Before the agents revealed their identity one of them purchased 20 of the one-pound tins of chocolates from White in the Broadway place. The arrests were then made, and the candy was packed in the factory.

THE alcohol in barrels and five-gallon cans was removed to a storage warehouse. According to the agents, it was redistilled denatured alcohol, manufactured in liquor. There were 50,000 gallons.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(Opening)—Wall Street's first reaction to the announcement that stock and bond loans of members of the New York Stock Exchange, as of January 31, exceeded $1,000,000,000 was a downward movement of stock prices at the opening of today's market. The reaction was an orderly one, however, initial losses in most of the popular shares being held to fractions.

NEW MOVE IS MADE IN PICTURE WORLD

American Cinema Association Fined For Handling Films—Stand Against 'Sex' Pictures

DETROIT, Feb. 8.—The movie-going public is sick and tired of "sex" pictures and wants old fashioned melodrama, with plenty of comedy relief and the whole "clean as a whistle," according to the united opinion of producers, distributors and exhibitors meeting here for the formation of the American Cinema Association, an organization for the handling of pictures from their inception to their exhibition.

Officers of the association, in addition to Mr. Wolfe, vice president; Adam J. Blake, secretary, and Edward Leszczynski, treasurer, all of Detroit.

Executive officers will be in Detroit with general offices in New York and a business office in Los Angeles. The studio of the David Hartford Productions, Inc., in Detroit, will be maintained in Hollywood.

N. Y. Comment On Coal Situation

Once again the coal conference has suffered shipwreck. But this time an appreciable gain has been made. In behalf of the miners, Mr. Lewis proposed a continuous fact-finding commission empowered to assemble all pertinent data as to "profits and wages."

Ultimate responsibility for the strike, in this crisis the operators have proposed the only feasible recourse, arbitration. In the interest of peace and productivity, they abandon the legal right to do as they will with their own.

FIND RUNAWAY SON AFTER NINE YEARS

Rabbi and Mrs. Jacob Gelerinter Locate Him in Philippines By Fingerprints

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—The successful termination of a nine-year search for their son, Astor, was made known by Rabbi and Mrs. Jacob Gelerinter of 650 Vermont avenue, Brooklyn. The rabbi officiates at the Congregation of the Glory of Israel at Pennsylvania and Blake avenues in the Brownsville district.

Again the track was lost, but once more it was picked up after advertising and radioed appeals. Mrs. Gelerinter found a comrade of her son in a hospital in Rockford, Ill. He told her Astor had re-entrained under the name of Howard Burke last July for service in the Philippines.

There follows an anxious period. Then the records of the War Department at Washington were consulted. They showed that the fingerprints of "Howard Cohen" and those of "Howard Burke" were the same. In a short time Mrs. Gelerinter obtained the address of her son. She wrote. A few days ago a cable came.

"I am very happy," Mrs. Gelerinter said, "now that I know where my boy is." She did not tell her son's plans. He is the eldest of five children, four boys and a girl.

These orders will give employment to many men and do much to improve industrial conditions throughout the country.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—The annual financial statement of Canada Cement Company, Limited, for the year ended December 31, 1925, reveals no very striking changes from its operations of the past years. Income after depreciation is shown at the highest figure since the company was organized in 1924.

Maine Man Asserts He Made and Used Aeroplane Five Years Before Wrights

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Alexander V. Wilson of Bar Harbor, Me., is in Washington awaiting the return of Representative Morin, chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs, in the hope of being given a hearing before that committee with reference to government regulation of airways. Interest in Mr. Wilson's views on air navigation arose from his statement that he made a balloon ascension in 1899, made the first of many drops in a parachute of his own construction at Crawfordville, Iowa, in 1873; was associated with Professor S. P. Langley and made a flight in a heavier-than-air plane of his own construction at Bar Harbor as far back as 1903, which was five years before the Wright brothers began their aeroplane tests for the army at Fort Myer, Va. Mr. Wilson said that in 1903 he had filed an application for a patent on his machine and is now about to file

FOR sixty-four years "East Lyne" has been regarded as the greatest play ever written. Its drama, its heart interest and its pathos have swayed audiences to tears in every country on the globe and in every tongue. Your mothers and your grandmothers have seen it, time and again, and have been held in its spell. It is without peer in the world of melodrama. There is hardly a soul who has not seen it and been thrilled. More money has passed through the box-offices for this play than any other on record. The great William Fox motion picture version of "East Lyne" is a worthy successor to this stage masterpiece.

QUERIES ABOUT MAINTENANCE OF STREET LIGHTS

M. A. Pooler, as Tax Payer, Writes Letter to Acting Mayor

LETTER REFERRED TO COMMISSION Prince William Street Property Valuation is Reported On.

A request for information in regard to charges for maintenance of the street lighting system was presented to the City Council this morning by the New Brunswick Power Company and referred to the Civic Power Commission for a reply. The council met this morning in committee of the whole and dealt with routine matters.

MR. POOLER WRITES In connection with the request for information about the street light charges the following letter was read: Jas. H. Frink Esq., Acting Mayor, City.

Dear Sir—As a matter of information to which, as a taxpayer, I assume I am entitled, I would like to be advised as to whether or not the amount of $3,001.83 for street lighting appearing in the report of the city expenditures in yesterday's Times, includes the maintenance of the street lighting system. I should also like to be advised as to what operating account the maintenance of the street lighting system is charged.

In the report of the accountant secretary of the Power Commission, which was published on January 28, no charge is shown for operating or maintenance of the street lighting system. This of course would be an operating expenditure and would probably amount to $20,000 or $10,000 per year. When the New Brunswick Power Company was lighting the streets there as at present, and it cost the Power Company about $7,000 per year to maintain the street lighting system and renew lamps.

It is possible that the commission is charging this expense to capital account which, of course, is wrong, or it may be charging it against the maintenance renewal fund. If so then this fund or reserve, which is supposed to be accumulated to take care of future depreciation, must be pretty well depleted.

I trust that I am not asking for any information to which any taxpayer is not entitled. Yours very truly, NEW BRUNSWICK POWER CO. (Sgd.) M. A. POOLER, General Manager.

It was moved by Commissioner Hardin that the letter be referred to the Civic Power Commission for a reply and this was adopted without discussion or division.

Acting Mayor Frink reported that he had engaged the services of W. B. McKenzie of Moncton to value the property of Messrs. Oty and Morrissey, Prince William street, and had received the report of Mr. McKenzie. He moved the report be handed on to the chairman of the Board of Assessors for study and consideration, in view of any recommendation from the council at the present time. This carried.

The department of public works was authorized to call tenders for 850 tons of asphalt, specifications and time of delivery to be under the direction of the commissioner and road engineer. Dr. Frink said he was asking authority to call for tenders now as there seemed to be a feeling that later in the season asphalt would be higher. Last year the price paid was $27.95 a ton. On motion of Commissioner Hardin the leases in the market building were renewed for another year. There are no changes among tenants in the building this year the commissioner said.

On motion of Commissioner Hardin, H. C. Mott, architect for the west side city hall renovation, was ordered paid $1,000 on account.

THE VOGUE OF SKIS. The plethoric of snow this winter has extended the vogue for outdoor recreation to the realm of skis, so much so that every night since the late snowfall, popular roving teams from the city and especially in the vicinity of Rockwood Park are vocal with the merry chatter of sking parties. Girls are becoming quite as adept on the long runners as boys and some of the readiest learners are essaying high jumps, and long hikes through wooded sections where tracks are unbroken. The other night a party of skiers sped from the park over the Rockland Road thoroughfare to the sidewalks of Main street before they took off their wooden blades.

Local Sets Bring Fine Programs Sunday After Month

Sir George E. Foster Demonstrates His Aptness in Re-partee at Boston Meeting

Much to the delight of radio fans reception on all sets so far reported to date, was excellent last night. Some enthusiasts said it was the best radio of the season and coming after a mysterious lapse of more than a month, the programs were doubly welcomed. A great variety of entertainment was drawn from the air from the middle of the afternoon with a delightful program and included addresses by notable preachers including the Bishop of Wyoming who was speaking in New York; Sir George E. Foster, of Canada, who was conducting a forum in Ford Hall, besides being one of his masterly efforts on the subject "Canada Within the Empire," which was ably seconded by the usual questioning and answering characteristic of these forum meetings that must have been interesting to the thousands of Canadian listeners-in. Among the questions addressed to the speaker were: "What would happen if British authority in South Africa if the blacks were enfranchised? Is it not true that the Ontario hydro enterprise is very much involved financially? Don't you think Sir George, it is in poor taste for you to come here and tell us what a wonderful country Canada is; why some day we might take our big navy and our great army and cross over and capture that country?"

As could be imagined by the Saint John people who know Sir George's scholarly attainments and knowledge of the Empire in detail, his replies to these queries were prompt and decisive. He elicited much admiration and approval by suggesting that the inquiry about Ontario hydro might be interested more in shares of some kind of power stock than the merits of the case as a public utility and to the young annexation of Canada Sir George replied with a smile in his voice: "All I can say to this question is: 'Just you try it.' The Nitro sally drew thunders of applause, evidently from a Canadian-American audience.
