THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

The election of Grover Cleveland to the high position of President of the United States was probably no surprise to people on this side of the line, nor was it any to the people of the neighboring Republic, as the indications for a long time past have pointed very decidedly to a democratic victory. Cleveland has defeated Harrison in a very decisive manner, having carried all the States which were considered doubtful, such as Illinois, Indiana and New York, which at the last election was carried by the Republicans.

The coming into power of a democratic president naturally creates a feeling in Canada that some of the barriers which stand in the way of our trade relations with the United States may be removed. It is certain that the result of the recent election means the defeat of the McKinley tariff bill—and not any too soon—after its adoption the people of the United States were not long in seeing that such a policy was carrying them on to destruction. This is the second time its people have pronounced against the McKinley bill. The election for the National House of Representatives resulted in the election of a large democratic majority. A great many Canadians who desire to shut out the importation of foreign goods, and at the same time very desirous of having a high tariff policy in Canada. What the result of the democratic coming into power may be, is, of course, hard to say, from the fact that some time may elapse before there is a democratic senate, but it is quite probable that the senate will consider the popular voice so decidedly expressed, and will not too obstinately oppose tariff reform. An exchange referring to the matter says: "The language uttered yesterday in Boston by Henry Cabot Lodge, and telegraphed to this journal, is significant. Mr. Lodge is in the House of Representatives and he hopes to get into the Senate. Although he has supported the high tariff he announces that he recognizes the meaning of the popular voice. Should there be a reduction in the United States tariff there will have to be a reduction in the Canadian tariff. We have seen that in the case of the sugar duties. The Canadian government, despite its declaration of belief in the merit of high tariffs, speedily reduced its sugar duties after the United States had taken the step. The pretension of the Canadian administration was that it was resting under a compulsion from which it could not escape. We may, therefore, expect a reduction of tariff in Canada as a consequence of the work of the election in the neighboring republic."

ALFRED TENNYSON.

Not in the present century has a poet died who has been and will continue to be more generally and sincerely mourned than Alfred Tennyson, the reason being that his genius was of that broad nature which appeals to humanity in all its moods and phases. Perhaps the verdict of time will not agree to place Tennyson in the very first rank of poets, though that is not certain, but he will undoubtedly be classed in the future, as the great exponent of pure sentiment and healthy natural, human emotion. As has been well said of him, it may be that others have spoken words which so keenly knock at the hearts of the men and women of his time.

Much of Tennyson's poetry is so familiar to English-speaking people that criticism would seem an impertinence. It is hard to conceive of an intelligent American or English man or woman who is not familiar with his "Locksley Hall," "Enoch Arden," and "Princess; also "The Charge of the Light Brigade," "The May Queen," "Mand" and "The Brook," all of which are household words wherever the language is read or spoken.

This much, however, we may say, not so much to criticize as to add a leaf to the laurel wreath which must rest upon his tomb in Westminster Abbey, that Tennyson has endeared himself to all hearts, not because he was a skillful ## manipulator of words and a master of the use of the greatest language the world has ever seen, but because he had a heart and soul attuned to the music which he knew so well how to put into verbal form. He was possessed in a marked degree of two elements which mark the true poet, intellectual delicacy and sensitiveness and emotional and sympathetic. He saw into and through humanity because of his own perfection of sympathy with everything human and because his perceptive faculties were finer and keener than those of most men. He was essentially the poet of humanity.

We need give ourselves no concern for Tennyson's fame. The future will take care of that. We mourn the poet even though he had rounded out his four score years, but his best and loveliest thoughts will live, and will live as long as the world shall endure. He had richly earned intellectual immortality, and no one can take it from him even were envy and jealousy so disposed.

Mr. J. DeVoe Neales after unsuccessfully playing his cards for nomination both for and against the government in the late election, has succeeded on the strength of his being County Master of the Orange order in Queens County in securing a nomination, and will oppose Mr. Blair in that constituency on the 22nd. The voters of Queens, it is to be hoped, will not be so easily gulled by the contemptible circulars, used by Mr. Pitts and his party, as were the people of this county. There is every reason to believe that the same influences will be brought to bear in Queens. The fact that Mr. Neales has been so very silly of late, and really did not know what side of politics he was on, can hardly be expected to make him very strong. As far as can be learned the opposition party in Queens objected to putting up a candidate against Mr. Blair, the nomination of Mr. Neales being practically secured by Mr. Pitts, Wm. Rasmussen, Wm. Anderson, and a few more of Mr. Pitts' staunch supporters, who drew down on Tuesday last for that purpose. Mr. Neales' reputation as a politician is not the best in the world, and apparently Mr. Blair will receive a large majority on the 22nd.

The pure and independent orange and temperance representative of York has apparently forgotten all his purity and independence, and is not satisfied with the contemptible canvasses he used in York to secure his election, but has been paying a visit to Queens for the purpose of reporting the same thing in that county. He partly denied sending out the two last circulars, used in the election in this county, on declaration day, when charged by Mr. Blair as doing so, but is now taking the credit of it upon himself and says "he is proud of those little sheets." There is no doubt but that the orange and temperance societies should feel proud of Mr. Pitts as their representative; but there is a question whether they do or not, with the odds in favour of the nays.

St. John Election.

The prospects are that Mr. George Robertson, the conservative candidate in St. John, will be returned on nomination day without any opposition. The Liberals have not, up to this time, shown any desire to put forward a candidate, and in this we think they are wise. There is nothing to gain by an election at the present time, for even should the Liberals succeed in returning their candidate it would not in any way affect the standing of the government, who are strongly entrenched in power. This is not to be taken, however, as an indication that the people of St. John are in favor of the Dominion Government and their policy. We believe that if a general election should take place today the result would be decidedly against it. The people of St. John, and we believe, of the Maritime Provinces, are opposed to the Tory policy of trade restriction. The wisest course for the liberal party in St. John to pursue in the present election will be to allow the present candidate to be returned without a contest and reserve their forces for future and more urgent requirements.

LONDON'S LORD MAYOR.

Mr. Gladstone Does Not Attend His Banquet. LONDON, Nov. 10.—As was expected, Mr. Gladstone, Lord Roseberry and other ministers did not attend the lord mayor's banquet last night, and speeches made by representatives of government, were conspicuous for the absence of the important information that is usually imparted by the government's representatives to the lord mayor's banquet.

The case to the minister was responded to by the Earl of Kimberley, lord president of the council and secretary of the state for India.

His excuse for the absence of Mr. Gladstone and other members of the cabinet, was received with derisive exclamations of "Oh."

In referring to English relations with Russia, Lord Kimberley said: "The Pashia question was in a fair way of settlement."

Rev. W. W. Lodge preached an able sermon to the congregations in the Methodist church at Mayville on Sunday last. A large number of the congregations of this city and St. Mary's attended.

CORONERS, S. C. Nov. 10.—Details of an election affray at Holden's store precinct, Anderson county, Tuesday, show three men killed and several wounded. All whites; it grew out of a political dispute.

Running Comments on Passing Events.

Sundry Ebulitions in Prose and Rhyme.

How the Democratic, Social and Literary World is Weighing.

One of the leading stamp-collectors of today is Mr. J. R. Moxon, of Montreal. His investments in this hobby are said to be upwards of £40,000.

It is stated that the Lord Chancellor was a set, long sailing wren south for the Grand, of which he alone is the official custodian.

Said a dandy orator: "De deep sea obidivious, deah brodders, is Elid vid de remains ob ambitious men, who, havin' reached de top ob de ladder ob fame, tried to climb a little higher an fell over."

Mary Anderson was once crossing the Pacific, and to pass the time athletic sports were organized on board—sack-racing for the men, and for the ladies an egg race (or running with an egg in a spoon). The captain promised a bouquet to the lady winning. Mary won, and the purser, with some escort, brought in a lovely red-gown lampet; but the low murmur of admiration was soon followed by great surprise and laughter upon discovering that the bouquet was only a single egg, which was held in a silver salver belonging to the ship.

A rural debating society has up for discussion, "Which is the more happy—the boy with his best pair of trousers, or the girl with her first love letter?"

The girl, of course. The boy doesn't get a single burning kiss on his first pair of trousers.

An amusing fact in connection with the famous composer, Sir Arthur Sullivan, is not generally known, that his full name is Arthur Seymour Sullivan, but the unfortunate conjunction of the initials rendered necessary the dropping of one of them. His initials are now A. S., whereas they were formerly A. S. S.

It is not generally known that the value of china at Buckingham Palace and in the private apartments at Windsor considerably exceeds £200,000. In the corridor of the castle there is a hall cabinet containing three unique Rosetti Bari cases, which were valued not long ago at £20,000, while near at hand is another cabinet, containing three vases, respectively of Sevres, Worcester, and Crown Derby, which are valued at £3,000.

No scientific body in the United States has so many millionaires as the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. At the top of the list is Alexander Graham Bell, whose property in the telephone are represented by eight figures. Next comes Edison with a seven-figure fortune. Brush, of electric light fame, Edwin Thomson, who has more than a millionaires. Frank J. Sprague was a junior officer in the United States Navy.

It is now living in the mansion which was built for the Grants. He is now out to the Edison Company for £250,000, and half of it went to the inventor. Messrs. Bell, Thomson and Edison are all of British birth. Most of them began their experimenting and study with a dollar.

Princess Marie Theresia of Bavaria, who has made for pets, throughout the Continent with fourteen animals of one sort and another, including several dogs, two magpies, an enormous rat, and a diminutive bear.

Is Mary a good servant? In a misdirected sort of way. She dusts the cobwebs off the wine bottles and leaves the bottles open. She "loves all that is grand, noble, majestic, and beautiful."

He! Thank you very much, Miss Wilkins, but—er—really, you embarrass me.

A man near Montreal, Pa., has a butterfly farm of one-fourth of an acre, but mostly over with flowers and small pools of shallow water enclosed by a fence eight feet high of fine wire netting where he had 50,000 butterflies, of probably 60 different species this year. In one corner of it is a glass house for their winter quarters. This is the latest fad we have heard of.

SAVED BY A BEAN.

The Club Relates a Lion Hunting Experience in Africa.

Some years ago, said the club, speaking rapidly—if he spoke rapidly with no pause (he thus avoided interruptions)—some years ago a gentleman and his two attendants were hunting for lions in the Upper Nile, in what would have been the "garden spot" of the north, but for its fertility. It was so fertile that things planted there grew, matured and withered away to nothing before one could get time to harvest them.

Starvation stared at this gentleman and his two attendants, trapped as they were by the raging lion. Their old-fashioned muzzle loading muskets were useless. They had dropped their bolt pouch and dared not climb down. It was the commencement of the rainy season and the rain clouds were gathering. They were starving. There was nothing for them to eat—absolutely nothing—except a never—except a single bean—a bean which the gentleman had found in his pocket, where he had put it months before as a souvenir—a souvenir of Boston.

This gentleman knew beans. He noted the fast approaching rain. Then, close to the foot of the tree, he dropped the bean into the soft soil. It took root and grew.

It grew seven feet six and one-eighth inches each second, and as it shot up by the treep those there had just time to gather its crop (two bushels of the best pea beans) before it withered away and died. And they need beans for bullets and peppered the lion with them. They could not morally wound him, but they did literally fill him with beans.

The clouds gathered fast, and just as they exhausted their ammunition down came the rain and the lion through and through. And the way those beans absorbed water was wonderful. Ten minutes after the first drop of rain fell the lion was as big as an elephant and could not climb down. The beans, as thick as maggots in clover, just under his skin, had swelled, and he died of heart failure before the men in the tree could climb down to shoot him.—New York Herald.

ADVERTISE IN THIS PAPER.

LET HIM THROUGH

With a Razor he had Bargained For What he Got.

Edward McCartney, son of Timothy McCartney of 328 Banker Hill st., Charles-town, cut his throat the other evening with a razor, and is at the Massachusetts General Hospital, seriously injured.

Young McCartney is about 25 years of age and is a cabinet maker by trade. He entered a barber shop at 12 Banker Hill st., at 6.30 Thursday evening where he is well known and asked one of the barbers, James F. Sweeney, if he could buy a razor. Sweeney replied that he had none to sell but that he would get him one the next time he went over to Boston if McCartney wished it.

McCartney was persistent, and said he would give $2 for a razor, but Sweeney repeated that he had none to sell. He suggested that, perhaps the other barber, Patrick D. Feely, had one he would dispose of.

Feely said he had only one he could part with, that he gave $1.50 for it, that it was a good razor and he would sell it to McCartney for that sum.

McCartney said he would give $2 for it, but Feely was satisfied to take $1.50 and then McCartney said he would give $3 for it.

He took it to look at, and stood a moment talking, when suddenly he threw a scrap of paper into a chair and drew the razor twice across his throat.

Help was immediately summoned, and as soon as possible the wounded man was removed in the station 1 ambulance to the hospital.

Both Feely and Sweeney say that the young man appeared as composed and mentally sound when he was in the shop at any previous time. He showed no signs of having been drinking, and has been seen by persons in the vicinity of the shop within the last few days, at cheerful and as sound of mind as ever he was to all appearances.

The paper he threw into the chair before attempting to kill himself was not found until the occupants began to clear up, and was then picked up. It was addressed to the young man's father, and Mr. Sweeney says he possesses it. It is refused to permit any other person to see it. He had not looked at it, and could not give an idea of its contents.

GUY FAWKES' DAY.

THE ORANGEMEN'S CELEBRATION OF THE

Frustration of the Gunpowder Plot

Turned Into an Opposition Committee Meeting.

Last Saturday evening being the 26th of November, and Guy Fawkes' Day, the Orangemen of this city met at the York Street restaurant to celebrate the frustration of the gunpowder plot. Mr. Lindsay, the popular proprietor, who is noted for his ability as a caterer, excelled himself on this occasion; handsomely decorated tables, laden with an abundance of all the delicacies of the season, greeted the eye of each person as they entered the large dining room, which was also tastefully decorated. After all had partaken liberally of the edibles, County Master Fitz arose and in a few appropriate remarks proposed a toast to the Queen. Mr. George Parker, one of the oldest members of the Order, was then called upon by Bro. Fitz for a few remarks, but being still busily engaged disposing of the good things spread before him, declined to respond, and

Mr. C. W. Beckwith a guest, was called upon. Mr. Beckwith began his address by remarking that it was the first time he had had the pleasure of meeting with the Orangemen in any of their celebrations, and he felt it a great honor to be there. He, as a native of the Sons of England, and holding a high position in that society, a society with principles similar to those of the Orange Order, felt proud of the position taken by the Orangemen in this election—but perhaps politics are not in order.

County Master Fitz—Let me speak. Mr. Beckwith having received the consent of the County Master and Glenore reporter, proceeded to do up the Blair government in one round and sat down, after proposing a toast to the representatives of York, and thunders of applause from the chairman and a number of his supporters. Some of the party refused to drink to this toast and exclaimed woe!

J. K. Pinder, M. P. P., also an invited guest, rose to respond, and after several preliminary movements in the shape of whipping off his chin and pulling down his vest, managed to quip that "he was too tall for the business in York and would be removed from Mr. Geo. Parker and sat down with the expressed intention of "sticking to the Orangemen."

County Master Fitz followed, and immediately took up the political question. In his remarks he represented that the sham cast upon him, the representative of the Orangemen, was an insult to the Orangemen as a body.

A voice—Oh no, not at all. An ass and a gentleman, I tell you the little circulars did the business in York and will do good service in Queens, and don't you forget it, and, and, and will bury Andrew G. Blair so deep that he won't ever come up again, nor sir, he won't, not by a jugful and don't you forget it, sir, I tell you we are the people, ain't we Sir, eh, old boy?

Not—Of course we are. You bet we are, and we'll show them that Fitz is not quite so crony as they take him to be. And now, gentlemen, I will call upon County Master Neale, M. P. of Queens.

Mr. Neale, upon rising first mentioned the fact that the lodge had met for the purpose of celebrating the frustration of the gunpowder plot, but immediately drifted into the same channel as the previous speakers. He informed the meeting that although he held three government positions in Queens he was willing to sacrifice all for the cause, and trust to Providence.

Mr. J. DeVeber Neale might have, but did not, enlighten the meeting as to his reasons for so suddenly becoming so bitterly opposed to the government. He refrained from telling them how he had been ambitious enough to aspire for nomination, and desired to represent Queens as a government supporter in the late election. He did not tell them that his partner, Mr. Elliott, had secured the nomination he so much coveted, but declined to accept it, the understanding being that in case Mr. Elliott declined Mr. Neale would be the nominee. He did not tell them that the people's solicitude refused to have him as their representative in the stead of Mr. Elliott. He did not tell them how he thought nomination as a representative of the opposition in that county, and was refused. He did not tell them that he was, at the time he was addressing them, seeking nomination at the hands of the Orangemen.

All these facts Mr. Neale failed to tell his listeners, but are facts that are generally known. Mr. Neale was followed by Ald. Walker, J. Smith, and H. McLeod, who, it must be admitted, endeavored to make their remarks less somewhat more to the point, and less to politics than the former speakers.

Mr. John Hall of Woodstock, died very suddenly last Saturday morning. He had been feeling ill on Friday, but was going about the house. On Saturday he got up much as usual, expecting to attend to his business. He was found by one of the family in the room on his knees dead. He had evidently passed away peacefully. The deceased had been engaged there in the portrait business for years and was well known as an agreeable and painstaking artist. He leaves a wife and two young children.

Mr. Arthur Wilson, of Marysville, who has been attending the Sullivan Academy, came home yesterday for a few days.

Mr. Joseph Walker has now in stock the most complete line of cloths suitable for Fall and winter wear, ever seen in the city. Coatings, suitings and dressings in great variety. Mr. Walker has earned the reputation of turning out only first class work, and will guarantee satisfaction.

SPORTING.

Notes.

Champion Jim Corbett has had a plaster cast of his right hand taken, from which the shape weights will be made, to be sold at the world's fair.

H. Wylie, the "dead broke" bicyclist, who is travelling from New York to Chicago on a bicycle, and for a wage of $5,000, arrived at Dayton, Ohio, Monday, in good condition.

Two of the heaviest winners at the Choyuki-Godfrey fight were "Joe" Godlard, the Australian pugilist, and "Miss" Grant, the sporting man of San Francisco, Cal. They each won several thousand dollars.

A remarkable feature of the practice Monday of the Yale eleven at New Haven, was that every man back of the line, regular and substitute, was disabled and unable to play. This has seldom happened before and shows the uncertainty of the game.

The chestnut stallion Aurora, imported by the New Brunswick government and sold last spring to Edward Moore, of Fredericton, has number 230 registered in the chestnut mare Beale C, which got a record of 2:29 1/2 in the 240 class at the fall meeting of the Maine Granite Driving Park association, New York, on the 12th of last month. On the same day and track, against time, she got a record of 2:29.

The directors of the California Athletic club have named "Bob" Dold, of Denver, to fight "Jim" Burrows, of Australia, to a finish for a purse of $1,000, the contest to take place in Honolulu, by Woodford Mackintosh, on the 12th of last month. On the same day and track, against time, she got a record of 2:29.

The United States had grown sick of McKinleyism and evidently were getting for a change as can clearly be seen by the result of the election Tuesday last. With the new administration at Washington, in favor of freer trade relations with the world, and a similar one at Ottawa the future of this North American continent is brighter than ever before.

The Telegraph gave the startling information that Mr. Wm. Smith of Lancaster, Ind. had been killed by a train passing near his home on Monday. The train was carrying a large number of passengers and the accident was a very serious one.

People are warned to look out for a counterfeit U. S. $2 bill of the issue of 1886 of the $2 silver certificate. A difference from the genuine is that the upper loop in the J in James in the signature of Wm. Hyatt points directly between the D. C. of the Washington in the genuine, while in the counterfeit it is about an eighth of an inch to the left, or immediately under the D.

A brilliant wedding took place at Woodstock on Thanksgiving day at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dykeman, being the marriage of their daughter Blanche, to Mr. J. W. Hart, of Sussex. The bride looked charming in a white dress and carried a beautiful bouquet. Miss George Mott acted as brides maid and was similarly attired. Little Edna Van Wart was maid of honor. The ceremony was performed by Rev. B. N. Lapan. The happy couple have the best wishes of numerous friends in which the Groom is a very elegant and costly present.

Death of Jacob B. Yerxa. Mr. Jacob B. Yerxa, of Keswick, went to Keswick on Tuesday night to go to an operation performed for enlargement of the spleen, and was brought home Thanksgiving day a corpse, having died during the operation. The deceased was a brother of Barclay and Ludlow Yerxa, of this city. The remains were interred at Keswick yesterday. Rev. Mr. Hartley officiated.
