Business Outlook is Improving

All signs point to a general revival of trade in both Canada and the United States. A day or two ago it was announced that there were numerous indications of a return of prosperity in the United States. On the basis of data collected from a number of American manufacturers, it was estimated that about five hundred thousand employees would be added to the present working forces in the industries of the United States. This revival of trade will have a stimulating effect upon the business in this country as the financial depression in the United States was felt in Canada during the past year.

There are numerous indications also that the clouds are missing from the financial horizon in Canada. Reports from the West show that the good crop there this season have had

From a Woman's Point of View

"As a matchmaker there is nothing to excel the brother" I read recently, and it brought to my mind the experience of a young woman friend of mine whose brother, age 7, has been exceedingly anxious for her to wed. The reason was not hard to guess for, jokingly, the sister had answered all his appeals for a pony by saying, "Just you wait until I marry a rich man, Bessie, and then I will buy you one."

The parsonage of the church, of which Bessie's father was the pastor, was on a city street, on which were comfortable but comparatively modest homes. In the middle of the block, however, was one very handsome residence of stone and surrounded by beautiful grounds. This place seemed palatial to Bessie, and his father had at one time told him, in response to his questionings, that it was, no doubt, owned by a very rich man.

After being as patient as he could for some weeks after his big sister's conditional promise the little fellow decided to take things in his own hands. One day, soon after the family in the big house had returned from a trip to Florida, the butler was surprised when he answered a ring at the door to be confronted by a very cheeked little boy, who demanded:—"Is the rich man in, please?" "Who?" ejaculated the astonished butler, and the youngster only repeated impatiently, "the rich man is who I want to see."

"Well, he isn't home," said the butler with a broad grin, "but the rich lady is." And then he sent for his mistress, who was greatly amused. "Why do you want to see the 'rich man' little one?" she asked, and he replied frankly: "I want him to marry my sister, she says when she marries a rich man she will buy me a pony."

"Just wait until he comes in, and we will ask him about it," said the woman kindly, shaking her head at her brother, who was not successful in his efforts to keep his face straight. Bessie had a fine time that afternoon. His hostess allowed him to gaze for at least an hour at a glass aquarium of baby alligators from Florida, and when the "rich man" finally returned home, and Bessie had an audience regarding his matrimonial enterprise, the rich man volunteered to escort him home, and great was the surprise of his father and big sister when they heard of his venture.

"You were so slow, sister, and I wanted my pony," he said.

The rich man explained that he could not marry the sister, having a wife already, but, in the same breath urged Bessie to accept instead of the pony a little bull terrier puppy, and the youngster was allowed to do so, on condition that he would try no more matchmaking on his sister's behalf.

There is no doubt that a girl's brothers can do more for her in the match making line than the most wisely scheming mother.

The girl with a brother is certain

In Favored Canada

Statistics of wealth, of population, of agricultural output, of trade and commerce, in a word, of the material prosperity of the nation, are all very well in their place, but they are not thanksgiving, and are not to be regarded as the only or even the chief cause for national gratitude.

For Canada's great and abounding material prosperity, the people of Canada have reason for heartfelt thankfulness to the Giver of all good things; but a material measure of that gratitude cannot be made, nor can it be given expression fully and adequately in words merely. Of all the blessings of this life probably the greatest are the least recognized. For all the best recognition and thanksgiving is not the occasional special service of praise and gratitude, but the all-the-year-around contented, happy and kindly disposition.

The observance of Thanksgiving Day as an annual festival we have from the neighboring Republic. It is an observance that comes directly from the Puritans. Those stern men, iconoclasts as they were, having abandoned the celebration of Christmas and Easter and the other old religious festivals, found themselves led by their Scriptures to establish a day, when then the harvest had been gathered in, wherein they might eat of the fruit of their labor and rejoice in the many mercies and deliverances with which they had been favored. But they certainly did not invent the harvest festival. Since men learned to sow seed and reap the harvest they have not failed to rejoice in the day of their abundance, often in more or less wanton fashion, but never without recognition in some fashion of the power that "did good and gave us rain from Heaven, and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food and gladness."

Never has our country had greater reason for thankfulness to Providence than at the present time. The sun and the rains have done well by men from end to end of this broad Dominion; the forces of Nature have given the fruits of the earth, and abundantly. The year has not been without its visitations of misfortune, notably the terrible forest fires which have wrought so great havoc; but for much that may be regarded as blindly disastrous, we may offset more that is ing and assuring. Canada is her share in the work of bettering the conditions of human life. There is a continual proplift, which gives us ground and faith; and while we are our faces turned hopefully to the future, we have an abundance for thanksgiving

Such a condition of the stomach is also liable to produce headaches of the worst sort. Medicines that palliate the symptoms will never lead to a cure. It is the effect which Ferrus has upon the stomach, healing the mucous membrane and restoring the natural function of the stomach, that causes Ferrus to bring such prompt relief.

Many cases of heart trouble are caused by reflex disturbances. Derangements of the stomach and liver produce symptoms of heart trouble. Catarrh of the stomach is a very frequent cause of sympathetic heart disease. Irritation, shortness of breath and tingling after meals are the most prominent symptoms.

Medicines Must be Labeled After First of April

OTTAWA, Nov. 25.—It has been decided that the act of last session respecting the sale of patent medicines shall come into force on the first of April. After that date any preparation which contains chloroform, acetone, opium, strychnine or any other of a numerous list of deadly drugs will have to be approved of by the experts of the department of inland revenue or will have to bear a printed statement on the outside of each package that there is a deadly drug within the preparation and the name of the drug. It was the intention of the department to have the act made effective as soon as possible, but it has been found that the application of the law will require some time. This is due to the fact that there are over twenty-five hundred druggists in Canada, and every one of them makes and sells one or more preparations in the form of cough medicines or soothing syrups, and all of the formulas have to be submitted to the government analysts and passed upon before their sale can be authorized or forbidden.

REQUIRES TIME This work requires a great deal of time. It is understood that the policy of the department of inland revenue will be to interpret the law strictly and that the only patent preparations which will be authorized will be those which contain no deadly drugs of those which contain such drugs in such small quantities that they are not dangerous.

Many of the druggists throughout the country have already sent in statements of their preparations and the officials are working upon them at the present time.

HEADACHE, WEAKNESS, HEART TROUBLE

"I Suffered With for Years—Pe-ru-na Cured Me Entirely."

Miss Alberta Chauvin, No. 37 East Agnes, St. Henri, Montreal, Can., writes: "I consider Ferrus better than any other remedy, as it cured me when nothing else could. I suffered for years and years with heart trouble, headache and weakness. I never expected to find anything to cure me. I saw one day, in 'La Presse,' that Ferrus was excellent and I tried it. One bottle produced a change in me and if the price had been $20 a bottle I would have paid it gladly. I have taken six bottles and am entirely cured. Please accept my thanks and best wishes for your Ferrus."

Train up a girl in the way she should bake, and when she is married she will not depart from it.

"My mother taught me how to bake, and told me why she always used a McClary Range."

"Now I have a 'Pandora', and, as with mother, my troubles are few. After fire is started, I simply bring thermometer to desired heat and leave the oven in charge of the baking. It's built for faithful service."

"While housewives with other ranges are poking fire and changing dampers, I sit and read the 'Joy of Living'."

AT THE SAME TABLE

Billiter and Thornby went down in the elevator together, as they generally did.

They were pretty chummy in the office, though they didn't seem to have much in common, Thornby being a rather spruce individual whose conversation was mostly on the gayeties of life and who often brought a suit case to the office, while Billiter was serious, prematurely bald and totally without social ambition. This particular evening, instead of turning south as usual, Billiter took his friend's arm and said he believed he would walk a little way with him.

"I wanted to ask your advice on a little matter, Thornby," he said. "That is, if you'll promise not to laugh at me."

"I hope you know me better than to think I would dream of it," said Thornby.

"You know all about women," began Billiter. "Oh, come!"

"I mean that you associate more or less with them and know all about barn dances and cotillions and things and I suppose you know how to ingratiate yourself—er—at least, you know how you would go about it if you wished to cultivate the acquaintance of any particular young woman."

"You're joking," said Thornby. "You're just trying to lead me on and then you'll spring one of those gags of yours on me. I know you."

"I assure you I haven't the least intention of such a thing," said Billiter. "I've never paid any particular attention to ladies, but I'm a—er—you I don't know just what you call a polite attention and what would have a certain significance."

"Which variety of attention do you want to pay?" asked Thornby. "Do you want to be polite without compromising yourself?"

"I should like to make myself agreeable," replied Billiter, blushing slightly. "I shouldn't want to be considered offensive. I shouldn't like to convey the fact that I am interested in a certain person."

"See here," said Thornby. "If you want me to tell you anything or give you any advice, suppose you stop beating about the bush and tell me the whole story."

"I've told you everything," said Billiter. "It's a lady in whom I am interested. I may say deeply interested. It's rather remarkable, too, because such a thing never happened to me before. I want to know what you would do in such cases."

"Do you mean of fool things," said Thornby. "It depends on how much nothing to him for over a week. By that time Thornby realized that he had been in the wrong and said so in a manly fashion. Billiter shook his extended hand cordially.

"I was coarse," said Thornby. "Forgive me."

"Say no more about it, my dear fellow," said Billiter, heartily. "I'd forgive my worst enemy the greatest crime ever committed, let alone a little misunderstanding like that. I'm the happiest, luckiest man you ever knew. I took your advice, too."

"What?" cried Thornby.

"Yes," grinned Billiter, "you may congratulate me. I'm engaged."—Chicago News.

Nothing Gained by Scolding

The most deluded mortal in the world is the woman who fancies that much is gained by scolding, whining or complaining. She may seem to gain her own ends for a while, but if she would stop to consider she would soon discover that every day she has greater cause for scolding, whining or complaining, according to the method she adopts, and that as the months roll by an ever increasing amount is required to accomplish the same result. The scolding woman never gets things her own way without a vast expenditure of nervous strength—much more than the object to be gained is worth. Why cannot she realize that, and adopt some more pleasant method? The calm woman will appear young when the scolding women of her age are considered old, and she will always have an influence for good where they have no influence at all.

Cookies For Lunch Boxes

For the school children's lunch boxes, cookies are always better than cake, especially layer cake. Here are some reliable recipes for cookies that all children will like.

Lemon Cookies.—Cream thoroughly half a pound of butter and half a pound of granulated sugar. Add two eggs beaten light, three-fourths of a pound of flour, the grated rind of one small lemon and the juice of two. Roll out very thin and cut into discs or circles, sprinkle thickly with coarse powdered sugar and bake in a quick oven. These should be pale yellow, not brown.

Chocolate Wafers.—Grate a cup of chocolate and set the cup into hot, not boiling water, to melt. Mix together one cup of brown sugar, one cup of white sugar (granulated or powdered) and one cup of butter. When creamy, add one beaten egg, and then the melted chocolate, stirring briskly. Finally add two cups of flour and one teaspoon of vanilla, mix lightly, roll thin and bake in a quick oven.

TIME TO BUY CREAM SEPARATORS NOW

There never was a better time to buy the best of Cream Separators than right now.

The advantages derived from the use of the good Cream Separator are greater in the fall and winter than at any other time—when the cows are old in lactation, the loss of butter-fat is otherwise greatest, and butter prices are highest.

Likewise are the advantages of the superior DE LAVAL separators greatest over imitating separators when the milk is hard to separate and the weather cold and variable.

In every case a DE LAVAL separator, of suitable size, will surely at least save its cost between now and July 1st next, and go on returning 100 per cent. per year on the investment for twenty years to come.

The agricultural and particularly the dairying outlook was never brighter and more promising.

WORKING IN A "TUBE"

Remarkable Experience In a Lock
In Compressed Air.

AT FORTY POUNDS PRESSURE

The Way It Feels When the Valve is First Opened and the Chamber Fills With the Inrushing Air and Fog. Why You Don't Collapse or Explode.

As the lockkeeper turns the valve writes A. W. Bolker in Appleton's Magazine, there is a scarp raising screech as if your ear were next the safety valve of a locomotive blowing steam and as the inrushing air expands it fills the tiny chamber with fog so dense that you cannot see your hand before your eyes. Wider and wider the valve is opened, the fog becoming even denser and the racket increasing until the air fairly drones and your eyes and eardrums and your very scalp tremble with the air that is vibrating about you. For the first time in your life you realize that sound may inflict physical pain and that there is a possibility that it may kill.

No sooner is the big valve opened than you feel the pressure against your eardrums. A big wind of cotton seems thrust into each ear, and two big fingers seem to push the wads more and more firmly until each time when you swallow or blow into your nose the sensation disappears only to begin anew. Should you purposely delay swallowing, within twenty seconds the pain becomes intense and finally excruciating, as if a pair of knitting needles were being pushed deep into your ears.

Nothing short of the faith that others successfully withstand these sensations prevents you from becoming unduly excited, for actually you are in the throes of about as disagreeable a situation as you care to meet. For the eternity of half a minute the racket and fog and ear pains continue. Then the noise ceases as suddenly as it began. Out of the fog comes the voice of your guide:

"Feeling all right? Ears all right? No trouble to breathe? Or you'll be all right?" Again the valve screeches and the air drones, the top of your head throbs, and you are shaken with in and without.

Gradually, after the lapse of ten minutes, when the pressures in the heading and the lock become more equalized, the din ceases to slacken; then it falls more and more and fades to nothing, after which the lockman opens the heading door and you gaze upon another length of "tube" like that you left behind.

How does it feel to be under forty pounds pressure? There is no sensation to it—none whatever—which is the trouble, for in case your heart is going to give out there is no warning symptom until too late. Against every square foot of the surface of your body is a pressure of 5,700 pounds, and the only thing that prevents you from being squashed is the 5,700 pounds per square foot pressure inside of you, yet you do not feel this.

The pressure from without is so great that were it not for the necessity within you would be smashed flat as a toad run over by a steam roller, and the pressure within you is so great that were it not counterbalanced by the pressure from without you would explode to atoms like the shell of a dynamite cartridge.

Yet you have no means of realizing this. You feel perfectly natural. You breathe normally and without effort. You move about without being conscious of exertion. Only a feeling as of water left in the ears after bathing remains.

The noise of rumbling cars and scraping shovels from ahead sounds natural. So does the voice of your guide. Only your own voice seems strange to your own ears—far deeper in pitch than you ever have heard it and far off, not as if it came from your own mouth, but as if from ten feet behind; also, and this strikes you queerly until you have found the cause, all sounds are chopped off short, for in this heavy atmosphere there is little echo and carrying power. Even the explosion of a dynamite cartridge makes no more noise than a shotgun fired above in daylight.

In this dense atmosphere were you to try to whistle with your lips or to blow a cornet or a flue you might blow your lungs out without producing a sound, for the pressure would resist any sound waves of which your lungs were capable. Owing to the excessive supply of oxygen, were you to light a match it would burn with the rapidity of tinder, and volumes of smoke.

For the same reason an oil lamp or a lantern would burn itself out within a few minutes—emitting volumes of soot that would completely hide the flames. And for the same reason a lighted pipe or cigar will burn of itself without suction, and a single mouthful of smoke is all you would be able to get out of a cigarette. Were you to bring an empty cooked loaf into this pressure from the outside, the pressure against the cork, unbalanced by pressure from within, would be so great that you would be unable to pull the stopper. There are a few instances of what you find when under forty pounds of pressure.

Colonel di Vaco explored the Gila river country in 1835 and reported that

THE DESTRUCTION OF YOUNG TREES.

The annual slaughter of young trees for the festival of Xmas is on, all over the country. It is time to consider whether something ought not to be done to regulate this distinction. The contribution of New Brunswick alone, will run up into the millions of young spruces, fir and hemlocks. These trees are cut down recklessly, and after inspection by the buyers more than fifty per cent are rejected, and if this is to be continued the work in a few years will be an item of great importance. It is claimed that these young trees would not live to grow up, but this seems to be a foolish argument, when the extent of the forests of the country is taken into consideration. There is good reason for fearing that indiscriminate cutting will result in the extermination of spruce, fir and hemlock in some sections of the country. Buyers can hardly be expected to take thought of these things, in their anxiety to supply decorations for Christmas celebrations, but at the present rate of destruction they will some day be forced to employ substitutes, then they will appreciate the extravagance of cutting down young trees.

SCARLET FEVER.

Now that smallpox, thanks to compulsory vaccination, has become a rarity in civilized communities, scarlet fever steps forward as the worst of the eruptive diseases of childhood. It is a malady of enormous antiquity. Thucydides, writing nearly 500 years before the beginning of our era, called it a heritage from the remote past. It has scourged the white races in all ages and all countries, and the physicians of all schools have levelled their heaviest artillery upon it. Yet it remains a puzzle unsolved and an enemy unconquered even today. We are in doubt as to its cause, and there is no drug or antitoxin that will cure it. But despite all this the death rate from scarlet fever is steadily declining, and we may expect it to decline more and more as the years go by. The reason for this, I take it, lies in the fact that the modern doctor is a great deal more sparing with pills and powders than his predecessor and a great deal more lavish with water, air and antiseptics. In the old days it was customary to dose scarlet fever patients with all sorts of violent remedies in staggered quantities, and as a result many of them died. Today medicines are but minor auxiliaries in the sickroom, and both doctor and nurse devote their main energies to preventing a spread of the infection.—Delineator.

THE NEW FARMER.

The change is overwhelming. The farmer of today is a new sort of man, a creator instead of a destroyer. It has dawned upon him, with astounding emphasis, that he can obliterate all the forests of the continent inside a hundred years; can exhaust the oil wells and the coal mines; can not only make a garden of a desert but can turn a garden into a desert; can even use up the nitrogen of the air. The new agriculture teaches him that he has this to reverse, and that reverse it he can. This future farmer will sub-irrigate his land, and defy drought as well as floods. He will become a scientific forester, and every farm will produce lumber as well as wheat and apples. A single acre will produce what ten acres yield now. Women will work out of doors as heartily as men; in fact, they will be the horticulturists and the trunk gardeners. There will be a closer relation between the producer and the consumer, ignoring a horde of middlemen who frequent the waste more than is destroyed by ignorant help and insect foes combined. Under the alliance with the school the farm will be valued now not only for its gross weight of products, but for its poems and its education. As our schools become places for applying as well as acquiring knowledge, our farm homes will become integral parts of the garden school and the school farm. The alliance between the home and school will become very close. A valley full of farms is already the nearest to Paradise that we have, but the future will tenfold its wealth and one hundred-fold its delights.—The Independent.

BY THE WAY

All quiet.

Shoot the deer, not the man.

It's snow while winter all right now.

The only real way to keep a secret is to have none.

Get ready for the influenza. The germs are arriving on every wind of heaven.

November, so far, has been a fine month, and not the usual cheerless one.

Take the optimistic view of things, and be serenely hopeful, nothing like feeling cheery, anyway.

The different brands of deer stories should be labeled Truth, nearly Truth, Lies, Big Lies, and D--- Lies.

To the average business man the statements which the life insurance companies annually make are largely unintelligible.

Yes, go on and talk politics. The discussions are wholesome. The people ought to talk about national affairs more than they do, and about divorces and all sorts of dirt less than they do.

Merchant: "See here, I've been told you've been slandering my business."

Customer: "I guess not. What did I say?"

Merchant: "That the pepper I sold you was half peas."

Customer: "Well, spell it and see."

Tommy, very sleepy, was saying his prayers. "Now I lay me down to sleep," he began; "I pray the Lord my soul to keep."

"If, his mother prompted.

"If he hollers, let him go, eny, meny, miny, mo."

We understand that the crew of the dredge are recommended for the Carnegie hero medals for the thrilling rescue of two citizens who had an unpleasant experience in the soft bottom of the river on Monday. With the aid of the dredge outfit, the rescue was made in lightning time.

The basket ball season has opened. This is good, clean exciting sport. We understand that there is an outfit in town. Why not get together, boys and form a team? The game would undoubtedly prove very popular here, and a little energy would soon get a winning combination together. It would help to pass away the long winter.

During the dinner hour on board a steamer the other day a passenger was disturbed by the vulgar way in which the man who sat next to him ate his meat. At last, after watching him pick a bone in a very primitive fashion, he could control his feelings no longer, and, turning to the offending party he said: "Don't you think you would be more comfortable if you took that out on the mat?"—Tit-Bits.

A short time ago a surgeon had three leg amputations in a week. The unusual number caused talk in the surgeon's household, and his little daughter, Dorothy, was greatly interested. A few days after the last operation the surgeon's wife and little Dorothy were rummaging in the attic. In a trunk was found a daguerrotype depicting a girl about eight years of age. The portrait, though a peculiarity of pose showed only one leg of the subject, the other being doubled up under her.

"Whose picture is that, mama?" asked Dorothy.

"Mine. It was taken when I was a child, not much older than you are now."

"Did you know papa then?"

"No dear. Why do you ask?"

"I thought maybe you did, 'cause you've only got one leg."

Here is a tale the truthful Calais correspondent of the Commercial asks us to believe: Farmers out Cooper way have been grievously annoyed during the past week by the depredations of bears, which are carrying off sheep faster than the owners can raise them. The tears are very sassy and attempts of the farmers to foil them have been unsuccessful. One farmer who lost five sheep within one week decided that he had contributed enough to the bear family's support so he built an enclosure of stout timbers into which the sheep were driven and, in order to further discourage a bear, a lighted lantern was hung at one end of the pen. Sunday evening hearing a disturbance near the pen he hastily rushed into the yard to discover a big bear walking off with one sheep under one arm and the lantern across the other. Having a rifle handy the farmer concluded to try a shot at brain caring little whether the bear or sheep were killed, but the man and bear happened to turn around when the gun clicked and then, to the utter amazement of the man, brain calmly flew out the light and escaped in the darkness. The farmer was so completely upset by the unusual occurrence that he forgot to follow the thief and it was too late to do any good.—Calais Advertiser.

The Rev. gentleman is much esteemed by the people of this district, who are greatly pleased with his decision to remain another term.

Mr. Percy Catherine of L'Etete, paid Greetings a visit Tuesday.

Your attention is called to the adv. of Boyd Bros. in this issue of Pneumatic Water Systems. The hydraulic equipment of a house is a matter of first importance to all builders of a home. No other one feature will afford so much comfort and be so conducive to perfect health as a good supply of pure water, while, on the other hand a poor, or unwholesome water supply is not only a constant menace to the health of the family, but is a source of everlasting annoyance and expense.

These outfits not only furnish an abundant supply of pure wholesome water, but they also supply it under sufficient pressure to thoroughly cleanse the sanitary appliances pertaining to the plumbing.

They are designed so as to be easy to operate, are constructed upon such lines of strength and durability as to be inexpensive to maintain, and with reasonable care will last as long as the building in which they are installed. Their endorsement by many hundreds of users is sufficient evidence of their being the best and safest outfits to buy for the hygienic equipment of a house.

Anyone in need of a water supply system would do well to communicate with Messrs. Boyd Bros. of St. George.

The editor had the pleasure of inspecting one of the above systems in Boyd's hotel and it has all the advantages the agents claim for it.

The N. B. Telephone Co. have purchased the stock of the St. George and Penfield Telephone Co. and taken over the local business. Mr. McMackin of the N. B. Company is in town and a regular exchange will be opened at once. A new switch board will be put in and Central office located in the McCready building. The office will be in charge of Miss Coffey, and an all day and night service established. A number of phones will be placed in different residences in town and an up-to-date service given.

The St. George and Penfield Co. by this purchase will cease to exist. The company was organized some ten years ago by Mr. John Doyle who has since been manager of the line. A number of gentlemen recognizing the need of telephone connection between St. George and the neighboring parishes were interested by Mr. Doyle. A company was organized among whose members were George McCormick, Timothy O'Brien, sr. and John Doyle of St. George; Milton Kirkbridge, John Paul, Sanky Dakin, S. McKay, and E. W. Cross of Penfield and Deaver Harbor; Messrs. Connors Bros. of Blacks Harbor, Andrew McGee, Herb. McLean, Geo. Chubb, John Catherine and Sydney Dines of L'Etete and Back Bay. The line was built and has rendered good service to the subscribers. The sale means a long distance telephone service both in the town and along the shore.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

Saturday and Monday will be banner days for buyers at Frauley Bros.

A. G. Brown has the finest selection of Christmas and New Year post cards shown in town for some time. Call early and select.

W. J. Owens will be the Conservative candidate in Carleton county, to oppose G. W. Upham who received the Liberal nomination.

The winter port season opened Friday morning when the Empress of Britain arrived at St. John. Indications are that the season will be a brisk one.

The town was in the grip of a snow storm Wednesday night. The snow began falling early in the evening and when it ceased, about five inches of the beautiful covered the ground.

The Soda Pulp Company, of Ogdensburg, has just secured a quantity of sunken pine in the Rideau Lakes abandoned eight years ago. Despite the long immersion the wood is quite sound.

Hon. J. P. Burchill was the unanimous choice of Northumberland Liberals for the vacancy in the legislature for that county. He will be opposed by F. D. Swin, who received the Conservative nomination.

Hon. Frank Oliver declared that if the $500 head tax would not exclude the Chinese, the Government would raise it. Hindus, who, although they were British subjects, were not to be admitted unless they had $200.

Good catches of smelt have been made this season. Many boxes have been shipped by express from this point to Boston. Some of the fishermen shipped from Eastport. Those engaged in the business will go into it more extensively next season.

Miss Isabelle Phinney and Miss Stella Parks very pleasantly entertained a number of their young friends Wednesday evening. The interesting affair took place in Courts hall and the evening was passed in dancing, whist and music.

It is the intention of the Conservatives in St. John to have a paper issued by the first of the year. It will be ordinary newspaper size and probably printed by their own plant. Mr. S. D. Scott, of Ottawa, may return to officiate as editor, but if not Mr. O. L. Barbour is considered likely to take the position.---Globe.

The town pump, after a strenuous period of usefulness, surviving several picnics and the day after election, went out of commission on Thursday last. Thursday night the customary night cap was unobtainable and some of our good citizens went thirsty to bed. Friday the pump was thoroughly overhauled and placed in condition for the winter operations.

Here is something of interest to mariners: On and after Jan. 1, 1909, in the display of night storm warnings of the United States weather bureau, a red light alone will indicate easterly winds and a white light below red light will indicate westerly winds. The foregoing action reverses the positions formerly occupied by the red and white lights indicating westerly winds.

The seniority of the present House of Commons runs about as follows: Hon. Wm. Paterson, 1892; Hon. John Haggart, 1872; Sir Wilfrid Laurier, 1874; Dr. Sproule, 1878; Hon. George E. Foster, 1878; Geo. Taylor, 1882; David Henderson, 1888; Sir Fred Borden, 1874; Dr. Reid, 1891; Col. Hughes, 1892; W. F. Maclean, 1892.

Sardine storing is now on in earnest, almost every available cellar in the city having been, or being filled with this palatable sea-food, cased and ready for shipment at a later date. The storing of sardines in suitable cellars, cellars that are dry and airy, is of great convenience to the packers and a source of no small profit to cellar owners, good prices being allowed for those rented for longer or shorter periods.---Eastport Sentinel.

Eliab A. Murphy who was so lately injured at the fertilizer factory in Eastport last week, died in the hospital at Portland Monday. While on a scow discharging a load of refuse fish, the boat's rear part and the tub fell, striking Mr. Murphy on the head, compressing the skull. Deceased was well and favorably known and had held many public positions. He is survived by an invalid wife and five young children.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

Geo. E. Frauley, after a day in the woods above Second falls was successful in shooting a deer.

Read carefully Frauley Bros. ad. in this issue. They are offering some startling bargains in clothing and furs.

Hanson Bros are selling made-to-year-measure overcoats, $15 to $25. Suits $15 to $20. In their ready-made clothing they are offering exceptional values.

Rev. H. I. Lynds and Arthur Frauley shot a large moose at Pooologan on Friday last. The head is said to be one of the finest ever seen in this vicinity.

Before going elsewhere give Frauley Bros. a call. Their bargains on Saturday and Monday will make good dressing easy for the winter. A genuine bargain within reach of everybody.

Plans for a number of new houses to be erected in the spring are under way. It is expected that a building boom such as we have not seen in years will make memorable the spring of 1909.

On Wednesday last the general agent of the Equitable Insurance Co. was in town paying off a number of twenty year endowment policies. Thomas Meising, Town Marshal, and Alex. Milne were among the lucky ones.

The Temperance Society recently organized its meeting with great success. The membership roll now totals 115. The meetings are occasions of much enjoyment and are especially interesting to the young people. A temperance spirit pervades and a hearty fellowship is bound to follow the gatherings.

The dredge Dominion will, in the course of a few days, finish the season's work in the basin. The advent of freezing weather will necessitate her removal. Since coming up the river an immense amount of mud, edging, gravel, granite chips and sawdust has been raised and carried out to sea. Fourteen feet of water at low tide replaces the edging bed at the end of the public wharf, the largest schooner that comes here will be able to float at low water with a full cargo aboard. This means much to shippers, much for the owners of vessels.

Scarlatina is an unwelcome guest in a number of homes in town. The attack so far has been of a light form, none of the young sufferers having been seriously ill. The spread of the disease should be guarded against, precautions should be taken by every family. The school board have closed the schools. Children where the disease is in the family should not be allowed to mingle with other children and heads of families should see to it that their young run no unnecessary risks. Scarlatina may develop into scarlet rash, a scourge worse than the small pox among the children.

The prize winning deer story reached town Wednesday night, when two of our enthusiastic nimrods returned from a day's tramp through the woods. It is not a strange experience to see a deer running away from danger, but in this case it would appear that the hunters were the fugitives. The unique stunt took place in a field near the woods and from the account of the weird experience, the only thing that saved the young men from disaster was the start they had on his "deer-ship," who chased them "up hill and down dale," until they arrived at the friendly shelter of a barn where they took refuge. The deer cantered around the vicinity for some time and walked leisurely to the woods.

On Monday next the hunting season will close. The last week has been a strenuous one, all the local nimrods have been "on the trail" and the deer has been lucky that has escaped the deadly missile of lead. The close of the season has been signaled by the large number of deer killed. Hunters in the first weeks reported moose plenty, no deer at all, and the capture of a lonely moose became a matter of course, after a day or two in the haunts of the monarchs of the woods, he was the big game who shot a deer. The close of the season finds the moose far from the meadows and feeding grounds frequented by them when the season was young, driven perhaps by the many hunters into far away haunts and finds the sportive deer everywhere near the outskirts of the town. Observers of the habits of the animals say the moose drives the deer and that you do not find them together at any season, others say the deer at this time of this year are travelling towards the salt water, however it may be, it is a fact that upwards of two hundred of the smaller animals were shot last week and quite a number of these were on their way to the shores where the water is salt.

Try Greetings for Job Work

Worried to death

Indigestion, Loss of Sleep, Heart Palpitation

A case that proves prompt action is wise when health is poor

"At night I would wake up with vague feelings of fear and numbness in my hands and other parts of the body," writes Mr. E. X. Smeaton, of St. John's. "I had grown thin and pale, and at night it was very difficult to get enough warmth in my feet to get sleep. My digestion was poor, and appetite very uncertain. The form of nervousness that worried me most was starting at every little thing, which resulted in such violent heart action as sometimes frightened me. Finally I had to give up my work, which was inside office work, so languid, nervous and weak that I became. Through the intervention of a friend I was induced to use Ferreroze. My appetite improved at once, circulation also improved and Ferreroze accomplished the renewal of my blood and natural warmth seemed to come back to me. At the same time Ferreroze built up my constitution. I became quite strong and resumed my occupation. In brief, I am well."

Ferreroze is the only remedy of its kind in the world--it makes you feel better at once, when you are tired, dull, despondent--when you feel there is nothing in life for you, that's the time to take Ferreroze.

What a change Ferreroze makes! Your blood sings through your veins, carrying nourishment to every nook and corner of the body, you feel the exultant thrill of abundant nerve force, you learn the joy and delight of being at your best--in perfect good health.

Just try Ferreroze and see how much better you feel--it's the same remedy in all the world that will get you bracing health at once. Sold everywhere, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50 at all dealers.
