Billiard Hall!

SHARKEY'S BUILDING,
OPP. OFFICERS' BARRACKS, QUEEN ST.,
FREDERICTON, N. B.

T. E. FOSTER, Proprietor

THIS HALL has been newly fitted up, and handsomely furnished, and for room, light, ventilation and neatness, compares most favorably with any Billiard Hall in the Dominion. The Billiard and Pool Tables are pronounced by players to be the best in the Province. They are the BRILLIANT NOVELTY, size 4 1/2 x 9 feet.

The main object in the construction of the Bil-liant Novelty, and the one most noticeable, is that it embodies all the more salient and most important features that have rendered popular all the other styles of Billiard and Pool Tables. The Billiard Co.'s make. The Billiard Novelty has all the advantages of the most modern and most respected inlays claimed by the "Nonpareil" and "Exposition" styles, and it is a happy combination of all those celebrated tables, and has rapidly taken the foremost place in the estimation of all players of Billiard and Pool Tables. The "Novelty" is finished and handsomely inlaid in many different colors, made up from California Laurel, Burl Ash, French Walnut, Bird's Eye Maple, Mahogany,
Rose Wood, Tulip Wood and Ebony. It is supplied with the finest of Vermont State bed, Simons Cloth, and a first-class outfit of everything necessary.

A call is respectfully solicited from lovers
of the game.
No boys under sixteen not allowed in the hall.
No tobacco or smoking in the hall.
No profane language or conduct in the hall.
No admission of dogs in the hall.

THE EARL OF EUSTON WITHDRAWS HIS SUIT FOR DIVORCE.

LONDON, July 10.—The Earl of Euston and prospective Duke of Grafton has given up his efforts to rid himself of the woman he married some thirteen years ago. He was then plain Henry Fitzroy with a lineage dating back to one of the mistresses of King Charles II, but with little expectation of ever becoming an Earl, even by courtesy, and much less a duke. His wife was a woman of charming address and stylish appearance, and was known as Kate Cook. The marriage was clandestine, and it is only recently that her name has appeared in "Burke's Peerage."

1882, by a series of deaths in the family,
Henry Fitzroy's father became the Duke of Grafton, and his eldest son, Henry became by courtesy Earl of Euston. His love for his spouse had long since cooled, and the fact that she was not now countess, and a prospective duchess, became intolerable to him. He was anxious to contract a marriage within the aristocratic sphere to which he then belonged, and many titled dames with marriageable daughters were more than willing to smooth his way to a proper alliance. The countess, however, had been a model of propriety since her marriage, and there was no ground upon which Lord Euston could put her aside.

A separation was mutually agreed upon,
and Lord Euston sought in every direction for a plea upon which he could base an application for the annulment of the marriage. Last spring his detectives unearthed a man who said he could prove that he was the husband of Kate Cook at the time that she was married to the Earl. Lord Euston promptly brought suit for the annulment of his marriage and confronted his wife with her first husband, expecting to entrap her into a denial of the earlier marriage. To his amazement Lady Euston recognized her former husband and made no attempt whatever to dispute the fact of the marriage, but showed that he had fraudulently represented himself to her as a widower, when,
in fact, he had a wife still living. The Countess claimed that this fraud on her part made his marriage with her null and void. The judge could not rule otherwise, and Lord Euston's case was promptly thrown out of court.

Driven to desperation, Lord Euston last month brought a suit for absolute divorce against his wife on the ground of adultery.
Nobody believed the charge, for the Countess had been exceedingly circum-spect from the moment of her marriage, but the Earl seemed convinced of its truth, and pushed the case against her as rapidly as he could. Recent investigations, however, have shown that the charge was trumped up by the detectives, who simply sought to keep up the Earl's pay, and who easily made him credit what he was so anxious to believe.
Lord Euston has now withdrawn his suit for divorce, and apparently nothing but her death can prevent the clever Kate Cook from wearing the coronet as Duchess of Grafton.

A FIGHTING O'BRIEN.
Sir Patrick Dares an Opponent Out of
There was a somewhat remarkable scene in the House of Commons not long before the adjournment yesterday morning, says the London News of the 28th.
The revision of jurors' and voters' lists (county Dublin) bill was under consideration in committee, when Sir Patrick O'Brien arose, and, remarking that the honorable member for Mallow (Mr.
O'Brien) interrupted him on a former occasion, asked him to explain what he wanted. This request Sir Patrick repeated several times, whereupon Mr. O'Brien said, "If the honorable baronet is at all curious as to what I meant, I would be glad to let him know some day in King's County." (Parnellite cheers.) Sir P.
O'Brien—"Mr. Otway—(laughter) Mr. O-way—(laughter)—Sir Arthur Otway, there is a much smaller distance than to the King's County at which the honorable member can ascertain what I think about him, and how I will deal with him.
(Lord laughter and cries of "order")
Having said this, the honorable baronet sat down, and placing his hands on the bench before him, looked steadily across the House at Mr. O'Brien, at the same time calling out five or six times,
"Afraid!" Mr. O'Brien attempted to rise, but was pulled down again by his friends, whereupon Mr. Patrick, amid much laughter, walked out of the House in a significant manner, apparently expecting the honorable gentleman to follow him. About a quarter of an hour afterward he returned, made his way with a little difficulty to Mr. O'Brien, addressed some observation to him and immediately quitted the House again. The honorable gentleman was not seen to make any reply, nor did he leave his seat till the House rose. Several other members of his party, however, went into the lobby from time to time, and, returning after brief intervals, brought news which was evidently more interesting than the bill under discussion.

Sara Bernhardt in English.

LONDON, June 9.—Mr. George Watts gave his annual concert to-day at the Royal Albert Hall. The most novel event of the occasion was the appearance of Mlle. Sara Bernhardt as an English elocutionist. She announced some days ago that in order to testify her appreciation of Irish poetry she would appear at this concert and recite—"The Last Rose of Summer"—in English. To-day she fulfilled her promise and surprised even her friends by her exquisite reading of the poem. She displayed quite an unexpected amount of power and pathos, and was compelled to respond to four recalls by the delighted audience.

Death of Paul Morphy.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 10, 1884. Paul Morphy, the famous chess player, died here this evening.

Paul Morphy was born in New Orleans, La., June 22, 1837. At an early age he showed a strong disposition for games of skill, particularly chess, and at the age of 21 had encountered successfully the best amateurs of his native city. He first exhibited his ability to play blindfolded in the summer of 1858, playing 14 games with Lowenthal in London, in games with Lowenthal in London, in which Morphy won nine, Lowenthal three, and two were drawn. Aug. 25, at the annual meeting of the British Chess Association at Birmingham, Morphy played eight games simultaneously without seeing the boards, winning six games and losing one, one being drawn. On his return to the United States he was admitted to the bar, and since then had resided and practiced his profession in New Orleans, with short intervals of residence in Richmond and Mobile.

THE ELECTRIC GIRL.

When the curtain rose at Wallack's Theatre last night, says the N. Y. Sun, the crowd saw Miss Lulu Hurst in a Black silk dress and a neat white ruffe caught at the throat with a large gold pin. Mr.
Atkinson invited enough gentlemen to come on the stage to fill the chairs. A number sufficient to fill them twice accepted the invitation, among them Harry Hill and Dr. James R. Taylor of Bellevue Hospital. The audience applauded mildly, and then a cheap cotton umbrella was handed to a round-headed man with a very thick neck.

The Wonder placed her hands vertically against the handle, with the thumb extended beside the fingers. In a moment the umbrella cut a variety of dices about the man's head, and then her hands slipped away from the handle and the motions ceased. Then the man tried it again. Both dodged the gyrating as well as they could, but when the man gave it up blood was flowing from a cut on his forehead. To a reporter he said as he puffed for breath and wiped away the blood: "I think it was muscle very cleverly handled." In the mean time the young woman was smilingly breaking the umbrella over the head of a man who filled out a light check suit in a way that showed the effects of muscular training.

This time she used her left hand with the fingers and the thumb extended. The applause was mixed with mild gibes.

When a cane was produced Harry Hill walked up to the young woman, while the people in the galleries, the dress circle, the parquet, and the boxes and the lobby rose up and howled. Mr. Hill endeavored to stand still. He was encouraged to do so by 500 men in one breath, but the young woman laughed hysterically, and made him skip around the stage in a way that would have done credit to a lad in his teens. After great exertion he caused the cane to slide across her open hand to the floor. When satisfied he wiped his brow with a very fine silk handkerchief and made a very short speech, but what he said was drowned in the roar of voices among the audience. McNab and De Mille of the Madison Square Theatre tried to hold the cane in one position, but could not succeed. Then the stalwart young man in a light check suit tried to get a billiard cue to slide across her open hand to the floor. The audience noticed that the Wonder kept her feet together, and did not change color in her face, but the stalwart young man braced his feet and grew very red before he succeeded in downing the cane. Half a dozen others followed with varying success.

After a five-minute interval a bald-headed young man, in a brown suit, held a common cane-seat chair with its back against his breast, his right hand firmly grasping the front of the seat and his left the left front leg. The Wonder placed her hands over his, the tips of her fingers only touching the wood of the chair. He tugged away with sweat on his brow, but to no avail, for he flew up and landed with a crash. At this point, a tall man in a well-worn suit of black, adorned with a red flower at the button hole, came on the stage. He announced to the audience that the Wonder was a fraud, and to the reporters that he was Dr. Forrest. He said she couldn't move him with the chair. When he held it before him, she placed her hands on it, and it instantly began to vibrate. With the first motion the chair flew into the Wonder's face. It would have jammed her lip badly only she happened to have her mouth open. It struck an upper tooth, and she dropped the chair. Mr. Hurst at once walked forward and said that the Doctor did not hold the chair, but purposely allowed it to move out of his hands, and that such unfair treatment should not be submitted to. The Doctor said Mr. Hurst was trying to conceal a fraud.

POOR COPY

Miss Hurst again advanced to the footlights. The round-headed, thick-necked man, who had his head out with the umbrella at the opening of the show was holding a chair in his arms waiting for her. She turned him so that the audience could see the chair plainly. Then, in the view of all, she laid the palm of her right hand on the front of the middle slat in the back of the chair. Her fingers were held clear of the slat. Her left hand was placed in a similar manner on the top of the cane seat. With a hysterical laugh, she drew the man forward, shoved him back and threw him from side to side in spite of his utmost exertions. Her hands slid about on the smooth wood but did not leave it for some time. When they did the motions ceased. Like results followed the attempts of several other muscular men, including Harry Hill. While Miss Hurst stood bent over, with her feet together, and the men were braced with their feet well apart, it was noticed that the strongest men were thrown about less than the others. Those who tried holding the chair when the Wonder placed her hands over theirs said that she did not press their hands when the motions were strongest.

The most peculiar feature of each test was the jerky character of the motions. At times there was a slow, even movement, but it was generally otherwise. Several men, including the thick-necked man, made speeches, saying that they did their best to conquer her, but they were convinced that the power was not that of muscle.

Then the Wonder emptied men from a chair by placing her open palms against the sides of the chair back. One young man faced her sitting astride of the chair. She raised the chair clear of the floor the moment her hands touched it, and the young man hopped off the stage in a way that made the audience laugh and cheer for five minutes.

Dr. Taylor of Bellevue Hospital sat in the chair with his feet on the rounds, and was lifted up and tilted out as easily as the others had been. He said to the audience: "I weigh 250 pounds. I don't think many men in this audience can lift me." After the entertainment a private exhibition was given to a small party of ladies and gentlemen. The gentlemen exerted themselves to their own satisfaction in holding a chair while the Wonder placed her hand loosely on the slats or on their hand, but in each case they were thrown violently across the room. They panted and tugged, but the Wonder did not draw an extra breath, nor did her pulse quicken.

AN UNEARNED DIVIDEND.

It is announced that the Canada Pacific Railway Company will pay a dividend of five per cent. on its capital stock. The Capital Stock of the Company is $100,000,000, of which over $60,000,000 has been issued, a large portion of it having been given to Directors and others at 25 per cent., and some of it really given away for nothing. Upon all of this issue it is now proposed to pay a 5 per cent. dividend. The selling price of the stock in the market averages 42 per cent., so that the proposed dividend is nearly 12 per cent. upon what the stock can be bought for, twenty per cent. upon what the Directors and the original members of the Company are said to have paid for the stock, and an out and out bonus to those who got their stock through the medium of the Construction Company. To pretend that this dividend has been earned would be to insult public intelligence. The dividend is nothing more nor less than a division among the Stockholders of $3,000,000 of the money given by the people of Canada to build the road.

As a business transaction it looks like a profound blunder. What would be said of a man who would offer his note, bearing 5 per cent. interest, for sale at 40 cents on the dollar? A business man would consider it an admission of insolvency and would not touch the paper. This is what the C. P. R. is doing on an enormous scale. Such a transaction gives additional color to the rumors which are revived to the effect that the Company proposes to unload the railway on to the shoulders of the government. It may perhaps be answered that the Directors promised, when the stock was put in the market, that they would pay dividends of five per cent. during construction; but this is only another indication of an intention to get rid of the road when all the money, which could be made, had been made out of construction.

The Company pays 5 per cent., the government 3 per cent., making a total of 8 per cent. on the stock. On the stock sold to the Directors and the original members of the Company, this is equivalent to 32 per cent., upon that which is purchased in the open market at current rates, it is nearly 20 per cent. These are the alleged profits upon a line of railway—a large part of which is uncompleted, and hundreds of miles of which pass through an unsettled region.

This is a great country.

HOW IT WAS RECEIVED.

The nomination of Cleveland has been well received by Democrats everywhere. The threatened Tammany bolt does not seem likely to occur. High officials of the Association state that it will support Cleveland, but will not attempt to influence the vote of the labor organizations; but much will depend upon the strength developed by the Independent movement. If this is strong enough to put Cleveland's election beyond a doubt, Tammany will do its level best for him. The nomination does not entirely suit the old party managers, of whom the New York Sun may be taken as spokesman; but the Sun will give the ticket a loyal support. The New York Tribune, which is the principal Blaine organ, pretends to be delighted over the result, and says Cleveland will not receive the support of his party. It can scarcely be that the Tribune knows more about the Democratic party than the members of that party do themselves. Other republican papers take the same position. On the other hand the Springfield Republican says the Democrats have an even chance of winning, the Boston Transcript, Republican, says the nomination shows courage and sagacity, the Commercial Advertiser of New York, also Republican, thinks he is the strongest man who could be selected, and has no opinion to express as to the result. The Independent papers, such as the Boston Herald and New York Telegram cordially approve of the nomination.

Among the bolting Republicans the nomination meets with great favor. George William Curtis and one or two others, who may be called the leaders of the Independent party, while expressing their belief that Cleveland is the best man the Democrats could have chosen, would not pledge their support to him, pending the action of a convention of Independent to be held in a few days. The rank and file of the bolters are loud in the promises of support to the Democratic nominee.

Some enthusiastic Democrats anticipate a general stampede to Cleveland's support from all parts of the country, which will completely extinguish the Republican party. One hopeful Independent, speaking of the movement with which he is identified, says, "it means a revolution, which will result in a complete readjustment of political affairs."

It is claimed that Hendricks' name on the ticket will give Indiana to the Democrats, and the Democrats of Boston talk about carrying Massachusetts. Something will depend upon Butler's course. If he persists in running as the nominee of the Greenbackers and Anti-minopolists he may split the party in the Bay State. If he does not, as Cleveland will receive a large part of the vote which elected Governor Robinson over Butler, Massachusetts may probably leave the Democratic ranks.

The platform of which Cleveland is the representative promises reform in the administration of affairs, the reduction of the tariff so as to do away with needless taxation, and its general rearrangement

so as to favor all industries alike—a revenue tariff, with incidental protection, is that favored by the Democrats.

The rival tickets are:
Blaine and Logan.
Cleveland and Hendricks.

THE CENTRAL RAILWAY.

One of the Directors of the Central Railway writes to the GLEANER to correct a statement in a recent issue to the effect that the Company intend to build from the I. C. R. to the coal fields and stop there; and he says, "I beg to say that no such intention was ever entertained by the Company that I am aware of. The survey from Little River to Gibson will be resumed at an early day if extraordinary obstacles do not prevent the prosecution of the work." We are glad to receive this assurance, because our information that the Company did not contemplate constructing the whole road as a complete line alarmed us somewhat. We felt that such a plan would be likely to defeat the project altogether.

We sincerely trust that no obstacles, extraordinary or otherwise, will prevent the early beginning of the work of construction and its rapid completion. There does not seem to be any good reason why the various interests connected with the enterprise should not work harmoniously, and if they do it will not be long before the Central will be in full running order.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Reynold's Newspaper, an English publication, says that Canada stands in England in the same relation as a conquered country. It says that the Dominion can only be retained as a part of the Empire "by granting her a wider home rule than she enjoys at present."

The article on "Faith Cures" in a late issue of the tri-weekly Gleaner has attracted very much attention, and demands are constantly received for copies of the paper. These we have been unable to supply as our edition was exhausted on the day of publication. The article will be reproduced in our weekly edition, which will be issued to-morrow, and all orders received for the tri-weekly will be filled with copies of the weekly. Persons wishing copies of the weekly edition should leave in their orders early.

John B. Gough, who has lectured 5400 times, says his knees still tremble when he first addresses an audience. "One of the oldest, ablest and, some say, coolest lawyers in the Province says that he never rises in court without a struggle to overcome his nervous agitation. Many prominent actors, the best of them, are excessively nervous about going on the stage. There is one class of people who are never nervous—the self-sufficient nobodies—it is the audience which is nervous in their case."

The Ottawa Free Press accepts the GLEANER's view of the future of Canada, saying in response to the remarks of a critic: "It is not Canadian Independence but Separation that the Free Press opposes. There is a great difference between them." Our contemporary is right; and it would be also right if it said that without independence separation from the Mother Country is sure to come. With the independence of the colonies only is a complete and lasting Union of the component parts of the British Empire possible.

A report comes from San Francisco to the effect that the Chinese in the United States have been called upon to contribute money in aid of the Pekin government in a war against France, and that $500,000 has already been sent forward for the purpose and another half million is to follow. It is further stated on the authority of the President of the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Company that "a secret treaty was made in December, 1883, between Germany and China, whereby the former will support the latter in a war with France. In return, Germany is to exercise sovereignty over the island of Formosa, and to construct naval and military stations at different points for the Chinese government. China will refuse the payment of $250,000,000 indemnity to France."

HELPING HIMSELF.

Preliminary Examination of John L. Murray.

The Prisoner Committed for Trial at the Next County Court.

The preliminary examination of John L. Murray, charged with the larceny of a cooking stove from the lumber camp of Charles E. Smith, on the Southwest Miramichi, in Northumberland county, was held yesterday before a Police Magistrate. The case excited considerable interest among the lumbermen, and G. F. Gregory, for the prosecutor, and G. F. Gregory, for the prisoner. The first witness was Charles E. Smith, who said: I reside in the City of Fredericton, in the County of York. I am a lumberman. I was engaged in lumber in 1882 and 1883 on the Southwest Miramichi, the different parts of my operations were all in the County of York. At the close of my operations in the spring of 1883, I had a quantity of camp utensils which had not disposed of. I left part of them in the camp at Wiley brook, and part I brought to the storehouse at Hayes, in the Parish of Stanley, in the County of York. In the following November, that is last November, I took an account of the utensils in the camp. I had stuff in three camps and a storehouse near one of the camps. I went in November last and took a man with me; we took the stuff from the storehouse and put it in the camp alongside. The stuff in the camp as I took a memorandum of it, was: Two sets of bob-sleds, five guy chains, four bunk chains, one single block, one belt, one saw, one vice, twenty-one joints of stovepipe, nine bars of iron, one cook stove, and other articles.

I Locked the Camp
and kept the key. The man I took with me was named Hunter. In the following January or February I again visited the camp spoken of. I cannot fix the precise date. John Sterling went with me. I found the window on the side of the camp broken out; the door was still locked. I unlocked the door, went in and found some articles missing, viz: the cooking stove, one bob-sled, except the pole which was left, one one bunk chain, one guy chain, eighteen joints of stovepipe, and one hanging lamp. With the cooking stove there were two or three pots taken. The value of the stove and parts would be $25.00, the other articles taken would be worth about $25 more. I had not given any permission to any person to take the articles out of the camp. I have not seen any of the articles since to my knowledge. The strips nailed on the outside of the window were taken off and the window broken out. There were tracks in the snow to the window and the camp. I know the prisoner John L. Murray. I did not see Murray the day I locked up the camp. The next time I saw Murray was at the election in January last. Last Thursday I saw him on the road about a mile this side of Boiesboro. I asked him if he would pay me for the articles taken out of the camp, and for my time and trouble going up there.

He said He had no Money.
He said he took the cooking stove, two lamps, and two pots out of the camp, he had broken his stove going into the woods and had gone to my camp and taken out the above named articles. He said he did not take the sled and chains, after I had asked him whether he had or not. I said you must have taken the sled as there was no other person there to take it, he said he did not take it. I said then why did you not fasten the camp up and write me a letter that you had taken the articles. He made no reply. I then said I have met you twice since the camp was broken into and you did not mention it to me. He then said I will give you an order on Mr. Wm. Richards for $50. I said I would not take it, but offered to take one hundred and twenty-five dollars. That was after the information was laid, John Hawthorn, Deputy Sheriff of York, arrested the prisoner. I did not tell Murray that I had commenced proceedings against him. He was arrested immediately after the conversation. Mr. Gregory cross-examined the witness at length.

Abraham Harris, was also examined, and swore that he helped Murray to take the stove out, he did not know at the time that the stuff belonged to Smith, but that it was Smith's camp. Murray sent him in after a cooking stove, and told him to get the stove, the stove was brought out through the door. That was all that was taken out of the camp at that time. The stove was taken to Murray's camp. He heard Murray say he got a stove from Charles E. Smith, did not say what stove.

The Police Magistrate committed Murray for trial at the ensuing October County Court, and admitted him to bail, in the sum of $1,000, himself $500, and sureties Joseph Phillips and Timothy Lynch in $250, each.

Rumblings at Sunbury's Shiretown.
On Monday last, a considerable number of empty rum casks were shipped from this place per steamer "David Weston" apparently to St. John, looking as though perhaps the parties intended discontinuing the trade which they had formerly been used in.

But more probably they are to be again replenished with the rum, and sent back to the parties, for the good of them who delight in keeping their mind spiritually enlightened by stimulation as occasion may require.

Since the demise or somniferous state of those legal functionaries, called the "Board" has taken place. Rum has been gradually assuming his former position and position in society at the shire-town, and judging by the efficiency of Magistrates, may at any time declare his entire ascendancy in defiance of all law to the contrary, either human or Divine.

A number of social drinkers, some partially and some totally, under the influence, were on exhibition at this place on Saturday evening last, and also one poor fellow on Sunday.

Thus it was, and thus it now is.

Cut out Box.

SPORTING NOTES.

The Pacer Westmont Travels a Mile in 2.01 3/4 amid the Wildest Enthusiasm.
The fourth day of the Chicago Driving Park summer meeting was productive of the most extraordinary event in the history of trotting or pacing, namely the travelling of a mile in two minutes and one and three-quarter seconds, by the well known pacer Westmont, son of the great trotting sire Almont, whose death was announced a few days ago. This feature of the day's entertainment was wholly unexpected by the large crowd in attendance, who had expected to see Jay-Eye-See and Johnnie try to beat their records; but the black trotter did not show at all, and the 2.10 pacer went around the track informally in 2.13 1/2.

There were three regular races programmed, the 2.15 class, 2.24 class and 2.17 pacing class. These were all disposed of in straight heats, and the betting was light. The track has been elegantly shaped up after the recent rains, and was in fine condition. Purely to entertain the big crowd, Mr. Johnson, the owner of Westmont, consented to let the horse go a mile with a running mate, and John Campbell, part owner of the Richbell, drove the pacer. At a word he sent them off at a lightning clip, and they made the first quarter pole in 30 seconds. The rate was now perceptibly quickened, and the pacer with his galloping mate sped on to the half-mile pole, in exactly one minute, pacing the second quarter in 54 seconds. Without a waver the horse went to the third quarter in 1.30 at a 2-minute gait, and rounded for home with no perceptible diminution of speed. The pair had reached the distant stand, and it seemed a certainty that the mile would be done in two minutes, when the steadiness of the running horse carried Westmont off his feet.

Campbell tried hard to bring him back to a pace, and slowed him up materially, in the effort, but he crossed the score on a break in the unparalleled time 2.10 3/4. The enthusiasm of the crowd was boundless when the figures were hung out from the blackboard, and a day of driving common sport was converted into the most notable day in American turf history. The owner of Westmont, Mr. B. J. Johnson, of Cresson, Ia., had already matched his horse to go with running mate against Frank and mate for $2500 a side, and $500 forfeit had been put up by each party.

Notes.
A regatta on the Potomac will take place in September for prizes aggregating $5000. Hanlan, Ross, Teemer, Hosmer and Plaisted have agreed to take part.

It is said there is in Birmingham, England, a professional pedestrian named Sheppard who has accomplished in private the marvellous feat of running 12 miles in one hour. New Orleans claims to have a lad 18 years old, weighing about 138 pounds and standing 5 feet 8 1/2 inches, who is the coming champion pugilist of the middle weights. He is a good, gritty fighter and a glutton in taking punishment.

The backers of Fred Scott, the St. John runner, who was defeated by Cliff in this city last autumn, are trying to arrange a 100 yard race with Seymour another St. John runner of some repute.

Hamilton is with out any doubt the greatest jumper in the United States. He can jump 14 feet 8 inches in a broad, single standing jump, and in three standing jumps he can cover 38 feet 14 inches.

A glove contest has been arranged between Hial H. Stodard, the Syracuse Wonder, and John Kilrain, of Boston. The conditions are four rounds, the winner to receive 65 and the loser 35 per cent. of the gate receipts. The match is to take place at Boston at an early date.

The State of Maine.
The I. S. S. Company's fine steamer State of Maine, went ashore off Point Lepreau, 25 miles from St. John, in the fog on Saturday afternoon. She had a full passenger list and a large load of freight. Every person, all its baggage and freight and most of the moveable furniture of the boat was got out. No one was seriously hurt. The passengers were taken ashore in the fog boats of the steamer, and on Sunday were conveyed to St. John in the Empress. The cause of the wreck is unknown; but was probably due to the fact that during the last few days the tide has set in more strongly than usual, and the vessel was carried by it out of her course. The State of Maine will prove a total wreck, but it is hoped that her engine will be saved. There is a partial insurance. She was the largest steamer running between Boston and St. John, and in every way a fine vessel. Her tonnage was 1410. She had been not quite two years on the route. Capt. Pike, the commander of the unfortunate steamer, was the oldest captain on the line, having been 35 years in the employ of the Company. This is the first vessel he has lost. The Company has within a few months had two vessels wrecked, the City of Portland being the other, and one, the Falmouth, burned. The loss to the Company is heavy, and the indirect injury to the Province is great, as these repeated accidents tend to destroy the confidence of tourists in this favorite route of travel.

Which Statement is Correct?
Thomas H. Kinnear, Grand Master of N. B., speaking at the 12th of July celebration in Sussex, said:—"They also heard the objection urged that they are a political organization. They were in one respect, but not in respect to political partisanship. They lay no restraint upon the members of the institution to act for and vote for any particular political party."

Andrew J. Armstrong, Grand Secretary, speaking at the same demonstration, at the same place, the same day and immediately after the Grand Master, after referring to the refusal of the Canadian House of Commons to pass the Orange Incorporation Bill, said:—"We want more good men like the member of Kings County, Prof. Foster. They would let Harper and Weldon see their strength at the next general election."

Now the question that suggests itself to all ordinary minds is, which of these dignitaries of the Order is correct as to the political aspect of the order?

EVENTS ABOUT HOME.

The Miramichi Railway Begun.

Drowned while Bathing—A Sequel to the Circus.

Sunbury Election.
Judgment in this matter has been postponed until Friday.

Episcopal.
Rev. J. McLeod, of the Free Baptist Church, baptized two young men on Sunday morning last.

Collision.
The Steamer "Star" collided with the tug "New City" at Indiantown last Saturday. The Star was badly damaged on her port side, the tug escaped injury.

Methodist Bazaar.
If the weather proves favorable the Methodist Bazaar, to be held to-morrow and Thursday, will be no doubt a great success. The arrangements are even more perfect than they were before the postponement.

Paying Policemen.
In St. John, private parties have to pay policemen for the simple performance of their duties. Messrs. T. Rankin & Sons, paid Officer Corbett $20 for discovering a fire in their premises on the morning of last Friday.

Sail Vigorous.
One day last week Captain David Currier, of this city, piloted a heavily laden schooner from Fredericton to St. John in the face of adverse winds. The Captain, though nearly a score beyond three abated the score years and to, is still vigorous.

Drowned.
James Currie, a 12 year old son of Mr. Duncan Currie, of Macquaque, was drowned on Saturday evening last while in bathing. The boy had got beyond his depth and became exhausted. All efforts to save him proved unsuccessful. His remains were received and interred in the Macquaque burying ground Sunday afternoon.

A Sequel to the Circus.
A young man named Bailey, from Nashwanika, came to town yesterday to see the circus. He got drunk, fighting drunk, and while up to the "Castle" drove his right hand through a pane of glass cutting his hand and wrist in a frightful manner, the main arteries being severed. Dr. Coburn dressed the injured member.

New Church.
The Free Baptist of Bear Island, have entered into a contract with Mr. Alf. Christie, to build a new Church in that place. Operations are to be commenced immediately. The building is to cost about $1400, of which one half has been subscribed. Rev. Mr. Reed is pastor of the Bear Island congregation.

What Was Up?
Bystanders in the vicinity of Phoenix Square, were amused yesterday by seeing an Indian woman give an Indian who was with her a violent slap across the face, right in the mouth in fact. The pair were talking apparently in a friendly fashion, but in a dialect unfamiliar to those standing around. When the conversation ended in the above manner. The noble red-man folded his tent and started.

Sudden Death.
Mr. Alonzo Taylor, a well-to-do farmer, residing about 2 miles above Florenceville Station, Carleton County, was suddenly taken ill while on his way to milking on Friday. His wife saw him and ran towards him and found him in nearly an unconscious state. He made signs to her that he was dying and she ran to a neighbor's house for help, but before she returned her husband was dead. Mr. Taylor was about 60 years old.

Where Does My Pay Come From?
That was the question that fell on the ears of the Police Magistrate, yesterday, at the conclusion of the examination of John Murray. The witness, Carr, stated that his attendance and board had cost him $8 and he wanted to know who was to "make up" the amount. The P. M. told him he was sorry, but he had no authority to order payment. The witness left saying that before he appeared again as a witness he would require his pay.

King's County Circuit.
On Friday last the jury in the case of Taylor vs. Campbell, found a verdict for $700 in favor of the plaintiff. It was an action brought to recover a balance on a lumbering transaction. A. S. White and F. W. Stockton for plaintiff; Mr. C. N. Skinner, Q. C., and Mr. P. E. Morton for defendant. Carvell vs. Peters Combination Lock Co. was an action for some $1,700 on a promissory note. The case was made a remnant on application of R. LeB. Tweedie, who read affidavits to the effect that a motion had been made before Judge King, who granted the order putting the company in liquidation, to have this cause tried, but no decision had yet been given. The other case was settled, and the court adjourned sine die.

Robbins' Circus.
This circus was well attended, the attendance of people from the country being very large. While no part of the show was particularly startling, some of its features were good, and as a whole the ring performance was up to the average. There was an absence of several acts usually seen at circuses, and the programme was limited and not very varied. Roberts, the clown, was amusing without being coarse. His comic antics brought down the house. The lady performer on the trapeze was very graceful, the cannon ball feats of Mr. Goffrey were remarkable, and the balancing of Charrot were quite equal to anything in their line ever done here. The menagerie is rather a small affair.

The performance of this circus in Belfast, Me., June 15th, a row took place between some roughs and the attaches of the company. During the melee one man had his leg broken.

THE COURTS.

Police Court.

MONDAY.
Two drunks, $5.00 or ten days jail each, one paid up, the other went to jail.

TUESDAY.
The charges against Clement McGill for keeping his barber-shop open on Sunday, and Charles Orr for violation of C. T. A. were on application of Counsel, adjourned over until Friday.

Three Canada Temperance Act cases, Wm. Aertling (Queen Hotel), Ohas. Coleman (Barber House) and J. Alfred Russell were disposed of. The defendants pleaded guilty and were fined $50, and costs each.

Three young men were arrested last night for refusing to give their names and business. They were from the country and were locked up until this morning when they gave their names to the P. M. and were by him cautioned and let go.

Ratcliff vs. McDonald. A case of assault which the parties amicably settled on the recommendation of the P. M. The belligerents shook hands and went away pacified.

Sammel Hewey preferred a charge of abusive language against John Paries, but failing to appear this morning to prosecute, the case was dismissed.

Some young lads broke into Z. R. Everitt's store last night and stole some cutlery and other small goods. No arrests have as yet been made, but the police are on the track of the guilty parties.

Equity Court. St. John Sittings.
The argument on a motion to dissolve an injunction in the suit of Vaughan vs. Cunard was commenced on Saturday. The parties are owners of adjoining wharf properties at Indiantown and the facts appear to be that some time last season Vaughan extended his wharf into the river some twenty feet, rendering as the defendant claims, his wharf almost useless. On the 30th June last Cunard began driving piling with the intention of extending his wharf to the same extent as that of Vaughan, but was restrained by order of the injunction got by Mr. Doherty as solicitor for Vaughan. The affidavits of both parties are, of course, contradictory, one alleging that the proposed extension will practically block his wharf up altogether and the other as stoutly denying this. Messrs. W. B. Glendon and John Kerr are moving to dissolve the injunction, and Messrs. G. G. Gilbert, Q. C., and Charles Doherty contra.—Globe.

Personal.
Mr. C. Burpee, M. P., was in town yesterday. Mr. John V. Ellis, M. P., of the Globe is in the city.

The Attorney General has gone to the Westmorland circuit.

Hon. A. Harrison and Hon. F. Woods M. L. C. are in town to-day.

Mr. Geo. Baird M. P., of Victoria, was in town on Sunday last.

P. Geo. McFarlane, B. A., Principal of St. Stephen High School, is home on his vacation.

Rev. Mr. Mowatt has arranged to exchange pulpits with Rev. Mr. Simpson, of Halifax, for several Sundays to come.

We are sorry to learn of the illness of Mr. Joseph Reed, of Springfield, York Co. At last accounts he was very low and not expected to recover.

Miramichi Valley Railway.
The first sod of the Mira. Valley Railway was turned yesterday by Messrs. Glendon and Reed in the presence of a large number of spectators. The first two miles of the road the contractors themselves expect to build; the remaining portion will be let to sub-contractors. Messrs. Brown, Burden and Cliff of Queensbury have entered into an agreement with the contractors, and expect to have final arrangements made to-night to construct several miles of the road beyond the first two. Practical operations to be commenced immediately. Other contractors are on the ground ready to take contracts for further portions of the road.

Minor Matters.
John Cadwallader had his watch and chain stolen out of his waistcoat pocket, while working at St. Ann's Church last week.

The St. Mary's Fife and Drum band accompanied the Orangemen to their picnic at McConaghy's Grove, Marysville, on Saturday.

The three rooms of the Fredericton Boom Co. were shut down yesterday to allow the men to come to town to see the circus.

Eight hundred and fifty joints of lumber were rafted at the Douglas boom last week. The postponed Catholic Picnic at St. Andrews takes place to-day.

A Successful Agent.
Mr. J. F. Vanbuskirk, who has been four weeks on the road as an agent for Messrs. Thompson McFarlane and Anderson, J. Edgecombe & Sons and Walter McFarlane has sold in that time 48 mowers, 25 horse rakes, 10 light carriages and a number of pitching machines. This speaks well for the character of the firms he represented, for the general thrift of York and Sunbury farmers and for Mr. Vanbuskirk's push and energy as an agent.

Bazaar and Tea-Meeting.
The Baptist people of Centreville, Carleton Co. realized $400 at their Bazaar and tea-meeting held there on Saturday July 12th. It is considered the largest and most successful tea-meeting held in Carleton County for many years.

Farwell Sermon.
Rev. Thomas Pierce, who goes to Boabec, Charlotte County, preached his farewell sermon to the Methodist congregation here on Sunday evening.

The Mission Fathers are to be stationed in Portland and have charge of ecclesiastical affairs there under the direction of the Bishop of St. John. Capt. Elkin's residence on Bridge road has been purchased for them. Bishop Sweeny announced in St. Peter's Church, on Sunday, that the fathers would be here in about a fortnight.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

Germany will Demand an Apology.

Another Collision on the Intercolonial Line.

Germany Insulted.
(Special to Gleaner.)
PARIS, July 15.—It is probable that Germany will demand redress for the outrage upon her flag in Alsace. It is stated that a Commissioner of Police handed the Prussian flag to the mob, and that a band of roughs tore another on the Boulevard Haussmann at Cologne.

Recent Deaths.
(Special to Gleaner.)
LONDON, July 15.—Abbe Francois Napoleon Moigne is dead.

Admiral Ewart died yesterday. In 1862 he twice gave assistance to American men-of-war, for which he was thanked by the government at Washington.

The Lords and the Franchise Bill.
(Special to Gleaner.)
LONDON, June 15.—A Conference of Conservative peers and members of the House of Commons was held at noon to-day at the Carlton Club. Lord Salisbury vigorously denounced Lord Weymss proposed motion that the House of Lords should consider and pass the Franchise Bill.

Struck by Lightning.
(Special to Gleaner.)
PARIS, July 15.—Lightning struck a circus tent at Barmen yesterday and killed four persons, injured seven severely and many others slightly.

In Collision.
(Special to Gleaner.)
DORSET, July 15.—Steamer New Brunswick of the International Line collided with a Vineyard Haven schooner last night off Seguin Island near Portland, and badly damaged the schooner. The steamer was uninjured.

The Cholera.
(Special to Gleaner.)
MARSEILLE, July 15.—35 deaths from cholera last night. At Toulon there were 13 deaths. The disease is increasing.

Dynamiter Arrested.
(Special to Gleaner.)
GLASGOW, July 15.—Police here have arrested a man named James Walker, who is suspected being a dynamiter. He made a desperate resistance, and attempted to shoot and stab his captors. He had in his possession a revolver and belt of American make, filled with cartridges. Papers were also found upon his person giving names of supposed dynamiters.

THE C. T. A.
The Inspector and his Assistant have a busy time. Yesterday was circus day in more senses than one. Taking advantage of the evident freedom with which sales of the ardent were being made last night, Inspector Belyea and Assistant Inspector Roberts visited some of the "dives." Mrs. Jaffray, on the corner of King and Carleton streets, was first visited. The proprietress was exceedingly indignant that any one would accuse her of selling liquor. She admitted that a young man named McKinnon, to whom she granted the privilege of occupying a room in the house for the sum of $1.00 per week had improperly disposed of gin on the sly; but that she would do the like-shade of the immortal Jaffray forbid it. However the Chief Inspector thought there was a suspicion "recentness" about the odor of gin in the air, and a search revealed one bottle hidden in the swill barrel, and the fragments of two which had been dropped over the stairs. Mrs. Jaffray was more or less surprised at the discovery; but remained firm in her belief that no man should be so ungallant as to take the testimony of a gin bottle in preference to her good word.

On King Street.
This morning Assistant Inspector Roberts observed three individuals on refreshment bent, entering the premises of Mrs. Grannahan, on King street. He timed his entrance until he thought proceedings had reached a climax and then walked in. The three worthies had their glasses to their lips, and the partly empty bottle of brandy stood upon the table. The bottle was confiscated and the names of the guests duly noted by the officer.

In St. Mary's
the premises of Moses Timmins were visited. Moses had a fine lot of customers around him, and stood on his rights as a British subject; but having some doubts as to the constitutionality of his proceedings, deemed it advisable to pass the gin out among his friends. The Inspector stopped four bottles in transit, and Moses is not quite as sure as he was that the Inspector has to have a warrant. Ben Moody believed that discretion was the better part of valor, and that the best place to keep the Assistant Inspector was on the outside of his domicile, which he did by refusing to unlock the door. Daniel and Mrs. Hanson also objected to receiving the officers of the law at such unseemly hours, and declined to open their premises.

GLEANINGS.
A Good Budget of News from all Parts of the Province.
Eastport has a new Democratic paper called the Eastport Standard.

The Carleton (St. John) firemen will have an excursion to St. Stephen shortly.

Sufficient money having been subscribed, the St. Croix regatta is now a certainty.

Voting for the repeal of the Scott Act will take place in Westmorland on the 11th of August.

Major-General Middleton, the new Commander of the Forces, will probably arrive in Canada on the 15th inst.

A new lighthouse will shortly be erected on Campobello. The location will be at Mulholland's point, entrance to Lubec Narrows.

L. Chubbuck preached at the St. John Institute on Sunday last. He leaves this week for Newcastle to conduct a series of meetings there.

The Launch of Mr. Gains S Turner's magnificent ship at Harvey will take place on the 23rd inst.

Three hundred and twenty acres of land in Southern Manitoba, lately owned by Mr. Finney, and for which he has refused $2,000 since the boom, was yesterday sold at auction to Mr. Vineberg for $350.—Manitoba Free Press.

The lumber shipments from Shediac this season are much smaller, up to the present date, than for many years past, many of the deals cut along the railway coming to St. John, as the freights here are lower.

The directors of the Eastern Marine Insurance Company have called a special meeting of the stockholders for the 22nd inst., to consider the recent action relative to the winding up of the Company's affairs.

The offices of the general superintendent and general freight agent of the I. C. R. are being removed to their quarters in the new general offices building at Moncton. Other departments will be removed immediately.

A little daughter of Mr. J. T. Raymond, of Woodstock, aged 3 years, whilst playing around some logs near her home, on Tuesday last, had one of her fingers so badly jammed that it had to be amputated.

Mr. Stewart, of Chipman, Queens county, was found dead in his bed on Wednesday morning last. This was a great surprise to everybody, as he appeared to be as well as usual and was in his accustomed place at Red Bank church the Sunday before.

The survey of the Central Railway is progressing rapidly. A line has been run through the coal-fields of Queens County and over the greater part of the distance to Fredericton. The surveyors are now engaged on the eastern end of the line towards the Intercolonial Railway.

On Saturday last the St. John Typographical Union elected the following officers:—President, John Law; vice-president, John Beazley; rec. and cor. sec., H. E. Colner; financial sec., James Berry; treasurer, John W. Perkins; serg.-at-arms, Duncan Brown.

Two deserters from the H. M. S. "Dido" who were arrested by the St. John police prior to the ship's arrival at that port, were taken on board Friday morning and placed in the lock-up. About two o'clock Saturday morning they succeeded in breaking loose from their fetters and at once jumped overboard. Had they attempted to swim to Carleton they would probably have made their escape. They tried to swim to the east side, however, but the current was too strong for them. Finding they were losing their reckoning, and were being swept out to sea, they cried for assistance. A boat was put off from the man-of-war and they were taken on board again.

A MAIDEN FAIR.

By Charles Gibbon.

"Ay, they are fine," she answered, gravely, checking the inclination she felt to show her dislike for his conventional expression of admiration: "we who have seen them before believe they are something more than admirable—we cannot put our wonder into words."

"That is exactly how I feel," he answered, evidently quite unconscious of the rebuke conveyed in her simple words. "But remarkable as these phenomena are, will you believe it, there is something which occupies my mind so much at present that I am unable to give them proper attention?"

"Indeed?"

"It is true. May I tell you what it is, Miss Murray?"

"May I speak to you first, Mr. Cargill?"

Even his dull self-conceit was taken aback by this curious way of replying to his question. He fancied he had spoken in the tones of a charmer—he did believe himself an invincible lady winner—and she spoiled all his fine preparations by a request which he could not refuse. He had a great objection to be crossed even in trifles.

Yet she had spoken very quietly; and the wonder overhead—now appearing as luminous white streams simply—shone on her calm, sad face, making it so beautiful that for the first time he became vaguely conscious that there was something in the world finer and nobler than himself.

He made the grand bow which a dancing-master had taught him, and which he had learned to perform with less grace than an awkward elephant might have shown.

She smiled in a sad, half-hearted way; but still she smiled, and his good opinion of himself was restored. That bow had conquered her.

"I was just going to ask you, Mr. Cargill, what did Mr. Ross look like when you gave him that dram from your flask? Did he look as if he had been drinking?"

"This was extremely disagreeable in several ways, but particularly because it took his mind entirely away from the arrangement of the petty phrases in which he was to express the thought which was uppermost in it. His answer was so prompt that to her quick wit it seemed to have been studied."

"I really did not think so, or you may be sure I would have been the last person in the world to add to the poor fellow's affliction—to say nothing of the fact that consideration for our safety would have prevented me doing so."

"Did you speak to him?"

"For a few minutes, yes."

"And he answered you sensibly enough?"

"I must say that so far as my recollection goes, he did. No one was more surprised than I was when the real state of the case was brought so unpleasantly before us. But of course I had no suspicion that he would be guilty of such—such stupidity."

He had hesitated over the word he should use; for he desired to show a friendly disposition towards Ross.

"Thank you, Mr. Cargill. It was a pity you gave him that dram."

She turned away, looking anxiously for the return of Campbell with the doctor. Cargill's heavy paw rested on her arm.

"Are you forgetting, Miss Murray, that I asked to be allowed to speak to you?"

"No."

"Then permit me to do so now" (he had resumed his grand air and the flabby smile which he thought so winning). "You know the question I want to ask; your father wishes you to say yes; and I need not say that I desire you to say yes."

She turned upon him those clear bright eyes and that fair troubled face.

"I will speak honestly, Mr. Cargill, and I tell you once for all that as long as I live my answer will be the same to you as it is now—you can never have yes from me."

"But your father would like it?"

"Ay, but he would never wish me to do what I do not like and do not think would be right."

The man was not a wooer; he had not the feelings of one. So instead of persuading, instead of feeling that he must give everything to win the object he desired, he felt his pride wounded, he drew up his big frame and used reproach.

"It cannot be that after what has happened you still think of this man, Ross? You yourself said that a man who could disgrace himself as he has done would not be worth thinking about."

She felt her cheeks tingling, and she looked down as she spoke in a low voice.

"You have no business with what I may think, Mr. Cargill."

Then she looked up and her eyes brightened again as she cried; "Here's the doctor!"

It was curious how the pride-puffed form of Cargill appeared to collapse at that announcement, and he slunk back a few paces.

Campbell came forward with a grey-haired, muscular-looking gentleman, whose fresh, healthy face gave evidence that he lived much out of doors. On the way to the steamer Campbell had told

Dr. Pratt the circumstances of the case, so that he was ready to see the patient at once. Annie went down to the cabin with him, and, after some hesitation, Cargill followed, but stopped at the foot of the stair.

Ross was lying on the seat where he had fallen when he made his attempt to leave. He was again in a state of stupor. Captain Duncan was moving restlessly about; Jock Burns was standing by, soiled and indifferent.

Annie watched the doctor's face eagerly whilst he was examining the patient; and waited, breathless, for his verdict.

The doctor treated the case in a brisk, off-hand way as one of mere drunkenness, and Annie's heart ached with shame.

"He is a strong, healthy fellow," he said, "and there is nothing the matter with him except that he has had a drop too much. Put him into a berth, and let him sleep it off. He'll be all right when he wakens."

Then the doctor, too, was against her; he also found that common explanation for the condition of Ross. Annie felt that the last hope of convincing her father that there was a mistake was gone. According to the doctor, there had been no "fit," no sudden attack of illness—only that vulgar crime of drunkenness.

But she had faith, and she did not despair even now.

Ross wakened in his berth early in the morning; but he was not yet "all right," as the doctor had predicted he would be. He was certainly much better; but he was still confused, and for a little unable to comprehend his position.

Then it flashed upon him with cruel vividness—the drink—the disgrace.

He could not yet recollect all that had happened, but enough was clear to make him anxious to get away from the "Mermaid" without causing more pain to Annie.

With that thought he turned out of the berth and soused his head well in cold water. Then he had only to pull on his boots and fasten his necktie, for his clothes had not been taken off. That done, he made his way to the deck, purposing to go on shore and take the first train home. What was to be done afterwards would be decided when his head was clearer.

Early as it was, however, Captain Duncan was already astir, and as soon as Ross appeared from below, they met.

"I am sorry for you Bob, but it's the best thing you can do to gang home by train. I dinna think I could thole to have you on board after what has ta'en place. Had you done it any other time, I wouldna have thought muckle about it; but when you were at the wheel and at such a place—oh, confound it, I canna think about it wi' my patience."

Ross bowed his head and could not speak. Presently the captain went on,—"Howsever, you can mak' your mind easy see far that I'll no speak a word about it, and the lads will hand their tongues for your sake. At the same time I'm done wi' you."

County Court House, in the City of Fredericton, on SATURDAY, the 30th DAY OF AUGUST
next, at the hour of TWELVE o'clock, noon:

A 1/2 the right, title, interest, property, claim or demand whatsoever, either at law or in equity, of EDWARD J. PARMENT, of in, to, or out of, or upon the following described lands and premises, to wit:—All that piece of land transferred to Edward J. Parment by Henry D. B. Parment, by deed dated June 18th, A. D. 1879, registered June 20th, A. D. 1879, and therein described as follows: All that certain tract, piece or parcel of land lying and being in the Parish of Southampton, and bounded as follows: Commencing at a cedar post standing on south east of Buttermill Creek, so called, thence following a line running south-easterly until it strikes the Neckawick Stream, thence following said Stream up or north-easterly to the mouth of Buttermilk Brook, so called, thence following said Buttermilk Brook to place of beginning, containing, by estimation, six acres, more or less.
Also, all that certain other lot, piece or parcel of land situate, lying and being in the said Parish of Southampton, in the County of York aforesaid, and described as follows: Beginning at a point where Buttermilk Brook crosses the Pensance Vale Settlement road, thence northerly along the said road to the Cold Spring Brook or Edward Parment's line, down the said Brook until it strikes the Buttermilk Brook, thence up the said Brook to the place of beginning, containing seven acres, more or less.

The same having been taken and seized under and by virtue of an execution issued out of the York County Court, at the suit of Irish Morrison against the said Edward J. Parment.
