SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINTS & VARNISHES

Fire may never come, but the deteriorating effect of the weather on buildings of every kind is certain, unless protected by paint.

Unprotected wooden surfaces crack and become open and porous, then decay and rot starts. This means expensive repairs, which can all be avoided by the regular use of paint.

Examine your buildings now—A little money spent in painting at once may save you much larger expenditure a little later.

Sherwin-Williams Paint, Prepared, is the ideal paint for outside use. It is made of the purest and best materials, thoroughly mixed and ground by powerful machinery according to special formulae, the result of years of experiment and experience in paint making.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING BOOM CONTINUES

Many Lots Have Been Sold Lately and Preparations for Building Are Going On

If there is another town on the St. John river that has a real estate and building boom equal to that which has been going on at Hartland season after season, The Observer would like to know all about it. It would make lively reading. It is a peculiar fact that this great boom the village is enjoying commenced the same year the war was declared, and the great conflict seems to have no adverse effect in this regard, although none can go so far as to say it has had any helpful effect at all.

Visitors who viewed the town from a distance—as from across the river—four years ago could hardly recognize the place today. The business portion is little changed, although the splendid new building of J. Clark & Son adds materially to the appearance of that section. The most noticeable change is in the south end and the highlands—that most slightly and picturesque region "on the hill." Here Hillcrest avenue has come into existence.

Hillcrest avenue is a street running along the southern boundary of the George R. Burt farm. A strip of land 11 rods wide and the length of the farm was bought by F. A. Aiton and S. S. Miller, who laid out the street and subdivided their holding into building lots 50 feet wide. No less than 21 of these lots have been sold, a dozen very nice houses have been built, more are to be built this season, and there are there still a number of lots available.

All the choice sites are not on Hillcrest, however, for during the boom some very nice houses have been built elsewhere. The beautiful flat at the front of the Gen. R. Burt property has, so to speak, been opened for settlement, and here are the new Church of England—a credit to any town—the comfortable residence of Roy Letson and the handsome bungalow just being completed by J. W. Montgomery.

Some recent transfers of village lots have been:

A. G. Baker, two lots on Burt's flat.

Rex L. York, James Faulkner and Brazil Seely, lots on H. D. Keswick's property.

Odour Oser, S. G. Barter and James Miller lots on Hillcrest.

Perry Shaw a lot from the McMullin property, south end.

Harvey Palmer has sold his farm to Ray Ebbett and has bought A. G. Baker's house on the property he recently purchased from the late H. M. Stevens.

Hillcrest Ave.

Some of the very best lots in this beautiful locality are still available. Ask to see plan and prices

Miss McCain Succeeds Miss Hazel Winter

Miss Hazel McCain of Florenceville has been appointed supervisor of Women's Institutes for New Brunswick in place of Miss Hazel Winter who resigned lately to accept a position in the west. Miss McCain is a graduate of the Lillian Massey School in Toronto and holds a license from the Provincial Normal School. Lately she has been connected with the dietician department of the Military Clearing Depot in Quebec. She is a daughter of Henry H. McCain of Florenceville.

Quartermaster Sergt. B. A. Campbell of Lanstown enlisted with the 64th and was transferred to the 104th. He comes of the stock of warriors bold, as his great-grandfather, C. H. McLaughlin served as a bugler in the old 104th and saw service in the war of 1812. For his valor he was granted 200 acres of land at Perth and on this farm his son still lives. He was with the 104th when they made their historical march to Quebec in the dead of winter through untrodden forests.

Sergt. Campbell went overseas in June 1916. He is 21 years of age and the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Campbell. Previous to the enlistment he was teacher of Manual Training in Florenceville Consolidated School.

Funeral of Mrs. George Taylor

The funeral of Mrs. George Taylor was held at the home of her father, Charles Stevens, on Friday afternoon and was largely attended by sympathizing friends. The service was read by Rev. N. Franchette, who preached a fitting sermon. Three hymns "Hush, Blessed are the Dead," "Peace Sweet Peace" and "Rock of Ages" were sung by a quartette comprised of Mrs. C. H. Taylor, Mrs. A. Y. Dickinson, E. C. Morgan and G. E. McGinley while Miss Elsa Sipprell, friend of the deceased, presided at the organ. Beautiful flowers laid on the casket were: Wreath, by the family; sheaf of carnation. The Observer Limited, with who Mrs. Taylor had formerly been employed, roses from Fred H. and Miss Marion Stevens, roses from Mrs. J. Kirkpatrick (Grand Falls), sheaf from Mrs. J. W. Stevens and family (Fairville), carnations from girl friends of Hartland, floral sheaf from the Royal Bank, and potted flowers from Mrs. C. R. DeWitt and Mrs. William Kerr. Interment was made in the family lot at Greenwood cemetery.

THE Y.M.C.A. NEEDS THE HELP OF ALL

The County Thoroughly Organized and Work of Soliciting is Under Way

By the unselfish zeal of E. W. Mair, F. O. Orelington, and G. E. Balmain, who spent last week organizing the parish committees, it is expected that the full allotment of the sum needed for the successful continuance of Y.M.C.A. war work will be subscribed with no real difficulty in any quarter.

The local committee met in the Armory on Friday evening and apportioned the work of soliciting through the rural districts of the parish as follows:

S. S. Miller—Cloverdale and East Cloverdale.

E. C. Morgan—Lower Brighton and Newburgh.

Clyde Rideout—Ashland and Mainstream.

Rev. E. A. Trites—Upper Brighton.

H. R. Nixon—East Brighton and Highgate.

Rex L. York—Coldstream, upper and lower road.

A. Plummer and F. Hagerman—Windsor, Carleton Place, Howard Brook.

The committees to canvass the village will be named at a meeting to be held in the Armory tomorrow (Friday) evening at sharp 8 o'clock. There should be a full attendance of all who are on the general committee, as well as any others who were not able to attend the previous meetings.

The great drive for Y.M.C.A. reinforcements is to take place May 7-9. The parish of Brighton is asked to contribute $800 in cash to assist the great Y.M.C.A. work for the boys at the front. Give what you can, be it much or little.

The other parishes are asked to raise amounts in proportion to their population and valuation, and it is expected that all will cheerfully respond with the full amount they have been allotted.

MILL BURNS AT BATH

The mill of J. O. Hayes, used for sawing lumber laths and with woodworking department, was completely destroyed by fire on the night or early morning of the 26. This saw mill was a great boon for Bath and will be a serious loss to the town, as well as the owner, who has the sympathy of the community in his loss.

The Red Cross Society met at its last meeting at the home of Mrs. J. R. Tracey, and the society was pleased to acknowledge the sum of $70 sent to them by the Holmesville Orange Lodge, and also $36 from the Mineral School by Stephen Kinney, Councillor of Kent; $5 also from McIsaac of Wicklow. The society sent Lady Tilley $50 and has forwarded since January first of this year 154 pairs of socks, and other supplies to the soldiers at the front.

E. S. Secord has sold his store and business to John K. Macintosh of this place. Mr. Secord intends to take up a small farm near Upper Brighton.

The farmers have begun ploughing and preparing for seeding the acreage for potatoes will be about as large as last year notwithstanding the high prices of fertilizer and help.

Robert Squires has purchased a farm at Beechwood and will devote his time at farming. He

This community expresses its sympathy to the relatives and families of the late Chester A. Wyman, who was and favorably known here, and to John E. Kinney in the loss of his wife, who leaves a large and vacant place in his family and home.

UNITED FARMERS OF NEW BRUNSWICK

This Live Body of Farmer-Business Men is Now Thoroughly Organized

Last week at Woodstock was held the first general organization meeting of the United Farmers of New Brunswick, a newly organized association of which much has already been heard. Observer readers will hear a great deal more about these energetic and progressive farmer-business men and in the forth coming issues will print, serially, a full report of the splendid convention of last week. A brief report was summarized last week. Next week the excellent address of T. W. Caldwell will be given in full, while here follows the report of the secretary-treasurer, C. Gordon Sharpe, secretary-treasurer.

The first meeting that had to do with the organization of the U. F. N. B. was held in the school house at Pembroke on January 18 of the present year. C. L. Smith and a number of local men addressed that meeting and at the meeting it was decided to send for the constitution of the United Farmers of Ontario and the meeting adjourned to meet again on Feb. 8. At the meeting held on Feb. 8, after a discussion on the constitution of the United Farmers of Ontario, a motion to adopt the constitution and proceed to organize a branch of the United Farmers of N. B. was carried unanimously and enthusiastically. So the first branch of the United Farmers of N. B. was organized at Pembroke, of which fact Pembroke feels rather proud. At that meeting it was felt necessary to have some general head of the organization until the Central Organization should be formed. C. S. Smith, N. F. Phillips, and C. Gordon Sharp were appointed an organization committee. C. Gordon Sharp was made general secretary-treasurer, pro tem. The second branch was organized at Wakefield on Feb. 13, the third at Lower Brighton on Feb. 15, so you see the committee lost no time in getting down to business. In the first days we found it necessary to make our own appointments for meetings, but as the movement began to get some head way, we found more requests coming in for an organizer than we could well fill. At a regular monthly meeting of the Pembroke Branch it was thought that as the Farmer's and Dairy-men's Association was meeting in Fredericton it would be a first class thing to bring our organization before their convention, with a view of advertising the movement throughout the province. It was pointed out at that meeting, since we had no central, we could not send delegates without first consulting the different branches, so to save time the Pembroke branch decided to send the delegates, and stand the expense, if the central organization did not care to do so after it was formed. C. S. Smith, N. F. Phillips, and your secretary were appointed delegates to go to Fredericton convention. The other branches also sent delegates. Florenceville sent Thomas Caldwell, Wakefield, Bert Shaw, Brighton, Frank Nixon. We were also met in Fredericton by other members of our movement. We were only able to get an half hour on the program of the Farmer's and Dairy-men's. The aims and object of the United Farmers were brought before them, and was most enthusiastically received by the delegates there assembled from the different parts of the province. The delegates also waited on the Minister of Agriculture and the Secretary of Agriculture and were well received by these gentlemen. We have found some parties with an axe to grind who have sought to pour cold water on the movement but it has but served to help along the cause as the farmers are very quick to see their real reason for such opposition. On the whole we have found the farmers everywhere ready for this movement, and in nearly every place that the committee has gone they have been tendered a hearty vote of thanks. The farmers have shown a genuine appreciation for efforts extended. Here I would say that the success of the growth of the movement has come about not because of any great ability and fine oratory on the part of organizers, but because the farmers everywhere have been doing some mighty serious thinking along this line, and everywhere we have found them waiting for this very thing. The way the movement has forged ahead speaks much for the intelligence of the farmers of N. B. and volumes on the condition that has made the need of such an organization so universally felt. Everywhere we have gone we have demands to start the Co-operative Company and get into handling some of the essentials of the farmers at once. Accordingly we have had letters patent of incorporation granted us by the Provincial Secretary Treasurer, and are now ready to call for share-holders in the United Farmers Co-operative Co. of N. B. Ltd. You will hear more of this from other sources. You will find by the statement attached that we have 18 branches organized, with a total membership of 900. I wish to speak of the help and encouragement we have received from the United Farmers of Ontario and the Canadian Council of Agriculture. The U. F. O. has been of great service to us, by council and encouragement, and by bringing our movement before the Canadian Council of Agriculture, which body has generally offered to help us, by setting us a man, to help in organizing. They are sending us J. J. Morrison to represent them at our meeting here. I wish to voice our appreciation of the services rendered by the two above mentioned organizations. As I think of our own workers who should come in for special mention I do not know where to begin or where to stop, as good men everywhere have asked to be used wherever we could place them, and the organization committee has had valuable assistance from many. I would mention the Jacksonville organization committee who organized at Waterville and in a special way T. W. Caldwell who has made many plans, and has never tired of doing things to help along the cause. A number of branches in sending in their report took occasion to protest against the day light saving bill. A number also protested against the Highway Act in that it does not provide for keeping the roads open in winter.

The Burden of Anxiety falls on the Women

ALMOST everybody is living under a tense nervous strain during these trying times, but the burden rests particularly heavy on the women in the home. Whatever their employment about the house, the mind has much time to dwell on the dreadful things that might happen.

There is nothing so wearing on the nerves as worry and anxiety. Nerve force is consumed at an enormous rate, and as the nerve cells become starved and depleted you find yourself unable to rest or sleep. You soon get so you can only see the dark side, and become down-hearted and discouraged.

Headaches, neuralgic pains, indigestion and failure of the vital organs to properly perform their functions are among the symptoms which tell of exhausted nerves and low vitality.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will help you if you will only give it a chance. We know this from long experience with this great food cure. We have proven it by evidence published in this paper from time to time. It only remains for you to put it to the test.

You may wonder why people are so enthusiastic in recommending this treatment for the nerves. But you will understand after you have experienced the benefits that are to be obtained by its use.

You will find yourself resting and sleeping better, appetite and digestion will improve and you will know again the joy of good health.

The Practical Economy of Good Paint

Good paint is never an expense, but a saving. By its use you save your buildings from a steady deterioration in value.

Economy in painting demands the use of Quality Paint—Martin-Senour "100% Pure" Paint—the paint that protects and preserves.

The use of cheap materials is a waste of money—a waste of time.

MARTIN-SENOUR "100% PURE" PAINT

wears longest, covers the greatest surface (900 sq. feet per gallon) and because of its even texture, takes least time and is easiest to apply. It is absolutely guaranteed—"100% Pure" White Lead, Zinc Oxide and highest quality Linseed Oil. It is admittedly the most economical paint on the market.

Take no chances. Make your investments secure by applying on your buildings, inside and out, protecting coats of Martin-Senour "100% Pure" Paint.

Just a Little Smile

Doing His Part.
"And so you have been getting married, Sam?"
"Yes, sah, I dun got married."
"And did you go on a honeymoon trip, Sam?"
"What's dat, sah?"
"Why, a trip. Did you travel?"
"Oh, yes, sah, I traveled."
"Where did you go to, Sam?"
"Why, I went to de neighbors' houses to 'de washin' what my wife was to do, sah."

A Serious Apprehension.
"I don't suppose the telephone operator at central will ever speak to me again," exclaimed Grande Rylee with characteristic gloom.
"What's the trouble?"
"From the way she spoke just now, I'm almost sure I called her in the middle of her knitting and made her drop a stitch."

Turned Up at Times.
Mrs. Flatbush—Where did your neighbor's little girl get her turned-up nose from?
Mrs. Bensenhurst—From her mother.
"Why, her mother hasn't a turned-up nose."
"Hain't she? I guess you never saw her when she lost at bridge."

Wasted Smokes.
"Don't you think the money you spend for cigars is wasted?" asked the sweet young thing.
"Some of it is, dear," replied the "steady."
"Some of it?"
"That's it. I always find a couple of busted ones in my vest pocket after I've spent an evening with you, dear."

HARD LUCK

"Did I ever bring you back your jacket that you lent me a week ago?"
"No, you certainly did not."
"I'm sorry, for I just stopped in to borrow it again."

When Mary's Lamb Grew Up.
Mary had a little lamb—
But how that lamb has grown!
Now Mary'd rather walk a mile
Than face that lamb alone.

Obedient Orders.
"See, here, daughter, didn't I tell you that young man of yours must keep early hours when he calls?"
"He does, pa. He never leaves later than 1 a. m. Could he keep any earlier hours?"

Better Without.
"I asked her to kiss me, without a wall."
"You were right to stipulate that, kissing through a wall 'galls' half the fun."

In the Library.
"I gave my friend a copy of 'Gems of Thought.'"
"Humph! I'll bet if you look for it in his shelves you'll find they've un-ut gems."

The Jewels Now.
"I heard that burglars made a big haul of valuables last night."
"Did they break into a jewelry store?"
"No; into a coal shed."

Good Reason for Laughing.
"What's the matter with that guy?"
"When I tied him of the hundreds of people who couldn't get street cars, a chuckled and chuckled."
"Oh, he owns a taxicab line."

Various Stages.
"Do you know what are the degrees of a stingy man's married life?"
"I should say they were matrimony, parsimony, testimony and alimony."

No Knockers.
Bjens—That fellow sure does rub it into his friends.
Bjens—Always knocking, eh?
Bjens—No; he's an osteopath.

Vol. IX MAY 2, 1918 No. 47

THE Y.M.C.A.

Last Sunday in a small country town the people gathered for worship as usual. The clergyman who officiated was a stranger to the congregation. He had a good story to tell of how the Gospel of Christ was proving itself a great asset of our race in this present time of our need, and by way of illustration, he told the story of the work of the Y.M.C.A. for our boys in summer camps and winter barracks and naval ports in Canada and in Britain; also the work that is being done in France from the seaport town right up to the front trenches. Then he expressed the hope that his hearers would not see this very practical form of Christianity suffer through lack of funds to do their very best work.

The service closed, and four farmers waited at the door to speak to the man who had made that appeal. They all wanted to make their contributions right away to assist in this work. The preacher could only protest that he had not any authority whatever to receive contributions,—"the canvases will be made on the 7th, 8th and 9th of May, and you will be asked to make your contribution then." The amount pressed upon that clergyman by those four farmers totalled $74.00 and this is only one illustration of what may be expected in every section of our province when the canvassing teams set forth to gather in returns for the Y.M.C.A. work overseas. Let every one help.

A MOTHER'S WORK

Is Too Often Followed by Nervous Debility and Shattered Health

Motherhood as a rule spends so much time in looking after their children and in household work that they overlook the absolute necessity for that rest and relaxation upon which their health depends. The consequence is that soon they find their health breaking down. The daily humdrum of household cares, quickly thin the blood and weaken the nerves. Then follow headaches, pains in the side and back, swollen limbs, palpitation, a constantly tired feeling, and often an inclination to fretfulness. These symptoms are the sign of poor blood, and are the inevitable penalty of overwork and over anxiety in the care of children and the affairs of the household.

Whenever a mother finds her health failing and household duties becoming more than she can comfortably manage, whenever extra demands are made upon her strength, she should adopt the safe and simple expedient of enriching her blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills are especially valuable to the nursing mother and the woman worn out with household cares. They renew her blood supply, strengthen her tired limbs, and drive away the headaches and backaches that have made her so miserable. They have restored thousands of despondent women to good health and bright spirits, and will do for you as much as they have done for others if you will give them a fair trial.

Mrs. W. F. Burns, Guelph, Ont., says: "A few years ago we had three children born, in three years which left me so run down and nervous that I was not able to do my work. The last baby lived only two weeks and the worry that added to my weak condition shattered my nerves. Our family doctor for several months tried to build me up, but nothing seemed to benefit me. I suffered agony with my head, and was terrified with a fear that I would lose my reason. The headaches from which I suffered would leave me completely prostrated. During one of these spells I went to another doctor, who advised a change of scene. I went away for a few weeks but was disappointed and wanted to be back home, so my husband came and brought me home again. A few days later my sister came to see me and asked me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I got three boxes, and by the time I had used them all I was completely well, could do all my own work without feeling tired, and was like a new woman. This was five years ago, and since then two other children have come, and I am still enjoying perfect health."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Two Questions

With so many low-priced
so-called anti-skids obtainable, would that great host

Also, would that other

if tires which somewhat resembled it in efficiency?

SPECIAL DUNLOP TRACTION

It's Cheaper to Paint than Repair

YOUR house—if it is four years old or older—is worth at least 50 per cent more today than when it was built. Lumber and cement are so high that it would cost half as much again to build this year as it did in 1914. So it is obvious that either a new house or an old one is today so valuable a property that its owner must conserve it unless he is committed to a policy of wilful waste. Keep your house—and all your buildings—protected. And let your paint-protection consist of an economical paint. Use the paint that goes farthest—lasts longest.

B-H PAINT "ENGLISH" 70% Pure White Lead
(Guaranteed Genuine B-H)
30% Pure White Zinc
100% Pure Paint

The kind we guarantee to possess as its important base, the above correct formula.
This formula, printed on every can over Dr. DeWitt's signature, commits us to this standard. High in cost as white lead has become, we make up as much of it as before—to use less, would necessitate the removal of the guarantee from our cans and would injure the high reputation, which these paints have acquired by reason of their superior ingredients.

ON THE FUNNY SIDE

The Inevitable.
"I lost my pocketbook yesterday."
"Much money in it?"
"Fifty cents and some car tickets."
"I wouldn't worry about that if I were you."
"I don't mind the loss at all, but when my husband finds it, out he'll spend most of his time for years to come telling all our friends how careless I am with his money."

No Great Student.
"I must have a part for Tottie Flo-
dub. In the last revue she used to say "Hurray for the prince!" Couldn't you write that into this play?"
"There is no prince in this play. We might have her say, "Hurray, boys!
here comes the handsome captain!"
"I don't think she could learn that long a part."

How He Knew.
"What's that your daughter's playin'
on the melodeon, Hiram?"
"Oh, that's 'Old Black Joe,' Zeke!"
"But it doesn't sound like it, Hiram!"
"No, I know it don't, Zeke!"
"How do you know it's 'Old Black Joe,' then, Hiram?"
"Cause it's the only piece she knows; that's how, Zeke!"

Business Proposal.
"Do you love me?" asked the young man, boldly.
"What, this rather sudden, Mr. Rus-tina?" replied the sweet young thing.
"Can't you give me a week to consider my answer?"
"No, I can't. I have an option on another girl, and the option expires tomorrow!"

RAISING THE MEN

Hon. Mr. Carvell presented the truth bluntly to the country in his speech of Saturday last in the House of Commons when, in discussing the amendments to the Military Service Act, he said the time had gone by when any man in Parliament had the right to consider what may be popular or unpopular. What must be considered is that Canada must produce more fighting men, and the government cannot get them into uniform unless it takes draastic measures. It is of no use to point to the great number of Canadians who have already joined the forces. There is the glory of having done their duty, but their example cannot excuse those others who are needed, who have not volunteered, and who have sought exemption. In some cases exemption will be granted on good grounds; but, as Hon. Mr. Carvell said forcibly, the Military Service Act as it stood has not produced the men. In place of 100,000 in four months, the government secured about 30,000, so much delay was possible through appeals and exemptions. Mr. Carvell reminds the country that there has been altogether too much delay already, and that by putting a bill through Parliament instead of acting by order-in-council another month's delay would be deliberately incurred. It had become the duty of the government to deal with the facts and face the situation, or hand the responsibility over to men who would face it. Since January, the government has seen that the Military Service Act was not producing men at the rate required. Moreover, it has recently been recognized that while the operation of the act might be speeded up to some extent it would produce men slowly, and would never get 100,000. Therefore Mr. Carvell says that although the government knows it will be criticized by thousands in the country, it felt that a stern necessity was confronting it and that it would not flinch from its duty and responsibility.

CHILDHOOD CONSTIPATION

Constipation is one of the most ailments of little ones and unless relieved may become chronic and baby's health for all time become impaired. Nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets in regulating the bowels. They are a mild, safe laxative, easy to administer and never fail to be effective. Concerning them Mrs. Emile LaChapelle, Terrebonne, Que., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my own baby who was badly constipated and they quickly relieved him. All mothers should keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont."

LEMONS WHITEN AND BEAUTIFY THE SKIN

Make this beauty lotion cheaply for your face, neck, arms and hands.

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quart of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, whitener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any drug store and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quart of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It is marvelous to smoothen rough, red hands.

GIRLS! LEMON JUICE IS A SKIN WHITENER

How to make a creamy beauty lotion

Hurrah! How's This

Cincinnati authority says come dry up and lift out with fingers.

Hospital records show that every time you cut a corn, you invite lock-jaw or blood poisoning, which is needless, says a Cincinnati authority, who tells you that a quarter ounce of a drug called frezzone can be obtained at little cost from the drug store but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You simply apply a few drops of frezzone on a tender, aching corn and soreness is instantly relieved. Shortly the entire corn can be lifted out, root and all, without pain.

This drug is sticky but dries at once and is claimed to just chisel up any corn without lacerating or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin.

If your wife wears high heels she will be glad to know of this.

Wine of Life

By CATHERINE HOPSON

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Want a lift?" called out a cheery voice, as jingling sleigh bells slowed up.

Amy Davanant, teacher of the Pine Grove school, stepped aside in the road at the approach of bells, and then turned with a slight pucker between her smooth brows at the fullness of the question. Her need of a "lift" was obvious since she was bounding through fourteen inches of unbroken snow. Besides, she felt plighted that Duncan Alden, unlike the other young people in the community, had made no effort to get acquainted since her coming among them.

"Oh—it's you, Miss Davanant," Alden said when he saw who it was. Then he jumped out to help her in the sleigh.

"I don't wonder you didn't recognize me, I'm so wrapped up," she laughed, as he tucked the robe around her.

"Why in the name of common sense didn't the Perkinses take you to school on a day like this?" he asked, when the jingle of bells began again.

She laughed. "They seldom think it's necessary. Their daughter, Amelia, once taught this school when she was a girl, and walked back and forth every day of the term." She set an uncomfortable precedent.

"It's hard to live up to some one else's reputation, especially in a winter like this."

"Maybe the paragon Amelia didn't have so much snow to wade through. But in most ways the Perkinses are very kind to me," she amended, lest she should seem to disparage the good people with whom she boarded.

"Yes! But it must be pretty dull for you there—just those two old people." He glanced considerably at the bright-eyed girl beside him.

"It isn't exactly exciting," she acknowledged.

When they reached the district schoolhouse, the unbroken snow and smokeless chimney told them that they were the first arrivals.

"Oh, I'm afraid Ted isn't here," she exclaimed in dismay. "He's the boy I liked to best for me."

"Allow me to be Ted this morning," laughed he. "I'm a good hand at fire building. A case of practice making perfect, you know."

She protested, but he had his way, and soon had a glowing fire in the rusty stove. This done, his glance traversed the typical country school room back to the dainty, city-bred girl before him.

"Genuine concern was in his face. This blizzard made traveling mighty bad. I doubt if any of the pupils get here this morning. Most of them live so far away. What'll you do if they don't come?"

"Oh, stay out the time. I'll have to on account of the salary you know. The directors aren't very lenient in the matter of lost time."

"That's so. But it's a pretty dreary proposition. I'll drop in at noon to see how you're making out." With a few last laughing words of advice, he left; and the merry sound of bells died away in the distance.

He was right about the pupils. No one came. Amy put in the morning correcting papers and finishing pieces of work she had been obliged to neglect in the stress of regular routine. All the time, though she would not acknowledge it to herself, the thought of Alden's promise to drop in at noon was a cheering factor.

However, when twelve o'clock came he did not appear and she was setting out a cold lunch from her lunch box when she heard bells there, far-easted, far-capped, his dark eyes shining.

"I'm afraid I'm a bit late, Miss Davanant," his keen glance took in the forlorn, empty schoolroom. "I see my prophecy proved true."

She laughingly nodded.

"I'm glad of it," he said naively. "For it makes possible the wish I've been harboring that you would do me the honor of taking school-lunch dinner with me. I'm not much of a cook, but I can make bully soup; and I've a whole kettle full on the stove in my cabin."

Her eyes brightened, but hesitancy shone in their depths.

"Oh, I know it may be a bit unconventional. But surely this blizzard might allow us some latitude in that direction. Besides, we have Lizzie, here, for a chaperone," he nodded at the gentle-eyed colle at his feet.

She laughed. "It does seem as if the storm might make some concessions. But can you get back by one o'clock? I might have some pupils by then, you know."

He gave hearty assurance, and before she could change her mind he bundled her jingling cutter made the half-mile trip to his cabin, where the appetizing odor of steaming tomato soup greeted them. The cabin was a cozy, two-roomed affair, bachelor in appointments, but with books and magazines everywhere. Amy drew a long breath. After five homelick months away from her kind in the narrow isolation of the Perkins home, it was good to be in a book-loving atmosphere again.

To do her honor, he spread a clean white cloth over the little, oil-oiled covered table, and served the steaming tomato soup. They were as merry as two children while they ate. Lizzie sat beside them in gracious forbearance as they talked and laughed. Both were surprised when the clock struck one. Quickly they entered the cutter and drove back to the schoolhouse, where silence again greeted them.

"We needn't have hurried so after all," protested he.

"Some of the pupils may come yet," answered she.

He brought in more wood for her, and with advice about keeping up the fire well, went away.

The afternoon dragged. No one came. She finished the odd jobs which occupied her during the morning, and time hung heavily on her hands. The storm, which had abated at noon, increased in fury. The air seemed full of snow, and smooth unbroken expanses of prairie stretched out around her for miles and miles.

She had no assurance that Mr. Perkins would come for her at four o'clock—he never did. And Alden had not said anything about coming back. Her spirits which a little while ago were gay and carefree, slumped to zero point.

"How shall I get home? How can I ever go alone through this storm?" She did not wish to desert her post before four o'clock, and during the last hour stood at the window watching each way of the road for a passing team that might help her out of her difficulty. But none came by. Above the noise of the storm, she could sometimes catch howls of coyotes. Tears gathered in her eyes at the desolation of it all.

"I can't stay here all night," her quivering lips whispered. "Oh, why didn't I ask Mr. Alden to take me back to the Perkinses at noon, even if I lost my position by so doing? Surely they would have forgiven me for missing half a day—when none of the children came."

She was nervously putting on her wraps, when a knock sounded at the door. She had heard no sound of approaching sleigh bells, and for a moment stood in terror. What if it were some tramp seeking shelter? Then, summoning her courage, she went to the door and found Duncan Alden standing there.

"Oh, I'm so glad—I'm so glad to see someone," she cried, her face pale, and her brown eyes under the tumbled curls pitifully glad.

"Why—you poor little girl. His laugh was shaky. "This must have been a horrible day for you. I'm afraid we folks who're used to it haven't realized what a prairie blizzard must mean to you."

"Oh, I usually get along well enough—but today—"

"This is the limit. I telephoned to Mr. Perkins to see if he was coming for you, but he said he wouldn't think of taking his horses out in this blizzard. Some people are more considerate of their horses than anything else, you know. And I'm afraid you'll put me in the same class when I tell you that I couldn't drive my horse tonight. He cast a shaggy look home this noon, and for some reason is terribly lame. I've been working over him—that's why I'm late. I kept hoping he could make it; but he simply can't go. However, I'm here with a saw and shovel."

"But can we walk over to the Perkinses?" she faltered.

"No, but I phoned to Mrs. Tolan; they're the people who live in the cabin just beyond me, you know, and she wants you to stay there tonight. It's three-quarters of a mile from here, but with a snow shovel and a strong right arm, I think we can make it."

So they started forth. The snow had drifted over the path made by the sleighs earlier in the day; and the shovel was necessarily brought into service the greater part of the way. The late afternoon wind increased in fury, and Amy was obliged to hold her muff against her face to keep it from freezing. Nevertheless, despite their exertions, they found time for merry talk.

At last they saw shining out before them the welcoming light of the Tolans' cabin. Before ascending the little hill on which it stood, they paused to catch their breath.

"I'm mighty glad the storm came today and gave me a chance to know you," declared the man. "I've thought you were a city product who wouldn't care for pioneer life and people—that's why I've avoided you. But you're certainly shown yourself mighty plucky today." Something in his keen eyes made her own drop shyly as he added: "Five months of your stay's been wasted for me, but—I'm going to try and make up for lost time."

The wind howled, and around them stretched the desolate, snow-covered prairie; but it might have been a rose-garden for all the two young people heeded, for their eyes were bright with youth and joy and wine of life.

How Glass Industry Shifted.

The ancient Roman glass works shipped to all parts of the civilized world; and specimens of their productions are today found throughout Europe, and even in Ireland. When Rome commenced to decline and her great people fled to Byzantium, they took with them their glass industries, and Constantinople became the greatest glass manufacturing city in the world. This prestige it held up to the tenth or eleventh century, and when it entered upon its decline and fall the glassblowers fled to Venice and there established what afterward grew into the celebrated Venetian glassware.
