April Sessions, 1835.
On their Inspection of the Public Accounts
Grand Jury Room, 1
18th April, 1835.

The Grand Jury in making their first report under the new Law authorising the inspection of the Public accounts by the Grand Jury, beg to report.

That they have gone through the accounts as laid before them from No. 1 to No. 67 and made their remarks on them respectively, according to the nature of the account.

The Grand Jury would recommend under this head, that the law requiring collectors of rates to make their returns within four months from the date of the warrant, be more effectively carried into force, as much trouble and inconvenience arises to the County Treasurer as well as to every person concerned in the management of the County revenue, from the late day at which according to the present system these returns are made.

The Grand Jury would recommend that it be made public, that all accounts against the County as well as against the Town property be handed into the office of the Clerk of the Peace on or before the day appointed for the Court; those handed in at a later period to remain unattended to until the following Sessions.

The Grand Jury also particularly recommend, that in future appointments of collectors of rates for the different parishes, the appointment be confined to one respectable person for each Parish. Also, that assessors should hand to the Collector a distinct and separate warrant for the county rates; from the warrant for the Parish or Poor rates.

The Grand Jury beg to recommend the forms of account and certificate herewith handed in, to be printed and furnished for the use of collectors of rates, in order that the returns may be uniform; much confusion is apparent under the present system, each collector of rates rendering his returns in the way that best suits his own purpose; jumping up the county assessment, with the parish rates. Every collector of rates should be compelled to make his returns of county and Parish rates to the County Treasurer and the overseer of the poor respectively. The Grand Jury under this head would remark that the returns from many of the collectors of rates have been found very low so far as the sums uncollected are concerned, no certificate from any Justice being attached to show that proper exertions have been made by the collector to recover the amount. Vouchers are also wanting to many of the returns.

The accounts rendered in by the County Treasurer appear correct and are satisfactory to the Grand Jury. There are however, several small sums in the account which should have been debited to the Cholera fund; there are also several sums (amounting to £13 12 6) charged as paid to witnesses for the Crown. The Grand Jury are under the impression that the amount should have been charged to the fund arising from fines for nonattendance of Jurors at the terms of the circuit court as recommended by the Judge of that Court lately.

The Grand Jury have also to remark on the very large balances unpaid by the respective parishes on the County assessments, as exhibited by the County Treasurer's book, and to suggest that measures be taken for their immediate collection, in order to pay off the claims on the County.

The accounts exhibited by Harris Hatch, Esquire, of the revenue and disbursement of the public monies arising from the commons lots rents, the Market Wharf rents and other public monies payable into his office as Clerk of the Peace, are not quite so satisfactory as could be wished. There appears a balance of £30 14 2 due in November last and available which has not been collected. The Grand Jury have also to remark a charge of six per cent commission on the full amount of the footing of the account, thereby charging a double commission on the balance that remains in his hands from year to year, also a charge of five pounds per annum as salary. The Grand Jury consider it quite incompatible that any public officer should charge commission and salary for the performance of the same duty.

The Grand Jury have made some remarks on the Gaoler's account expressive of their surprise at the extraordinary nature of these charges to which they would particularly call the attention of the Court, particularly a charge of carrying bread from the baker to the prison, which actually amounts to more than the cost of the bread.

The Grand Jury on view of the Prison would remark that it appears sufficiently strong for any thing where strength alone is required, but on the principle that imprisonment should not be torture and death; (which must ensue if Prisoners are put into the cells during winter), The Jury would remark that it appears totally unfit for the purpose it was intended to serve. There is a certain want of cleanliness about the Prison which should be immediately looked into by the authorities; heaps of soot and ashes are to be seen about the lobbies and small stores in the debtors rooms; The cellar is also very unfit for the purpose intended, the gaoler having lost great part of his vegetables during last winter. It appears to the Grand Jury absolutely necessary that something be done in the way of a drain or sewer to carry off the filth accumulating about such an establishment, and to save the monstrous expense of removing it in the manner in which it is now done, as well as to prevent the generating of dangerous diseases during the hot months of summer.

The Grand Jury have endorsed on the reports of the Commissioner of highways for St. Andrews parish, their approbation of the views of the Commissioners, both as respect the Sewer in King Street and the Well in Elizabeth street, to which they respectfully call the attention of the Court.

The Grand Jury having requested the Committee for building the new Gaol to show how the balance existing against the building (of £780) arose. They, through Mr. Robinson one of their body, exhibited the account and contract. The sum of £250 conditional in the contract it appears has been paid, although no satisfactory statement was ever rendered by the contractor to the building committee, who the Grand Jury respectfully submit, were the only persons who had authority to make the allowance; the payment of the £250 appearing to have been an act of the Justices after taking the building off the hands of the contractor, thereby saddling the County unnecessarily with that sum in addition to the £3000 as per contract for building which has from first to last been considered a most exorbitant tax, having actually cost double what a building in every way more suitable could have been erected for; the account is otherwise satisfactory although signed by only two of the Building Committee.

The Grand Jury view with astonishment the enormous sums found in course of the past year for constables services, & would suggest to the Court that a scale of fees be published limiting them to something like a fair remuneration and prohibiting all such charges as horse hire, boarding and lodging while conveying prisoners to the County Gaol from the out parishes, the charge for mileage being always allowed them.

The Grand Jury would respectfully recommend to the Court, that they would in conjunction with the High Sheriff select for Grand Jurors at next April Sessions such a number of the Jury as have served at the present Sessions as may appear proper, and that such a course be pursued in all future selections of Jurors for the April Sessions, in order that a class of information, as to the inspection of the public accounts, may be kept up.

The Grand Jury beg to inform the Court that they have purchased a book at the expense of the County, in which they have commenced keeping a record of their proceedings so far as the public accounts are concerned; which they would recommend should be placed in the keeping of such person as the Court may direct, and to be exhibited at each Session to the Grand Jury for their information.

The Grand Jury in closing their report beg to recommend that copies of all the Public accounts relating to the Revenue and Expenditure of the County as well as the account of receipts from the rents the Wharf and Commons and the disbursements of the monthly Clerk of the Peace, and the report of the Grand Jury on the accounts be published in the Saint Andrews Standard newspaper.

All of which is respectfully submitted by the Grand Jury. A. JACK, Foreman.

EMINENT MEN OF FIFE.—Sir John Campbell, Serjeant Spinkie, David Wilkie, Capt. Barclay, Mr. McCulloch, Dr. Fleming, Dr. Chalmers, Dr. Gillespie, are names for whose local habitations biographic historians will yet be zealous to inquire. They have every one of them lived in manse in the Presbytery of Cupar. I believe there are none of the community who better make their way, or achieve for themselves more honorable places in society, than the sons of the manse; and assuredly no Presbytery can boast of a greater number of famous which have been distinguished for there sons than that of Cupar. The father of the Attorney General of England was minister in the county town, and could give his son no farther assistance than what he might derive from moral training and intellectual education. Two of his sons are Knights. Mr. Spinkie was borne in the manse of Falkland, and having long distinguished as a lawyer in India, now holds a place second to few indeed at the English bar. The manse of Culs, where David Wilkie was borne, still stands, and its churyard displays the monument which the affection of the painter erected in the memory of his parents. Dr. Barclay, or Kettle, whose son was almost blown to pieces on the American Lakes, and who, even among British sailors had no rival in the brief but disastrous Trans Atlantic war of 1814, is still alive, hale, and active, and near his 90th year. Mr. McCulloch, the eminent secretary of the India house the friend and patron of so many of his countrymen, the chief of Eastern merchants, was borne a Dalriada. Kilmany manse witnessed the dawning glories of the fame of Chalmers; and Kirk, the matured eminence of Fleming as the first of Scottish naturalists. The place of the birth of Wilkie was long the residence of Gillespie.—Fifehire Journal.

FIRST MINISTER FROM THE UNITED STATES TO GREAT BRITAIN.

The following narrative will be interesting to those of our readers who have not met with it. The introduction of the first Minister from the United States to the court of the mother country was a scene worth a voyage across the Atlantic to witness.—New York Courier.

In June, 1785, John Adams, the first Minister Plenipotentiary from the United States to the court of London, had his introductory audience with King George the Third. An event so extraordinary with circumstances so novel to us in America, led Mr. Adams to narrate the particulars, in a letter to an intimate friend, which was kept private till after his death. It was thus:—

At one o'clock on Wednesday, 1st of June, the master of ceremonies called at my house and went with me to the Secretary of State's office, in Chancery Lane, where the Marquis of Carmarthen received and introduced me to Mr. Frazier, his under Secretary, who had been as his lordship said, "uninterruptedly" at that office, through all the changes in administration, for thirteen years, having been first appointed by the Earl of Holderness.

After a short conversation upon the subject of importing my effects from Holland, which Mr. Frazier himself introduced, Lord Carmarthen invited me to go with him in his coach to Court. When we arrived in the anti-chamber, the master of the ceremonies introduced him and attended me while the Secretary of State went to take the commands of the King. While I stood in this place, where it seems all ministers stand upon such occasions, always attended by the master of ceremonies, the room was very full of ministers of State, bishops and all other sorts of courtiers, as well as the next room, which is the King's bed chamber, you may well suppose I was the focus of all eyes.—I was relieved, however, from the embarrassment of it, by the Swedish and Dutch ministers who came to me and entertained me with a very agreeable conversation during the whole time. Some other gentlemen whom I had seen before, came to make their compliments to me, until the Marquis of Carmarthen returned, and desired me to go with him to his Majesty. I went with his lordship through the levee room into the King's closet.—The door was shut, and I was left with his Majesty and the Secretary of State alone. I made the three reverences; one at the door, another about half way, and another before the presence—according to the usage established at this, and all the northern courts of Europe, and then I addressed myself to his Majesty in the following words:—

"Sir, The United States have appointed me Minister Plenipotentiary to your Majesty, and have directed me to deliver to your Majesty this letter which contains the evidence of it. It is in obedience to their express commands, that I have the honor to assure your Majesty of their unanimous disposition and desire to cultivate the most friendly and liberal intercourse between your Majesty's subjects and their citizens, and of their best wishes for your Majesty's health and happiness, and for that of your family."

"The appointment of a Minister from the United States to your Majesty's court, will form a epoch in the history of England and America. I think myself more fortunate than all my fellow citizens, in having the distinguished honor to be the first to stand in your Majesty's royal presence in a diplomatic character; and I shall esteem myself the happiest of men if I can be instrumental in recommending my country more and more to your Majesty's royal benevolence and of restoring an entire esteem, confidence, and affection, on, in better words, 'the old good nature and the good old honor, between people who, though separated by an ocean, and under different governments, have the same language, a similar religion, a kindred blood. I beg your Majesty's permission to add, 'that although I have some time before been intrusted by my country, it was never in my whole life in a manner so agreeable to myself.'"

The King listened to every word I said, with dignity, it is true, but with to the best interests of the Province, of which he is the most distinguished exponent. From a long connection with the political affairs of the country, he is the better fitted to inform the Ministry of England of the bearings of every question in dispute. His independence of mind is the surest guarantee, that he will honestly and faithfully execute the charge with which we hope he may be entrusted.

THE 26 Resolutions.—At the request of our "Country Subscriber" we republished the 20th and 21st resolutions of the House of Assembly, as under, and we confess we think there was bad tact in bringing them so closely in contact; but as their full consideration will be taken up in a deferred article at a future day, we will not enter on them piecemeal at present. In the meantime we introduce our friend Anthony Clodpole's opinions to the notice of the Public, in a preceding column.

"Resolved, In the opinion of this Committee, that the Members of the Executive Council should be increased to not less than nine in the whole, in order that the administration of the Government might be enabled to transact business with more despatch, and to derive the best information on every subject, affecting the general interests of the Province that can be brought under their consideration."

"Resolved, As the opinion of this Committee, that by calling some Members of the House of Assembly into the Executive Council, which would not be considered as constituting a reason for vacating the seat of such Member, a channel for constant and unobstructed intercourse would be opened, from which very considerable public benefit might be derived; and that it appears from the despatch of Mr. Secretary T. Spring Rice of October, 1834, that the Majesty's decision in dividing the Council of this Province was mainly influenced by the reflection, that this new arrangement might enable him to bring the Executive Government of the Province into a free communication with the House of Assembly."

BOUNDARY GAZETTE.—In reply to numerous inquiries for the offensive article on his Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, we have to say, we had prepared something on the matter for this publication—but a disclosure has been made of the attack being the production of a person always thought to be capable of being guilty of such atrocious conduct, that we hesitate to say any thing worse on that point. The affair will be, we verily trust, sifted until it is thoroughly exposed.

MURDER.—Yesterday's New York papers contain accounts of the destruction of a fine Jewell of great beauty and accomplishments, by a Mr. F. P. Robinson, under circumstances of the most painful interest, and likely to be followed by consequences that may disturb the peace of New York; but it is to be hoped that it may be productive of the salutary reformation of a portion of the profligate and fashionable young men of that City. We will give the story in full next week.
