Fears Rail Strike Can No Longer Be Averted On U.S. Roads

UNION LEADER SURE MEN WILL NOT BACK DOWN

WORKERS FAVOR STRIKE

Crisis Precipitated by Demand of Roads For Ten Per Cent Cut.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Leaders of the railroad brotherhoods assembled here today to consider the challenge of the railway executive in proposing a further wage reduction of approximately 10 per cent in the face of the strike vote just authorized by the railwaymen because of the 12 per cent reduction of last July.

The brotherhood chiefs indicated that an immediate walkout—at least on some roads—was under consideration following yesterday's conference of the railwaymen's leaders with the executives, after the executives had announced they would apply to the railroad labor board for a wage reduction.

"If I were a betting man," said W. G. Lee, president of the brotherhood of railroad trainmen, "I would bet there will be a strike. A final decision is but the matter of a few days. What else is there left to do since the men have already voted for a walkout? I don't see how the roads can have the nerve to suggest another cut."

President Samuel M. Felton of the Chicago Great Western said the proposed reduction would effect a saving of some $360,000,000 annually, and that approximately two million men would be affected.

Immediately after the conference with the brotherhood chiefs, when the executives wage decision was read to the employees' leaders, the executives left for their homes, indicating their decision was final.

The shopmen and maintenance of way men had voted to strike before the brotherhoods' ballot was completed.

PREMIER SPEAKS ON INDUSTRIAL PROBLEM

Shifts Responsibility of Unemployed From Government.

Newcastle, N. B., Oct. 14.—Rt. Hon. A. Meighen closed his Maritime Province campaign with two meetings at Newcastle ad Chatham tonight. Speaking first at the latter place, and dealing with the question of unemployment, the premier said it was the function of the Government to see, in so far as possible, that those who were willing to work could get work. But he did not think that the Government was to blame for the situation.

"Unemployment is world-wide, and here in Canada we have the least of any industrial country," he said. "Conditions are much worse in Great Britain and the United States. One-half of the civilized world cannot buy at all. Poverty and starvation are stalking abroad in Europe, and there must be something done for the rehabilitation of the countries before the commercial demand from them could be resumed.

"Consequently," he continued, "the demand on Canadian industries was not sufficient to keep them working to capacity. It was impossible for the Government to start works all over the country in order to relieve unemployment. The Government had asked railwaysa to accelerate orders, and had promised to stand behind them and assist with capital.

"But unemployment must be dealt with locally, and the Government could only assist," he claimed.

"In so far as unemployment affected the returned men who had been partially or wholly disabled, the Government took upon its own shoulders this responsibility and would provide such assistance as was necessary to relieve these men. Conditions were improving, and this winter would be the worst we had to face."

Mr. Meighen characterized the Liberal criticism, that he had seized the reins of power in much the same manner as Lenine and Trotzky, as rubbish.

LITTLE WORLD SERIES ONCE MORE UNDER WAY

Baltimore, Oct. 15.—After a day of rest the "little world series" will get under way again this afternoon with Baltimore playing host to Louisville. The series has been a close one from the start.

With the local club in front by a game it is the favorite to take the long end of the series, which is a best five in nine affair.

Ben Tincup, the Indian, is Manager McCarthy's pitching choice for today. Manager Dunn will use either Lefty Groves or Timmy Thomas.

36 HERDS OF PUREBREDS FREE OF TUBERCULOSIS

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—Up to the 1st of October, 36 herds of pure-bred cattle had been fully accredited in Canada as having a clean bill of health so far as tuberculosis is concerned, according to a statement issued by Dr. Frederick Torrance, veterinary director-general.

FIRE LOSS $100,000.

Yorkton, Sask., Oct. 14.—Fire here today destroyed the F. W. Woolworth warehouse and three other business establishments, causing $100,000 damage. Two firemen were injured.

Wife of Sir Adam Beck, Who Underwent an Operation in Toronto Tuesday.

LADY LILLIAN BECK.

DELAY LUCE INQUEST UNTIL NEXT TUESDAY

Because sufficient evidence was not available, the inquest at the police station Friday night into the death of Albert Luce of 8 Orchard street, who was so seriously injured that he died seven hours after being struck by G. T. R. train No. 110, near Komoka, last Tuesday afternoon, was adjourned until next Tuesday at 7:30 o'clock.

The testimony of Fireman Jarvis was to the effect that train No. 110 was traveling east on the west-bound track owing to repairs on a subway, west of Komoka. Orders were received by C. McKinley, bridge foreman, that this train would travel on the west-bound track, but when giving evidence Mr. McKinley would not swear that Luce, one of the construction crew, had been officially informed of the fact.

It was shown that Leonard Stillson, section foreman, the only man likely to explain officially to members of the construction staff the orders received. The chief witness at the adjourned hearing will be Stillson, the section foreman. The testimony of the train crew was heard.

The chief witness, Edmund Jarvis of Sarnia, fireman on the train, stated he saw Luce about fifty feet ahead of the engine and so informed Engineer George Tuskey, who sounded the whistle and applied the brakes. He also testified that the automatic bell on the engine was ringing at the time.

Engineer Tuskey said he saw Luce about forty feet ahead of the engine when he leaned out of the cab window. He thought Luce was walking off the tracks.

Train No. 119 changed from the eastbound to the westbound track at Strathroy, it was claimed. Bridge-Foreman McKinley said it was quite usual for a train to travel on the wrong track when repairs to be made could not be completed before a train was due.

Dr. Edwin Seaborn, who conducted the post-mortem, stated anyone of Luce's injuries might have caused death. Thomas Parker, conductor, Edward Dibbs, brakeman, and William Rogers, baggageman, gave minor evidence.

TABLET TO HORSES UNVEILED.

Washington, Oct. 15.—A bronze tablet commemorating the services of the 243,135 horses and mules attached to the United States forces during the war, 68,682 of which perished, was unveiled today in the State, War nd Navy Building.

South Africa Honors An American Unknown Warrior

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Canadian Press Cable. — Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador to the United States, on behalf of the Government and people of South Africa, will lay a wreath of South African flowers on the tomb of America's unknown warrior, according to a Reuter dispatch from Capetown.

AUDITORIUM FOR TECH BEGINNING TO MATERIALIZE

School Architect To Be Consulted About Plans For New Unit.

DECIDED BY BOARD

Will Take Advantage of Low Cost of Building Supplies.

Before any definite move is made to seek the services of a private firm of architects for the proposed installation of an auditorium at the London Technical and Art School, the members of the industrial advisory committee of the board of education feel that the school architect, L. E. Carrothers, should be first consulted. After careful deliberation at a meeting Friday evening the committee selected a sub-committee to approach the latter, with a view to ascertain whether, with such other work already planned, he shall be in a position to devote the necessary time. The delegation consists of Messrs. Silverwood and Hayman, and H. B. Beal, principal of the school.

Prepare Estimates.

When the Technical School was constructed, the proposed auditorium and gymnasium were "blue-penciled," but care was taken, however, that whenever the board should deem it expedient, it could be added in such a manner as to conform with the present building. At the last session of the board the advisory committee was empowered to prepare estimates that will be of a helpful nature to the next board, and incidentally be an aid for the city council relative to the question of finances.

"The planning of this unit will involve considerable detail," pointed out Principal Beal during Friday evening's discussion. "It is not a question of building the auditorium at the earliest moment, but rather of securing the best for the expenditure. I am also advised that building prices are on the decline, and I suggest that we be prepared to take advantage in due time of a favorable building market."

Consult School Architect.

The point was raised by Trustee Eggett and Chairman Rowe that possibly the original architects might feel that as the building was really incomplete, they should be allowed to finish the task. This probability was discussed at some length, and a motion entered by Trustee Udy that the school architect be first consulted was adopted.

In response to a communication for information from Senior School Inspector Edwards as to what facilities were available for taking care of adolescents who have been granted working permits, the committee authorized the secretary to report that accommodation

TRAFFIC REGULATIONS TO SOLVE PROBLEM OF PARK

One-Way Driving Only Will Be Allowed in Future.

That the public utilities commission has effected a splendid compromise with respect to traffic regulations for Victoria Park is the firm belief of E. V. Buchanan, general manager of that body.

under the present rules no automobile may exceed 12 miles an hour through the park, while bicycles and motorcycles are restricted to a 5-mile an hour minimum. One-way traffic only must prevail.

This simplifies the problem entirely the manager contends. During the recent controversy, when those who advocated the closing of the park were termed "old mossbacks," it was claimed by some that closing the park to all vehicles would deprive many residents of the pleasure and privilege of the park.

Others claimed that numerous speeding automobiles and bicycles spoiled the park for the pedestrians who visited there. This has now been overcome, Mr. Buchanan explains. The one-way regulation makes it unprofitable for drivers of machines to travel through the park at all. Whereas previously they accomplished a short cut through the grounds they now have to actually lengthen their trip. As an alternative they give the park a wide berth.

On the other hand this leaves the park still open to those who really desire to drive slowly through on a tour of inspection. Bicycle riders incidentally are now deprived of their one-time speeding pleasure. They, too, find it unsatisfactory to keep to five miles an hour. It can't be done, they say, so they speed up Clarence street, where the good pavement is.

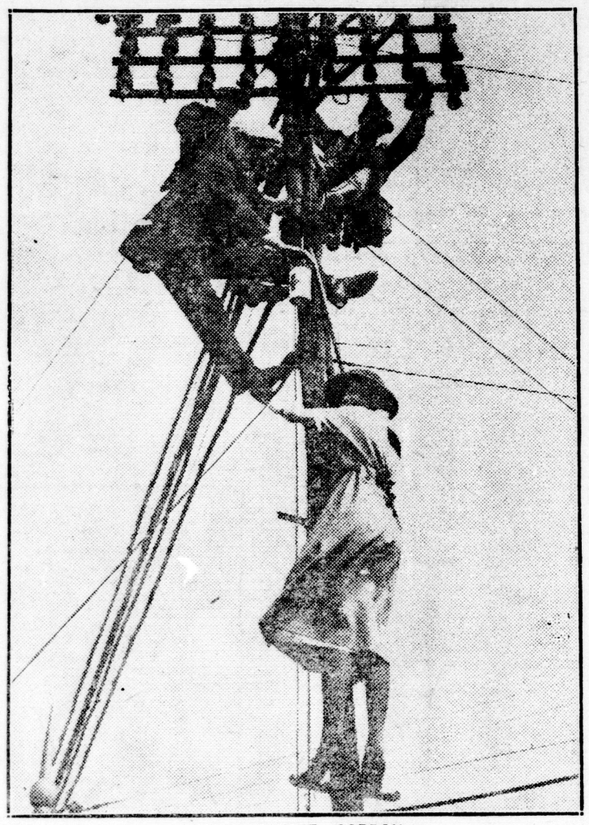
COAL SHORTAGE LIKELY IN WESTERN PROVINCES

Operators Claim No Price Reduction Till Spring.

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—An analysis of the coal situation in the western provinces by F. E. Harrison of Calgary, an official of the federal department of labor, indicates the possibility of a serious shortage in the available supply of coal during the coming winter, according to a statement contained in the forthcoming issue of the Labor Gazette.

It is claimed by the operators in the western mining districts that no permanent reduction can be made in the price of coal until the expiration of the present wage agreement on March 31, 1922.

"GETTING AFTER LINEMEN" AT TOP OF TELEGRAPH POLE.



MISS MARJORIE GORDON.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—A feature of the British Red Cross tag day here was the determinted attempt of theatrical stars to see that nobody was denied an opportunity to contribute.

Miss Marjorie Gordon of the Gaiety Theatre, even sought contributions from a gang of linemen at work on the top of a Fleet street telegraph pole.

Should Teach Bible In Schools, Teachers' Convention Decides

To Seek Permission To Establish Religious Course — City Educators Hear Address by Columbia Professor —F. Newhouse Elected President.

At the closing session of the London Teachers' Association on Friday, the following resolution brought in by a special committee appointed to consider the subject, was unanimously passed:

"Your committee recommends (a) that this association commit itself to a suggested course of memory passages from the Bible, (b) that our secretary request from the board of education permission to use such a course, (c) that in the event of the sanction of the board of education being received, a committee appointed by the executive of this association, select these passages and any such helps as might be suggested to the teachers."

This resolution grew out of a lively discussion on religious education in the public schools on the previous day.

The association elected the following new officers: President, F. Newhouse of Riverview Avenue School; past president, Alex. MacQueen; vice-president, R. McEachren; secretary, Miss Emily A. Knott; executive committee, Miss Elsie McCallum, T. W. Oakes, Inspector Edwards and Inspector Greer.

A feature of the afternoon meeting was an address on "The Problem of the Bright Child," by Professor Rudolph Pintner, M.A., Ph.D., professor of educational psychology at Teachers' College, Columbia University. The address, largely technical, was illustrated by charts and views. Professor Pintner pointed out that a very grave injustice has been done the bright children in the public schools. Intelligence tests show the discrepancy between the work that many children can do and what they are actually doing.

World Needs Intellect.

"There is an enormous wastage of intellect going on," he said. "We make every effort to conserve our forests and our natural resources, but I believe the conservation of intellect is of more importance. The world needs every bit of intellect it possesses in these years of after war reconstruction with so many idiotic and dangerous ideas floating around. As long as we follow present methods of development in teaching, we will not get the results we should."

He stated that the brightest school children are not the nervous, fussy pupils. Nervous children, he said, are often very dull and stupid. The idea of testing children in the schools was somewhat new and was regarded by many as silly, but it was producing important results and promised still more results.

"It is really difficult," he said, "to pick out the bright children in a class. It is easy to find the dull children because they cause all the trouble. However, because a boy does not shine in his school work, it does not follow that he is stupid.

One of the dangers we must guard against is of teaching the children to use only a part of their energy. If we continue this practice for a few years, it is fair to suppose that they will continue using only a portion of their energy. We are often teaching men to be satisfied with 50 per cent efficiency instead of 100 per cent. The more we go about this scientifically the easier we will solve it, and the results will be a big factor in building morals and character."

Takes Vote on Photos.

Professor Pintner showed twelve photos of children taken from various schools and a vote was taken as to who were the brightest and who were the dullest. In a great majority of cases a girl who was actually feeble minded was selected as one of the brightest children. The boy who was voted the brightest turned out to be only an average normal youngster and very few of those present selected the children who were really the brightest of the twelve. Professor Pintner used this series of photos to show how easy it is not only for teachers, but for everyone to be misled by appearances, and to judge wrongly.

Tabby's Shedding So Things Now Look Good For Coal Man!

Brrrr!

King Winter will come early, they say, and won't release his grip until March or even April.

One of these observers pointed out, Thursday, that mild and cold winters have alternated for the last six years or more.

The winter of 1920-21 was exceptionally mild, he said. That of 1919-20 was a "blinger," as everyone remembers. The mercury repeatedly dropped below the zero mark. Trains were held up because of heavy snowstorms.

In 1918-19 the weather was mild. Indeed, the warm, moist atmosphere was blamed by many physicians for the spread of influenza in army camps and cities.

Winter settled down early in Ontario in 1917-18. It was a winter of heavy snowfalls and low temperatures.

Scientists have failed to account for the alternation of mild and cold winters.

Those who are still skeptical as to whether the coming winter will be a severe one are invited to observe some of the old-time indications.

Observe, for instance, the family cat. Tabby's been shedding for some time, moulting, as it were. Now she's growing a thicker coat than she's worn for years.

Protecting husks are reported to be thicker than usual this year on grains. And the perennial plants that store food underground in roots and tubers are said to have sunk these subterranean storehouses deeper than in a number of years.

Hibernating animals are said to be constructing their underground lairs more carefully this fall, apparently with a view to making them more invulnerable to the cold.

Plainly both the vegetable and animal kingdoms are preparing for a cold winter.

It should be a good season for the coal dealer, the clothing merchant and the bootleggers.

MARIAN M'ARDLE FREED BY JURY; BUYS WARDROBE

Declares Her Future Life Will Be Guided by Her Father's Wishes.

JUST WON'T EVER WED

Tries To Cheer Mother Serving Life Term in Ohio Penitentiary.

Cleveland, Oct. 15.—"I should like to see sometning in misses' suits, if you please," said a 20-year-old girl in a downtown department store yesterday afternoon.

Then, much as any other 20-year-old girl would act under the same circumstances, this one admired what the saleswoman exhibited. There were possibly a dozen suits brought forth, admired and laid aside. Eventually the girl bought one, a plain purple.

Then she bought shoes, black ones, and all the other accessories of a young woman's wardrobe, even to a purse. When the selection of these articles was completed it was too late to visit a milliner's.

Marian McArdle was the purchaser. There was nothing in her attitude to indicate that but a short time previously a jury had acquitted her of the capital charge of murder in the first degree.

Laughing as freely as any other girl of her age, the daughter of Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber proudly exhibited her purchases in the office of her attorney, Francis W. Poulson, last night.

There was nothing in her attitude to indicate the strain of the four months she has spent in county jail awaiting trial.

Girl Seems Happy.

Nor was there anything in her attitude that would indicate she was the daughter of the woman characterized as one of the most unusual criminals in history, the woman who is serving a life sentence for the murder of her husband, in which she involved her 69-year-old mother and her daughter.

"I'm happy. But there's no way I can express my happiness in so many words," Marian said last night.

"I want to see mamma. I am going to Marysville just as soon as Mr. Poulson can arrange it. I wired her today, because I knew she would be waiting for the word.

"Of course, I shall go to see grandma. She's old, and if there's anything I can do for her now or when the trial comes up I will do it.

"But, most of all, I want to see my father. I'm going to Chicago to see him as soon as possible. No matter if he did divorce my mother, he's proved his love for me, and I want to go to him.

Not Going To Marry.

"But first there are the many friends here in Cleveland who have been so kind to me. I must see them all and thank each one of them.

"No, sir; I'm not ever going to get married," and the girl stamped a small foot impatiently. "All the men have been so kind to me, deputy sheriffs, reporters and every one of them, but I'll never marry.

"I'm going to be an old maid. I don't know what I'll do in the future, but I know what I won't do. That is, go back to the stage or go into the movies. No, sir; I'll never consider anything of that sort, no matter what they offer me. But, whatever I do, I'll be guided by my father."

Marian sat with the coat of the newly-purchased suit in her arms. She wore the simple jersey dress she has worn throughout the trial. Her face was flushed and her eyes were bright as she talked.

Third To Be Tried.

Marian was the third to be tried for the murder of Dan Kaber, Lakewood publisher, who was stabbed 24 times at his home on the night of July 19, 1919.

The first to be tried was her mother, Mrs. Kaber, who received a life sentence. Mrs. Kaber's attorneys manoeuvred for nearly a week in their successful fight to keep women off the jury.

The second to be tried was Salvatore Cala, who confessed he was one of two men hired by Mrs. Kaber to commit the murder. He, as well as Mrs. Kaber, is serving a life sentence.

Mrs. Emma Colavito, who procured the men to commit the crime for Mrs. Kaber, and Mrs. Mary Brickel, Mrs. Kaber's mother, are awaiting trial.

Says Movies Doesn't Want Her.

That Marian McArdle will receive no overtures to become a moving picture actress, regardless of her own feelings in the matter, was the statement of Sam Bullock secretary of the National Association of Moving Picture Theatre Owners of America, last night.

"There is no more chance of Marian McArdle entering the movies than there is of my being elected president of the Irish republic," Mr. Bullock said. "Even if it were possible to find a producer to make her a picture, Marian would find herself in the position of the person who was all dressed up with no place to go.

"Notoriety is not now, nor has it ever been, an asset to a screen artist. It is presumption for anyone to declare the movies are open to him if he says the word."

Mr. Bullock said this was emphatically pointed out by the action of the Michigan association, at its convention recently, when that body indorsed the stand of the national organization in the Arbuckle case.

Apple Blossoms Bloom Near Springbank

APPLE blossoms in the spring are quite a common sight, but John Cassidy, a farmer near Springbank, believes in the unusual, and has them in the fall as well. Mr. Cassidy brought a branch cut from his blossom-bearing tree into The Advertiser this morning, showing its beautiful white flower. On the same tree that is bearing the second crop of blossoms is a large quantity of fruit.

REV. FATHER DIGNAN GETS FAREWELL GIFT

Leaves St. Mary's To Open New Chatham Parish.

Members of St. Mary's Church Parish gathered Friday night to bid farewell to Rev. Father Hubert Dignan, who has been first assistant at St. Mary's for three years, and leaves Saturday to take charge of the Blessed Sacrament Parish at Chatham.

Father Dignan at the close of the musical program Friday night was presented with a purse containing $400. The presentation was made by James Murray, a member of the parish. The children of the parish presented Father Dignan with a souvenir and an address.

Father E. Weber succeeds Father Dignan as first assistant of the parish.

Although Father Dignan has had a territory assigned to him at Chatham, there is no church or school in connection with it, and he will supervise the erection of buildings to be started shortly.

Among those present were Right Rev. Bishop M. F. Fallon, Father F. Powell of Toronto, Father H. Chisholm and Father M. J. Brady.

Address Read.

The farewell letter, in part, read as follows:

"We have come together tonight, moved by the love and esteem we bear you, to voice our deep regret at your departure from our midst. For three years you have moved amongst us in the exercise of the holy offices of your priesthood.

"The doors of our homes and of our schools have opened wide to welcome the sunshine of your bright and genial disposition, and we make willing and glad profession of our appreciation of your fatherly assistance in our difficulties, by your words of wise counsel and encouragement. With pleasure, do we recall the privilege which has been ours from time to time to co-operate with you in the activities which have marked your sojourn in St. Mary's Parish. In all things we have been moved by your words, inspired by your example, and deeply impressed by your ardent zeal and constant devotion to duty.

Parish Established.

"It is for us, as for the priests and people of the diocese at large, more than an ordinary joy to learn of the establishment of another parish, and we cannot but feel proud of the honor that has been conferred upon our parish by his lordship's selection of one of St. Mary's priests as the first pastor of the Parish of The Blessed Sacrament of Chatham. We congratulate you most heartily on your well-deserved promotion, and we can offer to you no better wish than that your success in our parish may be the measure of your success in the parish which has the good fortune to receive you as pastor.

BUSINESS LULL BROKEN IN WEST BY BIG HARVEST

Crops Around Edmonton Fine, Reports John J. Foote.

Optimism regarding the business outlook in the Canadian West was expressed to The Advertiser Saturday by John J. Foote, sales manager of the McClary Manufacturing Company, who has just returned after spending five weeks closely investigating conditions in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Mr. Foote made a careful survey of the prairie provinces, obtaining his information first hand at all the important business centers.

"The movement of the huge western grain crop is now under way," he said, "and there is a decided improvement noticeable in the business situation. There was every indication of an unusually fine crop until weather conditions, especially heavy rains and snow, developed.

In many districts the yield has been reduced and threshing delayed. Business will be maintained well as long as the grain keeps moving, and this will be longer than usual on account of the delays caused by deferred harvesting and threshing. The usual lull in western business may be expected in December, January and February.

"Around Edmonton and in the great Peace River district the crops are exceptionally good. Almost continuous rains have greatly delayed threshing. Around Fernie, in the great coal mining areas, business is exceptionally good.

This is due to a large extent to the activity prevailing in the coal trade. The people of Alberta instead of using imported coal are now developing their own and are getting splendid results. The Alberta Government is developing and encouraging the coal business in every way and is making important plans for developing other natural resources."

THE POLICE HAVE been asked to watch for a bicycle which disappeared Friday evening from the residence of Mrs. Robins, 37 Victor street. The bicycle has new mudguards, but no hand-grips. It is light grey in color.

WARM FIGHT IS PROMISED FOR CITY LEADERSHIP

HARLEY VETERAN IN RACE

Wilson, Wenige and Childs Comparatively New in Civic Field.

The feeling around the city hall today is that there will be four candidates in the field for the mayoralty. They are Ald. Frank Harley, Ald. G. A. Wenige, Ald. J. C. Wilson and Ald. H. J. Childs. That is will be a warm fight, with chances about even, is generally conceded, if the above proves to be the field to face the electors.

Ald. Wenige has positively declared that he is in the field, while Ald. Harley is practically in the same position. Ald. J. C. Wilson has not definitely declared himself, but a large petition asking him to stand for mayor has been circulated.

Ald. J. C. Childs is being put forward by East Enders. They declare that it is time that section of the city had a representative in the mayor's chair. Ald. Childs is one of the east end's old-time businessmen.

Ald. W. A. Wilson, one of the veterans of the council, has been mooted for mayor. As he, Ald. J. C. Wilson and Ald. Harley all represent the same ward, it is not thought likely that all of the three will abandon the council this year.

Considerable new blood may be offered for the council, as two or three leading businessmen have intimated that they will enter the aldermanic field.

DELEGATES REGISTER FOR BAPTIST PARLEY

Many To Attend Important Ecclesiastical Gathering.

St. Thomas, Oct. 15.—What is considered as the most important ecclesiastical gathering in the history of the Baptist Church will go into session on Monday, when the 33rd annual convention of the Ontario-Quebec Baptist will be held in the Center Street Church. The convention will last eight days.

The greater part of Friday was given over to the registration of delegates. This, it is expected, will be completed by Sunday. Rev. O. C. S. Wallace, M.A., D.D., of Montreal addressed many of the delegates at a preliminary service on Friday. Rev. Mr. Wallace has the distinction of having attended the last convention held in this city 27 years ago. Intercessional service was held at 2 o'clock.

At the evening service S. J. Moore of Toronto gave a brief address. When the delegates went into session Saturday morning, Rev. O. C. S. Wallace again delivered an address which was followed by an intercessional service. There was a short session in the afternoon, followed by an intercessional service, when the convention was adjourned until Monday, when the real business sessions will begin.

On Sunday the convention sermon will be delivered at the morning service at Center Street Church, by Rev. W. T. Graham, D.D., of Toronto. His subject will be, "The Baptist Position From the Viewpoint of the Baptistry."

In the afternoon addresses will be delivered to the young people by Rev. George W. McDaniel and Professor Frederick Tracy, Ph.D., of Toronto, on "Religious Education for the Young People." Rev. George W. McDaniel will preach at the evening service.

On Monday Rev. N. S. McKechnie will have charge of the opening service. New pastors in the district will be introduced to the conference, and an address on "The Minister's Inner Life," will be delivered by Rev. A. Carr of Brantford.

Seasonable Pointers For Farmers

HUBAM CLOVER HAS WON IMPORTANT PLACE AMONG GREATEST SOIL-RENEWING DISCOVERIES OF TODAY

Rapid Growth and Early Development of Seed in One Season Seem Almost Incredible.

Hubam clover is a discovery of Professor H. D. Hughes of the Iowa State College, and is not to be confused with the common or biennial sweet clover. The plant originated in Alabama, and with most careful experiments and years of study, Professor Hughes has brought to us a plant of amazing possibilities.

This comparatively new discovery has received very favorable comment in many of the best agricultural journals, and indeed worthily so, for we have in this new-found clover, a plant which, alone for its extraordinary nitrogen-producing qualities, holds a foremost place of importance among the great soil renewing chemical discoveries of the age.

The rapid growth and the early development of the seed in one season seem almost incredible. This clover grows to a height varying from 4½ to 6½ feet, and heavily seeded.

Its cultivation does not require a great deal of attention or labor. It may be sown early in spring, on land which had been worked in the fall, and, as it brings to the ground its own fertilizing properties, flourishes even on poorly-prepared seedbeds. Its drouth resistant qualities are remarkable, growing and maturing seed, where other vegetation has perished.

Clover is universally being recognized as one of the most nutritious of fodders, and many of our Canadian farmers claim that, aside from the seed crop it would be profitable to sow this Hubam clover for pasturage and soil-renewing purposes.

Hubam clover was first introduced in Huron County in 1919. It was purely an experiment at that time, as our seasons are short compared to the state where the plant originated. One pound of the Hubam annual sweet clover, which at that time cost $17.50 per pound, was sown, yielding a crop of sufficient fully matured seed to sow fifteen acres the following spring, thus producing an acclimatized seed, more adaptable to our northern climate.

The accompanying cut shows the binder at work in the harvesting of a crop of the annual clover, which was sown on April 7, 1921, and harvested September 21 1921, on the farm of Murray Gibson of Brucefield, Ont., a successful grower of Hubam clover, and it is interesting to note the height and heaviness of this crop estimated at 10 bushels to the acre.

While annual sweet clover is, as yet, known only to a comparatively small number, we are convinced that in a very short time, Hubam clover will be unsurpassed and regarded as one of the most profitable of crops, which will revolutionize farming and beekeeping.

SICK CHICKENS OF LITTLE VALUE

Hatchet Safest and Most Effective Method of Treating Weaklings.

Very great doubt exists as to the advisability of "doctoring" sick chickens. The unit of production (the individual bird), is so small that if a man's time is worth anything it will not pay him unless he considers the bird especially valuable. The "cured" bird will always remain a menace to the flock, and with the slightest adverse conditions will show a return of the disease. Disease of any kind usually weakens the constitution of the individual and hence lowers its breeding value. In such simple cases as indigestion, colds, etc., where the greater part of the flock is affected and the flock can be treated as a unit, treatment is, no doubt, advisable. Where the birds are kept for the production of eggs and meat only, the hatchet will be found the safest and most effective method of treatment for individuals.

Prevention is better than cure, and every effort on the part of the poultry keeper should be exerted to maintain such environment and sanitary conditions as to prevent disease gaining a foothold in the flock.

The stock, which is used for breeding purposes, should be selected first for constitutional vigor, as this is the foundation on which the breeder must build future success. Discard all birds which have at any time been sick, and cull very closely birds, which as chicks, were raised in closely confined quarters.

Housing Important.

The housing of the birds is very important in the prevention of disease. Abundance of fresh air and sunlight in the house, without drafts or dampness, will do much in maintaining a healthy flock. Houses must be kept sanitary by frequent removal of droppings and litter, as the latter becames soiled. At least once during the year, preferably in the fall, the house should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected. All movable fittings, as nests, hoppers and roosts may be removed from pen to facilitate cleaning. Thoroughly scrape dropping boards, if used, remove all litter from floor, and then brush down ceiling and walls with a broom.

It has been found the most economical to combine the whitewashing and disinfecting processes by adding the disinfectant to the whitwash. The whitewash is made by slacking fresh stone lime and adding sufficient water to dilute to a creamy mixture. To this is added ten to fifteen per cent of crude carbolic acid or some of the tarry compounds used for disinfecting purposes, and the whole applied with a hand spray pump. Applying with a whitewash brush is not to be recommended, as there is not sufficient penetration.

Nests, roosts and other movable fittings are best treated by dipping in solution of the wash, or may be sprayed, but the dipping is to be preferred. Be sure to strain all whitewash before using the spray pump.

FARMERS' DAIRY PLANT SUCCESSFUL IN STATES

Canadian stock breeders are exhibiting some members of their fine dairy herds at the National Dairy Show of the United States, which has been held at the Minnesota State fair grounds, located in the Twin Cities, from Oct. 8 to 15. This exhibition was formerly held in Chicago, but due to the fact that Minnesota has gained the supremacy as a dairy state, it claims the honor this year.

The average production of a dairy cow in the United States is less than 4,000 pounds of milk a year, but that of the Minnesota cow is 4,360 pounds, and one of the superb pure-bred Minnesota queens of the dairy—a $10,000 beauty—has a test yielding more than 3,700 pounds of milk in 305 days. Not only is the Minnesota farmer securing a large yield of milk, but he is also receiving 91.3 per cent of the dairy dollar. This has been accomplished by co-operative dairying.

There was a time in the history of the state when the pioneer Minnesota farmers looked with longing eyes on the great field of market milk outlets in Chicago and the large eastern cities. When this state began to produce a surplus of milk it had no great population centers to consume any large quantities of such perishable product. Attention had to be given to the production of a dairy product that could be shipped like butter or cheese. The dairy pioneers decided on butter, as Wisconsin State had established a cheese-making industry. Swiss emigrants had applied their knowledge of co-operation in that state, and showed what progress could be made. Many of the early settlers of Minnesota were Danes, who are known as the best dairymen and butter-makers in the world. Also they are noted as the best agricultural co-operators, and the Wisconsin system of co-operative dairy plants is a direct outgrowth of Danish co-operative ideas, which have made that country the leader in Europe.

First Co-operative Plant.

In 1890 the first co-operative plant was established in the State of Minnesota by a few Danish farmers, and one factor must be noted, as it forms the very corner stone of the structure, and has stood the test of years—that each member or stockholder has only one vote, no matter what the amount of his interest or stock. This has prevented any individual or faction from obtaining undue control, and has insured true co-operation. Then the profits, after deducting the cost of manufacture, are distributed among the patrons.

For years this co-operative plant was the mecca where committees were sent to see what could be accomplished by farmers conducting their business affairs for themselves, instead of allowing others to do it for them, and dictating to them the price they are to receive for their dairy products. The example set by that particular community has been worth millions of dollars to Minnesota.

Through the co-operative dairy company, markets have been found in the distant cities of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, and these are willing to pay fancy premium prices for high-scoring extras. It is a quality product that naturally seeks the highest market. Even the home markets of the Twin Cities and Duluth have difficulty in securing the products, as there is such a demand in the larger markets.

Golden Returns.

Out of a total production of 140,000,000 pounds of Minnesota's golden butter in 1920, which sold for $79,622,867.36, exactly $71,678,186.07, or 90 per cent, was the golden return in real dollars paid for only the raw material, butter-fat to the farmer who wrung it from the soil and harvested it in the milk pail. This 90 per cent return is not due to the fact that the men who pay out the money are philanthropists, but to the fact that the farmer himself in Minnesota is the real owner of most of the creameries. He has a practical control over both the manufacturing and the marketing of his product, and eliminates the middlemen all along the line, from his own farm clear through to the New York, Boston and Philadelphia markets. His system is so organized, too, that he has the other important factors of profit to help him, besides the high return for the raw material. One factor is the dividends from the co-operative plant, which are all distributed back to the patrons. The other is the principal by-products of the plants, the skim-milk, buttermilk, etc., which he utilizes for raising young stock and hogs.

In the State of New York, where co operation is lacking, many dairymen have become discouraged and abandoned the industry. New York manufactured products returned in 1920 at average of less than 50 per cent of the city wholesale price to the farmer. Compare this also with the estimated return of 50 per cent to the producers of what the consumers pay. The New York wholesale price still has a profit or two added to it before the dweller in Manhattan enjoys his cheese, buttermilk or ice cream cones. Nearly all of New York's finest table butter comes from Minnesota, and her cheese from Wisconsin. It is apparent that lack of co-operation makes city consumers pay too much, while the farmer gets far too little.

Minnesota Results.

In the farmers' co-operative dairy plants of Minnesota it only cost in 1920 to make and market the butter 7.5 per cent.

The Minnesota co-operative plants can afford to pay and do pay the farmers a higher average price for one pound of butter-fat than they actually receive for the butter.

In 1920 the average for butter-fat was $0.6339, and the average received for butter $0.5713. No other farm product returns so much actual gold to line the pockets of the farmer, and depletes the fertility of the soil less.

Wheat at $2 a bushel, $70.
Oats, 60 cents a bushel, $50.
Rye, $1.25 a bushel, $56.
Corn, $1.50 a bushel, $88.24.
Potatoes, 80 cents a bushel, $200.
Milk fluid, $3 per cwt, $315.80.
Milk for cheese, $3 per cwt, $857.14.

The farmer has to sell $1,604.28 worth of cream before he has taken $1 out of his soil.

The former type of plant in Minnesota was a one-story building, and it has a proud record. The new plants, however, are also community buildings, with ladies' rest rooms, club rooms and spacious halls for meeting of farm and community organizations, commercial clubs, the Red Cross, farm bureaux, cow testing, elevator, creamery, live stock shipping, potato growing and other associations, as well as for social activities.

At Moland, a little town off the railroad, nine miles from Kenyon, Minn., in the heart of the dairy country, the co-operative dairy company recently erected a combined co-operative dairy plant, community hall and manager's eight-room modern home upstairs.

Wisconsin Prosperity.

Wisconsin, which is also one of the leading dairy states of the world, has at present 3,000 co-operative plants which are receivink milk and manufacturing it either into butter, cheese or condensed milk, or selling it for direct consumption. These institutions are the corner-stone of the dairy manufacturing industry, and their strength lies in the interest that each patron has in his own institution. There are at present 176,166 dairy farmers in the State of Wisconsin, and on these farms have been erected huge barns and silos, and there is every indication of prosperity.

Wisconsin will exhibit many fine dairy herds at the National Dairy Show, and a special feature of the Wisconsin exhibit will be the original Babcock tester.

Canadians visiting the dairy show in Minneapolis, which was held from Oct. 8 to 15, had the opportunity of meeting Dr. Stephen M. Babcock, inventor of the world-famous milk tester which bears his name. A special Babcock Day was proclaimed to pay tribute to the man who devised the method of ascertaining the percentage of butter-fat in milk. The test has put millions of dollars into the pockets of dairymen by saving the loss of butter-fat in th e process of separating the cream. Its supreme value lies in the fact that it furnishes data for improving dairy stocks by indicating which animals should be weeded out. The last line of the bulletin in which Dr. Babcock announced the discovery of his method read: "The test is not patented." While Dr. Babcock thus unassumingly gave to the world the benefits of his researches and failed to reap the financial reward his invention would have assured, he gained fame. Wisconsin gave him a bronze medal in 1899. France presented him with the grand prize and a medal in 1900, and the United States in 1904, at the Louisiana Exposition, awarded him the grand prize and a medal.

Dr. Babcock was made professor of agriculture at the University of Wisconsin in July, 1913, after being chemist at the institution since 1887. He has devoted himself entirely to laboratory work, studying problems relating to physics and agriculture.

Since the time that Minnesota and Wisconsin States introduced co-operative dairy plants, large checks have arrived each month for the farmer, and there is scarcely a farm in either state that has one dollar mortgage. All through that extensive area we find immense barns, huge silos, fine residences and happy people, who attribute their success to the co-operative dairy plant.

Ontario's Opportunities.

In Ontario we have immense areas that are as well adapted to dairying as any state in the union. Although in many parts of our province this industry is carried on at present, the farmer is not receiving the profits that he should or could with a co-operative dairy plant in operation in his district.

The Thorndale Co-operative Dairy Company, which was organized a few months ago by enterprising dairymen of the district, is the first established in Canada according to the principles of those in the States of Wisconsin and Minnesota, which have proved such a huge success.

The Thorndale Co-operative Dairy Company purpose erecting a dairy plant in the near future. The capital stock of the company is $40,000, and building operations will begin when $15,000 worth of stock has been sold. The farmers of the district are very enthusiastic in the enterprise, and with very few exceptions all farmers who have been interviewed by the directors have readily subscribed for stock. Dairymen in the adjoining townships have also expressed a desire to secure stock.

The establishment of a co-operative dairy company at Thorndale has also tended to enhance the value of property in West Nissouri Township, as farmers are eager to secure farms where there are such excellent facilities for the disposal of dairy products.

Miss Neely and Her Little Lamb

MISS CELA NEELY is the only lady in Ontario who is secretary-treasurer of a fair association, and to her is due a large measure of the success which has attended Donnybrook Fair for the past few years. This year the fair was the biggest in its 67 years of history, and the complete arrangements made by Miss Neely had much to do with the speed and promptness with which the various events were carried through.

Miss Neely is herself a practical agriculturist and a successful breeder of Dorset sheep. She captured all the prizes for this breed at this year's fair. Our portrait represents Miss Neely holding in her arms a pet lamb which was presented to her from a Christmas tree last year. This animal is now rather too large to be favored in this manner, but it had the distinction of being a prize-winner at this year's show.

Royal Agricultural Show Makes Its Bow in Toronto

The Royal Agricultural Winter Fair of Canada makes its bow this year. For upwards of half a century winter fairs have been held at various points in the Dominion, both east and west, one of the best known and the most successful being that held at Guelph. These fairs have been a means of showing what the province can do in the breeding and feeding of live stock and in encouraging stock raisers to greater efforts. But it was felt that the time had come for something really big, something really international in its character.

With this in view, a committee of representative livestock men met in November, 1917, and at a meeting in October, 1919, an offer was received from the city of Toronto to erect an arena with adequate accommodation and subject to certain financial repayments. This offer was accepted. The Royal Agricultural Winter Fair Association was then duly incorporated and financial support was secured from the Federal and Ontario Governments.

In making its initial bow the organization says:

"Agriculture must remain as the foundation industry in the country, and live stock is the foundation of good agriculture. Through the trying times of transition the industry must pass to permanence and prosperity and the Royal Show hopes to contribute in this development. With a splendid organization, with buildings which are second to none on this continent, with a generous prize list and attractive exhibits from all parts of Canada and from many parts across the line, the association feels it can appeal with confidence for the support of the general public in an enterprise which is of such national importance."

The list of officers embraces many men familiar to the agricultural world. W. A. Dryden is president, H. C. Cox, vice-president, and C. F. Bailey, managing director. The board of directors includes Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, minister of agriculture for Canada; Hon. Manning W. Doherty, minister of agriculture for Ontario; T. L. Church, mayor of Toronto, and C. Alfred Maguire, vice-chairman, board of control, Toronto, as well as a long list of representative stock, dairy and horticultural industries.

POTATO SCAB AS AFFECTED BY SOIL

Treating potato seed with corrosive sublimate for the control of scab and rhizoctonia has been practiced for some time in leading potato growing sections. Occasionally there have been reports which seem to indicate that the treatment was ineffective against scab. Instances have been reported where treated seed planted on virgin soal showed 50 per cent scab in the crop produced. It was difficult to explain such results at first, but facts which are now at hand throw light on the situation.

"Potato scab is caused by a definite organism that lives as a parasite on the tubers," says R. C. Rose of University Farm, "and recent investigations have indicated that it occurs on some soils naturally, even though potatoes have never been grown on them. The scab organism grows rapidly under alkaline or neutral conditions, but is repressed by slight acidity. In other words, a limestone soil favors the scab organism in much the same way as it favors nodule bacteria of our legumes, and in such soils the scab organism is apt to occur naturally.

"To control scab on some of the naturally infected soils is, of course, a problem. Various methods have been used with some success to change certain soils from an alkaline to acid reaction. Sulphur, certain fertilizers and green manures have all given promising results in recent trials, but the benefits depend on how much lime the soil contains.

"On the other hand, this organism does not occur naturally in acid soils and when it is found it generally has been introduced with the seed. The testing of the soil for acidity will indicate to a certain extent what success might be expected in treating potato seed for scab. Directions for making soil tests can be obtained from the county agent or by writing to University Farm, St. Paul. Although seed treatment may not give the best results in controlling scab in certain localities, it should not be discontinued as it is very important in controlling rhizoctonia which sometimes reduces the stand and yield of the crop materially."

SEED DISTRIBUTION

The annual free distribution of samples of seed grain will be conducted as usual at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, by the Dominion cerealist. The following kinds of seed grain will be sent out this season: Spring wheat (in about 5-lb. samples); white oats (about 4-lb.); barley (about 5-lb.); field peas (about 5-lb.); field beans (about 2-lb.); flax (about 2-lb.). Only one sample can be sent to each applicant. Applications must be on printed forms, which may be obtained by writing to the Dominion Cerealist, Experimental Farm, Ottawa. As the stock of seed is limited, farmers are advised to apply early to avoid disappointment. Those who applied too late last season are particularly requested to send in their names at once so that application forms may be forwarded to them. No application forms will be furnished after Feb. 1, 1922. C. E. Saunders, Dominion Cerealist.

Sale of "Wear-Ever" Aluminum Continues Next Week

An excellent opportunity to complete your aluminum kitchen outfit—not one, but six specials—some marked at less than half the regular price in this sale. The six different utensils are pictured here today. Clip out the ones you want and get the identical piece or pieces while this sale is on. This is a factory sale and these prices cannot be continued after next week — an opportunity that will not come again this year. It is the factory's way of spending money to advertise the superior quality of "Wear-Ever" in comparison with other makes of aluminum utensils. S FEW TEACHERS ECAUSE OF SYSTEM

A. E. Silverwood Recommends New Methods at Collegiate.

That one of the principal reasons why the board of education is unable to secure sufficient teachers for the Collegiate Institute is because of the salary arrangement, was the suggestion offered by A. E. Silverwood during Friday evening's meeting of the industrial advisory committee.

Explaining that although he held no special brief for any of them, he declared that there were half a dozen teachers at the high school who were still kept on the temporary list, despite the fact that most of them, he had been given to understand, had been with that institution at least a year. He pointed out that by this arrangement they were deprived of the same advantages of remuneration as the permanent teachers, although, as he stated, they were fully qualified.

Mr. Silverwood explained, that as his name had been coupled with those of several of the trustees who had been appointed to a special committee of the board some time ago to consider a revision of teachers' salaries, he had received, from time to time, queries as to what had been accomplished. He had been unable to report progress of any kind, he said, as he received no intimation whatever.

It was his understanding, he explained further, that a certain feeling of dissatisfaction existed among some of the teachers, and one case in particular, he had been informed, had already been taken to the department in Toronto. This was one of the reasons, he believed, that teachers were scarce whenever the Collegiate Institute is involved. The impression evidently has been rampant among the teaching fraternity that should one accept a position at that institution, he or she will be kept indefinitely on the temporary list, meaning a difference in yearly salary of a rather substantial sum.

Mr. Silverwood was strenuous in his contention that such procedure, if it be actually maintained, is decidedly unfair, and reasoned that if it was deemed fitting at the Collegiate Institute it should be applied at the Technical School, but if, on the other hand, the system at the latter institution was the best, the same should be in force at the high school.

CITY NEWS in BRIEF

THE FUNERAL OF Mrs. Mary Turner of 202 Clarence street, who died Thursday, was held Saturday morning. Requiem high mass was sung by Monsignor McKeon at St. Peter's Cathedral at 8:30 o'clock. Interment was made at St. Peter's Cemetery. The pall-barers were six sons—Frederick, George, Albert, Peter and Arthur.

THE DEATH OCCURRED Friday night in St. Joseph's Hospital of Mrs. Mary Agnes Spearman of Inwod. The body was shipped to Inwod on the London and Port Stanley train at 2:26 o'clock Saturday aftrnon. The funeral will be held on Monday at Inwood from the residence of her son, James Spearman. Interment will be made at Alvinston.

REV. GEORGE T. WATTS, B.D.—The pastor of Wellington Street Methodist Church, will preach at the Ridout Street Methodist Church, Sunday morning, in connection with the anniversary services. In the evening Rev. Perry S. Dobson, M.A., B.D., principal of Alma College, St. Thomas, will be the speaker. There will be special music at both services.

RECORD ENTRIES for the annual show of the London Pet Stock and Poultry Association, to be held on Nov. 4, 5, 6 and 7, are expected. According to those in charge of the show, there is every prospect that more than 2,000 entries will be received. Prominent among these will be the entries of local chicken fanciers, whose exhibits will include some of the finest birds to be seen in America.

REPORTS RECEIVED from the district indicate that as a result of the recent wet weather, potatoes on heavy ground are rotting badly. Many farmers, it is stated, will only get a few bushels, where they had expected to dig large quantities. Owing to the large amount of fall work to be done many of the farmers have had little time to dig their potatoes. Many have not yet finished their threshing, and in addition have a lot of other work to do. Examination of the potatoes made in the last day or two shows that many of them are spoiled by rotting.

SHRINERS' WINTER FAIR TO BE ATTENDED BY 2,000

Program To Be of Unusual Interest, Say Officials.

More than 2,000 Shriners from all parts of the province and from Detroit, Buffalo and other American cities, are expected in London for the big winter ceremonial of Mocha Temple, which will be held on December 7.

Plans are under way for a program of unusual interest, and it was stated to The Advertiser that a large class of candidates will be led across the burning sands.

Mocha Temple now has a membership of well over 2,000, and is in a flourishing condition in every way.

W. M. S. AT PETROLEA.

The Strathroy District W. M. S. will meet in Petrolea on Oct. 18, afternoon and evening session. Miss B. Shepley, returned missionary from China, will be present and address the convention. Auxiliaries will give reports of their work.

TABERNACLES FEAST BEGINS ON MONDAY

The Feast of Tabernacles, or Succoth, as it is called in Hebrew, occurs this year on Oct. 17, and continues for a period of seven days with a Festival of Conclusion on the eighth day. The first and last days are observed in the Synagogue. This festival is a feast of rejoicing, the original Thanksgiving Day, looking back to the remote antiquity of Israel when he dwelt in Palestine and tilled the soil. As a harvest festival its characteristic note is a thankful spirit for the grain harvested and garnered, for the blessings of vineyard and olive grove, for the increase of the fields and orchards.

The biblical source of the Festival of Tabernacles is found in Leviticus xxiii., 34-35, which commands the Israelites to celebrate the 15th day of the seventh month of the ancient Hebrew calendar, with a Feast of Tabernacles by dwelling in booths seven days, in order to remind them that God caused the children of Israel to dwell in booths when he brought them out of the land of Egypt.

Many observant Jews obey the biblical command literally and dwell in booths, or temporary dwellings, called Succoth, during the seven days of the festival. In them, they offer their daily prayer and partake of their meals.

The harvest character of the festival is also clearly shown in the smybols which each worshipper brings to the Synagogue, or which are exhibited from the pulpit. These symbols are the "ethrog," or citron; branches of the stately palm tree, "lulav"; sprigs of the fragrant myrtle; and boughs of the humble willow of he brook.

In many reform congregations, the pulpits are elaborately decorated with fruits and vegetables; and the children of the religious school participate in the children's harvest festival.

The Festival of Conclusion, which terminates the Feast of Tabernacles on the eighth day, is called, in Hebrew, Shemini Atzereth. Various conjectures are put forth regarding its intent. There is no definite object stated in the Bible. But it was undoubtedly intended to give a sense of completion to the whole series of holy days of this season of the year.

"TECH" AUDITORIUM PLANS UNDER WAY

can be furnished for 300 or more pupils. There has seemingly been some misapprehension in regard to the report that only students who have attained the seventh grade can enter the technical departments. Principal Beal explains that this regulation applies only to day classes.

Adolescents Arranged For.

In furnishing his report, Principal Beal points out the advantage of arranging for adolescents in his school. Facilities for this undertaking are to be had, and many pupils are already enjoying them at present. With the extension of these night classes there would be involved no additional cost in the general oversight or in heating or lighting of building or janitor's services. Government grants would be available on teachers' salaries, he says.

There is an additional advantage, the authorities point out, that those attending the academic classes would have an opportunity of deriving benefit by the practical classes, if so desired. The teachers for these classess are drawn largely from the successful male teachers and principals of the public school staff.

Whether the board had the power to compel adolescents to attend night classes was also considered, with the general opinion expressed that within the meaning of the adolescence act the attendance officer was empowered to cancel a working permit, in any instance wherein, after due consideration, he deemed it fitting that the holder of the permit should be and was able to be at night school.

Principal Beal's advice that attendance at these general education night classes did not involve further expenditure for the pupil was regarded by Trustee Mrs. Tanner and A. E. Silverwood as a fact that should be given greater prominence. Both members urged that this matter be given more publicity as a means toward encouraging more of the working children to attend. Chairman Rowe and others of the committee coincided, but were desirous that this phase of the issue be left to No. 1 committee.

Principal Beal reported that night classes opened Oct. 3, and are now progressing splendidly, with many still registering. "Both in the point of attendance and the character of the student body," he said, "these classes are the most successful in the history of the institution."

Owing to the necessity of taking over one of the large dressmaking rooms for a day academic classroom, the classes in this department had to be considerably curtailed. Classes for printers and telegraphers also have been dispensed with owing to lack of space.

WILL EXHIBIT PRODUCTS OF FRANCE'S WORKMEN

French Sample Train Here On Thursday.

The French "sample" train, which has been touring Canada for several weeks, will arrive in London next Thursday morning at 4 a.m. and will be stationed on the L. and P. S. siding, Bathurst street, between Wellington and Waterloo streets.

The train, which comes from Windsor, will be open at 10:30 o'clock to receive official delegations and those interested in industry, trade and commerce.

Mayor E. S. Little, the aldermen and other city officials, members of the Alliance Francaise and the Chamber of Commerce will be the welcoming delegation and will visit the train during the morning. In the afternoon, from 2 to 5:30 o'clock, and again in the evening from 7:30 to 9, the train, consisting of thirteen cars, will be open to the general public.

The exhibits should be of particular interest to Canadians, as they represent products and industries that are more or less unknown here, and they do not clash with the products of Canadian manufacturers.

Textiles that will delight the herts of Canadian women form a large portion of the exhibits, and are expected to attract many of the gentler sex.

The display is accompanied bby moving pictures of the most beautiful scenery of France, historic monuments, architectural wonders, objects of art, etc. The net proceeds will go to the blind soldiers of France.

Count R. d'Arnaud, who has charge of the train, and several of his staff, will be entertained at luncheon in the Tecumseh Hotel by the members of the chamber of commerce and the Lions Club.

The train will leave on Thursday night for Woodstock, where it will be open for inspection on Friday morning, in the afternoon it will proceed to Brantford.

LONDON WOMAN DIES AT VICTORIA HOSPITAL

The death of Mrs. Louise Octavie Saunders, wife of Thomas Saunders, 156 William street, occurred at Victoria Hospital Friday afternoon, after three days' illness.

Besides her husband she is survived by one son, a brother living in Glen Ray, one in Ypsilanti, Mich., and three sisters, living in Dorchester, Dutton and California.

The funeral will be held from her residence Monday, Oct. 17, at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in Woodland Cemetery.

FINE WEATHER PROVES AN AID TO BUILDING

Building continues with the excellent fall weather, and Inspector Piper is issuing a large number of permits. Thomas Parker, Beaconsfield avenue, is erecting a new one-story stucco dwelling, to cost $4,200; M. Doyle, Maitland street, will remodel a brick stable into a dwelling at a cost of $1,000. Other permits are mostly for repairs and garages. J. W. Wild, 19 Lansdowne avenue, $220 garage; T. J. McInnis, Steadwell street, new foundation, $400; J. W. Cunningham, 839 Dundas street, garage, $150; Mrs. M. Gilligan, 128 Chesley avenue, veranda, $200; W. J. Wilkie, 853 Princess avenue, garage, $150; W. J. Wray & Co., jewelers, Dundas street, three-story elevator shaft, $800, and the Grand Trunk is spending $150 putting a new roof on a Bathurst street shed.

MUST HELP CHILDREN AT WORK, SAYS WEIR

Unfair To Ask Them To Attend "Tech" Classes.

"To my mind it would be too much of a hardship to compel children to attend evening classes at the Technical School," Dr. George S. Weir, public school attendance officer, declared Saturday, commenting upon the announcement by Principal Beal of the latter institution, that accommodation for 300 pupils would be available.

"After working all day," continued Dr. Weir, "it would be unfair to ask these children to walk or even pay carfare from Pottersburg, or say away over in South London. There is a Technical School in Toronto, but you will find that they have night classes in the public schools as well."

The attendance officer seems a trifle dubious as to just what subjects would be taught at the Technical School. "I claim that these children need mostly a general education that will be of some real benefit to them in daily life. They should be taught reading and writing. English composition should also be included. They should learn to write, not essays necessarily, but ordinary or business letters."

Dr. Weir feels keenly the need for some definite step in the education of those who are now at work, nearly 200 of whom, he says, have not passed further than the eighth grade at school. "Lack of education leads inevitably to Bolshevism," he warns, "and the uneducated become the easy prey of the demagogue when they can't read or think for themselves."

SEES GRAVE DANGER IN AMERICAN INFLUX

Agent-General Urges Redistribution of Empire's Population.

London, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press Cable).—F. C. Wade, agent-general for British Columbia, has written to the press emphasizing the urgent need for redistribution of the population of the Empire. He points out that Australia and Canada at the present time support less than three persons to the square mile as against 618 to the square mile in England and Wales.

Mr. Wade suggests that Canada's position is more precarious than that of Australia. He claims that the "same cloud of restless ambitious powerful people" which towers over Australia threatens Canada. The latter country, however, has a greater danger, says the agent-general, from the overflow from the United States. He gives figures indicating the serious influx of immigrants from the United States as compared with those from British sources and declares that "Western Canada is rapidly becoming Americanized."

Citing the story of the peaceful penetration in the years 1843 to 1845 of Washington Territory and Oregon, by the people from the older part of the United States, while the question of ownership of those districts was still under discussion. Mr. Wade asks how long Canada can escape effective occupation if the immigration from the United States continues to exceed that from the United Kingdom, "if the Americans continue to acquire our principal natural resources and monopolize our trade."

The cure for the present situation, says Mr. Wade, is to "pump in the whites whose instincts are in accord with British or Canadian traditions."

He suggests that arrangements be made along the lines of the various soldier settlement schemes, but on an extended scale. He concludes by stating that every year's delay in the redistribution of the population of the Empire increases the danger and difficulty of the situation enormously.

MONTREAL.

Montreal, Oct. 15.—Trading on the local stock exchange during the first half hour this morning was unfeatured by any spectacular advance or decline. Only a few of the principal issues appeared within the first half hour, and these were quiet. Atlantic Sugar was weaker by quarter point, at 29 1-4, while Brazilian was up a quarter at 24 1-2. National Breweries was fractionally stronger.

Nova Scotia Vote Generally Reflects Dominion's Verdict

Halifax, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press.)—Generally as Nova Scotia has voted in general elections, so has the country as a whole voted. On only one occasion, that of the first general election in 1867, when resentment against Confederation dominated the political situation in the East, has Nova Scotia returned a majority of its members in opposition to the government of the day.

Of the remaining twelve general elections, Canada's easternmost province sent back a majority in support of the government on ten occasions, and in the "doubtful years" of 1896 and 1911, when governments were overthrown, recorded the changing sentiment of the country by declining to commit herself either one way or the other, and returning an equal number of Liberals and Conservatives.

Disregarding the election of 1917, when a number of Liberals pledged to support the Unionist Government of Sir Robert Borden were elected, Nova Scotia has returned a total of 132 Liberals and 107 Conservatives to parliament since Confederation in 1867. The Liberals carried a majority of the seats in five general elections, those of 1867, 1874, 1901, 1904 and 1908; and the Conservatives a majority in like number, those of 1872, 1878, 1882, 1888 and 1891.

Even Split in 1896.

In the general elections of 1896 and 1911 there was an even split as between the two parties. The Conservative high water mark was reached in 1882, when the government of the day carried 15 seats out of a total of 21, and the Liberals piled up their greatest majority in 1894, when they made a clean sweep of the 18 seats filled by Nova Scotia in that year. The figures for Nova Scotia are as follows:

Year.	Con.	Lib.	Year.	Con.	Lib.
1867.....	3	16	1891.....	16	5
1872.....	11	10	1896.....	10	10
1874.....	4	17	1901.....	5	15
1878.....	14	7	1904.....	0	18
1882.....	15	6	1908.....	6	12
1888.....	14	7	1911.....	9	9

New Brunswick's record from 1867 to 1911 inclusive shows that in all 78 Conservatives were returned to Ottawa as against 89 Liberals, the Liberals securing a majority of the seats in nine general elections, those of 1867, 1872, 1874, 1878, 1896, 1901, 1904, 1908 and 1911, and the Conservatives securing a majority of the seats in three general elections, those of 1882, 1888 and 1891.

The largest majority of the seats won by the Conservatives was in 1891, when the government of Sir John A. Macdonald took 13 of the 16 ridings contested on that occasion; and the largest majority of seats won by the Liberals was in 1908, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier's government came out of New Brunswick with 11 seats to their credit, as against 2 won by the Conservatives. New Brunswick has not proved as good a barometer as has Nova Scotia, having returned a majority in opposition to the government of the day on four occasions.

Detailed Figures Follow.

The detailed figures for New Brunswick follow:

Year.	Con.	Lib.	Year.	Con.	Lib.
1867.....	7	8	1891.....	13	3
1872.....	7	9	1896.....	5	9
1874.....	5	11	1901.....	5	9
1878.....	5	11	1904.....	5	8
1882.....	10	6	1908.....	2	11
1887.....	10	6	1911.....	5	8

Prince Edward Island on the whole has dealt fairly equably with the two great political parties, having returned in all 22 Conservatives as against 30 Liberals. The Liberals carried a majority of the seats in five general elections, those of 1874 (the first year in which the island voted in a general election), 1888, 1891, 1901 and 1908; the Conservatives carried the day in four general elections, those of 1878, 1882, 1896, 1904. In 1911 there was an even break, with both parties taking two seats.

The Conservatives got their greatest majority out of the island in 1878, when they carried 5 of the 6 seats contested in that year, and the Liberals made a clean sweep of 6 seats on two occasions, in the general elections of 1874 and 1888. In five out of ten elections Prince Edward Island returned a majority supporting the government of the day, while in four contests a majority in opposition to the government was returned. The figures are:

Year.	Con.	Lib.	Year.	Con.	Lib.
1878.....	5	1	1901.....	2	3
1882.....	4	2	1904.....	3	1
1887.....	0	6	1908.....	1	3
1891.....	2	4	1911.....	2	2

Liberals Have Edge.

Regarding the Maritime Provinces as a unit, a recapitulation of the above figures shows that in all 251 Liberals were elected as against 208 Conservatives in the twelve general elections contested between 1867 and 1911 inclusive. The Liberals took a majority of the seats in eight appeals to the people, those of 1867, 1872, 1874, 1896, 1901, 1904, 1908 and 1911, the Conservatives securing a majority in the four general elections of 1878, 1882, 1888 and 1891. The Liberals took their greatest following out of the Maritimes in 1874, when they secured a majority of 25 seats, and the Conservatives won their greatest majority of 19 seats in the general election of 1891. In the twelve general elections under review the Maritimes returned a majority in support of the government on nine occasions, and a majority in opposition to the government on three occasions. The figures are:

Year.	Con.	Lib.	Year.	Con.	Lib.
1872.....	18	19	1896.....	18	21
1874.....	9	34	1901.....	12	27
1878.....	24	19	1904.....	8	27
1882.....	29	14	1908.....	9	26

EAST MIDDLESEX TORIES TO CHOOSE CANDIDATE

Will Hold Meeting Either 22nd or 29th of October.

The Conservatives of East Middlesex will meet either on Saturday, October 22, or Saturday, October 29, to pick their candidate for the coming federal contest. The decision as to the date will be made this (Saturday) afternoon, when the officers of the eight divisions of the riding will meet at the office of the returning officer, W. C. Fitzgerald.

The East Middlesex riding has been divided into eight divisions. In each of these a meeting has been held, the last being on Friday night in Egerton Street Hall, to organize the city part of the riding. S. F. Glass, the member in the last house, explains that such meeting were necessary to get a proper organization for the campaign, there being no organization meetings since the 1917 contest. Each of the eight divisions have elected officers and these officers make up the executive of the riding and they will decide on the date of the party convention.

Meeetings are yet to be held by the conveners of the different subdivisions of the riding to elect delegates to the convention.

"We are late in getting under way," said Mr. Glass, "but I have taken the stand that even if we did not get a candidate in the field until two weeks before the election, it would be better to have a properly accredited candidate than have one placed in the field by some rushed-together convention, which might give a man representative of perhaps some faction only. It will keep better harmony in the party," said Mr. Glass.

A MEETING OF THE Boy Scout officers was held last night at the rooms of the 8th London Troop, for the purpose of organizing a Scoutmasters' Club. Rev. A. S. H. Cree was elected president, and R. Rodda, secretary. A combined hike of all the troops in the city will take place shortly.

PREDICTS ABSORPTION IF MEIGHEN REMAINS

N. P. Lambert Claims Victory of Progressives Only Solution.

Nokomo, Sask., Oct. 15.—Norman P. Lambert, secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, addressing a convention here, predicted that there will be two issues before the country in the next ten years, financial bankruptcy or political absorption by the United States.

"If Premier Meighen continues to meet these problems with his continued program of high protection, you will be faced with either one of these issues," he declared, and the only solution is for the progressive movement to sweep this country from one end to the other on December 6."

LEVEL CROSSINGS A MENACE TO SOCIETY

Declares Coroner Fissette At T. McCann Inquest.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 14.—A verdict finding the Grand Trunk Railway negligent in not having a man on the rear of an engine backing over a crossing, coupled with a rider urging the construction of subways for all level crossings, was returned by the jury at the inquest before Coroner Fissette here tonight in the matter of the death of Theodore McCann, who was struck by a locomotive on the night of October 1. It was found that the man had come to his death by being struck by the engine. A copy of the verdict will be forwarded to the Dominion board of railway commissioners.

Coroner Fissette, in delivering his charge to the jury, stated that it was "another case of the menace to organized society—the level crossing. "Subways," he said, "constitute the only solution."

STEAM HEAT SCHEME AT CHATHAM FAILS

Company Unable To Secure Enough Contracts.

CHATHAM, Oct. 14.—That there will be no heat from a central steam heating plant in Chatham this winter was the announcement made late this afternoon after a futile attempt on the part of citizens to secure sufficient contracts to warrant the Chatham Steam Heating Company opening up their plant on King street. As a result the merchants on King street and the balance of the business section are now digging up old stoves and furnaces in the hopes of providing sufficient heat for the coming winter.

The directors of the company, when appealed to about two weeks ago, stated that they would require a certain amount of money guaranteed through contracts before they could start up the plant. Efforts on the part of the citizens' committee which was formed at a meeting in the chamber of commerce brought out contracts which totalled around $23,000, but this amount was not enough. Yesterday it was stated that two more contracts would cover the amount required, but these could not be secured; hence the project fell through.

A WOMAN'S HEALTH NEEDS GREAT CARE

When the Blood Becomes Watery, a Breakdown Follows.

Every woman's health is dependent upon the condition of her blood. How many women suffer with headache, pain in the back, poor appetite, weak digestion, a constant feeling of weariness, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, pallor and nervousness? Of course, all these symptoms may not be present—the mere there are the worse the condition of the blood, and the more necessary that you should begin to enrich it without delay. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a splendid blood-building tonic. Every dose helps to make better blood, which goes to every part of the body and brings new health to weak, despondent people. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are valuable to all women, but they are particularly useful to girls of school age who become pale, languid and nervous. There can be neither health nor beauty without red blood which gives brightness to the eyes and color to the cheeks and lips. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood as is shown by the experience of Mrs. Jos. E. Veniotte, West Northfield, N. S., who says: "For several years I was in a bad state of health. I was pale and nervous, my appetite was poor, and I suffered from weakness, headaches and a feeling of oppression. I got so nervous that I was afraid to stay in the house alone. All this time I was taking medicine, but it only did not help me, but I was growing weaker. Finally I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after using six boxes I felt much better. I had a better appetite, slept better and felt stronger. However, I continued taking the pills for a couple of months longer and now I am feeling as well as ever I did. I give all the credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and hope that my experience may be of benefit to some other weak woman."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

Wants Bridges Aligned With Roads in Western Ontario

The Chatham Chamber of Commerce wants more protection for travelers, as regards road improvements in the nature of culverts and approaches to bridges. The directors of the Chatham Chamber have sent a communication to all the Western Ontario bodies, asking that the matter be given consideration, and a request sent to Hon. F. C. Biggs and local members that the Government should pass legislation requiring bridges to be placed in alignment with the highways, except in special instances, where engineering difficulties would interfere.

Following is the communication which will be brought before the London Chamber of Commerce by Secretary Gordon Philip, forwarded to him by M. M. Maxwell of Chatham:

"There exists today in a great many municipalities, a very serious menace to the traveling public, in bridges which were constructed during the past few years and some of them some years ago, and were placed in the position they are in, simply because it was possible to get a shorter span and reduce the cost of construction. At that time the vehicles were much slower in movement than the majority of vehicles which use the highway today, and the question of sharp turns or of suddenly ending roads did not constitute as great a menace as is the condition at the present time.

"The Provincial Government has control over bridge and culvert structures which are on provincial highways or county or township highways on which the Government pays a portion of the cost. On other highways, however, the Government has absoiutely no control, and there is no general legislation relative to the way in which bridges must be placed. In fact, the act as it stands today, specifices more the character of construction than it does the position, relative to the roadway. The development of road improvement through the province makes this question a very serious one at the present time, as the menace is increasing almost daily with the increase of the number of swifter moving vehicles and with the increased number of bridge structures which are being placed on highways.

"The directors of the Chatham Chamber of Commerce respectfully suggest that you give consideration to the question, and that you send to Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works, Toronto, and to your local representative in the Ontario House an urgent request that the Government should give attention to this situation, and that they should protect the travelers on the public highways by passing legislation which will require bridges to be placed in an alignment with the highways, except in such very special instances as may arise where engineering difficulties would prevent such an arrangement. We would very much appreciate your advising us of the action taken by your organization. Your truly,

"The Chatham Chamber of Commerce."

Fights His Mother-in-Law, Wife and Police Chief; Now in Jail.

CHATHAM, Oct. 14.—Mac McLeod, a resident of Blenheim, was taken to the county jail this morning charged with being drunk and assaulting his wife and mother-in-law. Both women are stated to be seriously injured. The police chief of Blenheim was also stated to be badly injured while making the arrest.

SARNIA C. OF C. TO VOTE ON PROPOSED BLUE SKY LAWS

New Ferry Company Organized Between Port Huron and Sarnia.

SARNIA, Oct. 14.—At an adjourned meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce tonight, two important resolutions based on committee reports were adopted and will be submitted to the membership in referendum form within a few days. One of these resolutions concerns amendments to the Ontario and Dominion companies acts, drafted with view to largely eliminating fraudulent stock sales and the promotion of fake or questionable enterprises. Ways and means were also discussed for a campaign for the renewal of memberships in the chamber.

New Ferry Company.

The International Ferry Company, Limited, was organized at Sarnia today to operate a ferry line between Port Huron and Sarnia. The members of the board of directors are: Capt. D. Alexander and Frank P. Holland of Sarnia, and Capt. George Stevenson, Alex. Moore and E. J. Schoolcraft of Port Huron. The officers elected by the company are; President, George Stevenson; vice-president, Capt. D. Alexander; secretary-treasurer, Frank P. Holland. The company has purchased a steel ferry boat, 170 feet in length and 44 feet beam. The boat will have a carrying capacity of 50 autos each trip. Passenger cabins are located on the upper deck. The ferry boat is now berthed at Montreal, where some minor changes are being made to her machinery. It is expected she will be brought to Sarnia within the next ten days.

HUNT FOR CREW OF LIQUOR BOAT

SYDNEY, N. S., Oct. 14.—Cape Breton police today are searching for the crew of the American schooner Vagrant, who deserted their vessel when it was seized by Capt. Bragg, a preventive officer, at Gabarius Harbor. The schooner had been towed to Louisburg by the cutter Restless and $15,000 worth of liquor on board will be held in a bonded warehouse here. The liquor is reported to be the property of a Boston man, who fled with the crew of the Vagrant.

SIMS DECLINES BID TO ARMISTICE DAY DINNER

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Rear Admiral Sims has declined an invitation to speak at the Armistice Day dinner of the New York Chapter of the Military Order of the World War. Officers of the chapter today attributed the refusal to the reprimand he received for his speech in England in reference to Sinn Feiners. This offer quoted the admiral as writing to the chapter, "a year from now when I am on the retired list, I can say what I feel like and then I'll be glad to talk to you."

RUSSIA DESIRES CHINA AND MONGOLIA TO AGREE

PEKING, Oct. 14.—Bolshevik Russia intends to offer its mediation between China and the Mongolian republic in an effort to establish amicable relations, it is asserted in a statement issued by the Rosta News Agency, the official soviet organ in Peking. The agency makes public a note addressed to the Mongolian revolutionary Government now controlling outer Mongolia under the military auspices of the soviet administration in Moscow, urging the necessity of re-establishing peaceful business relations between Mongolia and China.

LIFE IMPRISONMENT FOR MURDERING HIS WIFE

DETROIT, Oct. 14.—Herman F. Rademacher, a patrolmen who confessed that he murdered his wife, Gertrude, by throwing her from the Belle Isle bridge into the Detroit River, was sentenced today to life imprisonment in the state house of correction at Marquette.

Rademacher pleaded guilty and waived a jury trial. He confessed throwing his wife from the bridge on October 6. Her body was recovered two days later.

KEN M'KAY CHAMP OF WOODSTOCK C. I.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 14.—The annual field day of the Woodstock Collegiate Institute was held today under perfect weather conditions. The competition in all difference sections was above that of other years. In some of the contests the school records were broken. Kenneth MacKay establishing a new mark for the hop,step and jump with 33 feet 4 inches to his credit. James George swept the old shot put record out of existence when he hurled the shot 36 feet 3¼ inches.

As a result of the day's competition, Kenneth MacKay was returned senior champion with a total of 41 points, while in the intermediate contest Allan Sutton annexed the silverware with the high score of 44 points. The junior championship was a hot contest between D. A. Riddell and G. Rankin, the former winning with 29 points.

In the girls' section of the events today much improvement was shown over the work of other years. Both in the sprints and jumps the girls acquitted themselves in fine style and several records were established. The new senior girls' champion is Jean Vre, while the junior championship went to Pearl Saunders, with Madeline Olmstead a close second.

HUDSON'S FASHION SHOP HOLDS OFFICIAL OPENING

Many Shoppers Visit New Dundas Street Store, Saturday.

The official opening of Hudson's Fashion Shop, the new Dundas street store, Saturday, is attracting large numbers of women shoppers. They are visiting this shop, not only because it is new, and all the garments shown are new, but also because they are expecting to find there garments, which are most reasonable in price. Another very attractive feature of the new opening is the presence of an orchestra, which renders a fine musical program throughout the day.

The articles on display include fashionable gowns of heavy Canton crepe and satin made in the latest mode, smart tricotine dresses, having all the new touches, and chosen from New York's latest fashion shops. Big wrappy coats, luxurious in their fur trimmings and silk linings are also in the display, which is considered one of the finest shown in London this season.

The shop building itself has been so remodeled that it is not recognizable as the old Dundas street store, but stands out by itself as a little bit out of a big fashion centre.

PROVINCE SUES LUMBER FIRM FOR CUTTING PINE

Ontario Crown Lands Department Files Action for $250,000 Damages.

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—One item for which the attorney-general and the minister of lands and forests sues the Shevlin Clark Company is $250,000 damages for pine alleged to have been wrongfully cut on timber berths 45 and 49, Quetico Forest Reserve. The crown also seeks payment for all timber cut or to be cut hereafter on these berths at the fair value of timber on Aug. 30, 1919, the date on which the licenses were issued.

The Shevlin Clark Company denies that it owes anything to the Government, and states that it was carrying on, at the request of the crows officers, a practical test for the removal of "slash" or debris left after lumbering operations.

Pleadings have been completed and the case is ready for trial.

ITALIAN DELEGATE IS ATTACKED AT MILAN

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Menotti Serrati, delegate to the eighteenth Italian Socialist Congress in session in Milan, on leaving the congress last midnight was attacked by a man with a cane, says a Central News dispatch from Rome today. A large crowd encouraged Serrati's assailant and other Socialist delegates rushed out and joined in a general melee. Police intervened, and the crowd was broken up. The dispatch says the attackers were followed by Socialists who fired revolvers, injuring several persons.

ROBS HAMILTON BANK OF $1,500 AT GUN'S POINT

ESCAPES IN MOTOR CAR

Warns Officials He Attempted Robbery Frustrated Thursday.

HAMILTON, Oct. 14.—With a curt order to the teller to throw up his hands, an unknown man walked into the Union Bank, Locke and Main streets, today and grabbed $1,500 in bills. The bandit also took possession of the teller's gun and backed out menacing the bank staff in charge of the branch.

As soon as he had left the office the police were called, and a squad in charge of Detective Harry Sayer went to the scene in a patrol. By the time the police had arrived, however, there was no sign of the bandit, but bystanders said he had gotten away in a car.

From the description given the police the man apparently is the one who attempted to hold up the Bank of Hamilton at the corner of Sanford avenue and King street yesterday afternoon. He is described as being about 23 years of age, and was wearing a blue suit, tan shoes and a grey cap pulled well over his eyes.

Backed Out of Bank.

The first intimation the teller received of his presence was when he ordered him to throw up his hands. The man then reached through the wicket and picked up the packet of bills and backed out of the bank.

According to the story of the teller, Harold A. Snell, the man came in and asked for change for a $5 bill, and then ordered him to throw up his hands.

There were only three people in the bank at the time—the teller, L. Virtue, ledgerkeeper, and John Marshall of the Bank of Hamilton, who was visiting the clerks. The bandit ordered all three behind the counter and ordered them to lie on the floor. After obtaining the keys of the teller's cage the bandit cleaned it out of all cash.

Preparing to leave, the robber said: "Well, you fooled me yesterday, but you won't today. Now stay there! If any of you get up I'll drop you!"

Jumped Into Auto.

Following this he left the bank and proceeded east on Main street, and it is thought jumped into a waiting automobile. Detective Sayer and several police officers proceeded to the scene, but were unable to obtain any trace of the man. As yesterday, no one saw the man get into the automobile, and beyond the description supplied, that is all the police have to go on. The motorcycle squad were summoned and scoured the western part of the city. Special officers were detailed to watch the stations, but up to press time their efforts were unrewarded.

P. D. Strickland, manager of the main branch of the bank, stated that fortunately he had visited the bank this morning and arranged that little money was to be left in the teller's cage. He gave a warning to the clerks to be on the watch for any suspicious-looking characters, owing to the attempted robbery yesterday afternoon.

HAMILTON JURY FINDS VERDICT IN 8 MINUTES

HAMILTON, Oct. 14.—It took a jury at the assizes only eight minutes this afternoon to bring in a verdict of guilty on two counts against George Horning, one of the party with Wilfred Meharg on the night Meharg murdered Dr. Whitworth at Binbrook.

The charges were conspiracy and robbery of the Laidman store, in which Dr. Whitworth was shot.

"KID" LEWIS RETAINS MIDDLEWEIGHT TITLE

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Ted "Kid" Lewis, middleweight champion of England, tonight defeated Johnny Basham in the 12th round of what was to have been a 20-round bout. The fight was for the championship.

Basham's seconds ended the terrific punishment which Lewis was inflicting on him by tossing a towel into the ring in acknowledgment of defeat. Lewis outclassed Basham from the start. The challenger received a badly-battered ear, from which blood flowed freely. In the 11th round a right to the jaw sent him down for the count of nine, the gong saving him.

SAYS FOCH WILL CLEARLY DEFEND FRENCH AIMS AT WASHINGTON

SEES PROBLEMS FROM SOLDIERS' POINT OF VIEW

OPPOSES DISARMAMENT

Sir Philip Gibbs Says Marshal's Attendance Has Deep Significance.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

[By Sir Philip Gibbs.]

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The presence of Marshal Foch at the Washington Conference for the limitation of armament, which at present seems certain, should have a far greater importance than a mere ceremonial appearance signfying the desire of official France to co-operate closely with the United States in shaping a world policy, provided French interests and security are not endangered.

When Marshal Foch speaks before the conference on the possibilities of disarmament, or when he expresses his views in private conversations with American statesmen, he will not do so without diplomatic craft or subtlety, but with simple candor and without mental reservations.

He will represent the French view point, as it is fixed in certain convictions and principles, and he will not budge one hair breadth whether they please or displease American opinion.

His mind is as sharp as a sword, as finely tempered as a Toledo blade and as clean as steel, and his character has a fine simplicity which has no guile. But he is limited to certain lines of thought which are rather narrow. He sees the world policy from one angle of vision which is the future safety of revenge, and believes that what he gained by the sword may only be held by the sword.

A Watch Dog For France.

He has little faith in a German change of heart and less perhaps in the possibility of any political or philosophical changes among European peoples likely to elliminate the menace of war. He is hard, practical and realistic in his outlook, and he will not surrender anything which seems to him to be essential to the safety and power of France for vague idealistic dreams or ideals which to some of us seem the best, indeed, the only way to safety for France and all of us.

In his country, like all great men, Marshal Foch has enemies and critics. They are mainly advanced democrats and liberals who believe that Marshal Foch used his influence to maintain the militaristic and reactionary policy of the French Government. I was startled and scandalized when a Frenchman said to me:

"Foch, my dear sir, has the soul of a grocer. He measures up life with a bit of string."

For Foch as a soldier I have unbounded admiration, and if any one man may be said to have saved us all, it was undoubtedly Marshal Foch, especially at that desperate and critical time when the full weight of the German offensive fell against the British lines with 148 divisions against 48. Foch came himself to our lines, as I saw him then, cool and unruffled.

To General Plumer, commanding the British second army, worn thin and hard-pressed, he said:

"How many French divisions do you want?"

And when Plumer answered Foch wrote a note in a little pocketbook and handed it to Plumer. It was an L. O. U. for certain French divisions. There was no hesitation, no red-tape, no grudging conditions, and for three days afterwards the French roads were white with dust and blue with endless columns of marching poilus fulfilling that promise scribbled in Foch's notebook.

He skinned his own front to strengthen the British, though he knew that before long the German army would strike at him. When that attack happened he withdrew his blue men from the British lines with the same quickness of decision and lightning rapidity of action, with a margin of only 24 hours between that movement and irretrievable defeat.

At that time, when the Germans had broken through the French front, Paris was theatened again, and all of us were in deep gloom, Foch sat at his headquarters without a sign of nervous strain, though his nerves are sensitive. An English statesman, Lord Milner, who was with him in the same house during the blackest hours, afterwards told me the following anecdote:

Lord Milner could not resist asking Foch:

"What do you think of the situation now?"

Foch was silent for some seconds. Then he looked up and said:

"I cannot help pitying Ludendorff."

Lord Milner was astounded, and said: "Surely you cannot mean that!"

"Yes," said Marshal Foch; "his job is more difficult than mine, and I shall beat him."

Conflict of Ideas.

That revealed the supreme courage nerve and genius of this man who has never been known to boast or utter a promise which he has not fulfilled. When on another critical day he said: "I guarantee Amiens," he seemed to be saying rash words. But Amiens did not fall to the Germans.

As a soldier, therefore, Marshal Foch will go down in history as one of the world's foremost generals. It is another thing with his statesmanship, but it is not his fault that he sees the policy of France through a soldier's eyes.

There is another vision in France, fortunately, and that is from an economic and not from a military angle. More and more French economists are beginning to influence the French foreign policy, though they still have a hard struggle before them.

Whereas the Foch school thinks that to keep Germany by the throat and shake her pockets is the most profitable policy, the economists in France have at last realized that strangulation and pocket shaking are not going to help France get her reparations or revive her trade.

An agreement has now been made between France and Germany by which the devastated regions will be rebuilt with German material and manufactured goods, which are to be counted as indemnity instead of deliveries of German money which throws the foreign exchange into convulsions.

This is a distinct step forward in European recovery. It may even lead to the miracle of producing good relations between France and Germany, based on common interests, and that would help matters enormously at the Washington conference if it could happen quickly.

But it is a miracle not to be expected by impatient folk. Apart from that, however, it does indicate a way to escape the present fears and dangers, for as I have always repeated as a kind of religious creed, the political chaos of Europe can only be straightened out by economic sanity. Trade will never revive, hatreds will never die down until one nation learns that her own prosperity cannot be regained by ruining her neighbor, and that we all are dependent on one another for raw material, markets and labor.

France has refused to recognize that natural law for the last three years. She believed in keeping Germany weary and desperate. That is the popular idea still in France, but the recent agreement between Louis Loucheur and Dr. Walter Rathenau shows a modification in the official policy at least as far as making use of German industry and labor is concerned.

France Wants Guarantees.

Whatever her erpresentative speaks for France at Washington will demand only one thing for his country with regard to the limitation of armaments and that is security. There is no belief in the French mind that Germany will remain with peaceful intent and it must be admitted that it is not as a reproach, but as a natural fact, due to frightful memories that the French do not go out of their way to foster friendly feelings.

France, therefore, asks moral guarantee from America and Great Britain in case of a German attack before she will consent to turn her guns into plowshares. From the United States there is no possibility of such a guarantee and from Great Britain there is not much chance either, owing to the present exhaustion of men and money.

There is only one way in which France may get a reasonable insurance against future German aggression and that is co-operation of economic lines and commercial arrangements between Germany and other powers friendly to France, which would lead to Germany's greater ruin if broken by war or revenge.

Since I last wrote, the English people are awakening to a more immediate national interest in the possibilities of the Washington conference.

This is partly due to intensive propaganda by leaflets and pamphlets issued to the working folk by various societies, the main object of which is to escape from disaster owing to her loss of trade and the creeping paralysis of unemployment.

Premier Lloyd George is preparing a big scheme for relief of the unemployed, but he does not hide the truth that all such attempts can be only temporary remedies, and that no permanent improvement can happen until Europe recovers all around, thus restoring British markets. London is a gloomy city just now, with processions of the unemployed, street collections for ex-service men and beggars everywhere.

Meanwhile financial experts like Viscount Rothermere prophesy that the British income tax will soar still higher to 8 and even 10 shillings to the pound.

That is an appalling outlook for all of us at a time when men who used to be rich before the war are closing their houses and trying vainly to sell old estates, and when great employers of labor are borrowing to pay their taxes.

This financial crisis is having an effect on political problems. The necessity for peace and economy is the first thought of all British statesmen, and that thought will introduce a spirit of concession at the Irish conference now taking place.

Must Settle Irish "Question."

Peace with Ireland is an essential preliminary to the general peace policy of the British Empire, and the most important item in our credentials to Washington.

My readers will, I think, agree that I do not hide the ugly facts by soft words and phrase making, but lest I should be regarded as a prophet of gloom I will finish this dispatch by saying that though I see much that is tragic in the present state of affairs and in the deep-seated disease of the world's economic state, I believe firmly that we are getting back to sanity, and facing realities with more common sense, and are gradually obtaining a new understanding of world problems, which will lead presently to world recovery.

But we need patience and courage and truth to face the prejudices and foolish passings of national egotism. Above all we need men who will tell the truth at the risk of popular disfavor.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

SUPREME COURT DECIDES PORT STANLEY ROAD CASE

Defendant Wins Dispute Over Highway Maintenance.

Word was received in the city yesterday from Ottawa by J. M. McEvoy, K.C., that the Supreme Court of Canada had sustained the judgment of the Court of Appeal for Ontario wherein it was held that Mrs. Harrison was not compelled, under her conveyance to Mrs. James Kerrigan to maintain the road known as "Harrison Place" which formerly ran parallel to the lake shore for a considerable distance at Port Stanley.

In 1917 and the spring of 1918 the lake carried away the road which ran along a high and almost perpendicular hill. Mrs. James Kerrigan claimed that Mrs. Harrison was obliged to keep the road in repair notwithstanding the actions of the lake or otherwise to pay damages for the loss the road's condition caused Mrs. Kerrigan's cottage.

The matter has been in litigation now for some three years, and was finally disposed of by the Supreme Court of Canada, holding that Mrs. Harrison is not compelled to maintain the road against the sudden uncontrolled actions of the lake.

Messrs. Gibbons, Harper & Co. acted for Mrs. Kerrigan, and J. M. McEvoy, K.C., for Mrs. Harrison.

J. A. WALLACE'S CANDIDACY UPHELD BY NORFOLK U. F. O.

Squabbles Over Telephone Nearly Splits Voting Power of Farmers.

SIMCOE, Oct. 14.—The executive of the Norfolk County U. F. O. met at the Norfolk Hotel today and by a majority ballot decided to uphold J. Alex. Wallace's candidacy. It was a last-minute meeting held before the mass meeting to be held in the armories on Tuesday, when Hon. T. A. Crerar, Premier Drury and J. J. Morrison will speak.

The occasion was the subject of hot discussion with malcontents of Townsend Township opposing Mr. Wallace on the score of his refusal to remove his telephone. When the farmers boycotted the Norfolk County Company because of increased rates.

Joseph Cridland, M.L.A. for South Norfolk, made a strong plea for unity and pleaded with the delegates not to make the telephone controversy a political issue.

"Mine was the first telephone ordered out," said Mr. Cridland, "but Mr. Wallace shows us that his telephone is a financial necessity."

KOHLER DECLINES GRIT NOMINATION

CAYUGA, Oct. 14.—Jacob Kohler, at present in Winnipeg, has wired, declining the nomination as candidate of the Liberal party in Haldimand County. Another Liberal convention will be called immediately.

Now a Folly to Have Corns

Millions of People Know an Easy Way to End Them—Quick and Sure

FOLKS all about you now treat corns in this scientific way. That's why corns are becoming so uncommon. At the first corn pain they apply Blue-jay —the liquid or the plaster—for sale at all druggists'. The pain stops instantly. Soon the whole corn gently loosens and comes out.

This is not like old ways, harsh and crude. It is the modern method, put out by a laboratory of world-wide repute.

For millions of people it has solved the corn problem. It will bring you freedom —and forever—when you know it. For your own sake, find this out tonight.

Homes—Not Houses.

In a letter to The Advertiser signed "Mother," the question is raised, where are families with children to live if they are not owners of their own homes?

There is nothing particularly new about the question. It has been right here for a long, long time, and shows few signs of considering a departure.

The mother and father with children know they are undesirable tenants, and most of them, if they can do so, prefer to make their arrangements accordingly rather than wait for some person to break the news to them.

It is simply one chapter of the housing situation, or to humanize it a little more, the home situation.

Let any young couple, or better still, a family with children, start out this week to find a place in London to rent, and what will they get? We simply mention London as an instance, for any Canadian city will show the same thing.

Will they find a place in which they can settle comfortably, have some ground around them, and at a price they can pay without having to stunt and sacrifice in other directions?

The question seems almost foolish, because the answer is so self-evident, and in the negative.

What, then, do we find?

For those who cannot afford to buy homes there is recourse to a "couple of rooms for light housekeeping."

This form of light housekeeping is one of the curses of the times. Those who are forced into it don't like it—in many cases they abhor it. It means puttering around in cramped quarters—it gives a young housewife no chance at all to go ahead and make a home—there is nothing particularly attractive about the place to the man when he comes home at night.

In many cases it means going out for meals, and out to find entertainment and recreation that should be found right at home. In fact, there are no good features to the outfit—it is simply a makeshift, and all concerned know it.

The growth of a city—that is the healthy, worth-while growth—is seriously hampered and handicapped when it reaches the stage where people cannot find a place where they can live decently and within their means. Not only so, but industries are awake to these conditions. They know that they cannot get good men and hold them if there is not a home-like surrounding in which they can live. The worth-while leaders of industry, in seeking new locations, are paying even more attention to this feature than they are to a few acres of free land and a fixed assessment.

Nearly every city has made its mistakes. Leaving any of the large centres, did you ever notice how quickly you pass from the crowded, jammed-in conditions right out into the open country? Land speculation and the lack of cheap transportation have had much to do with this.

The "housing problem" hardly states the case. It is really the building and development of real "homes" that every community needs. The question has not been solved, and until it is no community can claim that it is right down on that substantial foundation on which it can go ahead and build with certain knowledge and assurance of future success.

Jail Governors.

It is hard to see why so many men should be anxious to become the governor of a jail. Already over a hundred applications have been received for the governorship of Middlesex County jail, and quite a number for that of Woodstock. One would think that the trials and tribulations which have been undergone by ex-governors owing to prisoners taking French leave would have a deterrent effect on others, but there is apparently some fascination about the life of a director of a bastile which has obtained a hold on the imagination of a good many.

It may be thought by some of the applicants that governors of jails live a life of comparative ease, something like that of the landlord of a flourishing hotel, but that the life is by no means a bed of roses recent events have proved. Others, of a benevolent or philanthropic turn of mind, may have in view the exercise of their powers in the way of snatching brands from the burning, and wish to practice their theories on the prisoners. But at all events, whether the motives of the applicants be altruistic or merely materialistic, there should be no difficulty in choosing a suitable man for the vacancy created by the resignation of Governor Carter.

One cannot help thinking that there are certain heads of these temporary abiding places who, in their laudable efforts to make the lives of the inmates one long, sweet song, lose sight of the real character which lurks under the smug exterior of those in their charge, and are apt to be too easily fooled. There are still thousands of Uriah Heeps in the world, and in order to be proof against the wiles of this foxy tribe, the governor of a modern jail requires, above all things, to be a good judge of human nature. If he is not this further regrettable incidents are apt to occur at any time.

Chasing the Shadow and Missing the Substance.

—The Daily Express (London).

Watching the Votes.

Urging the selection and subsequent election of the best men in the country for the Canadian Parliament, the Montreal Gazette says:

"In an ideal state the office would seek the man; and the unerring guess might point to the man at the plough, as in the classic times, but, at any rate, it is of the most urgent moment that the men who form the new Parliament should not be merely of personal probity, but that they should be men of vision. They should express the constructive timber of statesmanship. They should have grasp of large affairs. They should not be daunted by wide horizons. They should be superior to the ordinary ruck of parliamentary candidates who are concerned, not with politics, but votes."

To all of which the entire community can, and no doubt will, respond in an emphatic affirmative.

The trouble is that no matter how good a man may be when he goes to Parliament under any system of election, he must, if he intends to stay in public life, remember that he has to go back to the country some day to get re-elected.

In order to do this he must secure votes.

He has also to remember that his political opponents are busy all the time trying to tip him over—that they may have a man in the running who is every bit as clean and upstanding as he is.

There are scores of things to keep constantly before him the fact that election day is not so very far distant, and this brings the reminder that he must do something to secure votes.

When the m[illegible] of the public gets above this standard we may have a change, but it is certain that the men in Parliament as a whole are not going to rise much above the national and moral standards of those who put them there.

A Neglected Book.

In the course of an address on religious education given at one of the sessions of the London Teachers' Association it was pointed out that modern industrial conditions have to a large extent destroyed family Bible study. A vivid picture of what the reading of the "Good Book" meant in the homes of even the humblest is furnished in Burns' "Cottar's Saturday Night," when the head of the house reverently read from "the auld ha' Bible, since his father's pride." But scenes like these are now comparatively rare, and more's the pity.

Most thinking people will agree with the statement that if we do not cultivate the spiritual element in our young people there is little hope for civilization, but, apart from the attainment of this desirable object, the Bible is a book which will repay the reading. Some of our greatest poets and writers have acknowledged their indebtedness to this volume of volumes for the formation of their style, and for the building up of a knowledge of clear and concise English. Whether looked upon as a history containing accounts of the most stirring events the world has ever seen, or as a guide directing the footsteps of mankind, it will ever stand supreme.

It is therefore a pity that it is not receiving at least a fair share of the time and attention bestowed on the modern novel or picture play. We cannot see that modern industrial conditions are altogether to blame for this, but rather the present day craving for pleasure of sports and the love of hectic excitement.

Those Heavy Eggs.

The Toronto Star has heard someone say that hens are laying eggs with thicker shells. And so reading, the editor of that paper tries to explain the thing to the egg-eating residents of Toronto. He goes at it this way:

"Hens are laying eggs with thicker shells. We predicted two years ago that this would happen. At that time the plan of selling eggs by weight instead of by the dozen was being advocated. If this weight scheme goes on the hens' eggs will, in time, have cement shells as thick as the casing of a cocoanut, and children will play croquet with them on the lawn."

Now, that explanation may go in Toronto, but not down in this fine hen-raising agricultural district. In Toronto the folks don't get a chance to get acquainted with hens and things. The most of the folks there are just going to bed about the time the orderly, well-regulated hen is stirring in the morning, and by the time they get up, why the egg score is all settled for the day.

Down here it's different. We have a chance now and then to look a hen right square in the eye and get the thing straight about these hard-shell eggs.

In days gone by the hen used to sit down right and proper like in a nest of straw to produce an egg. The folks would drive the old grey mare off to town and the hen knew they'd be gone for four hours and twenty minutes. The old sorel and the bay would go off to plough, and the hen knew they'd be gone till dark. You see, everything was regulated just so. Under those conditions the hen could sit there and take plenty of time making that egg—there were no breaks in the day, and after the egg had been nicely rounded off the hen could quietly and carefully vacate the nest, walk around the straw stack a couple of times and then after a bit do a spell of cackling about it.

But you see, all these things have changed. When the folks go to town now they whizz off in a car and it's only a few minutes before they're back, probably with some new poultry pills, or a dispatch from the far corner of the world telling that eggs are away up in price. Then the tractor goes shunting along as it crawls through the barnyard. The hired man comes out and turns a button and all the machinery gets in motion, chopping roots, pumping water, cutting corn and milking the cows. The whole place is a hive of excitement and industry.

Now, any ordinary, inquisitive hen simply can't sit still under these circumstances as long as she used to. When there's an extra burst of excitement, such as a U. F. O. political meeting in the section, she simply has to lay her eggs on the run, and as each hen's record is kept nowadays, she simply is not taking the chance of having a busted egg chalked up against her in the "rank carelessness" column. Hence the heavy, shock-proof shells.

It should not be necessary to have to explain this thing, but the Toronto Star has it all wrong. That paper always imagines the farmer is out to soak the city folk, hence the charge that the hens are in league to make the eggs heavier and sell them by the pound. As the great family journal of the farming community we feel moved to come to the defence of the hens. The Star's charge simply ain't so.

"When I Am Gone"

I am not anxious to think about if, from one point of view, but then I must.

It is a bit hard to think of leaving friend and home and all the happiness I have known and the privileges I have enjoyed.

There are a lot of folks with whom I should be happy to stay a much longer time, and then a few whom, if I were to be real candid, I should not lose much sleep over leaving.

The world is lovely to look upon when you can see the spots untouched by a heartless progress. Much of the world bears out what Goldsmith says:

"But times are altered; trade's unfeeling train, Usurped the land and dispossessed the wain,"

Some works of progress are wonderful achievements, and others are hideous destructions.

I hate to think about leaving all the beauties and world wonders.

But a deeper anxiety stirs my heart. What about my unfinished task when I am gone? It had better not be unfinished. I have time and strength now, and if I use them judiciously I shall have my task in shape by the end of my day. God has so ordained.

Will I be missed when I wrap my traveling garments about me and take the journey whence none has returned to relate its wonders? Will little children cry because I come no more and strong men long for the days when I counseled with them?

That depends on how my life has been lived. A good man never dies. He lives because men love to practice his policies of life.

One lived twenty centuries ago and died after only three years of public ministry. But He lives magnificently today because He did His work well and men love Him for it.

When I am gone will I meet Him? That depends.

—From a London Church Calendar.

LITTLE 'TISERS

The Michigan supreme court has laid down a rule that a husband is master of his own home. A Daniel come to judgment!

According to the official figures, each family in United States consists of father, mother and two and one-third children. Just where does that one-third of a child figure in when it comes to buying boots?

The contention was made at a Stratford meeting of teachers that education is the panacea for many present-day problems. The man who is smart enough to forge checks is quite convinced of the absolute truth of these sentiments.

Advices from the west are to the effect that W. A. Buchanan, who has represented Lethbridge in the Commons since 1911, is practically assured of an acclamation. He is running as an Independent-Liberal. Mr. Buchanan is a former St. Thomas and Toronto newspaperman.

The following paragraph in a paper near here reminds us that there are still bright spots left in this drab world: "Come to the chicken supper in the Patrons' Hall, Tuesday, the 18th. Supper 6 to 8 o'clock." What would the ham-sandwich brigade in Toronto say to a chicken supper lasting from 6 to 8 o'clock? Live in Middlesex.

The Vancouver Sun makes an appeal for filling up the Canadian West with people. The Sun should go further and state that the people wanted are those who will get out on the sod and gouge some holes in it instead of lounging in front of a real estate office waiting for a brand new assortment of suckers from the east.

The Kincardine Reporter pens the following farewell to E. W. Nesbitt of North Oxford: "E. W. Nesbitt, Woodstock, left the Tory party years ago and became a Liberal to win a seat in the House of Commons. He now returns to his first love and runs as a Conservative for North Oxford. Here's wishing him good-bye and a sound defeat."

The ambition of the United States to become the sea-carrying nation of the world has led to a condition, summarized as follows: "Of the 1,464 steel ships under control of the shipping board only 240 are in service, says a Washington dispatch. Twenty-five are undergoing repairs, and 1,019 are either withdrawn or to go to "dead mooring."

Here's this cheerful thing from the Ottawa Journal: "Certain people have advised their friends not to go to Russia, lest they starve, or to India, lest they get their throats cut. Further, they are told to avoid China, where they might become opium fiends, and to keep away from the United States lest they get a swelled head." And why not add, don't stay in Canada lest King's wreckers get them?

The Brockville Recorder is quite sure now that its advertising pages are read, and as proof furnishes this: "The R and T. is read with care the world over, and even the advertisements are scrupulously scanned. A Brockville friend who is wintering in London (he plays golf!) clipped the following from the Pall Mall and Globe of London, under date of Sept. 17, 1921: 'Corsets—Guaranteed to fit the waist and bust.—Brockville Recorder-Times.'"

The Wheatley Journal considers it wise at this time to lean back and consider the welfare of its readers from all angles. So after thumbing over the family doctor book and kindred classics, the editor pens the following: "Temperance, good food, regular bowels, avoidance of prolonged physical and mental overstrain, proper amount of rest, recreation, fresh air and a cheerful and serene disposition, together with periodic physical examinations, are the chief preventive measures against disease and old age."

The Essex Free Press, looking over the civic estimates for the year, remarks: "The total rate for the year is 38.8 mills, as compared with 45 mills last year. The assessment however, is higher this year than last." All of which reminds us that it's a merry little seesaw, this high assessment, low tax rate, vs. low assessment and high rate. The fact is that the municipality needs so much money, and the ratepayers have to find it. The big danger of increasing assessment rather than the rate is that the rate has a nasty habit of climbing, too, so that many places now have both a high assessment and a high rate.

The Tory papers are running true to form. As soon as Hon. Hugh Guthrie was taken into the Tory fold at Guelph the harpist and the trombone player performed this little ditty in the Galt Reporter: "You'll have to rub your eyes when you see Hon. Hugh Guthrie on a Liberal-Conservative platform advocating Liberal-Conservative principles. He's to be admired for the stand he is taking. The position of Canada today compels him to accept Meighen as his leader. That he seems happy in the association is not cause for surprise, as the sentiments he expresses today are in harmony with the principles that have governed his political life since the first year he came into the public eye."

The Watford Guide-Advocate fails to see force in the argument that the world is to be wound up in four years. It says: "Some people who are busying themselves figuring out when the world is likely to end are doubtless not doing very much to improve conditions in the world, which is really what counts. Be the end four years hence or four thousand years hence, it is certain to be less than a hundred years for most of us—and it may not be more than four minutes. Let us do, then, the best we can to make moral and social conditions in this beautiful and good old world all the better for our having lived in it, and not worry ourselves with estimates as to what the Creator has planned to do. That is not our business."

Read Your Character

[By Digby Phillips.]

NO. 9—SHORT LEGS.

Do short legs influence the characters of men and women? Or are short legs the result of their characters?

Neither, of course. Short legs, like Roman noses, round heads and scores of other signs are neither the causes nor the effects of character. They are merely physical traits inherited from the same sources as the mental traits, and altering the shape of a woman's nose would not alter her character. The indication of the altered nose would be a false one.

However, just as certain races and tribes of men have had short legs as physical characteristics, so they had certain definite mental characteristics. What does this mean to you? If you have short legs you inherited them, through scores of perhaps, from some definite race. If you inherited the legs you also inherited the mental traits.

Short legs indicate pliability and adaptability of character. They denote a lack of combativeness, a greater readiness to yield their opinions to yours in matters of less importance. They also signify more than the usual degree of patience (always provided they are not overbalanced by contradictory indications), and readily aroused emotions. Other things being equal, short-legged persons will react more readily to the appeals of emotion and instinct than to those of reason and calm judgment. They are more likely to be demonstrative than reserved in the casual affairs of life, but less inclined to hasty action, however, even though their action when taken may be based on emotion rather than reason. They are, too, more inclined toward extremes of charity and hatred than toward cold and abstract justice.

TO THE EDITOR

HISTORIC BATTLES: THE EVE OF BANNOCKBURN.

Editor Advertiser:

While meditating further on the subject of historic battles, and particularly on the morale of armed forces, few things seem to emerge clearer than the prowess and resourcefulness of the Highland regiments in all the great theatres of war from Bannockburn to the present, aye, and this without saying a word disparagingly of other troops. An old military writer and jurist (Jackson), in a survey of European armies, observes that the Highlanders were the only men who could look with a steady eye upon a naked blade. Yet he credits them with being neither "ferocious nor cruel," but men of sterling integrity and with a keen sense of personal honor and chivalry. He further asserts that at the last great rising of the clans, when they traversed what was virtually enemy territory, there was less trace of outrage observed in their wake than in the case of nearly all other armies.

Small actions or engagements, mere phases of a great battle, often made the courage and solidarity of troops more apparent than would be the case in a general engagement. Think, for instance, of the undying fame of the Sutherland Highlanders for their heroic stand in the "thin red line" at Balaclava! Five hundred and fifty bayonets in a thread-like line, two deep, standing firm while 3,000 horsemen of the finest cavalry in the world surged down upon them till turned back by their fire at 250 yards!

Again, consider the miniature battle for the possession of Stirling Castle on the eve of Bannockburn. Edward's great army, 100,000 strong, had crossed the border unhindered, and the vanguard, under Gloucester, had reached Stirling. He detached 300 mailed and accoutred horse from the main army and sent them to relieve Stirling Castle, then closely invested by the Scottish lines under Edward Bruce, brother to Robert Bruce, the patriot. The horsemen boldly entered the adjoining inclosure, called the park, and the way to the castle seemed open. They soon discovered, however, that Earl Randolph, with a small body of Scots, had taken up a strategic position and barred the way. The Celtic spearsmen received the invaders in triple rank, the first rank kneeling, the second partially erect, the third fully erect! Aye, and so spirited and sustained was the defence, that although Beaumont and his 300 lancers circled round and attacked for hours at a time, frantically urging their horses upon the spears and ever throwing knives and darts, yet at nightfall not only did the hedge of steel still remain unbroken, but Randolph, himself breaking his ranks, advanced and drove the horsemen from the park! This was the answer of Randolph to the taunt of Bruce before the action that "a rose from his chaplet had fallen," meaning that he had lost prestige by allowing the English to pass him at St. Ninians. Yes, and to think that all this happened in full view of Douglass and the warriors of Bruce, who were even now taking up positions for the impending great battle, and the rapidly forming lines of whose polished spears and Lochaber battleaxes reflected the glint of setting sun!

D. STEWART.

London, Ont.

Editor Advertiser:

Sir,—It is nice eo know that Mayor Little is real Boss of the city, according to his statement re firing of married women in city employ.

Did not the same party referred to, together with her husband, hold a paid position in the polling booths last municipal election. Looks like the taxpayer paying two days' pay for one day's work.

The Government in 1919 discharged all married women whose husbands were in receipt of a salary.

Here's hoping that Little will be hunting a job some day to support himself and family, and find himself barred out by a married woman whose husband is also getting a large salary.

Spread the jobs around. Don't keep them all in one family.

LARGE TAXPAYER.

A POOR STATEMENT.

Editor Advertiser:

"Almost never does a Quebecker come to seek his fortune and make his home in Ontario."

The above quotation, sir, I took from an editorial of the Free Press of Friday, the 14th. The article in question was discussing the dual language question. What this letter is most concerned with, however, is the lamentable ignorance of the true condition of affairs which the writer displays.

Anyone in touch with Northern Ontario knows that the main basis of the secession cry in the north, is that Old Ontario knows nothing about the north, and is therefore not in a position to look after its needs. The Free Press quotation supports this contention of the secessionists.

Ten years from now, there will be a material answer to the Free Press misstatement. For by that time French-Canadians from Quebec will be in control of the north from the Quebec boundary to the twin cities. This prediction is made with an intimate knowledge of the "silent invasion" from Quebec which is now going on, and this invasion is an answer to the above quotation. Why, all the good agricultural land of Northern Ontario today is in the hands of Quebeckers who have come to seek their fortune and home in Northern Ontario, and they are pouring in, and those that are in are raising big families, too.

The Sudbury district, North Bay district, and all up the T. and N. O. to Cochrane is today predominated by French-Canadians. They are in the majority. And while the writer holds no brief for the French, he would just like to refer to the report of the commission which investigated the Kapuskasing soldier settlement farce. That commission found that the only settlers who could stand the rigors of the north's pioneer life and make a success of the job were the Quebeckers who came to seek their fortune and make their home in Ontario. It is the Quebeckers who are today settling Northern Ontario.

A VISITOR FROM THE NORTH.

"PEACE I LEAVE WITH YOU"

—By Watchman.

"A peace is of the nature of a conquest;
For then both parties nobly are subdued,
And neither party loser."
—Bard of Avon.

IT IS related that at the battle of Sebastopol the shells intended to destroy a fort opened a refreshing spring of water on the hillside. Today a wounded and impoverished humanity turns with anxious hope for some healing stream to issue after the red carnage of recent years. Broken lives and homes and treasuries empty beyond computation, make a mute appeal for a relief that puts to shame the noisy insistence of a multitude of minor causes. The romance and the glamor of war gone, a chastened mankind whose really heaven-inspired statesmanship would facilitate among the nations the flow of peace,

"Beneath whose calm, inspiring influence
Science her view enlarges, Art refines,
And swelling Commerce opens all her ports."

The approach of the international conference at Washington should focus the now enlightened judgment of the world for deliverance from the devil's dance of death called war. The condemnation of it every day gathers strength. Every effective agency should be exerted to strengthen the hands of the congress and to develop a spirit of unity among the nations represented, so that tangible proofs of progress will be forthcoming. It is with the great powers, not the minor ones, that the future of international peace depends, and at least a proportional reduction of armament outlays will lessen the appalling load of taxation and release resources to promote a corresponding increase in the productive energies of mankind.

When it comes to the practical affairs of nations, a clear distinction must be kept in mind between the preservation of order within countries and international causes of strife which have had their roots in the lust of conquest. In the United States slavery became a menace to free institutions, and the issue finally threatened the very existence of the republic, and the cause of democracy and staple government. With the Union wrecked, Lincoln saw nothing but chaos in store. The country could not exist half slave and half free. At the root lay the moral question of human freedom. In society, disorder and outlawry must be restrained, hence the state requires trained forces upon the policing principle for that purpose. The Redeemer himself upon occasion used force. When the Temple offices were prostituted to graft and huckstering, he upset the tables and whipped out the traffickers. But he submitted to civil authority and paid taxes. He rebuked a disciple who used the sword to defend his person when the enemies closed in on him between Gethsemane and Pilate's judgment hall.

One hears at times the glib quotation of Scripture in general support of war: "Think not that I am come to send peace on earth; I came not to send peace, but a sword." These words were part of the Messiah's counsel to the Twelve sent out upon an introductory mission. He well knew that his gospel would disappoint the Hebrew expectation of temporal kingship, with material prosperity, and that his claim to dominion over men's lives and institutions would not be accepted without bitter struggle. So it proved. His followers found themselves at variance with others, and "the sword" represented social ostracism and persecution to the death. In the Scriptures the word "peace" has at least a triple and interrelated significance: First, peace with the Divine Being by faith in the Redeemer; second, the peace of God, an inward, spiritual state experienced by those who have committed their lives and cares to him; and third, peace on earth, meaning a prevailing spirit among men under his kingship. The Magna Charta of that kingdom he outlined in the Sermon on the Mount, where he specifically declared: "Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God." That reveals the essence of his teaching. At this hour the world needs promoters of fellowship and good-will far more than many other things for which there is constant clamor. For the most part their acquisition would but satisfy for the moment. Being external and material, they could never suffice the heart-hunger for that restfulness of spirit which awaits individuals, societies and nations when they accept the boon of his rulership, whose eternal right it is to reign. At that never to be forgotten Last Supper in the upper room, his divine heart went out not to the little group of disciples alone, but to the world which he was about to redeem, in these remarkable words: "Peace I leave with you: my peace I give unto you." To that ideal the world is slowly moving. Conferences and leagues will succeed just in so far as they are animated by the spirit and mind of the Master. There is no other way.

FORCE OF HABIT.

"I wish," said the editor's wife, "that you were not so absent-minded."

"What's wrong now, my dear?"

"Why, when our hostess asked you if you would have some more pudding you replied that owing to the tremendous pressure on your space you were compelled to decline."

In the Nation's Service

The Life Insurance Companies believe in Canada's future. They are assisting in the building of that future. They have loaned to the Governments and municipalities throughout the country one-half of their entire assets, or approximately three hundred million dollars.

This money is building schools, roads, drains, sewers, bridges, public buildings; providing hospitals, asylums, welfare institutions; establishing justice, law and order, and defraying the cost of the war and of carrying on the Government.

When thinking of your life insurance you can do so with pride and satisfaction, because it "serves as it waits." While protecting your family and your business interests, it is working for a better Canada.

LACES COLORED AND OTHERWISE AND NEW EMBROIDERIES.

Anyone who has followed the trend of style at all, must know how important lace is this season. It is used in every way and in every color, for the radium silk laces, highly glossed and bold in design are being used for dinner and evening frocks and rightly, too, since they are strong enough to be durable, and at the same time, are not high in price.

Then, too, it is so simple to make up a dress of lace flouncing, particularly nowadays, when skirts are gathered again and may be made in one, two or three tiers. It is quite within the range of possibilities to have the lace part made separately and worn over a silk slip. Incidentally the costume slip—as the old-fashioned princess slips are now called—is a most important part of one's attire these days and nights. It solves many a perplexing problem, and may serve as a foundation for even the made or semi-made robes and tunics which are imported by our smart shops, and sold over the counter instead of the blouse or gown department.

A number of the colored laces are in flounces rather than the all-over effect and some have gold or silver threads interwoven. One is in the Wall of Troy design, but the home dressmaker does well to keep away from any textile that has an up-and-down figure.

Sea Shell and Other Embroideries.

There are, of course, new chenille designs. One novelty was on black net with large chenille spots centered with white chenille, while other are in single monotone. One of the first French imports to arrive was of black satin with finely pleated black lace, the corslet decoration being in cut steel beads. The use of steel has been repeatedly commented on lately. It appears on street frocks and on those for formal functions, no matter what the color. One might prefer a frock embroidered in jet bugles or even cut jets, for jet is by no means out of the running; in fact, it is quite the reverse.

It was Lanvin who introduced real coral on frocks and since that time, gowns studded with semi-precious stones have received considerable praise. Lanvin evolved the notion, too, of using sea shells to embroider her hats and gowns, and while the idea seems too ultra for popular consumption, one already sees velvet hats edged with tiny pearl shells, and trimed with strands of them.

Fringes in the Back Only.

Although we have had fringes in every known form, still do we glory in them, and find new ways of using them. Just now one sees many a frock with jeweled, silk or spangled fringe across the back only, just as one finds princess evening dresses, dragged into semblance of fullness at the side, and belted across the back, sometimes with flowers made of the material and sometimes with jeweled girdles.

MRS. ARTHUR SMITH HEADS HOSPITAL AIDES

London Leads in Work Accomplished During Year.

The hospital aides of Western Ontario met in London yesterday, about 50 delegates attending the convention. In the morning an inspection was made of the Sick Children's Hospital, which was followed by a luncheon, at the Cafe de Luxe, given by the hospital committee.

The meeting held in the afternoon was opened by a short address by Dr. Hugh Stevenson, who spoke on the splendid work accomplished by the Aides. He pointed out that a Nursery Aid Course should be started for the purpose of training help for mothers with small children. He also believed that the smaller hospitals should be affiliated with the larger ones, which would be of great advantage in giving the nurses of the smaller places experience in larger hospitals, and vice versa.

The meeting was presided over by the convention president, Mrs. A. E. Horton of St. Thomas, and an interesting report of the convention last year was read by Miss Stewart of St. Thomas. Mrs. T. A. Reville read a report on the constitution, which has just been drawn up, the report being accepted unanimously.

London Leads.

Reports were read by the members of the various cities and towns. London led in the work that had been accomplished during the year. Mrs. Greenaway gave the report for London, and stated that $180,000 had already been guaranteed for the Sick Children's Hospital, and the total expense of raising this money had amounted to only $1,000.

All the reports proved that splendid work has been carried on by the various divisions of this organization during the year, and each representative mentioned the great benefit they had received from these annual conventions, along the line of obtaining new ideas and methods of carrying out their work, which consists of supplying the hospitals with linen, bedding and surgical dressings, furnishing and building wards, laundries, nurses' homes, and the upkeep of hospitals in general. This money is raised chiefly by holding tag days, bazaars, dances and entertainments.

Specially Mentioned.

Reports worthy of special mention were the ones from Chatham, Petrolea and Brantford, the latter place sending representatives from both their senior and junior aides. These three places have been more than energetic in the work they have carried out during the past year.

Reports were also read from the following places: Strathroy, Woodstock, Kincardine, Walkerton, Hamilton, Ingersoll, Guelph, Kitchener, Waterloo, Welland, St. Thomas and Galt. Letters were read by the secretary from the presidents of the branches in Niagara Falls and St. Catharines, expressing their regret that they could not attend the convention.

Invitations to hold next year's convention were received from Guelph and Petrolea, but Petrolea withheld their invitation, until the following year. So the convention will be held in Guelph next year.

Mrs. Arthur Smith was elected president for the coming year.

The members representing the London branch were Mrs. A. R. Thomas, Mrs. F. J. Greenaway, Mrs. E. H. Young and Mrs. Wilson.

Walkerton — Miss Daisy Benton; Woodstock—Mrs. W. M. Wilkinson, Mrs. A. E. Davidson, Miss E. Hood, Miss F. Sharpe; Ingersoll—Mrs. W. J. Elliott, Miss Myrtle Meek, Mrs. J. K. Calder, Mrs. Gilles D. Ramsay, Mrs. W. R. Veale, Mrs. W. A. Sudworth, Mrs. V. Meek, Mrs. B. P. Dunn; Kincardine—Mrs. D. R. McPhail, Mrs. F. Colwell; Brantford—Mrs. T. A. Reville, Mrs. T. S. Wade, Miss Mary Cofter, Mrs. J. J. Hurley, Mrs. John Agnew; Hamilton—Mrs. E. P. Coleman, Mrs. C. B. Van Allen; Chatham—Mrs. Manson Campbell, Mrs. Geo. G. Taylor, Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. A. A. Hicks; Petrolea—Mrs. W. McIntosh, Mrs. C. Humphrey; Ingersoll—Mrs. O. E. Robinson, Mrs. M. Robinson, Mrs. Stoneman; St. Thomas, Mrs. A. E. Horton, Miss Sarah Stewart, Mrs. J. D. Curtis, Miss Weldon; Galt—Mrs. A. P. Grundy, Mrs. F. Brown, Mrs. D. M. Henderson, Mrs. R. S. Hamilton; Guelh—Mrs. R. Lucy, Mrs. Skinner, Mrs. Roberts; Kitchener—Mrs. Brandt; Waterloo—Mrs. A. G. Heller; Strathroy—Mrs. T. M. Dunn, Mrs. G. G. Purdy, Mrs. T. W. Avery.

Puppy Stories

By Vincent G. Perry.

BUSTER'S TEMPTATION.

Buster had misbehaved. There lay the whisk and the whiskholder on the floor in a thousand pieces. Of course, Buster can't be blamed too much, for he had been left all alone, and a lonely dog must do something to amuse himself. The whiskholder had fallen to the floor, so it is little wonder Buster had attacked it so fiercely. He had not realized what a naughty pup he was unfil the damage had been done, and then how ashamed and frightened he was. What would his master say? What would his kind mistress say when they found their belongings torn up like that?

It was almost time they were coming. Buster had never done a sneaky thing in all his life, but this time he forgot his morals, and as quickly as possible pushed the signs of his mischief under the couch out of sight. Shaking a little with the thought of what he had done, the pup tried to go to sleep. Suddenly he heard a squeaky sound from under the couch.

"Oh, my poor arms, my poor legs, my poor head!" groaned a strange voice. It was the most brittle voice Buster had ever heard.

"Who is that?" demanded the pup, sitting bolt-upright.

"I'm the whisk," answered the voice. "I am all torn up, and my nice house is destroyed."

"Hush!" cried Buster in fright. "My master and mistress will soon be here, and they will hear you. They must not know that I did this."

"So it was you! I was attacked so suddenly I did not know that," the whisk said "So you were trying to hide your guilt? How sneaky of you! It would be a shame to let you go unpunished," and so saying the whisk pounced up onto the couch and ran its sharpest bristle into poor Buster's skin.

"Oh!" shrieked Buster, just as he woke up. It had all been a dream. Of course, the whisk could not talk, for it was only a small broom. A bristle had caught into his coat, while he was tearing up the whisk, and he had lain on it, that is what caused the pain.

Buster thought it over. He did not want to be a sneak dog. He deserved punishment, so he would face it like the brave dog he had always been. Quickly he brought out the whiskholder and the torn whisk where it would be sure to be found.

"Why, John, Buster has been playing with the whisk and the whiskholder, and see what a wreck he has made of them," cried Buster's mistress as soon as she came in. "It is all my fault for leaving them lying about like that."

So Buster was not punished after all. He felt happy to think he had not tried to deceive his kind owners, and so was worthy of their love.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

[By Cynthia Grey.]

Party time has arrived at last, after months of expectant waiting on the part of many. During the next few months frequent gatherings of young and old will be held. Above them all the "Surprise Party" will prevail.

It has been a common custom for years, especially among the younger folks, to go to the parents of some of their friends to seek permission to have a party in their home. When it is granted, they send out invitations to a number of the boys and girls around the neighborhood. On a date set they meet in a quiet place and in a body go to the home where the party is being held, as a complete surprise on their friend.

Even among the older people similar parties are held with great success. They often find much pleasure planning a surprise party on a common friend. Like the young people they on a fixed night go to the home of the friend, carrying everything that is needed for a good time.

If any of the readers have never tried them, they are urged to do so, for it is hard to imagine a more delightful way of spending an evening. However, be sure in advance you are not interrupting some important plan of your friend by your surprise.

WANTS A CORRESPONDENT.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am writing to you sooner than I expected to, the reason is someone has taken my penname (Peggy O'Neil), and asked for songs, and now they are sent to me, so I am returning them to the Mail-Box, and I hope she will receive them all right.

I would like to correspond with someone about 16 years old. I will leave my address with Miss Grey.

Say, who likes dancing? I do.
Now I will sign myself a
RIVERSIDE LASS.

Many thanks, Riverside Lass, for returning the music that was sent to you by mistake.

WANTS SONGS.

Dear Miss Grey,—This is my first visit to your column. I have noticed from time to time that one or two of your friends sign themselves Yorkshire Girl, Lancashire Girl, etc. I was wondering if any of your members had copies of the following songs: "I Have Seen Diamonds in Amsterdam," "My Girl's a Yorkshire Girl," "She's a Lassie From Lancashire," and "Sweet Rosie O'Grady."

I inclose herewith my mite. Trusting that some of your members will have these, as we want to use them for the old country reunions in the "Y."

YORKSHIRE LAD.

Many thanks for your mite to our hospital fund, and hoping that some of our Pageites will be able to let you have copies of the songs you request.

WILL SEND SEEDS.

Dear Miss Grey,—May I have a little room? I will not stay long, as I must hurry off to school.

I saw where someone was offering four packages of seeds, salpiglossis, phlox, pinks and another, I can't remember the name of. May I have them? In return I will send many packages of about a dozen different varieties.

Mamma received Geranium's letter and will answer it soon.

Well, Miss Grey, I promised not to stay long, so will go, wishing your Mail-Box every success, I remain your SWEET GENEVIEVE.

I am sending you the seeds you ask for, Sweet Genevieve, and will be very glad to receive any you send me. Many thanks for sending a mite to our fund.

Advertiser Receives Praise.

My Dear Miss Grey,—I am sending you today patterns for the Mail-Box, also mite for fund. Received Dewdrop No. 2's address, and patterns to her are on the way. I wonder if the members realize how interesting these letters are? I always make it a point to read them all, so have come to the conclusion that I could not do without The London Advertiser.

Each mail, I suppose, brings many letters from correspondents saying, in some form or other, what a fine paper The Advertiser is, and how much they all enjoy Cynthia Grey's page.

Now as the cold weather is drawing near people will have more time to visit their friends and neighbors, and while those nice little friendly "chats" and "calls" continue, why not mention The Advertiser, and how useful you find it? If our friends and neighbors do not at present subscribe then they may have a chance to do so at once. They will then "enjoy" this paper, the one that helps so many.

If the members wish to do a kind act now is their time in return for past favors. If they know anyone who is so unfortunate as not to be a subscriber to The Advertiser will they just get them to subscribe for one year? I know it won't take much persuading if you just show them the paper, and tell them it is not just something interesting to be read and put aside, but a real actual friend and helper. Tell them you have found it so, and they will, too. And let me assure you that you will find it worth your while to do this, and, therefore, make our band of members so much greater. Dear Miss Grey, please excuse this long chat, but I feel this should be.

HEALTH.

I will be pleased to receive your patterns and hospital mite. Many thanks in advance.

HOME ECONOMICS

USE AND CARE OF VINEGAR.

Good vinegar should remain clear. It should not form a heavy deposit, nor produce any large amount of the fungus growth called mother of vinegar. It should be strained, poured into jugs and corked. So long as air is excluded, continuous fermentation and production of mother of vinegar cannot take place.

Vinegar should not be made or kept in tin or any other metal, because the acetic acid make poisonous compounds with coper, tin, iron and most ordinary metals. Earthenware, porcelain, glass and wood are suitable for storing vinegar.

Vinegar has no food value, but gives flavor and palatability to certain other foods, acts to some extent as a preservative, can be used in cooking and baking operations as a dilute acid solution to liberate gas from soda, and is useful in cleaning various metals.

In this country cider vinegar is the most commonly used, and it is to be hoped that the poorer, cheaper kinds of vinegar will never supplant it, for the flavor of good cider vinegar cannot well be exchanged for that of malt or white wine. The standard test of vinegar calls for not less than four grams of apple ash for each hundred cubic centimetres, with certain other characteristics, such as acidity and sugar and phosphoric acid content. Some states have strict laws about the sale of vinegar, and good apple cider vinegar is an important detail of the family food supply. In this, as in other foods, intelligent demand creates the supply.

WITH THE BRIDES

DODGE—McKENZIE.

A quiet pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday at the residence of Mrs. Alexander McKenzie, Paisley, when her youngest daughter, Stella, became the bride of Mr. Charles Rea Dodge of Toronto, the Rev. H. D. McCuaig of Knox Church afficiating in the presence of immediate relatives. The bride, who was given in marriage by her mother, wore her traveling suit of navy tricotine with fox furs, corsage bouquet of cream roses and pretty hat. Mr. and Mrs. Dodge will reside this winter in New Brunswick.

BUTCHER—McBURNEY.

A quiet, yet very pretty, wedding took place on Wednesday, Oct. 5, at 3 o'clock at the Methodist parsonage, Beachville, when Miss Edna M. McBurney, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert McBurney of the sixth line of West Zorra, was united in marriage to Mr. Bruce Butcher, third son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Butcher.

The bride looked charming in her traveling suit of brown velour with brown plush hat and furs. They were attended by Miss Jean White; Mr. George R. McBurney, brother of the bride, and Mr. Max. Butcher, brother of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Butcher will reside in Walkerville.

FLETCHER—McALPINE.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. Alexander McAlpine, Glencoe, on Wednesday, when his youngest daughter, Minnie Elizabeth, was married to Mr. Archibald Duncan Fletcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Fletcher of Poplar Hill, the Rev. Mr. Paton officiating. The bride was attractively gowned in French ivory charmeuse, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. She entered the drawing-room on the arm of her father to the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" by Lohengrin, played by Mr. Theodore Gray. Miss Hazel J. Dobie of Detroit was bridesmaid and looked charming in a gown of apricot canton crepe, daintily embroidered, and carrying a bouquet of Sweetheart roses. Mr. Mack C. Fletcher, brother of the groom, was best man. Little Miss Evelyn Henderson, niece of the groom, wearing a frilly frock of pink organdie, carried a basket of roses and shell pink asters, in the midst of which was concealed the wedding ring. During the signing of the register Mrs. W. G. MacCallum sang sweetly "Love of Mine."

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold wrist watch, to the bridesmaid a brooch set with pearls, to the groomsman a set of gold cuff links, to the ring bearer a gold bracelet, and to the pianist gold cuff links.

Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher left amid a shower of confetti and good wishes, on the evening train for a short honeymoon to Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm at Poplar Hill.

On Monday evening prior to the occasion the bride-elect was presented with a silver tea set by members of the Presbyterian Church, Glencoe.

WANTS POEMS.

Dear Miss Grey,—I would be very much obliged to you or any of your readers if I can get the following poems: "Neighbors" and the "Grey Swan"; the last-named used to be in the Fourth Reader about 12 years ago, and the neighbor piece starts like this, "Who's this coming up the path? run, Betsy Jane, and see." And then, Miss Grey, if I'm not too much trouble, can anyone supply me with a little song I used to know years ago and have forgotten. It starts like this:

"Two little friendless children,
Comrades for more than a year,
One sold flowers on a doorstep,
And one swept a crossing near."

At Cupid's Call

By May Christie.

CV.—A Trip to Town.

The following morning Mary rose early and walked into the nearest village. There were some medicines she must buy for Dick.

Passing a watchmaker's shop she spied some imitation jewelry in the window, rings, brooches and gewgaws of various kinds.

There was an imitation "diamond" ring on sale for a dollar. Curiously enough, the "diamond" was very much the same size and shape as her own that she'd posted up to town.

Mary, looking at it, had a thought. Perhaps it would be well to purchase the fake stone.

She couldn't analyze her thought. But she went in and for the modest sum of a dollar bought the ring.

She asked the jeweler to remove the stone from its setting, which he did, a trifle huffily, assuring her that the little ring was perfect of its kind.

Mary didn't argue the point. And it was not long before she left the shop with the fake stone in her possession, carefully wrapped in tissue-paper.

She then returned to the Barley Mow, gave Dick his medicine, had a cup of coffee, and proceeded towards the railway station.

It was a pleasant,, sunny morning —"exactly like the morning of my dream," she told herself, laughing at her last night's fears.

On a clear, fresh day like this one couldn't possibly be nervous.

And yet—when she reached the railway station—she asked the stationmaster if he had seen a Cingalee around,.

The stationmaster hadn't. Mary's mind was quite relieved.

The train, when it came in, was almost empty. She took a hurried survey of the cars. They held no sinister Oriental.

She found a comfortable seat in an empty car which she had all to herself. The train was an express one and didn't stop until they were close to town. She was glad of that.

The whistle blew. The train set off.

Mary glanced below the seats, laughing a little at herself over her fears and tremors. But she wasn't going to take any chances if she could help it.

Mary leaned against the cushions and formulated plans.

He'd had an offer from a mining company in South America—a six months' contract that was really wonderful as to terms.

Another offer was from Cape Town. Maybe that climate would suit the young man better. Dick must choose for himself.

Oh, she was glad, glad that she had married Dick, and could look after him. Dear Dick! Always she would make his interest hers. Always she would be a helpmeet and a comfort to him. Life would be so beautiful together!

That foolish dream! Her nerves were overwrought. She hadn't slept well lately. She'd sleep better once the diamond was well sold.

The whirring of the carriage wheels reminded her definitely of something. What could it be?

And—Mary started—three explosions!

Well, that was curious.

But, of course, those little noises often did accompany the motion of a fast-running train. The girl's carriage was near the engine, too—that might account for it.

She leaned back on her cushions and closed her tired eyes. Again—the three explosions!

The girl made a spring, but too late! For Kismet, with one bound, had flung round her face and head a handkerchief soaked in some sweet-smelling stuff that made Mary's senses reel.

Tomorrow: "Kismet Defeated."

WOMEN'S CLUBS

TALBOT ST. B. Y. P. U.

The members of the B. Y. P. U. of Talbot Street Baptist Church have decided to attend the Monday evening session of the convention of the Baptist Churches of Ontario and Quebec, which is being held in the Centre Street Baptist Church, St. Thomas. The regular meeting of the B. Y. P. U. will not be held.

SCOTCH THISTLES.

The First Presbyterian Church auditorium was recently the scene of a very happy event, when the "Scotch Thistles" C. G. I. T., entertained in honor of their superintendent, Mr. Reid, and their new pastor, Dr. Beattie, at tea.

After a brisk business meeting and speeches from the two guests of honor, the girls engaged in games and recreation.

WELLINGTON ST. W. M. S.

The Women's Missionary Auxiliary of Wellington Street Methodist Church entertained the auxiliary of Grace Church, St. Thomas, on Thursday. About 45 members from St. Thomas were introduced to the local branch by the president, Mrs. Joseph Holliday, after which a program, arranged by Mrs. Fred Barnard of St. Thomas, was given. Devotional exercises were held for the workers in auxiliaries and for missionary workers on the foreign fields. After this a social hour was spent in the Sunday school rooms.

NO. 28 NURSING DIVISION.

Mrs. J. B. McKillop, lady superintendent of District No. 1, St. John's Ambulance Nursing Division, and Miss Ella Davis, superintendent of No. 28, Lord Kitchener Nursing Division, go to Port Stanley on Wednesday to give a demonstration in first aid, where they hope to form a large class, the members of which will be men.

HYATT AVE. W. M. S.

The Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church Missionary Society held their regular meeting and a banquet on Thursday night. The banquet was given in honor of the Hamilton Road Presbyterian and All Saints Anglican Mission Societies. The chief speaker of the evening was Mrs. W. Young, the district organizer. A delightful program was given. Those taking part were. Mr. and Mrs. McCormick, Mrs. Harburt, Miss Davis, Miss Slyford, Mrs. Mood, Mrs. Crie, Mrs. Bire and Mrs. McKinley. The convener of the program was Mrs. Topham. Miss McTellam presided over the meeting. During the evening, refreshments were served, Mrs. Small having charge of these.

Marmalade.

Dear Miss Grey,—I received the sleeper pattern, and I think it is just fine. I noticed where Aunt Rose has sent in a number of packages of flower seed. Could I have a package each of phlox, salpiglossis, dianthus, pinks and gaillardia? I send my recipe for pear and quince marmalade, which we are very fond of: 10 large pears, 12 quince, grind pears and quinces after washing and coring. Measure fruit and take one bowl less of sugar than of fruit, and 3 cups of water. AMELIA.

Amelia, I am sending you the seeds you ask for, and many thanks for your marmalade recipe and hospital mite.

EDDY'S
Indurated FIBREWARE
Can't Leak, Rust or Lose Shape

Every year you spend a certain sum on household utensils—Pails and Tubs. This year you can cut the amount in half and have for your money the best utensils made—Eddy's Indurated Fibreware.

Pails and Tubs made of Eddy's Indurated Fibreware, last twice as long as those of metal or wood. They are lighter and stronger, can't leak, rust or be battered out of shape. Their flint-hard, glazed surfaces are easily kept clean and free from odors or taints. Blows or bumps can't dent them. They are practically indestructible—and cost no more than the old-fashioned, troublesome kind.

Your dealer can show you Eddy's Indurated Fibreware Pails and Tubs. Buy them and save 50% of what you would otherwise spend this year.

VOCAL DEPARTMENT.

William Shakespeare, F. R. A. M., professor of singing, London, England, writes: "Miss Abbott, with her exceptional talent, is not only capable of singing the classics, but of giving valuable instructions on the lines of my own teaching." Such words of commendation from possibly the greatest authority on vocalization, is indeed high praise, especially when one knows how conservative he is with such praise.

Miss Abbott teaches in the London Conservatory of Music only, and an interview can be arranged and expert advice given without fee by phoning 1101.

DEPARTMENT OF INTERPRETIVE DANCING.

Miss Fryce will be pleased to receive additional names for her children's classes on Monday and Friday afternoons. Phone 1101.

SIGHT SINGING.

A class is being formed under Mr. Charles E. Percy for special work in Sight Reading. This will be an excellent opportunity for choir members and others to take up a course that will not only be instructive to them in sight reading, but will also broaden their knowledge of repertoire. WESTERN CREW GETS FIRST TEST TODAY

St. Mikes Promise Hot Opener For "U" Outfit—Line Much Same As Last Year.

Western's 1921 football squad gets it s first test of the season against St. Mikes this afternoon at 3 o'clock over a t Tecumseh Park in the intermediate intercollegiate opener. The line, whic h will be put in at first, contain practically all of last year's team, which p layed brilliant football a part of the time last year. Their inconsistency last year was due in a large measure to inexperience. This year, the team as a w hole has two years' experience backing it up and its play will be much steadier as a result.

St. Mikes team is sure to have a lot of knowledge of the game tucked away for the trip up here. They are out for the intermediate honors this year and believe they have a team which can turn the trick.

Even on Rules.

It is probable that both teams are on even terms when it comes to putting an interpretation of the new rules into play. Western has had some trouble with them, but teams of all shades are experiencing the same thing, and every coach has his own method of getting them straightened out. The Western squad takes to the new style of play keenly, and will probably be seen playing a kicking and passing game entirely. The line is heavier even than it was last year and what line work is done will have plenty of steam and pep behind.

Both coaches are asking for a dry field and indications are that the going will be fairly smooth.

The line-ups:

St. Mikes: Ford, f.w.; McKeon, l.h.; Forner, c.h.; Lebell, r.h.; Brown, r.o.; Dore, snap; Mahon or Lynch, Hitchcox, insides; Caron, Burt, middles; Dillon, McKeon, outsides.

Western: Herd, f.w.; Simpson or Lindsay, l.h.; Traynor, c.h.; Cline, r.h.; Williams, r.o.; Dingle or Lewis, l.o.; Callahan, snap; Fisher, Jarrott, insides; Crowley or Sifton, Dundas, middles; McMann, outside. Spares—Screaton, Crittle, Campbell, Rice.

BAPTIST SECONDS FORCED TO DEFAULT

Woodstock College Eleven's Truck Failed To Turn Up.

The Woodstock College rugby team defaulted yesterday afternoon's game of the Oxford and Middlesex Rugby Union to the Technical School squad, when they failed to put in an appearance at Tecumseh Park. Dr. Waring, principal of Woodstock College, and six players came along and explained the reason for the team's non-appearance. He said the players hired a truck to make the trip, but it did not show up at the college, and they were unable to hire another.

In order that the crowd would not be disappointed the "Tec" squad took on the Western U. team and were defeated in a practice game, 16 to 0.

$90,023 Collected in Taxes From Series.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The world's series netted Uncle Sam a handsome profit, but not so much as the Dempsey-Carpentier fight.

Frank K. Bowers, collector of internal revenue, announced tonight that the tax collected on the eight world's series games amounted to $90,023. The fight brought in taxes of $158,994.77, he said.

Twelve field inspectors of the revenue department kept tally on the attendance at the ball games, and checked off the sales of tickets with the baseball managements.

DUNDEE LAD WINS 2:18 IN STRAIGHT REELS

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Oct. 14.—Fifteen horses faced the starters' flag in the 2:18 pace of the Michigan short-shippers' meeting here this afternoon, and although the pace was not a snappy one, every horse stayed in to the finish. Dundee Lad won the event in straight heats, with Rex De Forest the runner-up in each of the three heats. Alta Coast had a walk-away in the 2:10 trot, winning in straight heats. The weather was clear and bright, but the wind was chilly.

Gas Bike Races At Park Today

Some of Canada's Fastest Riders Here For Races.

Some of Canada's fastest motorcycle riders arrived here last night for the motorcycle races at Queen's Park this afternoon. There were nine riders in the party and besides these, six London riders have entered and will race for the city championship.

There will be eight events, ranging from three miles to ten, and they will commence at 2 o'clock. The track is in good condition and will be scraped and rolled again this morning.

Plenty of speed can be expected by the crowd as all machines are tuned over 50 miles an hour. The outside riders are: Arnold O'Donnell, Wilfrid Dallimore, Ed. Friend, Ray Thompson, Bill Butler, Maurice Moffatt, N. Esson, W. Morden, W. Birchell and Ford Hands. Moffat will be remembered as the speed cop from Galt, who showed the way to several contestants here at the M. A. A. A. field day. Local riders are: C. Clements, M. Hay, E. Irwin, T. Nairn, C. Garvey and G. McGinnis.

ORIENTS PRESENTED WITH BASEBALL CUP

City Amateur Champions Were Banqueted Friday.

The Martin-Lyons trophy, emblematic of the amateur baseball championship of the city, was presented to the Orient Club team, winners of the Inter-Club League championship at a banquet tendered in the honor last even in the Orient Club roims. Each member of the team was presented with a small silver cup, which resembled the huge silver trophy exactly.

The members of the Manhattan and Alert club ball teams were also present. The evening was spent in dancing, card games and a pool tourney.

GUELPH O. A. C. HOLDS ANNUAL FIELD DAY

G. Hinrichs Is Grand Champion On the College.

GUELPH, Oct. 14.—Excellent weather prevailed for the annual field day sports in connection with the Ontario Agricultural College Athletic Association today. The feature of the day's sport was the record-breaking performance of R. F. "Suzy" Waugh in the pole vault. He had the record for the college of ten feet, but he eclipsed this today by three inches, thus establishing a record which will stand for some time to come. The Freshmen class were compelled to wear their winter overcoats, and on the outside of these they had to wear their vests turned inside out, a cardboard around their necks, on which was attached their little green bow ties, while they had to wear socks as mittens and odd ones at that.

The grand champion of the day was G. Henrichs, of the class of '23, and he receives the college shield. He is also the winner of the medal for short runs, while the medal for long runs went to F. Moran of the class '24. The prizes were presented in the college gymnasium this evening.

Following are the results:

Standing broad jump—G. J. C. Lindala, H. R. Clemens, J. M. Bates. Distance 9 feet.

One-mile run—F. Moran, F. Carson, W. H. Upsall. Time 4:54.

16-pound hammer—R. G. Richmond, L. H. Hanlon, E. E. Wildman. Distance 72 feet 8 inches.

Standing high jump—H. B. Clemens, H. N. Sneyd. R. F. Waugh. Height 4 feet 6 inches.

16-pound shot-put, under 140 pounds—G. G. Cameron, G. C. Wilson, G. J. C. Lindala. Distance 27 feet 10 inches.

220-yard dash—G. Hinrichs, G. G. Cameron, J. W. Edwards. Time 24 2-5 seconds.

Running hop, step and jump—J. M. Bates, A. McMillan, G. R. Patterson. Distance 40 feet.

16-pound shot-put, over 140 pounds—R. G. Richmond, J. A. McMillan, L. H. Hanlon. Distance 33 feet 3 inches.

Running high jump—H. R. Clemens, N. M. Blaney, E. H. Marston. Height 5 feet 1 inch.

440-yard dash—G. Hinrichs, J. W. Edwards, J. A. McMillan. Time :56.

Three-mile run—F. Moran, H. K. G. Donaldson, F. Carson. Time 16:40.

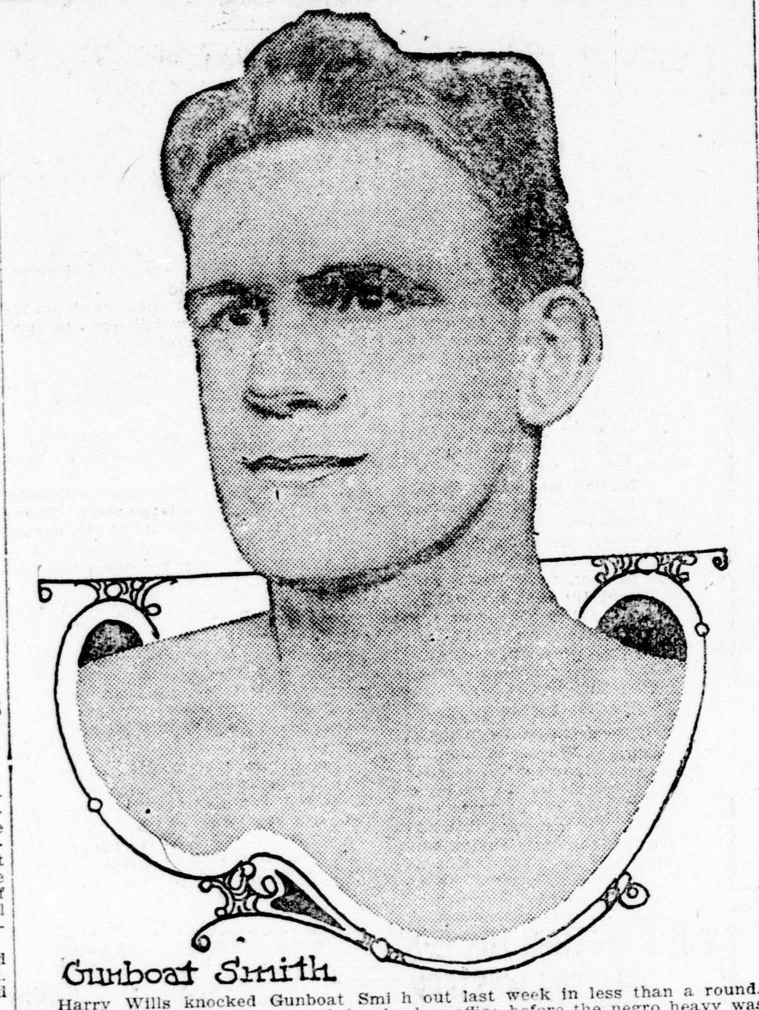
GIBBONS MEETS O'DOWD AT WICHITA ON TUESDAY

WICHITA, Kas., Oct. 14.—The Western Athletic Association today announced that the 15-round boxing contest between Mike Gibbons and Mike O'Dowd, middleweights, would take place Tuesday night as scheduled, regardless of the ruling of Attorney-General Richard J. Hopkins, who said the fight would be a violation of the state law.

Mr. Hopkins today reiterated his declaration of yesterday that the bout will not be allowed to take place.

THE "GUNBOAT" IN SHORT ACTION.



Gunboat Smith

Harry Wills knocked Gunboat Smi h out last week in less than a round. The change was hardly counted in the box office before the negro heavy was there to collect his nightly wage. A fight with Johnson is probably the best Wills can aspire to, as none of the leading whites want any of his time. Dempsey has drawn the color line definitely. Wills is conceded a better chance against the champ than any fighter now fighting.

COLLYER'S SELECTIONS

Best Parley—Tippity Witchet, Jeg, Araret to show.

They unloaded a ton of wise mazuma on Pastoral Swain the other day and didn't drag anything home. The same people most likely will try to even things up here. You all know what that means. Zouave is the dangerous one.

Doubles Finals This Afternoon

Boucher and Fenton Meet Curry and Hara of St. Catharines.

The challenge round for the men's doubles Western Ontario tennis championship will be played on the London Hunt and Country Club courts this afternoon, when J. G. Boucher and Capt. Fenton of this city meet Dr. Curry and L. D. Hara of St. Catharines. Play will commence at 1:45.

The ladies' singles and mixed doubles events will be continued, and the finals will in all probability be played next Monday.

CLASSIC ENGLISH RACE WON BY GOLDEN CORN

LONDON, Oct. 14.—(By Canadian Press).—The Middle Park Plate, for two years run over the Bretby stakes course at Newmarket, was won today by Marshal Field's filly Golden Corn, an overwhelming favorite at 7 to 2. Polyhister, at 11 to 2 against, finished second, three-quarters of a length behind the winner. Flaming Orb, at 10 to 1 against, was third. Five horses started.

The Middle Park Plate, together with the Dewhurst Plate, a fortnight hence, are considered the final and most conclusive tests of two-year-old form, and the winner of one or the other of these races is generally established as the winter Derby favorite.

One hundred and forty-seven entries were received for the Middle Park Stake when the list was closed November 3 last. The stakes are 30 sovereigns each, with 1,000 sovereigns added.

RICE, BROCK SHIELD WINNER AT "U" MEET

SANARDO WINS 2:05 PACE AT LEXINGTON

Jane the Great Also Winner On the Last Day.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 14.—The 49th annual meeting of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association came to a close this afternoon with the 2:05 trot, and the 2:01 pace as features. Each race proved a good contest, Jane the Great winning the trot after losing the first heat to Kilo Watts, and Sanardo capturing the pace after finishing third in the second heat, won by Hal Mahone.

The final heat of the meeting was marred by a bad spill when Sir Roch and Senator Wilkes went down while rounding the first turn. Charles Dean, jun., and Harry Gray were handling the reins on the two horses. Neither horses nor drivers sustained serious injuries.

In the opening heat of the 2:05 trot Driver Childs took Kilo Watts to the front and kept there, despite a determined stretch drive by Cox, who was handling Jane the Great. In the second heat Kilo Watts again went into the lead, but the Cox mare overhauled her in the stretch drive to win going away, and won the third heat easily.

The 2:01 pace was desperately fought. Sanardo went to the front at the first quarter pole in the opening heat and led all the way, winning in 2:01¼.

In the second heat Sanardo again went into the lead, but Hal Mahone passed the little son of San Francisco half way down the stretch, and Sir Roch also collared the winner of the first heat before the field reached the wire. In the third heat Sanardo outfinished Hal Mahone by a nose in a thrilling stretch drive.

Escotillo had little trouble in annexing the 2:10 trot, while the three-year-old trot went to Hill and Dale Farm's Sakura in straight heats.

"Y" Team Won City Relay Race in Quick Time—Jose Won Half-Mile Run.

L. Rice won the Mel Brock Shield at the annual field day and sports of the Western University at Queen's Park yesterday afternoon, when he got two more points than T. James. The field day on the whole was a huge success. There was a large turnout of students, but there could have been more competitors. The weather was ideal for the occasion. None of last year's track or jumping records were broken, but all events were keenly contested, and much enthusiasm was displayed by the students.

The rooters' squad was out in full force, and the school "yells" were much in prominence when the favorite class athlete crossed the line a winner.

City Relay Race.

Much interest was taken in the city relay race, which was won by the Y. M. C. A. team in easy form. Horlor, who ran the first 220 yards, gave Dutton a good lead, and this was kept up right to the finish. Arnold Bennett, considered as the city's best amateur runner, ran the half-mile for the "Y" team, and finished a good 300 yards ahead of Ardiel, who went the half-mile for the L. C. I. team, which came second.

Jose won the half-mile run quite easily, going the distance in 2 minutes and 29 seconds. Only two were entered in this event. Jose also won the mile run. Rice made good time in the 100 yards. Gillerand was close on his heels, though, and the winner was forced all the way.

Graham captured the high jump at a height of 5 feet 2 inches. Meds '24 were the winners of the inter-school relay race, experiencing no difficulty whatever in turning back the Arts '24 and '22.

Shot-put—Cline, Graham, James.

Running hop, step and jump—Rice, Lamont, Jose. Distance 37 feet 8 inches.

220-yard dash—Gillerand, Barnby. Time 27 3-5 seconds.

440-yard dash—James, Rice, Peck. Time 61 1-5 seconds.

Half-mile run—Jose, Quit. Time 2 minutes 29 seconds.

Pole vault—Lamont.

Mile run—Jose, James, Bartlett. Time 6 minutes 7 3-5 seconds.

Inter-school half-mile relay—Meds '24, first, Barnby, Lockwood, Lamont, MacLean; Arts '24 second, H. James, Gills, Merrifield, Dobson; Arts '22, third, F. James, Bartlett, Peck, Cave. Time 1 minute 51¼ seconds.

City one-mile relay—Y. M. C. A., first, Horlor, 220; Dutton, 220; J. Lightfoot, ¼-mile; Bennett, ½-mile. L. C. I., second, Hunter, 220; Wilson, 220; Wanless, ¼-mile; Ardiel, ½-mile. Western, third, Rice, 220; James, 220; Lamont, ¼-mile; Stevens, ½-mile.

OLD RUGBY RIVALS IN CLASH TODAY

Sarnia and Hard Oils in First Meeting of Season.

SARNIA, Oct. 14.—The stage is set and everything is in readiness for the rugby classic of the year, when the Hard Oils clash with the Sarnia intermediates at Bayview Park in the most important game of the district series from a Sarnia standpoint. While Petrolea claims to be in splendid shape for the game here, the locals are not worrying over anything the Petrolea club will muster. Heartened by the showing made against Wallaceburg by the two teams, as well as the knowledge that they are 100 per cent better since their last start, they look confidently forward to a win tomorrow.

Officials of the club count on trimming the Green and White by 15 points.

ATTENDS THEATRE.

ST. MARYS, Oct. 14.—The Alerts, intermediate lacrosse champions, were entertained tonight by the management of the Allen Theatre here prior to their departure for Toronto in the morning, where they will play the Riversides at Scarboro Beach for the senior championship of Ontario.

Deposit Payment Plan For Xmas Shopping Is Popular

London Merchants Find That Many Would-Be Early Shoppers Without Cash Adopt New Scheme.

Do your Christmas shopping early!

This is an old familiar cry. Its object is humanitarian. It is designed to afford relief to the tired store clerks in bringing about an ease-up during the last couple of days before Christmas.

But in the past, as now, there has always been one big fly in the ointment, and that is the fact that the would-be early Christmas shoppers have been in a great measure prevented from doing their part by lack of funds. In other words, the spirit and desire were there, but the necessary wherewithal to put it into execution was lacking.

And merchants, who have from year to year lent their voice to the early shopping call, soon came to realize why the cry fell, for the most part, on deaf ears, and they set out to find a solution.

It begins to look as if they have found it.

Christmas shopping on the deposit payment plan. Buy the article today. Pay down a small amount. Pay a little each week. By the time Christmas is around the article is paid for.

A two-fold object is achieved. The purchaser has saved. The Christmas rush at the last hour is reduced by the number of buyers who have adopted the new plan.

London merchants declare that the scheme is rather new to London as yet, and so will take some time to get it going on a large scale. There are, however, merchants who have conducted large accounts of this nature for years, and they have reported that their sales have been steadily climbing. They find this particularly applies to young working girls, who are bent on a new coat or hat for Christmas and have not the funds to lay down the cash for it and buy their other presents. However, to make sure that they will be able to buy all, they simply buy their presents on what is commonly called the installment plan.

There are many who object to this scheme because they don't like to take a chance on their friends finding out that they are buying on the installment plan.

This is absurd.

There are banks in the city that conduct purely Christmas shopping accounts. Weekly or monthly, as the case may be, the depositor makes his or her payment of a dollar or so, no matter the amount, and at Christmas time draws the money out and pays it over to the merchant.

The deposit payment plan is just the same thing, only the money is paid to the merchant instead of to the bank, and there is the added blessing that the early buying has been done, carrying with it the benefit of an early and less hurried selection than must be made at Christmas time.

London merchants are expecting the deposit payment plan to go over big this year.

Athletic Association Seeks to Secure "Varsity Yowl."

Although Western University has made remarkable progress during the past few years, and now numbers more than 700 students on the attendance roll, that institution does not possess a distinctive university yell, or "varsity yowl" as the students term it. Because of this state of affairs the directorate of the Western University Athletic Association is offering prizes for the best original compositions on the part of students to be utilized at football, basketball and other games in which teams representing Western "U" participate.

The yells must be forwarded to M. L. Blake, physical director at Western University by next Wednesday night. All yells submitted will become the property of the Western University Athletic Association, and may be used at the discretion of the directorate. Announcement of the contest to the students asks for "a good, snappy yell," and two prizes will be offered for the best, one to the College of Arts students and one to the College of Medicine.

It is rumored that students of the latter department have already prepared a university yell which is "a good, snappy yell," but it is doubtful if it will pass the board of censorship to be instituted next week prior to awarding the prizes.

YOUNG PEOPLE EXTEND WELCOME TO STRANGERS

Resume "Social Hours" After Sunday Evening Service at St. Andrew's.

At St. Andrew's Church, Sunday, at 10 a.m., the St. Andrew's Brotherhood will hold its first meeting for the fall term, Rev. D. C. MacGregor speaking.

In the evening at the close of the service the young people of the congregation will hold a meeting in the church parlor, to be followed by a social hour.

The young people held similar meetings last year, and found them an admirable means of extending a welcome to those away from home, and to strangers generally.

HAS ARM BRUISED WHEN HIS CAR TURNS TURTLE

In an auto crash at Wellington and King streets on Friday evening, O. Keillor of Frances street had an arm severely bruised and cut when his car turned turtle after colliding with another car being driven north by R. C. Griffith of Westminster Township. Mr. Keillor was driving east. Both cars were considerably damaged.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

What the Press Agents Say About the Shows

AT THE GRAND.

"THE SKIN GAME."

Drilliant Comedy at the Grand Theatre Tonight.

Today will be the last opportunity to witness "The Skin Game," the great John Galsworthy play now running at the Grand, and which has already stamped itself upon the affections of London theatre-goers as one of the strongest attractions ever played in this city. "The Skin Game" is a decidedly heavy dramatic production, representing Galsworthy at his best. It is presented by a distinguished English cast, which came to Canada direct from a successful London run. Certainly no theatre patron who admires the best in the drama can afford to miss this attraction.

A Big Double Bill.

On Monday the Grand will return to pictures for two days, presenting a big double bill at bargain prices. Harold Lloyd, always a favorite with London screen fans, will appear in his latest release, "Among Those Present," which is said to be a funnier production than either "High and Dizzy" or "Now or Never," both of which are familiar to local picture patrons. The Lloyd picture in itself would constitute a strong bill, but as a special attraction the Grand management has added that dainty star, Corinne Griffith, known to fame as the best-dressed woman in pictures. Miss Griffith's vehicle on this occasion is "Moral Fibre," a wonderful society drama, in which the star has an opportunity to display her versatility by appearing first as a 14-year-old girl and later as a grown woman. "Moral Fibre" is one of the strongest screen dramas ever filmed, and it is presented by a company well calculated to do it full justice. In addition to these features there will be a special news reel and a scenic. Among the events pictured in the news reel is the landing at Quebec of Miss Marie Lohr, the famous English actress, who is now making a special tour of Canada under arrangement with Trans-Canada Theatres, Limited, and who will appear at the Grand on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, with Saturday matinee, in a sumptuous revival of Sardou's "Fedora," and the sprightly comedy, "The Marionettes."

A Welcome Announcement.

It is a welcome announcement to lovers of the Shakespearean drama that we are to have a brief season of Walter Hampden, unquestionably the finest delineator of Shakespearean characters now appearing on the American stage. When Mr. Hampden was in London on the last occasion, he scored a distinct hit, and this time has a company, if anything, superior to that which supported him on his previous visit. All his productions are staged and mounted with full attention to detail, and with an artistic preservation of the Shakespearean atmosphere. Mr. Hampden's repertoire in London will include "The Merchant of Venice," in which he plays his wonderful Shylock; "Hamlet," "The Taming of the Shrew," and "Romeo and Juliet." Already there is great interest in the engagement, and seats are in demand.

AT ALLEN'S.

"REPUTATION," A DRAMATIC THUNDERBOLT OF TREMENDOUS POWER, AT THE ALLEN MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY.

"Reputation," Stuart Paton's tremendous drama of woman against woman, starring Pricilla Dean, will be the feature attraction at the Allen Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Never in the history of stage or screen has a production of such dramatic appeal been offered to the public.

"Reputation" is made up of contrast—drastic contrasts which carry a thrill with every rapid change from character to character, locale to locale, and incident to incident.

As the story opens Pricilla Dean is seen as a worldly actress in a country village, the first contrast. Then comes her European tour, where she is feted at magnificent banquets, dazzling in profligacy. In contrast to this is shown the man she has discarded, a friendless, pitiful wreck, wandering in the reeking alleys of Limehouse, the sewer through which the human filth of the world is kept away from the discerning nostrils of London toward the traceless grey immensity of the sea. Then when dissipation has marred her beauty, the woman is shown an outcast in the slums of New York, while her daughter is seen in dignified elegance and comfort, taking a place on the stage and impersonating her own mother.

"Reputation" has been described as the most dramatic story ever filmed and is without doubt Pricilla Dean's greatest dramatic triumph.

On the same program with "Reputation" will be shown "Snub" Pollard comedy, "The Chink," Allen World News, Allen Educational Film, and special musical program by the Allen Concert Orchestra.

"THE GOLDEN SNARE," JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD'S THRILLING STORY OF THE NORTH COUNTRY, AT THE ALLEN NEXT THURSDAY

"The Golden Snare," adapted from James Oliver Curwood's thrilling story of the same name, the feature attraction at the Allen Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, is a worthy successor to those great motion picture successes, "The River's End," and "Nomads of the North," also filmed from the works of the same author. The irresistible appeal of the great north country about which Curwood writes permeates "The Golden Snare" just as it did its predecessors. It is a story of gripping mystery, thrilling adventure, and great love born out of the wilderness. It starts with the search by an officer of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police for Bram Johnston, the "Loup Garon" man of the Arctic barrens, wanted for murder. It results in the discovery of golden-haired beauty whose mysterious presence in those frozen wastes remains unexplained until Bram Johnston gives his life for her. It ends—well, it is a wonderful story, and we do not want to spoil it for you by trying to tell it. In addition to an extraordinary plot the picture camera unfolds a wonderful panorama of the great snow country, with its malamute dog teams, its snowshoe equipped men, and its great forests.

In addition to "The Golden Snare" will be shown Christie comedy, "Man vs. Woman," Allen World News, final episode, "The Hope Diamond Mystery."

Scene from "Moral Fibre," with Corinne Griffith, at the Grand Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"A NAUGHTY WIFE" AT THE MAJESTIC

And now for the treat of the season at the Majestic Theatre all next week, when Wm. A. Grew Players present to theatregoers that most little comedy, full of laughs, thrills, pathos and humor, entitled "A Naughty Wife."

"A Naughty Wife" is a comedy in three acts by Fred Jackson and Edgar Selwyn, and is an everyday story of life as it is lived by the upper classes of the larger cities. The authors have handled their characters skilfully, and it is an assured fact that the Wm. A. Grew Players will bring forth the interesting points in a way that will prove a treat to all who see it.

Briefly, the story of "A Naughty Wife" is that of the novelist, Hillary Farrington, so wrapped up in his work of writing stories that he spends much of his time locked up in his study or at his Long Island bungalow writing. He has the usual beautiful and petted wife, who imagines herself neglected and seeks elsewhere for company and consolation. A young philanderer, Darell McKnight, who makes a specialty of sympathizing with just such women as the wives of busy novelists, businessmen, etc., comes upon the scene, and in the usual way endeavors to dispel the fair ladies' disappointments and fill in the void made by the absence of the busy husband.

Farrington has a brilliant idea for a story and leaves for his bungalow at Long Island to work up the plot. As soon as the rumble of his car wheels fade away wifey phones for McKnight, the comforter, who loses no time in reaching the home where sympathy is needed. However, he is there only a short time, when the husband, who finds he has forgotten something, appears upon the scene. But instead of doing the usual, he gives the couple every assistance, even to helping his wife pack her trunk, in carrying out the elopement which they have planned, going so far as to send them to his bungalow in his automobile. Then he—but that is telling the delightful part of the story which you will have to see in "A Naughty Wife" all next week.

An unusual undertaking was carried out by the management of the Majestic in presenting to each patron an envelope containing a dividend from the management. The idea was entitled: "Pay Day," and created much surprise and amusement, and at the same time proved remunerative to many, who, on opening their envelopes handed them by the ushers found in some instances a crisp bill nestling there. This popular procedure will be carried out every night next week with the exception of Monday.

AT LOEW'S.

THOMAS MEIGHAN IN "THE CONQUEST OF CANAAN."

There's a "Main Street" that runs through "Canaan," the mythical city which Booth Tarkington wrote about in "The Conquest of Canaan." In Canaan were some who were respectable and others who were not. Once you were placed in the latter class, it was next to impossible to live down the disgrace.

Here the respectables looked up to Judge Pike as their leader. His word was law. The unrespectable accepted him because they knew that he owned their homes, their saloons and had their lives in the hollow of his hand.

The development of this interesting plot, which brings out the bigness as well as the pettiness of a middle-sized town, is illustrated in the Paramount picturization of "The Conquest of Canaan," which will be shown at the Loew Theatre on Monday. Thomas Meighan, as Joe Louden, stars in the picture and Doris Kenyon in the role of Ariel Tabor plays the leading feminine part.

In addition to "The Conquest of Canaan," the program will include "The Hall Room Boys" comedy; Loew's screen pictorial, Loew's supreme vaudeville and Loew's big classic orchestra under direction of Mr. Jos. Tirri.

"Puppets of Fate" — what an intriguing protoplay! And Viola Dana—what a perfect actress for the role of poor little Sorrentina, Palombra, the abandoned Italian wife, just the right one to portray the felicitous, dramatic scenes of this story, from the pen of the well-known novelist and short story writer, Donn Byrne.

This opinion will be echoed by all who see "Puppets of Fate," a Metro special which comes to Loew's Theatre next Thursday for a run of three days.

The supporting cast includes Francis McDonald, Jackie Saunders, Fred Kelsey, Thomas Rickertts and Edward Kennedy. Dalas M. Fitzgerald directed the production. John Arnold and Sidney Ullman are respectively responsible for the enchanting photoplay and art work. This picture is from an original screen story by the well-known fictionist, Donna Byrne. Ruth Ann Baldwin and Molly Parro did the adaptation.

AT THE PATRICIA.

DUSTIN FARNUM AT ONE TIME CAMERA SHY.

"The Primal Law," featuring Dustin Farnum, famous star of stage and screen, to be shown at the Patricia next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. In this screen drama Mr. Farnum shows all the virile energy for which he is so well-known.

Many previous pictures have shown Dustin as the "bold, bad man." In this production he portrays the softer, more noble instincts of man, which with his care-free, rollicking, laughing disposition has made him a favorite wherever he has appeared.

How many people have heard of a movie player being embarrassed by the camera? This is what Dustin Farnum, hero of numerous photoplays claims, after being "shot" at the studio.

The editor of a large picture magazine asked Dustin for about 100 feet of film showing William and Dustin Farnum together. Dusty dug up brother Bill and planted him before the camera saying, "This is to be very off-stage Bill." Bill remembering his ability to use his fists started in pronto to muss up Dustin. That worthy refusing to strike his brother, fled. He later stated, "The camera embarrassed me, and I was not prepared for a battle."

Lewis Stone in "The Golden Snare" by James Oliver Curwood.

LOUIS STONE, who is starring in James Oliver Curwood's gripping story of the far north country, "The Golden Snare," at Allen's Thursday, Friday and Saturday next week.

8:15—Miss Lohr will present the sparkling comedy, "The Marionettes."

FRIDAY EVENING AND SATURDAY MAT. AND EVE.—Matinee 2:15, Evening 8:15—Miss Lohr will present the sparkling comedy, "The Marionettes."

COMING, MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY, Oct. 24, 25, 26, with Wednesday Matinee—London's favorite Shakespearean actor, Walter Hampden, in Shakespearean repertoire.

William Fox presents EDNA MURPHY and JOHNNIE WALKER the two new stars who have achieved great success in their latest picture "Play Square" at The Patricia next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

MARIE LOHR IN "FEDORA"

The outstanding event of the theatrical season of 1921-22 is unquestionably the visit to London of Miss Marie Lohr, the celebrated English actress, who comes to the Grand on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday next in a sumptuous revival of the great Sardou play, "Fedora," and the sparkling comedy, "The Marionettes."

Miss Lohr stands today in the very forefront of her profession in the English metropolis. She has chosen as the play by which to introduce herself to a London audience one of the strongest and most impressive of the great French dramatist's works.

"Fedora," briefly, is the story of an ill-fated young Russian princess of strong primitive emotions and passionate nature, who is sacrificed to her mistaken loyalty to the memory of a brute. It is a play of intensely dramatic situations, and one at least among the few that have never failed to thrill an audience anywhere for forty years and more.

The climax is one of the most sensational in the whole range of modern drama. In it Bernhardt, Duse, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Fanny Davenport, and Mrs. Bernard Beere, to name a few of the most distinguished actresses of the past half-century—have scored one of their most emphatic successes. Miss Lohr's interpretation is declared by the most eminent of living London critics to challenge any in its fidelity, its passionate force, and its emotional beauty. The original London scenic settings will be seen here.

Miss Lohr probably has the most wonderful collection of beautiful gowns and hats possessed by any present-day star. In this regard her productions here will be unique.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT TO THEATRE GOERS OF LONDON

Owing to the extremely heavy demand for seats for the forthcoming engagement of Miss Marie Lohr, the celebrated English actress, at the Grand, the executive management for the company has arranged to give Londoners an additional opportunity of enjoying this famous star by opening with "Fedora" next Wednesday evening, Oct. 19, instead of Thursday evening, as previously announced.

Miss Lohr will present "Fedora" next Wednesday and Thursday evenings and "The Marionettes" next Friday evening, Saturday matinee and Saturday evening.

Yours faithfully,
JOHN R. MINHINNICK,
Manager the Grand Opera House.

CONCERNING LIFE AND LETTERS

"For Letters From the First Were Planned To Lead Us Into Fairyland."

BY KATHLEEN H. BOWKER.

Autobiography Reveals Struggles Of Anthony Trollope to Attain Niche in Hall of Literary Fame

Handicapped by Meagre Learning and With Only the Grey Hours of the Morning as Stepping Stones, Famous Author Started On Roadway to Fame—In 33 Years Wrote 46 Novels and Many Articles On Life in England Which Still Have Popular Appeal.

"Have you read that interesting book, 'Marquarey's Jewels'?" asked a Sweet Young Thing, as she sipped her tea.

"Yes—but I don't think you have," replied her hostess, smiling. For the book alluded to is really entitled "Marquarey's Duel," which must have been a blow to the S. Y. T. when she realized it!

Anthony Trollope Appeals.

I thought that the same might be true of the lady who remarked that "Those delightful books, 'The Clintons' and 'The Hall and the Grange' by Noel Marshall' (isn't that the Red Cross of fame, and hard to bear for both?) "are just like Anthony Trollope with a modern flavor."

Do people read Trollope today? Indeed they do—as you will find out if you ask at the public library for your special three-volume favorite. It's fifty-fifty that you will find that it has gone a-visiting. Delightful books they are for a chilly autumn week-end, just the restful, entertaining, interesting things to read by the glowing fire. They give a picture of English life, that "never can happen again": but allowing for alterations in circumstances, they are as true a reflection of the English character today, as ever they were.

Success in Business Life.

One of the most interesting, perhaps the least known of the series, is the "Autobiography" with its wonderful story of the miserable, ill-educated gobble-de-hoy, who developed in his riper years, into a man who made a lasting success of his work in the General Postoffice, where he was a valued and influential servant for 33 years.

During that period, he wrote forty-six books (nearly all novels), as well as critical, social, political and sporting articles without number. From these he had realized (at the time he wrote the story of his life) $219,600. A very pleasant "pin-money" bank account!"

The letter which he received from his Chief at the time of his resignation, proves conclusively that the making of jam never interfered with the earning of his bread and butter. How he accomplished this complete cleavage of his services to Letters—those that went through the Post, and those that went through the Publisher—is interestingly told; and his "advice to young writers" is well worth reading.

Lewis Sinclair declares that no matter what your interests, troubles, business, occupations, or pre-occupations, if the "will to write" is strong ENOUGH you will succeed in producing a book. It can be written in bed, on trains, or the edge of the kitchen sink if need be. Mr. Sinclair's famous novel, "Main St." gives conclusive evidence of this. One can sense the smuts, and smell the dish-water that has been smeared over it. But his dictum is true, wise, and encouraging for all that.

Anthony Trollope had the same idea, but was able to execute it more dexterously. Mr. Sinclair writes (or did, before he made his success) beside the stove in the early morning hours, using the drain-board of the sink as a desk (evidently not a corrugated drain-board—but even, at that, I should think the kitchen table would be more convenient) while his well-treated wife slumbers upon her pillow.

Anthony (belonging to the blissful days when such beings existed!) had a "devoted servant," who for twelve years called his master in time for him to be at his desk daily at 5:30, "and was never once late with the coffee, with which it was his duty to serve me." ("Backward, turn backward, oh Time, in your flight!" chorus the modern housewives.) For this he received £5 yearly, over and above his wages—and a warmly-written appreciation in the autobiography.

Anthony trained himself as thoroughly as he trained his servants. His literary work occupied him three hours daily and he finished in time to dress for breakfast. He wrote with his watch before him, requiring of himself 250 words every quarter of an hour, "and they were forthcoming as regularly as my watch went." The first half hour was devoted to re-reading the work of the proceeding day, weighing the sound of the words and phrases and recapturing the tone and spirit of the part, to avoid the fault of seeming unlike himself. It is not possible for everyone to work in just this methodical manner, but the so-much-an-hour—so-much-a-day stunt is an excellent one to attempt. It worked marvellously in Trollope's case, for he certainly had (or acquired) the skill of a practiced "Continuity artist," and one is never conscious of a break in style.

If there is anything in heredity, it was from his father that Anthony inherited the power of writing in this steady, painstaking manner, though in his father's case it was sadly misapplied and fore-doomed to failure. There are few more pathetic stories than the account of the elder Trollope starting life with "a small fortune and higher hopes," and spoiling everything he touched—family—friends—finances. His lifework was an "Encyclopedia Ecclesiastica"—a nightmare compilation of every ecclesiastical term on earth, complete with all their subdivisions and derivations! He worked at this ungrateful task for years, with unflagging industry. When he died, three volumes out of eight had been published (and they by subscription)—and became buried in oblivion (thanks be!) with other futile literature of the same sort.

With a world-full of absorbing interests—why pick on this?

But he was that kind of a man.

It was from his mother (heart-warming woman!) that Trollope derived his love of life and good living; his intense energy and vitality; and the power to divide his various avenues of work and play, and keep them in air-tight compartments. This extraordinary woman, the daughter of a clergyman, was nearly 30 when she married, subsequently becoming the mother of five children. She loved society and a liberal houshold, had many literary friends, and raved over Lord Byron, like the other ladies of her day. She had a passion for would-be regicides, and poverty-stricken patriots in exile, who had escaped from Tyrants, with very little more to cover them than the skin of their teeth. She overflowed with emotion. Her politics were always of the heart, never of the head; and her socialistic tendencies can never have been extended to those who visibly used toothpicks! but "her heart was in every way so perfect, her desire to do good to all around her, so thorough, and her power of self-sacrifice so complete that she generally got herself right, in spite of her want of logic."

After following her husband's falling fortunes for years, she took her two daughters and a son Henry, and went to America. Partly to establish her boy; partly inspired by the social and communistic ideas of Miss Wright, one of the first of America's women lecturers, and partly, I must imagine, for the desperate need of a "change and a rest" from that good but appalling man, her husband.

This was in 1827; and in Cincinnati she established a bazaar (still in existence, not so many years ago) with the apparent object of "selling little pincushions to the Americans."

That she failed in this, and lost all the money embarked upon the adventure, is hardly to be wondered at! But she looked about her, and her socialist tendencies underwent a violent revulsion. Democracy at close quarters did not appeal to her aesthetic and fastidious taste (in later life she came to think that archduchesses were sweet); to her, the ugly thing was the bad thing, and the fact that your clothes were good did not excuse you for putting your feet on the table; and as the Americans did not appreciate the pincushions, she stuck the pins into the Americans instead!

She told them what she thought of them in a book, very bitter, but very clever, called "The Domestic Manners of the Americans"—and it is not too much to say that it made a real impression upon them. She was then 50 years of age, and had never earned a penny. But she had become aware that there would be no more money for the family unless she manufactured it.

She returned to find the ancestral home of the moment (they were always moving in mysterious ways!) in the hands of bailiffs. She received about four thousand dollars for her first book, and promptly took her family (most of them were ill) to Belgium—and there, or in England, or France—she continued to write for more than twenty years.

For the first two or three years in Belgium, her husband was dying; first one and then another son likewise—of tuberculosis; her other children threatened. She began her day at 4 a.m., brushing the sleep from her eyes with a pen, and washing her face in ink, metaphorically speaking. By the time day broke for the rest of her family, she had achieved the food—the fuel—the doctor's bill—the traveling expenses—and all the other sundries—for a day or two, at least! For the rest of the day, she was nurse to the sick and dying, entertainer and dispenser of comfort to everybody. "She could dance with other people's legs, eat and drink with other people's palates, be proud with the lustre of other people's finery. When she was at work, the laughter of those she loved was a pleasure to her. She had much—very much—to suffer; but of all people I have known she was the most capable of joy."

The ink bottle and the medicine bottle, punctuated her day; and her best novels were written at this tragic time. To write with a heart always upon the rack—to her son, such an achievement seems almost impossible. But one recalls these steadily descending years—twenty or so—of heartbreak, struggle, disillusion; tied—by love and lack of money—to a husband whom she truly loved, but whose temper was so trying that he estranged even those fondest of him; and who was yet so good a man, that she had no lavish justification for separating from him—what a soul-grinding experience; Those years of poverty and pain must have been an intense degradation to a woman of her high spirit. I can imagine her making the excuse to get away—to go to America—to go anywhere, and do anything! Glad of an opportunity to do it decently and in order, holding next her heart all the time (as loving women will) that frost-bitten hope of making marriage somehow a success. She must have wanted to do that (as loving women do) more than she wanted anything else in life.

I can fancy the business failure proving almost too complete a cruelty — but her spirit never failed, however much it may have faltered. Possibly Anthony would be indignant with me for suggesting that she went without definite intention of returning—with a possible hope that she might succeed so well, that she need not really return—not till she came triumphant, at her leisure—But the monster money, which must be found, especially for the children, drove her home, with her mss. in her trunk. It was not till after her return that she sold it. That first money—coming to her when it did—was it any wonder that it started springs of joy that nothing could utterly quench?

So I think she cared so much for money? Like all big hearts, she loved the lovely things one can do with money—the space it gives its owners, in which to expand (even though I can well believe that her favorite motto was—"Thieves can't get your money, if you spend it fast enough!") Then the utter dependence of her family upon her—coupled with the blessed power to provide for them—how it cheers even the reader to think of it!

Agony, sorrow and weariness of body and spirit, must often have been hers; but she had two of the greatest gifts of God—the power of love, and the resilient spirit.

Those were the days of the three-volume novel, and at her death (aged 76), she had published 114 volumes!

Her son has summarized the family attitude toward her devotion, in a masterly paragraph:

"Now and again there would arise a feeling that it was hard upon my mother that she should have to do so much for us; that we should be idle while she was forced to work so constantly. But we would probably have thought more of that, if she had not taken to work as though it were the recognized condition of life, for an old lady of fifty-five."

Who was it that said:

"To those whom God loves, he gives—not a crown, but a task"?

Brithday Honors

This is a popular Birthday week among the Literary Lights. There must have been an earthy-epidemic in Erewhon! (Do you know Butler's Book?) Anyway, Virgil (15th), Webster (16th) (Noah of that ilk), Helen Hunt Jackson (18th), James Henry Leigh Hunt (19th), Samuel Taylor Coleridge (21st), and One-who-shall-be-nameless—all chose this week for breaking in upon an astonished world. There is not space for the Life History of each. But the eldest takes precedence.

VIRGIL—whose given name was Publius Virgilius Maro—was born Oct. 15, 70 B. C. And lived fifty-one years. Though born outside Rome, he was one of the most intensely patriotic and "Roman" of his countrymen. He was brought up on a farm, but his father was anxious to give him a good education. He was always a diligent student—at Cremona, at Naples, and at Rome. He studied rhetoric—philosophy—(his favorite subject), medicine, mathematics, and natural Philosophy. He owed much to the Epicurean, Siro, and was strongly influenced by the works of Lucretius. In spite of his early outdoor life, he suffered from dyspepsia, headaches, and ill health; and this, owing to his retiring disposition, and studious habits, turned him from the usual military or political career. He never held any public office—but his Patrons must have loved him, for he amassed a considerable fortune, and owned several country places, and a home on the Esquiline Hill.

While many lesser poems have been attributed to him, his authentic and celebrated works are:

The Eclogues; pastoral pieces, and allegorical poems.

The Georgics; four books "in which he writes of the management of fields; the growing of trees; the rearing of horses and cattle; and beekeeping."

The Ancients understood the wisdom of advertising! "Back to the Land" was evidently being shouted down the ages, before the Christian Era began. This was Government publicity, suggested by Maecenas and Augustus "in the hope of making farm life more attractive to the people of Italy." And third—his great National Epic—The AEneid. This tells of the wanderings and adventures of AEneas, from the time of the fall of Troy, to the establishment of his destined Empire in Latium.

At first Virgil felt that he had attempted too much, and failed to realize his ideal. But after the exhaustion of effort had worn away, he consented to read three books to the Emperor, including the 6th, in which he had inserted a tribute to the young Marcellus. It is said that Octavia fainted when Virgil finished, but recovering, gave the poet 10,000 sesterces (about $500) for each verse of the memorial. (If I have counted right, there are 26.) But Virgil was never completely satisfied with what he had done, for on his deathbed he gave directions (fortunately not executed) to have the work destroyed.

Virgil's fame among his countrymen was immediate and permanent; and he had a great influence on later Roman poetry. Homer and Virgil were often bracketed together; and in modern times, this has been detrimental to the latter. The comparison is unfair, for Homer's "Illiad" and "Odessy" represent the primitive Epic—the gradual accumulation of a generation of singers. The EAneid was composed as a complete work of art, with the definite purpose of glorifying Rome, and the Julian House. "It shows Virgil's growing mastery of the heroic hexameter, and deserves above all the praise of being "the statliest measure ever molded by the lips of man."

In later years, unauthentic legends grew up around the Poet's name, of necromancy, and strange adventures, which drifted into the romantic literature of the Middle Ages. His name became associated in the popular mind with "virga"—(a magician's wand)—which led to the erroneous spelling of his name "Vergilius," and so to "Virgil."

In appearance he was large and dark complexioned—gentle, lovable, shy. He never married, and his name is unconnected with any love affair. After the conclusion of his studies at Rome—being then a young man, not much over twenty—he is completely lost sight of for ten years, until the Battle of Phillipi catapults him into the public eye once more.

What happened during those ten years?

What's In a Book?

How many times have you read a book about Canada, written from an English standpoint—and felt that:

"The toad beneath the harrow knows
Exactly where each toothpoint goes;
The butterfly upon the road,
Preaches contentment to the toad"

Those books, written on Private Cars by Plutocrats—that Immigration literature—the supercilious—the patronizing—

O YOU KNOW!

But here is a book, by someone who has kept her English eyes sufficiently open to see us with our edges clear. A sort of stereopticon effect. But who brings to the onlooking, the understanding heart. If the book has a fault, it is because it is a little too diffuse. But the author has so much to say—and says it so well—that this is more a council of perfection than a criticism. Miss J. G. Sime has written a book called "Sister Woman"—a collection of short stories or sketches, in which she has set forth some of the causes of woman's unrest—some of her desires and short comings—and some international relationships. In her books, "Our Little Life" (Frederick Stokes & Co., New York), she has told a story of converging personalities and commingling nationalities, in a way that approaches greatness.

Robert Fulton had never known his parents. But they were gentle people. He had that much of his parentage written all over him. At least he had, if you had eyes to see, though Robert had no charms for the Young Canadian Businessman—the worker, who got paid by the day at present, but who was going to have furs and a "lymousine" for his wife, before he was finished. When school and college days were over, Robert came to Canada to start on his own. But he should never have come here. "Canada isn't a country—it's a temperament"—and it was not Robert's. Canada would have none of the pen and ink wares that he came to sell. He did not know how to commercialize.

"Robert did not want to give himself airs. No one could have been more genuinely modest than he. But his modesty ran in a peculiar Channel—the English Channel—the one that divides England from the rest of the world."

In that, I think, Miss Sime has expressed the temperamental situation, with a complete clarity of understanding.

Robert, to keep alive, drifts into Arundel Market, the most up-to-date and impressive foodshop in the whole of Regalia. There, wearing an hygienic white suit, he sells butter and cheese and honey, over an hygienic glass-topped counter. Lonely and inarticulate, he hates it all with a nauseated hatred. But he does not know how to get out.

By and by, he is "adopted" (I know no better word for the situation) by Katie McGee. Katie is an Irish-born, Canadian-reared, sewing woman, who goes out by the day. (But were there really seamstresses, all through the war, who only charged $1.50, and who didn't call it a day till 6 o'clock?)

Miss McGee lived in that slice of the world, Penelope's Buildings. It was a stale, crumbly, slightly mousey slice. But Katie extracted a certain satisfaction, even out of that. Not that she had anyhing of the "glad girl" about her. You never feel that you want to slap her for overdone cheerfulness. She had a rough and dirty side to her tongue at times. But the soul of her loved that tall exquisite slenderness of St. Patrick spire, better than anything else on earth.

She began to mother Robert—so diffident—so appealing when most in articulate and difficult—so unprotected.

And then she fell in love with him. It doesn't sound right, told like that! Robert felt that she was a GOOD old soul—with a varying stress upon the adjectives. But Katie McGee's love for him—which he never realized, and could not possibly have understood—was the love of a woman; a mother; a wife; a comrade; a worker; a superior, and a child looking up to the stars. It was all twisted and mingled together in that quare Irish-Canadian heart of hers.

And out of it, Miss Sime has wrought a rare and beautiful thing.

PRIVILEGE, by Michael Sadlier (F. Goodchild, Toronto), is a book that has been a good deal talked of—sometimes with bated breath!

It is a story of decadent English aristocracy—a family who have outlived their time and traditions, and are either—like Charlotte Perkins Gilman's butterfly—

"madly climbing back

(should it be chrysalli?) or, eating and drinking and making debauchedly merry, because tomorrow they go forth to be murdered or commit suicide. Or—who don't care a tuppenny——!

Just what constitutes one of these "bated breath" books in the eyes of the general public always interests me a good deal. To me, the "bad book" is either one that blurs the clear-cut edges of right and wrong with subtle cleverness, so that you begin to wonder—?—that is nauseating without valid reasons, or that represents unwisdom in such an attractive guise that one wants to run right off and do likewise—or as nearly likewise as possible.

Whoever would want to be a Whern? I'd rather be a Wherry!

Their mental atmosphere is stale and unhealthy, like a room in which everybody has smoked continuously, with the windows tight shut. One feels that if the Wherns had been given a good shaking, a stiff dose of castor oil, a diet, some physical drill, and a manual and thoroughly laborious job in some young country—where they must do it, or starve—they might have been quite a decent lot.

But one doesn't feel it very strongly—not nearly strongly enough to make one run up a bill at the druggist's for them, or do anything very drastic about getting them to join the Y. M. C. A. Because none of them are really human, Noisy Monica, wildish Anthony, meticulous Michael, that slightly sickening Mary, even poor old Harold (disgusting in real life, but almost negligible in pale print), beautiful Barbara, and Dick, who, for less admirable reasons than his wiser namesake—was always turning—and returning—there is not one of them that you feel really matters. Supposing they do connive at their brother's murder—betray their country—change their religion—share their wives, get mysteriously murdered, or shoot themselves—oh, for mercy's sake, let 'em! What do any of them matter?

Mr. Sadlier writes with style—a style so carefully considered that it becomes stilled. His blows are all stage blows. The very plan of the book is a Posture—and may be dismissed with that much-spoken-of thing that the author thinks so admirable—a Gesture! Still, if you want to be up to date, you'd better read it.

Vest Pocket Versions

Then come the "currents":

THE VAGRANT DUKE, by George Gibbs (G. McLeod, Toronto). A Russian prince with socialist sympathies, is driven from his ancestral acres by the Bolsheviki. He travels to the States, incognito, and starts life anew as a forester. Love and luck, and near tragedy, a murder and mystery, await him under the trees that he is kept too busy to attend to in his professional capacity. A readable romance.

In RILLA OF INGLESIDE, by L. M. Montgomery (McClelland & Stewart, Toronto) you find the very daughter you would expect from Anne of Green Gables. Lots of old friends, and some new ones, may be found smiling at you through the pages. Just what you want to give to a growing girl. She will surely smile back.

THE MAN WHO DID THE RIGHT THING, by Sir H. H. Johnston (Macmillan & Co., New York). The story of two Englishmen, and several Englishwomen, at home and abroad. A tale true to life, full of the African interest that only the great explorer can produce. Hall-marked for truth, but touched with the romantic glamor of fiction that is founded on fact. Told in Sir Harry's inimitable, friendly, readable, companionable fashion. A book in a thousand.

MIRIAM OF QUEEN'S, by Lillian Vaux Mackinnon (McClelland & Stewart, Toronto). A "first" book. A pleasing story of young Canada, and it's old and well-beloved seat of learning, "Queen's." With a well-drawn picture of the university and its miniature world, in its lakeside setting.

THE KINGDOM 'ROUND THE CORNER, by Coningsby Dawson (Copp, Clarke & Co., Toronto). Tells how a warrior readapted himself to peace—and how his valet did likewise. Original, daring, amusing, touching, with two wickedly delectable heroines, capable of giving the most-married man a would-be possessive thrill, and a superheroine that leaves you as cold as yesterday's baked potato.

MARRIED? by Marjorie Benton Cooke, who also wrote "Bambi" (S. B. Gundy & Co., Toronto). A proxy husband—a beautiful spoiled child of fortune—a struggle between giants in the business world—cave-man methods, and a spice of real humor, form the materials of a jolly good yarn.

BLINKERS, by Horace Vachell (Cassell & Co.) The power of imagination—and then faith—as exemplified in the fixed idea. If you got the well-supported notion that the butcher's boy was really a duke's son, how would you handle the beefsteak he brought? Would it make you—or it—more tender? Around a similar (though more attractive) exposition of this idea, Mr. Vachell has written a delightful romance that comes to an unexpected ending.

"Old wood to burn;
Old wine to drink;
—Francis Bacon.

E. V. LUCAS

is the man who declares that it might be possible to sleep without a pillow, but never without a "bedbook." A delightful volume for such a purpose is the collection of itinerant essays (they travel through a continent of imagination, peopled with an infinite variety of vagrant fancies), gathered together in a comfortable little volume called "PEBBLES ON THE SHORE," by "Alpha of the Plough." (J. M. Dent & Sons, New York.)

"PRIDE AND PREJUDICE," by Jane Austen, has been done into charming volume by Cassell & Co., London. There is a sort of "high sign" between the Jane Austenites; and when they light upon one another, they feel as though they had come upon a friendly face in an unfamiliar crowd. "Pride and Prejudice" is the most satisfying of the series. It gives you the same feeling that you get from tea and toast beside the grate fire on a rainy day. If you have a taste for lasting literature, entertaining, caustic, humorous, tender and true, meet the Bennetts. If you know them, renew the acquaintance some day.

And was there ever a book in the wide, wide world that excelled Kingsley's "WESTWARD HO!" in its own domain? Love, excitement, romance and high adventures—in the days when adventures were really that! It remains to the end the stirring story par'excellence.

Gustave Le Bon Gives Analysis of Mob Psychology With Clever and Penetrative Pen in New Volume

We had been talking of Great Books.

"And what do you think?" I asked the Eminent Politician with the analytical mind, "of that extraordinary volume, 'The Crowd' "

"I have no time to read novels," he said. Then he smiled, as an indulgent young uncle might smile upon an irrelevant youngster who interrupted his investigations on the trend of income-taxes to ask him to blow irridescent bubbles.

I didn't mind the superior eye. He really was superior, and I was more than ready to admit it. But I simply can't abide that indulgent attitude.

Besides "The Crowd" by Gustave le Bon (T. Fisher Unwin, London) is not a novel. It is an analytical study of the popular mind; a psychological research into the causes, reasons and results of collectivity; a dispassionate statement of the mental power of the mob, and a vivisection of the mind of the multitude—taken multitudinously—that leaves one almost as overpowered as one might be by the actual crowd itself.

It is primarily concerned with French mentality, and the examples and illustrations used as proofs of the theories and deductions set forth are chiefly quoted from French history. Race, as a factor, is the most important of all the elements that constitute the main characters of a large collection of human beings. The collective mentality of a crowd of Chinese, let us say, would differ enormously from that of a German crowd. The Anglo-Saxon crowd has a personality distinct from that of the Latin. There is a national mentality. But, allowing for national variation, the fundamental factors and their results are, broadly speaking, the same for all the world.

I do not know the exact date of the publication of this book. It was written some time before the war; but while the events of the last seven years might have slightly adjusted some of the writer's opinions, in the main it must have confirmed them.

"The memorable events in history are the visible effects of the invisible changes of human thought. The reason these great events are so rare is that there is nothing so stable in a race as the inherited groundwork of its thoughts . . . the present epoch is one of these critical moments in which the thought of mankind is undergoing a process of transformation. This is the era of crowds.

"Hardly more than a century ago the traditional policy of the European states, and the rivalries of sovereigns, were the principal factors that shaped events; and the opinion of the masses scarcely counted. The progressive translation of the popular into the governing classes is one of the most striking characteristics of our epoch of transition. . . . The divine right of masses is about to replace the divine right of kings."

By a course of reason, deduction and illustration, he promulgates the conclusion that there is no despotism so oppressive. As the chief reasons for the social changes, Le Bon instances:

1. "The destruction of the religious, political and social beliefs which were the foundation upon which our civilization was built"; and (2) "The creation of entirely new conditions of thought and existence, as the result of modern and scientific discoveries."

In the Middle Ages it had not occurred to anybody that there were some hideous ideas in a material translation of the Christian religion. People might not act as Christians—but they imagined that they did! Science, in destroying these illusions, shed a cold light upon the world, promising truth—or such a knowledge of the truth as our intelligence could seize; but it never promised either peace or happiness. The old beliefs, dead for many, and dying for others, still exercise a certain power; and the majority of mankind are wandering (subconsciously at least) in the No-Man's-Land of outworn illusions; having discarded the belief in a personal God—a something-more-than-human-parent; and not having attained a satisfactory ideal to succeed it. Man longs for something warmer than a Limitless Power, under which each human soul must accept the whole of his personal responsibility. It's a terribly draughty conception, in which to leave a finite mind, naked and shivering! Most of us want a concrete, workable ideal.

Socialism, according to Mr. Le Bon, is the most powerful illusion of the present day. It's inferiority to all religious beliefs is—that the latter promise complete happiness, only in a world to come; and that being impossible of proof, its validity was difficult to question. The Socialist idea promises happiness on earth; and it will lose its prestige as soon as practice discloses the vanity of its promises. What will be the outcome, Mr. Le Bon does not pretend to say, but he is inclined to a gloomy view of the future for civilization.

He catalogues, in an unusual and convincing manner, the characteristics of crowds; their sentiments; their morality; their impulsiveness; irritability; excitability; their power of receiving suggestion that is actively contagious; their complete lack of reasoning power; their mobility; the things that influences their ideas, imaginations, opinions, beliefs; the power of words and images upon them; their changeability, and their fixed ideas. It is a fascinating study, for he applies it, not merely to what we perceive as the crowd, personified by the momentary mob, but also as public opinion, in its broadest sense.

One of the generalizations most difficult to credit, is the statement made in regard to the small crowd (as small as a jury); that "on general questions, a vote recorded by forty academicians, is no better than that of forty water carriers"; or that "a gathering of scientific men, or artists—will not deliver judgments on general subjects, differing sensibly from those rendered by a gathering of masons and grocers." He admits the value of the lone expert.

It is easy to conceive how individuals become depersonalized in a mob, but harder to believe that collectivity—on a small scale—can completely overpower the trained mind.

Of course, the Peace Conference is not much to boast about. But would it have made no sensible difference—in the present decisions—in the results fifty years' hence—if the members of the conference had all been brakesmen? Probably M. le Bon would retort courteously that I had chosen (at random) the class above all others to prove his contentions. Since brakesmen frequently view the world from a standpoint above the heads of their fellows; are used to coupling up, making connections, avoiding collisions, and putting on the brakes!

The book contains a wonderful chapter on words, their power and consequences; and how the meaning of the same word varies from age to age, and between nation and nation.

There was no possible resemblance, for instance, between the Republic of the Greeks and Romans (Communal aristocracies, formed of a collection of petty despots ruling over abject slaves) and that set up by the French Revolutionists, who fondly imagined they were copying the Republic of the Athenians. Or again:

"For the Latin people, the word 'Democracy' means the subordination of the will and initiative of the individual, to the will and initiative of the community represented by the State. In America 'Democracy' signifies the intense development of the will of the individual, and as complete a subordination as possible, of the State."

But "armed with a small stock of commonplaces learned while we were young, we possess all that is needed to traverse life without the tiring necessity of having to reflect on anything whatever."

Other people often tell me that they find the majority of people, just like that! The amazing thing to me is the enormous number of people who DO THINK. Of course, it may be that I mistake the "formulas and commonplaces" for real mental effort; and that the foregoing explains the amazing power of platitudes. But it is clear that the Leaders of the Future—as the Leaders of the Past—will be those who study—and possibly pander to, or abuse—the psychology of crowds. If I were a politician, I would live with this book in my pocket, from now until December 7. And I especially recommend the chapter on Electoral Crowds, and Parliamentary Assemblies, to everybody interested in the General Election.

It took thousands of years for man to invent or produce: food, clothes, utensils, houses, furniture books, "diseases and accomplishments, and sins." But as these things came gradually into being, so adaptability, character, education, understanding, and their resultant powers, came into existence also, marching as it might be, shoulder to shoulder with material development. Individual man might be imagined as almost capable of coping with the problems of his immediate part of the planet.

A hundred years ago it took months for the state of China or Russia to exercise the least influence on the European world. Today the last waking thought of the man in Pekin or Kamschatka is handed to us on the tray with our morning toast. It is not possible for a man to be monarch of all he surveys, when he can take a bird's-eye view of the whole solar system, and get a card index of its actions and reactions, and a microscopic examination of its national nettlerash within twenty-four hours.

Within the last fifty years our mechanical and technical powers have been speeded up about 99 per cent. Perhaps our powers of understanding, evoluting Paleozoically, and confused by the unprecedented clamor of the engines of intelligence,—have not been able to advance at the same rate.

Don't you sometimes think that this is one of the reasons that we have become such an unwieldy world?

WHY NOT?

Dear Editor,—Congratulations on your up-to-date Book Department. But why forget old friends? Some of those beloved books that we have—not lost—but mislaid in the back of our brains. Recall them sometimes. The younger generation will gain much by knowing them; the older folks may lose something precious if they are never reminded of them. Say over their names to us once in a while. A READER.

That's a kind thought. And before the month is out I will give a half column review of some old favorite. It will be a mystery book, with no names mentioned. And the first person who guesses right will win three loud cheers.

WHY HURRY, LITTLE RIVER?

Did you ever read this delightful little poem by that fine Canadian, Frederick George Scott?

There is nothing there to do
But to sink into the blue,
And all forgotten be.
There is nothing on that shore
But the tides for evermore,
And the faint and far-off line
Where the winds across the brine
And never find a home.

Why hurry, little river,
Where the graceful elms are sleeping,
And the quiet cattle feed?
And the loving shadows cool
And every tribute stream
Brings its own sweet woodland dream
Of the mighty woods that sleep
Where the sighs of earth are deep,
And the silent skies look down

Oh, linger, little river,
Your banks are all so fair;
Each morning is a hymn of praise,
Each evening is a prayer.
All day the sunbeams glitter
On your shallows and your bars,
And at night the dear God stills you
With the music of the stars.

CLAIMS ENGLISH PAPERS ARE MAKING NO PROFIT

LONDON, England, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Lord Burnham, prominent newspaper proprietor, who was chairman of the imperial conference in Canada in 1920, while speaking here at the industrial conference, declared that not a single London newspaper was making a profit at present. Further, he said that not a single paper mill was producing a profit. Lord Burnham, who is a landed proprietor of considerable wealth, said that fifteen shillings in every pound of his income was required to pay his taxes.

Best Treatment for All Complexion Ills

If the skin be colorless, sallow, muddy, over-red, if it be rough, blotchy, pimply or freckled, there's nothing that will so surely overcome the condition as ordinary mercolized wax. It literally takes off a bad complexion—absorbs the dead and near-dead particles of surface skin, so gently, gradually, you experience no inconvenience at all. A new complexion is then in evidence, one so clear, spotless, delicately soft and beautiful, you look years younger. One ounce of this wax, procurable at any drug store, will rejuvenate even the worst complexion. It is smeared on like cold cream before retiring and removed mornings with warm water. The mercolized wax habit is a healthier and more economical one than the cosmetic habit.

If the skin be wrinkled or flabby, bathe it daily in a solution made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half-pint of witch hazel. This acts immediately, affecting even the deepest wrinkles.—Advt.

DENIES U. S. PLANES VIOLATE LIQUOR LAW

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 14.—Denial that United States army airplanes had been used for smuggling liquor across the Canadian border was made here tonight by Captain C. H Kells, intelligence officer at Fort Wayne, who recently investigated the destruction of an army plane on Canadian soil.

The airplane, Captain Kells reported, made a forced landing near Sunnyside, Ontario, Aug. 20, and the pilot, Lieut. James Hutchinson, was injured. Later the motor was stolen from the machine and the inflammable parts burned.

Captain Kells, whose report was of a preliminary nature, recommended that the investigation be carried further by an inspector with competent authority, to bring about the arrest of persons who stole the motor.

The plane landed in a district where rum-runners operated extensively some months ago. Following the accident residents declared frequent landings of airplanes from the United States had aroused their suspicions that the machines were engaged in smuggling whiskey.

DEFENDS RIGHT OF CLERGY TO ENTER BUSINESS

NAME UNION COMMITTEES

To Carry On Official Reunion Negotiations With Other Denominations.

HAMILTON, Oct. 14.—Procedure to be followed by the joint union committee of the Church of England in Canada in its negotiations with other church bodies was decided upon today by the general synod. The representation of the Lower House has been increased, the bishops have been nominated as representing the Upper House, and the formation of an executive authorized, on the ground that the main committee was too unwieldy to permit the easy exercise of its duties.

Following a protest raised by delegates from the outlying northwestern dioceses eleven additional members were appointed to represent the dioceses of Yukon, Mackenzie River, Keewatin, Athabasca, Caledonia and Caribou. As the committee now stands it consists of eighty-eight members, four archbishops, nineteen bishops, thirty-three clergy and thirty-two laymen.

In a message which was concurred in by the Lower House, the bishops stated that they consider the committee should be a large and fully representative one, acting through an executive. The duties of the latter are outlined as follows:

"And further, this House charges the executive with the duty of carrying on official negotiations with any other committee appointed officially to confer with the Church of England in Canada upon the subject of reunion, upon lines that are in harmony with the principles of the Lambeth appeal and resolution as adopted by this general synod, of reporting from time to time a synopsis of its proceedings to all members of the committee, and to report in full to a meeting or meetings of the whole committee before any final decisions are adopted or any report presented to the general synod."

Appoint Additional Members.

The eleven additional members appointed by the Lower House to represent the outlying dioceses are as follows: Venerable Archdeacon White, Chancellor A. U. G. Bury, Athabasca; Ven. Archdeacon Whittaker, MacKenzie River; Rev. Canon Lofthouse, J. A. Kenney, Keewatin; Rev. A. J. Davis, Chief Justice Mathers, Yukon, Rev. Canon Rix, R. L. McIntosh, Caledonia; Ven. Archdeason Pugh and G. S. Holt, Caribou.

That a clergyman should not lose his orders for a temporary indiscretion, without very great consideration, was the plea of Rev. Dr. Renison at the morning session.

Dr. Renison moved for the striking out of the clause which set forth that a clergyman without availing himself of the provisions of a certain canon, shall engage in secular employment without the written consent of the bishop of the diocese, and who shall cease to exercise his functions under the license of his bishop, renounces the ministry.

E. J. Fream, a western layman, stood firm for the retention of the clause, pointing out that through the west clergymen who had forsaken the ministry, used the fact of their consecration as a sort of side-line to help them sell merchandise for which they were agents.

Dean Tucker of London, Ontario, considered the deposing of the clergy should only take place for grave moral offences. Because clergymen left the ministry for the time being to engage in secular pursuits was no reason for deposing them.

"For me there is a sacredness in other callings," he said.

Rev. Principal Vance, Vancouver, contended that a certificate was not equivalent for renunciation, although it might be for suspension. Chancellor Kirwan Marten, Hamilton, agreed with Principal Vance, and Chancellor Worrell also indorsed his stand. The alternation suggested by the Vancouver delegate will accordingly be made.

Rev. Dyson Hague Protests.

Rev. Dyson Hague, Toronto, as a matter of conscience, protested, but the canon in its amended form was adopted.

After much discussion Chancellor Worrell's motion that the synod meet every three years between the second Wednesday in September and the second Wednesday in October, the date to be fixed later, was adopted.

Non-concurrence was voted by the house of bishops in the motion of Rev. Canon Seager, which asked that a canon be enacted giving official recognition to the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, as an organization in the Church of England. Canon Seager made a strong plea for the lower house to back up his motion. The prolocutor paid high tribute to the brotherhood.

R. W. Allin, Toronto, voiced his disappointment regarding the situation which now faces the laymen's movement. "We are paying much attention to the superstructure and neglecting the foundations," he said. We complain about over-organization, but yet there is practically no organization among the laymen. He deplored the lack of prospects of official action in organizing the laymen of the church. He urged that efforts be made to get in touch with the situation and bring into the synod in three years' time some definite decision.

Claims Tory Party Is As Dead As Julius Caesar In New Brunswick

SUSSEX, N. B., Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press.)—"Premier Meighen was here and talked free trade and protection and declared that such was the only issue. But I say 'who made it so?'" questioned Hon. W. L. M. King at a meeting here tonight. The Government's record and the people's right to govern were at stake. Canada had had no election on domestic issues for ten years. Why narrow the discussion to one issue and not allow any discussion of returned soldiers' affairs and similar matters, Mr. King asked. "Since 1911 a new electorate had grown up, and these people were entitled to a full discussion of the country's affairs.

Hon. W. E. Foster, premier of New Brunswick, spoke first on provincial matters, and declared that he had a provincial duty still to perform before he could think of turning his energies to Ottawa.

Premier Foster extended to Mr. King the greetings of New Brunswick Liberals and welcomed him to the province. The Tory party was as "dead as Julius Caesar" in New Brunswick, said Mr. Foster, and its late representative in the cabinet, Hon. R. W. Wigmore, had been too busy "seeking business for his firm to choose a New Brunswicker as a New Brunswick senator.

Premier Foster referred to the possibility of Hon. William Pugsley entering the present fight, and declared that the Liberal party when returned would have many strong men in its ranks.

SHIELDS POSTPONES NEW REVELATIONS

Will Bare Church "War" History At Convention.

TORONTO, Oct. 14. — Having announced that he would tell tonight the inside history of his war with a portion of his congregation, Rev. T. T. Shields of Jarvis Street Baptist Church drew almost a record congregation, but the sensation that many had anticipated did not materialze.

Mr. Shields spoke for about three hours, and reviewed some phases of the trouble already made public, emphasizing chiefly his contention that his preaching against worldliness had offended many of his flock. He announced, however, that he would present the whole matter for the consideration of the Baptist convention in St. Thomas next week.

Mr. Shields broke new ground, however, in his attack tonight on McMaster University. The early history of this institution, he said, had been most creditable, but in time there was introduced a new element, in the form of a professor, namely I. G. Massey, whose teachings and influence had worked to destroy the very foundations of the Baptist denomination.

The movement of modernism, he declared, had gained followers among the younger students or among those "superficial and shallow creatures who are the easiest to influence," until those "self-satisfied modern theologians" had done much to thwart the advance of the denomination.

STEAMER ROYAL SINKS AT SEA

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Oct 14—The Norwegian steamer Royal, which stranded Wednesday night near Cape Bellard while en route from Shields to Montreal, has broken in two and sunk, according to word received here from the ship's master, Captain Anderson. The coastal steamer Prospero returned to St. Johns from the scene of the wreck and reported heavy seas raging in that vicinity, and no sign of the Royal showing. The tug Ingraham has also gone to the wreck and will bring the crew to St. Johns.

One woman is reported to have been on the Royal. The entire complement of the vessel was forced to spend the night, following the wreck, in open boats on a rough sea.

TO RELIEVE CATARRH, CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises, will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them, and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home, and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 ounce Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing rumbling, hissing sounds in their ears, should give this recipe a trial.—Advt.

COMMISSIONERS FIND CHARGES ARE DISPROVEN

CHEERS GREET VERDICT

[Exclusive Staff Special.]

WINDSOR, Oct. 14.—Loud cheering and applause followed the statement of Chairman W. E. Gundy of the police commission to the effect that "We the members of the commission are unanimous in finding that the charges against Chief of Police Daniel Thompson are not only not proven, but are disproven."

"We will give out a full finding and submit it to the council later," and so concluded the investigation, slated by Ald. Frank J. Mitchell, and held at the city hall tonight, into charges that Chief Thompson was allowing liquor, which had been seized, to be taken out of the hands of the police without a proper order and transported from one house to another after it had been seized.

After City Solicitor Davis had closed his case without calling Ald. Mitchell, who was described by R. L. Brackin, counsel for the police department, as the "instigator" of the investigation, Mr. Brackin asked Ald. Mitchell if he would take the stand. The councillor did not think it necessary to answer the question. Then he was challenged to take the stand. Still he remained unmoved. Then Mr. Brackin requested the commission to order him to take the stand.

After considering the matter they did not think that it mattered materially whether the alderman gave evidence or not.

Want Mitchell On Stand.

At this point the audience was sympathetic with Mr. Brackin, and by their behavior showed that they were eager to see Ald. Mitchell cross-examined.

Then the defence entered evidence to show that the councillor hadaaaa to show that the councillor had sworn to "get that big stiff" the chief.

When the investigation opened Mr. Brackin wanted to know the scope of the cross-examination to be permitted, as he had evidence he wanted to introduce, which, he alleged, would be derogatory to the alderman.

The city solicitor submitted that it was not an investigation into charges against Mitchell that was being held, but one in connection with two specific charges, namely, that Chief Thompson allowed whiskey to be taken from one house to another after it had been seized, and that some of it was allowed out of the possession of the police after it had been seized and without a proper order for release being given.

He added that the investigation was one resquested by the city council of Windsor, and not one demanded by Mr. Mitchell.

Demands Cause of Inquiry.

Mr. Brackin replied that the motive for the investigation being instigated should be brought out.

The commissioners decided that the investigation should be confined to the two charges in writing unless during the process of the probe it was found necessary to do otherwise.

Constable Walter Hall testified that he visited No. 1355 Dougall avenue on Aug. 1 in company with Constables Yocum and Newman and Ald. Mitchell. When he approached the house, one person came out and turned back, then four came one, one of them, a woman, stumbling as she left he place. The quartet was taken to the police station, where they admitted that they had been drinking.

Constable Hall did not think they wese intoxicated, and all four were released in the morning.

On Aug. 2 Hall and a second officer went to the house again to find a man named Horne. They did not obtain immediate results, but later secured a search warrant, and on making an investigation discovered a large quantity of liquor.

Part of the seizure was sent to police headquarters in the custody of another officer. Hall followed with the remainder, he declared. The entire supply was stored. The next morning, on checking up the seized liquor, Constable Hall discovered that one-gallon jug was missing. He stated that since that time he had not located the missing jug. Finally the liquor was released and returned to a Mrs. Lawson of 1355 Dougall avenue.

Two Jugs Were Missing.

Two days later Ald. Mitchell appeared at the police station and said two jugs were missing, Hall declared.

According to the witness the alderman asked him to meet him in the city hall, telling him previously that he was going to have an investigation.

Hall admitted the chief had always acted on any reports of violations of the liquor act. Inspector Wigle, the witness said, always took charge of any liquor seized, Chief Thompson not handling the seizures at all.

Mr. Brackin submitted a statement signed by Mrs. Arthur Kersch to the effect that the undersigned had drinks and had seen drinks sold by Mrs. Henry Horn at the Dougal avenue house while she was in the latter's place of residence.

J. Lesperance, a truck driver, declared that on August 2 he saw police officers unloading liquor at the police station. He swore that one case was taken from the supply and placed in a small auto by a stranger, the car being driven away later.

Saw Case Carried Away.

James Robertson, who was unloading steel near the police station on Aug. 2 also watch the unloading. He swore he saw one case carried to a touring car by a man, but did not see it returned.

He "guessed" the officers could see the liquor being taken away.

According to evidence given by Stanley Nelson of Detroit, he also observed a case being taken away by a man whom he could not identify, who was driving an auto. He could not say that the man did not carry the case into police headquarters.

Inspector Mortimer Wigle's evidence was to the effect that eight gallons of whiskey, nine cases of whiskey and twenty-five cases of beer were in the station following the raid. He admitted that the report of the seizure showed nine gallons were taken by the police. He admitted two cases were missed later. He explained this by saying that all seized liquor was stored in one place and when any was returned, the person to whom it was sent back did not always get the identical liquor taken from him.

Since Chief Thompson took charge there was never a moment when the chief did not have the co-operation of the men, said the inspector. Chief Thompson had increased the efficiency of the force and dealt with all matters in a straightforward manner, he concluded.

Henry Ford On His Knees in Mine Crawls Nearly a Mile

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 14.—Expansion of the vast Ford interests into the comparatively new coal fields of West Virginia and introduction of new methods in handling of labor and mining were forecast by the visit of Henry Ford and his son Edsel here.

After an inspection of his mines at Nuttallsburg, W. Va., where Ford descended into a coal mine for the first time in his life, the financier stopped in Huntington a short time for conference with West Virginia capitalists.

"I made the trip to my coal holdings here in West Virginia to learn the exact working conditions of my miners," declared Ford. "I was curious to see how coal was produced, how it looked down in the bottom of a mine, how the miners lived and ate and played. I am satisfied with the conditions as I found them."

Ford got down on his knees and crawled for nearly a mile, down into the bowels of the earth, when the mine compartment was too low to permit walking. He saw the miners blast out coal, and saw the cutting machines working three miles back into the mountains.

He visited the miners' homes, saw their wives cooking, inspected the playgrounds and schools provided by his company for the children, and inquired both of men and officials as to the general morale and working spirit of the miners.

Ford's entry into the West Virginia fields, torn with industrial strife since 1898, when the United Mine Workers of America began organizing here, is of great significance.

The manufacturer's handling of labor is a forecast of what he will probably do in this state. While he declined to discuss the labor situation, other than expressing satisfaction at conditions in his individual mine, members of the Ford party were of the opinion his inspection might result in some radical changes.

THREE DENY GUILT IN $700,000 THEFT CASE

Cases Against Brenners To Be Heard in Three Groups.

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—Nathan Brenner, Meyer Brenner and Gordon I. Blackford appeared before Magistrate Jones today, and, through their solicitors, pleaded not guilty on all of the eighteen different counts preferred against them. One of these was to the effect that Nathan Brenner, Meyer Brenner and Gordon I. Blackford, in the years 1918, 1919 and 1920, "did steal $700,000 in money, the property of N. Brenner & Co., contrary to the criminal code."

I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., appeared on behalf of Nathan Brenner, while A. C. McMaster, K.C., represented Meyer Brenner and Gordon I. Blackford.

In opening the case Crown Attorney McRuer inquired whether the defendants wanted to have each of the eighteen preliminary hearings taken separately or whether they would be willing to review them all at the same time. They replied that while they did not desire to have the hearings conducted one by one, they insisted that evidence applicable to one particular charge only should not be heard in connection with another.

Charges in Three Groups.

Magistrate Jones crystallized the situation by stating that the charges fell naturally into three main groups, firstly, stealing and receiving; secondly, conspiracy to defraud, and thirdly, falsifying and concealing. He suggested that the hearings should be held under these headings. This was agreed to, and, the conspiracy charge being regarded as the broadest, it was decided to take up this group of hearings to commence with.

The court crier called out the name of "Nassau" as the first witness, while Mr. McMaster asked, in an aside, if it were possible this could be William of Nassau or some member of the Royal Black preceptory.

Was Not "Nassau."

Mr. Hellmuth, however, stated that he was advised that the witness was not called "Nassau" and upon inquiry it proved that such was the case, he being K. Julian Rahlson, manager of the Nassau Smelting and Refining Company of New York.

Mr. Rahlson testified that his firm had had large dealings with the Brenners, quoting one contract of April, 1920, for an amount of about $115,000 of $120,000. He denied that his company owed any money to the Brenners, but added that Nathan Brenner Company still was in debt to his organization for an amount of more than $20,000.

At this point it was decided to adjourn until Friday of next week at 2 p.m., when a date will be set to proceed with the case. In the meantime the record of the bank accounts are to be filed, and if defense counsel wants to cross-examine the bank witnesses this will be done later.

DISCUSS FUTURE PLANS OF 44-HOUR CAMPAIGN

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—Representatives of the Typographical Unions in Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa and Montreal met in Ottawa today to talk over their future plans of campaign in the 44-hour fight.

Dispatches from Toronto said that a conference between the union representatives and Premier Meighen and other representatives of the government would be held, at which the matter of importation of men from the United States to take the place of printers on strike in Canada would be discussed.

In official circles here this morning it was stated that no arrangements for a conference had been made. Mr. Meighen will not return to Ottawa until Saturday evening, and it is possible that he will see the union representatives on Monday.

LAMBTON LIBERALS TO CONVENE IN ALVINSTON

Meeting For Organization Set for Tuesday, October 25.

THAMESVILLE, Oct. 14.—Representative Liberals from practically every section of Lambton County held a meeting in Alvinston today to discuss the political situation in the riding.

As both the Progressive and Conservative parties have a candidate in the field it was thought that the Liberals should also enter the contest in the forthcoming federal elections. A canvention therefore has been called to meet in Alvinston on Tuesday, Oct. 25, at o'clock, for the purpose of organization and the selection of a Liberal standard-bearer.

N. OXFORD LIBERALS CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 14.—The Liberals of North Oxford hold a mass meeting here tomorrow to select a candidate to contest North Oxford in the federal election. The Liberals are confident of electing their candidate, and tomorrow's meeting promises to be a bumper one, much interest having been aroused by the executive's decision to place a candidate in the field.

The two names most prominently mentioned as the probable choice are Dr. D. J. Sinclair and G. F. Mahone, and if either of these can be induced to stand their election seems certain. The executive has secured for tomorrow's meeting as chief speaker G. N. Gordon of Peterboro, whose notable victory in a recent by-election is still fresh in the minds of the electors.

CLAIMS FORGED LETTER LURED HIM TO RUSSIA

LONDON, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press cable.)—How the Bolsheviki forged letters to settlers in the British dominions, inducing them to go to Russia, is narrated by a number of Dominion refugees who have returned to England. One of these, Henry Buxman of Winnipeg, stated that letters received by him set forth that Russia was a land flowing with milk and honey. He went to Russia thinking to make good, but found the letters were forgeries. Letters to his friends had been stopped on the borders of Russia by the Bolsheviki and rewritten.

BANISH DRUGS AND BATHE INTERNALLY

"I have been using the J. B. L. Cascade for about eight months now. I have found it in every way satisfactory. I feel better than I have for a good many years. I would not be without my Cascade for anything. I also use it on my children, as it is so simple to use, and they would rather use it than take drugs." Write Mrs. M. J. Jones, 70A Notre Dame street, Lachine, Que.

This letter is only one of thousands we have received which tell a story of gratitude over the benefits derived from Internal Bathing. By the use of "The J. B. L. Cascade" the colon or lower intestine can be cleansed of poisonous waste gently yet effectually with warm water, removing the cause of stomach gas, headaches, loss of appetite, impure blood, piles, lack of energy and sleeplessness.

You bathe outside, why not bathe internally, too—it is far more important.

Mrs. Isaac Muller, Morse, Sask., writes: "I have increased in weight and am perfectly well now. The J. B. L. Cascade has saved my life. Thanks to Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell. Please publish this, as it might reach someone who has not heard of the Cascade."

The J. B. L. Cascade is the perfected invention of Dr. Charles A. Tyrrell of New York for internal bathing. It is now being shown and explained at Standard Drug Company, Limited, London, Ont.

Telephone or ask them for free booklet all about it—or write Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College street, Toronto.

Could Not Eat

Constipation is caused by a torpid condition of the liver. Dosing with salts, castor oil, etc., to move the bowels, cannot afford more than temporary relief.

If you are to rid yourself of this ailment and the scores of annoying symptoms and diseases which come in its wake, it is necessary to get the liver right by such treatment as is suggested in this letter:

Mrs. Alvin Richards, R. R. No. 1, Seeley's Bay, Ont., writes: "For two years I was afflicted with indigestion, and in the morning when I got up my breath was bad. I had a poor appetite, and just felt like eating certain foods. I used many different medicines as a laxative without benefit, and the doctor's medicine did not help me at all. Finally I tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and found them better than anything I had ever tried. I can highly recommend them to anyone troubled with constipation or kidney troubles."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25c a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

WILL OPEN RECEIVING OFFICES FOR DEPOSITS

TORONTO, Oct. 14. — Hon. Peter Smith, provincial treasurer, stated today that in working out the Government's scheme of establishing subtreasury branches for receiving deposits from the public for government use, he would commence with branches in the cities. One branch will be opened in Toronto, and most of the other large centres will get one. From time to time, as the organization is built up, branches will be opened in the smaller centres of population.

"We will have a branch in Toronto and others of the larger centres," said Hon. Mr. Smith, "but I believe that places like Guelph, Stratford and Woodstock, which are the centre of a thriving agricultural district, and into which the farmers come more largely and regularly than into Toronto, will give us the best returns."

TURKS ASK MOSCOW TO KEEP RUMANIA NEUTRAL

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 14. — The Turkish Nationalists are much alarmed over rumors that there is to be military co-operation between the Greeks and Rumanians in Thrace. They have requested the Moscow Government to bring pressure on Rumania to maintain neutrality in the Greeco-Turkish conflict.

The World's Greatest Tonic

—the New

WINCARNIS

Glycerophosphates of Calcium, Potassium, Sodium in combination with Iron and Manganese and Beef and Malt Extracts with Red Wine.

THESE are the very mineral elements so necessary in proper degree in the human body. But thousands and thousands of people are unable to properly absorb from their food an adequate quantity of the mineral salts so necessary to health, strength and vitality, and the result is Weakness, Lassitude, Nervousness and general Run Down condition.

The Economy of Wincarnis

The ingredients in Wincarnis are highly concentrated. The prescribed dose is one to two tablespoonfuls, (not wineglassfuls as in the former preparation.) The New Wincarnis, therefore, will go further, and be found more economical than other tonics, so-called, requiring a much larger dose.

Even people who are not conscious of being really ill are suffering from not getting proper nutrition from their food and are not rebuilding wasted tissues of body and brain—Women who are soon tired with little exertion—Business men whose nerves are shaky—Stenographers and clerks who lack vitality and ambition—are deficient in these vital elements of body and brain.

It is here where lies the wonderful value of WINCARNIS, for it presents the elements of Calcium, Iron, Manganese, Phosphorus, Sodium, in such form that they can be readily absorbed into the system. So that if you are not 100% efficient in health—if you are weak—if you tire quickly—if your nerves are shaky—if you feel run down—your body needs the re-vitalizing elements contained in WINCARNIS.

You Need WINCARNIS

WINCARNIS will supply you with the very elements necessary to enable you to reconstruct exhausted energy, replace your lost vitality, enrich your impoverished blood—strengthen your nerves—rebuild the wasted tissues of body and brain.

YOU try it. Buy a bottle to-day. At all druggists. Price $1.50 for 16-oz. bottle.

"Many dishes—Many diseases"

All of us have eaten foods that disagree with us.

It stands to sense and reason that the constant upsetting of one's stomach by foods too rich for digestion is bound to affect the whole system.

Neal's Good White Bread is the one food that need not be feared for its "after effects." Wholesome and nutritious, it imparts the necessary nourishment to the body, is easily digested, and quite pleasing to the palate.

Neal's Bread is made so delicious, of such good materials, it has converted many people to a more plentiful bread diet.

FINANCIAL, MARKET AND COMMERCIAL SECTION

NEW YORK MARKET WITHOUT FEATURE

Lacks Significance, But Speculative Issues Lead.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Apart from the increased prominence of minor speculative issues, some of which extended their gains, there was little of note or significance in today's professional stock market session.

Opinion among traders seemed to be more confused, probably as a result of latest phases upon labor and industrial conditions and the detached attitude of the public.

Money rates were firm from the outset, but the six per cent rate was lowered to five per cent later, when it became evident that tomorrow's heavy payments to meet maturities on certificates of indebtedness and Liberty bond interest would be accomplished without strain.

A large proportion of the day's business again embraced the cheaper domestic oils, their activity being accompanied by further upward revision of prices for various products. Popular issues of that group were chiefly represented by Mexican Petroleum, although a three-point rise in that stock wes reduced to 1⅜ points at the heavy close.

Steels and equipments, also motors and their accessories, suffered losses of one to three points and rails led the general decline of the last hour with sugars, chemicals and rubbers. Sales amounted to 635,000 shares.

A sharp recovery in sterling exchange, attributed to purchases of demand bills to meet mid-October cotton and grain payments, was the feature of the foreign exchange market. Nearly all other European remittances were appreciably firmer, even the German rate showing some support. Far Eastern exchanges, notably the Chinese and Japanese quotations, also were better.

Liberty bonds and Victory notes were stronger by fractions to fully fifty points, neither series, however, making new high records. The general bond list was steady. Total sales (par value) aggregated $16,775,000.

ALL GRAINS SCORE CHICAGO ADVANCES

Storage Reduction Guess Starts Wheat Lead Upward.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Belief that the Government report tomorrow on stocks of wheat in all positions would prove bullish had much to do with a material advance today in wheat prices. The market closed strong, 2½@3¼c net higher with December $1.15½@1.15¾ and May $1.19¾@1.120. Corn gained ½@⅝c to 1c, and oats finished unchanged to ⅛c up. In provisions the outcome varied from 5c decline to a like advance.

Estimates as to the amount of wheat which the Government report would show to be on hand ranged from 500,000,000 bushels to 550,000,000 bushels, whereas the total last year was 608,000,000 bushels and two years ago was 747,000,000 bushels. Word that exporters had taken 500,000 bushels of durum and a cargo of hard winter tended further to strengthen the market and so, too, did dry wheat complaints from parts of Nebraska and Kansas. On the other hand, announcement of a railroad embargo against Galveston was largely offset by news of an active milling demand for wheat in the southwest.

Under such circumstances, bulls had a decided advantage during the last half of the session. Moderate declines earlier were ascribed chiefly to contentions that the present warehouse supply of all grain was excessive.

Corn developed firmness with wheat and as a result of gossip that throughout large areas the burning of corn as fuel this winter had become a practical certainty.

Oats sympathized with corn.

Higher quotations on hogs helped to steady provisions, except that smaller packers' selling forced October lard and ribs to a new low level for the season.

WHEAT DEMAND GOOD AT WINNIPEG SALES

No. 1 Northern Closes Higher in Friday's Brisk Market.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 14.—There was a good demand for all cash wheat grades on the local market today, but the offerings, despite heavy receipts and a large number of cars in sight, were not heavy. The premiums were all higher today, No. 1 northern being ¾c over the open. Coarse grains went through the clearing houses in fluctuating quantities. Ther was less pressure of hedging sales and the market remained strong right up to the close. Wheat closed 2¾@3c higher. Coarse grains were stronger today with oats closing ¼@½c higher; barley, unchanged to 1½c lower; rye, 2¾@3⅜c higher, and flax, unchanged to 5c higher.

Reported by Jones, Easton, McCallum Company, Limited.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—In many respects today's session was a duplicate of yesterday's. With oil stocks as the prominent feature the buying of these shares continued on a fairly liberal scale. A further advance in the price of Pennsylvania crude was the stimulating influence, but by midday it became apparent that the public demand had been satisfied and thereafter a little profit-taking developed. This gradually increased until the selling became as pronounced as the buying had been heretofore. In other departments weakness developed. U. S. Rubber was one of the early issues to give way. Later selling of steel was on a fairly large scale.

The only disturbing news of the day was the publication of a report that the railroad employees had fixed a date for a strike. This was not verified and at all events was without influence. The market at present is in a trading position. There is no reason for any important decline.

Rail executives at meeting in Chicago expected to offer plan to cut freight rates in proportion to future wage reduction.

Rail workers served an ultimatum at their employers today by deciding to strike Oct. 30th unless negotiations on wages and working conditions were reopened.

MARKET CONTINUES FIRMER FOR EGGS

High Prices May Attract Further U. S. Importations.

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—The egg market continues very firm. Ontario shippers are asking 47@48c f.o.b. for straight receipts, one dealer asking 50c f.o.b. cases returned. It is to be expected that with the advanced prices at which Canadian storage eggs are selling, further importations of States eggs will be made.

British Columbia, local fresh laid, 60c country points; 62c offered for specials. Specials, jobbing, 68c; extras, 65c; pullet eggs, 55c; seconds, 48c; Prairie Province firsts, 45c; seconds, 43c.

BUTTER AND EGGS

MONTREAL, Oct. 14.—The market for butter is stronger.
Butter—Choicest creamery, 40@41c.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Butter—Unsettled; creamery extras, 45c.
Eggs—Unchanged; receipts, 3,937 cases.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Butter firm; receipts 9,798 tubs. Creamery, higher than extras, 48@48½c; creamery, extras (92 score), 47½c; creamery, firsts (88 to 91 score), 38@46½c; state, dairy, tubs, finest, 45@46c; packing stock, current make, No. 2, 28c.

EGGS.

Eggs—Selected, 47c.

CHEESE.

MONTREAL, Oct. 14.—The market for cheese is stronger.
Cheese—Finest easterns, 15½@16c.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Cheese irregular; receipts 1,208 boxes. State, whole milk, flats, fresh specials, 22½@23c; do., average run, 21½@22c; state, whole milk, twins, specials, 22@22½c; do., average run, 21½c.

EVENING GRAIN LETTER.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Wheat—There is a noticeable dimunition of receipts of wheat at all western terminals, and at the same time a larger movement outward. Those who are friendly were encouraged by this condition and further helped by rather general advices that offerings from first hands were at a minimum. There is evidence of a little export business in hard winter wheat and the seaboard reports two cargoes to Italy. The business in Manitobas is estimaed at around 1,000,000 bushels. The long-expected embargo against Galveston has been issued, but it is not believed that there will be any large amount reconsigned to other markets for the simple reason that new offerings from the country are negligible. Receipts at Winnipeg are coming up to expectations and congestion at Montreal is again noted, but the effect of these items has been overcome by firmness in Winnipeg prices. The trade in general is disposed to await the estimate of reserves. We feel that the course of the market will depend upon this estimate. It is expected to be received some time tomorrow, but nothing definite on the subject is obtainable.

Coarse Grains—A small amount of corn has been sold to exporters said to be at concessions in order to make room for the movement from the country. These markets take their color from the action of wheat, both of them being devoid of general interest.

TRADING HEAVY ON MONTREAL MARKET

Breweries Leads in Advance Throughout Entire List.

MONTREAL, Oct. 14.—Two or three leading stocks led a general advance today through the list on the Montreal Stock Exchange, and the trading was heavier than for several months past. The most spectacular advance was made by Detroit United Railway, which gained 5¾ points to 75, colsing at the top. The strong position and good earnings of this public utility are being used as bull arguments.

National Breweries led the market with sales of 4,210 shares, a record number for a considerable time past. The issue showed a net gain of 1½ points at 55¼. Dominion Glass, whose wares are naturally affected by Breweries' prospects, also showed strength, being up 1¼ points at 63¼.

In the rest of the market trading was light and price changes were not important. Spanish River preferred was the most active and closed at 1¼ higher at 67⅛; Wayagamck advanced a point to 44; Laurentide gained ¾ and the rest were fractionally down, with Price Brothers two points lower at 28.

The bond business was more active. City of Montreal bonds, due May, 1925, declined two points to 104, and a .25 decline was noted in Victory bonds.

Total sales — Listed stocks, 9,502 shares; bonds and war loans, $252,700.

RAIL STRIKE FEAR UNSETTLES MARKET

Toronto Trading Reacts After Making Firm Start.

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—A firm start in the stock market today was not maintained throughout the day because the fear of a railroad strike in the United States operated to depress Wall Street and gave a tone of reaction to the Canadian exchanges in the afternoon. The threat of the railway brotherhood to call a strike on Oct. 30 may not be carried out, but for the time it was apparently a market influence. Locally there seemed a desire to see the railway question disposed of, because of its unsettling influence, but the agreement reached by the Canadian lines this week seems to have eliminated all danger of friction here for some time to come.

Glass had the position of dominance and sold up 1½ points to 63. National Breweries was a fraction higher at 55½. Glass appears to have been the subject of a widely-circulated tip this week from a mysterious Montreal source.

The balance of the industrial list was somewhat irregular. Canada Cement was a fraction higher, while Car and Foundry preferred, Bread and the Steel of Canada issues were lower on small trading. Among the utilities, Canadian Pacific and Quebec Railway were weaker and Toronto Railway gained a fraction. The weakness in C. P. R. appeared to be sympathic with the depression in rails at New York.

There was continued strength in Victory bonds, especially in the short-term issues. The 1922's have gone up 30c in two days and are now nearing the level om midsummer. Heavy trading in the 1933's was accompanied by a small advance.

POTATOES FEATURE WEEK-END MARKET

Produce Plentiful, But Prices Remain Firm.

There was an exceptionally large attendance at the local market Saturday, due mostly to the fine weather that has prevailed for the last three days.

Apples were plentiful. The price, however, remained firm.

Potatoes were plentiful and were selling from $2 to $2.25 a bag. Large quantities, however, are being shipped into the city from the northwest and have been selling as low as $1.75 a bag.

There was a good showing of poultry, but no change took place in the price. Chickens were quoted at 25c a pound, while poultry dressed was selling at 28c a pound.

OVER 700 BAPTISTS COME TO CONVENTION

Largest Church Gathering in St. Thomas in Many Years.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 14.—The Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec which opened this afternoon, will tax the church premises to accommodate the delegates and their friends. Instead of only 500 delegates coming from all parts of both provinces, it is now expected that over 700 visitors will be in attendance. St. Thomas has not seen so large and representative a religious body for years. It is now 27 years ago since a Baptist convention was held here, but the numerical and financial strength of the church has grown to a substantial proportion during the last quarter of a century.

The managers of Knox Presbyterian Church have invited several departments of the convention to transact their business in the Sunday school auditorium and class rooms until the session closes. Several pulpits of the city churches will be filled on Sunday by Baptist ministers.

ONLY 3 NAMES FOR I. L. P. NOMINATION

Commissioner Sanderson and Ald. Stokes Retire.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 14.—With the retiremenut of Commissioner W. E. Sanderson and Ald. W. Stokes from the list of candidate nominated to head the I. L. P.-U. F. O. party at the federal elections, the names to be voted upon by the labormen today and tomorrow have been reduced to three, John Lane, A. E. Hookway and Albert Roberts.

The voting is now being proceeded with at the I. L. P. Hall and will be continued until Saturday evening. The announcement will follow the results of the count at the nomination convention, Saturday night, at the city building. The remaining candidates have subscribed to the tenets and principles of the I. L. P. and they have the assurance of Commissioner Sanderson and Ald. Stokes that whoever may be chosen as the nominee of the united party, he will have their support and individual efforts to secure his election.

Another Summer Resort.

The old site of the village of Davenport in South Malahide, consisting of twelve acres, has been sold by F. Pineo to a syndicate consisting of Mr. Hill, contractor, London; Mr. Banghart, Sparta, and Dr. Banghart, Detroit, who will subdivide the parcel into summer resort lots, erect cottages, a casino and auto facilities.

John Wallace Promoted.

John Wallace, manager of the east end branch of the Dominion Bank, has been promoted to Wingham. Mr. Wallace, who was appointed first manager of the branch a few years ago, has secured a large volume of business in that end of the city and will be wished continued success by many friends and his former customers in the vicinity.

Rev. Mr. Ashton Has Not Resigned.

A denial is given by the officials of Grace Methodist Church to the statement appearing in a London morning paper that Rev. W. J. Ashton, the pastor, had resigned. Mr. Ashton is still in Gravenhurst Sanatorium and is on the way to recovery. Rev. P. N. Caven was appointed some weeks ago by the board to be assistant pastor during the indisposition of Mr. Ashton.

Hydro-Electric Extension.

Following the rural installation of electric power in a few weeks, the service will be extended to the County House of Industry. A special meeting of that committee was held this morning with Warden Hugh C. McKillop and the members in attendance. The committee applied for the extension of hydro-electric power a year ago and the distribution scheme agreed to then by the committee and farmers, on the line, has become a practical possibility. Other business of importance was discussed.

Pickpockets Removed.

George Clarke and William Conway, convicted yesterday and sentenced to three years each, were removed to the penitentiary by County Officers Wardell and Ney. Clarke, who carried an alias of Frank Wood, gave his age as 38, and Conway, 60 years. They would appear to have followed the profession of pocket picking the best part of their lives. Clarke asked that officials advise his relatives at Williamsville, N. Y., of his conviction. Their trial cost the county over $1,000.

Death of G. Hirst.

George Hirst, a former engineer on the M. C. R., died on Tuesday at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Richard Doyle, Bonne-Terre, Missouri. Two sons and a daughter survive, W. J. Hirst, Toledo; Harry W. Hirst, Toledo, and Mrs. Richard Doyle. Mr. Hirst resided on Southwick street for some years and was a member of Holy Angels Church. The body will be brought to St. Thomas for interment.

RAIL WALKOUT MAY BE SEQUEL TO U. S. AWARD

UNION LEADERS SILENT

Officials Declare Freight Rate Reduction Would Mean Bankruptcy.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14. — Representatives of United States railroads today, after announcing that they cannot reduce freight rates at present without going into bankruptcy, and that they would immediately seek a further reduction in employees' wages from the United States Railroad Labor Board, went into secret conference with union leaders in an effort to reach an amicable settlement of wage difficulties, which at times have threatened to tie up the transportation system of the country.

At the conference union leaders asked reconsideration of their request of last July that a 12½ per cent wage reduction granted by the labor board be not put into effect immediately: that no further wage reductions be sought at present, and that no change be made in the overtime pay rate This statement was refused, and the rail heads presented their statement announcing the proposal to seek new reductions and not to reduce rates until further reductions were granted.

The executives announced, however, that the proposal to pass future wage reductions on to the public by applying to the interstate commerce commission for a reduction in freight and passenger rates had been accepted, and that all future wage reductions would be met by a corresponding rate reduction.

The conference was begun at the suggestion of the union leaders, their invitation for a meeting being accepted by the rail heads, following the announcement concerning freight rates.

As the meeting started, the committee appointed by the Association of Railway Executives declared that they believed it would settle most of the immediate difficulties between the carriers and their employees.

The union leaders were backward about discussing the meeting, although some indicated that its purpose might be almost nullified by the announcement that a further wage reduction would be sought.

W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad trainmen, said that "since the union men already had authorized their leaders to call a strike rather than accept the recent 12½ per cent, I do not see how the roads can have the nerve to suggest another cut."

The executive, it was announced, wished the wages of train service men returned to the same basis as previous to the increase granted by the labor board decision of July, 1920. This will necessitate a 10 per cent reduction, it was said.

The union leaders left the conference with the railroad executives after being closeted with them for two hours, but refused to discuss the proceedings. It was understood that the rail heads might issue a statement later.

MINERS DRAFT PROGRAM AT FRANKLIN MEETING

PITTSBURG, Kansas, Oct. 14.—With two sets of union officials functioning in the Kansas coal fields as a result of an order by John L. Lewis, president of the International Union, suspending members of the Alexander M. Howat administration and creating a provisional organization to take charge of affairs, interest in the situation today centered about a mass meeting of miners at Franklin, at which it was understood a permanent program would be determined.

The suspended officials so far have declined to permit George Peck, local member of the international board, and Thomas Harvey, designated by President Lewis as acting president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the district, to take charge.

NORTH BRUCE LIBERALS TO CONVENE AT TARA

PAISLEY, Oct. 14.—Liberals of North Bruce will meet at Tara on Tuesday, Oct. 18, for purpose of bringing out a candidate to contest the riding. Alex. P. McWhinny, M.P.P., and Alex. McCannel of Saugeen, are amongst the names mentioned.

HARVEST HOME SERVICE.

STRATHROY, Oct. 14.—The Harvest Home anniversary services will be held in the Christian Church, Poplar Hill, Sunday, Oct. 16. The music will be conducted by Mr. Hudson of London. On Mnday evening a supper will be served and a splendid program will be provided.

NOMINATE MANLEY CHEW.

ORILLIA, Ont., Oct. 14.—A joint Liberal-Labor-Soldier convention at Coldwater today nominated Manley Chew of Midland, as an Independent candidate in the federal riding of East Simcoe.

Border Police Busy Checking Flood of Counterfeit Money

Detroit Officials Unearth Bootlegging Ring Who Specialize in Paying For Goods With Bogus Bills.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 14.—A counterfeit money crisis the like of which the treasury department has never faced, has been keeping Detroit operatives of the United States secret service busy with more than a score of successfully prosecuted cases since the first of the year.

Counterfeiters and bootleggers are working hand in hand in spreading an endless flow of counterfeit banknotes, reaching into the millions in valuation. Ninety per cent of the arrests made for counterfeiting by secret service agents of Detroit blaze a trail to the headquarters of a bootlegging ring, declared Joseph A. Palma, chief of the Detroit police office, tonight.

Co-operating with Canadian border police, Detroit agents recently unearthed an international bootlegging ring that specialized in the negotiation of counterfeit currency in payment of purchases. Testimony during the trial of one of the leaders of the gang was to the effect that $18,000 has been passed in spurious ten dollar bills in one transaction alone.

Due to the fact that most of the transactions for contraband liquor are made under cover of darkness, the fear of discovery of bogus tender is much lessened. It is the aftermath of these double crossings that often leads one of the parties involved to "squeal" on the other.

Most of the counterfeit currency intercepted by Detroit operatives are raised bills, although ttwo recent raids disclosed complete photographic plants and dies for the manufacture of new money.

In raising notes, the counterfeiter usually chooses a bill of a single unit in denomination and merely adds a cipher or two, thus making a $10 out of a $1, or a $50 certificate from $5 bill. This is considered a very clumsy method, easy of detection.

"REVOLUTION" FOUND POLICE PREPARED

Unemployed Demonstration in London Promptly Handled.

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 14.—Information obtained by police emissaries several weeks ago that noon yesterday had been fixed for the beginning of a "revolution" under the Communist banner accounted for the unprecedented preparations for dealing with any emergency by Scotland Yard, it was learned today.

After what the Daily Herald, the Labor organ, terms "the battle of Picadilly" yesterday, when hundreds of mounted and foot police charged into the crowds of unemployed, demonstrators and bruised a few heads, all was quiet today. There were only a few idlers in Trafalgar Square, which yesterday was rimmed by hundreds of police. Scotland Yard authorities expressed the belief that there is little danger of an early recurrence of yesterday's scenes.

Inquiry today elicited the fact that yesterday's police preparations included the commandeering of the Metropolitan Underground Railway and the omnibus lines, if found necessary, which would have enabled the concentration of 15,000 police at any trouble center within half an hour.

Last Wednesday, on the eve of the monster demonstration, the unemployed of one of the London suburbs were addressed by a leader who told them: "You must not break your lines to get drinks; take a bottle with you."

When asked by one of his hearers what should be done with the bottles, the leader winked and said: "I don't care how you get rid of the bottles." He then added: "You probably will have a long walk and will be on your feet a long time; so take with you a good stout stick—it may be useful."

After the clash with the police yesterday in Shaftesbury avenue, a number of pieces of iron bars with sharpened ends, made into a form of pocket weapon, many bits of lead and other missiles were found on the pavement and inside of shops where windows were smashed.

The police quietly kept an "ear in" at all of the meetings held by the unemployed. Throughout the metropolitan area the listeners frequently dressed carelessly in the guise of unemployed.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT made a run to 173½ Wortley road at 10:54 Thursday night. The alarm proved to be false.

GALT'S POPULATION HAS GROWN DURING YEAR

GALT, Oct. 14.—While other municipalities have been going back in population Galt has been continuing its forward march. The census returns issued on Aug. 17 gave Galt's population of 13,210, an increase over the previous year's population of 108, but today Assessor Jesse Welland announced that his rolls were complete and that the city's population was 13,332, an increase over last year of 240, and of 132 since the census figures were announced.

The city's total assessment is now $12,874,385, an increase of $526,985. The taxable real property amounts to $8,810,150, while the total taxable assessment is $10,822,020. Every ward in the city showed an increase in population, and ward five is experiencing the most building.

The French exhibition train will be here on Saturday and Mayor Charlton and the reception committee of the city council have planned to welcome those in charge of the exhibits.

SPEAKS HIGHLY OF BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she is always pleased to speak highly of them to other mothers. She knows the good they have done her children and realizes that her experience should be of benefit to others. Concerning the Tablets, Mrs. Fred Murphy, Charlottetown, P. E. I., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for the past eight months for my baby. I cannot speak too highly of them, for they have been of great assistance to me in my first experience of motherhood." Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative, which are absolutely harmless and may be given to even the newborn babe with perfect safety. They are sold by medicine dealers or direct at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.
