WHAT THEY THINK OF GAS FOR

Mgr. Chatham Gas Co.: We the undersigned residents of Joseph street, have pleasure in saying that after a year's use of gas for cooking purposes, we find it to be the most economical, convenient and with it there are ashes, soot, carrying of fuel, kindling fires, etc.; it is ready in an instant, day or night, and we are perfectly satisfied that gas is a much cheaper fuel than coal or wood. We can advise any one to use gas for fuel.

Brussels, May 30.-It is said here that the Boer delegates in Europe now admit that peace in South Africa has been secured and that the settlement between the Boers and Great Britain will be signed in the names of the former citizens of the two South African Republics, who are now in Europe, including Mr. Kruger, thus preyenting the irreconcilables from continuing a guerilla warfare on the pretext that they are obeying the orders of the Boer delegates in Europe.

TRIUMPH OF BRITISH ARMS

And British Prestige Causes Much Irritation.

Has Secured a Predominance in Asia as Well as Africa Through Curzon

London, May 30 .- The Vlenna correspondent of the Times says that the extreme clericals are exasperated over the trumph of the British arms and their increased prestige through the turn of African events. The Vaterland declares the causes of the inaction among Britain's enemies during the war were the desire for the peace of the world and the hope that Britain would be permanently weakened with neither the means nor the desire for fresh enterprise.

The Vaterland is now dismayed and finds that Britain has been gaining influence in Arabia, where, it says, recent disturbances are the consequence of persistent British intrigue. The Vaterland quotes a Munich paper's opinion that Britain has segment of the consequence of cured the predominance in Asia as well as in Africa, through the capa-

The 24th Regiment held another o their popular march-outs last even-ing and as usual a large number of internal reason against regarding the domestic trade of the empire more favorably than the relations of the Empire should be put on a family spectators were present on King street to witness the parade. The bugle band made their first appear ance and made an excellent showing. They were in charge of Bugle Major Plumeridge and played at different intervals during the march. The band turned out eighteen strong and Bugle Major Plumeridge has great reason to feel proud over the first efforts of his charges. One regionally forts of his charges. One noticeable improvement with the bugle band is that music is given for the soldiers to march to during the entire route. It also proves a very great help to the brass band who consequently do not have to play as much as hereto-fore. The regiment itself made a very good showing but was considerably handicaped, as some of its members did not turn out. The C. C. I. cadets, who now make a practice of marching out with the regiment, were also in evidence last evening and did remarkably well. Their marching is fully as good as that of the regiment. After the return to the drill hall Col. Rankin complimented the men on their appearance but said he regretted the small attendance in "A" Com-

PAUNCEFOTE'S SUCCESSOR

London May 30. - Hon. Michael Mrs. Symington, an old member, lately residing in Detroit, was warmly greeted by her many friends. The temperance doxology was sung and the meeting adjourned. London May 30. — Hon. Michael Henry Herbert, who is nominally secretary to the British embassy at Paris, will probably be the next British ambassador to the United States in succession to the late Lord Pauncefote. Mr. Herbert's appointment to this post will probably not be announced until the remains of Lord Pauncefote arrived in England. The only question in regard to Mr. Herbert's selection for the Washington post is the approval of King Edward.

This morning the men engaged unloading the cargo of lumber from the schooner Ida Olson, at the dock of John Piggott & Sons' lumber yard, quit in a body, and the men engaged unloading the schooner Sprague, coal laden for the Gas Co., threatened Consequent Increased to quit, and only agreed to continue till noon. hour instead of 20 cents. No attempt was made to unload the schooner White Oak, which is lying at the Blonde Co.'s dock with lumber. The men asked for 25 cents an hour and refused to go to work for 20 cents. The navies have little to say and are very reticent. They apparently have no organization, but have just agreed among themselves not to work. As laborers are very scarce just now there is some prospect that the boats will be tied up here for some time.

A Planet representative chatted lumber boat. The men were just with some of the men this morning. They are mostly colored. They say that they have joined together under the name of Spencer's League, and intend to hold out for the 25 cents an hour. They have elected no officers for several reasons, chief among which is that the men who hire dock laborers in Chatham would refuse to give the officers of the league work. So Spencer's League has no officers.

The Blonde Co. say that unless the longshoremen call off the strike they will take their own men out of the yard and unload the boat.

ORDER OF THE GARTER.

London, May 30.—King Edward invested the Duke of Marlborough and the Duke of Bedford with the insignia of the Order of the Garter at Buckingham Palace this afternoon. The ceremony was more imposing than any similar events which had occurred for years past, it being the King's intention to revive all the old time pomp which formerly distinguished the ceremonies connected with this order. A notable company of Knights of the Garter, including the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Connaught, the Marquis of Salisbury, the Marquis of Londonderry and the Duke of Norfolk, attended the garter investitute.

To this question there were 8,000 answers. Among the prize winners is Miss Amy Hillman, of New York City, a Sunshine member. The following is a convent here letter. lowing is a copy of her letter: Mr. Edward Bok:

Dear Sir,-The department which always gives me the greatest satis-faction, and especially has this month, is the Sunshine Department. It is so thoroughly practical and theoretical, and is therefore, in my opinion, more useful than a volume of mere advice People do not need to know about virtue, but to practice what they already know. It has always been true that he who does nothing for others does nothing for himself. Sunshine shed on people's hearts is always reflected back in our own, for if we make others happy for the sake of Him who says: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these, ye have done it unto me." We shall inevitably be made the happier for it ourselves.

Yours respectfully, Miss Amy Hillman. Sunshine Department came well up in the list of departments that are favorites with the vast army of Ladies' Home Journal readers.

* REPORT FROM ST. VINCENT.

London, May 29.-Mr. Chamberlain, the Colonial Secretary has received following cablegram from Sir Robert Llewelyn, Governor of Windward Islands, in the West Indies-

"There has been no serious volcanic outbreaks on the Island of St. Vincent since May 18. I hope the worst is over, but the people of the island are still nervous. All arrangements for the comfort of the injured, the relief of the destitute and resettling of the people of St. Vincent are progressing satisfactorily."

The readers of this paper will be bleased to learn that there is at least pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials

International Bible Lesson for To-Morrow-Paul at Lystra-Acts xiv.

Golden Text-"Thou therefore er dure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ."

When Wellington commanded in India some discouraged missionaries asked his advice. He said: "Gentlemen, what are your marching orders." They replied: "Go into all the world They replied: "Go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." "Then," said he, "all you have to do is to obey orders." Paul and and sold an Barnabus are specimens of good soldiers; driven from city to city they ceased not to preach and teach Jesus Christ. How did this poor heathen, a born cripple, come to have faith? By hearing God's truth preached by Paul, he credited it and believe Jesus could make him whole. Paul perceiving this shouted to him to stand upon his leet and, God's power accompanying the word, he leaped and walked. The people were astounded and with a priest of Jupiter would ascrifice oxen to them as gods. Mark their fickleness—so soon making a sacrifice of the very ones they worshipped just before, stirred up by the old enemies from Antioch and Iconium. Stone and dragged out of the city and left for dead, the same power that healed the cripple restored Paul, who, with Barnabus, next day, attacked with the

AFTER LONG SEARCH

New York, May 29 .- A special to the Herald from Yonkers, N. Y., says: Walter Bolger, the 18-year-old son of Paul S. Bolger, who disappeared from his splendid home Nov. 19 last, has been found by his father after one of the most remarkable searches in history. The young man was located on the training ship Franklin, Norfolk,

The disappearance of the young man has been one of deepest mystery. Surrounded by every luxury and comfort, plessed with a proud and successful father, a confiding mother and sever bright younger sisters and brothers, Walter, a boy of refined tastes and education, left home and nothing more was heard from him than though the earth had swallowed him.

Walter left home ostensibly to visit dentist to have his teeth atended The happy mother, a handsome woan, in the prime of life, says:

"Happy?" asked the mother. "Happy, indeed. I've found my boy! "Such an experience since his de parture! It seems like a dream, but it's all over now, and to-night he is with his father in Washing on.

"Six months ago Walter left us, but it seems like six years. A father with the hair golden then. To-day h ehas silvery locks and his features are furrowed.

"Every conceivable place of informa tion has heard from us, every police station in the United States, every public man, the heads of all nationa departments, every American consul abroad, the last being the unfortunate United States minister in Martinique, Thomas T. Prentis, who wrote us a splendid letter of encouragement only a few days before his death.

"Every city of importance on the face of the earth has heard from us, Europe, Asia, Africa, North and South America and Australia. Among army and navy officers from all countries, Gen. Kitchener and the Boer representatives, Gen. Chaffee and the govern-ment authorities in Singapore, and and received at his office, corner of Park avenue and Fifty-third street, Manhattan, Every clue was followed with the greatest care and all the time e were confronted with the stories of imposters and clairvoyants from all parts of the world, and people seeking to earn the $500 reward offered, with

He enquired of min con-cerning enlistments, and was told that every mark on the body of anyone who enlisted was recorded at Washington. James B. Ludlow, a neighbor of ours, and Mr. Bolger went to Washington last week and there he got the first clew to Walter. "Assistant Secretary of the Navy Sanger aided him materially. Mr. Bolger set to work going over the signa-tures of those who had enlisted since last November, and after a long siege he picked out Walter's signature. It was an assumed name. THE KAISER TALKS, Berlin, May 29.—Emperor William made a speech after the sham fights conducted May 24 by German forces, at Gravelotte, Alsace-Lorraine, which the German defences in certain battles of the Franco-German war were repeated. His Majesty is reported to have said in this speech that in the next European war 4,000 men with machine guns would be able, in similar positions, to stand off 80,000 men, and that at Mount Gravlotte, 4,000 men so armed would have put 20,000 men out of action.

LUCKY BETTER

John Watt wears a very happy smile these days, and it is all over the result of the election. John is not known as a betting man but he was so sure that Pardo was going to win that, when a friend came along and offered a very suitable bet for John, he could not refuse, and as a result he won out. The bet was a very extra-ordinary one, the winner being entitled to a "good time" trip to Detroit, with all expenses paid by the loser. John says he is surely going to take advantage of that bet and is now de-bating as to whether he will hire a pleasure boat. He will probably be gone about two months.

WIFE'S DUPLICITY

Alex. Cunningham has followed the old time custom of telling his troubles to a policeman. Alex's brother George boarded at the former's domocile. As time went on Mrs. Alex. Cunningham showed a marked preference for the society of her husband's brother, especially at night Alex. objected, but his objections were not taken seriously by either the wife or the brother. Finally the two began to get tired of objecting Alex. and they left and went to Detroit, where Alex says they were living as man and wife. The deserted husband, when he feels lonely, unfolds his tale of trouble to the Chief of Police. Among other things the wifeless benedict says that his wife told him she liked George better than she did her own legal partner. Alex. de-clared his intention of going to Detroit to-day and divorcing his wife from his brother. Whether Alex. went. or not the police did not know.

BIG BONFIRE

The barn of Jno. Piggott, rented y Geo. B. Douglas, King street west, was destroyed by fire about 12 o'clock to-day. Little Grant, son of Ald. Mc-Keough, and little Miss Douglas, were playing with matches and firecrackers in the barn when Grant thought a bon-fire on the barn floor would be so much fun. He gathered some straw together and lit it

Miss Helen Rispin happened to be on the lawn of her home next door, when she noticed smoke issuing from one of the barn windows. She immediately telephoned for the fire department. Jack Douglas, aged eight, a son of Geo. Douglas, seeing the barn on fire, thought of the horse. He manfully got it out first and then pulled the buggy and harness The firemen made a good run and worked hard at the fire. The was small.

MAY FESTIVAL

The kindergarten room at the Cen tral school presented a very pretty appearance yesterday afternoon, the event being a May Festival given by the scholars o' the room to their parents and friends. A very large number of the parents were present to witness the achievements of their up to the dressing-table and opening a little tots and were delighted with little drawer. "Is this yours?" the entertainment which was pro-vided. During the afternoon many words of praise were given to Miss Green, the directress, and her as-sistant for the wonderful progress the children have made.

The room itself was very beautifully decorated in green, the decorations being made by the children themselves. The afternoon was spent in games, singing and drills.

KIPLING TO COLONIALS.

London, May 30 .- Rudyard Kipling has written a poem of three stanzas addressed to the colonial representatives gathered in London for the coronation. The opening couplet of the last verse asks;-

Twixt my house and thy house what word can there be
Of friendship, or lordship, or service, or fee!

Private Marriages of Royal Widows.

W RITING of the alleged morganatic marriage of the late Empress Frederick, the Paris correspondent of London "Truth" says:

"A Berlin paper stated some days ago that the Empress Frederick was at the time of her death the wife of Count Seckendorf, her house marshal. The other journals call on the Government to disprove 'the monstrous assertion.' Why should it be a monstrous assertion? The Count was an old and assertion? The Count was an old and faithful friend of the Empress. He accompanied her in her artistic tours. Frederick esteemed him highly. It is now some years since her youngest daughter married. Why should she not marry a gentleman so distin-guished as the Count? The truth is that the private marriages of royal and imperial widows are not the exception, but the rule, and have been so for centuries. Some august widows were satisfied to look much lower for their second husbands than the Empress Frederick is said to have done. In France and Italy marriage with a person of inferior rank was thought sign of greater weakness than a 'friendship.' The worship of a first husband or wife does not necessarily exclude affection for a second. I had a relative who presented colored glass windows that cost £1,000 apiece to churches in memory of his first wife when he was walking about London with his second wife. There was never widow more devoted to the memory of her first husband than the late Duchesse d'Orleans, Nevertheless, she was believed to have married her secretary. 'A conscience marriage' is easy in Catholic countries save in France. Nobody except the priest who officiates need know about it. 'A conscience marriage' might be celebrated very quietly in England by publication of banns with a slight change of names, changing, say, Guelph to Wolf, or Bonaparte to Goodshare. There is also the registrar's office, where things might pass with utter privacy. Scotland is the country of all others where into. No solemnization is required, and the status that arises from a mere exchange of vows is stable."

CONTRASTING the England of today with the England of forty years ago, E. L. Godkin says in the New York "Evening Post: poor man in England who had ever left his home then was somewhat of a prodigy; now nearly half of his substance goes in excursion fares. A dissenting minister used to be an object of ab-horrence and contempt; now he is quoted in Parliament by politicians. A lord used to be an object of dread and reverence; now he is hardly better than a foreign count. In the England that I remember, third-class passengers on the then newly-built railroads stood in boxes like cattle; now they sit on cushioned seats, the third-class cars being so like the first-class that the gentry have largely taken to using them. The lovellest parts of the country at this summer season are thronged with excursionists, and it is fair to say that there are no longer secluded spots in England. The famous seat of the poets, Cumberland and Westm land, is so overrun with tourists that the road through the mountains seems to be leading to a fair; the small steamers on the lakes are thronged to their utmost capacity. Unhappy is the place which has some touch of 'Americanism' in its history. The railroads dump on it thousands of our countrymen, who poke their noses everywhere cut chips off every wooden memorial and apply the hammer to every stone one, and almost compel the inhabitants to move out. The 'American' in England used too often to be regarded as a low-class foreigner; to-day he is a welcome guest who has a right to have his curiosity gratified, and whose weaknesses and desires are referred to n almost every paper read before learned society, so that now hardly anybody achieves fame so readily as an 'American' traveler. The old cabined, cribbed, confined English hotel, con-sisting of a private house converted into an inn, and kept by an ex-butler or housekeeper, has almost disap-peared. New hotels, on the American plan ' are springing up everywhere, and the English railroads are copying them at their stations, to their great advantage. In fact, it would be difficult to imagine a greater transformation than the England of my youth has unde

Temptation.

In our carelessness we may often tempt other people without knowing it, Sir Edward Malet writes in "Shifting Scenes" that he had gone to a hotel, at Milan, and eager to see the sights, sal-lied forth, leaving his portmanteau yawning, his dressing-case ajar, and money on the table.

I thought of nothing save that I was once more in Italy. Still, I locked my door, and took the key with me. When

"Ah, mio signore," cried she, going

In the drawer lay ten or a dozen gold pieces.
"Yes," I said, "they are mine."

"Ah, signore, how could you do it? How could you leave this money about? It was all lying on the table."
"Why, I locked my door. I knew it was safe."

"No," she cried, "it was not safe! was cruel to put such temptation in my way!" She sank upon a chair and burst into tears. "Think of me, signore. I am very poor. I have six children to keep and a husband who can do no work. The money would make me rich, and you leave it on the table, the said clears all leave to dayle my me rich, and you leave it on the table, the gold pieces all loose to dazzle my eyes and to put the devil into my heart! Through your thoughtlessness I might go to jail, my children might starve, my husband die. Ah, signore mio, never do it again! Think of the poor. Be merciful to us. Do not put temptation in our wwy."

It does not seem to have occurred to Sir Edward Malet that possibly the old housemaid was trying to work him for a gift of the gold pieces.

"RESIST NOT EVIL"

REV. DR. TALMAGE ON THE PARADOX OF THE GOSPEL

GIVES A NEW INTERPRETATION.

Whosever Shall Compel Thee to Go a Mile, Go With Him Twain," Located as a Duty of Christain Fellowship-Mesaic Law of Cold Justice Contrasted With the New Order of Things.

Chicago, May 25 .- In this sermon the Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage presents in a picturesque and forcible way the duty of Christian fellowship. The text is Matthew v, 41, "Whosoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain."

A keen, shrewd lawyer was one day listening to John Wesley preaching. The founder of Methodism had three different headings for his sermon : First, "Get all you can without hurting your soul, your body or your neighbors." "That is sensible," thought the lawyer; "unless a man is continually reaching out for something he will never have anything. Industry is the foundation of all success." Second heading, "Save all you can, cutting off any needless expense." "Right again," muttered the listener. "It is not so much the listener. what a man earns that makes him wealthy as what he saves." Third heading, "Give all you can."
"There," exclaimed the hard headed lawyer, "the minister has foolishly gone and spoiled everything he said. He ought to have had for his third heading, 'Give as little as you can.' You cannot save unless you keep what you have earned." So some of Christ's auditors felt that he was preaching the most foolish of doctrines when he used the illustration of the twain mile. They were ready to obey the Mosaic law of justice. They would assent to an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth, a hand for a hand. They would travel the first mile willingly and pay every penny that they legitimately owed, but they were not ready to turn the left cheek to a foe after that enemy had deliberately struck them a stinging blow upon the right cheek. They protested against a communistic gospel, which allowed a thief to run away with their whole wardrobe, They would not enslave themcoat. They would not enslave themselves to any merciless taskmaster. For every day's labor they must have a full day's pay. Yet Christ's statement is strikingly true. It is right in reference to the temporal life as well as the spiritual. The willingness to travel the twain mile is the foreunner of all true success. The unwillingness to travel the twain mile is the cause of a most certain failure.

The twain mile is the place of test-It is where the powers that be choose the men who are to be hon ed in life's service. There the human race is sifted. There the faithful are separated from the frresponsible, the energetic from the slothful, the true man from the false, the self sacrificing from the selfish, the one purpose man from the indolent, lazy, shiftless individual who lives without a definite aim. The twain mile is the threshing floor of human life, where the wheat is separated from the chaff, the rich grain from the useless tares. Most of the human race are huddled together and jostling each other during the first mile, where they only do what they have to do. But in the second or the twain mile of life's journey, where a man does more than he is asked to do, he always has plenty of elbow room. As the great statesman once said, "There is plenty of room at the top of the ladder of success, although thousands of hands may be reaching for the low-

Every merchant knows of the sepest rung. arating or testing influence of the twain mile. When a position in the store became vacant, whom, in all probability, did you promote to the vacancy—the clerk who has been in the store for ten or fifteen years, the young man who has never been willing to do any more than he was compelled to do? Did you select the employe who was generally ten min-utes late in the morning, the clerk who has his hat in his hand ready to run for home as soon as the hour hand points to the numeral 6? Did you promote one who seemed to be indifferent to his work, and had to be watched day by day to be kept busy, as a mother has to watch a little child? No. The young man who received the promotion was the poor country boy who entered your store with no recommendation except the willingness to travel the twain mile, the willingness to do more than he was told or paid to do. For For years the twain mile young man was the first employe at work in the morning. For years he was the last person to leave the store at night. When the work piled up upon his desk, unbidden by the head of his department he always stayed many hours overtime until the work was done. He was the young man who threw himself into his allotted tasks done. He was the young man who threw himself into his allotted tasks with such intensity that he made his employer's interests his interests.

My friend, you think your spiritual position in life is very humble, but you have a twain mile to travel. That twain mile, whether it starts from the nursery, the factory, the mechanic's bench, the laborer's ditch or the farmer's plow, heads straight up to the throne of grace. God is spiritually judging you to-day by what you are spiritually willing of your own accord to do for him.

The twain mile has for a guide the angel of inspiring hope. The man who lives without ambition or without the hope of making something better out of his life is practically dead. He is like the branch of a tree in midwinter. All its latent buds are frozen. Then the sap of life is unable to flow, but when the spring comes then the snowflakes melt away. Then the air is redolent with incense. Then the tree takes on a new life. Later on, if the tree is an apple tree, its branches are ladened with the golden fruits.

The pathway of the twain mile is always warned by the life develop-always warmed by the life develop-ing sunshine of hope. The young man says to himself: "I am ready to work years and years if necessary in an inconspicuous position. I am ready to work hard and do more than I am sked to do because I know that at last my employer will reward me with a higher position." The young college student says, "I am ready to bury myself in my books and work hard because I know that at last there will come a time when my inthere will come a time when my in-dustry will be recompensed as well as recognized."

The young man is led along the twain mile of sacrifice the more willingly because as he walks hand in hand with the sweet angel of inspiring hope he reads the lives of the great men of the past. He finds that the position from which some of them started to climb the mountain of fame and usefulness was often more humble than that which he is filling. He sees a poor, ignorant colored boy He sees a poor, ignorant colored boy standing before the billboard poster trying to learn how to spell. he sees the ignorant grow into the great orator, until name becomes known over the civilized world. He sees a young man as a Sunday school teacher gather his own class of rough boys by going into one of the poorest and most depraved sections of Chicago. Then he hears of that young man, D. L. Moody, who was the greatest evangelist of the last century. He sees Dr. Barnardo called to his great work by being led by the hand of a street urchin to where fifteen little boys were spending a winter night in a coal bin. There the great human savior of the London street arab saw fifteen hungry urchins who were on their way, but for his rescue, toward the gallows, the penitentiary, or the poorhouse. When the young man thinks of these great men, he says: "I, too, have a mission in life. I, too, can accomplish some good for my fellow men if I am ready to travel the twain mile of self sacrifice."

So the sweet faced angel of hope leads the disciple of Christ along the self sacrificing pathway of the twain self sacrificing pathway of the twain mile. She puts the Bible into the disciple's hand and says: "Read, Christian; read. That Bible is the promise God has given to you. God declares that if you will do what he bids you do, you shall have your reward for traveling the twain mile for him." Then the Christian, believing the Bible, says to himself:
"I will do what Christ wants me to do. I will live as Christ wants me to live. I will speak what Christ wants me to say. I know that Christ will reward me at the end of the twain mile. Did not my Savjour promise, 'Seek ye first the kingdom promise. Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you? I may not have earthly wealth, but I shall surely have treasures laid up in heaven. I may not have worldly adoration, but I shall have the convendation, of my Saviour. I may never be a temporal potentate, but I shall be coronated among the redesmed of heaven. I shall hear Christ say: Well done, good and faithful servant. Those hast been faithful over a few things; I will make thee ruler over many things. Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." When the disciple Christ is traveling the twain mile, he is always being led by the sweet faced angel of inspiring hope.

The twain mile is the place where the Christian traveler upon life's journey learns how to forgive an inustice as well as to forget. giveness is one of the gospet fine arts. It is the power which comes into a Christian's life which practically says: "When I have a work to do and only a short time in which to do it, I cannot afford to be wasting my energies in foolishly attacking those people who are attacking me I cannot, as a general, be spending most of my time in pursuing a few foraging parties when I ought to be marching on toward the great city of Gospel Success." Besides that, the Christian traveler says to himself Perhaps I have not done my full duty toward my enemies. Perhaps I have not been kind and loving enough. Perhaps I have not presented my Jesus in a clear, simple way. If I did, then I might change the focs of Christ into his loving disciples, I will forgive as well as forget. After mine enemy has smitten me on one cheek I will turn to him the other also. After he has compelled me to go with him one mile I will go with him twain."

This is not an absurd interpretation to make of the Christian's feelings in reference to his enemies when he is trying to travel the twain mile of forgiveness. Almost without exception the truly great men who have consecrated their lives to a temporal cause have been able to drop bitter personalities out of their existence. They were able to forgive as well as forget the personal injustices which had been practiced against them. When the north German against states were being welded into the great confederacy of the German Empire by the master statesman of the last century, Prince Bismarck said to a friend during the darkest days of the struggle: "I must not think of what mine enemies might say or do. To attain the end I would brave all dangers—exile, indeed; the scaffold it-self. What matter if they hang me provided the rope with which I am hanged binds the new Germany firm to the Prussian throne?"

Jesus has been given as an example for all his disciples to copy. What did Christ do when he was scoffed at and spit upon? Why, the enemies made so many charges against Christ that Pilate, in amazement asked him to say something ment, asked him to say something and refute the charges. "Hearest thou not how many things they witness against thee? And he answered him never a word, insomuch that the governor marveled greatly." Christ came to save the world. Jesus did fighting his detractors; neither should The twain mile is the place where he enemies of the true Christian are either mellowed or completely con-quered by love. As the willingness to ove one's enemies makes a strong to go forth to the battle of life, so that willingness to love an enemy dulls the battleax of almost every foe. Love is the most dangerous enemy hate has to combat. Love is the duelist which will disorm many a latal adversary. Love is the shield which can blunt or snap every plung-ing spear. Love is the dazzling light which can woo a smile from many a scornful lip and the tear of remorse from many a flashing eye. My brother, the difficulty with you and myself is we have been fighting our enemies with the wrong kind of weapons. We have been fighting fire with fire, hate with hate, bitterness with bitterness, slander with slander, death with death. But now Jesus has given to us a new way quer our enemies. We must hate with love; we must slander with forgiveness; we must answer a curse with a prayer; we must offer to the clinched fist open palm; we must extend to every enemy a helping hand. Surely this idea is the interpretation of the words, "Whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also." "Whosoever shall compel thee to go with him one mile, go with him twain." The twain mile is the place where Jesus becomes to every Christian a treasured, loving personality. Well substantiated is the fact that love grows as much upon what we do for others as what others do for us, upon what we are ready to give as upon what we are ready to receive. In order to have true love, we must be ready to lose our lives before we can he commendation of my Sa- have those lives come to their true die if we want to truly live as ought to live. Why is a mother's love the purest

Doctor Wanata, of Lansing, Mich.,

Says There is Nothing in the Materia Medica that Equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for the Cure of Woman's Ills.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham: — The honest, intelligent physician is above the 'School.' Whatever is best in each case should be used, no matter to what school a physician belongs. I, as a matter of conscience, can only prescribe the best, and as I know and have proven that there is nothing in Materia Medica which equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female disorders, I unhesitatingly prescribe it and have prever yet been sorry. prescribe it, and have never yet been sorry.

"I know of nothing better for ovarian troubles and for falling of the womb or ulcerations; it absolutely restores the affected parts to their normal condition quicker and better than anything else. I have known it to eure barrenness in women, who to-day are happy mothers of children, and while the medical profession looks down upon 'patents,' I have learned, instead, to look-up to the healing potion, by whatever name it be known. If my fellow physicians dared tell the truth, hundreds of them would voice my sentiments."—Dr. Wanata, Lansing, Mich.

DR. WANATA.

As Dr. Wanata says, if physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female ills, as they know by experience that it can be relied upon to effect a cure.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhœa, falling, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass, for further free advice. No living person has had such a vast and successful experience in treating female ills. She has guided thousands to health. Every suffering woman should ask for and follow her advice.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has carried hundreds of women through the periods of child bearing and change of life in perfect comfort and safety.

A medicine that has restored so many women to health and can produce proof of the fact must be regarded with respect. This is the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which cannot be equalled by any other medicine the world has ever produced.

It is well to remember these facts when some druggist tries to get you to buy something which he says is "just as good." That is impossible as no other medicine has such a record of cures as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so do not experiment with untried medicines.

He Said "No."

HE great Young Men's Christian Association Convention recently held in Boston brought delegates from all parts of the world to testify to the value of the Christian religion as the highest rule of conduct for a as the highest rule of conduct for a practical life. It was natural, as the delegates met each other, for them to exchange vital experiences. The following was told by one who had traveled eight thousand miles to attend the meetings:

"My father was a rancher on a small scale in Australia. He had only a thousand sheep or so and a couple of square miles of run for pasture. He was an English emigrant of sturdy yeoman stock, and while the free life of a shepherd had taught him tolerance and kindness, he remained true in principle to the strict lessons of his

"The nearest neighbor or station was ten miles away, but the ranchmen used to think nothing of riding twenty or forty miles to a centrally located farm on Saturdays to spend the night in carousal, and ride back on Sunday.

"The isolation was so depressing and the heat so exhausting that when the men came together once a week in this way, drinking and gambling seemed inevitable. In the kindled passion and excitement of these coarse pleasures they thought they might forget for a hours the suffering and privation of their lot.

"At last it was my father's turn to entertain. He must invite the herders of the kraals and ranches within a radius of nearly fifty miles.

"'Boys,' he said to his two sons, my brother and myself, 'it's the parting of the ways. We either live as we have lived, simply, in the fear of God, minding our business, paying our debts if we can, saving our money if possible, and being cut by every man round here, or we fall into the ways of our neighbors, and drink and gamble ourselves into perdition. I am not going to break your mother's heart, and I say "No," even if they burn us down." 'It was the critical moment of our lives. I could have fallen at my father's feet and worshipped him when he made that decision. He looked like a god-determined and invincible.

"So it came about that my brother and I divided the circuit between us, and I rode to the north and he to the south. To every ranchman this message went: 'Father invites you for Saturday and Sunday as usual. There will be no cards or liquor—only a quiet talk about old England and the welfare of "We waited that Saturday afternoon with trembling, not expecting a single guest. Sunday morning, father conducted prayers, this time before fifty of the oughest men I had ever seen assemled; and there was singing of hymns, broken here and there by sobs and ears. When they purted, my father, although a recent comer, was the acknowledged leader of the community. "That section became the most prosus section in all the country round. And I thought if Christian courage could accomplish that, it was good enough for me to live and die by. My father's 'No' was the one thing needed to save the community, and it saved

"Come in, my little man, if you wish to," said the sexton. "No, thank you," said the boy. "I know what you've got in there.' "I haven't anything that little boys mayn't see. Come in."

"I'd rather not." And the juvenile Theodore cast a sweeping and some-what apprehensive glance around the pews and galleries and bounded off to

THE CONDITION OF MRS. WM. WESTCOTT, OF SEAFORTH.

Suffered From Headache and Dizzin -Could Not Stand the Least Exertion.

From the Sun, Seaforth, Ont. Mrs. Wm. Westcott is well known to nearly all the residents of Sea-forth. It is also well known to her neighbors and friends that she pass-ed through a trying illness, but is now happily, in robust health. To the editor of the Sun, Mrs. Westcott rerecently gave the particulars of her case for publication merely in the hope that her experience might be of benefit to some other sufferer. She said:—"For some time past my health was in a bad state, my whole system being badly run down. I was troubled with headache and dizziness, my appetite was poor and I could not stand the least exertion. I consulted different physicians, but their treatment did not seem to beneme, and I gradually became so bad that I was unable to attend to my household duties. I then tried several advertised medicines, but without any beneficial results, and I began to despair of getting better. One of my neighbors strongly advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and somewhat reluctantly I consented to do so. After I had taken the second box I began to note a great improvement in my condition, and by the time I had used five boxes I was fully restored to my former good health, much to the surprise of my neighbors and relations. I do not suffer the least now from those headaches and dizzy spells; my appetite is good and I can attend to my household duties with the greatest ease. In fact I feel like a different woman, and all this I can say is due to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. All who suffer from a run-down constitution should give these pills a trial. When the vitality is low; when the blood needs to be replenished, en-riched and purified; when the nerves are weak and require strengthening, there is no other medicine can take the place of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It is because of their direct specific action on the blood and nerves that these pills cure such troubles as anaemia. nervous headache, dizzi-ness, palpitation of the heart, rheumatism, sciatica, partial paralysis, Sf. Mainly About People

During his exile at Calais, Beau During his exile at Calais, Beau Brummei still gave himself as impertinent airs as ever, even at the risk of offending patrons or benefactors. It is said that once, while dining with the consul at a formal party, he took one of his dogs with him, who lay at his feet. Brummei helped himself to the wing of a truffled capon, tasted it, and handed it to the poodle. "Here, Atous, try to set your teeth through this; I'll be d—d if I can."

Captain Percival, a United States naval officer known as "Mad Jack" Percival, because of eccentricities which more than once brought him in conflict with the naval authorities, was, on one occasion, sent to Morocco with his frigate to bring back a cargo of jackasses for the Government. In ployment of a war vessel for such mission, on entering New York harbor he ran in all his guns, and placed the head of a jackass through each port as the ship sailed in. The sight of a double row of jackasses' heads protruding from the places where guns were looked for created a sensation at the time, and "Mad Jack" narrowly escaped a reprimand. General Grant once bought from butcher a horse to which he took a great fancy. He had the animal groomed, and with pride that was evident even in so undemonstrative a man as Grant, he took Senators Conkling of New York and Jones of Nevada into his stable. Grant asked the Senators how they liked the new horse. Conkling shook his head. "What's the matter, Mr. Senator?" asked Grant. Conkling looked the horse over and said, "What did you give for him, Mr. President?" "Four hundred dollars." "H'm!" said Conkling. "I'd rather have the four hundred dollars than the horse." Grant puffed a cloud of smoke and replied, in his usual cool manner, "That's what the butcher thought."

It is related of Rudyard Kipling's naternal grandfather, the Rev. George B. The consequence was that he found the sweethearts occupying a single chair. Deeply shocked by this spectacle, the old man solemnly said: 'Mr. McDonald, when I was courting Mrs. Brown she sat on one side of the room and I on the other." McDonald's reply was: "That's what I should have done if I had been courting Mrs.

ASREMARKABLE CASE

Ottawa Lady Whose Symptoms Were Somewhat Unusua

A Curious Complication of Conditions which, however, Yield Very Easily to the Curative Influence of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Ottawa, Ont., May 30.—(Special.)— A most singular case has just come to light at No. 380 Gladstone street,

Mrs. I. Wm. Rosseau, a married Mrs. I. Wm. Rosseau, a married lady, suffered for over three years with an ailment which manifests itself in three separate and distinct symptoms, each very painful, and the whole combining to make her life during this period one of almost perpetual misery.

Perhaps the most painful of these was a backache which never left the neor woman for a moment. At times poor woman for a moment. At times she felt as if her back were breaking in two, and the slightest pressure in the regions of the kidneys would cause her intense pain.

In addition to this terrific pain in her back, she was tortured beyond endurance by a never-ending headache. Morning, noon and night it tormented her with a stupifying dizziness and pain which completely prostrated her.

The third symptom was a swelling of the hands. This only appeared at times and would come and go, but as the case progressed the return of this symptom was more frequent.

To the student of kidney diseases

To the student of kidney diseases these symptoms have but one meaning—diseased and deranged kidneys.

Madam Rosseau at last stumbled on the medicine which proved to be her deliverer from one and all of her painful and distressing conditions.

She used three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and says:—"I cannot tell what Dodd's Kidney Pills have done for me words will not express it. I for me, words will not express it. I vas so sick for three years with my back, my head and my hands, and I am now completely cured.

"To say that I am grateful for my escape from such excruciating pain, does not half express my feelings. I am very, very thankful."

The ends of both cars were crashed in and some of the pasengers were caught in the wreckage, Motorman Emory Ayer had both legs broken, and four young women sus-tained fractured legs and severe cuts in different parts of their bodies. The accident was caused by one of the cars neglecting to remain on a switch until the other had passed.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

Toronto, May 30 .- The authorities are seeking to strip the death of Edward Wilkinson, a property man at the Grand Opera House , of the mystery currounding it. Whinson, who was 40 years of age, and lived alone, was found in a dying condition in his room, 133 King street east, to-day, with a great wound in the back of his head. Friends say they believe Wilk-inson had a fall on the street on election night, and afterwards was seen to go home, but if this is the case, it

Four years ago the Staff-Captain was in charge of the work of the local corps in Chatham.

The Pimpernel. The common pimpernel, "poor man's weather glass," has the disadvantage of being a native plant and has been almost completely expelled from our flower gardens in favor of exotics which are rarer but lack much of being as pretty. The pimpernel is a charming little flower, which opens about 8 in the morning and closes late in the afternoon, but has the remarkable peculiarity of indicating a coming shower by shutting up its petals.

Once when passing through a ceme-tery in Lenox Eliot Gregory was surprised to see that the members of one old New England family had been buried in a circle, with their feet toward its center. He asked the reason for this arrangement, and a wit of that day, daughter of Mrs. Stowe, replied, "So that when they rise at the last day only members of their own family may Well, Sir Stranger, here is an argument for you. This is the best equipped men's store in Chatham. Ever since its doors were opened it has set the pace in regard to complete and up-to-date equipment. Fittings, fixtures, windows, artificial light,—no expense has been demurred at that the stock might be well protected, well shown and promptly handled for the convenience of customers. Other stores have followed our example; the whole trade in this city makes a much better showing than it did two years ago, but we are still well in front with a building and equipment that would do credit to a city of 50,000. We don't invite your trade, Mr. Stranger, without having first invested a good deal in the effort to deserve it.

In the meantime, till you've learned our ways of doing business, let us point out that the frame is a mighty good indication of the picture.
