SERIOUS WRECK ON D. A. RAILWAY

Firemen Injured When Express Left Rails Near Lawrencetown Tuesday Noon

Thomas Walsh, of Yarmouth, locomotive fireman, sustained a compound fracture of the left leg and severe abrasions and lacerations, when the train near Lawrencetown, Annapolis county, on Tuesday. None of the 300 or more passengers travelling on the train were injured. The train was in charge of Conductor William Herbert.

The wreck is regarded as the worst that has taken place on the D.A.R. in recent years. Following an inspection of the mass of wreckage Tuesday afternoon, officials of the railroad estimated that the damage would probably total between $10,000 and $15,000.

Leaving the rails, the locomotive slid along for a distance of about twenty-five yards, finally plunging many feet into a bank on the left side of the tracks. The sudden impact caused the coupling of the tender to snap, leaving that portion of the engine at right angles with the rails.

The mail car, which immediately followed the locomotive, piled up to the right of the rails and the next car, containing the baggage, fell off to the left side. Only the forward trucks of the express car left the tracks.

The engine, Avon 37, one of the new C.P.R. locomotives which have been in operation on the D.A.R. for only a couple of years, was very badly damaged. The road bed was also badly torn up, but temporary repairs were effected in time for Wednesday trains to pass over the wreck area without delay.

Following the accident, a special train was despatched from Kentville and, with the arrival of the express from Yarmouth, the passengers, baggage, mail and express matter were transferred around the scene of wreckage. George E. Graham, general manager; Laurin E. Elias, assistant superintendent; and F. Young, mechanical superintendent of the D.A.R., arrived by automobile, and superintended the transfer of passengers and the salvage operations. The afternoon express was about four hours late in reaching Wolfville.

The accident occurred within the yard limits of Lawrencetown, about a quarter of a mile from the business district of the town. Workmen employed by the Highways Board have been engaged in repairing the road in the vicinity and it is believed that road scrapers, in passing over a level crossing, had posted the planks between the rails in flush with the track, leaving no space for the flange of the locomotive wheels.

The planks, the engine careened off the tracks, skidded down the side of the road-bed, and plunged into the bank. Walsh, formerly a member of the Kentville and was at one time employed on the Turo-Midland road. A few years ago he was badly scalded in a wreck on that line.

JOSEPH ROOP
On Wednesday, April 8th, Deacon Joseph Roop, of Clementsport, responded to the call from the better land. He lived to within two months of his ninety-first birthday, June 8th, next. He spent the greater part of his long life at Clementsport, and at the time of his death was the oldest citizen of that place. Every one, neighbors as well as relatives, called him Uncle Joe.

The funeral service took place from his residence on Good Friday, conducted by his pastor, Rev. Mr. Smith, assisted by the Methodist pastor. He leaves to mourn their loss a widow, two sons, three daughters, grandchildren, great grandchildren, and many neighbors and friends.

All his family were present at the funeral except Capt. John, who is at Vancouver with his steamer, "The Canadian Planting." Those present were: Miss Josephine, of Lynn, Mass.; Mrs. Bernard Harris, of Bear River; Mrs. Ray Burns at home, Clementsport; and Rev. F. E. Roop, of Wolfville; a son-in-law, Mr. Ed. McCormick, of Bear River; and a son, E. H. Chesley, of Kentville, a son of the late Mrs. Mary Ann, grand-children, and one great grandchild.

Deacon Roop has been a member of the Clementsport Baptist church for about half a century, and nearly all these years has served as deacon. Every one who knew him can testify that he was faithful in the old-fashioned Christian way, in home, church, and state.

MISS LAURA M. SAWYER
Many friends in Wolfville and vicinity learned with sincere sorrow of the death of Miss Laura M. Sawyer, which occurred at a hospital in Boston last Saturday, following what was regarded as a slight surgical operation. The deceased was the only daughter of the late Rev. A. W. Sawyer, D.D., for many years an honored resident of this town while president of Acadia University, and a sister of Prof. E. W. Sawyer, D.C.L., whose death occurred in September last at Woodstock, Ont.

Miss Sawyer was graduated from Acadia University in the class of 1896, and for the past twenty-five years has been librarian at the Perkin's Institute, Water-town, Mass. She was a lady of fine attainments, and was endowed of the keen intellectual and sterling moral qualities possessed by her distinguished father and brother. She is survived by an aunt, Miss Charlotte C. Chase, of this town; a niece Helen, Mrs. (Rev.) William Armstrong, of Vancouver, and two nephews, Bernard W. Sawyer, of Halifax, and Edmund Sawyer, in the West Indies. The remains will be brought to Wolfville for interment in the family lot at Willow Bank Cemetery. A brief service will be held at the Baptist church after the arrival of the train from Halifax on Friday morning, in charge of Rev. Mr. Marshall, with an address by Rev. Mr. H. MacDonald, D.D.

AN IMPRESSIVE SERVICE

The Sabbath School session of the Baptist church held last Sunday afternoon was of an unusual and impressive nature, the rite of baptism, which seems so especially fitted to the Easter season, being observed.

The meeting was opened and conducted by the Superintendent, Mr. L. E. Shaw, with the Philathea class forming the choir and the S.S. orchestra ably furnishing the music. An offering was taken in aid of the work of the Grand Ligne mission, after which Mrs. MacLean was called upon to address the eight girls who were the candidates for baptism. Her address took the form of a congratulatory, a welcome, and a charge. The Primary department then sang two Easter choruses and recited in unison the passage of John 14:1-11. A mixed quartette sang sweetly "Take Time to be Holy", after which Dr. Marshall addressed the baptismal candidates, continuing and enlarging the charge voiced in the preceding address by urging the girls to a life of service and preparation for emergencies.

The beautiful ordinance of baptism, administered by Dr. Marshall, closed the meeting, leaving the audience with the feeling that it was indeed "good to be here".

ANNAS A. CROSS

It is with deep regret that we chronicle the loss of one of White Rock's most useful and valued citizens, Annas A. Cross, whose death occurred on Tuesday morning last and whose remains left here by rail on Wednesday to be interred at his old home cemetery. Mr. Cross was born at Conquerall Mills, Lunenburg county, some forty-six years ago, and worked on the staff of the Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Co. for about eighteen years. The last five years of his life have been spent as chief operator of the Gaspereaux River Light, Heat, and Power Co. system. His wife, formerly Miss Crouse, of the late Cross, Lunenburg, and two young daughters survive him, as well as his father (Alexander Cross), mother, three brothers and one sister. An affable, competent man, the value of his home, community and business life has been appreciated by all the neighborhood and his going out, though not unexpected, will be greatly deplored.

ELEVEN ACADIA GRADUATES AT HARVARD

Nova Scotia has the Largest Number of Students from any part of the Empire Except England.

According to statistics recently compiled by Dr. Benjamin Rand, Honorary President of the Canadian Club of Harvard University, Nova Scotia students outnumber those from any other part of the British Empire, except England, and Acadia University tops the list of twenty colleges and universities whose graduates uphold the honor of the Union Jack at that great American institution of learning this year.

Nova Scotia students are listed, as follows:

In the Graduate School of Arts and Science: John Albert Bentley, Halifax; John Inglis, Aylesford; Arthur Reginald Prince, Truro; William Thomas Townsend, Halifax; and Ralph Hartley Wetmore, Yarmouth.

In the Law School, Colin Campbell Ives, Halifax; Horace Emerson Read, Annapolis; Douglas Stewart Thompson, Halifax.

In the Medical School, Wylie Louis Collins, Port Williams; Donald MacNeil, Sydney.

In the School of Education, Max Ordeley Brown, Wolfville; David Gray Davis, Truro.

In the Dental School, Tennyson Whitfield Mackinnon, Glace Bay, and William MacLellan Ross, Sydney.

In the School of Engineering, Raymond Perry Thompson, Liverpool.

In Harvard College, Charles Hobbes Day, Jr., now of Wellesley Hills, Mass. Canadian universities and colleges are represented as follows: Acadia, 11; McGill, 10; Toronto, 8; Mount Allison, 6; Dalhousie, 5; Alberta, 3; New Brunswick, 3; Queens, 3; Saskatchewan, 2; British Columbia, 2; Saint Francis Xavier, 1; McMaster, 1, and Manitoba, 1.

The other British universities add their quota, with Oxford, 5; Cambridge, 4; Durham, Manchester, Royal University of Ireland, Glasgow, Sydney, New Zealand, Stellenbosch and Bombay, each one.

These Britishers and Canadians are distributed among the various departments of the University, each one preparing himself for his life work in a special field. The classification shown in the Graduate Schools—39 in Arts and Sciences; 10 in Medicine; 11 in Dentistry; 9 in Law; 6 in Business Administration; 5 in Theology; 3 in Education; 2 in Engineering; 1 in Architecture; 1 in Landscape Architecture, and 1 in the Bussey Institute. There are also seven students of British nationality doing undergraduate work in Harvard College.

British membership in the university has been further tabulated by Dr. Rand:

The Harvard Canadian Club has held regular monthly meetings during this college year, all of which have been well attended. The program has usually included an address by some prominent member of the Faculty, or visitor. The social hour has provided an opportunity, rare in the busy life of a great university, for students owing a common national allegiance, to meet and know one another. Officers of the club for the year 1924-25 are: Hon. President, Dr. Benjamin Rand; President, George V. Thompson; Secretary, J. Burns Martin; and Treasurer, Roy

THE BUILDING BY-LAWS

IN THE precepts of the town, although perhaps unknown to many of its citizens, there is a somewhat cumbersome code of by-laws, intended to direct all building operations. Among the many provisions included in this code there are a number, at least, that are wisely conceived and necessary and should be better understood by our people. One of the reasons for the seeming neglect in complying with the conditions laid down in these by-laws is due, no doubt, to the fact that the by-laws have never been printed or circulated among the people, who have no way of making themselves familiar with the requirements. At the present time there are a number of building operations going on in various parts of the town, for which no permits have been asked or granted, and this is one of the most prominent requirements of the building by-laws.

There is no doubt but that a wise and systematic supervision of all buildings erected or repaired in this town is imperative, and that carefully thought out regulations governing this work are entitled to respect on the part of all good citizens. It is important that buildings should be safely constructed so as to ensure the minimum risk of fire and that sanitary conditions should be duly considered. In order that the best results might be obtained and that the aesthetic taste be not offended it is necessary that due regard should be had for the architectural design and location of buildings. These and other considerations should be given due heed to and some of them at least are provided for in the building by-laws of the town.

Up to the present time the appointment of an official to undertake and direct the carrying out of these building ordinances has been one of the difficulties experienced by our civic rulers. For some time this work was done by a committee composed of the whole Council, but this was not found altogether satisfactory. Councillors were importuned to grant exceptions which were not within their powers, and when complied with this naturally made trouble. During the regime of the town manager this duty fell upon him but now that this office has been abandoned some other plan must be made.

We are of the opinion that if a proper person could be found to undertake the duties of inspector for a reasonable remuneration it would furnish the best solution of the problem. An independent inspector who would follow out a well defined policy in connection with the enforcement of the by-laws either as they exist or are amended to suit any requirement should produce satisfactory results.

SPRING CLEAN-UP

THE NEED of a regular community spring clean-up is no greater this season than usual but it is hoped it may be made more general and that it include every undertaking that will make more attractive our town and surroundings. Already the street authorities have been more than ordinarily active and private properties in some instances have received attention. What we hope to see, however, is a combined effort on the part of the town authorities and citizens in an aggressive campaign for community house-cleaning. No appointment of a time has yet been made, but in view of the unusual season this should be fixed for an early date.

The members of the aggressive town improvement committee of the Board of Trade will gladly welcome this opportunity to give a good account of themselves and it goes without saying that the civic authorities will be glad to do all in their power to promote such a worthy undertaking. Let it be made a "pull together" to make our town cleaner, brighter and more attractive generally than it has been hitherto. Any effort that is put forth in this direction tends to the betterment of the community generally and the cost in money and effort will be profitably and wisely invested. THE ACADIAN hopes to announce some definite action along the line indicated in its next issue.

THE CLOSING OF THE ROADS

THE PRESENT season is so far advanced that those in charge deemed it advisable to open to motor driven vehicles the trunk road from Halifax to Yarmouth on Friday last. This is earlier by practically three weeks than ordinarily, and the highway board gives notice that should weather conditions render it necessary the road may be again closed to traffic.

The edict of the highway board has made little difference in the travel in this section, however, as ever since the roads were closed cars have been running freely, with or without permits. Justification for closing the roads to automobile traffic during the spring weeks is based upon the fact that when the roads are soft injury is done by the heavy and fast moving vehicles, but why a car, the driver of which holds a permit, is likely to do less damage than one to whom a permit is denied doth not appear.

Like many other laws that are most conspicuous in their non-observance this measure is not likely to win very general admiration on the part of a discriminating public. If the law is necessary there should evidently be no permits, and a more even-handed enforcement of its requirements.

THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL

AND NOW the local government proposes to "reform" the Legislative Council! A bill is before the legislature which provides for an age limit and makes the appointment to that moss-grown adjunct for ten years instead of for life. This paper has already on more than one occasion stated its views regarding the Council, which has already long outlived its usefulness and is now merely an echo of the Assembly and a bill of expense to the people. The agitation for its abolition has evidently impressed the government that something must be done—hence this proposition which, however, means nothing. Like many other extravagances of our present day methods of government the logical method of its "reform" would be to reform it out of existence, and in the interests of economy and the betterment of our provincial condition the earlier such a reform is set in motion the better.

NO MARKET FOR NEWFOUNDLAND FISH

A REPORT comes from Newfoundland that large catches of halibut are being taken for which there is no market. It is said that fish offered at two and three cents a pound failed to obtain buyers. Meantime in this Valley those who are able to eat this favorite fish are obliged to pay for so doing at the rate of forty cents per pound. We are not saying that local dealers are charging too much, but something must be wrong. Transportation charges, as everybody knows who has to pay them, are enormous, but the fish sold in these parts does not all come from Newfoundland.

DON'T BURN YOUR LEAVES

Have you got the leaves raked up yet, the bulbs and flower beds uncovered, and the packing off the shrubs? What did you do with them? The smell of bonfires has been on the late afternoon winds recently, betraying some early gardener who failed to conserve a supply of humus in a compost heap.

These leaves have by now served their purpose as winter coverings for tender plants, as Nature intended, and they should be cleaned off the beds by the end of the week. It is best to rake them into a distant corner in the fence, preferably out of sight, behind shrubs or the garage. Pile them a foot deep, and then anchor them with six inches of green manure and six inches to a foot of loam, then pile on another layer of leaves, of manure and loam. Poor loam can be used in this mixture, if that is all you have, as it will be improved. Sand or gravel should not be used. Garbage, too, can be buried in this pile; it will add to its fertility, having rotted somewhat by fall when the pile will be forked over. But don't throw in old weed stalks and sticks—burn them. The weed seeds would probably sprout when the compost is spread on the lawn, used in winter flower pots, or is used to replace some infertile section of the garden.

If you have no manure for the garden, fork under your leaves, even though they are not now rotted, to hold moisture in the soil—don't waste them by burning. Don't burn your leaves; make them produce crops for you.

PLUMS FOR CANADA

"Comparatively few people get good plums to eat, especially in the fresh condition, and the export trade in plums, whatever it may be in the future, is practically nothing at the present time," writes W. T. Macoun, Dominion Horticulturist. "The plum has not been as profitable to grow in Canada as some other fruits," continues Mr. Macoun, "but with a careful selection of varieties and good care it will be found to give fairly good returns. In those parts of Canada where the European plums do not succeed, the improved native and American varieties have been found very profitable."

A new bulletin by W. T. Macoun, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, is now in the press and will very shortly be ready for distribution. This bulletin, deals with every phase of plum culture, and among other valuable features, gives a complete list of the varieties recommended for the different parts of Canada, from Prince Edward Island in the east to British Columbia in the west. There is also a description of the varieties included in the list just mentioned. This bulletin, entitled "Plum Culture," (No. 45, New Series) which is perhaps the most complete of its kind yet issued by the department, will be sent free on application to Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

WHY YOU SHOULD SUPPORT THE CHURCH IN 1925

BECAUSE if nobody supported it, there would be no church, and chaos would result.

YOU may think the church is not ideal. That is so excuse. Politics are far from ideal, but that does not mean that we must refrain from the duties of citizenship.

CHRISTIANITY alone gave Sunday as a day of rest. If you take advantage of that blessing, you should support the institution which gave it to you.

YOU live under its moral protection and share its numerous blessings. Why not share its problems?

The church is YOU, Mr. Everyman. Perhaps you are looking for the church to help you. The church is made up of ordinary people; by what right do you expect to be the beneficiary? You will gain benefits from the church according to the enthusiasm you bring to it.

YOU are the church, with the rest of us. Its problem is our—yours. The church, like the government, is not an abstract, mysterious body of super-beings. It is what we make it.

THE CHURCH—the best institution for good in the world. Go there, support it—HELP, LIFT.

Bobby (trying to stop baby from crying)—Mother, didn't you get an instruction book with this thing?

A PRAYER FOR THE KITCHEN

My labor makes me glad,
May I have eyes to see
Beauty in this plain room,
Where I am called to be.
The scent of clean blue smoke,
The old pans polished bright,
The red flame's lovely light,
May I have wit to take
The joy that round me lies,
Whether I brew or bake,
My labors make me wise.

My labors leave me sweet,
When twilight folds the earth,
May I have grace to smile
And count the days worth while.
An old song in my soul
And quiet in my breast,
To welcome tranquilly
The night's quiet gift of rest,
And gather strength to face
Tomorrow's busy strife,
Here in this humble place,
May labor bless my life.

A BUNCH OF HELPS

Rinse all GLASS receptacles with cold water before putting milk in them and they will be easier to wash.
To TEST MILK dip a knitting needle in it and if none adheres it has been watered. Whole milk will slowly drop off.

A small amount of soda added to ACID FRUITS before sweetening saves sugar.

A tablespoon of soda added to CREAM before churning helps to bring the butter.

A raw prune placed in a coffee pot will improve the flavor of the coffee.

Roll SAUSAGES in flour before frying. It will prevent their breaking and improves the flavor.

Scraped raw potato will afford relief for a burn. Change it as often as it gets warm until pain is relieved.

Candy—Maple Taffy
One-half cup sugar, three-quarters cup light corn syrup, three-quarters cup maple syrup, one-third cup water, one-eighth teaspoon soda, one and one-half tablespoons butter. Put the first four ingredients into a saucepan over the fire. Stir until sugar is dissolved. After the sugar is dissolved stir only enough to keep from burning. Cook until it forms a rather hard ball when dropped in cold water. Remove from the fire, add the butter and the soda and stir just enough to mix well.

Turn into a greased pan and let stand until cool enough to handle. Gather into a ball and pull until light in color and rather firm. Stretch into a long rope and cut into small pieces with scissors.

EASTER AT THE CHURCHES

Special music featured the Easter services held in the different churches here on Sunday.

In the Presbyterian church in the morning the pastor, Rev. Dr. Dickie, based his remarks on Mark 16:6. The male quartette rendered "Let Jesus Have His Way", by Lorenz; anthem, "Risen As He Said"—Ira B. Wilson; by the choir, the obligato solo in which was splendidly taken by Mr. H. Rolph. The chancel was beautifully decorated with potted plants, ferns, and Easter lilies, which were donated by the Rev. W. A. Outbridge. Following the service, the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed. Miss Doris Currie presided at the organ.

Both morning and evening services in the Baptist church were of equal impressiveness. The pastor, Rev. Z. L. Fash, delivered eloquent and inspiring Easter messages to large congregations. Music formed an important part of the evening service. The following anthems were particularly well rendered by the choir, "Christ is Risen", by Carrie B. Adams; "Worthy is the Lamb", Ira B. Wilson; "He is Risen as He Said", Ira B. Wilson. A male quartette, "Let Jesus Have His Way", E. Lorenz, was well rendered. The personnel of the quartette was Messrs. I. Pulsifer, H. Rolph, W. MR. O'HEARN'S DUTY

To the Editor of THE ACADIAN: Dear Sir,—In his silly attempt to defend the policy of the present provincial government with regard to the enforcement of the temperance law of this province the Attorney General went to the extent of declaring that "Among those engaged in the smuggling of liquor into this Province are some of the most ardent prohibitionists the country can produce". If he is right it is evidently his duty to tell the country who they are. Mr. O'Hearn has no right to protect these people in their nefarious doings and if he is honest he will give the public the benefit of his knowledge in this regard. Let the truth be known unless some good reason can be shown why it should be suppressed.

A PROHIBITIONIST.

Evidently the Cross Word Puzzle in last week's ACADIAN was found rather difficult by our readers as only two solutions were handed in and neither of those were correct.

Miss Helen Young, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Young, brought to THE ACADIAN on Tuesday a spray of apple blossoms picked on Sunday in the orchard of Mrs. James A. Allen at North Grand Pre. They were pink and fragrant and such as one might be surprised to find a month later.

So far as weather conditions were concerned we question if any person in this vicinity is able to remember such a Good Friday as was experienced this season. Friday was certainly an ideal day for April and was duly enjoyed in fishing trips and other excursions. It would have been good weather for Victoria Day. Fishermen had good luck and some very good catches are reported, while the more industrious gave attention to cleaning up the yards and lawns and other necessary duties which demand attention at this season.

NOVA SCOTIA PUBLICITY IN CHICAGO PAPER

The photographic section of the Chicago Daily News of April 4th devotes a full page to illustrations of attractive and historic scenes in Nova Scotia. Wolfville receives prominence in two well-executed illustrations taken at the Government Pier, showing high-tide and low-tide conditions at that popular local resort. Views of "the smiling valley of the Gasperreau", the "memorial church", the "old willows" and other scenes at Grand Pre, are given a prominent place, and there are also scenes from Annapolis Royal, Chester and other parts of interest in Nova Scotia, which is described as "America's beautiful 'New Scotland', progressive province of Eastern Canada". There is also a very good illustration of "Evangeline, a faithful Acadian maiden, who spent her days from youth to age in an all but fruitless quest". The object of this page is to furnish its readers a map to illustrate a Radio Photologue that evening by Clarence A. Hough, a well known resident of Chicago, who spent last summer in this province. The publicity given by the Chicago paper to our province cannot fail to be productive of most beneficial results from the standpoint of tourist travel.

WOLFVILLE HIGH SCHOOL WINS FROM HANTSPOURT

The Wolfville High School basketball team were victorious in a game played with the Hantsport High School, last Saturday afternoon in the Acadia Memorial Gymnasium. The score was 51 to 19. The exceptional shooting of Regan and J. Johnson featured the game, while the visitors lost on account of their lack of team work and too many field shots. The teams were as follows: Hantsport—Forwards, Gulland, and K. Flemming; centre, L. Flemming; guards, Bishop and Beckwith. Wolfville—Forwards, Prescott and Regan; centre, J. Johnson; guards, Williams and R. Johnson; sub., Tedford.

LAST SHIPMENT OF APPLES THIS SEASON

Nearly Eleven Hundred Thousand Barrels Exported From Halifax

The Furness liner Ariano, which sailed for Hull and London last week, took 72 barrels of apples, this being the last shipment for the 1924-25 season. A total of 1,099,907 barrels were shipped to the English markets, which was a decrease of 151,867 from the 1923-24 season, when 1,251,774 barrels were shipped. The first shipment was made on the Sachem on August 27, when 3753 barrels were shipped.

The past season was notable for the re-opening of the direct shipment of apples to the markets in Hambrug, which had been closed since the war, a total of 18,689 barrels being sent to those markets. Apples were also shipped to Avonmouth, 323 barrels, and to Newcastle, 1625 barrels.

London, with a total of 395,712, was the largest importing centre, leading Liverpool, the nearest rival, by 105,362 barrels, the total to Liverpool being 290,350 barrels shipped. Manchester, with 188,805 barrels, was third. The other importing centres were Glasgow, 95,216; Cardiff, 46,819; Hull, 33,107; and Southampton, 23,281.

"GERALD CRANSTON'S LADY" HAS A STRONG PLOT

A self made man marries a cultured lady. The man is rough, unprincipled, ambitious to a fault, and his only interest in the matrimonial bonds is the social advancement it will bring him. The woman mocks love and the wedding vows for money. Such is the plot of "Gerald Cranston's Lady" at the Orpheum Theatre, next Monday and Tuesday. The photograph is an adaptation from the current season's best seller of the same name, by Gilbert Frankau, leading English novelist of the modern school. The cast includes James Kirkwood, Alma Rubens, Marguerite De La Motte, J. Farrell MacDonald and others. Emmett Flynn is the director.

"Monarch" is now at the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean. She was towed from her berth at Plymouth to a point 300 miles off the Scilly Islands after she had been stripped of everything which could be salvaged. For the better part of a day she was used as a target for the Atlantic fleet in experimental tests made by the Admiralty. She was bombed from the air and from under the sea, and finally her battered hulk, under terrific fire from the heavy guns of other British battleships, went down to Davy Jones' locker at 10 o'clock at night. The newly appointed policeman of Kokanee had done nothing to stop the fight. In such places the police exercise their discretionary powers. They step in when they think the psychological moment has arrived. All was going well, and beyond the last house halted. "Going far?" he asked as they passed. He did not reply.

He smiled, and brushing aside his hat showed his star. Angus stood looking, pack-horse abruptly halted at the policeman. He was a short man, like two squares indeed, the lower square cut in two for legs, with a tremendous depth of chest. From front to back he was almost as broad as he was in the wonted sense of the word. He stood with his shoulders to the pack-horse, and his head a few feet forward instead of held back taut. His piercing eyes, a humorous mouth, short hook nose, a complexion as of sooty ivory; that was the policeman of Kokanee. Angus trusted him, and stepping closer, in a low voice, he said: "We're supposed to be going up expecting on the Olask range, but we're going clean on over and down to the west Arm of Flat-Bow Lake."

"You'll never make it. Too much snow up there."

"Been up?" asked Angus.

"Not this year," admitted the policeman.

"Well, we'll try," said Angus.

"It's up to you. Good luck, Squire."

"Good luck to you, constable."

CHAPTER X

Scot Meets Scot

The pack horse had clearly been upon at road out of Kokanee before, for at the first trail it turned aside from the side of the wagon road. The two men watched him, uncertain. Piccolo glanced at Angus; Angus looked on along the trail.

"Let him go," said he. "It looks as if it was a cut-off."

And "cut-off" it was. Following the horse came out a couple of hundred feet higher up, and no more, upon another stretch of road. Opposite was another entrance to a cut-off, and on went the horse, looking around on the zigzagging wagon road and the horse refused to heed at all the apparent cut-off. But as that one was near the end of a switch in the road the two men considered that perhaps it was not really a cut-off but a trail leading sharply away from the road altogether. Not so, however. The explanation for the horse's ignoring of that cut-off was merely that it was a very steep and rocky one.

The road ran for half-a-mile athwart the hill, bent sharply and came back over half-a-mile, and was in a way a loop where the cut-off entered the road below, just how steep it was. No wonder pack-horses had been allowed, there, to take the long way on.

The climbing to their unaccustomed was weariness. They trudged slowly, and the horse, looking around on the way, went leisurely too, tearing grass, eating all the way. Thus, sometimes by the road, sometimes by cut-offs they counted till there came to their ears the splash-splash of a creek, a little later the roar of it, and shortly after a rub-a-dub and waltzing sound of machinery. They searched on the edge of a broad water-gorge, a falling stream that leapt, tumbled, down under the spread branches of tamarack and spruce, was an air-compressor plant.

Angus went to the door. Piccolo, sitting, watched him. The horse tore at the door.

"Hallo Jock! Hoo are ye the day?" Angus roared in a voice to penetrate the bounds of water power and machinery. "He's got a friend here," thought Piccolo.

To the door came a man who rubbed a bunch of cotton waste between his fingers, preparatory to shaking hands. He pump-handled Angus and these two stood there with the black cavern of the power house behind them, shouting to each other. Piccolo thought he might have been introduced, felt despised. His face showed this affection when Angus, all radiant, returned and nodded toward him and called "Friend of mine—Thomas."

Piccolo advanced to shake hands, and his amazement heard Angus enquire of the engineer: "Your name, sir?" "MacBride," said the man, grabbed Piccolo's hand and each assured the other of the pleasure of meeting. "MacPherson is my name, Angus MacPherson," said Angus.

Then he shook hands again with MacBride and he and Piccolo turned back to the horse. There was a "Git up, cayuse," and they continued the ascent.

Piccolo was puzzled; but when the roar of the place decreased, Angus explained.

"Ay! When I see machinery I try that," he said. "I just put my head in the door and cry out: 'Hallo, Jock. Hoo are ye the day?' and man, it mostly successful. You Scotland is an awful wee bit of an island, or part of an island; and an awful lot of them are engineers. He tells me he has a telephone up to the mill and to the mine, and he said for the sake of Auld Scotland he would let me know if I phoned him from above if anybody came up after us. He's going to watch out during the day. I know his name, you see, which is Glasgow, as well as I know Aberdeen. We mentioned names probably meaningless to you, Piccolo—the Broomielaw, Argyll Street, the Tron, the Clutha boats on the Clyde. He was an engineer once on a lark; and then I said: 'Man, an abominable idea has got around Kokanee that has struck a fine lead up in the mountains here, and the truth is I was never here before; but I believe the rumour is so strong that I may be followed and watched. I'd like to know just for fun. I'd seen the wire coming out of his house, you see. And the sensible body understood, Pic. 'You go into the mill, or at the mine,' he said, 'and ask to speak down to the compressor and I'll tell ye who has passed up, if anybody.' That was when I called you to be introduced, so that I could have his name. A fine fellow! A fine fellow!"

It was about noon when they reached the mill. They came upon it suddenly, round a hump of hill where was nothing in the way of view at all, they tramping behind the dawdling, grass-plucking horse in deep woods. And there it was, on a cleared edge of hill, half-a-dozen frame houses, and the great ore bins, and the big barn-like edifices of the concentrator. Here they stopped to eat a packet of sandwiches, the first meal, as is the wont on such trips, having been put up for them at the hotel of the "jumping-off place," so that they could make some distance before halting to cook. The shingle roofs basked in the sun, squirrels chirped now and then, the horse continued to tear grass near them, calling all the tufts by the road edge. No human being showed anywhere. The only human movement was of two stretched wire ropes that disappeared up-hill along the timber. Ore-buckets pendant from these on one side came drifting across the scene into a high building and, equidistant, others came out and drifted away empty upward through the woods.

"I wonder which house we go to to phone," said Piccolo.

"Oh, we'll phone at the mine," said Angus. "I was casual in my remark to you Glasgow lad at the compressor. We'll not excite him by phoning twice. I just said to him I'd heard some silly bodies thought I had already found a bonanza whereas I had never been here before. 'It would tickle me,' I says, to be tickled only. Pic, amused—no more. That was my attitude. Says he: 'I'll watch and report to ye if anybody does go up that I don't know is just going to the mine.' Says I: 'Oh there's doubtless a few folk going up into the mountains this way prospecting in the ordinary way—but yes, I'll phone you anyhow to let you know we made the mine, and you can let me know if any suspicious comic characters have passed up.' Casual, casual, you see, Piccolo. Well, we'll take the road again."

Piccolo nodded and rose and clicked to the horse. From the mill onwards, the road was rougher, less travelled since the installation of the gravity-tram between mine and mill. It was less road than trail; or a compromise between the two. The rich odour of Linnæus' emblem, the American Twayflower, every where, and there was like a pool of strange sweet scent among the rougher scent of the firs and pines. The firs stood with boughs less wide-spread, indicating a higher level, the level where either they had more need of steepness to shoot the weight of snow, or were trained to that angle by the weight of winter snow. Mounting, as they were, the eastern slope of a steep mountain they were in shade by afternoon and, turning, could see the range across the lake all ablaze with sunlight. But even over there the dark began its upward course. The main lake ceased to sparkle like mackerel scales when they glimpsed it between the tree boles. The lower bog-backs turned to dark brown while still the high peaks gleamed blue and white.

The way twisted and twined, now athwart the slopes, and anon definitely ahead across a plateau where horse and man made no sound, passing, treading on a carpet of tamarack needles.

"One thing Mr. MacBride told me," said Angus. "It was the same as the policeman told me at Kokanee, and that was that we could not get over the top yet, for the snow."

"You told him where we were going—that we were going over the summit," asked Piccolo.

"No, no. He told me indirectly. Says he: 'I suppose you'll prospect upward, following the snow. There's a pass or two over to the other side. You go over

HIGHWAY NOTICE

Closing of Roads

The attention of the public is respectfully called to an Act to amend Chapter 77 of the Revised Statutes of 1923 of "The Load of Vehicles Act", passed the 9th day of April, 1924, A.D.

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and Assembly, as follows:

1.—Section 7 of Chapter 77 of the Revised Statutes, 1923, the "Load of Vehicles Act", is repealed and the following substituted therefor:

7.—(1) No person shall operate a motor vehicle that is subject to the provisions of the Motor Vehicle Act on any highway in any municipality after the first day of March and before the first day of June following without the permission of the Superintendent of Highways or of such other officer as may be appointed by the Provincial Highways Board for that purpose first had and obtained.

(2) The Provincial Highways Board from time to time in each year may, and is hereby authorized and empowered with the approval of the Minister of Highways, to exempt from the provisions of Sub-section 1 of this section, for the whole or any part of the period between the first day of March and the first day of June following in the year and for which the exemption is granted, every person operating any motor vehicle or a motor vehicle of any particular class that is subject to the provisions of the Motor Vehicle Act, on all highways within any municipality or municipalities with highways in the opinion of the Provincial Highways Board will not be unreasonably damaged by reason of the granting such exemption.

all right in summer. I have as been up, he said, but so they tell me. There is the glaciers and passes though, on south, and one between them and one north of the north one. Tea Creek comes out of a lake below the north one. So you see he told me, without knowing, what it is supposed to be like on top. Says he: "There's a prospector gone up to a claim he was working on last fall. He went up past here a fortnight ago, and I noticed he had snow-shoes on his pack." Snow-shoes, Pic. Well, we could make a makeshift snow-shoe out of string if the snow is soft; but my own impression is that we'll be able to make it, either on the edges of the rock slides, or by keeping up to where the snow is hard. Our boots are not the best for the job. It's a pity I did not think to tell you to bring shoe-packs. I've brought an old pair."

"I've brought three pairs of moccasins," replied Piccolo. "Got them at the Colvalli reserve. I always like to have them to put on round the camp-fire evenings, all the same as slippers." "Hech sirs!" said Angus, laughing. "Piccolo Thomas—telegraph operator, contortionist, out-fitter! Moccasins will be fine with two-three pair of socks to keep your feet warm. But we'll not meet trouble halfway. Many and many a time, from many and many a place, have I set out with the words of the storekeepers and town bodies in my ears: 'You'll never make it.' There was always a reason. In one place it was: 'The ice is breaking.' In others it was: 'The pass is full of snow.' In others: 'There is not a drop of water.' This is undoubtedly our best way—above timber and, if possible, between snow and timber. We haven't the time to break a trail all through the woods to the place on the West Arm where we cross. I'm too auld."

"It would tire you too much," said Piccolo.

"It wouldn't do that," answered Angus slowly. "I'm speaking somewhat metaphorically. I mean that the job would be too long. I want to get to our goal before I'm absolutely ancient and decrepit."

"Oh, I see," said Piccolo, and obligingly smiled.

"MacBride told me they had some snow-shoes stored up at the mine; but I think we'll not borrow them now. It would suggest going high indeed. Man, you can see the way the water is full and roaring in that creek that the snows are going rapidly up above."

Then before them was another steep ascent and they heard a cheep and chirp not of squirrel or chipmunk, and there, as the trail bent, over their heads swung the ore-buckets.

"Man it's wonderful!" exclaimed Angus. "In the midst of the wilderness they trestle towers and the buckets dangling along! The romance of it! The romance of it! And what is romance? Romance is just reality, Pic. I say romance is just reality."

"By heck," observed Piccolo, "I could do with supper, a pipe, and a darn good sleep."

And there in front of them were suddenly roofs among the high trees; and above the roofs jagged edges of treeless rock with patches and veins of snow, and an exquisite light was in that upland valley. The horse quickened its pace into a lush meadow just beside the mine buildings. On the edge of the mine dumps men sat in attitudes of waiting, infinitely small-looking under the tremendous flaring ridges.

"Good evening, lads! Good evening, gentlemen!" Angus hailed the miners and muckers of the day shift waiting for their supper.

"Good evening," they replied.

"I want to telephone down to Mr. MacBride," said Angus. "Where do I go, if you please?"

"Right here, old timer," answered one of the younger men, rising. "I'll take you to the house."

Miss Dorothy Mackinnon returned to her school at Arlington on Wednesday morning after the Easter holidays at her home here.

Mr. Geo. Chase, our most enterprising citizen, has had a street lamp (500 watt) placed at the corner of his hardware store. It is certainly a boon to the public, and we hope that other citizens will do likewise, as street lights are really a necessity in any town. Mr. Chase has also installed a gasoline tank (Premier) in front of his large garage, Main street.

GREENWICH

Mrs. Stewart Hennigar has the sympathy of friends in this community in her recent sad loss by death, of her father at his home in Chester. Mrs. Hennigar spent several days last week at her home attending the funeral.

By a mistake last week the omission was made of a part of the program at the closing night of G.C.L. Very sorry for this, as that dialogue between two of our young men, Messrs. Murray and Ormond Forsythe, was certainly one of the enjoyable parts of the program.

Charlie Griffin went to the United States recently for work. We wish him success.

Mr. W. Curry, who has been very ill for over a week with La Grippe, is now much better, his friends are glad to know.

Mrs. Ada Forsythe recently purchased a fine new automobile and is enjoying the use of it.

Our school closed Wednesday afternoon for Easter holidays and our teacher, Mr. W. R. Ward, left for his home in Kingston Thursday morning, returning Monday afternoon to reopen school Tuesday morning.

Miss Olive Bishop spent the Easter holidays with her cousin, Muriel Forsythe, Cambridge.

Miss Esther Pearson left Thursday morning for Beaver River, Yarmouth County, to visit her friend, Miss Elsie Piper, a former school teacher here, for a week.

Miss Annie Pearson, accompanied by a girl friend, went to Bear River Friday morning to visit her sister, Mrs. Brenton L. Merry, returning home on the night train Sunday, or early Monday morning, to resume her position in Wolfville at the Town Hall.

Mrs. Ross and little daughter, of Wolfville, spent Good Friday here at the home of her cousin, Miss Lillian Bishop.

Mr. Aleck Andrew spent Good Friday at his home here and entertained a few of his friends that evening, returning to his duties Saturday at the Bank of Nova Scotia, Kentville, and spent Sunday at his home again.

Mrs. John Fenwick returned home Friday evening from Campbellton, N.B., where she had a successful demonstration of the electric ranges.

Miss Joyce Harvey, who is teaching at Glenmont, spent the Easter holidays at her home here; also Miss Christine Harvey, who holds a good position in Kentville, spent a part of the holidays at her home here.

Mrs. Maurice Williams, Kentville, spent Easter Sunday here at the home of her mother, Mrs. Emma Harvey.

Mr. Grant Bowles and daughter, of Grafton, spent Easter Sunday here at the home of his sister, Mrs. George Bishop.

The Easter service at our church on Sunday afternoon was well attended and enjoyed, several being present from outside the place. Communion was partaken of at the close of the service. The pastor, Rev. Dr. Hemmeon, gave a most appropriate address and the music provided by the choir was splendid, the solo by Mrs. W. Curry being most beautiful, piece chosen being wonderfully adapted to her rich contralto voice. The march, exercise, singing, etc., by ten little girls dressed in white and carrying lilies was well done and thoroughly added to the service. Much credit is due Mrs. G. L. Bishop for training them so well. The many beautiful plants and bouquets of lovely cut flowers, as golden daffodils, tulips, roses, carnations and narcissi, made a handsome decoration and added much to the lovely service.

The Fruit Company's store was closed here on Easter Monday and the popular clerk, Ormond Forsythe, was away from home spending his holidays.

Mrs. John Fenwick left again on Tuesday on a session of demonstrating electric stoves, this time going to Bridge-water.

On Tuesday morning early, the news came of the death in the night of Mr. Cross, of the Powder plant at White Rock, from a serious illness of diabetes. This was indeed sad news to many true friends of Mr. Cross in this place. A fine man is gone and a most valuable employee of the company is lost to them. His place will be hard to fill. A pleasing personality won him many friends wherever his duties called him and he was a most trustworthy, dependable man at any time.

The new building now under construction at the Fruit Company's large warehouse here will mean another great help toward their progressive business.

Many from here attended the matinee at the Orpheum, Wolfville, last Saturday afternoon.

LORD AND LADY ALLENBY IN THE GROUNDS OF THEIR OFFICIAL RESIDENCE

It was recently reported that Lord Allenby had resigned his office as Lord High Commissioner for Egypt, which he has held since 1919. No official confirmation has been obtained, but the source from which the information comes leaves no doubt that the resignation has been tendered. This is an exclusive photograph of Lord and Lady Allenby in the garden of their Cairo residence.

At o'clock this morning in the basement and spread with great rapidity as its point of origin was just below the back stairs. The loss is $25,000 partially covered by insurance. There were a few guests in the house at the time and all got out in safety.

The girls employed in the hotel to the number of six slept in the part of the hotel which was destroyed, and while they escaped the flames most of their clothing was ruined. The cook, Miss Comeau, escaped in her night dress.

There might have been a serious loss of life had not the proprietor, O. G. Jones, heard his son Robert cough and getting up to go to his room found the hallway and room full of smoke.

Others in the hotel were quickly aroused and an alarm sent in. Steps were directed towards saving furniture on the two lower floors. A considerable amount of this was taken out, but most of it badly damaged by water. For over two hours firemen fought the flames and were favored by a lack of wind.

A MAJOR OPERATION NECESSARY

(From The Financial Post)

There appears to be a growing tendency on the part of the government to grant subsidies for the encouragement of an industry rather than tariff increases, says The Financial Post's Ottawa correspondent. This may be dictated by the necessities of the situation, for the Progressives will often support a subsidy when they would not support a tariff increase. It is just possible that before the session is over the government's tariff proposals may lead to a rather bad break with the Progressives, or rather with a portion of them.

Business men and taxpayers generally will view with increasing uneasiness this tendency of the government to grant subsidies. Perhaps the greatest problem that is facing the country today is taxation, as represented by national expenditures. And it is hard to see how expenditures and taxation are to be reduced through cash hand-outs, no matter how plausible and attractive the theory of eventual benefits may be.

Canada's position is such that a cut in national expenditures is imperative. It is a time when economic politicians should be discarded, and the knile used—a time when our national physicians should have courage to perform a major operation.

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 3

Mountain-Grown Teas Best

The tea plant grows best in the pure cool atmosphere of a mountain tea garden. The higher the garden, the finer and more delicious the flavour of the tea. This is partly due to the clear sunshine on a high mountain side, partly to the more invigorating air, partly to the more frequent rainfall and perfect drainage. The largest and roughest leaf grown at an elevation of 7000 feet is much superior in flavour to the tiniest tip grown only 2000 feet above sea-level. All teas used in the "SALADA" blends are grown from 4000 feet to 7,500 feet elevation. The trademark "SALADA" is a guarantee of quality.
