NEWS PER MAIL

A Royal Marriage.

MADRID, Nov. 29.—The marriage of King Alfonso to the Archduchess Maria Christina will be solemnized this forenoon. This morning the Bands of the Regiments quartered in Madrid played the Reveille before the Royal Palace and afterwards marched through the principal streets. The street and balconies are thronged with people, many houses are decorated. Triumphal arches have been erected at various points. The weather has improved.

Ex-Queen Isabella has arrived.
She was received by King Alfonso, Premier Campos and the principal members of the Government. She has presented her jewels to Arch-Duchess Maria Christina.

MADRID, Nov. 30.—Arch-duchess Marie Christina left Pardo Palace, near Marine, where apartments had been prepared for her, in which she dressed for her marriage. King Alfonso left the Royal Palace for Atocha Church shortly before 11, being preceded by his mother, Ex-Queen Isabella, the Princess of Asturias and other great dignitaries of the Kingdom. Troops lined the route to the Church. The bride was accompanyed by her ladies of honor, her mother and other distinguished persons.

Shortly after they proceeded to church by different routes. The ambassadors and grandees of Spain, and deputations of Senate and Chambers of Deputies, awaited the King at the Church.
The Royal Wedding was solemnized according to the programme, in Atocha Church. The King was accompanied by Arch-Duke Rogerio to the Church, and was preceded by eleven carriages containing the Spanish Royal Family, grandees of Spain and Court dignitaries. The bride was preceded by four carriages, containing Court dignitaries and Ladies of honor. The bride was richly dressed in white, wore a diadem of brilliants and insignia of Marie Louise Order.

The church was splendidly illuminated with rich silken draperies. The diplomatic body, the Spanish grandees and deputations from the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies occupied the nave of the church. The bride appeared much moved during the ceremony. The nuptial benediction on behalf of the Pope was given by Cardinal Patriarch, who officiated at mass.

EUGENIE IN PARIS.

PARIS, Nov. 21, 1879.

As soon as the news arrived here that the Countess de Montijo mother of the ex-Empress Eugenie was dying at Madrid, it was expected that her daughter would pass hastily through the city on the way to her mother's bedside. It was even announced that she would leave Paris this morning. Nevertheless, the Empress has been spending the whole day at the residence of the Duc de Mouchy, Prince Murat's son-at-law, attended most affectionately by the Duchess and by Mlle. Lherminat.

Prince Mathilde called on her at one o'clock, but was not received.
Then came Prince Napoleon, who was more successful in gaining audience. The Empress talked with him for half an hour. She told him she had now put all thought of politics aside, and had no care for anything but the memory of her dead son.
When the Prince returned to his carriage he was painfully affected. At five o'clock the ex-Queen of Spain asked urgently if she should be admitted to the Empress' presence. She was at once received. The meeting of these two royal mothers, one widowed and childless, the other with her son seated upon a throne and hourly waiting for his bride, was very touching to the few who were privileged to see it. Queen Isabella stayed nearly half an hour, and at six the Empress dined with the Duchess de Mouchy, Mlle. Lherminat, Comte de Brissac and Vicomte de Turenne.

After nine years. Her Majesty started for the Orleans station at 7.

Her suite followed in three carriages.
They drove rapidly through the streets, and it was noticed that the Empress, seeming to be wholly absorbed in her thoughts, never glanced at the familiar spots where the happy days of her life were spent. When they reached the station, at a quarter before eight, their arrival was expected by nobody, and not even the station master knew anything but the fact that a sleeping car had been ordered for unknown persons. But as soon as they alighted the news that it was the Empress, ran round the station, and all the railway employes crowded to the door of the car. They stood there silently with hats upraised. Most of them had seen that face before, as it looked out from the carriage in their midst on the days of the Emperor's fête. Most of them compared its beauty, so well remembered, with the wan and haggard look that it wore now. Indeed, the Empress is changed beyond the expression of words. Her form is bent and she is prematurely old. No demonstration was made by the spectators. At eight the train started, and four police agents accompanied the imperial party as far as the Spanish frontier.

The Population of the World.

The aggregate population of the earth is 1,381,932,000, Asia being the most populous section, and containing 798,- 00,000, while Europe has 300,500,- 00,000, Africa 203,000,000, America 58,- 000,000, and Australia and Polynesia 5,500,000. In Europe the leading nations are credited with the following numbers: Russia, 71,000,000; the German Empire, 41,000,000; France, 36,000,000; Great Britain and Ireland 22,000,000; Italy, nearly 27,000,000 Spain, 16,500,000, and Turkey, nearly 16,000,000. The other countries do not exceed over 5,000,000 each. In Asia, China, which is by far the most populous nation of the earth, is credited with 423,000,000; Hindostan, with 240,000,000; Japan, 33,000,000; the East India Islands, 20,500,000; Burmah, Siam and farther India, nearly 26,000,000; Turkey, 15,600,000; and Russia, 11,000,000. The Australian population is given at 1,674,500, and the Polynesian Islands at 3,764,500, New Guinea and New Zealand being included in the latter. In Africa the chief divisions are West Soudan and the Central Africa region, 39,000,000; South Africa, 20,250,000; the Galasountry and the region east of the White Nile, 15,000,000; Samauli, 8,000,000; Egypt, 8,500,000, and Morocco, 6,000,- 000. In America, two-thirds of the population are north of the Isthmus, where the United States has nearly 40,- 000,000, Mexico over 9,000,000 and the British Provinces 4,000,000. The population of North America is given at 53,000,000, of which Brazil contains 10,000,000. The West Indies have over 4,000,000, and the Central American States not quite 3,000,000.

An Unfortunate Voyage.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 23.—The British steamship "Rathmore," which sailed for London on Tuesday last with a cargo including 393 cattle, returned this morning. The first officer reports that as soon as the Gulf Stream was reached, a heavy chop sea was encountered. On Thursday night while the first officer was on deck the ship was struck by a heavy sea which swept her forward deck carrying ten or twelve cattle overboard. The first officer was thrown down and severely injured.

The Boatswain was then called to take the watch, and as he and the captain were standing on the Bridge, it was discovered that the try-sail was adrift.

The captain ordered it to be secured, and when the boatswain returned to the bridge he found the captain dead. The gun-block had fallen on his head and had crushed through his skull, killing him instantly. Half an hour later the ship became unmanageable and broached to. For some time she was buffeted by the sea, and the cattle became perfectly wild. The ship was got on an even keel again and started to return to Baltimore. Her hull suffered no damage, and but little injury was done. The whole loss of the cattle amounted to above ninety. The captain shortly before his death, expressed his intention to return to Baltimore, as the cattle pens were not fit for a voyage across the Atlantic at this season of the year.

Mrs. Catherine Hogarth Dickens

Mrs. Catherine Hogarth [Dickens'] widow of Charles Dickens, the novellist, died Saturday morning, November 22, at her residence in Gloucester Crescent, Regent's Park, London, aged about sixty-five years. She had been suffering more than a year from a lingering illness. Mrs. Dickens was daughter of the late George Hogarth, a well known man of letters, who was an early associate of Charles Dickens on the staff of the London "Morning Chronicle." She was married April 2, 1836, three days after the appearance of the first number of the "Pickwick papers." She lived with Mr. Dickens "Letters" just published, in which a large portion of contents of the first volume (from 1833 to 1856, inclusive) was addressed to her in a tone of great cordiality. From the latter date the letters to her are conspicuous by their absence, nor is any existence readily discernible in the concluding volume.

Mrs. Dickens accompanied her husband during his first visit to the United States in 1842, during his Italian journey 1844, and during many visits to France. She bore him seven sons and three daughters, of whom the second son, Walter Landor, a lieutenant in the Forty-second Royal Highlanders, died suddenly at Calcutta, December 31, 1863, aged twenty-three years; the fifth son, Sydney Smith, a naval officer died, at sea in 1872, and the youngest daughter, died, in infancy in 1851. The surviving sons are named:

Charles, Francis Jeffrey, Alfred Tennyson, Henry Fielding and Edward Bulwer Lytton, of whom the first named is now becoming known as an author, while Alfred and Edward are farmers in Australia. Of the two surviving daughters, the elder, Mary (called Mamie), has just edited her father's letters, and the younger, Catherine, called Kate, was married to Mr. Charles Al-lston Collins, brother of Wilkie Collins, the novelist, and on his death to a Mr.

Perugini. As is well known, Mr. and Mrs. Dickens separated in June, 1858, and she had ever since lived a very retired life in London. The cause of separation have never been authentically made known. Mr. Forster's biography preserves the greatest reticence on the subject, though the chief blame is allowed by him to rest upon the novelist, in accordance with the general current of public opinion.

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—About twenty minutes past 3 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the Grand Opera-House building in Adelaide street.

When the firemen arrived the flames had full possession of the building. The caretaker, Wright, his wife and little girl Mamie and a young man named Thos. Scott, slept in the upper part of the building. Scott jumped from a window and escaped with broken arm.

Nothing so far has been heard of the Wrights, and it is supposed they have been.

BURNED TO DEATH.

The building was erected some years ago by a stock company and was supposed to be one of the finest theatres on this continent. About three years ago it was purchased by Mr. Alexander Maus-ning.

AMERICAN GIRLS AND ENG-LISH SUITORS.

Appropos of the marriage on the 5th October, of Lord Granly, only surviving grandson of the late Mrs. Norton, the poetess, to Mrs. Charles Grantly Norton, formerly Miss Katherine Mo-Vickar, of New York, Mr. Labouchere calls attention to the number of American girls who of late years have married Englishmen. This is his explanation of the phenomenon:

It is because they know how to make themselves pleasant English girls are as a rule either too gushing and talka-tive or have nothing to say for themselves, American girls understand the tact and "savoir vivre" of French women with the solid qualities of the Angles

Saxon race. They know how to set off their natural advantages with dress, and they are almost always philosophically good-tempered.

English Opinion

London, Nov. 21, 1879.

The Irish arrests continue to be the leading topic of interest. The "Times" thinks there is every reason to believe that a timely display of firmness will extinguish any really mischievous element in the anti-rent agitation.

TWO GLIMPSES OF THE LATE PRINCE IMPERIAL.—We have two recollections of this unfortunate Prince; to which his cruel fate has given a pathetic significance.

joying the air and the exercise. One of them was the Prince Imperial, and the other Don Alfonso of Spain, the former seemed secure in the prospect of the most conspicuous throne in the world the other had just been driven, finally as it seemed, from a land which had decreed eternal banishment to his race.

Home Industries.

In referring to the above mentioned subject today, we are induced to do so, from the consideration of the utter lack of employment during the winter season, for a large portion of our operative population, whose attention during the spring and summer months is directed to the seal and cod fisheries. It is a well known fact, one frequently referred to in the columns of the press and on the floors of our legislation, that to a large portion of our population, we should say to at least three fourths, the four months intervening between the termination of the cod fishery and the opening of the sealing voyage is a season of comparatively enforced idleness to a people who, if suitable employment were afforded them, would gladly avail of the opportunity to turn to their advantage, a portion of the year which up to the present time has been comparatively valueless in its results.

means of affording additional employment to the people, still we are strongly of opinion, that with the people themselves mainly rests the responsibility of giving practical effect to that enterprise, the Government not being justified in going beyond the limits of legitimate authority in granting any concession, or affording that assistance necessary to its successful establishment.

ADDRESS: To THE REV. STEPHEN FLYNN, C. C. We, the Roman Catholic inhabitants of Carbonear, hearing that you are determined upon changing the sphere of your sacred duties and general usefulness, from this to another portion of the Diocese, hasten to express to you our sincere regret, that the tie which has so long united us to so venerable a Pastor, is now to be severed.

MY DEAR FRIENDS: This beautiful manifestation of your goodness surprises me. I have not expected it, and I am sure I scarcely know what I have done to merit it: but counting whence it does, believe me I value it, accept it and thank you for it and the handsome gift by which it is accompanied.

I value it as the pledge of a particular friendship on your part, for which I return you my sincere thanks, and as evincing that you are men of "good will" to whom, as this suggestive time reminds me, joyous angels erst promised "peace." I accept it as the testimony of your kindness to the efforts which I have made to do my duty with you; and I thank you for it and your splendid present; both showing most signally your genuine goodness and noble generosity.

My dear friends in leaving you, I know I part with many warm friends; hence it is not without some regret that I now contemplate the sundering of these lies by which I have been bound to you so long, and which, now for their parting seem all the more tender. But the voice of duty calls me elsewhere, and in answering, "I come" I but obey an authority which we all equally love and revere—that of our beloved Bishop, to whom "ad multos annos" loved and revered.

ADDRESS: To THE REV. STEPHEN FLYNN, C. C. We, the undersigned members of the Altar Society, beg leave to express our deep regret at your intended departure from Carbonear, and the consequent termination of the friendly and cordial relations which have been so well and happily maintained during your spiritual charge of this district.

When we reflect on the great spiritual advantages derived from your untiring zeal and assiduity in the performance of the onerous duties of your sacred calling, we feel how inadequate are words, to convey to you our sentiments of heartfelt gratitude and respect.

choice specimens of the sculptor's art, prominent among which, at the entrance of the Senate chamber, stands a statue in the purest white marble, of Her Most Gracious Majesty Queen Victoria. To the eastward and westward and some distance from the central or Parliamentary block, stand two other piles of buildings all within the same grounds, which are surrounded upon three sides by a substantial stone wall surmounted by an elegant cast-iron railing. The buildings, which are at right angles with the central block, contain the different offices devoted to the different Executive and Governmental departments are known collectively known as the Parliament Buildings. The ground upon which these buildings stand, is situated on an eminence on the southern bank of the Ottawa, overlooking for some miles the varied and picturesque beauties of that magnificent river. In the rear of the Parliament Buildings, on the slope of the incline towards the river but at a considerable elevation above its waters, a beautifully constructed and romantic path tastefully decorated with trees of various kinds, and rustic seats for the accommodation and convenience of wayfarers winds its devious way for nearly a mile, to the eastward of the city terminating near the Rideau Canal. This beautifully picturesque and rural retreat, is in close proximity to the centre of the city and known as the Lover's walk, is in summer, the favorite retreat of the elite of the wealth, beauty and fashion of Ottawa and its vicinity, who resort thither, for the purpose of enjoying for a few hours, the beauties of the surrounding scenery and the cool and refreshing breeze from the river. Having given a brief descriptive outline of the Parliament Building and the grounds in the immediate vicinity being the first portion of the city which claimed my particular attention, before proceeding further, I deem it necessary to give a description of the city, with its leading buildings public institutions &c. gleaned from personal observation during my brief sojourn in the Governmental capital of the Dominion.

Local and other Items.
The extensive circulation of the "Herald" throughout Conception Bay and the various outport districts of the colony render it a most desirable medium for advertising purposes. We would direct the particular attention of business men generally to the above mentioned most significant.

Owing to unusual pressure on our space we are reluctantly compelled to hold over for publication in our next issue, the Annual Report of the Total Abstinence and Benefit Society of Harbor Grace, correspondence, &c.

The T. A. & B. Society's Literary and Dramatic Club of Harbor Grace, their first performance for the season, at the Hall of the Society, on the evening of Thursday last. The pieces placed on the boards was the well known popular drama, "The Drunkards Warning." We certainly never before had the pleasure of witnessing the performances of the Club, but judging from their well established histrionic reputation we expected a treat. In this however we were not disappointed, as our anticipations were fully realized. The manner in which the various characters were sustained by the several gentlemen taking part in the evening's entertainment was indeed highly creditable, as was attested by the marked applause of the large and respectable audience present on the occasion. By request, the programme of Thursday was repeated on the next evening.

From correspondence to the Times under date, Bonne Bay, Nov. 30th, we learn of the loss on the 20th ult. in a heavy gale of wind, of a small craft sent up one of the arms of the Bay, for a load of firewood, on the day previous. During the night she drove from her anchors and became a total wreck, three of the crew perishing with the vessel. Hard times are anticipated in the same locality during the coming winter, owing to scarcity of herring and want of employment for the people.

By private advices from King's Cove we have further particulars with reference to the recent fire in that locality. It appears that the fire which destroyed the premises of Mr. Ryan with the telegraph office on the South Side, broke out about one o'clock on the morning of the 6th inst. An investigation took place on the 12th inst. but so far no clue can be obtained as to its origin. The telegraph office has been transferred to the new premises of Messrs Murphy on the North Side.

From a recent number of the "Leader" we learn, that by advices per "Curlew" from the westward, the prospects of the wintery fishery on the western shore was good. The weather was variable, but bait was abundant.

TELEGRAPHIC.
HALIFAX, Dec 18.
Serious news from Afghanistan. British troops ordered to India. Afghan Commander treasted for treachery. British captured and lost again an important position. British captured Zewa with a cargo of stores. Loss small enemy's loss large. Communications with General Roberts interrupted. Irish tenant who assailed Lord Fermoy has been sentenced to five years imprisonment. J.S. Carvill of Charlottetown appointed senator.

The Crooked Foot-Path.

Ah, here it is! the sliding rail That marks the old remembered spot The gap that struck our schoolboy trail The crooked path across the lot.

It left the road by school and church, A pencil ed shadow, nothing more,
That parted from the silver birch And ended at the farm house door.

No line or compass traced its plan With frequent bends to left and right, In aimless wayward curves it ran,
But always kept the door in sight.

The gabled porch with woodbine green The broken millstone at the sill—Though many a road may stretch between The triant child could see them still.

No rocks across the pathway lie—No fallen trunk is o'er it thrown,
An' I yet it winds, we know not why,
And turns as if from tree or stone.

Perhaps some lovers trod the way,
With shaking knees and leaping heart,
And so it often runs astray With sinuous sweep or sudden start.

Or one perchance with clouded brain From some unholy banquet reeled, And since, our devious steps maintain His track across the trodden field.

Nay, deem not thus—no earthborn will Could ever trace a faultless line; Our truest steps are wavering still—
To walk unswerving were divine.

Truants from love, we dream of wrath;
Or rather let us trust the more!
Through all the wanderings of the path We still can see our Father's door.

"BOREEN."

CHAPTER V.

A more curious thing ye never heard Of sir, nor this, said Andy humbly.
Only for to think, he added, while his fine blue eyes lighted up with honest pride, 'that Masther Walther will be huntin' over the ould property, an' every acre av it his own. Father Tom is seein' about buyin' it in promiscuous, sir, an' it was he that told me ye was wan av the rale ould respectable sort av attorneys that wasn't up to the dirty thickets that tuk the sod from under the poor mther's feet, bad luck to them that done the like!

Andy's bitter disappointment, when Mr. Fitzgerald told him that it was utterly impossible to convey the £500, or any part thereof, to Walter Nugent in 'in' e'ntab'le. This was a pet, a cherished scheme, it seemed so easy of execution.

'He wudn't touch a pinny av it, if it kem from me,' moaned the faithful retainer; 'an' how am I to get it to him at all, at all? Could we do it this way.
Masther Fitzgerald? Suppose I sint it be way av restitutip. That's it, sir,' added Andy, slapping his leg delightedly; 'it's many a pound I could have saved the ould masther av I had the same sense that's in me now.'

'That's the talk!' exclaimed Andy.
'Father Tom's at work, and betune ye yez'll make a good job av it, I'll go bail.' It was after two good hours tete-a-tete with the solicitor that Andy Gavin emerged into St. Andrew Street.

CHAPTER VI.

I am bound to say that Walter Nugent made a careful, nay, a very careful t ilet upon the June morning that was to take him to Taplow Bridge. The parting of his hair gave him no end of troubles one curl, absolutely refusing to be discounted, while the choice between and a blue and a rose colored sailor's knot led to what theatrical people "a stage wait." At ten o'clock, however, he reached the Paddington depot, blackthorn in hand, the joyful Boreen at his heels and in a few subsequent minutes was speeding away from the mist of London.
Glimpses of a keener, fuller blue began to appear, the gardens were green with the earlier foliage of summer, the songs of the birds rose high above the rattle of the train, and the barrister felt like a very child in his enjoyment of this glorious rush into fragrant country. The rapid motion, the si very light, the sweet air, the glimpses of o' streams, and orchards, and farmsteads, and lordly domains,—all were a delight to him while the anticipation of the hours to be spent in the refined society of the people he was about to meet additional zest to the charm of that moment.

Arrived at Taplow Bridge, he leaned over the parapets, gazing at the si very Thames, crowded with skiffs radiant in many colored fashions, and its banks lined with emerald velvet lawns striped with ribbonborders like s'rips of Persian carpets, at vil as of every sort, shape, size, and description, from the prim red-brick, ed mansions of the days of good Queen Anne to the imitation Swiss chalet erected by some rich citizen after the aus-tman rush through the vally of En-galine.

N g nt strolled round to the Guards Club, and asked of a baughty and supercilious being attired in a gorgeous livery if the Marchioness of Pomfr's party had yet arrived. At tois query the human flamingo dignified to be respectful, and was good enough to intimate that he would make inquiries. While this superior being absented himself, and while Nugent was engaged in gazing at a picture representing the Rus-ian attack at Inkerman repelled by the Guards, a voice exclaiming 'There's Boreen!' attracted his attention, and he turned round to behold little Ethel putting up her rosebud mouth to be kissed. She was all white frills, and ruches, and laces, and insertions, and looked a very charming little fairy, as, indeed, she was. Hester Branscombe, also attired in diaphanous white stepped forward, saying as she shook hands with him:

'How good you are to come! Let me present you to Ethel's mamma. Julia, Mr. Nugent.'

The marchioness expressed herself very pleased to meet the barrister.

'You have quite stolen the affections of the sole daughter of my house and heart.'

'A proud victory for me,' he laughed 'and strange y achieved. This is the first great cause, your ladyship,' touching Boreen lightly with his boot as he spoke.

'He is beautiful in his ugliness,' Mr.
Nugent.

'His heart is in the right place at all events,' exclaimed Hester. His gaze of affection at his master is as strong as anything Landseer ever painted.'

'Come, Walter,' cried Ethel, I want to show you the launch; but you haven't spoken to E-tell yet. Go away, Boreen You sha'n't touch darling Estelle.
Please carry her Wafter. Oh! my how awkward you are; you should'n't touch her petticoats. See how she opens her eyes at you, and the darling smile on her beautiful lips. Don't put your thumb into her back hair. That's better. Now give me your other hand, and we will go on board the Ethel. I want to introduce you to the engineer, and the stoker, an' the steward, and the boy. I want introduce you to Sam Dicker. I don't like him he madea face at me. He did, mamma, and put out his nasty tongue, and—'

'Your little tongue will have to be tied, Ethel, if you rattle on at such a rate; besides, when I was a little girl I invariably carried my own doll.'

'But Walter is Estelle's pappa, mamma, and hasn't seen the darling for oh! ever so long.'

'Down the velvet and sun-kissed slope to the skimming river, Ethel led the way, holding Nugent tightly by the hand, and skipping as though every pied daisy beneath her dainty feet had been red hot. Boreen, barking joyously, bounced before her and in very wantonness indulged in playful and idiotic snappings at her rustling laces, while ever and anon he would spring high in air in an abortive attempt to become possessed of one of Estelle Lafarge's blue satin, pinkrosseted shoes that dangled temptingly over Walter Nugent's left arm.

The steam launch lay moored to the rusic jetty, her coroneted penant flying in the caressing summer breeze; and as the party approached, the engineer, clad in snowy white, blew along and energetic blast upon the shrill steam-whistle, to which Ethel responded by waving her tiny parasol covered with point lace a birthday gift from the Duchess of Leinster, her godmother. The joyous child dragged the barrister on board, and compelled him, bona fide mal gré, to assist at the demi-toilette of Estelle, whom she put to bed in one of the luxurious berths with all possible state of formality, holding her daintily up that Walter should kiss her, ere she closed her china blue eyes for the siesta.

directions for use in almost every language.

The Trade Marks of these Medicines are registered in Ottawa. Hence, any are throughout the British Possessions who may keep the American Counterfei-for sale, we will be prosecuted.
Purchasers should look to the Label on the Pots and Boxes. If the address is not 255, Oxford Street, London, they are spurious.

CAUTION.

The PILLS Purify the Blood, correct al disorders of the Liver, Stomach Kidneys and Bowls, and are invaluable in all complaints incidental to Females.
The OINTMENT is the only reliable remedy for Bad Legs, Old Wounds, Sores, and Ulcers, of however long standing.
For Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Coughs, Colds, Gout, Rheumatism, and all Skin Diseases it is no equal.

BEWARE OF AMERICAN
COUNTERFEITS

I most respectfully take leave to call the attention of the Public generally to the fact, that certain Houses in New York are sending to many parts of the globe SPURIOUS IMITATIONS of my Pills and Ointment. These fraudaceous bears on their labels some address in New York.

I do not allow my medicines to be fold in any part of the United States.
I have no Agents there. My Medicines are only made by me, at 555 Oxford Street London.

In the books of directions affixed to the spurious make is a caution, warning the Public against being deceived by counterfeits. Do not be misled by this audacious trick, as they are the counterfeits they pretend to denounce.
These counterfeits are purchased by unprincipled Vendors at one half the price of my Pills and Ointment, and are sold to you as my genuine Medicines.

I most earnestly appeal to that sense of justice, which I feel sure I may venture upon asking from all honorable persons, to assist me, and the Public, as far as may lie in their power, in denouncing this shameful Fraud.

Each Pot and Box of the Genuine Medicines, bears the British Government Stamp, with the words "HOLLOW-WAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT, LONDON" engraved thereon. On the label is the address, 533, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, where alone they are Manufactured.
Holloway's Pills and Ointment bearing any other address are counterfeits.

The Trade Marks of these Medicines
are registered in Ottawa. Hence, any one throughout the British Possessions, who may keep the American Counterfeits for sale, will be prosecuted.
