Celebrated Norwegian Jigger

Fishermen should use these Jiggers and rig them with swivels same style as in Norway, then the Jigger acts like a minnow and when spinning attracts the fish, so that instead of jigging they really snap the Jigger and in this manner you never fail to catch them. Ordinary leads can be used, but the Norwegian style seems more simple and easily made. Our fishermen should try this great Norwegian fish killer.

ing in her eyes whose rays seemed to warm Ralph's heart. "It reminds me of the courtier who nearly let the King of Spain burn to death because it was not etiquette to tell him that his coat had caught alight at the fire before which his majesty was standing."

Ralph laughed, but it was a shaky laugh.

"And you ran some risk," she said, in a low voice.

"Oh, no," he said, promptly; "not a bit. And if I had—" He checked himself and glanced through the window; but Veronica rested her head more comfortably as if she did not share his impatience.

"And what did Mr. Talbot Denby say to make you so angry?" she asked, as smoothly as before.

Ralph colored. "Oh, I don't know. He was rather trying—Then you saw us?" he broke off, penitently. "I'm sorry!"

"You should endeavor to control your temper," said Veronica, with sweet severity.

"That's so," responded Ralph, with a meekness which would have astonished and gratified Talbot Denby.

"And did you take the trout to—Mrs. Mason?" asked Veronica, after a pause.

Ralph nodded, his brow clearing at the change to a subject free from embarrassment.

"Yes, and she was very much obliged."

"Very pretty girl, her daughter," remarked Veronica, soft as butter.

"Yes, oh, yes," agreed Ralph, without the slightest enthusiasm.

"You don't think so," she said, with wide-open eyes of surprise.

"Yes, oh, yes—at least, I haven't thought—oh, yes, I suppose she's pretty! To tell you the truth, I haven't noticed her particularly."

A smile—was it of satisfaction?—curved the beautiful lips and shone softly in the lovely eyes, but she said, as if disappointed with him:

"I don't think you have very good taste."

"Perhaps not," he admitted. "I don't admire that kind of face, I suppose."

"Really! And yet is is a very favorite one: fair, good complexion, with almost golden hair—"

"Yes, I know," he admitted absently.

"What type do you admire?" she asked, with an affectation of casualness and indifference which a woman would have detected in a moment, but which was lost on Ralph, who, of course, promptly fell into the snare.

"I like a girl with soft, dark hair, and grey eyes, violet eyes, and rather a pale face—what do you call it?—old ivory, and long lashes—"

CHAPTER X.

"I have worn shabby clothes, have gone about with wet feet because my boots were in holes, and I had to tramp to the factory with my work because I couldn't afford the penny for the bus."

"Good Lord!" he murmured, with a sense of guilt; for her words sounded like an accusation against the world of which he was a member.

"But I consoled myself all the time with the thought of what I was—a Gresham. Nothing could rob me of that consolation, and it supported me in the bitterest hour. That was pride, you'll say. I daresay. It is because I have suffered so much that I am proud. Do you think if Charles the First had been snatched from the scaffold at the last moment and restored to power that he would not have been all the more proud because of the sufferings, the slights, the insults, he had borne?"

Ralph nodded.

"I see," he said, in a low voice. "But, after all, you had your consolation, your support. You knew you were of high birth, that one day you might climb onto the throne—as you have. Some of us have no such help in our troubles and struggles. We're of the mud and mud we must remain. We're hewers of wood and drawers of water—" He stopped and shook himself. "That's rot, though, isn't it?" he said, with a laugh. "Why, I've read somewhere that half the House of Lords consists of men whose fathers, or they themselves even, have risen from the lower classes."

"Yes," she said. "In no country in the world has a man so many chances of rising to the highest position as in England."

His eyes kindled and his face flushed; then he laughed and sighed in a breath.

"Yes; I know all that. I used to think that I'd fight my way and come out on top or somewhere near it, but—oh, well, I'm a lazy sort of beast, and too easily satisfied. Give me a chop and a pipe and the country to eat and smoke them in, and I'm content. As I said, my mother used to lecture me upon my future and try—poor dead soul—to inspire me with ambition. And if she had lived, perhaps—But she died, and I'm just a gamekeeper."

The statement of his status seemed to remind him of the fact that he was talking too freely to the great lady.

"Burchett's a long time," he said. "I suppose he has had some difficulty in getting a carriage."

"It could not be here yet," said

Veronica. "Will you please put something under my foot? The couch is so hard."

He took one of his coats from a nail and, folding it, raised the injured foot as gently as a woman could have done and placed it on the improvised pillow.

"Thank you," said Veronica.

"Are you suffering much pain?" he asked, standing and looking down at her wistfully.

"No; not now. I'm suffering most from hunger," she replied, with a smile.

He looked round eagerly but helplessly.

"There's nothing but bread and cheese," he said.

"Yes; give me some, please," she said.

He sprang to the cupboard and brought some to her.

"I'd make you a cup of tea, but there wouldn't be time—What a confounded time the carriage is—"

"Oh, tea with cheese! They would not go well together, would they?" she remarked, with a little grimace as she took the plate.

He saw that she found it awkward to hold it, and took it from her.

"I'll hold it," he said. "I wish there was something better."

"Oh, don't apologize," she said. "I've known the time when bread and cheese would have seemed a feast of luxury."

Her novel humility stirred him to the depths.

"Why did you tell me that—that you were once poor?" he asked, impulsively.

She raised her eyes—they were so very near his as he bent forward with the plate in his hand—and smiled pensively.

"I—don't quite know. Perhaps I did not like you—anyone—to think that I was proud, proud of my birth and wealth. Perhaps it was because—Oh, I don't know! How nice this is! Though it's rather difficult eating in this position—"

She made as if to raise herself higher on the hard horse-hair cushion, and Ralph set down the plate quickly, and putting his arm round her helped her into the desired attitude.

"Thanks," she said, softly. "You are very strong—I want to tell you that I am sorry I was rude to you yesterday." Her eyes were raised to his for a moment, then were downcast again.

The transition was so sudden, the glance of the violet eyes so heart-thrilling, that Ralph caught his breath.

"You—rude—" he stammered.

"Yes," she said, almost meekly, as she nibbled daintily at the bread and cheese, and looked at him with half-lowered eye-lids. "I don't know what possessed me. I suppose it was temper. All women are bad-tempered, you know."

"No, no," he remonstrated with an almost indignant denial. "Not all! You—"

"I am; very," she said, demurely. "I always was. Pride and ill-temper go together, you know—How thirsty bread and cheese make one!"

He sprang to the cupboard.

"There's some beer—" he said, doubtfully.

"Water, please," she returned, smoothly. "O, thank you! But it was ungrateful as well as ill-tempered after all your—kindness."

Ralph's face went the color of brick dust.

"I—I—beg your pardon," he stammered. "I didn't think for the moment—I only thought—blood-poisoning, you know—it's very dangerous—But great liberty—"

"Yes," she said, with a smile gleaming

Divorced Life

By Helen Hessong Fuerste

Catching Glimpses of New York

Marian knew of a popular, priced hotel, to which she ordered her baggage sent, and toward which she set out on foot, having inquired the direction at the station's information desk. She thrilled with the thought that at last she was in New York. The metropolitan aspect of the place stimulated her magically.

She had not proceeded far when she became aware that a youth was following her. True to her apprehension, he drew beside her presently, saying: "I beg your pardon, but aren't you Miss White?"

"No," she answered coldly, giving the stranger a frigid glance, and noting that the other was well-dressed, clean-cut, evidently prosperous.

"Strange thing," he added, "but I was almost certain that you were Miss White. I certainly must have met you somewhere," he added, maintaining his pace. "Yet I don't seem to be able to place you. No, I can't quite place you."

By this time Marian had detected that his breath was laden with alcohol fumes. What was she to do? Her experience with the "artist" had rendered her hostile to strange men. "I don't seem quite able to place you," he kept saying, as he strode along at her side.

A sudden idea flew into her mind. She acted upon it at once. "Well, you come right along with me," she said evenly, "and when we reach the nearest policeman I think there will be no trouble at all in placing YOU."

Without pausing to prolong the conversation, the man darted up an interesting alley-way like a routed rabbit. Marian proceeded with a victorious smile toward her hotel. Thus far her two New York encounters had been anything but the kind her dreams had pictured.

A bath, a change of attire, and an hour's comfortable rest in one of the tapestried chairs in the hotel's balcony, and Marian descended to the dining room for her luncheon. An orchestra was playing lively airs. The noonday crowd was filtering rapidly in. Groups of men seemed to be talking business at many of the tables. Most of the patrons, including the women, were drinking highballs, cocktails or cones of beer. Did everybody in New York drink, wondered Marian, as her eyes roved the place.

Before she had proceeded far with her meal a feeling of utter and oppressive loneliness overcame her, here amid the swirl of metropolitan life. It took away her appetite, filled her with anxiety as to what to do, how to go about it, how to make the doors of opportunity swing ajar—the doors which had called and beckoned, pulling her across the miles, making her cut herself off from the old life.

The swift, brisk music of the orchestra seemed to mock and taunt. The patrons of the place, hurrying in and out past her table, their minds apparently filled with affairs, made her own lack of affairs oppress her the more. The meagerness of her remaining funds frightened her. She upbraided herself mentally for having come to this hotel instead of searching at once for a less expensive room in some boarding house.

With a sick feeling, Marian averted her eyes. So this was New York, brazen, shameless New York!

A painted brunette was chatting confidentially with a weak faced man of fifty.

Bits of sentences from an adjoining table drifted to her ears. A painted brunette was chatting confidentially with a weak-faced man of fifty. Now and then they laughed loudly, and several times Marian saw the man reach over and pat the girl's hand familiarly.

"Are you coming across with a little of the kale to-day?" Marian heard the girl ask, as she gazed from beneath drooping eyelids at her companion. "Sure. This ought to hold you for panion."

"A while, kid," answered the man, reaching into his pocket for a handful of bills.

With a sick feeling, Marian averted her eyes. So this was New York, brazen, shameless New York!

Wedding Bells.

On Wednesday afternoon, Miss Evelyn Elsie Pye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Pye, of Cape Charles, was united in wedlock to Mr. Victor Carlson, son of Mr. Wm. Carlson, of this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. P. R. Matthews, B.A., at the home of Mr. Ira Kennedy, Manager of Bowring's Southside Lower premises, who is brother-in-law to the bride. A number of relatives and friends of both were present. The bride was gowned in cream silk with veil and orange blossoms, carrying a bouquet of white carnations and maiden hair fern. She was attended by Miss Mary Taylor, while the groom was supported by Mr. Fred Butler, of the R. N. Co. After the ceremony a reception was held, when the bridal party, accompanied by their friends drove to Waterford Bridge where they left for Captains to spend their honeymoon. The bride was the recipient of many costly and useful presents.

DUNN—POWER.

Wednesday afternoon a quiet but pretty wedding took place at the R. C. Cathedral and was solemnized by the Rt. Rev. Mons. Roche, when Mr. Harry Dunn led to the altar Miss Lilian Power. The bride looked extremely pretty in a suit of sage blue silk with picture hat to match and was attended by Misses Alice Dunn, sister of the groom, and Edith Leahy, niece of the bride, while Mr. J. Dunn supported the groom. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's sister, after which the happy couple drove to Waterford Bridge where they joined the train for Manuels where their honeymoon will be spent. Numerous, costly and useful presents were received.

Stars Defeat St. Bon's

AFTER EXCITING GAME.

The Stars defeated St. Bon's by a score of two goals to nil in last night's match, after an exhibition that was a surprise to many of the fans, as the St. Bon's put up a much better defence than was at first expected. The teams lined up shortly after 7 p.m. with the St. Bon's defending the Western goal and from the start the play was fast and exciting. The Stars were aggressive at the outset but St. Bon's put up a good defence. Repeated attempts to score resulted in failure owing to misjudgment of distance. It was not until within five minutes of half time that the first goal was scored by the Stars the ball being nicely butted in by Cane from a place kick. During the remainder of the first half the St. Bon's worked hard to score but without result, and when the whistle sounded, the teams crossed the line with the score 1 to 0 in favor of the Stars.

SECOND HALF.

After the usual breathing spell, play was resumed and Higgins, of St. Bon's who had worked all through like a Trojan, redoubled his energies to equalize, and though the forward line worked well the defence put up by the Stars was too much for them. One of the Star players, J. Walsh, received a bad sprain in the ankle, which he had injured only a week before. He had to be taken to the dressing room where first aid was rendered by Mr. J. Reeves. Walsh had to discontinue playing, and was replaced by Edward Power, who received a great ovation from the fans, as he took up his position in the forward line. Morgan replaced Walsh as full back. Play was fast and exciting during the rest of the game. A few minutes before the final whistle sounded Adams scored No. 2 for the Stars, and when full time was called the score stood 2 to 0 in favor of the Stars. Mr. W. J. Higgins refereed the game and the line up was as follows:

STAR—Goal, Whelan; backs, J. Hart, J. Walsh; halves, L. Kavanagh, Christopher, Thompson; forwards, F. Whelan, Brien, Adams, Caul, Morgan.
ST. BON'S.—Goal, Lundrigan; backs, Power, Cleary; halves, Higgins, McGrath, Crawford; forwards, Callahan, Gear, Kent, Smith, R. Callahan.

The evening was an ideal one for football and the game was witnessed by a large number of spectators.

The St. Bon's team played a plucky game, and deserved to score, as they secured several corners that were badly placed.

Of course, the Stars play real football, and the game put by their last night received much admiration from the fans.

Sunday's Collection.

The object of the collection to be taken up at St. Patrick's Church on next Sunday is to help to liquidate the debt of $2,800 still due on the new school which have been put up as an annex to Holy Cross.

For some years past the want of sufficient school accommodation was much felt in St. Patrick's Parish. The congestion in the old schools had become so great that the Archbishop determined last November to initiate the work which is now completed and which is a credit to the contractors, Messrs. Kennedy Brothers.

The energetic committee who had the financing of the undertaking, collected in a few months the very large sum of $3,200. To meet the demands of the contractors the committee got a loan of $2,000 at 3 1/2 per cent. leaving the sum of $800 still due.

The Christian Brothers have undertaken to defray the expenses of furnishing the new rooms. The school desks and the benches for manual work were made by Callahan, Glass & Co. in their usual up-to-date style.

The new building contains two large school rooms, a typewriting room, and a room for manual instruction. It also has a fire escape by means of which the top flats can be easily cleared in case of danger.

The people of the West End have reason to be proud of the sacrifices they have made in connection with the new schools which will be the means of bringing educational facilities to the boys of St. Patrick's Parish long after the present contributors will have passed to their reward.

Many generous friends in the East End have aided very materially to swell the sums subscribed by the people of St. Patrick's, and to these kind friends the committee are deeply grateful. Let us hope that Sunday's collection may be worthy of the subscribers and of the object to which they subscribe.

Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works and I found 20.5 per cent of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manure.

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

Regatta Notes.

A few scores of enthusiasts were at the Lake side last evening, some to witness and others to build the C.C.C. wharf. This morning the wharf was completed.

At 8.30 last evening the Mary was launched, the first for the season, amid the usual ceremony of hurrahs. The East End Truckmen with J. Billiard stroke and coxwain J. Day, had their first spin in her, other crews will have a trial this evening.

The Minister of Public Works seems to be inactive and indifferent about getting that customary bridge erected at the head of the pond.

Along the north side of the lake, near the water's edge there is a collection of garbage. It is the worst kind of filth and a great menace to the public health. Some one should act.

This evening at 8 o'clock the Regatta Committee will meet at Wood's Restaurant. A great deal of business will occupy their attention, including the appointing of collectors.

Every morning and evening during the present week the Cabot is in use on the harbor. The Calypso's crew are practicing in her. They will row the Nellie R. on Regatta Day.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office, its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modernly and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. The House rose at 10 o'clock and the Lord Bishop pronounced the Benediction.

Obituary.

On Thursday, the 18th inst. there died at Glovertown, Bonavista Bay, one of the most respected and honored men in the person of Francis J. Parsons, aged 67 years. Mr. Parsons was formally a native of Freshwater, B.D.V. Five years ago he settled in Glovertown where he has operated a successful little fishery business. He suffered from cancer. The patience with which he bore his pains resulting in a quiet and peaceful end on Thursday last, is very striking. The funeral was very largely attended. Rev. T. H. James, of Elliston, officiated, assisted by the Pastor of the diocese, Rev. N. Cole. The deceased leaves a widow, four sons and four daughters, namely, Messrs. George V. Roland, John and Miss S. Parsons, of Glovertown; Mr. Theophilus Parsons and Mrs. W. Homer, of Freshwater; Mrs. George Ford and Mrs. Dean, widow of the late J. T. Dean, Esq. of St. Anthony, to whom we extend our heartfelt sympathy.

BY CABLE

Special to the Evening Telegram. QUEBEC, To-day.

After a day spent in consideration of technical evidence from John Reid, a naval architect of the Empress of Ireland, the wreck inquiry yesterday exhausted the last witnesses summoned to give testimony before it, and heard the address of one of the counsel, Geo. Gibson, Quebec, representing the National Sailors' and Firemen's Union of Great Britain. The Empress inquiry looks like creating a record for investigations of its character, being much shorter than the Titanic and a number of other probes into big marine disasters. Lord Mersey commented on the speed with which the inquiry had been carried on and also on the fairness with which Counsel have acted towards each other.

NEW YORK, To-day.

Interested merchants were closeted with J. P. Morgan and other prominent bankers day and night for the past week to avert the Claffin failure. It is understood that thirty million were necessary. "Mr. Morgan and others were not generous," said one who participated in the conference, "but it was a question of raising the whole amount or none at all." A calamity of this same sort which threatened some time ago only three millions were necessary. The receivers appointed said that the failure was of such tremendous proportions that it would be several weeks before it would be possible to know where they stand, though the failure perhaps is the most important in the history of the dry goods trade in this country. New York bankers predict the chief and perhaps only potent general effect will be temporary demoralization in the dry goods trade.

LONDON, To-day.

A despatch from Shanghai says the Chinese garrison of Kalgan, composed of 6,000 soldiers, mutinied, then looted and burned the city, killing all who resisted them. Women were attacked and many carried off. The orgie of the mutinous troops lasted until daybreak when they left the city and fled towards the Mongolian border. The Times' Peking correspondent confirms the report of looting and adds all Europeans are believed to be safe and that one hundred Chinese were killed.

OTTAWA, To-day.

The Dominion accounts of the last fiscal year were closed to-day and the statement of the revenue and expenditure will be issued in a couple of weeks. The note is expected to show much divergence from the estimates made by the Minister of Finance of $163,000,000 consolidated fund and revenue, $128,000,000 of expenditures on consolidated account and $37,000,000 surplus.

SALEM, Mass., To-day.

Nearly half the city was devastated by a fire which caused a loss of twenty million. One thousand buildings were destroyed, including a score of manufacturing firms. The fire originated at the Kern Leather Factory, West side of the city. The burning embers started a fire in two other sections of the fashionable residential district, adjacent to Lafayette St., and a manufacturing and tenement house district on the Peninsula bounded by Palmer's Cove, South River, and the water front.

FRIDAY, June 26, 1914.

An Impasse.

A deep note of pessimism runs thro' some recent observations of Sir Henry Lucy, on the Home Rule situation. Sir Henry is a long-time observer of matters parliamentary and his utterances are of weight. During the past forty years he has worked in the Press gallery of the House of Commons. He joined the Daily News in 1873 as special correspondent, chief of the gallery staff and writer of its parliamentary summary. For about a year he was Editor of the Daily News, in 1886. This occupation proved ungenial and he turned to the Press gallery. For some thirty-three years he has been known as Toby M.P., and contributed to Punch the Essence of Parliament. His personal observations in the Commons extend over a period of more than forty years, and his relations with parliamentary leaders have been most intimate. He is a prominent liberal in his leanings. In an article to the Observer, he says—

"The Irish question has drifted into what looks like a hopeless impasse, and except by modifying the home rule bill in favor of Ulster the government are at the end of their tether. Ulster still insists upon the absolute and final exclusion of the province from the bill. This Mr. Asquith cannot, and will not grant, and a remarkable nationalist volunteer organization exists to prevent it."

"Moreover," Mr. Lucy says, "considerable and influential sections in the ministerialists in the House of Commons would turn and rend the government if they thus mutilated the fundamental principle of home rule, namely the ultimate unity of Ireland under a Parliament in Dublin."

"As things are now moving the home rule bill will be added to the statute book without any agreement as to the amending bill."

"After that, the device, we are on the brink of a grave national crisis. The duty of all citizens is to recognize and prepare to deal with implacable facts."

"We cannot believe that the good sense of parliamentarians will allow the impasse to last."

Facts must be recognized, and the clear unmistakable fact is that whatever the Lords may do the present Home Rule Bill will go on the Statute Book under the Parliament Act. Concessions are to be offered in the form of an Amending Bill. Surely a working compromise can be arranged. If not, there is nothing for it but that the Home Rule Bill will go on the Statute Book and there will be no Amending Bill to go on the Statute Book to modify it.

Capt. Clarke's Temporary Retirement

His many friends in the city and elsewhere will be sorry to learn that Captain Clarke of the Red Cross Liner Stephano of which ship he has been in command since she was launched three years ago, is again far from well and acting on the advice of his medical attendants will stay ashore for several trips, as he has been ordered to take three months complete rest. Last winter Capt. Clarke was indisposed at his home in New York but in the early spring he rallied and in April month was sufficiently well enough to go to sea again. Unfortunately however, his convalescence has been only temporary and his bold appearance and kindly disposition on the bridge will be surely missed. During his temporary retirement his place will be filled by Capt. Smith who will be succeeded in the Florizel by Capt. Martin.

Fishery Reports.

The following fishery reports were received by the Marine and Fisheries Department to-day.

From Lewis:—Yesterday traps secured from 2 to 10 quintals, dorries from 1/2 to 3 quintals. Caplin plentiful, wind southerly with dense fog.

From Bonaville:—Very high wind W.S.W., no boats on fishing grounds yesterday. Some few boats arrived with 1 1/2 quintals, the first taken for the season. No Caplin; traps doing nothing.

From Fogo:—Moderate westerly winds, fair sign of fish, with hook and line, caplin plentiful.

Police Court.

A vagrant was sentenced to 10 days. A case brought against the R. N. Co. by the City Council for alleged waste of water at the dock premises was postponed until to-morrow, awaiting further evidence.

The fishery case which occupied the attention of the court yesterday was resumed to-day. It will likely finish this afternoon.

Bruce Passengers.

The Bruce arrived at Port aux Basques at 6.30 a.m. to-day with the following first-class passengers: J. P. Wyman, L. Keating, H. W. Striker, C. E. Manning, J. M. Campbell, B. A. Clarke, F. White, C. Fox, J. A. Jeffreys, J. C. White, S. C. Gillis, C. Martin, E. O. Gosse, William Gosse, S. C. Chase, W. Russell, Mrs. E. Pratt, Miss A. Reid, Miss E. Rogerson, Miss M. Cormack, Miss M. Hatson and Mrs. E. Noseworthy.

LITTLEDALE LEAVES.—We are in receipt of Littledale Leaves for June. It proves interesting reading and contains much of a patriotic nature.

Sir Thomas Roddick.

Among those recognized on the King's birthday was a famous Harbor Gracian, Thomas George Roddick, M.D. This distinguished surgeon received a Knighthood. Sir Thomas was born on July 31st, 1846, educated at his father's school and at Truro, and received his medical and surgical training at McGill, carrying off the Holmes gold medal. For six years he was Assistant House Surgeon at the Montreal General Hospital. He held later several chairs in succession at his University the last being Professor of Surgery. He organized the medical and surgical system of the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, and became the head of his profession. He was one of the first to receive the personal instruction of Lord Lister, in his methods of dressing wounds antiseptically. He organized the hospital and medical service of the expeditionary force in the N. W. rebellion in 1885. He was the first colonial to become President of the British Medical Association.

Methodist Conference.

The afternoon session of yesterday the 25th inst., was occupied with the receiving of reports, etc. One report, however, created some little surprise. We learn that at St. Patrick's, in the Twillingate District, there is a public house licensed to sell intoxicating liquor, and from this place, which in Green Bay is fairly central, liquor is conveyed at all times of the year to local option centres. We understand that this license was granted by the local magistrate, and it would be well to make an investigation so as to find out if all regulations relating to the granting or the renewal of such a license have been duly observed. We firmly believe that the majority of the people of the vicinity are for closing this place down. We understand that a deputation has been appointed to interview the Premier with a view of finding out his decision in the matter. We are hopeful, we believe that the day will come when the legalized liquor traffic will be forever banished from this colony.

Temperance and Moral Reform Meeting.

At 8 p.m. a large audience gathered in George St. Church to hear Rev. W. J. Smith, B.A., on the great question of Temperance and Moral Reform. Mr. Smith is one of the field secretaries connected with the Department of Temperance and Moral Reform. Mr. Smith is a graduate of Victoria University, Toronto, Ont. He is a member of the Hamilton Conference and in 1909 was President of that Conference. He ably represented his Department. The speaker first spoke of the great temptations which beset man, cursed with the greed of gain, to change the green sward on which happy children played in former years, into blind alleys and wretched tenement settlements. The effect of this upon child life is incalculable. Children, by trying to evade the police are schooled to be law-breakers from infancy. On becoming professionals they commit some crime. The state demands that they swing at the end of a piece of rope. Society says that "by so doing they have expiated a crime," when in reality they have only performed the last act of the supreme tragedy of the civilization in which we live.

Referring to the legalized liquor traffic he spoke (1) of the great struggle carried on in the United States of America for State Prohibition with a view to national prohibition of this great evil; 2 national unions have already secured prohibition; 8 more have prohibition in much of their territory, and 9 others are on their way to the polls. (2) Of the heart-breaking scenes which follow such an accursed traffic. He quoted the editor of one of the chief liquor journals of the United States of America as saying: "When the doom of the liquor traffic is sounded, the retail vendor of strong drink will be responsible for it." (3) Of the attitude of the saloon towards the Christian Church. The liquor traffic is the foe of the Christian Church. It will strike her, main her every time the opportunity presents itself. Christian Churches, therefore, should be the foe of the bar, and the saloon should never be allowed to doubt the relationship.

The White Slave Traffic.

That an organized traffic in human souls, the results of which put to shame the evils of the slave trade of former years, exists to-day, is a self-evident proposition. The panders frequent parks, railway stations, departmental stores, and even ply their trade in the quiet, secluded villages. The speaker cited an instance where he had come under his notice. This evil, to a great extent, is due to the double standard of morals, which exists in society to-day. This is not only a question for the church, but it is a question which vitally concerns the nation, for the history of the world proves that only that nation is secure, whose foundations are grounded in civil righteousness. The address was a masterly one, and one which will not soon be forgotten by those who were privileged to hear it. To-day, the 26th inst., Rev. Dr. Fenwick and A. News, Esq. were elected representatives to the Mission Board and Rev. T. B. Darby, B.A., was elected to visit the Holy Land under the Macpherson bequest. Rev. J. R. Saint, S.T.L. was elected as representative to the Temperance and Moral Reform Committee of the General Conference.

Will Make Temporary Repairs.

At a meeting of the Trustees of the G. P. Cemetery, held yesterday, it was decided to make temporary repairs to the fence for this year, and invite tenders for the construction of a concrete and iron fence next year. The fence was surveyed last evening, and a meeting to finalize matters will be held next week.

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, June 10th, 1914.

PRINCESS MARY'S APPROACHING DEBUT.

There is talk in Court circles that next year the King and Queen will give a fancy dress ball in honor of the debut of Princess Mary, who will make her first appearance in society at the opening of the season in February. Her Majesty is said already to have discussed the idea with certain of those who enjoy her confidence, and it has been suggested that St. James's Palace would furnish for this ball, which might take the form of a reproduction of various important episodes in English history, a better background than Buckingham Palace, with its very modern appointments. Such a ball would be unique of its kind in our Court history though it is believed that it was a suggestion of King Edward which led to the famous fancy dress ball at Devonshire House a few years ago, when His late Majesty appeared as Henry VIII. For most of the ladies who were at the Horse Show at Olympia on the occasion of the Royal visit last Monday, there was a piquant interest in the summer toilette of Princess Mary. The light blue silk dress she wore was more fashionably made than any dress in which her Royal Highness has yet been seen, and her white hat with feather mount, is not very surprising in its novelty, was a refreshing change from the staid, or even dowdy, headgear which she has had to wear in the past.

SIR PERCY SCOTT AND THE BATTLESHIP.

Admiral Sir Percy Scott's condemnation of the super-Dreadnought type of battleship and battle cruiser is not exciting so much interest in naval circles as one might suppose from a perusal of the newspapers. The fact which is overlooked by the inexperienced—who are of course talking about the matter—Admiral's views is that almost the whole purpose of the naval architect and the naval architect when they are not thinking out the details of new super-Dreadnoughts is to find a way in which to extinguish the type. It was extinct, on paper at any rate, when the destroyer came out and it has in theory been made similarly futile by every increase in the range of the torpedo. Yet all that has in reality happened is that Powers are building larger and speedier destroyers, longer range torpedoes, and bigger and faster battleships. Now it is the turn of the armoured submarine, possibly with Diesel engines, and the armoured sea-plane with a capacity of greatly increased loads to make the battleship futile. Nobody who knows the value of these new weapons of naval warfare ever believes them. But it is realized that even if they were so efficient as to make battleships futile, the building of battleships could only be brought to an end by international agreement. We could not, for instance, be expected to cease building Dreadnoughts unless Germany also did so. The plain man's rejoinder to Sir Percy Scott is, however, that his arguments are not so much reasons for the abandonment of the battleship as reasons for the evolution of better means of dealing with the submarine and aeroplane.

THE NEVA AND THE SEINE.

It is being said in Berlin that the political crisis in France, now momentarily alleviated by M. Ribot's success in forming a Ministry, was manufactured "not on the Seine but on the Neva." In other words, Russian pressure and menaces were behind the President's determination, which he carried almost to unconstitutional length, not to have a Radical Ministry working with the Socialists and pledged against the Three Years Law. A study of the Russian press of the last few days gives no little support to this view. All the Moscow and St. Petersburg papers, irrespective of party, have been in a state of the highest excitement. They have been denouncing the French democracy, French Parliamentary institutions, and French politicians. With one accord they have strated frankly and brutally that the Dual Alliance depended upon the maintenance of the Three Years Law and that if France did not do her duty Russia might have to look elsewhere for a partner. The Russian reactionary papers have been sneering at France as another Switzerland, and ironically urging her to abandon the pretence of being a great nation and to ask the other more virile peoples for a guarantee of neutrality.

THE ENTENTE OF OLYMPIA.

There is naturally keen rivalry between the competitors who are striving for honors at the International Horse Show this week, but fraternal feeling prevails, and the representatives of the different nations meet on common ground at Olympia. The Continental officers are apparently on the most intimate terms with the English, and all are unstinting in their applause when special merits shown in the ring, no matter what the nationality of the successful competitors may be. And this friendly feeling extends to the rank and file. The other day, for example, I saw a French orderly and two English Hussars doing their best to cement the international fellowship. The Frenchman knew no English and the Hussars were ignorant of the elements of French, but they found a subject of common interest in examining and admiring a Russian horse. Afterwards one of the Hussars invited the Frenchman to "Come and have a hook-tong cord-ale," at the same time giving through the action of raising a glass to his lips. Evidently this form of universal speech was understood, for the three went off arm in arm.

A PROPOSED CANADIAN CLUB.

The number of different kinds of clubs to be found in London is no doubt very large, but there seems to be room for a project which was favorably received by a meeting of gentlemen interested just held in the Savoy Hotel. The scheme is one for establishing a social club for Canadians in London. We already have a very popular Argentine Club here and other foreign countries are securing centres here of a similar kind in the West End. With regard to the present Canadian scheme a number of prominent Canadians are to be invited to form an organizing committee, and they will be open to receive suggestions. The idea of "meeting a felt want" was emphasized, because it was explained that Canadians either resident in or visiting England are, so far as club life is concerned, entirely dependent on friends in London and English clubs. Captain O'Kelly, who will be secretary of the organizing committee, says that suitable West-End premises are available, and can be opened as a club within a month. A moderate capital and moderate subscriptions are contemplated.

THE SEASON.

There are lamentations in the London newspapers about the decline of the season and the absence of money. The season is always declining and money is always absent somewhere. Yet to the ordinary social observer there seems this year to be more people, more money to spend, and more pretty girls than ever. True, there have been a good many checks—Royal mourning, cold weather, deplorable public misfortunes, and it was rumored an indisposition of the King, which out of consideration for trade and regard for people's pleasure was carefully kept secret. In spite of this the season which is now just half over has out-shone previous years in

How to Grow Hair.

The French are now placing on the market a preparation containing the extract from Henna leaves, which is having a phenomenal sale. This preparation is called Salvia and is being sold with a guarantee to cure dandruff and to grow hair in abundance. Being daintily perfumed, Salvia makes a most pleasant dressing. Sold by your druggist. A large, generous bottle for 50 cents.

all-round prosperity. Possibly there have not been so many great social affairs as in some seasons one remembers but the number of smaller gatherings has been extraordinary. There have never been so many balls or so many dinners before them. Time was when twenty-four was a "monster dinner"; now it is insignificant. Before a smart dance the other day the hostess in her own house had seventy people to dine. Balls are on the same scale. To make a success of a Mayfair dance one must ask at least four hundred men is a recognized axiom of this year. For lack of this precaution a ball at one of the fashionable hotels had to be closed down at about two in the morning not long since. Prosperity seems to be in the air. Everyone with a "good address" has a motor car nowadays, including the people who would never have dreamt of having a one-horse brougham ten years ago. Nearly everyone somehow has fine jewels. The Court is gayer in courtly way than it has been for years. It must, of course, be low tide somewhere in the West End, but all the superficial appearance point to the other way.

Are You Droopy, Tired, Worn Out?

Here is Good Advice to All Who Feel as if Their Vigor and Life Had All Oozed Away.

This Condition Can be Quickly Cured by a Good Cleaning Medicine.

Your experience is probably somewhat similar to that described by Mr. J. T. Fleming in the following letter from his home in Lebanon: "I think I must have the most sluggish sort of a liver. In the morning my mouth was bitter, and that foul, soft feeling that tells you, 'No breakfast needed here this morning.' A cup of coffee would sort of brace me up, but in two hours I was disposed to quit work, all energy having oozed out of me. Supper was my only good meal, but I guess I didn't digest very well, for I dreamt to beat the band. A friend of mine put me wise to Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I think they must have taken hold of my liver, perhaps my stomach, too, because at the very start they made things go right. Look at me now—not sleepy in the day-time, but hustling for the mighty dollar and getting fun out of life every minute. That's what Dr. Hamilton's Pills have done for me—they have rebuilt and rejuvenated my entire system."

To keep free from headaches, to feel young and bright, to enjoy your meals, to sleep sound and look your best, nothing can help like Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, five for $1.00 at all druggists and storekeepers or post-paid from The Catarthozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

The Head Constable is as usual taking a great interest in dumb animals, and has lately ordered off the street several horses who were suffering from sores on the back, etc., and considered unfit for service. Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferer and also thankfulness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? Two Two-Reel Film at the Nickel to-day.

The Nickel Theatre, to-day, will include two two-reel films in its programme. These with a comedy and the two songs will make one of the best bills ever presented to patrons. "The Power of Conscience" features the winner of the Ladies World Hero Contest, Francis X. Bushman, one of the most popular actors in the world to-day. It is a powerful story of an entirely new character and we feel certain will afford the greatest pleasure. "A Wild Ride" is also in two reels. It is a thrilling picture showing a lady riding on the back of an ostrich. Everyone should make an effort to attend to-day. There is another big matinee for the children tomorrow afternoon. The Nickel is the place for a good show all the time.

Queen Victoria's Reign at the Grand.

Splendid Film Portrayal of the Great Reign This Afternoon and Evening.

Those who saw the splendid picture Sixty Years a Queen at the Grand Opera House this afternoon, relieved, as it were, in the times when Victoria the Good and Great was reigning—a period to which all Britishers point with pride as the greatest in the history of the nation. Patriotic feelings were certainly stirred as the cinematograph reeled off great events in Her Majesty's career and aside from the superior entertaining qualities of the feature the instructive, educational aspects of it were beyond question. The seven-part film gave to many the opportunity of being brought in close touch with royal life, of having intimate glimpses of the great characters in years from 1837 to 1897. Such a picture told far more than a history book. Not a foot of the continuous photograph was wasted. It was a concise tabloid of the greatest reign in history. Crowded houses should greet the superb British subject to-night and to-morrow, matinee and evening.

The subject of this extraordinary picture deals with the main incidents in Victoria's life and it was not so much a question what the photographers would include in the film as what they could possibly eliminate. As Her Majesty's career teemed with important events, all of which are engraved upon the hearts of the nation. It was therefore with deep reverence the stupendous photo-work to be staged and posed—a series of 283 different ensembles and sections. The picture was an attraction at the exclusive Gallery Kinema, London, for six months and closed a successful engagement in the New York Theatre, New York City, last week. St. John is the first Canadian city to enjoy seeing the Queen pictures.

The historical review of the late Queen's life contained among many others the following incidents: The Young Queen Holding her First Privy Council, Coronation at Westminster Abbey, Firing Salutes in Hyde Park. The Privileges of a Queen, Gorgeous State Ball, Roland Hill, Inventor of Penny Postage, the Wedding of Queen Victoria to Prince Albert, The First Telegraph Station, the Hastings mode of Election, The Christening of Queen Victoria's First Baby, Several Attempts on Her Majesty's Life, Family Gathering at Osborne House, The First Exhibition in Queen Victoria's Reign, Discovery of Gold in Australia, Florence Nightingale at the Crimea, the Queen Received the Wounded at Buckingham Palace, Family Gathering at Windsor Castle, the Terrible Indian Mutiny, Rifle Shooting at Wimbledon, Death of the Prince Consort, David Livingstone, explorer, The Queen Opens Cable with Message to Lincoln, Hallow'e'en at Balmoral, Charles Dickens Meets Her Majesty, Prince of Wales Critically Ill, Meeting of Victoria's Cabinet, Indian Durbar in 1877, Gordon's Last Stand at Khartoum, The Great Victorian Jubilee, Victoria's Last Appearance in Public.

This is a presentation which appeals to the cultivated as well as the popular taste; to the patriotic and sentimental as well as those merely seeking amusement.—From the Moncton Transcript, Monday, May 11th, 1914.

Sixty Years a Queen will be on exhibition at the Casino all next week. Every afternoon at 3. While there will be two shows every night at 7.15 and 9.

How We Fool Ourselves.

By RUTH CAMERON.

It's a wise mind that knows its own motive. How often we sincerely believe that we are actuated by some most commendable consideration while all the time in the background of our minds, lurking behind our dense ignorance of ourselves, skulks some far less worthy motive. Occasionally something brings this real motive out from its hiding place, and then we are as surprised as the visitor stranger. Once upon a time I planned to take a little breathing spell in the country. A friend who was in great need of a rest was to accompany me and we were to meet two other old friends at the little inn to which we were to escape. I had been anxious about this particular friend for some time, and I had been instrumental in persuading her to take this rest. Therefore when circumstances arose at my home which made it difficult for me to be spared, I was greatly troubled. You see I knew that my friend would not go without me and I felt she ought to go. Of course if it were only myself I had to consider, I shouldn't hesitate a moment. I assured myself, "but I can't bear to see her give it up." And, gratified, as I sincerely believed, chided by this motive, I made up my mind to go. The day before we were to start, my friend telephoned me that the sudden death of a dear aunt had made it imperative that she should give up the trip after all. Of course my first feeling was sorrow for her, but close, oh so close, upon its heels came another feeling, a strong disinclination to give up the trip for myself. And found that I was almost as anxious to go as ever, and that the selfish part of me was already marshaling her arguments why I should go, such as that I needed the rest and would be of more service at home if I took it. Did I go? Don't ask me that. If I say "No" I shall be claiming too much merit. If I say "Yes" I shall be confessing to much selfishness. The point I wanted to bring out was that all the time I had been deceiving myself about my own motive. I have chatted at such length about myself because I wanted to illustrate the tendency of self-deception, and I know what goes on in my own mind better than I can know about any one else. Of course I may be wrong in thinking this is typical, but I have often been astonished to hear people ascribing the most unlikely motives to their own actions and intentions, and I cannot help thinking a similar self-deception is going on within their minds. "I've ceased to justify my deeds unto myself. The last infirmity of evil" said Lord Byron. I wonder if he had I wonder if anyone ever does.

Ruth Cameron

David and Goliath.

Goliath, tall, majestic, grand, wore a forbidding scowl. "I am a wolf," he boomed, "and this is my day to howl." He was the bully of the place, as his title agreed; whenever people saw his face they climbed the nearest tree. With fear the residents were sick, as they for safety liked; Goliath, fresh from Bitter Creek, just loved things as he liked. And so this champion of champs stood forth in brave array. "I'd like," he said, "to eat my lamps on any chesky jaw who thinks that he can poke my bean or bolt me in the neck; if such there be, let him be seen—I'll make of him a wreck." Then round the corner David came—a gentle youth was Dave; too young to know the fighting game, too young, indeed, to shave. But in his crav he had of sand a large and goodly store; he held a slinger in his hand, bought at a ten cent store. He heard the proud Goliath's spiel, and said:

"Such piffle makes your little nephew David feel like some fifty-seven aches. Just watch me while I wing the guy and stop his loud bawo!" He hit Goliath in the eye; the people yelled "Hur-roo!" And even in these humdrum days such things do often chance; the braggart brays, and while he brays he finds his name is Pance.

Queen's College Celebration.

Yesterday the alumni of Queen's College held their biennial re-union, which was attended by a large number of graduates of that institution, which is the Diocesan Training College of Newfoundland. At 7.50 a.m. all assembled at the Cathedral to participate in the Corporate Communion. The Principal of the College, Rev. C. H. Barton, was the celebrant, and was assisted by Revs. Canon Noel, M. H. Seeley and A. E. E. Legge. Canon Noel gave a short and inspiring address to the gathering which was greatly appreciated. The next item of the day's proceedings was the meeting of the Queen's College Club, of which the Lord Bishop is the President. This club is now four years old, and is in a very satisfactory condition. The meeting was followed by luncheon, at which Sir W. H. Horwood, Sir Joseph Outerbridge, Mr. H. E. Knight, and Rev. Canon Bolt, the members of the College Council were invited guests. The Bishop also presided at the luncheon after which he extolled the record of the clergy under his jurisdiction, of whom over fifty per cent. are Queen's men. He also paid special tribute to Rev. C. H. Barton for the good work being done by him as Principal of the College. His Lordship the Bishop then called upon Sir W. H. Horwood, Sir J. Outerbridge and Mr. H. E. Knight to address the gathering, which they did in a most encouraging and felicitous manner. Rev. Mr. Barton made the concluding speech, outlining the aims of the founder, Bishop Spencer, who seventy years ago established the Training College, and expressing the hope that the College will still continue in the course hitherto followed with such remarkable success. CHILD DIES

FROM EFFECTS OF BURNING ACCIDENT.

Yesterday afternoon Valentine Snow, the little 3½ year old son of Mr. Edward Snow, of Bowring Bros. Ltd., died from the effects of a burning accident which occurred the previous evening. On Wednesday about 6 p.m. the little fellow was put to bed and shortly afterwards the mother was summoned to the room by the child's screams, and upon reaching the room was horrified to see the child's clothing all aflame. She quickly wrapped the little fellow in a rug and thus extinguished the flames, but not before he had received serious burns about the legs and right side. Dr. Anderson was quickly called, and did everything possible for the little sufferer who was at that time expected to recover. However the little boy's heart was affected by the accident and yesterday afternoon he passed away. It is thought that the child, by standing on a trunk took down some matches that were supposed to be put out of his reach, and thus ignited his night clothes. The Telegram extends deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Snow in their affliction caused by the death of their only son.

Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram. ZACATECAS, Mexico, June 25. After four days preliminary fighting, the final assault on Zacatecas took place on Tuesday, resulting in the capture of the City by Constitutionalists. Dead Federals, according to official figures, numbers 4,000 and 200 losses. The attacking side is not stated definitely, though General Villa estimates the casualties at 500 dead and 800 wounded.

Workman Seriously Injured.

There arrived by last evening's express for the General Hospital a man named Michael Hooper, who was the victim of a serious accident two days ago at Lewisport. He was engaged with other workmen putting on board the S.S. Clyde at Lewisport wharf a large iron wheel, seven feet in diameter and which was to be brought to a Green Bay port to be installed in a saw mill. In some unaccountable way the wheel toppled over on Hooper, rendering him breathless and it was only with great difficulty that he was extricated. Shortly after being picked up the injured man was attended by Dr. Smith, who on examination, ordered that the man be taken hurriedly to hospital and accordingly he was put on board the incoming express yesterday morning. The unfortunate man is very seriously hurt internally and his recovery is doubtful. Hooper belongs to Campbellton where his family is living.

The Latest Invention FOR MOVING PICTURES.

Mr. Jack Rossley has just had hung in his theatre the latest invention for showing to advantage the best moving picture possible. It is a beautiful luminous silver screen, instead of the old-fashioned white cotton sheet or curtain. This wonderful silver screen is the latest and has a very marvellous effect on the picture. One would think that a light was shown from behind, whereas the back of the screen is solid. So light does the silver screen make the picture that it lights up the darkest corners and gives a depth to the picture that the old-fashioned white sheet could never do. Every one was asking Mr. and Mrs. Rossley what made the pictures so wonderfully light. Mr. Rossley did not advertise this silver screen before as he wished to see the effect before doing so, and last night as an experiment he dropped the white sheet half way across the silver screen and it was positively astonishing to see the difference. Rossley is the first to introduce the silver screen in St. John's. The new attachment to his picture machine and the beautiful feature films he can command by buying outright, patrons can see the best there is at present on the market. Dan Cusack sang a beautiful song last night, entitled "The old mill stream." Illustrated by a hand colored moving picture, also for the first time introduced in St. John's by Mr. Rossley. Dan does some good dancing, a new yodelling song, also an Irish song. A great show.

No Corns
Next Sunday In 48 hours your corns will be gone if you use this simple method. Apply Blue-jay tonight. Tomorrow you will not even think of the corn. Day after tomorrow the corn will be loosened. Simply lift it out. Some people keep corns year after year, merely paring them once in a while. Some people use old-time treatments, and think corns can't be ended. They wrong themselves. A famous chemist has solved the whole corn problem. And his invention—Blue-jay—now removes a million corns a month. Go try it. Note how the pain stops instantly. Note how gently Blue-jay underlines the corn. Note how soon the whole corn comes out, without any pain or soreness. Next Sunday you can be as free from corns as a barefoot boy. And, so long as you live, you will never again let corns bother you.

LONDON, June 25.
American fire-arms, ammunition and heireses were the subject of some amusing banter to-day, between the rival Irish factions in the House of Commons. Premier Asquith was asked to take special steps to prevent arms entering Ireland from the States in response to an appeal from John F. Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists to Michael J. Ryan, President of the United Irish League, Philadelphia, for aid to the Nationalist Volunteers in Ireland. Lloyd George, who replied in behalf of the Premier, declined to make any representation on the subject to the American Government. Arthur Lynch, Nationalist, then tried to carry the war into the Unionist camp by inviting Lloyd George to ascertain how much money American heireses had furnished to foment civil war in Ireland, but hilarious shouts from the Opposition of "Where is Harcourt?" reminded him that there were American heireses in both camps. Robert Vernon Harcourt, the Radical member, is a son of Lady Harcourt, daughter of John Motley, former United States Minister in London.

The House of Features

Big Line of Pictures—Bob Leonard, Max Aster, Pauline Bush and Louise Fazenda.

The Crescent Picture Palace should be crowded to the doors to-night, as one of the classiest programmes seen for some time will be presented. The feature subject is Red Margaret, the Moonshiner, a splendid Gold Seal two-reel subject featuring Pauline Bush, a drama that is very interesting and splendidly acted. The Fourth Proposal with Bob Leonard, and The Joy Riders, with Max Aster and Louise Fazenda, are two of the best comedies we have seen for some time. Miss Louise Arkandy, vocalist, will be heard in the classy novelty song, "I Love the Moonlight." The illustrations for this song are extra good, and the bill on the whole is a very attractive one.
