The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol  $\longrightarrow$  (meaning "CON-TINUED"), or the symbol  $\nabla$  (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

REPORT

FROM THE

Committee of Secrecy,

The Ninth of June, 1715.

HE Committee of Secrecy appointed to Examine the feveral Books and Papers to them referr'd, and to Report to the Houfe what they fhould find Material in them, having examin'd and confider'd the fame, have agreed upon the following Report, to be made to the Houfe, containing fuch Facts and Papers as appear d to them to be most Material, and of the higheft Importance, together with the Reafons that induc'd the Committee to lay them before the Houfe for their further Confideration.

The feveral Books and Papers referr'd to the Committee chiefly relate to the late Negotiations of Peace and Commerce; To the intended Demolition of Dunkirk; To the obtaining and disposing of the Affento Contract; To fom Negotiations concerning the Catalans; and Secret Transactions relating to the Pretender.

The Committee was in hopes, in fo Voluminous an Inquiry, to have been able to Trace out all the Steps, and the whole Progrets of thele Negotiations, but to their Surprize they find a want of feveral Books, Letters and Papers, mention'd and referr'd to in those that have been deliver'd to them, and frequent and long Interruptions of fome very material Correspondences that were carry'd on: But being inform'd, that these Accounts are all, which have any way come to the Hands of those who have the Honour to ferve his present Majesty, the Committee proceeded to draw up the following Report, warranted and founded upon fuch Authorities, as the Persons concern'd vouchfared not to suppres.

The first material Paper is Entituled, The first Propositions of France, fign'd by Monfieur de Torcy, April 22, 1711. N. S. and is here annex'd, No. (1*.) To whom these Propositions were directed, what previous Steps had been made on the part of France, or what Encouragement had been given on the part of England, does not appear, but it is evident that they are conceiv'd in very loose and general Terms, that from the beginning the Design of France was to secure Spain and the West-Indies to King Philip, to create Jealousies among the Allies; and that France offer'd to Treat with England and Holland either by themselves, or jointly with the Reft of the Allies, which is left to the Choice of England. On the 27th of April, 1711. O. S. + Mr. Secretary St. John transmits these Propositions to Lord Raby, the Queen's Ambassidor at the Hague, with Orders to

On the 27th of April, 1711. O. S. + Mr. Secretary St. John transmits these Propositions to Lord Raby, the Queen's Ambassidor at the Hague, with Orders to Communicate them to the Pensionary, 6 to assure that Minister the Queen was 6 refolv'd in making Peace, as in making War, to Act in perfect Concert with 6 the States, and defires the Secret may be kept among as few as possible, 6 he confessions are very general, that B 6 there

* Vol. 9. ful. 7. + Vol. 1. ful. 9.

<sup>6</sup> there is an Air of Complaifance fhown to England, and the contrary to Holland, <sup>6</sup> which might be of ill Confequence, but can be of non<sup>5</sup>, as long as the Queen <sup>6</sup> and States take care to understand each other, and to act with as little Re-<sup>6</sup> ferve as becomes two Powers to nearly ally'd in Interest; and defires the Pen-<sup>6</sup> fionary to be affur'd, that this Rule shall on our Part be inviolably obferv'd.

Lord Raby by his Letters of May the 25th and 26th, 1711. N.S. to Mr. St. John, in aniwer to these Orders and Allurances, acquaints him, * ' That the Penfionary had, with those of that State who had been formerly employ'd in the Negotiations of Peace, confider'd Monfieur de Torcy's Propositions, and the obliging Manner in which her Majefty was pleas'd to Communicate them; that they thank'd her Majefty for her Confidence in them, and affure her, that theirs is reciprocal; and that as her Majefty had promis'd, the will make no ftep 6 towards a Peace but in concert with them, they defire the may be affur'd of <sup>6</sup> the fame on their Part, and that they will make no flep in that, or any other <sup>6</sup> kind of Negotiation, which regards the mutual Interests of both Nations, but in Communication and Concert with her Majefty; they urge the Necessity " of an entire Confidence one with the other, at this Critical Juncture; they de-· clare themfelves weary of the War, which they endeavour to conceal from the Enemy, leaft he should make his Advantage by it; and that they are rea-dy to join in any Measures, which her Majesty shall think proper, to obtain a good Peace. But they look upon these Propositions as yet, in the same manner * as the Secretary does, to be very dark and general, and delign'd to create Jea-bouties between her Majesty, that Republick, and the Allies, but they depend " upon her Majetty's Juffice and Prudence, to prevent any fuch ill Effect, and hope the will make the French explain, more particularly, the feveral Points contain'd in them.

After these mutual Assurances had passed betwixt England and Holland, the Committee is surprized to find not the least Communication to the States of the Negotiations that were carrying on, for above five Months together, betwixt England and France, 'till after the special Preliminaries were fign'd, and the seven general Preliminaries were concluded and sent to them.

In the mean time Lord Raby, not being as yet let into the Secret, freely declares,  $\dagger$  'He thought it adviseable, and neceffary, to go open with the States in 'this Matter of the Propositions;  $\ddagger$  acquaints the Secretary that all the Letters from France agreed, that all the Hopes the French had was to fow Jealoufies among the Allies. And  $\parallel$  repeats his Advice, 'That we must act cautiously with them (the States) that they may have no reason to accuse us, for taking the least Measures without them.

But it was not long before Mr. Secretary St. John prepared his Excellency to have other Sentiments of the manner of carrying on this Negotiation, and in his Letter of the 20th of May 5 acquaints him with the agreeable News, 4 That 4 it was her Majefty's Pleafure, that his Excellency fhould make all poffible hafte 4 to come over, fince her Service may better difpenfe with his Abfence at this 4 Point of time, than it will perhaps do at another, and fince we muft now ex-5 pect to have very foon upon the Tapis, many Intrigues, concerning which 4 the Queen thinks it expedient that he fhould confer with the Minifters here; 5 acquaints him, that her Majefty defign'd, upon his arrival, to give him the Pro-6 motion in the Peerage, which he had defired. And then, that his Excellency might begin to have fome Notions agreeable to the Senfe of our Minifters, Mr. St. John in aniwer to fome very long Letters of his Lordfhip's, full of his own Reafonings, and the repeated Affurances of the Minifters of the States to act in perfect Concert and with an entire Confidence in her Majefty, tells him in thefe Words, 4 That Britain had gene fo much too far in weaving her In-4 terefi into that of the Continent, that it would prove no eafie Task to difen-6 tangle our Affairs without Tearing or Rending.

But this work of Tearing and Rending did not at all difcourage his Excellency, who waiting then for feveral Pofts from England, ftop'd by contrary Winds, and beginning to fuffect that the courfe of the Negotiation was turn'd into another Channel, that the Miniftry here might be fatisfy'd that his Lordfhip could without much difficulty depart from his own Opinion, ¶ he declares in his Letter of June the 16th, 171 t, N.S. to Mr. St. John; 'You may be affured, I will venture ' any thing and undertake any thing to ferve the Queen, you may venture bold-' ly to truth me with the real Intentions, and be affur'd, I will not make further ' ufe use of them, than according to my Instructions. He tells him, if the thing is actually gone no further than it appears, and France has not yet explain'd, and he has a mind, that he should come over for the Queen's Service, he is ready to come in a Yatcht, Frigat, Packet-Boat, or any way; and concludes in short, Dispose of me how you please, for all my desire is to ferve her Majesty to her Satisfaction, and I shall never grudge any Danger and Pains.

This voluntary and frank Declaration his Excellency desires in a particular

This voluntary and frank Declaration his Excellency defires in a particular manner, may with his humble Compliments be communicated to the Duke of Sbrewsbury and Mr. Harley.

It has been already obferv'd, that all Correspondence betwixt England and Holland, concerning the prefent Treaty, ended with the Communication of the first Propositions of France, if the Dateb had made any Attempt to wreft the Negotiation out of the Hands of the Queen, if they had enter'd into any feparate Meafures, or taken any Steps that might give jult Occasion of Offence or Suspicion to England, 'tis very probable the Accounts of any fuch Proceedings would have been left by the Ministry, for their own Justification, but the Committee do not find the least inimation of this kind, and are at a loss to know upon what Pretence fuch folemn Affurances were dispensed with as foon as made, and the Honour and Name of the Queen facrificed to the private views of her Ministers.

All Transactions betwixt England and France during this time, except two or three Papers, are entirely suppress'd, which in Lord Strafford's Instructions of O*čtober* the 1th, 1711, \* are faid to have been carry'd on by Papers fent backward and forward, and much time spent therein; the first Paper, that is found, is cull'd, + Private Propositions fent by Mr. Prior from England, dated  $\gamma_{H/2} 1$ , No. (2.)

call'd, + Private Propositions fort by Mr. Prior from England, dated July 1. No. (2.) The next is a Paper call'd, ‡Mr. Prior's Authority, this is fign'd, Anne R. at the top, and A. R. at the bottom, not counterfign'd, and is without a Date, and the Contents are, Mr. Prior is fully infitueted and Authorized to communicate to France our Preliminary Demands, and to bring ut back the Answer.

These two Papers together must be understood to be Mr. Prior's Powers and Instructions, of are at least all that are found in the Office, or given in by him; but by an Entry in Lord Strafford's Book subjoin'd to these private Propositions carry'd over by Mr. Prior, it appears that Mr. Prior had Orders to see if France had full Powers from Spain.

These Propositions, which were form'd here, leave no room to doubt of the little Concern the Ministry had to make good the repeated Affurances, that had been given to the Allies, in the Queen's Name, to make the French more plain and particular, fince in all things that concern the Allies the English Proposals are as dark and general, as those that came from France; and if this ftill could be any Queftion, it is fufficiently clear'd up in a third Paper, entituled, § Dranght of Answers upon the Conference with Monsieur Messager, wherein the British Ministry is much furpriz'd to find 4 That Monsieur Messager, wherein the British Ministry 4 Queen should enter into particular Engagements upon divers Articles which 4 depend not upon her, and which regard the Interest of the Allies; they appeal 4 to all the Papers which had been fent backward and forward during this Ne-4 gotiation, and to that which was carry'd by Mr. Prior, that the Principle up-4 on which they had treated all along was, That France should confent to adjust 4 the Interests of Great Britain in the first Place. This is a Principle from which 6 the Queen can never depart, and that it was abfolutely necessflary to remit the 6 Discussion of the particular Letterst of the the starter of the the Principle of 7 Departments of the particular Letterst of the starter of the starter of the first of the Allies to general Conference.

<sup>6</sup> Difcuffion of the particular Intercft of the Allies to general Conferences. By this it appears, that the Minister of France was instructed to treat of the Interests of the Allies, which the English Ministry would by no means confent to.

By Monfieur Tercy's Proposals, France offer'd to Treat with England and Holland, either by themfelves, or jointly with the reft of the Alies, not conceiving that Holland could poffibly be excluded from the Negotiation, but it is determin'd by the Englifs Ministry to carry on a separate Negotiation with France, exclusive of all the Alies, and in their private Propositions, an Express Article is inferted, <sup>6</sup> That the Secret should be inviolably kept, 'till allow'd to be divulg'd by the <sup>6</sup> Confent of both Parties, and thereby England put the Negotiation into a Mathod more Advantagious for France, than France had proposed or could hope for.

The Committee think it proper to infert here I the first Part of the Eighth Article of the Grand Alliance, wherein it is stipulated, Neutri partium fas fit; Bello femel femel susception, de Pace cum Hoste trastare, nist conjunction, & communicatis Confiliis cum alterá Parte. What will be thought of so manifest a Violation, as this whole Proceeding appears to be, of the Grand Alliance, the Committee will not take upon them to determine; but this Step being once taken, and Secret Preliminaries fign'd upon this Foot between England and France, before any thing had been finally Treated and Concluded for the Security of Great Britain, what fatal Confequences did happen to her Majesty's Kingdoms, and what Advantages accrued to the common Enemy, seems to deserve the most mature Confideration.

Before we leave these Propositions it must be observ'd, that here, in the very Infancy of the Negotiation, the Trade of the World, and the entire Spanish Monarchy, which had cost io many Millions; and the Effusion of fo nuch Blood, without being once insisted upon, contrary to the repeated Address of feveral Parliaments, and the declar'd Sense of the Queen, are given up by the English Ministry to the House of Bourbon, for Verbal Assurances that the Crowns of France and Spain shall never be United, and that this was done to early, will be Necessary to be remember'd in the further Progress of these Transactions.

There is no Account given of any Correspondence with Mr. Prior during this his Stay in France, nor does the certain time of his Continuance there appear. Upon his Arrival in France, Monf. de Torey in his Letter of the 3d of August, * 1711, N. S. tells Mr. St. John, 'he faw with great Pleasure Mr. Prior return after an interval of fo many Years, that he could have with 'd, he had had greater Liberty to employ those Talents which he was perfuaded he would have made a good Uie of, but he hopes Monf. Me/nager will iupply what he could not do. Upon his Return he was attended by Monf. Me/nager, a Minister of France, Vested with full Powers in due Form, and + dated August 3, 1711. to Treat, Negotiate, Conelude, and Sign with fuch Ministers, as should be authoriz'd in due form, not by Britain only, but any of the Princes or Estates then in actual War with France.

That Monf. Mefnager, upon his Arrival here, frequently conferred with the Queen's Ministers, appears by many Instances, but the subject Matter of these Conferences, the Times, Places, and particular Persons with whom he Treated, or by what Authority, the Committee find no Account of, till the 20th of Scptember, 1711.

By a Letter of Mr. Secretary St. John, then at London, of that date to the Queen at Windfor, No. ‡ (3.) it appears, that the Lord Treafurer, Lord Chamberlain, Lord Dartmonth, and Mr. St. John met Mouil. Mefnager that Evening at Mr. Prior's Houle; which Meeting, as Mr. St. John fays, was by Order of the Lords of the Committee of Council, but feems unknown to the Queen, until the Secretary acquainted her with it by this Letter.

At this Meeting Monf. Me/nager deliver'd to the British Ministers the Answer, fign'd by the King of France, to the Demands last fent over by England; which Demands and Answers were made the Secret Preliminary Articles betwixt Great Britain and France, and were fign'd as such, September 27, 1711. by Monf. Mefnager on the Part of France, and the Acceptation of them by Lord Darimonth, and Mr. St. John, on the Part of Great Britain. No. ¶ (4.)

Mr. St. John, in this Letter, reprefents it to the Queen, as the Unanimous Opinion of her Servants, then prefent, that a Warrant and full Powers fhould be prepar'd that Night, and transmitted to her Majesty to be fign'd, in Order to pass the Great Seal the next Day, whereby the Earl of Oxford, the Duke of Buckingbam/bire, the Bishop of Briftol, the Duke of Sbrewsbury, Earl Poulett, Earl of Dartmouth, Henry St. John, and Matthew Prior, Elgrs, were to be Constituted Plenipotentiaries, to meet and treat with Monsieur Melnager; which Warrant, and a Translation of the full Powers, were fent to the Queen. No. (5.) §

This Warrant under the Signet appears fign'd by the Queen, directing the Lord Keeper to affix the Great Seal to an Inftrument thereunto annex'd, containing her Commiftion to himfelf, and others, therein nam'd, to meet and treat with the Sieur Messager, but it does not appear, that any such Instrument did pass the Great Seal, the Warrant remains not countersign'd, and is endors'd Not as a fed.

This Warrant is dated the 17th of September, although 'tis manifeft, by Mr. St. 7obn's Letter, it was not prepar'd, nor thought of, 'till the 20th.

St. John's Letter, it was not prepar'd, nor thought of, 'till the 20th. This antedating feems defign'd, to justifie the Ministers, in their meeting and conferring with the Queen's Enemies, previous to the Warrant; which never paffing paffing into a legal Authority, it appears that these Secret Negotiations betwixt France and the Queen's Ministers here, were begun and carry'd on from the 11th of April to the 27th of September, 1711, when the Warrant to Lord Dartmonth, and Mr. St. John was figu'd, without any Powers or written Authority from the Queen; and it is very observable that the Queen was brought into these Measures, by its being represented to her by the Secretary of State as the unanimous Opinion of all her Ministers, to which alone the Assertion of the Queen is to be aterib'd.

* Vol. 8. fol. 8. + Vol. 9. fol. 33. + Vol. 9. fol. 45. 9 Vol. 9. fol. 59. § Vol. 9. fol. 37, 39.

But what is more itrange, is, that after Mr. St. John had represented it to the Queen, as the unanimous Opinion of her Ministers, that full Powers mult immediately pass the Great Scal to Authorize them to meet and treat with the faid Monf. Mefnager, these Powers should be laid associated and the Acceptation of the Preliminaries sign'd by Lord Dartmouth and Mr. St. John, by Vertue of a * Warrant directed to them two only, sign'd by the Queen at top and bottom, and countersign'd by no Body. No. (6.)

Where the Obilruction arole to the paffing these Powers, does not appear to the Committee, but those Ministers seem Confessors to themselves of what was doing, who so readily concurr'd in privately meeting, conferring and treating with the Ministers of France, till this separate Negotiation was to right to Maturity; but avoided to become Parties when the Treaty was to be fign'd and executed.

This great Care and Caution for their own Perfons, and little Regard for the Honour and Intereft of their Queen and Country, appears through this whole feparate Negotiation: It being very remarkable that there is not one Paper of Powers or Inftructions throughout the whole Affair counterfigu'd by any one Miniter, but the Queen's Name expos'd to cover all; which looks as if they flatter'd themfelves, that this Omiffion of their Duty would be fufficient to skreen them from the Juffice of the Nation, if thefe Matters thould ever come to be enquir'd into.

After fuch a Sacrifice made of the general Intereft of Europe, fuch a direct Violation of the Grand Alliance, and fuch unwarrantable and illegal Steps taken in transacting and concluding these Special Preliminaries between England and France, is had been but reasonable to expect in them fome very particular Advantages and Conceffions made to Great Britain, to attone for fuch unprecedented Transactions, but it is altonihing to find how infignificant all the Demands are, that were made on the Part of Great Britain; and, inconsiderable as they were, how ineffectual they have fince been rendred.

Nothing possibly could be faid lefs with Regard to the Succession, than what is here demanded in the first Article: The Queen not yet acknowledg'd by France, nor detign'd to be so, 'till the Conclusion of the Peace, as France afterwards explain'd this Article at the General Congress; not a word of removing the Pretender, nor any Engagement not to support him in any Attempt he might make upon the Nation.

The fecond Article offers a Treaty of Commerce, in fuch doubtful Words, as France only could make Advantage of.

In the Article of Dunkirk, the Equivalent is expressed in so ftrong a manner, and the Demolition so very loosely, as could not but bring certain and great Prejudice to our Allies, with very little Prospect of Advantage to our selves, and fatal Experience has convinced us, what Security is procured for our Navigation by this third Article. But the History of this will be further explained in its proper Place.

The fifth and feventh Articles chiefly regard the Affiento Contract; what a National Advantage that is like to be, is now too well underflood to want much Explanation: But with what Views the Ministers were fo fond of this, as to make it their chief Care and Concern, will no longer be a doubt when it shall appear that this part of the Treaty was calculated only for private Advantage. What the Ministry themselves thought most valuable in these Articles, was

What the Ministry themselves thought most valuable in these Articles, was that Part of the Seventh which grants us an 'Advantage of 15' per Cent. upon our Manusactures set to Spain: But this great Advantage soon vanishi'd into nothing, and was given up by our Ministry here. The Bission of Brillel fays indeed of it, in his Letter of the 17th of August, 1712, + Thatit was granted by the French with a Design either to inflame things between us and the Dutch, or to give the French never paffing 37, 39. a pretence to stipulate for themselves such particular Advantages in the Spanifu Trade as may be the Ruin of ours.

But what is most Remarkable in the Seventh Article is the Introduction to it, in which the Ministry confeis themselves to have been imposed upon by France, for they declare that from the first Proposals of Moni. de Torcy to that time, they always understood that by the real Securities promised in those Proposals, were meant Places, which now was absolutely refused, and they confent to take for real Securities what they confeis is none, but what a Love of Peace may induce them to accept as an Equivalent.

What was really of molt Importance to England was the Eighth Article, which relates to Hudjon's-Bay and Newfoundland, but the Ministry suffer'd themselves to be for großy impos'd upon in this Article, that they directly give to France all they wanted, which was a Liberty of taking and drying their Fish, whils France gives nothing at all to us, but refers our most valuable Interests to the general Conferences: Which was but another manner of denying them, as the Event has fufficiently shown.

We demand in the Sixth Article, that we shall have all the Privileges that have been or shall be granted by Spain to the Subjects of France, or any other Nation. Whereas the Ministers ought to have infisted that France should not upon any Pretence whatsever be permitted to Trade to the Spanifb Well-Indies, which they would not have omitted, if they had had the least regard to the Trade of Great Britain, or had not entirely forgot the eighth Article of the Grand Alliance; wherein it is expressly flipulated, as a Condition without which no Peace shall be made, neque ipsis bidem (that is the French in the Spanifb Well-Indies) Navigatio Mercature exercende causa fub quocunque pretextu, directie vel indirectie permittatur. One thing further is to be observed of these Articles, that such of them as any way relate to Spain are expressly granted in the Name and by Vertue of Powers given by King Philip, and yet after this, all Intentions of leaving any part of the Spanifb Monarchy to King Philip is publickly difavow'd; as will afterwards appear.

This fhort view of these Special Preliminaries sufficiently demonstrates that the Interset of Britain was not the Ind. cement to our Ministers to proceed in this extraordinary manner. Yet trivial as these Advantages are, France is prefs'd that they may be first adjusted; to what use and purpose is fully explain'd in the Draught of Answers upon the Conferences with Monsieur Meinager, 'That our 'Ministers may be enabled to engage the Queen to make the Conclusion of the general Peace cafie to France.

It is declared, That to fettle the Interefts of Great Britain in the first place is a Principle from which the Queen can never depart; this Plea was made use of, to defer the Interests of all the Allies to be discussed at general Conferences; but the Turn given to it here was to amuse the People, by persuading them that the English Ministry was contending for great and particular Advantages and Concesfions to be made to Great Britain, that might make us fome Amends for that great and unequal Burthen which we had lain under through the whole course of the War.

But the English Ministry having thought fit every where to extol and magnific the vaft Advantages that were granted to Great Britain, France refolved to make a proper use of it, and declar'd these Articles were an eventual or conditional Treaty only, and that the King of France would not be oblig'd to make them good, but in case of the figning of a general Peace, in this Sense Monssieur Mesager fign'd them, and with this Condition they are accepted on our Part. Hard Terms! That such Concessions as these were not to be purchas'd at a less price than forcing upon our Allies such Conditions of Peace as France should be pleas'd to impose upon them, and this the Ministry were fully appriz'd of some time before they were accepted, for in prefing to fettle and adjust fingly and feparately the Interests of Great Britain, they enforce it by faying 'France can run 'n o Risk in fuch Engagements, fince the Special Preliminaries will have no Effect 'till a general Peace fhall be fign'd.

By these means the Committee observe to how fatal a Dilemma the Queen was brought by her Ministry; she must either now go on through all Advencures in the Messures of France, or they had it in their Power, by divulging the Secret and exposing such a notorious Breach of National Faith, to make what Advantage they thought fit of it among the Allies, who must from this time think themthemselves disengaged from the Queen, if they could find their own Account by looking after themselves.

And that the French were neither fo ignorant, nor wanting to themfelves as to mis fuch an Opportunity, appears above three Months before these Articles were fign'd. When Lord Raby in his * Letter of the 20th of June, 1711, N. S. to Mr. St. John, acquaints him, * That both the Pensionary and Monsieur Vander Duffen had feen * a Letter from Monsieur de Torcy, giving an Account that they had begun a * Negotiation in England.

By this Management the Englifs Ministry had, under Colour of the Queen's Authority, and the pretence of treating of a Peace, put it in the Power of France to divest the Queen of all her Allies, and given them greater Advantages than they could any other ways have hoped for.

On the fame Day that the Special Preliminaries betwixt Great Britain and France were fign'd, which it was a fundamental Condition fhould be conceal'd with the utmost Secrecy, another fett of General Preliminaries on the part of France, No.  $(7.)^+$  was fign'd by Monfieur Me/nager only, which Mr. St. John, in his Letter to the Queen, fays, were to be fent into Holland, as the Foundation of a General Peace, in which my Lord Treasure made fome Alterations to make the whole more palatable abroad. And on the fame Day, a feparate Art cle was fign'd in favour of the Duke of Savoy, which is here annex'd.  $\mp No. (7.)$

From this time a perfect Confidence was established between the two Minifitries of England and France, and in the Letters written in the Month of October, a mutual Sincerity is recommended and engag'd for, and that a perfect Unanimity be maintain'd for accomplishing the Work in hand.

Lord Strafford's Inftructions in order to his immediate Return into Holland were now preparing, and dated Off. 1. O. S. 1711. And as an early proof of the Confidence which Mr. St. John repos'd in the French Minister, he acquaints Monficur de Torcy by his Letter of Offober 2, O. S. that the Earl of Strafford was going for Holland, and fays, II 'Your Minister, (meaning Monfieur Mefnager, who was 'then going back to France and carried this Letter,) is fully inform'd in what the 'Earl of Strafford is to propose to the States <sup>6</sup> Earl of Strafford is to propose to the States. Such Intelligence of the Queen's Counfels, which Mr. St. John confession had given to the Ministers of the Queen's Enemies, feems very extraordinary, especially if it be confider'd, that Lord Strafford was fent over to prefs the opening the General Conferences, with Affurances of the greatest Friendship and Concern for the Interests of the States, on the part of the Queen, and by her Authority to procure from France just Satisfaction for all her Allies; and in his Instructions is likewife directed to propose to the States a new Scheme for carrying on the War, and to acquaint them with fuch Resolutions as the Queen had taken concerning it.

Lord Strafford's Inftructions are hereuntd annex'd, No. (8.) § wherein almost every Article is a Specimen of the Sincerity with which our Ministers intended to treat the Allies. He is Inftructed that it must be the most careful Endeavour and fix'd Principle of all the Confederates to hold fast together, and this immediately after a feparate Treaty had been fign'd by Us; and if the Ministers of Holland thould express any Uncassing at their Apprehensions of any such private Agreement, he is order'd by evalue Answers to avoid giving them Satisfaction concerning it. But his chief Business was to deliver to the States the Propositions fign'd by Monficur Messager, as the Foundation of a general Peace, and as the whole of what had been Transacted; and to acquaint them that France had propos'd Usrecht, Nimegben, Aix la Chapellé, or Liege, to be the Place for opening the Conferences; to prois the States to fix upon One of these Places, and immediately to grant Pafsports to the French Plenipotentiaries to come thither and open the General Conferences.

These Propositions, so very general and uncertain, did extreamly alarm the States, as not being a fufficient Foundation upon which a Negotiation might be hazarded; they dreaded the fatal Confequences of opening the General Conferences, before the Articles offer'd by France were explain'd, and made Specifick, and especially before they knew at all what they were to trust to, for their own Barrier, and for their Commerce.

These Confiderations made them for some time decline granting the Pasports, and in order to prevail with the Queen to have some regard to her faithful Allies, and particularly in the two great Articles of their Barrier, and Commerce, they fent fent over Monfieur Bays to interceed with her Majefty to alter her Refolutions, they make the fame Reprefentations to the Earl of Strafford, but all to no Purpole. For as Mr. Sr. John declar'd in his * Letter to my Lord Strafford of Othher the 9th, 'certain it is that her Majefty has fo far determin'd upon her Mea-'fures, that thole will decive themfelves who may imagine by delay or other Ar-'tifices to break them. And again November the 2d, to LordStrafford, † 'The Queen 'will not finally concert a Plan for the Profecution of the War with the States, un-'til they join with her in agreeing to open the Conferences of Peace. And Lord Strafford acquaints Mr. St. John, November the tyth, ‡ 'that he had now told them 'her Majefty's Order to him was to Declare, That the fhould look upon any delay 'as a Refulal to comply with her Propositions.

In these Circumstances the Datch at last comply to grant the Passports, and agree to open the general Conferences at the time fix'd by the Queen, January the 1st, 1711-12.

The Refolution of the States General upon this Occasion is hereunto annex'd, F No. (9) as a Paper that must have mov'd any sett of Men, not already determin'd to hear no Reafon but what came from France; for altho' the Reprefentations made by the States, on both fides the Water, had made fome Imprefions, as is evident by a § Memorial deliver'd by Mr. St. John to the Abbot Gaultier, Ostober the 29th, 1711, No. (10) and by Mr. St. John's ¶ Letter to Monfieur de Torcy of the same date, No. (71) that accompany'd it; yet 'tis in the Memorial declar'd 'that the Queen remains firm in her first Resolution of caufing the Conferences to be opened upon the Articles fign'd by Monf. Melnager. The fame Memorial declares, 'it was ablalutely neceffary that the most Christian King should give to her Ma-' jefty the Queen, fuch Explications of his Intentions in respect to the particular " Interests of the Allies, which he shall think proper to engage them to come more eafily into the general Negotiation. So that hitherto tis plain, our Minifters were entirely Ignorant even of the King of France's Intentions with regard to the Allies. And again 'tis faid, ' If her Majefty withes the most Christian King would give an Explication to the aforefaid Demands, &c. his most Chriftian Majetly may affure himfelf, the Queen will make no other use of the Truth the King thall repole in her, but to advance the Negotiation, in feeking the florteft means, and the most effectual, to obtain a Peace to much covered.

It is there magain acknowledg'd, that the Dutch have nothing inview but their Barri : and Commerce; and provided the Queen can, without fear of being difavow'd, Specific formewhat near the Barrier that France will confent to yield to them, and to affire them of the Tariff of 1664, there's no room left to doubt that the States General would come without any further Hefitation into the Negotiation, in the fame manner as it had been concerted.

But leaft all these Arguments should have no effect, Mr. St. John in his Letter . to Monfieur de Torey, fays, 'These Explications will diffipate all Clouds, and 'you may believe we will make use thereof with great Referve, when I affure 'you, that if the King would offer a Plan of Specifick Preliminaries, the Queen 'will never Communicate it to her Allies, he concludes, If the Sieur Gaultier re-'turns with these marks of Confidence, you will see our Parliament as much inc clineable to Peace as ever it was to War.

Here the Committee cannot but observe the English Ministry begging of France, after they had been seven Months treating with them, that they may have some Intimations at least of what was defigned for the Allies; expressing their icar of being dilavow'd by France, after they had gone these lengths with them; declaring the Dutch would come into the Queen's Measures if they could but know any thing near the Barrier that was defigned them, and have Security about their Commerce; perfisting still, without any such Satisfaction in the Measures preferib'd by France, refolv'd to force the Allies into general Conferences upon loose and uncertain Articles, and promising if they could but have so much Credit with France as to be truthed at all; they would use it with the greatest Referve, and never communicate it to any of the Allies; for whole Satisfaction only it is pretended all this Submittion was mide.

The Return made by France is to be feen in a Paper call'd. *+ Anfwer to the Memorial brought by Monfieur Gaultier, November the 18th, 1711. No. (+1.) This Memorial is accompany'd with a * 1 Letter from Monfieur de Torcy to Mr. St. John, of the fame date, wherein he tells him ' his Majefly wholly depends upon the Secreev and good use you will make of the entire Confidence he tellifies to the ' Queen

The Committee think it needles to enter into a particular Disquisition of this Memorial, but observe in general, that nothing had at this time been demanded of France concerning the Disposal of the Netherlands, and that the King of France, not fatisfy'd with having fecur'd Spain and the West-Indies to his Grandion, proposes to fittip the Emperor of all his Dominions in Italy, and to impose upon him much worse Terms than he afterwards procured for himself, when left to carry on the War alone. The Dutch may have the Tariff of 1664, with fome Exceptions, if they content to this Scheme, if not, they are to be punished with the Lois of their Trade, and to be reduced to the Tariff of 1690.

But, extravagant as this Scheme was, it is received by the English Ministers, without any Surprife or Refertment; and Mr. St. John, in his Letter of the 25th of November, 1711, 'thanks Monsicur de Torey for the Communication of it; promices to make a different Ufe of it, and to keep the Contents with an inviolable 'Scerecy, and that the utmost Efforts should be ufed by England to fix the Pre-'tentions of the Allies; he reprefents it as necessary, that all those who wish for 'Peace may mutually help one another, and endeavour to finish the Treaty fo 'foon, as not to be exposed to another Campaign.

It is indeed no Wonder, that this Plan was never communicated to the Allies, which muft at once have broke off all the Conferences; and determin'd them rather to run all Hazards, than treat upon to ruinous a Foundation; but 'tis a Wonder that the English Ministry were not ftartled when they faw fuch a Scene open'd: But this shews with what Justice the Ministry complain'd, that the Allies would not enter into the Queen's Measures, when they never were inform'd what the Queen's Measures were.

Purluant to the Refolution of the States-General upon the prelling Inflances of the Queen, Palsports for the French Plenipotentiaries are fent to Monfieur Bays, and delivered to Mr. St. John. Utrecht is agreed upon here to be the Place for the general Conferences.

The Bifhop of Briftol, then Lord Privy-Seal, and the Earl of Strafford, are appointed her Majefty's Plenipotentiaries.

December the 23th, 1711. her Majefty's Instructions to her faid Plenipotentiaries are fettled and Sign'd, and are hereunto annexed. + No. (12.)

The Committee think 'fit to make one Obfervation upon these general Instrutions, wherein the Plenipotentiaries are order'd, 'That if it shall be thought pro-'per to begin by the Disposition of the Spanifly Monarchy, you are to infilt that 'the Security and reasonable Satisfaction which the Allies expect, and which his 'most Christian Majelty has promis'd, cannot be obtain'd, if Spain and the Wess 'Indies be allotted to any Branch of the House of Bourbon; to that hitherto the Queen thought fit to declare in all Publick Acts, that Spain and the Wess Indies ought by no means to be left in the Posses, that Spain and the Wess and Mr. St. John, on the 27th of September preceding, the King of France did expressly promise to make good the fixth Article for himself, and for the King of Spain, pursuant to the Powers which were then in his Majefly's Hands.

On the 15th of January, 1711-12, the Britiffs Plenipotentiaries arrive at Utreeht; who by their general Inftructions being order'd to concert Meafures with the Minifters of the Allies, and at the Beginning purfuing thefe Directions; Monfieur de Torzy, on the 31th of January, writes to Mr. St. John, ‡ and tells him, 'he perceives there was not fo perfect a Confidence ettablish'd between the Plenipotentaires of Franze and Great Britain, as was to be defir'd: He believes therefore he will think it proper to fend to the Bithop of Briffol and the Earl of Strafford "more precife infructions, concerning the manner, in which they were to concert their Proceedings with the King's Plenipotentiaries. And in the Anfwer to the Memorial fent by Monfieur Gaultier, § March the 28th, 17123' it is delared, 'the principal Order that the King had given to his Plenipotentiaries, wher. 'they'fet out for Utreth, was to effablish a thriet Intimacy between them and 'the Ministers of the Queen of Great Britain.

On the 20th of January, at the First General Confe. Ace, Lord Strafford took occasion to Declare, That the Queen had receiv'd the General Propositions as a Foundation for a Negotiation of Peace: but that they were binding to France only, and not to the Allies; to which the French Ministers readily affented. But it is to be observed through the whole Proceeding, that this is meant of the Propositions fign'd by Monsieur Messager only, the Congress not having the least Noice or Cognizance of what was fign'd, both on the Part of France and Eugland

On the 11th of February 1711-12, the French deliver'd * a specifick Explanation of the General Preliminaries, sign'd by Montieur Mesnager. No. (13.)

It must be observed that the King of France here makes, as well as in the Special Preliminaries, his first Offers, in the Name and by Vertue of Powers from his Grandson as King of Spain; how the Britifs Plenipotentiaries could reconcile this to their Instructions, and how their Behaviour upon it is to be justify'd, is not very clear.

This Explication was received by all the Allies with the greateft Indignation, and deepeft Concern, which had fuch an Effect, that Lord Strafford in his † Letter of the 16th of February, 1711-12, fays, ' the French Ministers are mortify'd ' at the general Discontent these Offers gave, and seem to wish they had put in ' Tournay for the Dutch, and St. Venant to be demolished, to have fortned the " Matter at its first coming out.

Nor were our Plenipotentiaries without their Uneafineffes: They had done all they could, Lord Strafford fays, to perfwade the French to be as ample in the Explication as they could,  $\sharp^{\circ}$  being that is what will have a great Effect, and firike 'the Minds of unthinking People, and make fome Work for Reflection for the 'Faction. The Plenipotentiaries complain, they are under great Difficulties on all Hands, for both Buys and Me/nager think they come flort of what had been told them in Ekgland; and the Allies then forming their reflective Demands in concert with each other, they want further Orders: The Plenipotentiaries are at a great Lofs how to behave about Spain, both in regard to the particular Advantages that were to be ask'd on the behalf of Great Britain, and the general Difposition of it.

But Mr. St. John foon fends them Words of Comfort, ||that Mr. Harley will fet out in a few Days, who is fully infructed in all the Queen's Views and Defires; 'That it were to be wish'd this Gentleman could have been fooner fent, 'but the Hurry which we have been for fome time in is inexpreffible; and he 'was too ufeful to be fpar'd, 'till the Houfe of Commons was perfectly fecur'd 'to the Queen's Interest, and to the Measures of Peace. I think I may fay 'they are abloutely fo now. He confession the French Plan to be too feanty. 'That they must let the French Ministers know, that the whole turns upon their 'Manner of Proceeding, her Majefty having gone further than could have been 'exp fted from her in promoting the Peace.

The Committee cannot but take Notice of the Reflection that is call here upon that House of Commons; as if they were fecur'd to the Queen's Interest, and the Measures of Peace, by the Management of a Secretary to the Treasury, a near Relation and a truty Agent of the Lord High-Treasure. For whose Use and Service Mr. Harley had been so well employ'd at home,

For whole Use and Service Mr. Harley had been so well employ'd at home, and was now to be sent Abroad, cannot be a Doubt, fince Mr. St. John thought it necessary to give Monssieur de Torcy an immediate Account of his successful Endeavours here, and the Business he was sent abroad to manage.

In his § Letter of March the 4th, to Monfieur de Torey, he tells him, 'He had deferred Writing of late, 'till he might write with certainty, 'till the neceffa-'ry Difpolitions were made among our People at home; and 'till the Queen had taken the only Refolution, which could bring us in a fhort time to a good and folid Peace. I have now the Satisfaction to tell you that this Refolution is taken, and that Mr. Harley will carry with him this Night, or to Morrow Morning, the final Infructions of the Queen to her Plenipotentiaries. I refer 'my felf to Monfieur Gaultier to explain to you more at large the Subject of this Gentleman's Commiffion; and what the Queen hopes his most Christian Ma-'jetly will do to cooperate with her.

These Instructions of Mr. Harley do not appear, but it seems the Subject of them was not proper to be committed to Writing; for which Reason, as in almott all Matters relating to the Pretender, it is referred to Monseur Gaultier to explain them; but what is meant by the necessary Dispositions made among our People here at home, is pretty well explain'd by Monseur de Torcy, in a ¶ Memorial dated the 28th of March 1712, in Answer to what was brought by Monsfieur Gaultier, wherein he coustmends the prudent Conduct of the Court of Britain, in managing the House of Commons, and in particular their wile Conduct in making known to the House of Commons that the Nation was abus'd by its Allies; and fays, ' the King of France assures these himself that those who now manage ' with fo much Capacity the Affairs of the Queen of Great Britsin, know how to ' curb the Passon of the turbulent Party in the other House.

In the mean time the Allies having each of them drawn up their respective Demands at Utrecht met together on the 4th of March, N. S. to communicate them to each other, as had been concerted, and likewise agreed that a Clause should be inferted in their respective Demands, for a just and reasonable Satisfaction for all the rest. Count Zinzendorff further institled that the Restitution of the whole Spanish Monarchy should be expressly mention'd. The Dutch declare they were resolv'd to make good all their Treaties, made on occasion of this War, as well those that related to Spain and the Indies, as those made with Portugal.

What the Behaviour of the Britis Ministers was upon this occasion, will belt appear by an Extract of their own Letter of March 6, * wherein they give an Account of the whole Proceeding, No. (14.) They were the only Ministers that did not make any mention at all of Spain and the Indies; and were (snible of the diadvantageous Confequences of being 6, they were defirous to take off this Odium, by feeming to fay fomething, and in reality to fay nothing; which they do by a general Declaration concerning the just and reasonable Satisfaction for the Queen's Allies, in Conformity to her Alliances; and humbly hope what was faid, will not be found converse to what has hitherto been declar'd.

On the 5th of March the specifick Demands of the Allies were delivered to the French Plenipotentiaries in Writing, they promife to explain themselves further upon them at the next Conference, which was to be the 5th, and then defired a further time to the 30th.

On the 30th the French Plenipotentiaries doclare they were ready to proceed in the Negotiation by debating with the feveral Allies; but would give no Answer in writing.

This was a great Surprize to all but the British Ministers, whom the French had beforehand advis'd with. The Allies still resolv'd to press the French to answer in writing, and follicite the British Ministers to join with them in it; who, that no Mark of Disagreement might appear (as their Lordships express themselves in their Dispatch of the 1st of April, 1712, t) did finally confent to an Instance that was to be made the next Day, to require an Answer in writing.

But Lord Strafford had before given Mr. St. John an account of his Opinion in his Letter of the 25th of March ‡, wherein he fays, <sup>c</sup> I can't help faying I believe the French <sup>c</sup> have taken the wifeft Party not to answer in Writing, the' most of the Ministers of <sup>c</sup> the Allies will be furpriz'd, expecting they should, and fays further, I believe it is <sup>c</sup> best they should first begin in the open Congress to reason upon some of the Allies <sup>c</sup> Demands, which will occasion for much difficulty that the Ministers of the Allies <sup>6</sup> will propole debating leparately, which had better come from them than any one elle. The French Ministers still perfiss in their Refusal, upon which the States came to a Resolution at the Hague not to treat unless an Answer was given in writing.

However the French continue obstinate. Lord Strafford fends an Account that a Refolution was taken at the Hague to carry Things to an Extremity, upon which Occation Mr. St. John expresses in the Hague to carry Things to an Extremity, was the last ' the Resolution taken at the Hague to carry Things to an Extremity, was the last ' convulsive Pang of an expiring Faction; and yet this Resolution was no more than to infift on a Demand, in which all the Allies were unanimous; and in which the Britifb Plenipotentiaries had themfelves concurr'd.

But what made the French thus perfift in the Refolution of giving no Anfwer in writing, is accounted for in Lord Strafford's Letter of the 27th of April, 1712, § wherein he fays the Penfionary was extreamly defirous the French would anfwer in writing, which ('tis his Lordfhip's Opinion) they will evade 'till they fee what Succefs Gaultier has had at London, and in his Letter of the 30th, "The French will avoid giving their 'Anfwer in writing, 'till they fee all agreed betwirt their Court and ours.

And to hew that the Fiench were very well faithfield with the method their Bulinela was in, the Plenipotentiaries in their Letter of April 15, 1712, ¶ fay, 6 They do not 6 find the French are much convinced of the necessful of Dispatch, and when any thing 6 is let fall of breaking off the Conferences, they feem to take it with a great Air of 6 Indifference, well knowing their Bulinels was not to be done at Utrecht, but by a 6 Negotiation carry'd on directly betwirt London and Verfailles.

About the beginning of April, Mr. Harky and Monf. Gaslitier arrive at Utrecht, in a very few Days after, the French Plenipotentiaries communicate to the Lord Privy-Seal and Earl of Strafford a Plan for a general Peace, to which they had added by way of marginal Notes, in a diffinit Column, what they are told will be abfolutely neceffary in order to a general Peace: But this is entrufted to them under the highest Obligation of Secregy, to different orthing of it to the reft of the Allies.

highest Obligation of Secrecy, to difcover nothing of it to the reft of the Allies. Our Plenipotentiaries accept this Plan as a Mark of the great Confidence Frame had in them 3 and readily engage that the Allies fhould not be permitted to know a Word of it 3 and under the fame Caution fent it to the Secretary. doubt, but this Plan that was transmitted to England as a great Discovery, was conecreed here, and sent by Mr. Harley to Usrecht, and by Albot Gaultier to France.

Mr. Si. John * much concern'd at the Behaviour of the Allies, and the Dutch in particular, thinks it proper to make one Attempt more, as he calls it, to gain them, and therefore orders the Plenipotentiaries to acquaint them, 'that her Majelty will confent 'to their having Dendermond and Ghent, and at the fame time depart from her Pretenfions to Oftend, and is willing that the Trade to Spain and the Spanif Indies be fet-'tled upon the fame Foot as it fublified at the Death of the late King of Spain, in all 'refpects, except the Aliento's Measures will be taken according to the Return they 'make to the Queen on this Occafion.

But at the fame time no Communication at all is made to the States, of the general Plan of Peace last deliver'd by Monf. Gaultier, as there never had been of any other, altho' in this last the Interests of all the Allies were settled and determin'd between Great Britain and France.

And to thow how candidly we dealt with the Queen's Good Friends and Allies, the Dutch, as her Majefty was pleas'd to file them, the 15 per Cent. upon all the Goods and Manufactures of Great Britain, which was offer'd at first as one of the chief Bribes to England to come into this destructive Peace, Mons. Meinager had now explain'd away, and confin'd to fuch Goods as were carry'd not to Spain, but to the Spanifb Weft-Indies only, and our Ministers finding that France would not make this Effectual, Mr. Harley is order'd to let it drop. But fee the Use that is to be made of this Infincerity of the French; at the fame time that Mr. St. John acquaints our Plenipotentiaries with her Majefty's Confent to give this up, he tells them, † 'but you will 'take care to do this in fuch a manner, as not only to get fomething for it another 'way, but also to reafon, and to a Compliance with her Majefty's Meafures.

Lord Privy-Seal, April the 20th, 1712, ‡ acquaints Mr. Secretary, our Negotiation is at a fand, till the French Miniflers are ready to return one Anfwer or other; and May the 10th, 1712, the Plenipotentiaries fay, 'The French tell us they can't think of gi-'ving in their Anfwer to the Allies till they hear from England the fueces of Monf. Gaultier, and you may believe we wait for it with no less Impatience than they do.

Mr. St. John, May the 3d, 1712, || acquaints their Excellencies, 6 I hope in a few Days my Difpatches will become more material, and that we fhall be able eithere to fatisfie our Friends at Utrecht, or not have Reason to be much concern'd at their Uncafinefs.

This ends in Lord Strafford's being fent for into England, and the following Orders are fent to Lord Privy-Seal for his further Conduct; § 'You are to ftop all Inf ftances for procuring the Tariff of 1664 to the Datch; you are to decline abfolutely to confer any further with them upon any matter, till you receive the Queen's Plan from hence, and that you will not, I hope, be long in Expectation of; and her Majefly finds fo ill a Return made by the States to her Condefection towards them, that the likewife orders your Lordship to take the first folemn Opportunity of declaring to the Datch Ministers, that all her Offers for adjusting our Differences were founded upon this express Condition, that they came immediately into the Queen's Measures, and acted openly and fincerely with her; and that the looks upon her felf, from their Conduct, now to be under no Obligation whatfoever to them.

The Summary then of this whole Proceeding at Utreebt in one fhort View appears to be this; a Congress for general Conferences was necessary to be open'd, that the Allies might in Appearance, agreeable to the Grand Alliance, have the Opportunity of treating and adjusting their feveral Pretentions.

Our Ministers were by their Instructions to act in Concert with the Allies, but they really acted in Concert with the French Plenipotentiaries.

The Allies giving in their Specifick Demands was not to be avoided; but the French were to gain as much time as they poffibly could, by unneceffary Delays; and at laft infift upon fuch a Method of anfwering these Demands, as they knew the Allies could not comply with. In the mean time the Negotiations were carrying on directly between Emsland and France, or rather all the Conditions diclated and preferib'd by France, whilf the Allies were amus'd with a Dispute about the method of answering; from which France would not, and they could not possibly depart; in which Emsland agreed with the reft of the Allies. All Particulars that concern'd even the Interest of the Allies were transacted betwixt the Ministers of Emsland and France, under the higheff Obligations of Secrety: The Dutch are prefs'd to come into the Queen's Meafures, without being acquainted what the Queen's Measures were; and because they would not confent to they knew not what, as foon as it was refolv'd to feud Orders to the Duke of Ormond not to engage in either Siege or Battle, and the great Pro-jects were ready to be executed on the other fide of the Water, the Queen declares the looks upon her felf now from their Conduct, to be under no Obligation whatfoever to the States General; and thus the Alliance betwixt Great Britain and her principal Allie is declared to be diffolv'd and canceli'd; before any thing was finally agreed and concluded betwixt us and France; or we had the leaft Security for our own Trade and Commerce, or any other Advantages that were to acrue to Great Britain.

During these Negotiations at Uircett, and the Diffutes that had been industriously rais'd and kept on foot; the two great Points of the Renunciation of the Spanifo Monarchy, and of the Ceffation of Arms, had been upon the Anvil. The first mention that is made of the Renunciation in order to be treated of, is found in a Memorial dated March the 28th, 1712, * entituled The Anfwer to the Me-morial brought by Mr. Gaultier the 23d of March 1711-12, this Memorial which was receiv'd in France the 23d of March is suppress'd, but the Contents of it may in great measure be collected from the Answer that was given to it. Thus much appears certain, that as the general Proposal that the Crowns of France and Spain thould never be united arole first from England, and was made an Article in the private Propolitions lent over by Mr. Prior ; fo from that time to this, the method of preventing that Union does not appear to have been once mention'd. The Senfe of France and Spain upon that important Article was not known, nor fo much as ask'd; altho' in every step France had given plain Indications, that the Crown of Spain was to remain to King Philip; and the Committee is furpriz'd to find the Ministry had gone fuch Lengths in promoting the Measures of France, without taking the least Precaution, or having any Satisfaction concerning the Monarchy of Spain; wherein the Interest of Great Britain was by their own Confession more immediately concern'd, than in all their other Articles of the Peace put together.

But it is plain that in this Memorial lent from England, the Scheme for preventing this Union was first proposed by England, and that the Expedient was a Renun-ciation; and as this is a matter of fuch Importance as deferves the greatest Attention; that it may be feen in its true Light, the Committee have annex'd the Extract of the Answer to the faid Memorial, and the feveral Letters that pass'd betwixt Monfieur de Torcy and Mr. St. John upon this Subject, No. (15.) +

In this Memorial Monfieur de Torcy declares in the strongest Terms, ' That the * Renunciation defired would be null and invalid by the fundamental Laws of France, according to which Laws the most near Prince to the Crown is of necessity the Heir thereto; 'tis an Inheritance that he receives neither from the King his Predecessor, nor from the People, but from the Benefit of the Law, fo that when one King 6 dies, the other fucceeds him forthwith, without asking the confent of any Perfon " whatfoever. He fucceeds not as Heir, but as the Mafter of the Kingdom, the Seignory whereof belongs unto him, not by Choice, but by Right of Birth only.
He is not beholden for his Crown either to the Will of his Predeceffor, or to

• any Edict, nor to any Decree, nor to the Liberality of any Perfon, but to the Law. This Law is look'd upon, as the Work of him who hath established all Monarchies, and we are perfuaded in France, that God only can abolih it. No Renunciation therefore can deftroy it, and if the King of Spain fhould renounce for the fake of Peace, and in obedience to the King his Grandfather, they would deceive themfelves that receiv'd it as a fufficient Expedient to prevent the Mifchief we propole to avoid. Then he gives an account of the Difpofition made of the Succeffion to the Crown of Spain by King Philip, and register'd in the Councils of Spain, which Difpofition he propoles may be confirm'd by the prefent Treaty of Peace, and ratified by the Cortes or States of the Kingdom of Spain.

Mr. St. John in his ‡ Aniwer, March 23, 1711-12, O. S. rejects this Propolal, and not at all convinc'd by what Monfieur de Torcy had fo ftrongly urg'd concerning the nullity of the Renunciation, infifts still upon it; ' We are ready, fays he, to believe you are perfuaded in France, that God alone can abolish that Law, upon which your <sup>6</sup> Right of Succeffion is founded, but you will give us Leave to be perfuaded in Great <sup>6</sup> Britain, that a Prince may depart from his Right by a voluntary Ceffion, and that he in Favour of whom that Renunciation is made, may be justly supported in his Pretensions by the Powers that become Guarrantees of the Treaty. In short, Sir, the Queen commands me to tell you that this Article is of fo great Confequence " as well for her felf as for the rest of Europe, for this present Age as for Posterity, ' that the will never agree to continue the Negotiations of Peace, unless the Expedient the has proposed be accepted, or fome other equally folid. Monticur de Torcy in answer to this Letter, April the Sth, N.S. || begins to think it cannot be impossible to find an Expedient to fettle this great Affair; and he propo-fes that when the King of Spain thall become either immediate Successfor, or prefumptive prive Heir to the Crown of France, he shall then declare the Choice he intends to nucle: either to maintain his Right to the Crown of France, or keep that of Spains, that King Philip shall become Party to the Treaty, wherein the Succession to the two Crowns shall be like wife settled, and that all the Powers of Europe shall enter into an Engagement with France to maintain it.

to an Engagement with France to maintain it. Mr. St. John, April the 6th, O. S. * reafons against this last Proposal, and the several Projects contained in Monsieur de Torcy's last Letter; infiss that no Expedient can effectually secure Europe from the Dangers wherewith it is threaten'd by the Union of the two Monarchies, unless the Prince, who is at present in Possession of Spain, makes his Choice at this very Instant, and upon a Supposition that the Crown of Spain would be his Choice, that this Declaration should be made during the Congress at Utrebt.

April 26. N. S. + Monfieur de Torcy feeming always to comply with what was defired, agrees that the Catholick King muft calm the Uneafinefs of Europe, in declaring from the prefent time what Part he will take, if ever the Succefficion of France is open in his Favour. That the Inconveniencies arifing from hence, muft fubmit to the Publick Good. (Thus, Sir, fays Monfieur de Torcy to Mr. St. John, the King appreving your Propofition, difpatches a Courier to Spain, and writes to the King his Grandfon, to let him know the Neceffity of refolving on the Choice he fhall make; and to declare it, to the end it may be inferted in the Treaty of the General Peace, and be made a Condition of it, whereof all Europe fhall be Guarantee: And promifes to ule all poffible Means, even Force, if it were neceffary, to make the King of Spain agree to it. He hopes this Propofition will in a great Measure remove all Difficulties; and as they muft expect new Obstructions from thole who would willingly break the Concernees, he believes the beft way to difappoint their Defigns, would be, for the Queen of Great Britain to propole immediately a Suspension of Arms, for they ground their Hopes upon the Event of the Campaign.

April the 29th, O. S. & Mr. St. John answers this Letter, and treats this Proposal as liable to all the Objections of the former, and argues thus upon it. Altho' the King of Spain thould at this Inftant declare his Choice; what greater Security will Europe have if the Execution of that Choice be deferr'd to another time? In offer-6 ing that he shall be oblig'd to declare his Choice at this present time, you agree, that neither the Stipulations of a Treaty, nor the Guarantee of the Powers engag'd in the present War, would be sufficient to secure that the Choice shall be made; <sup>6</sup> how then can we conclude that they will be fufficient to iccure that when the <sup>6</sup> Cafe fhall happen, he fhall quit one Crown to accept of the other, according to ' the Choice which he shall now make? He goes on, The Queen has often declar'd, that it will be impossible for her to be content with any Expedient which shall not he very folid, upon an Article of fo great an Importance as the Re-Union of the two Monarchies. This would be to lofe the Fruit of all the Blood which the Allies had spilt in the Course of this War; this would be to herray the common Cause 6 • of Europe, and to expose both the prefent Age and Posterity to greater Dangers • than 'tis possible to imagine. In short, he infifts that they must take Care that the time thall never be, when the fame Prince thall have the Crown of Spain upon his " Head, and the Succession to the Crown of France open to him. He at last propo-6 fes, if the King of Spain prefers the Expectation of the Crown of France, to the pre-6 fent Polfeflion of Spain, in fuch Cafe he shall withdraw forthwith with his Family out of Spain, the Possession of which, and the Indies, should be given to the Duke of " Savoy; that King Philip should have the Kingdom of Sicily and the Hereditary Dominions of the Duke of Savoy, together with the Monferat and Manua, all which Dominions he thould remain poffets'd of, tho' he became King of France, excepting Sicily, which in that Cafe thould return to the Houfe of Auftria.

May the 18th, N. S. § Monfieur de Torcy ftill yielding and complying with the Meafures of England, thows the great Hardfhip the King of Spain mult undergo, in facrificing his own and the Intereft of his Family, for the Eitablifhing a General Peace; however the King of France would fend to him to know his Mind upon the two Alternatives. In the mean time the King of France promifes that the Treaty of Peace thall be made, upon the Foundation of one of thefe two Propositions; either that the King of Spain thall renounce his Right to the Crown of France, and keep Spain and the Indies; or if he prefers his + xpeCtation upon France, he thall quit Spain and the Indies to the Duke of Savoy, in exchange for the prefent Dominions of the King of France, all Uncertainties are remov'd; and fubmits to the Gueen's Wildom, to confider what Method would be the most conducive to the General Good. I twould be very unhappy if any Event during the Campaign, thould fall out to difturb the good Difo politions that are ficen at prefent for Eltablifhing the Publick Repofe.

This

This Correspondence between the two Secretaries for preventing the Union of the two Kingdoms, carry'd on from about the middle of March to the 18th of May, 1712, ended at laft, juit as it began; and King Philip choice to make the Renunciation. The French Minilter giving us fach early No.ice, and teiling us to very plainly, that what we ask'd was utterly infufficient, and would be for ever deem'd by the unalterable Laws of France null and vold, is very remarkable. His Desterity in manging that part of the Negotiation, in ferming always to comply, and deficous to come as near as pullible to the Proposits made from hence, and fubmitting at laft, fince we would have it for to the Renuclation fo peremptorily infilted on, is no lefs observable.

would have it fo, to the Renunciation for peremptorily infiled on, is no lefs obfervable. But it is unaccountable how the English Miniftry, when they were expression to the would deceive themfelves, who should accept of a Renunciation as a fufficient Expedient to prevent the Renuls of the two Monarchies; when they laid it down themfelves as a Principle never to be departed from, that the Union of the two Monarchies would be the greatest Mischief that could puffishly happen to all Europe, and to Great Britain in particular; should fill perfevere in relying upon this Expedient of a Renunciation. And it cannot be forgot, that no Care was taken to render effectual the two only Expr Sents, that were ever propus'd for adding any degree of real Security to the Renunciation : Which were, to have it tolemnly accepted by the States of France, and to have it control'd by a General Gueranty of all the Powers of Europe engag'd in the pre-fer War. The first was ask'd indeed; but upon the Refulal of France was entirely given up by our Ministry : The fectual to How of Nong. do Nong. do not the two set for early a state this holiver of Monf. de Torey was receiv'd, Mr. Sr. John fent Understo the British Plenipotentiaries to declare to the States General, The Queen was now under no further Obligations what force to them, who with the reft of the Allies were to be Guarantees of this Treaty.

The Committee think it proper to mention here a Paffage in a Letter from the Lords Plenipotentiaries to Mr. St. John, February the 26th, 1711-12, N. S. * who acquaint him, that in fome Difcourfe with the Marefchal D'Uxeller upon occafion of the Death of the Daphin, they defir'd to know of him, what those Maafures are which France offers to take in Order to prevent the Union of the two Kingdoms; and whether they were to contill in real or verbal Securities; the French Minister pretended to know no other but of the latter Sort. And then they fugget to Mr. Sr. John, that an Obligation upon King Philip to Renounce the Regeucy as well as the Crown of France, for himfelf and his Pollerity, would amount to fome degree of real Security. But no Eudeavours were uted to obtain this, nor any mention inade of it, as far as appears.

France, to induct and as toterly, would anothe or the degree of red Security. But ho Effective obtain this, nor any mention made of it, as appears. Mr. Sr. John, as Secretary of State, transacted this Affair with Monf. de Torey; but as it can't eafly be fuppos'd, that he did this without the Advice and Approbation of the Lord Treefarer as firth Miniber; foi it appears, that at the fame time a Correspondence was held betwist the Lord Treefarer and Monf. de Torey: Mr. St. John fays in his Letter of the 2 and the Advice and Monf. de Torey; but to the Lord Treefarer and Monf. de Torey: Mr. St. John fays in his Letter of the 2 and the April 1712, † He was fore'd to thop the Courier writes to Monf. de Torey; S and April the 1 th, he was collig'd to flop the Courier till to Day, in hopes that Lord Treefarer would be in a Condition to ansfwer Monfieur de Torey's Letter, but the Defluxion in his Leys, which has hinder'd him for five Days, fill continues. And April the 2 th, the Monf. de Torey's Letter, and added the Monfi. de Torey would be in a Condition to the pays the who, like you and him, have had the principal Share in the Work of * Peace, hou'd have the Glory of finithing it.

Monf. de Torcy's Letter of the 18th of May, N. S. ¶ was received by Mr. Se. John the 9th of May, O. the Affairs of her Allies; and that to prevent all the Obfinations which the Events of the Campaign might occation to the Negotiations of Peace, the had agreed with the King to a Sufpendion of Arms.

The Cunditions specify'd in the Memorial, are Demands relating to North America, to Commerce, and the Suspension of Arms.

In the Article concerning Commerce, it is faid 'That feveral Points relating to Trade requiring a 'longer Dircuffium than the pretent Gifls would admir, and the Queen being much more innent upon fecuring the General Peace, shan any particular Advantages; demands at prefent only the 'two following Conditions. Secondly, That no Privileges or Advantages relating to Commerce with France, thall 'be yielded to any Foreign Nation, which fhall not at the fame time be granted to the Subjects of 'her Britawick Majetly; as likewife, no Privilege or Advantage in relation to the Trade of Greas 'Botheds of France.

As to the Sulpention of Arms, 'Her Majefly will confent it thall be made for two Months: Provided, Firth, That within the faid Term the King of Spain thall either make the Renunciation 'demanded, or thall yield Spain to the Dake of Savey, upon the Conditions mention'd in Mr. Ss. Thirdly, That in cafe the States General thall at the fame time confent to the Sulpen-'mence.

"fine of Arms, it i feems reafonable they flouid have the Liberty of putting a Garifon into Gambray. Upon theie Conditions your Committee cannot but obierve. That a they it was daily infillid into the Minds of the People, that the g. t Advantages in Trade and Commerce fecured to Great Britana, were the chief Inducemen 'o the Minifity to engage in theie Meafures with France, it is here declard they were more intent upon the General Peace, than any particular Advantages. And whereas it was taid down as a Principle from which the Queen would never depart, that the Interefls of Great Britain fhould in the fift Place be adjuffed; and the great Advantages flipulated for their Nations, between the Conclution of the Peace, were toyulfifte the Peace, and all the Steps that were taken to procure it; it is now Evident that no mention was made of our Trade in Systaw; and for our Commerce in General, the fettling of that was pollpond, and all Points its Diffure betwist Great Britain and France, were so be referted to Commillaries; which Proposition was not demanded, but volunearily offerd by Mr. 35. 56m. On the 8th of Jame, 1712. N. S. Monf. de Tarry fends an Account, '* That the King of Spaine,

On the 8th of June, 1712. N. S. Monf. de Torry feuds an Account, " That the King of Spain, " of the two Propultions, had cholen to keep Spain and the Indies, and to Renounce for himfelf and his Deficendants, the Right to the Crown of France. This principal Oblicate to the Peace being removid, the King of France expeds that the Queen will now clear on her fide the reft of the Difficulties, which may obltrudt this great Work; by making fuch Declarations as had been promisid upon the return of the Courier from Madrid, and as are ucceffary for this end. The King thinks the first and most argent is, to fettle a Suspension of Arms, either General, or at least between the two Armies in the Low-Counseries, which may continue till the Conclusion of the Pace.

On the toth of June, N. S. † Monf. de Tercy acknowledges the Receipt of Mr. St. John's Letter of the 24th of May, O. S. together with the Memorial; and tends another ‡ Memorial in Anfwer to it, containing the King of France's Anfwer to thefe latt Demands of the Queen. No. (23.)

He takes Notice, 'That the Letters from the Army mention a Defign to Inveft Quefney, in order 'to befiege it; but the King cannot think that the Queen approves of fuch an Undertaking, much 'lets that her Troops thal be employ'd to render it successful: He concludes, that if a Supeniton 's not immediately made, we may find our felves indiffentably drawn into fume great Event, which 'he hopes the Secretary's Prodence and Care will prevent.' And altho' in the Anfwer to the Queen's Demands, nothing Material that was ask'd tor our Trade in North America is granted, the Evacuating of Dankirk, and admitting an Englify Gariton is not agreed to, and the receiving a Dutch Garrifon into Cambray is abfolutely refus'd, which were propo'd as Conditions of the Sulpenfion of Arms; Monf. de Torey hopes 'That this return to the Queen's demands will occafion no new Trooble, but as the Beginning and whole Courfe of this Negotiation was carried on upon 'the Bana Fide, and a mutual Confidence of which they had feen the good Effects; it is necellary to 'banifh all Diffruft, and the Queen to repofe an entire Confidence in his Majefly, without initiding 'on Demands which may ferve only to create Jealouties.

On the 6th of Jame, O. S. || Mr. S. John owns the Receipt of Monf. de Torey's two Letters of the Sth and 10th of Jame, N. S. and fays, althe' the King of France had not antiwer'd the Queen's Demands according to Expectation, which were the Conditions on which the Queen was to make fach peremptory and decifive Declarations; yet the Queen would not defer going that day to Parliament, and making all the Declarations that were neceffary to render the Nation unanimoufly inclin'd to the Peace; that the had not indeed mention'd to the Parliament the Sufpendion of Army, but had commanded him to acquaint Monf. de Torey with the Refolutions the had taken in Relation to it, and infifting upon the Renuncision as the Capital Point of the Negotiation; and fur which, Her Majelly would rather depart from almost all the Points that had been agreed upon, than leave that to eny Uncertainty. Upon this Foundation the Queen hopes, that the moft Chriiliam King will not find any thing offensive in the Demands, which the found her felt oblig'd to renew, being Conditions for a Sufpendion of Arms between the two Armies in the Nether-Landr; which if the King contents to, fays Mr. Sr. Juba to Monf. de Torey, 'you have only to 'fign and fend to the Duke of Ormond, who at the fame time that he take Folffun of Dawkerk, will declare to the Allies, that he has Orders to a& no farther against france. Your Committee think is propes to infert here an Extract of a Letter from the Earl of Scrafferd to Mr. Sr. John, of the 30th of April, 1712. ** Thus you fill fee the Temper here, and the Time it will naturally take to get the Dutch (if they will at laft fettles Plan) hefore it can be done. You fee the Events we are expoled to by the Operations in the Field the mean time, and you have it by this time in your Power to terminate all, and even to ftop the Operations of the Army for a Month, 'till the Negotiation is ended one way or other : There is no 6 Pretence now it can be a Prejudice to us, fhould a Cellation be made ; for the former Pretences are out of Doors, of its being impoffible for the French to make Magazines for their Army to take the Field as toon as ours; and having burnt theie Megazines at first affirm'd impossible to be made, for us by that means to be Masters of belieging either Cambray or Arras, and our Army's marching to Paris is Ropt at least for this Summer in all Appearance. The French are now better polled than we are; their Army is much stronger. We cannot march to furprize them in other Parts of their Lines 'till we have green Forage, which wo'nt be up these Three Weeks at fooneft. They have all their Froops up, and we want a great Part of ours, effecially the Imperialifts, who, 'tis faid, cannot joyn the Army in a Month yet; fo that now the Advantage of a Ceff.tion of Arms is on our Side, if they will for the fake of Peace confent to it. If, upon these and other Confiderations, a Ceffation is thought in England necessary, the Queen must not propole it, but at the fame time be refolved to put it in Execution on her Side, if agreed to by the French; becaule fuch a Proposition will be fure to meet with Oppolition, unlefs back'd with Refolution, and may have the Effect of making those who delight in War undertake with so much the greater Precipitation some desperate Attempt. ' Upon what groundless Allegations the Earl of Scrafford did here advile a Suspension of Arms, is submitted to the Confideration of the Houfe.

The next Day, June 7, O. S. Mr. Sc John writes a ‡ private Letter to Monf. de Torey, expressing the utmost Considence in the good Faith of the Most Christian King; thinks it accellary to halten the Peace; tells him, it will frighten the Dutch to be told the Queen will act no longer against France; and that if they do not halten to make their Agreement, they will have a Butthen upon their Backs which they are not able to bear.

On the fame Day Mr. Si. John fends to the Duke of Ormend || Copies of thefe two laft Letters, and of the Memorial fent to the Marquis de Torcy. They have been, fays his Lordthip, prepared by the Queen's Order in Answer to the laft Express which came from France, and ' You will perceive by them, my Lord, that the Queen " infifts on the Execution of the Article relating to Spain, and on the Delivery of Dunkirk, as Points without which the will not declare for a Ceffation of Arms in the Netherlands; but if these Conditions are accepted, and fent figned by the Masquis de Torey to your Grace, and Dunkirk put into your Polleflion, you are publickly to own that you can act no longer againg the French. If they are not confented to, you are entirely free from Retiraint, and at Liberty to take all seafonable Measures that are in your Power for annoying the Enemy. It is pro-"bable the Marelchal Villars may receive the Orders which will be fent him from · Verfailles within a Day after this Letter will come to your Hands. Your Grace " will therefore lofe no Time in acquainting him, that you are in Expectation of . hearing from his Court that which muft determine your Proceedings; and that, " according to the King's Refolution, you are either to look upon your felves on . both Sides as freed from any Refiritive Orders, and in full Liberty of acting against each other, or that you are openly to declare for a Ceffation.

The Committee think it neceffiry now to go a little back, and observe what Orders and Instructions had been given to the Duke of Ormond, and what Accounts he had tent of his Proceedings during the time the Correspondence relating to the Renunciation was carrying on.

On the 12th of April 17.12, W. 52 his Influictions are fign'd by the Queen's (No. 25.) He is order'd to repair first to the Hages, and to be the Penfinnary, before he juts himfelf at the Head of the Fromps; to express to him the Queen's Refolution of prefing the War with all politible Vigour; to affure him he is prepar'd to live in a perfect good Correspondence with all the Generals, and particularly with F to concert the proper Measures for entering upon Action. Your Committee conceive these Instructions fign'd by her Majesty must be the Rule of his Grace's Actions 'till countermanded or revok'd by equal Authority, there being no general Direction in them to follow such further Orders as he should receive from a Secretary of State. On the 24th of April, N.S. the Duke of Ormond gives the Secretary an Ac-

On the 24th of April, N. S. the Duke of Ormond gives the Secretary an Account, <sup>6</sup> That, according to his Infructions, he had given the Penfionary all the <sup>6</sup> Affurances of carrying on the War with Vigour, and adding in Confidence with <sup>6</sup> all the Allies, and more effectially the Dutch, which were receiv'd with the <sup>6</sup> greatoft Proteflions of Dury and Respect to her Majefly.

On the 30th, * the Duke of Ormand had been in Conference with the Council of State, where, his Grace fayr, * there were great Expressions of Duty to her Majesty. * They told him there was no particular Resolution taken as to the Operation of the * Campaign, but left it to their Generals, who with their Deputies are to add in Con-* cert with the Generals of the Anies, and that they had given Orders to their Ge-<sup>6</sup> nerals to live in a good Correspondence with his Grace. On the 25th of April, O. S. † which mult be observed was before it was known France had agreed to much as to propose to the King of Spann the Alternative of the two Monarchies, which was not till the 18th of May, N. S. Mr. St. John begins to give the Duke of Ormend forme distant Hint of the Scene that was afterwards to be open'd, and tells hun, <sup>6</sup> The Queen inclines to be of Opinion, that <sup>6</sup> all the Troops, whether Su jects or Foreigners, belonging to her, should be im-<sup>6</sup> mediately under his Grace a Command. There may have been formerly Reatons <sup>6</sup> for using a different Method, but there teems at prefent to be some far very itrong <sup>6</sup> Nature for taking this, and perhaps thele may every Day grow fill itronger. In-<sup>6</sup> finuates there may be Reations to be jealous of Prince Engenes, and on this Oc-<sup>6</sup> ceasion his Grace is directed to be more cautious for some time of engaging in an <sup>6</sup> Atton, unleis in the Cale of a very apparent and confiderable Advantage, upon <sup>6</sup> Pretence of waiting 'till the German Troops were all arriv'd, that they may have <sup>6</sup> their Share, if there is to be any Akion.

On the 9th of M<sub>47</sub>, N. S. ‡ the Duke of Ormand acknowledges the Receipt of two Letters from Mr. S., John of the 16th and 22d of April, neither of which appear. But his Grace fays in Anfwer to the Secretary, '1 am of your Opinion, 'that a Battle won or loft would at this time make very great Alterations in the 'Treaties now on foot: But you remember that, in my Inftructions, I am order'd 'to adt in Conjunction with the Allies in profecution the War with Vigour; fo 'that, fhould there happen a fair Opportunity to attack the Enemy, 1 cannot 'refule it, if propos'd by the Prince and States. But I hope to have the Mef-'fenger before the Atmies are form'd, which will be in 3 or 4 Days

On the 12th of May, N.S. || the Duke of Ormond expresses thill the same Uncasiness, withes to hear from England that the Peace is near concluded, but hope, if it be delay'd, we shall have the good Fortune to force the French to comply with the Queen's Demands.

But his Grace was now foon put out of his Pain by the Order mention'd before of May the 10th, O. S. not to engage in any Siege or hazard a Battle. On the 15th of May, N.S. 5 The Duke of Ormond writes two Letters to Mr. Sr.

On the 25th of May, N.S. 5 The Duke of Ormond writes two Letters to Mr. Sr. John, a private Letter and a publick Letter. In the first, which was his private Letter, and all wrote in his own Hand, 'his Grace acknowledges the Receipt of his Orders, not to engage in Siege or Battle ; to which he promifes an exact Obedience, and to keep feeret his having receiv'd any fuch Command, and will endeavour to hinder its being fuspected. But Prince Engens and the States having propos'd to attack the Enemy, or, if that be found too hazardour, to befiege Quefing, his Grace fears it will be very difficult for him to difguife the true Reaion of his oppoing all Propolals that thall be made for undertaking any thing, having no Excuse for Delays, all the Troops we expected, and the heavy Cannon, being to be here on Saurday: And he fays if he could have found Forage here, he would have made forme Pretence to delay the March, tho' the Difpositione of it were made before he received this Letter.

But on the fame Day his Grace writes another ¶ publick Letter to Mr. St. John, after he had receiv'd the Letter of the 10th, as is expreily faid; wherein he takes no Notice of his Orders not to engage in Siege or Battle, but speaks of his having review'd the English Troops, and found them in to good a Condition, that must convince all the Allies how groundless the Complaints are that have been made of our eur Backwardneis, of whic't he fays, 'l bekeve you will now hear no more. "He goes on, ' If we find an Opportunity to bring the Enemy to a Battle, we shall ' not decline it.

On the 28th of May, the Duke of Ormond, * in his Letter to Mr. Sc. John, fays, Yefterday Prince Engene and the States Deputics defir'd that I would confeat to fend the Quarter-Matters to view the Preuch Camp, which I could not refule, without giving them tome Sufpicion of what I am order'd to difguife, but I was fire that nothing of Action could happen, the Enemy being behind the Schelde. The Detachment that went with them were Forty Squadrons, and all the Grenadiers of my Army to fupport them and make good their Retreat, fhould the Enemy have endeavour'd for to have attack'd them. They went as far (I mean the Horfe) as Catelet, where the Right of the Enemy's Army lies, and are come back without feeing any of the French on our Side the Schelde.

• The Diffance between the Head of the Somme and that of the Schelde is not • above a League and a Half, which is a Plsin, and the Enemy have not yet of-• fer'd to throw up any Retrenchment: May be to Morrow they will begin to • work, fince they have feen our Troops reconnoiting that Way. • Prince Emgene and the Deputies being to dine with his Grace the next Day, he was under Apprehendions they would prefs him to undertake fomething immediately, which it would be very hard to conceal the true Reafon of his refuting, having no reafonable Excufe for it.

In this + Letter his Grace gives an Account of a Letter that he had received from Marefehal Villers, and the Aniwer that his Grace wrote to the Marefehal.

This Correspondence, which on both Sides is infifted upon to be kept as the most abfolute Secret, is founded upon a Postfeript in Mr. S. John's Latter of May the toth to the Duke of Ormond; wherein he tells his Grace 'Communication is given 'of this Order to the Court of Frances to that if Mareschal Villars takes any pair ware way Notice of it to you, your Grace will assure accordingly.

* vate way Notice of it to you, your Grace will answer accordingly. May the 25th, N.S. Mareichal Villars acquaints his Grace, ‡ * That he had the * King's Orders, and the Queen or England's Confent, to write to him as foon as he * received the Courier, and whatever Glory is to be acquird against a General whole * Valour is fo well known among them, he defires him to be affurid that he never * received more agreeable News than that they were to be no longer Enemies.

The Duke of Ormond in Answer acquaints him, That he had receiv'd Orders from the Queen upon the fame Subject, to which he would not fail to conform himself in the most exact Manner.

This is conformable to the Intimation given by Mr. St. John, That if Marefchal Willars takes any private way Notice of his Orders, his Grace was to answer accordingly.

But his Grace proceeds further, and fays, 'The Motion which we are going to make is principally for the Subliftence of our Troops, fo that you need not be

" under any Apprehension at this March; at least 1 can answer for the Queen's

" Army which I have the Honour to command.

Your Committee is at a Lofs to account for this Transaction, unlefs his Grace had Orders not only not to act against France, but to give the French General Intelligence of all that was defined in the Confederate Army.

The Report being mad by the Quarter Matters-General, who went with the Detachment to view the French Cam, and the Overture between the Sources of the Somme and the Schelde, and they all agreeing that the Ground was as advantagious as could be, their Situation being finch as gave an Opportunity of falling upon their Flank and Rear, it was propord to the Duke of Ormond to march without the leaft Delay to the Enemy, and to attack them.

What his Grace did upon this Occafion is beft to be learnt from his own Words in his Letter of May the 29th to Mr. St. John. || 'You may eafly imagine the Difficulty that I was under to excufe the delaying a Matter, which, according to the Informations I had from the Quarter-Mafters General, and feveral other General Officers that went out with the Detachment, feem'd to be fo practicable. The beft Excufe I could make was Lord Strafford's fudden Voyage to England, which gave me Reafon to believe there muft be fomething of Confequence transacting, which a Delay of Four or Six Days would bring to Light, and therefore I defired they would defer this Undertaking, or any other, until I thould receive frefh Letters from England.

Your Committee cannot better represent the favourable Opportunity that was here lost to the common Caule, and the Advantage, or rather Deliverance, that was secured to the Common Enemy, than in a § Letter from the Deputies of the States to the Duke of Ormond, June the 4th, N. S. No. (26.)

John, takes is isavt mult ide of our 8. fol. * These Representations and the preffing inflances made by Prince Fugene, are encertained by Mr. St. Jobn as affected Alarma and Clamours railed with much industry, but such as gave Her Majeffy no Uncafiness whatsoever.

+ But they began to make fome impression upon the Duke of Ormand; he grew fensible of the ill Blood and Diffatisfaction cauled among the Allies by the Meifates he was obliged to take, who did not flick to fay we were betraying them. He fends an Account, that Prince Engene and the States Deputies had refolved to befiege Duefiny, which Place was that Day, June 8. N. S. 1712. invefted, and though he had nothing to do in the Operation, he could not refuse furnishing forme Troops in the States Pay, but had avoided giving any in the Queen's whole Pay.

We are now come again to the 7th of June, O. S. when Mr. 2. Juln fent to the Duke of Ormand his Letters of the 6th and 7th to Monf. de Tare, and the lak Articles propoled by Grear Britain for a Suffection of Arms 1 and it is to be obferved, that hitherto it was an entire Secret between the Bagliffs and French Courts and their Two Generals; that neither Siege or Battle was to be engaged in by the Duke of Ormand. Prince En one ind the whole Confederacy were as yet anufed with Hopes that the Duke of Ormand might be permitted in foine Degree to comply with his influctions, and the folem and repeated Affuances that had been given; to aft in Conjunction with the reft of the Allier: But the Time was now come, when the Secretary's Care and Prudence was to deliver the French King from the Apprehentions under which Monf. de Tarcy had fo often declared him to be for the Events of this Campaign: And altho' the Sulpenfion of Arms was prefs' and inflitted upon by France, and was to be granted purely for the fake and Prefervition of the French Army, which in all reation thould have brought then to a Compliance with the Deminds fent from England; yet fo very tractable did our Miniftey prove, that France's reluting the Conditions at first propoled for granting a Sulpenfion of Arms, ind no other Effect but to make us lower the frem upon which they were to accept what could be no Advantage to England; but was of the higheft Importance to France.

When these last Conditions were sent to the Duke of Ormond, with the Orders that attended them, it is to be observed, that Mr. St. John declared the Queen infifted on the Execution of the Article relating to Spain, and on the Delivery of Duwkirk, as Points without which she would not declare for a Ceffation of Arms: So that if these Conditions were not absolutely contented to, if the Answer from France, which was to determine the Duke of Ormond's Measures, was not figned by Monf. de Torcy, and Dunkirk was not put into the Posses in the Duke of Ormond, his Grace was at entre Liberty to act against France; but upon these Gonditions the Duke of Ormond was ordered Immediately to declare a Ceffation of Arms.

The Committee cannot but think this Order in itfelf of a very extraordinary Nature, altho conditional; and the Ministry feem in very great Haffe to give all up into the Hands of France, when the Queen's General, at the Head of a Confederate Army in the Field, at that Time covering a Siege, which the Allies were energiged in, though be ordered to govern hitticit according to fuch Significations as should come from the Court of France, and those transmitted him by the General commanding the Energy's Army, whole Duty it was by Force or Stratagem to raife the Siege, or gain any Advantage he could over the Allies.

as induid come from the Court of Prance, and those traininited num by the General commanding the Enemy's Arny, whole Duty it was by Force or Stratagem to raife the Siege, or gain any Advantage he could over the Allies. On the 21d of June, N. S. ‡ an Anfwer to the Propolals last fent over was tranfmitted to Mt. St. John, fighed by Mont. de Tory, with Two Alterations, one no lefs material, this whereas it was demanded that the Renunciation fhould be ratifield in the inoit following many the States of Prance, which had been mentioned before as one of the chief Securities to make it as effectual as any thing could, it is here fublicituded, that it field, That all the King's Officers, both Land and Sea Officers, Itall have Liberty to flay at Diole Nk, and to execute their foveral Offices. And on the fame Day Mont. de Tory writes I Two Letters to Mr. St. John, the one a publick Letter, "explaining at large the Alterations, the other a private Letter to preval with this to confent to the California. And it may he here observed, that there is federal Inflances of fuch a private Correspondence carry'd on between the There Sector field in the recording on the there observed, the there is federal Inflances of fuch a private Correspondence carry'd on between the There is Sector field.

At the faile time, a Copy of the Memorial and the Aniwer was fent to the Marefchal Villars, who with his Letter of the 24th of June, N.S. fends the Copies to the Doke of Olmond, and tells him the Originals were fent to England; and doubts not but the Suffection of Arms would immediately take Effect.

But 38. [V.]. But it appears by the Duke of Ormond's <sup>6</sup> Letter to Marefchal Villars of the asth of June, That these were only Copies and not fign'd, for his Grace fays, it were to be with'd that the Marquis de Tarey had given himself the trouble to fign them, as being more agreeable to his Grace's Infructions, but that he may not flop to good a Work by Difficulties and Scruples, he will not infit upon Formality: He promifes to go immediately to Prince Eugene, and the States Deputies, to perfwade them to abandon the Enterprize upon Quefney, and to declare, That in cafe of a Refusal, he finall be oblig'd to withdraw the Queen's Army; and as foon as the Troops which he should detach is r that Purpofe had taken Poffeffion of Dunkirk, the Sufpension of Arms shall take place.

On the 27th of June, the D. of Ormond gives Mr. St. John an Account, That he had been with Prince Eugene, and the States Deputies, and had acquainted them, that the French King having agreed to feveral Articles demanded by the Queen as the Foundation" of a Ceffation of Arms, he could no longer cover the Siege of Que(noy; but was oblig'd by his Inftructions to unarch with the Queen's Troops, and those in Her Majefty's Pay, and to declare a Ceffation of Arms as foon as the Town of Dunkirk was deliver'd up.

The Duke of Ormond having had this Conference with Prince Eugene, and the States Deputies, according to his Promile, fends a fecond e Letter to Marefehal Villar of the fame Date, and tells him, He apprehends that the Generals of the Auxiliarles paid by the Queen, will not leave Prince Eugene's Army without particular Orders from their refpective Mafters.

An Account of this being fent to the Court of France, Monficur de Torey difpatches an <sup>4</sup> Expreis June the 27th, N. S. and declares if the Foreign Troops in English Pay did not abandon Prince Eugene's Army, the Condition upon which Dunkirk was to be deliver'd being not perform'd, it would be unrealonable for England to infift that Dunkirk fhould be given into their Hands; and appeals to the Title of the Memorial, that imported a Coffation of Arms between the two Armies in the 'Metharlands : He infifts, that politive Orders be fent to the Duke of Ormand to withdraw all the Troops in English Pay; and when the Orders thall have been punctually comply'd with, the King will perform his Promife of delivering Dunkirk.

The Duke of Ormand having already declar'd abfolutely to the Allies, that be could no longer cover the Siege of Darkov, remains in a State of Inaction, though 'tis plain by his Orders' he was now free from all Reftraint, the Anfiwer not being fign'd by Monfieur de Torey, as was expredibly requir'd, fome material Alterations being made in the Conditions relating to Spain, which his Grace had then no Notice that the Queen had conferred to, and Marefchal Villars refuling to give him the Poffetion of Dunkirk, which were declar'd Points without which the Queen would not conferre to a Ceffation of Arms.

And that the Duke of Ormond was himfelf of this Opinion, is evident from his own e Letter to Mr. St. John of June the 29th; wherein he excures his deferring feparating the Troops, and marching towards Dunkirk, until he had Princient Affurance that Place would be furrender'd to him; and then his Grace says the contrary appears now fo evidently, that I should look upon my felf immediately at Liberty to act in Conjunction with the Allies; but I do not take upon me to make a Step of fuch confequence without the Queen's particular Orders, which I shall expect with the greatelt Impatience.

These unexpected Refolutions of the Foreigners in the Queen's Pay not to abandon their Allies, and leave them at the Mercy of the Franch Army, very much disconcerted our Measures here for a flort time; but on June 20, 0. S.  $N^{\circ}$  (27) Mr. St. John writes to Monfieur de Torey, 'That the Accounts from the Duke of Ormond were conformable to what he had fent, which gave the Queen a fensible Difpleature; but as Her Majesty had taken a firm and unalterable Refoletion not to yield to any Difficulties, he doubts not to flucceed, and believes Monfieur de Torey will be convinced of this Truth when he has read over this Letter: That he had haft then told the Ministers of those Princes who have Troops in the Queen's Pay, that unless they obey the Duke of Ormond's Orders, Her Majesty will take it as a Declaration against Her, and from that Time they shall not be paid. "That if the Frenck King will deliver Dunkirk; the Duke of Ormond shall retire with the English Troops, and all those Foreigners that will obey him, and declare the Queen' will act no longer against against France, nor pay those that will, and will make no Difficulty to conclude immediately a separate Peace with France, leaving the Allies a Time wherein they may have Liberty to fubmit to fuch Conditions as shall be agreed upon betwixt the Queen and the Most Christian King. Sce, Sir, the Peace in the King's hands; if the Duke of Ormond's whole Army contents to the Sufpension of Arms, our first Project proceeds; if they will not confent, the English Troops will withdraw, and leave the Foreigners to feck for their Subfiftence from the States, who very far from being able to furnish new Expences, are not capable to support what they have already upon their hands. In fhort, Britain retiring from the Theatre of the War, and leaving it to those that are in no condition to make head against France, the Peace may be concluded between the two Crowns in a few Weeks. Thefe, Sir, are the Propositions which the Queen commands me to make, and believes the King of France will find his Account at leaft as much the laft Way as the first. He once more defires him to fend an Express to the Duke of Ormond, that he may know how to regulate his Conduct; and if he fignifies to him that the King has given Orders to the Governor of Dunkirk to admit the English, his Grace will immediately do all that he has faid. He acquaints him further, That the Queen was re-folv'd to fend the Earl of Strafford immediately to the Army. On the fame Day Mr. St. Jour feat feat a Copy of this Letter to the Duke of Ormond; and to fhew his own Opinion of this extraordinary Piece in a Poltfcript, he fays, I need not caution your Grace that the inclos'd for Monfieur de Torcy is fit to fall under the Eye of no Perfon whatfoever but your Grace: As for his Inftructions at this critical Conjuncture, they are fuch as Her Majefty thought deferv'd fending the Earl of Strafford on purpole to the Army; and his Grace is order'd to give Mareschal Villars an Account of the Endeavours the Queen had us'd to fubdue the Obstinacy of those who refus'd to obey, and of his Expectations to hear from him on an Express fent to France; and a fecond time, according to what was faid to Monfieur de Torcy, his Grace is order'd, if he receives an Account from the Court of France that Her Majefty's laft Propofals are agreed to, and Orders difpatch'd for the Surrender of Dunkirk, with , any more to do, to declare the Sufpension between Great Britain and France, and to keep the whole Body that shall obey his Orders entire, and to withdraw in the beft manner his Circumftances will allow.

This Offer was no fooner receiv'd in France, but without the Lofs of one Moment's time accepted and confented to, as <sup>b</sup> Monfieur de Tirey acquaints Mr. St. John, July the 5th, N.S. He takes care to mention very particularly all the Reafons and Engagements which had been fo plainly and explicitly propos'd; and upon Condition that the Queen does immediately make a feparate Peace, keep no Meafures with Her Allies, but only leave them a Time to fubmit to the Conditions that thall be agreed upon for the n between France and Englind, the King of France hath determin'd to fend his Orders to permit the Englift Troops to enter into Dunkirk; and at the fame time a Courier was difpatch'd to Marelehal Villars to carry him thefe Orders. And as a general Ceffation from all Hoffilities both by Land and Sea between the two Nations, had been propos'd by England, till their Treaties could be finifa'd, the King of France with the fame Reedinel's confents to that.

This Account was no fooner receiv'd in England, but fresh 'Orders are fent to the Duke of Ormond, as foon as he shall hear that the Governor had receiv'd Orders to evacuate Durkirk, and to admit the Queen's Troops into the Place, without loling a moment, if he had not already done it, to declare a Suspension of Arms; and to withdraw all the English Troops, and such others as would obey his Orders; and least any Accident might still obstruct this Project, his Grace by Mr. St. John is told, He must observe that the Order is positive; and that no Cafe can possibly happen in which Her Majesty will allow that any other Measure should be taken; and Mr. St. John is much concernd that the Earl of Straffird will arrive at the Army later than was to be wish'd, from whom his Grace was to receive, those Lights and Informations for his Guidance in this nice Conjuncture, that he is amply instructed to give him.

On the 12th of July, N.S. Lord Strafford arrives in the Camp; on the 14th <sup>4</sup>Prince Eugene fends the D. of Ormond Word by an Aid de Camp, That he intended to march the next Morning with a Defign, as was fuppos'd, to attack Landreey. es ro arch On the fame Bay Marefehal Villars giving the Duke of Ormond an Account, that he had fint by Colonel/Lloyd Orders for the Delivery of Dimkirk, fays, Permit me Sir to have the Honour to tell yon, tho' it be very advancageous not to be obliged to engage the bravefit and boldeft of our Enemies, yet its very important to know those that remain fo, and I take the Liberty to defire you will do me the Honour to fend me Word what Troops and what Generals will obey your Orders, because the first Attempt the Enemy makes, I will not lose one Moment to meet them it. The King gives me a Liberty to fight; which Nothing but the Negotiations has hitherto prevented, and which the Army under my Command has a great Defire to make ufe of 11 think the Work is finish'd if the Army which is under your Orders obeys them. This then, Sir, is no indifcreet Curiofity, that I prefume to defire you to give me fome Lights upon the Doubts which I am in.

I shall be very much oblig'd to you Sir, if by the Return of this Trumpet you'll honour me with one Word of Answer; upon the Lights which I have defired of you.

You'll give me Leave to join to this Pacquet a Letter for my Lord Strafford.

On the 15th of Fully, the Duke of Ormond in Answer to this Letter fays, I fhould be glad I were at prefent in a Capacity to give you all the Infight you defire, but it is yet impossible for me. Notwithstanding I was unwilling to delay fending back the Trumpet, to let you know. I am well affured, I shall be capable of telling you to morrow, particularly what Troops will remain under my Command.

As to the Sulpenfion of Arms you already know, Sir, that according to my Orders I cannot declare it in Form; 'till I am affured the Governour of Dunkirk fhall have executed all the King's Orders for the Evacuation of the Place... His Grace adds, In the mean Time you will agree with me Sir, that the fuld Sulfrenfion has already its Effect on my Side, fince I have just now inform'd Prince Eugene and the States Deputies, that in Cale they should undertake any new Operation, I could not give them any Affiftance with the Queen's Army.

On the Toth, the Duke of Ormand writes again to Marefehal Villars, and fays, Your Trumper juft now put into my Hands the honour of your Leiter of the rith, and I am now to acquit my felf of the Promife I made you yetterday. Prince Eugene is march'd this Morning, and all the foreign Troops have quitted us except one Battalion and four Squadrons of Holfein, and two Squadrons of Walef. He adds, Things having pafied as I have the Honour to tell you, I thought my felf oblig'd to acquaint you of it as foon as polfible, and as I oblerved to you 'yefferday, the Suffernin of Aruns has already its Effect on my part by the Separation I have made of the Queen's Troops, and all her Artillery, from those of Prince Eugen, and by my declaring to him, I could give him no Affittance, and that the Payment of the foreign Troops is flopp'd, and that by Confedence there is fallen upon the Emperour and Holland a Burthen they will not be long able to support; I truft, Sir, to your good Faith, and fhall to morrow make a Morement to put my felf into another Situation, and I hope I fhall have News from Dunkirk, that will anthorize me to declare the Sufpenfion of Arms.

On the fame Day <sup>4</sup> Marefchal Villars acquaints the Duke of Ormond, that the Governour of Dunkirk was making the necefilary. Proparations to evacuate that Place : He tells his Grace, For my part, Sir, as I already reck on you for our Ally, I am not at all in hafte to have you farther off, you are at your own Liberty to come near us, and encamp on the King's Territories, where-ever you fhell think propet. Upon this the Duke of Ormond the Day after order'd a Ceffation of Arms to be proclaim'd by Sound of Trumpet.

Had the first Defign taken Effect, which was depended upon by Frame, and to far prefum'd by England as to be undertaken for, that all the Foreigners in the Queen's Pay, that compos'd the Duke of Ormond's Army, fhould feparate and withdraw from the reft of the Allies, it is notorious, that from that Inftant Prince Engene's whole Army, unlefs they fubmitted to the fame Meafures, had been left at the Mercy of the France Army to be cut in Pieces, or made Prifoners at the Will of Marefchal Villar, which had left the Queen's Troops in no better a Condition than to have the Privilege of being laft deftroy'd; yet all the Allies, whole Honour and Conficience would not permit them to abandon their Confederates, and leave them as a Sactifice to Frame, were punifh'd by England with the Lofs of their Pay and Subfidies, which was all that was in the Power of the Miniftry to do, to fhew their Refentment at this great Difappointment to the Meafures of Framee.

<sup>a</sup> This March of Prince Eugene Lord Strafford thought might be turn'd upon them, and he prevail'd with the Duke of Ormond in a Meiflage to Prince Eugene to fay his Marching without Concert with us, and all the Queen's Auxiliaries marching from us, exposid us fo, that we have been oblig'd to fend to the French to declare with us a Ceffation of Arms; nothing:lefs could put the Queen's Troeps in Safety; for though Matters fell out fo par, without this we mult have declar'd for the Ceffation, yet why should we not turn all this Matter upon them?

The Committee had not thought it worth their while to take Notice of fuch an idle Amempt to impose upon the Senfes of Mankind, if they had not been induc'd by another Paffage in the fame Letter to think it deferv'd fome Observation ; where Lord Strafford giving an Account of what pass'd upon the Separation fays, All the English feem rejoye'd to march off, being weary of the Situation they were in, and the Reproaches they met with in the great Army; There are two or three Faces very four, they figh and with the Hanoverians had not feparated from us, but I fhall tell them perhaps it may be better. He may fee by this Time the wrong Advice he has follow'd, fince all must lay the Blame of the Separation upon him. . But this is not the only Instance of the Scorn and Contempt which his Lordship was ready to express upon the like Occasions; for July the 16th, 1712, bgiving an Account of a Conversation with Monsieur Bulow, the Elector of Hanover's General, wherein his Lordship declar'd, that the Queen had yet neither made Peace nor Truce, which Declaration was made near a Month after the Articles for a Sufpension of Arms, were lign'd, and his Lordship representing the great Dangers the Queen's Troops were exposid to by being left alone in their Camp when Prince Eugene march'd, and Monsieur Bulow replying, in case of any Attack they had been fure of their Affistance and Protection, his Lordship fays, My Answer was in a difdainful way, it would be a very odd thing, when an Elector of the Empire fhould be a fufficient Protection to Great Britain ; and December the 14th, 1712, Lord Strafford in his's Letter to Mr. St. Jobs fays; Count Zinzendorf own'd, it was impoffible to carry on the War, alone, especially fince the Elector of Hanover, who was the greatest Hero for the Wars thas threatned the States to recall his Troops, if they did not pay himithe Queen's Share of the Sublidies ;- - In fort, Count Zinzendon't hittleff (could) not but laugh at the fidiculous way of proceeding of that Coust, moissuid none point of the start of any of the shear of the that Coust, in into a second Struction, sauch that fome Conditions to this important Article, that might pais upon the deluded people as a Juffification of this unprecedented Treachery.

The Demolition of Dankirk was always to popular a Point, that nothing could firike the Imaginations of the People more, than to be told that this important Place was deliver'd into the Queen's Polletion : This Step they thoughr; well improv'd, would recommend the Peace itielf, at leaft juffifie the Ceffation. And as the Nation had Nothing more at Heart, than the Difpolition of the Spatiff Monarchy, after the Renunciation had been induftrioufly, Cry'd up, and the Queen had declar'd from the Throne, that France and Spain were thereby more effectually divided than ever, Thefe Two Articles were made the ciffer the Conditions of granting a Ceffation of Arms: For the latter, France cafily conferred to it, having declar'd it to be null and void by the fundamental Laws of France: For the first, 'this evident how unwillingly France was brought to furrender Dunkirk, but this the Ministry were refolved to purchase at any Rate, as what would most easily amule, and femilibly affect the Nation; and therefore to obtain this, they engage not only to grant a Ceffation of Arms, but to conclude a Separate Peace.

The Profect of concluding a Separate Peace, and the obtaining immediately a Ceffation of Arms, which answer'd all the Purpofes of France almost as well as a Separate Peace, by leaving the whole Confederacy in their Power, and at their Mercy, were to great Temptations to France, that the Surrender of Dunkirk is agreed to; but if we come to confider v. at England gain'd by granting this fatal Ceffation, we shall find the Demolitor of Dunkirk fupply'd by a new Canal more beneficial to France, and formidable to the Navigation of Great Britain, than Dunkirk ever was; and for the Renunciation, We were told by France, we fhould deceive our felves if we accepted it as an Expedient to prevent the Union of the two Monarchies.

Your Committee cannot clofe their Observations upon this memorable Campaign of 1712, without inserting another Letter that was wrote by the Duke of Ormond to my Lord Bolingbroke. The Dutch it senis, encourag'd by the Success of their Enterprise upon Fort Knoeque, had form'd a Design for surprising Newport or Furner, which his Grace having Intelligence of, thought proper to write the following a Letter, October the 21st, 1712, to my Lord Bolingbroke.

• I take this Opportunity of an Express which brought me fome Letters • this Morning from Oftend, and is returning thither, to acquaint your Lordhip with an Affair which has been communicated to me by a Person who is • very well inclin'd to her Majefty's Service; your Lordhip will belt judge • of the Importance of it, and the Ufe that is to be made of ir, when I tell • you, that the Success of the Enterprise upon Knocese has encouraged the forming a Project for furprising Newport or Furnes, and that the forifying • Dizmude is made use of as a Pretence for drawing together a Body of Troops • fufficient to put the Defign in Execution; if it be thought more for her. Ma-• jefties Service to prevent it, I am humbly of Opinion. Some Means finall • be found to give Advice of it to Marefehal Villars, who may poffiely • think we owe him that good Office, in Requiral of fome Informations your • Lordship knows he has given me, with a Defign to ferve her. Majefty and • the Nation : I am not yet at Liberty to acquaint your Lordship with the Name of my Author, who defires the whole Matter may be manag'd with the greateft Secrecy, which is a Caution I know I peed only mention to your • Lordship.

The great Step of the Ceffation was no fooner taken, the Sufpenfion declar'd, and Duszirk deliver'd up, but <sup>b</sup> Monfieur de Torez calls upon Mr. St. fohn to perform his Promife of concluding a Peace between France and Great Britain in a few Weeks, which he thinks can meet with no Difficulties, all the Conditions of Peace with England being regulated, and the Intentions of the King touching the General Peace known to, and he thinks, he, may fay approv'd by, her Britannick Majefty. Monfieur de Torey then proposes the Method of regulating the Suffernion by Sea, and infifts, that during the Suffernmunition, hor Provisions, fhall be allow'd into Portuge!, Catalonia, or any other Place where the War continues. All these Proposals from France are very readily affented to, and . Mr. St. John thinks the Queen in a Condition not to lofe a Moment's Time in concluding with the Ministers of France the Convention for a general Sufpension of Arms, both by Sea and Land, and even the Treaty of Peace between Great Britain and France.

Mr. St. John then opens to him the Measures that had been here concerted for the Duke of Savoy; Of all the Allies, fays he, there is none whole In-<sup>6</sup> tereft the Queen has to much at Heart as the Duke of Savoy's : He hopes <sup>6</sup> the Moft Chriftian King will act in Concert with her Majefty, and omit <sup>6</sup> Nothing that may engage his Royal Highnes to come into all our Measures, <sup>7</sup> and that may engage his Royal Highnes to come into all our Measures, <sup>8</sup> and that may protect him from the Infults of the Imperialits for to doing ; <sup>9</sup> and among other Advantages proposed for him, he lays it down as a Prin-<sup>9</sup> ciple, that it is neither for the Interest of Great Britain nor France, that the <sup>8</sup> Kingdom of Sieily flould be given to the House of Austria, and therefore <sup>9</sup> demands it for the Duke of Savoy, and declares the Queen will not defift <sup>9</sup> from this Demand.

This Concern of the Britifi Ministers for the Duke of Savoy, who is reprefented as the Ally, whole Interest the Queen hath most at Heart, your Committee is at a Lofs to account for. The French, as appears by a b Letter of the Bilhop of Briltol to Mr. Sr. John, of the 26th of April, 1712, had actually offer'd Sicily to the Emperor. The Duke of Savey himself did not relift this Proposition, as appears by Lord Peterborough's CLetter to Mr. St. John of the 24th of September, 1712, in which his Lordship represents the Duke of Savoy ex-pressing. That he was not to vainly impatient of the Title of King, as to lose or hazard any real Interest for an empty Name, but that he thought it much more extraordinary, that a Prince beaten Ten Years together by his Enemics, fhould remain at last with the Prize contended for, and which fo often by Parliament had been declared the just and unavoidable Motive of the War : Again in Lord Peterborough's d Letter of November the 16th, 1712, to Mr. St. John, he affirm'd, That Nothing can represent the Uneafiness of Mind of the Duke of Savey, after thefe Offers had been made him : To calm this Uncafinefs, and to fix his Royal Highnefs in the Measures of the Ministry, it was necessary the Lord Peterborough should in a " Memorial given to him reprefent, That his Royal Highness in refusing these Offers must fall out with the Queen, and the English Ministers, whom his Lordship endeavours to excuse from the Reproaches caft directly upon them, as if they were Perfons devo-ted to France. That for the Support of what was proposed, a fufficient Fleet fhould be farnish'd either by England, or France, be by both Powers jointly, and that his 'Royal Highnel's fhould be guarantee'd and proceeded against any Power that should oppose this Project, or should infut him for having ac-cepted these Offers. The Arguments of the English Ministers did at length prevail with his Royal Highnel's; and if the View of the faid Ministers was effectually to difable the Engeror from supporting himself against France after our Separation, by forcing into the Intereft of France an Ally fo confiderable as the Duke of Savoy, it must be confested there Measures were extremely well calculated for fuch an End, but it does not appear to your Committee how England came to be fo far concern'd in this Matter as to offer its Guarance for Sicily, which naturally must have engaged us in a War against the Emperor. This Forwardness of the Ministry in offering to make England Guarantee for Conditions advantageous only to France. feens the more extraordi-nary, when they observe, that, during the whole Course of this Negotiation, they find no Endeavours us d to proche a Guarantee of our, Confederates to fecure the Proteftant Succellion, which had been addrets'd for, by both Houfes of Parliament; nor do they obferve, that the King of Sieily, for whom fo much was done, was ever requested to be Guarantee for the faid Succeffion.

The dreadful Confequences of the Separation of the Arnites were, now fentibly felt in the unfortunate Action at Denain, where Marchelial Villar, on the 24th of July, N.S. f attack'd Lord Albemark's Camp, which he forc'd, took him Prifoner, and entirely defeated all the Troops under his Command's M. de Torey immediately fends an 8 Account to Mr. St. Jobn of this agreeable News, and fays, ' The King of France is perfuaded, that the Advantage, which his ' Tsoops have obtaind, will give the Queen fo much the more Pleafure, as it may be a new Moilve to overcome the Obitinacy of the Enemies to Peace. Your Committee could not with Patience read a Letter from a Minister of France, declaring to the Secretary of State of England That a Victory Obtain'd by the Queen's Enemies over Her good Allies, mult be a Pleasure or Satisfaction to Her Majeffy. But at that time the Frence thought themfelves to fare of the Britch Ministry, that they depend upon their Allistance to public this Advantage against the Confederates ftill further; and Monil de Torey fays, the hopes the Queen will be a please of the secretary of the secretary fays.

own Hands, if She will make use of Gben and Bruger, which Her Troops possels, and especially of Gbent; for it depends upon whole wer is Master of that Place, to make all the Designs of the Enemies Generals milearly, and to give Law, to the Dateb.

Neither was Monf. de Torey fingular in his Opinion about the Action at Denain; Marefchal Villar; would not fole a Moment in giving the Duke of Ormend an Account of this News; he afcribes the Victory to the Separation of the brave Englifh, and infults the Allies as common Enemics, that mult now he fourfible what wrong Measures they had taken? In this Manner, and to this Effect, Marefchal Villar: thinks proper to write to the Duke of Ormond; and at the fame time she Marefchal defires his Grace to transmit this Account to the French Plenipotentiaries at Urrebr, and to make a thouland Conpliments from him to Ld. Shefford. And that there might be no Part of the World where it was in the Power of

And that there might be no Part of the World where it was in the Power of the English Ministry to allish their new Friends the French, at the Expense of their old Allies, Monf. de Twey further propoles, That the Queen should put a Stop to Count Statemberg's Projects in Catalonia, by fending Orders to Her Troops in Tarragona not to let the German; into that Place; and not content with being aided and affisted all that was pollible by Land; he further desires that express Orders might be fent (and thorough France, as the flortest Way) to the English Men of, War that were then cruising in the Mediterranean, to fuffer' the Freudb Ships that were then returning from the Levaint, to pais unmolected; which was no fooner ask'd than comply'd with.

But the taking Posselion of Ghent and Bruger was not only the Defire of Monf. de Torcy, but was supported by the Advice of the E. of Strifford; who in his I.stter to Mr. St. John of the 17th of July 1712. fays, 'I and for having the D. of Ormond fend fome Party on purpole to march through Tome of their Fowns, to 'Ge whether or no they would refuse them Passage; if they did, diat might authorize us the more to do a Thing very agreeable to the Queen's Troops, and what I believe you would approve of.' His Lordflip adds, 'ITC (meaning the D. of Ormond) is very hearty in every thing, but really is under Difficulties with those abouthing; those that are able, are not yet entirely to be rely'd up on, and those that might be truffed, are not capable of giving Advice.

And that there might be no Doubt of his Lordship's Meaning in what he had before advisd, July the 21ft, he tells Mr. St. John, "The Measures I mention'd would not be differeable to you, was that of marching to Ghent," which we have now fo well executed that we are within two Days March of it, and the English are entire Matters of the Citadel, as likewife of all the Gates, of the Town, and have Orders to be upon their Guard; not rolet themselves be furprized by two Battalions, one of Dutch and one of Walloois in the Town, nor any Troops lent from any other Place. This is a Coup de Parti for the States who did not expect it, elfe they would not have behave themselves with the Hauter, they lately did; the Thing was fo well and fecretly manag'd, that all Preparations were made to march about to Warneter between Life and Jpres, to have lived upon the French Country, and 'all we had march'd a Day's March on this Side the Searp, the Dutch and their Frienda did not perceive our Defign, which as foon as they did, their Surprife and Uncamels were equally great.

On the 17th of fuly, 0.5, in a Letter to Monfi & Tarcy, Lord Bolingbroke recapitulates what he laid before concerning the D. of Savay; and as a farther Motive to induce France to comply with his Demands, he repreferes that it will be very important to have his Concurrence both in the Sufpendion of Arms, and the Treaty of Peace, which in all probability will be made between Britain, France and Spain, without the Intervention of the other Allies; and that Savay's declaring for us will be a declive Stroke, and the more necessary, because the King of Pruffia's Conduct has not answer'd the Queen's Expectations.

Before this Letter was dispatch'd, the Lord Bolingbroke receives Monf. de Torcy's of the 26th, N.S. In answer to which, July the 18th, O.S. he infifts further in behalf of the D. of Savoy, tells him with great Satisfaction, . That the Duke of Ormond was possed of Ghent and Brages, and had Orders to be upon his Guard, and fecure those Posts; and as the Queen embrac'd with a great deal of Satisf faction every Opportunity that offer'd to do the King a Pleasure, positive Orders are font to Admiral Jennings to suffer the Frence Ships coming from the Levant, to pass freely.

It is almoft incredible that the English Ministry, however determin'd they were to give up the Honour of the Queen, and Interest of their Country, in following the Dickates of France, should venture to do it in this open Manner. All that had been hitherto declar'd, was a Suspension of Arms in Flanders, and that our Troops were to ach no longer against France: But here by the Advice of the Earl of Strafford, at the Desire of Monf. de Toriy, they are to keep Possenting of the Earl of Strafford, at the Desire of Monf. de Toriy, they are to keep Possenting of the Earl of Strafford, at the Desire of Monf. de Toriy, they are to keep Possenting of the Allies of the Queen; and altho' the Suspension of Arms extended as yet no further than to the two Armies in Flanders, and the general suspension by Sea and Land was not fign'd till the 19th of August, N.S. the I ord Bolingbroke on the 18th of July, O.S. declares he had then fent very positive Orders to the Queen's Admiral not to intercept the French Fleet coming from the Levant.

These constant Compliances in the English Ministry encourag'd Monf, de Torey to believe they would now flick at nothing that could be propos'd. "He prefies again the concluding the Separate Peace between England and France, as what they both agreed in to be the most effectual Way to make the reft of the Allies comply. He defires that the Troops in Flanders under the Command of the D. of Ormond, may be left there to make a good Use of the Towns which he was in Poffettion of; but as the King of France could not confent to the D. of Savay's having Sieily except the Elector of Bavaria has alfo the Netherland befides his Electorate, he thinks the Queen's having a good Army in Flanders under the Command of the D. of Ormond, may render this very practicable; and as the Queen has done tribute to the Good, of a Prince of for much Merit as the Elector of Bavaria, whole Acknowledgments will be equal to the Benefits he flall, received to the

But this would not pals even upon the Ministry of Great Britain : The giving Flanders to the Elector of Bavaria, was not only contrary to all the Propolitions of Peace that had been made and pais'd between England and France, but was what would abfolutely engage us in a new. War, to oblige the Imperialifs and Dutch to agree to it; and they could not think it for the Honour or Interest of the Queen to make War upon Her Allies, as ungrateful as they had been, in Favour of the Elector of Bawaria; and especially confidering, that altho we could secure Ghent and Bruges for him, the Allies had yet an Army in Flanders to confiderable both for the Number and Goodnets of their Troops, that they were able to defend the Conqueffs they had made. And to give him Sielly, which was likewile demanded, L. Belingbroke hopes it will not be inlifted on, Becaufe it might be the occasion of continual Jealoufies; it might in particular be the Source of Diffures and Quarrels betwixt England and France, whole firict Union and indiffoluble Friendship were the Points in view to which all our Meafures had been directed for to long a time.' The Queen's Minifters think when the King of Prane has made all reafonable Efforts for Fils Allies, he mult do fomerhing for the Love of Peace, and that a particular Interest flould yield to the general. that the Queen must defind from many Conditions, which in rigout She was oblig'd to procure for Her Allies. He very strongly urges the Necessity of concluding immediately the Peace between England, Frames and Spain; but absolutely infists upon Sielly for the Duke of Savoy.

But altho' this Negotiation was carry'd on upon a Suppolition, That the Queen was to depart from feveral Things, which in Jultice ought to have been procur'd for Her Allies, <sup>a</sup> the King of Frame thought himfelf under no fuch Obligation; His Honour to an Ally, whole Fidelicy was without Reproach, was not to be differen'd with; and therefore to fatisfy his Engagements to fo good an Ally, was a Point from which the K. of France would never depart. But to fhew the King's good Difpolitions to the Peace, he at laft conferts to the D. of Savoy's having Sielly upon certain Conditions; wherein very ample Provision is made for Satisfaction to the Elector of Bavaria; and one express Condition is, That a Peace be concluded between England, France, Spain and Savoy.

In answer to this Letter, <sup>b</sup> Lord Bolingbroke acquaints Monf. de Torey, That he had received the Queen's Orders to go immediately to France, and he hop'd under the Auspices of the Abbot Gaultier in a Week's time to falute him at Farminbles.

Aufpices of the Abbot Gaultier in a Week's time to falute him at Equatiblear. Whilft thefe great Points were transacting, and carrying on directly betwikt France and England, it is not to be fuppos'd, that any Thing very material pal'd at Urrecht ; fome few Paffages only concerning fuch Communications as were thought neceffary to be made to keep up the Form of a Negotiation, may not be improperly taken notice of.

The Advice of the D. of Ormond's Orders to engage in neither Siege or Battel, gave great Alarm; the States defire the British Miniflers to give them fome Satisfaction concerning a Matter wherein they thought Religion, Liberty, and all that is valuable, was fo nearly concernd: To which they could obtain nothing but very general Anfwers. Upon which they expressing their Diffeontent to be kept entirely in the Dark, without the leaft Knowledge of what was done or intended to be done, the Blihop took that Opportunity to put an End to their Curiofity by executing the Orders before-mentioned, That the Queen thought Herfelf now under no Obligation whatfoever to the States.

This Declaration is grounded upon the Behaviour of the States; but it must be remembred, that this Order is dated very few Days after the Orders to the D. of Ormond not to engage in Siege or Battel. And in the fame Letter the B of Brifel, giving an Account of a Conference between his Lordthip and Mr. Construct, the Emperor's Minister, the Bifhop fays, 'He was very defirous to know, and I was as unable to inform 'him of the Particulars wherein the Care of the Emperor's Interest did consist.

The Dateb did likewife fend an Express to their Minister at London, with a long and most moving Letter to the Queen, to remonstrate against this Proceeding,  $N^{\circ}$  (36.) but he could obtain no Answer at all ; <sup>4</sup> Mr. Sr. John thought the Queen intending <sup>4</sup> that Week to lay before the Parliament the Plan of the Peace, the Proceedings of the

Two Houles on that Occasion, would be a more feafonable as well as a more decisive Anfwer to the States than any he could return.

The Queen having communicated to the Parliament how far the French are already come, in their Proposals for fettling a General Peace, the * B. of Briffel is directed to difcourfe with the Ministers of the feveral Allies as foon as possible, agreeable to the Plan contain'd in Her Majefty's Speech ; but before his Lordship makes this Step, Mr. Sr. Jubn rells him, It will be proper that he fpeaks first with the French Plenipotentiaries upon this Subject, and enquire of them whether they will be willing, and in what Manner they will be willing to give this Communication to the Allies : But the fB of Briftol gives an Account on the 28th of June, N.S. & That the French Plenipotentiaries declar'd they had no fuch Orders, and without them they could not do it : And the Bishop finding it might be of some Service, and that it was look'd upon at the Hague as a Step that might facilitate the Suspension of Hostilities, his Lordship did again prefs the French Ministers to know, whether they were willing to declare in a folemn Conference, that the Particulars declar'd in the Queen's Speech are the King their Mafter's Offers to the Allies, and that he will make them good in the Negotiation. The French again refus'd to make any fuch Declaration ; and in this Opinion they perfifted even after the Dusch Ministers confented to accept the Contents of b Her Majelty's Speech pro materia trasfandi, if the French would at the fame time acknowledge them to be their Mafter's Offers, and negotiate upon them in order to make them good. But the French Plenipotentiaries were fo far from agreeing to this, that they demanded of our Ministers to know the Queen's Mind upon the several Parts of the laft general Plan brought over by Monf. Ganhier, and which are not explain'd in Her Majefty's Speech; faying, Their King expected it, and they do not know how to proceed

On the 24th of Jane, O. S. Mr. SA John writes a long Letter to the Lord Privy-Seaf, and infructs him to lay the entire Blane of all that has happen'd, upon the Dateb; and that the Wart of Concert, 'is only to be impured to thole who are at the head of Affairs in Holland; however, that Her Majeffy is fill ready for their Sakes, and for the Sake of the Common Intereft of Europe, to forget all that is paft, and to join with them. in the firsteft Terms of Amiry and Confidence. This Farce was fill to be carry 'd' on in Holland; and these Profettions made in the Name of the Queen, when it's notorious that four Days before, on June the 20th, O. But whatever Measures were carrying on elsewhere, and altho' in all the Letters that pass'd upon that Subject between L. Belingbroke and Monf. de Torey, the concluding a Saparate Peace is treated as a Thifig fettled on both Sides; the Pleniporentiaries at Utrech are order'd to proceed upon another foot', and in a <sup>6</sup> Letter' from L. Belingbroke of July the 16th, O. S. to the Plenipotentiaries jointly, upon a Supponition, that L. Strafford was then got back again to Utrecht, they are ordered to lose no Time in fattling the Conventions for a Sufpension of Arms between Great Britain and France, both by Sea and Land; and when that is brought to Perfection, to call upon the Allies to enter again upon the Negotiations on the Foundation of the Plan laid down in the Queen's Speech; and it is defired their Lordfhips will appear folici-

By thefe Inftructions it appears, that Lord Bolingbroke was impower'd to conclude a Separate Peace with England, France, Spain, and Savior, that at bits time there was fome Doubt concerning feveral Articles relating to the particular Interefts of Great fonc Doubt concerning feveral Articles relating to the particular Interefts of Great Britain, which he was to endeavour ro get explain'd; but no infruidion, if his Eu-deavours prove ineffectual in Behalf of Great Britain, not to conclude the Treaty, which in thefe very Infructions is 'expressly provided for in Favour of Savoy; and his Lordship is ordered to do his beft to diffeover the Ultimatum of France, which hitherto it feems the Ministry were ighorant of; but whether France condecended fo far or not; as to let his Lordship into this Secret, our Treaty was to be concluded; and the Ministry feem to think, they had fulficiently differing d their Duty in de-clining to be engag'd to impole what Terms France should think proper hood the Allies, thole Allies to whom the Queen was bound by the Faith of Treates, and all the most folemn Engagements and publick Declarations', to procube all fulfic reasonable Satisfaction, according to their feveral Alliances." But now it feems inf-ficient that we did not debar them from the Liberty of enleavoiting to be the fulficient that we did not debar them from the Liberty of endeavouting to obtain hill better Terms for themfelves.

With thele Infructions Lord Bolingbroke goes 'to France,' and for his Proceedings the Committee referr'd to his Lordfhip's own Account in his "Lefter va the Earl of Darimoints, Aug. 22. France was now become entire Mafter of all future Negotiations, and did not fail to make Use of the Power that was put into their Hands; an early Instance, will be seen of this in the Affair of Tournay: But being now come back to Utreebs, it will be necessary to mention an Incident that happend there, the Dispute between Count Rechteren and Monfieur Mefnager ; which is taken notice of only as a Pretence that was made use of by the French to keep the Negotiations in Suspence as long as it ferv'd their purpose, and in this England concurred, as will appear afterwards. On the 30th of Angust a the Briefs Plenipotentiaries acquaint Lord Belingbroke, that in some Discourse with the Ministers of the Allies they had carried Matters fo far as to tell them, that tho' her Majefty will endeavour to promote their Intereft in a Peace, and obtain for them the best Terms that shall be possible, yet if those En-deavours should not procure more than the Contents of her Majesty's Speech, or even in fome Degree fall thort of that Plan, the Fault will be entirely theirs, who have render'd Things difficult and uncertain, which otherwise would have been safe and pradicable : And having thus far complied with their late Orders to lay all the Blame upon the Allies, they further inform his Lordhip, that they had how-ever obtain's the Confent of the Ministers of the Allies to come to a Conference with thole of France in order to renew the Negociations; the time to be fix'd between the British and French Plenipotentiaries ; who meeting to have some Discourse previous to the General Conferences, parted without coming to any Conclusion.

The Occasion of their Difference, that prevented renewing the Conferences, a role upon Propolals made by the Brisifs Ministers in relation to Teurnay. Their Their ordinips in their . Letter of the ad of September, N.S. to Lord Bolingbroke flate the Cafe in this Manner.

In her Majefties Speech it is expressed, That the Dutch are to have the entire Bar-rier as demanded in 1709, except two or three Places at most. The Freich Ministers infift, that they must have Life as an Equivalent for Dunkirk, and that the fame is not to e underftood as one of the three Places mentioned in the Speech, and confequent y that they must, in all, have four of the Places mention'd in the Demands of 1 709.

"This to us appears to be altogether inconfistent with what her Majefly has declar'd, and we accordingly think it contrary to our Duty to bring on a Conference in which fuch an Explication is to be made.

The French Ministers on the other Hand have shew'd us their Orders, which por frively require them to infift upon the Reflicution of Tournay as well as Life; and that they can by no means confent to the Cellion of Maubenge or Conde. The Bring Ministers then prefs'd the French to speak at first in Terms as general, as their Proposal was conceived in ; but the French thought it necessary to be particular and express in that Point above all others, because they shall other wife have tied themselves up, and given the Dutch an Advantage.

The Refule of this Debate was not to proceed to a Conference 'till this Point be determin'd; the French infifting, that their Orders were fo plain as neither to need or admit any Explication, and the Britifh Ministers thinking the Matter as plain on their Side.

They hope their Zeal for her Majefty's Honour will be gracioully approv'd, and defire to be directed what further they are to do in this Matter, which they appre-hend to be of a decifive Confequence, becaufe they find even those among the Duteb, who appear to be most cordially dispos'd to fuch a Peace as may re-establish a good Harmony between her Majefty and the States, as abfolutely necessary for their mutual Prefervation, fully refolv'd, either to retain Tournay and have Condé yielded to them, or to take one of these two Courses, either to come into any Terms that France offers, or to continue the War at all Hazards.

In the fame Letter our Plenipotentiaries give an Account, that the French Ministers by an Order from their Master did insist, that the States-General should in a publick manner difavow C. Rechteren for the Affront done to M. Mefnager, and then remove thim from the Congrets, and this Satisfaction to precede any further Negotiation. • The Language which our Pleniporentiaries had us'd to the Allies is very much ap-prov'd by L. Baingivie, who fays they had fpoke the Sentiments of the Queen's Heart in what they declar'd the 30th of Anguft, N. S. and that if the Allies did tall fhore of the Plan laid down in the Queen's Speech, the Fault was entirely their own. His Lordship fays, ' fure it is, that this Plan was nothing more than the Ultimatum of what France would offer, but he wish'd that the Imperial and Dutch Policy had not render'd it the Ultimatum of what France will grant. The fame general Reflection may be applied to the particular Cafe mentioned in your Lordship's last Letter. France would have yielded Tournay, the' much against the Grain. . If France has now any Advantage, and refufes flarly to yield what the only begg'd to have reftor'd, the Fault is entirely theirs.

But the Difpatch of the Plenipotentiaries of the 2d of September, relating to Tourmay, having not yet been confider'd by the Lords of the Council, his Lordthip could not give any positive Infructions about it 'till the next Opportunity, but in the mean time recommends to them two Confiderations; that the keeping of the Dateb in hopes of Her Majefty's good Oilices, will prevent them from taking any defperate Refolution ; and the Frines infifting to have Count Rechteren dilayow'd before any further Treaty, will put off for fome time the Decision of that great Point. Lord Strafford in the mean time, by his * Letters of the 13th and 16th of September, N. 5. * reprefented the States as mightily funk with their Misfortunes, and not * knowing well what Mealures to take, but that they infitted upon Tournay as fo effent tial to their Barrier, that they actually had none, without is, and his Lordfhip is fo much of that Opinion, that he willes they might have Tournay, though they were fore'd to truck lpres for its that if he could politively affure them they flouid have Tournay, he believed they would fubmic to the Plan of the Queen's Speech.

This Opinion of his Lordship is not very easily to be reconcil'd to what he af-eerwards wrote to Mr. Prior upon this Subject, October the 4th, 1712. . If we had a Mind to have Nick. Fig fign with us, we might, for he is ready to do it for Tour-nay; which, if we fign together, we can't well relufe him, but I expect you will ¢ cut that Matter flort, and I long to hear from you, it is the bill But this Affair of Tournay was not to foon fettlod here, altho the Difficulty does not feem to be, whether the French or Durch were to have it, but in what manner it was to be procur'd for France, without a manifelt Contradiction to what was faid by the Queen in her Speech concerning the Barrior.

L. Bolingbroke, September the 10th, O. S. writes Three Letters upon this Subject to Monf. de Torey, to Mr. Prior, and to the Plenipotentiaries, which being upon an Afa Fundament 1 in all their future Proceedings upon the General Peace, that the Conduct of the Queen in regard to the Interests of her Allies was in a great meafure determined by their Behaviour; that the violent Measures which they had taken to obstruct the Peace had put the Queen in a Condition to make her Peace without waiting for their Concurrence, in which Cafe the Queen would declare that fhe had figh'd the Treaty with France and Spain, and would propofe the Plan brought over by Abbot Gaultier, and deliver'. he 20th of Spril, 1712, for the Al-<sup>6</sup> lies to treat upon, and could do no more than by her good Offices, as a common <sup>6</sup> Friend to both Parties. But in Cafe the Dutch in particular, or the other Allies, <sup>6</sup> fhould before the Conclution of her Peace with France enter into Concert with her Majefty, we flould have more Measures to keep with them, the Compaffion of our People would be mov'd in their Behalf, and the Queen's Ministers be obfigd to make fome Steps, which otherwife they would abfolately refufo to do. Upon this Foundation, fays L. Holingbroke the King's Ministers feen to exact fome-thing more, when they infift the Queen's Ministers should proptife the holding a Conference, in which the first Proposition started would appear in some measure Contrary to what the Queen faid in her Speech, touching the Barrier of the States. The Point in Diffute between your Plenipotentiaries and ours is not to know, whether Tournay fhall be reftor d to the King, or not? For to obtain that Place, it is not neceflary that you fhould begin by making this Specifick Declaration, š, but the Question is, whether the Queen ought formally, and at prefert, to declare that Tournay fhall be reftor'd to France ? Which would be to content to the Explanation which your Miniflers give to this Article of the Queen's Speech. He then' fays, not to fwell my Letter too much, which may already feem todious, I refer my felf to what Mr. Prior thall have the Honour to explain to you upon this Point, and I shall content my felf with faying, that as it is not difficult to find a Temperament, I hope we shall avoid all Things that may occasion a Dispute betweenthe Ministers of Great Britain and France.

' This Temperament is to be found in his Lordship's Letter to Mr. Prior of the fame Day, which his Lordship fays is to be look'd upon only as a Letter from Harry to Mat. and not the Secretary to the Minister. He fends him enclos'd an Extract of his Letter to Monfieur de Torcy, which, he fays, relates to a Matter that has given Lord Treasurer and himfelf no finall trouble in Cabinet ; he likewife fends him a Copy of the Plenipotentiaries Difpatch of the 2d of September upon the fame Subject; wherein, as he will obferve, their Lordships are very warm about the Difpute. He can affure him, we have those here, who are not a jot cooler. His · Lordfhip K a matter of Management and Appearance, more than of Substance. <sup>4</sup> The Method of doing it is by making Monf. de Torey fensible of the Proposition feetled between them in France, That the Queen can never do any Thing which fhall look like a direct Reftraint on Her Allies from demanding what they judge neceffary ; but as long as they act the Part which they now do, She can very juliy be paf-five and neuter, as to their Interests. This his Lordship thinks is Advantage enough for France, and fuch a one, fairly speaking, as a Year ago they would have given more than Townwy to be fure of. They must not therefore prefs us to go further than this, 6 nor to do any Thing which may feem contradictory to what the Queen deliver'd from the Throne.

In a word, The Ufe which the French will make of the anaccountable Obffinacy of the Dutch, and the other Allies, may in feveral Refpects, and particularly, for ought I know, in the Inflance of Towrnay, give them an Opportunity of faving and gaining more than they could have hop'd for; and the Queen may in the prefent Circum-ftances contribute paffively to this End, but actively the never can in any Circum-* ftances.

His Lordship then very plainly gives his Advice how this Matter is to be manag'd in nefe Words; ' I think in my own Opinion, and I believe I fpeak the Queen's upon this Occasion, it were better the French should in the Course of the Treaty declare, that thefe Words; whatever they intended to have given the Duich when the Queen Ipoke from the Throne, their Conduct has been fuch, and the Situation of Affairs is fo alter'd, that the King is refolv'd to have Tournay reftor'd to him : I fay, I believe this were better than to expect that we found affent to an Exposition of the Queen's Words. by which Her Majefty would yield the Town up; let the Conferences begin as foon as they will, I dare fay Bufinefs will not very speedily be dispatched in them : We shall go on to ripen every Thing for a Conclusion between us and Savey, and France and Spain; and this is the true Point of View which the France ought to have 6 before their Eyes.

This Scheme being concerted here, and transmitted to France, L. Bolingbroke on the fame Day writes to the Plenipotentiaries in aufwer to theirs of the 2d of September, N.S. upon which he had before told them, He could give no Inftructions till their Letter was confider'd by the Lords of the Council; neither does his Lordship now fend them any Directions, but enlarges upon the fame general Topicks of imputing all the Mifchiefs that had happen'd, and in particular this Affair of Townay, to the Obllinacy of the Allies. His Lordinip observes, ' That in the Plan brought over by Abbor Gaul-i tier, the K. of France begg'd for Tournay rather than infifted upon it, but was now encourag'd to refuse what he only endeavour'd to fave ; and in fhort, that France had now gather'd Strength by our Divisions, and was grown fanguine enough to make that Plan the Ultimatum of her Conceffions, which was at first nothing more than the Ultimatum of her Offers; but that the Dutch had no Body to blame for all this but themfelves. ' His Lordfhip adds, ' Her Majefty is very fenfible of the Concern you express for Her Honour, and will not; you may be fure, fuffer Herfelf to be a Party to any Thing which may appear contradictory to what She has once advanc'd; and altho' perhaps the yielding of Tournay might be reconcil'd to the Terms of Her Speech, yet thould the Queen confent to this Exposition of it, such Confent would be almost a formal Restoration of this Place to France; and this, my Lords, is what Her Majefty will avoid: But, I hope, the Solution of this Difficulty will come from France ; and that when they have fo many other Quartels to decide, that Court will go back from a Measure which must involve them in a Dispute with the Queen.

The Committee finds a Paper which is faid to be deliver'd among Mr. Prior's loofe Papers, and feens to be the Draught of a Letter from Mr. Prior to Monf. de l'orer. purfuant to what L. Bollingbroke had written to him upon the Subject of Tournay; which is in Substance the fame, and almost in the very Words of L. Bollingbroke's Letter to Mr. Prior of the 10th of September, with this Addition, that it begins thus : " There is more Appearance than Substance in this Affair that is now under Agitation at Utrecht, and my Lord Treasurer does not at all doubt but the Court of France will find a Remedy.

And his Lor. thip was not miltaken in his Expectations, for Monf. de Torey very readily follow'd the Advice that was given by the English Ministry ; and on the 27th of September, N. S. fends to my L. Bolingbroke a * Declaration to be made by the French Plenipotentiaries at Utrecht, wherein the King's Minifters are order'd to declare to those of Great Britain, That the King did confent to treat of the Peace upon the Plan laid down in the Queen's Speech to Her Parliament ; but at the fame time they were to fay, That the Dutch having refus'd to conform to the Sentiments of that Princefs,

Mr. Prior's loole nf. de torcy. purnay; which is in streer to Mr. Prior There is more n at Uireebt, and ind a Remedy. le Torcy very reai on the 27th of y the French Pledeclare to those on the Plan laid time they were of that Princefs, having: * having rejected the Sufpent on of Arms, and given Opportunity to the feveral Changes in Affairs that had happen'd, it is but just that His Majefty should be recompenc'd for the Expense he has been obligid to make during the Courfe of this Campaign. Upon this Foundation his Majefty orders his Plenipotentiaries not to fign a l'eace but upon Condition, That Tournay should be restor'd to him belides the other Places which he has demanded, and which he had reston to believe the Queen of Great Britain did defign to comprehend in Her Speech.

The Original of this Declaration that carite from France, is in the Secretary's Office, and was fent by Monf. de Tores to L. Bolingbroks, who transmitted a Copy of it to the British Plenipotentiaties; but the Letter of Monf. de Tores, in which it was inclosed, does not appear.

This Trahlaction in relation to Tournay, feems of fo extraordinary a nature, as to deferve to be fet forth in one fhort View 3. The Difpute concerning it arole from the French Minitters infifting to be very particular and express in demanding the Refitutution of this Place; which the Brith Pleripotentiaries conceiving to be incomfiftent with what the Queen had declar'd, refue to open the Conferences until they had further Orders. When this came to be confider d in Empland, L. Bolingbroke fays, It occation'd great Warmth in the Cabinet-Council; but his Lordfhip inflead of taking Meafures for preferving the Town as Part of the Barrier of the States General, which, as he confeifes, was to intended in the Queen's Speech, propoles Expedients whereby the Town might be reflor'd to Frame, without the Queen's becoming a Party to a Thing which was contradictory to what the had once advanc'd: And gives his Advice to Monf. ds Torey, by what Management Townay might be fecur'd to the King of Frame, contrary to the avow'd Senfe of what the Queen had declar'd in Partilament; and althor Frame had confented in a Memorial deliverd by Abbot Gaultier to early as the 18th of November 1711, not to infift upon Townay and this he does in his private Capacity, and not as Secretary of State : But that his Lordfhip was not fingle in his Endeavours to all if Frame upon this Occalion, appears by the great Trouble that he fays this Matter had given both him and my Lord Treaforer mult certainly have written to Mr. Prior upon this Subject, who could otherwife have had his provide to fay, My Lord Treafurer does not at all doube but the Court of Frame will find a Remedy: Which is agreeable to what at all doube but the Court of Frame will find a Remedy which is agreeable to what at all doube but the Court of Frame will find a Remedy when this Subject, who could otherwife have had his provide to fay, My Lord Treafurer does hot at all doube but the Court of Frame.

(a), (a) Note it is agreeable to what L. Beingbioke faid in other Words when this Advice was fent. The Solution of this Difficulty mult come from France. What happen'd afterwards in relation to Townsy, upon what great Conceffions made to France, together with the advantageous Terms procurd for the Elector of Bavaria, the Measures and Councils relating to this Affair were afterwards alter'd, is not naterial enough to require a long Detail; but nothing lefs than an abfolute Concurrence, without any new Objections or further Demands, was to failing for the Ceffion of Townsy, and that it was at last obtain d is owing folely to the 1 i multiplication.

The Difpute between Count Rechteren and Monfieur Mefnager was fhill kept on Foot ; and tho' it was at laft left to Her Majefty to decide upon this Difference. There being fome Points relating to Commerce, and North-America, which are of ery great Confequence to the Intereft of the Queen's Subjects, and the Honour of this Treary full to fettle b Lord Bolingbroke thinks it neceflary; tho' the Dutch may be uneafy that the Affair of the Four Species to be excepted out of the Tariff of 1664, fhould full be kept in Uncertainty ; and the Britifth Plenipotentiaries accordingly, to gain Time 'till they could know her Majefty's Pleafure, reviv'd the Difference between Count Rechteren and Monf. Mefnager ; and hope 'tis for her Majefties Service in this manner to flave off the Conferences.

. The Correspondence carried on between London and Utrecht about this time, relating to the Differences that arose concerning the Treaty of Peace, and in particular about Our Commerce, is contain'd chiefly in the Fourth Volume; but as it appears that all the Matters in 'Question, being reduc'd to as narrow a Compass as was possible, were finally to be determin'd at Paris by the Duke of Shrewsburg and Mr. Prior, the Committee think it needless to enter into all the Orders and Instructions, Objections and Answers, that went and came to and from Unrecht, where there was indeed but little more than the Form of a Negotiation; and conceive that an Account of what pass'd between London and France will fet this whole Matter in a clear Light.

Your Committee think it not improper to take Notice here of a remarkable Paffage or two, that are found in Lord Bolingbroke's c Letters to Mr. Prior on the 19th

Whill the English Ministry are doing these good Offices to the Subjects of France, and taking all Opportunities both publick and private to, efpoule their Interells, your Committee is furprised at the ill Treatment which England received from France at this Inite, and at their Backwardnets in making good the Poonisie and Englements they were under in fourte Points that not nearly concerned the Intereffs of Good Britan

At the latter End of Ollober Mr. Prior was fent into England, and by what appears left his Refidence in France, without the Leave or any Orders from the Queen his Milltrets; but was font over by the King of France as a proper Perion, whom he Queen his Milltrets; but was font over by the King of France as a proper Perion, whom he thought fit to entrief with the great Secret of prevailing with the Queen by her Gredit to obtain what the King demanded for the Elector of Bavaria. He brings a Credential Letter from the King of France to the Queen, which freming fourthing New of the Kind is here anner d. <sup>b</sup> N<sup>2</sup> (38.)

About the Middle of Novemb. Mr. Prier goes back into Prime with new Infructions, " wherein the Proposal of a Neutrality in Muly is one of the chiefeft Atticles ; and that he might have a perfect Knowledge of the Queen's preferst Refolutions and Cotnicils in relation to the preferst Treaty of Peace, a Copy of the last Infructions to the Prehippendiaries at Unrebr is grieth him, that as Occasion that require he might act in all Things conformable to the Queen's lifentions therein expreis'd.

He carries likewife a Letter from the Queen to the King of Frame, wherein, among other Things, it is faid, That Mr. Prior continuing to behave himself for so that his Scoulde may be entirely agreeable to the King of France, he does but literally execute the Orders the Queey had given hun, and is a Proof of his Dury and Zeal for her Service, 4 No. (30). After this short Digreftion, to return back to what was jud? now mentioned, it appears that when, the Treary of Peace was teady to be concluded, the Advantages Ofrest Bittain was to expect and reap from the Endeavour; of the Bridgh Minillry, to affit and ferport the Caule of France, where her agest Mentions unforted and undertranget. France here not could all and if Lord were in a great Measure unfettled and undetermined. France began to cavil, and is Lord Belingbreke laid, go back from what the King had promifed the Queen: I His Lord hip cannot be perfuaded, as he tells Mr. Prier, ' That the Frenck ack either faiely or wifely, they prefs ' us to conclude, that they may have others at their Mercy; and at the fame time they Chicane ' with us concerning the wolf effential Article of all our Treaty, and endeavour to clude an

As to the first, it is to be obferv'd, That in the ' Queen's Instruction; to the Duke of Shrenf. bury, He is directed to propole, as the Queen's last Reiolugion, that She will Content to give and yield up to His Molt Christian Majelty, the entire Poletion and Propriety of the Island of Case Brecon, but with this express Condition, That his faid Majelly (hall on his Part, in con-fideration of the fame, relinquish to Her Majelly all manner of Right to Fishing, and drying; With on the Coast of Newfoundland, or any Part, refervid to his Subjects, by the Atticles: Sign'd at London the " Sept. 1711.

Several Reprefentations were fent backward and forward, fhewing the fatal Confequences of what was demanded by France ; and although my Lord Bolingbroke in his Letter to (a) Mr. Prior of the 19th of January 1712-13. infifted that the Queen had never yielded what France pretended to, which then remained an unfurmountable Difficulty, yet in his Letter to the (b) Duke of Shremsbury of the fame Date he tells His Grace, if the French clofe with the Overture he then made them, with regard to the Difputes concerning Commerce, Her Majefty is willing to accept the last Expedient proposed by Monsfieur de Torcy, ' c adjusting our Differences about North America, and to confent that the King, in the Ceffion of Newfoundland, do referve to His Subjects a Right of Fifting and Drying on the Coaft of Newfoundland, from Point Riche North about, to Cape Bonavista; and here no Direction is given concerning C.pe Breton, of which the French got the entire Possession and Propriety; although, in the Duke of Sbremsbury's Inftructions, it is declar'd, ' That the Queen look'd upon Cape Breton to belong to Her; and reckon'd that Ifland a Part of the ancient Territory of Neva Scotia, which is, by this Treaty, reftor'd to . Her. But if his Grace could not prevail upon them to agree with him in the Article of Commerce, he was to declare, That neither will the Queen agree with them in their Proposition concerning NemfoundLand.

Your Committee come now to confider, upon what Confideration this great and valuable Privilege of Taking and drying Fifth upon the Coaft of Newfoundland was yielded up to France.

In this Letter from (b) Lord Bolingbroke to the Duke of Shremsbary, is reprefented the State of the great Dilpute about Commerce which appears to be this; In Monlicur de Torcy's Anfwer to Lord Bolingbrok's' Memorial of May the 24th 1712, it was, autong other things, agreed, That Britsin and France fhould grant to the Subjects of each Crown reciprocally, the fame Privileges and Advantages, which they fhall either of them grant to the Subjects of iny other Nation what foever; upon this Foundation was eftablish'd the Principle of treating, and being treated, as Gens amieiffinas; and purfuant to this Principle the Tariff of 1664, which was granted to Holland, except the Four Species, was likewife to be grauted to us; and by the 8th and 10th Articles of the Project of the Treaty of Commerce it was fo fettled. But France pretending now, that this Tariff would be too beneficial to us, although we were entitude to it, upon the Principle of being ulid as the Amieiffima Gens, refued to grant it to us, until another Tariff thould be made in Britain exactly conformable to that of 1664, whereby our Duties thould be reduc'd as low here, as theirs are in France by that Tariff.

<sup>4</sup> This, Lord Bolingbroke fays, is an open Violation of Faith ; and by this <sup>5</sup> they are removing a Corner frone, which was laid early in the Foundation of <sup>6</sup> a Building brought almost to Perfection; the Fall whereof must prove at · last of as fatal Confequence to them as to us.

He confelles, 'He was firangely inspriz'd when he faw the Precedent of the  $^{}$  Ry/mick Ticary quoted, to perfwade us to refer un Commerce, as the Datch then did theirs, to Commiffioners, to be treated of after Signing the Peace. He fays, 'The Behaviour of the French upon that Occasion has given us warn ing; and it is from thence we have learn'd, that whatever is referr'd, is  $^{}$  given up; and they mult have a mean Opinion of those whom they would perfwade to purfue the fame Method, to get the Tariff of 1664, by which the Datch then lost it.

But furely his Lordfhip had either not learnt this Leffon, or had entirely forgot it, when on the 24th of May he himfelf had propos'd, as has been before obferv'd, that feveral Points relating to Commerce, requiring a longer Difcuffion than that Crifis would admit, Commiffaries fhould be appointed to fettle and adjuft the Differences. But then it feens they were more intent upon the General Peace, than any particular Advantages.

His Lordship goes on to offer an Expedient which was to folve all the Difficulties; and tells his Grace, 'I am commanded to acquaint you, that having 'fully opened to the French Ministers, Her Majefty's Seufe of the King's En-'gagements to Her upon this Head, you are to propose to them, to firike 'o vot of the Project of the Treaty of Commerce the orh and rorb Articles, and 'inftead thereof, to infert one to the Effect of that which I have drawn, and 'which comes here inclosed; and as the Acceptance of this Amendment was to put an end to all the Lifferences, and at the fame time gave fuch ample Advantages to France, the French readily agreed to it. And did infert this Article verbatim as it was fent in the Treaty of Commerce, which makes the Ninth Article of the Treaty as it now flands, and is the fame that was rejected by the Parliament; and this Article, which has been fauce fo univerfally and juffly condemned, appears to be the Work of the English Ministry, and the Price for which they fold to France the Fiftery of Newfoundland.

This Treatment of France could not without doubt bat give the Miniftry the greateft Uncafinets, tho' their Apprehenions, leaft the Circumflances they were in fhould be known, far exceeded their Concern at the Difappointment Great Britain was like to meet with. They had figh'd a feparate Treaty with France in September 1711, upon this fingle Principle, that the Interests of Great Britain were in the first place to be adjusted; and as long as they had this to fay, they were unconcerned at all other Events. They had gone on for Fifteen Months together, and acted in every thing as the Inftruments of France, and are at last in danger of being difavow'd by France in the most effeatual pirt of all their Treaty. One of the chief Inducements, and principal Conditions, upon which the faul Ceflation of Arms was granted was, That no Privileges or Advantages relating to Commerce with France final' be yielded to any Foreign Nation which fhall not at the fame time be grant effort by the Sufpenfion, and were at Liberty to diffure the Principle of Gren amicifiena.

In these Circumstances were the English Ministry in January 1712-13. and to extricate themselves, they give up all Points in Dispute in North America, and the Fishery of Newfoundland; upon the single Consideration of the Ninth Article of the Treaty of Commerce, which the Parliament rejected with a just Indignation.

However, to bring France to a Compliance, even upon these Conditions, his Grace in the fame Letter is infrusted to prevail with France to come to this Resolution without the Lofs of one Moment's time. The Parliament was fuddenly to meet, and it would be neceflary for the Queen to communicate to both Houses the prefent State of the Negotiation. His Grace is then to represent to Monsieur de Torcy, in the best manner he is able, 'How fmoothly 'every thing would glide along, if the Queen was able to speak of Her own Interests as absolutely determined with France; and on the other hand, 'what Travels we fhall be expos'd to, and what Consustion may arise, if our 'Negotiation appears to be full open, and it the Secret comes to be di-'vulged, that France refuses to make good in the Treaty the full Effect of 'former Promiles to the Queen.

His Lordship having finished what he had to fay concerning Her Majesty's particular Interests, he proceeds upon the general Plan of Peace, and instructs his Grace what he was to inform the French Ministers would be the Measure of Her Majesty's Conduct, and what they may expect from Her.

<sup>6</sup> That as the French Minifters defire that the Queen would precipitate the <sup>6</sup> Conclution of Her Peace, and leave all the Confederacy at their Mercy, they <sup>6</sup> muft be told, that when the mutual Interefts of France and England are <sup>6</sup> fettled, as they will be, if the Propositions contained in the first part of <sup>6</sup> this Letter are accepted, the Plenipotentiaries of Great Britain fhall publick-<sup>6</sup> ly declare in the Congrefs that they are ready to Sign with those of France, <sup>6</sup> and fhall call upon the Allies to quicken their Negotiations, and conclude <sup>6</sup> without Lofs of Time. But if they feek unneceflary Delays, or make unrea-<sup>6</sup> tonable Demands, Her Majefty, who has induced them' to Treat, will by the <sup>6</sup> lame Meafures engage them to conclude, or at least She will fign without <sup>6</sup> them.

And the Queen having once declared Her Interefts to be fettled, and Her Treaty ready to be figu'd, the General Peace becomes from that Moment fure; and the Remainder of the Negotiation eafle; it is therefore wife for the French to comply with Her Majefty.

I he great Distraction the Ministry was in, appears sufficiently from this long I etter of 1 ord Bolingbroke's to the Duke of Shremibury. But to be more fully fatissied, what their own Apprehensions were, and what they themselves thought would be the Consequence of such Proceedings; it is necessary to have recourse to two Letters, written about this Time, and upon this Subject, by Lord Bolings broke to Mr. Prior. One of January the 19th, the other of the 22d, O.S. (d) The first was of the fame Date as his Letter to the Duke of Sbrembury ; and therein his Lordship fays to Mr. Prior, ' I have exhausted all my Stock of Arguments in ' the long Letter which, by the Queen's Order, I write to the Duke of Shrews-" bury ; to you I can only add, We stand indeed upon the Brink of a Precipice, . but the French ftand there to: Pray tell Monficur de Torcy from me, that he " may get Robin and Harry hanged ; but Affairs will foon run back into fo much Confusion, that he will wish Us alive again. To speak feriously, unless the Queen " can talk of Her Interests as determined with France ; and unless Your Court . will keep Our Allies in the Wrong, as they are fufficiently at this time, I fore-' fee inextricable Difficulties.

" My Scheme is this: Let France fatisfie the Queen, and let the Queen imme-· diately declare to Her Parliament, and in the Congress, That She is ready to ' fign ; at the fame time let the French Plenipotentiaries flow a Disposition to conclude with all the Allies. And then his Lordship enumerates the feveral Offers which he would have France make to the feveral Allies : which, tho' very general and infufficient, his Lordship fays, ' If fuch Overtures as these ( made to ' the Allies ) were not instantly accepted, Our separate Peace would, sitting the * Parliament, be addrefs'd for, made, and approved; and the Caufe of France for · once become popular in Britain.

" It they were accepted, let Monfieur de Torcy fit down, and confider, what <sup>6</sup> a Bargain would be made for France; let him remember his Journey to <sup>6</sup> the Hague, and compare the Plans of 1709, and 1712. <sup>6</sup> Monlieur de Torey has a Confidence in you: Make use of it once for <sup>6</sup> all upon this Occasion, and convince him thoroughly, that we must give <sup>6</sup> a different turn to our Parliament and our People, according to their Re-' folution at this Crifis.

The next Letter from his Lordship to Mr. Prior, is upon the fame Subject, and of the fame Strain: <sup>6</sup> We are now, fays his Lordship, at the true Crifis of our Difeafe, we Die at once, or Recover at once, let France depart from that fhameful Expedient by which they thought to bubble us out of the Advantages which they had folemnly yielded, and all is well, otherwife, by God, both they and we are undone.

· Pray fend Barton back as fast as possible; the Queen can neither delay the Meeting of Parliament longer than the 3d, nor speak to the Houses, till we hear from you.

<sup>6</sup> My Compliments to Monfieur de Torcy: Let him know, that if they do <sup>6</sup> not agree with the Queen, I may perhaps be a Refugee; if I am, I pro-<sup>6</sup> mile before hand, to behave my felf better in France, than the French Re-<sup>6</sup> fugees do here. Make the French afham'd of their fneaking Chicane; by <sup>6</sup> Heaven, they treat like Pedlars, or, which is worfe, like Attorneys.

As all these publick Transactions pass'd through the Hands of Lord Bolingbrake, who, although he was Secretary of State, acted Extra-provincially in all his Correspondence with France; so it appears at the fame Time, then his Louding was proved the only Descharge in the Secret that his Lordship was not the only Person in the Secret; but that a greater Influence chiefly directed and governed all these Councils. And my Lord Treasurer, as in the great Affair of Tournay, was in this Transaction the chief Conductor, as may very reafonably be concluded by feveral Let-ters that him Prior wrote about this Time to my Lord Treasurer, although Mr. Creatings not thought fit to produce one Letter from his Lordship to him.

It is to be observ'd, that these Letters to my Lord Treasurer, were chiefly wrote on the fame Days that Mr. Prior fent Difpatches to the Secretaries of State, giving an Account of his Proceedings, and defiring the Queen's Directions upon them; but it feems, he thought not that fufficient without knowing my Lord Treasfurer's particular Pleafure upon them. Mr. Prior's Difpatch to the Secretary's Office, giving a full Account of the prefent State of the Treaty, together with feveral Papers, Memorials, and Propolitions relating to the Points in Difpute, and concerning Commerce, and North America, is dated (e) December the 28th, 1712. N. S. The Day after, (1) December the 29th, N. S. Mr. Prior writes to my Lord Treasurer, and tells him, I have wrote a Book inftead of a Letter, to my Lord Bolingbroke,

If your Lordfhip is of the fame Opinion, I fhall have entire Satisfaction.

January the 8th, 1712-13. N. S. (g) Mr. Prior having fent another full Account in Form to the Secretary of State, writes the fame Day to (k) my Lord Trea-furer, that he had been in Conference with the French Ministers to adjust the Points undecided between Her Majefty and the King of France; that he had fent Lord Bolingbroke the Refult of those Conferences, as well what was agreed to by the French Ministers, as his own Remarks upon each particular Head ; and fays, I hope your Lordship will find the whole adjusted to far to your Satisfaction, as that our Plenipotentiaties may receive their final Orders. I will not doubt but the whole Affair of Newfoundland is adjusted to your defire; there were fome Points infifted upon by our Plenipotentiaries which the Ministers here thought very unreasonable; and to fay a Truth to my Lord Treasurer plainly, which I a little mitigate to my Lord Bolingbroke, I think not very reasonable. He then gives an Account that Monsieur de Twy was furpriz'd, that the Dutch had but in Part comply'd with what I ad Strafford declar'd to them to be Her Majefly's Refolutions, to which he nupes the Queen will fend fuch an Anfwer as may cut off all Delays; and upon this Occation Mr. Prior fays to my Lord Treasurer ; " This I only write to your . Lordfhip, it being a thing that fhould not be canvals'd in Council ; and I have ' promis'd that the King should have Her Majesty's Answer upon it, as he · desires.

January the 19th, 1712-13. N. S. (i) Mr. Brior writes again to my Lord Treafuner; acquaints him, "That : the of Shrewsbury now fends to Lord Bolingbroke the Substance of their last Concerences with Monsieur de Torcy, upon the Subj & " of Newfoundland; to which I take Leave to add; That your Friend Torcy is in the laft Concern to find the Duke's Infructions fo frict, in a Point which cannot be given up by France, at a Time when we well hop'd that Diffe-rence was adjusted. Pray, my Lord, let us have your diffinit and pointive Orders hereupon by the first. I fend your Lordfhip enclos'd a Copy of my <sup>6</sup> Letter to my Lord Bolingbroke, and Duke of Shrewsbury defites, that we <sup>6</sup> may have your Orders to finish. I believe Torcy writes him felf to you. January the 23d, 1712-13. N.S. (k) Mr. Prior writes once more to my Lord Trea/wer, and tells him, "I have already wrote fo amply to your Loudship, on the two great " Points of Newfoundland, and the Tarilf of 1664, and expect fo daily your ' last Orders upon those two Points, that I will not trouble you at predict ' farther than to fay, if these Two are settled, the Pence may be determined ' here to Morrow, and fent the next Diy to Urrecht to be fign'd. And on the 2d of February 17012-13. (1) Mr. Prior fays to my Lord Treasurer ; " If I delire you ' to write to me, it is becaufe I really think it for the Queen's Service ; that ' in this great Post where you have put me, I may be able to fay, I have the ' immediate Commands of my Lord Treasurer; and in regard to that Friendship "with which yon have to publickly honour'd me, and which, by the By, does all the Bafine is here." And on (m) February the 4th, I shall direct my felt as · you full be pleas'd to inftruct me privately.

If your Committee had found among the Papers delivered by Mr. Prior, My Lord 'Treafurer's Anfwers to thefe Letters, they have Reafon to helieve it would have appear'd from them, how far the giving up the Fiftery of Newfoundland, and the accepting of the 9th Article of the Treaty of Commerce, was owing to his Lordfhip's immediate Orders. It feems, however, to be a very extraordinary Proceeding, that the Queen's Ministers in France, acting by Her Authority, and under Her Instructions, should apply to my Lord Treasurer, for his diffinct and positive Orders to release them from the Queen's Instructions; because they are thought by the French Ministers to be too first, and if it be a Doubt, by whose Order or Advice it was procur'd, fo much is certain, that these Applications had their desired Effect; and the Newfoundland Fishery was given up; and the Advantages we were to receive from heing treated upon the Foot of Gens amicifima, were all bury'd in that destructive Article, the gh Article of the Treaty of Commerce.

The Difficulties relating to North America and Commerce, being in this Manner determined, France was wholly intent upon concluding and figning with Great Eritain, without taking in the reft of the Allies; and in this they had the good Fortune to have the Concurrence and Affiftance of the Britifu Ministry.

By good Management, the Difpute raifed at Otrecht had been fo order'd, that the Minifters of the Allies could not obtain any Conferences with those of France, till the Points in Difference were adjusted between England and France, by which Means it was February 1712-13, before the Dutch and French were fuffered to meet: And it being now the Buline's of France to conclude with England feparately, the Temper the French Plenipotentiaries appear'd in, made all Busine's fo impracticable, that the British Plenipotentiaries were under a Neceflity of complaining of it to Lord Bolingbroke, and to acquain thim, February the 3d, 1712-13. 'The French '(n) appear fo very uncomplying in every Point debated, and fo very forward 's and pofitive in their Refulal of a great many things, which the Dutch took to 'be granted and fettled, as well by Her Majefty's Speech, as the Declarations 'Intelly made by Lord Strafford, that the Difappointment they met with, put them 'in the greatelt Confernation : Reafon was allo given us to participate in their Diffeontents, and to regard feveral things which appear contrary to what Her 'Majefty has declar'd, as very unit , yet all that could be faid prevail'd not.

Your Committee is not furpriz d, that the inftances of their Excellencies had fo little effect with the French Plenipotentiaries, who then expected that Orders fhould be fent to the British Plenipotentiaries immediately to figa a feparate Peace, which, according to their Expectations, were fent (o) Feb. 20.1712-13. by Mr. St. John, Brother to the Lord Boiingbroke, to Conclude and Sign with France as foon as the Duke of Shrewsbury should lead them Advice that the Propositions he was to make at the French Court were accepted ; and on the 28th Lord Bolingbroke with the utmoft Joy acquaints their Excellencies, 'That he had received from the Duke of Shrewsbury the expected Returns; and which he doubted not would have reach'd their Lordfhips. He had therefore, without flaving to enter into any other Detail, difpatch'd a Courier to them, to renew those luftructions which he hoped were clearly enough fignify'd in those Papers which his Brother carried. He acquaints them that the Duke of Shrewsbury had declar'd, that their Lordships had Orders, in Case the French comply'd, as they now actually have done, to fign Her Majefty's Peace with France without further Delay; and that his Grace had alfo declar'd, that in this Cafe ٤ Her Majefty would open the Parliament, by telling them, She had made a Peace with France. These two Considerations, his Lordship fays, were perhaps the most prevalent Inducements to the French Court, to come roundly into Her Majefty's Propolitions ; and the Queen thinks Her felf, for this Reafon, fiill the more oblig'd punctually and religiously to fulfil these Promises. The latter She will Her felf perform on Tue/day; and the former, it is Her politive Command that your Lorofhips make good as fast as the necessary Forms of preparing and executing the Inftruments will allow. And his Lordfhip looking upon it now, that the chief Difficulties, relating to the Treaty of Peace, were remov'd; as likewife in the Treaty of Commerce, by the Article drawn by himfelf, and propos'd by the Duke of Shremsbury, he gives their Excellencies politive Orders, without any Delay, to execute the Treaties of Peace and Commerce between Great Britain and France.

On the 7th, and 20th of March, O. S. (p) Lord Bolingbroke repeats these positive Orders, and infilts, that the Peace should be concluded with that Precipitation which Her Majefty would have us'd. And it is observable, that among all the Demands that were made, upon Account of any Prince or Potentate, none at this Time met with the least Regard; when, at the fame time, the Interest of the Princess Ursini is esponsed in the ftrongest Terms: And in the fame Letter, March 3. O.S. (q) where his Lordship, speaking of the Confequence of the Reforation of the Elector of Ravaria to his Electorate, fays; 'Her Majesty does not much enter in-' to the Notion of the Degradation of Hanover as a Matter of any Importance. His Lordship declares, 'That the Principality in fome Part of the Spanish Nethers ' lands, with a Revenue of 30000 Crowns, demanded for the Princes's Ursin; must ' he made to the Emperor, and all Parties concern'd, a Condition, sine quanton, of ' the General Peace.

But

But the Brinifk Plenipotentiaries, who were to fign, had fome Difficulties; and they acquaint (r) Lord Boiingbroke; We could fay a great deal to juitify our cantions Proceedings with the French; and are fatisfy'd, that your Lordfhip would be of the fame Opinion, if you were to fee their Way of negotiating with all the Allies; And how hard It is for us to obtain here what to your Lordfhip feems impofiible the French should make any Difficulty to grant.

The repeated Orders to the Plenipotentiaries prevail'd at laft fo far upon them, as to acquaint the Allies, the Queen found it neceffary to conclude Her own Peace without Delay; and that Time fhould be allow'd thofe that are not ready: Bue they fill avoided the aftnal Signing till the reft of the Allies, whofe Treaties were in a Forwardnefs, were ready to fign with them; and, to juftify themfelves, they acquaint the (1) Duke of Shremsbury, 4 That, befides other Confiderations, their ther full Powers under the Great Scal, only Authoriz'd them to negotiate, agree, and conclude the Conditions of a Good and General Peace, agreeable to the Interefts of all, and each of the Allies. And what made them more averfe, was the great Importunity with which the French pullid them to fign feparately. We are furpriz'd at the Eagernefs of the French Minifters to have us conclude with the malone, when fo many of the Allies are, in a Manner, ready to join with us; nor can we enough apprehend the Confequences at Home of doing it alone.

Lord Bolingbroke, (1) who fays he has not Sagacity enough to find the Objections that the Plenipotentiaries had made to their first full Powers, for their Satisfaction, fends them a new Committion, and repeats to them politive Orders to figm and conclude with France; for which Putpole they were to appoint a Day to defire them to be ready; and at the fame time to prefs fuch as could not be ready by that Day, to fix fome other on which they will fign.

By this new Commiffion, his Lordship tells them, they have a Power, as before, tratiandi conveniendig; the Conditions of a Good and General Peace, which is no more than you are to do when you are to offer jointly with the Ministers of France, a General Plan to the Allies.

These Difficulties of the Plenipotentiaries made my Lord Treasure, who never fail'd to exert himself when he found it absolutely necessary, think it high Time to interpose his Authority; and accordingly March 3 ts. N. S. (a) wrote to my Lord Strafford in this Manner; 'I must felicitate your Excellency upon the 'Success of all your Zeal, and the true Love you have shewn to your Queen, 'your Country, and Repose of all Europe.

" The remaining Danger is, leaft we should fuffer Ship-wreck in the Sight of the " Port. The Nation here are Five Hundred to one for Peace. The Warriours are driven from their Out-works; the last Retrenchment they have is Delay; and I must fay, this operates much here : The Ferment begins to work, and it will be impossible to answer for the Turn the House of Commons will take, if these Delays provoke them further. They all feel how many Hundred Thousand " Pounds this needlefs Protraction cofts them. We now maintain Forty Nine Thousand effective Men by Land, and Thirty Thousand, within a Trifle, by 6 Sea. In the mean Time, the Merchants lie off, and will not come into Port ; 6 the Amusement of Stories invented by the Faction, and the Correspondence and Encouragement that Farty gives to their Friends to hold out, and to wait for 4 fome unhappy Accident that may unravel all which is done : Add to this, the " ill Humour which will grow in Members, by being kept fo long in Town idle; " and, in one Word, all that has been unfettled for many Days, is not worth " one Day's Charge England is at extraordinarily by this Delay. Peace and Commerce ; and the Emperor and Empire alone, choic rather to bear the whole Weight of the War, than fubmit to fuch difadvantageous and difhonourable Terms as had been carv'd out for them by England and France.

The Peace being thus fettled between Great Britain and France, your Committee find, from the Negotiation which remain'd fill to be carry'd on with spain, that the Queen's Plenipotentiaries did fuffer a Claufe to be inferted at the End of the 15th Article of the Peace with Spain, whereby they gave a Pretence to the Spanards to claim a Right to fifth at Newfoundland.

The Words of the Article are thefe: Whereas it is infifted on the Part of Spain, that certain Rights of Fifting at the Illand of Newfoundland, belong to the Guipufcoans, or other Subjects of the Catholick King; Her Britannick Majefy confents and agrees, that all fuch Privileges as the Guipufcoans, and other People of Spain, are able to make Claim to by Right, thall be allow'd and prefervid to them. This Claim of the Spaniards is contrary to the 7th and 8th Articles of the Treaty

This Claim of the Spaniards is contrary to the 7th and 8th Articles of the Treaty made with that Crown by Sir William Godolphin, Sther 18th July 1670. whereby it is agreed, 'That the molt Screne King of Great Britain, His Heits and Succeffors, 'fhall have, hold, '-p, and enjoy for ever, with plenary Right of Sovereignty, 'Dominion, Polleffion, and Property, all thole Lands, Regions, Iflands, Colonies, ' and Places whatfoever, being or fituated in the Weff-Indies, or in any Part of A-' merica, which the faid King of Great Britain, and his Subjects, do at prefent hold ' and profiles.

The Board of Trade was confinited upon the Spaniards claiming a Right to fifth at Newfoundland, foon after the late Peace, and returned the following Aniwer to Lord Dartmonth, dated Jane the 13th, 1712-13. <sup>6</sup> That in Obedience to Her Majefty's Commands, fignify'd to us by your Lord-

By the Aft to encourage the Trade to Newfoundland, pair'd in the 10th and 11th

By the Act to encourage the Trade to Newfoundland, pais'd in the 10th and 11th Years of His late Majefty, when we were in Amity and Alliance with Spain. It is declar'd and enacted, 'That no Alien or Stranger whatfoever, notrefiding within the 'Kingdom of England, Dominion of Wales, or Town of Berwick upon Tweed, fhall 'at any time hereafter take, bait, or use any Sort of Trade, or Fifting whatfoever, in Newfoundland, or in any of the Islands adjacent: Pursuant to which Act, In-'furctions have been given every Year to the Commodores of the Convoys, to pre-'vent Foreigners coming thither.

The Committee find themfelves at a Lois to account for the Reafons that prevail'd with the Ministry to admit the Insertion of this Article; and upon this Occasion they think themselves oblig'd to acquaint the House, that they find very few Foorsteps remaining of the whole Transaction, relating to Commerce with Spain. It appears, that the Management of it was entrusted with Mr. Gillingham, an Irifh Papift, who was fent thither for that Purpole ; for which Reafon Lord Lexington, in his Letters to Lord Dartmouth, frequently excuses himself for not writing upon that Subject, Mr. Gillingham giving fuch full Accounts of the Matter; notwithstanding which, no one Letter from Mr. Gillingham to the Secretaries Office can be found ; and the Committee are induc'd to helieve, that this whole Transaction was carry'd on by another Way. From a Letter of Lord Lexington to Lord Daremonth of January the 9th 1712. (w) wherein his Lordship, speaking of the Business of Commerce, fays, " Mr. Gillingham gives an Account of the Steps we have made, fo I don't trouble you with them again ; knowing that what goes to my Lord Treafurer, is the fame as to your felf. From (w) Vol. 12.

From this Paffage it appears evident to your Committee, that a Correspondence was carry'd on between the Earl of Oxford and Mr. Gillingham, in relation to our Treaty of Commerce with Spain. But for want of the Papers which pafs'd between them upon this Subject, your Committee is likewife at a Lofs to find what Motives could induce the Bringh Miniflery to admit to effential an Alteration of the Treaty of Commerce, fign'd by the Queen's Plenipotentiaries, as is made by the Three Explanatory Articles, as they are call'd, which are added to the faid Treaty, and are, in an unprecedented Manner, inferted in the Ratification of it; nothwithftanding it doth not appear, they had ever heen confented to, much lefs fign'd, by any of the Queen's Plenipotentiaries; amongft other very material Difadvantages to which there Articles fubject our Merchants, your Committee is in-form'd, that, by Virtue of them, Spain does actually at this Time demand of our Merchants Fourteen per Cent. on Account of Cientos, Millones, and. Alcandas, over and above Fiftcen per Cent. which they exact for other Duties, (No. 44.) which added to them, amounts to no lefs than Twenty Nine per Cent. whereas, 'tis netorious, that, during the Reign of King Charles II. of Spain, the whole Duties exacted, and paid by our Merchants for all Goods imported to the feveral Ports of Spain, computed by an Avarage, did never exceed Ten per Cent. but rather fell flort of it. By what Management these Articles were ratified, and how legal and warrantable it was to affix the Great Seal to Articles fo pernicions in their Contents, and io irregularly offer'd, your Committee must fubrit to the Confideration of the Houfe.

Your Committee having thus gone through the chief Tranfactions relating to the Negotiations of Peace and Commerce, proceed to offer to the Houfe what they have found material in the Papers referr'd to them concerning the Catalani.

After feveral unfuccefsful Attempts by the Way of Poringal, and the Defign upon Cadiz, to fettle King Charles on the Throne of Span; and that the Confederate Fleet had appear'd before Barcelona in 1704. without the defir'd Success ; Her Majelty, in the Beginning of the Year 1705. fent Mr. Crowe asHer Minifter to Genoa, with private Instructions which are here annex'd, (x) (No 45.) to the following Effect: That Her Majefty being inform'd, that the People of Catalonia were enclin'd to caft ' off the Ycke impos'd on them hy the French ; and by withdrawing themfelves from "the Power of the Duke of Anjon, to return to the Obedience of the Honfe of ciefiria, was defirous to maintain and improve that good Disposition in them; and 6 to induce them to put the fame fpeedily in Execution, had made Choice of " him to carry on fo great a Work for the Advantage of Her Service, and the Good of the Common Caufe. He is therefore order'd to repair to Genoa, Leghoin, or fuch other neutral Country or Place, as he should jadge most proper, ' for carrying on her Majefly's Service in this particular ; and to treat with the . Catalans, or any other People of Spain, about their coming into the Interest of " Ceastes the Third of Spain, and joining with Her Majefty and Her Allies. For that ' Purpole he is to inform himfelf, what Number of Forces they will raife, and what they expect shall be fent to affift them : If any of the Nobility infift upon a Sum of Money to be advanc'd to them, he must affure them, he does not doubt but he shall he impower'd to remit to them whatloever is necessary and reasonable for their Support, as soon as they are actually in the Field: That he " fhall give the Catalans, or other Spaniards, Affurances of Her Majefty's ntmoft . Endeavours to procure the Eftablifhment of all fuch Rights and Immunities as they have formerly enjoy'd under the House of Auftria: That She has, for their " further Satisfaction, fent to King Charles the Third, for Powers for confirming the fame to them; and that She is willing, if they infift on it, to give Her Guarranty that it shall be done.

Mr. Crone had also a Commillion (y) (No 46.) of the fame Date with his Infrndions, to treat with the Catalanu upon the Terms beforementioned, upon this express Condition on their side, that they should acknowledge, and receive King Charles as lawful King of Spain, and utterly renounce the House of *Bour*bon.

He had with this, credential Letters, (z) (No. 47.) Sign'd by the Queen, directed to the Nobility, Magiltrates, and all Officers Civil and Military, of Catalonia, defiring them to depend upon the Promifes he flould make them in Hec Name.

The Earl of Feterborow, and Sir Cloud fly Shovel, by their Inftructions, Car. Book, No. (43). dated May 1. 1705. are likewife order'd to use their Endeavours, Fal. 13. to induce the Catalant to join with them in their Undertakings, and to animate that People to profecute their Liberty with more Vigour; they are empower'd to affure them of the Queen's Support, and to promile them in the Queen's Name, that the will fecure them a Confirmation of their Rights and Privileges from the King of Spain, that they may be fettled on a lating Foundation to them and their Posterities. But left Perfumitions alone floud not prevail, they are ordered, in Cafe the Catalant make no fuitable Return to their kind Offers, to annoy the Towns on the Coaft of Spain, and to reduce them by Force.

In Conformity to thefe Inftructions, a Declaration was drawn here, and deliver'd by Mr. Secretary Harley to the Earl of Peterborow, for his Lordship to put'is in spain, full of Affurances in the Queen's Name, of Support, and of their Libertles on the one hand, and Threats on the other; which Declaration his I ordship, on his Artival in Spain, did accordingly publish, N° (49).

The Success of that Expedition needs not be here particularly mention'd. King Charler, in his Letter to the Queen, of October 22. 1705. gives an Account of them, and what they were owing to, viz. "The Assures of yout "Majeffy's generous Protection, upon which my Subjects in Catalonia expose "their Lives and Fortunes.

No Want of Fidelity or Zeal for the Common Caufe, during a long War, that abounded with extraordinary Turns of Fortune, was ever objected to the People; on the contrary, they received to the laft the Applaufes of the Allies, and Aflurances repeated to them by every General and Minister that was fent from Great Britain to that Country, that they should never be abandon'd:

When the Queen enter'd into feparate Measures of Peace, Lord Lexington was fent Amballador to Spain, at which time, confidering the Circumstances of King Philip's Affairs, and the Obligations he had then received from the Queen, the Catalan Privileges, if plainly demanded and infifted upon, could not have been refused, and without ir, could never be expected to be granted to a People fo remarkably zealous for the Common Caufe.

But his Lordfhip's Inftructions, N° (50), inftead of directing him to infift Cat. Bok, upon this, as a Condition of the Queen's Coming into the Peace, order him only reprefere to the Court of Spain, that it is no lefs for the King's Interest, than for the Queen's Honour, that a general Amnesty without Exception be granted to all Spaniards who have adher'd to the House of Austria, and in a particular manner to the Catalans, with regard to their Persons, Estates, Dignities and Privileges.

These Instructions, the' very defective, were not complied with; for Lord Cat. Rook, Lexington, in the 11th Article of his Paper, which is call'd Demands,  $N^{\circ}(51)$ , Do. f. 9. deliver'd to the Court of Spain, upon his Arrival there, expresses himself thus; "That the Queen prays his Catholick Majesty, that a general Amnesty with-"out Exception be granted; but leaves out the Words in his Instructions with regard to their Perfons, Estates, Dignities and Privileges.

regard to their Perfons, Eftates, Dignfties and Privileges. The King's Anfwer was, "That the General Amnefty relating entirely to Cat. Book, "the General Peace, was not proper for the prefent Treaty; and therefore he Do. f. 21-"leaves it to be then treated of; that his Majefty will make Ufe of his great " Clemency, provided the Queen will contribute to the Safety, to the Repole, and to the Interefts of fo many faithful Subjects, who, according to their $6 " Duty, had followed his righteous Caufe in Flanders, and in all the Parts of " Italy; and that an express Article be inferted in the Peace, wherein it shall ٩C be declared, That all Subjects who have done their Duty, by adhering to 86 his Catholick Majefty, shall be oftablish'd in their Estates and Honours, of 66 what Nature foever they be, which they enjoyed when they were under his " Obedience; and that they may mortgage, exchange or fell, at their Plea-" fure; and that they fhall have full Liberty to continue in the Service of their " King; and that neither upon this Pretext, or any other whatfoever, they " shall receive the least Prejudice, or the least Harm in their Estates and " Honours, or any Moleftation whatever ; and that any Municipal Law to the " contrary (if there be any fuch) shall be made void by the Treaty of leace.

Lord Lixington transmits this Answer to England, which, the' containing a direct Refusal at prefert of what was defired, and only General Affurances of Clemency from the King, on Conditions that could not poffibly be expected N in Book, to be complied with ; yet his Lordship in his Letter to Lord Dartmanth, writes. 125. " Meaning of a General Aninefty already grante..; and this was an Affair 33 wherein the Queen's Honour was extremely concern'd, and that the was " obliged by Motives of Conficience not to depart from it. Lord Lexington is hereupon order'd to infift again upon it, in the ftrongeil Manner imaginable; that when the King of Spain is convinc'd of her Majefty's Steadinets, and the Firmnefs of her Refolution to adhere to this Demand, no doubt he will yield to what has been to folemnly promis'd, and is in it felf to reaformble. That the Marquis de Monteleone, being restrain'd by his Instructions from treating upon this Point, the Negotiating of it must entirely lie upon Lord Lexington.

Ld Lex-Accordingly his Lordship prefents another Memorial for a general Annefly, ington to with the Confirmation of all their Privileges. The Amnesty, he fays, was D.Shrewgranted, but the Privileges entirely refuled, and in fuch a politive Stile as he fbury, Do. f. 49. never met with, but in demanding a Tract of Ground about Gibraltar.

In another Letter, speaking of the many denials he met with in Spain, he fays, Ld Lexington to " Things are not here upon the fame Foor as they were before the Sufpension, Ed Date " for the King told me thefe Words, We know that the Peace is as neceffary " for You as for Us, and that You will not break it off for a Triffe. It may feem at first fight unaccountable how the Queen's Endeavours could fail of Success, when the declar'd her Confcience was concern'd in this Mat-Do. f. 67. ter, and that, tho' She defired a Peace, She would not act inconfiftently with Honour and Justice to obtain it.

The first fatal Step to the Ruin of the Catalans, was the Orders fent Lord LI Dartmouth to Lexington, (contrary to his first Instructions) upon his arrival at Madrid to acknowledge Philip as King of Spain in a private Audience, before any one Article of Peace or Commerce was fettled with him, which put him in a Con-Ld Lexington, Do. f. s. dition of refufing this, and whatever elfe he fhould chink fit.

The manner how Spain gain'd this important Point appears to be as follows: Lord Dartmonth had acquainted Mr. Prior, that Lord Lexington was not to acknowledge Philip as King of Spain, till he had agreed to the Demands his Lordthip was to make in the Queen's Name.

However Lord Dartmouth thinks it convenient the Sentiments of the French Court should be known upon this Matter as foon as possible.

.This Method of Proceeding with Spain was very much ciflik'd in France, and Mr. Prior writes Lord Darimouth a very elaborate Letter, full of Monfieur Tor-

"That the whole Treaty being Eventual, this Ac-"knowledgment of Philip as King of Spiin, would fall as the other Points, un-"lefs the Conditions were made good, and the Peace agreed and ratified.

Hereupon Lord Bolingbroke determins this Matter in Favour of Spain, by imputing the former Directions to Lord Dartmauid's miffaking the Queen's meaning: And writes Mr. Prior Word that he was equally furprized, and vexed to find by the uncouth way of explaining the Queen's Senfe, that Mr. Prior had been led to imagine it was intended Lord Lexington thould make any diffculty of acknowledging the King of Spain as fuch. "The proceeding this way, "by acknowledging the King in the first Place, (fays his Lordfhip) teems natu-"ral, civil, and unexceptionable, but any other Scheme is abfurd and incon-"tittent with all the reft of our Proceedings; and then concludes, "For God's "fake, dear Matt, hide the Nakednefs of thy Country, and give the beft turn "ty fertile Brain will furnish thee with, to the Blunders of thy Countrymen, who are not much better Policicians than the French are Poets.

Lord Dar.menth it feems thought fit to acquiefce, and the fame Day that this Letter was writ, difpatch'd Orders to Lord Lexington, to acknowledge King Philip in the first Place, notwithltanding his former Instructions to the contrary.

But to return to the Catalam. Nor did the Minifters flow that Zeal for the Queen's Honour as might be expected, but plainly gave this Matter up. Do. f. 25d. Lord Haingbroke in his Letter to the Queen's Plenipotentiaries at Uirecbr, tells them, "It is not for the Intereft of England to preferve the Catalam Liber-"ties, and likewife begs leave to make an Obfervation to them, that the Catalam "Privileges are the Power of the Purfe and Sword; but that the Caffiliam "Privileges, which the King of Spain will give them (in exchange for their "Catalam) are the Liberty of Trading, and reforting to the Weft-Indier, and "a Capacity of holding those beneficial Employments the King has to beftow "in America," which, fays his Lordfhip, are of infinitely greater Value to "those who intend to live in a due Subjection to Authority.

Lord Lexington allo, inflead of fupporting the Catalan Privileges, treated Ld Lex. the People as Rebels, and to induce Spain to make Peace with Portugel, puts ington to Montieur Orry in mind of the necessfity Spain is in of withdrawing their Troops Mr. Orry. from Andalufia, in order to end the Rebeilson of the Catalans. N° (53.) Do. f. 119.

When the Convention  $\frac{1}{7}$  was forc'd upon the Emperon for the evacuating Ca-The Contalonia, the Imperial Minifters at Urrecht infifted upon the preferving by that vention. Treaty the Privileges of Catalonia, Majorca, and Ivica; but France and her  $\frac{1}{7}$  No.(55) Confederates infifting, that that Matter (hould be referred to the Peace, the Imperial Minifters at laft acquiele'd, upon the Queen of Great Britain's declaring again, "That the would interpole her good Offices in the most effectual "Manner to obtain the Privileges of Catalonia, Majorca, and Ivica;" And the French King engag'd at the fame time to join his Endeavours for that Purpole. Hereupon the Negotiation in Spain was kept up till our Treaty of Peace Ld Lexwith that Crown was ripe, by which the Catalan Liberties were to be aban-ington 10 don'd. This Lord Lexington fign'd, contenting himfelf with proteiting againft mouth. that Article at the fame Time he fign'd it; as he had writ. Norwithstanding the King of Spain's former refulal, Lord Lexington is again directed to infift upon the Catalan Privileges, and is again told, That the Do. f. 61 Queen thought her felf obliged by the ftrongeft Ties, wiz. thofe of Honour & 79and Conficience, to infift upon it, for a People whom the Necefflity of the War had obliged her to draw into her Interest. His Lordship had sign'd the Treaty with Spain before these Orders to prefent another Memorial arrived.

He thereupon acquaints the Marquis of Bedmar, that he was forry he was oblig'd to do any thing which he knew was againft the King's Sentiments, but having receiv'd express Orders, he must follow his Duty, and prefents the following Memorial.

THE under-written Minister of the Queen of Great Britain, in purfuance of Do. f. 97. the strice Orders he received the last Post, is obliged most humbly to re- 65 95. new the Inflances he has so frequently made to Your Majelty, in favour of the Catalans; The Queen orders him to represent, that the has nothing more at meast, than to obtain for these People the fame Privileges they formerly enjoy'd, joy'd, which the thinks her felf oblig'd to do, by the two ftrongeft Morives that are pollible, viz. Honour and Confcience, that the may not leave a Nation, which the Misfortune of War obliged hor to draw into her Intereft, in a worfe Condition than the found them. She hopes, that after all the Pains the has taken for procuring a folid and latting Peace to Europe, Your Majefty will not leave her with the Grief of having been the Occation of the Lefs of the Privileges of that People, but rather that in regard to the firict Friendship which with God's Bleffing is fo near being cftablish'd between both Your Majeffics, as well as the Union to necessary to the Interests of both Nations : Your Majefty will not make any Difficulty any longer to grant this Favour to her Majelty, which the has to much at heart.

Do. f. 103.

The Marquis de Redmar's Answer to this Memorial was, That this Point about the Catalans having been debated in the Treaty lately concluded, and fign'd in this Court by his Excellency and himfelf, which his Excellency will own, and may be pleas'd to acknowledge, the King does not fee that any thing further is to be done in the Matter.

This Treaty was fent to England, and ratified by the Queen. Lord Darr-LI Dart. mouth to mouth fays that Lord Bolingbroke had the principal thare in the Negotiation, Ld Lexand that the Article of the Catalans was put in as foft Terms as was confiftent  $D_0$  f.  $t_{<7}$ , with the Queen's Honour to allow. The Terms of the Treaty are, That the Catalani shall have the same Privi-leges as the King's best below'd Subjects the Castilians enjoy.

When the King of Spain had received this convincing Proof of our Mini-Ld Lex-ftry's Attachment to his Interefts, and that the beforemention'd Tics of the ington to Queen's Hangur and Configure war of no Force with them when oppoind La Dan. Queen's Honour and Confcience were of no Force with them when oppofed The Date to his Defires, he takes a further Step, and directly proposes to Lord Lexington,  $D_0$ , f.127, that the Queen would affift him with Ships to block up Barcelona. No (56).

His Lordship's Answer was, That he was affraid this Proposal would meet with this Difficulty, That her Mijefty would be very unwilling to lend her Ship, to exterminate a People that had taken up Arms in a great measure at the Inffigation of her Ministers; and that she would think she had done enough to gratily the King, in not infilling upon the preferving for them their antient Liberties, without helping to deftroy them. But the Regard the Ministry had to this Requeft of the King, will afterwards appear.

The French Ambaffador and the Princels des Urfins propoled to Ld Lexington, and the Night before he left Midrid, the King fent for him, and engaged him to write a Letter, concerted with, and approved by the King, to the Regency

Do f. 159. of Barcelona, Nº (57) adviling them to lubmit themfelves to their King ... His Lordship affures them of his constant Endeavours to do the best he could for them ; that God had not permitted him to do more than he had done : That if they would take their Refolutions foon, before he was out of Spain, he would write for them in the manner they fhould defire; and concludes his Letter with new Affurances of his Concern for their Intereffs.

To make this appear the more friendly to them, he tells them, he had en. trufted the Conful at Alicant to get this Letter conveyed to them, upon fome Pretence or other ; tho' a Duplicate of it was also fent to the Count of Lecheraine, one of the King of Spain's General's before the Town, with Direction to have it fent in as by a Defercer, without his Knowledge. Nº (58.)

Mr. Burch, his Lordship's Secretary, amongst other Reasons; gives this for Do. f. 171. the writing this Letter ; That if the Casalans had a mind to accommodate, the Queen would have the Mediation ; and if they had not, that then the Court of Spain would fee, that her Majefty would be always ready to ferve them. Nº (59). But this Artifice to induce the Catalans to abandon their Defence in hopes of his Lordship's good Offices, had no effect upon Men determined to die for the Liberty of their Country.

Nothing but Force could extort that from them; and therefore Sir Patrick Do. f.135. Lawlefs, in September, 1713. prefents a Memorial, N° (60.) to the fame effect with what was propoled the Month before to Lord Lexington in Spain, fetting forth that the Catalans and Majorcans had not fubmitted themfelves to the King's Obedience, and interrupted all Commerce and Correspondence in the Mediterranean, and fubmits it to the Confideration of the Queen, not only as Guarantee of the Treaty of Evacuation, but as it concerned the Interefts of Great

They told him, they would die rather than be Slaves; but if their antient Liberties were confirmed to them, they would open their Gates, and receive him with all Gladnels.

The House of Lords express'd their Concern in a publick Manner for the Miferies of the Catalan, and by their Address to the Queen, April 3, 1714. made it their most humble and earnest Request to her Majesty, 'That She would be gra-'. ciously pleas'd to continue her Interposition in the most pressing manner, that 'the Catalan may have the full Enjoyment of their just and ancient Privileges '. continued to them.

Her Majefty's Anfwer was, ' That at the time fhe concluded her Peace with Spain, fhe refolved to use her Interposition upon every occasion for obtaining those Liberties, and to prevent, if possible, the Missfortunes to which that People are exposed by the Conduct of those more nearly concerned to help them.

Hereupon, for Form's fake, and to allay the Indignation conceived against the Do. f. 195. Ministry by the People in general, who compassionated the Calamities of those who fought for Liberry, the Demand of the Catalan Privileges is again put down in Ld Bingler's Instructions, who was before ordered to go to Spain, but was never fear.

He therefore writes to Lord Bolingbroke and Lord Bingley upon it, and fubmits it to Lord Bingley's Confideration, whether the Catalam might not refue Conditions that may be most advantagious, if they find he is not to act by Force; and defires that his Orders to act before Barcelona, either by Force or otherwile, may be very plain and clear, affuring him that he will most punchally obey those already given him, and fuch as he shall hereafter receive.

 When Sir James Wilhart arrived at Cadiz, he gave the Governour a Lift of the Ships under his Command for the Mediterranean Service, who fent it immediately to Ma-Do.f.193. drid; but the feveral Mellages came from Court to the Governour during the Admiral's flay there, no one Compliment was made him, to fignifie his Arrival was welcome, or any Queftion asked, about what Services he was to perform, which a little furprized him; that asfoon as they had an Account at Madrid, of his Arrival at Cadiz, Mr. Orry was diffatch'd to Catalonia with full Power to treat with the Catalane; for that, fays he, it would appear, that the' the King of Spain has all the Advantage of the Queen's Ships, as much as if they were actually before Barcelona, by reprefenting to thole People, which they very well know, our Arrival in thefe Parts, and how far we are on our way to the Mediterranean, yet the King would not feem to owe the Succefs of fuch Aereement to the Oueen and her Ships, but to France only.

the Succefs of fuch Agreement to the Queen and her Ships, but to France only. But this Negotiation of Mr. Orry failing of Succefs, by the Catalani refuling to fubmit without having their Liberties granted them, obliged the Court of Spain to take more Notice than otherwife they were inclined to do of the Admiral, who from Alicant writes to Lord Bingles, then expected at Madrid. That he had received

Be fi203, a very civil Letter from Mr. Grimaldo, who fent him the King's Order for evempting the Provisions for the Fleet from paying any Duty. He tells him, that this Exemption was ufually granted to the Admiral himfelf that commanded, but being a Triffe, he fubmits it to his Lordhip's better Judgment, whether the granting him this, might not be a means to prevent any Thing that might be intended by the Court at Madrid more to his Advantage, and leaves it to his Lordhip's Confideration what may be moft for his Intereff at that Place, and hopes by his Friendfhip to find fome Marks of Favour from thence, in regard to his Expence in this Expedition, fo much intended for their Service, and for which he has no allowance from home but his Pay, which will not defray half his Charges. N° (65.)

In another Letter of Sir James Wilhart to Lord Bingley, he acquaints his Lordfhip] that tho' he had formerly defired him to move the King of Spain, that the Grant of Exemption of Duties for Provisions for the Fleet might be made to himself, yet upon farther Confideration of the Matter, which is but of final Moment, and may appear greater at the Court of Spain and England than really it is, he defires his Excellency, not to take any Notice of it, but let it fland as it does; and defires his Do: f.203. Excellency's Countenance and Affiftance upon any other Occasion that the Court of Madrid might take to express their good Will to him. N° (66.) Nor was it long before the Admiral gave the Court of Spain more particular Proofs that he was not unworthy of their expected Favours.

After Barcelona had been invefted a confiderable Time by the Spaniards, and reduced to great Difficulties for want of Provisions, the French King, tho' engaged with the Queen by the Treaty of Evacuation, to employ his good Offices in the moft effectual manner, in favour of the Catalan Liberties, thought fit to fend his Troops against them, commanded by Marshal Berwick, who opened the Trenches before Barcelona the first of July, O. S. 1714. And on the Eighth of the fame Month,' Sir James Wilhart, in the Queen's Name, writ them a threatning Letter, N° (67) freist directed to the Deputies, and others who possible the Government there, telling them, that Complaints had been made of their diffurbing the Commerce of the Queen's Subjects, and that they had infolently prefumed to take, carry up, and plunder their Ships, and used the Men in a barbarous manner; he had therefore thought fit to fend Captain Gordon with two Men of War, to reprefer: to them these unwarrantable and prefumptuous Proceedings, and the Punishment of the Officers of the Ships with the utmoss Severity. If this be not punctually complied with, he leaves it to themfelves to judge what the Confequences may be.

The Deputies returned Answer, N° (68) that only one of those Vessels menf. 219. tioned in Captain Gordon's Memorial, was taken by them into Barcelona, being laden with Salt, for which they paid the Price immediately to the Captain of it; that being befieged, they thought they might do fo with Justice, and by the Law of Nations; that they were far from living like Pirates, as their Enemies fuggefted in order to diffrefs them, by preventing any ones coming with Provifions for their Rellef; that what English Veffels had entred their Port with Provifions, had been well treated, and had freely fold their Merchandize, and at a higher Price than they could have got any where elfe; that they had paid them with their bett fort of Money, and to all their Satisfactions; that they had that Day publified an Order, forbidding upon Pain of Death any of their Ships to moleft any English, even tho' they were going with Provision to the Enemy.

They hope his Excellency will be fatisfied with their Conduct, which is conformable to the Rights of People that are befieged ; affuring him, that when they fhall know of any of their Ships, either with Commiffion, or without, that fhall have caufed the leaft Damage to any English, they will not only immediately inflick a rigorous Punishment, but repair all the Damage, defiring to live in the good Correspondence they have had with his noble and generous Nation, with the utmost Deference for the Queen, and ready to obey his Excellencies Orders with all Affection and Respect.

The Government of Barcelona, in their Extremity wilt another Letter to the Admiral, dated  $\Im uly 23$ , N° (69) fitting forth, 'That his Excellency very well 'knew that the Engagement Catalonia entred into to receive Charlet the Third for their King, was founded on the Protection of the High Allies, but moft particularly of England, without which they were not capable of undertaking to great an Enterprize. That they had for feven Years together endeavoured to ferve the English Nation in every Thing it was politible for them to do, by contributing Troops and confiderable Sums of Money without Interest. And tho' they had beladed themfelves with the Thoughts of the Happinefs to be always Subjects of Charlet III. yet by the ordinant change to which Human Affairs are liable, they now fast the Troops and Configurations and Cardona, committing through the whole the moft exectable Hoftlities, Burnings and Cardona, committing through the whole the moft innocent Blood, and without Diffinction of Age or Sea.

Land, making them continually fuffer the Calamity of Change Ricease by Set and which Time the Enemies have thrown Fourteen Thousand Bombs into the Town, which have ruined the greatest part of the Houles; that now they expect to be attacked in Vorm, and that in Twenty four Hours the Town will be batter'd in Breach. They cannot express their Affliction, to fee the Danger of the Inhabitants exposed to be the Victims of that Cruelty with which the Enemy threatens to treat them. Having no Comfort left, they fly to the Queen of Great Brissian, befeeching Her Protection by the inclosed Letter to Don Dalmases, their Envoy at London; and in the mean Time, till an Answer can come, they befeech his Excellency from their Souls to mediate with the French Troops who oppress them, or a Sufpension of Arms, fince the Congress at Baden now fitting to conclude of a General Peace, may fill determine this Affair; they doubt not that his Mediation will be able to procure them this Relief, fince his Squadron is fuperior to that of the Enemy. They fee no other Remedy in Nature for their Misfortunes, and therefore hope his Excellency will not refuse them, that if Catalonia has metited any Thing by its Services, and by its Conjunction with the English Nation, this is the Time 't to receive the Fruits of it; that it is worthy of his Excellency to comfort the Afflicted, and not to deny them this Favour in their great Necessfity.

How the Admiral was affected with this Letter may appear by one of his to Lord Bingley, dated Aug. 7. N° (70), wherein he acquaints him, 'That Mr. Grimaldo had 'fignified to him from the King of Spain, that all the King's Ships of War being employ'd before Barcelona, his Majeffy could not fend any of them to meet his 'Flota then coming home; and therefore defired the Admiral to fend three of his upon that Service'', which was accordingly complied with. Of this he had acquainted Lord Bolingbroks, and hoped to meet with her Majeffy's Approbation. The Catalans thus abandon'd, and given up to their Enemies, contrary to Faith and

The Catalani thus abandon'd, and given up to their Enemies, contrary to Faith and Honour, were not however wanting to their own Defence, but appealing to Heaven, and hanging up at the High Altar the Queen's folemn Declaration to protect them, underwent the utmost Mileries of a Siege, during which, what Multitudes perified by Famine and the Sword? how many have fince been executed? and how many Perfons of Figure are full difperfed about the Spanife Dominions in Dungeons, is too well known to need any Relation.

It is hoped however, that the Calamities of the Catalans, will not be imputed to Great Britain in general, abufed by the Ministry, with repeated Assurances, that every thing was doing for the Prefervation of that unfortunate People. The

The Committee find frequent Notices and Mention made of the Abbot Gaultier, who, altho' he does not appear to have had any publick Character, refided in England during the greatest part of this Negotiation, and upon extraordinary Occasions, was very often fent backward and forward

But the Share that he had in the more publick Transactions, was not his only Business. It is evident, that fome Negotiations, which equired more than ordinary Privacy, were verbally transacted, and upon all fuch Occasions, Abbot Gaultier was the Perfon to whom the French and English Ministers mutually referr'd each other.

And as of Necefifity nothing could be a greater Secret than all Matters relating to the Pretender, this Province was particularly allotted to Abbot Gaultier, that thro' his Hands, and under his Conveyance, by French Couriers going continually betwixt France and England, fuch Practices might be carried on with great Safety, which in any other manner had been too dangerous an Undertaking.

The first Time that any secret Negotiation is expressly referred to Abbot Gaultier, is found in a Letter already taken Notice of, where Mr. St. John. March 4, 17+3, tells Mr. Torcy, " He hid deferr'd writing to him of late, till he might write with Certainty, till the neceffary Difpofitions were mide among our People at home, and till the Qaeen had taken the only Refolution which could bring us in a fhort time to a good and folid ¢ Peace. I have now the Satisfaction to tell you, that this Refolution is taken, and that Mr. Harley will carry with him this Night, or to Morrow Morning, the final Inftru-tions of the Queen to her Plenipotentiaries. I reler my felf to Mr. Gaultier, to explain to you more at large the Subject of this Gentleman's Committion, and what the Queen hopes his most Christian Majesty will do to co-operate with her.

The Committee having oblerved, at the Beginning of this Report, that feveral Letters and Papers are wanting, which by the Circumstances of Time and Matters then depend-ing, appear to be of Moment and Confequence. It is not to be exceeded, that thole who have been fo careful to suppress Matters of less Importance, would leave behind them any Transactions that might tend openly and directly to favour and support the Caule of the Pretender.

But as the Committee has obferv'd feveral the performed of the a plain Indication of the Tenderness and Regard with which the Cause and Perform of the the second were treated, as often as mention'd; They have thought fir to bring them together, and lay them be-fore the Houfe in one View. expected, and what the Queen declared was taken Care of, as an additional Security to the Protestant Succellion.

But his removing out of France, and being permitted to relide in Lorrain, was not only a great Surprize to all the Nation, but was received with fuch jult Indignation, that the Parliament addrefs'd the Queen upon this Occafion, " That the would infift upon his Re-<sup>4</sup> moval from Lorrain, that Refidence being equally or more dangerous to Great Britain, <sup>4</sup> than his Abode in France. Her Majefty's Aniwer, That the would repeat her Inflances, occasion'd in the House of Lords a becoming References, that the Duke of Lorrain thould prefume to receive and entertain the Pretender to her Majefty's Grown, in Defiance to her Majefty's Application to the contrary. But it will now appear in what Manner the Re-moval of the Pretender out of France was transacted and fettled, and that his reliding in Lorrain was not only with the Approbation, but even by the Direction and Appointment of the English Ministry. Nr. St. John, in his Letter to Mr. de Torey, of the 24th of May, 1712. O. In Anfwer to this, Monfier de Torey fays to my Lord Bolingbroke, (*)' You may affure the Queen that the Chevalier is ready to depart at a Moments Warning, if he did but know where he was to go, and in what Place he might be in Safety. I own to you, that I know no Prince who is willing to receive him, for Fear of difpleafing the Queen, or other Powers; it will be abfolutely neceffary, that there fhould be fome Explanation upon this Subject, which I defire you to make to me by the Abbol Guadier, if you do not judge it proper to do it your felf. But the Day after, fune the 7th, 1712, he writes a private Letter, as he cans it himfelf, to Monfieur de Toris, and concludes it with faying, 'The Abbot Gual-'tier will write to you upon the Subject of the Chevalier(b).

The Committee observe, there are two Copies of this private Letter, One deliver'd by my Lord Bolingbroke, the Other entred in Lord Strafford's Book : And in the Copy of this Letter given in by Lord Bolingbroke, this Paifage, That Abbot Gualtier fhall write about the Chevalier, is omitted by his Lordship.

Abbot Gualtier fhall write about the Chevalier, is omitted by his Lordfhip. On the 22d of June, 1712. N. S. Monf. de Torey writes Two Letters (c) to my Lord Bolingbroke. In the Publick Letter nothing is faid of the Pretender ; the Privarc Letter concludes with faying, 'I have the Honour to fend you a Letter un-'der the King's Hand, for Her Britannick Majefty ; and I refer you to what the 'Abbot Gualtier fhall fay to you, about the Departure of the Chevalier.

On the 21ft of Augult, 1712. Lord Bolingbroke being then in France to give the finifhing Stroke to all Matters of Confequence that were undetermin'd, (d) in his Difpatch to the Earl of Dartmouth, giving an Account of his Proceedings at the Court of France, fays, The Chevalier has fix'd his Departure for the Firft of next Month, N. S. They propose that he fhall retire to Bar, and they intend to write to the Duke of Lorain to ask of the Emperor, and other Princes, a Security for his Perfon, during his Refidence in that Place.

But on the 28th of December, 1712. N. S. it app 2ars, (c) that the Chevalier was ftill in France, upon which Account Mr. Prior writes thus to my Lord Bolingbroke. <sup>6</sup> Another Point upon which this Court is very folicitous, is, That the Chevalier <sup>6</sup> remaining in any Town of France obfructs the Signing the Peace ; vet he can-<sup>6</sup> not go to Lorair till the Emperor's Paffports will fecure him there. Your Lord-<sup>6</sup> fhip, by the Perufal of the Papers, will fee the State of that Cafe ; and I have <sup>6</sup> only to add upon this Subject, that the Court of France expresses an Impoffibili-<sup>6</sup> ty on their Side, to do more than they have done, and hopes we should have <sup>6</sup> Interest enough with the Emperor, to obtain fuch Paffports from Him, as may <sup>6</sup> fecure, as well the Perfon who is to go into Lorain</sup>, as the Duke of Lorain, who <sup>6</sup> is to receive him.

Mr. Prior on the 29th, writes to the fame Effect (f) to my Lord Treasurer, and fays, 'The Monarch is a good deal troubled upon this Head, left the Young 'Man thould fail into the Hands of the Huffars or Barbarians. And Monf. D'Au-'mont has. I prefume. Orders to fpeak to our Ministry upon'.

"mont has, I prefume, Orders to fpeak to our Ministry upon . "As to the Dowry, I shall not only be dunn'd to Death, but hang'd; for the "Dowager fends Melfengers to me, which you in England do not think it ex-"tremely lawful to receive : But if it is to be paid, pray let it be done in an "handforme Manner, that may shew the Charity of the Queen, and the Generofity of Her Lord Treasurer.

The Papers referr'd to in Mr. Prior's Letter, contain an Account of what the Duke of Lorain had done at the Defire of the King of France, to obtain from the Allies the neceffary Safeguards for the Chevalier. He fays, (g) that underftanding that the Queen of Great-Britain had already granted Her Safeguard or Protection to the Chevalier de St. George, He believ'd they had no more to do, but to apply to the Emperor, and to the States-General.

By this Account it is evident, that Abbot Gualtier was the Perfon entrufted to Manage the Affairs of the Pretender, with whom fuch Practices were Verbally to be transacted as our Ministry did not think proper to commit to Writing. It appears, that the Place to which he was to go, becaufe no body would receive him at the hazard of the Queen's Difpleafure, and where he might remain in Safety, was to be preferib'd from England. That this was not fix'd and determin'd till Lord Bolingbrooke went into France. And if his Lordship's Instructions are confider'd, it will be hard to find in them any thing of that Importance and Se-

His Lordfhip gives an Adcount from thence, that the Pretender was to go to Bar, and this is acquicfe'd in here without the leaft Objection made. The Miniftry are told by Mr. Prior, that the Court of Frame hopes by our Interest fuch Palsports would be procur'd as might fecure his Perfon : And in the Paper fent to Frame from the Duke of Lorrain, it is afferted, that the Queen of Great-Britain had already granted Her. Protection to the Pretender.

But Nov. the 6th, 1713. Lord Bolingbroke writes to Mr. Prior, and fays, (a) 'Her 'Majefty having repeated to the Duke of Lorrain the Inflances which you know have been fo often made to the Moft Christian King, for removing of the Pretender to Her Crown out of his Dominions, I am directed to acquaint You therewith, that You may fpeak to the Minister of Lorrain, and to any other Minister whom you shall think proper, and let them know it is abfolutely inconfistent with the Amity and good Correspondence that is between the Queen and their Masters, to receive into their Dominions, or to protect a Perfon, who disputes Her Majesty's most undoubted Title, and thereby endeavours to disturb the Peace and Quiet of Her Kingdoms. That you may be able to show them that this is the Collective Sense of the whole Nation, as well as the Queen's Command to you, I herewith fend you the Addresse of both Houses of Parliament.

This can be understood as no more than a bare Compliance with the Addreffes of Parliament. And to shew how little Refentment and Indignation was conceived against the Duke of Lorrain for this Indignity offer'd to Her Majesty, the Committee have thought fit to Transcribe a Letter that was wrote by Lord Bolingbreke to Mr. Prior within Four Days after his last mention'd Letter upon the Subject of the Pretender.

<sup>6</sup> who deferves much better Ufage than be has on many Oceafons met with. There are feveral other Letters that were wrote after the Addrefs of Parliament to prefs the removing of the Pretender from Lorrain; but after what has been faid, 'tis needlefs to obferve what little Effect was to be expected from fuch Repreferations made in the feveral Courts of Europe, which were known to be Contrary to the Senfe and Litention of the Court of Great-Britain. And if any further demonstration was wanting to fhew their true Spirit and Inclination, it may be obferv'd that the Addreffes in Parliament were made in July, 1713. And the firft Letter that Lord Bolingbroke wrote in purfuance of thole Addreffes was the 6th of November, which was Four Months after the Addreffes were prefenced to the Queen.

The Committee think it not improper to infert here an Extract of a Memorial touching the Demolicion of the Sluices of Dunkirk, deliver'd by Monfieur de Torcy to Lord Bolingbroke at Paris, in Angust 1712.

Your Committee do not take upon them to explain what Conjuncture France had in View, and which they thought not very remote, when Dunkirk might be of particular Service; but think it proper to conclude this part of the Report with observing, That the Pretender did immediately upon the Demise of the late

We 'could not for fome Time paff well doubt; and this was the Reafon we then fat 'fill, expering the good Effects thereof, which were unfortunately prevented by Her Deplerable Death) We found that Our People, inftead of taking this fa-'vurable Opportunity of retrieving the Honour and true Intereft of their Counter, by deing Us and Themfelves Juflice, had immediately Proclaim'd for their 'kong a Foreign Prince, to Our Prejudice, contrary a the Fundamental and In-'conteftable Laws of Hereditary Right, which their pretended Acts of Settle-'ment can never Abrogate.

The Committee observing in the Eleventh Volume referr'd to them, a Letter from the Earl of Oxford and Mortimer, then Lord High-Treasurer of Great-Britein, to the Queen, dated June the 9th, 1714; together with an Account of Publick Affairs from August the 8th, 1710, to June the 8th, 1714, all written with his own Hand, and fent to the Queen with the Letter; and finding therein many Paffages, in their Opinion, highly deferving the Confideration of this Houfe, have thought it neceffary to infert the fame here at large, and are as follow.

Lord Oxford's Letter to the Queen, June the 9th, 1714.

May it pleafe Your Majefty,

<sup>4</sup> I Prefume, in Obedience to Your Royal Commands, to lay before Your Majefty a State of Your Affairs. Though I have very much contracted it from the Draughe I made, and the Vouchers from whence it is taken; yet I find it fwell under my Pen in Tranfcribing, being willing to put every Thing before Your Majefty in the Cleareft Light my poor Underftanding can attain to. It was neceffary to lay it before Your Majefty in the Series of Time, from the beginning to this prefent Time; and when that is compleatly laid before You, it remains only for Me to beg God to direct Your Majefty.

And as to my felf, do with me what You pleafe, place me either as a Figure or a Cypher, difplace me or replace me, as that beft ferves Your Majefty's Occafions, You fhall ever find me, with the utmost Devotion, and without any Referve, MADAM,

Your most Dutiful, most Faithful, most Humble, most Obedient Subject, and Unworthy Servant, OXFORD.

A Brief Account of Publick Affairs fince August the 8th, 1710. to this prefent 8th of June, 1714. To which is added, The State of Affairs Abroad, as they relate to this Kingdom; with fome humble Proposals for fecuring the future Tranquility of Her Majesty's Reign, and the Safety of Her Kingdoms.

"HER Majefty on the 8th of August 1710, was pleas'd to alter Her Treasury, and two Days after, in a New Commission, Rebert Harley, by Her Majefty's great Favour was made Chancellor of the Exchequer.

' The State of Affairs at Home and Abroad are fresh in every ones Memory.

'The Condition of the Treafury at that Time was laid before Her Majefty in a 'large Reprefentation.

'I beg leave to touch fome few Heads. The Army was in the Field; no Money 'in the Treafury; none of the Remitters would Contract again; the Bank had refus'd to lend a Hundred Thouland Pounds to Lord Godolphim on very good Security; the Navy, and other Branches of Service, Eleven Millions in Debt, which 'enhanc'd the Price of every Thing proportionably; the Civil Lift in Debt about Six Hundred Thouland Pounds, and the Yearly Income too little for the 'Currant certain Expence, by the loweft Computation, One Hundred Twenty 'Four Thouland, Four Hundred Ninety Five Pounds, Two Shillings and Four 'Pence.

' In

'In a few days this new Commiffion made Provision for paying the Army by the greateft Remittance that had ever been known: Though the Opposition from every Office, which was full of Perfons who were Enemies to the Change made by the Queen, was very ftrong, and very troublefome and vexatious; and fuch was the Situation of Affairs, that nothing but great Patience could ever have 'overcome these Difficulties; it being impossible as well as unavoidable to make 'Removes, but by degrees.

<sup>6</sup> As foon as it was poffible, (and notwithstanding the Clamours then rais'd, it was the only proper Time) a new Parliament is call'd.

Its first meeting was November the 27th, 1710. Robert Harley had prepar'd the Funds ready (before the Parliament met, as he has done every Seffion to this Day) not only for the Current Service of the Year, both by Sea and Land, but alfo for easing the Nation of above Nine Millions of Debt. This was thought fo Chimerical when Robert Harley did begin to open it, that it was treated with Ridicule, until he show'd how practicable it was. It is true, this gave great Reputation Abroad, and enabled to treat advantageoully of a Peace: It rais'd finking Credit at home, but at the fame time as it drew Envy upon Harley from fome, and the Rage of others, fo it gave Offence to fome of his Fellow Servants, who told him plainly that he ought to have told his Secret, and if he would not get Money himfelf, he ought to have let his Friends fhare a Hundred Thousfand Pounds, which would not have been felt or found out in fo vast a Sum as Nine or Ten Millions.

or Ten Millions. To this Principle was owing the fetting on Foot at this time the unhappy Voyage to Canada: To all which Meetings Harley avoided coming, and gave Lord Rochefter his Reafons, and after he defird his Lordfhip to be a Means to the Queen to hinder that Expedition; but it happen'd to be too late. But Lady Mafham knows how much Harley was concern'd at it, tho' he did not know the true Spring of that Voyage, which will appear after in this Paper.

The beginning of February 1710-11, there began to be a Division amongst those call'd Tories in the House, and Mr. Secretary St. John thought it convenient to be Listing a separate Party for himself. To prevent this, Lord Rochester and Harley desired to have a Meeting, and to

'To prevent this, Lord Rochelter and Harley defir'd to have a Meeting, and to cool fuch Rath Attempts; and it was contriv'd Mr. Secretary St. John thould invite Us to Dinner, (which was the last time he ever invited Robert Harley, being now above Three Years) where was Duke of Shrewsbury, Earl Poulet, Lord Rochefter, and others; and Lord Rochelter took the pains to calm the Spirit of Division and Ambition.

<sup>6</sup> Hirley was at this time feiz'd by a violent Fever, and on his first coming Abroad, <sup>6</sup> March 8. met with a Misfortune which confin'd him many Weeks. The Transacti-<sup>6</sup> ons during that Time are too publick, as well as too black, for Harley to remember or to mention.

ber or to mention. In the end of May 1711, the Queen, out of her abounded Goodnefs, was plcas'd to confer undeferv'd Honours on Robert Harley; and on the 29th of the fame Month, was plcas'd to put the Treafurer's Staff into his Hands: A Poft fo much above Harley's Abilities to ftruggle with, that he had nothing but Integrity and Duty to recommend him to Her Majefty's Choice; fo he muft have recourfe to Her Majefty's Tranfcendent Goodnefs and Mercy to Pardon all his Faults and Failings, both of Omiffion and Commiffion, during the whole Courfe of his Service.

But to return and refume the Thread of this Difcourfe. (a) The 4th of June 1711. Three Days after the Treafurer was Sworn, he was furpriz'd with a Demand of Iwenty Eight Thousand Thirty Six Pounds and Five Shillings, for Arms and Merchandize, faid to be fent to Canada. When the Treafurer ferupled this, Mr. Secretary St. John, and Mr. Moor came to him with much Paffion upon this Affair; and about a Fortnight after, the Secretary of State fignified the Queen's positive Pleafure to have that Money paid; and accordingly Her Majefty fign'd a Warrant June 21. and the Treafurer not being able then, with all his Precaution, to difcover further Light, the Money was paid July the 4th 1711.

'There is Reason to be more particular upon this Head, because it is one of 'the Things never to be forgiven the Treasurer; and Lord Chancellor told 2 'him full of Negotiating the Peace in all Courts abroad ; and befides the ordinary and ne-'celfary Duty of his Office at home, he had frequent Occasion of Calming the · Quarrels and Grudges Mr. Secretary had fometimes against Lord Dartmouth, fometimes against Lady Masham, and fometimes against the Treasurer himself.

The Second Sellion of the last Parliament began December the 7th, 1711.

" This was attended with great Difficulties and Dangers, as well from the Practices of the Difcontented here, as the Defigns carry'd on by Mr. Buys, Prince En-gene and Bothmar; in which Defigns concurr'd the Emperor, and other States and "Princes who gain'd by the War. "This put Her Majefty under a fort of Neceffity to preferve the Whole, and to take a Method which had been us'd before to Create fome New Peers.

So many having been brought formerly out of the Houfe of Commons of those who us'd to manage Publick Affairs, it was propos'd to Mr. Secretary, That if he would be Contented to flay in the Houfe of Commons that Seffions, Her Majefty would have the Goodneis to Create him a Peer, and that he fhould not lose his <Rank.

'The Second Selfion ended the 21ft of June, 1712; and notwithstanding Both-"mar's Memorial, and all other Attacks both from Abroad and at Home, Supplies were provided, and every Thing relating to the Publick put upon a good Foot, and the Malecontents began to defpair, as appear'd by the Duke of Marlborough retiring Abroad, and other Particulars.

After the Seffion was ended, the Queen, as She had promis'd, Order'd a War-"rant for Mr. Secretary St. John to be a Viscount; this happen'd to put him in the "utmost Rage against the Treasurer, Lady Masham, and without sparing the · Greateft.

(a) It did avail very little to tell him how much he had got in Place; for had he been Created with the other Lords, it would have fallen to his fhare to have come enext after Lord Trevor ; but the Treasurer with great Patience bore all the Storm, of which Lord Masham was often a Witness of the Outragious Speeches; and . Mr. Moor very lately told the Treasurer, that Lord Bolingbroke faid very lately to thim, that he ow'd him a Revenge upon that Head.

This Difcontent continued, until there happen'd an Opportunity of fending him sto France; of which there was not much Occasion; but it was hop'd, that this swould have put him in good Humour; which it did, until in Ottober 1712, there were Knights of the Garter made. This created a new Difturbance, which is stoo well remembred, and breaks out now very often in Outrageous Expressions publickly against all then made.

'In November, on the Death of Duke Hamilton, he was much against Duke Shrew (bury's going, for Reasons very plain, which then were in Negotiation; for before the last Selfion of that Parliament began, a new Model was fram'd, or a Scheme of Ministry; which how they afterwards came to fall out, will appear in its due · Place.

'The Third and Laft Seffion began April the 9th, 1713 ; which was as foon as the Peace was Concluded, and could be Proclaim'd. It is not decent to take Notice, That during the whole Negotiation, the Treasurer was obliged by bis own Hand, and bis own Charge, to Correspond in all the Courts conecern'd in the Negotiation ; and very often he had the good Luck to fet Right feveral Mi-e ftakes, and to obtain fome Things very little expected ; but the only Merit of this belongs to e Her Majesty, the Credit of whose Favour brought it about, and gave Power to the Treasurer, s to act with Success.

During this Seffion, the Lords of the Cabinet, and Others, met every Saturday at the Treasurer's, in Order to carry on the Queen's Business, as they had done the Year before on Thursdays. (b) Many Offers were made, and repeated by the Treasurer, in order to attack former Offenders, and quiet the Minds of the Genetlemen, and of the Church-Party ; and the only Reafon for this Failing, was, becaule of the Project laid for their New Scheme, and putting themfelves at the Head, as they call'd it, of the Church-Party.

"This being the last Session of Parliament, and some Genriemen fearing their Elections, and some for other Reasons, dropt the Bill of Commerce.

'The Treasurer faw this Opportunity, and immediately took ir, and prevail'd with Sir Thomas Hanmer, and Others, to come into the Payment of the Civil Lift Debts, incurr'd before the Change of the Treasury, tho' the prefent Treasurer was rail'd at, and malign'd ; which he chofe to bear patiently, rather than own the true Reason, that there was no Money to do it with, which would have ruin'd all at once.

'This Step of paying the Debts, put the Malccontented into the utmost Rage, e which they did very publickly express in both Houses.

'This laft Seffion of that Parliament, and the Third fince the Change of the Ministry, ended July the 16th, 1713.

"The Peace with France being over, and it growing necessary to put Her Maje-. fty's Affairs into a further and more fettled Regulation, and to cafe the Treafurer of the Burthen, as well as Envy, of fuch a Bulk of Bufinefs; Her Majefty was pleas'd to approve of the Scheme of the Duke of Ormond's flaying here to arrend the Army Affairs, which was neceffary at the time of Disbanding ; Duke Sbrewfbury to go to Ireland, upon his Return from France; Lord Findlistr to be Chancel, lor of Scotland; Lord Mar Third Secretary; Lord Dartmouth Privy Seal, and Mr. Bromley Secretary of State, and Sir William Wyndbam Chancellor of the Exchequer. I am fure the Queen very well remembers the Rage this caus'd, as perfeetly Defeating their Scheme, and thewing that Her Majetty would put her Affairs upon a folid Foot; the Lord Chancellor faid it was against Law, and to this Day will not treat Lord Findlater with Decency ; and Lord Mar has met with many ill Treatments as well as Mr. Secretary Bromley.

Bur that the Treasurer might leave them without Excuse, and make Her Majefty's Affairs, if poffible, eafy with and to those in Her Service ; as foon as he was recover'd enough to write, he wrote a large Letter to Lord Bolingbroke, con-taining his Scheme of the Queen's Affairs, and what was necessary for Lord Bolingbroke to do, as belonging only to his Province. This Letter was dated July the 25th, 1712, and was Answer'd July the 27th, by Lord Bolingbroke; the Copy was thown to Lady Mafham, who came to Vifit the Treafurer then Confin'd to his Chamber ; and fhe then thought it was a very good One, and what was proper for the Occasion. I believe the Whole would be of Use to give Light to Her Majefty into the Ground and Foundation of the Follies and Madnels which have fince appear'd ; the Whole is ready for Her Majefty's Perulal when She pleafes.

'In this Letter the Treasurer gives an Account to Lord Bolingbroke of the Occasions, or rather the Pretences for giving Difturbance to the Queen's Servants. He propofes the Remedy, and what was requifite to be done by him as Secretary in his own Province, and also Aflurance of the Treasurer's Aflistance to the utmost, and of his Defire to confult with him (Lord Balingbrake) how to Unite the reft of our Friends.

"Being then Sick, the Treasurer took the Liberty to put Lord Bolingbroke in mind of the feveral Particulars which then requir'd Difpatch, and were folely belonging to his Province, without any other Interpolition than that of taking Your Ma-

'Amongst others, that of a Circular Letter upon the Addresses of both Houses relating to the Pretender.

"This was not done in Three Months. His Lordship wrote Word it was done

"These Particulars the Treasurer thought to have been executed, until within a few Weeks he heard the contrary by Accident, and that the Time in the feveral Treaties was elaps'd. Upon this, the Treafurer on Wednefday, fune the 2d, told "Mr. Moor of this, and that every Body would be liable to blame who are in the "Queen's Service. Thurfday, June the 3d, 1714. Lord Bolingbroke writes to the "Treasurer a Letter which begins thus.

"Mr. Moor has been this Morning with me, and has put into my Hands a Paper, which he calls, I think not improperly, a Charge upon me.

'This Paper contains the Neglect above mention'd in the Treasurer's Letter of 'July the 25th, 1713, Eleven Months before, and yet these Faults are now 'charg'd upon the Treasurer.

The Committee cannot but obferve, that his Lordfhip has here taken to himfelf the Credit of corresponding by his own Hand, and hisown Charge, in all the Courts concern'd in the prefer Negotiations, and that very often he has had the good Luck to fer right feveral Mislakes, and to obtain fome things very little expected. That he boasted of his laying hold of a feasonable Opportunity in Parliament upon rejecting the Bill of Commerce, to prevail with Members of that House of Commons to come into the Payment of the Civil Lift Debis; and has allo charg'd feveral Perfons, then in High Stations in Her Majefty's Service, with Corruption and Imbezzlement of the Publick Money; and prefum'd to recommend himfelf to Her Majefty, by having us'd all his Skill and Credit to keep the House of Commons from examining into the fame. And your Committee having receiv'd Information, that large Sums of Money had been directed for fpecial Services relating to the War, by Signs Manual, and Warrants upon the fame, Counterfigned by his Lordfhip, which Sums were afterwards paid to his Lordfhip's Order; Your Committee thought it incumbent upon them to lay before the House Copies of the faid Signs Manual, and Warrants, and Orders thereupon, together with Extracts from the Register of the Exchequer; whereby it will appear, that thele large Sums, iffued for the Service of the War, were received and apply'd to bas Lordfhip's Private Ufe.

Your Committee in drawing up and forming this Report, having oblerv'd feveral Transactions, Orders, and Directions given by the Ministers in the Queen's Name, which are in no manuer agreeable to Her Majesty's Sentiments and Intentions, as expressed in Her several Messages to Parliament, and Speeches from the Throne, concerning the Terms of Peace which She was pleased to communicate to both Houses; thought it their Duty to enter into a particular Examination of this matter, and to compare Her Majesty's Declarations with the Measures that Her Ministers prefum'd to take in carrying on these important Negotiations.

The first time that the Queen made any mention of the Peace to the Parlia. Oft. 29ment, was on December 11. 1711. at which time nothing had been concluded <sup>1711.</sup> between England and France, but the fpecial Preliminaries that were Sign'd by the Earl of Darimouth, and Mr. St. John, on the part of England, and Monsieur Mefmager on the part of France, Sept. 27. 1711. and the general Preliminaries Sign'd by Monsieur Mefnager only, which were fent over by the Earl of Strafford as the Foundation of a General Peace. After these Preliminaries were Sign'd, Mr. St. John had preß'd Monsieur de Torey, that the King of France would explain himfelf with regard to the Allies; begs that the Queen may have fome Explication of his Intentions in respect to the particular Interest of the Allies, and concludes with faying, If the Sieur Gualtier returns with these Marks of Confidence, you will fee our Parliament as much inclin'd to Peace as ever it was to War.

Such Explications as the King of France thought fit to make, are contain'd in the Anflwer to the Memorial brought by Monfieur Gualitier, November 18. 1711. inferted in the Appendix. Upon which Her Majefly, at the opening of that Selfion, in laying before the Parliament the State of the Treaty then on Foot, according to the Advice and Reprefentation made to Her by Her Ministers, faid, That notwithsfanding the Arts of those who Delight in War, both Place and Time are appointed for opening the Treaty of a General Peace. Our Allies, especally the States General, whose Interest I look upon as instruction my own, bave, by their ready Concurrence, expression their Confidence in me. The Queen thought the States had readily concurr'd with Her, but it must be remembred, that the States had in the ftrongeft manner Represented against the Propofitions Signed by Mr. Messager, as too General and Uncertain, not being a fufficient Foundation upon which a Negotiation might be hazarded; they dreaded the fatal Confequences of opening the General Conferences, before the Articles offer'd by France were made Specifick, and before they knew what they were to truth to for their own Barrier and their Commerce. These Representations were made in Holland to the Earl of Strafford; and Mr. Buys was fent over into Repland to enforce them here.

But

But inftead of acquainting the Queen with these Representations, or acting according to her Majestry's Sentiments, Mr. St. John, Ollober 9. declares, 'Certain it is, that Her Majestry is so far determin'd in her Measures, that 'those will deceive themselves who may imagine by delay to break them. And Ollober the 29th, 'The Queen remains firm in Her first Resolution, of Causing the 'Conferences to be open'd upon the Articles Sign'd by Monsieur Messager. And November the 2d, 'The Queen will not finally concert a Plan for the Profecution 'of the War with the States, until they join with her in agreeing to open the Con-'ferences of Peace. And November 15, Lord Strefford fays, 'He had now told them 'her Majestry's Order to him was to Declare, that the should look upon any delay 'as a Refusal to comply with Her Propositions. By these Threats and extraordimary Measures, the States are compell'd by the Queen's Ministers, to confent to open the Conferences; when at the fame time Her Majestry was perswaded, that they readily concurr'd in what had been proposid to them. Her Majestry Declares, 'She looks upon the Interest of the States-General to be infeperable from 'her own. Mr. St. John declares, 'That Britain had gone fo much too far in 'weaving her Interest into that of the Continent, that it would prove no easily Task 'to diffentangle them without Tearing and Rending.

'to difentangle them without Tearing and Rending. The Queen fays further, The Princes and States which have been engag'd with Us in this War, being by Treaties entitl'd to have their feveral interefts feeur'd at a Peace, I will not only do my utmost to procure every one of them all renforable Satufattion, but I shall allo unite with them in the strictest Engagements for continuing the Alliance, in order to render the General Peace fecure and lassing. And in Her Message of the 17th of January following, Her Majesty again expressions the care She intended to take of all Her Allies, and the strict Union in which She proport to join with them.

By these Declarations it appears, Her Majelty's own Resolution was to unite with the Allies in the firicteft Engagements. But Her Minifters had taken upon them, in the private Propositions fent over by Mr. Prior, to infert an Article, "That ' the Secret fhould be inviolably kept between England and France, till allow'd to be ' divulg'd by the Confent of Both Parties. And although France in the firft Propofitions fent over hy Monf. de Torcy, had offer'd to treat with England and Holland, either feparately, or jointly, with the reft of the Alles, at the Choice of England, the Queen's Ministers excluded the Allies, and in the Conference held with Monlieur Mefnager, 'they are much furpriz'd to find that he bad Orders to infift, that the Queen flould enter into particular Engagements, upon divers Articles, which depend not upon Her, and which regard the Intereft of the Allies : And they ' inlifted that it was abfolutely necessary to remit the Discussion of the particular Interefts of the Allies to General Conferences. And when Mr. St. John was preffing Monfieur de Torey to give them fome Explications of what was defign'd for the Allies, he affures him, 'If the King would offer a Plan of Specifick Prelimina-'ries, the Queen will never communicate it to Her Allies.' And upon another Occasion, he declares 'this Negociation was begun and carried on upon a Suppofition, that the Queen must defist from many Conditions, which in Rigor She ' was oblig'd to procure for Her Allies.

In the Message of the 17th of fanuary the Queen declares, Her Plenipoteniaries bad begun, in Pursuance of their Instructions, to concert the most proper Ways of procuring a just Satufaction to all in Alliance with Her, according to their Treaties, and particularly with Relation to Spain and the Indies. And Her Majestly had faid before, in Answer to an Address from the House of Lords, prefenced the 11th of December, 1711, I should be forry any one could think I would not do my utmost to recover Spain and the Indies from the House of Bourbon.

Your Committee cannot make the least doubt but Her Majesty was determin'd to recover Spain from the House of Bourbon. But that Her Minuters had no such Thoughts, and did not in the least endeavour it, appears in every part of the Negotiation. In the first Propositions fent over by Mr. Prior, Demands are made of the King of France, to be perform'd by the King of Spain, which the King of France was to engage for. And as appears by an Entry in Lord Strafford's Book, Mr. Prior had Orders to fee if they had full Powers from Spain. In the stafford's Book, Mr. Prior had Orders to fee if they had full Powers from Spain. In the stafford's Book, Mr. St. John, September the 27th 1711. it is faid expressly, The King promises up the Name of the King of Spain his Grandson, and according to the Powers which ng which HIS Majefty has received from that Prince, That Port Mabon and Gibraltar thall remain to the English. These Steps had been taken by the Queen's Minifters, even before Her Majefty had made these Declarations ; which the Committee cannot therefore but conclude Her Majefty was not inform'd of. And altho' the Queen's Plenipotentiaries were oblig'd by their Instructions to infift, That Spain and the West-Indies should not be allotted to any Branch of the House of Bourbon; when the Plenipotentiarles of France, on the 11th of February, 1711-12, gave in their Specifick Explanation of the General Preliminaries, Sign'd by Mr. Mefnager; the King of France made his first Offers in the Name, and by Virtue of Powers from his Grandson King Philip, as King of Spain. On the 4th of March, 1711-12, at a Meeting of the Ministers of the Allies at Utrecht, where they were to Communicate to each other their respective Demands; Count Sinzendorff infifted, That the Reflicution of the whole Spanish Monarchy fhould be expressy mention'd ; upon which Occasion it appears, by a Letter from the English Ministers of the 6th of March, That they were the only Ministers that did not make any mention at all of Spain, and that they were fensible of the difadvantageous Confequences of being fo; but being defirous to take off this Odium, they make a General Declaration concerning the juft and reafonable Satisfaction for the Queen's Allies, in Conformity to their Alliances ; and humbly hope what was faid will not be found contrary to what has been hitherto declar'd.

All the Attempt that the Queen's Ministers ever made towards obtaining this great Point, which Her Majefty declares, She should be forry any one could think She did not do Her utmost to procure, was to demand Affurances that the Crowns of France and Spain should never be united. The Method of preventing this Union was never mentioned by the Queen's Ministers in order to be treated of, nor the Senfe of France and Spain ever ask'd upon it till the latter End of March, 1712.

In this Meffage her Majesty further adds, The World will now fee bow groundlefs slo(e Reports are which have been spread abroad by Men of evil Intentions to serve the worst Defigns, as if a Separate Peace had been treated, for which there has not been the least Colour given.

In this Declaration, Her Majefty is advis'd by Her Minifters, in order to clear them from the just Suspicions which all the World had conceiv'd of the feparate Measures they were engag'd in, not only to declare there had not been the least Colour given for fuch Jealousies, but to Brand all that entertain fuch Appro-hensions, with the Character of Men of evil Intentions, that had the world Defigns to ferve. But that most just Cause had been given for these Reports, is fuffi-ciently Evident from what was just now observ'd. The Ministry had insisted that the Secret fhould be inviolably kept between England and France, exclutive of all the Allies. A Separate Negotiation between England and France had been carry'd on by Papers fent backward and forward, and much Time fpent therein, as is faid in Lord Strafford's Inftructions. Mr. Prior had been fent into France, and Mr. Mefnager had been in England, and not the leaft Communication was given for Five Months together to any of the Allies of thefe T infactions, which were depending from April 1711, to September following, from the Time that the first Propolals Sign'd by Monfieur de Torcy were fent to the States, till the Seven General Preliminaries Sign'd by Mr. Melnager, were communicated to them. When these General Preliminaries were Sign'd, which were fent over as a Foundation to open the General Conferences, a Set of Special Preliminaries between England and France was Sign'd on both Parts, which were conceal'd, publickly difown'd, and never appear'd till this Enquiry ; and all these Transactions had pass'd, however difguis'd to Her Majefty, before the Time that Her Ministers advis'd the Queen to impose fo grofly upon the Nation, as to declare in Parliament, there had not been the least Colour given for these Surmifes.

Her Majefty is advis'd here to declare, That to report that a Separate Peace had been treated, proceeds from evil Intentions, and to ferve the worft Defigns. But Your Committee obferve, That after this Declaration of the Queen, Her Minifters propofe to France, agreed with France, and fent positive and repeated O ders to the Queen's Plenipotentiaries, not only to treat, but to conclude a Separate Peace with France. On the 20th of June, 1712, Mt. St. John acquaints R July 5.

Separate Peace with France, leaving the Allies a Time wherein they may have Liberty to fubmit to fuch Conditions as shall be agreed upon between the Queen and the Most Christian King. In Answer to this Monsieur de Torey tells Mr. St. John, Upon Condition the Queen does immediately make a Separate Peace, and keep no Measures with Her Allies, the King has determin'd to fend his Orders to permit the English Troops to enter into Dunkirk. On the 12th of July, 1712, Mr. St. John thinks the Queen in a Condition not to lofe a Moment's Time in concluding with the Minifters of France the Convention for a General Sufpenfion of Arms both by Sea and Land, and even the Treaty of Peace between Britsin and France. And on the 4th of August, 1712, Monficur de Torey acquaints Mr. St. John, That the King confented to the Duke of Savey's having Sicily upon certain Conditions ; wherein one express Condition is, That a Peace be concluded between England, and France, Spain, and Savoy. And at last, when the Treaty drew near to a Conclusion, and almost all the Allies were ready to Sign, on the 20th of February, 1712-13, politive Orders are fent to the Britift Plenipotentiaries to conclude and Sign with France; and on the 28th Lord Bolingbroke repeats his Orders to the British Plenipotentiaties to conclude and Sign with France : And acquaints them, 'The Duke of Strewsbury had declar'd, That their Lordships had Orders, in cafe the French comply'd, as they now have actually done, to Sign Her "Majefty's Peace with France without further delay ; and that His Grace had alfo declar'd, That in this Cafe Her Majefty would open the Parliament by telling them that She had made a Peace with France : Thefe two Confiderations, his Lordfhip fays, were perhaps the most prevalent Inducements to the French Court to come roundly into Her Majefty's Propositions.

Your Committee think they cannot clofe this Head better than with repeating a Paffage from one of Lord Bolingbroke's Letters to Mr. Prior, wherein he fays, 'If fuch Overtures as these were not instantly accepted, our Separate 'Peace would, fitting this Parliament, be address' for, made, approv'd, and the 'Cause of France for once become Popular in Great-Britain.

On the 6th of June, 1712, the Queen fays, I am now come to let You know upon what Terms a General Peace may be made. On the fame by, Lord Bolingbroke acquaints Monsieur de Torcy, 'That tho' the

On the fame Day, Lord Bolingbroke acquaints Monfieur de Torey, 'That tho' the 'King of France had not anfwer'd the Queen's Demands, according to expectation, 'the Queen would not defer going that Day to Parliament, and making all the Declarations that were necessfary to render the Nation unanimously inclined to the Peace.

The Queen fays, The Difficulties had been increas'd by other Obfructions, artfully contrived to hinder this great and good Work. Whereas it is notorious, that the Miniflers had received but the Day before, the Account that King Philip had confented to make the Renunciation, upon which Account only the Queen's fpeaking to the Parliament had been deferr'd.

The Queen fays, I bave not omitted any Thing which might procure to all our Allies what is due to them by Treaties, and what is necessary for their Security.

Lord Bolingbroke, on the very fame Day, in his Letter to Monfieur de Torey fays, 'Lord Strafford is going back to Utreebt, and the Infructions he is to carry will put 'the Queen's Plenipotentiaries in a Condition to keep no longer thole Measures to 'which they have hitherto been oblig'd to fubmit; but from henceforth they may 'openly joyn with thole of France, and give Law to them who will not fubmit to 'inft and reafonable Conditions.

The Queen fays, Nothing bas mov'd me from steadily pursuing in the first Place the true Interest of my own Kingdoms.

Lord Bolingbroke just before, on the 24th of May, had propos'd to Monsieur de Torcy, 'That the Queen being much more Intent upon the General Peace, than 'any particular Advantages, Commissianis should be appointed to fettle after the 'Peace, such Points relating to Trade, as requir'd a longer Discussion than the 'present Crisis would admit.

The Queen fays, That to prevent the Union of the Two Crowns, the would not be content with what was Speculative, but infifted upon fomething Solid: Althe' Monfieur de Torey had before declar'd to the Queen's Ministers, 'That to ac-'cept of this Expedient which they propos'd would be to build upon a Sandy 'Foundation.

The Queen fays, The Nature of the Proposal for a Renunciation is such that it executes it felf; and that France and Spain are thereby more effectually divided than ever. But Monsieur de Torey had before assure the Queen's Ministers; That this Renunciation would be null and void, by the fundamental Laws of France; and they would deceive themselves who accepted of it as an Expedient to prevent the Union of the Two Crowns.

The Queen fays, Provision is made, that the fame Privileges and Advantages as shall be granted to any other Nation by France. Shall be granted in like Manner to Ur. But it appears, by a Letter of Lord Bolingbroke's in January following to the Duke of Shrewshury, That France refusit to let our Trade stand upon the Foot of Gens amicissima; declar'd the Tariff of 1664, which was granted to the Duteb, except the Four Species, was too Beneficial for Us; and refus'd to grant is until another Tariff should be made in Great-Britain exactly conformable to that of 1664. whereby our Duties would be reduced as theirs are in France by that Tariff.

As to our Commerce with France, the Queen fays here, June the 6th 1712. It was in a Method of being fettled. And Mr. Prior fays of it in May following, near a Twelvemonth after, 'We had like to have made an Athanafiam Bulinefs of it at Utrecht, by that Explanation of our own Way of underflanding our own Commerce. Their Letters to you, full of Surmifes and Doubts, that all was un-'hinged ; and their Letters to Us again, That Explanations, however made, were only to fave Appearances, and fignified nothing: This Melange, I fay, and my endeavouring to underfland it, had like to make me run mad, if the Duke of Surcustury's extreme good Senfe, and Monf. de Torey's not only Honeft but Right 'Underflanding, had not redrefs'd Us.

The Queen lays, The French confented to deliver up Newfoundland and Placentia. But it must be remembred, That in the Preliminaries sign'd in September preceding, the French had referv'd to themfelves a Liberty of taking and drying Fish in Newfoundland.

The Queen fays, An absolute Cession was to be made of Nova Scotia, or Acadia But Cape Breton, which was always understood to be, and is so declar'd by the Queen's instructions to the Duke of Sbrewsbury, to be Part of Nova Scotia, is expressly given up to France.

The Queen fays, The Trade to Spain and the West-Indies may in general be fettled, as it was in the Time of the late King of Spain, Charles the Second. But when the Project of the Treaty of Commerce came from Madrid, Lord Bolingbroke fays of it, 'They had fent a Blind, Lame, Mishapen, Indigested Mon-'fter, instead of that fair Offspring which we had reason to expect from our 'Candour.

If all the other Parts of this Speech be ftrictly examin'd, it will be found that the Ministry did fo grofly deceive the Queen, in order to impose upon the Parliament by her Authority, that there is fcarce a Paragraph that does not contain fome unfair, or at leaft equivocal Representation of the State of the Negotiations. And when the Queen was advis'd by her Ministers to make this Communication to Parliament, as the Terms upon which a General Peace might be made, it is very evident, they had no Assurances that France would make good what they prevail'd upon the Queen to declare in fo folemn and publick a Manner. For on June the 11th, the Bishop of Briftol is directed by Mr. St. John to Difcourse with the Ministers of the Allies agreeably to the Plan contain'd in Her Majefty's Speech : But before his Lordship makes this Step, Mr. St. John tells him, It will be proper that he speaks first with the French Plenipotentiaries upon this Subject; whether they will be willing, and in what manner they will be willing, to give this Communication to the Allies. In answer to which, the Bishop of Briftol vrites word, June the 28th, that the French Plenipotentiaries declar'd they had no fuch Orders, and without them they could not do it : And in this Refutat

Refusal of owning the Queen's Speech, as containing their Masters Offers, and in absolutely denying to Treat upon it, the French Plenipotentiarles perfever'd, even after the Dutch had conferred to Treat upon that Plan, and to accept the Queen's Speech pro Materia traffandi.

The Committee having proceeded thus far in the Perusal and Examination of the Books and Papers referr'd to them, thought it not proper to defer this Report until they had perfected what remains, especially upon the Affairs of Dunkirk and the Affiento: In which they have made such a Progress, that they hope they shall in a short time be able to lay them before the House.

The First Propositions of France, Dated the Twenty Second of April, 1711.

A S it is not to be doubted but the King is in a Condition to maintain the War with Glory, fo it cannot be effeem'd a Sign of Weaknefs, that his Majefty breaks the Silence that he has kept fince the Separation of the Conferences of Gertruydenberg, and that before the Opening of the Campaign, he ftill gives new Proofs of the Define that he has always preferv'd to procure the Re-effablishment of the Repole of Europe: But after the Experience he has made of the Sentiments of Thole who now Govern the Republick of Holland, and of Their Indulfry to render the Negotiations fruitlefs, he is willing, for the Publick Good, to addrefs to the English Nation the Propositions that he thinks fit to make to end the War, and fitmly to Secure the General Tranquillity of Chrittendom.

'Tis with this View, that the King offers to Treat of Peace upon the Bafis of the following Conditions.

That the English shall have real Securities to Exercise their Commerce hereafter in Spain, to the Indies, and in the Ports of the Mediterranean.

Ι.

The King will Agree to form in the Low Countries a fufficient Barrier for the Security of the Republick of Holland, and this Barrier shall be agreeable to England, and to the good liking of the English; his Majelly promifing at the fame time an entire Liberty and Security for the Commerce of the Dutch.

11.

Reafonable Means shall be fincerely and bond fide fought out for, to fatisfie the Allies of England and Holland.

IV.

As the good State of the Affairs of the King of Spain furnishes new Expedients to end the Difference touching that Monarchy, and to Regulate it to the Content of the Parties interested, fincere Endeavours shall be us'd to furmount the Difficuties rais'd on this Occasion, and to facure the State, the Commetce, and generally the Interests of all the Parties engag'd in the present War.

V.

The Conferences to Treat of the Peace upon the Bafis of these Conditions shall be immediately Open'd, and the Plenipotentiaries that the King shall Nominate to assist thereat, shall Treat with Those of England and Holland alone, or joyntly with Those of their Allies, at the Choice of England.

Π.

His Majelty proposes the Citles of Aix la Chapelle and Leige for the Place where the Plenipotentiaties (hall be Affembled, referring it to England to Choose One of those Two Cities to Treat therein of the General Peace. Given at Marli the Twenty fecond Day of April, 1711.

Letter from Mr. Secretary St. John to the Queen, Dated the 20th of September, 1711.

Madam,

THE Lords of the Committee of Council met this Morning at the Cockpit, and directed the Earl of Dartmouth and my felf to Confer with Monfieur Mefnager. We faw him accordingly this Evening at Mr. Prior's Houfe, where my Lord Treaturer and my Lord Chamberlain were likewife prefent.

He has put into our hands the Anfwer Sign'd by the King of France to the Demands laft fent over by Your Majsfly's Order, and this Anfwer complies with every Article, except the Eighth relating to North-America, we find however, that we fhall be able to compound this Point, in the manner which Your Majelly fome time ago refolv'd to pais it in, provided France gave Ycu Satisfaction upon the Seventh Article, as the has now entirely done.

The Propositions which are to be fent into Holland, as the Foundation of a general Treaty, we have likewife received from him, and that which was thought most liable to Objection, has been very much mended. My Lotd Treasurer having however propes'd forme farther Alterations, in order to make the whole the more palatable Abroad, and Monfieur Alchager feeming inclined to agree to them, I am this Night to draw them into Form for my Lotds of the Council to confider to Morrow Morning.

This, Madam, heing the prefent Scituation of the Treaty, Your Servants are Unanimculiy of Opinion, that the Warrant and full Powers thould be prepar'd this Nighr, and Transmitted to Yout Maj fty, by which means, if it be Your Pleasure, the latter may pass the Great Seal to Morrow.

It is now to extremely late, and I have to much Bufinefs to do, which muft of necefitive be got ready by Morning, that the whole Night would not fuffice, if I was to Engrois the Inftrument in my own Hand-Writing, I therefore make use of a Clerk to Transcribe them, but it is the fame who has Copy'd all the Papers which have pass'd in the Courfe of this Negotiation.

There comes an exact Translation of the full Powers in this Pacquer, the Words of which are very ample and extensive, but they are agreeable to the Form used by Your Majefty upon fuch Occasions.

My Lord Treafurer mov'd, and all my Lords were of the fame Opinion, that Mr. Prior (hould be added to those who are Empower'd to Sign, the reafon for which is, because he having Perfonally Treated with Monfieur de Torcy, is the best Witnes we can produce of the Senfe in which the General Preliminary Engagements are Enter'd into, besides which, as he is the best vers'd in Matters of Tride of all Your Majesties Servants who have been trusted in this Secret, if You shall think fit to employ him in the future Treaty of Commerce, it will be of Confequence that he has been a Party concern'd in concluding that Convention, which must be the Rule of this Treaty. The rest of the Plenipotentiaries are all those who have the Honour to fit in Your Majesty's Clinet Council, which my Lords understood to be Your Majesty's Pleasture.

The Oftend Mail which arriv'd laft Night, brought no News.

I am, with the utmost R.Spell, Madam, Tour Majelly's most Dutiful Subjett, and most Obedieut, Fuithful and Devoted Servant,

The Answer of France to the Preliminary Demands for Great Britain more particularly.

The King heing particularly inform'd, by the laft Memorial, that the Miniffers of Great Britain return'd to Mr. Melanger of the Difpolitions of that Crown, to Facilitate the General Peace to the Satisfaction of all the Parties Intereited in the prefent War, and his Majetty plainly feeing, as the Memorial fers forth, that he can run no Rifque by engaging himself in the manner therein expressed, fince the Preliminary Articles will not have any Effect hefore the Signing of the General Peace, defiring moreover very fincerely to do all that is in his Power to Advance the Re-offablifhment of the Repose of Europe, effectally by a way to agreeable to his Majefty as the Interpolition of a Princes will be, whom to many Ties of Blood fhould unite with him, and whofe Sentiments for the Publick Tranquillity cannot be doubted: His Majefty mov'd with these Confiderations, hath order'd the Sieur Mefnager, Knight of his Order of St. Michael, Deputy to the Conneil of Commerce, to give in Writing the following Anfwers to the Articles contain'd in the Memorial which was fent to him, Inituded, Preliminary Demands for Great Britain more particularly.

The Kings Anfwer.

Article I.

HIs Majefty will acknowledge the Queen of Great Britain in that Quality, as also the Succession to that Crown, according to the prefent Ellablifhment.

II. The King confents to make a New Treaty of Commerce with Great Britain, after the molt Juft, most Reasonable, and most Advantageous manner to France and Great Britain.

III.

Tho' Dunkirk has coft the King very great Sums of Money in Purchasing as well as Fortifying ir, and that a very con-fiderable Expence will ftill be neceffary to Rafe the Works , His Majefty is however willing to Engage that they fhall be Demolifhed immediately after the Conclution of the Peace, upon condition that an Equivalent (hall be given him to his own content, In lieu of the Fortifications of that Place; and as England cannot furnish the faid Equivalent, the Difcuffion thereof thall be referred to the Conferences held for the Negotiation of the General Peace.

IV.

The King promifes in the Name of the King of Spain his Grandfon, and according to the Power that his Majefty has received from that Prince, that Gibraltar and Port Mahon thall remain in the Hands of the English who now Poffefs them.

The English shall have, after the Peace Concluded, the Treaty of Negroes of Guinea to the West-Indies, alias, the Afiento Contract, upon the fame Conditions that that Convention was made by the King of Stain with the French ; So that the Company which shall be Establish'd for this Effect in England shall have the Prerogative of Refreshing, Vending, and Selling their Negroes in all the Places and Ports of America upon the North Sea, in that of Buenos Ayres, and Generally in all the Places and Ports wherein the Importation was permitted to the Ships of the Company form'd in France under the Name of the Affentia.

And for the better protecting the Commerce in the Spanish America, the English shall be put in Possession of such Places as shall be nam'd in the Treaty of Peace.

France having offer'd a real Security for the Commerce of the Subjects of the Queen of Great Britain in the Spanish America, it was never Doubted but France thereby meant fome Places; and we have been Confirmed in this Opinion, fince France hath proposed Gibraltar as a Security for the Commerce of Spain and of the Mediterranean. The Advantages and the Privileges offered by the Sieur Mefnager, are not to be regarded as real Securities, becaufe it will always be in the Power of Spain to refume them : Therefore 'tis believ'd that France is oblig'd. either to cause to be yielded to Great Britain the Places Demanded in this Article, or to procure it new Advantages, fuch as the Love of Peace may make it accept as an Equivalent. Upon which We think Our Selves oblig'd to infift, that this Minister be furnished with a fufficient Power. And further, to Telti-fie the Sincerity whetewith We Treat, and the Defire that Her Majefty of Great Britain hath to Advance the General Peace; She hath thought fit to Declare, that the Difficulty arisen upon this Article may be remov'd, in Granting to Her the following Articles.

Yet the King promifes, that the King his Grand fon fhall yield to the English during Thirty Years Successively the Treaty of Negroes of Guinea to the Weft-Indies, alias, the Afiento Contract, upon the fame Conditions, Prerogatives, and Privileges Granted to the French Company, and which they Enjoy'd or ought to have Enjoy'd fince the lft. of May 1702. to this time.

Preliminary Articles on the Part of France to come to a General Peace.

THE King teing willing to Contribute all in his Power to the Re-cftablifhment of the General Peace, his Majefty Declates,

1. That he will acknowledge the Queen of Great Britain in that Quality, as also the Succellion to that Crown according to the prefent Establishment:

2. That he will confent, Voluntarily and bond fide, to take all Just and Reasonable Measures to hinder the Crowns of France and Spain from being ever Reunited upon the Head of One and the same Prince, his Majelty being perfwaded that this Excess of Power would be contrary to the good, and to the general Repose of Europe.

3. The Kings Intention is, that all the Parties Engaged in the prefent War, without Excepting any, may find their reafonable Satisfaction in the Treaty of Peace to be made, That the Commerce belke-established, and be hereafter Supported to the Advantage of Great Britain, Holland, and other Nations, which have been accustomed to Exercise it.

4. As the King is also willing to Maintain exactly the Obfervation of the Peace, when it thall be Concluded, and that the view his Majelty propoles to himfelf, is to fecure the Frontiers of his Kingdom, without troubling in any manner whatfoever the Neighbouring States, he promifes to agree by the future Treaty of Peace, that the Datch thall have in their Hands the Fortified Places, which thall be Specified, in the Low Countries, to Serve hereafter as a Barrier, which may Secure the Repofe of the Republick of Holland againft any Attempt on the part of France.

5. The King also Contents, that there be form'd for the Empire and for the House of Auftria, a fure and convenient Barrier.

6. Tho' Dunkirk hath colt the King very great Sums of Money, as well to purchafe as to Fortifie it, and that a confiderable Expence will fill be neceffary in order to Rafe the Works thereof, his Majefty is neverthelefs willing to Engage to caufe them immediately to be Demolifh'd after the Conclusion of the Peace, upon condition that there be given him for the Fortifications of that Place, an Equivalent agreeable, and to his own content; And as England cannot furnish the faid Equivalent, the Difcusion thereof shall be referr'd to the Conferences to be held for the Negotiation of the Peace.

7. When the Conferences for the Negotiation of the Peace shall be form'd, all the Pretensions of the Princes and States Engaged in the present War shall be bond fide and Amicably Difcuss'd thereat, and nothing shall be omitted to Regulate and to Conclude them to the Satisfaction of all the Parties.

By Virtue of the Kings full Power, We the Underwritten Knight of his Order of St. Michael, Deputy to the Courcil of Commerce, have, in his Majeffies-Name, Settled thele Preliminary Articles. ### October the First, 1711.

Her Majesty's Instructions to the Earl of Strafford, Ambassador, &c. to the States General.

U Pon your Arrival in Holland (whither you are to repair with all poffible Diligence) you (hall take the first Opportunity of conferring with the Penfionary, and of informing him, that We have fent you back as foon as fome Matters of the greatest Moment were Ripe, and fit to be laid before Our good Friends and Allies the States General.

You are to reprefent to this Minister, and to fuch others as shall be appointed to confer with you, That when We receiv'd, in the Month of May lass, by your Difpatches to Us, an Account of the Senfie which those among them, who were at that time in the Secret, had of the Overtures made by France for Settling a General Negotiation of Peace again on Foot, and of the Answer which it was defir'd might be return'd to the Propositions Sign'd by Monfieur de Torcy. We did immediately acquaint the Enemy, that their Others were thought by Us, and by the States General, neither particular nor full enough, and therefore We did infift that they should form a uitlingt Project of fuch a Peace as they were willing to conclude.

You are forther to inform the Dutch Ministers, that this Affair being Transacted by Papers fent backward and forward, and much time being lold in this dilatory Method, We did at laft think fit to fend to the Court of France, in order 10 have from thence fome more certain Account of the Dispositions towards Peace, and of the Terms on which they might be willing to make it.

That the French did hereupon fend over a Perfon with Powers to Treat and to Settle fome preliminary Articles to a General Negotiation, but that this Perfon being neither fully Inftructed, nor fufficiently Empower'd, a ftill further Delay was created, and it became abfolutely neceffary to allow him to fend to his Court for more ample Inftructions; We being determin'd on Our part, according to the Define of the Penfionary, and of the other Minifters, to leave nothing undone which might bring the French to be more Direct and Particular in their Overtures.

You are to Communicate to the Penfionary, and to the Miniflers you confer with, the Paper herewith deliver'd to you, Sign'd by Monfieur Mefnager, an old Acquaintance of theirs, and one with whom they have formerly Treated, reprefenting to them, That though the feveral Articles do not contain fuch particular Conceflions as France mult, and to be fure will make, yet they are, in Our Opinion, a fufficient Foundation whereupon to open the Conferences.

That We were unwilling to take upon Our Selves to Determine the feveral Interefts of Our Allies, and did therefore Refolve to content Our Selves with fuch General Offers as might include all the particular Demands proper to be made in the Courfe of the Negotiation, during which it must be the most careful Endeavour, and the fix'd Principle of all the Confederates, to hold fait together, in order to obtain from the Enemy the utmost which can be hop'd for in the prefert Circumftances of Affairs. And this Rule you may affure them, that We thall on Our part firmly adhere to.

If upon this, or upon any other Occafion, the Miniflers of Holland shall express their Uncafinets, left We should have Settled the Interests of these Our Kingdoms, in a future Peace, by any Private Agreement, you are to fay, That We have refused to fussion to be carry'd on in Our own Country, and that We shall still continue to do fo, unless they constrain Us to take another Measure: That by this means, the Dutch, and all Our Allies, will have the Opportunity and Conveniency of Treating and Adjusting their different Pretensions; in promoting of which We shall exert all that Zeal for the Common Good, and for their particular Advantage, which We are fure they do Us the Justice to confess that We have shown through the whole Course of Our Reign.

You will further fay, that you can take upon your felf to affure them, That We have made no Stipulations for Our Selves, which may Clafh with the Interest of Holland, That those Articles which We expect thould be inferted in the future Treaty of Peace, for the particular Interest of Great Birlain, are for the most part fuch as contain Advantages, which must either Continue to the Enemy, or be Obtain'd by Us. And alfo, that no Concessions what foever can Tempt Us to Embrace the Blefting of Peace, unless Our good Friends and Allies the States General have all reatonable Satisfaction as to their Barrier, as to their Trade, and in all other Respects.

These Affurances being given in Our Name, you are to Infinuate ftrongly to the Ministers of Holland, how Just Reason We thould have to be Offended, and to look on the Proceeding between them and Us as very Unequal, if they thould pretend to have any further Uneafiness upon this head: A MWe being determined to accept of no Advantages to Our Selves, repugnant to their Interests, nor of any Peace which may not be to their reasonable Satisfaction; That the figure which We have made thro' the whole Course of this War, and the part which We have Acted in it, Superior to what any of the Allies, even those who are nearest to the Danger, and in Interest most deeply Concern'd, have done, might Justive Lus, it We should fo think fir, in the first Place, to Adjust and Settle the Particular Concerns of Great Britain, before We should confent to fet the General Negotiation on Foot.

If those Engagements, which We are under by Our Treaties, of making no Peace, but in Concert with them, or the particular Obligations of the Barrier Treaty, are Objected to you, you are to fay, as to the full, That We have not in any fort Acted contrary thereto ; That We are to far from making a Peace without their Concurrence, that We have Declared Oar firm Refolution not to make it without their Satisfaction; and that all that has Paffed between France and Us, amounts to no more than an Introduction to a General Negotiation: As to the latter, you will Represent very earnelity to them, how much it is for the Interest even of Holland it felf, rather to Compound the Advantages of the Barrier Treaty, thin to infift upon the whole, fince it is notorious, the Houle of Auftria, and feveral other of the Allies are and must necessfarily continue utterly Averfe to it; and fince you may your felt, affure them upon the Observation which you have made during your stay here, that nothing car be more odious to the People of these Kingdoms, than many Parts of this Treaty ; and that nothing has prevented that National, and Univerfal Indignation which would have broke out upon this Occafion, but the great Care and Industry which has been Us'd to calm the Minds of those who are acquainted with the Terms of this Guarrantee, and to keep the fame as Secret as possible from those who are not yet apprisd of Them; you will Expollulate further with the Minillers of Holland, by (hewing the abfolute Necessity of Entertaining a good Harmony be-tween the two Nations, upon which not only their Mutual Safety in a great Metfure depends, but without which, there can at no time he form d a Strength fufficient to Reduce any Exorbitant Power, and to Preferve the Balance of Europe ; and upon this Foundation, you will Argue, that it is the true Intereft of neither Country to infift on any Conditions which may give Juft Apprehenfions to the other.

You are to acquaint them, That France proposes Uirecht, Nimighen, Aix la Chapelle, and Liege, as Places in any One of which the Conferences may with Conveniency be held; That We have refufed to let the General Treaty be carried on in Our own Country, and that We are ready to fend Our Plenipotentlaries to fuch of thefe Four Towns as may be most agreeable to them.

You

You are to conclude your Conference by defiring that they will give all polihile Difpatch to the Choice of a Place of Treaty, and that the Pafpotts to the French Plenipotentiaties may be haltned, It being in Our Opinion of Importance fo to forward the Progress of this great Affair, that on one hand We may not be Exposed to begin too late the Preparations for the next Campaign, nor on the other to put Our Selves to an Expence which, in cafe the General Treaty proceeds, will be unneceffary.

And whereas not only the Dutch, but the imperial and other Minifters, may perhaps deny the Paper herewith Delivered to you, to be a Sufficient Ground for Opening the Conferences upon, and may infift that France should confent to Preliminary Articles in the Nature of those formid, and on the part of the Allies Signed in 1709. You are in the first place, befides what is in these your Instrutions before Directed, to Instruct, that the Frence might very probably have been brought to Explain themselves further, had they not perceived the Extraordinary Uneatines, impatience, and Jealousie, which, during their Transactions with Us, diffeored themselves amongit Our Allies.

You are afterwards, in Our Name, to Declare to them, That if they are defirous to carry on the War, and Determin'd to accept of no Terms of Peace Interior to thole which have been formerly Demanded, We are, on Our part, ready to concur with them, and to continue to Sacrifice the Blood and Treafure of Our Subjects, as We have bitherto done, for their greater Advantage and Security, but that We are in Juffice bound, neither to deceive Our felves nor them; and do therefore, by you Our Ambaffador and Plenipotentiary, Solemnly Declare, That We can no longer hear that diffroportionable Burthen which has every Year heen Encreas'd upon Us, nor that Deficiency which Our Allies in every part of the War are Guilty of. That it is Evident that the common Effort mult be ftill greater againft the Enemy than it is, or that there will remain no profpect of arriving at thofe Ends which are propos'd, That therefore it is incumbent on them, if the War be continued, to furnith for the future fuch Quota's of Ships and Forces, as they are at this time wanting in, and to encreafe their Expence, whilt We reduce Ours to fuch a Proportion as in reafon and in Juffice both thould be Settled at.

If on the part of the Ministers of Vienna, and of Holland, their Inability to do more than they have hitherto done, be Urg'd in answer to you, Our Pleasure is, that you finish by faying, That We think that We may Justly infiss that they should comply with Us in War, or In Peace, fince in the former case We require nothing but what it belongs to them to perform, and what is Effential to the Success of Our Arms; and fince in the latter We have done, and to the last shall continue to do, all that is in Our Power towards obtaining such a Peace as may be to the Satisfaction of all Our Allies.

Additional Instructions to the Earl of Strafford.

W Hereas by an Article In your Inftructions, bearing date the Firft Inftant, you are to conclude the Conference which you fhall have, upon your Arrival at the Hague, with the Minifters of the States General, by defiring all poffible Difpatch may be given to the Choice of a Place of Treaty, and that Pafsports for the French Plenipotentiaries may be haftn'd: It is Our further Will and Pleafure, That as foon as the faid Pafsports thal be promis'd, you do immediately give no-tice thereof, by a Courier, to the Court of France, or if the States General fhall defire it of you, that you do fend the faid Pafsports to the Marquis de Torcy.

October 24. 1711.

Extract from the Register of the Resolutions of their High Mightiness the States General of the United Provinces, of Saturday the 24th of October, 1711.

T having been deliberated upon what the Earl of Strafford, Amhaffador Extraor-dinary and Plenipotentiary of Her Majeffy the Owen of Court Platent dinary and Plenipotentiary of Her Majelty the Queen of Great Britain, has repreferred to the Counfellor Penfionary Heinfius, in order to be communicated to their High Mightineffes, and on the Preliminary Articles deliver'd on the part of France, to come to a General Peace, alfo communicated to the Counfellor Penfionary Heinfins: It has been thought proper, and agreed upon, that the Antiwer to be given to the Earl of Strafford, thall be, That their High Mightineffes having Examin'd the faid Articles with all possible Attention, have found them couch'd in Terms to General and Obscure, as to deferve great Confideration, and that they have ftrong Apprehensions, that by entring upon them into a formal Negotiation, the Affairs of the Peace will be fubject to many Delays, Incertainties, and other great Inconveniencies, which their High Mightineffes earneftly defire may be a-voided, that a Speedy, Good, and General Peace may be the fooner come at. That for this reason their High Mightinesses have Order'd the Sieur Buyr, who is going to England in Quality of their Envoy Extraordinary, to communicate to Her Majefty their Fears and Thoughts upon this Subject ; and thereupon to Reprefent to Her Majelty, That they judge it neceffary in fo important an Affair, in which having themfelves no other Aim but the Advancement of the Common Caufe, and the mutual Interests of both Nations, they firmly rely upon the great Wifdom, and the fo much Renown'd Zeal of the Queen for the Common Good, that upon the Reprefentations to be made to Her on this Subject, She will be pleas'd to make fuch Reflections, as the States believe an Affair of fo great Confequence to the Safety and the Publick Good deferves : The faid Earl of Strafford is also defirid, that he will be pleas'd to contribute to this purpose by his good Offices.

A Memorial for Monsieur Gaultier.

Hampton-Court, October 29. 1711.

THE Queen has proposed by the Eatl of Strofford the Opening of the Conferences: The States General answerd, they did not look on the Memorial Her Majefty had fent them as a fufficient Foundation on which they might venture upon a Negotiation. Wherefore they had deferred proceeding any further in that Affair with the faid Minister, until they knew what Effect the Remonstrances had which Mr. Buys their Envoy Extraordinary was Order'd to make to the Queen thereupon.

The faid Envoy has Repreferred to Her Majefty, That the States are ready to concur with Her to facilitate the General Peace, but that they believe it is Hazatding too much to Open the Conferences, unlefs the General Article offer'd by France be Explain'd and Specify'd.

Her Majefty, who has always forefeen, and who ftill forefees how impofible a thing it would be to bring the Allies to Agree on a Plan of particular Preliminaries, and who remains firm in Her first Refolution, to Open the Conferences on the Articles Sign'd by Monfieur Mefnager, has given Monfieur Bays Her final Answer on that Head, That She looks on those Articles as containing in general all the *E Pretenfions Her Allies can reafonably form; That She Itill petfilts in the fame Opinion; She renews Her Orders to the Earl of Strafford, to repeat his Inflance: with the States General to induce them to choose one of the Four Places that have been appointed for the Place of Congress; and to oblige them likewife to difpatch Pafsports for his most Christian Majefty's Pleniporentiaries.

Things being in this Scituation, Her Majeffy thinks, in order to the fpeedy Opening of the Conferences, and for the greater Difpatch of the Work of the Peace, it will be at folutely Requifire, the most Christian King thould give Her Majeffy fuch Explanations of his Defigns, with respect to the particular Interests of the Alles, as he shall think fit, to induce them to Enter more willingly into a General Negotiation.

The Dutch Aim at nothing but their Barrier, and their Commerce, and provided the Queen can, without fear of being Diflown'd, Specify, within a finall matter, the Barrier which France is willing to Yield to them, and that She may affure them of the Tariff of 1664, there's no room to doubt but the States General will enter, without any difficulty, into the Negotiation as it has been concerted.

The Duke of Savoy's Ministers are allarm'd for their Barrier towards France. The Queen thinks it would not only be for the Quiet and Security of Italy, that this Prince should be made more Powerful on that side: But Her Majesty would be likewife very glad if She could give him fome Assurances concerning a Barrier for his Country towards France: And Her Majesty looks on that Article to be so Effential, that She hopes the Answer will be as favourable, and as particular as is possible.

The Dutch and the Duke of Savoy being Agreed on those Heads with Her Majefty, the greatest Difficulties that may be rais'a to delay the General Peace, will prefently be remov'd, and the Conferences forthwith Open'd.

There are feveral Pretentions of the other Ailies included in the general Promife of a reafonable Satisfaction, that muft be Examin'd and Settled in the courfe of a Negotiation; as those of the King of Prufia, and those of the Electorate of the Duke of Hanover, on which, if the Queen was Authoriz'd to give Aflurances on the part of France, it would be attended with this good Effect, That those Powers would prefently come into Her Majefty's Views and Measures. There is to room to doubt, after all the Steps Her Majefty has already made,

There is to room to doubt, after all the Steps Her Majelfy has already made, but She has a fincere Defire to procure the general Quict of Europe; and if Her Majelfy defires that the moft Chriftian King would give an Explanation to the aforefaid Demands, and to fuch others as might happen concerning the particular Interests of other Confederated Princes, his most Chriftian Majelfy may be Affur'd, the Queen will make no other use of the Confidence the King will have in Her, but to forward the Negotiation, in feeking the thortest and most effectual Means to attain a Peace for much with'd for, that will be Honourable to his most Chriftian Majelfy, and Secure and Equitable to the Confederates.

N°. XI.

Answer to the Memorial brought by Monsieur Gaultier, November 18. 1711.

The King fees with Pleafure, that the Queen of Great Britain perfifts with that Firmnefs worthy of Her, in the defire She has expression of using the most fpeedy and effectual Means for attaining an Honourable Peace to France and Great Britain, and which may be at the fame time both Safe and Equitable, with refoct to the other Powers engaged in the prefent War. His Majelty intending alto to Confirm hy Deeds, the Affurances he has given of the Confidence he has in that Princefs, His Majelty thinks he cannot better express his Sentiments, than by explaining himfelf on the Points of this Memorial, with as much Franknefs as if the Peace was made, and as if there was already. Ifrict Alliance between him and the Queen of Great Britain.

So without confidering that there has been no Mention made hitherto but of Preliminary Articles, and that the Queen of Great Britain does now define Explanations on the particular Conditions which are to form the Treaty of Peace, the King is willing to entrult Her, as a Princefs in Arnity with him, with his Thoughts on the Detail of the chief Conditions of the Peace.

He is willing, as he has already declar'd, that the Dutch should have a Barrier sufficient to secure the Tranquillity of their Republick.

He is willing also that Trade be Reltored and Maintained for the future to their Advantage, provided they will concur boud fide to the Re-eftablithment of the Peace.

As to the Barrier, it would be neceffary, before it be Settled, to agree upon the Defination of the Low Countries, as the King of Spin has yielded them to the Elector of Bavaria, and that the King has Sigh' the Treary thereof, if it thould not be fulfill'd, the Elector would have his recourse to his Majelty to be Indemnified. He will therefore dofire, that the Datch fhould put into the Hands of the Elector of Bavaria, the Towns and Provinces poffeffed by them, or their Allies, in the Spanish Netherlands, to as that Prince may poffel's the Towns and Provinces of Luxenburg and Namur, and the Places of Charleroy and Niemport; the King will promite, That on condition of this Ceffion, the Dutch thall put Garritons into the Strong Places of the Low Countries, which thall be Paid and Maintain'd at the Exponce of the Country, to that those Provinces being Poffel's'd by an independent Prince, and Garrifon'd by Dutch Troops, will form a Burier, which alone would be fufficient to fecure the Republic's of Holland againft any reafonable Apprehension of the Defigns of Prance.

But the better to facure the States General against those vain Fears, the King is willing to engage his Word to the Queen of Graat Britain, ftill to itrengthen: that Barrier, by quitting and yielding to the Dutch the Town of Mexin, with its Verge, in giving them Ipres and its Chastellenle; but it must be observed that Caffel, Poperingue, and Bail/cul do not make part thereof, and therefore his Majetty referves them to himself.

In thort, hy yielding further, with the fame regard to the Burler, Furnes and the Furn Ambach; there are the Ceffions the King is willing to make for the good of the Peace, but then thefe are the only ones his Majefty can Grant, unlets he would leave Open the Frontier of his Kingdom.

As his Majefty is perfivaded, that neither the Intention nor the Intereft of the Queen of Great Britain are, that France (hould remain Naked, and always Expoled to the Defigns of her Enemics, his Majefty expects to be flrongly Supported by England, in the Demand he makes of the Refitution of the Towns of Aire, Bethane, St. Venant, Douay, Bouchain, and their Dependencies, which he pretends to Obtain by way of Compenfation for the Places he Yields, to form the Barrier demanded by the Dutch.

He ftill renews the promife of Demolifhing, immediately after the Conclusion of the Peace, all the Fortifications of Dunkrk, as well towards the Land, as towards the Sea, without any Exception; and as it was Settled between the King and the Queen of Great Britain, that a fitting Equivalent (hould be given for this Demolition, his Majefty demands Liffe and Tournay, with all their Dependencies and Chaftellenies, to form the promifed Equivalent.

Tournay is the ancient Domain of the Kingdom, it forms the Frontier of ir, and it mult be look't upon as a Place of Safety to France, rather than an Inlet into the Neighbouring Country, the King cannot receive a more publick Obligation from the Queen of Great Britain, than if She will contribute to the Refituation of a Place to neceffary for Securing the Frontier of his Kingdom. On the other hand, it is indifferent to England, whether this Place returns, as formedy, under the King's Dominion, or whether it remains in the Hand's of a Foreign Power; and the Interpolition of the Queen of Great Britain, by Her good Offices on this occafion, will cement, for the future, a molt thrift Union between the Growns of France and England.

However, if Her Majefty's good Offices (hould prove Fruitlefs, notwithftanding Her heft Endeavours for procuring to his Majefty the Reflicution of Life and Tourney, as an Equivalent for the Fortifications of Dankirk, his Majefty Declares from from this prefeat time, but only to the Queen of Great Britain, That for the good of the Peace, he will be fatisfied with the Refittution of the Town and Cittadel of Lifle, with the Chaftelleny and Dependencies, without infifting on Tournay, being willing to content himfelf with this laft Equivalent, rather than to retard, by more extensive, tho' just Pretensions, the Re-establishment of the Tranquillity of Europe.

The Cellion of the Catholick Low Countries was made by the King of Spain to the Flector of Bavaria, only with a delign to indemnifie him, for the Loffes he fuffer'd during the Courle of this pretent War; but his Majelty, and the King his Grandson, are further engag'd by Treaties with that Elector, to reftore him, by the Peace, to the Possession of his Dominions, of his Rank, and of his Dignities, whereof he was deprived by the War, to his Majefty will De-mand, that this Prince refume in the Electoral College the first Rank, which was transferred to the Elector Palatine; that the Upper Palatinate given to the faid Elector Palatine, be reftored to the Elector of Bavaria, and in fhort that the Difmemberments made from the Chief Parts of the fame Electorate, be Annulled, and things reftored to their former order.

Even these Demands are not repugnant to the Interest of the Dutch, suppofing that they will Confent to leave the Low Countries to the Elector of Bauaria; for it is confiftent with their Maxims, that these Provinces should be Possible's'd by a Prince, whole Power fecures their Barrier.

However, if they have different Thoughts with respect to the Bledor of Bavaria, and that forgerting the first Engagements of that Prince with the Houfe of Bibar-ria, and that forgerting the first Engagements of that Prince with the Houfe of Bibar-halfria, they are perfwaded that his Ties with France will never be weakened, if upon this Foundation, they think that his Power m ght at any time be Dangerous to their State, and that therefore it is neceflary to Diminish the fame; regard may be had to this fear, altho ill grounded; by proposing for the good of the Peace, to engage the Elector of Bavaria, to yield Hanaria, and the function of the Peace, to engage the Elector of Bavaria, to yield Hanaria, and the Electoral Dignity to the Prince his Eldeft Son , whereof it would be beceffary to conclude at the fame time the Marriage with the Arch-Durchals, Eldeft Daughtes of the late Emperor Joseph. In this cafe it thould be Sulpulated, that the Elector would be fatisfied to Poffefs the Low Construer inftend of Ravaria, with the condition that has been mention'd, of patting Dutch Gattilons into the Places, to he paid, and maintain'd at the Charge of the Country.

If these Proposals should be rejected, the King being engaged by his Trentics, to take care of the Interests of a Prince his Ally, demands that at least, the Elector of Bavaria may keep the Provinces of Laxemburg and Namur, and that his Electorate, his Dignity, and his Rank may be Reifored to him ; but it would not be Juft, that being reduc'd to Two Strong Places in the Low Countries, he thould be obliged to receive a Dutch Garrison therein, which the Revenue of those Two Provinces would not be able to Maintain. This Coudition muft he ftruck out; which the King only propofes in cafe all the Low Countries he intitely given to the Elector of Bavaria.

As the King doubts not, but the Queen of Great Britain thinks it Juft, that the Elector Palatine flould reftore the Upper Palatinate, his Majeffy thinks, that the Datchy of Lincourg might be Separated from the Low Countries, and given to the Elector Palatine, to Indemnifie him for the Upper Palatinate, which he thould reftore; this his Majeffy leaves to the Prudence and Juffice of the Queen of Great Britain. However it be, it might be Agreed, that the Elector Palatine (hould enjoy, during his Life, the Upper Palatinate, and the Elector Palatine hould enjoy, during his Life, the Upper Palatinate, and the First Rank in the Electoral College, and that after his Death, both should return to the Elector of Bavaria, and his Succeffor.

Tais Second Propolal, with respect to the Elector of Rivaria, would bring no Alteration to the offer already made, of yielding to the Dutch for a Barrier, Menin, Ipres, Furn, and Furn Ambach, on the Conditions beforementioned.

But the manner in which they will use this Prince, will decide the Advantages the King will grant with refpect to Trade.

If one of the preceding Propofals is accepted, the King's Intention is, to Reestablish, in Favour of the Dutch, the Tariff of 1664. with the Exemption of the Duty of 50 per Tun, his Majetty will particularize only fome Exceptions to this Tariff, whereof the Detail is contain'd in a Memorial by it felf, he thinks himfelf oblig'd to Stipulate the fame, not only to prevent the utter С Ruin

Ruin of Trade, the Navigation, and the Manufactures Establish'd in his Kingdom, but also to take away the Equivocations that might hereafter occasion Complaints, and troublesom Disputes.

There would ftill be another Indemnization more honourable, but far lefs ufeful, and which his Majelty would neverthelefs pay at the fame rate of the Re-eltablifhment of the Tariff of 1664, with the Exceptions mention'd.

The Dutch, and their Allies, by refufing the Low Countries to the Elector of Basaria, would probably have the fame yielded to the Arch Duke : The King will confent thereto, and moreover, his Majefty will difpofe that Elector to yield the whole Electorate of Basaria to the Houfe of Aufria, provided the King-dom of Naples be given to that Prince.

The Proportion is not equal between that Kingdom of the one, and the Spanift Natherlands on the other part, with a Country like that of Bavaria, and to convenient to the Houfe of Auftria; but the King undertakes to Supply the Lois of the Elector of Bavaria, and to make, by the Indemnization, England a confiderable Gainer.

The Means his Majefly propofes to fucceed therein, is, by engaging the King of Spain to yield Sicily to that Elector, fo by pollefing both Kingdoms, he would be indemnified for what he thould forfake otherwife, and the English would find their particular Advantage in the Conventions England might make with him for the Commerce in the Alediterranean. It is not ind Herent to the Nation to be fecure of the Prince who thall be Mafter of Meffina, and the Dutch would eafily prevent England, if ever Sicily thould fall into the Hands of the Arch-Duke. This Reflection will not have steaped the W.fdom of the Queen of Great Britain, who thews likewife Her Regard to the Affairs of Italy, by the Article which concerns the Duke of Savoy.

The King's Intention is, punctually to perform the Convention Sign'd, in his Name, by Monfieur Mefnager, in relation to that Prince. His Majelty will acquaint him therewith directly, fince the Qaeen of Great Britain defires it. The Silence his Majelty has kept upon this Subject, was grounded upon this, That his Majelty has no Correspondence, either directly or indirectly, with the Duke of Savey, he referring himfelf to that Princefs to inftruct him with what was Stipulated for him.

For what remains, the King is to far from opposing the Aggrandizement of the Duke of Savoy, on the fide of Italy, that he thinks it would be the Advantage of that Part of Europe, that the reft of the Milanefe thould be Joyn'd with that Part, whereof that Prince is already Poffels's ; he would even confent with Pleafure to Treat him then in Quality of King of Lombardy.

The King's Sentiments on this Occafion being entirely agreeable with those of the Queen of Great Britain, there is no room to doubt, but that Princefs will alfo agree, that it is jult that the Duke of Savey (hould be fatisfied with the Old Barrier towards France, and that he reftore the Places of Exilles and Femefirelles, both lying in Damphine; his Majefty confirming the Promife he has made of Reftoring to him the Dutchy of Savey, and the County of Nice, whereof the Confideration is ftill above the Importance of these two Places for the Frontier of the Kingdom.

Befides these Explanations, the King will give, with an intire Confidence, to the Queen of Great Britain, all the Explanations She will be pleas'd to ask him, for the good of the Peace; and fince She defires to know, what are the Kings Dispositions with respect to the Elector of Brandenburgh, and the Duke of Hanover; his Majefty affures Her, that he will make no difficulty to acknowledge the First, as King of Prufia, and the Second, as Elector, when the Peace is Sign'd. The Queen of Great Britain, may even make use of this Contidence, as She shall think most futing for advancing the Peace, and be fure that the King will not difform Her.

In fhort, the define which that Prince's expresses, to Procure forthwith the general Tranquillity of Europe, feems to Sincere, that his Majefty is further willing to Communicate to Her his Intentions on the Peace, to be made with the Empire, which are,

To acknowledge the Arch-Duke, as Emperor.

To reftore to that Prince, and to the Empire, Fort Kebl, in the fame Condition it is now in.

To caufe the Forts built in the Rbine, and depending on Straibourg, to be Demolifhed.

To rafe the Fortifications built over against Hummingen on the Right, and in the Island of the Rhine.

In like manner, the Fort built on the other fide of the Rhine, over Falnt' Fort Louis, as well as that part of the Bridge leading from the Island to the light hand Shore of the Rhine.

To demolifh in general, all the Fortifications built, or rais'd on the other nde of that River.

In fhort, to reftore to the Emperor the Town of Brifac, except nevertheless the Fort called Mortier, lying on the left, and on this fide of the Rhime.

Upon these Conditions, which fufficiently flow the King's defire of leaving the Empire in Peace, his Majelfy defires only for himfelf the Reflictution of the Town of Landaw, and for the Allies the Re-effablishment of the Elector of Cologn, in his Dominlons, Benefices, and Dignities, referring himfelf, as to what relates to the Elector of Bavaria, to what has already been mentioned, with respect to that Prince.

The King expects with Impatience the happy effects of the Application of the Queen of Great Britain, in contributing to the Re-effablishment of the Peace, and his Majefty defires with no lefs earnefiness a fitting time wherein he may give publick Ploofs of his Sentiments for that Princefs.

St. James's, Decemb. 23. 1711.

The Queen's Instructions to my Lord Privy Seal, and the Earl of Strafford, Her Plenipotentiaries for a General Peace.

UPon your Arrival at Utrecht, you are to begin by concerting with the Miniffers of Our Allies, in what Manner it may be moft proper to open the Conferences, and what Method to obferve in the Progrefs of the Treaty. You will upon this, and upon all other Occafions, earnefly Keprefent to thefe Miniffers, the great Importance of appearing United, and for that reation, Recommend to them, That if any Difference or Difpute thould arife, the fame thould be accommodated amongit your felves, that France may have no Hold to break in upon you; but on the contrary, whenever you meet the Enemies Miniffers in the Congrefs, every Opinion that is deliver'd, and every Inflance that is made, may be back'd by the concurrent Force of the whole Confederacy.

In order to bring this great Work to a fpeedy Iffue, and to prevent, as much as pcflible, any Advantage which the Enerny might take by a long Negotlation of Dividing the Allies, or of Slackning their Preparations for another Campaign, you are to propole, that a time be fixed for the Conclusion, as was done for the Commencement of these Conferences.

If it thall be thought proper to begin by the Difpolition of the Spanish Monarchy, you are to infift, That the Security and reasonable Satisfaction which the Allies expect, and which his most Christian Majesty has promis'd, cannot be d obtain'd. ilith obtain'd, if Spain and the Weft-Indies be allotted to any Branch of the Houfe of Bourbon: And in cafe the Enemy flouid object, as the Imperial Ministers have done, That the Second Article of the Seven, Sign'd by the Sieur Melnager, im-plies, that the Duke of Anjou thall continue on the Throne of Spain, you are to infift that those Articles, as far as they extend, are indeed binding to France, but that they lay neither Us, nor Our Allies under any positive Obligation; that they were receiv'd only as Inducements for Opening of Conferences; and that an Agreement to take Measures for preventing the Crowns of France and Spain from being ever United upon One Head, cannot be confirued by any means to iraply, that the latter thould remain to the prefent Poffeflion, fince by the Sixth Article of the Preliminarics made in 1709, this very Point was infitted upon, although in the fame Preliminaries it was agreed, That the Duke of Anjou fhould Abandon the Throne of Spain. In treating therefore upon this Head, You are to confider, and Southe, in conjunction with Our Allies, the most effectual Measures for preventing the Crowns of France and Spain from being ever United upon One Head, and the Conditions which shall be agreed as the ceffary to this Effect, you are peremptorily to infift upon.

Whether the great Article of the Spanish Monarchy shall be in the first place Adjusted, or whether it shall be thought expedient to defer the Confideration thereof', you are, in behalf of Our Allies, to demand of France the following Terms, with fuch Extentions and Alterations, as the feveral Parties concern'd may be defirous of, and as thall appear just and reafonable. And for your better Information and Guidance, as well in respect to these Articles, as to others, the feveral Memorials and Reprefentations which We have receiv'd from divers Princes and States, concerning their interests in the Treaty of Peace, are herewith deliver'd to you.

In the first place, with respect to the Interests of Our good Brother the Emperor, and of the Empire, you are to infilt, That the Town and Citadel of Stratbourg be reftor'd to them in the fame Condition they are at prefent, together with the Fort of Kebl, and the Dependencies thereof, Scituated on both fides of the Rbine, without the Repayment of any Demand of Charges under any Pretext whatfoever, with One hundred Pleces of Brafs Cannon, of different Sizes, and Ammunition in proportion. That the faid Town of Strasbourg be likewife reftord to the Rank, Prerogatives, and Privileges of an Imperial City; and do Enjoy the fame in fuch manner as they were Enjoy'd before it was brought under the Dominion of his most Christian Majesty, both in Ecclesiaftical and Civil Rights, and you are to demand, that the faid Town and Forts be effectually Evacuated in fuch time and fuch manner, as shall be Agreed upon by you in Concert with Our Allies.

You are further to infift, That the Town of Brifac, with its Territory, be Rsftor'd to his Imperial Majefty, and the Houfe of Auftria, with all the Cannon, Artillery, and Ammunition that are therein, to be Held and Enjoy'd by his faid Imperial Majefty in fuch manner as he ought to have Held and Enjoy'd the fame, purfuant to the Treaty of Ryfwick.

You are to endeavour to procure, that his most Christian Majesty may hereafter have the Posseship of Alfatia, in sich wile only as appears to be according to the Literal Sense of the Treaty of Wessphalia, and by Virtue thereof, that he be contented with the Right of Pretecture over the Ten Imperial Cities, lying in the faid County of Alfatia, without extending the faid Right to the Prejudice of the Prerogatives, Rights, and Privileges which belong to them, as to other Free Cities of the Empire; but that his faid most Christian Majetty may enjoy the aforefaid Right, together with the Prerogatives, Revenues and Demains, in like manner as he ought to have enjoy'd them at the time of the Conclusion of the Treaty abovemention'd.

You are to demand, That the Fortifications of the faid Ten Towns he put in the fame Condition they were in at the time aforefaid, except the Town of Landen; the Poffeffion and Propriety whereof you are to procure to the Emperor and the Empire, with Liberty to Demolifh the Fortifications of that Place, if they shall think fit.

You are likewife to infift, That his most Christian Majesty, in pursuance of the faid Treaty of Wellphalia, do caufe to be Demolifhed in fuch time as fhall be agreed on, and at his own Expense, the Fortreffes, which he has at prefent fent on the Rbine, from Bafle to Philiphurg, namely, Hunningen, New Brifac, and Fort Louis, with the Works belonging to the faid For, on both Sides the Rbine, without ever Rebuilding the fame.

You are further to demand, That the Town and Fortrefs of Rhinfelt, with its Dependencies, be put into the Hands of Oar good Coulin the Landgrave of Helfe Caltle, until that Matter be otherwife Settled.

The Claufe infer ed in the Fourth Article of the Treaty of Rylwick, relating to Religion, being contrary to the Honour of the Treaty of Wellphalia; you are accordingly to infift, That the fame be Revoked and Annulled, and that the State of Religion in Germany be Redfored to the Tenour of the Treaty of Wellphalia aforefaid.

You are likewise to insist, That his most Christian Majesty do acknowledge our good Brother the King of Pruffis in that Quality; and that he do promise not to give to his faid Pruffis Majesty, any Disturbance in the 'offession of the Principality of Neufchatel, and of the County of Valengin, and that he do reftore the Principality of Orange, to those to whom it thall appear by Law to Appertain, and fuch other Elitates as did belong to our late dear Brother King William the Third, which are now in the hands of France.

You are also to demand the acknowledging of the Electorate, which has been Erected in favour of the Duke of Hanover, now Elector of Brunfwick and Lunenburg.

And if any difficulty shall arife, concerning the time of acknowledging his  $P_{inf}$ fiam Majefty, and the Elector of Hanover, the Ministers of France infilting nor to do it until the Peace the Sign'd, and the Ministers of these Princes, infilting to be acceived as the Minister of a Crowned Head, and of an Elector, at the Firth Opening of the Congress, you are in such Case, to endeavoor by some Expedient to Reconcile the Diffure. You may in the Firth Place, Propose, that the Several Ministers should Confer, and Treat together, without Exchanging, or Producing their full Powers, until they come to Conclude and Sign's you may in the next Place offer, that the full Powers of the Publim, and Hanover Miniflers be accepted with a Declaration, that this shall be of no Confequence, unless the General Place enfue. Thirdly, you may Endeavour to Termusite the Difference, by Pressing to have the full Powers of all the Ministers put into the Hands of such Plenipotentiarics, as shall be Agreed upon by the Patties prefert.

As to Our good Brother the King of Portugal, you are to infift that he have and enjoy all the Benefits and Advantages gran ed to him by the Treaties made between Us, Our Allies, and his faid Majefty.

between Us, Our Allies, and his faid Majefty. As to what relates to the Particular Interells of our good Friends, and Allies the Stares General, you are to Infilt, that the most Christian King do Yield towards Forming a fufficient Barrier to them, Furnes, Fort Knock, Menin, Ipres, Life, Townay, Conde, Valenciennes, and Maubenge, as likewife Pousy, Bethune, Aire, St. Venants, and Bouchain, with their feveral Dependencies, and the Cannon, and Attillery, and Ammunition now being in fuch of the abovefaid Towns as are ftill in the Hands of the French, to be Garrifoned in fuch manner as is or shall be Agreed on between Us, and the faid States General, or others Congefty, do reftore all the Towns, Forts, and Places belonging to Spain, which he at prefent Poffeffes, or has been in Poffeffion of, during the Courte of this War in the Spanif Low Countries, together with the Cannon, Artillery, and Ammunition, now being and remaining therein, to the End, that fuch Part of them that have been, or shall be thought Fit, may also be Allotted for a Bartier to the States General.

You are to use your stmost Endeavours, that the Tariff of 1664, be granted by France to the faid States General, with the Suppression of all other Tariffs made fince that time; Revoking and Annalling all Edicts, Declatations, and Decrees contrary thereunto; that the Advantages of the Treaty of Ryfwick be likewife given to the States; and that the Exemption of Fifty Pence per Tun be allowed to all Dutch Veffels, Trading to the Ports of France.

I

You

You are however to take efficial Care not to fuffer these Articles in favour of the States-General to be concluded, until the Treaty of Succeffion and Barrier be fo explained, as to remove those apprehensions which We have as to the Confequence of it in fome Points, concerning which you are already Instructed, and thall hereafter be more fully inform'd of Our Pleadure.

You

As to Our good Brother the Duke of Savey, you are to Demand that he be put again into Poffeffion of the Dutchy of Savey, County of Nice, and all his Hereditary Countries and Places yielded to him by the Treaties made with the Emperor and others of the Allies; And that His Moft Chriftian Majefty do likewife yield to the faid Duke of Savey, the Towns of Exilles, Fenefbrules, and Chaumont, together with the Valley of Progelas, and all the Tract of Land lying between Pielmont and Mount Geneure, to that the faid Mountain may ferve hereafter as a Bartier between the Kingdom of France and the Principality of Pielmont.

When the Barrier of Our good Friends and Allies the States-General shall be under Confideration, or at any other time which in the course of this Negotiation shall to you appear most proper, you are to prefs the explaining, extending and fettling the Sixth Article sign'd by the Sicur Messager, which relates to the Demolition of Dunkirk.

As to Our own Interests, you are to be particularly attentive to them in the whole course of this Negotiation, to make use of every Accident which may happen, and of every occasion which the feveral Allies may have of Our Alliftance, in order to promote and fecure the same with each of them.

Whereas by the Treary of Barrier the Commerce of thefe Our Kingdoms to the Spanifi Netberlands, and to fuch Places as by virtue of the faid Treary accrue to the States-General, is exposed to be lost, or at least to become precarious; And whereas the Sieur Bays their Envoy extraordinary to Us, has himfelf acknowledg'd the reasonableness of Our Apprehensions, and the Justice there is that We should be secur'd against any Prejudice which We have reason to sear may arise to Us from those great Accessions which they have, at the expence of the Blood and Treasure of Our Subjects, acquir'd:

You are therefore at the fame time as you use your Endeavours with the Enemy, and fuch of the Allies as may be conceraed therein to procure to the States-General the effect of the aforefaid Treaty, to infift that Nieuport, Dandermonde, the Caffle of Ghent, and fuch other Places as may rather appear to be a Barrier againft Us than againft France, be either not put into the Hands of the Datch, or that fuch Expedients be found for the doing thereof, as may fecure the ingrefs and egrefs of Our Subjects in all the Low-Countrier, as fully and effectually as if the fuid Barrier had not been granted to the States-General.

The Seventh Article of the Parrier Treaty giving a Power to the takes-General, in cafe of an apparent Attack, or of War, to but fo many 'Iroops as they fhall judge neceflary into all the Towns, Places and Forts of the Low-Commities, you are to endeavour to have this Article fo explain'd, as to be underflood for the future only of an Attack from, or of a War with France, fince nothing can be more unreafonable, than to leave it in the Power of the States-General to make use of the Ten Provinces against those to whom the Sovereignty of these Provinces may belong, or against the British Nation.

It must be your further Care, that a special Provision be made that Our Subjects may not suffer in their Commerce by any omilion in the Fiftcenth Article of the faid Barrier Treaty, and that it be expressly flipulated that the Subjects of these Our Kingdoms shall 'frade as free, with the fame Advantages and Privileges, and under the fame Impositions and no other, as they us'd to do when those Places were in the Hands of France or Spein, or as the Subjects of the states-General themselves have done, or shall at any time hereafter do.

Purfuant to what is beforementioned you are to make these Inflances, and fuch others as shall be hereafter directed upon these Heads, wherein the Interefls of Our Kingdoms, and of the Dominions of the States-General may interfere, as fuch time and in fuch manner, that Our Satisfaction may go Haad in Hand with the Settlement of their Barrier.

G

You are to infift that the Moft Christian King do not only in the plaineft and ftrongeft Terms, acknowledge the Succeffion to the Crown of thefe Our Kingdoms, as the fame is limited by Law to the Houfe of Hanever, but alfo the Perfon pretending a Right thereunto shall be immediately oblig'd to retire out of the Dominions of France, and that His Moft Christian Majefty shall further Promife and Engage for hinfelf, His Heirs and Succeffors, never to acknowledge any Perfon to be King or Queen of thefe Realms besides Ourfelf, and fuch as shall succeed to Us by virtue of the Acts of Settlement now in force.

You are to Dentand that a Treaty of Commerce may be as foon as possible commenc'd between Us and France; and that in the mean time fuch Points may be fettled as shall appear necessary to prevent the Doubts and Difficulties which may otherwife arife in the future Negotiation of this Matter.

The joint Poffeffion of the Island of St. Cbriftopher having been the occasion of frequent Difputes between Our Subjects and those of the Most Christian King, as well as of the effusion of much Blood, you are to demand and infiff, that the Right to and Posteffion of the faid Island do for the future remain to Us, and that the Most Christian King do Renounce all Right, Title, Claim or Interest which he or any of his Subjects may have or pretend to have to or in the faid Island, or any part thereof.

As to our Interests in the North Parts of America, you are to be particularly careful, and to Demand in the first place the Restitution of the Bay and Streights of Hullon, together with such further Security for the Trade, and recompence for the Loss of this Company, as you shall be able to obtain.

for the Loffes of this Company, as you shall be able to obtain. You are in the next place to infist, that Placentia and the whole Island of Newfoundland be yielded to Us by the French.

Thirdly, You are to Demand that His Most Christian Majesty shall quit all Claim or Title by Virtue of any former Treaty or otherwise, to the Country call'd Nova Scotia, and expressly to Port-Royal, otherwise Anapolis Royal, which is now in our Possellion.

You are, in the fourth place, to endeavour in the best manner you possibly can, to deferibe and fix the Bounds of the British and French Settlements in these Parts.

Befides those Advantages and Privileges which by virtue of any former Treaty or Agreement Our Subjects are entitled to in any part of the Dominions of the Spanifi Monarchy, you are to infift in the future Treaty upon the following Articles.

First, That Gibraltar and Port-Mahon, with the Island of Minorca, be for the future annex'd ro the Crown of these Realms.

Secondly, That the Contract call'd the Affiento for furnishing Slaves to the Spinish West-Indies be made for the Term of Thirty Years, with fuch of Our Subjects as shall be by Us Nominated and Appointed, who fhall enjoy all the Prerogatives, Privileges and Advantages which were yielded to the French by a Contract made with them in the Year 1702, or which shall appear necessary and reasonable; particularly you are to infift, that fome extent of Ground on the River of Place may be affign'd, upon which Our Subjects may not only refresh their Negroes, but keep them in Security until they shall be disposed of to the Spaniards.

Thirdly, You are to take care that a general Article be inferted, by virtue whereof all Advantages, Rights and Privileges which have been granted, or which may hereafter be granted by Spain to the Subjects of any Nation what-foever shall be in like manner granted to the Subjects of Great-Britain.

Fourthly, In fettling the Trade of Our Subjects to the Spanish Dominions, you are to endeavour to obtain such Exemptions of Duties upon all Goods and Merchandizes of the Product or Manufacture of these Kingdoms, as shall amount to an advantage of at least 15 h per Cent.

You

You have herewith delivered to you fuch Propolats and Obfervations, relating to Our Interests in Commerce, as have been prepared and made by Our Commissions for Trade and Plantations; together with the Peritions and Representations of Our Turkey and East India Companies, and of other Our Subjects; of all which, and of such others as shall hereaster be transmitted to you, you are to make the best use you shall be able; for the Relief of Our Subjects, and for the Improvement of Commerce.

And whereas We have directed a State to be prepar'd of fuch Demands as We may juftly make, not only on account of the Expences which We have been at for Our good Friends and Allies the States General, but alfo on account of those immente Summs which We have furnish'd for the use of Our good Brother the Emperor, you are hereby requir'd, as foon as this State shall be transmitted to you, to infist upon Satisfaction for as much as shall thereby appear to be due to Us.

And whereas we think Ourfelves oblig'd on all Occasions to exert Our Zeal in behalf of the Protestant Religion and Interest, We cannot conclude these Our Instructions without directing you to concert with the Ministers of the States General and Our other Protestant Allies, the most proper and effectual Methods for reftoring to their Religious and Civil Rights the Protestants of France, and particularly for the immediate Relief of fuch as may at this time be in the Gallies.

Our Will and Pleafure is, in the laft place, that you do from time to time obferve and follow fuch further Inftructions and Directions as you shall receive from Us or one of Our Principal Secretaries of State, with whom you are constantly to correspond, and give Us, by him, an account of all your Proceedings in these important Affairs, and of all other material Occurrences, which may come to your knowledge, during the Courfe of this your Employment for Our Service Abroad.

A Specifick Explanation of the Offers of France for a General Peace, to the Satisfaction of all the Powers interested in the present War. Deliver'd February the 11th 1712.

THE King will acknowledge, at the Signing the Peace, the Queen of Great Britain, in that Quality, as well as the Succeffion to that Crown, according to the prefent Eftablishment, and in the Manner the most agreeable to Her Britannick Majesty.

His Majefty will caufe all the Fortifications of Dunkirk to be demolifhed immediately after the Peace, having an Equivalent to his Satisfaction.

The Island of St. Chriftophers, the Bay and Streights of Hudfen shall be yielded entirely to Great Britain, in like manner Accadie, with its Fort and Fort Royal, shall be entirely restor'd to His Majesty,

As to Newfoundland, the King offers to yield it again to Great Britain, referving to himfelf only the Fort of Placentia, and the Right of Fishing and Drying of Cod-Fifh, as before the War.

He will agree to make a Treaty of Commerce before or after the Peace, at the choice of England, of which the Conditions between the two Nations shall be made as equal as possible.

The King will confert, at the Signing the Peace, that the Spanish Low-Courtries yielded to the Elector of Bavaria by the King of Spain, thall ferve as a Barrier to the united Provinces; and to enlarge it, he will add thereto Farme and its Diffrict, Knocke, Ipres and its Diffrict, Menin and its Diffrict In exchange

His

His Majefty demands, for forming the Barrier of France, Aire, St. Venant, Denry, Bouchain and their Dependencies.

If the States General will keep Garifons in the ftrong Places of the Barrier thus formed from the Countries yielded to His Electoral Highnels, and from what France fhall add therero, His Majeffy confents that they may put therein their Troops in as grear Number as they pleafe; and further, that they be mainrained at the Charge of the Country.

For this Ceffion and Confent, the King on his part demands, for the Equivalent of the Demolition of Dunkirk, the Cities and Citadels of Lille and Teurnay, with their Chastellenies and Dependencies.

The Barrier thus regulated between France and the States General, the King will agree to augment the Commerce of their Subjects, which is flipulated by the Treaty of Ry/bwick and the advantageous Tariff of 1664, excepting only fix forts of Merchandize, of which it fhall be agreed, and which fhall remain charged with the fame Duties as they now pay, together with the exemption of fity Sols per Tun, upon the Dutch Ships coming into France from the United Provinces, and from foreign Countries.

As to the Commerce of Spain and the Indies, the King will promife, not only to the States General, but also to Great Britain and to all the other Powers, by virtue of an Authority which he has for that purpole, that the Commerce fhall be made exactly and entirely after the fame manner that it was made under the Reign and until the Death of Charles the Second, and will promife, that the French fhall be fubject, as well as all other Nations, to the ancient Laws and Rules made by the Kings, Predeceffors of His Catholick Majefty, in relation to the Commerce and Navigation of the Spanifi Indies.

His Maiofty further confents, that all the Powers of Europe shall enter into a Guaranty of this Promise.

His Majefty promifes, that the King his Grandfon fhall renounce, for the good of the Pcace, all his Pretention to the Kingdoms of Naples and Sardinia, as well as to the Dutchy of Milan, which he will confert in the fame Name, that the part yielded to the Duke of Sarvoy do remain to His Royal Highnefs; provided that for this Ceffion the Houfe of Auftria fhall likewife defift from all Pretention upon the other parts of the Monarchy of Spain, from whence it fhall draw its Troops immediately after the Pcace.

The Frontiers of both fides upon the Rbine, shall be put in the fame State as they were before the prefent War.

For all these Conditions abevenentioned; the King demands, that the Eleftors of Calaga and Bavania be Re-established in the full and entire Posseficien of their Estates, Dignitics, Prerogatives, Goods movable and immovable, which they enjoyed before the present War; and His Majesty will reciprocally acknowtedge in Germany and in Prussa, all the Titles which to this time he has not acknowledged.

The King shall reflore to the Duke of Savey what he hath taken from him duting this War; in like manner His Royal Highnels shall reflore to him what he hath taken from France, fo that the Bounds on both fides shall be the same as they were before the Declaration of War.

All things in Portugal fhall be re-eftablished and remain upon the fame foot in Furope as they were before the prefent War, as well in regard to France as Spain: And as to the Dominions which are in America, if there be any difference to regulate, Endeavours will be used to agree it amicably.

The King will voluntarily and bond fide confent, to concert with the Allies the most just Measures whatever to hinder the Crowns of France and Spain from being ever reunited upon one and the fame Head; that is to fay, that one Prince be at the fame time King of both.

All the precedent Treaties, that is to fay, those of Munster and the following ones still be Ratified and Confirmed, to remain in their Force and Vigour, excepting only those Articles from which the Treaty of Peace now to be made, shall have derogated or changed any thing.

Huxclles.

THE Conference in order to communicate our feveral Demands, was held Yefterday; and all produc'd theirs, except the Imperial Minilters, who having but then receiv'd their Courier from Vienna, defir'd time to prepare theirs. At this latter Meeting Count Sinzendorff initified with great Earneftnefs that each Ally fhould in their feveral Demands, make express mention of, and infift upon the Reflicution of the whole Monarchy of Spain, that having been the great Object of the War; the Minister of Portugal join'd in this Requisition : After a long Silence Count Sinzendorff prefs'd Us and the Duteb to explain Gurfelves: We faid, Her Majesty had though it most proper each Ally should make their own Demands, and a general Claufe to fupport each other in obtaining a just and reasonable Satisfaction was fufficient, especially since the Words, en Confermité de Ses Alliances, were in it : This We remain'd by.

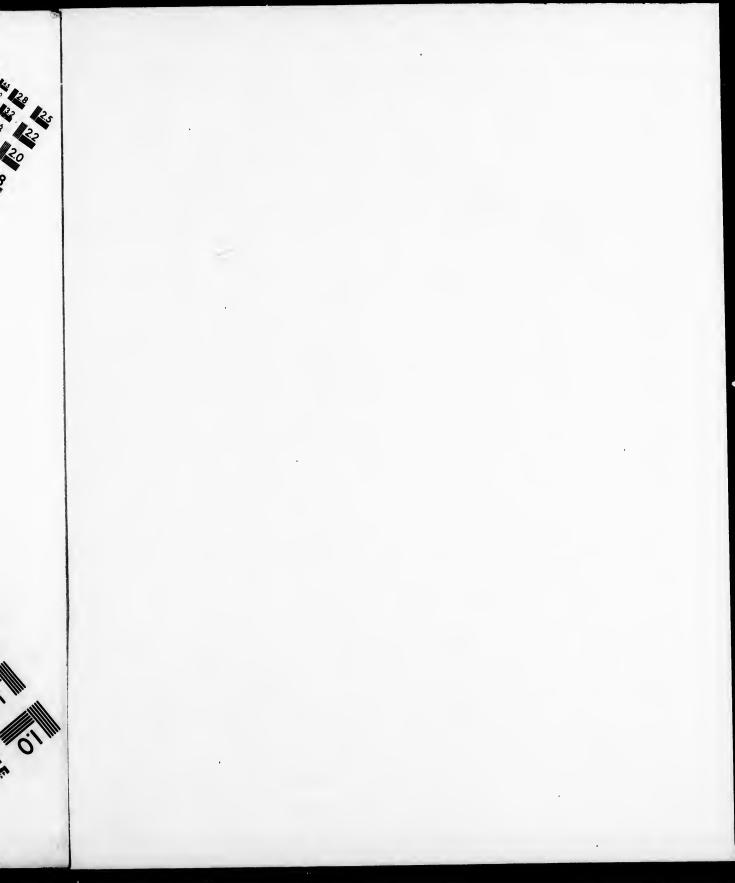

The Dutch being again prefs'd in like manner, retir'd; and, after a long Debate among themfelves, being return'd, fpoke to the fame Purpofe: We had done, adding that Spain and the Indies ought to be demanded by thofe it immediately concern'd; and Mr. Bays reafon'd very much at large, that the Method We had put things in, could not fuffer it to be otherwife. Count Sinzendorff and his Collegue parted with great Difcontent, the former faying with much Concern, This would be a fatal Day for the Grand Alliance,  $\sigma_c$ . Here We thought this Difpute had ended, but this Morning the Dutch Plenipotentiaries defir'd We would come to the Town-Houfe a little before the time of Meeting; thole of France being come, they prefs'd Us with the neceffity of giving Count Sinzendorff fome Content, and at laft declar'd they were refelv'd to do it: accordingly coming into the Room where the Allies Minifters meet, they faid, That fince they perceiv'd the Arguments they us'd laft Night had not given Content, they had now thought fit to go further, and accordingly declar'd the States General were refolv'd to make good all their Treaties made on occasion of this War, as well thole that related to Spain and the Indies, as thole made with Portugal, Prugla,Savey and others.

Upon this We immediately went to the Conference with the French, to deliver Our feveral Demands; while We were there We confidered the difadvantageous Confequences of being the only Ministers that did not make any mention at all of Spain and the Indies, even at Our Conferences among Ourfelves, and thought it might be proper to fay fomething to take off that Odium; wherefore, being return'd to the Apartment of the Allies, Lord Privy Seal faid, We are unwilling to fpeak more than We had one, till after We had given in Our Demands to France, becaufe We could not test but the mentioning any one fpecially in Our Demands, would naturally have drawn on the mention of more; but at prefent, to give the Satisfaction fo earneftly defired, We own'd, that as Her Majefty infifts for a just and reasonable Satisfaction for all Her Allies in conformity to Her Alliances, those Alliances that may concern Spain and the Indies, are underflood thereby as others that concern the Interefts of the reft of the Allies. We humbly hope what was faid by Lord Privy Seal on this Occasion will not be found contrary to what has hitherto been declared, and that as it goes no further than to just and reasonable, it does not import any new Obligation.

The Answer to the Memorial brought by Monsteur Gaultier; the 23d of March 1712.

28 March 1712.

Extract,

THE last Article of the Memorial certainly requires much Discussion, and to be maturely examined; the Matter is to important that one ought to depend upon the first Views and Conceptions of it; the more specieus they are, the more dangerous it is to be milled by a Perfwasion of their being easily executed.

France can never confent to become a Province of Spain, and Spain will likewife think the fame in refpect to France; it is therefore our Business to take folid Meafures to hinder the Union of the two Monarchies; but we fhould abfolutely depart from the End proposed, and fhould fall into infinite Misfortunes, worfe, if it be possible, than what we would unanimoully avoid, if we act contrary to the fundamental Laws of the Kingdom.

According to the Laws the most near Prince to the Crown is of neceffity the Heir thereto, 'tis an Inheritance that he receives neither from the King his Predeceffor, nor from the People, but from the Benefit of the Law: So that when one King dies, the other fucceeds him forthwith, without asking the Confent of any Perfon whatfoever. He fucceeds not as Heir, but as the Mafter of the Kingdom, the Seignory whereof belongs unto him, not by Choice, but by Right of Birth only.

He is not beholden for his Crown, either to the Will of his Predeceffor, or to any Edice, nor to any Decree, nor to the Liberality of any Perfon, but to the Law. This Law is looked upon as the Work of him who hath eftablished all Monarchies, and we are perfwaded in France, that Go D only can abolish its

Nº XVI. Whitehal, March 23d 1711. V.S. Mr. Secretary St. John to Monsteur de Torcy.

SIR,

Was answering your Letter of the 20th of this Month N. S. the Day before Yesterday, when a Courier brought me that of the 28th, with a Memorial of the fame Date.

The Queen believes Mr. Gaultier will have given you Satisfaction upon the Points contained in the first, and Her Majesty has commanded me, without loss of Time, to communicate to you Her Sentiments, in regard to the Article of the Union of the Two Monarchies, upon which your last Dispatch generally run.

The Facilities which have been received from hence, for the Conclusion of a General Peace, have been expected from the Queen, or than any other Power could have contributed. The first Motive that Her Majesty had to make all these Steps, has been a firm Trust, founded upon the fo often repeated Affurances, on the Part of His Most Christian Majesty, that he would confent for take all the Measures necessary to hinder for ever, that Union of fo ill Confequence to all Europe.

The Expedient that Mr. Gaultier has been inftructed to propole, is the only one which feems to the Queen capable of giving the leaft hope of preventing this Inconveniency, and Her Majefty observes, that the Proposition contain'd. in your Memorial, does but confirm and make the Queen and Her Allies Parties to a Plan which has been, and which is now more than ever the Object of their Fears.

It is not neceffary that I should enter into the Particulars of the Objections upon which we might infift. You are, Sir, of too clear a Genius not to fee them in their whole Extent and Force. The Queen relies too much upon the Equity of the King your Mafter, and the fincere defire he has always fhewn for a General Peace, to be capable of imagining, that he will require her to content herfelf with a Surety of fo little Solidity as that proposed in the Memorial; or that the fhould fuffer that the Cafe might happen, that he that fhall be in pofieffion of the Crown of Spain, fhould have the Right to fucced to the Crown of France: Who would then affure us that this Prince would not make use of his Power to keep the one, and to acquire the other, rather than fhow a Moderation without Example?

We are ready to believe that you are perfwaded in France, that GOD alone can abolifh that Law upon which your Right of Succeffion is founded; but you will give Us leave to be perfwaded in Great Britain, that a Prince may depart from his Right by a voluntary Ceffion, and that he in favour of whom that Renunciation is made, may be juftly fupported in his Pretensions, by the Powers which become Guaranties of the Treaty.

In fhort, Sir, the Queen commanded me to tell you, that this Article is of fo great Confequence, as well for Herfelf as for the reft of Europe, for this prefent Age, as for Pofterity, that She will never agree ro continue the Negociations of Peace, unleft the Expedient She has proposed be accepted, or fome other equally fold.

I difpatch, however, a Courier to the Lords Plenipotentiaries, to communicate to them the Queen's Orders upon this Subject, and I muft tell you they cannot accept of any Plan for a General Peace, as reafonable as it may be in other Refpects, if they don't receive Satisfaction upon the means to hinder this Union.

It would be in effect, Building upon the Sand, taking unnecessfarily many Precautions to make a Peace, and not have prevented a Danger fo great and fo probable as this.

We fee with a great deal of Satisfaction, that you with this new Proposition thould be look'd on only as a first Thought; let us do what we can on each fide, that our fecond Thoughts may nearch meet, and let us not leave imperfect a Work which hath been to advanc'd, fpight of that vigorous and general Opposition.

<sup>1</sup> I am rejoic'd that the King has been pleas'd to recompence the Services of Mr. Gaultier, by giving him an Abbey. He will not fail to be useful at Utrecht, and what is certain, he will find the Queen's Ministers in the Disposition to fhorten the Negociation. I beg you would be perforded that I am, &c.

Mr. Torcy to Mr. St. John. 8th April 1712.

T Received by the Courier, return'd from London, the Letters you honour'd me with of the  $z_3^{d}$  and  $z_4^{th}$  of March, O. S. and observed with a great deal of Pleafure in the laft, that you thought the Conditions of the Treaty of Peace would be foon adjusted to common Satisfaction, if the means of preventing the Reunion of the Monarchies of France and Spain could be fettled and agreed on.

Reunion of the Monarchies of France and Spain could be fettled and agreed on. I believe, Sir, that it cannot be impossible to find out an expedient which all Europe is equally concern'd to fettle; and fince you do not altogether flick acthat which Mr. Gaultier proposd to me on your part, I hope fecond Thoughts upon this Matter may prove more fuccessful than the first. If it is not yet entirely to your Satisfaction, be pleas'd to communicate to me what may be added to it, or rather taken from it. In flort, let us labour earneftly and without prevention for the conclusion of a Work of fo great Importance as that of the Peace.

As the principal Difficulty which ftill oppofes the conclusion of it, is the trouble to find fufficient Security to prevent the dangerous Reunion of the Monarchies of France and Spain, the King propoles to confent by the Treaty of Peace, of which all the Powers of Europe fhall be Guarantees, that if ever the King of Spain, Philip V. or the Prince his Son, or any of their Children who fhall fucceed them to the Kingdom of Spain, becomes either the next and prefumptive Heir, or the Succeffor of the Crown of France, and prefers it to the Crown Crown of Spain, That of Spain fhall belong of full Right to the Prince whom' they fhall fix upon by the fame Treaty to poffers it; That not only King Philip fhall Sign and Ratify this Condition of the Treaty, but moreover that all the Powers of Europe fhall enter into an Engagement with France to maintain this Article; fo that if the Prince of the Houle of France, that fhall Reigh in Spain, has a mind to affert his Right to the Crown of France in the manner I juft now obferval, he fhall be obligd to Renounce his own Right, and that of his Defeendants to the Crown of Spain, to Depart from thence and to go to France with all his Children, Princes and Princeffes.

That if he prefers the Crown of Spain to that of France, or the Quality of Heir and immediate Succeffor to the Crown of France, he shall be obliged to Renounce in favour of the Line which shall follow nearest his own, and which shall remain in France, his own Right and that of his Children to the faid Crown of France; fo that in this onle, the Catholick King, or he that should Reign in his stead, should have the Choice as being eldest; but he cannot poffels the Two Monarchies together, or inherit that of France and leave Spain to one of his Children.

If you fhould ask, Sir, what Precaution must be taken to fettle fuch a Renunciation as I have laid before you, as being contrary to the Order effablished in France for the Succeffion to the Crown, I answer first, that there is no room to fuppose that the King of Spain would prefer the Crown of Spain to that of his Forefathers, for a thousand Reasons easy to comprehend, and too tedious to lay down.

Secondly, That if he was fo ill advis'd to make fuch a Choice, the fecureft Precaution would be what you infinuate in one of the Letters you honouted me with, viz. a folemn Engagement which all the Powers of Europe fhould enter into by the Treaty of Peace, to maintain a difficient made with the View of preferving the general Liberty and Repole of Europe.

View of preferving the general Liberty and Repole of Europe. Since the Claufe of the Will of the late King of Spain, Charles II. which appoints the Duke of Berry, appears rather a new Obstacle to the Peace, than an Expedient capable of preventing the Union of the Two Monarchies, it feems necessfary to confent that the King of Portugal possible himself of the Crown of Spain, as foon as the King of Spain should be call'd to the Succession of France, and thould prefer it to the Crown of Spain.

The Marriage of the King of Portugal with a Princels of the Houle of Austria would countenance the disposition to be made in favour of this Prince; but if it be not convenient to think of him to be King of Spain, they may on the fame Foundation choofe that Prince who would marry one of the Arch-Ducheffes, Daughters of the Emperor Joseph.

In thort, the Duke of Savey being nominated by the Wills of the late Kings of Spain, in default of the Houfe of Auftria, he may likewife be chofen; but as a King of Spain, Matter both of Piedmont and Savey, would be a dangerous Neighbour to France; the King would find himfelf obliged to demand for a Barrier, not only the Refitution of Exiller and Fenefireller, but even the Ceffion of Savey and the County of Nice.

To fettle more firmly the Tranquility of Europe, it may be agreed upon by the Treaty of Peace, that the Measures taken to prevent the Union of the Two Monarchies be received and confirmed by the Courts, or States of the Kingdoms of Spain.

I with, Sir, this Plan may be agreeable to the Intentions and Sentiments of the Queen of Great Britain, and I cannot but hope to, fince it is your own Thought to guaranty the Renunciations by the Powers who fhall fign the Treaty of Peace; and no better Care can certainly be taken to confirm the validity of these Acts, than to flipulate them by a folemn Treaty, of which all Europe is concerned to back the Execution.

The King orders me to acquaint his Plenipotentiaries of what I have the Honour to write to you; and I hope, Sir, that the good Understanding and Corsrefpondence between His Majeffy and the Queen of Great Britain, will daily encrease in fuch a manner, that the Enemies to the Peace fhall have no room to triumph. You will have the pleasure to filence fuch as are fo; and I define no lefs the fatisfaction of finding opportunities to affure you how truly I am, &c. De Torey.

Mr. St. John to Monsieur De Torcy, April 6. 1712.

Answer now the Letter which you did me the Honour to write to me the 8th Instant, N. S. and which I receiv'd by the fame Messenger who brought me your former.

Be affurd, Sir, that we will go on vigoronfly, and without prevention, in accomplifning the great Work of the Peace, the Conditions whereof will foon be fettled to the common Satisfaction, provided we agree on the Means to prevent the Union of the two Monarchies of France and Spain. You fee, Sir, 1am still of the fame Opinion.

Bach of our Alles has his own private Ends; they are not all perhaps limited within the Bounds of Reafon; there are feveral befides; inconfiftent one with another. It is not necellary thele Points fhould be fo firidly taken notice of; and reciprocal Condefcentions will not fail reducing all thefe Differences to a just and reafonable Medium. But the Article concerning the Union of the two Monarchies, is of that Nature and Importance, that the leaft faile Step in it cannot but prove fatal; and all the Advantages that could poffibly be flipulated, would be paid for too dearly, in accepting of an Expedient too weak to obviate for real a Danger.

I must confeis, Sir, that fecond Notions prove better than the first; and that they clear up many Difficulties, at the fame time that they diffipate most of our Apprehentions. To avoid all Equivocation, and to prevent the least Mifunderfitanding on to nice a Subject, you'll give me leave to explain in what Senfe her Majefty takes the Words you make use or, and the Scheme you offer by the King's Order. You propose then, that the Prince, who at prefent reigns in Spaim, shall not wait, according to your former Plan, that the Crown of France falls to him, for to chuse which of the two he likes best; but that as foon as he becomes either immediate Succeffor of the Grown of France, or prefumptive Heir, he will be oblig'd to declare his Choice, and you fettle the fame Rule for his Isfue.

Now, Sir, the Queen thinks the Objection which has been made to your former Propolition, may in fome measure take place as concerning this: For in either of the two Cafes you lay down, how will Europe be certain that fuch a Choice will be made? All the Powers, you'll fay, will be Guarantees of that Convention; fuch a Guaranty indeed may form a Grand Alliance, to wage War against the Prince who will offer to break the Conditions of the Treaty; but we feek the Means rather to prevent than support new Wars.

Finally, Sir, must not one confeis that there appears no Expedient effectually able to fecure Europe from the Dangers wherewich it is threaten'd, by the Union of the two Monarchies, unlefs the Pr.uce, who at prefent is in possible of Spain, makes his Choice at this very Instant; and unlefs, according to that Choice, the Order of the two Successions be fettled in the General Treaty of Peace?

Her Majefty remarks with very great Pleafure, that this Plan does not much differ from that which his Moft Christian Majefty has caus'd to be communicated to her. Let us, in the first place, argue, if yon pleafe, on the Supposition, that the above mention'd Prince will chufe the Crown of his Ancestors preferably to that of Spain.

There is in nature but one Cafe alone, that may happen to render our Propofal lefs advantageous to him than yours.

Pardon me, Sir, if I make two Suppositions, very difagreeable, but necellary for the better underflanding the Queftion: We are examining if the young Dauphin should chance to die, the Prince we are talking of would be immediate Suceffor of the Crown of France; in this Cafe then he can lose nothing in chuling the Crown of France now aforchand.

His Most Christian Majelty (whom God preferve for many Years) happening to die, the same Prince would be prefumptive Heir of the Crown of France. In this Cafe how should he be a Lofer, in making his Choice as the Queen desires? Can it be faid he runs the hazard to quit Spain, without gaining France? You see, Sir, he would be exposed to the same inconveniency by your own Scheme. From all that I have faid, the Queen's Opinion is, Sir, that it follows, It will equally be advantageous to the Prince now in question, to chuse the Crown of France at prefent, or to do it is any of the two Circumstances fet down in your Letter: and you will be *1 doubtless convinc'd, that the Security of Europe will be establish'd infinitely better one way than the other.

If we argue on the Soppofition, that this Prince will chufe the Crown of Spain, it is beyond diffute, in the First Place, That it is much better for him and for us, that this Declaration should be made during the Congress at Utrecht, than at any other time. Secondly, That the Guarantee of the Powers of Europe will be much abler to prevent his Return to France, contrary to the formal Requestion. that he shall have made of this Right, than to force him to quit a Crown, whereof he will be in poffettion, and to depart from a Pretention which he has not renounc'd.

I have, as clearly as poffible, laid before your Eyes, Sir, the Queen's Thoughts on the Contents of your laft Letter; her Majefty feets but the common Safety, the Most Christian King has the same Views. In God's Name, to be over-nice in the Negotiation, let us not lofe those Benefits which we are ready to reap. Let the King your Malter, and the Queen my Miltrefs, fhare in the Glory of giving Peaceto Europe; and let those, who are defitous to break the Conferences by the Events. of the Campaign, find their Projects overturn'd, by the speedy Conclusion of the Treaty.

On one hand, his Most Christian Majefty may fecure the peaceable Possession of the Crown of Spain to his Grandfon; on the other hand, he may fitrengthen the Succeffion of the Crown of France, for ever prevent the Union of the Empire-with Spain, and procure to his Kingdom very confiderable Advantages : on both fides he may fet Europe free from Appreheufions and Fears, and perfect a Work as glorious as that of a definitive, fecure, and lafting Peace.

By the Letters of Mefficurs the Plenipotentiaries, dated the 12th inftant, N.S. I understand we are to expect, within a few days, the Arrival of Monsieur Gaul-tier, and that he is to bring with him a Plan of the General Peace which was form'd at Utrecht. We hope his Most Christian Majesty will explain himself on that Subjeft, after fuch a manner, as the Queen may make the necessary Declarations to fecure the Succefs of our Negotiations. I'll tell you, as a Man who most fincerely wifnes for Peace, that the Condescensions that may be expected from the Queen, depend on the Refolution which will be taken concerning the Grand Article of the Union of the two Monarchies. 1am, Oc. 1. ## Monfieur Torcy to Mr. St. John, April 26. 1712.

HEY eafily agree, Sir, where Intentions are fincere, and Defires equal on both fides to arrive to the fame End. I observ'd with a great deal of Satiffaction, by the Letter you honour'd me with of the 6th Instant, O. S. that the Plan I propos'd to you, has clear'd feveral Difficulties, and diffipated many Objec-tions. I hope likewife, that the Anfwer you return'd in it, will perfect the Work begun.

According, Sir, to what you writ me, the only Difference there is between the Proposition I made to you by the King's Command, and the Project of the Queen, depends entirely on the Time when the King of Spain shall declare the Choice he intends to make, either to maintain his Right to the Crown of France, or keep that of Spain.

In my Proposition, the making his Choice was refer'd to the Time, when this Prince flouid become either immediate Succeflor, or prefumptive Heir of the Crown of France: and the fame Condition was observed in respect of his Progeny. You observe, Sir, that in deferring till then, a Choice fo effential to the Tranquillity of Europe, it cannot be certain that there will be one made, if ever fach an unhappy occasion should happen, that the Guaranty of all the Powers, who shall be concern'd in the Treaty, shall form a fufficient Alliance to declare War to the Prince who should violate the Conditions of the Peace : but the End that ought at prefent to be propos'd, is, to hinder the renewing of the War, and not to feek Means to support those which should arise upon this occasion.

You then conclude, that to prevent the Reunion of the Monarchies of France and Spain, it is necessary that the Catholick King should now declare his Choice, without without waiting the unhappy Event, which we hope will never happen; but that it mult, in the mean time, be fupposd, and Care taken, that this Choice may effablish the Order of the Soccellion, by the Treaty of the General Peace. Your Offervations, Sir, and the Confequences which may be drawn from them, are equally just; the Catholick King mult calm the Uncafinets of Europe, in de-clasing at prefeat what Part he will take, if ever the Succellion of France is open in his Favour. Indeed it will be perhaps fome Uncafinets to him, to declare at prefeat to the Samiarde, that he would abandon them, and you to France. prefent to the Seaniards, that he would abandon them, and go to France, if one of the two Cales, which you fappofe, fhould happen. A Nation, uncertain of the Mafter the shall have, may prove lefs faithful to him that actually reigns; but this Inconveniency ought to fubmit to the General Good. Thus, Sir, the King approving your Proposition, dispatches a Courier to Spain, and writes to the King his Grandfon, to let him know the necessary of refolving on the Choice he will make, and declare it, to the end it may be inferted 'in the Treaty of the General Peace, and that, it may be made a Condition of it, whereof all Emope thall be Guarantee.

I hope, Sir, the King of Spain will conform himfelf to the Council of the King ; but if it fhould happen, what I cannot believe, that he will not fubmit to it, his Majefly will take all the Meafures the Queen of Grees Britsin fhall judg proper, to determine of Necessity, and even by Force, the Choice of the 'King of Spain, and to fecure to Europe the Peace, which at prefent appears fo far advanc'd. I am confident there will no occasion be given of coming to fuch an Extremity;

but the King is willing I should inform you of his Resolution in this Matter, as being a new Mark of the fincere and true Defire of his Majefty, for the ready Concluion of a fafe and folid Peace. I look upon it at prefeat very much advanc'd, and that the principal Difficulty, which might fill render it more acceptable, feems remov'd; but in the mean time, we mult expect new Difficulties from those who would willingly break the Conferences. I believe the best way to subvert their Defigns, would be for the Queen of Great Britain to propose immediately a Suspenfion of Arms, for they ground their Hopes on the Event of the Campaign. And as I find, by your Letter, that her Britannick Majefty is dispos'd to make the necellary Declarations for establishing the Success of the Negotiations, it is my Opinion, that the Proposition of a Suspension might make part of those Declaration, I have detain'd Mr. Gaultier here some days longer than he ought to have flaid, in expectation of your Anfwers, thinking it necellary he flould be inform'd of your Sentiments before he fets out for England; he will inform you, Sir, of the King's Intentions on the Demands of your 'Allies. I hope, that as the most difficult Point is now regulated, you will have Respect only to the Justice and Solidity of the Peace; and that the Queen of Great Britain, acting by these great Motives, will give the last Marks of the Defire the has to establish with the King a perfect good Correspondence. I received, Sir, by the fame Courier, the Letter you honour'd me with of the 11th Instant, O.S. I am very forry for the Indisposition of my Lord Treasurer, and earnefuly with his immediate Recovery. It is very reasonable that those who have had, like you and him, the principal Part in the Management of the Peace, should have the Honour to bring it to perfection. I hope we shall soon fee the Succefs of it, and defire you will believe that, at all times what foever, no one shall be with greater Truth than I am, Sir, Oc.

"HE Plan you propos'd, in your Letter of the 8th of April, appear'd to us to remove many Difficulties, and diffipate divers Caufes of Fears; but by reason of having misunderstood the lutentions of the King, and ill explain'd those of the Queen, we now find our felves farther than we had hoped, from agreeing upon the Grand Article of the Peace

It is very true, that the only Difference there is between the Proposition you made me by the King's Order, in the Senfe we comprehended it, and that which I fent fant you by Order of the Queen, relates only to the Time when the Prince in queta tion shall make his Choice, either to preferve his Right of the Grown of France, by renouncing that of Spain, or to keep that of Spain, by renouncing that of France, by But you do not propose therein, Sir, that the Execution shall accompany the Choice, which is absolutely necessary to render this Peace definitive.

Choice, which is abfolutely necellary to render this Peace definitive. The Abbot Gauttier explains quite otherwife the King's Intentions ; and Pobferve that you fay the Prince, who relgos in Spain, mplf calm the inquietde of Europe, by declaring now the Part he will take, if the Succession of France Hever open'd in his Favour. After this manner our great Work will not be mach advanc'd by the laft Proposition.

If we had underflood it according to the Explication that you now give it, you fee, Sir, that we fhould have fallen into a very great Ahfurdity; fince in releasing your Project, we fhould have fallen into a very great Ahfurdity; fince in releasing we made, and which were found even in Franci half and well founded; would may equally taken place. For the the Prince, who reighs in spain, makes this Choice from this time, what greater Security hall Europe have, if the Execution of this Choice is refer'd to another time? In offering that he fhall be oblig'd to declare his Choice from this time, you are already agreed that neither the Stipulations of a Treaty, nor the Guarantee of the Powers digged in this War, can be capable to fecure that the Choice that he field that he cafes that happen that we are with Regret oblig'd to forefee, and to filppole, he will guit one Grown to hold another, according to the Choice that he find have made, and which fhall have been inferted in the Treaty of the General Peate?

The Queen has often declar'd that it would be impossible for her to be contented with any Expedient, which was not very folid, touching an Article of fo great Importance as that of the Re-union of the Two Modarchies. To do other wife, would be to lofe the Fruits of all the Blood the Allies have fplit in the Courfe of this War; it would be at last to betray the Common Caufe of Europe, and to expose the prefent Age, as well as those which are to come, to one of the greatest Dangers that the Imagination can form. Her Majefty fincerely defires the Peace, She defires it reafonable for France whith

Her Majelty fincerely defires the Peace, She defires it reafonable for France, but to come to this lifue, the Interest of France must not be render d inconfistent with the General Security.

It must be done fo as the time can never happen, in which the fame Prince fhall have both the Crown of Spain upon his Head, and his Succession open to that of France.

If this Prince, of whom we fpeak, is not contented with Spain; or if France will not, in passing him by, too much weaken their Succession; must we for this Reason, the Peace being made, take up Arms, and be in a continual Apprehension of seeing the War renew'd? The Queen can never confent thereto, and Her Majesty thinks there is not one of the Allies who will submit to so hard a Condition.

To fhew nevertheless that fhe is ready to contribute all in her Power to fatisfy his most Christian Majesty, without wounding her Honour, and without factificing her Interess and those of her Confederates, the Queen orders me, Sir, to propose to you an Expedient, by which King Philip may preferve his Right to the Crown of his Ancestors, and find a Recompence for Spain, which in this case he shall be oblig'd to abandon.

Her Majefty therefore propofes, That this Prince does immediately retire with his Family out of Spain; That the Dake of Servey do transport himfelf thither at the fame time with his, and take possible of that Monarchy and the Indies; That King Philip may enjoy the Kingdom of Sieily, the Hereditary Countrys of his Royal Highness, with the Montferrat, Mantuan; and in cafe he fucceeds to the Crown of France, That Sieily returns under the Obedience of the House of Auftria, but that the other Countrys may remain to him, and be hereafter looked upon as Provinces of France. The Queen would defire that this Proposition might appear to come from his most Christian Majefty, to be an Effect of his Moderation, and a Sacrifice that he is willing to make, to draw Europe out of the Diforder it is now in, and to re-effablish the General Tranquillity.

Her Majefty thinks the has now given all the Facilities in her Power to conclude the Peace, and hath asked nothing but what is necessary for accomplifting that Promife which the most Christian King made, when he declar'd himfelf ready to take all just and reasonable Measures to hinder the Crowns of France and Spain from being ever re-united upon the Head of one and the same Person.

The Queen commands me to add, That the hopes the Proposition I have made, by her Order, will be accepted; but however the infifts that the Answer you fend me be categorical and final.

The Circumstances we now find our felves in, as well as the Seafon of the Year, do not admit that we remain any longer in Uncertainty, whether we shall have War or Peace.

The Parliament, to whom her Majefty hath promifed the Communication of what the would treat on the Subject of Peace, will become impatient, and the Queen cannot excuse her felf from communicating to them the Aniwer the fault receive to this Letter. The Armies are in the Field, and the Events of one day's time may entirely change the face of Affairs: how much foever difpofed the Queen: is to facilitate the Negotiation of the Peace, and to fave the Effusion of Blood, the cannot however declare for a Suffention of Arms, before the knows the Refolution of the most Christian King upon the Expedient proposid to prevent the Re-union of the two Monarchies.

If I tell you nothing, Sir, touching the Plan of the General Peace, which the Abbot Gaultier also brought us, 'tis becaufe the Queen does not look upon the Differences which it coutains as too difficult to be adjusted, provided the Artlicle of the Re-union be once passed i, and because if we are not happy enough to funceed in treating of this Expedient, it would be but a needless Trouble to negotiate upon other Points. I am, or c.

hing ready Have received the Letter you did me the favour to write to me of the roth Inftant, and am very forry to fee there was fo great difference, as you tell me, between the Proposition you made me by order of the Queen, and the Anfwer the King commanded me to make to you i for want of understanding one another, we have onhappily lost a time, of which every moment is precious; and now we must have a new Decision from the King of Spain opon a Plan which had been proposed to him in a different Senfe to what you understood it.

I confeis, Sir, I fhould fear that this Explication would produce new Difficultys at the Court of Madrid, If the King had not refolved to furmount all the Objections her-Majefty can make upon an Article which is to be the Bafis of the Peace, and likewife to facrifice the Interests of his House for the Re-establishment of the publick Tranquillity.

<sup>3</sup>Tis therefore to remove these Difficulties, that the King now makes two Propositions to the King his Grandson: First, To renounce by the Treaty of Peace, for himself and his Descendants, all his Right to the Crown of France, and content himself with Spain and the Indies.

The Second, To preferve his Right to the Crown of France, but at the fame time to yield Spain and the Indies to the Duke of Savoy, and content himfelf in Exchange with the Countries the Duke of Savoy now pollefles; that is to fay, with the Principality of Piedment, the Dutchies of Suvoy and Maniferrat, and County of Nice. Laftly, to keep the Kingdom of Sicily, whereof the Catholick King now is Mafter. Provided always that if he fhould one day come to the Crown of France, he fhould keep only the Countries now belonging to the Duke of Savoy, and that in this cafe the Kingdom of Sicily fhall belong to the Houfe of Aufriant of the sound of the second at prefent know the Intentions of the string his Grandfon, upon one or the other of these two Alternatives; but we think unavoidably waits for the Return of the Courier that his Majefty diffpatches to Madrid.

He has commanded me nevertheleis to affare you, that the Treaty of Peace Thall be made upon the Bafis of the one or the other of these two Propositions ; wit, Either the King of Spain fhall renounce his Right to the Crown of France, to this is the second keep only Spain and the Indies; or that he fhall confent to the Exchange of Spain and the Indies with the Effates of the Duke of Savoy, on the Conditions I have now acquainted you with. You are therefore, Sir, to look upon what I write to you by the King's Order, as the final Answer that you defire, and which ought to remove all Uncertainty upon the Peace, or upon the Continuation of the War. It is probable, Sir, that the Peace would ftill be more certain, if a Sufpension or Arms could be agreed upon on both fides, and might, fince at prefent each fide may well expect for an happy Conclusion : but it must be left to the Prudence of the Queen to examine what she shall think most agreeable to the general Good, which the defires as much as any Perfon.

It would be very fad, if any Event should happen during the Campaign to diftorb the good Difpositions which are now apparent for establishing the publick I ranquillity. I hope, Sir, you will very foon give the laft Hand thereto; and I pray you to believe, that no one can honoar you more perfectly, nor be more truly than I am, Sir, Oc.

The Queen will confent to a Sufpension of Arms for the Term of two Months; upon condition,"

That in the faid Term, the Article which relates to the Reunion of the two Monarchys shall be punctually and entirely executed. That is to fay, Either that King Philip shall renounce in that Term, for himself and his Descendants, his Rights to the Crown of France ; and shall confent that his Remunication he inferred in the Treaty for a future Peace : or that in this Term he shall leave Spain with his Family, yielding up that Kingdom and the Indies to the Duke of Savey, on the Conditions mention'd in my Letter of the 29th of April, O.S. and accepted by that from M. de Torty of the 18th of this Month, N. It being understood, that in this cafe his most Christian Majesty shall be oblig'd to demolish all the Fortifications of that Place, to fill up the Harbour, and deftroy the Sluices, in the manner the Queen's Plenlpotentiaries have required. III.

In case the States-General do consent to a Suspension of Arms at the same time with the Queen, it feems reasonable to grant them the liberty of putting a Garifou in Cambray, on the Day the faid Sufpension shall have its effect.

CILING WEATH A LOUGE AND ARTICE I.

11 · >B ·

· 1.5. 10 The store and a series and the series of the

HIS Majefty confents to yield to the Queen of Great Britain the life of Nem-foundland, with the City of Placentia, as now fortify'd; but the Artillery and Ammunition with which that Place is provided, fhall be taken from thence, and hall not be comprehended in the Ceffion which fhall be made of that Place, and of the liftand, for they are not to be eltern'd as belonging either to the one or the other t and to use a common Comparison, one may look upon the Artil-lery and Ammunition of a Place as Movables of an House, that a private Man. carries away with him when he yields that fame House by a voluntary Contract.

The lifes adjacent to that of Newfoundland were neither demanded nor promifed by the Articles fign'd at London in the Month of Ottober laft: As these Articles have ferv'd as a Rule in the Beginning and in the Progress of the present Nego-tiation, the King's intention is to follow exactly the fame Rule, as the most fure one to come to the Conclusion of the Treaty; and his Majeffy is perfuaded that the Queen of Great Britain, faithful to her Word, will not infift upon a new Demand, and which does not appear in the Convention fign'd in the Name of that Princels. in hyperterin as lies in at The The

The King is willing to add to that Convention the Ceffion of Acadie according to its antient Limits, as it is demanded by the Queen of Great Britain.

The Articles fign'd at London referve to the Subjects of the King the Power of Fifting and Drying of Cod-Fift upon the lile of Newfoundland., A Disposition made and agreed to, can neither be reftrain'd, nor receive any Alterations but those which are reciprocally judg'd to be conformable to the common Advantage

Upon this Foundation the King offers to leave to England the Artillery and Ammunition of Placentia, the Ifles adjacent to that of Newfoundland; to forbid the French the Liberty of Fifting or Drying of Cod-Fifth upon the Coaft of that Ifle, likewife upon that part call'd the Petie-Nerd; to add to thefe Conditions the Ceffion of the lifes Se. Martin and St. Barthelomen adjoining to that of St. Chriftopbers : if for this new Offer the Queen of Great Britain confents to reftore Acadie, of which the River of Se. George fhall hereafter make the Boundaries, as the Englife heretofore pretended to it.

It is therefore at the Choice of the Queen of Great Britain, either to keep to the Articles fign'd at London; or to accept the Exchange that his Majefty propofes. In this laft Cafe his Majefty will endeavour to facilitate all that fhall depend on him, to conclude the Affair of the Ranfom of the Ifland of Nevis to the fatisfaction of England. HI.

As the perfect good Understanding that the King propuls to establish between his Subjects and those of the Queen of Great Britain, will, if it please God, be one of the principal Advantages of the Peace, we mult remove all Propositions capable of distorbing this happy Union: Experience has made it too visible, that it was impossible to preferve it in the Places poffefs'd in common by the French and English Nations; to this Reason alone will furfice to hinder his Majefty from confenting to the Propo-fition of leaving the English to posses the life of Cape Brees in common with the French. But there is still a stronger Reason against this Proposition; as 'tis but too often feen that the most amicable Nations many times become Enemies, it Is Pradence in the King to referve to himfelf the Polletion of the only life which will hereafter open an Entrance into the River of St. Lawrence; it would be ablo-lutely flut to the Ships of his Majefty, if the English, Masters of Acadie and New-foundland, ftill pollets'd the life of Cape Breton in common with the French, and Canady would be loft to France as foon as the War should be renew'd between the Two Nations, which God forbid; but the most fecure means to prevent it, is often to think that it may come to pais.

It will not be diffembled, but 'tis for the fame Reafon that the King is willing to referve to himfelf the natural and common Liberty as all Sovereigns have, to creet in the Ifles of the Gulph, and in the Mouth of the River of St. Laurence, as well as in the life of Cape Breion, such Fortifications as his Majefty shall judg necessary : These Works made only for the Security of the Country can never be of any Detriment to the neighbouring liles and Provinces.

It is just that the Queen of Great Brirain should have the fame Liberty to creft what Fortifications the thall think necessary, whether in Acadie, or in the file of Newfoundland: and upon this Article the King does not pretend to exact any thing contrary to the Rights which the Propriety and Possession naturally give to that Princefs.

The King is willing, thro a particular Confideration of the Queen of Great Britain, to leave to her the Cannon and Ammunition which shall be found in the Forts and Places of the Bay and Streights of Hudson, notwithstanding the strong Reafons that his Majefty may have to take them from thence, and transport them elsewhere.

Article of Commerce.

As the King fincerely defires that all Caufe of Division between his Majefty and the Queen of Great Britain should cease as foon as may be, it would be very agreeable to him to fee all Difputes relating to Commerce fettled at Urrecht between his Plenipotentiaries and those of England : But if it is impossible to remove the Difficulties about this Matter before the Conclusion of the Peace, rather than to delay it, his Majefty confents to the two Demands made in the Name of that Princefs.

To name Commiffaries who fhall, meet at London to examine and regulate the Duties and Impolitions to be paid in each Kingdom.

That France and England do reciprocally engage to give to the Subjects of both Crowns the fame Privileges and Advantages, with which any Nation whatfoever fhail be favour'd.

Article of a Sufpension of Arms.

E 37.

So fhort a Term as two Months will fill leave, to the Enemics of Peace, Hopes of being able to difturb the Negotlation before the end of the Campaign. The King, perfuaded of the good Intentions of the Queen of Great Britain, thinks it for the Common Good, to extend this Term to four Months.

It ought to be fufficient to compleat the furmounting all the Difficulties of the Treaty, the principal being already remov'd, by the firm Refolution that the King of Spain hath taken, to renounce for himfelf and his Descendants to the Crown of France, and to keep Spain and the Indies ; and this Renunciation fhall be inferred in the Treaty of Peace.

After having establish'd the Beginning and the Course of the Negotiation upon a good Failh and motual Confidence, of which the happy Effects are already felt, we mult bank all Diffruft, and even the Appearance of Sufpicion, when each Party comes, in their Propofal, near the End that both Sides propose to themfairs, The King leaves to the Equity of the Queen of England to judg, whether the Demand of putting an English Garifon lato Dunkirk, during the Sufpention of Arms, has nothing in it difobliging to him, and if the Publick would not look upon it as a Doubting his Majelty's Exactnets to fatisfy his Promiles. He knows that the Queen of England is very far from harbouring fuch a Thought, having received too many Proofs to the contrary. The King alfo having for a long time look'd upon the Queen as a Friend, notwithfanding the Continuation of the War, is perfuaded that the will defift from fuch a Demand, not only as being ufclefs, but capable of producing an Effect, contrary to the Intentions of that Princefs.

For it is certain the Aim her Majesty has, is only to ob ige the Dutch readily to give to the King an Equivalent for the Fortifications of Dunkers, which his Majefty promifies shall be demolish'd.

We must then overcome their Stubbornness, and let them see, that if they perfift, the Damage thereof shall fall upon themselves; but it is not threatning them, to declare to them that the English Troops shall keep the City, the Citadel, and the Forts of Dunkirk, till the States-General shall have given to the King an Equivalent, wherewith his Majefty shall be fatisfy'd. The King alone would fuffer by the new Obstacles they will raise against the Peace; and it is by contrary ways that that Republick must be constrain'd to become more flexible. As 'tils the King's true Intention to prefs the Demolition of all the Fortifica-tions of Durkick in general, his Majefty propoles, that immediately after the fighing of the Treaty of Peace with the Queen of Great Britain, a Body of English Troops that encamp under Dunkirk; and that those Troops, the Number whereof thall be fix'd, may jointly work with his, in razing all the Fortifications.

The Condition of filling up the Port, and ruining the Sluices, depends, as the King has explain'd himfelf, upon the Restitution that his Majerty has demanded of Tournay and its District. He renews again the same Engagement. The Ruin of the Stuces will occasion the Ruin of the Country adjacent to Dunkirk; Friends and Enemies will equally fuffer thereby. The King could wilh to fave this need-lefs petroction, which the Queen of Great Britain has not perhaps enough confider'd. His Majelty is willing that this be again offer'd to the Queen's Confideration, the he is refoly'd to do, upon this Article, what shall be most agreeable to that Princeis, for the Restitution of Tournay and its District. 111.

The Peace is neceflary to all Europe, the King defires it as a General Good, and his Majelty looks upon the Suffection of Arms as a Means almost necessary to at-tain it; but he would refute all Suffection, would break likewife the Negotiation. of Peace, if either the Suffension or Peace depended upon the admitting a Dutch Gariton into Cambray, during any Space of Time that may be. He will never con-fent to a Proposition fo contrary to his Honour, to his Interest, and to the Good of his Kingdom. Given at Marly, the 10th of June, 1712.

Letter from the States-Deputies to the Duke of Ormonde, June 4. 1712.

n of the C My Lord, HE States-General, our Mafters, have order'd us to reprefent to you, That it is with the greatest Surprize in the World they have receiv'd from us the News of the Declaration you have made, That you could not undertake any thing News or the Declaration you have made, I hat you could not undertake any thing before you had receiv'd Letters from England, and the Refufal you have made to concur to a Siege, or to a Battel. 'They have discriced us to acquaint you, That it's appears to them incomprehenfible and unanfwerable, that by this means Hold is not taken of the Advantage one has over the Enemy, both with refpect to the Quality and Number of the Troops, and with regard to the Situation of the Ar-mies; and that an apparent Opportunity is neglected of obtaining, with the Blef-fing of God, a great Advantage over the common Enemy: That this Oc. flop being once mifs'd, will perhaps never offer it felf any more; whereby the common Canfe will fuffer a Lofs which can never be renaird. Caufe will fuffer a Lofs which can never be repair'd.

Their High and Mightineffes cannot in the leaft comprehend, That the Order fent you can be fo general, as to bind you, on fo fair an Opportunity as this is, from annoying the Bnemy; but that it appears to them, That fuch Orders must be understood in a good Senfe, to temporize a little, in cafe the common Caufe does not thereby futer a confiderable Difadvantage, but not at all to fit idle in a Situation wherein Inaction takes away all hopes from undertaking any thing hereafter, and whereby confequently the Damage becomes irretrievable to the common Caule, fince the Army remaining fome time without doing any thing, the Horage is confum'd, and the Operations afterwards become not only very difficult, but even impracticable : befides, that time is left thereby to the Enemy to intrench themfelves, and to fortify their Country as much as they pleafe.

It is for all these Reasons, my Lord, that our Masters have enjoin'd as to per-fuade you not to do fo great a Wrong and Prejudice to the common Gause of all the High Ailies, as it would be, if you should perfift not to concur any way to the Operations of the Campaign, as the Reafon of War, and the prefent Situation of the Armies feem to require it. They have directed us to support the aforefaid Reafons, particularly with this, That the Army which you command, does not only confift of the National Troops of the Queen of Great Britain, but likewife for the molt part of the Troops in the joint Pay of her Majelty and the States, over which it is true, that the Command, as first and chief General, belongs to you; but as they are engaged by both Powers together, to make War, and to act againft the Enemy, they cannot be withdrawn from fo doing by you alone, without communicating the fame to their High and Mightineffes, and without their Approbation, unless one will aft contrary to the Treaties, and to the Ends for which they are engag'd. "They have likewife order'd us to represent to you, my Lord, that not only the Treaty of the Grand Alliance amongst the High Allies, but alfo perticular Treaties made between the Queen of Great Britain and their High and Migh-Tichiar Treates made between the Queen of orar brian and their Fign and Wign-tinefics, oblige her Majefly to carry on the War with Vigour; but that the Declara-tion you have made. That you cannot undertake any thing till further Order, at a time that, with your Communication and Approbation, the Army march'd in fight of the Enemy, and wherein all Circumfances feem'd favourable to undertake fomething, with probable Hopes of Success Such a Declaration, we fay, cannot be reconcild with the faid Treaties, nor with the repeated Allurances the Opeen of Great Britain was pleas'd to give their High and Mightireffes, as well by her Letters, as by the Mouth of the Earl of Scrafferd, her Amballador Extraordinary whereby the declar'd, That her Troops fould act with a much Vigour as thould be requisite for continuing the Warsh link or is a set of the ends of the term

This your felf, my Lord, being fent to that end hither, gave their High and Mightineffes the fame Affurance of, during your ftay at the Hague.

And that therefore they order us, to Summon you on the good Faith of Treaties and Alliances, and upon the aforefaid Affurances, to pufh on the Operations of War, and to annoy the Enemy as much as Pollible. But in Cafe you perfift anhappily in the Defigo not to Order Her Majefty's Troops to Act Offenfively; our Mafters Order us to ask you, my Lord, if you would make any difficulty to Employ the faid Troops to cover a Siege that might be undertaken : Provided alfo, you promife Politively to caufe them to A& againft the Enemy, if they should come to Attempt any thing.

In Cafe my Lord, of an unexpected Refulal, they have Charg'd us, to Proteft in the most Effectual Manner, and in the strongest Terms (as we do Solemnly by this) against the irretrievable Damage the State and their High Allies fuffer thereby, and against the prejudice the Common Cause undergoes by such Conduct.

And that they may know how to Proceed, we must ask you Politively, my Lord, wherein your Orders firially confift not to Aat, how far they reach, and how much one may depend upon the Troops of Great-Britain.

Finally, We require on their parts that no hindrance be given to the Troops in joint Pay, to Act according to the Reafon of War, in purfuance of the Treaties and folemn Engagements.

This, my Lord, our Mafters have Order'd us, to reprefent to you by word of Mouth. and in Writing, that all the World, and even Polterity may fee, That their High and Mightineffes, far from being guilty of fo great Detriment to the Common Caufe, as is the Inaction of this Day, have done all that lay in their Power to prevent the ill Confequences thereof, and that it must belong to others to Answer for the unhappy Events that might arife therefrom. We defire you, my Lord, that you will please to give an Answer in Writing thereupon, as Satisfactory and Speedy, as the Importance of the Affair and the Interest of all the High Allies require it : Written at the Camp at Avefne de Secq.

Whitehall, June the 20th, 1712. Mr. Secretary St. John to Monficur de Torcy.

SIR.

Nº. . 27.

Received the 14th of this Month, O. S. by ha Vigne your Dispatches of 22d of the fame Month, N. S. and I only waited for the Duke of Ormana's Letters to fend you my Anfwer. These Letters are Arriv'd this Morning, and at the fame time your Courier put into my Hands that which you did me the Honouc to write to me the 27th of this Month.

The Particulars which the Dake of Ormond gives of what has pais'd, are intirely Conformable to what you observ'd to me; and I have not fall'd reading all the Difpatches to the Queen. Her Majefty, Sir, commands me to tell you, that 'tis with the most sensible Displeasure, the fees that the Enemies to Peace find fill the means to retard lts Conclusion, in exposing the Negociation (which must lead us to it) to new, Difficulties and new Dangers. But as Her Majefty has taken a firm and immoveable Refolution, not to give way in any manner to the Obstacles which shall be raised; and on the contrary, to continue to labour jointly with the King to Re-eftablish the general Tranquillity, fhe doubts not but we shall be in a Condition to make abortive this last Effort of those, who would buy their Advantages, or fatisfy their particular Refentments, at the coft of prolonging the Miferies of the War. I believe when you shall have read over my Letter, you will be convinc'd of this Truth.

I have this moment been speaking by the Queen's Order to all the Ministers who are now here, whole Princes Troops are in the fole Pay of her Majelty, or in her joint Pay with the States. I have declared to them in the Name of the Queen, that fhe will look upon the Conduct of their Masters Generals, at this juncture, as a Declaration of those Princes either for or against her. Since nothing need be done to secure a Peace, but to follow the Plan which the Queen has made, or to follow that which the Emperor and the States General have formed to break the Negociations. That her Majefty could not perfwade her felf, that if they would once more Reflect on it, their their Generals would flick a Moment to obey the Orders of the Duke of Ormend. But I declared to them that if they did, her Majafty would furnish no more Pay to the Troops,

I have given them to understand that the Courier which I dispatch this Night to the Army, will carry the Letters which they thall think Proper to write to their General Officers, upon what I jok then told them, and that 'twas time they came to a Refolution, fince by the fame Courier the Duke of Ormond would receive the Queen's Orders not only to make the fame Declarations; but in Cafe they fhoeld Refuse to obey him, to put these Declarations in Execution.

The Queen, Sir, perfwades her felf that this proceeding will hardly fail of having its Effect. But the commands me at the fame time to Communicate to you the Refolution the has taken in Cafe fome of the Foreign Troops perfift to remain with Prince Engend's Army. In this Cafe the Doke of Ormond will retire with the English Porces, and all those that will march off with him, which will not be, I suppose, the leaft Part, and will declare that the Qneen will not Act any more against France, nor Pay those that shall. And her Majesty who till now has kept measures with her Allies, driven by them to fuch Extremity as this, will think herfelf juftified before God and Men, in continuing the Negociations either at Utrecht or elfewhere, without troubling herfelf if they concur with it or not. Thus, Sir, you may Affaro your felf, and I have Order to promife you in the Name of her Majefty, that if the most Christian King pats the Town, Cittadel, and Forts of Dunkirk into the Queen's Hands, notwithstanding all the Foreign Troops or part of them Refuse to obey the Duke of Ormond's Orders, and to retire with him, her Majefty will flick no longer to Conclude her own particular Peace, but leave to the other Powers a fett time to fubmit to the Conditions of the Plan which shall be agreed on by the Queen and his most Christian Majesty.

See here, Sir, the Peace is in the Hands of the King ; if the Duke of Ormond's whole Army confeats to the Sufpension of Arms, our first Project, on which we are agreed, has its Effect; if they do not Confent, the English Troops will draw shem-felves off from those of the Allies, and the Foreign Troops may address them-felves to the States General for their Subliftence, who very far from being able to fupply New Charges, are not capable to bear those they have already upon their Hands. In a word, Great-Britain retires from the Stage of the War, leaving there bone bat Powers in a weak Condition to make Head againft France, and the Peace between these two Kingdoms may be concluded in very few Weeks. These are, Sir, the Propofals which the Queen has commanded me to make you : And the believes that his most Christian Majelty will have his end, as much in the last as in the first Pien. If the King accepts these Propositions, the Queen thinks it Convenient for the Interest of both Nations, to labour incellantly for a general Suspension as well by Sea as Land, between Great-Britain and France, to follow that which shall be eftablish'd in the Low-Countries.

I fhall wait with Impatience the return of this Courier, for, Sir, I must agree with you that the Moments are precious is a Conjuncture like this. You'll difpatch at the fame time, if you pleafe, an Express to the Dake of Ormond that he may know what to Depend on, and how to behave himfelf. If you Signify to him that the King has given Orders to the Officer that Commands in Dunkirk to fuffer the Troops of the Queen of Great-Britain to enter the Place, the Duke of Ormond will immediately do what I have been telling you. And in this Cafe her Majefty will fend from hence fome Regiments to take Polifellion of the Place, by which means we fhall avoid many Obstacles that might be formed, if this fhould be done by a Detachment from the Duke of Orword's Army, as we had defign'd it should. Since I have wrote this Letter, her Majefty has taken a Refolation to fend the Earl of Swafford directly to the Army, and he will fet out to morrow in the Evening, or Sunday Morning at fartheft. 1 . .

No. 28.

Receive by la Vigne the Letter yon honoured me with of the 20th June, O. S. and as you impatiently expect his Return, knowing how precious every hour is in the prefent Conjuncture, the King Commands me not to loofe a Moment in fending him back to you. You will not be forry to fee him return'd, fince he carries for you his Majefky's General Approbation of the Queen's Demands you explained to me by your laft Letter.

You take Notice, Sir, of the Orders her Majesty has given to the Duke of Ormond. the Declarations he is to make, and the part he shall take to retire with the English Troops and all those that will march with him, if so be the King puts into her Majelty's Hands the City, Cittadel and Forts of Dunkirk, when even all the Foreign Troops actually in her Pay (either separately, or jointly with those of the States General) or a part of these Troops leparate from the English to continue under the Command of Prince Eugene. My last Letter, Sir, contained the just Reasons the King had to Expect that all Foreign Troops in English Pay should follow the Orders and Motions of the Duke of Ormond, as a necellary Condition for the performance of the Promife his Majelty made the Queen of committing Dunkirk to her Custody; but as it appears by your Letter that her Britannick Majesty in case of a Refusal on the part of her Allies, will no longer observe Measures with them, that she thinks herself justified before God and Man, not to scruple any longer the Conclusion of a particular Peace, leaving to the other Powers interested in the War, a Term to fubmit to the Conditions of the Plan she shall agree upon with the King, that this Peace may receive its Conclusion in a very few Weeks, and that Great-Britain enjoying a glorious Peace, will leave the whole Weight of the War to fuch Powers whom Animolity shall engage to Act against France, but who at rise fame time will be in too poor Condition to make Head against her. All these Reasons fo fully explained in your Letter, being agreeable to the Sentiments of his Majelty, have determined him to give his Orders for permitting the Queen's Troops to enter into Dunkirk. The Mellenger charged with these Orders is going to carry them to Marshal Villars as at the fame time I return la Vigne to you; and you may be Certain the Duke of Ormond will receive Advice of them to morrow the 6th of this Instant. I hope the Earl of Strafford will be with him at that time, and that the Conclusion of a good Peace, at least between France and Great-Britain, will immediately follow his Arrival at Utrecht. I beg leave, Sir, to make my Com-pliments to you on this Occasion, and do it with the greater Assurance in finding by your Letter that all Difficulties are furmounted.

The King, Sir, very well approves of your Propolition in agreeing immediately upon a general Cellation of all Holtilities between the two Nations, as well by Sea as Land. Those People who have fuffer'd for many Years the Burthen and Misfortunes of the War, cannot too foon talke the Sweetnels of the Peace. 'Tis my Opinion this Agreement ought to be figned at Utreebt, and I Suppole you will fend her Majelty's Orders to her Plenipotentiaries, unlefs you think fome other Method may fooner terminate this Affair.

'Tis with greater Satisfaction than ever, that I allure you no one can be with greater Truth, than 1 am, &c.

The Treaty for a Suspension of Arms between Great-Britain and France.

Nº. 29.

NNE by the Grace of God, Queen of Great-Britain, France, and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, erc. To all who that fee these Presents, Greeting. Whereas our Right Trufty, and Well-beloved Cousin, Henry Vilcount Balingbroke, Lord St. John, Baron of Lidiard Tregezc, of our Privy Council, and one of our Principal Secretary's of Stare, by Virtue of the full Power which we have granted him; and John Baptift Colbert, Knt. Marquis of Torcy Tory Creiffy, Sable, Bois-Dauphin and other places, Councellour of our most Dear Brother the most Christian King, Minister and Secretary of State, Commander, Chancellor, and Keeper of the Seals of the Knights of his Order, Post-Master General of France, by Virtue also of the full Power given him, have figured a Treaty of Suspension of Arms, the 8th of this instant August, O. S. 1712, in the following Words.

As there is Reafon to expect a happy Succeis of the Conferences held at Utricht, by the Care of their Britannick and most Christian Majellics, for the re-eftablifting a general Peace, and as they thought it neceffary to prevent all the Events of War which may diffurb the prefent State of the Negociations, their faid Majeffy's earnetfly defiring the Happinels of Christendom, have agreed upoa a Sufpension of Arms, as the most certain means to Obtain that General Good which they Propose to themfelves; and altho' her Britannick Majeffy has not hitherto been able to perfwade her Allies to enter into the fame Sentiments, the Refusal they make to follow them not being a fufficient Reafon for hindering his most Christian Majeffy, to flow by effectual proofs the defire he has to Re-eftablift as foon as possible, a perfect Friendship and fincere Correspondence between the Queen of Great-Britain and himfelf, and the Kingdoms, Dominions and Subjects of their Majeflies, his faid most Christian Majefty after having trufted the English Troops with the keeping of the Town, Cittadel and Forts of Dumkirk as PleJge of his fincerity, Confents and Promises, as the Queen of Great-Britain Promises also on her part,

I. That there shall be a general Cessation of all Undertakings and military Actions, and generally of all Hostilities between the Armies, Troops, Fleets, Squadrons, and Ships of their Britannick and most Christian Majesties, during the time of four Months, to Commence from the 22d of this instant August, to the 22d of December mext.

2. The fame Sufpension shall be established between the Garrisons and Troops, which their Majeflies have for the Defence and keeping of their Towns in all the places where their Arms are A@ing or may A@, whether it be by Land or by Sea, or other Waters, in fuch a manner as if it should happen, that during the time of the Suspension, the fame should be violated by any of the Parties, by the taking of one or feveral places either by attack, Surprize or private Intelligence in any part of the World whatfoever, that Prisoners should be made, or any other Acts of Hostility committed by some unexpected Accident, fuch as those which cannot be prevented, contrary to the prefer Cession of Arms ' This Contravention shall be faithfully made upon either fide without Delay or Difficulty, reftoring without the least Diffirmulation what stall have been taken, and setting at Liberty the Prisoners without asking any thing for their Ransom or to their Expence.

3. To prevent likewife all caufes of Complaints and Difputes which might arife npon account of the Ships, Goods or other Effects, which fhall be taken at Sea, during the time of the Sufpenfion, it is refpectively agreed, that the faid Ships, Goods and Effects which fhall be taken in the Channel and in the Northern Seas after the fpace of twelve, Days to reckon from the figning of the faid Sufpenfion, fhall reciprocally be reftored on both Sides. That the time fhall he of fix Weeks for the Prizes taken from the Channel, the British and Northern Seas to the Cape St. Vincent. And likewife of fix Weeks from and beyond that Cape to the Line, either in the Ocean or in the Mediterranean.

Finally of fix Months beyond the Line, and in all the other parts of the World, without any Exception or other more particular Diffinition of time or place.

4. As the fame Supenfion thall be observed between the Kingdoms of Great-Britain and Spain, her Britannick Majefty Promifes, that none of her Men of War, or Merthants Ships, Sloops or other Vefiels belonging to her Britannick Majefty or to her Subjects, thall be hereafter employed to Transport or Convoy into Portugal, Catalonia, or any of the places where they make War at prefent, any Troops, Horfes, Arms, Cloaths, and in general any Provisions and Ammunition.

5. However her Britannick Majeft y shall be at liberty to caufe Troops, Ammunitions, Provisions and other Neccifaries to be transported to the places of Gibraltar and Port Mahon of which the is actually in Posses and which the is to keep by the Treaty of Peace to be made; as also to withdraw from Spain the English Troops, and generally all the Effects belonging to her in that Kingdom, either to Transport them to the island of Minorea, or to bring them into Great-Britain, without the faid Transports being thought contrary to the Suspension.

6. Be

6. The Queen of Great Britain may alfor without violating the Sulpenfiond lend Her Ships to transport into Perugal, the Troops of that Nation which are at pre-lest in Carelonia, and to transport to Italy the German Troops, which are like wife in the dame Province...

7. Immediately after that this prefent Treaty of Sufpension thall have been declared in Spain, the King engages himfelf to have the Blockade of Gibrahar raifed, and that the English Garrison as well as the Merchants who shall be in that place, may freely Live, Act, and Trade with the Spaniards.

The Ratifications of the prefent Treaty fhall be exchanged on both fides within the time of a Fortnight or fooner, if pollible. In Teffimony whereof, and by Virtue of the Orders and Powers which we underwritten have received from the Queen of Great Britain and His most Christian Majefty, our Miftress and Master, have Sign'd these Prefents, and have canfed the Seals of our Arms to be affixed thereto. 2. . 1

Nº. 30.

N our last of the 30th past, We gave your Lordship an Account of the Dif-position things were in here to renew the General Conferences, and that the I next Day we were to know of the French when we were to begin ; we have fince fooke with them twice, the last time this Morning, but without coming to any Conclusion, they thinking it necessary to return fuch an answer to our Proposal, as appears to us to be contrary to the Honour of Her Majefty's Speech : The Cafe is this,

In Her Majefty's Speech it is expressed, That the Datch are to have the entire Barrier as demanded in 1709, except two or three Places at most.

The French Ministers infift, that they most have Lift, as an Equivalent for Dankirk, and that the fame is not to be underflood as one of the three Places mentioned in the Speech, and confequently that they mult in all have four of the Places mentioned in the Demands of 1705.

This to us appears to be altogether inconfiftent with what Her Majefty has declared, and we accordingly think it contrary to our Duty to bring on a Confe-rence in which fach an Explication is to be made. monthly have a stry of so bide the to be the solid set of the solid of the of the bill of the ann a channa ta gir i chu gir i chu sudd A sannyd radaid adgeard a la chu dhe arthe The Franch Ministers on the other Hand have filew'd us their Orders, which politively require them to infift upon the Reflictation of Tuirnay as well as Lifte, and that they by no means confect to the Ceffion of Multivize or Cuidd.

We have in vain prefied them to fpeak at first in Terms, as general as our Propofal is conceived in; they think it necessary to be particular and express in that Polar above all others, because they shall otherwise have ty'd themselves up, and given the Duteb an Advantage; the Refult of a very long Debate was, that we refolved not to proceed to a Conference 'till this Polat be determined, and as the Frence Ministers profess their Orders are so plain, that they neither need nor can admit any Explication: We also think the matter as plain on our fide, nor can conceive from whence the Expedient shall come.

We humbly hope our Zeal for Her Majefty's Honour will be gracioufly approved, and that we shall be directed what further we are to do in this matter, which we apprehend may be of a decisive confequence; for we find those among the Ducb who appear to be more cordially disposed to fuch a Peace; as may Reeltabilih a good Harmony between Her Majefty and the States, which they take to be absolutely necessary for our mutual Prefervation; we find them fully resolved either to retain Twirney and have Coundy yielded to them, (though we think, if Neceffity require, they may be perfixeded to let fall the latter;) or to take one of these two Courfes; namely, either to come into any Terms that Frame places, or continue the War at all Hazards; the former may in our Opinion, be more probable than the latter, the ints of Commerce being fo very easy to be accommodated, and other Equivale...s not fo very difficult. And if they should by fach a motive of Defpair get the fart of us, it may happen to leffen the confideration Frame now fhews for Her Majefty's Friendship.

We had wrote thus far when the French Plenipotentiaries defired to come to us, and being come, acquainted us, that they had just received Orders by a Courier about the Affront done to Monfieur Mefnager by Count Rechteren, which directed them to defire us to let the States General know, that His most Christian Majefty expects the States shall in a publick manner difavow the faid Count, and then remove him from the Congress; they added, that this Satisfaction is to precede any further Negotiation.

Lord Bolingbroke to the Lords Plenipotentiaries, September 10th, 1712.

Nº. 31.

INCE I wrote what is above, I have been obliged to defer difpatching my Letter, which has given me an Opportunity of feeing my Lord Lexington, who is refolved to be fetting out for Spain by the end of this Week; fo that I hope, his Lordhip will get to Madrid in good time to be there at the Affembling of the Cortes. Your Lordhips will, I prefume, think fit to correspond with him upon all Matters relating to your joint Negociation, and I believe the beft way will be to have your Correspondence pass through the Hands of Mr. Frier. I have given his Lordhip a Copy of the Cypher which was made for the life of the Foreign Ministers in any Province to write to another. Mr. Prior has likewife a Copy of the fame, fo that your Lordhips may by that means more courseliently carry on the Correspondence. I am now to speak to your Lordships concerning the dispute meation'd to be arise in yours of the Second of September, between your Lordships and the Ministers of France; it is certain, that at the time when the Oneen communicated from the Throne a General Sketch of the Projed of Peace, the French would have been glad, having Life as an equivalent for Dankark, to have fav'd Conde and Maubenge, and to have departed from Tournay; this your Lordships have Reasson to be feasible of as well as I; and you cannot but observe, that in the Plan brought hither by the Abbot Gaultier, the King of France bega for Townay, rather than infiles upon it; but smongft many other ill confequences which the unaccountable Obstinacy of the Dutch has produced, and will I fear continue to produce, this is one, that the French are encouraged to refule what they only endeavoured to fave. The Plan above-meationed was order flood to be nor thing more than the Ultimatain of the Offers of France, and atmost every Article in it might have been improved and built upon, if the Alles had then usualimoully refund the Conferences; but France has now gathered Strength by our Divisions, and is grown Sanguine enough to Re-eRablish the fame Plan as the Oltimatum of Her Concellions. I lay thus much to your Lordifhips, upon a Subject which is trite enough, only to introduce this Proposition, that the Date have no Body to blame but themfelves, as I believe your Lordinips once very justly told them, if their Terms of Peace thould fall fhort even of those contained in Her Majefty's Speech. Her Majefty, my Lords, is feasible of the concern which you express for Her Ho-nour, and will not, you may be face, fuffer fler felf to be a Party to any thing which may appear contradictory to what the has once advanced; but there is more in the prefent Cafe, and although perhaps the yielding of Tournay might be reconciled to the Terms of Her Speech, yet thould the Queen confent to this Exposition of it, foch coulent would be almost a formal Acquisicence to the Reftoration of this place to France, and this, my Lords, is what Her Majefty will avoid ; fhe will by no means fide with France, to tye down Her Allies in any Instance, and it is with the utmost Regret that the fees them perfevere in a Conduct, which mult neceffailly give the Enemy an Advantage over them; on the other Hand; the Queen thinks that whild they continue to refute to come into Her Measures, the is under no Obligation of entering very far into Concention for them. I hope, the Solution of this Difficulty will come from France, and that when they have fo many other Quarrels to decide, that Court will go back from a Measure, which most involve them in a dispute with the Qneen. I had almost forgot to fay, that I have Reason to think, that if the Dutch were come to some Confistency amongst themfelves, and it was certain what would bring them into the Peace, the French would be lefs Stiff on their Score.

Lord Bolingbroke to Mr. Prior, September 10th; 1712. O. S.

Nº. 32:

Was equally farbrized and vexed to find, that by the uncouth way of explaining the Queen's Senfe, you had been led to imagine, that it was intended, my Lord Lexington floold make any Difficulty of Seeing and Complimenting the King of Spain as fuch.

We spent above three Hours in penning Minutes yesterday upod this Head, which was long ago adjusted. I suppose the instructions will be at last clear, but my Lord Lexington having been present at the Debate, his understanding of the matter will make amends for any dark ambiguous Article which may be in them.

Datimouth is to communicate the Queen's Orders breit intering both the may be able to fatisfy the French Minifters, and they to prepare the Spanifh Minifters; however, I will venture to tell you in a few Words what I underftand is to be the measure of Lord Zexington's Conduct. As soon as he arrives at Madrid, he will notify his Arrival to the Secretary of State, he will when he fees this Minifter let him know, that the Queen has feut him thinker to Compliment the King in her Name, to be a Winels of the feveral Renunciations, and other Ads requisite to complext the Execution of the Article agreed upon as necessary to prevent the Union of the two Monarchies; that after this, he is to proceed to fet the fach matters of Commerce, and other Affairs as are for the mutual interest of both Nations, and fo take the Character of Ambaffadonr upon him; my Lord will at the fame time produce his Credentials, and give the Secretary a Copy of them. if he defires it. In this Conference he will forther take. Notice of the feveral Cef-fiens made by the King of France, in behalf of his Grandfon to the Oneen, and will freak of them as Points which he looks " you to be concluded. He will like-wife give a Memorial of them in Writing, fign'd by bimfelf, to the Secretary, and expectsfrom him an Affent in the King's Name in Writing allo, and Sign'd by the Secretary. att be

This feeus natural, civil, and unexceptionable; but any other Scheme is abfurd and inconfiftent with all the reft of our Proceedings. For God fake, Dear Matt. hide the Nakedneis of thy Coputy, and give the beft turn thy fartile Brain will furnish thee with to the Blanders of thy Country Men, who are not much better Politicians than the French are Poets.

I have writ in great hafte a prodigious long Letter to Monfieur de Torry, which, I believe, he will thew you; but for fear he thould not, I enclaie in this on Extract of pars of it, which relates to a matter that has given Lord Treasurer and your humble Servant no fmall Trouble in Cabinet. The Copy 'of the Plenipoten-tiaries diffat. of the 2d of September, which I likewife fend you, will fhew you how a diffate now on Foot at Utretebt begun; you will observe that their Lord-faips are very warm in it, and I can affure you we have those who are not a jot cooler,

The Solution of this Difficulty must come from you, it is matter of Management and Appearance, more than of Subftance ; and the Court of France muft be lefs Politick than I think them at any time, and more unreafonable than I think them at this time, not to come into a Temperament upon a matter unneceffarily flarted. You muft begin by making Monficur de Torcy not only to underfland, but own he underflands the Proposition which I am fure, he remembers, I more than once re-peated to him, when I was in France, upon various Occasions, and which I have again flated as clearly as I am able. The Queen can never do any thing, which shall look like a direct Refiraint on Her Allies from demanding what they judge necessary; but as long as they all the part, which they now do, he can very juliy be built and have built built being the part. be Paffive and Neuter as to their Interefts, and if Her Peace be, made before theirs, which the will not delay for them, the can with the fame Juffice leave them to make their own Bargain. This is Advantage enough for France, and fuch an one, fairly speaking, as a Year ago they would have given more than. Tournay to have been fure of, they must not therefore prefs us to go further than this, nor do any thing which may feem contradictory to what the Queen delivered from the Throne. That Speech they have always owned as the Plan they fabmitted to, and it varies but little from that brought hither by Gaultier.

In a word, the use which the French will make of the unaccountable Obstinacy of the Dutch and other Allies, may in feveral Refpects, and particularly for ought I know in this inftance of Tournay, give them ab opportunity of faving and gaining more than they could have hoped for, and the Queen may in the prefent Cir-comfrances contribute paffively to this End, but actively file never can in any Circumítances.

i think in my own Opinion, and I believe freak the Queen's apon this Occasion, that it were better the French flould in the Course of the Treaty declare, that whatever they intended to have given the Datch, when the Queen Spoke from the Throne, their Conduct has been fuch, and the Situation of Affairs fo alter'd, that the King is refolved to have Townay reftored to him; I fay, I believe this were better, than to expect that we should consent to an Exposition of the Orgen's Words, by which Her Majeffy would yield the Town up.

Let the Conferences begin as foon as they can, I dare lay, bulinefs will not be very fpeedly diffetched in them, in the mean time we fhall go on to ripen eve-ry thing for a Conclusion between Us and Savoy, France, and Spain, and this is the true point of View which the French ought to have before their Eyes.

You will be very thortly particularly and folly inftructed to fettle the Article of North America, and those points of Commerce fill undetermined ; that done, the Ministers may fign at Utrescht, as soon as they can hear from Lord Lexington.

My Lord Darimouth writes to you concerning a Clamonr which our Mer-chants have railed, as if under pretence of not carrying to Linkon or Barcelona des Provisions de Guerre ou de Bouche, they fusil be debarred from their vibal Traffick of Corn and Fifh, which at those Places there are great Demands for in time of Peace as well as in War, and without any confideration of the Armies; the Difficulty as to Linkon feems to be removed by the Poru-the C difpu Portuguese fubmitting to come into the Sufpenfion of Arms, and he propoles to you an Expedient as to Barcelone, but in truth that War mult be ended of course now, fince the Queen fupports it no longer, and the Dutch are recalling their Fleet from the Streights. The Duke of Argyle is going immediately now away, and the mo-tenent he course to Minorce he draws to him every thing belonging to the Queen ont of Gatalonia, the Imperial Troops must in my opinion that moment fubmit, and. compound for Transportation, and when the War is at an End, I think there can be no pretence of quarrelling with us for carrying our Goods to the People of the Countrey.

It is now three a Clock in the Morning, I have been hard at Work all day, and am not yet enough recovered to bear much Fatigue, excule therefore the confuded-nets of this Scroll, which is only from Herry to Matt. and not from the Secretary to the Minister.

Your Credentials of Minister Plenipotentiary will be sent you, together with your full powers by the next Boat, and before Duke Hamilton goes I will move to you from powers by the next boat, and before Date Ramitow goes I will move to have you removed to Unetch, which there will be a natural handle for, as foon as you thall fettle the points of Commerce, and in doing that, have given the laft ftroke to the finishing the Treaty with France. Make my Compliments to Madam Teriol, and let her know that I have, I hope, put her Affair into a way of being finished to her fatisfaction. # Lord BOLINGBROKE to Monfieur de TORCY, September the 10th O.S.

OUR Honour and Mine, which are equally dear to me, will be equally preferved I as long as we keep to that which I have had permiffion to tell you, concerning the Queens Intentions upon the General Plan of the Peace. You will remember Sir, I represented to you, that the Conduct of Her Majefty in respect to the Intereft of Her Allies, was in fome measure determined by their behaviour that the violent measures which they have taken to Thwart the Negotiation had the effect of putting the Queen in a condition of making the Peace without waiting for their concurrence, that in this cafe, Her Majefly wou'd declare to them, that She had Sign'd the Treaty with France and Spain, and that She would propose to them the Plan brought by the Abbot Gaultier, as that upon which they must make the Peace, and that for the future She would have them know, She could all no otherwise than by Her good Offices, as a common Friend to all Parties. You will also remember Sir, that I had the Honour to tell you, that in cafe the Dutch particularly, or the other Allies thould take care of the part of entring before the conclution of the Queens Peace, into concert with Her Majeffy, we must then keep the more mea-fures with them, the Compatition of the People in England would be moved, and the Ministers of the Queen be obliged to make Steps, which in the other cafe they would abfolutely refuse to do.

CARTER CONSTRUCT

You fee Sir, what I advanc'd in France by order of Her Majefty, and what I this day repeat by the fame Order, and what you will find punctually performed.

The Plenipotentiaries of the King, feem to require of Us fomething more, when they infift that the Queens Ministers should propose the holding a Conference which should be open'd by a Proposition, which appears in some measure contrary to what the Queen has faid in Her Speech, concerning the Barrier for the States, in the difpute that is arisen between Your Plenipotentiaries and Ours. The Queftion is not not to know whether Tourney thail be reftored to the King or not, for in order to obtain this Place, it is not necessary that you should begin in making this Specifick Declaration.

But the Queffion is to know whether the Queen fhould declare formally and from this time that Tourney shall be reftored to France, for that would be declaring a Confent to the Explanation which your Ministers would give to this Article of a Content to the Explanation which your winniers would give to this Argination which your winniers would give to this Argination which your would give to this Argination which you would give to find out an Expedient, I hope we shall avoid every thing that might occasion a Diffute between the Ministers of Great Britain and France. Naturalization from the King, fhall enjoy, when the Peace fhall be concluded, the Priviledge anner'd to the Favour which His Majefty has granted him.

The King is willing in regard to England, that this Affair should be regulated with the Empire, His Majefty not intending to derogate from the Treaties of Wefiphalia is to matters of Religion.

It is with a great deal of Trouble that the King has made the King of Spain confent to give Gibraltar to the English, the Intention of that Prince being, as he has declared himfelf feveral times, not to give an Inch of Ground in Spain. It will yet be more difficult to obtain from him the leaft Favour upon a point which is fo tender at prefent, they prefling him to renounce his Rights to the Crown of France, and that they will have him look upc . Spain as the only Patrimony that he can leave to his Posterity.

So that this new demand will certainly be refused, and the Power which His Majefty has received from the Catholick King is directly contrary to this Pretenfion.

As he has not explain'd himfelf upon the entire Ceflion of the Island of Minorca, the King is willing to imploy his good Offices to obtain it as a fort of an Equivalent for the Ground which the English now ask about Gibraltar; and from this time His Majefty promifes, that on this Account the whole Ifland of Minorca shall be yielded to them.

THE King will keep Stratburgh, which was yielded to his Majetty, not alone as a .Confequence Ceffion of the Alface gave him to that Town, but likewife for an Exchange for Pribourg, Brifae, and of the Right of Garifoning of Philipeburgh, which his Mujelly acquired by the Treaties of Wefiphaha and Nimeguen.

The Fortifications of New Prifac thall fubfift, this Place being necellary for a Barrier for France, when the returns Old Brifar to the House of Auftria.

There is no other interpretation to be given to the Treaty of Munster, as to the Polleffion of Alface, than the Meaning which was understood by the Am-baffadors and Ministers who Sign'd the Treaties of Nimiguen and Ry/wick:

The King and the King of Spain not only engaged to the Elector of Bavaria to reeftablish him in his Dominions, but also to make him an Amends for the Loffes he has fultained during the Courfe of this prefent War. It is on this Account that curing the Frontier of his Kingdom, requires that the King (hould keep the Town of Condé; and his Majelly will not relax any thing upon this Article.

Being he knows all the Confequences of it, he will be very fentible of the Pleafure which England will give him, in contributing that Towrnay and its Diffrict may be reftored, and caufing all Demands about Conde to be laid afide: And to give real Tokens of it to that Crown, his Majelty will oblige himfelf, that if Towrnay and its Diffrict are return'd to him, that all Demands about Conde be laid afide, and that he keeps that Place by the Peace. In this cafe he will confent, purely out of Regard to England, to fill up the Port of Dumkirk; tho' his Majelty being femfable of the Damage that this Article, fo ftrenuoufly demanded by the English, will be to him, has always refuled to agree to it.

He will moreover confent to demolifh the Fortifications of Burgh S. Dinox, with Fort François which belongs to it, and even, if it is neceffary, to yield this demolifhed Town to the Prince to whom the Netherlands fhall belong.

He will likewife confent to leave the Cannon and the Stores of War which fhall be found in the Piaces he will yield, on Condition that the Cannon and Stores of War do likewife remain in the Places which fhall be yielded to him, and belong to his Majefly.

The Agreement ought to be reciprocal, either to leave all the Artillery, and what belongs to it, in the Places which are to be yielded, as well on the King's fide, as on that of his Enemies, or to regulate the Quantity which shall be left in each of the Places.

The Renunciation which is demanded of the King, is a Claufe taken out of the Preliminaties of 1709. There would be many Reafons to refufe it, as unneceflary, and even as abfurd; but his Majefty is willing to agree to it.

Being the Principality referv'd of the Princes' des Urfini has no relation to the Publick Affairs, the King defires the Difficulty on this Head may be furmounted. in the Reign of Charles II. And as to that of France, it shall be as it is stipulat-

The King agrees to it.

Nº 35.

Instructions for our Right Trusty and Well-beloved Confin and Councellor Henry Viscount Bolingbroke, whom We have appointed to go to the Court of France.

ANNE R.

Y OU are immediately to repair to the Court of France, and being arriv'd there, to demand an Audience of his most Christian Majesty. You are to prefent to this Prince our Letter which is herewith delivered to you, and to acquaint him that We observe, with great Concern, that new Difficulties have atilen, and new Delays have been created in the Negotiation, which we thought on the Point of being concluded : That we have fent you over fully infitueted in all Our Intentions, and, fully authorized to treat and fettle every Thing necessary to remove the Obstructions which hinder the General Suspension of Arms from taking place: That you are likewife empower'd to concert with his Ministers the molt proper Means of preventing fuch other Differences as can be now forefeen, and of fettling the Treaty of Peace in fuch a Course as may bring it to a happy and fpeedy Conclusion.

You are to add the Affurances of Our earnest Delite to fee a perfect good Understanding between the Two Nations reftored ; and to the all other Terms of Civility, which may be proper, in Our Name. When you proceed to treat with the Minifters at this Court, you will begin, by acquainting them, that We have directed and empower'd you to conclude and execute the Convention for a General Sufferition of Arms by Sea and Land, between Us and France and Spain : And We do hereby Authorize you accordingly to agree to the fame for two, for three, or four Months, or to continue it till the Conclusion of the Peace.

But whereas We have not yet receiv'd Satisfaction in those Demands which We have thought fit to make in the behalf of the Duke of Savoy: And whereas the Settlement of the Term for the Sufpenfion of Arms mult in great measure be govern'd by the time, which the compleat Execution of the Article for preventing the Union of of the Two Monarchies of France and Spain, will require, you are therefore, before you fign the Convention aforefaid, to expect positive Aflurances that the Terms which we demand of France and Spain thall be made good to his Royal Highnels. and as far forth as possible to adjust and determine the Forms of the feveral Renunciations and Settlements.

As to the Barrier which his Royal Highnels demands and judges necellary for his Security on the fide of France, you are not required to infift to have those Articles immediately granted which have been hitherto peremptorily refus d by his most Christian Majefty; nor, on the other hand, are you to agree to any thing which may foreclofe the Duke of Savey from Negociating for himfelf. This Point We chufe to leave to be fettled between the Two Powers concern'd. But you will not fail to recommend to the French Minilters to haften the Conclusion of it, infinuating to them, that the' you can agree to the Suffeenfion of Arms without waiting to have this Barrier entirely fettled; yet that you do not imagine there will be any pofibility of prevailing on Us to fign the Peace with France and Spain, unleis full Satisfaction be given to his Royal Highnets, and unleis We can take him along with Us in the doing thereof.

There feems to be little or no difference between what has been propos'd from hence, and what is agreed to on the part of France, concerning the Right to be eltablifh'd in the Duke of Savoy and his Children, Immediately after Philip and his Children, to the Succession to the Crown of Spain and the Wess Median.

You are therefore to have this Article again explain'd, and to bring it as near as possible to the Terms made use of in the Memorial drawn by the Coum de Maffei upon this Subject.

Concerning the Ceffion of Sicily, you are to infift that it be made in the manner demanded by Us, and that this Aft as well as thole needlary on the precedent Head, be finished at the fame time as the Renunciations and Settlements of the Crowns of France and Spain thall be made.

You are to refute to confent to defer the actual Surrender of this Island to his Royal Highnefs till the General Peace: But you are at liberty to agree that he shall not take Polksion thereof, until his and Our Peace be made with France and Spain. In other respects, you will bring this Article likewife as near as possible to the Terms made ule of by the Count de Maffei in his Memorial.

It feems too indifferent to either fide, whether a formal Sufpenfion of Arms be agreed to between France and Savoy, or not to have this Matter much infifted on , and there may be fome Reafons why in Prudence the Duke of Savoy's Accommodation (hould be yet a while conceal'd. You will therefore have the lefs regard to this Point, and treat for his Royal Highnefs, upon the Suppofition and Condition of his coming into the Peace when We shall do fo. And whereas it has been furmized that his Royal Highnefs might think of exchanging Sicily for fome other Territories contiguous to his own, which would by no means be agreeable to Our Delign, or to the Interestis "of Our Kingdoms, you may therefore confent to an Article to prevent the Exchange or Alienation of this Kingdom from the Houfe of Savoy.

As to the fecond Point which you are to adjuft, as far forth as is poffible. We have directed what has been prepard by the Civilians upon this Subject, to be put into your Hands; of which you will make the belt ufe you are able, and you will endeavour to agree the feveral Forms in fuch manner, and to concert fuch Meafures for the difpatch of them, that when the Perfons whom We shall think fit to appoint to be Witnelles of these Renunciations and Settlements, shall artive in France and Spain, there may be as little room as possible left for Difpute or Delay.

The most Christian King being very earness to obtain some Advantageous Conditions for the late Elector of Bavaria; you are to inform the French Ministers, that We shall readily agree to have this Prince reftor'd to all which he enjoy'd in the Empure, the Empure, and except the Upper Palatinate, both which are to remain and belong to the Elector Palatine. We think this a sufficient Concession on our part in favour of the Prince abovemention'd, who being in Pollession of Namur, Luxemburg, Charlerey, and Newport, use may be made thereof in the General Treaty of Peace, and he may have an Opportunity there, in Exchange for these Places and Countries, to obtain some thing farther for himself.

You may however, if you thall find it for Our Service, confer on Our part, that he have the Kingdom of Sardinia yielded to him, for the obtaining whereof, the Polleffion just now mention'd feems to be an adequate Security.

In treating of the feveral Matters entrufted to your Management, you are to have effectal Care to avoid entangling Us in any new Engagements, and for that Purpofe, you are to fay and to repeat, that We shall willingly enter into the Common Guaranty fc. fupporting that Settlement of Europe which shall be established by the General Peace, but that We will not be tied down to any Stipulation which may oblige Us to make War, and especially with Our old Allies, in order to procure this Settlement. It is Advantage enough to France that the Conduct of Our Allies has made it reasonable, just, and even necessary for us to withdraw Out felves out of the prefent War.

After you shall have received fufficient Satisfaction in all the Points before mention'd, you may proceed to ipeak to fuch Articles as relate particularly to the Interests of Great Britain, and endeavour to have fuch of them, as there may appear to be any doubt concerning, explained in the most Advantageous manner.

You will likewife do your best to discover upon the feveral parts of the General Plan of Peace, what the Real Ultimatum of France may be, and upon this Head you are to fay, that when we fhall conclude our Treaty, it may be expedient to fix a time for the Allies to come in. "During which, our good Offices shall be employ'd to reconcile the Diffutes which may arife, and to reader the Peace General: But we shall not do any thing like imposing the Scheme offer'd by France upon our Allies, or debarring them from the liberty of endeavouring to obtain fill better Terms for themfeives.

When you shall have concluded the Convention for the suspension of Arms, you may dispatch to Our Trufty and Well-beloved Sir John Jonnings Knight, Our Admiral, and Commander in Chief of Our Fleet in the Mediterranean, to Our Trufty and Well-beloved William Chernynd Efquire, Our Envoy: Extraordinary. to the Republick of Genoa, and to the Commander in Chief of Our Troops in Catalonia, Our Orders which are herewith put into your Hands; and at the fame time you are to Concert with the Minifters of France, not only the fafe Retreat of the Empe-ror's Forces out of Catalania, if his Imperial Majefty shall think fit to withdraw them, but also the March of the Paranguese Troops, which are now ferving there, back into their own Country.

We have likewife Ordered fifty Paffes Sign'd by Us in Blank, to be put into your Hauds, which you will exchange against the like Number, as foon as the Su-iponion shall be agreed : And you may acquaint the French Ministers that more will be fent from hence by every Opportunity. A Fter all the Proofs which Your Majefty has given during the courfe of Your Glorious Reigns of Your great Zell for given during the courfe of Your Glorious Reign; of Your great Zeal for the Publick Good, and of Your Adherence to the Common Caufe of the High Allies ; after fo many Marks You have had the goodness to give us of Your tender Affection, and of Your Friendship to our Republick; and atter the repeated Affurances Yon have given us, and that very lately too, of Your Intentions, that your Troops should attagainst the Com-mon Enemy, until the War was concluded by a General Peace; it is impossible we should not be Suprized and Affilded by two Declarations we have lately re-ceived one after another, in the Name of Your Majely; the first by the Duke of Ormond, Your General, That he could undertake nothing without new Orders from you; The other by the Bilhop of Briffel, your Plenipotentiary to the Congreis at Utrecht; That Your Majefty perceiving that We did not answer as we ought, the Propolal which you had made us, and that We would not act in Concert with your Minifters, on the Subject of Peace, yea would take your Measures apart; and that you did not look upon your felf to be ... ow under any Obligation whate-ver with Refrect to Us. ver with Refpect to Us.

As foon as We had Notice of those Declarations, We fent Orders to Our Minifler, who has the Honour to relide at your Majefty's Court, to represent to you the Reafons of our Surprize, and the Confequences of those Declarations, and to request you with that Respect which we always had, and which we shall for ever entertain for your Royal Perfon, That you would give other Orders to the Dake of Orninid, that he may Act with all possible Vigour; according to the exigency of the War; And that your Majelly would have the goodness to entertain other Sentiments of Us, than those which the Bishop of Briftol has declar'd to our Plenipotentiaries at Utrecht. MIL: VERO Butithe more we confiders thefe Declarations, the more important we find them; and) the more we apprehend the Confequences . Therefore we could not forbean applying out felves by this Letter directly to your Majelty, hoping that you will confider it, as we promate our felves you will, both from your great Pru-dence and Wildom, and from your fo much fam'd Zeal for the Publick Welfare; perticularly from your ufual Friendship and Affection for us and our Republick. We

We proteft before all things, That as we ever had a true Friend fhip, as well as the higheft Refpect for your Majefty, and a fincere Affection to all your Interests, with an earacht defire to live in a perfect good Understanding and Union with you. We have fill the fame Sentiments, and shall always preferve them, wishing for nothing more, than to be able to give your Majefty the most coavincing Proofs of it.

After this, we pray your Majefty to confider, according to your great Penetration, whether we have not juft ground to be Surprized, when we fee a ftop put, by an Order in your Majefty's Name, without our Knowledge, to the Operations of the Confederate Army, the Fineft and Strongeft which perhaps has been in the Field during the whole courfe of the War, and provided with all Neceffaries to Act with Vigour 3 and this after they had March'd according to the Refolution taken in Concert with 'your Majefty's General, almoft up to the Enemy, with a great Superiority both as to the Number and Goodnefs of Troops, and animated with a noble Courage and Zeal to acquit themfelves bravely 3 to that in all Human Appearance, and with the Divine Affiftance, which we have experienc'd fo difby on fo many other Occasions, we should have been able, either hy Battle rr Sieges, to gain great Advantages over the Enemy, to have better'd the Affairs of the Allies, and to facilitate the Negotlations of Peace.

We flatter our felves indeed with the Hopes which the Duke of Ormond has given us, That in a few Days he expects other Orders; But in the mean time We are forry to fee one of the fineft Opportunities loft, being uncertain whether we fhall have another fo favourable, fince the Enemy have time given them to Fortify themfelves; and Lake their Precautions, while the Army of the Allies lies ftill without Action, and confuming the Forage all round, deprive themfelves of the means of fubfilting for time to come, in those Places, where by Concert, the Operations of the Campaign were defign'd; which may make fuch Enterprizes impoffible hereafter, as were practicable now, and configured of the Campaign the Places of the High Allies:

Certainly when we confider the Army, as it really is, compos'd of the Troops of your Majefties and the other Allies, join'd together by Common Concert, to act for the greateft Advantage and furtherance of the Common Caufe, and the Affurances which your Majefty had given us by your Letters, by your Minifters, and laft of all, by your General the Duke of Ormond, of your Intentions, that your Troops frould be 'ordered ito act with their, ufual Vigour, as well as the Engagements into which your Majefty is enter'd, not only with refpect to us, but alfo feparately and jointly with us, in reflect to the other Allies, it's very difficult for us to conjecture and conceive, how an Order fo prejudicial to the Common Caufe,given foluddenly without our Knowledge, and undoubtedly too without the Knowledge of the other Allies, can agree and confif with the Nature of an Alliance, and with thofe Affurances and Engagements juft now mention'd. For the' according to the Declaration of the Bifhop of Brifel, your Majes', holds your felf to be difengag'd from every Obligation with regard to Us, 'tis plain that the Matter now in Queffion, is not our particular Intereft or Advantage, but that of all the Allies, who will fuffer by the prejudice which an Order, fo little expected, muft needs bring to the Common for bear telling, your Majefty, That the Declaration

But, Madam, We cannot for bear telling your Majefty. That the Declaration made by the Bilhop of Beiftoiat Ourschi, has so lefs Surpriz' us, than that of the Duke of Ormond in the Army. It appears to Us fo extraordinary, that we know not how to reconcile it with the great Goodnefs and Kindnefs which your Majefty has always honour'd us with; and not being able conceive how fuch a fudden Change could happen with refpect to us; We are not only Snrpriz'd, but Afflicted at it. We have carefully examin'd our Conduct, and find nothing in it that can have given Ground to that Diffatisfaction which your Majefty expresses with us by this Declaration.

From the very first Day that your Majesty ascended the Throne, we testifiedall the Deference that you could defire from a State in Friendship and Alliancewith you. We carefully fought after your Amity and Affection, and confidering the happy Effects, which a good Intelligence, Harmony and Union, betwist your-Majesty and us, and, the two Nations, might produce, and have really produced, and the Advantage which refuted from thence to both, as well as to the Common Caufe of all the Allies, we made it our Business heartily to Cultivate 'em,' and I more and more to gain your Majesty's Confidence, and conform our felves to your' Sentiments as much as possibly we could.

We think that we gave a fignal Proof of this, particularly with regard to the Negotiations of Peace, fince not only after we were informed of the Conferences formerly held in England upon this Subject, we did expect that your Majefty would give us au Account of them, having this firm Confidence in your Friendfhip for our Republick, and in your Zeal for the Good of the common Caufe, that nothing would be done to prejudice us nor the other Allies; but allo when your Majefty communicated to us the preliminary Articles fign'd by M. Mefnager in England, and when you propos'd to us the calling and holding a Congrefs for a general Peace, and requir'd of us to grant for this End necellary Pafsports for the Enemy's Minifters, we confented to it, tho' we had many Reafons, which to us feem'd very well grounded, not to enter into fuch a Tresty without a better Foundation, or at leaft without the Concurrence of the other Allies; but we preferred your Majefty's Sentiments to our own, in order to give you a new Proof of our Deference.

We did no lefs with respect to the Difficulties which were flarted on the Subject of the Treaty of mutual Guaranty for the Succession of the Protestant Line to your Majefty's Kingdoms, and for our Barrier; a Treaty of fuch Importance to the Two Nations, that we look upon it as the ftrongeft Tie that could be thought on, to unite for ever the Hearts and Interests of both, concluded after the maturest Deliberation, and ratified on both fides in the most authentick Form; for tho' we might have flood to the Treaty as it was, yet we enter'd into a - Negotiation upon those Difficulties, and particularly on the Point of the diffente, concern-ing which we gave our Plenipotentiaries fuch Instructions, that we no longer doubted but all the Difficulties would have been adjusted to mutual Content, and that we fhould thereby have entirely regain'd your Majefty's Confidence; and the rather, because in the first place, when the meeting of a Congress for a general Peace was in hand, your Majefty declar'd to us by your Ambaffador, that you defir'd no more than our Concurrence in that fingle Point, and this only Mark of our Confidence, and that then you would give us ftrong and real Proofs of your Affection towards us, and of your upright Intentions with respect to the common Caufe of all the Allies; and that afterwards, when the Difficulties about the Suc-ceffion and the Barrier were rais'd, your Majelly did likewife allure us, that if we would remit fomething upon the most effential Points, and particularly about the Affair of the Afficente, it would be the tive way to re-eftablish a mutual Confidence, which being once reftor'd, your Majefty would take particularly to Heart the Interefts of this State, and act in Conjunction with us in the whole Negotiation to obtain an honourable, good, and fure Peace.

But we find our felves very much out in our Expectation, fince at the very fame time, when we made the greateft Advances towards your Majefty, and that we did verily believe we fhould come an Agreement about the Points in Difference, we fee the Earl of Strafford gone without finihing that Affair, we fee the Army ftopt in the beginning of its Career, and we hear a Declaration, by which your Majefty looks upon your felf to be difengag'd from all Obligations with us; for which the Reafons alledg'd are, That we have not aniwer'd as we ought the Advances your Majefty mide towards us, and that we would not at in Concert with your Minifters about the Peace.

If your Majefty will be pleas'd to look with a favourable and equitable Eye upon our Conduct, we flatter our felves, and have a firm Confidence that you will find nothing in it, which can give you fuch difadvantageous Idea's and Thoughts of us; but that you will rather find that we have perform'd, and do fill perform all that we are bound to, as good and faithful Allies, and particularly to your Majefty.

What we have faid already might perhaps be fufficient to perfudde you of it, but we muft add, that having always effected your Majeffy's Affection, and a good Harmony betwixt the Two Nations, as one of the ftrongeft Supports of our State, and of the Proteffant Religion, and as one of the frongeft Supports of our State, and of the Proteffant Religion, and as one of the frongeft Supports of our State, and of the Proteffant Religion, and as one of the frongeft Supports of our State, and of the Proteffant Religion, and as one of the molt effectual Methods to maintain and advance our common Intereffs, and those of the whole Confederacy, and this fincere Opinion being firmly imprinted on our Hearts, we were never backward to communicate and confult in all Confidence with your Majeffy and your Minifters upon the Affairs of the Peace, according to the Foundations laid down in the Grand Alliance and other Treatics; we declare that we have always been inclinable and ready to do it, and are fo ftill, as far as we can, without Prejudice to the other Allies, and without departing from or ading againft the Engagements, Treaties and Affainces which we have enterd into.

But, Madam, all the Proposals hitherto made to us upon that subject, were couch'd in very general Terms, without communicating to us the Refult of the Nego. Negotiations betwixt your Majefty's Minifters and thole of France, nor even your Majefty's Thoughts shout the Subject, which we ought to have concerted together; 'tls true that in fome of the laft Conferences your Majefty's Minifters demanded to know whether ours were furnifh'd with a full Power, and authoriz'd to draw up a Plan for the Peace; but it had been juft, before fuch a thing was demanded of us, that they fhould have communicated the Refult of the Negotiations, fo long treated of betwixt your Majefty's Minifters and thole of the Enemy's, or at lealt they fhould have told us your Majefty's Thoughts.

Had that Plan related only to your Majefty's Interefts and ours, we fhould perhaps have been in the wrong not to have forthwith come into it, tho' even in that Cafe the Affair would not have been without its Difficulties, fince the leaft Notice of it which flould have come to the Enemy muft have been very prejudicial: But as the Plan in queftion concern'd the Interest of all the Allies, and almost all  $E_{H-}$ rope, we had very firong Apprehensions, that as the particular Negotiations be-twixt your Majesty's Ministers and those of France, and the Readiness with which we confented to the Congress at Utreeht, and to the giving of Passports to the Enemy's Ministers, had already occasion'd abundance of Suspicions and much Uneasinefs to his Imperial Majefty and the other Allies; we fay, we apprehend that his Imperial Majefty and the other Allies coming to know (which would have been very difficult to conceal from them) the Concert betwixt your Majelly . Minifters and ours for a Plan of Peace, and that before the Minifters of France had given a specifick Answer to the Demands of the Allies, their Suspicions and Uneasines would have increas'd, and that way of proceeding might have given them Ground to entertain prejudicial Thoughts, as if it had been the Intention of your Majefty and us to abandon the Grand Alliance and the common Caufe, or at leaft that we alone took upon us to determine the Fate of all the other Allies, by which his Imperial Majeffy and the other Confederates might have been pufh'd on to feparate Meafures, and to take fuch Steps as would be no ways agreeable to your Majefly's Interest nor ours.

We thought these Reasons strong enough to justify our Conduct to your Majek, on this Head, and if we did not enter with all the Readiness which you might have wish'd for into the Concert propos'd, we hope that at most your Majesty will look upon our Backwardness only as an Excess of Prudence or of Scruple, and not in the least as a want of Confidence in your Majesty, while the Allies might have confider'd it as a departing from the Treaties, and particularly from the Eighth Article of the Grand Alliance ; we also hope that your Majesty (for the Reasons here alledg'd) will lay afide those hard Thoughts of us, as if we had not answer'd as we ought the Advances which your Majesty made towards us, and that we would not act in Concert with your Majesty confider whether that be fulficient for your Majesty to think that you are difengag'd from all Obligations with respect to us.

Had we acted againft and contraven'd the Engagements and Treaties which we had the Honour to conclude with your Majefty, we might have expected from your. Goodnefs and Juftice that you would have reprefented those Contraventions to us, and not have look'd upon your felf to be difengag'd, till firch time as we had refus'd to give all necelfary Redrefs; but as we did no ways engage to enter with your Majefty into a Concert to draw up a Plan of Peace without the Participation of the other. Members of the Grand Alliance, the Backwardnefs we have flewn upon that Head cannot be look'd upon as a Contravention of our Engagements, and therefore cannot firve to difengage your Majefty from yours, with refpect to us, fince we are verily perfuaded that we have fully anfwer'd all our Treaties, and all our Alliances, both with your Majefty and with the High Allies in general, and that we have done more in this prefent War than could in Juftice and Equity have, been expected from us; all the Difference betwirt your Majefty of Sentiments. In Truth, Madam, if for fuch a Caufe betwirt Potentates allied and united to.

In Truth; Madam, if for fich a Caufe betwint Potentates allied and united to gether by the firongeft and firiteft Ties of Alliance, Interest and Religion, any one of those Potentates could quit all their Engagements, and difengage themfelves from all their Obligations, there's no Tie fo firong which may not be broke at any time, and we know of no Engagements that could be relied on in Time, to come of

We affure our felves that, when your Majefty confiders the Confequences, you will not perfift in the Declaration which the Bifhop of Briffel has made, we be-feech you with all the Respect, and all the Earnestness of which we are capable, that, you with all the Respect, and all the Earnestness of which we are capable, that, you will be the second se you would not; and also that you would be pleas'd to revoke the Order given to the Duke of Ormond, if it be not revoked already, and that you would authorize him to act according to Occurrences, and as the Exigency of the War and the Advancement of the common Caufe fhall require.

We also request you, Madam, to communicate to us the Refult of the Conferences betwixt your Ministers and those of the Enemy, or at least your Thoughts upon the Peace, and we will endeavour to give your Majefty all imaginable Proofs of our Deference for your Sentiments, and of our fincere Defire to preferve your valuable Friendship as much as we can, without acting contrary to the faith of the Engage-ments into which we store enter'd by Preatics and Alhances with your Majcity and other Potentates.

We are firmly perfuaded, that it is not your Majefty's Intention in any manner to break them, lince you have always been of the fame Opinion with us and the other. Allies, that a good Union Betwixt the Allies, not only during the prefent War, but all after the Peace Hall be concluded; is, and always will be the molt folid, and even the only Method to preferve the Liberry and Independency of all together, and of every one in particular, against the great Power of France.

 We expect also, that after having given such great and signal Proofs of your Wisdom, of your Firmners, and of your Zeal for the Support of the common Cause. - your Majefty will not now take such Resolutions as may be prejudicial to us and the other Allies, but that, in order to obtain an honourable, fure, and general Peace, you will purfue the fame Methods and keep to the fame Martine which you formerly held; and which Almighty God hath blefs'd in fo i emarkable a mainer by Victorics and great Events, which will render the Glory of your Majefly's Reigh immortal.

We again renew to your Majefty the Affurances of our high and perfect Effectm for your Person and Friendship, as also of our Intentions and fincere Defires to en-sertain with your Majelty the fame good Correspondence, Harmony and Union as before, and to cultivate the time betwixt the Two Nations, as far as it shall Iye in our Power ; and we pray your Majefty to preferve likewife for us and our Repub-lick your former Affection. We refer for the reft to what the Sieur Van Borfele, our Envoy Extraordinary, has further to fay to your Majefty on this Subject. And pray the Almighty, Oc.

My LORD ...

Left Calais on Monday, according to what I writ to your Lordhlp from that Place, and proceeded on my journey to Paris, where I arriv'd about 6 a Clock Wedneiday in the Evening. On the Road I took all poffible Precautions to conteal my Name, and to avoid all fort of Ceremony, by flopping to refrefinmy felf as in-tle as poffible, and when I did ftop, by chuling to do it out of the great. Towns. My Care was however in a great measure fruitles, and they did their utmost in the Places thro' which I pafs'd to fhew their Refpects to the Queen, fo that I arriv'd at leaft as much fatigu'd with Compliment as tir'd with my Journey.

Soon after 1 got out of my Chaife, a Gentleman came to me from Madame de Creiffy, brought her Coach, invited no to Supper, and told me that Monfieur de Torey was coming Poli from Fontainbleau to meet me. In effect I had not been long at the Hatel de Creifi before he arriv'd. There was no relifting his Importunities, as well as his Mother's, and I was forc'd to continue with them during my Stay at Paria. In these Two Days I loft no Time, but purfu'd her Majeffy's Infructions with all the Application I am Mafter of, and I humbly hope that I have been fo happy as to answer the Purposes for which the fent me hither.

Obstacle to the Conclusion of the Suspension of Arms by Sea and Land arose, and after some Contestation have adjusted them in this mannet.

The Right of this Prince and of his Family to the Crown of Spain and the Indies, after Philip and his Defendents, is to be sublituted in the fame Acts and at the fame Time as the feveral Renunciations and Settlements are made, declard, and confirm'd, which are necellary to accomplish the Article for preventing the Uhlon of the Two Monarchies.

Monfieur de Torcy endeavour'd to leave this Point more loofe, and either to defer feuring the Succellion of the Houle of Savoy, or at least not to establish it in the fame Acts as are to pass on the other Occalion; But as I judg'd this to be the fafest and most authentick manner; I infifted, and he yielded.

Op

On the Ceffion of Sicily he would have adher'd to the Terms of his laft Difpatch, and urg'd the Abfurdity of giving this Kingdom away till they were fure of making Peace with Savey. It was not difficult to thew that he had already departed from this Argument, and that there could be no reafonable Objection to Philip's making a Ceffion of Sicily to the Duke of Savey, at the fame time as he cohfented to fecure to him the Succeffion of Spain and the Indies; that if a Peace did not follow, every thing which had been done would of Courfe be void and that if it did follow, the Confideration for which this Illand was yielded would be obtain'd. This Point being over, there was little Difpute about the Time when his Royal Highnefs fhall be put into the actual Poffellion of this Kingdom; we have fettled it to be on the Ratification of a general Peace, or of a Peace between the Queen, France, Spain, and Savey.

The Count de Maffei may not perhaps be fatisfied with this Agreement, and I remember in his Memorial he defired his Mafter might be at Liberty at any time to take Poffeffion; but the Duke of Savay ought to look upon it as a very good Bargain, and to be contented to have the Advantages which are to accrue to him put into his Hands, when thole which her Majeffy flipulates for herfelf are put iato hers.

I wish I could have prevail'd on the Head of the Barrier as far as I did on the other Two, but it was impossible, at least it was so for me. Monsieur de Torey re-presented that Exilles, Fenefirelles, and the Valley of Pragelas, besides the Restitution of all which France is in Pollellion of, was the utmost which the King would ever confent or had ever confented to give : That when the Ministers of Savay made in Holland the fame ulterior Demands which they now make, the Penfionary laugh'd at them, and even at that time did not push him to comply with them : That, under Pretence of Security, his Highnels really fought an Aggrandifement t ance, and out of the ancient Domaine of this Crown : That at the Expense the' a King of the e was a more powerful Prince than a Duke of Savey, yet that the latter, back'd t, a Confederacy, which is the only Cafe wherein he will attempt any thing, is a dreadful Enemy to the former : That they have here a Minority to expect, and therefore cught to be the more careful not to leave the Frontiers of their Kingdom ex. .... in fort, that Sicily was an ample Recompense to his Royal Highnefs for all the Services he has done the Queen, and that if her Majeffy was eafy, he was fure the Duke of Savey would fubmit : He concluded, by repeating very earnestly, that the King never would grant him a larger Barrier, and that his Majefty inlifted to put this Negative now, fince he was refolv'd to do it at laft, leaft the Duke should, by continuing in Hopes, spin out the Treaty, and delay concluding his Peace, for which reason he likewise infisted that the Queen should concur in this Negative.

It is needlefs to lengthen my Difpatch by telling your Lordship what Answers I made to these Representations: I replied in the best manner I was able, and ended as I am instructed, by letting this Minister know that the Queen would confent to nothing which should foreclose his Royal Highness from obtaining what, for ought the knew, might be necessary; that this Point therefore must not be now look'd upon as determin'd, but must be left open for the Ministers of Savoy to debate; that I did not understand her Majesty's Intentions to be to enlarge the Duke of Savoy's Dominions out of those of France; but that I was fure the would not sign a Peace, unless this Prince's Security was really and effectually provided for, which France having promis'd in general Terms to all the Allies, could not refuse in any Particular to the Duke of Savoy.

The next Head to which we proceeded, was that of the Renunciations and Settlements necefary to prevent the Union of the Two Crowns, and in treating of this I cannot fay that I met with any Difficulty; I gave no Hopes that any Expedient would be accepted to fign the Feace before this Article was entirely accomplified, the' Monfieur de Torry propoled that the Feace flould not be delay'd for it, but the Ratifications flould. He has fince confulted Monfieur Bergbeyk, and they are of Opinion that a Month's, or at fartheft Six Weeks Time, will uffice to pafs all the Forms, fo that I am defired to recommend the Difpatich of my Lord Lexingen, or whoever elfe the Queen fhall think fit to fend into Spain; and I crave Leave to fay, that it would be extremely out of Courfe if in France and Spain they flould be ready to finish this important Article, and we fould on our parts not be ready to winters the Execution of it, especially when we push the concluding of the Feace, and refuse to fign until all thefe Forms are perfected.

The Draught of Philip's A& of Renunciation, and the Minutes taken by Monfieur de Torey and me, both which I transmit to your Lordship, will, I suppose, be a sufficient Ground-work of Instructions to those whom her Majesty shall chuse to fend hither and to Madrid.

The laft Point, and that on which we had the warmelt Debates, was concerning the Elector of Bavaria. As foon as I arriv'd at Paris I heard that he was come to Chaillot in the Neighbourhood, and Monfieur de Torcy either was, or affected to be, under some Uncaliness at the Reproaches which this Prince would, he faid, with reafon give them, unlefs they provided better for him than the Queen had hitherto feem'd inclin'd to allow.

He turn'd this Matter feveral ways, and made variety of Propolitions, which it was plain enough were not extempore, tho' he appear'd defirous I should look upon them as sudden Thoughts which occur'd to him in treating. At last he rested on this, that the Queen should engage to procure for the Elector the Dutchy and Electorate of Bavaria, exclusive of the Upper Palatinate, and the Rank in the Electoral College, which I had from the first peremptorily rejected ; and that she should further promise to maintain him in the Possession of the Dutchies and Towns of Luxemburg and Namur, and in the Polleffion of Charleroy and Nieuport , until fuch an Equivalent for these Countries and Places was given him as he should be fatisfied with. This Proposition I positively refus d to assent to, and told Monsieur de Torry very plainly, that leaving these Towns and Places in the Elector's Pollellion till he had fuch an Equivalent as he should be fatisfied with, was really giving them absolutely to him, which I knew her Majefty neither could or would admit; further, that her Majefty would enter into no Engagements to procure any thing for the Elector, or even to use her Offices in his Behalf ; that the Towns and Places which this Prince is in Posseffion of, would very probably be an Inducement to the Allies to give him fomething in Lieu of them; that her Majeffy would not oppose his having Sardinia, which Equivalent had been propos'd first from hence. This I let him know was the Sum of all he was to expect from the Queen, and your Lordship will find the Minutes drawn accordingly.

Having on precedent Occasions as well as this, perceiv'd, that Monsieur de Torcy affected to hint every Expression in such manner as to engage the Queen joyntly with the King his Master, I thought proper, very explicitly, and in the ftrongest Terms I could use, to say that the Queen would enter readily into the common Guarantry for fupporting that Settlement of Europe, which should by the Peace be made; but that She would on no account whatfoever be concerned in any Stipulation to procure this Settlement ; That it would be Advantage fufficient for France, if the Conduct of Her Majefty's Allies made it just and neceffary for her to withdraw her felf out of the War before them ; and that afterwards her good Offices would be employ'd as became the common Friend of all Partles.

I take occasion frequently to repeat this to the French Ministers; and I believe they will look upon it as the Rule which her Majefty has laid down, and which they shall not be able to prevail on her to depart from.

On Saturday in the Evening I came to Fontaineblean, where an Apartment was provided for me, and my reception was particularly Civil. On Sunday at Nine in the Morning I had Audience of the King, to whom I prefented her Majefty's Letter. He receiv'd me in a very Gracious manner, he talk'd a confiderable time with me, and the Substance of what he faid, as near as I can remember, for his Speech was extremely quick, was, That he ever had the highest Esteem for the Queen : That the had proceeded in fuch a manner as to turn that Efteem into the fincereft Friendship ; that he hop'd she was fatisfied he had done every thing on his part which might facilitate the Peace: That he was pleas'd to find we were fo near concluding : that there were fome who us'd all endeavours to obstruct it, but that God be prais'd, they would not be long able to do fo: That God would hinder them from giving the Law which they pretended to: That the fuccefs of his Arms flould make no Alteration in him: And that he would make good all he had offer'd.

Fontainbleau, Aug. 22d. N. S. 1712.

A FTER I had had my Audience Yelterday of the KING, I return'd with Monfieur de TORCT, to view the Minutes we had taken, and the Draught of the Convention for the Suspension of Arms, which we Sign'd in the Evening: Your Lordship will observe, that it is dated on Friday laft, at which time the first Brouillon was prepar'd, and I thought that every Day which the Commencement of it was put backward, was some degree of Advantage to us ; the Term is of four Months, which Monfieur de Torcy defir'd, as more likely to have its Effect on the Dutch than a florter Term, which might have fuffer'd them to entertain Hopes still of breaking our Measures, and bringing the Queen into Action again. I did not much weigh the force of this Argument, tho I think it has fomewhat determin'd me to agree to four Months, according to the Latitude left in my Inftructions, was first what I remember'd to have been the Senfe of feveral Merchants whom I spoke with before I left London, who all feem'd defirous of the longest Term, and thought that two Months would not encourage many People to venture upon some Voyages. Secondly, that a Term of two Months would as effectually cut off all prospect of Acting by Land this Campaign, as a Term of four, and that therefore the Sea-Service would be chiefly affected by this Sufpension, where we have more to apprehend than to hope.

Monfient de Torcy had inferted in the Draught these Words, — les Mers qui entoureut les Iss Britanniques, and cited the Teaty of Breda as a Precedent. I shew'd him, that before that Treaty, the expression had always run Maribus Britannicis, particularly in the Treaty with Crommell; and that the Error committed in that of Breda, had been reclified in that of Ry/mick. He insisted more than I expected on retaining his Words, and entred a little into the dispute of Dominion. This made me the more tenacious, and your Lordship will fund these Words, les Mers qui entourent les Iss raz'd out; fo that it flands now as it ought to do The Suspension being now Sign'd, I shall, pursuant to my Instructions, disparch

The Suspension being now Sign'd, 1 shall, pursuant to my Instructions, dispatch Her Majesty's Orders to Sir John Jennings, to Mr. Chermynd, and to the Officer who Commands the Queen's Troops in Catalonia.

Monfient de Torcy is likewife very earnest that the Duke of Argyll be Dispatched, judging his Prefence necellary upon this new turn of Affairs for the Common Interest; I cannot help thinking it is so, particularly for Her Majesty's Service.

Juft now the Duke of Orleans told me, that the King had this Morning, at his Levee, declard, that the Suffering of Arms was Sign d; and Monfieur de Torty informs me, that they intend to Morrow to Publifi it at Paris. I will therefore loofe no time in diffratching this Courier, as foon as I receive, (which I expect every Moment) the Copy of the AR of Renunciation, which has been prepard in Spain, and wherein the Spaniards ferm to have neglected no Expression which could add to the Strength, and no Form which could add to the Validity of it; Philip's confent to the Gancelling the Entry of 1700, mention'd in the Convention for the Suffernion of Arms in Flanders, and the Inferting the Subfitution of the Duke of Savoy, will be the Subfets of additional Claufes. I thall be extremely concern'd, if the Queen does not receive this Account before the News comes any other way; but I lofe no time, and I hope the Melfenger will lofe none.

The fifty Paffes In Blank I have not yet receiv'd, but hope to have them time enough to accompany this Dispatch.

The Chevalier has fix'd his Departure on the first of next Month N.S. They propose that he shall retire to Bar; and they intend to write to the Duke of Lorrain, to ask of the Emperor, and other Princes, a Security for his Person during his refidence in that Place.

I must not conclude this Letter without asking your Lordship's Pardon for a piece of falle News, which I fent you from Calais, concerning an Aftion at Pont a Rache; the Story was told us with 16 many Circumstances, that I made no doubt of the Truth of it, especially when the Mayor of the Place quoted a Letter which he faid he received from his Son in-law, who was at that time in the Army.

I enclose the Convention for the Armistice in the Neuberlands, which your Lordfhip will have occasion for, and which, with the Act of Renunciation, and the Minutes transmitted to you, will afford sufficient Materials for my Lord Lexington's Instructions.

As I intend to leave this Place on Wednefday at furtheft, it will be proper to lofe no time in dispatching a Letter of Credence to Mr. Prior, to whom your Lordship will likewise please, as soon as possible, to send the Queen's Ratification.

This Letter is already fivel'n to fo great a Bolk, that I believe your Lordship is very willing I should refer to another Opportunity such such that Accounts as I have to give of my Proceedings. I am, My LORD, Your Lordship's mess Humble and Obedient Servane, Bolingbroke.

Four Lordfhip's meft Humble and Obedient Servant, Bolingbroke. Since I clos'd my Letter, Monlieur de Torcy fent we word, a Courier is arriv'd from Turin in his way to England, and defir'd to know if I would have him go on, which I did not think proper to hinder. I fuppole this Courier is diffarch'd to the Count de Maffei, upon the Impatience which the Duke of Savoy is under, upon not hearing from hence, according to what he was made to expect by his Minifler's Letters, which went by way of Holland forme time ago.

I am only to obferve to your Lordship, that the source you take an opportunity of speaking to the Count de Massei, the better.

Besides the Papers mention'd in my Letter, I fend your Lordship a Form of Publieation of the Suspension, and a Memoire which I receiv'd from M. de Torcy concerning some Articles of Trade : General Stanhope is arriv'd here in his way to Britain.

T He Underwritten Minister of the King of Great Britain most humbly reprefents to his Catholick Majefty, that he finds himself obliged by the Commands and Instructions he has received from the King His Master, to Demand in his Majefty's Name,

That all the Privileges and Conceffions the Kings of Spain have ever Granted to the Britifh Merchants by their Royal Schedulas of Ordinances, and by the Articles of the Treaty of Peace and Friendfilip made at Madrid in the Year 1667, may be fully confirmed, as they are in effect by the eighth Agicle of the Treaty of Peace, and Friendfilip concluded at Utrecht, the 13th day of July, N. S. 1713, between the Crowns of Great Britain and Spain. That the Trade of the Britifh Merchants in all the Ports of the Kingdom of Spain, may be effabilited and remain upon the fame Foot as it flood in the time of King Charles the Second, and before the Declaration of the laft War.

That the British Merchants may not for the prefert or future be obliged to Pay any other Duties and Customs on the Goods they import into the feveral Ports of this Kingdom, or export out of them, than those which they paid on the fame Goods in the Reign of King Charles the Second.

That the fame Method as was then practifed in the Manner of Collecting, thole Cuftoms, may be now and for the time to come obferved, and that in the Payment of them, the British Merchants may be Allowed the fame Gratias, Favours, Abatements, and Deductions, as were allowed them at any time during the Reign of King Charles the Second, by the Farmers of the Cuftoms or the Administrators of the King. And his Britannick Majeffy hopes that his Catholick Majefty will make no Difficulty in granting to His Subjects the fame Liberties, Indulgences, and Favoirs in their Trade to His Dominions, as they formerly enjoyed, fince His Majeffy defires nothing herein that can be any Detriment or Prejudice to His Catholick Majeffy or the Interest of his own Subjects, but on the contrary, what has been allowed by the Kings His Predeteffors, and practifed as well by their Administrators of the Cuftoms, as by the Farmers of them.

That

That all the Articles contained in the Treaty of Navigation and Commerce concluded at Un echt, between the Crowns of Great Britain and Spain, on the 9th day of December N. S. 1713, fofar as they are detrimental and derogatory to the Prive leges and Concellons of the Royal Schedulas and Ordinances, granted at any time by the Kings of Spain to the British Merchants, and to the Articles of the Treaty at Madrid, in the Year 1667, may be declared null and void.

And particularly the three feparate Articles called the Three Explanatory Ar-ticles, contained only in the Ratification of the faid Treaty of Navigation and Commerce, concluded at Utreebt, as having been inferted and obtained in a very extraordinary manner, without having been first fettled or figned by any of the Minifters of both Crowns, that were impowered to conclude the faid Treaty.

That His Catholick Majefty will be pleafed to Grant to the British Merchants, that they may have the Privilege of having a Judge Confervator in all the Parts of Spain, where the Judges Confervators have been formerly allow'd, till the Death of King Charles the Second : And that the faid Judges Confervators may be Vefted with the fame Power and Authority for the defense and Protection of His Britannick Majeffie's Subjects, and their Exemptions in Trade, as was formerly granted them, and conftantly enjoyed by Virtue of the Royal Schedulas or Ordinances Dated the 19th day of March, the 26th of June, and 9th of November, in the Year 1645, and confirmed by the Ninth Article of the Treaty made at Madrid in the Year 1667.

As to the first Point contained in this Memorial, which is; That the Trade of the British Merchants in Spain may be established upon the same Foot as it was in the time of King Charles the Second, the Minister of the King of Great Britain hopes it will appear to his Catholick Majefty to be founded on Juffice and Reafon, when His Majefty will be pleafed to confider,

That the French Nation, which drives a confiderable Trade to this Kingdom, has always Traded, and does now continue to do fo wholly upon the fame Fost; there being no other Treaties of Commerce between the Crowns of Spain and France, fubfifting, but those which have been made either before the time of King Challes the Second, or during the Reign of that Prince.

As also in the 17th Article of the Treaty of Peace and Commerce concluded at Utrecht the 26th of June 1714, between His Catholick Majefly and the States General, it is ftipulated in Favour of the States, That their Subjects shall enjoy the same Privileges, Franchifes, and Exemptions in their Navigation and Commerce, with out any Exception or Referve, as they did enjoy before the late War

From whence it follows, that the King of Great Britain's Subjects having by all the Treaties between both Crowns an undoubted Right to all the Privileges, Liberties, and Immunities in Trade, which have been, or may be granted to any other Nation whatfoever, they cannot be with Juffice refuled the fame Privileges and Exemptions in their Trade, as are granted or continued to other Nations, and were enjoyed by them before the late War, during the Reign of King Charles the Seconds As to the laft Point, which relates to the Judges Confervators, belides the just Right the Sujects of the King of Great Britain have to that Privilege, the fame which is new Demanded for them, being already granted in express Words to those of the States General, by the 29th Article of the above-mentioned Treaty, between His Catholick Majefty and the States; The Minister of the King of Great Britain hopes His Majefty will make no Difficulty in granting it also to the Subjects of the King His Mafter.

And it is certain that if these Judges Confervators had been leftablished, as they should have been, immediately after the Ceffation of Arms and Conclusion of the Peace, it would have hinder'd most of the Diffputes which have happen'd between the King's Officers, and the Subjects of the King of Great Britain, fince those Differences might have been ended in the Places where they beguin ; which would have prevented the many Opprellions the King of Great Britain's Subjects have laboured under, the great Number of Law-Suits now depending before the Council of War at Madrid, and the entire Ruin of feveral poor Prople and their Ramilies for ever, fome of which have been here near two Years foli iting for Justice, without having teen yet able to obtain any Decision of their Cautis. and hyflight it want a solution of the read of the solution of the solut

ANNE R. Being informed that the People of Catalonia are inclined to caft off the Yoke imposed upon them by the French, and by withdrawing themselwes from the Power of the Duke of Aujon, to return to the Obedicine of the House of Auforia : We defiring to maintain and improve that good Difpolition in them, and to induce them to put the fame fpeedily in Execution, and repoling fpecial Confidence in Your Fidelity and Prudence, as allo for the Knowledge you have of those Con-tries and People, have made choice of You to carry on to great a Work for the Advantage of Our Service, and the Good of the Common Caule, as is the making the Treaty with the Catalans, or any other People of Spain, to the Purpoles aforfaid. You are therefore upon Receipt of these out Infiructions, and other Your Difpatches, to repair as foon as conveniently you can, to Genoa, Leghorne, or fuch other Neuter Country or Place as You thalt judge most proper for carrying on Our Service in this Particular: And being arrived there, You are to treat with the faid Catalans, or any other People of Spain, about their coming into the Intereft of Charles 3d. King of Spain, and joyning with Us, and Our Allies. To which Pur-pole, You fhall inform your felf what Number of Ships and Land Forces, what Quantity of Arms and Ammunition they may expect ; and likewife what Number of Land Forces may be thought requifite for fupporting them, and for facilitating this Defign ; and on the other Side, what Force of Horfe and Foot they will be of-liged to raile, and in what Time : What Provisions of all Sorts they can Supply for Our Fleet and Army ; and at what Time they will expect the Affiftance of Our Troops, and where the Forces shall meet, and in what Manner they may belt cooperate. You shall, as often as conveniently You can, give an Account to the Earl of Gallway of the Progress you make in this Negotiation, in Order to the better con-cerring the Operations, and the Manner of rendring what is done on the Portugal Side most beneficial towards carrying on and promoting what shall be undertaken by the Catalans, as well as for rendring any Undertakings on the Side of Catalonia by way of Diversion or otherwife, most advantageous for promoting fuch Defigns as may be undertaken in Portagal, or any Part of the Coaft of Spain And it is chiefly to be confidered in what place and Manner Our Fleet and Land Men on Board, and that accompany it, may be employed to the best Advantage.

You are not only to correspond with the Earl of Gallway, but also with the Prince of Heffs, and with the Admiral of our Fleet, and Commander in Chief of our Forces, when, and as often as you shall fee Occasion for the Good of our Service, and likewife with Richard Hill Elg, or other Our Envoy Extraordinary with the Duke of Savoy. And in Case of any emergent Occasion, You may fend an Express to Our faid Envoy, defiring him to fend to you without Delay, fuch of Our Frigates now in the Mediterranew under his Direction, as can most conveniently be had, and to obey such Orders as You shall give: Whereupon You are hereby empowered to Hiparch such first to Libon, to Our Fleet or Gibraltar, as Our Service may require for the better promoting this Undertaking.

You thall give the Catalons, or other Spaniards, Affurances of Our Utmoft Endeavours to procure the Eftablifhment of all fuch Rights and Immunities as they have formerly enjoyed under the Houfe of Aufria, and the Confirmation of fuch Titles as may have been conferred on any of them by the Duke of Anjon; and that We have for their further Satisfaction, fent to King Charles 3d. for Powers for confirming the fame to them, which We do not doubt the Succefs of : And that We are wilking, if they infift on it, to give Our Guaranty that it fhall be done.

You may give them an Account of the Forces We intend to employ on the Coaft of Spein this Year; which are intended to confift of 64 Ships of the Line, with Frigsts, Tenders, and Tranfports, with 8000 Emplift and Datch Land Men, to be employed as shall be judged belt for the Service : But you are to make Use of this upon Occasion, to excite them to make the greater Provision on their Part; not acquainting them with the whole Strength at the first, but raising it by Degrees, to as. So get the better Terms. * X

In Cafe any of the Nobility shall infit to have any Sum of Money to be advansed to them, upon Condition of Services to be performed by them, You are to give an Account thereof to Us, and in the mean Time You are to affure them that you do not doubt, but you thall be empowered to remit to them, whatforver is use f fary and reasonable for their Support as foon as they are actually in the Field. But yapilits always to remember to put a just Value on the Extraordinary Expence Her Majelty is at upon Account of this Expedition for the Common Bensfit.

Earl of Peterborough's Manifesto in Spain.

To all the Loyal Subjects of the Monarchy of Spain, of what Rank or Quality foever, Church-men or Lay-men, within the Dominions of the Crown of Spain, Greeting.

UR Sovereign Lady, Ame, by the Grace of God, Queen of Great-Britain, France O and belowd, &c. having though fir to conflicture and nominate us, General of the Troops which Her Majelty has join'd with those of the Lords the States General, and which are employed to maintain the juft Right of the moft August House of Auftria to the Monarchy of. Sprin, and to affist their other Allies: We have judg'd it neceffary and convenient to declare, before we proceed to open Force, that we are not come into these parts to take P. f. flion of any Place in the Name of Her Britamick Maj dy, or of the Lords the States General, or to bring into these Countries the Or-dinary Devastations and usual Galamities of War; but to detend and protect the good good and Loyal Subjects of the faid Monarchy, and to free them from the infupportable Yoke of a Government of Foreigners, and from the Slavery to which they, have been reduced and fold to France, by ill-defigning Perfons. The Intention therefore of Her faid Majefty, and of the Loros the Slates General, being to maintain the juft Right of the Houfe of Anfria, and the Liberty and Priviledger of the Subjects of his Catholic Majefty : We declars and promife by thefe Prefents, that all Loyal and true Spainards, who thall not oppole our Forces, but give Demonstrations of their Loyal and due Obedience to their King Chirles the 3d. thall be protected and maintain'd in their Religion, Perfons; Effates, Offices and Priviledges, without any Moleffation. But if (contraty to our Hopes) the Inhabitants and People of the Forces under our concut with as in the Execution of the good Intentions of their for the forces under the Lords the States General : We take God to Witnefs, that they wilfully draw upon themfelves all the Hoftilities which may be committed by the Forces under our Command, and that the Blame will Iye at the Door of fuch Spainards, who when fo fair an Opportunity is offered them, to give Prophof their Loyalty, and follow the Motives of their Duty and Intereft, thall let dip to favourable a Conjuncture.

SIR T HE QUARN having underftood by the Duke of Strembury's last Letters, that the Catholick King did not intend that the Amnesty he granted to the Catalans, fhould extend to the Prefervation of their Priviledges; I cannot express to you, Sir, how much Surprize Her Majefty show'd upon it; for to fpeak plainly to you, 'twas never thought His Catholick Majefty defign'd to take away the Lives of the Inhabitants of a whole Province, fo there was no Occasion to provide for it by a Treaty. The fole Thing then intended in Ripulating a General Amnessity, could be no other, than that this Province fhould be permitted to enjoy the fame Priviledges, and be upon the fame Foot in every Respect, as it was at the Death of the late King of Spain, Charles the IId. The Queen, Sir, has order'd me to represent this to your Excellency in a most earnest manner, as a Matter in which Her Majesty's Honour is very much concern'd, That She looks upon it as an Article already flipulated in all its Forms, and which She thinks Herfelf oblig'd by Motives of Confcience not to depart from.

Gentlemen,

I Wish I could have seen, before my departure for England, the Defires of the Queen my Mistrels accomplished, but it is so long fince I have received Her Majesty's Orders to return, that I cannot defer the time any longer, and I fer out this Day from Madrid, in order to go and embark at Liston, where one of our Men of War stays for me, so that the best I thought I could do for you, was to employ the last Moments of my Stay, in Supplicating anew the King your Master, to receive your Obedience in the Words of the Treaty of Utreate. Usreeht, and to pardon your Refufal of the Amnefty which was offer'd you by his Catholick Majefly. # Nº. 59. Extract of a Letter from Mr. Burch to Mr. Tilfon, Dec. 4th, 1713. N. S.

HIS Lordship orders me to fend you likewise the Letter, mentioned therein to the Gentlemen of the Deputation of Barcelona, which his Excellency has been performed to write, at the repeated defire of this Court

That about a forraight ago this was propos'd to his Excellency by the French Ambaffador, who at the fame time read a Paragraph out of a Letter from Monficur Torey, wherein he fays, that the Queen had defir'd his Mafter to joyn with her, in order to induce this Court to accommodate that Affair; to which his Lordhip answered, that he could fay nothing to it, fince he had received no Orders to that purpofe.

That

That the fame was afterwards propos'd by the Princefs, and in a very prefing manner the morning before his Lordfhip left this Court, and at the fame time told him, that the King defired he would come to him that Evening, which his Lordfhip accordingly did, when his Majefty was pleafed to tell him, that he had receiv'd a Letter from his Grandfather to the fame purpofe with what the French Ambaffador had before told him, and that therefore he defired his Lordfhip would write fuch a Letter; upon which his Excellency told his Majefty much the fame as what you will find marked in his Letter to Mr. Ory; however he thought he could not refuse to comply, with his Majefty's repeated defire upon this occasion. effectially fince there is nothing contain'd in the faid Letter, but what has been agreed upon at Utrebs, and his Lordfhip was the more inclined thereto for this feafon, that if they had a Mind to accommodate, the Queen would have the Meditation; and if they had not, that then this Court would fee, that her: Majefty would be always ready to ferve them, and how neceffary She might be to them upon all occafions, which his Lordfhip hoped, would very much haften the Conclusion of the Peace.

W HEREAS the Treaty for the Evacuating of Catalonia has not been effectuated on the Part of his Imperial Majefty, and that the Inhabitants of Barcelona and Majorea do fiill refufe to put themfelves under the King of Spain's Subjection, live in an hoftile Manuer, committing great Depredations at Sea, and interrupting all Commerce and Correspondence in the Mediterranean, in which it is apprehended they will be affifted by the Afgerines and other Moors, to the univerfal Detriment of all the Trading Nations of Europe, unlefs fome speedy means be found to prevent the fame by a Naval Strength: It is fubmitted to the Confideration of Her Majefty, not only as Guarantee of the aforefaid Treaty of Evacuation, but as it fo materially concerns the Interest of Great Britain; and therefore his Catholick Majefty hopes, that Her Majefty will Order a Squadron of Her Ships of War, for the purpofe of tuppreffing those evil Practices, reducing his Catholick Majefty's Subjects to their Obedience, and thereby compleat the Tranquillity of Spain, and of the Mediterranean C.mmerce.

Nº 61. Extract of the Instructions for Sir James Wishart, February 28th, 1713.

W HEREAS frequent Complaints have been made to Us; that the Trade of our Subjects has been interrupted in those Seas in an unufual and extraordinary Manner by Ships and Veffels belonging to Catalanis, Majerca, Sardinia, Napler, and other Places; You are therefore upon all fuch Complaints which you shall receive from hence, or which shall be brought there by Our Subjects claiming your Protection, to apply in the most proper Method you can for Refituution to be made, and Satisfaction to be given; and you are to let the Perfons concerned know, that in case of refulal, you are directed to make Reprifals, and accordingly when you judge it neceflary, you are to make Reprifals upon fuch as refule to do Justice to Our Subjects; We being determined to do all that in Us lies towards reftoring the free and peaceable Navigation of those Seas, and fecuring the quiet and unmolested Commerce of all fair and lawful Traders.

"You will have herewith put into your Hands an Authentick Copy atteffed by Theophilus Blyke, late Commissiary of our Stores at Burcelona, of the Receipt given given there, for fuch Part of the faid Stores as were taken forcibly from him in the Month of August laft, notwithftanding his procuring an Article of his Instructions, by which he was forbid to deliver out any Stores unless by Direction from our Captaln-General, or Commander in Chief of our Forces; You will have likewife a Copy of a Letter from the Deputation at Barcelona to Our High Treasurer of Great Britain, and an Effimate of the Value of the aforefaid Stores attefted by the faid Theophilus Blyke. Upon these Foundations, when you come before the faid City of Barcelona, You will in Our Name demand the immediate Payment of the Value of the faid Stores according to the Effimate aforementioned, or a fufficient Security for the Payment thereof in fome reasonable Time ; and you will further represent to the Deputation of Barcelona on this Occasion, that they have great Reason to think themselves very tenderly us'd, if We only demand the Value of the Stores which were taken in fo unjuftifiable a Manner, to be paid Us; Whereas we might with fo much Equity, and on fo good Grounds likewife infift upon a full Reparation for the Affront offer'd to Us, in violently Seizing our Stores, and confining the Perfon of our Officer.

We have also directed that a Copy of the Convention made at Utrecht, for the Evacuation of Catalonia, and for preferving the Neutrality of Italy, fhould be put into your Hands. We eafily forefee that many Complaints will be made, and that many Difputes will arife concerning the Performance or Infraction of that Convention, whereof We made our Selves Contractor and Guarantee in fo very particular a Manner. Wherefore We think fit to require and Command you to Endeavour upon all Occasions to redrefs any thing that may be done contrary to it, and to enforce a ftrict Observance of it in all its Parts.

Upon your repairing to Barcelona, you are likewife to give Notice of your Arrival to Our Right, Oc. Robers Lord Bingley, whom we have appointed to be Our Ambaffador Extraordinary at the Court of Spain, and to lend him an Account of your Proceedings ; and in this and all other Matters relating to Our Service, you will take Care to Correspond with our faid Ambassador; particularly in Order to the putting an End to the Diforders and Confusions which now reign in those Parts. And when you shall be informed by our faid Ambaffador of the Negociations he has adjusted concerning the Inhabitants of Catalonia, and towards procuring the Quiet and Settlement of that Province, and of the Island of Mujorea, you shall upon fuch Informations and Advices take the neceffary Measures pursuant to Our Intentions, and the general Inftructions We have given you in that behalf, and according to fuch other In-Arutions as you may from Time to Time receive relating thereunto.

Nº 62. Extract of additional Instructions for Sir James Wishart, the 18th of March, 1713.

W HEREAS by Our Infructions to you bearing Date the 28th Day of VV February laft, you are directed to give Notice of your Arrival at Barce-lona to Our Right, Sc. Robert Lord Bingley, who is going as our Ambaffadour Extraordinary to the Court at Madrid, and to purfue fuch Meafures as are therein mentioned: Our Will and Pleasure is, that you should take Care to time your Arrival before the faid City of Barcelona, according to the Advices which you shall receive from our faid Ambassador. And whereas he will be Instructed to use his utmost Endeavours to obtain for the People of Catalonia (notwithstanding their refulal upon the Evacuation of that Country by the Troops of his Imperial Majefty, to Submit to Our good Brother the Catholick King) all the Security and Advantages that are possible, you shall therefore upon receiving from our faid Ambassador an Account of what he has been able to obtain from the Court at Madrid in their Behalf, endeavour by the frongeft Reprefentations you can make, to induce the Government of that Principality to accept of the Terms fo obtained, and no longer to continue a War, the Event of which must, fooner or later, be fatal to them.

And

And whereas by Our Inftructions afore-mentioned, We did likewife direct you to demand Satisfaction from the Inhabitants of the Ifland of Majorea and others, for the Piratical Depredations which have been and may be exercifed on any of our Subjects Trading in those Scas; Our further Will and Pleafure is, that you fhould in the first Place rake all proper Methods of Perfuasion to induce the Inhabitants of the faid Ifland to fubnit to the Terms which Our Ambaffador at Madrid aforefaid shall inform you to be offer'd to them; and in cafe they do partift in their Refufal to comply with fuch Terms, then you are to employ the Squadron under your Command in constrancing and affitting all Attempts which may be made for the reducing of the faid Ifland of Majorra to a due Obedience, that fo the fame having been yielded up by his Imperial Majefty, may become Subject to fome Government or other, and no longer remain in the State it is at prefent, a Harbour for Pirates and Robbers.

You are to take the first Opportunity you have, when you are on the Spot, and joining with the Spaniards in their Undertakings, to fettle with the Officers of the Court of Madrid, the feveral Species of Provision, and other Necessfaries which our lithand of Minorea that have Occasion to draw for their Sublistance from that of Majorea, and to adjust as far as possible the particular Rates and Prices at which the faid Provisions, and other Necessfaries shall from Time to Time be furnished.

You shall likewife take the best Care you can that it may be understood, that Our Subjects of the Island of Minorea may have free leave to ferch what Quantity of Wood they shall want for the Island of Ivica; and if you find the Spaniards to take Umbrage at this Practice, or to make a Difficulty of allowing this Liberty, then you are to infift, in confideration of the Friendship beeween Us and the Catholick King, and of the Obligations which he has to Us, that fome Agreements or Convention be made for fettling that Matter on the best Terms that can be obtained, and as shall be reasonable.

Y OU receiv'd, Sir, fometinte fince, Orders from the Queen of Great-Britain to ufe Her good Offices with the King in Favour of the Catalans, who have rebell'd against the King of Spain, and of the Inhabitants of Barcelona. You acquainted me, that Her Britennick Majefty was fure they would fubmit to the King their Master, if that Prince would grant them a general Amnefty, the Restitution and Enjoyment of all their Estates, and in fnort the fame Conditions which he had cauled to be offer'd them, and which they did not accept, without mentioning their ancient Privileges any more.

The Answer which the King just now receives from the Catholick King upon this Article, is, that he is still willing to grant the fame Conditions to the Rebellious Catalans, notwithstanding they render'd thentlelves unworthy of his Favours; by flighting them, and altho' he is now in a Condition to reduce them by Force : He defires the King to impart his Answer to the Gueen of Great-Britain, my Lord Lexington having had no Orders to speak about this Affair.

Nº. 64. Extract of my Lord Bolingbroke's Letter to Mr. Prior, Sept. 25th, 1713.

THE R E is a Perfon here, of whom we have never taken the leaft Notice as a publick Man, but who however, is an Agent from the Catalan. By what we observe in him it is pretty plain, that a reasonable Accommodation might might be made with that turbulent People. What is the Senfe of the French Court on this Matter? How far will they concur with the Queen in advising Philip to make an End of that War?

Nº 65. Extract of Sir James Wishart's Letter to my Lord Bingley, from Alicant-Road, the 19th of May, 1714. O. S.

Take leave to acquaint your Excellency, that upon my Arrival here, I re-ceived a very civil Letter from Monfieur Grimalde, his Catholick Majefty's Principal Secretary of State, in Anfwer to that I wrote to him from Cadiz, together with the King's Order for our being exempted from paying the Duties of fuch Wine. Oil, and other Provisions as we fhould have Occasion for in his Ports; but the Prices of them are fo very High, that though we have now that Divided as we will think of being finalise lifewhere in the Majeftyragene Priviledge, we must think of being fupplied elsewhere in the Mediterranean, if we don't find them cheaper in some other Ports of Spain.

My Lord, Whereas it has been usual, That the Grant of Exemption from the faid Duties, has been made to the Admiral and Commander in Chief of Her Majefty's Ships when on these Coafts: I defire your Excellency may be pleafed to move, that the taid Grant be made to myfelf, if you think Conve-nient; but as this is but a Trifle, I fubmit it to your better Judgment, whe-ther the Granting of it may not be a means to prevent any thing that might the three draining or a may not be a means to prevent any ming that might be intended from the Court of Madrid more to my Advantage, and do leave it intirely to your Confideration what may be most for my Interest at that Place. And I hope by your Lordship's Frie tiship to find fome Marks of Fa-vour from thence in regard of the very great Expence I am at in this Expedi-tion, which is fo much intended for their Service, and for which I have no Allowers from Home but my Day, which was defined by the form the service. ## N° 68. Translation of the Letter from the City of Barcelona, to Sir James Wishart, July 23d, 1714. N. S.

YOUR Excellency's Letter of the 8th inftant O. S. which was deliver'd to us by Captain Thomas Gordon and Captain John Pulley, Commanders of the Moor and Launcefton, contains your Complaints againft us, that our Privateers have detain'd the English Ships, having plunder'd and abus'd them, and depriv'd them of the Freedom of Trade; for which reafon your

Then, and depived then of the Precedent of Trade, for which reach your Excellency demands Satisfaction for Damages; and to inform us of this Fact, Captain Gordon has communicated to us, a Memorial which we anfwer'd immediately; and we have the Honour to acquaint your Excellency, that only one of thefe Veffels mention'd in the faid Memorial, laden with Salt, was brought into this Harbour by our Privateers; and that after having taken out her Lading, and entirely paid the Captain for the fame, he would Sail out of the Port with all his Sails, and a ftrong Wind, the Pilot having no regard to the fhallownels of the Water, nor to the Intimation that was given him of the Danger to which he exposed himfelf, as he experienced ir, for he run a-ground at the entrance of the Harbour, and got off with much Didiculty, by the fpeedy Affiftance that was given him. Neverthelefs we do not think we ought to pay for the Damages occafion'd by the III Conduct of the Pilot.

As to the other Ships mention'd in Captain Gerdon's Memorial, as we have not had the least knowledge of it, we suppose there must be some mistake; it may be alfo that at Majorea or Juica they may know fomething of it. However, we can give an account of fome other Ships that came into this Port to fell the Provifions they had on board : they were well used, and fold freely their Goods at a higher Price than they could have got any where elfe, having paid them with our best fort of Mony to their intire fatisfaction, having thus fupply'd us with what we wanted, being befieg'd; in which condition, according to the Law of Nations, we are perfuaded we have not acted against justice or Reason, as your Excellency will fee by the enclofed Copys of Letters, which we writ to the Go-vernour of Port-Mahon, and Commadote George Camock, and by the Anfwer of the former to this City; whereby we doubt not but your Excellency will be con-vinced of the Juftice of our Proceedings, and be made feasible, that the News fpread in Europe that we lived like Pirates, is a mere Invention of our Enemys, to render us odious to Mankind, and hinder them from trading with us, thereby to deprive us of all Neceffarys for our Sublittence, in order to reduce us the fooner. And to convince your Excellency how much we value a good Corre-fpondence and Union with the English Nation, an Order was publish'd this day in this City, forbidding our Privateers, upon pain of Death, not to take, detain, or abufe any English Ship under any pretence what foever, altho they flould even carry Provisions to the Enemy. We hope your Excellency will be fo just as to approve our Conduct, which is conformable to the Rights of People that are befieg'd; affuring you, that when we shall know of any of our Ships, either with Commission, or without, that shall have caused the least damage to any Englifh Ship, we will not only punifh them rigoroufly, but fhall likewife be ready to make good all Damages, as we told Capt. Gordon more at large: for we defire always to continue in that good Correspondence, which we have maintain'd hitherto with your Noble and Generous Nation, and to fhew our most profound Respect towards the Queen of Great Britain; as also to obey your Excellency's Orders, which we earneftly defire you will pleafe to honour us with, being with great Truth and Respect, crc.

Letter from the Town of Barcelona to Sir James Wilhart, 23 July, 1714.

rOUR Excellency very well knows, that the Engagement Catalonia enter'd Y into, to receive Charles the Third for their King, was founded on the Pro-tection of the High Allies, but most particularly of England; without which we were not capable of coming into fo great an Undertaking. It was carry'd on feven Years, during which time we have always feen most Valiant English Troops, that have diftinguished themselves not only in the Sieges of Places, but alfo in their Defence; particularly in that of Cardona, which as it was the laft Action, fo it is frefher in our Memory. In all this time Cardonia endeavour'd to ferve the English Nation to the utmost of their power, by contributing Troops, and confiderable Sums of Mony without Intereft. And tho we had pleafed our felves with the thoughts of the Happinels to be always Subjects of Charles the Third, feeing him to powerfully supported; yet by the ordinary Change to which human Affairs are liable, we now fee the Troops of the Duke of Anjou, affifted by the French, Masters of all the Principality, except Barcelona and Cardona : committing through the whole, the most execuable Hostilities, Burnings, and Plunder-ings, without sparing the Effusion of innocent Blood, and without distinction of Age or Sex. The Enemy have for a Year oppress'd this Town by Sea and Land, and we continually fuffer the Calamitys of fo long a Blockade; during which time above fourteen thousand Bombs have been thrown into the Town, which have ruin'd the greatest part of the Houses. They are now endeavouring to attack us in form, and we fear that in twenty four Hours the Town will be batter'd in Breach.

We cannot express to your Excellency with how much grief we fee the Danger the Inhabitants are exposed to, of becoming the Victims of that Creekty? with which they are threated by the Enemy; and having no other Comfort left, but to fly to the Queen of Great Britain, we implore her Protection by the inclosed Letter to Don Pable Ignacio Dalmafer, our Envoy at London. In the mean time, till an Anfwer can come, we befeech your Excellency from our Souls to mediate with the French Troops, who oppreis us, for a Sufficution of Arms: fince at the Congress of Baden, where Endeavours are using to conclude a General Peace, this Affair may fill be determined. We doubt not but your Excellency's Mediation will be powerful enough to procure us this Relief, your Excellency being Commander in the Addiserrantan, and your Squafron being Superiour, to that of the Enemy. We fee no other Remedy but this, in Nature, to our Misfortunes; and therefore we hope your Excellency will not refuse us: in this, our Relief confifts. And if Catalonia has merited any thing by its Services, and by its Conjunction with the Englifk Nation, this is now the time to receive the Fruits of it, being worthy, by the means of your Excellency, of this Benefit; for which, all the Principality, and this Town, will ever be oblig'd to the whole Nation, and particularly to your Excellency: defiring nothing more than to compenfate, by our Services, this Favour, which we hope from your Excellency's Goodues. It is worthy of your Excellency to comfort the Affilied, and not to deny us this Favour in our great Excellency to honour us with your Orders, and that God grant you a long Life,  $\sigma e$ .

Am to acquaint your Excellency, that having received a Letter on the third of laft Month, from Monfieur de Grimaldo, Secretary of State to the King of Spain, fignifying to me from his Majefly, That the Flota from New Spain was daily expected at Cadiz, and that all his Ships of War being now employ'd before Barcelona, he could not fend any of them to meet the faid Flota as nual, to give them Affiftance in cafe of their being difabled, or otherwife in want thereof; and therefore defiring that three of her Majefly's Ships under my Command, of the fourth Rate, might cruize off Cape Sr. Vincent, to look out for the faid Flota: I thought it proper to comply with the King's Defire therein, and did accordingly order three Ships of that Rate to proceed on that Service, and continue thereon till the middle of this Month. I have acquainted my Lord Bolingbroke with it, and hope to meet with her Majefly's Approbation of the fame.

It is easy for those who find their Interest in the War, (I make use of your own Expressions) to raise and keep up Misunderstandings: This is what ill-meaning People endeavour at, as well with us as ellewhere. I am neverthelels in no great pain, fince it does but depend on the most Christian King to render their Efforts of no use : The Explications you promise me will diffipate all these Clouds; and you may believe we will make use thereof with great Referve, when I assure you, That if the King would but offer, as he has heretofole done, a Plan of Specifick Preliminaries, the Queen would never communicate it to her Allies.

I fhall conclude in affuring you, That provided the Sieur Gaultier returns with these Marks of Confidence, of which I make no doubt, you will fee our Parliament, which is going to meet, as much inclinable to Peace as ever it was to
