ALEXANDER'S PALACE. A Part of It Still Stands in Macedonia. The massive fragments of an ancient gateway, known to the natives as the Palace of Alexander the Great, are still to be seen in Macedonia. G. F. Abbott, the traveler, says: "We alighted at a miserable 'khan' kept by a swarthy and lanky individual, whom his shrewd face and flattened skull proclaimed a son of South Albania. The peculiar formation of the skull is not due to nature as a hasty cranologist might surmise, but to the midwife. It is said that when a South Albanian is born the midwife slaps him on the back of the head, giving at the same time utterance to the wish that he may live to be a baker or a brigand; the slap of bread and the spilling of blood being the two most lucrative and honored professions in that country. "Within the precincts of this inn stands the begrimed monument of the Roman, C. Vibius, whose title of achievements can still be deciphered upon the sides of the block-poor monuments of past greatness. A marble slab with a half-effaced inscription serves as a doorstep, and some fragments of columns are built into the inclosures of the 'khan.' Facing this establishment and a little further down on the plain are the massive remains of a massive gateway fringed with woods and known to the natives of the district as the palace of Alexander the Great."

$80 FOR SALE OF CIGARETTES

A Heavy Fine For Selling Tobacco to Boys.

Magistrate Ritchie Takes Strong Action Against Violation of Minor Law—Sunday Closing.

If you've not begun as yet Oh, beware the cigarette.

This was the substance, if not the exact words of the warning issued by Police Magistrate Ritchie this morning when he strongly condemned the use of cigarettes by young men, and as a mark of his disapproval of their sale to minors fined John Spedakes, of Charlotte street, $80 or six months in jail.

There was a case before the court the other day, when George Robertson, of Main street, was fined $10 because his clerk gave a boy a piece of tobacco. His honor said at the time that in future he would impose the full penalty. Mr. Spedakes pleaded guilty to two charges this morning, but denied the third offence, which was not pressed. He was defended by J. A. Sinclair, of Macrae & Sinclair, who asked that any fine imposed be allowed to stand as his client was ignorant of the law, and that in Montreal, where he came from, cigarettes could be sold to anyone.

The witnesses against Spedakes, lady named Harley and Totten, twelve and eleven years of age respectively, stated they bought cigarettes at Mr. Spedakes' store. Totten, who is eleven, when asked how long he had been smoking cigarettes replied in the most matter of fact way, "Oh, about a year and a half."

His honor, in delivering sentence, called Officer McCallum forward and complimented him on making the report. He said that it was the duty of every officer to report such cases as the cigarettes smoking, which was ruining the lads of this city. He hoped that in future all policemen would follow up this matter and instructed the force to arrest any and all boys who were found not only smoking, but with cigarettes in their possession.

"Being then heard on his honor, "and I will deal with them, also the man who sells the cigarettes."

His honor then asked the witnesses against the pernicious habit, telling them that it would not only ruin their eyesight, but perhaps send them to a mental asylum. He fined Mr. Spedakes forty dollars or three months in jail for both cases, but allowed the fine in the second case to stand.

Mr. Spedakes' attention was called to the fact that there was a report against him for keeping his store open on Sunday. Mr. Sinclair stated that Mr. Spedakes' store was closed the past two Sundays, and that he would guarantee that the store would not be opened on a Sunday again till the supreme court has rendered its opinion on the appeals now before them. Mr. Spedakes agreed to this and the case was dropped.

CHILD IMMIGRANTS. Premier Tweedie, Hon. C. H. LaBillois, Hon. L. P. Farris and Hon. P. J. Sweeney arrived in the city last night from Fredericton. At a meeting of the government cabinet was read from Miss Estlin C. L. Close, of Eaton Square, London, Eng., proposing a scheme for the relief of child emigrants. Miss Close thinks she could induce the British government to send the names of the children to the local government who would promise a free grant of unimproved land to every group of four adults and twenty children the purchased cleared land. The government made a favorable reply and are willing to make the grant twelve hundred acres, or more than was asked.

Attorney General Pugsley will see Miss Close when he goes to England, which will be very shortly.

SUPREME COURT.

FREDERICTON, Nov. 8.—At the afternoon session of the supreme court yesterday the following cases were taken up.—The King v. Wm. Wilkinson, Judge Gloucester coram ex parte Delphic. An order nisi to quash cause against an order nisi to quash granted by Judge Landry, Barry, K. C., in support of rule. Court considers The King v. Ray, F. M. of Westmorland Co., ex parte C. T. Legere. C. A. Steeves shows cause against an order nisi granted by Tuck, C. J., to quash a convention for keeping liquor for sale. Mr. Barry in support of rule. There are eight cases, and it was ordered that they stand over until the Hilary term. In the meantime Mr. Steeves can file affidavits.

COPPER TAGS ON SALMON. Government expert Mowatt finished his work yesterday of stripping the salmon in the Carleton pond of their spawn. One thousand and twenty salmon were stripped. Eight hundred of the fish were marked with copper tags for the purpose of ascertaining if the same spawning grounds. The tags were fastened to their dorsal fins by a silver wire, bearing the inscription "C.—1904," meaning Canada, 1904. This idea of tagging salmon is something new.

TO JAIL FOR PROPOSING A KISS. PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 8.—James Massey, appeared before Ald. Barton today, charged with offering three girls five dollars for a kiss at Fifth avenue and Elm street. Massey was fined five dollars and costs or ten days in jail. He refused to pay the fine and said to the alderman: "I know that you have it in for me. You're a Republican and I'm a Democrat."

ROOSEVELT'S MAJORITY WILL BEAT ALL RECORDS

Will Probably Have 343 Votes in Electoral College--Parker Back On His Farm--Folk Elected.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—President Roosevelt probably will have 325 electoral votes as the result of yesterday's balloting. Late unofficial returns give a basis for this estimate which, however, may be increased by 18 votes from Missouri, when the returns from that state shall have been completed, or, on the other hand, may be decreased by seven votes when the count is completed in West Virginia. Both sides claim a victory in Missouri, where the Republican state committee believe they have elected Walbridge for governor by 2,000 to 4,000 and have carried the state for Roosevelt. In West Virginia, the returns have come in very slowly, but a Republican victory is indicated.

A tabulated statement of the indicated results is as follows: ROOSEVELT AND FAIRBANKS. Estimated Electoral Plurality. Vote.

Table with 2 columns: State and Plurality. Vote. Includes entries for Colorado, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, New Jersey, New York, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Nevada, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, West Virginia, Washington, Wisconsin, Wyoming, and Total.

THE KAISER CONGRATULATES. WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—President Roosevelt has received the following cablegram from Emperor William: "New Palace, Nov. 8, 1904. 'President Roosevelt, United States of America, Washington. Sincere congratulations. May heaven give you prosperity. Tumtum bonum felix faustumque sit populo Americano.' (Signed) WILLIAM, I. R."

Free translation of the Italian in the above cablegram is as follows: "May your good administration be happy and prosperous to the American people."

DIED WITH WIFE IN BLAZING HOME. Saved His Three Children and Aged Father and Mother and Than Roof Collapsed.

CHAUNCEY, N. Y., Nov. 8.—After saving the lives of his three little children and his aged father and mother in a fire that destroyed his hotel here 4 1/2 miles from the city, Chauncey was killed to death while trying to rescue his wife. Their bodies were afterward being by the fire in the cellar. All the members of the family were asleep when the fire started. The elder Capple smelled smoke and awoke the children. One by one he carried them out in their night clothes and then went back for his father and mother, both of whom he brought in safety to the street.

By this time the house was in flames and it was discovered that Mrs. Mary Capple, wife of the hotel keeper, was missing. Capple dashed through the smoke and climbed the front staircase, which was already blazing. His wife was lying senseless on the floor of her room, the flames only a few yards away from her. As he reached the top of the staircase the roof of the structure suddenly collapsed and immediately after it the walls fell in. Man and wife were caught in a trap and went plunging down with the ruins. It was not until hours afterward that they were found together in the cellar.

Chauncey is a small hamlet and has no fire department. An appeal for aid was sent to DeWitt Perry and Ardley, each about three miles away, but by the time the engines arrived the little inn was in ashes.

"TEMPORARY MARRIAGES." Chapter I. "Will you be mine, Felicia?" "For how long, Albert?" "For fifteen years, dearest." "No; but I will be for ten years." "Can't you make it twelve?" "Yes, up to the collar." "All right. Here's the ring. Take good care of it, for I may need it again."

Chapter II. "Do you promise to take this woman for better or for worse for ten years?" "No subject, of course, to renewal of contract." "Do you promise to love, honor, and obey?" "Yes, up to September 30, 1914." "I pronounce you man and wife. Let no man put asunder in the meantime." (Ten years later.) "Well, Albert, your ten years are up to-day. Do you want an extension of the contract?" "No, thanks, dearest. I'm booked for the next ten years with Fanny Bishop. Her contract with Charley Bishop expires soon, you know."

"Why, of course. How stupid of me to forget. In that case I'll accept Arthur Bridgeport for five years. His contract with Adelaide is up next Friday at noon." Chapter IV. (Five years later.) "Whose little boy are you?" "I'm Uncle Sam's little boy."

"Where are your parents, my lad?" "Papa's doing six years with the late Mrs. Bishop, and mamma, I understand, is married at present to Mr. Bridgeport. Her contract expires some time next month, through her having failed to get a renewal."—Chicago Tribune.

The new Consolidated School at Kingston was opened today. Representatives at the opening from St. John county were: F. M. Anderson, W. E. Skilton, Premier Tweedie and Hon. Messrs. LaBillois, Farris, Sweeney and Dr. Inch were present.

Miss Alexandra Compton returned home the first of this week after making a pleasant visit with relatives in England.

PORT ARTHUR'S END IS NEAR

Japs Capture Two More Important Positions

Civilians are Assisting Russian Soldiers to Defend the Fortress Bombardment is Continuous.

TOKIO, Nov. 8, 4 p. m.—It is reported that the Japanese have completely silenced the forts on Ribbing and Suning mountains and that their main strength is now attacking Etas mountain.

CHEE POO, Nov. 8, 12.30 p. m.—The Japanese continue to bombard Port Arthur and the shells are falling so incessantly that the Russians have practically abandoned the repair of the works protecting the harbor.

Citizen volunteers and the police are now reinforcing the garrisons of the forts, according to the stories of Chinese arriving here.

So many men were killed on both sides during the last assault that many bodies lay unburied for days and in some instances dogs ate the dead.

The Chinese say that the forts on Golden Hill have done practically no firing for months past, and it is believed their ammunition has run short.

The demolition of the Chinese new town is almost completed, a thousand houses having been destroyed for the valuable fire wood they contain. The town is constantly catching fire and the majority of the warehouses and stores belonging to foreigners have been burned to the ground.

A BLOW TO CHAMBERLAIN.

American newspapers generally look upon the Liberal victory as Canada's condemnation of Mr. Chamberlain's policy of imperial preferential trade and are accordingly uplifted and see pleasant visions, some of reciprocity on favorable terms to the States and many of ultimate annexation. The following from the Portland Press is a fair sample:

"The result is a blow to Chamberlainism. The Conservatives stood for the Chamberlain policy of closer imperial bonds, preferential tariffs between the members of the empire and retaliatory tariffs against the rest of the world so far as it erected tariffs against British trade—in other words, imperial union and protection. The Chamberlain program has few charms for them, and instead of closer union with the mother country they are inclined to draw away. That was seen in the Dundonald episode, when a British soldier and one of the heroes of the South African war being sent to take command of the Canadian militia and expressing free criticism of the government, was sent packing. This was a pointed declaration of independence, and it figured to some extent in the recent elections. But the electorate, far from rebuking the treatment of the king's general, seemed to endorse it."

While this is decidedly unfair to the Canadian people it is a justifiable inference. The Laurier government has more than once shown its distaste for any plan that would unite the empire more closely while the leader of the Conservative party has taken a stand strongly the other way. Twice in the last parliament he offered the support of the whole opposition to a motion approving Mr. Chamberlain's policy and twice Sir Wilfrid refused, threatening, if Mr. Borden should introduce such a resolution himself, to ask his supporters to vote it down.

So it is natural that the Liberal success should be interpreted as an expression of the Canadian people against imperialism, though such an interpretation is unjust to a people to whom the issue was not fairly presented by the government. Probably nine-tenths of Canadians if squarely faced with the question as Mr. Borden presented it to Laurier in parliament would endorse Mr. Chamberlain. But the government took care that no such presentation was made and succeeded in convincing its followers that any statements touching their lack of enthusiasm toward any scheme of imperial union were "Pony Hot."

However, those in Europe and the States who judge the parties by their public records rather than by campaign speeches and editorials cannot escape the conclusion that the popular approval of Laurier was an approval as much of his opposition to the preferential scheme as of anything else in his policy. As the Americans are made president so will the Little Englanders be and if Mr. Chamberlain and his cause are defeated Canadians who supported the present government, whether they favor Chamberlainism or not, will have the assurance that they contributed not a little to the result.

ROOSEVELT'S VICTORY. More probably than in any other presidential election the Republican success yesterday was a personal victory for the man at the head of the ticket.

The man Roosevelt was practically the only issue between the two parties. There was little difference on any great question of policy. Both parties were nominally opposed to the trusts. On the tariff, while the parties differed theoretically, the Democrats, in the face of the country's prosperity under a high protective system dared endorse no radical changes. On the Philippine question, while the course of the administration was of course condemned, the opposition could offer no definite solution of the problem which the Spanish war had forced upon the American people.

the power to make them real. Perhaps not altogether what the cultured English would call a gentleman—a little too impulsive and vociferous for that—but a man, most emphatically a man and one who when he wants anything reaches out and takes it without a "by your leave" to anybody. Now, how could a real Yankee vote against a man like that?

Roosevelt's renunciation of his ambition for a third term in the White House, makes it more certain that his work during the next four years will be directed wholly by the interests of the American people, not partly in their interests and partly in Theodore Roosevelt's, as it has been for the last three years.

Suppose the G. T. P. completed. Suppose a carload of freight has reached Montreal on its way to a sea port. There are two to choose from and one, St. John, is many miles nearer than Halifax. But suppose Mr. Fielding is premier of Canada. Which way will that carload go?

This is a bad year for oppositions. In Newfoundland, Canada, Italy and United States the existing governments have been emphatically sustained. For these reasons the world is prospering just now, and of course the various governments brought it about.

Shake, Judge Parker. We know just what you feel like.

BORDEN AND THE ANGEL.

Hon. R. L. Borden (may his tribe increase) Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace.

And saw an angel at his writing stand, Scribbling upon a sheet of paper. And, Regaining his composure, Bob spoke out: And asked the Angel what he wrote about.

The heavenly scribe made answer: Upon this little sheet in black and white, The name that soon will fill the premier's place, The winner in the great election race.

The gallant Borden queried then, "Tell me the name of the victor, please." The name you write, does it begin with B?"

"No," said his guest, "it is a burning shame, But as things stand I cannot write your name."

The Canadian people think, so I perceive, It is more blessed to give than to receive. So they are willing to be taxed and then Build railroads for the good of Portland's men. But long before this term has rolled in space, They wish your name had been in Laurier's place.

So cheer up, Robert, things will come alright. 'Twill be a different name next time I write."

Borden replied, "Put me down, then. As one who toiled for good of fellow men."

The Angel wrote and vanished. The next night he called on the other side. He called on Bob again, but not to write.

He said, "Upon this scroll that meets your eye I've something that I thought would interest you. A few of Canada's statesmen, just the best."

Lo! R. L. Borden's name led all the rest.

"JOSEPHUS."

LOCAL NEWS.

Emerson & Fisher's big building on German street is advancing rapidly, and a large gang of men are hard at work getting it closed in ready for interior finishing. With its immense height it presents an imposing appearance and adds much to the appearance of the street. It is a curious thing to note that the three principal buildings constructed this season, viz., the Bank of Commerce, the Union Club addition and the E. & F. store and warehouse are all within two blocks and on the same street, which shows the growing importance of German street as a business centre.

The quarterly meeting of the St. John Sunday School Association was held last evening in St. Mary's school house. There was a good attendance of Sunday school workers. Rev. A. D. Dewdney occupied the chair. After the regular routine business a paper was read by Rev. John Desjardes on the holding of Church History.

Miss Eleanor Robinson will give an interesting talk in the Stone church school room on Thursday evening at eight o'clock on A Home Missionary of the 18th Century. Light refreshments will be served. Tickets may be had at the Church of England Institute.

F. W. Hodgson, dominion live stock commissioner, passed through the city yesterday on his way to Amherst, where he goes to make arrangements for the holding of the winter fair, which will be opened on Dec. 15th.

Among the distinguished visitors who have been to the city since the opening of the season are C. C. James, deputy minister of agriculture for Ontario. The Bandman-Opera Co. opened their engagement at Kingston, Jamaica, on Saturday, Oct. 23, playing Cigales to a crowded house. The private members of the old St. John favorites, including Harry Cole, Mark Lester and Miss Nora Morra.

At eleven o'clock at night, while the captain and myself were engaged on deck in our usual game, the second officer, Mr. McFarland, came up excitedly and said, "Captain Mather, there are breakers ahead." The islands had been visible for a day or so, and now were not far distant on either side of the south shore of Long Island. The night was as dark as that of the surf on the south shore of Long Island. The moon and the stars were brilliant. The wind had almost died away. The canvas was full ahead, the sails hanging idly, occasionally flapping. We soon found that a very strong current was setting in rapidly toward the breakers, and that the wind wholly failed to help us counter it. We at once equipped the men for hours, the masted sails and halyards for two lines, manned the boats with six oarsmen each, and lowered them from the davits. They instantly took hold of the ship, and the twelve oars were vigorously pulled. With the utmost exertion of the oarsmen, head on to the current, and the men could barely hold the ship steady.

With the aid of the glass we saw thousands of natives at points on the shores, evidently waiting for our approach, and expecting disaster. They were reputed to be cannibals, and our chances were discussed with considerable interest. The captain, then in request, assured the chief officer, unusually plump and fleshy, that he (the chief officer) would be roasted and carved first, and that he (the captain) would be kept a while at least till they could fatten him. After several hours of toil and tension a breeze—sprung up, filled our sails and enabled us to claw off, and slowly round the southern islands of the group.

CANNIBALS AWAITING A SHIP-WRECK. (Atlantic Monthly.)

At eleven o'clock at night, while the captain and myself were engaged on deck in our usual game, the second officer, Mr. McFarland, came up excitedly and said, "Captain Mather, there are breakers ahead." The islands had been visible for a day or so, and now were not far distant on either side of the south shore of Long Island. The night was as dark as that of the surf on the south shore of Long Island. The moon and the stars were brilliant. The wind had almost died away. The canvas was full ahead, the sails hanging idly, occasionally flapping. We soon found that a very strong current was setting in rapidly toward the breakers, and that the wind wholly failed to help us counter it.

With the aid of the glass we saw thousands of natives at points on the shores, evidently waiting for our approach, and expecting disaster. They were reputed to be cannibals, and our chances were discussed with considerable interest. BOULANGER'S HORSE.

(From the London Dolly Telegraph.) While drawing a vegetable across the Place de la Concorde, in the blazing sun, an old black horse fell down, rolled over and died. 'Sic transit gloria mundi' must have been his supreme reflection. Perhaps he remembered another July day, not so many years ago, when across that same Place de la Concorde he stepped majestically, carrying on his back a short, thick-set man with a pointed, blond beard, in general's uniform—not a particularly imposing man in himself, but one whom a great crowd welcomed as a hero as he rode back at the head of the Paris garrison from Longchamps to the war office, 'revenge de la revue.' For the poor old black horse was Tunis, General Boulanger's charger. What would Boulanger have been in the popular mind without his 'cheval noir'? The brave general did not long survive his downfall, but poor Tunis went through every stage of decadence, first ridden by mere common men who were not even Boulangers, then put into carriage shafts, and finally placed in the harness in which he had died—that of a central market vegetable woman's cart. Happily, he was well treated to the last, and succumbed to old age as well as to the heat, being full of years and rich in experience.

YORK TORIES CELEBRATE.

The Supporters of Mr. Crockett at Banquet—Organization Planned.

FREDERICTON, Nov. 8.—At Lindsay's restaurant last evening, Conservatives to the number of about one hundred and twenty-five, representing all sections of the county, gathered about the festive board.

The occasion was brought about by the Conservative victory in York, and the young men and stalwarts of the party who had helped by untiring zeal to bring about that result had met to discuss the fruits of their work on Thursday last and lay the foundation for still better results in the future.

After dinner man had been satisfied the usual round of toasts and speeches, followed. Mr. Crockett was received most enthusiastically and spoke pleasantly and pointedly.

Among the other speakers who were called upon were: Major Howe, of Stanley; John Young, of Nashwaak; Messrs. Lewis Ellis, Douglass McCahalan, M. P. elect, and J. P. McLeod.

It was a grand wind up to a glorious victory. DISHES THAT WON'T BREAK. If seedless oranges and boneless shanks have been such a valuable addition to the menu of civilized households, what shall be said of unbreakable tableware as a boon to housewives.

SNATCHED FROM NIAGARA'S BRINK.

Young Woman Was Being Swept Over the Rapids to the Falls When Saved.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Miss Carrie Wahl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Wahl, of No. 1513 Eighth street, this city, is believed to have made a sensational attempt at suicide in the Niagara River this afternoon.

At the risk of their lives the men made their way out on the rocks and waited until the woman came near. Both men were in imminent danger of being swept into the water and over the falls, but they pluckily made their way forward, and finally succeeded in grasping the young woman by her hair.

With Brady's help he pulled her out on the rocks, and the two men then began the task of getting the now unconscious woman back to the shore. Brady and Haney went into the water several times, but in each instance they clung to the rocks and prevented themselves from being drawn into the rushing current.

When the men reached solid footing with the young woman they took her in an automobile and took her to Memorial Hospital. The girl's coat and hat were found at the foot of Fourth street, and the girl's coat and hat were found at the foot of Fourth street.

MR. BORDEN MUST WAIT.

No Seat Can be Vacated for Him Until After Parliament is Formally Opened.

(Special to the Star) OTTAWA, Nov. 8.—The announcement that a seat in the house of commons will be vacated for Mr. Borden gives great satisfaction to the Conservatives of this district. It does not seem possible, however, under the statute that an arrangement can be made to bring Borden into parliament in time for the opening of the house.

There is no possibility moreover under the law of Laurier vacating his seat before the session. A. B. Ayleworth is expected here tomorrow night to be sworn as member of the privy council and of the cabinet without portfolio.

LITTLE TOES VANISHING.

(New York Correspondence Chicago Inter-Ocean.)

Dr. George F. Shrayd, in commenting today on the theory of Sir John Murray that the little toe would eventually disappear, said such a thing might happen if the custom of compressing and distorting the foot within the confines of a shoe continues.

"The theory of the disappearance of the little toe within the next ten thousand years," he said, "is based upon Darwin's teachings. Disuse of certain parts of the body and their elimination is a natural result of evolution. Disuse of a part causes its weakening and gradual elimination.

"Disuse is proved in the case of women. Their feet are much smaller than men's because they have been coddled and have done so little walking. On the other hand policemen have big feet. Unless man revolts against the pressure of tight shoes his little toe will grow smaller and become almost useless."

MONTANA CORNER'S VERDICT.

"Gentlemen," said the Montana coroner, "this is a case where the decedent lying before you was mistaken in his man. He sets out to look for Steve Brady and Bill with lead, but comes across Sam Anderson instead and stops to ask him what he'll take for the cayuse he is riding. Sam sets a price and they got into a row and Bill Harper is shot dead.

"There is no question in my mind that Bill found Steve he would have plunked him and there is no question but he was found by Sam and got plunked himself, but out of respect for the statutes made out and provided it is my duty to inform you that a verdict of rash of blood to the head will be perfectly satisfactory to all interested parties."

Sydney Ward Man Wanted to Vote for Alderman Barker.

Now that the election is over, many comic incidents are cropping up. In Sydney ward, where the colored vote largely reside, some funny things are reported to have occurred. Sometime in the afternoon of election day a colored resident presented himself at one of the polling divisions and gave his name. Upon ascertaining that he was a voter the returning officer handed him a ballot. The colored resident looked at the ballot and displeasure was marked on his countenance.

"I don't want to vote for dem," he said. "I wants to vote for Alderman Barker."

UNPLEASANT CHARGE AGAINST POLICE.

Officers Accused of Refusing to Help a Sick Man to His Home.

Geo. McMasters, of 146 Rockland street, complained to Police Magistrate Ritchie this morning that while taking a sick man to his home on Fort Howe about one o'clock Tuesday morning the police had refused to give him any assistance, saying the distance was too far.

Mr. McMasters said his friend was employed in a hotel and was troubled with a headache. While going up Main street he had a bad attack. He placed him in a door way and went in search of a physician. Returning he met Sergeant Hastings and asked him to help him get the man home. The sergeant refused him to Officer Smith, who said it was too far to where the man lived. By a great effort Mr. McMasters says he succeeded in getting the man home and he is now in bed. The night was a bitterly cold one, with snow falling and the physician in attendance was of the opinion that if the man had been allowed to remain out he would have died.

In answer to a question Mr. McMasters said the man was perfectly sober.

Mr. McMasters demanded of the magistrate a full enquiry, which has been promised him.

A COP'S COMPLAINT.

Officers Ward had a complaint and does not in the least like the way he was treated. Yesterday he arrested a man named Mitchell, who was so drunk he had to hire a team to cart him to the station. He paid the truckman twenty-five cents and this morning did not get his money back. Mitchell was broke and went to jail and there does not seem to be any fund for cartage.

AN ELECTION BET.

How the Broker Bought a New Straw Hat.

This is another story about the man who laughed last. A couple of days before the election a well known broker and a prominent King street merchant made a bet. The broker bet the merchant a new hat that both Daniel and Stockton would be elected.

The day after the election the broker called around to get that hat. "All right," said the merchant, "it's yours. Go over to —'s and get it. But remember," he called out as the broker hurried away. "Remember, that it's got to be a straw hat. I won't pay for any other."

Then the merchant and some of his friends who were there laughed joyfully at the bet on the broker's hat had to buy a straw hat in November when he wanted a new silk one.

But it wasn't the merchant who laughed when, a half hour later, the bill came across the street: To one Panama hat . . . $15.00.

TURKEYS VERY SCARC.

The outlook for the Thanksgiving turkey supply is disappointing both to the dealer and the consumer. The scarcity of turkeys so marked about this time last year has every indication of being repeated. The turkey death may be attributed largely to cholera, which raged among the turkeys in the spring, carrying off the young in scores. The havoc of the disease among the birds may be exemplified by the case of one raiser. This man raised about 45 turkeys and lost 37 of them by the disease.

Fowl are quite plentiful and exceptionally good eating.
