

PUBLIC CHEATED OF $100,000,000 THROUGH MAILS

Postmaster General Hitchcock Leads Raid On Offices Of Company Responsible For Nearly Half That Amount.

BURR BROTHERS AND CONTINENTAL WIRELESS

New York, Nov. 21.—In a raid so important that Postmaster General Hitchcock himself took charge, his inspectors fell on two concerns today which they charge with swindling the public out of more than $100,000,000 by fraudulent use of the mails.

The government charges that the firm sold between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 in mining and oil stocks worth little or nothing.

The present campaign of the government against persons whom it accuses of fraudulent use of the mails, began some months ago, and resulted in the arrest of Louis Cella and his associates, charged with operating a string of "bucket" shops.

Postmaster General Hitchcock estimates that the public has been fleeced out of at least $100,000,000 by get-rich-quick schemes in the last five years, but he says their heyday has gone.

LORD LANSDOWNE OFFERS REMEDY

Full Text of Resolution to be Submitted to Lords Tomorrow—Polling Begins December 3.

AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN. Two of the Opposing Leaders. DAVID LLOYD GEORGE.

London, Nov. 21.—The Lords have presented their case to the country in the coming electoral struggle, a case which John E. Redmond, leader of the Nationalists in a speech at Kingston tonight characterized as "metaphorically committing suicide as fast as possible."

It is understood that the resolution which Lord Lansdowne gave notice he would introduce on Wednesday, represents the attitude taken by the Unionist side in the veto conference and the rock on which the conference foundered.

It is desirable that provision be made for settling differences that may arise between the House of Commons and this house as reconstituted, reduced in numbers in accordance with the recent resolutions of this house. That as to bills, other than money bills, such provisions should be made on the following lines:

If a difference arises between the houses in regard to any bill other than money bill, in two successive sessions and during any interval of less than one year, and such differences are unable to be adjusted by other means, it shall be settled at a joint sitting composed of the members of the two houses, provided that if the measure relates to a matter of great gravity, and has not been adequately submitted to the judgment of the people it shall not be referred to a joint sitting but submitted for decision to the electors of a referendum.

That as to money bills, the provision should be on the following lines: The Lords are prepared to forego their constitutional right to reject and amend money bills which are of a purely financial character, provided a special provision against "tacking" and provided that if any question arises as to whether a bill or any of the provisions thereof are of a purely financial character, that question shall be referred to a joint committee of both Houses with the Speaker of the House of Commons as chairman and who shall have the casting vote only. If the committee holds that the bill or the provisions in question are not of a financial character, they shall be dealt with forthwith at a joint sitting of the Houses.

The Liberals contend that the adoption of these resolutions would render future Liberal governments as powerless in default of the House of Lords. The present situation appears as follows:

Special to The Standard. Montreal, Que., Nov. 21.—The reply of the Mayor of Rome to the vote of censure passed by the city council of Montreal upon him in consequence of a letter written by him to the Pope was received here today.

After apologizing for supposing that the council of Montreal would investigate before condemning, Mayor Nathan says: "They (the council) stand alone in oversteering the bonds of their civic mission and in boldly bestowing their words of praise or blame without regard to international law and international customs, to functionaries with whom they have nothing whatever to do and who are evidently and utterly indifferent to their grotesque and meddlesome utterances. I can only hope that such exceptional conduct may meet with merited reward, be recorded in your civic annals as an unexampled proof of judgment passed by a self-elected tribunal in default of knowledge, right and common sense."

Special to The Standard. Burlington, Vt., Nov. 21.—C. F. Smith, treasurer of the University of Vermont, tonight received a certified copy of the will of Lewis L. Coburn, a member of the class of 1839, who died recently in Chicago showing a bequest of $25,000 to the University.

Special to The Standard. Montreal, Que., Nov. 21.—Henri Bourassa, the Nationalist leader, left this evening for New York, en route for Europe. Mr. Bourassa intends to visit France and Italy, and will be away for about six weeks.

Special to The Standard. Portland, Me., Nov. 21.—The chains and anchors were removed from the schooner John Cadwallader ashore on Watts ledge, by the lighter Venture, this afternoon and the schooner will be left to her fate. It is believed she will break up with the first strong east wind.

REVOLUTION IN MEXICO TAKES SERIOUS TURN

Bulletins Tell Of Renewed Rioting At Puebla And Death Of Thirty Persons—News Wire Commandeered.

Laredo, Texas, Nov. 21.—The situation in Mexico appears to be serious tonight. For the first time in the 15 years of operation, the leased wire of the Associated Press from Laredo to Monterrey and Mexico City was commandeered tonight by the Mexican government on the plea of military need.

The federal telegraph agent manager in Nuevo Laredo was ordered to cut off the Laredo office of the Associated Press to prevent information gleaned from messages moving over the wire. These instructions emanated from the headquarters of the federal telegraphs in Mexico City, where it was explained that the government would require all its telegraphic facilities throughout the night.

Coming as it does after what was officially reported to have been a perfectly tranquil Sunday throughout the greater part of Mexico, broken only by a few insignificant disturbances in the smaller places this action by the government would appear to lead substance to the rumors of bloody riot at Zatecas, Gomez, Palacios and Torreon, the authenticity of which had been in doubt. These three important cities are situated in a region which has been disaffected for years.

The country is now too busily engaged in preparations for the elections to take much interest in the doings of the expiring parliament. Austin Chamberlain in a letter published tonight, declares that the maximum duty the tariff reformers will propose on foreign wheat will be two shillings per quarter, that colonial wheat shall be duty free and flour taxed somewhat higher to encourage home milling.

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 21.—It is reliably reported here that Francisco I. Madero crossed the Rio Grande Sunday morning, sixteen miles below Eagle Pass. He is now said to be owned by a force on land.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 21.—A report reached here from El Paso, Texas, tonight that revolutionists are enlisting the hostile Yaqui Indians for service against the Mexican government. It is stated that Yaqui warriors will take the field if actual war breaks out.

LAURIER MAKES SAVAGE ATTACK ON NATIONALISTS

Feature of Debate Was Violent Outbreak of Premier Which Proved a Boomerang.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 21.—The feature of the debate on the address today was Sir Wilfrid Laurier's furious attack on the Nationalists who had accomplished his defeat in Drummond and Arthabaska. It came at the very end of his speech, and after he had discussed a number of other subjects. There were some defeats more honorable than victories, he said, and this was one. The Conservatives were welcome to all the comfort they could get out of the victory, which had not been won by them. It had been won by a combination of what was left of the Conservative party and certain reactionaries for whom Liberal principles had proved too broad and generous. It had been won by appeals so desperate and mean so dastardly that the public conscience had been outraged. There were two characteristics of the naval law: (1)—It provided for voluntary enlistment as opposed to conscription; (2)—It provided for full control of the navy by the Canadian parliament.

Had the opponents of the government told that to the electors? "I said that," said Dr. Paquet at once. "I said that," said Mr. Monk. Written By Liberals. The premier replied that those who helped Mr. Monk and Dr. Paquet had said otherwise, and read from a pamphlet, which said that there would be conscription. "Written by a Liberal," said Mr. Price of Quebec.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier proceeded to attribute inflammatory appeals to racial feeling to various persons who had campaigned for the Nationalists in Drummond and Arthabaska, and Mr. Monk replied that one of the Liberal speakers had said that the navy would enable Canada to pound England. "Name him," said Sir Wilfrid Laurier. "Thereupon the Liberals howled and hissed at Mr. Monk. Mr. Guvreau shouted 'He is lying to the House.' Sir Wilfrid Laurier insisted on the name being given then and there, and Mr. Monk complied. It was a notary named Begin, from the County of Richmond, a well known Liberal (oral agent).

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that he did not know him. The prime minister concluded by saying that the policy of segregation Quebec would not pass. On the orders of the day being called, Mr. Borden complimented Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the celebration of his 69th birthday. Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied in fitting terms.

MR. R. L. BORDEN.

Mr. Borden asked for information regarding the Federenko case at Winnipeg, and Mr. Aylesworth replied that the matter had not come before him yet, being still in the law courts, an appeal having been taken from the order of extradition.

The debate on the address commenced with speeches by Mr. McGivern, (Ottawa) and Mr. Lapointe (Kamouraska). Both these members referred in guarded terms to the subject of reciprocity, urging that the government should not have refused to negotiate and also to the naval policy, defending the course pursued by the government.

The Opposition Leader. R. L. Borden opened with an eloquent panegyric on the late King Edward. Reviewing the events of the year he referred to The Hague award and made the suggestion that the coming centennial of peace between the British Empire and United States be marked by the conclusion of a permanent treaty keeping warships off the great lakes.

The present arrangement was a mere agreement liable to renunciation on short notice. Proceeding Mr. Borden rallied Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the latter's experience on the western tour and the way in which he was confronted with the remembrance of his free trade speeches of 1894. He exposed the fallacy of the premier's pleading that a tariff must be reduced slowly, pointing out that Sir Robert Peel took only seven years to abolish protection in Great Britain, whereas the Laurier government had made practically no reduction in 14 years. He also censured the way in which Sir Wilfrid Laurier sought to bribe the west with promises of public works.

With regard to the reciprocity negotiations the leader of the Opposition pressed for some information as to the principle upon which the government was proceeding. Dealing with the naval question, he declared that he stood by the policy which he had laid down in his resolution of February last. The people should have been consulted before any permanent policy was entered upon, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier's recent opinion in Quebec had not resulted as the Premier had wished.

Printing Scandals. Touching on the revelations in the printing bureau Mr. Borden gave an impressive list of the number of resolutions demanding inquiry which the government had voted down. In practically every instance subsequent developments proved that the government in voting each resolution down had been concealing theft and corruption. This had been the case with regard to the resolution moved by Mr. Doherty last session demanding a full examination of the spending departments. It would have revealed the corruption which Mr. Murphy had been compelled to investigate and report.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier rose at 5.30 p. m., and after a eulogy of the late sovereign proceeded to a discussion of his trip through the west. The American settlers, he said, were making excellent Canadians. He claimed that the Liberal government had endeavored to redeem its promises on the tariff. This brought a commission to investigate conditions. There would be no hasty action.

The remainder of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's speech consisted of a defence of his policy in entering on the reciprocity negotiations. Hon. George E. Foster. Mr. Foster, who followed, devoted himself to the reciprocity issue, asking what mandate the government had for disturbing the trade of the country. The trend of the sentiment of the country was away from reciprocity.

The American tariff was twice as high as the Canadian and in any case Canada should wait to see the line taken with regard to the tariff by the incoming congress. The British preference which Sir Wilfrid Laurier said would be kept unimpaired, had already been whittled down by the French treaty, last year's surrender to the United States and the gifts to Holland, Belgium and Italy. He urged that the country should not tie itself up by any formal treaty. Hugh Guthrie moved the adjournment of the debate.

DO NOT LIKE BRITISH SONGS

Americans In West Draw The Line At Rule Britannia—Calgary Labor Men Favor Night Schools.

Special to The Standard. Calgary, Nov. 21.—Resolutions from the trades and labor councils declaring that the labor men of the city were unanimously in favor of technical education by the institution of a school or night classes were handed to the commission on technical education on Saturday.

There was incidental evidence given as to trouble over the singing of British patriotic songs in the schools where there were children of American settlers. Inspector of Schools Bryce said that some trouble had arisen in respect of the singing of British patriotic songs such as Rule Britannia in rural districts.

Americans did not mind so much feeling arose when purely British songs were sung. "Is the singing of these songs insisted upon?" asked Hon. Mr. Armstrong. Mr. Bryce replied that the national songs were used in the first singing lessons but where objections were taken the songs were mostly dropped. "We want peace in Canada," commented Mr. Armstrong.

DEATH NO DELAY TO RECIPROcity

Surviving Commissioner Will Make Report To U. S. Department Of State And Continue Negotiations.

Washington, Nov. 21.—The death of Commissioner Henry M. Hoyt will not delay the negotiations between the United States and Canada, looking to the conclusion of a reciprocity treaty. Mr. Hoyt had no opportunity, owing to his sudden illness, to communicate to Secretary Knox the detailed results of the conference at Ottawa between himself and Mr. Pepper on the one hand, and Hon. W. S. Fielding on the other, but Mr. Pepper is thoroughly acquainted with the conditions and will be able to supplement the brief verbal report he has made to Secretary Knox by a more detailed report, as well as continue the negotiations when the parties meet here in January next.

A SOCIALIST IN CONGRESS

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 21.—Victor L. Berger's powerful will made his life what he wanted it to be, in spite of his environment. The first socialist congressman in America was born of well-to-do, middle-class German parents in Austria in 1856. They gave him a good college education. But in spite of his conservative origin, Victor early developed very radical ideas and sympathies. His relatives abhorred his democratic ideas and made life miserable for him. "All my relatives believed I would be arrested and executed," said Berger, "and the worst part of it was that they believed that I would desert to be hanged." Just as young Victor was about to become embroiled in radical politics in Europe, his family became poor and emigrated to the United States. Young Berger became a copperworker; he did odd jobs like mending wash-bolers. He learned the metal polisher's trade earning as little as $5 a week and never more than $12. Often he did not have bread to feed his body or fuel to warm it. But he had his beloved books—his Marx, Engels, Darwin, Carlyle, Paine and Ruskin—to feed his mind and warm his enthusiastic soul. He lived in a 50-cent-a-week room. He was so miserable physically that he will not talk about this part of his life. He was appointed teacher of German in the Milwaukee high school and held the position for several years. But what should this enthusiast do but throw up this job, which meant bread and butter on his table and a warm fire in his room, in order to launch a German socialist daily? A month could hardly have succeeded at that time, much less a daily. All his savings and much of his friend's savings were lost, and again came a period of starvation and freezing. Follower of Debs. Berger was a populist in 1896 and tried to organize the Eugene V. Debs sentiment in the St. Louis convention of that party. Debs was imprisoned for his activity in the American railway union strike, Berger visited him at Woodstock jail near Chicago. He brought a copy of Marx's "Capital" and this book was read to the Debs. Since, Debs the orator and agitator, and Berger the student, orator and statesman, have worked together ever since. They are respected as Debs is loved by his party. The two were anxious to do labor political work, but they thought that the then existing socialist labor party was narrow and unrepresentative of the American. They had leading parties in the formation at Chicago in 1897 of the social democracy, later called the socialist party. But it was as editor of the Milwaukee Wahrheit (German) and the Social-Democratic Herald (English) that Berger did his life work. He built up a movement in England which gradually crept up on the old parties until, in April, 1910, it captured the city. It was his party's "bunche brigade," numbering as many as 2000 volunteers, serving without pay, that did the work. They rise early Sunday mornings to leave pamphlets at every house in the city. Each man has a certain district to cover, and he covers it. He sees that each home gets the particular kind of literature it is ready to receive. Berger's writings his party's motto come to the people. "Dear Madam, How Can You Pay Your Grocer and Butcher?" is a sample of the headings of his pamphlets. Berger's work often yielded the candidacy of an office where there was a probability of election to some other "comrade" while he chose an unlikely one for himself, so as to bolster the movement in the place where it was weakest. He was elected alderman-at-large in April, 1910. Berger is not a conservative socialist. He is as revolutionary as any in his beliefs and aims. He never compromises the international principles he believes in, but he knows how to pin them down to the particular country of the United States, the particular city of Milwaukee, and the particular time, the twentieth century. Because he is practical, and has succeeded, superficial observers have dubbed him a "conservative."

See Revolution. He sees a revolution like the civil war ahead unless the American people abolish "wage slavery" by taking over and running the trusts under public ownership. He believes the people should offer to pay the present owners of the trusts for the property, and not confiscate them. He offers to buy the trusts, but the owners refuse to sell, and the people refuse to buy, the breach between them would become so wide that it could be filled only by bodies of men, just as the refusal of the north and south to settle the slavery question by the purchase of the slaves, while the question was still small enough to handle, led to an irrepressible conflict. Berger's income is his wages of $30 a week as editor. His only extravagance is his books. 125

FIRE AND POLICE AT NEWCASTLE

Reports Read at Meeting of Town Council Show Department to be in Good Shape—Curfew Bell Discussed.

Newcastle, Nov. 18.—The town council met in regular session last night, Mayor McMurdo and full board present. Park and fire committee reported that (1) A fire bell had been placed in J. R. Lawlor's field down town, and (2) the fire department is recommended to be divided into six fire zones. (3) Distribution of cards giving full information of same. (4) Placarding of names on streets. Sections 1, 2, and 3 passed, and 4 was held over.

The police magistrate's report for quarter ending Sept. 30th, showed fines and costs, $133. Magistrate's costs, $92; constables' costs, $1; moiety of fine paid complainant, $12.50; balance paid town clerk $86. There were 26 cases of drunkenness, one of drunk and driving, one for interfering with police, one for vagrancy, one for assault, and one for cruelty to animals, fined $25 and $5 costs, two months.

The institution of the curfew bell to warn children off the streets at night was discussed. Ald. Layton said that curfew from 10 to 11 was running the streets late at night and for no good. They should be looked after. "The matter was held over to next night to give the W. C. T. U. a chance to be heard."

The public works committee were ordered to get all available information re possibility and cost of opening a street from Henry street into street back of McCullum street, to give better chance to get at the houses in case of fire. Mrs. Butler, wife of Prof. Butler, of Kingston Royal Military College, is the guest of her father, Judge Wm. Wilkinson.

The Methodist ladies held an interesting social tonight at Mrs. T. W. Crocker's. The Presbyterian ladies gave a very successful tea and fancy sale tonight in St. James' Hall.

Mrs. F. H. Gough entertained a few friends pleasantly on Thursday evening. Games and music made the time pass rapidly. A dainty lunch was served about eleven o'clock. Those present were: Mesdames Wm. Witherall, L. Hill, W. J. Deane, H. S. Leard, J. G. Kethro, J. A. Follansbee, Mrs. Eleanor Lingard, Mrs. Eileen Weldon and Mabel McGregor.

Mrs. James M. Troy entertained a number of friends at tea on Thursday afternoon in honor of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Sherman Troy, of Boston. Mrs. Sargeant and Mrs. S. Troy assisted in receiving. Mrs. John Robinson, Jr., and Mrs. Sargeant poured the tea and coffee. Those who assisted in serving were: Misses Roberta Nicholson, Miss Jean Robinson and Miss Helen Cole. Others present were Mrs. Allan McMillan, Mrs. B. P. Steeves, Mrs. W. Crocker, Mrs. Wm. Stothart, Mrs. John Russell, Mrs. E. A. McCurdy, Mrs. W. J. Jardine, Mrs. O. Nicholson, Mrs. H. Sinclair, Mrs. John W. Allen, Mrs. Helen Stables, Nellie Lingard and Jean Altken.

H. H. Mott, of St. John, was in town today.

The record shows that all four of Mrs. Lafferty's bills were passed in the House, and that three went through the Senate and are now on the statute books. The other one was held up because of a slight amendment which Judge Lindsay accepted; it is now in the hands of the judiciary committee. Of the three bills which Mrs. Lafferty introduced, one became law; two failed in the Senate. So the account goes, bringing out a host of those petty inaccuracies of the press which are so common in a statement of writing supposed to be serious, most people believe to be evidence either of hasty and inconsequential preparation or of fundamental ignorance of what is the exact truth.

The suffragists of Massachusetts are keenly interested in the growth of woman suffrage sentiment in the western states. They are jubilant over the great victory in Washington, to ward which they contributed money, literature and speakers. They are naturally anxious that whoever writes about the workings of equal suffrage in Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, or Washington, shall at least give a truthful presentation of the easily ascertainable facts.

Meantime, something's doing every minute in the equal suffrage centre of New England. It is the turn of the state, literally, for two delightful comedies will be presented on Friday evening, Nov. 25, at Jordan Hall, with appropriate casts of clever amateurs. One of these plays is "Lady Geraldine's Speech," by Beatrice Harraden; the other is that fine favorite "How the Vote was Won." It is expected that not a few suffragists from the nearby cities and towns of New England will come Hubbard for this affair.

is so fine that the University of Wisconsin covets it. He married Miss Meta Schlichting, a pupil in his German class at the high school. They have three children.

There is a romance of socialism in Berger's love affair. When he fell in love with Miss Schlichting he did not propose at once. Instead, he carefully converted her to socialism before he asked her to be his wife. After suffering from his relative's bitter opposition to his views, Berger had vowed he would never marry a woman who did not agree with him. Mrs. Berger is a home-loving woman but she was called to public life. She was elected to the school board in 1909, being the first woman socialist to be elected to a public office in America.

BUDGET FROM BOSTON

New England Apples Have Western Varieties Beaten—Mis-statements in Western Women Suffrage.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 21.—Let the city of culture be cease. Police Commissioner O'Meara will exorcise the folk who expropriate. There has indeed, been a law against this misdemeanor for a long time, but the fact that a person arrested for this offense must be dealt with under the law exactly as a dangerous criminal would be dealt with, has led the officers to hesitate in prosecuting where there is no crime involved. The enforcement of the law is now ordered, however, as the result largely of a communication from the chairman of the board of trustees of the Boston consumptives hospital, heartily endorsed by Mayor Fitzgerald. Grow persons who look intelligent and there are a lot of them in Boston, are to receive first consideration. Any one of the so-called privileged class, who is noted expropriating on the sidewalk, will be halted on court leeky-spill. Women who write articles, minors, who ought to have been taught better at school, and the poor and ignorant generally will not be dealt with with the same severity as the rest of their offences are particularly flagrant.

That Massachusetts hillside can raise just as juicy apples as the west. It has been proved. Even Washington and Oregon have been beaten to a pulp. The Bay State's board of agriculture has just shown an exhibition of fruit as radiantly beautiful as a June flower garden. Many agriculturalists have contended for years that Massachusetts and New England in general have the goods on the trees. These goods are now definitely proved their claim.

"The Boy Lied," according to a reprinted article which the Woman's Journal, the equal suffrage periodical published in Boston, is circulating an alleged "impartial" study in the best known of women's publications of the working of woman suffrage in the progressive western states where political equality has been established. It seems that the "investigator," Richard Barry, having the main intent of accuracy and thoroughness lack of which is sometimes attributed to women as a disqualification for their using the ballot, went to the Rocky Mountain states and, after the manner of the muck-raking writers, in short order, reappeared with his copy. From Miss Blackwell's detailed analysis it would appear that many of the statements at issue have just that careful regard for literal truthfulness, which every city editor soon learns may be looked for in the work of the average cut reporter who is assigned to an important "story." True, the dates on which Colorado and Utah adopted woman suffrage are both misstated.

SAINT JOHN, TUESDAY MORNING, NOV. 22, 1910.

THE THROES OF EMPIRE.

The failure of the veto conference and the recent events in the British Parliament unlock the discordant forces in Great Britain which for a few months have been outwardly quiescent. The present Imperial outlook is troubled, and the even near future no man can predict. Nor is the unrest confined to locality. Proceeding from different causes, it manifests itself throughout the Empire, and every manifestation affects vital interests. It is in truth a time when every thoughtful and loyal citizen of the Empire wears a troubled brow and bears a troubled heart, within his breast.

In India the gradual enlargement of education in western ideas and methods, and the dynamic effect of the growth and achievements of Japan, have awakened a desire for greater native participation in governmental functions, and, among foreign enthusiasts of the less stable kind, for the complete elimination of foreign rule, which gravely and seriously enhance the difficulties of government. These are not a little aggravated by the injudicious and meddlesome interference of radical and socialist agitators, who would apply their wild theories to the conditions of a dense Eastern population, whose genius and environments render even the most cautious and conservative participation in self-government hazardous. The license accorded to the native press has borne its inevitable fruit in the dissemination of lying and heated appeals to the prejudices of the native, and the outbreak of fanaticism in assassination and murder. The British Government has yielded to the agitation so far as to grant enlarged representation and co-operation of representative Indians in the higher processes of government, but have had to combine therewith repressive measures designed to suppress seditious utterances and punish those guilty of overt acts. Caste and the divisions of races and creeds enhance the difficulties faced by the Indian Government and to all this must be added the vast underground of the unknown thought and sentiment of 200,000,000 of people hedged about by an almost impenetrable secrecy and suffused with suspicion and distrust. Against this we must set the magnificent work which has been done by the British Administration in abolishing rank abuses of caste and custom, in introducing and carrying out sanitary measures which have saved countless lives and improved the conditions for all future generations, in the opening up and irrigation of the wild mountain tribes of the frontiers, and in keeping law and order in constant evidence. Gratitude does not seem to be a trait of Eastern peoples, and had Britain no higher motive than to earn that, her reward would be poor indeed. But she has exercised a great trustee-ship for India and the world, and in this must lie her justification. It is gratifying to know that the great native princes recognize her worth and are intensely loyal to crown and country. But all said, the present in India constitutes one of the gravest cares of British statesmanship, and the future depends on the wisdom of each step now taken.

In Egypt British rule has rescued the country from bankruptcy and the peasantry from an intolerable and debasing tyranny, brought stability of conditions and comparative prosperity to the people, and in the vast engineering works, so successfully carried out, has rescued large cultivable areas from the encroaching sands, and rendered the Nile overflow a well ordered and beneficent contribution to national industry and wealth. The power of Egypt has been extended to the Sudan and her available territory greatly enlarged. Here again Eastern ingratitude has been encountered, and aided it would seem by lack of purpose and consistent policy on the part of the administration, has developed into a native movement for control. Britain's work in Egypt has been thrust upon her, in part by national considerations, but has also developed into a great trustee-ship for the benefit of the Egyptian people. This work would be speedily undone were the ignorant and corrupt native forces to be allowed their operation, and until it is finished and its permanency guaranteed there is no likelihood that the British Government will abdicate its position. But the problems are delicate and intricate, and the burden is a heavy one. It taxes and will continue to tax the best statesmanship and ability of the government.

It is satisfactory to note that in contrast to the situation above described the great Overseas Dominions are taking care of their own interests and relieving the Motherland of all harassing problems in connection therewith. Gradually the processes of consolidation have laid the lines of three great prospective nations, in three far separated quarters of the globe, extending their authority over an immense aggregate of territory and preparing the prosperous homes of present and coming millions of vigorous and hardy and high grade people. Based on British precedents their constitutions and their institutions promise the perpetuation of British ideals and the preservation of British power and influence. In the short processes of time they will, in some respects, surpass, in many points equal, and in very few fall short of the present Motherland, and in connection with New Zealand and Newfoundland, whose nature either in or out of one of these three combinations is assured, will stride the globe with a renovated and reinforced Anglo-Saxon civilization. Between these and the Motherland there is distinct and cordial agreement, the broad spirit of co-operation and mutual interest, and the bonds of an undoubted and warm loyalty. In these troublous and perplexing times it is a source of unalloyed satisfaction that the organized and self-governing overseas sections are firm planted in their several spheres, relieve the home government of a vast burden of administration, anxiety and work, and buttress with strong support the Empire of which they form a part.

It is when we come to the Motherland herself that our anxieties become more tense, and our vision more troubled. We try to measure the forces at work, and to divine what the result may be. And just at present both processes are difficult. Old institutions are questioned, and must answer for their existence. New forces are pressing to the front, and will not be denied. The purposes and scope of government are being canvassed with a heat and intensity of feeling never before witnessed, and the clash of theories and measures seem to be unreconcilable, and to point to ultimate confusion and disorder. Will it be independence for Ireland or devolution for all the constituent parts of the United Kingdom? Will the Lords go, and the government of an Empire be entrusted to an unbridled and unbalanced one-chamber where factions rage and party exigencies weigh more than established principles? Will individualism be put to sleep, with the soothing drug of state socialism, or will there still be left some initiative for the personal factor and some property for the man who craves it? Will there be an hereditary monarchy, unpartisan and stable, or a changing democracy, borne on the fickle shoulders of an impulsive and not over-intelligent universal suffrage? These questions perplex us, and the answers thereto seem involved in doubt. All this would be disheartening enough, but it becomes more so when we recollect that the fate not of the United Kingdom alone, but of the Empire, depends on the solution obtained from the electors of the former. Hence the interest and anxiety on the part of those outside the United Kingdom. No one can shut his eyes to the fact that the Empire as a whole will be profoundly affected if the status of parliament and monarchy is materially changed in Great Britain, and yet the Empire as a whole can only stand by and await results. It has no voice or part in the decision, though its future depends absolutely on the nature of the decision made. The whole situation is anomalous, and full of danger. The Empire for Empire work is unorganized, and its future may be made or marred by the conclusions come to by one of its parts.

But we have great faith in the sound common sense of the British electorate, and the patriotism and ability of British statesmen, and we trust that the outcome will vindicate our faith. To us it seems that the genius of Empire demands a continuance of the limited monarchy shorn of none of its present powers; that a reformed and strengthened second chamber is absolutely essential to good government in the United Kingdom, and to the stability of the Empire at large, that every attempt upon the integrity and solidarity of the Empire should be resisted, be it at home or abroad, and that consistent with this integrity and solidarity the fullest powers of local government should be assured to each division and that for Empire purposes some representative body should be constituted, which, relieved from local legislation and administration, should be free to give that attention to the greater interests of Empire, which is so imperatively demanded. In that body the Overseas Dominions should be adequately represented. If the present turmoil and confusion in the Motherland result in a clearer apprehension of the facts that our needs have outgrown the old machinery, and that reorganization and adjustment are necessary if the Empire is to be perpetuated, we shall be great gainers. And we believe that result will be attained, and that the throes of the British electorate will indicate the speedy birth of better Empire methods.

CARNEGIE MEDALS.

The Carnegie Hero Fund Commission has discovered fifty-eight more heroes and heroines deserving of niches in its own hall of fame, and has bestowed upon the whole half hundred, the coveted medals of silver and bronze, with $40,250 in cash rewards to thirty-three persons, as well as twenty-three pensions, ranging in value from $20 to $70 a month.

The work of the Commission is to be commended unreservedly, says the Bangor News. It takes pains to see that its rewards of merit are bestowed upon the deserving—in many cases, the orphans and widows of those who have given their lives to save their fellows—and the prizes made possible by the wealthy ironmaster's bounty no doubt constitute an incentive in some instances to the performance of heroic and self-denying actions. But only a small proportion of all the heroes there are can possibly be rewarded, and many a deed of the sublimest courage has had no tangible recompense, because it has had no witness. Heroism, like other forms of virtue, must, in most cases, be its own reward. It is doubtful if a single one of the thirteen miners who rescued comrades at the mine disaster in Illinois a year ago gave a moment's thought to their chances of receiving a decoration or a money prize.

The true hero is beyond reward, as he is beyond all praise. The Victoria Cross or a Carnegie medal is not to be won by deliberately calculating the chances. The guardian generally comes to those who are expecting it least, and it is usually given, not for some outstanding, spectacular deed of bravado, surrounded by a cloud of applauding witnesses, but for a deed done in the plain routine of every day, in no expectation of recognition or reward.

Current Comment

(Vancouver News-Advertiser.)

The Bishop of Hereford made a historic address at his diocesan conference last month. His declaration that the Anglican church had been too slow in accepting or seeking fellowship with Nonconformists was a bold and striking statement. An opinion expressed at the Church Congress that the acceptance of the Episcopacy must go before communion and fellowship with other churches this bishop describes as "an utterance belonging to darker days."

(Toronto World.)

Calgary is considering government by commission, but it is doing so through the city council, which wishes to have its cake as well as eat it. The council desires to have the commission at the mercy of a majority vote of the council, and thus rob it of all the independence which is the redeeming feature of commission government. The ward politicians are always against popular and progressive government.

Bourassa has a weakness for big game. He went after Premier Gouin in St. James' division and defeated him in what had hitherto been a strong Government constituency. Now he is going after Sir Wilfrid's scalp in Quebec East. History has an awkward way of repeating itself.

(New York Sun.)

Patriotic considerations aside, northern Maine might be just as well off in a business way under the Dominion standard as under the stars and stripes, and possibly it would be better off. That, however, is an economic question that does not affect the Americanism of the state.

The Standard's Old Reporter

"I see some people are making the discovery that the city needs a business administration—that we ought to elect business men to the board of aldermen," said Uncle Hiram, as he fell into a hole in the street.

"Well, ain't that quite a discovery?" asked the reporter.

Hiram picked himself up, and snorted:—

"A business administration would probably say I had no business falling into that hole. And if I tried to get damages for my ruined coat,—well, the lawyers would probably take my shirt. That's business.

"The trouble about this great discovery is that it's like some of our friends' jokes—as old as Noah. Every little while we've been discovering that we need business men in the city council, and we've been electing business men as long as I can remember. We have a council of business men now. We've always had a business men's government, and as you know business is business. The city has been governed in the interest of business, and all its paying franchises handed over to big business men. Another bunch of business men would not greatly improve matters. The whole system of modern business is characterized by inefficiency and stupidity. In the last generation or so the productivity of the labor of men in our cities has been multiplied a score or more of times, yet the Rev. Mr. McSkill tells us that there are more kinds of misery due to bad business arrangements in our modern cities than Milton in his blindness ever dreamed of. Business progress is always associated with poverty."

"Well, what are you going to do about it?" called in the woman.

"We don't need any old women," said Hiram. "Arch-angels couldn't get satisfactory results if they tried to operate the present system of city administration. Before falling over ourselves to elect business men, we should take a tumble ourselves. We've had enough of business government to teach us that it would be good business to mind our own business."

"Isn't that the great complaint now? That people mind their own business, and let the public business slide?"

"No doubt. As things are arranged now the public business is not our business. It isn't run by us—the most we can do is make a few crosses on a slip of paper about All Fools Day. Civic elections ought to be held on the first of April anyway."

"Well, how are you going to remedy it?"

"Change the system, so the public business will become the people's business."

CLOSING COTTON LETTER.
By direct private wires to J. C. Mackintosh & Co.
New York, Nov. 21.—The census bureau sprung a surprise on an unwary short interest in the cotton market this morning, reporting 8,764,153 bales ginned to Nov. 14th, against 7,339,809 to the same date in 1909. It had been generally expected that the total would be from 100,000 to 250,000 bales in excess of the figures given, and while upon the percentage basis of previous years it would be possible to figure out almost any size crop, the prevailing impression was that the report lent color to the smaller crop estimates now prevalent. The census figures coming upon an overall market caused an opening ranging from 25 to 30 points above last night's close, and notwithstanding heavy realizing on the advance price rose from 40 to 45 points and closed only 2 to 5 points under the best of the day. The popular theory has been that the ginning figures for the period covered by today's report would reflect the maximum movement of the crop from plantations to the gins. If the movement over the next few weeks should tend to corroborate this supposition we may see considerably higher prices before there is a reaction of consequence. Interior and port receipts will therefore be watched very closely henceforth.

WHY SUFFER FROM COMPLEXION?

You are just about to commence the season's programme of evening parties, social events, etc. Why not look your best? Why let your complexion suffer by contrast with other ladies? Why not ensure a good complexion? You can do this on sound natural lines by using Zam-Buk, nature's herbal balm.

Zam-Buk is a skin food; and complexion is purely a matter of skin health. Zam-Buk smears lightly over the face, each night, acts as a skin tonic. It stimulates the cells beneath the cuticle to healthy action, makes the capillaries and blood vessels work, and the vigorous circulation, thus started, carries away secreted impurities. Waxy, mallow deposits are thus removed. Hard pimply growths are softened and disappear.

Zam-Buk cures skin diseases, pimples, ulcers, abscesses, blood-poison, eruptions, eczema, herpes, scalds, chapped places, scaly sores, piles, etc. 50¢ box, all drug stores and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

That yellow tinge gives place to the pink of health, and the white velvety "look" and "feel" which healthy skin should have.

Isn't this wiser than relying upon talcum powder and cosmetics? These only put on a "complexion" from the outside. It doesn't last. Zam-Buk helps nature to build up a complexion from blood and tissue. It lasts! It won't rub off!

Be wise as well as womanly! Let Zam-Buk help you to look your real best!

G. T. P. ENGINEER

OVER VALLEY ROAD

Secrecy Observed in Official Inspection of Proposed Line by Chief Engineer Woods—Centreville to Fredericton

Fredericton, Nov. 21.—That H. A. Woods, chief engineer of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway has been quiet, making an inspection of the route of the proposed St. John Valley Railway, is the definite statement which was made today from an authoritative source and the statement is borne out by the facts.

The greatest secrecy has been observed and every effort made to avoid publicity. When Mr. Woods was seen at the Queen Hotel on Saturday, where he was with Mr. Bouillon, the chief engineer for the G. T. P. Company in New Brunswick, the reporter was informed that they arrived from Montreal and were en route to St. John. As a matter of fact Mr. Woods drove over the St. John valley over the route of the proposed railway, driving from Centreville to Woodstock, where they stopped overnight and then on to this city. On Saturday evening they left for St. John by C. P. R.

OLD PROSPECTOR TELLS HIS STORY

His Real Troubles Started When Rheumatism Got Him.

Plasters, Ointments and Sulphur were alike useless, but Dodd's Kidney Pills made a new man of him.

Princeton, B.C., Nov. 21.—(Special)—All over Canada people are telling of the great work Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing, and even in the Rocky Mountain fastnesses, where nature hides her mines, men are telling of cures made and suffering relieved by the great Canadian Kidney remedy.

Wm. Murray, sixty-six years old, who has tramped the frontier as lumberjack, rancher, prospector, miner, hunter and trapper, and who has friends over the west, is one of these. Many a tale of hardship and danger he can tell but his first real trouble came when rheumatism claimed him, and he slipped on the mountain side and strained my kidneys and then my troubles all seemed to set in at once. I had nearly all the symptoms of Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Diabetes, Dropsy and Bright's Disease, Mr. Murray states.

"Then I broke out in a terrible rash that spread all over my body and kept me in tortures. I tried all sorts of ointments and ointments, but took sulphur enough to start a little haze of my own. But it was all no use. Then I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills and all I can say is they made a new man of me."

WOMEN'S CANADIAN CLUB TO OPEN W R

Season Will Begin With Illustrated Lectures by President and Rev. H. A. Cody--To Enlarge Membership.

If the plans of its energetic president, Mrs. E. C. Smith are carried out the Women's Canadian Club will take a trip by limelight to Vancouver and the Yukon in the near future, and return under the aurora borealis via the Northwest passage, Hudsons Bay, the Labrador and the St. Lawrence.

The club will hold its opening meeting of the winter season on the 26th inst., when the members and their friends will be one guests of the executive. All ladies wishing to become members are requested to send their names to Mrs. D. P. Chisholm, 95 Colburn street, who is acting secretary in the absence of Mrs. Cronlund. Cards will be issued to intending members inviting them to be present at the opening meeting of the winter course.

At this meeting Mrs. E. A. Smith, the president, will entertain the members with the description of a trip from St. John to Vancouver, and her observations will be illustrated by lantern views.

In December Rev. H. A. Cody will take the club from Vancouver to the Yukon, and the promises to find lecturers to bring the club back to St. John by way of the Arctic circle, the Hudson Bay and the Labrador. Mrs. Smith is confident that the club will not be left stranded in the frozen north. She will send for "Cap." Bernier and the famous ship Arctic to bring the ladies back, if Dr. Cook will not volunteer to rescue them.

CAPTAIN AND WIFE GO DOWN WITH SCHOONER

Canso, N. S., Nov. 21.—The schooner Lila D. Young, Captain Berntsen, arrived here this morning and reports a serious collision of Beaver, on the way down, when the schooner Midnight, of Jeddore, was sunk with the loss of Captain Weston and his wife. The rest of the crew, three men, including a brother of the captain, were saved.

The Lila D. Young came out of Hubbard's Cove on Sunday morning, with a load of ice for the Maritime Fish Corporation here. The schooner Midnight loaded with produce left here on Sunday morning, and had run up the shore as far as Beaver, where the fatal accident occurred at 7 p. m. Sunday. It is claimed there were no lights on the Midnight, and a snow squall was also raging at the time.

The Midnight was sighted by the lookout on the Lila D. Young, and it was supposed she was going clear, but when almost abreast, for some reason the Midnight hauled directly across the bow of the Young and the collision occurred. Mrs. Weston, the captain's wife, was asleep in the cabin at the time of the collision, and everything possible was done to save her, but before she could be rescued the vessel went down, carrying with her Captain Weston and his wife.

The circumstances of Mrs. Weston's drowning are particularly sad. Capt. Weston, who was at the wheel at the time of the collision, rushed to the cabin and succeeded in getting his wife on deck, willing hands were extended and Mrs. Weston was almost pulled on board the Young, but fell back into the water with her husband, and both were lost.

The Lila D. Young sustained considerable damage besides the loss of her anchor, which was cut away to free the sinking vessel.

WEDDINGS.

Fowler-Fraser.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized at Chipman, Queens County, on November 19th, at the residence of the bride's father, Isaac C. Fraser, when his eldest daughter, Margaret May, was united in marriage to Henry B. Fowler, mechanical foreman of the Central Railway. The bride entered the parlor, the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march played by her sister, Miss Matilda Fraser, and took up her position in the presence of the groom under an evergreen arch. The marriage ceremony was conducted by Rev. J. H. A. Anderson, B. D., of St. John, in the presence of only the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. Mr. and Mrs. Fowler will reside in Chipman.

COMMENT ON CAREER OF BRUCE McDUGALL

Veteran Editor of Chatham World Saw Good in Late Publisher of Free Speech--Misguided Sense of Humor

(Chatham World.)

The accidental death of C. Bruce MacDougall, at Sydney, Wednesday evening, by falling down stairs and breaking his neck, closes the somewhat stormy career of a clever but erratic and unwise writer and publisher. Mr. MacDougall's sense of humor harmonized with that of the country correspondent who delights in stabbing his neighbors with covert allusions and insinuations that touch them on the raw, and he published papers that were filled with the contributions of such cattle.

He thought they were funny, and he found that the public would buy the papers. He began with The Hawk, when he was a lad. That was suppressed, or ceased to pay, and was followed by the Plain Dealer, which was succeeded by his best known paper, Free Speech. He was condemned by a St. John court without evidence to prove the offences, or libelling public personalities of a more or less rasping character, the paper had a big sale. Its Sydney and Glace Bay correspondents served up so much spicy stuff of an odoriferous kind that its methods were employed for its suppression.

The publisher, whose aim was to keep within the law, and who was sure he had not violated it, went to Cape Breton to fight the matter out in the courts. He was assailed in the street, in Sydney, by three or four men, Monday night, and laid beaten, or he would have come back to Moncton that night. Poor MacDougall!

He wasn't a bad fellow at heart, was clever and courageous, and was admired by a sincere desire to better the public, but his methods were such as to do more harm than good. His sense of humor was diseased. He not only had no respect for persons, which may be a virtue in a journalist, but he had no respect for the tenderest and most sacred feelings of the men and women he attacked for real or supposed offences against public morals.

His methods were as heartless as those of the eminent criminal lawyers who pluck out the hearts of their victims, and he exposed all their weaknesses and follies to the derision of a gaping public. If he had been caught young by a newspaper publisher, and trained to distinguish between legitimate news and comments and illegitimate personalities, he might have become one of the most enterprising and successful newspaper writers of the continent, as he had the genius for writing pungent paragraphs of personal interest that has made many journalists famous.

ALL MUST ANSWER AT JUDGMENT SEAT

Dr. Torrey in Impressive Sermon Declares Day of Judgment is Sure--Christ Presides at Tribunal.

Dr. Torrey preaching on the Judgment Day, last evening. His text was from Acts 17:31, as follows: "God now commandeth all men everywhere to repent; because He hath appointed a day, in which He will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom He hath ordained; whereof He hath given assurance unto all men, in that He hath raised him from the dead."

There are, he said, two events in the future which are absolutely certain. First of all, it is absolutely certain that Jesus Christ is coming again to receive His people unto Himself, and to reward them according to their works; and in the second place, it is absolutely certain that Jesus Christ is coming again to judge the world. I know that some day the Lord Jesus Christ will come back again, and receive His waiting and faithful people unto Himself, and I know that there is going to be a Judgment day of the world.

The Judgment day is the subject for our thoughts tonight.

In the days of Noah men laughed at the idea that God would send a flood; but the flood came and swept them all away.

In the days of Lot, men of Sodom laughed at the idea that God would rain fire and brimstone down upon them and destroy Sodom and Gomorrah and the other cities of the plain—but the fire and brimstone fell and these cities were blotted out.

In the days of Jeremiah, the people of Jerusalem laughed at Jeremiah's predictions that Nebuchadnezzar would come and every nation in the dust and destroy their temple. But it all came to pass just as God said, and just as Jeremiah believed and predicted.

In the days of Jesus Christ, men laughed at Christ's prediction that the armies of Rome, under Titus and Vespasian would lay Jerusalem's walls even with the ground, and that calamity would overtake the proud city such as the world had never seen—but historians outside the Bible tell us that it all came to pass just as Christ predicted and that Jerusalem was overtaken with the most appalling siege in the world's history.

All of God's prediction of judgment on individuals and nations in the past have come true to the very letter in spite of all the false hopes that were held out by false prophets.

Judgment Day Certain.

Judgment Day is absolutely certain. Wicked men may laugh at the thought of a Judgment Day—but they can't laugh it away. God has said there will be a day when all men shall be judged—and He does not lie. God has given us a guarantee of a Judgment Day, which we cannot deny, the resurrection of Christ from the dead.

God has appointed a day to judge the world in righteousness. It will be a Judgment for the rich man and the poor man, the bad man and the good man. Men may escape human courts, but they cannot escape God's court. At the millennium, the dead will be raised and every person in this world will be called before the Great White Throne. There will be no escape for anyone. Every infidel, every hypocrite, every denier of Christ will have to meet Him at the great tribunal.

At the Judgment Day, we will have to answer for all the deeds of the flesh—good or bad. The deeds of the body will be the basis of Christ's judgment. No deed done in the body can be hidden from Christ. We may fancy that we have concealed our sins from the world, but we cannot conceal them from Christ. The secret things will be judged especially, the things done under cover of night. God knows all things, and the world will know them at the day of final judgment. Also, we will be judged for all the words we speak, and for all the thoughts that we think. We will have to answer for every word, however idly or carelessly spoken. But the great basis of the Judgment Day will be what we do with Jesus Christ. This will be the great question.

The Great Question.

Jesus Christ will preside at the final tribunal at the Great White Throne—Jesus Christ, Whom men have despised and denied and denounced. Every man will have to appear before Him—whether he has served Him or cast Him down. The man who was called on the cross of Calvary will judge the world—the whole world.

What will be the issue of the Judgment Day? It will be either eternal peace, eternal glory—or eternal despair, eternal darkness, eternal suffering. The decree pronounced at this judgment will be eternal and final. There will be no appeal.

DON'T KNOW SPEED OF THE HARVESTER

Pop Geers, taken after the accident which came so near becoming fatal.

Ed. Geers, who knows more about harness horses than any man, is authority for the statement that "The Harvester won many of his races this year 'under wraps.' Notwithstanding that the son of Walnut Hal stepped the two fastest successive heats ever credited to a stallion and established a new record of 2:01 for a 5-year-old stallion, the veteran driver believes his pet can go faster. "I did not urge The Harvester to go any faster than was necessary to beat Bob Douglass, Spanish Queen and Country Jay. I was satisfied to win. Had the other horses pressed us closer The Harvester would have done better. I think I have the greatest stallion in The Harvester that I hope to prove it to the world." Friends of Geers wanted him to send The Harvester against the stallion record last year as a 4-year-old, but the veteran refused. He preferred to nurse his charge along until he thought he was right to clean up on all trotting records for stallions at one and the same time. Race horse followers the country over pulled for Old Pop to achieve this crowning success to a career unparalleled in trotting history, and all are glad that the veteran and his wonderful trotter succeeded.

LAST CHANCE FOR NELSON

On Result of Battler's Match With Owen Moran Saturday Will Depend His Signing With Ad Wolgast.

San Francisco, Nov. 21.—While it is the general opinion of the sports that Battler Nelson cannot come back and again become the holder of the lightweight championship, his bout with Owen Moran, the English boxer here will show the fans whether they are correct in their view.

Moran will be lighter than the old Battler, but he has been more active in the game than Nelson for six months. When Nelson could get no better than a draw with La France, a second-rater, the sports felt that Nelson was only wasting his time trying to regain his title. Still the Battler, like all the defeated champions, has the idea he can come back, but his showing against Moran may change his belief.

Moran, too, is not the boxer he was a year ago, but still the sports feel he is good enough to make Nelson show what they are anxious to know. Should Nelson win he will go after Wolgast, who took the title from him but it will be March or April before he will get that chance, providing he wins over Moran.

Wolgast, who is out to make matters as disagreeable as possible for Nelson by way of evening up accounts does not think he will have to meet Nelson, as he is of the opinion that Moran will win over him, and if Moran does, Nelson's chances of meeting Wolgast again for the title will have gone aglimmering.

BOWLING ALLEY FOR Y.M.C.A. AT CHATHAM

Chatham, N. B., Nov. 21.—A Y.M.C.A. committee headed by Messrs. G. E. Fisher and A. B. MacKinnon are doing some aggressive work towards forwarding the bowling alley project of the association.

Mr. MacKinnon has secured pledges amounting to nearly $100, including a $50 donation from himself, and other collectors are giving very well. Although only four out of the twelve directors are at work, $200 of the $500, the mark set at, has been secured.

"How far the reduction of protoids and thorough mastication have led to the reduction of waste material and the elimination of fatigue after strenuous efforts, I must leave for consideration.

"To summarize, then, some of the factors that made it possible for Miss Pitonof to accomplish remarkable athletic performances are: The quick metabolism of youth, less body surface for radiation in proportion to weight than most girls of her age; muscles covered with a layer of fat; favorable anatomical structure; slow retarding circulation; peculiar stroke; prolonged practice in swimming; an emotional nature; good habits of living, supplemented by high moral courage, steadfastness of purpose, and a determination to accomplish the object in view.

Jim Barry, the Montana heavyweight, is fighting in the east these days, and finds the picking pretty soft. With his 195 pounds of bone and muscle, Barry is a tough nut for the best of them to crack. Barry looks better now than at any time since 1906, when he started the pugilistic world by knocking out 11 men in succession. Barry knows the feeling of a punch. Sam Langford handed it twice on him, and Al Kaufman slipped it across once. Barry is a rough and ready mixer, and a dangerous proposition at any stage of the game.

Should Fred Beel train faithfully, it is probable the little demon could take the title away from Ordeaman.

POLITICIAN FOR PRESIDENT

JOHN MORIN.

So dissatisfied with President Tom Lynch are some of the National league club owners that they are planning to oust him at the league's annual meeting next month.

Among the men mentioned to succeed Lynch are Jimmy Ward, Fred Richter and John Morin. Don't know Morin, do you? He's safety director of Pittsburg. What he knows about running a baseball league is probably known to the men who want to place him in power. The chances are that if the public was asked, it would vote against placing a politician, especially one of the Pennsylvania type, at the head of the league.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 21.—President Herrmann, of the Cincinnati national said yesterday that he was in favor of having a complete list of the stockholders of the national league published in order that the people who have been knocking the league for the last two years on the score that it is a syndicate organization can be uninvited.

"I believe the best way to do this would be to make public a list of the stockholders in each of the eight clubs so that the people of this country can be satisfied that they are being treated fairly," said Mr. Herrmann.

The matter will be brought up at the meeting in New York and if this list can be made public we will see if there is not a way to stop all this talk. I think it hurts the game in the eyes of the American people.

WHY THIS GIRL HAS MADE GOOD

ROSE PITONOF.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 16.—Rose Pitonof, the 15 year old girl mermaid, whose feats have astonished the athletic world, to the extent of enthusing Prof. D. A. Sargent, the physiologist authority, has gone the way of Annette Kellerman—behind the footlights.

Of Miss Pitonof, Sargent says: "She is very short for her age, compared with our girls, but in breadth, girth and depth is very large. Al though her muscles are well developed, there is a thin layer of fat on the body, arms and legs. Her complexion apparently denotes good surface circulation, but arms, legs, feet and hands are cold to the touch and upon pressing the flesh with thumb or finger, the blood immediately leaves the surface, which remains white for a much longer time than usual.

"Her leg stroke instead of the familiar drawing up of knees and thighs under the body or out at the sides, as is usual with the breast stroke, is one of her own. She keeps her legs nearly in line with her body, crosses her feet and legs and flexes them at the thighs, kicking out vigorously with the powerful extensor muscles of the legs, against the top of the feet or shin bones, and the top of the foot or instep to the water.

"In other words, her leg stroke is the scissor swimmers made with the lower leg in connection with the side stroke or tragon.

"In addition to the proficiency acquired by developing this stroke for distance swimming, Miss Pitonof owes her habits, mental early, steady, and emotional temperament. She has always been regular and systematic in her habits, and usually gets only one hour of sleep.

"She considers herself a small and very slow eater, thoroughly masticating her food and eating meat only twice a week.

"How far the reduction of protoids and thorough mastication have led to the reduction of waste material and the elimination of fatigue after strenuous efforts, I must leave for consideration.

"To summarize, then, some of the factors that made it possible for Miss Pitonof to accomplish remarkable athletic performances are: The quick metabolism of youth, less body surface for radiation in proportion to weight than most girls of her age; muscles covered with a layer of fat; favorable anatomical structure; slow retarding circulation; peculiar stroke; prolonged practice in swimming; an emotional nature; good habits of living, supplemented by high moral courage, steadfastness of purpose, and a determination to accomplish the object in view.

INVESTIGATION MAY FOLLOW LIQUOR VIOLATION CASE

Rev. W. R. Robinson Charges That Inspector Jones Discriminated Against Proprietor Driscoll of Hotel Edward—Defendant Found Guilty of Having Two Entrances and Fined $50.

In the police court yesterday afternoon the case against J. D. Driscoll, of the Hotel Edward, who was charged with having more than one entrance to his barroom, in contravention of the liquor license act was taken up and Mr. Driscoll was adjudged guilty and fined $50.

As an outgrowth of the case it is said that the attorney general will be asked to hold an investigation into charges against the conduct of the license inspector, Ald. John B. Jones. It is alleged that in the evidence adduced in the Driscoll case there were signs that the license inspector had been remiss in his duty and had reported Mr. Driscoll for violation while another violation of a similar character had not been reported.

Mr. Robertson's Statements. Rev. Mr. Robinson when seen intimated that the last of the matter had not been heard. Beyond this he refused to discuss it.

When the case came up yesterday afternoon Police Clerk Henderson appeared for the Crown and Daniel Mullin, K. C., for Mr. Driscoll. The charge was that Mr. Driscoll's licensed premises in the Hotel Edward had more than one entrance as provided by law and the charge was based on information laid by the inspector as a result of a visit paid to the Hotel Edward bar on Nov. 2nd last.
