The Assembly of Queensland has upanimously adopted a resolution in favor of confederation.

Do not Gall the Horses. The rush of mid-summer farm work is very trying on horse-flesh. The side draft of a reaper or mowing machine frequently causes galled necks and shoulders. The usually tough skin of the horse is softened by the flow of perspiration, and a rough, ill-fitting collar, a useless, leaden weight upon the neck of clean chafing back-pad, or a projecting buckle quickly produces pain. No one can blame a horse for faltering, when ordered to press its raw and bleeding shoulder against the collar, that will sink into its bruised flesh.
