GERMANY AGREES TO SIGN UNCONDITIONALLY

Treaty Likely To Be Signed Wednesday

GERMAN ADMIRAL ORDERED SINKING OF SHIPS BECAUSE EX-KAISER HAD ORDERED IT

Six German Sailors Killed and Others Wounded When Fired Upon Subsequent to the Scuttling of the Interned War Vessels At Scapa Flow—Main Force of British Fleet Absent At Time.

London, June 23.—Although reports have stated that six Germans were killed and ten wounded when the boats of the German fleet in Scapa flow were fired upon subsequent to the scuttling of the German fleet, the Daily Mail says that others may have been drowned, and that some may possibly have reached the Orkney Islands and have not as yet been reported.

The main force of the British fleet was absent, exercising at sea, when the German ships were sunk, only some drifters, small warships and patrolling aircraft being on guard over the interned enemy squadron.

Admiral Von Reuter, in command of the surrendered German fleet, says he issued an order to sink the ships, the Daily Mail adds, and did so because at the beginning of the war the German emperor directed that no German warship should fall into the enemy's hands. He says that he believed, from newspaper reports, that the armistice had been ended.

Ordered the Sinkings.

Admiral von Reuter visited Germany some weeks ago, it being understood at the time that the reason for his trip there was that he was ill, but he soon returned, and it is understood that at that time he circulated the order to sink the German ships by evading the censorship or making signals to the various vessels, an act which the close proximity of the German ships made quite easy. The Mail quotes the admiralty as stating that the German crews were periodically changed and saying that the original crews remained on board the vessels. There were from 150 to 200 men on the big ships and from 10 to 20 on board the destroyers. Therefore, there were nearly 5,000 in the water or the ships' boats when the fleet was sunk. Fourteen hundred were landed by the British on Sunday at Nigg, Rosshire, on the northern shore of Cromarty Firth. They were placed in huts ments and are being held under military guard. From the behavior of the ships, according to the Mail, it was evident the sea valves had been opened, and in a surprisingly short time the vessels, big and small, began to settle down.

Tried to Save Ships.

Every effort was made by the British naval craft to beach the sinking ships, and in the case of destroyers considerable success was achieved. By 1 o'clock in the afternoon, however, what a short time before had been a stately fleet riding calmly at anchor, was an array of reeling, rocking battleships, the doom of which was written in their movements. Here a destroyer would appear amid a cloud of steam, and there a battleship would take her last plunge and disappear in a cloud of spray. One would settle down by the stern and another would heel over until only the keel showed above water. The Hindenburg, Derflinger, Von der Tann, Moltke and Seydlitz settled down beside each other, the last named turning turtle as she filled with water. Her keel is still showing where she capsized. The waters of Scapa Flow were dotted with small boats full of men who had, with dramatic suddenness, settled the question of the disposition of the interned ships. As the first boat load was towed alongside of H.M.S. Victorious by a drifter, a German officer in the boat ordered his men to cheer. They responded with three vigorous "Hochs." Craft of every description followed fast to the side of the warship, each towing boatloads of Germans, who were taken aboard the Victorious, the decks of which soon became crowded with men and bundles.

Believed Peace Signed.

A German officer who came aboard wore a sword and seemed to wish to make an impressive ceremony by handing it over to an officer who had been in command of a division of interned destroyers. "We are not Bolsheviki," he said. "Peace was signed today. We had our orders and have carried them out."

The Germans were not aware that the armistice had been extended until Monday, and there was an unmost continuous heel clacking and saluting as the officers of various ships greeted each other on coming aboard.

One officer, who wore the Iron Cross, pointed to the sinking ships and said: "See how the Germany navy goes down with its flags flying."

Such, however, was not the case as British sailors had boarded most of the German ships and had hauled down the flags before the vessels went under.

May Salvage Fleet.

The prospect of salvaging a few of the ships is fairly encouraging, the Mail says. None has gone down in really deep water. The beaching of the sinking ships proved a difficult, and at times, a dangerous matter. One destroyer sank as it was being towed ashore. British sailors on board having scarcely time to jump clear before the craft went down. About 20 destroyers out of the fifty that were interned were beached during the afternoon.

GERMAN SAILORS SINK ALL WARSHIPS IN HOME WATERS

Vessels Were Left To Enemy Under Armistice Conditions—Twelve Warboats Besides Destroyers Were Anchored Off Kiel and Wilhelmshaven.

Weimar, June 23.—The German warships, which were not surrendered to the Allies, and which have been anchored off Kiel, Wilhelmshaven and other points, also have been sunk by German sailors manning them, according to a report received here from a reliable authority.

According to the reports there were twelve German war vessels, besides destroyers, which were in German waters, not having been turned over to the entente under the armistice provisions.

QUEBEC ELECTIONS BEING HELD TODAY

Result in Remaining Constituencies Will Not Affect Government.

Montreal, June 23.—Voting in the provincial general election is taking place today, though the result cannot affect the government, which was returned to power by acclamations last Monday. Seats in only 36 counties out of 81 remained to be decided today. The island of Montreal provided nine of these elections, and the campaign, despite the apathy in the province as a whole, has been a vigorous one in the city. In Montreal, labor men have entered the fight in Maisonneuve, Laurier and Dorion.

WINNIPEG'S MAYOR DECLARES LAWLESSNESS MUST CEASE

All Offenders Will Be Vigorously Dealt With, Says Mayor Gray in Proclamation Issued This Morning—Foreigners Who Violate Law Will Be Immediately Deported.

Winnipeg, June 23.—The following proclamation was issued early this morning (Monday) by Mayor Gray:

PROCLAMATION: The riot act has been read and remains in full force and effect in Winnipeg.

Riotous assembly of crowds, riotous attack on persons or property, riotous damaging of property, are indictable offences, and all persons guilty of same are liable to imprisonment. Assembling in crowds, congregating and standing on the streets, is dangerous, and you do so at your own risk.

The riots of Saturday were a direct challenge on constituted authority, and were promptly and vigorously suppressed, and my proclamation strictly enforced.

Citizens: All lawlessness and intimidation must cease.

Those of you who wish to return to your work can do so without fear of molestation, and if you are in the slightest way interfered with or intimidated, notify at once the mayor or chief of police and the offenders will be traced down by the Royal Northwest Mounted Police and city police if it takes years to do so. Any foreigners who make any threats of any kind or in any way intimidate or worry would-be workers in the slightest degree, can expect immediate deportation to Russia or wherever they came from. We intend to purge the city of any lawless element and prosecute to the fullest rigor of the law. On the other hand all law-abiding citizens can feel free to go about their business in the full realization that British law will protect them to the limit. No further open-air meetings, either in parks, streets or public places, will be permitted until further notice.

God save the King.

CHARLES F. GRAY, Mayor.

ALIENS WHO BREAK PAROLES ARE SENT TO INTERNMENT CAMP

Winnipeg, June 23.—Registered aliens in Winnipeg who break their paroles and take part in forbidden meetings and commit any acts of a disorderly nature are being arrested and placed in an internment camp in Ontario. So far more than twenty have been rounded up by federal and city police, and other arrests are likely to be made, it was officially announced last night. In two days last week thirteen were gathered in, a number that gives some idea of the active work that has been started by the authorities. All are charged with various offences against alien enemy regulations.

VICTORIA ELECTRICAL WORKERS DECIDE NOT TO GO ON STRIKE

Victoria, B. C., June 23.—The electrical workers at a meeting last night decided they would not strike with the metal trades workers, who are engaging in a walkout on Monday. A resolution was passed by the electrical workers rescinding all former resolutions relating to the Winnipeg situation, and they have now placed themselves on record to hold to the international constitution and to take no further action with regard to this situation without the consent of the officers.

VANCOUVER STRIKERS WILL STAY OUT UNTIL DEMANDS ARE MET

Vancouver, June 23.—Before a big audience in the Arena yesterday the striking unions affirmed their reported intention of continuing on strike until such time as their demands are recognized and then going back to work only as a body.

The declaration that the existence of organized labor in Vancouver is at stake, that the civic employees must be reinstated in their positions, and that Winnipeg strike leaders must be satisfied with negotiations in that city before Vancouver unions now on strike will return to work, was made by various speakers.

"When Winnipeg is ready for a settlement we are ready," declared J. Kavanaugh, strike leader, "but not until such time as Winnipeg is ready.

"This is a real movement of organized labor and cannot be dealt with by the employers as if individual unions were on strike. Among other things civil employees must be taken back. Revolution is not our aim."

GERMANY'S GOVERNMENT HAS INFORMED THE ALLIES THAT IT IS WILLING TO SIGN PEACE TERMS WITHOUT CONDITIONS

GERMANY AGREES TO ACCEPT, BUT PROTESTS TO THE LAST

Weimar, June 22.—On announcing the decision of the German Government to sign the peace terms before the national asembly today, Premier Bauer said:

"At this hour of life and death, under the menace of invasion, for the last time I raise in free Germany a protest against this treaty of violence and destruction. I protest against the mockery of self-determination, this enslavement of the German people, this new menace to the peace of the world under the mask of a treaty of peace. No signing can enfeeble this protest which we raise and swear to. This treaty does not lose its annihilating character by alterations in detail. Protesting against it is useless, and is at the risk of a new crisis within 48 hours.

Resistance Is Broken.

"Our power of resistance is broken, and there is no means of averting this treaty. The treaty itself, however, does give us a handle which we cannot allow to be wrested from us, namely, the entente's solemn promise of June 16 that the treaty can be revised from time to time and adapted to new conditions. That is some of the few words in the treaty breathing a spirit of peace.

The premier concluded by expressing his faith in the German people and their final realization of a better future. He said they were faced with years of labor for the foreign account, but owed it to their descendants to hold the country together.

"They must safeguard our new liberty," he said; "there must be a will to work and a discipline in all ranks of society. There are no miraculous charms to cure a nation. Even a world revolution cannot rid us of the malady from which we are wearing away. Only by revolution of our moral consciousness can we raise ourselves out of our night into a better future."

GERMANS WILL SIGN, BUT COMPLAIN OF HARD TERMS

Paris, June 22.—The German note, in which Germany agrees to sign the treaty with two reservations, was received by the president of the peace conference at 5 o'clock this evening. The reply of the allies, through the council of four, was transmitted to the German plenipotentiaries at Versailles.

The German note follows, dated Versailles, June 22, and addressed to M. Clemenceau:

"The imperial minister of foreign affairs has instructed me to communicate the following to your excellency:

"The government of the German republic has, from the moment when the peace conditions of the allied and associated governments were made known to it, let no doubt exist as to the fact that the government, in harmony with the whole German people, must regard these conditions as being in sharp contradiction to the principle which was accepted by the allied and associated powers, on the one hand, and Germany, on the other, as being binding in accordance with the laws of nations for the peace before the conclusion of the armistice.

"Relying upon this principle of justice, which was agreed upon between the parties to the negotiations, and assisted by a clear exposition of conditions in Germany, the government has left no stone unturned in order to arrive at a direct verbal exchange of opinions, and thus obtain some mitigation of the unbearably harsh conditions which might render it possible for the government of the German republic to sign the treaty of peace without reservations, and to guarantee its execution.

Endeavors Have Failed.

"These endeavors of the government of the German republic, which were undertaken in the interest of the peace of the world and the reconciliation of peoples, have failed, owing to rigorous insistence on the conditions of peace.

"Far-reaching counter-proposals of the German delegation have only in certain points received any acceptance. The concessions made only reduced the severity of the conditions in a small degree.

"The allied and associated governments have, in an ultimatum which expires on June 23, confronted the government of the German republic with the decision either to sign the treaty of peace presented to them or refuse to sign. In the latter case, a completely defensive people has been threatened with the forcible imposition of the conditions of peace already presented and with the increase of heavy burdens.

Do Not Want War.

"The German people does not wish for the resumption of the bloody war; it honestly wishes for a lasting peace. In view of the attitude of the Allied and associated governments, the German people has no other force in its hands save to appeal to the eternally inalienable right to an independent life which belongs to the German people, as to all people. The government of the German republic can lend no support to this sacred right of the German people by the application of force. The government only hopes for support through the conscience of mankind. No people, including those of the allied and associated powers, could expect the German people to agree with thorough conviction to an instrument of peace, whereby living members of the very body of the German people are to be cut off, without consultation of the populations concerned; whereby the dignity of the German state is to be permanently impaired, and whereby intolerable economic and financial burdens are to be laid upon the German people.

Will Oppose Separation.

"The German Government has received passionate expressions of opinion from the population in the districts to be cut off in the east to the effect that they will oppose themselves to the separation of these districts, which have for the greater part been German for many centuries, by all means they possess. The German Government, therefore, finds itself compelled to decline all responsibility for any difficulty which may result from the resistance of the inhabitants against their separation from Germany. "If the Government of the German republic is, nevertheless ready to sign the conditions of the Allies, with the abovementioned reservation, it is not done of its free will. Representatives of the German republic solemnly declare that its attitude is to be understood in the sense that it yields to force, being resolved to spare the German people, whose sufferings are unspeakable at a new war, the shattering of its national unity by further occupation of German territory, terrible famine for women and children, and mercilessly prolonged retention of prisoners of war.

"The German people expects, in view of the grievous burdens which it is to take upon itself, that all German military and civilian prisoners beginning July 1 and thereafter, in uninterrupted succession and within a short period, shall be restored. Germany gave back her enemies' prisoners of war within two months."

TORONTO CITIZENS JITNEY, CYCLE OR WALK IN ABSENCE OF STREET CARS

Efforts Are Made To Have Railway Board Act.

PEOPLE REACH WORK

All Manner of Conveyances Transport Workers to Employment.

Toronto, June 23.—While Toronto's thousands walked, jitneyed or cycled to work this morning, the board of control and other civic authorities met to endeavor to put on the street again the trolley cars which have been stalled in the car barns since the strike vote of the street railway employees late on Saturday night.

Following the resignation of the government-appointed board of conciliation yesterday, after the employees had refused to accept their services, the city turned to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board as the tribunal responsible for further developments. In view of the assertion of the company that it cannot possibly concede an increase in wages unless permitted by the city to increase fares, the proposition is that the railway board take over and operate the cars until the books of the concern are fully investigated. The Toronto Railway Company has shown no disposition to accept this proposition and the employees have not expressed an opinion on the matter.

No Attempt Made.

In the meantime no attempt is being made to run the street cars, although the mayor has expressed the opinion that they should be run, even if the military is called out to keep order.

The usual varied assortment of conveyances were pressed into service this morning and with the help of these, the civic car lines in the outlying districts, which are not affected by the strike as well as railway trains from the suburbs, most people seem to have reached their places of employment. The demand of the striking employees is for 55 cents an hour, a straight eight-hour day, and other concessions.

French Foreign Office Makes Announcement That the Foe Has Yielded After Unsuccessful Attempt To Secure a Delay of 48 Hours—Germans Protest to Last Against Severe Conditions Imposed by Entente.

Paris, June 23.--The German Government at Weimar has formally communicated its willingness to sign the peace terms unconditionally, it was announced by the French foreign office this afternoon.

The day and hour for the formal signing of the treaty is uncertain. The signing probably may take place Tuesday, but more likely Wednesday.

ITALIAN DELEGATES TO SIGN.

Paris, June 23.—Italian delegates at present in Paris have been authorized to sign the treaty on behalf of Italy. This announcement clears a question which, it was feared, might delay the signing of the treaty.

GERMANY'S REQUEST FOR 48 HOURS DELAY IS REFUSED

Paris, June 23.—Germany today requested an additional 48 hours within which to sign the peace treaty. The council of four flatly refused the request.

The request for additional time pleaded that the change in the government and the generally disturbed conditions made is difficult to complete the arrangements.

The communication from the Germans was received at 3 o'clock this morning. At 9 o'clock President Wilson and Premier Clemenceau met with Premier Lloyd George at the latter's house for consideration of the note. The character of this communication was not disclosed, however, until some time later in the morning, when announcement was made that the German request had been rejected.

Replying to the German note, the council of four said: "The allied and associated powers have considered the note of the German delegation of even date, and in view of the shortness of time remaining, feel it their duty to reply at once. Of the time within which the German Government must make its final decision as to the signature of the treaty less than 24 hours remains. The allied and associated governments have given fullest consideration to all representations hitherto made by the German Government with regard to the treaty and have replied with complete frankness. They have made such concessions as they thought it were just to make. The present note of the German delegates presents no new arguments or consideration not already examined."

The council then declared that the time for discussion was past and that the German representatives must make a decision to sign and accept the treaty as a whole or to reject it.

STEEL PLANT TO CLOSE.

Sydney, N. S., June 23.—It is officially announced here that the furnaces at the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company's plant at Sydney Mines will close down on the first of next month for an indefinite period. The tie-up is believed to be due primarily to general stagnation in the steel market.

FORTY-SEVEN DEAD, 160 INJURED AS A RESULT OF TORNADO

Property Valued At $6,000,000 Destroyed At Fergus Falls, Minn.

Evansville, Minn., June 23.—Forty-seven persons are known to be dead, 160 are injured, and in emergency hospitals, and property valued at $6,000,000 is destroyed, as a result of the tornado which swept through Fergus Falls late yesterday afternoon. Relief work is under way, with plenty of doctors and nurses on hand. There is possibility that the death list may reach 60 when the ruins of the Grand Hotel have been thoroughly searched, as it is known many bodies are still beneath the pile.

HUMAN INTERESTS, NOT VESTED INTERESTS, MUST BE THE FIRST CONSIDERATION IN BUSINESS LIFE

Rev. W. J. Knox Points Out That Industries Are Created for Man, Not Man for Them— Social Order Today Too Pagan—Heart of Man Must Be Changed.

Continuing his sermon, based on the question, "Is the Social Order Christian?" Rev. W. J. Knox last night came to the conclusion that it was not, and that until the spirit of Christ entered more fully into business dealings it would not become so. Speaking in First Presbyterian, Mr. Knox said:

The fourth principle made clear in the life and teaching of Jesus which has direct reference to the present industrial situation is the infinite value of the individual man, apart entirely from the earthly trappings which may be thrown around him. Every man is created in the image of God. Every man has breathed into him at his making the spirit of the living God. His soul is illumined by that light that lighteneth every man coming into the world. The parables of the lost son, the lost sheep, the lost coin, show clearly the deep, loving, personal interest God takes in every individual, regardless of his position in life. This is the attitude of every man, to the extent that he is Christian, towards his brother.

Value of the Spiritual Life.

This priceless value of the individual man does not attach to his body, but to his inner spiritual life, his higher nature, which constitutes him a child of God, and which raises him above the beasts of the jungle. Hence Christ's words that man cannot live by bread alone. The life is more than the matter which sustains life. What doth it profit a man if he gain the whole material world and lost his soul? The greatness of man therefore depends, not upon any material possession, but upon his moral worth. He is great according to his possession of those qualities of character which were inherent in the person of Christ.

If this principle be applied to the industrial world it would mean that the welfare of men should be the prime consideration, rather than profits. "Industry was made for man, not man for industry." Man is the end, not the means. The success of any industrial enterprise must be judged not by the dividends produced—this may be its condemnation—but by its contribution to the welfare both of the workers engaged in the industry and the community at large. Human interests, not vested interests, must be the primary consideration.

Applies to Wages and Hours.

This principle applies both to wages and to hours. If an industry cannot pay a wage that will mean adequate provision for the physical, mental and moral needs of the workers and their families, the industry should not exist. Too long hours are condemned by the same principle. If a father has to leave for his work before his children are up in the morning, and remains away until they have grown tired and are ready for bed, how can he make the contribution he should to the home life? A ten-hour day strikes at the home, and the home is the very nerve of the nation's life.

When we speak of human welfare we have in mind no one class but the masses of the people. In a Christian industrial order every child will have ample opportunity for the development of all his powers. The fullest educational privileges must be given to all, regardless of the wealth or social standing of their parents. True, the little ones come into the world with unequal capacity. Some are born with physical and intellectual possibilities quite superior to others, but all should have equally favorable opportunity for the development of the talents which are intrusted to them. Apart entirely from the Christian motive to love one's neighbor as oneself, but from the point of view of the nation's highest welfare there must be the fullest possibility for self-development for all. If any considerable number of people grow up in ignorance and poverty they will be a menace to the state. They may be kept subdued, but they will form an abscess in the body politic which will tend to poison the whole national life.

A fourth test to apply to the industrial order is: Does it tend to foster a desire to produce for the sake of profits primarily, or a desire to secure the highest development of every individual man? Is life or things the supreme concern?

Possessions in Common.

The fifth principle which is implicit in the teaching of Jesus is that the possessions of the members of the Christian community should be looked upon as belonging to all, held in trust for the good of all. Among the early Christians, who had fully caught the spirit of their Lord, and who tried to express that spirit in their social order, not one said that aught of the things which he possessed was his own, but they had all things in comman.

It is not necessary to discuss the exact way in which this spirit worked itself out in the early church, but the underlying principle is clear. No one considered that his own possessions were to be spent solely in his own interests, but were looked upon as belonging to all the people. We need not examine the legal title by which the property was held. The claim of the community was supreme. All things were to be used in the interests, not of the nominal individual owner, but in the interests of the people as a whole.

How this principle should be embodied in the modern social organization is not for us to discuss here, but the principle is for today just as it was for the first century. By whatever kind of title we possess our property we must look upon it not as exclusively our own, to do with as we like, but as morally belonging to the state or the public, to be used for the common good. This clearly calls for some kind of industrial order in which common ownership has a large place, and even that property privately owned must be held in trust for the highest good of man. This truth follows inevitably upon the first principle: Love thy neighbor as thyself, and from the practice of the early Christians.

Natural View.

It was most natural that this view of property should prevail among the followers of Christ, when we think of our Lord's estimate of riches. On few subjects was he so emphatic. We are inclined to put on the soft pedal when we read Christ's words regarding wealth. We feel constrained to explain them away, so pointed are they. "Woe unto you that are rich!" said he, and again: "It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God."

And yet the point of his utterance is perfectly clear: If a citizen of the kingdom must love his neighbor as himself, if his motive must be service to his fellows, he can scarcely gather great wealth for himself that he may live in luxury when thousands of his neighbors are merely existing, in ignorance and in poverty. The law of the kingdom is that life becomes rich and strong according as it is lost in sacrificial service. Of course, all things are possible with God, and even the rich man may so invest himself and his wealth in the great enterprise of establishing the kingdom of God that he really enters into it. Yet in the mind of Christ such a man is an exception.

Too Common Spirit.

Also too common is the spirit which found brutally frank expression from the lips of an eastern manufacturer, whose factory earned a dividend of 72 per cent. "Our mill was not built for the glory of God, but to make money for the shareholders." It is as true today as it was in the first century that "the love of money is the root of all evil." Samuel gave a list of evils resulting from king rule in national life. Just as black a list could be drawn up of the evils resulting from the rule of kings of finance in the industrial world.

But this glaringly unjust distribution of wealth cannot always prevail against the advance of the kingdom. Already the mission of Christ has been fulfilled in the political realm. "He hath put down princes from their thrones and hath exalted them of low degree." The day is coming when his mission will be fulfilled in the industrial world. "The hungry he hath filled with good things, and the rich he hath sent empty away."

But we must not magnify the power of riches. At their best they are by no means the condition of true happiness. Great wealth is more frequently a curse than a blessing. More noble souls have been smothered by wealth than were ever starved by poverty. The heart of the widow who gave her mite into the treasury knew a far deeper joy, a truer peace than the rich who gave out of their abundance. In the humble home, where it is difficult to make ends meet, there frequently dwells the deepest satisfaction, the truest joy, and there is often nurtured the noblest character.

The fifth test of the industrial order will be: Does each member so love his neighbor that all things are held in common, that even private-owned property is held in trust for the common weal, or are his personal riches considered as lying quite beyond the claims of his neighbor?

The Method.

The last principle revealed in Christ's teaching which we shall consider has reference to the way in which a more just condition may be established in the world's life. This condition, where righteousness, peace and joy prevail, is called by Jesus the kingdom of God, a condition where God's love rules in the hearts of men, shaping their outer life and determining all their relationships.

Jesus taught that the kingdom existed in the world in his day. He said: "The kingdom of heaven is in your midst." "He that is least in the kingdom is greater than he." "Theirs is the kingdom of God."

But although the kingdom was a blessed reality in his day it was not by any means wholly realized. He pointed forward to a day when God's will should be done in earth and the kingdom will have come.

But how will it come? Will it be established suddenly upon the earth, when all that is shall be swept away, and an absolutely new order be ushered in? Christ did not so teach. He spoke of the kingdom as already existing, but being a life it was to develop through the years until at last it will have become a completed reality. He illustrated the kingdom by the parable of the mustard seed; it was to grow until it filled the whole earth. He illustrated it also by the leaven; it was to permeate every sphere of human interest and activity until human life is saturated with the new spirit of love.

This means that God's way is evolution rather than revolution. No development which has resulted in anything worth while has been sudden. Works of destruction are sometimes instantaneous, but processes of construction are gradual. The growth of democracy in politics has been slow. To attempt to rush unduly the growth of democracy in industry would provoke heated opposition and involve serious reverses.

Henderson's Words.

Arthur Henderson, M. P., is an eminently sane leader in this regard. He says: "The growth of political democracy among us has been marked by few violent crises. Successive extensions of the franchise have been won mainly by agitations of a peaceful kind, accompanied in only a few cases by rioting, and organized revolution in the continental sense has been exceedingly rare in our history. . . . The idea that by forceful methods the organized democracy can find a short cut to the attainment of its aims will have its attractions for men of unstable temperament, impatient of the inevitable, setbacks which we are bound to encounter if we work along constitutional lines."

The British people throughout the empire have not much to learn from Russia or Ruthenia or Hungary, in the way of realizing a democratic ideal. These people have nothing to show of permanent results which invites serious imitation. We shall be much further on in a generation by moving steadily and sanely along constitutional lines than by smashing the present institutions, and on their ruins attempting to build anew. There is such a principle as continuity in history which must not be lost sight of.

We must clearly distinguish between the ultimate goal to be attained and the next step which should be taken towards that goal.

The last test then is this: Is the industrial order evolving into a condition wherein dwelleth righteousness, as an orderly process wherein justice is done to all who are vitally concerned in the change

Is Largely Pagan.

We have now dealt with the teaching of Jesus in so far as it throws light upon the relations between men in the world of industry. Looked at in the light of the principles therein revealed we are driven to the conclusion that the industrial order is still largely pagan. It should be so adjusted that it would positively encourage each man to love his neighbor as himself, that each would co-operate with others in the spirit of service for the highest good of all, and that each would look upon his powers and possessions as a stewardship to be administered in the interests of the common weal.

Before drawing to a close, however, we should emphasize that any change that is to lift the world's life to a higher level must begin within the hearts of men. Mere reorganization of the externals of life will effect no real advance. Out of the heart are the issues of life. It is in man's power to triumph in nobility of living over the vilest environment.

Christ lived an ideal life nineteen centuries ago, and Christ in the life today will give victory over the most adverse circumstances.

Viscount Bryce has hope for a sure and enduring peace only if the hearts of the people are changed. Smuts says we cannot have real safety until we have "a radical change in the hearts of men." Granted the most perfect social organization which will provide ample food, clothing and shelter for everyone, unless the hearts of men have the spirit of Christ as a saving power, there can be no true and enduring happiness.

Though this be true it does not mean that we can be indifferent to a social and industrial order which tends strongly to quench the spirit of love and service, and fosters the selfish passion to compete with one's neighbor to beat him out and possess the coveted prize. We are taught to pray, "Thy kingdom come," but we must do more than pray for it, we must work for the coming of an industrial order wherein dwelleth righteousness, where justice and peace will prevail. This really Christian social order will be established when the personal Christ is the ruling power in the lives of men.

LONDON STRIKES ARE OFF AT LEAST FOR TIME BEING FOLLOWING LABOR DECISIONS

Street Railway Men Postpone Strike Vote for a Week— Bakers and Bosses Reach Agreement.

London's two threatened serious strikes, those of the bakers and the street railway employees, have been averted for a time at least. It was rumored that the street car men would be out on strike by today, and that the bakers would possibly be out on Tuesday, but the taking of a strike vote by the car men was postponed for a week. The bakers and their employers reached an amicable agreement regarding pay and shorter hours, but on one demand regarding the class of shop, the bosses stalled. They will be given a month to reconsider.

Railway Employees' Decision.

Resolved that this division, No. 741, of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America defer taking a strike vote for one week, pending negotiations between the London Street Railway Company and the city council."

At a mass meeting of the union employees of the local street railway company, held in the Foresters' Hall, corner of Dundas and English streets, on Saturday night, the resolution above passed unanimously.

Demands have been made by the men for increased wages, and to meet these demands the company is seeking to increase the fares. Negotiations for this purpose will be carried on with the city council.

In the event of the company and the council not coming to an agreement by the time the week has expired, the division is prepared to take such action as is deemed necessary, Financial Secretary L. Parker stated to The Advertiser.

Bakers Reach Agreement.

Commencing this morning union bakers of the city will be paid according to an increased scale of wages, as a result of an agreement to this effect being reached at a conference of union and master bakers in the Knights of Pythias Hall on Richmond street, on Saturday night. Formerly the men received pay ranging from $18 to $26 per week. Now they will receive a minimum wage of $22, and a maximum of $28. For overtime the men will get time and a half. Shorter hours are also included in the agreement, the working day to be 8 hours long. Employes working nights will work nine hours each night.

Only one difference arose between the employes and the employers. This was as to whether the shops should be open or closed. The men wish them to be closed. As no settlement of this matter was reached, the employers were given 30 days to make their decision regarding it. No trouble arose at the meeting, the bosses and employes discussing all things calmly.

"BEECHWOOD" SCENE OF NOVEL DELIGHTFUL SOCIAL GARDEN PARTY

"Beechwood," the beautiful old home of Lieut.-Col. W. M. Gartshore and Mrs. Gartshore, Ridout street south, was the scene on Saturday afternoon of probably the most novel social event ever held in the city, a "babies' garden party," when the guests of honor were the 300 or more little tots, children under six years old, of the employees of the McClary Manufacturing Company, of which firm the colonel is general manager.

Arrangements were made to have the wee guests conveyed over from the city in the firm's motors, and when they arrived entertainment was awaiting them, to be remembered as long as they live by those old enough to remember. Ventriloquists and other entertainers, who are the joy and wonder of childhood, had been brought all the way from Toronto, and were surrounded all the afternoon by gleeful groups. Besides, there were games and races, ice cream and all sorts of goodies.

As soon as the little folks arrived they were taken in charge by the girls of the McClary office staff and the welfare nurse, Miss Malloch, in order to afford as much freedom as possible to the mothers who came along.

Col. Gartshore, Mrs. Gartshore and Mrs. Cleghorn received, and, assisted by Mrs. John Gunn, were most vigilant during the party in seeing that everyone was having the best time possible.

The mothers had a tea party of their own, thoroughly enjoying the outing in the open air under the beautiful shade trees which are one of the great attractions of Beechwood.

SUNDAY BAND CONCERT.

Comforts for wounded soldiers will be purchased with the money given in collections at last night's band concert in Victoria Park when the Marconi Club Band, under the direction of Professor Pascuali Venuta, played popular airs and classic selections to a crowd of several thousand. The attendance at last night's concert was probably the largest yet this season.

MASSACHUSETTS LINE IS TIED UP BY STRIKE

Boston, Mass., June 23.—Thousands of workers in more than a score of cities and towns served by the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway, formerly the Bay State Street Railway Company, walked to their places of employment today as a result of the strike of union carmen on the system yesterday.

CHINESE CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION ROOMS OPENED YESTERDAY

Native Minister Says Message Taught Carried to the Orient.

"Belgium is a country," not a road," said Rev. Mr K. Won of Toronto, "the inspiration of the Chinese throughout Canada," as he is called, yesterday, speaking at the Chinese Christian Association at 256½ Dundas street.

"We come to you strangers. We must learn the English language, and some of us find it very hard, for our tongues are a little stiff, but the young boy of 13 in Alberta understood his English when he wrote this short sentence, at the opening of the war: 'Belgium is a country, not a road.' He understood," continued Mr. Won, "that a country has gates through which one might pass only when he presented a passport, and Gerinany had no passport."

"However, this work," Mr. Won said, "that has begun today in London under such favorable circumstances is the most valuable work I know. When I go to China, I find in Canton the results of the work done by the people of Canada in teaching the Chinese the English language. You may not cross the big Pacific Ocean—it's so wide—but these boys in Canada go back to China, and they carry your message, given to them while you teach them the language.

"The Chinese Christian Association has been established in Calgary, Edmonton, Moose Jaw, Regina and Winnipeg, as well as in London, Brantford and Toronto. It is modeled after the English Y. M. C. A., and aims to do similar work among the Chinese.

"You aim to teach the Bible to these boys," continued Mr. Won, "but first teach the language. Do not begin by trying to explain the Gospel of St. John —a spiritual gospel that is hardly understood in many English homes.

"Teach the language to help the foreigner become a good citizen, and give much more teaching to help them become good Christians."

Mr. Won deprecated the attitude of many ministers and church workers who seemed to have no sympathy with the foreigner. "Teach the foreigner," he urged, "then shall he become a loyal citizen. Pay more attention to these people, and give good interest to the work, and you'll see the results, not only in your own city, but throughout Canada."

Mr. Won paid a compliment to London as "the real best city of Canada," and he hoped the work of the association would be a success.

Lem Wong, president of the new organization, gave a brief address outlining the great need of this work in the city. "We have about 200 Chinese in London—and it's better to teach them to be good citizens than to let them always be getting into trouble because they have no place to go, and do not understand the English language or the people."

Mr. Wong spoke of some of the good results in London of the work being done in some of the churches. St. Andrew's school has been the pioneer in this Chinese work, with the Dundas Centre, First Congregational and Talbot Street Baptist.

"From London, John Lee has gone back to China as a missionary, and we have in my village a church supported by many students who are in Canada."

Mr. Wong also received letters of congratulation from the Chinese colleges of Baltimore, Boston and Portland, Maine. The following telegram was received from Norfolk, Mass.:

"Congratulations to the inauguration of your association. A great success in the future.—T. Y. Chen.

"Canton Christian College Association."

"The students," explained Mr. Wong, "of this Northfield college equip the Canton Christian College, where there are a great number of students, who are trained along religious lines."

The Welland, Ont., Association also sent a congratulatory letter.

Rev. Mr. MacGregor, of St. Andrew's Church, acted as chairman, and urged all to help with the work.

"We are not able to go to China," he said, "so God has sent the Chinese to us in London. Let us not lose the opportunity."

Short addresses were also given by A. S. MacGregor of St. Andrew's School; Mr. German of Dundas Centre, Rev. Mr. Kelly of First Congregational and Mr. Holman of Talbot Street Baptist.

Mr. Chin Onn, also spoke in Chinese.

Mark Wah, from Stratford, gave a short address in English and in Chinese, picturing dramatically the conditions if there had been no gospel to preach.

Solos were given by Bert Thomas, the Chinese tenor, and Ling Hing, and Mr. Nichol.

Hymns were sung in English by Pearl, Rose, Mary and Clara Wong, and Psalm c. recited by the two small Chin boys, Samuel and Sing.

The association has begun well, but the need of teachers is very great.

"We need many helpers," said Mr. Wong, "who are willing to give up an hour or two a week to help teach English. If anyone has an interest in the work, and can explain the meaning of the words in English," said Mr. Wong, "there is not much difficulty in the work, for in the Chinese dictionaries used by the boys, there are the Chinese characters opposite the English words, and the work is very interesting."

Anyone able and willing to do this work may communicate with Lem Wong or Reg. Daly, the superintendent.

The classes are held Thursday evening and Sunday after the evening service. The Thursday evening class is specially for the teching of English. At the Sunday meeting an address or sermon is given in Chinese, followed by a half hour of teaching English.

It is a worthy work, and as Rev. Mr. MacGregor said, "God has sent the Chinese to us to Canada so we can teach them."

The rooms were beautifully decorated with flowers, the Chinese and Canadian flags hanging side by side.

Judging by the large attendance of Chinese pupils and English teachers the association has started on its work under the most favorable auspices.

In the evening Rev. Ma Kwon gave a splendid address in Chinese to the Chinese of the association. Mark Mow of Stratford also spoke. The little Wong children also sang a hymn in English.

Iron For Strength

You need iron in the blood! Every healthy man or woman should have about as much iron in his or her body as there is in an ordinary railroad spike. To gain this iron, the best way is to take Tonal-Iron Capsules, a combination of iron in its most soluble form, recently discovered, and now having a marvelous sale. Tonal-Iron Capsules are a form of iron readily taken up by the blood. The blood cells get round, rich red in color, the cheeks are pink, the appetite improves, and one feels full of "snap" —"pep"—"vigor"—instead of tired before the day is half done. The eyes take on a lustre and the body feels that tingle which one gets from a cold bath.

For sale and guaranteed by all good druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of $1. Tonal-Iron Laboratories, Box 184, London, Ont. zxv

ALLEGED OWNER OF STILL IS ACQUITTED

Magistrate Finds No Grounds For Conviction.

William A. Lake, 1033 Pine street, the first man charged in this city with having a still for rectifying spirits on his premises, was dismissed by Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon in police court this morning because in the opinion of the magistrate there was no evidence submitted against Lake to show that the apparatus found on his premises was necessarily a still.

Witnesses from the inland revenue department by whom the charge was laid, testified at previous hearings in the case that all the component parts of a still was found separately at Lake's place, 1033 Pine street, and that the apparatus could be used as a still.

Asks Conviction.

R. G. Fisher, counsel fort the revenue department in summing up the case against Lake, declared that in proving that apparatus which constituted all the component parts of a still had been taken from the defendant's place, this was all that was required for conviction under the section of the Ontario temperance act governing the charges.

"I can make a still out of things in Fisher's own house," remarked J. M. McEvoy, counsel for Lake.

"There is no doubt but that I could go to a plumber's and find all the parts necessary for the construction of a still in his shop; according to the argument submitted by the prosecution, the plumber could be arrested," Magistrate Graydon explained.

Not Guilty.

"Although the evidence in this case shows that the apparatus which was found, would, when properly connected form a still for distilling liquor, there is no evidence to show that it had been used for this purpose, and in addition the parts of the apparatus were found in various places on Lake's premises; some in the house, and some in the yard, and I cannot find the defendant guilty of any of the three counts laid in the charges."

The magistrate would not accept as evidence, certificates from the government analyst at Ottawa, which certified that a sample of liquor taken from a barrel in Lake's cellar contained 19.25 per cent proof spirits.

Many persons had come from the country to hear the case, but their entrance in the courtroom was barred.

You May Find It In Stocking

Cincinnati Authority Says Your Troublesome Corns Just Loosen and Fall Off.

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes just loosen in their sockets and fall off the next day if you will apply directly upon the corn a few drops of a drug called freezone, says a Cincinnati authority

You merely put a drop or two of this freezone on the tender, touchy corn today and instantly the corn stops hurting, then tomorrow sometime you may find the old torturous pest somewhere in your stocking, having fallen off entirely without a particle of soreness, pain or irritation. The skin surrounding and beneath the former corn will be as healthy, pink and smooth as the palm of your hand.

A quarter ounce of freezone is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn and callous, and any druggist will charge but a few cents for it. It is a compound made from ether.—Advt.

PACKING COMPANY IS SUED FOR $796

Judge Macbeth Is Hearing County Court Cases.

Judge Talbot Macbeth is today trying a number of non-jury cases of the county court, which were laid over from two weeks ago, when it was found that the large number that were on the docket could not be tried in the one week. This morning the case of the Western Ontario Electric Company vs. the Lambton Packing Company was commenced, but will not be concluded until evening.

A. T. Taylor and E. L. Campbell, trading under the name of the Western Ontario Electric, are suing the Lambton Packing Company for $796.99, which, they claim, is the amount due for work and materials supplied, in pursuance of a written contract. James Gray, manager of the packing company, claims that the plant was to be overhauled and the materials supplied at wholesale prices. The price charged, he said, was much above the wholesale price. SOME AUTOMOBILES ARE JUNK, SAYS MAGISTRATE

Then Looks at Counsel With Certain Peculiar Expression.

"Is iron junk?" W. R. Meredith asked the police magistrate this in police court this morning, when the lawyer appeared as counsel for Moses Leff and Solomon Siskind, charged with keeping junk yards within the prohibited area in the city.

"Iron is junk if it is not being used for manufacturing purposes," the magistrate asserted.

"How about an automobile? Is it considered junk if it is kept in a yard?" asked Mr. Meredith, who sometimes drives a Ford.

"Not necessarily, although some automobiles are junk," returned the magistrate, with emphasis on the "some," and a look which probably only the lawyer and the magistrate fully understood.

Leff and Solomon have decided to clean out their yards before Thursday.

CIGARMAKERS SAY THEY ARE STRIKING; COMPANY IS SILENT

Tuckett Union Employees Said To Have Walked Out.

Members of the Cigarmakers' Union today informed The Advertiser that a strike took place at the Tuckett Cigar Factory, Clarence street, about 10 o'clock this morning, the union cigarmakers employed there, numbering about 25, walking out in a body. They held a meeting in the Dowler Building immediately following the walkout, but the matters discussed at this meeting, and the nature of their grievances were not given out for publication.

When interviewed by The Advertiser for confirmation of the above report the manager of the Tuckett Cigar Company said: "We have no information to give out at this office."

However the men were seen to walk out from the factory at 10 a.m., carrying their cutting boards and aprons.

MOTOR CYCLE STOLEN FROM CARLING HEIGHTS

Police are still searching for a grey Harley-Davidson motorcycle belonging to Wilbert Warren, of the C. G. R., who lives at 36 Evergreen avenue. The machine was stolen from Carling Heights late on the night of June 18.

The motorcycle had no headlights; the license number is 2535, and the serial number of the machine is 2585H.

Thefts of bicycles are still a fashionable pastime with city youngsters, police say. Most of the machines are recovered.

Whit Lancaster today laid a charge against four youngsters, one of whom appears to be only about 10 years old, of stealing a canoe on Saturday from his wharf at the foot of Dundas street. The case was adjourned by the police magistrate today until further evidence is obtained.

G. W. V. A. SECRETARY LEAVES FOR VANCOUVER CONVENTION TO URGE SOME PROGRESSIVE RESOLUTIONS

Will Represent 1,260 Votes, Wanting Full Pension For Year For Discharged Tub ercular Soldiers and $2,000 Gratuity For Actual Fighters.

J. W. Cunliffe, secretary of the local command, Great War Veterans' Association, left London for Vancouver today at noon, where he will represent the local command and several other commands in this district, at the Great War Veteran's Dominion Convention to be held in the Western city, during the week of June 30th to July 5th. The local representative carries with him several important resolutions passed by the London Great War Veteran's Association, which he will bring before the convention for consideration. Only one delegate is being sent from the London command, owing to the fact that under a new system of voting he carries power to cast a vote for every member of the Great War Veteran command, which he represents. Secretary Cunliffe, voting on all questions at the convention, may cast a collective ballot of 1,260 votes,he representing that many members of this district at the convention.

Want Pensions Extended.

Among the resolutions to be presented at the convention from this district is one urging the Government to grant a full pension for six months following discharge from hospital of every military patient who is receiving treatment for tuberculosis. It is pointed out that 80 per cent of the cases of tuberculosis among military patients in this district suffer a recurrence of the disease after discharge from Byron Sanatorium, and this is said to be due to the fact that inadequate pensions force the discharged patient to engage in heavy work, and consequently, he has no opportunity to recuperate. With a full pension this would be possible. In addition to the above, it is urged that the ruling of the lung specialist in attendance on the military patient be final, and that there be no quibbling regarding his decision by the pensions board. This motion was moved by E. A. Pocock, a military patient at Byron Sanitarium, and seconded by Major Cameron Wilson, M. D.

Would Waive Technicality.

A second motion to be brought up at the convention by J. W. Cunliffe is one regarding war service gratuity. Members of the local command urge that in the case of soldiers discharged before November 11, 1918, to be taken on the strength of the Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment Commission, who have thus lost their claim to gratuity through a mere technicality, whereas soldiers who remain on the strength of the army for hospital treatment do not forfeit their claim for gratuity, the technicality be waived by the Government in the former case, allowing these patients to receive gratuity.

The London command is in favor of a war service gratuity of $2,000 for members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, who served in theatres of war; $1,500 for those who served in England, and $1,000 for members with service in Canada. A total disability pension of $1,000 per year is also urged by local Great War Veteras.

Gratuity "to Next of Kin."

Secretary Cunliffe has been instructed to move on behalf of the local command during the convention that the next of kin of soldiers killed in action receive the war service gratuity due on the accounts of the dead soldiers, whether they were sole or partial support of the next of kin during their period of service in the army. He will also urge that vocational training facilities be provided for boys who enlisted in the Canadian army while under age and for all A1 soldiers who served in France who wish to avail themselves of the opportunity. It is also to be urged that the vocational training course be extended to twelve months.

Another motion to be presented from this district is one urging the government to issue a special ribbon to be worn by original members of the first Canadian contingent, thus distinguishing them as "originals." Federal insurance for all soldiers will be brought up for discussion at the dominion convention by J. W. Cunliffe on behalf of the local command of the Great War Veterans' Association. He will also ask the co-operation of the Great War Veterans throughout the dominion in an effort to secure the release of Pte. James Kain, a member of the 33rd Battalion, who was sentenced to serve fifteen years in prison on a charge of shooting to death a Greek in a Quebec restaurant when his battalion was in training in that city.

REPLIES TO THE "IF" POEM OF SERGT. FRED YOUNG

A parody on Rudyard Kipling's "If" by Amy Campbell appeared in The Advertiser the other day in support of the temperance movement. The lines attracted immediate attention, and brought a reply from Sergt. Fred Young. But this did not close the contest, and today two further parodies, both sustaining the style and force of Kipling's poem are sent in by readers. One is from John M. Gunn, a well-known London barrister, and the second from Adjut. W. J. Sproule of the Salvation Army at Petrolea. They appear herewith:

"IF."

(With apologies to Kipling, Amy Campbell, Fred Young, et al.)

If you have seen the drunkard's children crying
For bread, of which the larder's almost bare;
If you have heard the wife and mother sighing,
Because through drink her lot was hard to bear.
If you have seen the children thinly clad,
In winter's cruel blast or piercing storm;
Because the wages all were spent by Dad
Which should have went for clothes to keep them warm.

If you remember when the beer flowed freely,
The frequent fights in home, hotel or street,
You must admit such things are rare—now really—
Just ask the policeman who patrols his beat.
If you will visit homes where once were drinkers,
And see the change less than three years has wrought,
There must be something wrong with our poor thinkers,
If then we'd say the O. T. A. is rot.

If you have prayed for comrades torn and bleeding,
Who bravely fought for Britain's right to live;
Then head the wives and little children pleading
That for the O. T. A. support you'll give.
If you vote "Yes" to have that act rescinded,
So some may have this trouble-making brew,
What will you say when last account is rendered?
And—which is more—WHAT WILL GOD SAY TO YOU?

—ADJUTANT W. J. SPROULE,
Petrolea, Ont.

IF

(With apologies to Kipling, Amy E. Campbell and Fred Young.)

If you can take the glorious flag of Britain,
And drape its folds around the Demon Rum,
Without a blush of shame for such defilement,
Or dread of evil in the days to come;
You've strangely missed the meaning of the struggle—
The long quinquennium of bloody sweat—
To lift the fallen, cheer the drooping-hearted,
And make the bounds of freedom wider yet;

If you can drown the cries of little children—
Their mother beaten by her beer-soaked mate—
The million wails that rise from earth to heaven,
With maudlin sobbing o'er some roysterer's fate;
If you can scorn the weal of helpless thousands,
That some may glut their bestial appetites,
You're blinded by a curious self-deception
Or grossly heedless of your brothers' rights—

If, with some pious phrases, you endeavor
To win men's favor for a fallen cause
(Abhorred by all but our Canadian Senate),
Damned by our common thought, banned by our laws;
If you can hint that God approves the Traffic,
With all its toll of hellish mischief done,
Your blatant blasphemy is quite appalling,
Where reverent silence would be best, my son.

PLAYGROUNDS AND JUVENILE COURT IN CITY GREAT NEEDS

Jared Vining Tells Rotarians At Luncheon.

Jared Vining, as speaker of the day at the noon luncheon of the Rotary Club today, took up the cudgels on behalf of the juveniles, who, he declared, were the most important assets of any community, adding that the standard of civilization of any community should be judged by its treatment of the Juveniles. Mr. Vining said he had chosen to refer before the Rotary Club to two matters in which he thought London could show improvement with relation to its treatment of the young folks, because he had come to believe that the Rotary Club, to a greater extent than any other body in the city, had the power to mold public opinion.

In the first place, he said, children should be provided with the means for play, and in this connection supervised playgrounds were a need which London, among a very few cities of Canada, had failed to provide. The state undertook to educate juveniles, but if it failed to make provision for them to play properly it was neglecting an important part of the obligation which it had voluntarily assumed. The teaching of writing and reading and arithmetic was not the only or the most important thing to be borne in mind when education was under consideration. Education implies the bringing out of everything which was best in the character of children, and unless they had opportunities for proper play this could not be done.

Money Is Required.

The one thing necessary to provide playgrounds was money, and the speaker thought the board of education was the proper body through which the money should be spent for this purpose. The city council, which controlled the tax rate, would not give for the maintenance of parks an adequate amount for the purpose, not because it did not wish to do so, but because it was not backed by a sufficiently strong force of public opinion. The same thing applied to supervised playgrounds. If public opinion could be swung behind a movement to provide them, no difficulty would be experienced in securing the money.

Another thing needed badly in London was a juvenile court. Up to June 1 of this year 175 juvenile delinquents had been dealt with by the magistrate, and although London's police magistrate was as good a magistrate as could be found in Ontario, and a man with as broad an outlook, and as finely developed a sympathy for both adult and juvenile delinquency, it was beyond human ability for him to go straight from a court where men and women had been before him and deal in the proper spirit of sympathy with the juveniles.

Juvenile Court Needed.

The dominion juvenile delinquents act, said Mr. Vining, provided everything necessary for the establishment of a juvenile court in London. All that was needed was the money to establish it and the will to name a judge and probation officers. It would cost money and perhaps would increase the tax rate, but he asked: "Would that not be worth while if one boy who otherwise would probably have become a criminal might be saved from a life of crime by the sympathetic handling of a juvenile judge and probation officers?"

B. S. Webb, representing the Government of Argentina, was a guest of the club, and in a few words explained that he was here to interview Canadian export firms to discuss with them the potentialities for trade with Argentina. He said that at the present time Argentina was experiencing a period of prosperity, and the opportunities for Canadian manufacturers to get into this market, which was practically closed now to the European countries which previously supplied it with manufactured goods, was unlimited.

In addition to vocal music by the club's regular harmony choir two excellently rendered violin solos by Professor Tiorr/ were very much appreciated.

AGAIN ADJOURNED

Case Against Kresella Waits for Another Capture.

For the fifth time since May 26 the trial of Lebert Kresella, a young Italian charged with having "raised" American bank notes in his possession, was adjourned, when Kresella gave bail in police court this morning to appear again on June 30.

In the meantime police are searching for another Italian who has eluded detectives so far, and who is believed to have used Kresella as a tool in this city to pass the forged notes, which were raised f rom $1 to $10 by pasting a "0" cut from a cigar box revenue certificate or similar label after the "one" cipher on the corners of the bills. Several of these forged notes are now in the possession of the police.

Allegations Made About Lieut.-Colonel Frank Reid

W. T. R. Preston Says He Secured Honors From Borden for Election Purposes.

Peterboro, June 22.—In the course of a speech at the meeting of West Peterboro Liberals here yesterday afternoon Mr. W. T. R. Preston charged Lieut.-Col. Frank Reid of London, Ont., with securing honors at the hands of Premier Borden for services alleged to have been rendered during the last election. The speaker said that Lieut.-Col. Reid was promised the rank of brigadier-general, A.C.M.G., and a high-salaried appointment for his services in the above connection. The speaker alleged that Premier Borden knew of Lieut.-Col. Reid's fraudulent electioneering practices, and knowing this, recommended that Reid be awarded the C. M. G.

The other two promises did not materialize. The speaker also claimed that the governor-general and the king were not aware of the purpose for which Reid was awarded the C. M. G., and that he (the speaker) was ready to prove that the award was illegally made. Mr. Preston announced his intention of making these facts more widely known.

THE POLICE FORCE OF THE BODY

DAY and night—without ceasing—a struggle is going on in your body between the germs of disease and the white blood corpuscles—the police force of the human body.

If this police force weakens, disease germs gain a foothold—sickness follows.

Constipation is the most common and dangerous way of corrupting the human police force. Food waste remains too long in the intestines—decays—poisons the blood—and opens the way for attack by the germs that cause tuberculosis, diphtheria, pneumonia and a multitude of other ills.

The culpable habit of using salts, pills, mineral waters, castor oil, etc., to force the bowels to move, makes this condition even worse, as constipation returns almost immediately.

Nujol is entirely different from drugs as it does not force or irritate the bowels.

Nujol prevents stagnation by softening the food waste and encouraging the intestinal muscles to act naturally, thus removing the cause of constipation and self-poisoning. It is absolutely harmless and pleasant.

Nujol helps Nature establish easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals—the healthful habit in the world.

Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today and keep your police force on the job.

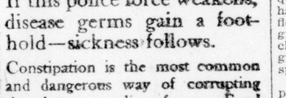

Warning: Nujol is sold in sealed bottles bearing the Nujol Trade Mark. All druggists. Insist on Nujol. You may suffer from substitutes.

MORE THAN SIXTY WARSHIPS OF INTERNED GERMAN FLEET DELIBERATELY SUNK BY FOE

Only Seven of Seventy-One Battleships, Battle Cruisers, Light Cruisers and Destroyers Remain Afloat—Three Light Cruisers and Eighteen Destroyers Beached in Shallow Water.

LONDON, June 21.—(By the Associated Press).—The German officers and sailors, forming the complements of the German ships interned at Scapa Flow, sank most of their fleet Saturday afternoon. All the big ships, the battleships and battle cruisers, excepting the Baden and numerous smaller craft, were sunk, while others went ashore in a half-sunken condition.

Eighteen destroyers were beached by tugs, four still are afloat, while the remainder went under.

The wholesale sinking of the German ships, which came to Scapa Flow to surrender under the terms of the armistice, was carefully planned by the officers and crews. All explosives had been removed, and therefore, the only means of destroying the fleet was by opening the seacocks. The ships went down slowly, with the German flag, which the crews had hoisted, showed at the mastheads.

Some Crews Fired Upon.

The crews, composed entirely of Germans, under the terms of the armistice which did not permit of British guards aboard, took to the boats when the vessels began to settle. While making for the shore the boats were challenged and called upon to surrender. Some of them ignored the summons and were fired upon, a few casualties resulting.

This stroke apparently was an entire surprise, and the first news reached London through a correspondent who was informed by the farmers in the neighborhood that they had seen the German ships sinking with the German flag aloft.

The German officers and sailors were imprisoned. None of the officials tonight would offer an opinion as to how they are to be dealt with. The admiralty at first denied the report, but later confirmed it, and issued an official statement as follows:

Admiralty's Statement.

"According to the latest reports from Scapa Flow all the interned battleships and battle cruisers have sunk, except the battleship Baden, which is still afloat. Five light cruisers have sunk, but three have been beached. Eighteen destroyers were beached by local tugs. Four destroyers are still afloat. The rest of the destroyers have sunk.

"A German rear admiral and most of the Germans from the ships are now in custody on board British ships. Some of the boats from the ships refused to stop when ordered, and were fired upon. A small number of Germans were killed or wounded.

"In accordance with the terms of the armistice, the German ships were interned with skeleton crews as carriers and without guards aboard."

The first news of the sinking of the German fleet was contained in a Thurso dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

Early in the afternoon a report was circulated by the Exchange Telegraph Company that virtually the whole German fleet at Scapa Flow had been sunk, but a few minutes later the news agency asked that the dispatch be cancelled. A few minutes later the Associated Press from Thurso said:

"The hoisting of a red flag at noon was the signal for the crews to scuttle the German warships in Scapa Flow. The crews took to the boats and rowed toward the shore. The guard ships fired at the Germans who jumped overboard and swam ashore, where they were rounded up."

FLOWER SERVICES WERE HELD SUNDAY IN MANY CHURCHES

Special Music, Singing Birds in Cages Give Unwonted Festivity.

Particularly bright and happy were the Flower Sunday services held in a number of the Methodist churches of the city yesterday. Quantities of flowers, singing birds in cages, the presence of numbers of little people and special music giving unwonted festivity.

Many gardens, meadows and woods must have been raided to provide enough flowers to transform half a dozen churches into veritable bowers, the field daisies proving most effective, woven into long garlands for the trimming of pillars and their galleries.

The Sunday school orchestra supported the choir in the musical services morning and evening in the First Methodist Church. E. T. White, Sunday school superintendent, took charge of the service in the morning, assisted by W. N. Manning, former superintendent. Rev. James MacKay, minister of New St. James' Presbyterian Church, was the preacher in the forenoon, addressing himself particularly to parents on the subject of proper training of the children.

Calling attention to the difference between the wild and the cultivated flowers and the perfection of beauty that is obtained by cultivation, Mr. MacKay emphasized the point that the sweetest perfume is to be found, not in the full-blown flower, but in the unfolding bud, hence the importance of tenderly nurturing the unfolding of boyhood and girlhood into maturity that the full sweetness of character may be developed.

Continuing the comparison of the flower to the human life, he raised the question: "Which would you rather have, the big, showy, perfumeless flower, or a little blossom, full of fragrance?" Sweetness and fragrance of character he declared to be of vastly greater importance than holding a conspicuous place in the world.

In conclusion, he emphasized the point that man's life is like the flower in its fleeting character and that like the flower it is raised up to newness of life. The thistle, however, comes up again a thistle; the thorn a thorn and the lily again a lily. So, in the renewal of the resurrection of man, the character will be his in the next world which he is building in this life.

In the afternoon a mass meeting was held in the church auditorium, instead of the usual Sunday school session, when an address on "Birds" was delivered by W. E. Saunders, several members of the junior and primary department of the Sunday school taking part in the program. A baptismal service took place at the close of the service, when the baby son of Charles Ivey, Jr., was christened.

Those who took part in the afternoon program were: J. S. Barnard, Lillian McCormick, Gladys Binks, Helen Clark, Kathleen Allen, Henry Green. Sergt-Major Grant gave a flute solo.

At Hale Street Methodist Church, the minister, Rev. B. Snell, spoke to the children in the morning on "The Message of the Flowers," the message of mystery, utility, beauty and love. A girls' chorus, conducted by Mrs. Snell, contributed to the musical program.

Most elaborate and attractive musical programs enhanced the Flower Day services in Colborne Street Methodist Church, beautifully decorated with flowers, ferns and cages of birds. Following the evening service, a rare treat was afforded in a sacred concert given by the Majestic Orchestra, conducted by Joseph Tirri.

The morning musical service included a children's chorus, accompanied by the full orchestra of the Sunday school; a saxaphone solo, Miss Nina Harvey; violin solos, Miss Edna Davidson, and vocal solos, Bert Thomas. Dr. Barber's theme in the forenoon was "A Daisy," and in the evening, "The Flower of Service."

Choruses, male quartets and a solo by Mrs. Harry Wilkins, soprano added to the interest of the evening service.

Over three hundred children made up the big juvenile choir which sang choruses at the flower services in Dundas Centre Methodist Church, where the sermons of the pastor, Rev. W. E. Pescott, were most appropriate to the occasion.

Frank Oldfield, the famous baritone, now of Toronto, sang several numbers at the evening service, scores of visitors attending the church especially for the privilege of hearing this distinguished artist.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH MOTHERS DECORATED

When Lieut.-Col. Edwin Seaborn Unveiled Tablet in Honor of Fallen Members.

An impressive service took place last evening in All Saints' Church, when several mothers of the congregation who have lost sons in the war received the decoration of the Associated Kin of C. E. F. from the hands of Lieut.-Col. E. Seaborn, who also unveiled a handsome brass memorial tablet to the men of the congregation who made the supreme sacrifice. The rector, Rev. A. O. Bice, conducted the service, preaching a brief and appropriate sermon on the text, "Christ suffered for us, leaving us an example."

The choir, under the direction of Melville Platt, organist and choir conductor, rendered special music, including the anthem, "What Are These Arrayed in White Robes?"

The following mothers were decorated: Mrs. Annie Parsons, Mrs. Phoebe Anderson, Mrs. Arthur Gill, Mrs. Alice Jacques, Mrs. William Fox, Mrs. Lillian Winslow, Mrs. Mary Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Shoebottom and Mrs. Allen.

The brass memorial table, 3 feet 6 inches by 2 feet 6 inches, has been placed at the rear of the church. Engraved on it are these names: Capt. James Allen, Lieut. Harold Fox, Sergt. Wallace Parsons, Sergt. Frank Parsons, Sergt. E. T. Moore, Bombardier James Winslow, Lance-Corp. William Golby, Sapper Johnston Kirkpatrick, Pte. Harry Gill, Pte. Harry Anderson, Pte. Herbert Smith, Pte. Alfred Cogan, Pte. Clifford Shoebottom, Pte. Willie Hebdon, Pte. William Hurle.

Col. Seaborn in his address paid eloquent tribute to the service and sacrifice of the Canadian men.

SUNKEN EYES BRIGHTEN QUICKLY, HEALTH RETURNS

In a Message to Ailing Women Doctor Hamilton Tells How It Is Done.

In speaking of the ills from which women suffer, Dr. Hamilton points out that nine out of every ten woman are by nature inclined to habitual constipation. Harsh purgatives are resorted to which only intensify the trouble. Although not generally known, it is a constipated condition of the bowels that causes half the sickness and tired weariness with which all woman kind is so familiar. It was after long years of study that Dr. Hamilton perfected the pills which have been of such marvellous benefit to women the world over. In his pills of Mandrake and Butternut every sufferer will find an absolute specific for constipation, sick headache and biliousness. It is safe to say that Dr. Hamilton's Pills bring better health and keep the system in a more vigorous condition than any other medicine ever discovered. At all dealers, in 25c boxes.

GUM TENDERNESS —A TOOTH-MENACE

It is true that four out of five people over forty suffer from gum-shrinkage, or Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease). But many people even under thirty have Pyorrhea. Women, particularly after the baby comes, are peculiarly subject to Pyorrhea. At such time they cannot be too careful about their teeth.

Pyorrhea commences with tender gums, or with gum-bleeding, at tooth-brush time. Gradually the gums become spongy. They inflame and then shrink. The teeth become exposed to decay at the base and tiny openings in the gums become the breeding places of disease germs which infect the joints—or tonsils—or cause other ailments.

Beware of that first gum tenderness! Try Forhan's for the gums. It positively prevents Pyorrhea, if used in time and used consistently. No ordinary tooth paste will do this.

And Forhan's cleans teeth scientifically as well. Brush your teeth with it. It keeps the teeth white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

D. D. M'KENZIE HAS A TILT WITH AMES OVER ALLISON TYPE

Some of These Big "Patriots" Not Unselfish.

OTTAWA, June 22.—Considerable business was disposed of at the first Saturday sitting of the House of Commons.

In committee on a resolution to provide salaries for the chairman and members of the proposed purchasing commission there was a warm passage between D. D. McKenzie, leader of the Opposition, and Sir Herbert Ames. In expressing the view that the proposed commission was a mistake, Mr. McKenzie intimated his belief that some men who had given their services to the Government for nothing had been looking after their own interests in an indirect way.

Second reading was given to the act to consolidate the acts relating to British nationality, naturalization and aliens, which makes provision, among other things, for naturalization effective in all parts of the Empire.

The patent medicine bill was reported out of committee after some further discussion, and the House spent some time in committee of supply.

Purchasing Commission.

The House Saturday morning went on committee on the resolution to provide salaries for chairman and members of the purchasing commission. The bill providing for the constitution of this commission stipulates that the number of commissioners shall not be more than three. The salaries to be paid them were not stipulated. The resolution before the committee provides for a salary of $7,000 per annum for the chairman and $6,000 each for the other members of the commission.

H. B. Morphy said that he had repeatedly referred to the ease with which higher salaries were passed by the House. The civil servant earning $600 per annum was given scant consideration. He suggested that the salary of the chairman be placed at $6,000, and the other members' $5,000 each. He did not believe in setting a high salary standard which would be followed in the future. He also wanted to know whether the small salaried men in the Government service were being given some relief.

$7,000 Not Enough, Says Rowell.

Mr. Rowell said that he could not state just what increases were provided for small-salaried men by the civil service reclassification. He knew, however, that they were being benefitted. As far as the commissioners' salaries went, he said, he thought they were too small. He did not expect to be able to get a suitable man for chairman of the commission at a salary of $7,000, unless that man was inspired with a desire to help the country. The $7,000 limit had been fixed because that was the salary of a cabinet minister, and it was thought that the chairman of the commission should not be paid more.

John Best advanced the view that this country was being run altogether too much by commissions.

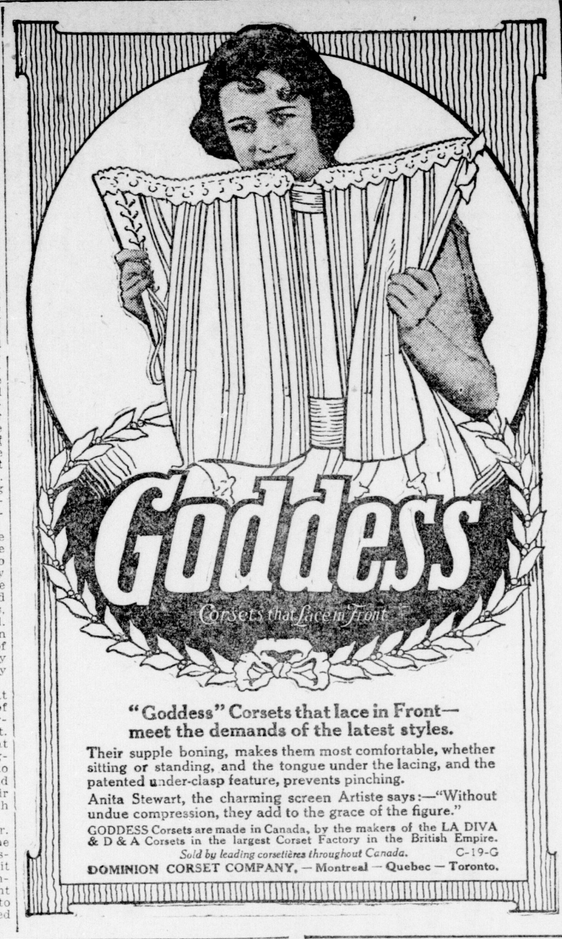

Deputy Speaker Boivin reminded the committee that the reclassification of the civil service was not under discussion.

D. D. McKenzie said he was strongly of the opinion that the Government's proposal was absolutely a mistake. He said he was sick and tired of hearing of people serving as chairmen of commissions without pay, and suggested that in many instances they were putting water in the milk for other purposes. It would be far better for the Government to hire properly qualified men to transact business in a business-like way. This was not the time for plunging into new ideas involving the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars. All the Opposition could do, he said, was to enter a protest against the unnecessary expenditure of money. Any financial firm in the country finding itself in the same position as the Government would be regarded as hopelessly insolvent, he declared.

Sir Herbert Ames objected to what he described as the aspersions cast by the leader of the Opposition upon men who had given their services to the country free during the period of the war. The leader of the Opposition, he said, had imputed to these men sordid motives, and for this he ought to be ashamed. Sir Herbert asserted that many men had labored so hard in the interest of the country during the war period they now would have to retire, because they have given all that is in them.

Mr. McKenzie stated heatedly that Col. Allison was one of the class of men to whom he had referred. Perhaps, he said, the member for St. Antoine would like to put himself in that class and drop his knighthood. He suggested that Sir Herbert should go to the office of Mr. Henry Bourassa and ask him what he thinks of his. (Sir Herbert's) honesty in connection with the handling of public money.

Before Sir Herbert Ames spoke, Mr. Rowell had suggested that if it was the desire of the committee to further discuss this matter he would ask that it stand over, because there were a number of other important Government items of business it was desirable to take up. The committee reported progress.

MARTIAL LAW IN WINNIPEG; FATAL RIOTS

One Killed, 30 Wounded and 91 Arrested Saturday.

MILITIA CALLED UPON

Riot Act Read and Bullets, Stones and Other Missiles Fly in Battle.

WINNIPEG, June 22.—The total casualties in yesterday's rioting are officially given out as follows:

Killed	One
Seriously wounded	Four
Wounded	Seventeen
Minor injuries	One hundred

(Special and Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, June 22. — One dead, thirty wounded, two of whom may die, 91 prisoners in jail, is the record of a scene disorder on the market square Saturday afternoon, unparalled in the history of Winnipeg.

When the riot act was read, the military acted quickly, and from the side of the Union bank building bullets commenced flying amongst the crowd in front of the city hall and around Ashdown's store.

Militiamen with fixed bayonets patrolled the streets of the city last night in a heavy downpour of rain.

Tonight the situation is quiet. There has been no demonstration today.

Machine Guns Posted.

Machine guns mounted on trucks are posted at the principal corners, and the city's airplane kept watch overhead Saturday until dark. Several rioters are in hospital badly wounded. The mayor will meet a delegation of returned men Monday morning to see if the strike can be declared off. The strikers' demonstration was organized and worked by the sound of whistles in the lips of leaders.

The casualties occurred when a squad of northwest mounted police fired their revolvers into a crowd of rioters. The dead man was a Russian, Mike Sokolwoki.

The strike managers, in defiance of the order prohibiting parades arranged a "silent parade" for Saturday afternoon. The point of assembly was the market square. Would-be paraders and persons gathered as onlookers numbered 15,000 or 20,000 by 3 o'clock. A street car came along, and was stopped, the passengers, mostly women and children got out, and soon all the windows were broken.

Calls on Mounted Men.

In the meantime, Mayor Gray, according to his own statement, believing that the force of special constables could control the crowd, had driven to the mounted police barracks and requested Commissioner Perry to and the civic police. A small company of police were sent out, and arrived on the scene shortly after the car had been stopped. The sight of the mounted men seemed to excite the crowd, and as the police drove their horses through the crowd in an endeavor to disperse it, some brickbats were thrown at them. They went on several blocks, then came back with truncheons drawn and were received with a fusillade of anything the rioters could find to throw. They rode through the crowd and disappeared from Main street.

Then the crowd set fire to the abandoned street car, and in a few minutes the mounted police came back at a gallop and charged the crowd. One policeman fell, and it was in rescuing him from the fury of the rioters that the revolver shots were fired. As soon as the shooting occurred Mayor Gray called upon Gen. Kitchen to turn out the military, and a force was sent to the aid of the police and the streets were cleared. Only the burning street car told of the disorder.

Martial Law Declared.

Later martial law was declared, and the military took control of the situation and kept the streets clear.

Among the militiamen are many returned soldiers, who have donned their khaki bearing the familiar identification badges of such veteran battalions as the 8th, the 16th, the 43rd and the 78th, all of which were originally recruited by the four militia units specified above, and which have returned from France and the Rhine within the last two or three months.

Back on the job again, their shining accoutrement, their fixed bayonets and their seasoned officers, these men look very businesslike and capable of handling any emergency.

Twenty-four hours ago the end of the general strike seemed definitely in sight. Even the Western Labor News stated that it was necessary for the strikers to hold out just a few days longer in the strike "carried on successfully for five weeks"—and in the metal and building trades for seven weeks.

End Seemed at Hand.

Saturday's issue of the paper was generally conciliatory, the only sinister note being the publication of the offer of an anonymous farmer to supply barbed wire to the strikers. Gradually the street car service had been resumed, and there was an unmistakable drift of men back to work in nearly all trades. The chief obstacle to a settlement seemed to be a refusal to reinstate the old police force until it signed the required pledge against sympathetic strikes. But even among the stalwarts of the strikers' ranks the opinion was nigh universal that the sympathetic strike would end on Monday.

On the authority of Brig.-Gen. Kitchen, general officer commanding Military District No. 10, there was a total of twenty casualties among strikers, returned soldiers, sympathizers and onlookers in Saturday's fatal riot. The other casualties were persons who were ridden down by the mounted police or bludgeoned.

Armored cars with machine guns, and troops with fixed bayonets, have been pushed out into the north end of the city, whence any trouble from aliens might be anticipated.

Mounted Policemen Stoned.

The troops of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police engaged numbered only 55 men, and few of these escaped without wounds or contusions, the worst being a broken ankle. The horses suffered in like degree, one of these being blinded by a lump of concrete. These lumps of concrete, considerably larger and heavier than a brick, were a favorite missile, being obtained from a neighboring building in process of wreckage.

Mayor Gray on Saturday night, concluding a long recital of his part in the affair, said: "While in barracks I received a report from the officer commanding the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, that his force had been so hard pressed that he deemed it advisable to fire a volley into the crowd and that this resulted in a temporary check of close hostilities.

"General Kitchen at once turned out a military force, which I accompanied as chief magistrate. On arriving at the corner of Portage avenue and Main street, this force supported in column of route the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, who proceeded to clean Main street as far as St. Johns avenue in the north end, whence they returned, making some detours in the neighborhood of Selkirk and Dufferin avenues.

"While at Dufferin avenue I received a request from General Kitchen to return to the city hall, where the committee of men, some of whom had incited yesterday's meeting to promote today's attempted parade, were waiting to interview me with the request that they be allowed to hold a meeting on Monday in Victoria Park.

Blames Them for Trouble.

"I met this delegation's request with statements of fact in no uncertain tone, blaming them for being the cause of today's lamentable exhibition of lawlessness, and advising them strongly to immediately disperse the meeting then in progress at Victoria Park and hold no meetings at all until they got a further decision from myself at 10 o'clock on Monday morning.

"The obsession and almost fanatical mania for meetings and parades during the industrial unrest has been largely responsible for the unlawful and fatal acts of the riots in Winnipeg today. We have exercised considerable patience under most intolerable conditions for the last few weeks. But our firmness in showing that our proclamations must be lived up to will have, we hope, a salutary effect and any further demonstrations of a lawless nature will be dealt with firmly and surely for the preservation of the majesty of the law.

"Winnipeg is determined to shake off these fetters of treason and Bolshevism festering here for some time, and if it means sterner measures yet, they will be taken with dispatch in the sure knowledge that we are acting in the best interests of all and are determined to see that the British flag, now as in the past, shall be the sole banner of authority."

Paris, June 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—The new German cabinet will ask that the Allies waive their demands for the surrender of the former emperor and for Germany to acknowledge responsibility for the war, but, no matter what their reply, the peace treaty will be signed, according to advices from Weimar to the American peace delegation.

Communications from the Germans to the Council of Four, relating to the vote of the assembly at Weimar, reached here at 7:45 o'clock last evening, and were forthwith considered by the council. One of the communications said that the assembly voted in favor of signing the treaty with certain reservations.

It was announced today that the Council of Four has definitely rejected the German suggestion that further alterations be made in the peace treaty.

Some retail merchants cannot answer the questions a bank manager asks

A GREAT many storekeepers find, when asking for a loan, that a bank manager calls for information which they do not have and can not get.

It would take them weeks, working day and night, to arrive at a makeshift statement which would not be satisfactory to themselves or to any one else.

But the figures which are hardest to get are merely the records of store transactions. Every merchant should have these records at his finger ends every day.

There is a hard way—and an easy way—for a merchant to secure a record of his store transactions.

1. The hard, slow, inaccurate way is through day books, pass books, ledgers, saleslips, memorandums, memory, and guess work.

2. The quick, easy, accurate way is through a modern National Cash Register.

A postcard or a phone call will bring full information about how a modern N. C. R. System will take the drudgery out of keeping store records.

LIBERALISM OUTLOOK BETTER THAN EVER, STATES W. CHARLTON

People Are Beginning to Realize That the Time For Action Is Approaching.

ST. THOMAS, June 22.—W. G. Charlton, secretary of the Western Ontario Liberal Association, passed through here today. While in the city Mr. Charlton stated to The Advertiser that he has met with much success at the various meetings he has addressed throughout Ontario. He says that the outlook for Liberalism was never as good as today. The people are beginning to realize that the time for action is approaching, and that nothing can be accomplished without unity. Mr. Charlton was in Brantford yesterday. The East Elgin Liberals will hold their meeting for the purpose of choosing delegates to go to Toronto and Ottawa in the very near future. No date has yet been set.

400 Arrests in Mutiny Charge at Sutton Camp

LONDON, June 22.—The mutinous conduct of troops at Putton Camp, Surrey, which had been growing for the last ten days, culminated today in the formation of a committee of the men and their refusal to salute or to obey orders. This morning two battalions of troops were sent to the camp in light fighting trim and with a machine gun. The troops arrested four hundred men, among them the ringleaders, and dispatched 1,800 men to camps at Dover and Canterbury. The main grievance of the men was that they were being ordered to France.

Prime Minister's Profits From Storage of Foods Deadly to His Future

It is absolutely legitimate for Sir Robert rden, premier of Canada, to hold stock in the nitoba Cold Storage Company, which was wn before the high cost of living committee to e made more than 50 per cent profits on its d-up stock.

The premier of Canada was revealed as the ner of $9,500 of the stock of this company, and return last year was in the neighborhood of 000. The company has had two and a half mil- pounds of products stored, even during the iod of the Winnipeg strike, when people were ng on short rations. But as the manager said premier "doesn't take an active interest." e only interest he takes is the interest on his ney, apparently. Sir Robert is popularly sup- ed to be a wealthy man, and his holdings are many concerns. It is not a pleasant fact to e, at this time, either for Sir Robert or the blic, that fifty per cent profits on cold storage foodstuff is regarded as "profiteering," but re is no law to prevent the taking of such a fit, nor a law to prevent tthe premier of Can- a from placing himself in the position of a mid- man who receives generous returns from the ndling of necessities of life.

But as Mr. John R. Robinson, editor of the ronto Telegram, maintained in his examination the committee (or perhaps it would be correct call it his examination of the committee) the mmittee does not go deeply into the conditions nearths. Mr. Robinson declared that Mr. Fox the Flavelle interests had been permitted to ve the committee before giving vital informa- n as to the handling of the company's whole- e products in the Flavelle stores. The same uctance to get to the real point of the issue is n in connection with the Borden incident.

When did Sir Robert Borden secure this ck? Since the war or before the war?

What price was he charged and how much uld he lose if the Government took over all cold rages? Why not call Sir Robert to have him e his version of the morality of a Canadian emier holding stock in a cold storage concern? it conducive to public confidence in the man ward whom the public should look with con- ence to conduct the affairs of the country for e whole people, and not for those concerns ich make 50 or 81 or 72 or 300 per cent profit?

Sir Robert Borden should be called before the mmittee. He should be asked to state his ancial connection with other Canadian con- rns and how he came to be connected with them d how great the profits were. It is only fair to e premier that he should be given this oppor- nity.

As it is, the revelation of the prime minister's nnection with cold storage industry making ty per cent profits on the handling of foodstuffs mnot fail to shake public faith in Sir Robert rden and the Government with which he is con- cted. The average man will regard the premier making an excessive profit from an industry at has a large influence, or is capable of a large fluence on the price of many commodities.

The evidence given as to Sir Robert's con- ction with the business is certain to have a adly effect on his future.

German "Hospitality" to U. S. Soldiers a Menace

An American citizen who recently paid ondon a visit stated to The Advertiser that the adliest menace of the present hour was found German propaganda among American soldiers the army of occupation. He went so far as declare that the simulated hospitality and ecious admiration exhibited by the German ople for the Americans had won thousands of ncle Sam's boys to a belief in the German ologies for war crimes.

It appears that Germany conducted the game winning friends among the Americans in a afty way. Storekeepers were told to do every- ing possible to please the soldiers, and orders ere given that no overcharge, but rather the verse, should be made upon purchases. Many rticles that the American soldiers wanted were pecially secured and sold at cost price. Ameri- an cigarettes and tobacco, American candy, merican books and magazines were spread verywhere for the "invaders."

Domestic hospitality was overdone to the oint of sickening officers when the soldiers were illeted with German people. The best that could e procured was given the soldiers, free amuse- ents were provided and that side of the German ature shown which can appear mild and riendly. German women made much of the estern visitors, often to the discomfiture of ative suitors, who at the same time accepted heir seconding with that willingness which is ased in a belief that expediency is the thing that vins.

Lurking under this sham hospitality is the enace of a Germany attempting to reconstruct or another war. The idea of world domination as not left the heads of the junkers, and the unker is strong today in Germany. Induce merica to be friendly, bring about cleavage etween the victorious powers and France and ngland might again have to fight out the "adjourned war," as it is called by one Prussian writer.

There is need to combat this influence, and need to prevent the spreading of theories that will serve to draw the great powers apart. There has been some rough criticism between the United States and Britain. But the vital influences of the different nations must realize that German deceit and treachery are never quiescent and that a united front must be maintained.

The Aviation Accident

The appalling accident which occurred near what has come to be known as London's flying field, costing the life of a gallant young aviator of long war service, should call for investigation by means of a coroner's inquest. So many conflicting stories are in circulation that it would be well to have evidence given by the young man whose escape was so fortunate and by those qualified to give expert testimony as to the cause or probable cause of the tragedy.

In a city that had come to regard the trips of aviators carrying passengers over the city as a reasonably safe pastime the accident came with a sickening shock. While death must have occurred with a minimum of pain, the loss of such a young man as Lieut. A. B. Jones, after he had served more than four years in different war fields, was a blow not only to his relatives, but to everyone who realizes the valor of such a character and the worth of his future service to the community. The day before he had paid a visit to The Advertiser editorial room, an unassuming young fellow, clean-cut and confident that aerial transportation was something for which the people of London had a liking and ready to give them safe and interesting rides around the country.

Something occurred that air pilots of experience find it difficult to explain when Lieut. Jones lost his life. They are reluctant to believe he permitted himself to be caught in a stalling turn so close to the ground. An aviator of his experience, knowing the dangers of attempting manoeuvres with a slow machine, would not likely take the risk of a turn with his engine out of commission, as is reported by witnesses. The machine was in perfect condition as regards controls apparently, or he would not have taken off again after completing his journey from Toronto without remedying any fault developed while on his way to London.

In England every airplane accident is followed by a court of inquiry and inquest, both military and civil authorities searching to get at the facts. In the interests of safe aviation, and in justice to Lieut. Jones himself, it would be well if all the evidence of the accident that may possibly be secured, together with some expert opinion, should be gathered as an official record of the case. Such an investigation might lead to some official recognition of the need of a flying field for the city, which all aviators declare to be an important consideration. Everything possible should be done to prevent a recurrence of such a distressing accident.

Labor Needs Strong Line

The American Federation of Labor, in annual session at Atlantic City, voted to co-operate more closely with Canadian trade unionists. By this action this country will have powerful aid in securing that stabilization of social and industrial conditions so necessary to our progress. The resolution refers to the "sinister influences in Canada which are working to split up organized labor." American labor leaders have been closely watching the fight for the One Big Union. They have had to combat this same idea at work through the I. W. W. and smaller organizations of the same kidney. They realize that trade unionism in Canada, as in the United States, is being attacked with power, skill and some success by the Bolshevists. At Winnipeg and other points in the West there has been an alarming desertion of the great international organization by some locals. A closer co-operation between the organized workers of both countries should steady down those who, by their impatience, become easy prey to the extremists. Never was it so necessary that organized labor on this continent should be united solidly, holding a common front against a radicalism that would wreck the existing order and nullify the benefits organized labor has secured after years of hard fighting.

Here's Bernstorff Again?

Meet Count Bernstorff again. This time he bobs up as a candidate for a cabinet office, and in such a position would be a signatory of the peace treaty. The Allies have provided means to assure the carrying out of the peace terms, so that they are probably little concerned as to what leader pledges Germany to the observance of the agreement, but the appearance of this treacherous, conscienceless, lying fellow amongst the leaders of the new Germany will discourage those who had hoped the Hun had shaken free from the old influences and was headed for a more honorable career.

As ambassador to Washington Bernstorff's record is marred with dishonor. Impudently ignoring every international rule and regulation that went with his office, he became the active centre of an espionage system in the United States and Canada that burned, bombed, murdered and corrupted. He transgressed the laws of hospitality, stabbing the nation whose protection made him immune to punishment. He plotted with Mexico, and was aware of the conspiracy to sink the Lusitania. Bernstorff represented the worst element of the Prussian conspirators.

His reappearance in state affairs at Berlin indicates that the junker is still to be reckoned with. If that class had been destroyed as a political factor, as the world was told, such a scoundrel as Bernstorff would not have been mentioned for such a position as foreign minister. It is vital to Germany's "coming back" that she secure a measure of the world's confidence and trust, but with a Bernstorff amongst the Berlin rulers the Teuton would be under continual suspicion of other governments.

Germany must sign the assignment papers.

The sinking of the German warships interned at Scapa Flow solves the problem of what was to be done with them.

The Provincial Convention

Some Thoughts On Platform To Be Adopted and Safeguards To Be Considered.

The Provincial Liberal Convention, to be held this week at Toronto, will deal with many very important questions. In fact the future of civilization is bound up in their proper solution.

It would appear as if the most important questions will be left undiscussed. It is often said that the unspoken word is more powerful than the spoken. In this instance, the questions to be discussed are less important than the questions not likely to be discussed.

Restore Responsible Government.

The restoration of responsible government is the most important of all. The Hydro Commission violates all the principles upon which responsible government rests.

Hydro power is one of the great assets of the province, and it is the duty of the Government to get the most good possible out of it. There are no two opinions on that point, but why should Hydro Power, the largest spending department of the government be separate from the government. At present it appears to be separate from and independent of the government. It does not appear to be accountable to anyone. It follows its own sweet will, looks like a menace to the province, and unless controlled and restrained, is made responsible, may ruin the credit of the province. Hydro is capable of very great good and may result in destruction. Hydro power should be a department of the government, similar to crown lands, public works or any other department. Indeed, if there is to be any department separate from the government, it should be the department of education. Voters of all shades of politics would gladly trust without reserve, the education of the province in the hands of the present minister of education.

Money Bylaws Should Not Be Carried By a Bare Majority Vote.

The power to pass money bylaws on a bare majority vote is wrong. Not over half are likely to vote, and consequently one-fourth rules. In the old days it required a two-thirds vote, and should still, if even that is enough. The business properties in a city pay the taxes and cast few votes. Ontario is too good a country to justify its rulers in playing to the gallery. Here is where the Opposition and the Government, too, should exercise vigilance.

Very important acts are passed giving municipalities powers which do not belong to them. Building railways form no part of the purpose for which a municipality is incorporated.

The Method Adopted to Build Hydro Radials.

The method adopted to build hydro radials is wrong. It violates the British North America act. The Legislature has no right to allow a municipality to engage to pay, much less force it to pay, as appears to be the intention, any sum on a through railway provincial in its character. Municipalities were authorized by the municipal act to "aid railways," and that even was stretching their powers; but when it is sought to compel a string of municipalities through which the railway may run to pay such sum as may be assessed against them, it is going altogether too far.

There is a perfect parallel in the history of the municipal loan fund. Professor Shortt's Essay in volume 18 of "Canada and Its Provinces," gives that history. Professor Shortt shows how the credit of the province was destroyed for many years. Sir Francis Hincks meant well, but missed fire.

If any such scheme is adopted it should be adopted by the province, and not the municipalities.

The Housing Problem.

The war has forced on the province the consideration of questions we had hoped would never reach Canada. Appeals to workingmen always greeted on the ears and carried with them an implied inferiority, but it seems to be too late to take that stand now. The premier of Ontario clearly desires to help those who need it. The housing scheme is one of these. Let help be given in Toronto, if it is needed, but we doubt if any other place in Ontario needs it. Until the cost of building became so high, there was no difficulty in obtaining a home. Any industrious man in any city or town or village in this province could soon own their own homes, and it is not yet necessary for Government help in that direction, and what is true of London is true of all Western Ontario.

As an aid to meet the difficulty, it would be better to make the laws for the formation of building societies, trust companies, loan companies and mortgage corporations as free as possible. They have resulted in untold good to the province as a whole, and can yet do much more. The province should imitate the state of New Jersey, whose free laws of incorporation cause thousands of companies from New York to incorporate. It swells the income of New Jersey. It was a mistake during the last session to change the law respecting these companies. The law, as it stood, was all it needed to be, and any changes in the law that will encourage, and not hamper them, should be made.

Highways and Hydro Radials.

Both are desirable. In addition to the highway from Montreal to Windsor, it is proposed in the United States to build a Theodore Roosevelt memorial highway from Portland, Maine, through Ontario, to Portland, Oregon. This would be a benefit to Ontario.

Hydro radials had better be handled carefully. It is believed by many that Henry Ford's scheme will knock electricity out. He proposes to retain the rails only and put on automobiles with lightly built bodies. Gasoline is to be the motive power. Such radials would be cheaper and better than Hydro.

Radials are very desirable, but they should be obtained at the least cost consisting with efficiency, both a construction and operation.

Public Ownership of Public Utilities.

Public control but not public ownership was the rule laid down by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and it is the true rule. A book by a Frenchman who was minister of public works in one of the Clemenceau Governments in France, discusses the question as tried in several countries, and shows public ownership the world over to be a mistake.

The recent experience of the United States in the management of their railways confirm the view that public control but not public ownership is the true rule.

New Ontario.

New Ontario is a new empire. Advance in every way all along the line. It is not necessary to specify. Do good in every direction possible. Don't be loose in the character of the settlers. See that those who enter are capable of becoming good Canadians.

Summary.

The Opposition when it meets in convention should decide:

1. To restore responsible government by demanding that hydro power be made a department of government and accountable to the people.

2. While there are no party questions in the Ontario House, the Opposition should as long as the semblance of party government is maintained, see to it that vigilance is exercised, and no legislation passed that violates the British North America act.

3. That no money bylaws be passed on a bare majority vote of those voting.

4. It is an unsound principle to build hydro radials by assessing the municipalities through which they run proportionately. The municipalities were not created for that purpose.

5. Read Professor Shortt's Essay in Volume 18 of "Canada and Its Provinces." The hydro radial scheme parallels the mistakes made by the municipal loan scheme. Therefore, avoid committing the same error.

6. Let the province itself build any electric railway considered desirable even if it does not pay, but consider well the scheme attributed to Henry Ford. It may be cheaper and better than electricity.

7. Establish an eight-hour labor day.

8. If it is practical, establish insurance against sickness and unemployment and create old age pensions.

9. Do whatever can be done to increase the population of both new and old Ontario. Old Ontario can support a population many times that now contained in it.

10. The returned soldier should be liberally dealt with, settled on land or every endeavor made to obtain his old employment if desired.

11. Public control, but not public ownership, is the true rule with reference to railways.

12. Keep class appeals out of the province as long as possible. Keep Ontario a desirable country for a poor man to live in. Keep alive hope and opportunity in the individual. Do not pauperize anyone.

13. Encourage by free laws all building, rather than by provincial aid.

14. Encourage in every way possible education. Maintain in their purity our municipal institutions; maintain the administration of justice; encourage the people to obtain their own homes by free laws for organizing building societies; aid the returned soldiers; and finally, apply the laws as they existed twenty years ago wherever possible. Remember that change is not reform, and that vigilance is necessary when changes are made. A lack of vigilance may destroy the province. Hydro power is a joker in the Government of this province.

The Advertiser's Daily Short Story

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

FIFTY-FIFTY.

By Dora Mollan.

Ted Joy came into the morning dining room doing out the morning mail and commenting on the external appearance of each letter before parting with it. "Here's one for you from Aunt Ann, mother; the ever-welcome little bill for yours, dad; two for yours truly, and only one for you, Sally. What's happened to Chet? Skipped you two days now." He paused to scrutinize carefully a large, square, brown envelope, ignoring his sister's outstretched hand while he remarked: "Says 'Fifty-fifty' in the corner—and some address—sounds like a tooth paste——"

"Or a lottery number," added his father. "Give the letter to Sally, Ted; you're worse than a country postman."

Sally was glad to hide her disappointment at not receiving a letter in Chet's familiar scrawl by appearing interested in the one bearing the cryptic number. "Quickest way to find out is to open it, I suppose," and Sally suited the action to the word.

Glancing at the first few lines, she turned over to the signature, exclaiming in a surprised tone: "Why, it's from Chet's sister, Elizabeth. They've taken a little house out in Brownsville. It's on a river, and it's hardly finished yet."

Then, reading along, "They've taken it by the year; expect to stay there most of the time. They've named it 'Fifty-Fifty.' She wants me to come down over the week-end."

"Believe in being original, don't they?" commented Ted. "I like Elizabeth; she's a good sport."

"A clever little woman, and her husband's a brilliant fellow—always enjoy his stories. Come, Ted, or we'll be late at the office." So saying, Mr. Joy, followed by Ted, walked out of the room and out of this story.

Mrs. Joy turned to her daughter: "Sally, haven't you and Chet made up that absurd quarrel yet? If you don't look out you'll lose him. And then——"

"Mother," Sally interrupted calmly, looking up from the letter she was still reading, "Chet and I have not quarrelled. It's merely a difference of opinion."

"Call it what you like," Mrs. Joy persisted, "it amounts to the same thing. When I was young a girl was glad enough to give up her work when she married. You're a mighty lucky girl to get a man with a salary like Chet's."

"Mother, it isn't the money—but what's the use of arguing? I just can't make you understand. Listen, Elizabeth says that their new home would just about fit into our living-room and that it has five rooms. She is furnishing it, according to the ideas she absorbed in Greenwich village—painted furniture, in bright colors. She says it's a dandy bluff to put up when you're broke, to pretend to prefer that sort of thing to solid mahogany. She wants me to come down and help her decide on some of the colors. She asked Chet, too, but he can't get away. So I'll go, mother, if you don't mind. I can't do any more up at Mrs. Barlow's until that cretonne comes."

When Sally Joy alighted from the train at the Brownsville station it was raining steadily. No one was there to meet her. She ran inside, but the little building was empty. Through the window she could see a dilapidated buggy standing outside and a Ford, with curtains tightly drawn, came bumping down the road. It stopped with a jerk and a man jumped out. The long, yellow oil-skin slicker and a slouch hat pulled down would have disguised him from his best friend, but by a certain indefinable something, perhaps by his brisk movements, Sally recognized him instantly.

Something sang in Sally's heart, "It's Chet! It's Chet!" but she determinedly squelched that something and presented an unsmiling face to the young man.

Chester Radiker seemed oblivious to her coldness. With much gallantry he took her bag, complimented her on her appearance, helped her into the car and kept up a running fire of conversation during the three-mile drive. He described his sister's house in an amused fashion, commented on its name, and to Sally's question, "Why fifty-five?" answered that he would leave that to Elizabeth to explain.

"Of course," thought Sally inwardly, "that is all for the benefit of the jitney man. He's making a show of treating me like any guest of his sister. I'll be just as nonchalant about it as he is."

When the car stopped and Chet pulled back the curtains Sally beheld a tiny house, his roofed and shingled, nestling close to the country road. On the broad veranda stood Elizabeth and her husband, his arm about her shoulders. While Chet was settling with the jitney man his sister drew Sally indoors and up to the guest room, where a cheerful fire burned on the hearth.

"Take off your wet things and get into a negligee," she commanded, "and let's make ourselves comfy here by the fire. The men of the house will start dinner. I want to talk to you before we go down, so save your exclamations about the house and the view—you can't see it to advantage, until later.

"First, I'll confess that I told you a fib about Chet's not being able to come. Now don't get huffy—it's because I'm fond of you and want you for a sister that I'm taking all this trouble just at this time when I'm up to my neck in work. I won't 'cramp' in my letter. We are hard up just now, and besides fixing up this house on next to nothing I'm earning enough to carry us along for the present, just doing those little colors."

"But I thought Jock—" began Sally.

"Now don't interrupt until I finish," went on her hostess. "Jock has gone stale. You know that often happens to writers. Ever since he had the "flu" he hasn't written a word for two months. He'll come back all right here, though, where he can live the outdoor life he loves. We spent altogther too much money in the city last winter, too. Well, he said that if I had to take the man's place for awhile the only decent thing for him to do was to go fifty-fifty on the household work. And he does. That's where our house gets its name."

"I sat Chet down in front of me this morning, and I told him all I hexe told you—and some more; now I couldn't have done this if I hadn't kept my hand in and had a market for my stuff. If Jock had been insistent on my doing nothing outside our home when we had plenty, why——"

A cheerful voice sounded from the foot of the stairs. "Say, the potatoes are in the oven, the table is set, the meat's cooking—and it's cleared off. There's a glorious sunset, girls; come on down on the porch and view it with us."

"Oh, Chet," called back his sister, "come up here a minute." But when he arrived, two steps at a time, she suddenly remembered that Jock was ignorant of the mysteries of salad mixing, and disappeared.

"I'm a convert, Sally," frankly confessed the young man. "You may keep up your interior decorating. Only see that you don't earn more than the old man—he'd be jealous.

CHURCH UNION.

[Hamilton Times.]

As already stated in these columns, there will be no discussion on the question of church union in the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, which meets in this city this week, but the question is a live one in all the churches.

THE C. P. R.'S PRESIDENT.

[Victoria, B. C., Times.]

Mr. Beatty, on this trip, has an opportunity of studying the situation at close range and with a discerning eye. He is a Canadian through and through who knows this Dominion, its history, its people and its capabilities, and, upon this knowledge and his instinct, he bases his faith in its future. He is in a position to play a big part in directing the development and character of the Dominion along the right line.

TOO LATE.

[Woodstock Sentinel Review.]

The Government at Ottawa should have known many months ago what was on the way; yet it took no action until it was already too late for preventive measures.

It is a familiar story. It is written all over the pages of history. Governments and Parliaments are reluctant to bother their heads about things that do not bother them. And if at last they are stirred to action it is often too late.

A CHEMISTS' INSTITUTE.

[Toronto Mail and Empire.]

The formation of a Canadian Institute of Chemistry in Montreal is of interest to everyone concerned with the advancement of science in this country. A Dominion institute is the logical outcome of the new eminence attained by Canadian chemists during the war. Those of them who were in the metallurgical industries, making explosives and other war materials, contributed magnificently to Canada's share in the material and engineering phase of the war.

A WORD FOR JOURNALISM.

[New York Globe.]

A good newspaperman is as sound in his scholarship, within the limits of his time and material, as any college professor. Men with these acquisitions make good citizens. The more of them the schools of journalism can turn out the better. For the country needs not only men to write the newspapers, but men to read them and criticise them intelligently. Journalism has just as good a claim as Greek or mathematics to being studied for its pure cultural and disciplinary value.

ONE BIG UNION.

[Chicago Tribune.]

If we do not entirely misunderstand the purposes and methods of the leaders of the movement for a single union, it will, if it proves successful, not only destroy the existing liberties of the so-called middle classes, but of the workingmen themselves.

One big union necessarily means a concentration of all authority in the hands of some central committee or group of leaders. This centralization of power may result in a benevolent despotism, but it nevertheless will be a despotism and subject to all the abuses of a despotism.

ENGLISH WORKERS' WAGES.

[London Labor Gazette.]

Taking all industries together, it is evident that rates of wages for manual workers generally have been more than doubled on the whole during the war; and, while the material available is not sufficiently complete to enable an exact calculation of the general average increase on pre-war rates to be made, there is little doubt that it lies between 100 and 120 per cent. apart from any enhancements of hourly and piece rates in certain industries, the effect of which, on weekly wages, has been neutralized by reductions in the weekly hours of labor.

FEARLESS AND RESOURCEFUL.

[Argonaut.]

Dr. Dudley A. Sargent of Harvard holds that sex is no bar to military service—that a woman would make as good a soldier as a man. Dr. Sargent, at a tea in Boston, said to a group of flattered, smiling girls: "Why shouldn't you, indeed, make as good soldiers as men? Look how resourceful you are. I know a young fellow who said to a girl doubtfully: 'I consulted a palmist last evening, and she told me I should marry a brunette within three months.' The girl, tossing her golden head, answered with a roguish smile: 'Well, I can easily be a brunette by that time, Jack.'"

WON'T WORK TOGETHER.

[Brockville Recorder.]

The necessities of life must be handled in Canada on a basis of the lowest possible cost to the consumer. Greater production must be stimulated by means of making farming more attractive and less marked by drudgery. Community bargaining, as well as collective bargaining, must be arranged by the state, so that excessive charges shall not be taken in the handling of necessities. The force of all honest public opinion is behind any government that will endeavor to prevent profiteering in necessities. We cannot have in Canada a system of social democracy and economic autocracy. The two will not work togelher.

THEIR ONLY PLEASURE.

[London Mail.]

An interesting light on the mental condition of natives of new Guinea is offered by the story of a commissioner recounted in the report of the London Missionary Society. The commissioner tried two men from the mountains for throwing spears at the police. They pleaded guilty, and it was explained to them that they must never do it again.

To the commissioner's surprise, they both asked to be hanged. When asked the reason of the request, they replied that the only pleasure they had was throwing spears at the police, and, as they were forbidden to do it any more, they did not want to live.

THE CRUCIFIED CANADIAN.

[Toronto Telegram.]

Toronto Telegram House of Commons report: Hon. R. Lemieux asked the minister what he was telling of Canadian war paintings, whether it was true that a Canadian soldier had been crucified by the Germans, as reported by the papers.

Sir Edward—"There was a kind of bronze statue, not a painting, depicting this, and the Germans took exception to it, claiming it never happened. I had noted in the press that they had, and I gave notice to see if this charge could be substantiated. I got two affidavits of Canadian soldiers that they had seen this themselves, and one man had won the Victoria Cross. Other soldiers had thought they had seen this. As we had two affidavits that this had been done I don't think there was any doubt that it happened."

PARTING.

[By Coventry Patmore.]

If thou dost bid thy friend farewell,
But for one night though that farewell may be,
Press thou his hand in thine.
How canst thou tell how far from thee
Fate, or caprice may lead his steps ere that tomorrow comes?
Men have been known to lightly turn the corner of a street,
And days have grown to months, and months to lagging years.
Ere they have looked in loving eyes again.
Parting, at best, is underlaid
With tears and pain.
Therefore, lest sudden death should come between,
Or time, or distance, clasp with pressure firm
The hand of him who goeth forth,
Unseen, Fate goeth too.
Yea, find thou always time to say some earnest word
Between the idle talk.
Lest with thee henceforth,
Night and day, regret should walk.

Sign of Good Health.

Dear Miss Grey,—Was pleased to receive stocking foot pattern. I see in the column where Heiland Lassie sent the words of "On the Banks of the Wabash." I wonder if they were for me, as I asked for them. Miss Grey, I hope you are not as warm as I. The perspiration just drips off the end of my nose, and it is rather long, too. I am going to wash today, at that!

I would like to get a few correspondents, if possible. I would like to correspond with Beanpole, as I, too, am making a silk quilt. I will close now, wishing everybody luck and 'specially Miss Grey. LEONA.

A.—You poor dear! I am afraid that by the time the washing is over you will be reduced to nothingness. Is it any consolation to hear that a learned doctor told me recently that to perspire freely was a sign of good health? Any correspondents for Leona?

Ridgetown was the scene of a pretty wedding on Friday afternoon, when Eva La Reeta, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Toll, was united in marriage to Melvin Bobier, of Windsor, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. S. S. Hardy, pastor of the Church of the Advent. Miss Nora Toll of Detroit, sister of the bride, and Miss Catharine Leitch were her attendants. The groom's gifts to the bridesmaids were crescents of pearls. Among the presents received by the bride was a handsome check from her father. After a short honeymoon in London and other points east, the happy couple will take up their residence in Windsor.

WESTCOTT-MATTHEW.

A very pretty but simple wedding was that which took place at the Church of the Epiphany, Kingsville, on June 18, when Edith Matthew of that town, was united in marriage to Mr. Fred Westcott of Windsor, the Rev. Mr. Horton officiating.

The bride looked lovely in a robe of ivory crepe de chine, with veil of old lace, a family heirloom. She was given away by her brother, and Miss Lucy Matthew, sister of the bride, who wore a gown of rainbow organdy, was her only attendant. The groom was supported by Mr. Ernest Wigle of Kingsville.

After the ceremony the bridal party and guests enjoyed a dainty luncheon at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Edmond F. Darley of Harrow, leaving later for Buffalo and the Eastern States. On their return they will reside in Windsor.

PHILLIPS-NEELY-SHAW.

Two weddings of unusual interest occurred on Wednesday, June 18, at Turnerville. At 12 o'clock, Miss Hazel Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Shaw, became the bride of William Phillips, only son of Mr. William Phillips of Wabash, and at 5 o'clock, Miss Rena Shaw, daughter of Mr. Samuel Shaw, became the bride of Gerald Neely, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Shaw, also of Wabash. Rev. F. Craik, Methodist minister of Dawn Mills, performed the ceremony in each case.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips motored to Saginaw to spend a few days with the groom's cousin, Mrs. Roy Phoenix, and Mr. and Mrs. Neely took the evening train for Toronto and other eastern points.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Phillips will reside on concession eleven, and Mr. and Mrs. Neely on concession ten, Wabash. As the grooms' farms join, the bride's will continue to be near neighbors as they were before marriage.

JOHNSTON—HARRIS.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Harris, Dorinda street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday last, when their youngest daughter, Myrtle E., was united in marriage to Joseph W. Johnston of West Nissouri, the Rev. Mr. Ferguson officiating. The ceremony was performed beneath an arch of orange blossoms, the wedding music being played by Miss Rhea Parsons of St. Marys, cousin of the bride.

The bride was charming in a gown of white silk and crepe de chine and she wore a bridal veil trimmed with orange blossoms, and carried bride's roses. Her only attendants were two little flower girls, nieces of the bride, Miss Grace McGuffin and Miss Mabel Farrall of Thorndale.

After a dainty wedding breakfast the entire wedding party, of about 35 in all, motored to the G. T. R. station, when the young couple left for Sarnia amid showers of confetti. After their return they will reside in West Nissouri. Guests were present from Seaforth, St. Marys, Thorndale, Brantford and London.

MARK—McINTYRE.

"Prospect Hill Farm," the home of Mr. Hugh McIntyre, Lobo, Ont., was the scene of a very pretty and interesting event Wednesday, June 18, when his youngest daughter, Viola Pearl, was united in marriage to George E. Mark, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Mark, Fenelon Falls. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. W. M. Corkery, M.A., B.D., of Hamilton, uncle of the bride, in the presence of near relatives of the bridal couple, under an arch banked with ferns and beautifully decorated with flowers.

The bride, who was given away by her father, entered the drawing-room to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Jean Griffith of Lambeth. She was gowned in white georgette crepe and wore a veil of white tulle caught with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of sweetheart roses and orchids, and she was attended by her sister, Miss Olive McIntyre, who wore apricot georgette crepe and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Thomas Mark of Peterboro, Ont.

After the Ceremony.

The bride led the way to the dining-room, where tables were beautifully decorated for the wedding breakfast. The happy couple left later for a trip up the lakes, the bride travelling in a tailored serge suit of navy with hat to match, and Hudson seal coatee, the gift of the groom.

The pianist was presented with a cameo ring set with pearls; the bride's sister, with gold bar pin set with pearls, and the brother of groom with gold cuff links. The happy couple were the recipients of many beautiful presents, among them being substantial checks from their parents, and a beautiful silver tea service from the staff of Bank of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark will be home to their friends after July 10 at 22 Charlton avenue, Hamilton.

ENLIGHTENED AND FAITHFUL CHRISTIANS ARE FULL OF PRAISE.

Christianity is a religion of praise. The angels sang a song of joy over the fields of Bethlehem when they announced to the shepherds the glad tidings that the Christ was born that day in a stable in the village of Bethlehem. Their song was "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth, peace, goodwill toward men." During Christ's ministry we read of him and his disciples singing, and in ten days after Christ's ascension into heaven one hundred and twenty of Christ's faithful followers met in the little upper room in Jerusalem and spent their time in prayer and praise while they waited for the coming of the Holy Spirit, whom Jesus said would come. Praise has always been a part of Christian worship and doubtless always will be.

The Perfect Knight --Sir Wilfrid Laurier

A True Story by E. A. Taylor in The Women's Century.

She was not young, yet hardly middle-aged. A pleasant-faced, matronly-figured woman, who sat in the local train running out from Quebec City, with parcels and baskets piled all around her. She looked at them with slightly worried eyes, they were really more numerous and bulky than she had expected when she had started on her shopping. Then her face cleared again, at any rate she had got everything she set out to get, and the ordeal of getting to the train with them was accomplished; now there was no need to do anything for an hour but sit quiet, and feel her flushed face getting cool; and then they would be at one of the many little Ste. Annes, where her children would meet her.

She was the Scottish wife of Angus McNab, a very Scotch civil engineer, who had been brought out by one Donald Smith—the Lord Strathcona to be —to work on the half-built C. P. R. Angus was away in an entirely unknown Nor'-West, making the iron road that would open up the wheat-lands of Canada, and his wife and children were living in the little Quebec village, where she felt very foreign among the people she neighbored with and really liked, though she was secretly a little afraid of their religion, and she did not know more than a score of words of their language. Still, with the cool philosophy inherent in the blood of her race, she made the best of things, and so enjoyed life and prospered.

She looked at her fellow-passengers —Two priests, who hardly raised their eyes from the books they were reading; several French-Canadian women, and two or three men; all of whom seemed to know each other, as they chatted volubly in their very, to her, foreign language. One youngish man seemed to be traveling by himself, though he was evidently well-known and very friendly with nearly all the others. She looked at him with shrewd eyes, for there was an undefinable something in his personality that made him noticed even among the crowd on a train.

Then the train stopped. It stopped very frequently at all manner of tiny stations; but this time there was not even a shed in sight, nothing but trees, for they were in the bush, and the woman knew by the faces of the others that something was wrong. With difficulty they made her understand they were to leave the train and walk on a grass-grown logging road that wound into the heart of the mysterious unknown forest. She thought of the alarms of her children when she did not come back, at the time they expected, and then she looked at her parcels. Her instincts of thrift would not let her leave one behind, but while she was desperately trying to gather them up, she saw the man who "looked to be somebody," as she put it, He spoke with a quiet friendliness that put at ease even a woman who felt lost in a foreign land, among unknown and terrifying adventures, and with a multitude of small parcels that would slip out of her arms, and yet they must not be left.

His first words she did not understand, but instantly he read her face and changed into good, comforting English. There has been a bad washout on the line, he explained, and their train would not get through that day; but the few passengers were to walk only a short distance, to the village, where the railway had telegraphed for conveyances to meet them and connect them with another train, which would surely bring her safely to her particular Ste. Anne, only two hours late, and her children would be told at the station, when they came to look for her, that it would be all right.

Then he had picked up the biggest half of her parcels, and they were walking down the bush road together. He told her his name and address, and said she must call on Mrs. Laurier when she was next in Quebec, and so they came to where the other passengers were gathered, waiting and excitedly indignant, for the promised buggies, etc., had not arrived.

The young lawyer had more to lose by the delay than any of them, as he was to speak at a meeting that might have considerable importance to his political career; and now it would be impossible for him to make his connection and get there that evening; yet he was the only one who smiled at the delay, and then, skilfully drew the party to arrange for a meal at a farm-house, whereat the badgered railman at that point looked after him gratefully.

Mary McNab never felt that Canada was so foreign after that lively supper, when her new friend sat beside her, talking so well of the land and the people that he loved, that she forgot to wonder if her children were eating too much jam or setting the house on fire. Then the carriages arrived, and they drove across to the other line, where he put her and the last one of her parcels safely in a good seat.

That night a long letter was written to Angus McNab, and he put the name of the man who had befriended his wife away in his careful Scotch memory. In a few years Mary and her children were out west with Angus; her tall young sons grew up with the country, big men they were, in soul as well as body, and they stamped their personality as well as their name on the community they lived among. And they and the men they influenced always voted for Laurier. Other good men in Canada might sometimes think his policy mistaken, but the McNabs unshakenly held to their belief that a man who was a very perfect knight to a woman in distress was a chief whom men could always safely follow.

PORT STANLEY I. O. D. E.

At the regular meeting of the I. O. D. E. it was decided to affiliate with the Local Council of Women.

Stanley Oliver of St. Thomas, was present in the interest of the Cort-Albert Lyceum Company of Toronto and addressed the meeting regarding his concert attractions, but owing to the small number present it was decided to call a special meeting for Monday evening next, when Mr. Oliver will again be present.

The chapter has planned to erect a community hall at some future date and has secured an option on the Franklin Hotel site, on Bridge street, and will, if the deal goes through, improve the ground preparatory to the erection of the building. The members are enthusiastic and are looking forward some day to seeing a fine, new hall as a memorial to the boys who served overseas.

LONDON HAD BRANTFORD FANS SCARED, ANYWAY

Stewart's Tail-Enders Lose Heavy Scoring Game, But They Fight All Through and Make Lee's Team Work Hard to Win.

(Special to The Advertiser.)

BRANTFORD, June 22.—Bases on balls, wild pitches, booting and boneheaded plays featured a grand old ball game here Saturday, in which Tom Nelson's hired men copped the heavy end of the 14—10 score, even although the heavy end of the hitting went to the lowly tailenders. The Brantford Club succeeded in winning the game by the timely use of the derrick on the pitchers, while "Dad" Stewart in charge of the Londoners did not have much lee-way to work on in that respect. Stewart had but two pitchers, one of whom had worked the night before, and he allowed Foster to take his medicine as long as it looked like a ball game at all. When the Sox got to Foster, Koster was sent in, Koster having been used sometime as a pitcher, sometime in the long-ago.

Scared Sox Anyway.

The London club put a decided scare over Brantford at that. The Indians battled, and for some of the innings they led in the running. They drove Lewis, one of Brantford's latest importations, from the box in the second, and they drove Bills to cover in the fifth. Bills did not take kindly to being jerked, and displayed much peevishness when he was called from the mound. Big Tom Estelle was called in, and although touched up freely managed to pull out a win.

Good Fielding Saves Brantford.

At that, the Indians started something in the ninth, when a walk and Newman's home run netted two runs, but a nifty catch in centre by M. Murphey, and Brady's spectacular play on Koster's liner shut off the fireworks.

Eight Runs for Brants in Fifth.

The Brantford club won the game in the fifth, when eleven men, all told, came to bat. Eight of them scored. Lotshaw and Nelson started the session by getting the pitcher, a muff of Cullis' infield drive, three hits, two sacrifice flies, a walk and Lotshaw's homer made up the eight runs. In London's fifth, five singles, two infield outs and two errors gave the Indians five runs.

"Dad" Boots Three.

"Dad" Stewart played right field, and did not have a good getaway in the Mint league. He pulled down three errors for the time, plainly from lack of training. The club under his leadership showed fight and pepper, and the Brantford fans were sports enough to give the new London manager a hand every time he came to bat.

Fans Were for Burke.

There was a lot of crabbing at Umpire Larry Burke during the game, but Burke has been the best umpire seen here this year. Both teams crabbed at some of his decisions on balls and strikes, but the crowd by strange phenomenon was a friend of the umpire. The score:

London	020 040 112—10	15	5
Brantford	011 281 01x—14	12	5

Foster, Koster and Milligan; Lewis, Bills, Estelle and Carroll.

MANHATTANS BEAT ORIENTS WHO SUPPORT FLINT POORLY

Keoka Pitched Good Ball, While Johnson and Arnott Hit a Pair of Doubles Each.

Before a large crowd at Springbank Saturday afternoon the Manhattans outplayed the Orients in a Springbank League game by the score of 4 to 1.

Arnott and Johnson of the winners did some heavy clouting, each having two two-baggers. Keoka pitched good ball for the Manhattans, having eight strike-outs. Flint struck out three men, but was given very poor support by his team-mates, who made seven errors.

C-H-E-E-R-I-O

By Bert B. Perry

Out of the muck and truck of stuff that has been written in advance on the Willard-Dempsey heavyweight bout in Toledo, one can glean occasional truths. Thank heaven there are still some sport writers who can see things as they really are, and give unbiased opinions. Too much of the "dope" written on these ring affairs comes from writers who are working only in the interests of the promoters and principals of the bouts, and have not the good of the sport at heart. O. W. McGeehan, in the New York Tribune, is apparently not one of these. In a recent article which he writes from Toledo, he states that Willard is not in as good condition as is supposed, and he doubts whether the big fellow can get in proper shape to do himself justice against the younger, better-conditioned Dempsey. Willard is too fat, and shows only too plainly the effects of his long absence from the ring.

* * * *

And now comes Ed. W. Smith, another expert on ring matters, and one who has had much experience in refereeing bouts. He states that Willard is not in form, and cannot get into form for the fight, which is only two weeks away. Willard is still soft, and the hardening-up process that a fighter needs has not set in with him.

* * * *

Willard has never been ambitious as a fighter. He has looked more on the financial side of the game. It looks more and more each day as though he is meeting Dempsey only to fatten his already large bank roll, and disappear from boxing for all time. He has large oil interests besides his circus business, and he does not have to depend upon the ring for a living. Even if he wins on July 4, it is doubtful if he will ever fight again. With this in mind, Jess apparently realizes it is little use him going through the severe training necessary to fit himself properly, and he only figures on being able to avoid a knock-out. The fact that the fight is only twelve rounds favors him in this respect. The chances are Dempsey will be champion heavyweight of America after July 4.

The Michigan-Ontario baseball league is having its troubles. On Saturday, Shaughnessy was nearly mobbed at Kitchener. Shag. told the fans they were a lot of Huns, and they didn't like it. The game was full of arguments, Umpire Anderson's decisions being the cause of most of them. On Sunday, in Bay City, two fights occurred at the game there between Battle Creek and the home team, and now every player on the Bay City club is asking for his release. The fans in Bay City have been knocking consistently, and open breaks between the players and the spectators took place, in which the police sided with the fans. As at Kitchener, the umpire's decisions caused most of the trouble. Umpire Meyers has given trouble all round the circuit, and it is time the league heads were taking some action to remedy matters. The Bay City owners have been forced to call a meeting to discuss their trouble, and it may happen that Manager Cristall will lose his job, as Bill has not been at all popular there, although he has gathered together a pretty fair ball club. What with poor umpiring, poor crowds and fans who are consistent knockers in some of the Michigan cities, and a hopeless tail-end team in the best city on the circuit, the Mint League is finding the going pretty tough. The London club directors are meeting tonight to discuss the local situation.

Canadian Curlers To Visit Scotland in 1921 or 1922

Ontario Curling Association Decides to Accept Invitation of Caledonian Club.

DETROIT, June 22.—At a meeting of the executive of the Ontario Curling Association held here Saturday, it was decided to arrange an acceptance of the invitation of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club of Scotland, to send eight rinks of four members each to Scotland either during the winter of 1920-21 or 1921-22. The Scottish curlers visited Canada and one or two points in the United States during the winter of 1912.

All the members of the O. C. A. executive were present here with the exception of Sir James Flavelle of Lindsay, the oldest living ex-president of the association. While here the committee was entertained by the members of the Detroit Curling Club and bowling games were held at Grosse Point in the afternoon, followed by drives around the city.

HARRY HOWICK HIT HARD BY SAGINAW SLUGGERS

FLINT, Mich., June 21 — Saginaw took ample revenge on Flint for two previous defeats this afternoon by shutting out the locals 18 to 0. The visitors bunched 15 hits off Howick, who in addition was given wretched support, while Wisner gave the locals only four hits. Saginaw put across 10 runs in the first inning, one in the fifth, and half a dozen in the eighth.

BAY CITY PLAYERS ARE ALL ASKING FOR THEIR RELEASE

Treatment Accorded Men by Fans Causes Two Big Fights at Sunday's Game.

BAY CITY, June 22.—The Battle Creek Custers triumphed over the Bay City Wolves today, 7 to 3, for the fourth consecutive time, being helped considerably by the bad decisions of Umpire "Babe" Myers, who had to be taken from the park by the police at the end of the game to prevent being mobbed. The Bay City "fans," about 2,000 of them, hooted and jeered the local players continually, the exhibition being the most disgraceful ever seen at Clarkson Park. Two big fights, one in the grand stand and one in the bleachers, in which a policeman went against the players, enlivened things considerably. As a result of the treatment accorded to local players, every man on the team has asked for his release, declaring that the attitude of the local crowds is against good baseball. A meeting has been called for Monday morning with the club owners to discuss the situation. Manager Cristall has done his best to bring a good club to the city, but the fans have knocked him ever since the season started.

The game was a good one until the sixth inning, when, after two were out, Myers called Heving safe at second when Owens had the ball waiting for him when he slid into the base. This seemed to take the heart out of Ferrell and the Custers pounded in four runs. Horn pitched a good game for the visitors. The score:

WOODSTOCK VETERANS TRIM LONDON K. OF C.'S

Nopper Proved Easy Picking and Was Knocked Out in Sixth—McDonald Finished the Game.

WOODSTOCK, June 21.—The Knights of Columbus ball team from London proved easy pickings for the local G. W. V. A. organization Saturday. The homesters won by the lopsided score of 18 to 5. The soldier boys performed the feat of scoring in every inning.

The visitors arrived three men short, owing to an automobile accident, and when these men put in an appearance at the end of the second the score was 5 to 1. Nopper, the best pitcher in the London City League, then took up the task on the mound. He pitched here Monday and was in great form, but yesterday he was easy picking, and he was driven to the cellar in the sixth, McDonald finishing the game. "Lefty" Bond was never in trouble, and the nine hits registered off his delivery were scattered. At the bat he cracked out two doubles and two singles.

ACES HIT THEIR OLD TEAM MATE McCLUSKEY HARD

SAGINAW, Mich., June 22.—The Aces hit McCluskey hard and with bases on balls and four errors by the visitors piled up nine runs to the visitors' four this afternoon.

McCluskey, the Saginaw cast-off, who beat Schwartje at Flint on Thursday, tried to repeat, but his old teammates made life miserable for him. Four of his five passes were cashed into runs. "Lefty" starred in the hitting, however, getting a single, a double, and a triple, and sending Gleich to the far corner of the right field for a hard drive. After hitting safely in eleven straight games, Bill Pike, second basing for Saginaw, failed to connect today. McDaniels had two doubles.

Manager Wetzel of Saginaw bought Allen from the Flint team today and will play him at shortstop. The score:

Noted Bike Riders Will Compete Here

Big Entry Promised For Dunlop and Other Races For July 1st—Crack Riders Promise To Come—The Events and Prizes.

Entries for the big bicycle races, the Dunlop road race and the Dominion championship, to be held here on July 1, are coming in rapidly, and already many of the notable bicycle riders of Canada and the United States are entered for the race.

Lou Bounsall, the coming Canadian champion short distance rider, is now in Newark, N.J., with the United States champion riders at the Velodrome track, but he has promised definitely to compete in the Dominion championship race. He is one of the few Canadian riders that have had an opportunity to compete with the crack American teams, and will be remembered by many cycle fans as one of the really serious contenders for championship honors in this country. Doc Martin, an old-time Canadian sprinter, who has followed the cycling race game for many years, will be here also. Harry Martin, Bert Bingey, Fred Lawrie and "Young" McKay are a few more of the crack riders who will be seen here on the first, competing for honors in the Dunlop and the championship races.

Col. Graham in Last Race Here.

It is not commonly known, but Col. C. M. R. Graham, recently returned from overseas, was one of the big finishers in the last Dunlop road run-off in this city twenty-three years ago. He made some showing as a bicycle rider then, but when he was approached several days ago to enter the coming contest he smilingly replied that he is getting a little too heavy around the waist for so much exertion.

Bicycle riding has produced more brainy men than any other sport. Some of the largest automobile, tire and airplane manufacturers in Canada and the United States have as their heads former bicycle rider stars, it being their contention that no other line of sport has such developing powers as that of bicycle riding.

A Demand For Entry Blanks.

Judging by the number of inquiries for programs and entry blanks being received at the different bicycle and sporting goods stores in the city, the day will be a big one in London, and as the bicycle dealers are working hard to make it a success and provide some unusually good advertising for this city it behooves Londoners to get out and make it a gala day.

KITCHENER TEAM SCORES HEAVILY IN END, BUT LOSE

Ten Runs Are Scored in Two Innings—Slerk's Offerings Were Batted All Over Lot in Ninth.

GUELPH, June 22.—In a long drawn-out game, in which good, bad and indifferent ball was served before a large week-end crowd, the Partridge team of this city, defeated the McBrines of Kitchener, 14-13, in an inter-county league game on Saturday. When Kitchener went to bat in the eighth frame the score was 11 to 3 against them, but they scored four runs in the eighth and added six more in the ninth. The home crew, in the ninth batted Sherk's offerings to all corners of the lot and the third and winning run counted before a man was retired. The score:

Kitchener	003 000 046—	13	10	1

LITTLE CHANCE OF INCREASE IN FARES UNLESS PEOPLE SAY

Committee Chairman Strongly Opposed To Independent Action.

NO SALE OFFER MADE

Men of Union Anxious To Get Any Concession For Company.

No. 1 committee of the city council will meet specially tomorrow for the purpose of discussing street railway matters, and, if possible, evolving some plan for bringing about an amelioration of present service conditions. Ald. Dr. L. S. Holmes, chairman of the special railway committee, at whose request the special meeting of No. 1 is being called, stated today that he was still of the opinion that no fare increase arrangement can or should be put into effect until after the citizens have approved it at the polls. He said that so far as he was concerned the matter was one of such vital importance to every citizen that the council would not be justified, entirely apart from the legal aspect, in authorizing any change in the present schedule of fares without consulting the people first.

No New Proposition.

Dr. Holmes, referring to The Advertiser's report of an interview with him on Friday, declared today that he had not misstated the facts with regard to the conference between the special committee and officials of the street railway company on Thursday afternoon. He said that the company at that conference did not submit any new proposition, merely reiterating the proposition which it had made before, and refusing to make any further concessions.

The question of purchase, said Dr. Holmes, was brought up by members of the committee at the conference, but no satisfaction was given by the company's officials, who were quite noncommittal in the matter. Dr. Holmes stated that his own view was that purchase was the best possible solution of the whole complicated problem. He went on to say, however, that this matter could not be taken up by No. 1 to-morrow, since no data was available for the committee's consideration, and would not be until the directors of the company made a definite proposal of terms.

An Interim Agreement.

Members of the Street Railwaymen's Union declare that the latest legal opinion is to the effect that the city, while it could not legally change the present agreement without a vote of the people, could make a separate agreement, to run for a defined length of time, say, one year, granting the increase in fares asked.

The men also say that they are not concerned about the extent of the concessions granted by the city. All they want is that some change from the present rate, in favor of the company, should be made, since the agreement between themselves and the company binds them to accept the present wage scale until the city grants higher fares. Therefore, if any increase at all were granted, even if it affected only the regular strip tickets, not the workingmen's tickets, they would be relieved from their bond, and could, and would, imediately demand increased wages, with a strike as the alternative.

TEN-YEAR-OLD BOY, LOST ON SATURDAY, REMAINS MISSING

Wanders Away From St. Joseph's Orphanage.

MAY BE DROWNED

Police Aid Solicited, as Child Was Last Seen Near River Thames.

Missing since 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Peter Bykowy, 10-year-old Austrian ward of Mount St. Joseph's Orphanage, is thought to have become a victim to the treacherous waters of the north branch of the River Thames.

Search instituted on Saturday night by police and officials of the institution has failed to reveal any clue as tothe possible whereabouts or the departure of the youngster. .Police believe that the boy may have left the orphanage with the idea of getting to Chatham, where he lived with his father until he was brought to the city, but no word in answer to queries in this direction have been received.

Behind the orphanage is a ravine, in which the children of the institution were wont to play. Here most of the little ones were content to spend their hours in pleasant pastime, heeding the warning given them to keep away from the river, which is separated from the grounds of the home by a fence. Not so with little ten-year-old Peter. He was a wild little chap, roaming about the grounds restlessly, always longing to go into the great world beyond the big gates that block the entrance to the orphan asylum.

Born in Austria.

Small is he, and possessed of beautiful dark eyes, in which burn that wild light so peculiar to the Austrian race. Although he can jabber freely in his native tongue, the missing lad speaks little of the language of Canada, the country to which his father brought him that he might enjoy the privileges that would be denied him in his own despotic land. He has not taken a hat with him, choosing rather to be without such a hindrance during his rompings through the bushes and hedges. The blouse that he wore was blue.

Last Time Seen.

Noon saw the boy enjoying a meal with his fellow-inmates, within the walls of his foster home. Soon after, he went out to play. At 2 o'clock the bell rang for roll-call. Peter was absent. Immediately a search was instituted, but he had disappeared. Night fell, and the wanderer did not return. Police aid was solicited, and the search began in earnest. A number of boys who are caddies at the London Hunt Club golf links, declare that they saw him near the river after dinner. This is the last time that he was seen.

Michael, the little eight-year-old brother of the lost child, is wandering aimlessly about the building. He and Peter were inseparable until the day of the latter's disappearance. Annie, the little four-year-old sister, also notices the empty chair at the meal table, but she cannot grasp the situation. The three children were brought from Chatham by the father, who is now in Windsor or Sarnia. The mother having died some years ago, he had found it hard to give them all the advantages of a home, so two months ago, he decided that for their own good, they must be separated from him and placed where tender hands could be ready continually to help them.

DUAL CITIZENSHIP CLAIM OF DRAFT EVADER; FINED $250

WINDSOR, June 21.—"Dual citizenship" was the plea of Victor Tessier of Ford City and Ernest Allard of St. Joachim in police court here today when arraigned before Magistrate Miers upon a charge of failing to report for service when called under the M. S. A.

In each case a conviction was registered and a fine of $250 imposed. Both accused were born in the United States of British parentage, and consequently are claimed as citizens of both countries. The young men reported for medical examination in Windsor and were categoried "A-2." Pending the call for service they crossed the border and enlisted as American citizens with the United States expeditionary forces. When the armistice was signed they returned to Canada and recently were arrested as defaulters.

ALL COTTON MILLS OF LANCASHIRE ARE CLOSED BY STRIKE

MANCHESTER, England, June 21.—All the cotton mills in Lancashire closed at noon today (Saturday) and it is expected by Monday 55,000,000 spindles and thousands of looms will be stopped through the strike of 500,000 workers.

The cotton mill owners say they will make no effort to run the mills.

GOOD TRIP ACROSS; ACCOMMODATION ON AQUITANIA EXCELLENT

Party of Veterans Arrives in Early Morning.

A party of returned soldiers, numbering 153, arrived in this city this morning at about 12:30 o'clock, at the Quebec street station of the C. P. R. The soldiers crossed the Atlantic on the S.S. Aquitania, and reported a smooth trip trip to Canada, with excellent food and accommodation on board. Lieut. F. Clarke of the Salvation Army, Rev. H. B. Ashby and Rev. J. N. Norton were present to tender an official welcome to the returning heroes.

Immediately upon detraining the party proceeded to Tecumseh Barracks, where they were speedily discharged from service, and provided with transportation to their homes in Western Ontario. Despite the late hour of arrival, many friends and relatives of the soldiers were on hand to greet them, and following their release from service the boys were served with refreshments in the dining hall of Tecumseh Barracks, by the ladies of the local Red Cross.

Motor Cars Ready.

Military motor cars later conveyed members of the party down town, those living in Western Ontario proceeding to the military hostels, where they secured lodging until train time. Local soldiers who returned this morning proceeded to their homes immediately following dispersion.

Lieut. Mack Eastman, who returned last night, is well known in this city, being a member of the faculty of arts, Western University, here, at one time. At the time of enlistment as a sergeant in the Canadian west, he was head of the department of history in British Columbia University. He recruited the British Columbia University Reserve and proceeded overseas with that unit, being drafted as a private to the 29th Battalion in France. Lieut. Eastman was later transferred to the Canadian intelligence department, where he received his commission. After the signing of the armistice he was attached to the Khaki University of the Canadian army, serving in France, Belgium and Germany, with headquarters at Bonn. Lieut. Eastman is visiting his father, Rev. S. H. Eastman, at Port Stanley today, and he will return to British Columbia in the near future.

Escaped Unwounded.

Pte. G. Moore of Watford, a member of the party, left London in a draft from the Western Ontario Regiment. He served overseas for two years with the Canadian Machine Gun Corps, during which time he escaped unwounded.

Sergt. J. Atkinson of Galt enlisted with the 111th Battalion, and served with the Machine Gun Corps in France for ten months. He was wounded in the leg during his period of service. Owing to the late hour last night speeches of welcome were dispensed with, which found favor with the boys in khaki, who were anxious to get away from the dispersal station as soon as possible.

WALL STREET.

New York, June 23.—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Anticipating the early acceptance of the peace treaty by the Germans, today's stock market opened with an impressive demonstration of strength, gains among favorite issues ranging from one to four points. The scope of the early operations indicated an accession of buying orders for speculative interests, including considerable short covering. This was met by heavy selling, which cancelled a large part of the rise before the end of the first half hour. The reaction affected U. S. Steel and other leaders from one to three points.

MRS. M'KENNEY GAINS 17 POUNDS

Eats What She Pleases and Sleeps Like a Child Now, Says Minneapolis Woman.

"I never thought I would let my name be used in connection with a medicine, but if it had not been for Tanlac I would still be a sick woman, and I feel that I ought to try to help others by telling them about it," said Mrs. J. F. McKenney, who resides at 3121 Cedar avenue, Minneapolis, recently, in a statement in which one of the benefits received described is a gain of seventeen pounds.

"I had been suffering from stomach trouble for five years," she continued, "and had almost despaired of ever getting relief. My appetite was very poor and I always suffered so much pain in my stomach after meals that I had gotten almost afraid to eat anything. My food would ferment and the gas from it would press on my heart until I would just have to fight for breath. I often had nervous sick headaches and was very dizzy at times. I could hardly ever get a good night's sleep, was very weak, and always got up in the mornings feeling as tired as when I retired at night. In fact, that tired worn-out feeling was with me all the time and I hardly had strength to do my housework.

"Finally I got to taking Tanlac on the advice of my daughter in Muskogee, Oklahoma. She told me of a minister there who said he did not believe there was ever a case of stomach trouble Tanlac would not relieve, and the results in my case have convinced me that he was right. Soon after I began taking it my appetite improved and I commenced to gain both in weight and strength. My appetite is just fine now, the gas has stopped forming on my stomach, and I can eat what I please and all I want without ever having a pain or an uncomfortable feeling afterwards. I sleep just like a child every night, get up in the mornings feeling rested and refreshed.

When I began taking Tanlac I only weighed one hundred and eighteen pounds, but I now weigh one hundred and thirty-five, making an actual gain of seventeen pounds. This is just what six bottles of Tanlac has done for me and there's nothing too good for me to say for it."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drugs, Ltd., and by an established agency in every town.

BEEF, IRON AND WINE "JAG" AGAIN COSTLY

STRATFORD, June 22.—Beef, iron and wine again proved the undoing of Charlie Schutt. In police court, when arraigned for being drunk, Charlie admitted having drunk two bottles of the "medicine."

A month ago he said the same thing. And again this morning, after having paid $20 and costs, he immediately sought to secure more of the joyous liquid. However, Chief Lannin forbade the sale. He has cautioned druggists to protect themselves in the sale of this fluid. One sample recently analyzed showed 23 per cent of proof spirits, it is said.

A DIRECT SAVING
— TO —
Motor Truck Owners
We Are Pleased to Announce that
LOWER PRICES
— ON —
DUNLOP SOLID MOTOR TRUCK TIRES
became effective simultaneously with the reduction on Dunlop Pneumatic Automobile Tires, June 2nd, 1919

¶ This action on our part is in line with the Dunlop policy to give motor truck owners the immediate benefit whenever we can see our way clear to lower prices and still maintain the high standard of Dunlop Tire quality.

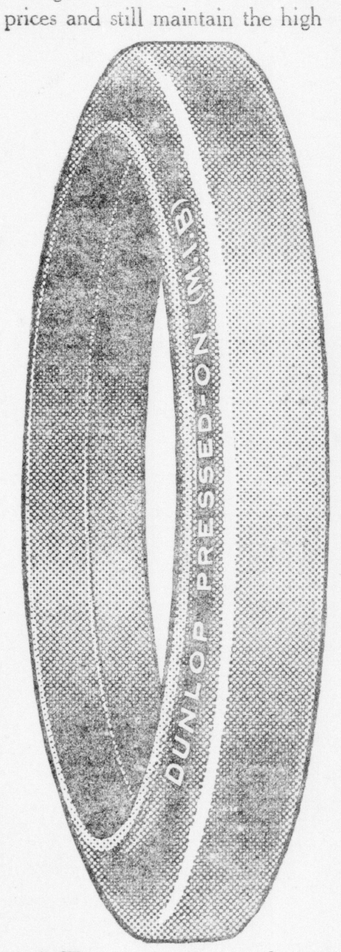

¶ You will see upon an examination of the new list, one of which we shall be glad to forward on request, that the decrease in prices is very substantial indeed. In fact, it represents an average reduction of approximately twenty per cent., so that you can figure out exactly just what this will mean to you as a direct saving in dollars and cents.

¶ With Dunlop Motor Truck Tires to-day you benefit in a measure heretofore unknown. Firstly, there is the lower initial cost; Secondly, there is the low upkeep cost; Thirdly, there is the lengthened Motor Truck life, due to the large volume of rubber in the tires, providing the proper cushion; and, Fourthly, the good service Dunlop Tires render lessens the possibility of tie-ups on account of tire trouble.

¶ The tires that were most popular under the terrific strain of war service were the English Dunlop. These tires transported by far the greatest tonnage borne by any individual make in the war zone.

¶ Canadian Dunlop Motor Truck Tires, which are available to you, are identically the same in formulae and construction as the Master Product manufactured by the English Dunlop Company.

¶ The Motor Truck owner who invests in Dunlop Tires—whether Pressed-on or Quick Removable—is assured of not only a fair return for his money, but matchless service under every condition of load and road.

¶ If you are a user of one or more Trucks equipped with Pneumatic Tires, you, of course, benefit from the general reduction made on Dunlop Pneumatic Tires as announced in the daily press of June 2nd.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

How You May Remedy What Is Often Called Red Face

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG, A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University).

DR. HIRSHBERG

It is not always due to the use of intoxicating liquids that the face acquires a peculiar red color. Sometimes a teetotaller may be afflicted by the possession of a complexion which is disfiguring and ugly. This may be due to poor circulation of the scarlet stream, to poor digestion or both. The ugly flush, moreover, may not be evenly distributed over the entire face, but may be evidenced upon the countenance by blotches—as on the nose, cheeks or chin.

When you suffer from such an objectionable complexion, it is always well to seek the advice of some competent physician to set aright the workings of the internal structures. Sometimes, however, external lotions help considerably to cure the facial blemishes.

The following mixture well prepared has often been advised for the purpose of liberating the face from redness or red blotches: Mix a half-pint of distilled water and one dram of iodide of potassium. When these two ingredients have become thoroughly blended, add an ounce of glycerine. Rub this mixture over the face morning and night with a bit of soft linen, and watch the effects very carefully. When applied, it may, for a time cause the skin to become chapped. If you find this to be true, discontinue the application for a time, and after a period, when the skin has become healed, apply the lotion again cautiously.

There is another preparation which may be of great value for removing redness on the face, nose or any other facial area. This is made of fifteen grains of tannic acid dissolved in five ounces of camphor water. Apply this mixture to the affected area several times a day, and see that the lotion dries into the pores upon each application. You must watch the effects of this lotion carefully in order that too much dryness of the skin may not be caused by it. If, in case the skin becomes too dry as a result of its use, discontinue it for a time and renew it again after the skin has been given a chance to recover.

The following lotion acts upon the skin only, and not, as the former two upon the skin and blood vessels also. This is a surface bleach, and consists of two ounces of lactic acid, one ounce of glycerine and half an ounce of rosewater. It is applied in the same way as the first two lotions.

If you find that you have not been successful with any of these preparations, and you have to resort to the use of a mercurial lotion, apply it with much discrimination, and only on the advice of your physician. This, moreover, may not be used if you suffer from an eruption upon your face. It is the strongest of bleaches made and consists of ten grains of corrosive sublimate crystals dissolved in half a pint of rose and distilled waters. You, yourself, should not undertake to make this preparation because it is exceedingly dangerous to apply it if it does not contain the ingredients in absolutely correct proportion and well combined. It is best handled by a skilled chemist.

Use this liquid on a soft white cloth and wipe the face with it morning and night. Under no circumstances leave the solution in the presence of children or irresponsibles, because if taken internally it is a deadly poison.

Answers to Health Questions

A. A. M. Q—How can I gain weight?

A—Your weight may be increased by 10 to 12 hours' sleep in a well ventilated room, by eating sugars, starches, butter, puddings, fatty meats, rich soups and gravies. You must drinks lots of water and milk. Take but little exercise, be in the open air and sunlight just as much as possible, and keep the intestines open and active.

E. E. Q. A—If you will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your query repeated I will be glad to answer your questions.

Dr. Hirshberg will answer questions for readers of this paper on medical, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. He cannot always undertake to proscribe or offer advice for individual cases. Where the subject is not of general interest letters will be answered personally, if a stamped and addressed envelope is inclosed. Address ALL INQUIRIES to Dr. L. K. Hirshberg, in care of this office.

MY HEART AND MY HUSBAND
ADELE GARRISON'S NEW PHASE OF
REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

Why Has Mrs. Stockbridge Come To Lunch With the Teachers?

Bess Dean opened the door of my classroom, laid a pencil upon the blackboard ledge with the air of returning something she had borrowed, and quietly withdrew to the corridor again.

I knew at once that either she or some other teacher wished to speak to me in the hall. It was a signal used by the teachers of the Bayview school in sending messages to each other unnoticed by the pupils. I was familiar with similar devices among teachers of other schools, and had early been initiated into the Bayview system, which contained a number of other signals, the most used one being the request for the loan of a blotter, which was sent rapidly from one room to another, when superintendents or other official visitors appeared upon the scene.

The Message.

I gave her the slightest casual nod of the head, went on with the particular point I was clinching as if there was nothing else on my mind. Then, asking my pupils to copy certain outlines from the blackboard, I slipped out of the room to find Miss Dean impatiently waiting by the head of the stairs.

"Alice wants me to tell you that little Milly is in Kenny's office, and intends to join us at lunch," she said hurriedly.

My face must have shown my consternation, for Miss Dean gave a little short laugh.

"Pleasant prospect, isn't it?" she asked. "But I don't think she's in a dangerous mood today. She's smiling like a cat with one paw in the cream jug. She's even calling me 'Bessie dear,' sure sign that everything is serene. Usually, she eyes me with about the warmth of a well-brought-up cobra, and addresses me as "Miss—er—Dean.' She hasn't any use for me, you know."

There was a touch of consciousness in the droop of her eyes, running through the carelessness of her words and a tiny self-satisfied smirk at the corners of her mouth which gave me an instant's revelation of her meaning.

She intended me to infer that she was the object of Mrs. Stockbridge's jealousy.

I said cynically to myself that it was a distinction to which she was quite welcome, even as I smiled non-committally, made a swift practical calculation.

"If she stays for lunch with us, we ought to get in something extra in her honor," I suggested.

"Sure, that's what Alice thought," Miss Dean rejoined. "You'll be off duty in another half hour for a few minutes, won't you? Alice thought perhaps you wouldn't mind telephoning for ice cream for the crowd. Of course, we'll all chip in."

"I will attend to it," I replied laconically, with a swift dismayed recollection that the telephone was in Mr. Stockbridge's office, where no doubt his wife was sitting.

"Milly's brought a bully chicken salad and a cake along with her," Miss Dean volunteered. "Whatever her other faults, she's one of the best cooks in town. My mouth is watering now at the thought of her goodies. Of course, you can't be expected to gloat that way, for you live at home, but if you boarded!"

"How Kind—"

Her voice and face hinted at culinary horrors untold, as she turned and went down the stairway, leaving me to gather myself together in order to face this unexpected dilemma, that of meeting cordially over the teacups a woman whose jealousy of me had led her to an actual attempt upon my life.

Of what was Kenneth Stockbridge thinking, to allow her to do such a thing? I asked the question of myself angrily, received the answer to it unexpectedly, when a little later I went down to the principal's office to telephone for the ice cream.

Milly Stockbridge was sitting in her husband's accustomed chair, swinging one foot and appearing exceedingly well satisfied with herself and all the rest of the world. Mr. Stockbridge was nowhere to be seen, and one of the older teachers, a woman who had been in the school as long as Alice Holcombe herself, looked up at me a bit uneasily as I entered. Milly Stockbridge's eccentricities of temper were so well known that even those who were not in the secret of her insane jealousy were generally a bit nervous when in her presence.

"Oh, Mrs. Graham, how do you do?" Mrs. Stockbridge rose to meet me, greeted me effusively. "I'm having such a lark. Kenneth telephoned me that he had been called away unexpectedly to another village—some accident to a principal friend of his—and wouldn't be home to lunch, so as I had an extra big salad and a cake all ready for lunch I thought I'd just bring them over and surprise you girls."

"How kind of you!" I said with as much enthusiasm as I could muster, for with the knowledge that her visit to us was without her husband's knowledge, I could not help but wonder just what particular mischief was brewing in her brain.

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, JUNE 24.

The powerful planetary forces operating on this day should bring forth important and unusual events, with affairs moving in channels out of the ordinary. The unplanned or unthought of may appear, with possibility of some unsought public recognition. This popularity may accrue to financial advancement, and all professional or commercial transactions are under good financial auspices. Fortunate changes and travel are imminent. In the realm of the domestic, social or affectional, however, conditions are not so happily ruled by the stellar forces, as Venus is under an affliction forewarning women to be particularly discreet.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a fortunate year in business, with travel and change. A child born on this day will be industrious, clever, inventive, original, adventurous, and may make a public name for itself.

PETER GOES TO THE SWIMMING.

How the Snow Shoe Rabbits laughed and how Jimmie Coon and Peter Rabbit and Teddy Possum laughed to see Mr. Fox go slinking home.

Peter Rabbit didn't laugh for some time, however, for he was so scared that he had to be dragged out of Mr. Porcupine's house by main force.

Mr. Red Fox didn't come around for two or three days and in the mean time the days passed very pleasantly for the little guests.

The Snow Shoe Rabbits tried to teach Peter Rabbit not to be afraid of water, for they gave up trying to teach him to dance.

"Well," said that smart Jimmie Coon, "Something more simple than dancing suits little Peter. He really is not fit for high society." You would have laughed if you could have seen Jimmie Coon say this. He looked so proud and poor little Peter looked mortified to death.

They were fond of dancing on their hind legs.

All the Snow Shoe Rabbits laughed out loud and poked each other for they were fond of dancing on their hind legs, but Jimmie Coon wasn't much more of a success at this kind of dancing than little Peter.

One day it rained hard and Peter was made to go walking. You know how your cat walks in the rain? Well, that is just the way little Peter walked; stepping high and shaking each foot. He was afraid to have a single drop of water touch his feet. It was a funny sight, and how all those rabbits laughed.

Uncle Snow Shoe said, "Now Peter we can all swim and we are going to teach you and for the first time you can go and see how we do it."

Peter would much rather have stayed at the Rabbit house, but no, indeed, off they went and Peter was dragged by the left ear by one of his cousins. Soon they came to the pond.

Uncle Snow Shoe sat on the bank and all the Snow Shoe boys plunged through the thin ice and swam across.

Then they looked around for little Peter, but he was not to be seen. Nobody could find him and he never turned up till they reached home.

"Why did you run away, Peter?" asked Uncle Snow Shoe. "I saw it all," said Peter, "and I was so hungry that I came home for a little lunch of willow shoots." Uncle Snow Shoe was very fond of little Peter, and he said kindly, "well don't let any of you call little Peter stupid. I don't know, it seems to me that he is smart enough to take care of himself. He got away from Mr. Red Fox. He doesn't like him. He got away from the water, because he doesn't like that."

Tomorrow—Mr. Red Fox Tries Again to Catch Peter.

MARION DAVIES IN CLEVER PHOTOPLAY SHOWING AT GRAND

Summer Season of Screen Attractions Opens Today.

In a role that is entirely different from anything she has ever done and offering splendid opportunities for a display of that versatility which she so cleverly demonstrated in her recent picture, "The Belle of New York," lovely Marion Davies comes to the screen of the Grand today, Tuesday and Wednesday, daily at 2:15, 7 and 9 (standard time), in her latest Select Picture, "The Burden of Proof," a down-to-the-minute story of romance, intrigue and international politics.

Miss Davies's role in "The Burden of Proof" is that of a young bride, who is cleverly tricked into betraying her country to a band of German plotters. It is a play of unusual situations, combining a story of the treachery of the German secret service office with one of the most beautiful love stories ever shown on the screen.

It would be difficult to obtain a play better suited to display the versatility and charm of Miss Davies, who has truly been spoken of as the most beautiful girl on the stage or screen. For two years before her debut in pictures, Miss Davies was the leading musical comedy favorite of New York. Her exquisite daintiness and popular charm soon attracted the attention of motion picture magnates, and after much persuasion, the lovely Miss Davies consented to abandon her stage work for a career on the screen.

Johnston Brothers and Johnston, Vaudeville Feature.

The vaudeville feature today, Tuesday and Wednesday will be Johnston Brothers and Johnston, a trio of singers, dancers and comedians who offer a miniature minstrel performance. The number is replete with excellent singing, good dancing and clean comedy, that has the added advantage of being up-to-date in every particular. It is a splendid entertaining number that will furnish the proverbial laugh a second.

Other features on the bill will be a splendid comedy, an interesting news weekly and special music by the Grand Orchestra.

MYSTERY PLAY AND AIRPLANE PICTURES AT MAJESTIC TODAY

Herbert Watrous Will Sing "The Armourer's Song" From "Robin Hood."

Rex Beach's latest contribution to screen sensations is "The Crimson Gardenia," showing at the Majestic Theatre today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The striking title is derived in a manner equally striking. A single gardenia worn on the black domino of a participant in the New Orleans Mardi Gras becomes crimsoned with the man's blood when he is stabbed.

Back of this action are the machinations of a band of counterfeiters. They believe they have been betrayed and murder their former confederate, the wearer of the gardenia. This example of lawlessness brings about strange complications in the lives of many people. Chief of these are Roland Van Dam (Owen Moore), a sightseer mingling with the carnival crowds, and Madelon Dorette (Hedda Nova), a girl searching for her cousin—the very man who was murdered.

The counterfeiters believe that Roland is a secret service agent and cause Madelon to believe that he killed her cousin. Her love turns to hate and she exerts herself to place him in the power of the criminals. With everything against him and death inevitable, Roland Van Dam extricates himself in a way that places Rex Beach among the master story tellers.

In addition to this great screen sensation, a special film showing London scenes taken from an airplane will be presented.

A Harold Lloyd comedy will complete the screen program.

In vaudeville Herbert Watrous, the Metropolitan Opera star, will sing as a special number, "The Armourer's Song," from "Robin Hood."

ST. JOHN AMBULANCE OVERSEAS BRIGADE ATTENDS ST. ANDREW'S

The St. John Ambulance Brigade Overseas attended St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in a body last night with Mrs. J. B. McKillop, lady commissioner for this district, at their head. The service was adapted for them, the Rev. D. G. MacGregor preaching on Christ's life as it was devoted to helping others and healing them in their sickness.

He likened the work of the order to that of Christ, pointing out that before Christianity began, there were no institutions for the amelioration of the suffering.

"The Order of St. John of Jerusalem dates back to the eleventh century, and it was the beginning of the St. John Ambulance Association," he declared. "Out of it has grown the modern Red Cross Association."

"This organization teaches men how to serve others, and is therefore a Christian order. Its members go about rendering first-aid to the injured, just as Jesus did in Jerusalem," he said.

Before closing, he mentioned the splendid work of the order during the war, 400 of its men assisting in the Canadian Army Medical Corps and very many V. A. D. nurses.
