New York, Boston and Washington Cut Off-The Railroads Badly Handicapped.

New York, Nov. 14, - Communication with the west, after having been hold an inquest. The body is that of cut off for many hours by Sunday's storm, was re-established soon after clock this morning by the Associated Press. This was accomplished through a telephone wire between Baltimore and Chicago. Morse telegraph instruments displaced the telephonic devices, and restricted service was at once begun. It developed that Washington had been in almost constant communication with the west during the night, and the new sent by the Associated Press from its New York office to Boston, thence by way of Portland, Me., and the Canadian Pacific telegraph lines, to Chicago and the west, was relaved back to ints east of Chicago, as far as Wash-

On the Erie line, over which many circuits to Chicago are operated, 100 poles were knocked down near Port Jervis, N. Y. No wires were left south of Baltimore nor between Philadelphia and Harrisburg. Much trouble also exists south of Washington, where the city several inches of snow fell. The storm began at 11 o'clock a.m., with a drizzling rain, which soon turned into heavy wet snow. Owing to th width of the storm's path, much delay to railway traffic is anticipated, as the telegraph largely controls the

The engineer of a ballast train, WET SNOW WRECKS THE WIRES following close after a freight, saw the body of a man lying between the tracks. The engine was reversed, and the brakes applied, but eight cars passed over the bedy. A suspicion is held by the police that the man was robbed and thrown upon the track, for nothing was to be found in his pockets. Another theory is that he fell from the freight that preceded the ballast train. The body was brought to Galt, and Coroners Vardon and Radford will

St. Thomas, Nov. 13. - Numerous burglaries have been committed in the city lately, and many reports have been sent to the police of a man with dark lantern holding up people and being seen prowling around back alleys and lanes. The descriptions all agree with that of a man who gives the name of Alvin Gilroy, arrested in an alley at 2 o'clock Saturday morning. He had a dark lantern, a bunch of keys, and a wrench stolen from Norsworthy & Co.'s foundry. The same night Gilroy was seen trying to pull up the grating in front of Moylan & Moylan's store, shortly before his arrest. Norsworthy & Co.'s foundry, McManus wood and coal office, and the Central Methodist Church, were all entered the same night, and Gilroy is believed to have committed the burglaries. Brampton, Nov. 12.-The calling of a convention of the Liberals of Ontario s received with great satisfaction in the county of Peel. The old issues upon which the parties divided in the past have disappeared, and it is believed that the platform of the Liberal party in provincial affairs should be clearly defined. The Liberals of Peel have an unswerving loyalty to Hon. George W. Ross, who, they believe, should be intrusted with the management of the affairs of the Province for another parliamentary term. This county has been in the Liberal column for 32 years without a break, though the majorities have never been large, and sometimes below 100. It is felt that under the leadership of Hon. George W. NO AMERICA CUP RACE NEXT YEAR

Sir Thomas Lipton Will Not Challenge for 1905—Too Late Now, He Says.

New York, Nov. 13.-There will be no race for the America's Cup next year unless at the last moment some other aspirant for international honors heals bruises, takes the fire from burns, than Sir Thomas Lipton steps into the breach. A letter from Sir Thomas received yesterday said that it was too late now to arrange a race for next year. Lipton had hoped to get George L. Watson to design a challenger for him. Sir Thomas in his letter says that there is plenty of time to arrange things for 1906, and he will weigh maters carefully and look for another designer. Sir Thomas is still wondering about the new rule, and perhaps the little folks. after another season of trial the New York Yacht Club may be disposed to arrange a race under the rule, which has now become a national one. The news that Sir Thomas will not challenge this year will be pleasing to members of the New York Yacht Club and to yachtsmen generally. An international race spoils the racing in the regular classes, and everything is given up for the big event. There has been some talk of Kenneth Clark challenging, but that gentleman is in the same position now as Sir Thomas. Watson was to have designed a boat for Mr. Clark under the new rule if a race could have been arranged. It seems to be the opinion that Alfred Mylne will be the next man to very successful with the boats he has built. It is not at all unlikely that Sir Thomas will have a big boat built from designs by Mylne for racing in home waters next season, and if that boat is a success Mylne will design the next challenger.

Outbreaks by the Reservists Partly Due to Vodka-Minister of the Interior Promises Reforms.

London, Nov. 12.-A distinct change as taken place in English public opinion during the past week, and it is hange for the better. The dangerous anger aroused by distrust, both of its own and the Russian Government, has given place to the creditable calm with which the first news of the North Sea L

The effects of the war are being severely felt by the poorer classes. Factory after factory has been shut down and the railway vstem is so disturbed that vans an rucks, centaining over a million tons grain, are blocked and will remain se ll spring, until which time the cultiators will be deprived of the price of their produce. But most important of all is the misery of the reservists who have been called out for an opular war, and the consequent dis turbances which were referred to in this morning's cable dispatches. This has given fresh impetus to the talk of a rerolution. A St. Petersburg correspondent deals with this subject in a letter received today, in which he says: "Russia's obilization machinery is once again noving so slowly that for considerable periods it is absolutely at a standstill. London, Monday, November 14.

An Insult to Liberals. Our local contemporary reproduces approvingly the impudent assertion of the Mail and Empire that honorable men will wash their hands of the forthcoming Liberal convention.

Many things are said on both sides in the heat and turmoil of an election which are not in good taste and temper: but there is no excuse for the language of the Mail and the Fre Press. It is partisanship run mad.

The idea of summoning a convention meets with hearty approval in all parts of the Province, and the indications are that the gathering will be large and thoroughly representative of the party. The enemies of the Government might at least wait until they know something of its personnel before coolly stigmatizing it as a band of then be free to portray them as it portrayed the delegates to the Liberal convention in 1883. According to the Mail they were "looking for whisky and cigars" and appeared to be "in need of a bath." No doubt the Free Press copied this gleefully at the time. though with its facility for inventing producing them. The delegates chosen Liberal Association of this city will, we venture to say, be reputable and representative citizens, perhaps just as honorable in all the relations of life as those to be chosen by our Conservative friends for their own

The conduct of the Mail and Free Press is not more indecent than it is stupid and senseless. Even from the lowest standpoint, what is to be gained by such tactics? The names of the Liberal delegates will be given to the acter for itself. The proceedings of the convention will be also an open book upon which we may be sure the fierce light of the Tory press will beat.

While there are probably only two Conservative journals in the Province a Liberal convention an assembly of blacklegs, yet these methods are a part and parcel of the campaign of calumny waged by Conservative leaders and newspapers without exception. They have resorted to unscrupulous means to impugn the per-Government, but they will not find it so easy to draw up an indictment against the entire Liberal party, bespatter the hundreds of conscientious Liberals who will foregather at Toronto, and who, we venture to say, will show by their deliberations that they stand for high political ideals and have faith in their party and in their leaders as the instruments of good government.

Mr. Whitney's Belated Activity Frightened by the enthusiasm aroused by the plan of a Liberal convention, and by the aggressive spirit of the Government, Mr. Whitney has resolved to copy the methods of the

The movement does not come with the best of grace on Mr. Whitney's part. He has refused all along to listen to the counsel of his friends who for years past have advised a representative convention of the party. He is still obstinate, but he finds his hand forced by the enlightened course of the Government, and has consented to a conference which will be something of a farce unless he gives it a more representative and authoritative char-

Mr. Whitney merely invites the public to a gathering in Toronto to talk over the situation. Such an assembly could be convoked in Toronto at a day's notice. There is no guarantee that the outside ridings will be adequately represented or represented at all. The Liberal plan gives a fair and equal representation to all the constituencies. 20 delegates being apportioned to each. Under Mr. Whitney's scheme the conference may be swamped, and probably will be by Toronto men, as there is no limit to the number that city may contribute and no system of choosing delegates. Such a gathering will have no authordorsed by it will have no effect binding upon the leaders of the Opposition. The cloud of discussion may only darken counsel, and it will not be condensed into a set of principles, or a programme or policy, which the party is morally bound to accept. The Liberal convention, on the other hand, will be in a position to construct a platform or a declaration of principles can take liberties of that sort that are which the leaders of the party must not allowed to the rest of us. accept and abide by.

Mr. Whitney's highfalutin proclamation is characteristic of the man and his methods-a string of abuse and vituperation. Aside from its objurgations there is not much in it that calls for comment. The plea for "clean, honest, decent government" is one to which the Liberal party and all good citizens subscribe; but decent government does not depend upon the success of the Conservative party. "Legislation should be had to facilitate the acquirement by municipalities, on proper and reasonable terms. of all public utilities, and also to provide machinery for the prompt settlement of disputes between capital and labor.

Well, both of these objects are proided for by legislation. The Conmec act was not challenged by the Opposition, and its repeal would open the door to the virtual confiscation of private property. The labor bureau has been a distinct success.

"At the last session of the Legislature the Opposition proposed that Temiskaming Railway, structed and owned by the Government, should be operated by the Province for a term of years. This opportunity for a practical test of Government operation of railways was voted down by the Government.

The Opposition did nothing for govnment ownership when the Temiscontrary it sought to political reprobates. The Mail will place petty obstructions in the way of legislation. The Government will operate the road or lease it according to the plan which promises the best returns for the money laid out by the Province. The Government wisely appointed a commission to take evidence on the question of railway axation before blindly taking a step which might have had the effect of raising railway rates throughout the Province. The report of that com- ings. mission will enable the Legislature to move more intelligently in the matter. The same Mr. Whitney, who poses as a champion of railway taxation, went up and down the county in 1902 de- man? nouncing the new taxes on banks, breweries and other corporations. If the leader of the Opposition has nothing more to offer the Province than he outlines in his proclamation there is not much use in calling together a conference which is not to be allowed to furnish a policy for him.

As usual Mr. Whitney falls in behind the Liberal party.

TOKIO FEARS

Stoessel's Intention to Fight to the Last May Cause Butchery at Port Arthur,

Che Foo, Nov. 12.-If negotiations really were in progress between Generals Stoessel and Nogi for the surrender of Port Arthur they were futile, and the Japanese have begun their attack on the fortress with renewed vigor. The siege guns and mortars are shelling the positions still held by the Russians more vigorously than ever and the Japanese sappers and miners are driving their mines under the very walls of the fort. Up to this time, tack, but the news from Port Arthur assault on the Epze-Shan positions is expected tomorrow.

Nogi now has nearly two full divisions in position against Epze-Shan. and his troops so threaten the Russian positions on the east that it is to spart more than 1,500 to 2,000 men to resist the attack. The belief here is that tomorrow's assault will be successful and will leave the Japanese in a position where the whole inner circle of forts will have to be abandoned.

Tokio, Nov. 12. - Instructions have een sent to General Nogi, in front of Port Arthur, to use all possible means to restrain his men when his final assault on the Russian fortress has been successful. DON'T SHOOT THE OWLS

They Will Help to Keep the Mice From Your Fruit Trees.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.-The fruit division Ottawa, issues the following warning: "Last winter thousands of fruit trees were girdled and killed by mice, and the same thing will doubtless happen again the coming winter unless orchard-keepers take precautions to prevent it. Mice are not usually very troublesome in orchards where clear cultivation is practiced, and rubbish is not allowed to accumulate as a shelter for them, but the orchardist will find it necessary to find some sort of protection if he wishes to be fairly sure of bringing his young trees safely Waterloo, through the winter."

The fruit division also points out that the plague of mice is largely due to the common practice of destroying every owl and hawk that can possibly be shot or trapped. It is the greatest mistake to do this. All varieties of owls and hawks are great mousers; indeed mice constitute the chief item

"I leave it all to you."

"Like the cabman," retorts Alice, most cheerfully, as if no amount of indifference on Paula's part shall move her to anger or impatience. "I only when I hope you won't turn upon me, when I take you at your word, as they always do. Hem—ivory, I think, goes beautifully with satin. Fancy fifty buttons, each a work of art, and carved by an artist, a real artist! Have you examined them carefully, dear?" 'Yes-no. I don't know. I think so," says Paula, indifferently. Alice shrugs her shoulders with a gesture of silent pity and contempt. "They'll do for something more than be birdle-dress," she says, "You can the birdle-dress," she says. "You can wear them at one of your swell dinner-parties at the Court. Old Mr. Palmer says that he means to see plenty of company when you come back. Alice laughs. "That's a pretty sentiment to come from your proud lips. No, my dear, one must not trespass upon the dear old man's generosity too far. I am going to wear just what May does, and really I think, Paula, you will have no cause to blush for your bridemaids."

"Blush!" says the cold low voice from the window. "I am sure I shall not. I do not think I can. I have forgotten how it is done."

'Then you have acquired the great art of the day," says Alice, cheerfully. "But that's nonsense, my dear! For you blush red enough to make the rubies look like snow! What are you staring at? I should think you must be sick and tired of that sea; you spend almost all your time gazing at it." "No," says Paula. "Quite the contrary. I like the sea; it is such an emolem of our sex, so unreliable, so fickle-ah!" She stops suddenly, and Alice drops the particular article of finery she is inspecting, and goes to

"What's the matter? What is it?"
