CORNELL—DANCY

At the residence of the bride's parents, Glen Elbo, on Wednesday, 13th inst., at 12 o'clock, Miss Grace Gardiner Cornell, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Cornell, was united in marriage to Mr. Joseph Dancy of Elgin, Rev. S. J. Hughes of Athens officiating. The bride was given away by her father and the ceremony took place under an arch of evergreens and flowers. The house was tastefully decorated for the occasion with evergreens, ferns and flowers. The bride was assisted by Miss Nellie Dancy of Addison, and Mr. Joseph Cornell of Lyn attended the groom. The bride was attired in white Sicilian, trimmed with white silk accordion plaited chiffon, and carried a large bouquet of white asters and maiden-hair ferns. Miss Ella Hollingsworth, tastefully dressed in white, made a very pretty ring-bearer. Only the immediate relatives and a few personal friends were present.

At four o'clock the young couple, amid showers of rice, left for a week's visit with relatives at Lyn, Ogdensburg and Syracuse, and on their return will reside at the groom's parents near Elgin. The presents received include a fine lot of silverware.

The bride is the third grand child of Mrs. Richard Gardiner of Lyn that has entered hymen's bonds recently, the others being Miss Ena Gardiner of Yonge Front, who was married in June last to Mr. Robert Miller, and Mr. John H. Gardiner of Lyn to Miss Mabel Brown on the 6th inst.

Permanent Muscular Strength

There is this to be borne in mind in these days when so many young men are giving so much attention to physical development, in gymnastic and athletic exercises, that there cannot be permanent muscular strength where there is not blood strength. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives blood strength, promotes digestion and assimilation, and builds up the whole system.

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL

Many in this county have reason to speak with grateful hearts the name "St. Vincent de Paul," but few have knowledge of the great and good man whose memory it perpetuates. In writing to the St. James Gazette of the anniversary of his birth (July 19) a correspondent said: "Thousands of Parisians have reason to be grateful to the man that bore that name, for Vincent de Paul, who lived in Paris in the days of our King James I., was like that monarch in his peculiarity of doing none but wise things, though he differed from him in the fact that he but rarely said a foolish one. Saint Vincent de Paul was the first Frenchman to establish a foundling home in Paris, and his work among the convicts at the galleys, which has been perpetuated by the famous picture by the painter Bonnat, in the church of St. Nicholas des Champs, made him the best loved Frenchman of his day. It was he, too, who founded the order of the Sisters of St. Vincent de Paul, which is more popularly known in Paris as the order of the Grey Sisters. This sisterhood devotes itself entirely to the poor, nursing the sick and tending all and sundry in their miserable homes, without thought of themselves or of remuneration. For this reason the Grey Sisters were one of the few congregations authorized to remain in France when so many others were driven out and dislocated by the Combes Bill two years ago.

BAPTIST ANNIVERSARY

The annual anniversary services in connection with the Baptist Church, Athens, were held on Sunday. The three services being record breakers, as regards attendance. The meetings were ably presided over by Rev. R. J. Garrett. Mr. Garrett's sermons were forcible and eloquent expositions of the gospel. Those present were well repaid.

The evening service was perhaps the most largely attended, every available seat being occupied. The service was in charge of the Rev. Dr. Giles of Summit, N. J., who was assisted by Revs. Beckstedt, Weeks and Garrett. Mr. Giles took his text from the 42nd Psalm, 5th verse. He compared the life of David to the people of now-ada-ways. Their troubles were the same as his, only lesser. Throughout the entire sermon, there was profound silence.

The offerings amounted to $150. The music furnished by the choir was finely rendered and very appropriate to the occasion. At the afternoon meeting Miss Culbert rendered the solo, "The Holy Holy," very sweetly. At the evening service Miss Marie Weeks, the accomplished organist, sang a beautiful solo with much sweetness.

The services were, this year, better than any yet held. The pastor, Rev. L. M. Weeks, deserves credit for the excellent success that was attained by them, as he has been indefatigable in its efforts for the welfare of the congregations under his charge.

THE MUSKOKA LAKES

This Muskoka region is steadily growing in popularity, says the correspondent of the Utica Observer. They are coming to it, with increasing numbers, from the east and from the west, from the north and from the south. There is an island in Lake Joseph on which an Englishman from beyond the sea has built himself a cottage; and so enamored are he and his family with Muskoka that season after season they abandon England and come over here for their summer holiday. Presumably their motto is not "variety is the spice of life"—more likely it runs "where you find a good thing hang on to it." But altogether Muskoka has secured a permanent place among "summer resorts," it has yet lost none of its original flavor, its fresh, primitive, untutored charm.

Emerson has sung that
 If eyes were made for seeing,
 Then beauty is its own excuse for being.

The beauty of the woods and waters of Muskoka—like that of the woods and waters of Scotland—was made to be seen and enjoyed by human eyes. So the Grand Trunk Railway System for their labors in rendering this region readily accessible to the appreciative summer tourist are public benefactors. Nature was made for man, not man for nature.

THE RABBIT'S DEADLY ENEMY.

His Terrible Panicky Fear of All the Weasel Family.

The ways of life of the weasel, or bloodsucker, are not fully understood, and the killing of these rabbits, in particular, presented most interesting problems.

How did the minks manage to catch them? In every case the rabbit was apparently run down in fair, open running. In one case in particular the mink had chased the rabbit across a celery swamp, a smooth and level as a dance hall floor.

The mink is as slow a runner as the rabbit is swift. I have seen minks run several times and their peculiar, measuring-gait takes them along about as fast as a man can run.

The rabbit cannot only go with incredible speed, but can course for hours. And yet the mink is able to run down the swift rabbit. The rabbit seems to give up the race; it would look almost as if some unknown law of nature made him the prey of minks, as if he felt that was his destiny, and did not try to escape from it.

In the cases we observed, the jumps of the rabbit grew shorter and shorter until it became a little more than a helpless hop. The marks in the snow indicated that the mink was not being dragged by the rabbit, but that the mink did not overtake his victim until the latter, for no apparent reason, had given up the race.

And yet, a fox seldom catches a rabbit, and probably never in open running. Then it would seem as if these bloodsuckers have some power of which we know nothing. As it is only one explanation can be offered why so slow-running animals as minks, or weasels, can catch as swift an animal as a rabbit.

We know the mink does not tire out the rabbit by following him leisurely, maintaining his slower gait relentlessly, never giving his victim a chance to eat, and so by the slow sure process of work and worry wearing out poor Bunny.

Child Marriages in India.

More than 250,000 girls in India five years of age or less were already married when the last census was taken and of these nearly 100,000 have become widows. Between five and ten years the number of married girls was well over 2,000,000 between ten and fifteen years it had risen to nearly 7,000,000.

Most of the boys of tender years become so before they know what widowhood means. It is only as they grow out of infancy that they learn the sad life to which they are condemned, a life of misery which is inconceivable to people of western countries yet is enforced by Hindoo customs.

Though the English law in India would recognize legality of a remarriage of these youthful widows, incurable custom forbids, and its occurrence is rare. There were in India in 1901 nearly 425,000 widows under fifteen years of age, of whom nearly 20,000 were less than five years old. -Chicago News.

Forty-Storey Hotel

(New York Times.)

Albert J. Adams, of policy fame, according to Mortimer C. Merritt, architect, is the head of a $5,000,000 syndicate which proposes erecting a hotel forty-two storeys high, between Sixth and Seventh avenues and running through from Thirty-second to Thirty-third street.

Mr. Merritt, who was the architect of H. O'Neill & Co's building, the Washington Apartments, the Mahler building, and other large structures in Manhattan, is already at work on the plans and specifications for the new hotel. He threatens that the structure will rear its head 600 feet in the air and embrace five acres, if Adams's ideas are carried out, never before attempted in the hotel world.

The plan contemplates the construction of a hotel more than twice the size of the Chatsworth, which stands at the foot of West Seventy-second street. Its room capacity will be one and one-half times greater than that of the Ansonia, the largest apartment house in the world.

It will have accommodations for 2,200 guests. There will be 500 hundred single rooms with baths. In every suite of parlor, bedroom and bath, there will be a refrigerator, which will supply its own fridgidity, after the fashion of cooling rooms in breweries. There will be faucets in all bedrooms which will run ice water. Steam heat, electric light, and hot and cold water will be everywhere.

The forty-second floor will comprise a dining and a ball room. A roof garden will be a feature in warm weather. It is proposed to give to the hotel a Turkish bath establishment, with a swimming pool 75 feet long and 25 feet wide.

"I have not the slightest idea who is interested in the enterprise with Mr. Adams," said Mr. Merritt yesterday afternoon. "I have been employed by him in my professional capacity for fifteen years, and he is the only man with whom I have had any dealings in this hotel undertaking. I understand that he has associates, but I have never heard their names. He owns 125 feet of frontage on West Thirty-second street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues, and beginning 175 feet of Seventh avenue, which runs through a Thirty-third street, a distance of 200 feet. I have been told that adjacent holdings have been bought, increasing the frontage, but I have no definite advice upon this point."

The architect entertains not the slightest doubt as to the practicability of a 42-storey building. He indicated that the best of rock foundations can be had at a depth of 30 feet, and there can be no question as to solidity. When a skyscraper is erected, however, an element of expenditure and return enters in. There are structural problems to be overcome which make a fortieth floor cost more than a fourth floor.

Mr. Merritt said that Mr. Adams was desirous of erecting a hotel 50 storeys high, but that he had discouraged such an undertaking. So far as he is concerned, he believes that the nearer 40 storeys the hotel is built the more paying investment it will prove.

The reason for the hotel, said Mr. Merritt, "is furnished by the Pennsylvania Railroad station. This station will be completed in approximately two years, and it is planned to finish the hotel for the accommodation of those who reach New York over the Pennsylvania system."

"An using all possible diligence in completing the working plans. There are many studies of the problem involved, but it will not be more than 60 days before everything will be worked out."

"So far as I know, the Times building and the Park Row building are now the tallest in the world. The hotel uses which I am engaged will be more than 155 feet higher, from cellar to turret, than either of them. There will be nothing like it on earth. Personally, I am not in favor of a building so lofty, but Mr. Adams seems to have made up his mind that the hotel must be more than 40 storeys in height. I will do my part."

The idea is to make the new hotel the half-way house between the Pennsylvania station, which will extend from Thirty-first to Thirty-fourth streets between Seventh and Tenth avenues, and the Grand Central Station. Neither railroad is interested in the enterprise.

Adams was not to be found yesterday. Business associates said he was thoroughly in earnest in his undertaking, and that he was prepared, if necessary, to put his entire fortune in it. Since his release from Sing Sing, where he received a sentence for operating the roller shop, which cost him $100,000, he has been a large purchaser of real estate. He invaded Wall Street disastrously, if rumor may be believed, and sold his holdings at a loss of $1,000,000.

The friends who spoke for Adams say he has not only commissioned Architect Merritt to draw up the plans and specifications for the hotel building, but has, through his agents, begun negotiations for a manager, and gone into calculations as to the mammoth hotel's furnishings.

All of the goods in the hotel, so the men who assume to speak for Adams, will be of brass. The furnishings will be of mahogany. The attendants in the Turkish baths will be imported from the Hammam, in Paris, and the Khedivial baths, in Cairo.

They made this couple happy. Dodd's Kidney Pills Doing Good Work Around Port Arthur.

Mr. Dick Souvey and Wife Both Had Kidney Troubles and the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy Cured Them.

Port Arthur, Ont., Sept. 18.—(Special)—That Dodd's Kidney Pills cure the Kidney ills of men and women alike has been proved time and again in this neighborhood, but it is only occasionally they get a chance to do so.

They were in the same house. This happened in the case of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Souvey, a farmer and his wife, living about seven miles from here. In an interview Mr. Souvey said:

"My wife and myself, have used Dodd's Kidney Pills and they have done us a great benefit to our health. We had a Grippe two winters and were exposed to much frost and cold. Our sleep was broken on account of urinary troubles and pain in the kidneys. We each took six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and now enjoy good health."

London Street Singers. The London public has generously decided to dignify the noisier type of professional musician by the title of "singer" and still more generously has decided to put up with their raucous and even to pay them moneys for delivering them. We are glad to see that this is not the case in Glasgow; the inhabitants of that city have just risen in protest against an individual who gathered in the following stanza: "The scene it was a peaceful one, the children at play, The larks above with songs of love, Joined in the harmony. The fowl assassin then appeared, And stopped the joyous fun, And in another moment He his hellish work was done."

The lines, we believe, were topical, and referred to a tragedy that had taken place in the town. Twenty-one days' imprisonment was what the singer received, and nobody can say that it was too much. We have quoted the song in full as an instance of how the street singer turns naturally to gloom. A rollicking comic song would be less painful, but the lines are a slow, mournful ballad with plenty of breathing space in between the lines, so that he can stop and look around for coppers—in both senses of the word. A drunken man, singing the latest song with real gusto, is gathered in by the police before the end of the second bar. A professional beggar is allowed to massacre any hymn he pleases, choosing his own time.—London Globe.

Sporting Blood in Everybody. (Denver Post.) In spite of the clergy, the press, the governors and the State legislators of this large and rapidly expanding country, the great American people never voluntarily consent to endure some discomfort for the privilege of seeing a fight between fighters of class and quality. And, by the same token, the millions of people who can not be at the ringside eagerly read column after column of newspaper accounts of all the details of the fight between champions. All this may be sad, and pathetic from a moral point of view, but, nevertheless, every blessed word of it is true.

How Tunnel was Cooled. The boring of the Ox Bow tunnel in Idaho is one of the great engineering feats of the age. The Payette river at this point makes a loop and by putting a tunnel through 1,200 feet the river bed is left high and dry for two and a quarter miles. It is the intention to mine the river bed for gold. Ordinarily the cutting through of this tunnel would be a simple matter, but at 300 feet from the upper end and 250 feet from the lower end hot water was struck. The heat at first was from 95 to 105 degrees, increasing as the work progressed to 133 degrees at the hottest point. Different fans and blowers were experimented with to cool the air in the tunnel, but without success until William Flick, the superintendent of the work, thought of spraying the walls of the tunnel with water pumped from the river. Very simple pumping apparatus and common garden sprays were used with complete success. The tunnel is 28 feet wide and 9 feet high and the flow of hot water amounts to 300,000 gallons a minute. The cold water cooled the hot water and it was pumped out with common pumps.

Two Views of It. A girl in Haddon went to a baseball game and surprised her escort by her knowledge of the game. "Baseball reminds me of the house-hold-plate, the batter, the fouls and the runs." "What do you mean by that?" she asked. "First, the diamond, where they are engaged, the struggle and the hits, when they go on and finally the difficulty they have in getting home."

"OUR ENGLISH MOTHER." Japanese Tribute to a Foreign Red Cross Nurse. Mrs. Teresa Richardson, the only English nurse in the Russo-Jap war, arrived at Liverpool the other day from Japan. She was selected by the Red Cross Society to represent it in the Japanese army by reason of her wide experience in the South African military hospitals, and so highly delighted were the Japanese soldiers with her that they named her "Our English Mother."

The Mikado has conferred on her the Sixth Class of the Order of the Cross, which carries with it a knighthood.

Warning to the Ice Cream Girl. Evidently mistaking hailstones for food, ducks belonging to Samuel Hodgson, of Florence, Col., ate heartily of them yesterday and died soon afterward. When cut open the fowls were found frozen inside. The life of one of Hodgson's ducks was saved by pouring hot water on its crew.—Oakland Enquirer.

Limit to Armies and Navies. (Pittsburg Post.) This would seem to be an excellent time for the great powers of the world to come to some agreement concerning the limitation of their military and naval expenditures. The general delight with which expressed over the conclusion of the great conflict between Japan and America was that the people of the world as never before labor war. And yet the armaments race has not been stopped. Increasingly vast sums of money are required to keep their armies and navies in the same proportion. The result would be the same for the relative strength of their armies and navies would be maintained.

SIMPLE TEST FOR OILS.

Practical Method of Determining Values of Lubricants.

Conducting the large, and in many cases, fancy prices paid for cylinder oils, it is remarkable that the practical consumer has not developed some convenient non-technical method for determining the relative value of the different oils offered for his work. A step in the right direction, however, is reported in the Journal of the Society of Chemical Industry, being the result of investigations of two English engineers. They claim that the gumming properties of a cylinder oil can readily be discovered by a simple test, consisting of the exposure of thin films of the oil to steady currents of hot air, ranging from 212 to 400 degrees Fahrenheit. It is asserted the oxidizing action of such air currents is similar to that produced by the action of steam in the engine cylinders.

Rivals at Gunnery Practice. (Boston Globe.) At the present time the vessels of the navy of the United States on duty in Asiatic waters enjoy the reputation of being the best they were in prepared trials. To-day the target practice of the North Atlantic fleet is being conducted in the most successful manner. If they can, an even greater skill in marksmanship than their rivals on the Atlantic station, the British fleet, will be shown in gunnery. This is a beautiful rivalry, and it can not give rise to any and every result. The gunners of the American navy to-day are second to none in the world, and efficient gunners may be said to be the first essential of naval superiority.

Wanted Popular Music. Walter W. Hedgecock has been appointed musical director of the Crystal Palace, in place of the late Sir Augustus Manns. He has been the organist at that place for years, and many queer experiences have served to give a touch of humor to his work. At one of his concerts a small boy climbed to the organ lot with the request that he change his programme to include "Just a Little Bit Off the Top," and at another time an admirer of his powers begged his company in a glass of beer, and was much surprised when the performer declined to interrupt the concert for the sake of the drink.

ARE YOU HAUNTED DAY AND NIGHT?—Mind and body racked and tortured by evil forebodings, gloomy and dull, robbed of that "divine restorer," sleep, appetite gone, nerves shattered, generally debilitated? Black Snow. New Yorkers are familiar enough with black snow a few days after a fall, but in the Swiss Canton of Grison, there has been a fall of black snow, which has aroused the superstitious.

A short while ago the snow-capped mountains suddenly became a jet black, and the people, who are familiar enough with the red snow produced through a parasitical vegetable growth, were moved to terror at the sight.

Several guides climbed to the snow belt and found that the surface was infested with a small insect in such numbers that the snow beneath was entirely hidden.

The insect is unprovided with wings and moved about like a grasshopper through the use of two legs much longer than the others.

Possibly a Truthful Verdict. A clergyman who had accepted an invitation to officiate at Sunday services in a neighboring town, entrusted his new curate with the performance of his own duties. On returning home he asked his wife what she thought of the curate's sermon. "It was the poorest one I ever heard," she replied, promptly—"nothing in it at all."

Later in the day the clergyman, meeting his curate, asked him how he got on. "Oh, very well," was the reply. "I didn't have time to prepare anything, so I preached one of your unadvised sermons."

Wanted Popular Music. Walter W. Hedgecock has been appointed musical director of the Crystal Palace, in place of the late Sir Augustus Manns. He has been the organist at that place for years, and many queer experiences have served to give a touch of humor to his work. At one of his concerts a small boy climbed to the organ lot with the request that he change his programme to include "Just a Little Bit Off the Top," and at another time an admirer of his powers begged his company in a glass of beer, and was much surprised when the performer declined to interrupt the concert for the sake of the drink.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was in Fort William, Ont., on Saturday last, and he turned the first sod of the Lake Superior section of the Grand Trunk Pacific with a golden shovel. We should like to know the size of that sod, and whether he keeps his tool house locked up after his day's work. Talk about the good times in Canada! Things must be fairly booming. If the Grand Trunk Pacific can furnish tools like that it will need two or three alien labor laws to keep Americans from rushing over to work on the line.

FOUR BIG ELEPHANTS JERK VAN OUT OF HOLE.

New York Mail Wagon Stuck in the Mud and the Animals Hauled it Out.

Later an Electric Car Crashed Into a Mail Wagon Hurting Driver and Policeman.

New York, Sept. 25.—But for the strength and courtesy of four huge elephants, a ton batch of mail stuck in the mud at Sixth avenue and Forty-second street would have missed its train at the Grand Central depot last night.

The trouble began when a large mail wagon, loaded to the top, swung down Sixth avenue and ventured a sharp turn at the corner where street repairs had left a soft strip of earth, turned to sticky mud by recent rains. A new driver, employed in place of a striker, was on the wagon and was accompanied by a policeman. He urged the horses into the trap and the wheels sunk to their hubs. A crowd gathered and broke three ropes in their efforts to help the horses.

Then the policeman had a happy thought. He sent a messenger to an amphitheatre, and asked for the services of the performing elephants. Four were hurried to the scene in charge of their keepers. They were harnessed to the side of the wagon and jerked it out of the mud with utmost ease, while the crowd cheered.

Early in the evening a crowded Madison avenue electric car crashed into a large mail wagon at Fifteenth street and Union Square, overturning the vehicle. The strike-breaking driver and a policeman by whom he was accompanied were thrown into the street. Both were severely injured. The motorman was arrested.

Robbed Canadian Banks.

New York, Sept. 25.—A New York State detective will sail for Germany in a few days to bring back to this country Henry F. Hardy, who, for the last thirteen years has been the inmate of German prisons.

Hardy is to be brought back to serve an unexpired term of twelve years in the Clinton prison, from which he escaped in 1890. He is declared to be one of the most clever bank thieves ever known in this country. After his escape he is alleged to have robbed two Canadian banks of $7,000, and was next heard of in Germany living the life of an "American millionaire," as he was called, at a fashionable hotel in Frankfurt-on-Main. A Baden-Baden banker recognized him as a man who had stolen from his bank cash to the amount of $24,000. He was at once imprisoned by the German authorities and his time is now expiring.

Since Hardy has learned that he would be brought back he has written letters to the State Superintendent of Prisons asking that he be allowed to remain in Germany. The authorities have refused to consider his petition.

BICYCLE RIDER'S DEATH.

J. C. Hilborn Expired Without a Warning.

Winnipeg, Man., despatch: A gasp, a call for help, a few short struggles and the life drama of J. C. Hilborn was completed last night. Hilborn had been a resident of Winnipeg for only two weeks, coming here from St. Catharines, Ont., and taking a position in the machine shop of McCullough and Boswell a week ago last Monday.

Yesterday afternoon he complained of a weakness of his heart, but little was thought of it, as he had pulled through many similar and harmless attacks. At his rooms, however, he became suddenly worse and died with scarcely a moment's notice. Heart failure is said to have been the cause of death.

Deceased was a well known bicycle rider in the city and his heart troubles are said to have been aggravated by his early athletic attainments. He was about twenty-two years of age and had been employed in the Olds automobile factory in St. Catharines before his removal to this city.

His relatives, who live in St. Catharines, were communicated with this morning as to the disposition of the remains.

ODDFELLOWS RAISE NEW BAR.

Regulation Against Membership of Liquor Dealers Made More Stringent.

Philadelphia, Sept. 25.—By a decided vote the Sovereign Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., this morning declined to in any way modify the existing laws in regard to the admittance to membership of those engaged in the liquor traffic. Not only did they decide that none should be allowed to join the order who were engaged in this business, but it was decided that no one can remain a member of the I. O. O. F. who has been engaged in this business since the first rating was made upon the subject in the 1855 convention at Atlantic City.

This means that a number of liquor men who are now members of the order will either be compelled to resign from the lodges with which they are connected or else retire from any connection with the liquor business.

The parade this afternoon was a brilliant pageant, there being 5,000 men in line. In addition to the many cantons of Patriarchs Militant, there were hundreds of subordinate lodges in line, many of them with decorated floats. A reception and military ball was held in the evening.

HIS SECRET GOT OUT.

Coming Marriage Announced by Banner Swung Across Street.

Pittsburg, Sept. 25.—A sign was swung across the street at the Continental Tube Works to-day reading:

"Notice! Mr. John Burns, assistant manager of the tube works, will be married to-day. He is a bit nervous, but that is natural, and will soon wear off. After he recovers he wants his friends to come and have luncheon with him at his new home in Keeler street. Come and see the furniture, and bring all the children and your friends."

Handbills were also scattered broadcast. Mr. Burns had planned to keep his marriage to Miss Annie Burns a secret. It proved to be everybody's secret.

FELL SIXTY-EIGHT FEET.

Miraculous Escape of Grand Forks Girl Who Falls Into Well.

Vancouver, Sept. 25.—Miraculous was the escape from death of eight-year-old Ivy Taylor, of Grand Forks. She was drawing a bucket of water from a well when she lost her balance and fell down 68 feet. Fortunately she alighted on her feet in two feet of water, below which were six inches of soft sand. Her mother, hearing her cries, rushed to get a ladder, by herself she carried one, which, under ordinary circumstances, it takes two men to lift. This she placed down the well and rescued the child, who suffered only from a few bruises.

A BATTLESHIP ON A TEAR.

The Dominion, Named After This Country, Misbehaves.

London, Sept. 25.—The Star publishes the following: The first class battleship Dominion, which was named after the Dominion of Canada, one of the King Edward VII. class, which is about to join the Atlantic fleet, broke adrift from her moorings in Portsmouth harbor yesterday and did considerable damage before being secured. The huge vessel of 15,000 tons displacement, was anchored in the stream, and owing to the strength of the tide her chain cable suddenly parted. She at once began to drift up harbor and bumped against the gunboat Ant, whose deck was swept by the battleship's boom, and everything on it smashed.

Leaving the gunboat the battleship drifted on to a private yacht, that was close by, and so completely wrecked the little craft that some ladies and gentlemen on board had to be taken off by the Dominion's boats. The great warship was at once let go. Before it could hold, however, the Dominion had drifted on the royal yacht Albert, which was lying at her moorings.

The little wooden vessel of which the Queen was so fond, was badly damaged, and her paddle-box almost reduced to splinters. Drifting clear of the yacht, the Dominion ran on a mudbank, and remained fast for four hours until she was hauled off and conveyed to a place of safety.

WHAT DUNN SAYS.

$12,000 WORTH OF FISH STOLEN DAILY BY U. S. POACHERS.

Detroit, Sept. 25.—The Canadian fisheries cruiser Vigilant stopped here for minor repairs. Before leaving Captain Dunn said the American poaching fish-tugs keep thoroughly posted as to the whereabouts of the Vigilant, and have a fine system of warning each other of the cruiser's approach. Erie, Pa. alone has a fleet of about 70 fishing tugs. The speediest of the tugs are placed at the head of the column in the direction in which the Vigilant is known to be. When the cruiser is sighted the leader starts off full speed for American waters, the second tug sees her and follows suit, and so on all along the line. It is believed that at least twelve thousand dollars' worth of fish is taken into Lake Erie ports by poachers every day from Canadian waters.

SLAUGHTER OF GERMANS.

A Column Surprised by Natives in South Africa.

London, Sept. 25.—The Cape Town correspondent of the Times cables: During General Von Trotha's sweeping movement in Herero-land the Witboois managed to evade the combined columns and got to the German rear at a spot called Daap, six hours south of Kettmanshoop, Namaqualand, and killed and wounded most of the escort, and captured 1,000 head of cattle and some wagons, with some ammunition. The commander of the escort has not since been heard of.

Morgan escorted Miss Roosevelt to the banquet hall, where they sat with the Crown Prince and the Imperial Princesses. The other members of the party were distributed at small tables, with members of the Ministry and generals of the army. The Emperor toasted the daughter of the President and Minister Morgan replied for Miss Roosevelt, wishing long life to the Emperor.

CLAIMANTS TO LANDS.

Retired Servants of Hudson Bay Company After Estate.

Prince Albert, Sask., Sept. 25.—A representative meeting of retired servants of the Hudson's Bay Co. and their descendants, who are claimants to lands in the one-tenth part of Lord Selkirk's estate of 74,555,520 acres, in the old district of Assiniboia, now the Province of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, was held here, with Rev. James Taylor in the chair. It was shown that retired servants of the company received land up to 1870, and it was decided to have a pamphlet printed for free distribution, setting forth the history of the claim and showing the quantity of land there is yet to be distributed among the retired servants.

CHINESE EXCLUSION ACT CRITICISED BY JUDGE.

Cannot See Why Chinese Should be Excluded and Other Foreigners Admitted to the States.

Will Favor the Chinese as Against the Government in this Unjust Discrimination.

Wheeling, W. Va., Sept. 25.—Yesterday in the United States Court Judge Dayton discharged from custody Yee Gee Yu, a Chinese laundryman of this city, who had been indicted for violating the Chinese Exclusion Act. It was shown that he was a merchant in Boston before coming here, and not a laborer. In giving his decision Judge Dayton, who was recently appointed to the bench after serving ten years in Congress, said:

"It was largely a question of political expediency and to meet the demand of the Western country to shut out the Chinese that the exclusion laws were passed. We might as well admit that some bad legislation gets upon the statute books enacted by Congress as well as by our State legislatures. There cannot be any question—there never was any question in my mind—about the propriety, and I always felt the necessity of passing laws restricting certain classes of foreign immigrants, but I never could understand why that restriction should be placed upon the Chinese and not upon Italians, Slavs, Hungarians, and the south of Europe labor, just as obnoxious to this country as the Chinese. And while these Chinese exclusion laws are placed upon the statute books, and our gates have been open substantially to those other classes of laborers, this court as far as it can, proposes to construe for the Chinaman and against the Government, because he thinks it is an unjust discrimination.

"I think I have said facetiously that there are two things in my Congressional career that I was ashamed of. One of them was voting for the Oleomargarine bill and the other was voting for this Chinese exclusion law."

LIVELY TALK AT LABOR CONGRESS.

Delegates Protest Against Visit to a Brewery.

Close Balloting Respecting the St. Catharines Fight.

Prevention of the Spread of Consumption.

Toronto despatch: The discussions at the Trades and Labor Congress yesterday were marked by more life than any on the previous days. The afternoon session, which lasted two hours, was particularly animated. Incidentally protests were uttered against the arrangement made by the Reception Committee for the delegates to visit one of the breweries. It was thought beneath the dignity of a Labor Parliament to spend its time at a brewery.

A resolution anent the disability of the letter-carriers, who are debarred from receiving pay in case of sickness or accident, called out a strong protest from Secretary Draper, who is one of the forceful speakers of the Congress. He was not going to vote against the resolution, he said, but the last time the question had been up the Postmaster-General had faced it squarely. Considering their pay and uniforms, he thought the letter-carriers were superior in position to most mechanics. Mr. Draper would support the resolution, he thought them entitled to further consideration. But while in one way they were organized, in another they were not, and they could not be got to join the union elsewhere as they did in Toronto. Instead of getting down and begging favors from ward politicians on the one hand, and then coming to the further favors from the Congress, they should organize. He was willing to support them, but they should give their moral and financial aid in return.

The resolution was adopted, instructing the new Executive to call the attention of the Postmaster-General to the facts with a view to getting his consideration and action in the way desired.

A resolution from St. Catharines raised a well-balanced discussion over the establishment of a legal defence fund. The expense of the proceedings at St. Catharines was likely to fall heavily on some of the local unionists. The Committee on Resolutions recommended the rejection of the resolution.

After a long discussion a division was taken, when 39 were found voting each way. Officers' votes were called for, and Vice-President Simpson voted for the amendment and Secretary Draper against it. Chairman Verville cast his vote against the amendment. On another tie vote on the committee's recommendation to reject the resolution the Vice-President voted with the Secretary, and the project was thrown out.

Another lively time occurred at 3.30 o'clock, when the business on hand had been exhausted, and it was proposed to go into executive session and take up reports thus to be dealt with.

Delegates Armstrong, Anderson and others objected to the secret sessions. Fifteen minutes had been exhausted in debate when an adjournment was moved. Protests were raised and counted.

A resolution of full sympathy with the Stratford machinists in their strike with the Grand Trunk was adopted. Delegate A. S. J. Mallion explained the situation.

Another resolution calling on the Government to pay female inspectors salaries on the same scale as males was adopted after warm support from John Armstrong.

In view of the ever-present danger to street car conductors when performing their duties on the side of open cars, the Government was urged to pass a resolution to pass and put into effect such legislation as will insure the construction of a centre aisle on all new cars, and also that conveniences be provided for the men on duty.

The sanitary conditions of Montreal were represented as dreadful, and for the protection of the public health a resolution was passed calling for action on the part of the authorities.

The curse of consumption was held to be not sufficiently evident to the Government, whose attention was called to it in another resolution which pointed out two causes of the propagation of the disease. These were the indiscriminate sale of household goods, and especially bedding, from the families of consumptives, and the renting of houses where the disease had been present without adequate disinfection.

Mr. William Ferguson, a representative of the New York State Federation of Labor, was invited to the platform, and addressed the Congress. Canada, he said, had made the greatest progress of any country connected with the federation in ten years.

Mrs. May Darwin, Canadian organizer of the Women's International Labor League, was invited to address the Congress, and brought greetings from President Annie Fitzgerald, Chicago. She believed one cause of the slow growth of unionism was non-support of the union label. Hamilton and Berlin had given assistance, and she expressed her thanks for what had been done.

Winnipeg Typographical Union, 191, submitted a resolution at the morning session against having public printing contracts sent out of the Dominion. St. Catharines unionists desire to inaugurate a defence fund to fight organized capital.

Delegates S. L. Landers, Hamilton, and J. H. Kenedy, Toronto, moved resolution No. 8 which, despairing of ending it, proposes to mend the Senate.

The motion was referred to the Committee on Constitution.

Delegate Landers supported his resolution denouncing counterfeit union labels, by producing two of these offensive devices, which were attached to workmen's overalls and clothing. An ambiguously-worded card was also submitted, which had been issued by the same firm for the seduction of the public. Secretary Draper desired the Congress to endorse all bona fide union labels.

"Beware of bogus labels," was Mr. Landers' advice to western delegates. His resolution was adopted.

Owing to the stand taken by the McClary Manufacturing Company of London, in locking out their moulders, and refusing to recognize a committee of the workmen, and efforts having been made by the international officers to arrive at a peaceful settlement, it was resolved, on the motion of J. H. Barnett and J. Grievie:

"That this Congress views with disfavor the action of this firm, which has declared for the open shop, which, we believe, is not in the interest of organized labor, and be it further resolved that this Congress lend its moral aid to the moulders in their struggle, and request all delegates present to report back to their separate unions the action of this firm.

Delegate Dover thought it should be announced at once that the Congress did not favor open shops in any trade or calling in which the Congress was interested.

Delegates Barnett and Wilkinson moved, and it was resolved, to instruct the Executive to request the Ontario Government, as a condition for charters or other methods in foundries to prevent overheating, and to carry off gases from molten and burning ores; and also to provide for receptacles for clothing, and washrooms for moulders and their helpers.

The questions of assessment and taxation of land were raised by the following resolution, which was adopted:

"Whereas, an act passed some years ago by the Ontario Legislature, which provided for a very low tax rate on plots of vacant land in the city, composed of a certain number of acres; and, whereas this unfair law tends to assist land speculators in holding the land from the citizens (at very low cost), until such time as the general community have increased the value of said land, which enables the speculator to reap fortune, to the disadvantage of the general workers who desire to buy land to build homes;

Therefore, be it resolved that we go on record as utterly opposed to the present legislation in this respect, and that the Ontario Executive to this Congress be instructed to co-operate in this Province, with the view of entering a protest to the Ontario Cabinet, urging the repeal of this unfair assessment law.

A SCAB-SLUGGING SYSTEM.

President of Labor Union One of the Instigators.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 25.—With sensational suddenness to-day President Geo. Meller, of the Carriage and Wagon Workers' Union, No. 4, who is being tried with twelve other union officials and members on a charge of criminal conspiracy; withdrew a plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty. Meller, it is alleged, was one of the instigators of a system of "slugging" practised on non-union workmen. Counsel for the other defendants were thrown into commotion by Meller's change of front.

They met the situation, however, with a charge that Meller was a paid spy in the employment of the Carriage and Wagon Manufacturers' Association. Meller is expected to take the witness stand against his fellow defendants.

Canadian Girls Put Their Addresses in a Cheddar Cheese.

London, Sept. 25.—A Dundee grocer cutting a large Cheddar cheese found a glass tube, in which were two letters. The first was from Arthur O. Siever, the maker of Northfield, Ont., asking for information where cheese was cut, and stating that he had a few young ladies with him who wished to know. The second was from girls asking him to communicate with Edessia McBride, Muirfield, Canada; Edith Siever, Muchmore street, Ottawa, and Ina McBride, Northfield Station.

STUCK BY FLYING ROCK.

Two Men Fatally Injured While Blasting at Keewatin.

Winnipeg, Sept. 25.—While blasting at Keewatin this afternoon for the new flour mill erected by the MacDonald Engineering Company for the Keewatin Flour Mills Company, one of the fragments of rock was hurled through the side of a building 130 feet away. Joseph Kennedy, of Alpena, Mich., and Elijah Waterson were struck. Kennedy died at 6 o'clock, and Waterson will not last the night. Fifteen men were in the building. Kennedy is aged 35 and Waterson is 18. The parents of the latter reside at Fort Frances, Ont.

EX-MISSIONARY A CANNIBAL.

Such is Charge on Which He is Arrested.

Huntington, Ind. Sept. 25.—Definite information contradicting the reported death of Daniel Flick Wilberforce, the native African missionary, who, after being educated in America, renounced the Christian faith several months ago and returned to heathenism, has been received here.

Wilberforce, with several other natives, has been arrested by the English commissioner of West Africa, charged with cannibalism.

He declared that he was innocent of the charge, and asserted that he would ask for forgiveness and return to the Christian faith.

Impure blood always shows somewhere. If the skin, then boils, pimples, rashes. If the nerves, then neuralgia, nervousness, depression. If the stomach, then dyspepsia, biliousness, loss of appetite. Your doctor knows the remedy, used for 60 years.

Returning from the Cuban war, I was a perfect wreck. My blood was bad, and my health was gone. But a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla completely cured me.

LYNDHURST'S BIG FAIR

A Big Attendance—Good Show of Exhibits and a Fine Time.

Lyndhurst Fair—the first of the three fairs of interest to this section—was held Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. The first day was rather poor for getting the exhibits in position, but by Wednesday everything was in its right place.

There were at least 1500 people on the last day and everyone seemed to have a fine day's outing. The entries were in the neighborhood 1200, and considerably better than last year.

Among those present were noticed:—W. McCallum, Jno. Dillon, Ellisville; Warden Bracken, R. J. Gardiner, Dr. Elliott, Seeley's Bay; Phil. Halliday, Elgin; L. N. Phelps sec. Delta Fair, Geo. Morris Pres. Delta Fair, Arch. Stevens, R. Phillips, Caintown; B. Ballard, Plum Hollow; R. Tait, Lyndhurst; E. J. Johnston, Reeve Bear Leads and Lansdowne; Councilors, Chas. McCutcheon and John H. Slack, Rear Leads and Lansdowne; Dr. W. Green, Treas. Rear Leads and Lansdowne; H. Halliday, Licence Inspector Phillips of Phillipsville; Wm. Bracken, clerk, Rear Leads and Lansdowne; and B. W. Copeland of Brockville.

The exhibits were choice and had a great many admirers. In ladies work the principal exhibitors were:—E. J. Suffel, Soperton; Agnes C. Booth, Addison; L. Mustard, Lyndhurst; J. Mackie, Athens; E. B. Tallman, Lyndhurst; J. H. Earle, Lyndhurst; B. Green, Oak Leaf; Miss M. Dargavel, Athens; S. Y. Brown, Addison; and C. B. Tallman, Lyndhurst.

Grain and vegetables were quite up to the usual standard. Some of the exhibitors were:—J. Warren & Son, Junetown; Mrs. A. Scott, Addison; J. Kirkland, Morton; A. Weeks, Lyndhurst; R. Chant, Soperton; F. B. Sheffield, Lyndhurst; E. L. Kendrick, Lyndhurst; N. Shook, Athens; Ziba Jackson, Lyndhurst; E. Kenney, Ellisville. Manufacturers—E. M. Bracken, Seeley's Bay; J. D. Wetherel, Lyndhurst; L. A. Dougall, Lyndhurst; R. J. Wood and A. C. Dial.

The exhibit of horses included many fine specimens, showing that the farmers in that section are fully abreast of the times and alive to the benefits to be derived from having good stock. The following exhibited:—E. J. Suffel, Soperton; L. Mustard, Sweets Corners; Geo. H. Sly, Sweets Corners; W. Sheffield, Athens; B. Chant, Soperton; S. Godkin, Lyndhurst; W. Stevens, Phillipsville; F. Emmons, Frankville; J. D. Wetherel, Lyndhurst; F. Boon, Morton; R. J. Stanley, Keelerville; W. H. Hornabeck, Battersea; E. Niblock, Lyndhurst; W. G. Kendrick, Lyndhurst; R. W. Copeland, Brockville.

The cattle and sheep were a fine lot, and from the showing made the district in and around Lyndhurst is populated by men who thoroughly understand raising fine animals. Those who exhibited were:—A. Hudson, Soperton; F. B. Sheffield, Lyndhurst; J. H. Earle, Lyndhurst; J. A. Dial, Lyndhurst; E. L. Kendrick, Lyndhurst; R. Wood, Lyndhurst; W. G. Kendrick, Lyndhurst; J. Dillon, Ellisville; W. Stevens, Phillipsville; W. Johnston, Delta.

The swine exhibit was a very good one, there being several fine specimens shown. The principal exhibitors were: A. Hudson, Soperton; W. Hicock, Sweets Corners; W. Stevens, Phillipsville; W. Johnston, Delta.

In poultry, a small but choice collection was exhibited, exciting many flattering remarks on the fine appearance of the birds. L. Mustard, Sweets Corners; W. Hicock, Sweets Corners; J. D. Wetherel, Lyndhurst; J. Dillon, Ellisville, were the chief exhibitors in this class.

As usual, the racing events were eagerly watched, much interest being occasioned by the good time each one made. Following are the results:—

Slow race—Dougall, Lyndhurst, 1st; McNamara, Lyndhurst, 2nd; Farmers' Race—H. McArdie of Sweets Corners, 1st; Geo. Shook, Sweets Corners, 2nd.

W. Hewitt has purchased the large farm of A. H. Parker at Frankville for $12,000. Mr. Parker intends to reside in Smith's Falls—Kitley will thus lose a much respected resident.

John Lemax of Wolford township, formerly a resident of Kitley, is dead. A widow and six children survive: Mrs. Robert Purcell and Mrs. Renben Montgomery of Kitley and Mrs. John Purcell of South Elmsley, and Wesley on the Kitley homestead and George with his mother.

Ogilvie's Reputation goes into every barrel of Royal Household Flour

If Royal Household Flour were not as good as Ogilvie's say it is, who would be the greatest loser?

You would try it once—if it were not good you would be a small loser, perhaps. But Ogilvie's would probably lose your custom.

They would also lose the custom of every other woman who tried it and of thousands who had never tried it but had been told that it was not as represented.

Therefore Ogilvie's must make Royal Household Flour the best flour because they stake their reputation upon it, and if you and thousands of others found it was not the best, Ogilvie's would ruin their business.

So Ogilvie's make Royal Household Flour the best flour, in their own protection. Incidentally that is your strongest protection—it guarantees you the best flour because the brand carries with it Ogilvie's Reputation.

Ogilvie's simply ask a trial—knowing that it will make a permanent friend for Royal Household Flour.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON NO. 11 OCTOBER 8, 1905

Daniel in the Lion's Den.—Dan. 6:12-23

Commentary—I. Daniel praying (v. 10). 10. When Daniel knew, etc.—Daniel knew that the king's edicts were irrevocable. He learned how God estimated faithfulness, and how he is pleased to reward it. God had shown Daniel that his disobedience to a heathen king was not a sin. He had been faithful in what he believed to be right, and in the test God declared him innocent by his wonderful deliverance. No hurt—Daniel had been misrepresented before the king as having evil designs against his authority, but to the king himself Daniel declares he could not be guilty of such designs when he was faithful to his God.

II. Faithful unto death. "When Daniel knew" (v. 10) that his death warrant was signed he went into his house and prayed. "When Daniel knew" in that awful crisis; "when he knew" that those cunning, far-seeing enemies had laid the trip with flattery and duplicity. (Psa. xlii, 2, 3) so skillfully that even the saggacious King Darius had snapped at it and been fooled; "when he knew"—the devilish ingenuity and malignity with which his enemies had closed in upon him; "when he knew"—that in the shining line in the story; "when he knew" that the hell-hounds were sniffing about his door to hear his prayer; "when he knew" that if he prayed, they would see him; "when he knew" that if they saw him a horrible peril awaited him—he went into his house and prayed.

III. Faithful though persecuted. "The writing was signed" (v. 10). Daniel could not be corrupted and made to sin, so he must be persecuted and made to suffer. This is Satan's opportunity. The higher your spiritual position, the more and mightier your enemies. (Eph. vi, 12). To be "greatly beloved" of God is to be greatly hated by "the world" (John xv, 10-19). If because of faithfulness God has chosen and exalted you, those beneath you, the tools of Satan, will envy your position and power and seek in every way to destroy you. This is your opportunity to continue to be faithful.

IV. Faithful in prayer. "He knelt upon his knees three times a day, and prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he did aforetime" (v. 10). A. B. Simpson suggests, "Daniel was a prophet of one hundred and twenty provinces, some of these as large as England. He had more calls than the President of the United States, yet had time for prayer." There is a volume in those words, "As aforetime." He didn't pray any more because of the trouble nor any less. He just went on as aforetime, along the routine that he had planned. He prayed in the same place, in the same manner, in the same position, at the same hours, with the same fervor. He had framed his life in the fear of God, and he was not going to deviate from it because his enemies had struck him. John Wesley said that if he knew he was to die to-morrow he would still go through his programme as he had planned it. The life of prayer will give such steadfastness to our course. Oh, to be so right that we shall live on unmoved by perils or threats or provocations, moving on like stars in their courses, unchanged by clouds or tempest. Suppose a law were passed that for thirty days no one should pray under penalty of being thrown to the lions, what would you do? Start out on the very first steamer for the European continent. Or take a vacation from church, prayer-meeting and closet for a month? Or shut your doors and windows that no one might see you pray? Or pray silently, lest someone should suspect you? Or would you take your accustomed place in the sanctuary and be faithful to the weekly service and at your family altar spend the same amount of time in the secret place you do now? Would you devote time to a "diet" of it is easy to say, "If God's house is more to you than any other spot on earth; if communion with God is sweeter than the applause of men; if you take time to pray though you have no time to eat; if you do not shrink from silently asking as he is living at a restaurant table; if you are not ashamed to be caught on your knees by any member of your family; if you would not hesitate to be seen praying in any place where God would lead you to kneel, then you may feel fully confident that in Daniel's place your God would give you the same courage He gave him.

V. Faithful in the least. "That Daniel, which is of the children of the captivity" (v. 13). This calls us back to the first faith of Daniel. (Dan. 1:8-21) and illustrates the Savior's words, "He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much" (Luke 16:10). The law of God is "from faith to faith" (Rom. 1:17). Abraham would never have believed God could restore his child to him from the dead if he had not believed God for the gift of that son (Gen. 21:11, 12). Daniel would never have believed God could stay the hunger of ravens' beaks and make them playthings for him if he had not believed God would reveal truth to him and quiet his loneliness (Dan. 2:19-23). (Dan. 3:17). John McNeill says, "There was a progression in Daniel's trials. A good while before this Daniel had been tested on a lower plane as regards appetite, and he had kept the faith of God there. Therefore when the awful trial came he stood firm."

VI. Faithful and delivered. "No manner of hurt was found upon him, because he had trusted in his God" (v. 23, R. V.). Faith in God brings us into trial, but it does not keep us in it and will always bring us out of it. Daniel called the lion his enemy, but he called the God of his fathers his friend. A large number of Roman captives were standing in the courtyard of their prison, chained together. Among them was one Christian man. His fellow-prisoners were jeering him, saying, "You are no better off than we. You are wearing the bracelets as we do. If your God is any use why doesn't He knock off your chains and set you free?" The man replied reverently, "If the Lord will, I can set me free even now, and though my hands are chained my heart is free." That moment a voice called his name, telling him that a paper had been received, granting him full pardon. He was told to stand aside and his chains were broken. He was struck with what he had witnessed. Abbie C. Morrow.

a new and wonderful experience for Daniel. He delighted to relate it to the king, whose voice betrayed his agony. Innocence was found—By this wonderful deliverance Daniel learned how God estimated faithfulness, and how he is pleased to reward it. God had shown Daniel that his disobedience to a heathen king was not a sin. He had been faithful in what he believed to be right, and in the test God declared him innocent by his wonderful deliverance. No hurt—Daniel had been misrepresented before the king as having evil designs against his authority, but to the king himself Daniel declares he could not be guilty of such designs when he was faithful to his God.

CATTLE EMBARGO STANDS.

British Government Reaffirms Its Attitude Towards Canada. London, Sept. 25.—Replying to a copy of the Canadian Senate resolution, sent by the Governor-General, regarding the cattle embargo, the home Government through the Board of Agriculture, refused to take steps towards removing it. In a long memorandum it states that the slaughter of cattle at the port of debarkation is no obstacle to the development and maintenance of a large and valuable trade. The existing regulations are not a slur upon Canadian cattle, as they are enforced against all British colonies, together with the United States. The memorandum emphasizes that the effect of the introduction of disease would be to the consumers and producers of Great Britain. Past experience with Argentina and the United States show how quickly foot and mouth disease may make its appearance, despite efficient sanitary organization. The Birmingham Daily Post, regarding the Government's refusal to remove the cattle embargo, says: "The decision will be unpalatable to the Dominion, but there is compensation in the relief it will afford stock owners here. It is doubtful whether Canada has anything more than a sentimental grievance. The prohibition is well advised as a precautionary measure against the introduction of cattle disease into this country."

Referring to the Government memorandum regarding the cattle embargo, in a paragraph about the enormous losses the British agriculturists in the last thirty years have sustained by reason of the increased pressure of colonial and foreign competition. The Westminster Gazette says: "If we say to Canada, 'we care not take the risk of admitting your cattle, well and good, but if we do, especially as you are such formidable agricultural competitors, the protective tariff is at once clear, though not definitely avowed as such.'"

EXPULSION FROM CHURCH.

REV. SANDY KENT, OF BUFFALO, DEPOSED FROM THE MINISTRY.

Buffalo, Sept. 25.—At a meeting of the ministers of the Baptist Churches of Buffalo, the officers of the Buffalo Baptist Union and members of the South Side Baptist Church, held last night, the Rev. "Sandy" Kent, who has been a member of the South Side Church for three months, was deposed from the ministry and excluded from the church. The charges against him were immorality and conduct unbecoming a Christian minister. The Rev. Robert Scott, pastor of the Parkside Baptist Church, presided at the meeting. Kent was not present, but a committee which had been investigating the charges against him reported that Kent had confessed that he had deviated from the routine that he had planned. Kent came to the country from England about fifteen months ago. He first went to Philadelphia, where he presented credentials purporting to establish his claim to a place in the Baptist ministry. He was admittedly an eloquent speaker and a great Shakespearean scholar, and soon won a place among the Baptist denomination of that city, preaching from the pulpits of the most prominent churches there. A year ago he came to Buffalo highly recommended by the ministry of the Quaker City. He appeared in many of the pulpits of the Baptist churches of this city and created a favorable impression wherever he went. Three months ago he accepted a call to the South Side Church.

No man, on rostrum or in the pulpit, in years has won his way to the hearts of the church people of this community with more ease and grace than the Rev. Dr. Kent. His smooth persuasive style, his evident seriousness, together with his great elocutionary gifts, were the stepping stones that won for him a large congregation. His soulful interpretation of "Lead, Kindly Light" and "The Psalm of Life" with his dramatic rendition of the "Change of the Light Brigade" have held audiences spellbound and will never be forgotten by those who have sat under the magic spell. The explanation of this wonderful gift of voice and expression it was stated that he was for many years tutor of elocution in either Oxford or Cambridge.

In all his visits to church and people he was accompanied by a bright-looking, typical, healthy-looking, English woman. That this gifted man should have had a past other than as white as the driven snow, will surprise those who have been thrilled by his wonderful portraiture of his life and character. It will be food for thought for many; it will be another argument to be used by those who find pleasure in assailing the church and its ministers.

SECOND RUN OF SOCKEYES.

Fraser River Salmon Fishermen in Great Luck.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 25.—A remarkable event has occurred on the Fraser, a second run of sockeye salmon, the season for which is supposed to be closed. The fishermen say that the same thing occurred in 1901, the year of the last big run. The fish now being caught are larger and better than those obtained during the big run, and their late arrival is playing right into the hands of the canners, who are getting all they want at ten cents a fish. Colosse, the fish which always follows the sockeyes, are also plentiful, but they are not so abundant as the others. Steelheads are also coming into the nets in numbers. The salmon season has been a satisfactory one all round on the Fraser. The canneries have got all they want and the fishermen disposed of all they could get during the big run, and now the second run is adding to their bank accounts. Moreover, lots of sockeyes seem to have made their way up to the spawning grounds, which is an important consideration.

DISCOVERED NEW PLANET.

Satellite Located Between Mercury and the Sun.

Alexandria, Sept. 25.—Prof. Turner, Savilian professor of astronomy at Oxford, who headed the British eclipse mission in Egypt, and sailed for England on Sept. 13, before leaving published a memoir of the results achieved by various missions. From this it would not be surprising if the world learned soon that Prof. Turner, of the Lick Observatory, has achieved the distinction with his battery telescopes of discovering the much-debated new planet between Mercury and the sun. Prof. Turner is at least sanguine of this result, from a close inspection of the Lick Observatory professor's plates.

BODY WAS CONCEALED.

An Indian Police Interpreter Murdered in Wetaskiwin.

Wetaskiwin, Alberta, Sept. 25.—Enoch Bull, son of Chief Bull, of the Hobbwa Reserve, near Wetaskiwin, was found dead in Rubba's warehouse, in the town, and suspicious being investigated by the N. V. M. P. point to foul play. There were no marks of violence found by the doctor, but an examination of the premises reveals the marks of where the body had been dragged fifty feet from between the machinery buildings and hidden in the warehouses. It appears that the body was first dragged, as only head marks are traceable on the ground. The greatest mystery surrounds the case, as the victim was a quiet, peaceable man, about 24 years of age, and was an Indian police interpreter.

ANGELICAN WOMEN MEET.

Triennial Gathering of the W. A. Opened at St. Luke's.

Toronto despatch: An increase in membership since 1901 of 6,936 and a thank offering yesterday of $5,501.21—these were among the many gratifying things announced at yesterday's opening sessions of the sixth triennial meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada at St. Luke's Church. With an attendance of some eighty delegates from nineteen dioceses, a cordial address of welcome was made by Miss Tiller, of Toronto, at the afternoon meeting, to which responded Mrs. Walker, of Fredericton. Mrs. Tilton, of Ottawa, President of the W. A., in her address spoke of the excellent work done by the same earnest members of the Women's Auxiliary since the last triennial meeting at especially commended the committees in charge of the Education of Children, Literature, the Leaflet, and Chinese Missions. In conclusion, Mrs. Tilton announced that she was about to retire from the Presidency, a position she has held for nineteen years. During her long term of office she has seen the membership increase by mighty strides—from a representation of five to nineteen dioceses. She hoped soon to welcome the dioceses of Nova Scotia, Mackenzie River, Caledonia and Moscow, the remaining four of Canada yet unrepresented.

WORKING WOMEN

Their Hard Struggle Made Easier—Interesting Statements by a Young Lady in Quebec and One in Beauport, Que.

All women work; some in their homes, some in church, and some in the whirl of society. And in stores, mills and shops tens of thousands are on the never-ceasing treadmill, earning their daily bread. All are subject to the same physical laws; all suffer alike from the same physical distaste, and the nature of their duties, in many cases, quickly drifts them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints, ovarian troubles, ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb, leucorrhoea, or perhaps irregularly or suppression of "monthly periods," causing backache, nervousness, irritability and lassitude. Women who stand on their feet all day are more susceptible to these troubles than others. They especially require an invigorating, sustaining medicine which will strengthen the female organism and enable them to bear bravely a bout of the day, to sleep well at night, and to rise refreshed and cheerful. How distressing to see a woman struggling to earn a livelihood or perform her household duties when her back and head are aching; she is so tired she can hardly keep a foot on the ground, and every movement causes pain, the origin of which is due to some derangement of the female organism. Miss A. Robitaille of 78 rue St. Francois, Quebec, Que., writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "Overwork and long hours at the office, together with a neglected cold, brought on a very serious female trouble until finally I was unable to go to work. I then thought of a friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when her health was in the same condition that mine was, and she straightway sent out for a bottle. I finished that and took two more before I really began to improve, but after that my recovery was very rapid, and I was soon well and able to go back to work again. I certainly think your medicine for sick women worthy of praise, and am indeed glad to endorse it."

LOVE AND A TITLE

From the soup to the dusty apples and pears...

And he looks at Bell sympathetically.

The count with a little smile—which adds another thousand or so wrinkles to his face—shrugs his shoulders.

"Yes," says the count, "but one must put up with some drawbacks in travel—is it not so?"

"Add if you can't get tobacco, one can get English beer—the only drinkable to be obtained."

The count smiles, amused by this bit of British insularity.

"Perhaps," he says, with a little deprecatory gesture of the white hands, "you have not tried the best of the German wines—Johannisberg, now."

"No," says Hal, who had never heard of the king of Rhine wines.

"Suppose," says the count, "we see if our good landlord has a bottle."

"I'll order one," says Hal.

The count solemnly declares that he will not allow him; Hal as emphatically claims the honor of drinking it.

Eventually Bell is called from the window to convey their joint wishes.

In comes the landlord, a little fat man, with dark hair plastered to his head, and with huge eyes, and a pair of white rings.

Bell in piping German, makes known the requirements. The little man waddles off, returning with a bottle of Johannisberg, which, with a profound bow to the count, he uncorks, and, with sundry exclamations, leaves the envelope.

Hal, who is nearest, stoops and picks it up. In handing it to him he sees that it is stamped with an elaborate crest and armorial bearings, and that the address is in the thin, angular characters which ladies—Heaven only knows why—particularly affect.

"Good, Fritz," he says, "you shall bear the answer. Gentlemen, good-evening!"

"Really," says Bell, with bland enjoyment, "a most polished old gentleman. Quite one of the old school. Depend upon it, my dear Hal, that travel is the finest, indeed, the only way in which one can gain experience and a knowledge of the world. I've heard that a Russian gentleman is the most high-bred product of modern civilization."

"Yes," says Hal, cutting in ruthlessly, "he's a fine old fellow. I wonder who he is—army man, I should think. Here's the landlord; ask him, Bell."

"My dear Hal, do you think—well, well," says Hal, being as curious as Hal himself. "We were admiring his excellency."

"Ah, the count!" ejaculates the landlord, shrugging his shoulders to the ears, and blowing a vast cloud from his long nose.

dripping of cold water down the back which he experienced as he cut into the white arm with his penknife.

If anything, it is hotter than ever the next morning; every window in the hotel is open, and the stall-keepers are busy, very busy, leaning against the posts and smoking wooden pipes calculated to hold an ounce at a load.

Marvelously bright and fresh does Hal look, in his light-brown jacket and his knickerbockers; he has had a swim and thrown a fly or two; he has had his breakfast, which was composed of something more substantial than the usual roll and butter which in Germany constitutes that meal, and he has brushed his closely-cut hair until it shines in the morning sunlight as brightly as Jeanne's.

The old fruit woman shades her eyes and looks after him admiringly as he goes down the white street; possibly he reminds her of her own boy, who now lies buried at Gravette and his Uhlan uniform, with many of his comrades around him!

At the corner of the street there stands a little florist's shop. Hal, with a little half-ashamed glance to the right and the left, went in and purchased a white azalea, which the little damsel behind the counter was kind enough to arrange in his buttonhole, and then went on his way.

Past the church, down into the vale, up a long avenue of apple and plum trees, and at last he stood on the grounds of the Villa Verona.

It was a long, low-lying pile of masonry, gleaming white in the bright sunlight, and bearing about it the signs of wealth and careful attention.

A huge St. Bernard, that was lying on a terrace under the verandah, rose and bounded toward him, evidently with the intention of devouring him, but Hal put out his hand and patted him, and the dog was so surprised that he stopped growling and wagged his tail, keeping, however, very close to Hal as he ascended the steps and rang the bell.

A tall manservant, dressed in black, opened the broad glass door.

"Is the Princess Verona within?" asked Hal.

The man inclined his head.

"I wonder whether he means 'yes' or 'no,' thought Hal.

But the man evidently meant yes, for he ushered Hal into the hall, which was of white marble, with fluted columns, and Bell in piping German, makes known the requirements. The little man waddles off, returning with a bottle of Johannisberg, which, with a profound bow to the count, he uncorks, and, with sundry exclamations, leaves the envelope.

Hal, who is nearest, stoops and picks it up. In handing it to him he sees that it is stamped with an elaborate crest and armorial bearings, and that the address is in the thin, angular characters which ladies—Heaven only knows why—particularly affect.

"Ah, the count!" ejaculates the landlord, shrugging his shoulders to the ears, and blowing a vast cloud from his long nose.

"Ah, yes, he is a great general—one of the old noblesse; but—"

"and extends his hand—but, alas!—a poor! Poor as St. Christopher. It is a pity, is it not? But, ah, well, and he wags his head philosophically, "he will mend that, you will see! Oh, yes, that is for certain! He will mend that."

Bel would like to ask how, but another fit of coughing, produced by the long manservant, drives him from the room, and Hal, laughing, follows.

Being thoroughly tired, Hal does not lie awake that night thinking, neither does he dream of the Princess Verona; the only thing Hal dreams of being great "takes" of trout; but it is certain that, as he scrubs away at his hair with two brushes, hard and stiff enough to ground a dray-horse, he sees, mentally, the beautiful face, with the large, dark eyes that looked up at him so frankly that afternoon, and once more feels that peculiar this morning, and ventured to bring a few trout if you will be so good as to accept them."

"Thank you," she says, opening the lid and looking in. "Yes, there they are—how pretty they look! Are you quite sure you can spare them? Papa will be so pleased—he is fond of fish. I don't know why some people don't catch them—perhaps they don't know how."

"It is not very difficult," says Hal. "At this moment an elderly lady, dressed in black, enters, carrying a basket of flowers."

The princess says something in Italian to her, then turns to Hal.

"My friend, Senora Titella."

Hal at once concludes that it is her companion, and bows; and the lady goes across the room with the flowers.

The princess walks to the window, and draws aside the curtain.

"It is lovely," she says—"almost Italian weather. Have you been to Italy yet?"

"No," says Hal.

She looks at him with rather a sad smile.

"Oh," she says, "you must see Italy. I am an Italian, and yet I am English."

"Your father?" says Hal.

"Is Italian; my mother was English. She—she died in England, and therefore papa does not go to England."

"I understand," says Hal, softly.

The next instant the girl chases the melancholy from her face.

"You are fond of flowers?"

"Yes," she says, looking at the azalea, which makes Hal blush. "Come and see the gardens."

And she steps out on the terrace, catching up a light straw hat as she does so.

As Hal follows into the garden, he notices that the companion has crossed the room and stands at the window, with a book in her hand.

"This is a beautiful garden," he says, "It is a magnificent garden, worthy of the villa. Velvety lawns, set with glittering beds of flowers, whose colors are contrasted with the pure white of marble statues and fountains. It is, in fact, essentially an Italian garden, though Hal doesn't know it."

The princess leads him through a mass of garden paths to a nook, made cool and shady by a grove of ferns, over which falls the spray of a hidden fountain.

"This is a beautiful garden," he says, "It is a magnificent garden, worthy of the villa. Velvety lawns, set with glittering beds of flowers, whose colors are contrasted with the pure white of marble statues and fountains. It is, in fact, essentially an Italian garden, though Hal doesn't know it."

"Dull!" says Hal, looking at her sympathetically out of his honest eyes.

"Yes, very dull," she smiles, and a little sigh. "There is only papa and Titella—the lady you saw, you know. Papa is always with his books and papers, and Titella—Titella is busy about the house. Are you never dull?"

"Often," he says.

"Tell me," she says, in her little inquisitive manner, which seems so frank and confiding to English Hal, "tell me, what do you do then?"

"Oh, says Hal, "I—I—well, I generally go and shoot something, or take my rod, or smoke a pipe."

"She laughs.

"There's nothing to shoot here," she says, looking around, "excepting me; but you can smoke your pipe, if you like."

"Cold!" exclaimed Hal—"it's very hot."

The princess glanced downward, silent for a moment.

"It is very hot in here," she said. "Good-bye, papa."

And she stood on tiptoe, and kissed him.

The prince held out his hand to Hal, and he saw that he was seated at the table and his book, almost before they had turned.

The princess looked at Hal with the questioning expression of a child anxious to glean his thoughts, but Hal stared straight before him.

"Papa is always very busy," she said, very softly and slowly. "He does not like this sunlight—it reminds him of Italy."

"Why doesn't he go back there?" asked Hal, in his delightful blunt English fashion.

"He cannot," she said, quietly; "they will not let him. Papa is banished."

"He has offended the people in power," went on the princess, reluctantly—"offended them still. All his friends are banished; all those letters are from your father's friends. You see, I tell you because you are English, and the English never betray."

"And the prince," said Hal, "does he never go out—is he always reading and writing?"

"Almost always," she replied.

Then Hal looked at her, with a great swell of pity gushing up in his heart.

Shut up in this place with an old man who preferred lamplight to sunlight, and never left his writing-table, and a woman who watched her like a cat—this bright, lovely fellow, with the artless grace of a child. To Hal it seemed too dreadful to be thought of.

"Oh, but I am very happy," she said, as if she—as she really did—read his thoughts. "I have my flowers, and Carlo and Florida."

MATERNAL INSTINCT OF FISH.

A Sense That is Apparently Wisely Lacking.

"The female fish has no maternal instincts whatever," according to the superintendent, I. Nevin, of the Wisconsin State Fish Hatcheries. "In fact," he is quoted in the Milwaukee Wisconsinian, "the fish is the most inhuman creature in existence, that is, of the animals which have any degree of intelligence at all."

"Perhaps it is well that it is so, for if the parent fish took care of their young as other creatures do the waters of the earth would be filled with them in a very short time. Under natural conditions an egg in a million ever becomes a fish a year old. As an example, I have seen female brook trout go up into the spawning places and spawn their eggs and then turn around and deliberately eat them."

"For the past few years I have been much interested in experimenting with bass and studying their ways. Here the male parent has some maternal instincts apparently. He builds the 'nest' for the female, some little pool with a gravel bottom protected from the strong current, but with plenty of fresh water, and then hugs or pushes the female into it. The eggs are spawned by the female, who swims away and leaves them to their fate. The male fertilizes the eggs, and then for a few days watches over them, fanning them occasionally to insure a circulation of fresh water and keeping off other fish who would devour the eggs. The male fish have been known to fast for several days, protecting them until they were able to care for themselves."

"I have seen a school of say 1,500 bass fry devoured in five minutes by a few sun bass or perch minnows. One of the care of the fish hatcheries from 50 to 95 per cent of the eggs become fish fry. How many of the fry live to be a year old or so after they are planted in the streams it is very hard to determine. It depends so greatly upon conditions that no reliable estimates can be made."

IF YOU WOULD BE POPULAR.

Be scedable. Be unselfish. Be generous. Be a good listener. Never worry or whine. Study the art of pleasing. Always be ready to lend a hand. Be kind and polite to everybody. Be self-confident, but not conceited. Never monopolize the conversation. Take a genuine interest in other people. Always look on the bright side of things. Take pains to remember names and faces. Never criticize or say unkind things of others. Look for the good in others, not for their faults. Forgive and forget injuries, but never forget benefits. Cultivate health, and thus radiate strength and courage. Rejoice as genuinely in another's success as in your own. Always be moderate of the rights and feelings of others. Have a good time, but never let fun degenerate into revelry. Having a kind word and a cheery, encouraging smile for everyone. Learn to control yourself under the most trying circumstances. Be respectful to women, and chivalrous in your attitude toward them. Meet trouble like a man, and cheerfully believe in the brotherhood of man and recognize no class distinctions. Be ambitious and energetic, but never benefit yourself at the expense of another. Do not bore people by telling them long, tedious stories, or by continually dilating on your own affairs.—O. S. Marden, in Success Magazine.

TEETHING WITHOUT TEARS.

Mothers who have suffered the misery of restless nights at teething time and who have treated their babies in the unhelpful way of that period, will welcome the safe and certain relief that Baby's Own Tablets bring. Mrs. W. G. Mundle, Yorkton, N. W. T., says: "When my little one was cutting her teeth she suffered a great deal. Her gums were swollen and inflamed, and she was cross and restless. I got a box of Baby's Own Tablets, and after starting their use she began to improve at once, and her teeth came through almost painlessly. The Tablets are truly baby's friends." This medicine is guaranteed to contain no poisonous opiate or harmful drug. It cures all the minor ailments of little ones and may safely be given to a new born child. Full directions with every box. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 25c. a box by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DEADLY ANAEMIA

eads to Consumption Unless Promptly Cured.

Many a young life might be saved from consumption if simple anaemia were promptly treated. Anaemia is the doctors' name for weak, watery blood. When the blood is in this condition the lungs have no strength. The whole system begins to break down. Then the growing girl slips slowly into decline, until at last the cough starts and her doom is sealed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can cure all weak, anaemic people without doubt or difficulty. They actually make new, rich, health-giving blood—they cure anaemia and prevent consumption. This has been proved in thousands of cases. Mrs. Edward Cochran, Merriton, Ont., says: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured my daughter Matilda, when I felt that her case was almost hopeless. For more than a year she was a sufferer from anaemia. She gradually grew weak, was subject to violent headache, and dark circles appeared under her eyes. She was melancholy, had no appetite and complained of being constantly tired. At different times she was treated by two doctors, but with no improvement. As I had been pressed, she was attacked by violent palpitation of the heart and a suffocating shortness of breath. She had a deathly pallor, took food easily, and continued to decline in weight, until I felt that she was in a hopeless decline. At this time my friend, Mr. J. H. Terrell, of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I began giving them to her. She had not been taking the pills many weeks when her appetite was greatly improved, and this was the first sign that they were helping her. She continued the pills until she had taken eight or nine boxes, when she was cured of the picture of healthy girlhood. Every symptom of her trouble had disappeared, she has increased in weight, and is strong and robust. Her recovery is looked upon as marvellous, for the doctors thought her case hopeless. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cure any case of bloodlessness just as surely as they cured this case. The pale, anaemic need only one thing—new blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do only one thing—they make new, rich, life-giving blood. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure all common diseases like anaemia, headache and backache, indigestion, kidney trouble, palpitation of the heart, neuralgia, nervous troubles and those special ailments that make the lives of so many young girls and women miserable. Be careful to get the genuine pills with the full name of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People on the wrapper around each box. If in doubt, send direct to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50.

DRINK ON MOUNTAIN GAS.

People in Western Texas Need Not Resort to Liquor.

Hintor Mountain, in the Fort Davis region of western Texas, appears to be a most peculiar structure. This gigantic mass emits vapors that intoxicate the adventurers who climb its summit.

When half way up the mountain the climber becomes conscious of a perfume like strong ozone, and this perfume is no less deadly in its effects than the intoxicating constituents of alcoholic drinks. No sooner has the climber reached the top than he staggers and finally falls in a stupor on the rocks.

Men who have climbed the mountain once are said to have returned again and again to enjoy the sensation.

A mountain in Singaung, in upper Burma, is entirely covered with great blocks of iron ore. Dr. Noeling, of the geological survey of India, discovered that the mountain was magnetic, the tremendous attraction rendering his compass and watch useless.

There are undoubtedly a large number of people in the world suffering from the pangs of unrequited love, and to these unfortunate persons it is interesting to know that Dr. Martiner Beguera, of Spain, has discovered a spring, the waters of which will cure cases arising from hopeless tender passions.

This extraordinary spring is situated at Alanje, and the lovesick or had who walks into it is said to become wildly hilarious.

A spring was recently discovered by an American medico in Mexico which will cure those persons who are addicted to drink. The doctor declares that he cured a man who drank nothing but whiskey for twenty years of his craving for alcohol by his outward and inward application of the spring waters.

There appears to be one objection to this rapid cure. The majority of men and women who are of strong drink do not wish to have their passions removed by plitters or douching.

The bark of the upas tree of Java is over an inch thick and full of a strong juice, the merest touch of which upon the skin produces a most painful and irritating rash.

The Java natives use this juice for getting rid of their enemies. To satisfy a private revenge they hide a bowl of it in the room of a sleeper and by the morning the victim has succumbed to its evil effects. The fluid gives off a most poisonous gas, which produces stupor and finally death.

The "home of the hot devils" is an island of fire situated in the centre of a huge lake of boiling mud and slime in Java.

Gases arise from the lower depths and form enormous bubbles in the sticky mud, which grow and increase until they attain a diameter of five or six feet. These bubbles are often carried skyward by the wind, where they finally burst with a loud explosion.

The biggest snow lake ever seen by Sir Martin Conway, who explored the Karakoram range of mountains in 1892. From the summit of Hispar pass, which he traversed for the first time on record, he looked upon a vast level lake of snow, over 300 square miles in area, surrounded by a formidable range of peaks.

The sea of ice near Chamouni, in Savoy, Switzerland, is more like a lake of snow than anything else. The surface of the ice is broken up by solar heat, and this minute fissuring gives it the appearance of snow and it is often mistaken for such by tourists.

The finest milk-white lake in the world was discovered by Herr Thoroddsen in Iceland, who christened it the Langsjor. It stretches from the margin of the mighty glacier which forms the western side of the Vatna-Jokul, and the glacier, the water of which is composed of a pure milky white color.

A similar lake, but on a smaller scale, is situated about thirty miles from Tauranga, in New Zealand.

So far only one stone has been discovered in the world which actually foretells changes in the weather, and it was found in Finland many years ago by an explorer.

This stone, which is known as the semalaur, is mottled with white spots, but just before an approaching rain-storm it turns absolutely black.

The semakaur is composed of clay, rock salt and nitre. When the atmosphere is dry the salt in the stone shows itself in spots on the surface, but when rain is expected the salt, absorbing the moisture, turns black and thus acts as a barometer.

Mr. Skunk. He is nocturnal. He is no end of slow. He never accelerates his step. He is of most cleanly habits. As an epicure he is famous. There is no denying he is a thief. It is said he founded the Don't Hurry Club.

In winter he takes a sleep of six weeks. Owing to the beauty of his fur he is cultivated on skunk farms. His immense tail sets back over his body as jauntily as that of a squirrel. He is a soft, beautiful animal, with a pretty face and head, and delicate teeth. Freshly from his favorite "late dinner."

His means of defense, the awful odor he emits, is used only in the greatest danger, and in it he feels the utmost confidence.

After Mrs. Hen has comfortably gathered her fuzzy tribe under her sheltering wings and gone sound asleep, Mr. Skunk steals up and quietly abstracts chick after chick. The poor hen's mother may find two of her promising family in the morning, while round about she may discover dainty little legs and beaks.

The wife of a farmer residing at Junetown narrowly escaped being killed recently by an infuriated bull. The woman was engaged milking a cow in the yard when the cow suddenly attacked her, tearing her clothing into shreds with its horns.
