THIRTY-FOURTH YEAR.

VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, FRIDAY, APRIL 15, 1892.

VOLUME XXXIV. NO 19.

CAPITAL NOTES.

General Herbert's Report on the Canadian Militia—Interesting and Important Suggestions.

Personalities in Parliament—Grit Abuse of Ministerial Members—Somerville Sat on.

(From our Own Correspondent.)

OTTAWA, April 7.—The largest caucus of Conservative members held since the general elections of 1878, was convened in room number 16, to-day. The object of calling the caucus was not so much to discuss business matters as to have a general friendly gathering of all the members, old and new. The Senate was strongly represented, and every member of the Government, except Mr. Chapleau and Mr. Foster, both of whom are ill, were present.

The coming redistribution bill is the general topic of discussion among many Conservatives. There is a prospect that the bill will be thrown over until the next meeting of Parliament. This, however, cannot be done. The constitution is very clear that the redistribution bill must be brought down in the session after the population has been enumerated.

Mr. Somerville, who read what purported to be a address from Slater and others, charging Col. Denison and his brother with a fraudulent use of public money in connection with the Governor-General's Body Guard.

B. C. MARINE MATTERS.

Summary of the Report of the Department of Marine—Interesting Facts and Figures.

Improvements in the Lighthouse and Buoy System to Secure Safe Navigation.

(From our Own Correspondent.)

OTTAWA, April 2.—The report of the Department of Marine was presented to Parliament at an early hour this morning, and is replete with information pertaining to matters of public interest. The total expenditure of the department, during the fiscal year ending 30th June last, was $74,182, being an increase of $66,948. This increase is largely due to the outlay for the new steamer "Coquena," built for the B. C. service. The total number of lights stations in the Dominion, on December 1, 1891, was 605, and of lights aboard, 710; the number of steam fog vessels and fog buoys, 74; the number of light keepers and engineers of fog whistles, and other assistants, with crews of light ships, was 670.

DEEMING'S DEFENCE.

MELBOURNE, April 8.—The defence of Deeming, the murderer, is to be of an extraordinary character. It will, in substance, be that, owing to pre-natal impressions on his mother, who happened to be frightened, he was born with an irresistible mania for homicide, which he gratified at every opportunity, and with unusual cunning.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Movats's Salary to be Increased—Opponent to Sir John Macdonald—Splendid O. P. R. Report.

Toronto, April 8.—Among the items in the supplementary estimates presented to the Legislative Assembly, yesterday, is one for the salary of Mr. Oliver Movats by $2,000, making it $7,000.

THE CHURCH IN AMERICA.

BALTIMORE, April 8.—The Catholic Mirror of this week will contain correspondence between Cardinal Gibbons and the Pope. In his letter, the Cardinal writes: "We need hardly say how much light your Holy Father's recent encyclical letter has thrown on social questions, closely connected with the dogma of religion, since its vision has been apparent even to many who were not of our Government, but who are not mistaken in it."

CAPRIVI GOING OUT.

BERLIN, April 7.—The adjournment of the House, to-day, without having made an appropriation for the salary of the new Minister-President of Prussia, shows that the Cabinet crisis is still acute.

Both Crews in Great Danger—An Unsuccessful Attempt to Reach Them With Canoes.

ALL ALONG THE WESTERN coast of the Island, during the past two months, the fiercest storms on record have been raging incessantly, and not many days ago, it will be remembered, that India reports reached Clayoquot, and from there came to Victoria, to the effect that two vessels had run ashore between Cape Scott and Cape Cox. One, it is now ascertained, is the Seattle sealing schooner Henry Dennis, a total loss in San Josef Bay, and the other the large and well-known whaling barque Hermit, of San Francisco, which is fast going to pieces in Medjo Inlet, fifteen miles from Scott Channel.

These are in brief, the facts learned by a Cozyuzer representative who returned to Victoria, last night, from My last letter was written at Beatrice, Neb., at a hotel which was on fire, and as a member of errors have crept into the press regarding my bravery at this great fire, known as the Peacock House fire, I will say that I did nothing at that time that was not my plain duty; nothing that I would not do again. I would have been less than man if I had shrunk from my duty at that time.

I was engaged in writing, in fact, had just seated myself and loaded up my stenographic pen with bluing, when I saw a preparatory to writing, when the shrill water with a stick. At table I asked for glass of water and the colored man and brother went to this same faucet to get my glass filled. A man in Mexico who had been drinking considerably, and was said to have his skates on a great deal of the time, told me while I stood his up against the depot that his only reason for drinking was that he had to get away the handbars in his system every few days or run around.

Mexico is at the confluence of the Alton branch with the Washakie railroad. The branch, as it is called, is a road which runs from Cedar City, opposite Jefferson City, across the river, called, to Mexico. In starting from Jeff we got on a front horse bus at the hotel, filling it inside and climbing to the deck and covering the entire outside to a depth of four feet.

We rode some distance to the ferry across the river, consisting of riding on four wheels and then going to a landing on one. I could feel my late hair turning grey.

On the way we passed the humble 'cot of a colored woman who lives on the shore and who is the mother of two bright little twins known as Eyether and Nye-ter. Each passenger had some bright little episode to get off at the expense of the broad and massive mother, but she took our sallies good naturedly and rejoiced with many a little capriciousness of her own.

the roundhouse, but he can hardly wait for this book to come out. He thinks I am setting it up new and sewing on the hinges, perhaps, of evening after the children are asleep. This is a mistake.

Any publisher who would like this manuscript, however, can obtain it by writing me and inclosing postage, together with a promise to get the book thoroughly scattered among the masses prior to the great national conventions.

The author is not a man of letters, though he has received quite a number, he says, from the division superintendent and has attracted some attention in literary circles by having his pay garnished eighteen times in eighteen months. He has a style, he says, something like that of Laura Jean Libby, but he does not think so rapidly as she does. Eight pounds of manuscript in twenty-four hours is his highest record, so he says he knows that he is not so prolific as a writer as Laura is.

But still he thinks with great rapidity, and many of his quick thoughts, he says, are just as good as any that he has. He has thought quite a number of thoughts almost identical with those thought by such men as Tolstoi and Thomas Browne Peacock, of Topeka, Kan., thus showing that he can if necessary think as good a thought as those men who have made a good living by it.

They say that the book is a timely one, and when an author comes right out and says that his book is timely you must admit it. I would print it for him myself, but the Little Gem printing press is now doing all my publishing with now is in Kansas. The second Kansas man, who is using it to print a stud book and mark his line.

INDIAN GHOST DANCE.
 In the Evansville Courier, Lieutenant McCaskey writes of the tradition of an Indian ghost-dance he still retains its interest. It is a tradition with the Indians that once a princess while wandering in the woods was conceived of a child, which was of divine origin. She returned to camp, and the birth of the child was proclaimed from tribe to tribe. The occasion of its birth was celebrated by feasting. Fearing that the young child would grow to manhood and be possessed of too much intelligence, several Indian medicine men decided to put to death the princess and child. On entering the camp of the princess they were confronted by the child, who had suddenly grown to manhood, and who stood in defence of his mother's life. Realizing this miracle or divine act, the medicine men repented of their sins, and were afterwards devout followers of the princess and son, who fought all of their battles victoriously.

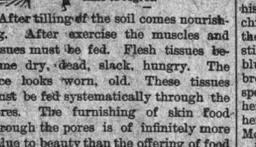

Before the death of Messiah, as their tradition teaches, he gathered together the various Indian tribes, and told them of his second coming. He said that he would re-appear on earth, rail roads, big stove houses would be built, and the white man, who would steal all of the lands, besides being very cruel, would be the modern form of the coming of the Messiah for the purpose of exterminating the whites and reclaiming their lost lands has for years been expected by the Indians. The direct cause of the recent Indian hostilities was virtually inaugurated by the ghost dance, which spread rapidly over the entire reservation. Previous to the uprising of the Indians a group of medicine men were in communication with the Messiah, who appeared on a cloud. As a proof of his being real, he had a bowl of water, of which all drank, and their thirst was appeased, yet the sauce was still full of water. The alleged experience of this group of medicine men was sent to the many Indian tribes, and the ghost dance was immediately inaugurated as a consequence. The shere announcement that the Messiah was coming affected over 700 or 800 Indians. Men often, like maniacs, would run from the camp for miles to meet the Great Spirit which they thought had come.

LITTLE WORRIES.
 Men and women meet the small troubles of life very differently. In the first place, a woman often lacks that sense of proportion which is necessary to distinguish the lesser from the greater ill; to her, all troubles are of the greatest magnitude and to be mourned equally. The failure of a new dress or of a dinner-party are calamities over which she will sometimes weep more to a fever. Most men would meet similar troubles with a shrug of the shoulders and then speedily forget them. Then, again, a woman does not forget easily, and is given to brooding; nor is she so swift to run away from her troubles as a man is. Indeed, she can not be taught to do so, for she has them at all the contemplation of them. In any small misfortune which falls equally upon husband and wife, in nine cases out of ten, where the man resolutely refuses to remember it, and hastens to turn his thoughts into some other channel, the woman will seem to take almost a perverse pleasure in recalling it to her mind and reflecting upon its actual and possible consequences. Much of this difference in their demeanor is, of course, due to the difference of their life. A man can easily run out of doors and seek distraction, whereas a woman's lot is to remain at home and think. Indeed, we should say that very much was owing to the greater opportunity that woman possesses of contemplating her worries and brooding over them. Yet it is hardly fair to assume that because a woman appears to be more affected by small worries, that, therefore, she has more to bear. There are plenty of small worries outside the door of the house, which, last, we admit, fall mostly to the woman's share—indeed, in the actual sharing of these little woes we should say that the man generally comes off the worse, for when the cook is impatient, or a chimney smokes, the master of the house is almost always called in to lend his aid and sympathy, whereas he can hardly count upon much help or sympathy from his wife when his own soul is vexed by the shortcomings of his clerk.

FEED THE TISSUES.
 Fannie Edgar Thomas Writes of the Care of the Complexion—She Says There Are No

Mora Frauds Among the Skin Specialists Than Among Other Curative Professions.
 Copyright, 1892, by American Press Association.

I FEEL we had not time to take care of our skin as we should like to do.

After tilling of the soil comes nourishing. After exercise the muscles and tissues must be fed. Flesh tissues become dry, dead, slack, hungry. The face looks worn, old. These tissues must be fed systematically through the pores. The furnishing of skin food through the pores is of infinitely more value to beauty than the offering of food through the stomach. When starved the muscles of the face relax like the strings of a violin; they cannot resist the various wrinkles which come in spots—looks sagged, old.

These foods must, however, be prepared with greatest care and intelligence, and with individual study of the skin to receive them. For this one must depend upon a specialist. It is coming to be the general practice for the well-groomed woman to place herself in the hands of a skilled specialist for examination and work under her direction, as in the case of the dentist, doctor or hair-dresser, for the skin is quite as individual as the system. What is benefit to one is injury to another.

I believe in the skin specialist. There are no more frauds among them than among the other curative professions, and in response to the demand they have become as skilled and conscientious as any. It stands to reason that one who makes any specialty a study knows more about it than one who is ignorant of its first principles. More harm is wrought to the average complexion through ignorant experimenting by the women themselves than from any other cause.

The beautifying paraphernalia of every woman interested in face culture today includes a set of from six to eight bottles of liquids of various colors—cream, white, yellow, pink, red and gray—in all stages of liquidity, from clear water to muddy oil, and one or two jars of lardlike cream—not for external application as a cover, but to work into the pores in consecutive order for the nourishment of the drying skin.

Treatments are taken from these once or twice a week, and the result is the regular massage work. Each one is applied, allowed to rest on the face from two to five minutes, then washed off with warm water to give place to the next. The oils are rubbed well in with the fingers. Between the massage, the slight tingle from the various lotions, and the delicate odor of the cream, the most delicate of the little human palette glow like a rose, while lips and eyes now share in the enjoyment. The face is being beautified naturally.

The skin responds to nourishment as the stomach does. This sort of thing is coming to be the modern form of beautifying, taking the place of the deleterious paintings, powderings, waterings and plasterings of cruder days. The belle's battle with time is based upon truer principles, following the line of sincere physical culture.

One of the large sources of the preservation of good looks may be found in the theatrical and other public career fields. Thoughtless and lazy young girls may be found who "go off" in a year's stage work. Experienced men and women who have settled down to the business of personation pass through proper care in the application of the skin by "makeup," retaining—indeed adding to their good looks. Perhaps no other actor passes through such cyclones of facial work as Mr. Richard Mansfield. Yet his complexion is tinted, fair, fine and unlined as a girl's. His valet comes to be the modern form of beautifying, taking the place of the deleterious paintings, powderings, waterings and plasterings of cruder days. The belle's battle with time is based upon truer principles, following the line of sincere physical culture.

Mrs. Kendal carries everywhere with her a small Russia leather case, furnished with inside pockets containing handsome bottles of liquid skin foods, which are fed to the acting tissues of her whole some face three times a week. Mrs. Leslie Carter has one also, so has Beatrice Cameron, so has the beautiful Lillian Russell. Pati has worn out two in travel. She gets her skin foods from New York, and the shelves of the diva's cosmetic bureau are filled with them. The "skin food case" is considered an indispensable adjunct to the luggage of the society woman of today who travels.

Amie Jenness, the apostle of physical culture; Clementine de Vere, the prima donna; Jennie Potter, the elocutionist; Willard, the actor; Ella Wheeler Willcox, the poetess, and a host of other tremendous workers who look like drawing room pets of leisure can all testify to the superior value of preservation over repair.

 A well known Parisian mondaine appeared the other day at a fancy dress ball in the Faubourg St. Germain costumed as an oyster. She wore a short dress of shimmering white satin covered with mother-of-pearl oyster shells, each of which contained a pearl. The corsage, dressed with sea weed, was adorned by epaulettes formed of half opened oysters and a great oyster shell of diamonds glittered in her powdered hair. On the left side a chataigne of huge pearls supported an oyster fork and knife made of splendid brilliants.

ADMIRAL DAHLGREN'S WIDOW.
 The Lives in Washington and Detroit Much Time to Literature.

The widow of the late Admiral Dahlgren is a prominent leader in the courtliest circles of society in our national capital. She lives in an elegant mansion on Massachusetts avenue, at the corner of Fourteenth street, the avenue and street being intersected by M street, just as the back of Mrs. Dahlgren's handsome residence.

The receptions and dinners of Mrs. Dahlgren are among the most delightful of the many charming society functions of this city of representative Americans. She is a woman of thirty years can life and manner. Thirty years ago Mrs. Dahlgren, then Miss Madeline Vinton, the daughter of Samuel F. Vinton, of Ohio, was married at an early age to Daniel Conyers Goddard, of Zaneraville. Mr. Goddard died in about three years after their marriage, leaving Mrs. Dahlgren with the mother of two children. In 1865 Mrs. Goddard married the wife of Admiral Dahlgren. She is still a rarely attractive woman. Her blue eyes are as bright as ever, but her brown tresses are now silvered. She spends the greater part of her time in her house in Massachusetts avenue, but her country home is at South Mountain, Md.

It was at South Mountain that her daughter, Miss Ulrica Dahlgren, was married to Mr. Pierce, of Boston. An older daughter, it will be remembered by society people, was married some years ago to a German baron. Mr. Ulrica Dahlgren, the twin brother of Miss Ulrica, was the happy man who led to the altar Miss Lucy Drexel, of Philadelphia; his half brother, John Vinton Goddard, marrying Miss Bessie Drexel, the sister of Miss Lucy.

Mrs. Dahlgren adds to her accomplishments as a society leader a taste for the best literature. She is a well read woman of remarkable judgment and a linguist of rare attainments. She has translated from the French Montalembert's "Pius IX" and De Chamberlain's "Executive Power," and from the Spanish Donoso Cortes' "Catholicism, Liberalism and Socialism." Among her other works are "The Memoirs of John A. Dahlgren," "Thoughts on Female Suffrage," "South Sea Sketches," "Etiquette of Social Life in Washington," "South Mountain Magic" and "A Winter in Washington."

Mrs. Dahlgren was so highly appreciated by the late President Garfield that he wrote the preface of one of her books—"Pius IX."

She is a most affable woman. Her conversation, without being pedantic, shows the culture of her mind by the rich stream of literature that has flowed over it. She does not visit at all, but she receives her many friends with the stately grace and courteous graciousness of an English duchess.

THE FASHIONS OF PARIS.
 The Spring Bonnets and Hats—Wraps to Suit All Tastes.

It is nearly impossible to find words bright and crisp enough to describe the beauties of the spring bonnets and hats. They are small, but perfect, and covered with the loveliest of spring blossoms. Violets which look as if newly plucked, with the dew still sparkling upon them; brittle looking cowslips and modest forget-me-nots and yellow crocuses are being used, and they are used so deftly that nature herself might be deceived.

Lace and chiffon, gauze and openwork straw will be the preferred materials on which the flowers are laid. A very few have wings and curling tips, and others have a mixture of lace and the metallic and nacre gaudy ribbons. These come in stripes, with moiré effects, and in stiff metal gauze in stripes, bonnets and wraps of silver and copper, of gold and copper, not to be feared. Two or at most three loops of this are enough.

The plateau and capote shapes are the prettiest, but there is a wide choice, for some hats are very large brimmed, faced with smoothly drawn sarah, and sometimes velvet, and covered on the crown with feathers or flowers. There was one beautiful creation of black lace straw, plateau shape, covered with blue violets and a very few leaves, laid on as if growing there. Black lace with white, anemones and white chrysanthemums make elegant bonnets, and others again are made of simple meshes of iridescent beads with perhaps one large chrysanthemum or solitary rose. Capotes are perhaps the favorite small bonnet. Jet and lace for matrons will prevail.

The ugly English three-quarter jacket, seamless and shapeless, is seen on the streets here, where its superlative ugliness attracts all eyes, but the better last court ball of Vienna, and the most elegant of the world, are prepared by a charitable society at Paris organized by several great ladies for the purpose of giving employment to destitute girls. Among the most active patronesses of the association are the empress of Austria, the queen of Roumania, the two queens of Spain and the various princesses of the royal house of Orleans. Owing to their efforts lophophore is worn now at all the great entertainments. It formed quite a feature of the last court ball of Vienna, and is being extensively in the trousseau of the Duke of Clarence's maiden widow.

Lophophore Trimmings.
 Lophophore trimmings, boss, muffs and hats are all the rage just now among the smartest society of the Old World. The lophophore is a peculiar Indian bird, the delicate and exquisitely beautiful feathers of which are prepared by a charitable society at Paris organized by several great ladies for the purpose of giving employment to destitute girls. Among the most active patronesses of the association are the empress of Austria, the queen of Roumania, the two queens of Spain and the various princesses of the royal house of Orleans. Some of the methods recently recommended for managing husbands remind one of a farmer's efforts to coax a pig into a wagon backward unbeknownst to him.

PRETTY CONCEITS.
 A Number of Uses to Which the Octavo Envelope May Be Put.

An ordinary octavo envelope is a common enough thing, but, opened and employed as a pattern, it will aid you in making articles whose use and beauty will surprise you. When the envelope has been ungunned, lay it flat on a sheet of water color paper and draw the pattern lightly with pencil, enlarging it to any dimensions, but keeping the proportion of parts. Cut out with scissors or knife all but the outer flaps; those are to have torn edges. Fold the new envelope in shape, gumming it all except the last flap. When dry, shade the front and back with cobalt blue water color, from deep color on one side to palest blue on the other. Then lay aside to dry while you are preparing a sheet of cotton wadding just large enough to fill it.

This is pulled apart, some sachet powder put in and the cotton folded together again. Next point on the front of the envelope three or four large daisies, outlining the petals with deep cobalt blue. The centers are indicated by a dash of gilding, and the edges of the envelope are finished with it also, a tiny line, scarcely showing unless one looks at the edge. Insert the perfumed cotton, seal the envelope and put an irregular splash of gold to represent the seal. If you wish, print in fancy gold lettering on the front some appropriate words. This may be carried out with different colored paints, lavender, for example, when haliotrop or violet perfume is used, rose color with rose powder, etc. The flowers to correspond may be painted outside.

Take your pattern again and cut out of the paper as before a large envelope, which when folded will be six inches

A PACKAGE OF ENVELOPES.
 The high and correspondingly broad, with torn edges to the flaps. Cut from Bristol board a like envelope, a trifle smaller, to serve as a lining. This must be covered with China silk of a hue to match the shading you put on the envelope. The whole is intended for a letter pocket, and after the above steps to fasten the white only for the front of the envelope—the back of the letter pocket—put in the silk covered Bristol board. The upper flap will of course be left up and a loose puff of silk around the opening may be caught in places over the edges, thus securing to fasten the lining without showing any stitches. If preferred, the lower part of the envelope, instead of being gummed together, may be cut so the edges will meet, but not lap, and may be laced together with silk cord. The same idea may be developed into a glove, handkerchief or cravat case. The French purses these must all be made to close and not hang on the wall. For the gloves and cravats the envelopes must be very long and narrow. They should, moreover, be scented and have silken cords attached to their flaps to tie them with.

One of the large sources of the preservation of good looks may be found in the theatrical and other public career fields. Thoughtless and lazy young girls may be found who "go off" in a year's stage work. Experienced men and women who have settled down to the business of personation pass through proper care in the application of the skin by "makeup," retaining—indeed adding to their good looks. Perhaps no other actor passes through such cyclones of facial work as Mr. Richard Mansfield. Yet his complexion is tinted, fair, fine and unlined as a girl's. His valet comes to be the modern form of beautifying, taking the place of the deleterious paintings, powderings, waterings and plasterings of cruder days. The belle's battle with time is based upon truer principles, following the line of sincere physical culture.

ECZEMA ON A LADY.
 Stubborn Case of Skin Disease covered her face and body. Many Doctors Baffled.

Marvellous and Complete Cure by Cuticura. 6 years have elapsed and no Return.

A lady customer of ours (Miss Fanny Atwood, of Caroline Depot, N. Y.) has been cured of a stubborn case of skin disease by the use of CUTICURA REMEDIES. She remarked that her case had baffled the skill of many well known physicians. They unanimously pronounced it Rheumatism, making it in the blood. Some predicted that any treatment strong enough to cure the Eczema would surely increase the Rheumatism. She used two sets of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. The cure was not only complete, but her Rheumatism was greatly relieved during the treatment. Six years have elapsed since the cure was performed, her Rheumatism has since never increased, and she has no symptoms of the return of the Eczema which once so completely baffled her. Her case is a most interesting one, and one which has attracted the attention of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. THE BANQUET. In the evening about 60 members of the A.O.U.W. met in the handsome dining room of the Victoria hotel to partake of a well prepared in the city. Host Patrick, no doubt anxious to show the visitors what he could accomplish, surpassed himself and the guests a very great deal. The tables were decorated with the finest spring flowers in profusion, and the service left nothing to be desired.

Seated at the head of the tables, which were arranged in an L shape, was Mr. J. D. Warren, and as his right the Deputy G.M., Hon. James Sullivan, whose stirring efforts of the last two months have been mainly responsible in bringing about the formation of a Grand Lodge in this province, and in 1872, there were two deaths, one in 1881, and one in 1882, and a membership of 94,222, and there were paid 704 death losses amounting to $1,234,565.

THE INDIAN RESERVES. Continuation of the Debate in the House of Commons on the Lands Question. Mr. MARS CONTENDS THAT VALUABLE TRACTS SHOULD NOT BE LEFT Idle and Untouched.

MR. MARS'S VERY BRITISH COLLEAGUE will agree with the proposition laid down by the Minister of the Interior, that good lands should be kept with the Indians. The Indians were the first possessors of the soil; they were entitled to the pick of the land, and they were entitled to all the land that they could use.

CONQUERING CATS.

M. Quad Tells of a Town That was Dying for Feline Pets.

Their Tour Westward and the Adventures that Befel them—The Arizona Kicker.

(Copyright, 1892, by Charles B. Lewis.)

As you came up the trail you first struck "Big Hope's Digging, which had a population of about 300 miners. Two miles farther on you came to "Aunt Sally Flat," which had a population of 100 less.

Only a mile farther down was "I-want-to-go-home" town, the population of which was anywhere between 75 and 300.

Some men who wanted to go home packed up and lit out; others who wanted to go had to wait around for wings to fly with.

One day notices were posted up in all the towns for a public meeting to be held at "Aunt Sally Flat" on the third day.

It was announced that a crisis had arrived, and that able speakers would be present to discuss it and point out the remedy.

Mining was hard work and poor pay that season, and we were ready to welcome over a crisis. There were plenty of miners who didn't know a crisis from a climax; but they were willing to learn the difference, and on the date appointed everybody knickered off work, washed his hands and put in an appearance.

If any one expected to hear that the time had come to declare war against England, march in to Mexico or demand that Uncle Sam furnish us fresh butter he was disappointed.

Colonel Bill Taylor was one of the "able speakers" and he began with the landing of the Pilgrims and sealed down to "Aunt Sally Flat," and announced that we must import 500 cats as "soon as possible or prepare to abandon the neighborhood."

We were not only being overrun by cats and mice, and every man was a pickax, now wiped tears from their eyes. We went into town with men cheering, wailing, crying, flags waving and cats yowling, and it was unanimously received, that we celebrate the day: that the celebration to over we divide up the cats.

We celebrated. There were three barrels of "celebration" rolled out, and no one was excluded. Next morning we awoke to find the cats divided up, but there was nothing to divide. Some booby idiot had opened all the cages during the night, and every cat was gone. Some were making for Pike's peak—others were on their way to Leavenworth to renew old acquaintances.

Tom who was undecided which route to take, but he gave us the dodge and we packed up and abandoned the country. We knew that luck was agin us.

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

We CHANGED ICK—While we were over at Lone Tree the other day, Steve Watson wanted us to return him to a girl named Ramson, who has been living in the family of Major Hastings. We knew we couldn't do it as editor, but we were not so certain in our capacity as mayor.

We finally agreed to take the chances on it if Steve and the girl would sign the result was that they were made one. We used the regular form followed by clerks, but put in a proviso that if Steve ever stopped his subscription to our paper the marriage should be considered null and void.

Until we have time to look up the law in the case we will marry any and every couple appearing before us for that object, charging only one year's cash subscription to THE KICKER. If it transpires later on that we had no authority to give such a license, we will bring with elsewhere or things left at their stand, but the subscription must be considered a go. Please call at the mayor's office between 2 and 4 in the afternoon.

CARD OF THANKS.—The undersigned takes this method of returning his hearty thanks to the fifty or more citizens who gathered on Thursday evening with the intention of pulling him up to a limb, but who courteously and patiently listened to his explanations and finally decided to give him one more show.

I came to this town under false pretenses, as I hereby publicly admit. I claimed to be a bad man from the Bad Lands, and expected to sort of rough things. I am not a bad man, but only a very good one. I have been in the city for five years, as I publicly boasted, I have never even shot at one. As I stated to the vigilance committee, I struck the wrong town, and instead of trying to play cautious about the color.
